25 So these are statutory requirements under an EUA authorization. And the

1 statutory requirements pertaining to a license, I already explained.

2 Mr. Massie. On the known and potential benefits outweighing the risks, is that

3 done for certain age-groups, or is it uniformly done for the entire population? That

4 calculation?

5 Dr. Gruber. So typically, the vaccine manufacturer has to do clinical trials. And

6 the population for which the vaccine then is authorized and the EUA is typically the

7 population that was studied in the clinical trial. So in an Emergency Use

8 Authorization -- just an example. If it's for 16 years of age and older, there has to be

9 data to authorize the biological product for that age-group.

10 Mr. Massie. If someone already had COVID and, as a result, had been conferred

11 some natural immunity and have recovered, would they be considered separately in that 12 risk-versus-a-benefit calculation?

13 Dr. Gruber. At the time that the clinical trials for these vaccines were conducted

14 during the pandemic in 2020, the clinical trials at that time excluded people already

15 exposed to COVID. So an inclusion criteria was COVID-naive -- naive to COVID or a new 16 exposure to COVID.

17 Mr. Massie. But some of them, once they entered the study, they did -- it was

18 found out that they had had prior exposure. Is that correct? In the Pfizer study, I think

19 there were about 1,300 or 1,200 roughly distributed between the placebo group and the 20 vaccine group.

21 Dr. Gruber. I don't recall the exact number, but yes.

22 Mr. Massie. Could that change the potential benefit versus the risk -- that

23 calculation, that threshold -- if somebody had already had COVID?

24 Dr. Gruber. So, as you know, these studies were large studies. The Pfizer

25 vaccine, it was, like, 44,000 people included in that study. And the analysis of efficacy

1 was really done on the population that was specified who were naive individuals. There
2 were also separate analyses conducted in looking at other subpopulations included in the 3 study, but typically, these studies were not powered, you know, to look at each subgroup
4 individually.
5 Mr. Massie. So given that there weren't enough people who had already been 6 exposed to COVID in that very large study to make -- to draw reliable conclusions about 7 the benefit, is it wise to say that it conferred the same benefits to the COVID-naive -- the 8 benefits that were conveyed to the COVID-naive were the same benefits that were 9 conveyed to those who had already had COVID? That was sort of -- that was the CDC's
10 position in the MMWR they did in December of 2020.
11 Dr. Gruber. The CDC is a recommending body. It's not a regulatory agency.
12 We made our decision that the potential known -- that the known and potential benefits 13 outweighed the known and potential risks of the vaccine made based on the data that we 14 analyzed, the data coming out of the efficacy studies.
15 Mr. Massie. Which was based almost exclusively on a COVID-naive population?
16 Dr. Gruber. Most of them, yes.
17 Mr. Massie. Okay. Thank you.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q In your position at the FDA, specifically with the vaccine approval process
20 generally, did you exercise any discretion? Was that permitted in your role to do that?
21 A I don't understand the question. Can you give me an example?
22 Q Of course. In deciding the overall -- for the overall decision to license a 23 vaccine or -- you know, you had discussed just a bit ago about the risk-benefit analysis.
24 Were any of your decisions in the vaccine approval process -- were you able to 25 exercise discretion?

1 A So first of all, let's separate Emergency Use Authorization from the biologic
2 license. What I can tell you is, in both situations, in order to grant a license or an EUA,
3 Emergency Use Authorization, I did not exercise discretion. I based my decision to 4 authorize or approve the product based on the data submitted to support an EUA for a 5 license.
6 And, of course, that was discussing it with the experts tasked with reviewing that 7 information in the Office of Vaccines, but also the other offices that are included in 8 making these decisions.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q And who is the ultimate decision-maker in granting a license or granting an 11 EUA?
12 A Well, the EUA is not signed off by the office director. That was an HHS
13 position at that time.
14 Q Okay. And who was that? Or what position was that?
15 A I don't recall that position. But you are able to check by just looking at the 16 signature. Yeah.
17 Q Okay. And what about the regular license?
18 A That is the office director in concert with the -- so in this case, for a vaccine,
19 it would be the office director of vaccines. So there was me and the office director of 20 the Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality. For a new vaccine licensure, both office
21 directors have to sign off on that license.
22 Q And so with the COVID-19 vaccinations, were those signed off by HHS, then?
23 A Can you repeat the question?
24 Q For the COVID-19 vaccinations, were those signed off by an HHS official, or 25 were they signed off by the -- by you and the director?

1 A Are you referring to the biologic product licenses?

2 Q Yes.

3 A I only signed off on one of the biologic product licenses. That was the

4 Pfizer mRNA vaccine community. I was no longer in the agency when Moderna's

5 product was licensed.

6 Mr. Massie. Do you know when you signed off on that?

7 Dr. Gruber. On the Pfizer mRNA? Yes. In August of 2021.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Who was the office director in the other office that you mentioned who

10 would normally make a decision for a BLA?

11 A Yeah. The Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality. It's the OCBQ.

12 That's what it stands for. And the office director at that time was Mary Malarkey.

13 Q How often did you work with Dr. Malarkey?

14 A Well, her office had oversight of the facility information that also needed to 15 be reviewed in order to grant a biologic product license. And so we interacted in

16 meetings on the products where we looked at progress review. Are there any issues

17 that need to be followed up? Are there other information requests that we need to 18 send to the manufacturer while the BLA, the biologic license application, review is 19 ongoing?

20 And so we, you know, exchanged information and kept each other informed if

21 there were any, you know, issues coming up during the review process.

22 Q Can you explain some of the post-vaccine rollout studies that need to be

23 made before a booster vaccine is approved?

24 A I was not part of the booster vaccine approvals.

25 Q Had you ever worked on a booster vaccine in the past during your time as

1 director?

2 A Yeah. Not as part of director, but deputy director. There was a Hib

3 vaccine, influenza type B, for boosting of toddlers that I was involved in. Yeah. So

4 that -- yeah. That would be it.

5 Q Are the possibilities that post-rollout research could uncover -- and this

6 could be for any vaccines. What would be important findings that you or your team

7 would look at?

8 A So we got -- let's go back to biologics license application, and I'll give you an

9 example.

10 The sponsor or the vaccine manufacturer -- actually, it's referred to as an applicant

11 when a biologics license application is in. They have to have conducted, during the 12 development of the product, studies to demonstrate the immunogenicity and the safety

13 and the efficacy of the product. And we, the regulators, look at the data derived from 14 the efficacy and the safety studies and the immunogenicity studies.

15 And if there are adverse events -- uncommon adverse events observed in a clinical

16 efficacy study, based on the severity of that adverse event, the sponsor may be

17 required -- and that is a requirement to evaluate this adverse event further in the 18 postmarketing space.

19 Many times, when I was in the Office of Vaccines, there were no required studies

20 because the profile of the vaccine, the safety profile, was good. But many times,

21 applicants still do so-called postmarketing commitment studies to further look at the 22 safety of the product.

23 And it is not only the manufacturers. It's also the CDC, the Center for Disease

24 Control, and also experts in the Office of Biostatistics and Epidemiology at CBER would,

25 you know, have a system by which they can further evaluate the safety as well as the

1 effectiveness of the product once it's licensed.

2 Q Are there benefits to doing these postmarketing studies for the FDA or for

3 the applicant? Like, there are usually benefits versus any risks for this being done, in

4 your opinion?

5 A I consider postmarketing studies of important -- importance because they

6 usually can enroll many, many, many thousands, sometimes hundreds of thousands of

7 people. And, you know, if there are events that you may not pick up in a prelicensure

8 trial of a couple of thousand or sometimes many thousands, you may see that when you

9 roll out the vaccine to a large population.

10 And the reason why this is important is that surveillance for safety and 11 effectiveness of a product does not stop when the product is licensed. It continues.

12 That is referred to as life cycle management.

13 And so, let's say, there is an event that is observed in the postmarketing space.

14 The package insert that is approved when the vaccine is licensed needs to be updated to 15 include that information. But the package insert will also be updated if further studies

16 are conducted that perhaps have not been conducted in the prelicensure space, such as

17 coadministration studies with other vaccines, for example. And once these data are 18 available, the package insert is also updated. So it's a life cycle management of the 19 product.

20 Mr. Massie. Was there a package insert for the EUA product?

21 Dr. Gruber. No. There are no package inserts, but there are fact sheets. So

22 you refer to it as a fact sheet. And there are fact sheets for the healthcare providers,

23 and there are fact sheets for the recipients of the vaccine.

24 And these fact sheets make it very clear that this is not a licensed product, but

25 that the agency has determined that the known or potential benefits outweigh the known

1 or potential risks of the product. But the people -- persons have, of course, a choice of 2 taking the vaccine or not to take the vaccine.
3 Mr. Massie. Would a package insert for a licensed product include potential side
4 effects?
5 Dr. Gruber. Yes. And so do the fact sheets.
6 Mr. Massie. Do the fact sheets mention myocarditis? Or what were the side
7 effects mentioned on the fact sheets?
8 Dr. Gruber. So, for example, for the Pfizer vaccine community -- or, at that time, 9 it was not called community because it wasn't licensed -- there weren't events of 10 myocarditis in the clinical efficacy study. I think there was one event of pericarditis in 11 the vaccine group and one event of myocarditis in the placebo group.
12 So the risks of myocarditis became evident when the vaccine was rolled out once
13 there was an Emergency Use Authorization. So it was the post-EUA safety surveillance 14 systems by the CDC and by the FDA that -- where this increased risk was observed.
15 The fact sheets had to be updated. And, of course, when we license a 16 community, there is a section in the approved package label -- package insert that is 17 referred to as section 5.2, warnings and precaution, where this risk is described.
18 Mr. Massie. Was there ever a period of time where the EUA product was 19 distributed with a fact sheet, that after the license was issued -- where the fact sheet on 20 the EUA product did not disclose everything that the insert did if the licensed product had 21 been distributed?
22 The reason I'm asking this question is, it was a year, it seems, before the licensed
23 product with the insert was distributed. I'm not even sure if it was maybe longer than 24 that.
25 So in the interim, there must have been a period of time where EUA products

1 were being administered with a fact sheet. What I want to know is, did the fact sheet
2 have all the things on it that the insert did that you approved?
3 Dr. Gruber. Okay. When we developed the fact sheets for these EUAs -- and it
4 was the first time that the Office of Vaccines had to develop fact sheets for vaccines
5 because there wasn't an Emergency Use Authorization of that scale before -- we followed
6 closely the organization of the package insert.
7 And the safety events and the efficacy data that were known at the time that the 8 fact sheets were issued once the EUA was granted were based on the information known
9 to us at that time.
10 And, of course, with the Pfizer vaccine, the Emergency Use Authorization occurred
11 in December of 2020. The vaccine was licensed in August of 2021. So there was a 12 period of 8, 9 months during which the vaccine was rolled out. And, of course, the 13 additional information became apparent, such as the myocarditis risk that we just talked 14 about. And then, of course, the data were written into the package insert because we 15 became aware of that risk as a result of the post-authorization surveillance that was 16 conducted by CDC and FDA.
17 Mr. Massie. Let me ask the question differently and more specifically.
18 Dr. Gruber. Yeah.
19 Mr. Massie. In November of 2021, it was not possible to get Comirnaty vaccine
20 at CVS or any provider. Yet -- because they were still providing the EUA vaccine. So at 21 that point, we wouldn't have known about myocarditis and other things that 22 were -- would have been described on the package insert for the licensed product.
23 But were consumers who were receiving still the EUA product after the product
24 Comirnaty had been licensed but was not available -- were they made aware on this fact
25 sheet, let's say, 2 months after the license was issued for Comirnaty -- were they aware

1 on the fact sheet of the same things that were in the enclosure or the insert?

2 Dr. Gruber. So people that received the vaccine on the EUA in November of

3 2021 -- that was after I had left the agency. I mean, I made sure, of course, as part of

4 the license, that there was a package insert that included the safety information, and that

5 was also available then on the FDA website. So there was that information.

6 As far as I am aware, there is a requirement to update the fact sheets as new

7 safety information becomes available, but I didn't have authority over that at that point in 8 time anymore.

9 Mr. Massie. And did you anticipate it would be so long between when the 10 license was given for the product and when the licensed product would actually be

11 available?

12 Dr. Gruber. We should look at the fact sheets because, again, there is a 13 requirement to update the fact sheets with safety information as we became aware.

14 And I do recall -- although I do not recall the specifics -- that during 2021, once the

15 vaccines were authorized -- the Moderna vaccine and the Pfizer vaccine -- that there were

16 several rounds of fact sheets that we had to update, and the updated versions then had

17 to be made available.

18 Mr. Massie. Did they include myocarditis as a side effect on the fact sheet?

19 Dr. Gruber. It could have only been included once CDC and FDA became aware 20 of that increased risk of myocarditis.

21 Mr. Massie. Were you aware in August of 2021?

22 Dr. Gruber. Yes, I was aware in August of 2021 because, at that time, while the

23 BLA for the Pfizer vaccine was under review, information from these post-EUA

24 surveillance systems became available to us and pointed to this risk of myocarditis.

25 And this is why the FDA did a -- did a benefit-risk assessment. And we concluded

1 that the benefits of the vaccine outweighed the risks, but we included myocarditis as an
2 adverse event in section 5.2, warnings and precautions, on the package insert.
3 Mr. Massie. On the insert.
4 And I know you left almost as soon as the license was issued.
5 Dr. Gruber. Correct.
6 Mr. Massie. Within a month or two.
7 Dr. Gruber. Yes.
8 Mr. Massie. But the reason I'm asking this is not to catch you up in something
9 here. But I just wonder -- for the year that everybody was told it was a licensed product,
10 but when they went to get it, they were given the EUA product, I wonder in that period of 11 a year, were they getting the same information?
12 I mean, you may not know since you were not in charge after that, but you might 13 know if you had updated the fact sheet before you left to include the same things that the 14 insert had.
15 Dr. Gruber. As I said, we were required to update the fact sheets for the EUAs as 16 we became aware of safety.
17 Mr. Massie. Okay. Thank you.
18 Can I go down another line of questioning?
19 [redacted] Absolutely of course.
20 Mr. Massie. When compared to the typical review process for a vaccine prior to 21 authorization or licensing, how was the process different for the COVID-19 vaccine?
22 Dr. Gruber. Are you referring to the process of the license application review or 23 the overall development?
24 Mr. Massie. The authorization and then the licensing.
25 Dr. Gruber. Okay. So --

1 Mr. Massie. But I think you already told us that you had -- you really hadn't done
2 an EUA before for a vaccine.
3 Dr. Gruber. Right.
4 Mr. Massie. So let's focus on the license.
5 Dr. Gruber. On the license.
6 What was similar in terms of the biologics license application review is that we
7 assigned priority review to this application. The agency can assign priority review
8 studies to a vaccine product if it is believed that it will treat or prevent a serious and 9 life-threatening disease for which there's no available alternative therapy. And we had 10 done that several times before, be granted priority review.
11 The difference between a priority review and a standard review is the time that 12 the FDA has to take regulatory action either in approval, a license, or what we refer to as 13 a complete response letter. That is when the information submitted was not sufficient 14 to grant a license.
15 And there is a standard BLA review application that is 12 months from submission
16 and a priority review application that is 8 months. So we would have to review the 17 application in two-thirds of the time.
18 For community, it was yet different because I recall that -- I cannot give you the 19 exact date, but I think the biologics license application was submitted somewhere in May 20 of 2021. So do the math. 8 months later, the action due date would have been 21 somewhere in January of 2022.
22 But because of the public health emergency, we decided we will do what we can 23 to review this vaccine and the more compressed timelines without sacrificing our 24 standards for safety, purity, and potency. And so we decided on a September 15th date,
25 which would have been a third of the time usually allowed for a standard approval.

1 Mr. Massie. Were there -- would it be required to skip steps or collect less
2 information to meet that deadline?
3 Dr. Gruber. No. I would not have supported that. I would have not signed off
4 an approval letter. Skipping steps was out of the question.
5 What helped is the fact that we already had the efficacy data because the vaccine
6 was approved and an EUA. So the efficacy study had been completed, and we already 7 had reviewed the data under the EUA.
8 What we needed to focus on during the BLA review for the community are the 9 updated information, including safety information that came in because the vaccines
10 were used under EUA.
11 And there are other requirements that we have to meet in order for a product to 12 license. We had to make sure -- and I referred to that before -- that the facility have 13 certain standards and MGMP compliance, and we also had to make sure there is -- for 14 every biologics license application, there has to be a pediatric assessment plan. These 15 are studies -- if the applicant has not conducted them prior to licensure, that they will 16 need to be required to study the product further in pediatric populations if there is no
17 reason to grant a waiver. And there have been examples. We have done that before 18 for other vaccine products.
19 So that had to be taken care of in that review time.

1 [11:03 a.m.]

2 Dr. Gruber. And then, of course, as our reviewers looked at the safety
3 information that were submitted with the BLA and the updated information that came in,
4 there were very, very close interactions with Pfizer, with the vaccine manufacturer.

5 We had, for example, medical offices may have a point of clarification on a certain
6 dataset. They send a question to Pfizer. Sometimes it takes Pfizer a day to turn it
7 around, sometimes a week or 3 weeks. And that happened during this timeline. There
8 could be, you know, additional information requested to make sure that the facility meets
9 all the standards required for licensure.

10 So there are a lot of information requests going back and forth on a daily basis
11 during the BLA review. And it's not even, you know -- that goes for vaccines in general
12 for vaccine BLA reviews.

13 Mr. Massie. My next series of questions is longer, so I can save it for the next 14 portion.

15 Mr. Jordan. Can I have one quick question?

16 Dr. Gruber. Can I ask, can we take a break? I mean, I'm happy to answer your 17 question but --

18 Mr. Jordan. I think the time is up in like 3 minutes.

19 Dr. Gruber. Okay.

20 Mr. Jordan. We'll be happy to do that and take a break every hour or more if 21 you need.

22 I'm just going back to something you said much earlier when you were asked did
23 you have regular interactions with FDA Commissioner Ms. Janet Woodcock and you said
24 no. Is that right?

25 Dr. Gruber. That is correct.

1 Mr. Jordan. And then we asked, did you have any interactions with her? How
2 often? I think you said one.
3 Dr. Gruber. I did have one direct interaction with her, yes.
4 Mr. Jordan. I'm just curious, what was that about?
5 Dr. Gruber. That was about the topic that Dr. Woodcock and Dr. Marks had 6 informed the Office of Vaccines that it was necessary to speed up the approval process
7 for COMIRNATY faster than the September 15 deadline that we all had agreed upon.
8 Mr. Jordan. You just discussed with Mr. Massie that deadline?
9 Dr. Gruber. Yes. And I -- because -- and I explained the interactions that were 10 ongoing at that time, the frequent communication, the information requests going out.
11 And we, of course, at that time were not in control of when the sponsor would provide 12 responses.
13 I was concerned about wrapping up the approval faster because when -- and I had 14 written a memo in the middle of July laying out my concerns.
15 Mr. Jordan. Tell me the beginning dates. Is it September of '21?
16 Dr. Gruber. Yes, September 15 of 2021.
17 Mr. Jordan. If I remember right, you just told Congressman Massie that you had 18 already moved that up from a normal timeframe of January.
19 Dr. Gruber. That's right.
20 Mr. Jordan. Eight-month timeframe. So you had already moved it up to 21 September.
22 Dr. Gruber. Yes.
23 Mr. Jordan. And then the updated mission was saying go even faster.
24 Dr. Gruber. That's right.
25 Mr. Jordan. And this is approving the license for the vaccine?

1 Dr. Gruber. Yes.

2 Mr. Jordan. Okay. That's the one time you talked to her. Did she come to

3 you, or did you go to her?

4 Dr. Gruber. No. I had written a memorandum in July of 2021 laying out my

5 concerns about that. I said: This is going to be very ambitious. I am not in control of 6 when and how fast Pfizer would respond with information requests.

7 And I told her that we should not further compress the approval timeline. This is

8 when she called me into a meeting. And we had the meeting.

9 Mr. Jordan. And what did she say?

10 Ms. LoCicero. I believe this would impinge on the deliberative process. So she 11 is not authorized to answer that question.

12 [redacted] So your instruction is for the witness to not answer the question.

13 Is that correct?

14 Ms. LoCicero. Correct, based on the guidance given to us by the FDA.

15 [redacted] We'll go off the record.

16 [Recess.]

17 [redacted] It is 11:18. We can go back on the record.

18 EXAMINATION

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q So my name is [redacted] I'll be asking some of the questions

21 for the Democratic side along with [redacted]

22 I wanted to start. We talked a little bit about your background as a public health

23 official. I know that you were at the FDA in Office of Vaccine Research and Review for 24 almost two -- over two decades. Is that right?

25 A Yes.

1 Q So did you -- I know you're here because of your work on the COVID-19
2 vaccine, but did you work on other vaccines in that time?
3 A Yes. Yes. I worked on numerous vaccines during these -- yes, between 4 '95 and '21. And, again, in varied positions with different levels of authority, but, I
5 mean, we had the pneumococcal conjugate vaccines that we licensed, Prevnar 13,
6 Prevnar 20. Then there were 20-valent vaccines by other manufacturers, such as Merck,
7 the licensure of Shingrix, the licensure of the Dengue vaccine. Licensure of the Ebola
8 Zaire vaccine, meningococcal type B vaccines. Licensure of combination vaccines, you 9 know, with childhood vaccines, human papillomavirus vaccine type, the nonavalent, et 10 cetera. So lots of them, yeah.
11 Q Did you win any awards during your tenure as the Director of Office of 12 Vaccine Research and Review?
13 A Awards? Yeah. I received awards, yes.
14 Q Can you talk about them?
15 A Well, the -- I got an award that probably was the biggest in 2008, when I was 16 Deputy Director. That was awarded by the Secretary of Health and Human Services.
17 You know, that was a big award. I got several policy awards.
18 Q What was that award for in 2008?
19 A That was just for -- for the work I was doing, you know, a general award.
20 But then there were awards for the policy work I've done. We had awards that we 21 received as a team that say for licensure of certain vaccines.
22 There were individual awards during, you know, my tenure as office director for 23 leading the Office of Vaccines. And I think there was a group award too about the 24 licensure of the Ebola vaccine. I mean, it goes on and on. Yeah, they -- they award or 25 reward people for government service done.

1 Q Did you win the FDA Innovator Award in 2021?
2 A I think I did, yes. I forgot to say that, right?
3 Q Do you remember what that award was for?
4 A You know, I think that was just for, you know, the work we've done over the 5 last couple of years in the approval of these, you know, pandemic vaccines and then the 6 endemic vaccines, yeah.
7 Q Would it be accurate to describe you as a vaccine expert?
8 A Yes.
9 Q I wanted to talk about OVRR's processes more generally. So OVRR refers to 10 the Office of Vaccine Research and Review. Is that right?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And it's part of the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research?
13 A That is correct.
14 Q And that's CBER?
15 A Yes.
16 Q The mission of OVRR is to ensure that vaccines and related products are 17 safe, effective, and accessible to U.S. consumers in order to protect public health. Is 18 that right?
19 A Yes.
20 Q Is it fair to say that OVRR has both a regulatory and a research mission?
21 A Yes.
22 Q And there are three broad categories that OVRR's work falls into. Would 23 you say that?
24 A Well, there's the preventive vaccines. There are the allergenic products,
25 and then there is, we refer to it as catchall, the fecal microbiota products, for instance,

1 phage therapy. So yeah.

2 Q And OVRR reviews products for approval. Is that right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q What does that entail?

5 A Well, it is -- entails providing regulatory oversight of all the prelicensure

6 activities. So we don't start interacting with vaccine manufacturers at the time they

7 submit a biologics license application to us.

8 We actually start interacting at very early stages. We refer to this as pre-IND

9 meetings, pre-Investigational New Drug Application meetings, where a vaccine developer

10 comes in and informs us that they want to develop a preventive vaccine against a certain 11 pathogen.

12 They will share with us their development plans, the type of preclinical data they

13 need to sometimes show and demonstrate that the vaccine has preclinical safety. They

14 tell us about the manufacturing process, and they inform us about the proposed clinical 15 development plan.

16 And, as they go through the stages of clinical development or overall

17 development, there will be interactions. So there's sort of like certain stages they come

18 and talk to us again.

19 For instance, if they have data from a phase 2 safety and immunogenicity study,

20 and then they want to know is the data supportive of starting a big study to demonstrate

21 the safety and the efficacy of the product. So just as an example.

22 But there are also lots of other meetings where vaccine developers sometimes

23 have technical questions, or there is to be a new assay that needs to be developed to 24 measure the immunogenicity, let's say, of the products.

25 So CBER experts will sit with the vaccine manufacturer and develop a path

1 forward. And then, if data are accrued to support the safety and efficacy of the product
2 and to support the adequacy of the facility, then they can submit a biologics license
3 application. Then we review all the data in one big submission, as I described.
4 I mean, do you want me to go through this again?
5 Q Yeah, we're going to come back to that. Yeah.
6 So who develops the policies and the procedures that govern the review process?
7 Does OVRR do that themselves or does somebody else tell them how to do reviews?
8 A So we, of course, need to start with the statute, right, the PHS ACT, and that 9 is, of course, Congress. And then it's up to the FDA to really implement the statutory 10 requirements, and that's in the form of regulations. And this is where FDA has authority 11 for rulemaking, introducing a new regulation or even introducing a revocation of an old or 12 outdated regulation.
13 And then there is guidance. And guidance basically takes the regulations and 14 interprets them and provides then guidance and advice to manufacturers how to comply
15 with the regulations and the statute.
16 And there are experts in the FDA who concern themselves with policy work or rule 17 writing, and they will often reach out to subject-matter experts in the different offices of 18 the FDA to help them with the rule writing, you know, and/or guidance writing. So 19 people, based on their experience and expertise, may be asked to sit in on these working 20 groups.
21 Q So OVRR's role is sort of a subject matter expert?
22 A Yes, that is correct.
23 Q And then OVRR also conducts bench research. Is that right?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Can you talk about that mission and what that entails?

1 A So the bench research that is conducted is really supporting the mission of 2 OVRR, which is, again, to make available safe and effective products. And, in order to
3 really develop the subject-matter expertise and the expertise to look at the chemistry
4 manufacturing process, our researchers do often research in this area.
5 So we have subject-matter experts for let's say filovirus vaccines. That is the 6 group of the Ebola vaccines. There are subject-matter experts for the flavivirus vaccines.
7 That is the dengue vaccine, for instance. There are subject matter experts for certain
8 bacterial pathogens, like the meningococcal type B and C, the pneumococcal or shigella, 9 cholera.
10 And people will perform research in these areas. It is not basic research as it is 11 performed by the NIH, for instance. It is what they refer to as mission-oriented 12 research.
13 So they may help develop a certain assay to measure the immunogenicity induced
14 by a new vaccine candidate against a certain pathogen.
15 Q You said that word "immunogenicity" a couple times. Could you explain
16 what that means?
17 A Immunogenicity is the response that the body makes to a vaccine that the 18 human receives. And so the immune response, that is a very comprehensive response 19 and there are a certain type of cells in the human body that are being activated in 20 response to the vaccine antigen that is injected.
21 And, basically, what that means is that the body develops a protective effect or 22 reaction to the vaccine, so the next time the human may see the pathogen, it is protected
23 because the vaccine induced this protective immune response.
24 Q Could you explain the difference between immunogenicity and efficacy?
25 A Yes. Immunogenicity refers to measuring the immune response that is

1 induced to a vaccine. That is very commonly the antibodies that are made and that are 2 measured.
3 Efficacy is determined, in the traditional sense, by a clinical disease endpoint
4 efficacy study in which the endpoint that is measured is prevention of morbidity or 5 mortality that may be induced by the pathogen.
6 So, you know, for -- let me give you an example. When Prevnar 7 was licensed, it
7 was prevention of invasive streptococcal disease due to serotypes contained in the 8 vaccine.
9 And, however, the effectiveness or efficacy can also be demonstrated through an 10 immunogenicity trial if the biomarker that is being measured, typically an antibody 11 response, is a well-established biomarker that has been shown to be predictive of 12 protection. But traditionally what the agency likes to see is a clinical disease endpoint 13 efficacy study because it provides a very robust past demonstration of efficacy or not,
14 depending on the vaccine. Yeah.
15 Q That makes sense. So, in your 25 years at OVRR, did you see the vaccine
16 approval process change over time?
17 A Yeah. It changed in the sense that, through the Prescription Drug User Fee
18 Act, or PDUFA, the agency had to comply with certain review timelines. When I started
19 back in the early nineties or even late eighties as a post-doc, there was -- this concept of a
20 managed review process wasn't there. That came into effect with the Prescription Drug 21 User Fee Act, the first one, because the first one was in '92, when I had just started at the 22 FDA.
23 And so certain timelines, you know, for which we had to take regulatory action,
24 you know, were instituted. And, with the years, that was revised and further revised.
25 For instance, not only did we have to meet timelines as part of the management review

1 process. We also had to have meetings with -- official meetings with the sponsors as 2 part of the review process, as part of the BLA review process.
3 There were also then additional provisions, such as the Pediatric Research Equity
4 Act, PREA, which then required us to really work with the applicant on a pediatric
5 assessment that I mentioned before.
6 So, yes, over the years the review process was modified.
7 Q In your opinion, did you see those as improvements to the process?
8 A Yes.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Can you say anything more about that? Why did you think that was an 11 improvement to the process?
12 A Because it afforded more structure in the process and it was, you
13 know -- and I think it facilitated interactions and collaborations between the vaccine
14 manufacturer and the reviewers. And there was a clear establishment of roles and 15 responsibilities.
16 Q And, looking at those interactions between the manufacturers and the FDA, 17 you mentioned earlier in the approval process it sounds like there could be dozens of 18 interactions. Is that fair to say?
19 A Hundreds of interactions.
20 Q Hundreds. And that -- in your opinion, that's beneficial for the process?
21 A I think it does facilitate reaching a regulatory decision because sometimes 22 information that is submitted may be a bit vague or unclear, and that in and of itself
23 should not result in a complete response action, which is the vaccine is not approved.
24 You should have the opportunity to ask questions during the review process.
25 And it's not only just email or picking up the phone, but it is also writing what the agency

1 refers to as discipline review letters.

2 So, when the medical officers do their -- perform their review and it's completed,

3 while the review clock is ticking -- that's what we say -- they can send a letter to the 4 vaccine manufacturers. And it could say: You know, your data are encouraging.

5 However, we need this additional information.

6 And the same for CMC with facilities. And so that's why there is so much

7 interaction during the BLA review process.

8 [redacted] Thank you.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q You worked through a couple of epidemic illnesses at OVRR, swine flu, Ebola,

11 and then COVID. Do you think that these increased interactions helped you respond

12 more quickly to those epidemic illnesses?

13 A I think they were learnings. There were learnings from each and every, you

14 know, pathogen's pandemic potential, H1N1, and also, you know, the Ebola outbreak.

15 I think we've learned to communicate and foster more global interactions too.

16 For instance, during the COVID pandemic, we had frequent interactions with other

17 national regulatory authorities, such as the European Medicines Agency, Health Canada,

18 PGA, global regulators from Asia, from Africa to really exchange regulatory reviews

19 because the submissions made by these vaccine manufacturers, of course, they were the 20 same.

21 And I think public health benefited from these interactions because there was sort

22 of an alignment of what we would be, you know, requiring, requiring or also what may 23 not be so necessary. Yeah.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q And is it fair to say that all of these global interactions meant that, in the

1 case of the COVID-19 review specifically, you were able to gather more information
2 because you were interacting with the European vaccine --
3 A Agencies.
4 Q -- regulatory agencies, agents at these agencies, et cetera?
5 A Yes, that is correct. Yes.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q The FDA has also been described as somewhat unique in that you analyze 8 data for yourselves rather than take data analysis from the companies. Is that fair?
9 A Yes. That sets the FDA apart from other regulatory agencies. Even the 10 European Medicines Agency, they do not require the raw data, the datasets from the 11 vaccine manufacturer. We typically do request that information.
12 So that would be line listings, you know, of course, subjects identifiable we 13 dequalify. We don't know who the subject, of course, is, but it will be line listings of,
14 you know, for instance, the immune response induced in every subject or safety data, you 15 know, injection site reactions, fever.
16 And, of course, these data, they are then used by the CBER statisticians, and they 17 perform their own analysis of the data. So they would not rely on the output provided
18 by the vaccine manufacturer. And that is another reason why there is so much 19 interaction during an application review.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Because you're looking for additional data?
22 A Well, because let's say the analysis and the outcome of the analysis done by 23 CBER statistician is not -- is different than, you know, provided by -- by the vaccine
24 developer. That's cause for discussion, right? So it doesn't happen all too often, but 25 there are situations, you know, where this is -- you know, where this needs to be

1 addressed. Yeah.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And can that make the review process take a longer time if --

4 A You know what it means, that people just have to work more hours to get

5 this work done. And that was the case during the COVID pandemic.

6 Q I want to turn to the COVID pandemic.

7 Do you remember when you first learned about the emerging novel coronavirus?

8 A When I learned about that? It was January of 2020, when my Deputy 9 Director came in and said: You know, you heard about this new pathogen out of China?

10 And I said: Yeah.

11 And he said: The Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovation, CEPI, wants to 12 make that its pathogen X.

13 And that is a coalition that really, you know, with the mission to really expedite

14 the availability of vaccines against these pandemic pathogens. So this is how I heard

15 about that. And, well, but that was just the start, right? Pretty soon we knew that,

16 you know, there was a real global health emergency.

17 Q What does designating something as pathogen X mean?

18 A Well, that is a term that CEPI uses, okay? So that they are trying to be

19 proactive and really, you know, making sure that the vaccines are developed even to a

20 future, you know, pathogen which you don't really know what it is. Is it a new

21 coronavirus? Is it another Ebola virus? Is it a new form of, you know, viral species that 22 you haven't -- that one hasn't seen before.

23 Q So, when you first learned about the emerging coronavirus, it sounds like

24 your first thought was a vaccine for it?

25 A Yes. And the concern was what vaccines, right? So we didn't have any at

1 that time. However, you know, things happen fast due to the new technology. And 2 rather than months or years, you know, they had the sequence of the virus in a couple of 3 weeks and could express the antigen using the mRNA technology. And I remember
4 meeting with the one company already in the beginning of March.
5 Q So that was going to be my next question. What steps did you take?
6 A Yeah. So what we -- what we realized very quickly is that the usual
7 process -- and I describe this as the manage review process, where we have to, you know,
8 meet certain timelines but also have a certain amount of time to review a data package.
9 Let me give you an example. A new vaccine -- a vaccine manufacturer knocks at 10 FDA's door and says: I would like to, you know, develop this vaccine.
11 We have 2 months until we have to meet with that vaccine manufacturer.
12 In the meantime, they have to submit us -- to us a briefing document that we then 13 review the available data. We formulate questions. We formulate guidance. And 14 these timelines we realized are not doable to address this global public health 15 emergency.
16 And so we met. Leadership in Office of Vaccines met and also with the Center
17 Director. And we said business as usual in terms of having these timelines, you know, 18 are no longer available to us. We have to have an all hands on deck. Our people have 19 to realize that the submissions that are coming in need to be reviewed thoroughly.
20 Scientific standards cannot be compromised. We have to make sure that there's 21 compliance with regulations and applicable law, but work needs to be done as 22 expeditiously as possible.
23 And we achieved that by -- first of all, it was tremendous dedication of our people.
24 They canceled their vacation. They worked through weekends. Statisticians put in 25 night shifts. We also enlisted help.

1 SARS-CoV-2 was a viral pathogen. The vaccine was a vaccine against a viral
2 pathogen. But we enlisted the help of subject-matter experts in the -- in other 3 disciplines, such as bacterial products, to help with other important work that was 4 ongoing in the Office of Vaccines at that time. So that the group of people charged with 5 the review of SARS-CoV-2 vaccine candidates could fully, fully concentrate on that.
6 And, when I referred to an all-hands-on-deck approach, that's what it was. I
7 mean, we made sure, between my deputy and myself, that we had coverage almost 8 around the clock. I was at my desk at 6 o'clock in the morning. He started a little later,
9 but was on call until midnight. So we had maybe 5, 6 hours where there was not, you
10 know, immediate answering of emails and phones, but other than that that's what we did 11 at that time.
12 And this is how we could accelerate the review and the decisionmaking. And,
13 again, it was due to the tremendous dedication of the people. And many had been 14 working in the Office of Vaccines for a long time. It was a very experienced staff, and we 15 could apply learnings from other pathogens.
16 Q I know it feels kind of obvious, but could you explain why you felt such a
17 sense of urgency in early 2020?
18 A You know, I think it felt very different. And you saw the news responding 19 to the death counts on a daily basis, right? The curve, about people succumbing to 20 SARS-CoV-2. I mean, by the day, you know, the curve skyrocketed. And people were 21 falling ill. Neighbors were falling ill. I had people in my own office, their family
22 members died of COVID.
23 So it was there, and we knew we had to do our part. And that is not to say that 24 we didn't do our part during the Ebola pandemic because it was in Africa. We worked 25 very hard too. But this, this was -- this happened on a very different scale.

1 Q Can you speak to -- do you know the number of people that were involved in 2 this effort in your office and the other offices that you pulled in?
3 A So the Office of Vaccines at that time had about 250 full-time employees.
4 Post-docs cannot be doing regulatory work, so there are restrictions.
5 I would say at least half of it. And that was also happening in the other offices.
6 And there was a true commitment of leadership too. I mean, I remember helping with 7 writing briefing documents or, you know, statements. Usually other people did this, and 8 I just reviewed them.
9 And so I really -- it was a real team effort, you know. It was not the team did it
10 and then presented it to the office director. We had to be part of it so that we could 11 also make decisions and provide guidance in real time. It was a very different, you 12 know, environment. And, yeah, again, our PDUFA timelines went straight out the 13 window.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q You mentioned a couple minutes ago that you would get in the office at 6 16 a.m. and then your deputy would get in, and you basically had coverage at the office from 17 6 a.m. to midnight at the administrative level.
18 A Yes, yes.
19 Q How long did that schedule go on? How long did you do that?
20 A Started in January 2020, and it lasted till I left.
21 Q So a year and three-quarters?
22 A Yes.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q In 2020, the decision was made that COVID vaccines would be eligible for 25 consideration under an Emergency Use Authorization. Is that right?

1 A In fall of 2020.

2 Q Yes.

3 A Yes, that is correct.

4 Q What was the -- you said that you don't sign the EUA, so what is your office's

5 role in reviewing the vaccines for EUA?

6 A I -- I sign off on the memorandum that is put together by the Office of

7 Vaccines, which provides a summary of the data and the results of the studies conducted

8 and the product characterization performed. And so that's what I'm signing off on.

9 But the EUA per se, that's not at my level. That was the HHS level.

10 Q In your memorandum, are you making a recommendation for a EUA?

11 A Yes. Yes, we recommended that. Basically, it's not a recommendation.

12 We determined that the known and potential benefits outweigh the known and potential

13 risks. We had to determine that at that time there was no available therapy. We

14 basically have to make sure that all these requirements under the statute are being met.

15 Q So, when a manufacturer submits an EUA request, does OVRR still look at 16 the safety profile of that vaccine?

17 A Yes. That is part of the review. So we had met frequently during 2020

18 with the vaccine manufacturers that were developing SARS-CoV-2 vaccines, and we had

19 provided guidance on the clinical studies that needed to be conducted to demonstrate 20 the safety and the efficacy of the product.

21 And, once the efficacy data came in, I mean, there was a lot of optimism, because

22 the vaccines were so effective. But at that time, we did not have the safety information.

23 So we could not authorize the vaccine based on demonstrated efficacy alone. We had 24 to assure the safety and the circumstances of a public health emergency.

25 And this is what we did. And we also discussed our approach with the Vaccines

1 and Related Biologic Products Advisory Committee in October of 2020. I remember that 2 because we said we cannot just take 7-day safety data. You know, like you inject the 3 vaccine. The primary series was two doses and then you wait 7 days and, oh, it's fine.
4 No.
5 We said we wanted a minimum of 2 months of safety followup. That meant half
6 of the subjects had to have at least 2 months of safety followup. And that was a bit
7 difficult to address during that time. And we had to hold the line to make sure that 8 safety -- you know, the safety of the vaccine was favorable. Again, it's an EUA standard.
9 That is different than a license standard. It says may be effective and the benefits,
10 known and potential benefits need to outweigh the known and potential risks. And, in 11 order to make that assessment, you have to look at the safety data.
12 Q How did that 2-month followup compare to the standard safety followup
13 that you might require for a vaccine?
14 A It's shorter. It is -- usually, it is at least 6 months' safety followup.
15 Q How did you determine that 2 months was appropriate in this case?
16 A Again, we had to make a decision that the benefits of the vaccines in terms
17 of protecting COVID-induced death, ICU admissions, hospitalization, that these benefits
18 did outweigh, you know, the known and potential risks. And because we had a raging
19 pandemic and people falling ill and dying, that benefit-risk ratio changed.
20 Q Can you explain a little more about how that changed?
21 A Well, we had to make a determination what the safety followup, what 22 is -- what do we need in order to make that decision?
23 And we knew from experience working at the FDA and licensing lots of other
24 preventive vaccines, we knew that if adverse events occur that are due to the vaccine -- I
25 mean, there are many other adverse events that can just happen during the time. It's

1 called incidental.

2 But we knew for those adverse events that happen that -- for other vaccines that

3 are attributable to vaccines, they happen usually between, you know, the first 1, 2

4 months after the vaccine is injected. And this is how we came up with we need to have

5 at least a minimum of 2 months of safety followup.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q So your determination, the reference you just made to the adverse effects,

8 adverse events usually take place in the first 1 to 2 months, that's based on your years of 9 vaccine research?

10 A That was the experience that we had at that point. And, you know, if you

11 look at the Vaccine Injury Compensation Act, you have the data there, yeah.

12 Q And you talked a little bit about the benefits kind of broadly, decreasing ICU

13 admissions, things like that. Can you talk a little bit more about what went into the 14 benefits side of that equation?

15 A Well, as I said, we did the efficacies. We did review the efficacy data. And 16 that was protection from severe -- from COVID vaccine. And the case definition said,

17 protection from hospitalization, and then there were a series of secondary endpoints.

18 And these endpoints were met. There were far more cases in the placebo

19 group -- because these were a placebo-controlled trial, right? -- than in the vaccine group,

20 so that we could conclude the efficacy of the vaccine. It was over 90 percent. It was a 21 relatively tight confidence it evolved to.

22 Q So the benefit isn't just that fewer people got COVID, though. It's that the 23 people that got COVID were not as sick. Is that fair to say?

24 A That was caught in terms of secondary endpoints, yes. And, you

25 know -- well, you can debate what that means, being less sick, right? And then -- yeah.

1 [redacted] So you mentioned that October 2020 guidance. I want to
2 introduce that for the record as exhibit 1.
3 [Gruber Exhibit No. 1
4 Was marked for identification.]
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q This is the October 2020 FDA guidance about Emergency Use Authorizations
7 for vaccines to prevent COVID-19. Are you familiar with this guidance?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Before I talk about this one in detail, could you first just broadly explain what 10 are FDA guidance documents?
11 A Well, FDA guidance documents interpret a certain regulation. And so, you 12 know, in this case, we knew what the requirements were under the statute to be able to 13 grant an Emergency Use Authorization.
14 And, for instance, take the standard it may be effective. And so, in this guidance 15 document, then, we tried to interpret what it means, you know, what sponsors had to 16 demonstrate to meet this standard of may be effective.
17 And we did -- at that point wanted to apply stringent criteria because we knew, if 18 an EUA would be granted for a COVID vaccine that it had the potential to be administered
19 to millions of people. And so we wanted to make sure that the vaccines that we would 20 authorize on the EUA would need to meet a certain effectiveness standard.
21 And we said: You know, at least 50 percent in the lower bound, you know, of 22 greater than 30 percent. But we also told the sponsors what we would like to see in 23 terms of safety data. And this is not something that we just came up with overnight.
24 As we discussed with the vaccine manufacturers since spring of 2020, the 25 development of these COVID vaccines, we already had conversation there with the

1 vaccine manufacturers. They asked us for guidance, what would be the standards.
2 And we communicated this to them, and then we formulated it in terms of a guidance
3 document. And -- yeah.
4 Q What role did OVRR play in developing this guidance?
5 A We played a very central role. Our -- our subject matter experts really 6 described, for instance, what chemistry manufacturing and control information would be 7 required, what safety and effectiveness information that was ruled by the medical 8 officers, you know, in terms of preclinical data. These were our toxicologists. And,
9 yeah, so it was a concerted effort.
10 But that is not to say that only the Office of Vaccines worked on that, right?
11 There were other offices that took part of it, such as the Office of Biostatistics and 12 Epidemiology, again, the Office of the Compliance.
13 And, of course, you know, the -- the Center Director's Office and their policy
14 people, you know, looked at this as well. So it was a concerted effort. However, it's 15 fair to say that OVRR played a very central role.
16 Q Did you have a role in approving this guidance?
17 A I agreed to this guidance. Formal signoff is within the Director's -- Center
18 Director's Office.
19 Q And, generally, not just for this guidance, but generally what approval
20 processes do FDA guidance have to go through before they can be issued?
21 A Well, usually guidance writing takes longer than the guidances that we 22 issued June 2020. I mean, one was the Emergency Use Authorization, and the other one
23 was a clinical development and licensure of SARS-CoV-2 vaccines, right? We had two 24 guidance documents.
25 Usually, there is a drafting group, the usual process. The drafting group consists

1 of subject-matter experts and policy people, and they are addressing a certain issue for 2 which, you know, guidance needs to be developed.
3 And so there is a draft. That draft is then being put out in the Federal Register
4 for public comment. Depending on the comments that are received, it takes a couple of 5 weeks or a couple of months to finalize the guidance document.
6 And so, once the comments are received they are addressed, but the agency has a
7 certain discretion. So that's the difference to a rulemaking, where we have to address
8 every comment. Here, we have a certain flexibility for guidance documents. Usually,
9 we try to look at all the comments.
10 And then, you know, the guidance is finalized and being made available. That is 11 not to say that final is final. The guidance can be updated. You know, entities, 12 stakeholders have -- have opportunity to continue to submit their comments to the 13 docket. And then if -- you know, if -- if it's felt that the guidance needs to be updated 14 then that takes place.
15 Q This specific guidance was updated multiple times after October 2020.
16 A Yeah. Yeah, it was. Yeah, because it addressed other issues, right?
17 Yeah.
18 Q Does the White House have a part to play in the approval process of 19 guidance?
20 A It usually doesn't. In this case, that was different. The White House
21 wanted to clear the guidance document.
22 Q We'll come back to that point. But, before we go there, I want to turn to 23 page 5 on section 5 of this guidance. That section is entitled "Recommendations
24 Regarding Information and Data to Be Included in a Request for an EUA for a COVID-19
25 Vaccine."

1 Would you say that the information and the data laid out in these
2 recommendations was important for the OVRR to review before authorizing a COVID-19
3 vaccine for emergency use?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Section A looks at regulatory information. Is that right?
6 A Yes.
7 Q So, looking at A3, the guidance talks about a discussion of risks and benefits,
8 including information about -- available information about the threat.
9 Why is that important for the EUA request to include a discussion of risks and 10 benefits? I know we've talked about this a little bit before, but specifically for the EUA
11 request.
12 A Because if you look at the beginning of the guidance document, and that is 13 on page III, Roman III, criteria and consideration for the issuance of the guidance, it
14 states: Based on this declaration and determination, FDA may issue an EUA after FDA
15 has determined that the following statutory requirements are met.
16 And then there are four bullets. One of them is: The known and potential 17 benefits of the product, when used to diagnose, prevent, or treat the identified serious or 18 life-threatening disease or condition, outweighs the known and potential risks of the 19 product.
20 Q So, when EUAs were eventually issued for COVID-19 vaccines, were -- was 21 there a discussion of risks and benefits in the requests that were made?
22 A In the -- by the vaccine manufacturers?
23 Q In the review process, was there a discussion of risks and benefits?
24 A Yes, of course, the review team looked at that and did a benefit-risk
25 assessment. And, in doing so, of course, it took into consideration the data derived

1 from the clinical disease endpoint efficacy studies that were conducted with these
2 vaccine candidates.
3 Q And you mentioned the clinical endpoint is things like was the person
4 infected; did they get severe disease?
5 A Yeah. It was prevention of COVID disease. It wasn't so much prevention
6 of infection. It was really prevention of COVID disease and, you know, severe disease.
7 Am I allowed to make one statement? There was a lot of miscommunication
8 that the vaccines were not effective. They were effective in terms of preventing against 9 severe disease. They kept people out of the hospital. They didn't prevent infection or 10 transmission. And that was -- this is an important distinction to make when talking 11 about the vaccine efficacy.
12 Q Next I want to look at the safety and effectiveness information that is in this 13 guidance. It's on page 9 in section C3. And then the actual safety and effectiveness
14 data is detailed on pages 10 and 11.
15 So subsection b on page 10 talks about phase 1 and 2 studies and safety data in 16 those studies. What are phase 1 and 2 studies?
17 A Typically, when a vaccine is developed, phase 1 studies are the first in human 18 clinical trials. And they are there to primarily look at the safety. Looking at very 19 common adverse event, of course, because these phase 1 studies are small studies, 20 usually not more than a hundred subjects. And you sort of look at the initial safety of 21 the product, and you look at the initial immunogenicity profile of the product.
22 And, when things look favorable, then phase 2 studies are started. These are 23 typically randomized. That means there's a vaccine arm and a control arm, usually 24 placebo. They include a couple of hundred subjects. And, again, there is safety that is 25 evaluated and immunogenicity. Sometimes these phase 2 studies are even large

1 enough to get a signal of efficacy, but usually that is not the case.

2 And then, if these data are favorable -- and usually it's not only one phase 1 and

3 one phase 2. There are several studies that can be conducted, depending on what the 4 data show.

5 And then there is a phase 3 study that is the what we refer to as pivotal study to

6 demonstrate the safety and the efficacy. And that study data, if favorable, usually

7 supports licensure of the product.

8 But, of course, during the review process we would look at all the clinical studies

9 conducted. And, during COVID, these -- there were not discrete stages of phase 1 and 2

10 and 3. The sponsors started with larger -- with smaller populations.

11 And when the vaccines were first tested in the first in human clinical trial part, it

12 was healthy younger individuals. And then -- and they looked at different doses,

13 different vaccine candidates. So different formulations of the vaccine, I mean.

14 And then they met with us and said: We have data here to suggest that this is 15 immunogenic and tolerable.

16 And so they went then and expanded the study into phase 2, and then again

17 expanded the study into phase 3.

18 And that, again, accelerated the accrual of critical safety and efficacy data,

19 because -- because the clinical development, because of the pandemic, did not occur in 20 stages.

21 Q When reviewing the COVID-19 vaccines for EUA, did OVRR review the safety

22 data from this range of studies?

23 A OVRR did review the safety data available from all studies, yeah, and every 24 subject that was receiving the vaccine.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q So you just talked about the phase 1, phase 2, phase 3 studies. In a normal
2 process -- in a normal non-health emergency, let me put it that way, it would be the
3 phase 1, and then there would be some review of data and then phase 2, then phase 3.
4 Is it fair to say that, with respect to COVID in particular, it was more of like a
5 continually expanding process?
6 A That's right.
7 Q And that you said helped you accelerate the approval process, right?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And can you talk a little bit about how that helped you reach a regulatory 10 decision more quickly with respect to this vaccine?
11 A Well, that in and of itself facilitated, you know, getting the critical safety and 12 efficacy data needed to authorize the vaccine, but there was one thing that you usually do
13 not have if you develop a preventive vaccine. And that is, when Pfizer, for example,
14 started its safety and efficacy study, the large -- expanded to the large 44,000-subject
15 trial, it was in the end of July.
16 And, at that time, the COVID cases like August-September started to rise. And 17 they were able -- not only were they able to enroll these subjects in a matter of weeks,
18 because people wanted to get the vaccine to protect themselves -- that was a fact.
19 The enrollment was much faster than you typically see with a vaccine, and you
20 had an incidence rate. That means many, many cases of COVID, so that you could -- you
21 know, your statistical criteria -- you need so many cases to declare efficacy -- was reached
22 much faster because of the pandemic. Sometimes that can take years to accrue a 23 sufficient number of cases due to disease incidence being very low. And this was not 24 the case in this situation.
25 Q So, in a way, even though, obviously, the pandemic was horrible, also

1 because it was so bad it made it easier to do the research here?

2 A Yeah. I am reluctant to phrase it that way, but yeah, uh-huh. Because it

3 was very sad, seeing so many people dying. Yeah.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q And other parts of this guidance talk about the chemistry manufacturing and

6 control data that you also talked about earlier. It talks about nonclinical and clinical 7 data.

8 So is it fair to say that, during the EUA review process, OVRR reviews the 9 regulatory information, the CMC information, and nonclinical and clinical safety and 10 efficacy information?

11 A Yes. And facility information.

12 Q Facility.

13 A Well, OVRR, in concert with its colleagues from the other offices, right? For 14 instance, our -- the statisticians here played a key role. They're not in the Office of 15 Vaccines. They're working closely with the medical offices who are in Office of Vaccines, 16 but they are responsible to do the statistical evaluation.

17 And our OVRR had the subject-matter experts for the CMC information, but the 18 facility information is yet with a different office. And the office director of that office is 19 Mary Malarkey, as I said before.

20 Q So FDA did review all of this information for the COVID-19 vaccine before

21 issuing EUAs?

22 A Yes.

23 Q I want to turn to section VII. It's on page 11. It's titled "Consideration of 24 an EUA for a COVID-19 Vaccine By an FDA Advisory Committee." Could you explain this 25 consideration?

1 A Typically, if we -- if we have a Biologic License Application for a new vaccine
2 product, we convene the Vaccines and Related Biologic Products Advisory Committee,
3 which consists of experts in different disciplines from across the country. And we do
4 this to have a public discussion and a public vetting on the safety and efficacy information
5 that is available for this vaccine product.
6 And, even though FDA has reviewed the data and has also -- you know, has a 7 perspective, of course, at that point when they convene the committee on the safety and 8 the efficacy of the product, they usually want to hear the advice of these public experts.
9 So the safety information and the efficacy information is presented during a day's 10 deliberation, you know, for the specific vaccine. And the committee is typically asked
11 with questions: Do you agree that the safety information submitted, or you heard about 12 today supports the safety of the product under the condition of use? It's always like 13 that, okay? And under the condition of, you know, what the recipient has to undergo 14 because of exposure to the disease, or do the data support the efficacy of the vaccine?
15 And the committee then can vote. And there are sometimes also discussion
16 points. So please discuss what additional data may be necessary. Do you think?
17 So -- and so that's meetings that we have to really have a transparent process too so that 18 people know about the products licensed. Everybody can call into these meetings.
19 We felt it was important to have this very transparent process also, you know, set
20 in place during the COVID pandemic and before the Emergency Use Authorization,
21 because we wanted to know if VRBPAC agreed with the criteria that were laid out in this
22 guidance document. And that's why we convened the meeting. And, yes, they agreed 23 with the criteria that we laid out.
24 And then we had two more advisory committee meetings that year, and that was 25 presenting the data accrued with the Moderna mRNA vaccine and the Comirnaty mRNA

1 vaccine, and both of these committee meetings took place within a week of each other in 2 December, where the committee was again asked, you know, do you agree that the 3 known and potential benefits outweigh the known and potential risks of this?

1 [12:16 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q So you're saying VRBPAC did meet before the EUAs of both the Moderna and

4 the Pfizer vaccine?

5 A Yes. Yes.

6 Q Do you have confidence in the OVRR review of the Pfizer and the Moderna

7 COVID-19 vaccines for Emergency Use Authorization?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Were all the necessary procedures followed during the review process?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Were the review methods reliable?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Did OVRR make its decisions based on reliable evidence?

14 A OVRR made its decision based on the safety and efficacy information that 15 was before them and found that the known and potential benefits did outweigh the 16 known and potential risks of the product.

17 Q Did you have confidence in the safety and the efficacy of the COVID-19

18 vaccines when the EUAs were issued in late 2020?

19 A I had confidence that the requirements, as laid out by the statute, were met,

20 and as I said before, may be effective, and the potential -- known and potential benefits

21 would outweigh the known and potential risks. Yes.

22 [redacted] Thank you.

23 We can go off the record.

24 [Recess.]

25 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

1 Dr. Gruber, at the end of the first hour, we were talking about your interaction
2 with Commissioner Dr. Woodcock. So I want to enter a couple of exhibits, and then I'm
3 going to turn it over to Congressman Massie.
4 So I'll offer as Exhibit No. 2 an email from you Wednesday, July 21st, 2021, at 5 11:59 a.m., to Drs. Peter Marks and Janet Woodcock.
6 [Gruber Exhibit No. 2
7 Was marked for identification.]
8 [redacted] Then, as Exhibit No. 3, an email chain between Dr. Gruber and Dr.
9 Marks and Dr. Krause from July 15th, 2021, 8:00 a.m., with an attached memorandum
10 titled, "Pfizer COVID-19 STN 125742.0 BLA target AD: 9-15-21."
11 [Gruber Exhibit No. 3
12 Was marked for identification.]
13 [redacted] And we'll give you a moment to review.
14 Dr. Gruber. So this is not -- you passed this out as well. Do you want me to 15 review this right now as well or just this email?
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q Just start with the email because we'll get to the memo a little later.
18 A Okay.
19 Q I just wanted you to have both in case you needed to reference either of 20 them.
21 Mr. Massie. There's a reference in your email to a memo on July 15th, and we 22 believe that's the memo that's referenced.
23 Dr. Gruber. Yeah. I'll take a moment to memorize it.
24 Thank you for giving me the time to look through this memo.
25 [redacted] Of course. I'm going to enter one more exhibit just so you can

1 have it, too, while we're questioning.

2 This will be Exhibit No. 4. It is an email from Dr. Marks to Dr. Woodcock and Julia

3 Tierney from Friday, July 16th, 2021, at 6:08 p.m., with an attached timeline. And that

4 will be Exhibit No. 4.

5 [Gruber Exhibit No. 4

6 Was marked for identification.]

7 Dr. Gruber. Okay.

8 Mr. Massie. I'll primarily be asking about the email.

9 Dr. Gruber. Okay.

10 Mr. Massie. Exhibit No. 2.

11 Dr. Gruber. Yes. I have that email. Thank you.

12 Mr. Massie. Dr. Gruber, did you have a meeting on July 19th, 2021, with Krause,

13 Woodcock, and Marks to discuss the timeline of the BLA review for Pfizer's COVID-19

14 vaccine?

15 Dr. Gruber. Yes. That is true. The meeting took place between

16 Dr. Woodcock, Dr. Marks, Dr. Krause, and Julia Tierney, was, I think, Dr. Woodcock's

17 acting chief of staff at the time.

18 Mr. Massie. Were there any other people present?

19 Dr. Gruber. No.

20 Mr. Massie. And were there any other communications about this meeting

21 other than your email?

22 Dr. Gruber. I had received -- I need a second. Yes. So I had

23 written -- leadership in Office of Vaccines had written the July 15th memorandum to 24 Dr. Marks explaining why we felt at that time that the review timelines cannot be

25 compressed further. And I did not hear back from Dr. Marks in response to that memo

1 of July 15th.

2 But then I received an email from Dr. Woodcock. It was a meeting invite to meet

3 with her -- it was a Zoom meeting -- to meet with her on July 19th. I believe that was

4 even a Monday. I got that, you know, meeting request, I think, the Friday before the

5 specific instructions to appear at 7:30 a.m. or 8:00 -- 7:30 -- it was early in the 6 morning -- to discuss the BLA review timelines. Yes.

7 Mr. Massie. And did you tell them in that meeting that they cannot be -- that the 8 timeline cannot be compressed further?

9 Dr. Gruber. In the meeting of July 19th, I did recapitulate the content of my July

10 15 memo. Yes. That included my assessment at that time not to compress the 11 timelines further.

12 Mr. Massie. Was there any recording of that Zoom meeting?

13 Dr. Gruber. Not that I remember.

14 Mr. Massie. Okay. And did you feel pressured in that meeting to change the 15 timeline?

16 Dr. Gruber. Yes.

17 Mr. Massie. Did they say -- well, I don't want to lead you or trip you up or 18 anything, so I'll draw your attention to this email.

19 You say in here about two-thirds of the way down in the second paragraph, quote,

20 "You expressed concern that the rising COVID cases in the U.S. and globally, largely

21 caused by the Delta variant, and stated your opinion that, absent a license, States cannot

22 require mandatory vaccination."

23 Your email is addressed to both Marks and Woodcock, and here you say "you."

24 Was it Woodcock or was it Marks or was it both of them that expressed their opinion that 25 a license would be needed for vaccine mandates?

1 Dr. Gruber. It was both of them. Yeah.

2 Mr. Massie. So I'll introduce this into the record later, but on August 8th, the 3 Secretary of Defense -- and I have that document, but I got a New York Times article, and 4 I'll just -- I don't have other copies. I'll introduce all that later.

5 But on August 8th, the Secretary of Defense said that the vaccine mandate for the 6 military would happen as soon as the FDA licensed the product. And then on August 7 9th, the New York Times reported that.

8 Were you -- other than in this meeting where Dr. Marks and Dr. Woodcock told
9 you that the vaccine mandates would be conditioned or needed to have the full FDA
10 approval before they could happen -- in addition to them telling you that here, were you
11 aware that the Defense Department was awaiting an issuance of a license, the BLA, so 12 that they could do the mandate?

13 Ms. LoCicero. And I just want to caution Dr. Gruber that you are not to speak
14 about any deliberative process internal to the agency on that topic.

15 [redacted] And just to get it clear for the record, is that an objection for 16 deliberative process?

17 Ms. LoCicero. Yes.

18 [redacted] Okay. And you're instructing her not to answer, or --

19 Ms. LoCicero. I'm instructing her to answer if she can, but to avoid providing 20 information that is covered by the deliberative process within the agency.

21 [redacted] Okay. Thank you. Just wanted to get it clear for the record.

22 Dr. Gruber. Can you repeat the question for me?

23 Mr. Massie. Yeah. Let me repeat the question.

24 Did you know that the military was going to issue a mandate as soon as the 25 licensure happened?

1 Dr. Gruber. No, I did not.

2 Mr. Massie. Are you aware that the day after your -- the license was issued, that

3 the mandate was handed down from the Secretary of Defense?

4 Dr. Gruber. No.

5 Mr. Massie. Okay. What specifically did Woodcock or Marks tell you

6 about -- or can you elaborate on your sentence here where they said that, "Absent a

7 license, States cannot require mandatory vaccination."

8 Do you believe they were telling you that because they were trying to increase a

9 sense of urgency?

10 Dr. Gruber. I cannot speculate as to why they told me that. I just recall that

11 both of them said, absent a mandate -- a mandate requiring mandatory

12 vaccination -- right. People would not be getting the vaccine.

13 And they also made the point, as I state here in the email, that they feel that

14 people have a tendency to get a vaccine that is authorized, but they may be hesitant and

15 would be more likely to receive the vaccine if it would be licensed. These two 16 arguments were made during that meeting, yes.

17 Mr. Massie. Was it predetermined that the vaccine was going to be licensed at 18 the point of that meeting?

19 Dr. Gruber. At that point of the meeting, the review was still ongoing. No

20 determination had been made whether this vaccine would be licensed because we were 21 busy reviewing critical information, as I had outlined in the July 15 memo.

22 Mr. Massie. What would have prompted a denial of licensing? What

23 information would you have collected, possibly, in that period of time or were 24 discovered?

25 Dr. Gruber. Several reasons. Multiple reasons. For instance, there could

1 have been lack of information supporting that the facility would be in compliance with 2 good manufacturing standards. There could have been information that incoming
3 safety data during the review of the BLA -- safety data that resided from the post-EUA
4 surveillance system, where -- of such concern that a license would not be possible.
5 There could have been, you know, an analysis by our statisticians not verifying the 6 efficacy of the BLA.
7 So many, many reasons that could have prevented licensure of the product.
8 Mr. Massie. So was there a threshold for efficacy that you were looking for to 9 approve the product?
10 Dr. Gruber. The efficacy standard -- the criteria had been published in the 11 guidance for industry documents on development and licensure of SARS-CoV-2 vaccines.
12 In that guidance, we said the point estimate of vaccine efficacy has to be at least 13 50 percent as a lower bound of the suggested confidence interval of equal or greater of 14 30 percent. This was the efficacy standard that had to be met. And results showed 15 that the vaccine far exceeded that efficacy standard. The point estimate was in the 16 nineties rather than the 50th percentile, and the lower bound of the confidence interval
17 was -- I think it was in the eighties or nineties.
18 And so, yes, the statistical criteria had been met to deem the vaccine efficacious.
19 Mr. Massie. Were there reports in the -- weren't there reports in the news that 20 the efficacy was waning or that it wasn't effective for the predominant strain at the time?
21 For example, there was a CDC report about an outbreak in Barnstable,
22 Massachusetts. Were you aware of that outbreak? Here, let me find a date on it. It
23 was in early August. Or the Wisconsin -- oh, I'm sorry.
24 Where Walensky said on August 5th that what the vaccines can't do anymore is 25 prevent transmission?

1 Dr. Gruber. I am not aware of that newspaper article. What I can tell you is the 2 vaccines were developed to prevent severe COVID disease. It was evident that these 3 vaccines would not prevent transmission. Many vaccines do not prevent transmission
4 or infection.
5 So when we discussed with the vaccine manufacturers the case definition that 6 they needed to use to demonstrate efficacy, it was not transmission.
7 Mr. Massie. Were you ever concerned about public statements from 8 government officials that these vaccines would reduce transmission, given that the Pfizer 9 clinical trial was designed -- was not designed to test that and that your approval wasn't 10 conditioned on it?
11 Dr. Gruber. In our regulatory documents, we clearly described the end points
12 and case definitions that the vaccine was tested for to meet. There were a lot of 13 different publications and statements made at that time.
14 Mr. Massie. So what the test didn't -- or the trials didn't determine is whether it
15 prevented infection?
16 Dr. Gruber. That's right.
17 Mr. Massie. So -- but there was statements from the CEO of Pfizer that would 18 indicate that -- that would suggest that it did. Were you concerned about that?
19 Dr. Gruber. I could not and wasn't able to control the statements made by public
20 health officials or CEOs of the company in terms of, you know, the vaccine efficacy. All I 21 could do is, in our regulatory documents, describe how the vaccine was tested and what 22 efficacy was demonstrated against.
23 Mr. Massie. So you had given them a September 15th date, which you
24 considered to be, I think, very aggressive compared to prior timelines for other vaccines.
25 Is that correct?

1 Dr. Gruber. That is correct.

2 Mr. Massie. And who was pushing you to move that date up?

3 Dr. Gruber. It was Dr. Marks.

4 Mr. Massie. You said that, in your email, there are very important regulatory

5 issues that need to be settled, and as an example, you mentioned a pediatric plan.

6 Can you explain what that means and what needed to be settled? Why was the 7 BLA approval dependent on the pediatric plan?

8 Dr. Gruber. Because it is required by law that a vaccine manufacturer will assess

9 the vaccine further in the pediatric population if they have not been tested as part of the 10 efficacy study. And as I recall, in the efficacy trial, there were adolescents and children, I

11 think, down to 12 years of age, but the vaccine was not tested in children less than 12

12 years of age as part of this efficacy study.

13 So a vaccine manufacturer then has to put a document together describing -- even

14 though the vaccine was ready for approval in an older population or the adult population,

15 that it would conduct further studies to evaluate the safety and the effectiveness of the 16 product in pediatric subjects. So that is a -- that's the Pediatric Research Equity Act,

17 PREA, that is a law that vaccine manufacturers and, by implication, FDA has to comply

18 with.

19 So we had to review the documents that Pfizer submitted delineating the type of 20 studies they would be conducting in pediatric subjects. And that, of course -- and this is

21 what I stated in my email -- was important because safety in younger populations is even

22 more paramount than in older populations.

23 Mr. Massie. You mentioned that the pediatric plan was becoming increasingly 24 complex. What was complex, and how did the FDA and your team adapt to those 25 complexities?

1 Dr. Gruber. So, by definition, pediatric subjects go until age 17, including age 17.
2 And as we discussed earlier on this morning, we had become aware of data suggesting a
3 risk of myocarditis. And this data became apparent because the vaccine was rolled out
4 and the EUA. And, of course, there were post-EUA surveillance systems in place by the 5 CDC and the FDA, and they showed it was for myocarditis and pericarditis in younger
6 adults but also adolescents, young males. And 12- to 17-year-olds includes the pediatric 7 population.
8 So we had to discuss with a sponsor, given that identified risk, what further
9 studies did need to be conducted if we were to license the product in the postmarketing
10 space to further assess that risk. And this is referred to as postmarketing-required 11 studies.
12 Mr. Massie. And that is complex in a way different from prior vaccine approvals?
13 What is --
14 Dr. Gruber. The difference was that we became aware of this risk of myocarditis.
15 If there would not have been this information and this data, there would not have been a
16 need to require Pfizer to conduct a postmarketing-required study to further evaluate the 17 safety signal as the regulations prescribe.
18 And so we also had to review proposed protocols for that further
19 postmarketing-required study. And that also comes with -- they have to give us a date
20 when they're going to initiate this trial and when they're going to conclude these studies.
21 So this is where review activities were ongoing at that time.
22 Mr. Massie. And that's part of the timeline that Dr. Marks was asking you to 23 compress?
24 Dr. Gruber. Yeah.
25 [redacted] So is it fair to say that you were the -- it had been raised to you the data

1 regarding myocarditis or other -- the pericarditis side effects, that was -- you determined
2 that based on the data before this July 19th meeting? Is that timeline accurate? Or 3 could you elaborate on when you had found out about the myocarditis side effect in 4 relevance to this meeting?
5 Dr. Gruber. The vaccines were rolled out under EUA, and the decision to 6 authorize the Pfizer vaccine was made in December of 2020. The FDA and the CDC set
7 in place a post-EUA safety surveillance system. And as the vaccine was rolled out and 8 administered to a large number of subjects in the United States, these safety surveillance
9 systems picked up this risk of myocarditis. And, of course, the sponsor was aware of this
10 as well.
11 Mr. Massie. So you -- sorry to jump around.
12 You mentioned that Dr. Marks and Dr. Woodcock both mentioned
13 mandates -- vaccine mandates to you. Is that something inside of the FDA's purview, 14 and should that be a consideration that you have to take into effect when you're deciding 15 whether to issue a license or not?
16 Dr. Gruber. I was never made aware that this is a requirement, and as a matter
17 of fact, that subject had never come up in vaccine licensures before.
18 Mr. Massie. So is that why you memorialized it in this letter, that they were, I 19 mean, mentioning mandates, and that wasn't really part of your job?
20 Dr. Gruber. Yes.
21 Mr. Massie. When you left, who was appointed to take over your
22 responsibilities?
23 Dr. Gruber. That was Dr. Marks.
24 Mr. Massie. And who appointed him?
25 Dr. Gruber. Dr. Woodcock.

1 Mr. Massie. Did you express dissatisfaction with that decision?

2 Dr. Gruber. At the time of my departure in October -- on October 31st, 2023, I

3 did not.

4 Mr. Massie. Who would you have expected to assume your position when you

5 left?

6 Dr. Gruber. Dr. Krause.

7 Mr. Massie. You mentioned in your email the importance of a thorough and

8 credible review by OVRR. Did you have concerns that what they were asking you to do

9 would not be thorough and credible?

10 Dr. Gruber. At the time I wrote this memo on July 15th, and as I stated and tried

11 to document in the July 15th memo, there was many activities going on, including

12 information requests, requests for data to Pfizer.

13 And my experience as office director and my decades of experience in the Office

14 of Vaccines had told me that one cannot predict when a vaccine manufacturer would

15 respond to an information request. It could be in a couple of days, weeks, or months.

16 And so for me, I did not think that I could say, at that time, in the middle of July,

17 where I knew so much review and regulatory activity was ongoing, that, yes, we can

18 approve earlier. I also would like to add that I had concerns because I felt I needed to 19 protect my people.

20 Mr. Massie. When was the decision finally made to shorten the timeline from 21 September 15th to what eventually was August 23rd?

22 Dr. Gruber. At the time, I -- not about the memo, but when this meeting

23 happened on July 19th, I had to go out of town. My daughter, whose wedding had been

24 canceled twice due to COVID, had finally given a date for the marriage on August 1st in 25 Germany, and I wasn't going to miss that wedding.

1 And, of course, that date, I didn't know when the BLA was submitted. I had no
2 time of planning in advance. But what I did during -- during this time, during the BLA
3 review, I discussed that -- with Kraus, my deputy, and I said, listen. I need to be -- you
4 know, I want to go to attend my daughter's wedding. Can you take over at that time for
5 me?
6 And he says, well, of course. That's what a deputy office director is for.
7 I also should say that Dr. Krause, you know, being a medical officer, knew the 8 clinical data very well. The review team, the medical officers, asked him for guidance.
9 He was very knowledgeable about all the data, and I felt he was the perfect person to 10 oversee the review activities for the time that I was gone. I also indicated to 11 Dr. Woodcock that I would be having my telephone and my telephone number. If 12 something is the matter, I can be reached at any time.
13 She informed me in this meeting on July 19th that Dr. Marks would take over the 14 review of the BLA activities -- or the BLA review activities. I'm sorry. And that 15 Dr. Krause would be assigned to other OVRR programs. And they had -- and she 16 indicated this to me in an email that she wrote me after she received my memo on July 17 21st that she had tasked Dr. Marks with looking at where efficiencies can be gained and if 18 it was possible to move up that date.
19 So the decision was not made when I left, but it had been made when I came back.
20 Mr. Massie. And what did they assign Dr. Krause to? Was it other COVID 21 vaccine tasks?
22 Dr. Gruber. Other COVID vaccines, other files because, of course, work in OVRR 23 had to continue on bacterial products or, you know, allogenic products and -- yes, that 24 sort of --
25 Mr. Massie. So they took somebody who was intimately familiar with the

1 problem that needed to be solved and took him out of that decision position?

2 Dr. Gruber. I have to say yes.

3 Mr. Massie. And when you came back from your daughter's wedding, is that

4 when you found out the new timeline was going to be August 23rd?

5 Dr. Gruber. No. There was no set timeline. It was, we will achieve an

6 approval faster than September -- or regulatory action faster than September 15th.

7 And I have to say, I give credit to the team because they did what they could.

8 They -- as I indicated earlier, they were there day and night. Day and night to perform

9 these review activities. Also, the sponsor did not delay responding to information

10 requests. I was informed that they, you know, submitted the answers day and night.

11 And that is how, in the end, it was possible to move up the regulatory action of 12 that BLA to the end of August. It was because my people gave it their best and they 13 gave it their all.

14 Mr. Massie. What was the date that you returned?

15 Dr. Gruber. I think it was August 7th.

16 Mr. Massie. Would you like to ask questions?

17 [redacted] Yes.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q I would like to ask, how big was your team that was assigned to work on

20 this -- on the BLA while you were out, and had they been previously working on it as well?

21 A So when a BLA is submitted, a review team is assigned, and the review team

22 is put together from the different offices which have authority to review and then license

23 the product. Office of Compliance, Office of Biostatistics and Epidemiology, and Office

24 of Vaccines. And I cannot give you the exact number, but usually these committees

25 are -- I would say 70, 80 people. Yeah.

1 Q And so is it fair to say, of those committees, they only took a few people
2 from those committees to work on this BLA review team, or are you saying 70 to 80
3 people worked on it?
4 A Well, not everybody in all the review committee has, you know, a very
5 central function. I mean, the most -- the most important people are the people that 6 perform the clinical data review. And there, we have said we need help. It's not
7 usually -- it's one medical officer working with their supervisors in a typical BLA. Here,
8 we had two people. Instead of one statistician, we had three statisticians.
9 But then, of course, the CMC reviewer -- they're working, you know, as a team,
10 too. One has the primary responsibility of writing the memo, and others will help, you
11 know, look through it. Yeah.
12 Q And the reason I ask is because I believe in -- I'm trying to exactly figure out
13 which email it was, if it was the one from you. Oh, yes.
14 So in Exhibit 2, midway through paragraph -- the second paragraph, you wrote, "I
15 reiterated that adding staff to this review at this advanced stage would likely slow down
16 the review due to the need to bring new people up to speed."
17 So I was curious as to the number that had existed at the time before you left and 18 then if that number did increase, or what number they were proposing to increase your 19 team size to.
20 A I recall that the number did not increase. No. And I had made the point
21 that I didn't think it was productive to add at such late stage in review new people 22 because they have to familiarize themselves with the file, and there was really nobody 23 who had time to bring somebody up to speed. I mean, I said either we try to get this 24 done, or we start to train other people.
25 Q And to your knowledge, they did not bring on anybody new?

1 A No. To my knowledge, they did not bring on any new people, no.

2 Q Do you know if Dr. Marks and Dr. Woodcock -- if they had received

3 instruction from outside the FDA to move this timeline up further from the September

4 15th, 2021 action due date?

5 Ms. LoCicero. I'm going to object to that to the extent it impinges on the 6 deliberative process privilege.

7 [redacted] Okay. So are you instructing the witness not to answer?

8 Ms. LoCicero. I am instructing her not to answer that question.

9 [redacted] Okay.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q What was your reaction to Dr. Marks' and Dr. Woodcock's goal to move up

12 the timeline from September 15th to several weeks earlier?

13 A Well, I think I did describe this in my memo.

14 Q Would you say -- did Dr. Krause share those concerns that you described in 15 your memo?

16 Ms. LoCicero. I'm going to instruct her also not to answer that question based 17 on the objection.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Did you draft your July 15th -- or whenever it was actually drafted, but it was

20 in that July 15th email that was Exhibit 3 -- that memo, did you draft that yourself, or was 21 there multiple people that helped you draft that?

22 A Several people helped draft it.

23 Q Now, on that Exhibit 3, with the July 15th, 2021 email, you also included

24 Celia Witten. Can you tell us who she is?

25 A Celia Witten was, at the time, the deputy center director.

1 Q Of which center?

2 A Sorry. Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research. So Dr. Marks'

3 deputy.

4 Q And in that email, that Exhibit 3 email, you wrote -- and I believe it's at the 5 bottom of that page.

6 You said, "Phil and I further discussed with DVRPA and DVP management the

7 review timeline for the above BLA. As you know, we are targeting September 15th as

8 the ADD. It will not be possible to move the ADD up without further cutting corners and

9 lowering our review standards and that I would not be able to defend. We have

10 described our rationale and logic in the attached memo. Feel free to share with JW."

11 I wanted to just ask clarification what DVRPA and DVP stand for.

12 A Yeah. Where is that? I mean, I can tell you what it is. It's the Division of 13 Viral Products, which was -- oh, in the email. I thought it was in the memo. I'm sorry.

14 Yeah. Okay. Here it is.

15 Yeah. That was July 15th at the time I wrote the memo because I did consult

16 with management, with the division directors of the Division of Viral Products, which is

17 one of the divisions in the Office of Vaccines responsible for the review of chemistry,

18 manufacturing, and control information.

19 And DVRPA is the Division of Vaccines and Related Product Applications. That is 20 the division that is responsible for not only the administrative processing of the files, but

21 it's the division where the medical team resides.

22 And so I -- obviously, when I was instructed to move up the approval date, I went

23 to the management of these divisions because it is their people who performed the 24 review activities. If they would find it reasonable, could they do it? And they

25 cautioned for moving up the date further.

1 So this was not a decision single-handedly made by myself or by Phil.

2 Q Thank you for that clarification.

3 And if corners were indeed cut in the BLA approval process, would you personally

4 be responsible for something going wrong, or would it be your team? Would it be the 5 FDA generally? Or what is your understanding of who would be personally responsible?

6 Ms. LoCicero. I'm going to object. She's not going to answer hypothetical

7 questions.

8 [redacted] Are you going to instruct her not to answer the question?

9 Ms. LoCicero. I'm instructing her not to speculate. If she would be happy to 10 insert a different question --

11 [redacted] Okay. We don't really recognize, you know, typical objections.

12 Ms. LoCicero. I'm instructing her not to answer that question.

13 Ms. Ferguson. Okay.

14 [redacted] Going to your memo that's attached to that July 15th email --

15 Ms. LoCicero. Can I just raise one issue? Just to note for the record that these 16 Bates numbers are not consecutive.

17 [redacted] Correct.

18 Ms. LoCicero. So we are not -- we have never seen this document before today,

19 which is fine. But I want to make it clear that it doesn't appear that this memo you've 20 attached to it actually follows this email.

21 [redacted] Those documents -- just for clarification, they were produced under

22 FOIA, and they were available on the FDA's website, and they had redacted any privileged

23 information. And there was a couple different copies --

24 Ms. LoCicero. Okay.

25 [redacted] -- of some of these emails, and so it might have just been the way that

1 we stapled it was -- that particular memo was attached to -- that's what it's referring to 2 from the attachment. It just was in there a different order.
3 Ms. LoCicero. Okay.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q And going back to that memo -- and just for the sake of usual practice, is it
6 fair to say that the FDA usually evaluates and analyzes BLAs separate and apart from any 7 analysis provided by a sponsor? That's the normal practice that the FDA --
8 A The FDA does perform its own analysis of the raw datasets submitted by the 9 sponsor. We request those datasets to perform our analysis.
10 Q And how long does this dataset analysis usually take?
11 A That depends on the complexity of the BLA, the size of the clinical trial.
12 Q How long had it taken for this particular Pfizer vaccine?
13 A I cannot give you an exact timeline on that.
14 Q Can you explain how the FDA's own analysis of a developer's data affects the 15 public's confidence in the vaccine?
16 A The primary reason for FDA to perform its own analysis is really to verify the 17 accuracy of the data and information submitted by the vaccine manufacturer because, in 18 the end, we have to make the determination that the vaccine is safe and pure and potent
19 for its intended use, and we want to make sure that the data are accurate.
20 Q And further in this memo, you discuss that this BLA is a rolling BLA, and I just 21 wanted to note for the record or get clarification what a rolling BLA is.
22 A Yeah. I mentioned earlier that a biologics license application can be 23 assigned priority review, so the -- the review time is about 4 months -- 4 months shorter
24 than a standard review. And there is an additional program.
25 So this -- this vaccine also received breakthrough therapy. It's an expedited

1 program by the FDA. And that means a sponsor does not have to wait until they have all
2 pieces of the BLA ready and submit this, but if they have pieces of the BLA already
3 completed, such as the preclinical data and datasets, such as the CMC data and datasets,
4 such as the clinical data, they can submit them, and FDA will start reviewing these 5 sections, but the official review clock only starts when all the pieces are available.
6 So in this case, as I recall, the preclinical data were already available earlier than 7 the clinical data, and so we started reviewing that. And that, of course, is another
8 mechanism by which you can accelerate, you know, the time it usually takes to review a 9 BLA application.
10 Q Thank you for the clarification.
11 Mr. Massie. On August 17th, you e-mailed Dr. Marks and shared the current 12 draft of the clinical review memo for Pfizer's BLA, and you stated that there was work that 13 still needed to be completed, and therefore, the date of August 20th was not possible.
14 You know, 6 days later, the BLA was approved. What happened between your 15 August 17th email to Dr. Marks and August 23rd, and do you agree with that decision?
16 Dr. Gruber. Congressman, is it possible -- is there an exhibit? Can I take a look 17 at that?
18 Mr. Massie. I'll get that later. Yeah. I'll put this on hold and then give you
19 those exhibits and ask you about it.
20 Dr. Gruber. Okay. Thank you.
21 Mr. Massie. When Pfizer submits safety data and categorizes adverse events
22 that occurred during the trial, what level of review does the FDA conduct on those 23 adverse events?
24 Dr. Gruber. As I mentioned, the FDA will request the raw datasets. So in this 25 situation, there was data from 44,000 subjects, line listings, because -- and these people

1 were followed for safety, right? 7 days and then 28 days. And so daily records are 2 being put into these raw datasets. Injection site reaction, fever, malaise. And so these 3 are line-by-line listings of every subject included in this clinical trial.
4 The sponsor then analyzes the data and says, okay. What was the percentage of 5 fever? What was the percentage of headache, for example? And FDA then does the 6 same analysis and says, let's see. Let's verify if what they state is correct.
7 Mr. Massie. Does the FDA independently check the medical records to confirm 8 the characterization of the adverse event?
9 Dr. Gruber. The charts? The medical charts? For those where we see a more
10 serious adverse event, we typically want to look at this and perform a chart review.
11 Mr. Massie. Does the FDA do its own analysis to determine whether every 12 adverse event reported by the sponsor is related to the vaccine?
13 Dr. Gruber. That is clinical judgment. When the medical reviewers look at the 14 adverse event, they look not only at, you know, what happened, but also, they look at the 15 timely association between vaccination and occurrence of this adverse event.
16 They also look at the health status of the subject. Is it a person who is 75 years
17 old with underlying medical conditions? Is it a young, healthy person? So they look at 18 all this information.
19 And then there is a certain -- you know, of course, there are data effects, but then 20 there is also clinical judgment that is applied to make a determination that the vaccine 21 was related or if it was in accordance with that finding.
22 I should add that, for these clinical trials, there is also something that is called a 23 Data Safety Monitoring Board, DSMB. That is an independent committee that also will 24 look at data and do a safety review.
25 Mr. Massie. Just a week after the FDA approved the vaccine, you announced

1 your retirement. Is that correct?

2 Dr. Gruber. Yes.

3 Mr. Massie. Why did you decide to retire from the FDA at that time?

4 Dr. Gruber. Congressman, I was eligible to retire from the FDA in summer of

5 2020. And I actually had made plans, and my husband and I talked about it, that I would

6 put in my retirement paperwork by the time I would turn 62, which was in June of 2020.

7 And I was ready to do so, and then, as we all know, the pandemic hit. And I did not

8 think, at that time, it was responsible of me to leave this important position during this

9 time.

10 And we worked very hard that year to authorize these vaccines to make them

11 available to people who wanted to be vaccinated to protect themselves from COVID-19.

12 And in 2021, of course, there was still a lot of activity. There was -- and we -- you know,

13 the submission, as we discussed, of the Pfizer BLA.

14 But at that time, I decided that my contribution to help the public health

15 community out of the pandemic was done. I also admit there was a certain burnout,

16 and I decided I will now move on with my retirement plans, and this is what I did.

1 [1:39 p.m.]

2 Mr. Massie. The press reported that your disagreement over the booster shots
3 with other people in the FDA contributed to that. Is that true or false?

4 Dr. Gruber. That is false.

5 Mr. Massie. Okay. Thank you. Did you have concerns about booster shots
6 being the policy of giving them to everybody or recommending them for everybody?

7 Dr. Gruber. During the year of 2021, there were various type of publications that 8 evaluated the efficacy of the vaccine, expressed concerns about waning antibody titer.
9 And there were people who were of the opinion that boosters to be given to the general
10 population was necessary.

11 I had a different perspective. And I was part of a group on a paper published by 12 the WHO that expressed a different perspective.

13 I want to be clear. I was not against boosters being administered. I thought
14 boosters were necessary for the elderly, those with, you know, fragile immune systems,
15 but I did not think, based on the data and the publications that I had read and reviewed at 16 that time, that it was necessary to provide booster immunizations to the general public.

17 And I also was of the opinion, shared by colleagues of mine in the WHO, that, in 18 order to curb the pandemic, that it would be better to provide vaccines to those 19 unvaccinated or people that did not have access to vaccines, and not just necessarily in 20 the United States but globally.

21 So, yes, I thought boosters were indicated for the frail, for the elderly, for the 22 immunocompromised, based on the scientific information that I had reviewed at that 23 time. I didn't think it was necessary to provide boosters to the general population.

24 Mr. Massie. In addition to the availability of vaccines, was it your concern that 25 the risk-benefit was different for somebody who had already had the vaccine with respect

1 to getting a booster?

2 Was it purely -- was it purely a decision about vaccine distribution, or did you think

3 the risk-reward changed for somebody receiving a benefit versus -- receiving a booster

4 versus their initial vaccine?

5 Dr. Gruber. Any time we make a decision of authorizing or licensing a vaccine

6 either for primary or for booster immunization, you have to be certain that the vaccine's

7 benefit would outweigh the risks.

8 And my conclusion from the data that I had reviewed was that there wasn't

9 increased benefit for let's say a young healthy person who had received the primary

10 vaccination series to receive a booster at that time.

11 Mr. Massie. Did your concerns fall on deaf ears at FDA? Did they listen to your 12 concerns and offer -- that would be my last question because we're out of time.

13 Dr. Gruber. I was not involved in the booster authorizations. I -- I was involved

14 in writing a briefing document for Pfizer's supplement to authorize boosters for people 16

15 years of age and older, Congressman, but I was informed by my Center Director that my

16 objectivity had been compromised due to the publication of the Lancet article and that,

17 therefore, I could not preside over this advisory committee discussing the need for 18 booster immunization.

19 Mr. Massie. Thank you.

20 [redacted] We'll go off the record.

21 [Recess.]

22 [redacted] It is 2:01. We can go back on the record.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q I want to pick up where we just left off about the Comirnaty BLA and then 25 talking about what happened then.

1 During the pandemic, did the BLA build on the data that you already had from the
2 EUA?
3 A Yes, yes. I mean, it contained the data from the EUA, the efficacy data and 4 the safety data, but, of course, there was the -- the trial was continuing and there was 5 continued safety followup and also continued efficacy followup, because, you know, the 6 pandemic went on, and the trial continued. And so these were additional data that 7 were submitted by Pfizer and were part of the BLA.
8 Q Is it fair to say that that made the review process a little bit faster, because 9 you didn't have to analyze all of the data at once, but were able to do the EUA data first 10 and then the additional data?
11 A That is correct. That is correct, yes.
12 Q And did the BLA approval account for any concerns that came up between 13 the EUA and the BLA approval?
14 A Can you clarify your question?
15 Q Yes. So, we talked about how between -- after the EUA the FDA and CDC
16 conducted post-EUA surveillance and found this risk of myocarditis and pericarditis.
17 Did the BLA account for that risk and did -- was that risk considered during the 18 review process?
19 A Absolutely. We -- Pfizer submitted data, but also we became aware of the 20 data from the post-EUA safety surveillance system that CDC and FDA had put in place.
21 And so the FDA experts, that was people in the Office of Biostatistics and 22 Epidemiology that did a quantitative risk assessment, looking at the benefits afforded by 23 the vaccine, in terms of protecting against COVID death, ICU admissions, and 24 hospitalizations versus looking at the risk of myocarditis and hospitalizations there.
25 They came to the conclusion that even -- there were some severe cases of

1 myocarditis requiring hospitalization. Most of them, however, reacted to conservative
2 management. And so when they also looked at the hospitalizations due to myocarditis
3 versus COVID, that, of course -- you know, COVID -related hospitalizations were much
4 more -- you know, they were longer, you know, intensive care units, et cetera.
5 So the overall benefit-risk assessment conducted by the FDA experts resulted in 6 their conclusion that, despite of this increased risk seen, the benefits afforded by the 7 vaccine far outweighed the risks.
8 But, in order to be conservative, the package insert for this vaccine that needs to 9 be approved as part of the BLA approval stated the risk of myocarditis in section 5.2
10 warnings and precautions of the package insert. And, also, the sponsor was required to 11 perform postmarketing-required studies to further evaluate that risk.
12 Q Are you confident in the review that your office did for the full licensure of 13 the Pfizer vaccine?
14 A I am very confident.
15 Q Was the review based on reliable methods?
16 A The review was based on reliable methods and processes, yes.
17 Q And did those methods and processes consider reliable evidence?
18 A Yes.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q I want to turn to the events of August 2021 specifically that we talked 21 through when this decision was made to accelerate the timeline.
22 So you said that you returned from your daughter's wedding on August 7. Is that
23 correct?
24 A Yeah. I think it was August 7. My husband would know, but I know it was 25 about a week after the wedding, which was August 1st. So yeah.

1 Q So you came back and you learned that the decision had been made to
2 accelerate the timeline, correct?
3 A I think the decision was made during that time, but it was pretty much
4 decided even before I left, because I had received word, right, to compress the timelines.
5 Q So the decision had actually been made even -- had been made before you
6 left. It wasn't like they waited for you to leave the country and then issued a decision.
7 A No, no.
8 Q And what was the actual decision? Was it this vaccine needs to be released
9 by -- or the -- sorry, the BLA needs to be approved by a certain date, or is it just we're 10 going to speed things up?
11 A It was we do -- the review committee needs to do what it possibly can do to 12 move up the action due date from September 15 to an earlier time point.
13 Q But they didn't say it needs to be moved up to August 23rd specifically?
14 A No. I did -- I was not informed of that, no.
15 Q So it wasn't like you -- like you returned from vacation and between -- you
16 learned on August 7th that, within 2 weeks, this approval would have to be done?
17 A No.
18 Q I want to look through the memo that we talked through. It's exhibit No. 3.
19 And start out on what is Bates stamped 347. So it's the actual memo, not the email
20 itself.
21 A Yes.
22 Q And I want to -- this is the memo that you sent on July 16, 2021. I want to 23 talk through this kind of page by page.
24 A July 15th, right?
25 Q I'm sorry. July 15th, correct, the email was sent. So you sent this on July

1 15, 2021.

2 A Uh-huh.

3 Q To Peter Marks, Celia Witten, copying Dr. Krause.

4 But the second boldfaced item on this page, it says: The BLA merits a complete

5 and thorough review.

6 Can you briefly explain why you wrote that? Why did you believe this merited a

7 complete and thorough review?

8 A It really was not a statement that pertained to this very BLA only. I mean,

9 every BLA would merit a complete and thorough review.

10 Q And, in your opinion, at the time the BLA was approved, so on August 23, 11 2021, was a complete and thorough review done?

12 A Absolutely, yes.

13 Q The second -- or I'm sorry, I guess the third boldfaced headline there: As 14 compared with other BLAs, the proposed completion date of September 15th would be 15 unprecedented.

16 We talked through in the first hour -- or our first hour of questioning, I guess it

17 was the second hour overall, that COVID-19 itself was fairly unprecedented. It was all 18 hands on deck. Is that fair to say?

19 A That is fair to say, yes.

20 Q So the timeline here was unprecedented, but it's also an unprecedented

21 public health emergency situation, right?

22 A Correct.

23 Q Turning the page to what's Bates stamped 348, it says: This is possible only

24 with deprioritization of other reviews, including some related to COVID, and reassignment

25 of work to other experienced medical officers."

1 Were there, in fact, other reviews deprioritized?

2 A We had deprioritized other reviews. We had deprioritized submissions

3 related to other vaccines, non-COVID vaccines. We had received instructions to

4 continue to prioritize COVID vaccine applications, not only restricted to the Pfizer and the 5 Moderna, but all COVID, and of which there were, I don't recall, but at least a hundred.

6 And so we deprioritized the work on other important files. So, to give you an

7 example, if a vaccine manufacturer submitted a meeting request -- and usually these can,

8 depending on the type of the meeting -- most of them are type B meetings. That means

9 we have to have the meeting held within 60 days.

10 We would say, we can't do that. It's deprioritized. It's going to take us another

11 2 months. So not 2 months but 4 months. And we had to do this the entire year of 12 2021 in order to cope with the workload.

13 Q And that was my point is that, to the extent it was all hands on deck to

14 prioritize the response to COVID, it wasn't just this particular Pfizer BLA. It was across 15 the board you were focused, your office was focusing on COVID and on addressing the 16 response to that and deprioritizing other.

17 A That is correct. The deprioritization was not unique to this BLA.

18 Q Okay. Then the next bullet here or the next boldfaced topic is: Additional 19 support from outside OVRR will not speed up the review.

20 And I think we talked through in the prior hour how it would have taken time to 21 bring people up to speed and to have them read the files, right?

22 A Yeah. And that is it. I mean, a lot of review had been already taken place

23 on the efficacy data, on the safety data, on the statistical evaluation, on the CMC

24 information.

25 And so I disagreed with the note that putting in additional reviewers would speed

1 up the timeline, because if I give you this book of a hundred pages, and I have read
2 through it, and I will ask you, please continue your review, what do you have to do? You
3 have to review this hundred pages. You have to ask all kinds of questions, right, in order
4 to come up to speed.
5 And I felt very strongly that I could not afford that at that time or at that stage of 6 the BLA review. And, again, that was not a decision I made single-handedly. I
7 discussed that with the supervisors of the different disciplines. And they said: No, not 8 at this point.
9 Q Understood. What I want to look at in this paragraph, though, is your 10 discussion of what the team that was already assigned and already up to speed on this 11 review had to do.
12 So, for example, it says: The safety review encompasses a critical evaluation and 13 interpretation of solicited and unsolicited safety data and SAES and clinical AEs of 14 interest, including, but not limited to, the myocarditis signal that has been observed
15 following the administration of the Pfizer COVID-19 vaccine under EUA.
16 So halfway through that paragraph.
17 We just talked through how at the end of the day, by August 23rd you, in fact,
18 were able, your team was, in fact, able to do that review and to account for the concerns
19 regarding myocarditis, correct?
20 A Correct. Yes.
21 Q And it says then: We are also performing subgroup analyses of safety and 22 effectiveness data for race, ethnicity, and subjects with underlying condition.
23 A Uh-huh.
24 Q By August 23rd, was the team that was working on this project able to 25 perform all of those subgroup analyses?

1 A They were. They were able to perform the subgroup analysis. And see,
2 the next sentence is important: Completion of these reviews may require additional 3 correspondence with the sponsor.
4 That was the concern. If this would have had to take place, and then we would 5 have had to wait for the sponsor's responses, additional analysis would have needed to 6 be conducted. But that was not the case. We didn't -- we didn't have to do this. We 7 didn't have to ask for additional information.
8 Q So, at the end of the day, it says: Completion of these reviews may require
9 additional correspondence with the sponsor.
10 To the extent that there was correspondence, Pfizer was forthcoming. This 11 happened more quickly than you might have been able to anticipate when you wrote this 12 memo. Is that fair to say?
13 A That is -- that is a fact. At the time I wrote this memo, I wasn't in the 14 position to make that assertion. I did not know how -- you know, what the extent of 15 additional information requests would be, how fast Pfizer would be able to respond.
16 And, again, I said this before, I took a bit of a conservative stance here, yeah.
17 Q And it says, it continues on: We hope that reviewers will be able to 18 complete their detailed review memos of the various review activities by the beginning of 19 September, as planned.
20 Were those -- what are those? Briefly, what are detailed review memos? What 21 do those entail?
22 A So a clinical review memo is not simply here like a 2- or 3-page memo. It is 23 a very comprehensive account for the review activities and the data, the data reviewed
24 and looked at and assessed.
25 It can be -- I don't recall the exact pages of this review memo, but I think it was a

1 hundred pages, at least. I predict it probably was more, but I can't recall. I've seen
2 clinical review memos exceeding 400 pages.
3 It will give you the background of the disease. It will give you a summary of 4 preclinical data submitted. It gives you a summary of the statistical evaluation, in 5 addition to separate memos written by statisticians.
6 It will then walk through the individual clinical studies, describes the design, the 7 subject disposition, how many people were of what race, what age, gender. All of this is 8 going to be recorded, and then it will give you a discussion of the endpoint, the case
9 definition, and will summarize the efficacy data.
10 And the same then goes for the safety evaluation. There will be tables and 11 tables listing the adverse events that have been analyzed and shown. And so all of that 12 is going to be recapitulated in that clinical review memo.
13 And then, at the very end, it has sort of an integrated assessment of risk. We'll 14 be looking at what are the benefits, what are the -- what are the risks? And all of this 15 has to be listed.
16 Q Okay. So those what sound like very comprehensive review memos, for 17 this particular approval, were all of those comprehensive memos completed by August 18 23rd, when the BLA was approved?
19 A They were.
20 Q And then this says that, even after those very comprehensive reviews were 21 completed, there were additional review activities to be completed, including legal 22 negotiations, supervisory review, SBRA preparation, et cetera.
23 Were all of those additional approval requirements that are listed here, were all of 24 those completed by August 23rd?
25 A They were. And it's -- that does not really happen in timely sequence.

1 Q Right. Okay.

2 A While a clinical review memo is written, label negotiations will start, for

3 instance because the applicant is required to send in the draft label with its initial BLA

4 submission and reviews already start.

5 It's just that you need the conclusion and the assessment made by the medical

6 officer to make a final determination that the data as shown and illustrated in the 7 package insert are correct.

8 Q Understood.

9 A That's why you can't really get the label done before the clinical review

10 memo is done. It is -- it is a parallel activity.

11 Q Okay. And, at the end of the day, all of these parallel activities, they were,

12 in fact, completed to your satisfaction by August 23rd, right?

13 A That is right, yes.

14 Q Okay. I want to turn to -- it's part of the memo. It's page 350 of the Bates

15 stamp. It's just the next page.

16 It says: Additional support from outside OVRR, if effectively used, might reduce 17 the need to deprioritize certain submissions.

18 And there's a number of bullet points underneath that.

19 So I know we talked through that assigning additional staff to this particular -- to

20 the Pfizer BLA wouldn't have been helpful, but you did think that it could be helpful for 21 staff to be assigned for other areas, right?

22 A That's right. That is -- that was work that had to be addressed for other

23 files, bacterial products, allergen products, other products that the Office of Vaccines was 24 regulating, yes.

25 Q And even for like IT things, correct, IT staff?

1 A Including IT staff, yes. And we were saying -- because, of course, it was a
2 compromise to be made. Prioritizing SARS-CoV-2-related submissions required
3 deprioritization of other submissions.
4 But we thought if we can get more people, experts to help with the SARS-CoV-2
5 unrelated files, it would not necessitate to keep deprioritizing those submissions.
6 Q Were you able to get additional staff for any of these areas?
7 A You know, that was at such late stage of my tenure at FDA that I did not see 8 that through.
9 Q Okay. I want to return to something else you said in the earlier hour. You
10 said -- and so it sounds like -- sorry, just to wrap up this line quickly.
11 So you did have concerns when you wrote the memo on July 15th about this 12 potential accelerated timeline, but at the end of the day when -- and nobody actually said
13 everything has to be done by August 23rd. It was just we're going to try and accelerate 14 it even further.
15 A Yes.
16 Q At the end of the day, by August 23rd, you were fully confident in the 17 decision to approve the BLA?
18 A I was. And I signed the approval letter, yes.
19 Q Okay. You said in the first hour -- the prior hour that you needed to protect 20 your people. What did you mean by that?
21 A I -- I knew that my people -- and that did not only pertain to people in the 22 Office of Vaccines but also the other offices -- that were part of the review team had 23 worked many hours, had canceled vacations, while away from the office to attend events 24 of their little children took their computers, their -- the computers, they couldn't take 25 those, but the work phones, you know, to be -- to be available for questions to -- for

1 phone calls.

2 So it was really -- people worked through many, many hours and situations. And

3 that had been ongoing for over a year. And I saw the dedication of people to wrap that

4 BLA up and review it by September 15th, and I had discussed that with the division

5 directors of the respective units, is it a possible date. And, at that time, I was informed

6 by my division directors that it is ambitious, but it can be done.

7 When I heard that I have to move up the regulatory action date even further, I

8 was concerned about my people, because there were signs of burnout. I had received

9 phone calls of my staff. And I had to encourage them to move on and said: This is 10 okay if you do that.

11 So, knowing that, knowing that and then being asked move this up, I felt I had to 12 protect them and say: We have to put boundaries around what can be done.

13 But that was really just one argument. I want to clarify this. The other reasons

14 were, as I stated in the memo: July 15th was a time where there were a lot of review

15 activities ongoing. There were information requests to the sponsor, as we went over.

16 And I didn't feel that I can give a certain point by which I can do this even faster.

17 And this was why I, you know, took a conservative stance and said: This cannot 18 be done.

19 But I talked to my people. I talked to the division directors. We worked very 20 closely with Pfizer. And the committee did get it done.

21 Q Are you proud of the work that your team did?

22 A I was -- I am tremendously proud. This was a team effort. I do not take

23 credit for that. It was to the credit of the team. They were just wonderful. But it

24 took its toll, yeah.

25 [redacted] Thank you.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q I want to move on and briefly talk about the booster shots that we've talked

3 about a little bit in the last hour.

4 The day after the Pfizer BLA was approved, Pfizer submitted a supplemental BLA

5 to administer a booster dose to all individuals aged 16 and older. Does that sound

6 right?

7 A Yeah. This supplement for a booster dose was submitted very shortly after

8 approval of the BLA, yes.

9 Q Did your office follow its normal procedures when reviewing the supplement

10 to the BLA?

11 A We did. I recall at that time that we discussed the necessity to go to an

12 advisory committee meeting. And when we did. And people were assigned with 13 reviewing of the supplement.

14 Q You mentioned that you didn't preside over the advisory committee, but the 15 advisory committee did meet on September 17 to consider the supplemental BLA?

16 A That is correct. And I was participating in that meeting, but I didn't actively 17 contribute.

18 Q What does that mean, that you didn't actively contribute?

19 A Well, usually if there are questions to the FDA, there are situations when the 20 medical officer or the CMC reviewer doesn't want to speak up because it is at a certain

21 level.

22 And then you have a -- you have an FDA official, a senior FDA official presiding

23 over that, and they will answer questions. And this is what had been my responsibility.

24 And that wasn't the case at that advisory committee.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q But you said you still participated in the meeting. What does "participate"
2 mean?
3 A I did participate in the sense that I listened on Zoom. I listened to --
4 Q You're familiar with the results of the meeting and what happened?
5 A Yes. Yes, I was, uh-huh.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q Do you remember what the committee concluded at that meeting?
8 A I do remember.
9 Q Could you tell us?
10 A Yes. They did not recommend an approval for booster immunizations for 11 people 16 years of age and older. They said, at that point, there wasn't sufficient data 12 to support that, but that the -- not even an approval, it was an authorization again, an 13 EUA should be considered for people 65 years of age and older and people with certain 14 immunocompromised conditions.
15 Q That aligned with your opinion on --
16 A Well, it so happened.
17 Q And that exactly is what the FDA ended up doing, is that right, on September
18 17th? Sorry, on September 22nd, the FDA amended the Pfizer EUA to allow booster
19 doses for the elderly and those at risk of severe disease from COVID-19?
20 A That happened, yes, on the EUA.
21 Q Are you confident in the amending of that EUA in that way? Are you
22 confident in the review that happened for the amending of the EUA that way?
23 A Again, I wasn't entirely involved in that anymore. I participated in the 24 writing of the briefing document for the committee, but, as stated, I did not preside over 25 this committee as a senior FDA official and -- that's what I have to say to that.

1 Q I want to now move back in time, back to 2020. We were talking about the
2 October 2020 guidelines, and you mentioned -- I had asked if the White House is usually 3 involved in those guidelines, and you said they usually weren't, but in this case, they 4 were.
5 Could you talk a little bit more about that? What did you mean by that?
6 A Well, there was, of course, an interest to get vaccines out as soon as possible
7 to protect people from SARS-CoV-2. And there was, you know -- the administration at 8 that time, of course, also had the goal of making these vaccines available soon. And we 9 all agreed with that stated goal.
10 I found it unusual that the White House said that they would need to clear this 11 guidance document, because that was not usually the case.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Who at the White House said that?
14 A Well, there were public announcements by President Trump at that time,
15 right, that he said: We may or may not clear the guidance document.
16 He never said: We will not clear the guidance document.
17 He said: We may or may not, you know, clear it.
18 Q And when he -- how did you -- how did you hear that he had said that?
19 A By watching the news.
20 Q And what was your reaction when you saw that on the news?
21 A I was concerned because I felt that the recommendations made in this 22 guidance document were reasonable. We already, you know, had in writing this 23 guidance document considered the public health emergency and the serious risk, you
24 know, caused by SARS-CoV-2. And, in Office of Vaccines, we were not willing to 25 compromise any standards for safety and effectiveness in the interest of getting vaccine

1 out even faster than we thought we could make them available.

2 Q And so your impression of what President Trump had said is that he may be

3 pressuring you to compromise safety to get the vaccine out more quickly?

4 A I don't want to speculate about that.

5 Q Okay.

6 A I just know that he said: We may or may not approve, you know, the 7 guidance document.

8 Q Have you ever had a situation before where a President had commented on 9 any guidance document your team was involved in?

10 A No.

11 [redacted] So I'd like to introduce for the record a tweet from former 12 President Trump dated October 6, 2020. It is timestamped 9:09 p.m.

13 [Gruber Exhibit No. 5

14 Was marked for identification.]

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q This tweet reads: New FDA rules make it more difficult for them to speed

17 up vaccines for approval before election day. Just another political hit job.

18 And then he tags an FDA official.

19 Were you aware that former President Trump wanted COVID vaccines to be 20 authorized for emergency use before the election day in 2020?

21 A I was not directly informed of that. I knew that it was the desire to make

22 the vaccines available as fast as possible, but I never got direct, you know, instructions to

23 make them available prior to October 6 by nobody within FDA.

24 Q Had you heard at the time that the former President had called the FDA's

25 guidelines a political hit job?

1 A I didn't pay attention to that.

2 Q What is your reaction to that?

3 A You know, during my tenure at the FDA, I really didn't focus on -- on politics

4 or, you know -- I wanted to make sure that my decisions were grounded in science and

5 supported by the available data and in compliance with applicable law and regulation.

6 And so, you know, there were at this time so many tweets, so many newspaper

7 articles. And I deliberately wanted to stay away from that, just do my job.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q The reference here to "just another political hit job," did political

10 considerations play any part in the guidance that you drafted or that you -- I guess that

11 your team drafted and that you cleared?

12 A No. As I explained earlier, the criteria in that guidance document that we

13 advised manufacturers to follow in order to support an EUA were really based on -- on 14 scientific and regulatory standards and not political motivations.

15 Q And, to be clear, you were a career civil servant, correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q You never held a political appointment at the FDA?

18 A No.

19 [redacted] I'd like to introduce for the record another tweet from 20 President Trump dated August 22, 2020. It's timestamped 7:49 a.m., and this will be

21 exhibit 6.

22 [Gruber Exhibit No. 6

23 Was marked for identification.]

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q This tweet reads: The deep state, or whoever, over at FDA is making it very

1 difficult for drug companies to get people in order to test the vaccines and therapeutics.
2 Obviously, they are hoping to delay the answer until after November 3rd. Must focus on 3 speed, and saving lives.
4 And then it tags an FDA official.
5 Were any of the regulatory decisions you made related to the COVID vaccine an 6 effort to delay vaccine authorization until after the 2020 election?
7 A Absolutely not.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q There's a reference in here to the deep state. What's your understanding 10 of what the deep state is a reference to?
11 A My native language is German. I have to say, when I looked at that, I had 12 no idea what "deep state" is and refers to.
13 Q Some people have said that the "deep state" refers to civil servants who are 14 working to prevent the agenda of a political party from going forward.
15 With that definition, do you consider yourself to have been part of the deep state?
16 A No.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q I'm going to move on to another topic. I'm going to bring up some claims
19 about vaccines, and I apologize in advance that some of these might be offensive, but I
20 just want to make sure we have on the record, with you as a vaccine expert, the facts
21 about vaccines.
22 Do childhood vaccinations cause autism?
23 A No.
24 Q How do you know that?
25 A Because I was at the time in the mid to end '90s, later even, beginning of the

1 thousands, the 2000s, involved in reviewing a lot of the data and the information,
2 specifically, you know, about a certain preservative in the vaccine. And the evidence
3 suggested, the scientific evidence, that vaccines are not the cause of autism.
4 And, together with my colleagues, I spent a lot of time reviewing the evidence and 5 came to the conclusion that vaccines are not the cause of autism.
6 Q Can the misconception that childhood vaccines are linked to autism be 7 detrimental to public health?
8 A If parents decide not to immunize their children because of these claims, of 9 course, in certain situations it could be detrimental to public health.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Do you think it's generally accepted among the scientific community that 12 vaccines are not the cause of autism?
13 A I think it is generally accepted in the scientific community, yes.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q There have been claims that Black children or Black people more generally
16 should not be vaccinated because people with African blood react differently to vaccines
17 than people with Caucasian blood. They are much more sensitive. Is that claim true?
18 A I am not aware of data that would suggest that.
19 Q There is a conspiracy that the government's promotion of widespread COVID 20 vaccination was a way to hide vaccine injuries by eliminating the control group. Is that 21 true?
22 A No.
23 Q Could you explain why that's not true?
24 A Because the studies conducted, the efficacy studies were placebo-controlled 25 trials.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Can you explain why that -- can you explain that a step further? The fact

3 that they were placebo-controlled trials, why does that matter?

4 A Because if you enroll subjects in the clinical study, and one arm, study arm of

5 people gets the investigational vaccine and the other group gets placebo, like a saline

6 injection. And so how?

7 Q I think the theory behind this claim is that, if so many people got vaccinated,

8 you couldn't possibly know if any particular injury was related to the vaccine, but you

9 stated that there are a number of surveillance, ongoing evaluations that take place.

10 So it is possible to know if an injury is due to a vaccine, correct?

11 A So, as part of the clinical trials, where there is safety followup, there will be a

12 determination if there is an adverse event whether it is plausibly due to the vaccine or

13 not. And, as I explained earlier, that takes into consideration the timely association

14 from the injection to the occurrence of the adverse event, the condition of the recipient, 15 et cetera.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q There are claims that the COVID-19 vaccine is the deadliest vaccine ever

18 made. Is that true?

19 A No.

20 Q There is a conspiracy that the COVID vaccine implanted microchips into the 21 people who received it. Is that true?

22 A No.

23 [redacted] What's your reaction to that claim?

24 Dr. Gruber. I think that's a little bit far from science.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q I know that you have studied maternal vaccination. There are claims that
2 the COVID vaccine isn't safe in pregnancy or even causes miscarriage. Is that true?
3 A I'm not aware of data that would suggest that the COVID vaccine is not safe
4 in pregnancy.
5 Q Recently, a conspiracy surfaced that COVID-19 was engineered to harm Black
6 and White people while protecting Jewish and Chinese people.
7 In your opinion, is that true?
8 A No.
9 Q Are you familiar with the death of Hank Aaron, the baseball player, at the 10 beginning of 2021?
11 A I don't recall.
12 Q Can false narratives about vaccines be detrimental to public health?
13 A Yes. I think yes.
14 Q How?
15 A Well, if it's false narratives, they convey the wrong facts. And that could 16 lead to people hesitating to get the vaccine.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q Why is that a problem?
19 A That is a problem if you take SARS-CoV-2, which is a pandemic that caused a 20 lot of death and serious disease in this country and globally, but can be prevented by 21 using vaccines.
22 Q In your opinion, was vaccination an effective tool against COVID-19, the 23 COVID-19 pandemic?
24 A There is no doubt in my mind that, without these vaccines, there would have 25 been -- many more people would have suffered, would have suffered from the serious

1 consequences of SARS-CoV-2.

2 Q Do you think many more people would have died without the vaccine?

3 A Yes.

4 [redacted] We can go off the record.

5 [Recess.]

6 [redacted] We will go back on the record, and the time is 2:55.

7 To begin, we are going to enter this exhibit, an email from Dr. Peter Marks to 8 Commissioner Janet Woodcock, as exhibit 7.

9 [Gruber Exhibit No. 7

10 Was marked for identification.]

11 [redacted] And please take your time review if you need it.

12 Dr. Gruber. Okay.

13 Mr. Massie. Okay. I want to base some of my questions on this document.

14 So, on August 17th, you emailed Dr. Marks, who shared the current draft of the clinical

15 review memo for Pfizer's BLA. You stated that there was work still needed to be 16 completed, and, therefore, a date of August 20th was not possible.

17 Had the date of September 15th been moved to August 20th?

18 Dr. Gruber. There was not an official email or instruction to move the 19 September 15 date to August 20th. There was just repeated instruction of approving

20 this BLA as soon as possible.

21 Mr. Massie. In the email characterizing the July 19th -- or, sorry, yes, July 19th

22 meeting, you said that vaccine mandates were one of the reasons that were given for the 23 importance of having an earlier date.

24 Were there other reasons given for moving up the date? Given that the EUA was

25 still available, that people could get the vaccine, there seems to be a great sense of

1 urgency placed on the approval, the final FDA approval. And one of the reasons was, as 2 you stated in your email, the vaccine mandates.
3 Were there other reasons they gave, or could you determine why they had such a
4 sense of urgency to get this?
5 Dr. Gruber. The reason given to me was the vaccine mandate. And the second
6 reason that I also mentioned in my email was that people hesitant to take a vaccine that 7 is authorized but not approved may be inclined to take the vaccine if it's licensed. These 8 two reasons were provided to me.
9 Mr. Massie. Dr. Fink, who is Doran Fink?
10 Dr. Gruber. Doran Fink was at that time the clinical Deputy Director in the 11 Division of Vaccines and Related Product Applications, which, as you recall, is the 12 division that -- in which the medical officers reside and the toxicologists and the 13 administrative people.
14 Dr. Fink was responsible for overseeing the clinical review activities and had 15 to -- was given responsibility to make sure that the clinical review is accurate.
16 Mr. Massie. He shared an email with you on August 17th in which he explained
17 to Dr. Marks the status of the clinical review in the memo. Is that correct?
18 Dr. Gruber. Yeah. That is correct. That can be concluded from this email,
19 yeah.
20 Mr. Massie. He noted that the benefit-risk considerations are complex. Do you 21 agree with that?
22 Dr. Gruber. Yes.
23 Mr. Massie. Do you believe those considerations were adequately and 24 thoroughly addressed in the ultimate review and regulatory decision 6 days later?
25 Dr. Gruber. The work on the benefit-risk analysis and assessment had been

1 ongoing. I see here that Dr. Fink mentioned Rich Forshee's group. That's number 4.
2 That was the Division of Biostatistics and Epidemiology.
3 And that group was responsible to perform a benefit-risk assessment of the 4 vaccine, because that is the group that was analyzing the pos-EUA surveillance safety
5 information and, thus, included the observed risk of myocarditis.
6 Mr. Massie. On the front page at the top of this in the email to Janet Woodcock
7 from Peter Marks, he says: I'm not fully optimistic that we will make it, particularly 8 because the supervisors seem to be treating this like a conventional review/learning
9 exercise, rather than an all hands on deck, work together to get it done.
10 When he says, "I'm not fully optimistic we will make it," what was "it"? Was that 11 a deadline that he had imposed?
12 Dr. Gruber. I do not know what he is referring to. I can just speculate.
13 Mr. Massie. Do you disagree with his assertion to the director that supervisors
14 were treating it like a conventional review/learning exercise?
15 Dr. Gruber. I resent that statement.
16 Mr. Massie. He goes -- the next sentence, he says: I am going to provide 17 context this a.m. that in the setting of this public health emergency adhering to our usual 18 standards for safety and efficacy means just that -- it does not mean that we are bound by 19 our usual process.
20 What do you think he meant by that?
21 A Again, I would need to speculate. I do not know what he meant by that 22 because the sentence, as phrased, does not make sense to me.
23 Mr. Massie. It seems to contradict itself, that -- or implies that, because there's a 24 public health emergency, you don't have to go by your usual process.
25 Dr. Gruber. I do not know what he meant by this sentence, Congressman. I do

1 not know.

2 Mr. Massie. It seems like you can -- you know, emergency use authorization has 3 one set of standards, but would you agree that just because this is an emergency 4 you -- on the final approval, not the authorization, the emergency authorization, but, on 5 the final approval, shouldn't you follow your process, your usual process that's been put 6 in place?

7 Dr. Gruber. If we had followed our usual process, we would have adhered to the 8 PDUFA prescribed timelines: Priority review approval 8 month, standard review, you
9 know, 12 months.

10 And we did not follow these timelines because of the public health emergency, 11 and we wanted to approve the product as soon as that was possible without 12 compromising our standards for safety and effectiveness.

13 Mr. Massie. You mentioned earlier in our last exchange that you have been told 14 that, because you published a paper that was recommending against indiscriminate 15 widespread boosters, that you were, therefore, biased and could not participate in the 16 booster decision.

17 Is that correct or -- I don't want to mischaracterize.

18 A I was told by my supervisor at that time that because I am a co-author, I was 19 a co-author on this Lancet paper, that my objectivity had been compromised.

1 [3:05 p.m.]

2 Mr. Massie. Who was your supervisor that told you that?

3 Dr. Gruber. Dr. Marks.

4 Mr. Massie. Was his objectivity compromised?

5 Dr. Gruber. I don't know.

6 Mr. Massie. I mean, by the standard he applied to you, he went on YouTube

7 before the vaccine was approved and recommended that everybody take it. He made

8 videos and public statements. Yet, he's part of the agency that's supposed to be the 9 unbiased -- I mean, he's directing your efforts.

10 Can somebody remain unbiased in that final approval process and be publicly

11 promoting the vaccines and saying they're safe and effective?

12 Ms. LoCicero. I'm going to raise an objection to that question. She is unable to 13 speculate about that.

14 [redacted] In the last hour, Dr. Gruber was able to answer a few speculation

15 questions, hypotheticals, made from the Democrat staff. So I just want to note that for 16 the record that she has previously answered several questions.

17 Ms. LoCicero. Okay.

18 Mr. Massie. Let me rephrase it.

19 Do you think he was unbiased?

20 Dr. Gruber. It is true that, when he made a public statement, that one would 21 have come to the conclusion that there was not perfect objectivity on his part.

22 Mr. Massie. I'll let you ask some questions now.

23 [redacted] Absolutely.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q So, Dr. Gruber, going back also to the last hour, our colleagues in the 1 minority discussed some statements made by President Trump leading up to the approval

2 of the vaccine in 2020.
3 I also wanted to discuss some additional comments that were made in approval
4 for the booster shots. I'm going to label this article from The New York Times dated 5 August 27th as Exhibit 9.
6 Oh, I'm sorry. I apologize. I take that back. It is Exhibit 8. Thank you. I
7 missed that sticker.
8 [Gruber Exhibit No. 8
9 Was marked for identification.]
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Here you go.
12 And we don't have to walk through the full article. I just wanted to direct your 13 attention primarily to -- I believe it is the fourth paragraph down. There is a comment
14 from President Biden from this meeting with the Israeli Prime Minister, Naftali Bennett,
15 from -- as I mentioned, I think it was August 27th, 2021.
16 He mentioned, "We were going to start around mid-September, but we're 17 considering the advice you've given that we should start earlier," Mr. Biden said.
18 "The question raised is, should it be shorter than 8 months? Should it be as little 19 as 5 months? That's being discussed." And this is in regards to approval of the booster
20 vaccine.
21 Now, I just wanted to know, were you aware of President Biden's statement at 22 this point in time?
23 A I may have read this article, The New York Times article, at the time, but I do
24 not recall this now.
25 Q Do you have any reaction to him saying that the booster could potentially be

1 approved in as little as 5 months versus 8 months?

2 A You know, give me a minute to read this because I don't think he is referring

3 to the approval time. Let's see.

4 From the second paragraph, where it says, "Just 9 days earlier, the President

5 announced that his administration would begin offering third shots the week of

6 September 20th to adults who had received the second dose of the Pfizer or Moderna

7 vaccines at least 8 months ago," I believe they're referring in this paragraph to the 8 booster immunization interval since primary vaccinations are not to approval times.

9 Q So is that different from the BLA? Is that a different booster? Is that what 10 you're referring to?

11 A The BLA was approved not for booster shots. The BLA was approved for 12 the primary vaccination. The primary vaccination of the mRNA vaccines was two doses.

13 It was 21 days for one and 14 days for the other. That was a primary vaccination.

14 Q So do you know what he's referring to when he says the advice that the 15 Prime Minister gave him was that there should be an approval shorter than 8 months or 16 as little as 5 months? Do you know which shot he's referring to at that point in time?

17 A He's not specific, isn't he? So, you know, I would have to speculate here.

18 Q I wasn't sure what you meant -- if you understood when he said "offering

19 third shots the week of September 20th to adults who had received their second dose."

20 What would that line up with-wise as far as the deadline goes?

21 A I don't believe I understood your question. As far as the deadline goes?

22 Q When originally you had mentioned that the BLA approval deadline before

23 you went on leave was September 15th. And then at this point in time, August 27th of 24 2021, this had been after you got back from your leave?

25 A Uh-huh.

1 Q And at that point, in the last hour, you had said that the decision was pretty
2 much made that the timeline would get moved up, but it hadn't been formalized.
3 My question is, which deadline is this referring to when they're talking about third
4 shots?
5 A I think we have to separate. This is talking about booster administration,
6 and that has nothing to do with BLA action due dates.
7 Q So were you a part of these discussions that they're referring to the booster
8 shots?
9 A No.
10 Q Okay. Even though you were still there at this point in time in August of 11 2021, you were not a part of the approval process as far as the timeline goes?
12 A Of the booster authorization, you're saying?
13 Q Yes.
14 A Well, I stated earlier I was part of the group that wrote the briefing
15 document that discussed the booster data that Pfizer had submitted on August 25th to 16 support boosting the general population because the indication for the BLA was people
17 16 years of age and older. And the supplement that is submission to a licensed 18 vaccine -- to a BLA -- now was seeking approval for a booster shot in people 16 years of 19 age and older.
20 And I, at that time, was part of the group that prepared for the advisory 21 committee to discuss these booster shots. And the people in the Office of Vaccines did 22 review the supplement to the BLA, but that came to a halt on September 13th when I was 23 told that I cannot preside over this for that happened on September 17th.
24 Q Okay. Thank you for the clarity. I was confused on the timeline.
25 Mr. Massie. Who is Maddie de Garay? Do you know in this case?

1 Dr. Gruber. I do not know.

2 Mr. Massie. Okay. I'll have to get this. But I think Doran Fink copied you on 3 an email to Pfizer inquiring about Maddie. But if you don't remember that, I'll have to 4 find it.

5 Dr. Gruber. No, I don't recall. I'm sorry.

6 Mr. Massie. Maddie was a participant in the children studies of 12- to 7 15-year-olds.

8 And when Pfizer submitted its EUA for 12- to 15-year-olds, they classified
9 Maddie's injuries as follows: The SAE of neuralgia was reported in one female
10 participant, 12 years of age, who had three emergency room visits beginning one day
11 after the second dose. She reported concurrent nonserious AEs of vulvar abscess, 12 gastritis, and contact dermatitis. She subsequently had SAEs of abdominal pain and 13 constipation. She had an extensive workup, including serial, physical, and laboratory
14 examinations and was diagnosed with functional abdominal pain. She was referred to 15 psychology and physical therapy after which symptoms were reported as gradually 16 improving.

17 During its initial review of the EUA request from Pfizer, what did the FDA do to 18 confirm this SAE was reported accurately by Pfizer?

19 Dr. Gruber. That child was how old?

20 Mr. Massie. Between 12 and 15.

21 Dr. Gruber. During the initial review, the medical officers would have requested
22 additional information. In this case, it is very likely that they would have conducted a 23 chart review.

24 Mr. Massie. I'm sorry. I don't have the documents to show you. I'll have to 25 get those. But I believe that there are some documents and some emails that were sent

1 to you and Doran with an updated narrative concerning -- Pfizer sent you and Doran an
2 updated narrative concerning Maddie on June 30th, 2021. I'll get you those documents.
3 Let me ask you a separate question since the other side went a little far field of the 4 vaccine approval process. I'll ask you some general questions.
5 On December 10th, 2020, the FDA put out a slide deck characterizing the review
6 of efficacy and safety of the Pfizer BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine Emergency Use
7 Authorization request. This is Susan Wollersheim, FDA/CBER. Do you know her?
8 Dr. Gruber. Yeah. She was a medical officer in charge of the review of 9 that -- the clinical data.
10 Mr. Massie. Did she work in your department?
11 Dr. Gruber. Yeah. She worked in the Division of Vaccines and Related Product
12 Applications, and she reported to Dr. Fink.
13 Mr. Massie. So you and I discussed earlier that the vaccine was designed -- in 14 fact, they tried to pick -- it wasn't designed to test whether it had benefit to those with 15 prior exposure to COVID, but that they did have a few people that showed up in the 16 study -- roughly 12- to 1,300 -- just over -- just about 1,100 finished the study. Of the 17 many thousands who were in the study, I'm saying 1,100 had evidence of prior exposure
18 to COVID.
19 And in this slide deck that Susan Wollersheim -- Dr. Wollersheim produced, there 20 was one case of COVID in the placebo group and one case in the vaccine group. I'll show 21 you this. This is the entire slide deck, but it's on page 25 there. Sorry.
22 [redacted] Do you have a copy for us?
23 Mr. Liu. Are we going to mark this as an exhibit, this slide deck? Can I get a 24 couple other copies?
25 [redacted] Can we go off the record for a moment?

1 [Discussion off the record.]

2 [redacted] We will go back on the record.

3 Mr. Massie. While you were at the FDA, did you -- were you asked to do any

4 approval or EUA for a more conventional kill-virus-type vaccine?

5 Dr. Gruber. No. No. It was something that was called pre-EUA requests, you

6 know, where the CDC, for instance, submitted, you know, requests for certain vaccines.

7 And I cannot even recall them now. Was it the anthrax vaccine? I don't know. I

8 cannot say for sure. But that is very different from an EUA request. So we didn't do

9 any EUAs for any other vaccines, at least not during my tenure.

10 Mr. Massie. Okay. Thank you.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q I'd like to turn back to Exhibit 4, if we could. And that is Bates stamped at 13 the bottom on the FOIA document. The last digits are 355.

14 A The timeline document?

15 Q Yes. But I'd like to first discuss the email itself.

16 A Uh-huh.

17 Q In this email, you copied Mary Malarkey, Steven Anderson, and Dr. Philip 18 Krause.

19 You had mentioned who Mary Malarkey was. Could you remind me what her

20 title was again?

21 A Yes. She was, at that time, the director of the office -- OCBQ. Okay. The 22 Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality.

23 Q And who is Steven Anderson?

24 A Steven Anderson was, at that time, the director of the Office of Biostatistics

25 and Epidemiology.

1 Q Are either of them still working at the FDA, to your knowledge?

2 A I do know that Mary Malarkey retired. And to my knowledge, Dr. Anderson

3 is still in CBER. Yes.

4 Q Why did you choose to copy them to this email?

5 A Because I had to discuss the approval timelines and the time that it would

6 need to take to bring this vaccine to approval not only with the people and supervisors in

7 the Office of Vaccines Research and Review, but also, I had to discuss it with the office

8 directors that were overseeing the Division of Epidemiology, the Division of Biostatistics,

9 because they played an integral part, you know, in the review of the data, and then, of 10 course, the Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality.

11 These are the people that look at the facility information. These are the people

12 who would do a lot of this testing of the vaccines. And these are the people -- Mary

13 Malarkey also did oversee the people looking at the labeling to see if that is -- so they

14 collaborated with other medical officers to assure that.

15 So my point is that these timelines -- they're not only driven by review activities in

16 the Office of Vaccines, but also in the Office of Biostatistics and Epidemiology and the 17 Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality. And that's why I cc'd these people on the 18 email because I also discussed these timelines with them.

19 Q And you had mentioned in the last hour, too, that, at this point in time, in

20 this mid-July timeframe, there was a concern by you that there would not be able to be a

21 complete and thorough review on the Pfizer BLA. But then you said by October 23rd, in 22 your opinion, that there had been a complete and thorough review. Is that accurate?

23 A By October 23rd?

24 Q I'm sorry. August 23rd of 2021. That there had been a complete and 25 thorough review. Is that correct?

1 A I knew there was because people really gave it their all and made sure that 2 all the data that needed to be reviewed were reviewed and assessments were made.
3 Q And that includes all of these moving parts with Dr. Malarkey's office and Dr.
4 Anderson's office?
5 A Yeah.
6 Q And I guess my question is, what do you think changed between your 7 concern in mid-July and then once you had returned from your leave? How was your 8 concern alleviated that there would be able to be a complete and thorough review?
9 A Yeah. Again, my concerns that I expressed in the July 15th memo were 10 centered around the fact that, at that time, we had outstanding information requests
11 through Pfizer. I could not be sure at the time how fast Pfizer was able to submit the 12 required data and documentation to the FDA.
13 I also did know that, at that time, we received additional safety information that 14 had to be factored into the benefit-risk assessment, and it was difficult for me to guess in 15 the middle of July when these review activities could be completed.
16 And, again, it was able -- we were able to do so because Pfizer was very 17 responsive and submitted, you know, data in a very timely manner. And, again, the 18 people -- the reviewers who did the job were extending their working hours through 19 weekends, canceled holidays, to address that request from the center director and acting 20 commissioner to speed up the approval.
21 Q And you had mentioned that you were concerned about the burnout of 22 these hardworking and dedicated individuals who were working to get this BLA approved.
23 And you had mentioned just now that they had, like, you know, worked very long hours
24 and through holidays.
25 Was that any concern of yours at the time that it was approved that there could

1 have been a misstep somewhere in the process or that data wasn't fully reviewed?
2 A No, because there was sufficient oversight at the different levels. So you
3 don't really just rely on a clinical review memo. It is being reviewed by a team leader.
4 It is being reviewed by the branch chief. It is being reviewed by the division director.
5 It is being reviewed at the office level. So there are all these different steps.
6 So as you hear, it wasn't only the reviewers. It was everybody else.
7 Q And noting back in Exhibit 4, in the email you initially sent on Friday, July
8 16th of 2021, to Dr. Marks, you had said -- and I just want to understand what these 9 acronyms mean and ask a couple questions about that.
10 You had said, "The target AAD is September 15th. Note that the DBSQC DS and 11 DP testing will not be completed at that time because of reagent shortage."
12 Now, my question to you is, what does DBSQC DS and DP stand for? That's my 13 first question.
14 A DBSQC was the acronym for a division in the Office of Compliance
15 responsible for doing -- DS and DP refers to drug substance and drug product testing. So
16 that division -- and I will tell you, I do not recall if it was the division of biologics standard
17 and quality something, but I -- you know, I need to verify this, okay?
18 But I do know that that division is part of the Office of Compliance and Biologic
19 Product Quality headed by Mary Malarkey at that time. And they usually do 20 testing -- certain tests on the drug substance and the finally formulated drug product to 21 basically verify the testing conducted by the vaccine manufacturers. But it is not the 22 entire battery of testing. That's not what is required, so...
23 Q And can you elaborate on what you were saying would not be completed at 24 that time because of reagent shortage?
25 A Because of reagent shortage?

1 Q Yeah. I didn't know what that meant.

2 A Yeah. You need, you know, to do, let's say, a potency test to verify the 3 individual strength of a vaccine. You need certain reagents. And that pertains to other
4 tests as well. There was obviously a reagent shortage, so that -- not the entire battery of 5 testing that the division usually did -- could do in a timely manner.

6 But, again, that is confirmatory testing. It's not that the vaccine didn't undergo 7 lot release testing. The manufacturer had done that and had submitted the data to the 8 agency. They have to do that.

9 We also have to review and approve a lot release protocol, and that all was done.
10 Just this confirmatory testing by that division was not done. It's entirely because of a
11 shortage of a particular reagent that was part of the assay -- the individual assay. But I
12 do not recall what test and what reagent that was at this time.

13 Q Okay. And then I'd like to just turn generally back to -- when you submitted
14 your resignation at the agency, what conversations did you have with Dr. Krause
15 regarding your resignation?

16 A I informed Dr. Krause that I would inform Dr. Marks that I would retire from 17 the FDA, and that meeting with Dr. Marks took place the end of August. I don't recall 18 the exact date. Was it August 27th? I don't know. If that was a Friday, it probably 19 was that day.

20 And because Phil was my deputy -- and usually, when an office director leaves, as 21 was the case when Dr. Baylor had left when I was the deputy director, in the interim
22 period before a new office director is selected or appointed, the deputy office director
23 takes on the position of acting office director. And so I felt that I needed to inform Phil 24 of my decision.

25 Q What was his reaction?

1 A Well, he didn't want to let me go. But he understood because we -- both of 2 us actually had discussed, you know, retirement age and eligibility for retirement. And
3 for me, that had been the prior year. So it didn't come as a big surprise to him, I would 4 think.
5 Q Do you think your decision influenced Dr. Krause's decision to also submit 6 resignation and retire?
7 A I do not know.
8 Q What response did you receive from Dr. Marks regarding your resignation?
9 A Well, I met with him. I actually did ask for a face-to-face meeting. I put 10 my mask on and waved to my dog, and I informed him of my decision to retire. He was 11 very professional, very cordial.
12 Q And do you know what Commissioner Woodcock's reaction was to your 13 resignation?
14 A I do not know.
15 Q Did anyone else on your OVRR team leave the FDA for the same reason you
16 did? Did they retire? Did they resign?
17 A There was a person leaving, but that person already had looked for other 18 opportunities in industry. That was their desire, and I think it was just coincidence.
19 Yeah.
20 Mr. Massie. Was that Dr. Krause?
21 Dr. Gruber. No. That was Dr. Roberts.
22 Mr. Massie. Did Dr. Krause also leave or announce that he was leaving soon 23 after you did?
24 Dr. Gruber. Yes, he did. It was on that following Monday.
25 Mr. Massie. Did you have discussions with him before you announced that you

1 were leaving?

2 Dr. Gruber. I had informed Dr. Krause that I would -- that I had scheduled a

3 meeting with Dr. Marks in which I was going to inform Dr. Marks that I would retire from 4 the FDA. Yeah. That discussion took place between Dr. Krause and myself.

5 Mr. Massie. Did Dr. Krause tell you that he was also leaving?

6 Dr. Gruber. No. No. That was an announcement made on that Monday, and 7 I recall he sent an email to Dr. Marks and cc'd me on it.

8 Mr. Massie. I'm waiting for my copies.

9 [redacted] All right.

10 We'll go off the record for a moment.

11 [Discussion off the record.]

12 Mr. Massie. So what we're submitting is Exhibit 9, which is an MMWR in 13 December of 2020, obviously, from CDC.

14 [Gruber Exhibit No. 9

15 Was marked for identification.]

16 Mr. Massie. And then Exhibit 10 is a correction that they issued, and the back

17 page of Exhibit 10 is an errata that goes with -- that's part of Exhibit 10.

18 [Gruber Exhibit No. 10

19 Was marked for identification.]

20 Mr. Massie. Exhibit 11 is the slide deck from Dr. Wollersheim at the FDA/CBER

21 dated December 10th, 2020.

22 [Gruber Exhibit No. 11

23 Was marked for identification.]

24 Mr. Massie. And then Exhibit 12 is a study -- this is Pfizer's funded study, and I'm 25 not sure of the date on it. I believe this is a research summary.

1 But the date on the Pfizer data, which is -- all this is is the cover page for the 2 document that's very thick. And then the page of interest, which is the reported cause
3 of death in the Pfizer trial as of July, I believe.
4 [Gruber Exhibit No. 12
5 Was marked for identification.]
6 Mr. Massie. So let me start, if that's okay. Okay. I'm going to start with 7 Exhibit 12, the one we're all holding. The second page is the page of interest.
8 This is the reported cause of death broken down by individuals in the placebo
9 group and individuals in the Pfizer vaccine group. And it shows that there were 15
10 deaths in the vaccine group and 14 in the placebo group. Are you aware of these 11 results, Dr. Gruber?
12 Dr. Gruber. Yeah. We -- as part of every BLA submission, we look at the safety 13 data. And, you know, when a study is that large -- 40-, maybe 44,000 subjects -- it is 14 expected that there will be reported cases of death. And, yes, we were aware of these 15 deaths. 15 in the vaccine group and 14 in the placebo group.
16 Mr. Massie. Is mortality something important to look at during a randomized
17 control trial of a drug or vaccine?
18 Dr. Gruber. That is part of the analysis.
19 Mr. Massie. Did you or anyone else at FDA have concerns about the fact that 20 there were slightly more deaths in the vaccine group than the placebo group?
21 Dr. Gruber. I would not interpret the data that beforehand CNP analyzed to 22 suggest that there were more deaths in the vaccine group than in the placebo group.
23 I should also say that every time that we have a reported death and the cause
24 thereof, which is listed here, the medical officers will perform an analysis to try to discern 25 if the death was caused by the vaccine or if it was caused due to other reasons, such as

1 underlying conditions.

2 And what this table does not really separate out here -- it just says safety

3 population greater or equal of 16 years old. It would have been more helpful to have a

4 stratification by age. Often what you see listed as the cause of death is events that

5 happen, you know, in the elderly with underlying medical conditions.

6 So, again, to answer your question, I am not concerned, and the data do not

7 suggest to me that there were a higher number of deaths in the vaccine group compared

8 to the placebo group.

9 Mr. Massie. But there were -- there were 15 deaths in the vaccine group and 14

10 in the placebo.

11 Dr. Gruber. Yes.

12 Mr. Massie. Wasn't one of the end points or one of the benefits of the vaccine

13 supposed to be that it would protect you from hospitalization, severe illness, and death?

14 Dr. Gruber. Due to COVID, but not due to other conditions. And this table does 15 not speak to that.

16 Mr. Massie. Wouldn't you -- I mean, if that was the end point, should -- you

17 know, I know you like to have this stratified by age, but even so, on the whole, it shows

18 that there were more deaths in the vaccine group than in the placebo group. But you

19 have methods to eliminate that concern?

20 Dr. Gruber. So the efficacy estimation is driven by the primary end point, and

21 that was prevention of symptomatic COVID disease. And when you look at the efficacy

22 data, you would have seen that there was a substantially higher number of COVID cases

23 presented -- prevented in the people who received the vaccine compared to people who 24 got the placebo.

25 There are always death in these clinical disease end point efficacy studies. And

1 this table here just calls reported causes of death. It doesn't say, you know, that all
2 these deaths are due to COVID. Look, if you look at COVID-19, even here, you have zero
3 cases in the vaccine group and two cases in the placebo group.
4 Mr. Massie. Uh-huh.
5 Dr. Gruber. But the numbers are also, you know, very, very low considering the 6 size of this trial.
7 Mr. Massie. But as far as the ages of the two groups go, didn't they assemble 8 these -- this study such that the groups would have relatively the same average age and 9 the same number of participants in the different --
10 Dr. Gruber. That is true. In this trial, the groups were fairly balanced between 11 vaccine and placebo groups with regards to demographics, age, et cetera.
12 Mr. Massie. So there are two columns, as you -- or at least -- let's see -- one
13 column here, COVID-19, where it indicates there were two deaths in the placebo group
14 and none in the vaccine group. But COVID-19 pneumonia, there was one in the vaccine
15 group and zero in the placebo group.
16 But I think the concern is not whether this demonstrates efficacy. There were 17 lots of public health officials saying, if you get this, you won't die. Was that an 18 efficacy -- was that an end point that you took into consideration when giving the 19 approval? Was efficacy of keeping you alive part of it, or was it just the symptomatic
20 COVID within a period of time?
21 Dr. Gruber. It was symptomatic COVID. And, you know, if you look at 22 COVID-19 pneumonia, there was one case in the vaccine group, and I note that this 23 vaccine was not 100 percent efficacious, right? There were some, you know, cases of 24 COVID in the vaccine group, just much, much less than in the -- much less cases of death
25 and severe disease compared to the placebo group.

1 Mr. Massie. One of the concerns that people have when they look at this chart is 2 not necessarily does it prove efficacy or not efficacy of keeping you from dying, but that 3 there may be -- if there is efficacy, they may be offsetting deaths because of adverse
4 reactions to the vaccine.
5 You would think if the vaccine is keeping people alive, there would be more
6 deaths in the placebo group, but the fact that they're equal leads one to wonder if there
7 are adverse effects that cause death that weren't captured.
8 Dr. Gruber. But these weren't causes of death from dose one to underlying. It
9 doesn't say causes of death due to COVID.
10 Mr. Massie. Uh-huh.
11 Dr. Gruber. This is just a listing of all death that occurred as part of this clinical 12 study. And these are causes that -- or the causes of these deaths had different reasons
13 than COVID. So this is not what this table shows, that the number of deaths in the 14 vaccine group was likely higher; therefore, the vaccine caused more death. That is not 15 how you interpret this data.
16 Mr. Massie. Uh-huh. Okay. Well, thank you.
17 My next questions involve Exhibits 9, 10, and 11.
18 [redacted] Yes.
19 Mr. Massie. And I note you were over at Vaccines at FDA and not at the CDC, but 20 I would like your scientific opinion because the CDC was basing their report on data
21 that -- or characterization, I should say, of the Pfizer trial that was prepared by the FDA.
22 That would be the document that we're -- what number is that?
23 [redacted] Eleven.
24 Mr. Massie. Yeah. 11. The slide deck. With Dr. -- who is the doctor on that 25 one?

1 Dr. Gruber. Dr. Wollersheim, right? She was the medical officer that
2 performed the review of the efficacy data for this vaccine.
3 Mr. Massie. So on page 25 of that document --
4 Dr. Gruber. Yeah.
5 Mr. Massie. It shows that in the two groups, the placebo group and the vaccine
6 group, they found a bit over 500 people in each of those groups who had evidence of 7 prior COVID exposure. And what they discovered in this very short trial with limited
8 data was that there was one case of symptomatic COVID in each of those groups of 500.
9 The CDC published in December of 2020 -- just a few days after that, they
10 published an MMWR and characterized that -- and that would be Exhibit 9. If you could 11 look at Exhibit 9, the highlighted area, and I'll read that part.
12 "Consistent high efficacy greater than or equal to 92 percent was observed across 13 age, sex, race, and ethnicity categories and among persons with underlying medical 14 conditions as well as among participants with evidence of previous SARS-CoV-2 infection."
15 Now, when I read this in December, the day it came out or the day afterwards, I
16 was interested myself in whether I should take the vaccine because I had already had 17 COVID and -- proved through an antibody test, which is fairly reliable.
18 So I read this MMWR, and what -- I found it somewhat incredible that they could 19 make a claim of 92 percent efficacy among those who had already had COVID because, as 20 you said earlier, the study itself wasn't designed to prove that. In fact, the study was 21 trying to involve only participants who had not had COVID before. But they were basing 22 this statement on the slide deck and the FDA characterization of the Pfizer data.
23 And so what it is -- I called them. I called up the CDC, and I told them that I think 24 they have a typo in their MMWR. And they agreed to change it.
25 And my concern at the time was that, if you promoted 92 percent efficacy for

1 those who had already had COVID -- there was a limited number of vaccines, if you
2 remember -- a very limited number in December or January. December of 2020 and
3 January of 2021, February of 2021.
4 And my concern was that there would be more people -- based on the CDC
5 guidance, there would be people who -- honestly, it wasn't proven that they could benefit
6 from this vaccine -- who would go get the vaccine in place of people who would benefit
7 from it according to the data.
8 So what the CDC did is -- and I will refer you to Exhibit 10, which is the one with 9 this mark on the front.
10 Dr. Gruber. Uh-huh.
11 Mr. Massie. The very last page of that is -- that Exhibit 10 is a modified version
12 of their document. They changed it, but they didn't really change it. If you look at the 13 highlighted part -- I'm sorry -- on page 2 of that. There you go.
14 Here, they limit their claim of 92 percent efficacy to being observed across age, 15 sex, race, and ethnicity categories and among persons with underlying medical 16 conditions.
17 Now, they -- but their correction was to change and say efficacy was similarly high 18 in a secondary analysis, including participants both with or without evidence of previous 19 SARS-CoV-2 infection. So you see they didn't really change it.
20 And if you go to the last page of that document that's in front of you, the very last 21 page --
22 Dr. Gruber. Forty-four 23 Mr. Massie. Keep going. There it is.
24 Dr. Gruber. Right here.
25 Mr. Massie. They published this errata, and they said -- they said what it should

1 have read. And then here's the sentence.

2 "Although numbers have observed hospitalizations and deaths were low, the

3 available data were consistent with reduced risk for those severe outcomes among

4 vaccinated persons compared with that among placebo recipients."

5 They basically -- in both their original MMWR and their correction to it, they

6 claimed that the Pfizer data, which your group had already evaluated and found that

7 there was no efficacy that could be proven with the Pfizer data -- they claimed -- the CDC

8 claimed it was 92 percent efficacious or highly efficacious.

9 Do you find any support for that claim at that time, which would have been

10 December of 2020? December 18th of 2020 is when they made the claim. And the 11 only available data they had to make that claim on was your characterization of the Pfizer

12 trial.

13 Do you think the Pfizer trial supports that claim?

14 Dr. Gruber. So I was reading this article as you were talking, and yes, it does say

15 that the body of evidence for this vaccine was primarily informed by one large

16 randomized placebo-controlled study and 43,000 participants. In the preceding

17 paragraph, they're talking about systematic review of literature.

18 However, the FDA did not come to the conclusion that similar high efficacy, you

19 know, could have been derived from the data that came out of this efficacy study. And 20 the study was powered for the overall population. There was some analysis done in the 21 very elderly and people with comorbidities. Here, baseline SARS-CoV-2 race. But the 22 number of people were just not large enough to really make an efficacy estimate.

23 Now, what's stated here does not mean that the vaccine is not efficacious in

24 people with positive SARS-CoV-2 status. But we also cannot deduce from this data

25 efficacy in the subpopulation because these are subgroup analyses, and the number of

1 subgroups -- the sample size is just not high enough. So I cannot tell you why this
2 wording was chosen in the MMWR report.
3 Mr. Massie. I'm not asking you to speculate, but I'm going to.
4 I think there was -- there was a concerted effort to get everybody vaccinated,
5 whether they had immunity from prior exposure to COVID or not. And I think from the 6 very beginning, that was an effort at the CDC to do that. And I think they were wrong to 7 mischaracterize the data that I believe you all correctly characterized in just the basic 8 presentation of the numbers.
9 I have one last question, and feel free to answer it or not. Did you take the 10 booster?
11 Dr. Gruber. I took the booster, yes. And that was in May of 2022. I had 12 already left the agency. My primary vaccination was 1 and a half years before, and I
13 took the booster.
14 Mr. Massie. I have no other questions.
15 [redacted] Neither do I. We can go off the record.

1 [4:16 p.m.]

2 [redacted] It is 4:16. We can go back on the record.

3 At the outset, I just want to note there was a comment made in the prior hour

4 about the minority staff asking speculative questions.

5 We dispute that characterization of any of our questions or any of our lines of 6 questioning as asking for speculation or being speculative in nature.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Dr. Gruber, I want to -- it feels like I think it was an hour ago at this point.

9 At the very early part of the last hour of questioning, there was a discussion about the 10 VRBPAC, the booster-related VRBPAC.

11 A Yeah.

12 Q And there was a discussion about somebody commenting on your

13 objectivity. Do you recall that discussion?

14 A Today?

15 Q Just today.

16 A Yes.

17 Q And I'm sorry, I can't remember right now. Who -- was it Dr. Marks who 18 said that he wasn't sure of your objectivity?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Did he say what he meant by "objectivity"?

21 A Yes. That was on the very same day that the WHO publication in the

22 Lancet in which we asserted that, at that time, booster immunizations were not necessary

23 for the general population.

24 At that time, he called me, and he was very upset that I had signed on as a

25 co-author of that publication. And he said that concerns were expressed that my

1 objectivity has been compromised and that I there -- regarding necessity of booster shots,
2 and that, because of that, I could no longer take an active role in the September 17th
3 VRBPAC that discussed the Pfizer supplement and the request by Pfizer to get a booster
4 approval in people 16 years of age and older.
5 Q Understood. But he didn't actually explain "objectivity." He didn't define 6 that term for you, did he?
7 A He did.
8 Q So did he say, for example, if by "objectivity," for example, if he meant that if 9 the VRBPAC voted to decline a broad authorization and you were on that panel, that 10 might, you know, call into question that outcome? Because that is actually what 11 happened, right, it ultimately declined to recommend a broad recommendation?
12 A Yes. He said my objectivity was compromised because I had already taken 13 a stance regarding booster immunizations.
14 Q And the purpose --
15 A By way of the publication.
16 Q And the purpose of the meeting is to have the information presented to you
17 at that meeting, right?
18 A Yes. Although the purpose of the -- I mean, we knew the data because we 19 do the review of the data then, right? And then the VRBPAC serves the purpose to have 20 a public discussion of the data and for the VRBPAC to weigh in on the question. You
21 know, at that time, it was, should boosters be administered to the general population?
22 Q There were questions raised in the earlier hour about whether Dr. Marks
23 was objective. Was he on -- was he a voting member of that panel?
24 A No, no, no. FDA officials are not voting members, no.
25 Q So he may have participated, but he was not -- he didn't have a role in

1 making the final decision?

2 A No. He was called upon to make -- to answer questions, you know, by the

3 committee.

4 Q Okay. I want to turn back to what's been marked as exhibit No. 7. This is

5 the email from Peter Marks to Janet Woodcock, 8/18/21, 6:54:21 a.m.

6 [redacted] The one with highlights.

7 Dr. Gruber. Oh, this one. 6:54 a.m., right?

8 [redacted] Yes.

9 Dr. Gruber. On August 18?

10 [redacted] Yeah.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q So you were asked a number of questions about the very first email in that

13 chain. You weren't on -- you weren't an original recipient of that email, right?

14 A That is correct. I was not an official recipient of that email. I was made

15 aware of this email by Dr. Fink. And, at that point, you know, I felt that I had to support

16 him --

17 Q Oh, understood.

18 A -- and supervise him.

19 Q I'm sorry. I should be clear. I'm looking at the very, very first email in that 20 chain. I realize that you were included later in the chain.

21 [redacted] You mean the last, chronologically.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Sorry, chronologically. The one at the very top. Sorry. The last in time, 24 the one that's dated 6:54.

25 A Yes. I'm sorry. Yes.

1 Q The first one on the page, the last in time.

2 That email, you weren't on that email, correct?

3 A No.

4 Q Okay. So you were asked a number of questions about what was meant in

5 this email, but you weren't one of the original recipients, and you weren't the sender,

6 correct?

7 A That is correct.

8 Q So the questions about -- so, for example, there was a question made earlier

9 about "it does not mean that we are bound by our usual process." Here, the term

10 "process" you don't know what the term "process" means in this context, right?

11 A As I stated earlier, I wasn't clear what the whole sentence meant.

12 Q And so I think there was -- after you said that, there was a suggestion made

13 by one of the questioners that this referred to the approval process. We just don't

14 know that. You weren't on this email, and you don't -- any comment on that would be 15 speculation, right?

16 A Any comment on that would be speculation because it is not clearly spelled

17 out in this email what is meant here.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q I want to turn to the CDC MMWRs that were introduced. Based on your

20 reading of that MMWR, is it exclusively based on the data that is presented in the 21 December 10th slideshow that was introduced?

22 A Well, it says the body of evidence for the Pfizer vaccine was primarily

23 informed by this one large double-blind placebo-controlled study. And that is the 24 subject of that PowerPoint presentation here. This -- this is -- this is all the data from 25 that study.

1 Q Looking at slide 25 of the PowerPoint, the overall efficacy concluded on that
2 PowerPoint is 94.6, with a confidence interval of 89.6 to 97.6, right?
3 A Yeah.
4 Q And, in the CDC publication, it says that the efficacy was 95.0 with a
5 confidence interval of 90.3 to 97.6. Do you see that? It's above the highlighted
6 sentence "the CDC has efficacy data."
7 [redacted] It's on page 2.
8 [redacted] You're looking at the other version.
9 A No, I see it.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q So do you see that clearly CDC was using different numbers, if not -- it might 12 not be exactly clear why they're different, but clearly these numbers are not the same as 13 the ones in the PowerPoint?
14 A Well, because it says it was primarily informed, but further up here they're 15 talking about surveillance data and, you know, I don't know what other information they 16 put in there.
17 Q In fact, it says that the COVID-19 vaccine's work group, which comprised of 18 experts, held 27 meetings to review surveillance data, evidence for vaccine efficacy and 19 safety and implementation, including the Pfizer vaccine. So it's possible that this CDC
20 data, though primarily based on the Pfizer trial, includes information from other sources?
21 A That is possible, yes.
22 Q Finally, I want to turn to the conversation that we had again at the beginning
23 of the last hour about the BLAs versus the booster.
24 So the Comirnaty BLA approval process was unrelated to the booster vaccines,
25 correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And the BLA approval was not undertaken as a prerequisite to

3 recommending vaccines -- or booster shots? I can clarify.

4 A Yes, can you please clarify.

5 Q So the BLA wasn't a necessary prerequisite for booster shots? Pfizer didn't

6 need to get their BLA approved to then be able to recommend booster shots?

7 A Potentially, there could have been an emergency-use authorization of 8 booster shots.

9 Q And there was an emergency --

10 A And that was eventually done, yeah.

11 Q And the majority referred to a part of this New York Times article that said

12 that the President announced his administration would be offering third shots the week

13 of September 20th to adults.

14 Do you remember that?

15 A Uh-huh.

16 Q That didn't happen, correct?

17 A Well, we went to the VRBPAC on September 17, right? And they

18 recommended not boosting the general population, but restricting the boosters to 19 people -- to the elderly and people with underlying conditions. So yeah. Let's see.

20 What did it say here? When you said that didn't happen, what are you referring to?

21 Q Third shots were not offered to adults, all adults during the week of 22 September 20th.

23 A That is correct, they were not offered.

24 Q The FDA followed the VRBPAC's recommendation?

25 A Yeah.

1 [redacted] We can go off the record. Thank you.

2 [redacted] We have no further questions.

3 [Whereupon, at 4:27 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

4

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: NIKKI FLORIS

Wednesday, July 19, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 2237, Rayburn House Office Building, commencing at 10:00 a.m.

Present: Representatives Gaetz, Biggs, and Sparks.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

5

6 [redacted] GENERAL COUNSEL

7 [redacted] SENIOR ADVISOR

8 [redacted] CHIEF COUNSEL FOR OVERSIGHT

9 [redacted] SENIOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

10 [redacted] SPECIAL COUNSEL

11 [redacted] PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

12 [redacted] MINORITY INTERN

13 [redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

14 [redacted] MINORITY PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

15

16

17 For the U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE:

18

19 [redacted] SPECIAL COUNSEL, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

20

21

22 For the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION:

23

24 [redacted] [redacted] ASSISTANT GENERAL COUNSEL,

25 OFFICE OF GENERAL COUNSEL

1 [redacted] We'll go on the record.

2 Good morning. This is a transcribed interview of Ms. Nikki Flores. Chairman

3 Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's oversight of the Federal

4 Bureau of Investigation.

5 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

6 Ms. Floris. Nikki Floris.

7 [redacted] Could agency counsel please state your name for the record?

8 [redacted] from the FBI's Office of General Counsel.

9 [redacted] from DOJ, Office of Legislative Affairs.

10 [redacted] And, Ms. Floris, you understand that the agency counsel has a

11 primary fiduciary duty to the Bureau and not to you individually?

12 Ms. Floris. Yes.

13 [redacted] And so you'd like to continue with agency counsel today?

14 Ms. Floris. Yes.

15 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here

16 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

17 appear voluntarily.

18 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff.

19 I'll now have everyone else from the committee who is here in the room introduce

20 themselves as well.

21 [redacted] with Mr. Jordan's staff. Good morning.

22 [redacted] with Chairman Jordan's staff.

23 [redacted] with the House Judiciary Democrats.

24 [redacted] House Judiciary Democrats.

25 [redacted] with Mr. Jordan.

1 [redacted] [redacted] with Chairman Jordan's staff.

2 [redacted] Thank you.

3 I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we'll follow during

4 today's interview.

5 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for

6 1 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal

7 period of time if they so choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no

8 more questions and the interview is over.

9 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to

10 take a break apart from that, please just let us know. We're happy to accommodate

11 that.

12 As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down everything we say to

13 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do you

14 understand that?

15 Ms. Floris. Yes.

16 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we'll do our best

17 to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just the

18 people on the staff whose turn it is. Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter

19 can understand and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you.

20 It's important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we

21 can help it, and that goes for everybody present at today's interview.

22 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner

23 as possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you do not

24 understand one of our questions, please just let us know. Our questions will cover a 25 wide range of topics, so if you need clarification at any point, just say so.

1 If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best
2 not to guess. Please give us your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned
3 information from someone else; just indicate how you came to know the information. If 4 there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please inform us
5 who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete answer to 6 the question.
7 You should also understand that by law you are required to answer questions
8 from Congress truthfully. Do you understand this?
9 Ms. Floris. Yes.
10 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an 11 interview. Do you understand this?
12 Ms. Floris. Yes.
13 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject
14 to criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. Section 1001. Do
15 you understand this?
16 Ms. Floris. Yes.
17 [redacted] Is there any reason you're unable to provide truthful answers to 18 today's questions?
19 Ms. Floris. No.
20 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss
21 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this
22 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation. For 23 the same reason, the marked exhibits will stay with the court reporter to go in the official
24 transcript, and any copies of the exhibits we use today will be collected when we wrap 25 up.

1 All right. That's the end of my opening remarks.

2 Is there anything my colleagues from minority would like to add?

3 [redacted] Just thank you for appearing here today voluntarily.

4 Ms. Floris. Sure.

5 [redacted] Okay. The clock now reads 10:04.

6 [redacted] [redacted] before we start the questioning, I would just like to point

7 out our understanding for the record. We understand that the committee has questions

8 about the defensive briefing that was provided to Senator Grassley and one that was

9 provided to Senator Johnson. The FBI does typically not discuss defensive briefings

10 provided to individual members, but recognizing the committee's interest and Senator

11 Grassley and Senator Johnson's testimony about this topic to the committee, we are 12 understanding that we are operating with their consent to provide information to the 13 committee.

14 [redacted] Okay. Thank you for that.

15 The clock now reads 10:05. I'll turn it over to my colleague, [redacted] for the 16 first hour of questioning.

17 EXAMINATION

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Good morning, Ms. Floris.

20 A Good morning.

21 Q When did you join the FBI?

22 A In 2005.

23 Q What positions have you held in the FBI?

24 A I was an intelligence analyst when I first joined the FBI. From there, I was a

25 supervisory intelligence analyst, which is a GS-14; a unit chief, which is a GS-15; an

1 assistant section chief, which is a GS-15; a section chief, which is in the SCS service; a
2 deputy assistant director; and now I am the intelligence analyst in charge at the 3 Washington Field Office.
4 Q Okay. So in 2018, you became the deputy assistant director of the 5 Intelligence Branch for the Counterintelligence Division, correct?
6 A Correct.
7 Q Okay. What were your roles and responsibilities in that position?
8 A So in that position I had oversight over the intelligence functions of the 9 Counterintelligence Division. Essentially what that means is my team was responsible 10 for assessing intelligence related to counterintelligence matters, disseminating products, 11 briefing key partners, providing strategic awareness within and outside the FBI as far as 12 how nation-state actors operate in the counterintelligence space.
13 Q Briefing key partners, who might some of those key partners be?
14 A Partners within the intelligence community, State and local partners, foreign 15 partners, private sector partners.
16 Q Did you work out of FBI headquarters?
17 A I did.
18 Q Okay. If you could be a little more specific on the subject area matters that 19 you worked on in that responsibility.
20 A Sure. So it was nation-state actor threats to the United States, so think 21 China, Russia, Iran, Cuba, and the like, anything of a counterintelligence concern. So
22 individuals who were attempting to acquire sensitive U.S. Government information,
23 influence U.S. policy, attempt to acquire proprietary information, military technology, 24 old-school spies. You know, that's usually the easiest way to describe the 25 counterintelligence mission, but it's far more than just spies as well.

1 Q Okay. Who was your direct supervisor at the time?

2 A I had a couple, in traditional FBI format. So when I first arrived, the

3 assistant director was Bill Priestap. He was there for a few months. Once he left, my

4 assistant director was then John Brown. Once he left, it was then Alan Kohler.

5 Q I saw from your bio that you had some responsibilities as the FBI's election

6 security lead for the 2020 Presidential election. Is that correct?

7 A That's correct. So in my role as the deputy assistant director, we

8 established the Foreign Influence Task Force, which we call the FITF. It became a

9 section, so an actual formalized section, in around the spring or summer of 2019, and the

10 decision was made to put that in the Intelligence Branch within the Counterintelligence

11 Division. So I did oversee the FITF. Because of that, I was, you know, hatted with being 12 the FBI's election security lead for the Presidential elections.

13 Q Okay. I think we'll come back to that in a moment.

14 A Sure.

15 Q In 2022, you were promoted to intelligence analyst in charge of the 16 Washington Field Office's Intelligence Division, correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Okay. And similarly, what were your responsibilities or are your

19 responsibilities?

20 A Yeah, correct, I'm still in that role. So very similar to my jobs as the DAD

21 over the intelligence branches in both counterterrorism and counterintelligence is

22 overseeing the intelligence functions of the Washington Field Office; again, assessment,

23 production, dissemination of intelligence and information, working with partners,

24 supporting operational colleagues, so the special agents, supporting them in their

25 casework.

1 Q This may sound naive, why do all these things in the Washington Field Office
2 when you have an FBI headquarters?
3 A We focus on the cases specific to the Washington Field Office area of 4 responsibility. So headquarters is much more strategic. So an analyst, for example, at 5 headquarters would assess the China threat writ large to the United States. An analyst
6 in the Washington Field Office would support WFO cases on Chinese actors doing
7 nefarious activity within the Washington area of responsibility.
8 Q And that would include actions, say, against Congress or something like that?
9 A Exactly.
10 Q Okay. Do these responsibilities differ from when you were deputy assistant 11 director in counterintelligence?
12 A Differ in that the scope of it. My focus right now is on what happens in 13 WFO's AOR, which includes the district in northern Virginia.
14 Q I see.
15 A My focus at headquarters was what was impacting nationally the American
16 people and U.S. interests overseas as well.
17 Q And the subject matters are virtually identical, nation-state operations?
18 A So the difference -- and that's a good question. I should have clarified. So
19 in my role WFO, I have analysts supporting all program areas, so criminal,
20 counterintelligence, counterterrorism, white collar crime, cyber. So I oversee all intel
21 personnel at WFO across all operational program areas; whereas, in counterintelligence, I 22 was focused solely on the counterintelligence threat.
23 Q I see. Do you have a direct supervisor now?
24 A I do. Assistant Director in Charge Sundberg, David Sundberg.
25 Q And you are currently in that role?

1 A I am.

2 Q I think I will turn this over to my colleague for a few questions.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q So I want to talk about the Foreign Influence Task Force --

5 A Sure.

6 Q -- a little bit. You said you were there when it was created. Is that

7 correct?

8 A Yes and no. So initially, the FITF was created, I believe, in the 2017

9 timeframe, and it was a smaller task force. It was not an actual formalized section, and 10 it was focused just on Russia.

11 Q Okay.

12 A So when I got there in 2018, in my first couple months there in the division

13 and in talking with some of my operational counterparts, realized that all nation-state

14 actors essentially do some type of foreign influence operations against the United States,

15 and we needed to widen the aperture, why just have a FITF looking just at Russia. So if

16 we were going to widen the aperture, we would obviously bring in more individuals into

17 the team and eventually get to the size where it really needed to be a standalone section

18 with a section chief over it, so an executive over the FITF.

19 So that happened, like I said, I want to say, spring or summer of 2019. So when I

20 was there, there was this thing called the FITF, but in a very different shape and manner

21 than it turned out to be once I assumed the position.

22 Q Okay. And so once you assumed the position, did you have oversight over

23 the FITF?

24 A I did, yes.

25 Q And what years did you have oversight over the FITF?

1 A From, like I said, spring, summer 2019 -- I can't remember the exact date it
2 became a section -- until I departed in May, June of 2022.
3 Q And who was the section chief over the FITF when you were there?
4 A When I was there, it was Bradley Benavides and then Laura Dehmlow after
5 that.
6 Q And were there unit chiefs underneath of Benavides and Dehmlow?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And how many unit chiefs were there?
9 A Three.
10 Q And what were the topic areas for those unit chiefs?
11 A So the way their units were broken down, you had one focus on Russia, one 12 focus on China -- at least when I was there. I don't know what it looks like today -- and 13 then one focus on global threats with primarily a focus on Iran.
14 Q And when you had oversight of the FITF, did you have an understanding of 15 what the FITF was working on at any given time?
16 A Yeah, for the most part, yeah.
17 Q And how often would you interact with Mr. Benavides or Ms. Dehmlow?
18 A Pretty much daily.
19 Q Daily. Okay. Were you aware of ongoing meetings with tech companies
20 at the time?
21 A Aware sometimes that they were occurring, but not anything more specific 22 than that.
23 Q Did you have any sort of awareness of the frequency of the meetings that 24 were occurring between the FITF and social media companies?
25 A If it was -- if Brad or Laura were attending those meetings, but my

1 understanding is folks below them would also have contact with folks. I don't know the 2 frequency of that. I would know if one of my section chiefs was going to engage with
3 them.
4 Q And were you aware that the FITF would create these account lists, send 5 them to field offices, and then the field offices would send them to tech companies?
6 Were you aware of that?
7 A My understanding of how it worked is -- and when you say account list, I'll 8 walk through my understanding of how we shared information --
9 Q Okay.
10 A -- with tech companies. So -- and this is all hypothetical, given classification
11 concerns.
12 So a CIA report comes out, for example, that says Russian foreign influence actor
13 Vladimir who has ties to the Russian intel services is going to use the handle
14 @ILoveRussia to push out disinformation. CIA would then have to approve us to 15 downgrade that information in an unclassified format, that handle @ILoveRussia, and 16 then give us the approval to then pass it to a tech company. We would pass
17 that -- when I say we, the FBI would then pass that information to the tech company.
18 I think -- and, again, I wasn't involved in kind of the minutia of how this 19 worked -- that passage ultimately went through San Francisco because they had the 20 primary relationship with those tech companies. We would provide that information
21 saying we have intelligence indicating this handle is potentially going to push out
22 disinformation, and that was the end of the conversation, as far as I understood it.
23 Q And would Ms. Dehmlow or Mr. Benavides provide any briefing to you 24 regarding these meetings that occurred?
25 A Seldom.

1 Q Do you know if there were any conversations between the FITF and the
2 social media companies regarding potential hack-and-leak operations?
3 A That, I don't know.
4 Q Do you know if there were any conversations between the FITF and social
5 media companies regarding the social media companies' policies regarding hack-and-leak
6 operations?
7 A I don't know.
8 Q Were you aware that -- so on October 14th, 2020, the New York Post
9 published a story regarding the Hunter Biden laptop. On October 14th, and one of the 10 meetings may have occurred a day or two after October 14th, the FITF met with both 11 Facebook and Twitter. Are you aware of those meetings?
12 A Not that I recall.
13 Q Are you aware that on the call with Twitter, one of the FBI officials on the call 14 said that the -- there was a question posed by a Twitter official of whether the laptop was 15 real or not, and an FBI official said that the laptop was real, and then was quickly
16 corrected by another FBI official on the phone that they had no comment. Are you 17 aware of that?
18 A I am not.
19 Q Are you aware that later on, Ms. Dehmlow was told to make no comments
20 about the Hunter Biden laptop?
21 A I am not aware.
22 Q Did you have any involvement in the Hunter Biden investigation?
23 A I did not.
24 Q Did you have any conversations with U.S. Attorney David Weiss about 25 Hunter Biden investigation?

1 A No.

2 Q Any conversations with U.S. Attorney Martin Estrada?

3 A No.

4 Q Any conversations with U.S. Attorney for the District of Columbia Matthew

5 Graves?

6 A No.

7 Q Are you familiar with a supervisory intelligence analyst [redacted]

8 A I am.

9 Q And how often do you interact with [redacted]

10 A Now, I haven't seen him since I left the position in counterintelligence.

11 Q Okay. So how often did you interact with him when he was in

12 counterintelligence --

13 A Almost --

14 Q -- when you were in counterintelligence?

15 A Sure. Almost daily.

16 Q Almost daily. And were you his supervisor?

17 A I was. He was in the front office of the Intelligence Branch, so worked from 18 my front office staff.

19 Q Okay. And what can you tell us were -- about his roles and responsibilities?

20 A Sure. So I had a staff of roughly four or five individuals who were in my

21 front office who were responsible for what I would call not the administrative side of the

22 business process but ensuring the production calendar was up to date, talking points

23 were pushed up the chain in a timely manner, taskings were followed through. So, you

24 know, almost de facto chief of staff, special assistant, I mean, whatever term you want to 25 use, but really that administrative side to just ensure things were getting done.

1 Q Okay. And are you familiar with an assessment that [redacted] created
2 regarding Hunter Biden?
3 A I am not.
4 Q Okay. I'll enter as exhibit No. 1 a July 25th, 2022, letter from Senator
5 Grassley to Attorney General Garland and Director Wray.
6 [Floris Exhibit No. 1
7 Was marked for identification.]
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q Please take a moment to review.
10 A Is there a specific area you want me to review in this?
11 Q If you want take a look at the whole thing, I'll point to specific sections --
12 A Okay.
13 Q -- as I read them for you.
14 Okay. So on the first page, that bottom paragraph, second sentence states: It
15 is further alleged that in August 2020, FBI Supervisory Intelligence Analyst [redacted]
16 opened an assessment that was used by a FBI headquarters team to improperly discredit
17 negative Hunter Biden information as disinformation and caused investigative activity to 18 cease. Based on allegations, verified and verifiable derogatory information on Hunter
19 Biden was falsely labeled as disinformation.
20 Ms. Floris, were you [redacted] supervisor in August of 2020?
21 A I was.
22 Q Did you have any awareness that he was doing this assessment?
23 A It's hard for me to know what the assessment is without seeing it, and 24 understanding we're in an unclassified setting. At that time -- and it wasn't [redacted].
25 But at that time, several individuals within the Russian mission center were attempting to

1 take a hard look at our source base, just were they accurate, did they have access to the 2 information. This is something we routinely do is take a step back and take a look at the 3 source base we have.
4 I don't recall anything specific to Hunter Biden or [redacted] involvement in
5 writing an assessment, so I don't know if that term is an assessment as in like a finished
6 intelligence product, which is sometimes referred to as an assessment, or what we could 7 call a Type 3 assessment, which is simply opening an investigative file so that we can look
8 further into something.
9 So we would open up a Type 3 assessment to look at threats to inauguration or 10 something along those lines. I just -- the term "assessment," without seeing the 11 document, I don't know if it's an intelligence product or more of an investigative file just 12 saying we are going to look further into something.
13 Q If [redacted] produced a finished intelligence product, what would the 14 approval process for that look like?
15 A Well, he wasn't writing finished intelligence products in his role.
16 Q Okay.
17 A But if he was a line-level analyst, it would go through, depending on what 18 the product was, SA, unit chief, section chief.
19 Q Okay. And if it was -- if he was opening an investigative file, would there be 20 any sort of approval process there?
21 A It would likely go through both the operational and intel sections, so, you
22 know, without lining up with the ridiculous org chart that we had. So within the 23 Counterintelligence Division, you had me over the Intelligence Branch, and then I had two 24 partner DADs over our operations.
25 Anytime an analyst was to write something, they would get approval from both

1 sides of the house, that that's just the way we would work if there was an investigative
2 angle to it.
3 So that assessment, again, not knowing what it is, the approval chain probably got 4 approval from someone in an operational section, someone in an intelligence section.
5 But it never came up to me, so -- nor would it. As the DAD, seldom did anything come
6 up to my level for approval.
7 Q And on the second page of the letter, the bottom paragraph -- I'll give you a
8 chance to turn to it.
9 A Sure.
10 Q Says: Second, it has been alleged that in September 2020, investigators
11 from the same FBI headquarters team were in communication with FBI agents
12 responsible for the Hunter Biden information targeted by [redacted] assessment. The FBI
13 HQ team's investigators placed their findings with respect to whether reporting was 14 disinformation in a restricted access subfile reviewable only by the particular agents
15 responsible for uncovering the specific information.
16 Do you have any awareness of this episode?
17 A Again, the closest thing I can think of is that, you know, strategic look at our 18 Russia source base. And I would imagine the findings of that would be in somewhat of a
19 controlled file just given any sensitivity with source -- sources, but I don't know this 20 specific activity. Again, I just don't know if it's related to what I was tracking.
21 Q And do you have any specific information regarding investigators placing 22 their findings regarding disinformation on Hunter Biden in a restricted file?
23 A I don't.
24 Q On the third page of the letter, that first paragraph, says: Third, in 25 October 2020, an avenue of additional derogatory Hunter Biden reporting was ordered

1 closed at the direction of ASAC Thibault. My office has been made aware that FBI
2 agents responsible for this information were interviewed by the FBI HQ team in 3 furtherance of [redacted] assessment. It has been alleged that the FBI HQ team suggested
4 to the FBI agents that the information was at risk of disinformation; however, according
5 to allegations, all of the reporting was either verified or verifiable via criminal search
6 warrants. In addition, ASAC Thibault allegedly ordered the matter closed without 7 providing a valid reason as required by FBI guidelines. Despite the matter being closed
8 in such a way that the investigative avenue might be opened later, it's alleged that the FBI
9 officials, including ASAC Thibault, subsequently attempted to improperly mark the matter
10 in FBI systems so that it could not be opened in the future.
11 Have you ever interacted with ASAC Timothy Thibault?
12 A I have not.
13 Q What would his -- would he have been in the chain of command for
14 [redacted]
15 A No. I believe he was at WFO at that time, and Brian was at headquarters.
16 Q Did you have any sort of understanding of what Mr. Thibault's role was?
17 A No.
18 Q Are you familiar with this episode of ASAC Thibault ordering an avenue of 19 derogatory reporting on Hunter Biden closed?
20 A I'm not.
21 Q Have you ever been involved with any of the special counsel investigations,
22 Special Counsel Mueller?
23 A I was not involved in Special Counsel Mueller's investigation.
24 Q Were you involved in Special Counsel Durham's investigation?
25 A I was not.

1 Q Special Counsel Jack Smith?

2 A I'm not going to comment on the current special counsel investigations that

3 are still ongoing.

4 Q Are you detailed to that investigation?

5 A I am not detailed to it, but I'm not going to comment.

6 Q Are you detailed to Special Counsel Hur's investigation?

7 A I am not.

8 Q Okay.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q I'm going to turn your attention to the actual briefing that you and

11 Mr. Benavides gave to the -- Senator Grassley --

12 A Sure.

13 Q -- and Senator Johnson. Are you familiar with a letter sent to the FBI on

14 July 13, 2020, from Senator Chuck Schumer, Senator Mark Warner, then-Speaker Nancy

15 Pelosi, and then-Chairman of the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence

16 Adam Schiff, to Director Wray expressing a belief that Congress was the subject of a 17 foreign disinformation campaign?

18 A Not that I recall.

19 [Floris Exhibit No. 2

20 Was marked for identification.]

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q So I'm entering into the record as exhibit 2 the aforementioned letter.

23 Have you had a chance to review it?

24 A I did, yeah.

25 [redacted] Do you have a copy over the letter? Thanks.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Have you seen this letter before?

3 A Not that I recall, but there was a lot going on in the summer of 2020.

4 Q Okay. Have you ever reviewed letters like this in your capacity with the FBI

5 providing briefings to Members of Congress, et cetera?

6 A I can remember occasionally receiving it through our Office of Congressional

7 Affairs, but the letters don't come directly to me. Usually they're routed through the

8 Office of Congressional Affairs, and occasionally when they have my name in them, for

9 example, I'll receive them.

10 Q Is that -- is there any other benchmark when you might receive these letters

11 if they don't have your name in them?

12 A If it was something germane to my role, perhaps.

13 Q Okay. You've read the content of this letter?

14 A I have.

15 Q Is this germane to your role? Was it germane to your role?

16 A It was germane to my role, but, again, I just don't recall if this was -- if this

17 was sent my way.

18 Q Okay. Was it your understanding that Congress may have, in fact, been 19 subjected to a concerted foreign interference campaign?

20 A It was.

21 Q Okay. Where did this concern originate from?

22 A So, again, keeping classification concerns at mind here, so in really the start

23 of 2020 and leading into the summer of 2020, a body of reporting indicating Russia's

24 intentions, ambitions to potentially push disinformation to ultimately impact the 25 Presidential election.

1 Q Now, when you say body of reporting, what are you referring to?

2 A Again, I can't go into the specifics of the reporting, but a body of reporting

3 indicates more than just one report and more than just two reports.

4 Q I guess what I'm asking is, is this from an intelligence agency? Is this from

5 the FBI?

6 A Intelligence agency.

7 Q Okay. And would this be --

8 A And we are an intelligence agency --

9 Q Yes.

10 A -- just for the record. But what we would refer to as OGA, so other 11 government agency.

12 Q Okay. And are these usually collaborative or individual agencies submitting 13 these reports?

14 A So it's not a matter of submitting reports, so a government agency would

15 disseminate reporting -- that is certainly our job -- and analysts would read the reports as

16 they would come in. Specific to the Presidential election, there was what we called a

17 cross-cleared group where you had dozens of analysts from across the intelligence

18 community who had access to any information, any IC-collected information germane to 19 the Presidential election. That was to ensure we were all seeing the same thing.

20 So regardless of -- you know, not to get into the weeds of intelligence traffic, but

21 regardless of the compartment that it came out in, how sensitive it was, we were all

22 cleared to see anything related to the Presidential election, and that was intentionally

23 done.

24 Q Now, this reporting generally, was that based on fresh intelligence, or shall

25 we say some of it is sort of a hangover from 2016?

1 A Fresh intelligence, I mean, specific to 2020.

2 Q Okay. Had you reviewed this letter, would you -- sort of your modus

3 operandi, had you -- had Office of Legislative Affairs, or whatever it's called, sent you this

4 letter, what, if anything, would you have done with it?

5 A I would've first contacted my partners in the intelligence community, so

6 within the election security space. So I was the FBI's election security lead. There was

7 a Nikki in other agencies, so CIA, NSA, DHS, CISA, State, CYBERCOM, we were all a

8 coordinated body. So nothing we did tied to the elections that we do unilaterally.

9 So if I was to receive this letter requesting a defensive briefing to all members, my

10 first call would be to my colleagues in the interagency, and I would imagine my leg affairs

11 folks would operate in the same manner. First, did you all receive this same type of 12 letter requesting the same type of briefing, because this is not something the FBI would 13 have provided without coordination.

14 Q Okay. This letter bears the name of all prominent Democrat leaders.

15 Would such a letter concern you that it doesn't appear to have any bipartisan 16 attachments?

17 A Concern -- my understanding is that's generally how letters come in, so no.

18 My concern would be if we were to provide an all-Member briefing, it, in fact, would be 19 an all-Member briefing, and we wouldn't just brief one side over the other.

20 Q And then this is request requesting an all-Member briefing, right?

21 A Right.

22 Q But it doesn't come from the leadership of both -- both parties?

23 A It does not.

24 Q We mentioned him before, Bradley Benavides. What was your -- what was

25 his role and responsibilities while you were working with him during the time of this

1 briefing?

2 A Sure. So he was my deputy and the section chief of the Foreign Influence

3 Task Force. So he was -- he was the second in command of election security.

4 Q Okay. And how long had you worked with him at the FBI, generally?

5 A For quite a while. He worked for me as well in the Counterterrorism

6 Division. I want to say maybe 2015 he started working for me. He went out to the

7 Denver Field Office for a couple of years, but then came back and worked for me, so I've

8 known him for quite some time. He's worked for me for several years, with a break.

9 Q Okay. So at the time of the briefing, he reported to you?

10 A Yes, sir.

11 Q Okay. He's no longer with the FBI, right?

12 A He is not.

13 Q Okay. Let's focus on the August 6, 2020, briefing. Do you recall that you

14 provided a briefing on that day --

15 A I do.

16 Q -- to Senators Grassley and Johnson?

17 A Yes.

18 [redacted] I'm sorry. Was it one briefing or --

19 Ms. Floris. They were separate briefings.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Oh, explain.

22 A So I believe we did Senator Johnson first, and then there was a break, and

23 then we did Senator Grassley. I don't ever do defensive briefings with two recipients in 24 the same room.

25 Q Okay. So this was a defensive brief?

1 A It was a defensive brief.

2 Q Okay. Two separate briefings. Was there any variation in the content of 3 those briefings?

4 A Absolutely not.

5 Q Okay. Did the July -- to your recollection, did the July 13, 2020, letter

6 prompt this briefing?

7 A It did not. In fact -- so how familiar are you with the defensive notification

8 framework?

9 Q Assume I know nothing.

10 A Okay. No worries. No worries. So I think it'll help to lay that as 11 background for this defensive brief.

12 So in October of 2019, then-President Trump approved what was called the 13 defensive notification framework, which was exactly as it sounds, a framework on how

14 the intelligence community, the IC, would action threats of foreign influence or foreign

15 interference to the elections. In that, it established the process of how information

16 comes in, what the IC does with that information, how we assess that information, and 17 then eventually how we action that information.

18 So step one is intelligence comes in, and, again, that cross-cleared group of 19 analysts, they see that intelligence. Anyone can then take that intelligence and

20 nominate it to the Credibility Assessment Group, a CAG, which is a body of subject matter

21 experts, think senior, GS-14, 15 level experts, who would convene in the interagency, so,

22 again, NSA, CIA, DHS, CISA, State, CYBERCOM, and determine whether or not that

23 information, that intelligence was credible.

24 If it was a yes, this is, in fact, credible, we do have -- we do believe that this is

25 indicative of potential foreign interference or influence in the election, they would then

1 move that information to the experts group, which was my level, so the election security
2 leads across the interagency, to determine if notification needs to be made.
3 Now, there are two types of notification: private, which is a defensive brief;
4 public, which is notification to the American public. That decision was made by 5 principals only, so Director Wray, Secretary of DHS, and the like.
6 For the defensive brief and when it's laid out in that framework, again, signed by 7 President -- then-President Trump, is that the action arm for private notification by way of 8 a defensive brief was the FBI. So even if it's not FBI information, FBI was still the face
9 and still the responsible entity for delivering that defensive briefing.
10 So I think that's just helpful to give you background of how we got into it.
11 Q Yes.
12 A And I say all this because your question as far as the July 13th letter, the 13 Credibility Assessment Group, the information was nominated into that I think July 8th.
14 The experts group, so my colleagues, we met on July 17th and confirmed that, yes, a
15 defensive briefing is warranted. But that experts group who caucused on the accuracy
16 of that intelligence met, I would say, July 8th, which was a Friday, and probably early into 17 the next week. So doing my math, 9, 10 -- so probably, 11, 12, 13th of that week.
18 Q That's pretty specific details. Had you reviewed some of this material 19 before this information?
20 A I have reviewed plenty of material over the years. So I was trying to figure
21 out when did I meet with that senior leaders group, knowing that I would be asked 22 obviously about the defensive briefing, because that's when the decision was made to 23 give the defensive briefing. So going back in my litany of email traffic and on my 24 calendar, I saw the July 17th, and then I thought, okay, well, when did it get nominated
25 into the CAG, and that's when I saw email traffic starting on July 8th.

1 Q So would the letter from the Democrat leaders complement the work you
2 were already doing? Is that fair to say?
3 A It's hard because this letter requests an all-Member defensive brief,
4 which -- and I can't tell because obviously I didn't write the letter.
5 Q Right.
6 A A defensive brief is vastly different than a threat briefing. We wouldn't 7 provide an all-Member defensive brief; we would provide an all-Member threat briefing.
8 So not really, would be my short answer. We were driven by the intelligence we had.
9 The intelligence came in, intelligence was nominated to the CAG, the smart people met,
10 decided it is accurate, and then we made the decision.
11 So, you know, letters like this didn't detract from what we were going to do, didn't 12 propel us to move forward in any direction. It was really the intelligence that we were 13 collecting. And when I say we, the IC was collecting.
14 Q So why Senator Grassley and Senator Johnson specifically?
15 A They were explicitly referenced in reporting.
16 Q Okay.
17 A And so that's what a defensive brief is. So a threat briefing is I would come 18 into the room and say, all right, here are the threats to the elections, you know, here are 19 the cyber side, the foreign influence side, and talk high level about the intelligence we 20 had. A defensive brief is I am going to get in front of a specific individual because we 21 have specific information that that individual is being targeted in furtherance of a foreign 22 influence operation. So content might be somewhat the same but that the difference is 23 I would say you are being targeted in furtherance of a foreign influence campaign. So 24 it's really directed and it's really specific to an individual.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q And you said the email traffic regarding the CAG started around July 8th. Is
2 that correct?
3 A That's the first -- that's the email I have --
4 Q And who or what entity nominated that information to the CAG?
5 A I would defer to the ODNI. So ODNI owns this whole process. So the 6 notification framework came up through the traditional NSC machine, right, the IPC
7 process. It was called something different in the Trump administration.
8 As far as the owning body of, you know, the ticktock when certain meetings
9 happened, the script is a really good example. So ODNI took lead, just given their role,
10 in drafting the script, in coordinating the script through the interagency.
11 And while I was the FBI's election security lead, ODNI had what was called the 12 election threat executive. So almost -- I don't want -- she wasn't up here, but almost 13 think of it as the belly button with all the agency election security leads all working in 14 coordination but with the ODNI's election threat executive as like the coordinating body
15 to ensure everybody was on the same page, everybody was seeing the same intelligence, 16 everybody got the meeting invites, everybody saw the scripts, everybody saw the 17 intelligence products.
18 Q When you say script, was that the script for the defensive briefing?
19 A Yes.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Do you look at everything and then -- no, you're saying ODNY -- ODNI
22 prepares the script?
23 A They take initial stab at drafting it, but it's not their information. ODNI is 24 not a collecting agency. So they would then coordinate that through the interagency.
25 Q But then, ultimately, would you take the final pen to the script, if you will?

1 A More like the final approver. You know, at my level and my colleagues'
2 level, seldom would we make changes, unless there was like a glaring error or something,
3 you know, we weren't comfortable with. But I don't recall putting a red pen to the script
4 when it came up to my level.
5 Q So upon -- when was the determination made then to give these Senators
6 the defensive briefing?
7 A I would say it was probably at the July 17th meeting, because, again, that's 8 when that experts group made and said -- made the determination that, yes, we feel that 9 a defensive brief is warranted.
10 Q And in this particular briefing, what was the concern?
11 A You mean the meeting on the July 17th or the --
12 Q Well, the defensive briefing emanates from the determination July 17th that 13 a defensive briefing is warranted, right?
14 A Correct.
15 Q Okay. And what was the content of concern?
16 A So I can't go into specifics about what was in the script. Again, that still 17 remains classified, and I would certainly defer you to ODNI as far as the specifics that 18 were in the script. It wasn't FBI collected information, so I'm certainly not in a position
19 to declassify that information.
20 Q Well, recognizing we're in an unclassified position, I would -- just to clear up,
21 I think your counsel had made a record before that Senator Grassley gave statements and 22 there was a generalized sense that you could speak about this.
23 So without discussing what was classified, presumably there was unclassified
24 information as well that was weaved into this briefing, right?
25 A It was -- it was classified at the SECRET/NOFORN level every single tick and

1 bullet.

2 Q Okay. So let me ask you this. The concern of the -- the foreign influence

3 was emanating from Russia, correct?

4 A Uh-huh.

5 Q Okay. And that was the focus with these particular briefings?

6 A The focus was Russia, yes.

7 Q Okay. Was it concern Russia and anything having to do with Hunter Biden?

8 A Again, I can't go into those specifics.

9 Q Saying Russia was a concern is somewhat specific, right?

10 A Right.

11 Q So we were able to discuss that. Fair?

12 A That's fair.

13 Q Hunter Biden?

14 A Again, it's not FBI information. I'm not trying to not answer the question, 15 but I take classification quite seriously in my role, and it's not FBI information.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q When you talked about the defensive notification framework, you spoke

18 about FBI principals being involved in the decision. What FBI principals were involved in 19 the decision for this briefing?

20 A They weren't involved in this decision. So the way the notification

21 framework is laid out is if there was a -- if there was a discussion as to whether or not we

22 need to notify the American public about any malign foreign influence campaign, that

23 decision doesn't lie with me. That decision gets bumped up to principal-level

24 decision-makers.

25 Q So you were the decision-maker at the FBI --

1 A I was.

2 Q -- for this defensive briefing?

3 A I was.

4 Mrs. Spartz. Did you vet this information of all of the sources? The vetting,

5 what kind of vetting did you do before you did the briefing?

6 Ms. Floris. Did I do -- did I validate?

7 Mrs. Spartz. Validate, yeah. Did you do the vetting of this information?

8 Ms. Floris. I personally did not validate this information.

9 Mrs. Spartz. So who validated this information?

10 Ms. Floris. I can't speak to that.

11 Mrs. Spartz. So -- but you saw that somebody did?

12 Ms. Floris. I know what the underlying intelligence is.

13 Mrs. Spartz. Right. But you -- so you actually knew that what you brought is 14 actual -- was validated by someone before you made decisions for briefings?

15 Ms. Floris. Again, I would defer to ODNI on the validation assessment of the 16 reporting itself.

17 Mrs. Spartz. So you assume it was validated. So you don't know?

18 Ms. Floris. I'm not assuming it was validated. I know it came from reliable

19 collection.

20 Mrs. Spartz. Okay. So the sources are -- because you had a lot of situation

21 when you're reliable -- things are not reliable. So did you explicitly verify or did you just 22 pretty much said if you got information it was reliable?

23 Ms. Floris. I personally did not validate the information. Whether or not 24 individuals beneath me and in the interagency did, I can't speak to that.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q The briefing you provided to Senators Grassley and Johnson independently,
2 was it verbal or did you also provide them with documentation or materials?
3 A It was verbal.
4 Q Okay. Do you bring any materials with you when you do these 5 briefings -- or in this briefing particularly?
6 A Just the script.
7 Q Just the script? Okay.
8 Did the Senators ask to see the script?
9 A I don't recall them asking to see the script. They asked to see the 10 underlying intelligence.
11 Q And what was your response?
12 A Very similar to my response to these questions. I was not in a position to 13 provide it, deferred them to contact ODNI.
14 Q Okay. Did the Senator say anything else to you at this briefing? And we 15 could start with Grassley and then Johnson.
16 A Sure. I don't recall anything specific from Senator Grassley. Again, he just 17 wanted to see the underlying intelligence, which I deferred him to ODNI.
18 Q And he was satisfied with that response?
19 A I wouldn't say satisfied, and I get that. It's my job as providing defensive
20 briefings, when it's not always FBI information, does put me in a bit of a tricky situation
21 because I -- I can't unilaterally make the decision to share the underlying intelligence.
22 So probably not satisfied, and I share that lack of satisfaction as well.
23 With Senator Johnson, he was a bit more vocal.
24 Q Explain.
25 A I recall him slamming on the table, standing up, and screaming at me

1 demanding to know who sent me, and then threatened to subpoena me. And then he
2 too asked for the underlying intelligence, which I gave him the same response I gave to 3 Senator Grassley.
4 Q What was your sense of why he was vocally upset about this defensive
5 briefing?
6 A I don't -- I don't know.
7 Q Did he say anything specifically?
8 A Not that I recall. Again, this was 3 years ago. I just remember him
9 wanting to know who sent me.
10 Q So are you familiar with Senator Grassley and Johnson's joint efforts to 11 investigate Hunter Biden's overseas dealings and any potential connections to then-Vice 12 President Biden?
13 A Not in any level of detail.
14 Q But you're familiar they were conducting this investigation?
15 A Not at that time. I know it now because it's somewhat in the media, but 16 that's the extent of my knowledge.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q Who all from the FBI attended the briefings with Grassley and Johnson?
19 A It was just Mr. Benavides and then a representative from our Office of 20 Congressional Affairs.
21 Q And who was the representative from Office of Congressional Affairs?
22 A He's not a CSO. I'm not comfortable providing that name.
23 [redacted] I think the committee would be interested in knowing that name, if 24 you can get that name.
25 [redacted] Okay.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And what was the role of the representative from the Office of Congressional

3 Affairs?

4 A I usually have a representative when I brief anyone from Congress just there

5 as an observer, to take notes if there are any requests, any due-outs.

6 Q And did the representative take notes?

7 A Not that I recall.

8 Q Okay. Do you know if anyone after the briefing, either you or

9 Mr. Benavides or the representative from the Office of Congressional Affairs, made any 10 sort of summary document following the briefing?

11 A No.

12 Q No 302 or anything?

13 A No.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q I don't mean for some of these questions to sound repetitive.

16 A That's fine.

17 Q It's just very important we get --

18 A No. No worries.

19 Q -- to the bottom of what we're interested in determining.

20 In your view, was the content of the briefing related to the Senators' investigation

21 into the Biden family's overseas dealings?

22 A It was not. It was related to the intelligence that we had, again, tied to 23 Russia.

24 Q But you can't get me any specifics on the intelligence, so there's no way of 25 really knowing other than -- well, in fairness, there's no way of knowing beyond your

1 saying it wasn't related to --

2 A Correct.

3 Q -- the investigation?

4 And you're saying you didn't have information about the investigation at the time.

5 So given its broad scope, you couldn't confidently say one way or the other that it wasn't

6 related to what they were looking at?

7 A No. I wasn't familiar with what they were investigating at the time.

8 Q Were you aware that Senator Grassley did not believe there was a -- I'm

9 quoting from the Senator -- a real purpose for the briefing that you provided to him on

10 August 6, 2020?

11 A I was not aware that that was his opinion, but --

12 Q How do you respond to that?

13 A I don't. People are entitled to their opinions about my defensive briefings.

14 Q What have you learned about Senator Grassley's and Johnson's view of that 15 particular briefing and how it unfolded in the press?

16 A The only thing I've learned is what I've seen, whether it's open testimony,

17 open hearings by our director. It's clear that they were displeased with it, but I try not

18 to pay much attention to the media and things like that. I mean --

19 Q How many -- ballpark, how many brief -- defensive briefings have you given

20 to Members of Congress and the Senate?

21 A Related to election security or writ large?

22 Q Writ large.

23 A Probably hundreds.

24 Q Have you ever had such vocal concern after giving one the way you did in 25 this case?

1 A There've been a handful of individuals who I've defensively briefed several
2 times on a very similar topic who, you know, have said, you know, Nikki, there's nothing
3 new here, which it's fine. My personal opinion, I like to err on the side of leaning in and,
4 you know, providing these defensive briefings as opposed to not.
5 I believe if a Member of Congress' name is within intelligence traffic and he or she
6 may be a target of a foreign influence operation, even if it's the same type of threat
7 reporting, I just believe in getting in front of the Member. We owe that to them. That 8 is the FBI's job is to action intelligence.
9 So most of the time, folks seem thankful that I've come, thank me for my time, but 10 not all the time, and it is what it is. It doesn't detract me from providing defensive 11 briefings in the future.
12 Q Now, you had laid out this sort of structure in place to determine when a 13 briefing is appropriate, right. Beyond that, did anyone specifically at the FBI tell you to 14 give this briefing to Senators Johnson and Grassley?
15 A No.
16 Q But did you make -- did you make a determination that you should give it
17 given your seniority level?
18 A Yes, and for consistency. You know, I provided most of the defensive 19 briefings, again, outside of just the election security context. If it was two Members, it
20 should be a DAD-level individual providing those briefings. And just given my role in the 21 Counterintelligence Division, not just as the election security lead, that fell to me.
22 Q Okay. So that was your call?
23 A It was.
24 Q Okay. Following the briefing, did you provide anyone at the FBI
25 information on how the briefing went?

1 A I'm sure I provided my AD at the time, which I'm trying to think, was Alan
2 Kohler at the time. I'm sure I gave him a backbrief on how it went.
3 Q Would that have been in writing?
4 A No.
5 Q Are there ever instances where you would provide something in writing after 6 a defensive briefing?
7 A Not that I can recall, not to any sort of level of specifics.
8 Q What do you recall saying to Mr. Kohler at the time?
9 A I would imagine -- again, not recalling specifics, I would imagine that I likely 10 told him what Senator Johnson said.
11 Q Okay.
12 [redacted] We have about 15 minutes left in our hour. I want to see if any of 13 the Congressmen and women in the room had any questions.
14 Mr. Gaetz. Yeah.
15 Ms. Floris, my name is Matt Gaetz. I'm a majority Member of the House
16 Judiciary Committee.
17 Did you attend White House election security interagency meetings?
18 Ms. Floris. Occasionally, if it was at my level.
19 Mr. Gaetz. And what was the frequency of those?
20 Ms. Floris. Oh, goodness. I think I did it maybe monthly.
21 Mr. Gaetz. Was it a standing meeting or was it something that would just get 22 scheduled?
23 Ms. Floris. It was a standing meeting. It was through -- it's now called the IPC
24 process. I think under President Trump it had a different name to it, but the interagency 25 process that the NSC chaired.

1 Mr. Gaetz. And who attended those meetings?

2 Ms. Floris. So it was myself and then my colleagues around the interagency. So
3 every agency had an election security lead, so it would be myself and my colleagues.
4 But there were meetings that would take place before our meetings at more like the 5 GS-15 level and then eventually would move up to us, was how it would work.

6 Mr. Gaetz. And so how many people would attend these meetings?

7 Ms. Floris. At my level, I can't say for certain. They were all virtually, because it
8 was in the middle of COVID, but there were probably, give or take, 9 or 10 agencies that 9 were calling into it.

10 Mr. Gaetz. Were there agendas that were printed for those meetings?

11 Ms. Floris. There were.

12 Mr. Gaetz. If we asked you to produce those to the committee, is that 13 something you would still have possession of?

14 Ms. Floris. I don't know if I still have possession, but I would imagine either NSC
15 or the election threat executive team over at ODNI, they were really the record keeper for 16 anything related to the election. So ticktock, talking points, that sort of thing. They 17 were the belly button of it all.

18 Mr. Gaetz. Thank you for that.

19 Ms. Floris. Sure.

20 Mr. Gaetz. And did you take -- were there minutes that were taken of those
21 meetings?

22 Ms. Floris. I think there were minutes. It's called the SOC. I don't know what 23 the SOC stands for, but essentially it's a summary of what was discussed, not in any sort 24 of significant level of detail, but usually they're about a page or two, and, again, would 25 defer to either NSC or ODNI if they kept those SOCs.

1 Mr. Gaetz. Was there ever a discussion of this Hunter Biden laptop situation at 2 those meetings?
3 Ms. Floris. Not that I recall, at least not at my meeting. And, again, there were 4 meetings at lower levels that would always go before our meeting.
5 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. And at the meetings that you either attended or were aware
6 of, was there a discussion of this derogatory information about the Bidens that is sourced 7 on a laptop?
8 Ms. Floris. No.
9 Mr. Gaetz. Does the FITF have an operations guide that describes how the 10 section conducts its business?
11 Ms. Floris. I don't know if we have an operations guide. As far as the 12 operations, we conduct operations like any other section entity within the FBI, so it would 13 be the DIOG. We would follow the same policies under that. So I think the short 14 answer would be no.
15 Mr. Gaetz. And is there an org chart of the FITF?
16 Ms. Floris. I don't know if there's one that still exists. When I was there, there 17 was an org chart, yes.
18 Mr. Gaetz. So what's the doctrine the FITF uses to determine like when a 19 defensive briefing is necessary?
20 Ms. Floris. Sure. So in the context of election security, it's actually not an FBI
21 doctrine. It's the defensive notification framework, which is an interagency document
22 that was signed into effect by President Trump in October 2019. And it's a framework 23 that essentially lays out the guiding principles of how and when the interagency would 24 decide if a defensive briefing is warranted. So the key players in that, NSA, CIA, FBI,
25 DHS, CISA, State, and I believe CYBERCOM.

1 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So that doctrine says when a defensive briefing is warranted.
2 Does it speak to what the requisite substance of such a briefing would be?
3 Ms. Floris. It doesn't. It doesn't get into that level of detail. It does specify
4 that the FBI would be the action arm of that defensive briefing even if it's not FBI
5 information.
6 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So once the decision's been made to provide a defensive 7 briefing but then decisions have to be made about what it's going to entail --
8 Ms. Floris. Sure.
9 Mr. Gaetz. -- what guides those decisions?
10 Ms. Floris. As far as guiding it, it is really driven by the intelligence, so how 11 specific is the intelligence. Certainly something we take into concern is will any level of 12 detail we provide ultimately burn the source of the information, and that's with anything
13 we do, not just defensive briefings but threat briefings, certainly cognizant that we're not 14 going to ultimately identify the source of that information.
15 Mr. Gaetz. We're all familiar with sources and methods as a basis to not answer
16 questions, and, you know, we're familiar with that regime and that doctrine. But I guess
17 I'm trying to understand, when a briefing's been decided, carve out sources and methods,
18 you know, how you determine what level of detail to go into. Does a -- does a Member 19 of Congress' committee assignment weigh on the level of detail you could go into?
20 Ms. Floris. Not usually.
21 Mr. Gaetz. Does a Member of Congress' seniority weigh in on that?
22 Ms. Floris. No. At least not in the defensive briefings I've participated in.
23 Mr. Gaetz. Does a Member of Congress' political party or affiliation --
24 Ms. Floris. No.
25 Mr. Gaetz. -- weigh into the level of detail?

1 Ms. Floris. No.

2 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So the committee has received information that defensive
3 briefings provided to Democrats at times have more detail than defensive briefings
4 provided to Republicans. What would be your reaction to that concern?

5 Ms. Floris. Again, we're driven by the intelligence. So sometimes we get a
6 piece of information that is as, I'd say, boring, I can't think of a better term of, you know,
7 Senator Johnson is being targeted by the Russians, period. Sometimes you get reporting
8 that Senator Johnson is being targeted by a Chinese intelligence officer who works out of 9 the embassy who frequents this restaurant.

10 So I prefer to give as much detail as possible, because that's how you actually arm
11 the recipient of the defensive briefing. But we are sort of beholden to the level of detail
12 within the intelligence. And, again, frustrating for me, certainly is, because I'm the FBI,
13 but I am oftentimes, most of the time, using information collected by another agency.
14 I'm beholden to them approving me using that information. So I can't unilaterally make 15 the determination as far as the level of detail, but it certainly runs the gamut.

16 Sometimes they're very boring, benign defensive briefings. Sometimes I have 17 been in front of a Member for 2 hours providing a very explicit detailed briefing.
18 Political party, seniority, none of that plays into effect. It's all driven by the intelligence.

19 [redacted] And just for the record, those are hypothetical.

20 Ms. Floris. Those are all hypotheticals, yes. Please, for the record, all 21 hypotheticals.

22 Mr. Gaetz. No, we're talking about the doctrine --

23 Mr. Floris. Okay.

24 Mr. Gaetz. -- not any specific matter yet.

25 Thank you for that clarification.

1 So is there a National Security Law Branch attorney assigned to conduct legal
2 review of FITF activity?
3 Ms. Floris. Yes. There was an attorney assigned specific to the FITF.
4 Mr. Gaetz. And who was that attorney during your time there?
5 Ms. Floris. I can't give the name. He's not a senior executive.
6 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. What kind of -- without going into any legal advice an 7 attorney gave you, what were the categories of information that this person was relevant
8 to on your team?
9 Ms. Floris. Similar to other attorneys throughout operational divisions, you
10 know, do we have enough predication to open an investigation. He would review policy
11 documents. Oftentimes we defer to the attorneys to help us with any policy level
12 documents, so very similar to an OGC attorney's role in any other part of the FBI.
13 Mr. Gaetz. Sounds like this predication is pretty important.
14 Ms. Floris. Uh-huh.
15 Mr. Gaetz. So they were pretty central to the work, it seems.
16 Ms. Floris. They were. He was part of the team. He was engaged in a lot of 17 conversations.
18 Mr. Gaetz. During your time overseeing the FITF, did any FBI attorney ever
19 express misgivings or raise concerns about the FITF's interactions with any technology 20 companies?
21 Ms. Floris. No, not to my knowledge.
22 Mr. Gaetz. Did any nonattorney member of the FITF raise concerns about those 23 interactions?
24 Ms. Floris. Not to me.
25 Mr. Gaetz. To your knowledge?

1 Ms. Floris. To my knowledge, yeah.

2 Mr. Gaetz. Did the FITF participate in a tabletop exercise at the Aspen Institute

3 in 2020 prior to the Presidential election?

4 Ms. Floris. Oh, gosh. I didn't. That sounds vaguely familiar, but my apologies,

5 sorry, I don't recall. It wasn't me personally, so I don't recall.

6 Mr. Gaetz. You were leading the FITF at the time?

7 Ms. Floris. I was.

8 Mr. Gaetz. So I guess I'm trying to understand why the FBI would be

9 participating in an Aspen Institute tabletop.

10 Ms. Floris. I can't speak to it, sir, because I don't remember.

11 Mr. Gaetz. Did anyone seek your approval for that participation?

12 Ms. Floris. I don't recall.

13 Mr. Gaetz. Is it typical -- is it typical that people on the FITF would have their

14 own agency to go and work with nonprofits or other entities in the absence of seeking

15 your approval?

16 Ms. Floris. It's unlikely they did. I just unfortunately don't recall.

17 Mr. Gaetz. It's unlikely they did it without seeking your approval?

18 Ms. Floris. Correct. Correct.

19 Mr. Gaetz. As you sit here today, can you think of any basis why that would be 20 something you would want a member of your team doing?

21 Ms. Floris. Not knowing the details of what was discussed or who was at the -- it

22 was the Aspen Institute of -- I just don't know enough details to know if that's something I

23 would have supported or --

24 Mr. Gaetz. And so you don't recall if, upon return from that tabletop exercise,

25 there was any discussion at the FITF about Hunter Biden?

1 Ms. Floris. No, sir.

2 Mr. Gaetz. Was there ever a discussion at the FITF about Hunter Biden?

3 Ms. Floris. No. At least not with me. And, again, there's a whole team below

4 me, so whether or not conversations happened, I don't know, but I personally did not

5 have any conversations.

6 Mr. Gaetz. Oh, yeah. No, I understand people can interact and you don't have

7 personal knowledge of that. But just so I drill a fine point on it, as you testified to us

8 today, you have no personal knowledge of Hunter Biden ever being the subject of any

9 discussion at the FITF while you ran that entity?

10 Ms. Floris. Correct.

1 [10:59 a.m.]

2 Mr. Gaetz. How many people at the FITF had access to 702 databases?

3 Ms. Floris. I would think everyone.

4 Mr. Gaetz. Do you know if they ever conducted queries under 702?

5 Ms. Floris. I would assume so, yes, but --

6 Mr. Gaetz. Can you give the committee a sense of scale?

7 Ms. Floris. I can't. I personally didn't do the queries, so I didn't -- I don't

8 approve the queries or I didn't in my role as DAD.

9 Mr. Gaetz. Help me understand the process by which someone on the FITF was 10 able to access a 702 query.

11 Ms. Floris. So -- and, again, talking hypotheticals here. If there was 702 collect

12 on a Russian foreign influence actor who was living overseas, that would be 702. And if

13 there was -- say there were reports of something along the lines of these Russian actors

14 are going to target USPER one, and we wanted to note that was the first time USPER one

15 had been targeted by Russian influence actors, we would probably -- and, again,

16 hypothetical -- a good analyst would then seek to query USPER one back through 702 to

17 see if this is the first time this USPER has been identified, if this USPER has been targeted

18 before, if other Russian actors are looking at this USPER. So that would be one example

19 of how we would query it.

20 Mr. Gaetz. And every member of the team had that capability?

21 Ms. Floris. They did.

22 Mr. Gaetz. And if someone wanted to utilize that capability, they didn't need

23 approval from the supervisor, did they?

24 Ms. Floris. That's -- I'm trying to remember what the approvals were for queries

25 at that time because, certainly, we've adjusted how we do business in FISA queries. I

1 just don't know the specific dates of when changes were made to the approval process.

2 Mr. Gaetz. I'm just talking about during your leadership of the entity.

3 Ms. Floris. I don't know what the approval process -- and actually, I realize I

4 probably should know this. I don't know what the approval process was for queries of

5 U.S. persons in the 2018 to 2022 timeframe because I know the approvals have changed

6 and adjusted over the years.

7 Mr. Gaetz. Right. But I'm not interested in the adjustments. I'm just

8 interested in 2020 when you were running the FITF.

9 As you sit here and testify to us today, you cannot tell us what approvals were or 10 were not necessary for any analyst on the FITF to do a 702 query of a U.S. person?

11 Ms. Floris. That's correct.

12 Mr. Gaetz. Is that concerning?

13 Ms. Floris. I just -- as the DAD, I never approved anything. It would never have

14 come up to my level. And I personally don't know when certain approvals were 15 mandated as far as queries because I know the approvals have changed over the years.

16 Mr. Gaetz. Yeah. But I'm just talking about 2020.

17 Ms. Floris. Yeah. So, again, I don't know. I don't know.

18 Mr. Gaetz. Was there ever any intelligence regarding any U.S. person from a 702

19 query that ever made it to your level?

20 Ms. Floris. Not that I can recall.

21 Mr. Gaetz. Is that normally something you would recall?

22 Ms. Floris. Probably not 3 years ago and in the midst of 2020.

23 Mr. Gaetz. I think Mrs. Spartz has a question.

24 Mrs. Spartz. Just a follow-up.

25 So you were in charge, and you didn't know and you didn't care. So who knows?

1 Who is actually -- you have people in charge of you, and you have no idea what approvals
2 are? So who knows? Who sets up processes?
3 [redacted] To be clear, the witness didn't say if she didn't know. She said they 4 have changed over time. So you're asking her to identify a specific period of time within 5 a 4-year window. She's not saying she didn't know it. She certainly did not say she did
6 not care.
7 Mrs. Spartz. Well, but I'm just saying.
8 So you were -- as someone who is in charge, managing this operation -- so you're 9 saying you are not even knowing how the process of approval works for U.S. persons? Is 10 that a correct understanding?
11 Ms. Floris. In the summer of 2020, that's correct because the approval has 12 changed several times over the last several years. I can't recall exactly in the summer of 13 2020 what the FBI policy said as far --
14 Mrs. Spartz. What can you recall at all about that? Can you recall anything 15 about that approval?
16 Ms. Floris. Approval -- I don't understand approval of what, though.
17 Mrs. Spartz. Approval of U.S. queries.
18 Ms. Floris. I don't even know if U.S. queries happened and how they're even 19 related to this briefing, is what I'm saying.
20 Mrs. Spartz. So we're talking about this query situation that you just discussed.
21 You know, you said that you're sure this happened. You're sure that all people have 22 access.
23 But I just wanted to clarify that you are actually not even aware of any approvals
24 that needed to be done, and you don't even know -- I just want to --
25 Ms. Floris. The approval never had to come up to me as DAD. Full stop.

1 Mrs. Spartz. But you didn't know the process?

2 Ms. Floris. Full stop. Full stop. I, as a DAD, never had to be in the level of 3 approval for U.S. queries. I know that for a fact.

4 So if U.S. queries happened in 2020 by members of the FITF team, that didn't

5 come up to me for approval. So I don't know what queries my individuals were doing,

6 my team was doing, because it didn't have to come up to me. What I'm saying is, I don't

7 know if that needed unit chief, section chief level approval. I don't know, at that time,

8 per FBI policy, what the level of approval was for U.S. person queries.

9 Mrs. Spartz. And you are not sure what the policy is?

10 Ms. Floris. Correct.

11 Mrs. Spartz. You are not at the level of FBI?

12 Ms. Floris. Yep.

13 Mrs. Spartz. Interesting.

14 [redacted] At a very specific period of time. And if the committee is interested

15 in what the policies were in place in 2020, we are certainly happy to provide that

16 information.

17 [redacted] We're out of time, so we'll go off the record.

18 [Discussion off the record.]

19 [redacted] We'll go on the record, please.

20 EXAMINATION

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q Good morning, Ms. Floris.

23 A Good morning.

24 Q I'm going to ask you some questions about defensive briefings generally.

25 A Okay.

1 Q When the intelligence community receives information related to malign
2 foreign influence efforts that are directed specifically at the electoral process, decisions
3 related to those defensive briefings are governed by the defensive notification
4 framework, which was approved under the Trump administration October 31st, 2019. Is
5 that right?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Okay. And I'm going to introduce for the record what's going to be marked
8 as Exhibit 3.
9 [Floris Exhibit No. 3
10 Was marked for identification.]
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q This is entitled, "The overview of the process for the executive branch to 13 notify the public and others regarding foreign malign influence and interference
14 operations targeting U.S. elections."
15 Just take a minute to --
16 A I'm familiar with that.
17 Q You said you're familiar with this?
18 A Yes.
19 Q Okay. And how are you familiar with it?
20 A It's essentially a summary of the broader notification framework. I don't 21 know who actually put this together, but it's a one-pager that I've seen several times.
22 Q Okay. And you can see at the top of the exhibit, there are, I guess, five 23 shields of U.S. agencies. Is it fair to say that those agencies are involved in this process?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Okay. And is this -- does this exhibit refer to the process that you've

1 described already when you talk about notifications and --

2 A Yes.

3 Q -- briefings?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Okay. This framework is an interagency framework which standardizes the 6 process for notifying potentially impacted parties, including members of Congress,

7 political candidates, private sector entities, and the public that they may have been

8 targeted by foreign attempts to influence the U.S. democratic process. Is that a fair

9 assessment?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay. And the framework recognizes that, quote, "Public exposure and

12 attribution of foreign election influence and interference can render these operations less

13 effective." Do you see that?

14 A I understand that, yes.

15 Q Can you explain what that means?

16 A So -- and, again, speaking hypothetical here. If the U.S. intelligence

17 community had information indicating that a nation-state actor was going to do some

18 sort of disinformation campaign with the goal of undermining the U.S. democratic

19 process, there is a belief -- and it's certainly a conversation -- do we, as the IC, owe it to 20 the American public to warn them about this disinformation campaign? Do we need to

21 provide them with the information we have so that they become, you know, informed

22 consumers and understand aspects of potential disinformation?

23 Q Okay. Specifically, the language in Exhibit 3, when it says, "The act of 24 explaining how" -- or can you just explain how public exposure and attribution -- so that

25 particular information from the intelligence -- how does exposing the public to that

1 render the foreign influence operations less effective? Or how could it?

2 A Sure. And, again, speaking hypothetical. If, for example, we had

3 indication that Iranian actors were going to push out information indicating that Election

4 Day was no longer on Tuesday. It had been moved to Wednesday.

5 Potentially, if we publicly made notification of that -- that, hey, if you have

6 indications or you hear information that it's been moved to Wednesday, understand

7 that's a disinformation campaign, essentially rendering that operation ineffective.

8 Q Because now people know the truth, right?

9 A Because now people know the truth or know that potentially information

10 they're reading could be disinformation.

11 Q Understood. And the framework also recognizes that nonpublic

12 notification to targets of election interference, quote, "may also mitigate the impacts of 13 these operations by providing accurate and reliable information and by enhancing

14 resilience against future attempts." Correct?

15 A Correct. And private notification in this context is a defensive briefing.

16 Q To the target of the foreign influence?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Okay. And can you explain what is meant by enhancing resilience in that 19 description?

20 A Sure. And, again, just talking broadly about defensive briefings. If we

21 were to tell an individual, you are being targeted by a nation-state actor in furtherance of

22 a foreign influence campaign, the goal is that that defensive briefing would essentially

23 heighten their awareness so that if in the future they were approached by somebody who

24 is having conversations with them about U.S.-China policy, they would have an awareness

25 that, okay, potentially, this is related to the foreign influence campaign.

1 So it builds up that resilience. What I've often told recipients of defensive
2 briefings is your Spidey senses. It gives you an awareness that you have been identified.
3 Nation-state actors are seeking to target you. Be aware should anything happen that 4 seems out of the ordinary or out of the standard course of business. And that's what we 5 mean by resilience.
6 Q Is it fair to say the idea is that when the nonpublic notification happens, the 7 person who is the target is going to be made more resilient just by knowing that that 8 targeting is occurring? They're going to be harder, then, to influence?
9 A Correct. The whole goal of a defensive briefing is ultimately to protect the 10 recipient of that defensive briefing.
11 Q Okay. And Exhibit 3, on the second column under the heading "The 12 following process ensures that notification decisions are thoroughly informed," it basically 13 describes the process that you alluded to earlier.
14 Do you see in the first bullet point under that heading, the exhibit describes the 15 first step in the process, and it says, quote, "When relevant foreign intelligence is 16 identified, the ODNI will convene a credibility assessment group, CAG, comprised of 17 experts from different intelligence community agencies to conduct a credibility 18 assessment of the intelligence." Do you see that?
19 A I do.
20 Q And you referred to that earlier when you talked about the first step, which 21 is a determination of whether the intelligence out there is credible?
22 A Correct.
23 Q So can you, again, briefly describe what is that process?
24 A So the way that process works -- and, again, to focus on the hypothetical
25 here -- is a piece of intelligence comes in indicating that Iran wants to target, you know,

1 25 members of Congress and push them disinformation about Election Day -- you know,
2 the integrity of the election machine. The voting machine.
3 So the credibility assessment group -- so analysts -- again, the cross-cleared group
4 of analysts who see all of the reporting would see that. Anyone can nominate it into the 5 CAG. So say this reporting comes from NSA, and a CIA analyst reads it. He or she can 6 nominate that to the CAG. It doesn't have to be the agency that collects it who 7 nominates it.
8 So it gets nominated into the CAG, which is comprised of subject matter experts
9 really around the 14, 15 level who are -- read all the intelligence that comes in about 10 election cycle. The CAG meets and convenes and caucuses on, okay, is this information
11 reliable? Is it credible? You know, assess the source. You know, is the source
12 reliable and credible? And then makes a determination about, as it says, the credibility
13 of that reporting.
14 If that group -- and, again, it's an interagency group comprised of the headers you
15 see above. If they determine, yes, it is in fact credible, it then moves on to the experts
16 group, which I was a part of as the election security lead.
17 Q Okay. We're going to get to that in a second.
18 A Sure.
19 Q But first just staying on the CAG for a moment.
20 I think there was maybe some confusion earlier in the hour when we talked 21 about -- or when people talked about credibility and verification. I just want to make 22 clear.
23 Is it fair to say that when you talk about intelligence that's nominated into the 24 CAG, the credibility determination is focused on the source?
25 A It is.

1 Q Like, where that information is coming from, not the truth of that
2 information --
3 A Correct.
4 Q -- that's being introduced by that potentially foreign source?
5 A Correct. It primarily focuses on the source of the information.
6 Q So in your example with Iran, could you explain what precisely the credibility
7 determination would be focused on? Your hypothetical, I mean.
8 A Sure. So we would look at the Iranian actor. Does he have ties to the 9 Iranian intel services or their cyber actors, for example? Can we connect he or she to 10 higher levels of the Iranian government? Is this an individual that we've seen time and 11 time again in relation to previous malign foreign influence operations? Can we 12 corroborate this with any other reporting from other IC agencies as well?
13 Q So, again, your focus is on whether that actor is connected to the Iran -- is an 14 Iranian state actor or proxy. It's not focusing on the credibility of the information that 15 that person is trying to disseminate?
16 A Correct. Certainly, you know, we've received reportings where -- reports
17 where the subject of it -- the content of it is quite unbelievable. Martians are going to 18 come down and cast votes. I mean, that's a hypothetical, but somewhat close to some 19 reports you get. That's just the nature of the intelligence that we're in.
20 But if the source of that is from a legit source, a credible source, a verifiable
21 source, it would get more credence. But, again, we usually start with the source and the 22 actors as opposed to the content.
23 Q Okay. And not to bludgeon this example to death, but suppose that this 24 alleged or suspected Iranian state actor had pushed information that the election was 25 going to be on Wednesday instead of on Tuesday.

1 And your group here, when they look at the credibility of the intelligence with
2 respect to this report, they're not trying to figure out if the election is really on Tuesday or 3 really on Wednesday. They're trying to figure out who is pushing the information. Is 4 that fair to say?
5 A That's fair to say. And what can we, as the IC, do to potentially make 6 targets of that disinformation campaign aware of that.
7 So, for example, let's take the hypothetical a step further. If the Iranian actors
8 were going to do that using these 10 social media handles, can we provide those social 9 media handles to the social media companies so that they are aware of it?
10 Or if those Iranian actors were going to say, we're going to say that the election is 11 on Wednesday, and we're going to tell these 25 congressman that their elections are on 12 Wednesday, then the conversation would shift to, okay, do we need to tell those 25
13 congressman that they are potentially going to be used in furtherance of a malign foreign 14 influence campaign?
15 Q And your actions in that regard have nothing to do with whether or not 16 you're trying to figure out if the election is on Tuesday or Wednesday. You're focused 17 on telling the person who is targeted that you have a foreign actor who is trying to give 18 you the information?
19 A Correct. And we assess that information as disinformation based on the 20 individuals referenced in the reporting and their connection potentially to senior 21 members of government.
22 Q Okay. Thank you for that explanation.
23 Let's move to the second bullet point under that same heading in Exhibit 3. This
24 bullet point reads, "The next step after the CAG."
25 It says, quote, "When appropriate, the ODNI will provide the CAG assessment to

1 an experts group comprised of senior representatives of the IC elements within the CAG
2 and the Department of Defense, Justice, Treasury, Homeland Security, which will evaluate 3 whether a public or nonpublic notification is appropriate under the notification
4 framework."
5 Are you familiar with that stage of the process?
6 A Sure.
7 Q Okay. And so after the CAG makes its credibility determination, is it fair to 8 say that that is when the experts group comes in, and that's where you personally have a 9 role?
10 A Correct.
11 Q And what is your role there?
12 A Our role is to determine -- okay. Once the CAG says yes, this is credible, it's 13 our role to determine what notifications need to be made. Do we need to provide a 14 nonpublic notification by way of a defensive briefing, or do we believe public notification
15 is warranted at this time?
16 Q And how do you all make that determination? Do you collaborate together
17 and have to come to consensus?
18 A We do. So ODNI, their election threat executive, the ETE, essentially acts as 19 the chairing body. We all have a conversation. Again, my colleagues throughout the IC
20 have a conversation. We came to consensus. I don't remember an instance in 2020
21 where there was not consensus at this level.
22 So if there was not consensus, I don't know if I know what the next steps are. It
23 would probably just move up to principal level, as most things tend to happen in D.C. If 24 we can't get consensu at one level, we'll just move it up to the next level. But there was 25 consensus at this level.

1 Q So when you say that you've never had an occasion where there was not
2 consensus, does that mean that you've never experienced a meeting of the expert group
3 where somebody has expressed dissent with respect to the decision that was made?
4 A To my recollection, there was not dissent on the decisions made related to 5 2020 in the defensive briefings that were done.
6 Q Okay. Before we go on to the last two bullet points, I'm actually going to 7 focus your attention higher. This is under the heading of Exhibit 3 still.
8 "The executive branch relies on guiding principles when considering whether to 9 provide notifications under this framework." Do you see that heading?
10 A Uh-huh.
11 Q It starts on the second -- or the first column continues to the second.
12 And under that heading, there are -- it looks like four bullet points that discuss 13 what this exhibit calls guiding principles. Are you familiar with those guiding principles?
14 A I am.
15 Q And those principles are meant to guide the decisions that you make with 16 respect to what notifications to give. Is that fair to say?
17 A That's fair.
18 Q Okay. And so let's look at those guiding principles one by one.
19 The first one says, quote, "Notification decisions shall serve U.S. national security
20 interests consistent with the responsibility to protect the American people and to uphold
21 the Constitution."
22 Are you familiar with that guiding principle?
23 A Generally, yes.
24 Q What is your understanding of what that means?
25 A It's really how we hold ourselves day to day and how we do business, to

1 uphold the constitution and protect the American people. It guides us in absolutely
2 everything we do. First and foremost, we work for the American people.
3 Q Okay. And in your experience in the decisions that you have made in the 4 experts group and in any other capacity with respect to defensive briefings under this
5 framework, have your decisions been made consistent with that guiding principle?
6 A Yes.
7 Q The second guiding principle says, quote, "Partisan politics shall not play a
8 role in the decision to provide notifications."
9 Do you see that principle?
10 A I do.
11 Q And what does that mean to you?
12 A That politics should not play into a decision as to whether we do something 13 or don't do it. And, again, very similar to how we carry ourselves outside. Just the 14 defensive notification framework. Partisan politics play into nothing that we do.
15 Nothing that I do.
16 Q And when you've made decisions with respect to this framework to notify 17 people or to give any notifications to the public to the extent that you have, have you 18 been guided by that principle that partisan politics shall play no role in the decision to 19 make notifications?
20 A I have.
21 Q And have you seen other members of the expert group and the other IC
22 agencies that participated also guided by that same principle?
23 A I have.
24 Q The third principle says, quote, "Notification decisions shall not be intended
25 to censor or chill political and social discourse or other First Amendment-protected

1 activities."

2 Are you familiar with that principle?

3 A I am.

4 Q And in your experience, has your decision to participate in these notification

5 decisions and to make notifications been strictly guided by adherence to that principle?

6 A It has.

7 Q Finally, the fourth principle says, quote, "Notification decisions shall be

8 intended to support broader Federal Government efforts to protect U.S. democratic

9 institutions and processes, including elections, and to counter foreign malign influence."

10 Have you seen that principle?

11 A I have.

12 Q And have your decisions made in the expert group and in all other capacities

13 with respect to notifications under this framework been made with respect to that 14 guiding principle?

15 A It has.

16 Q And the other people within the IC community who have participated, have 17 they also been guided by the same principle?

18 A They have.

19 Q That one is an affirmative principle that talks about what you should be 20 looking at.

21 What does that mean to you with respect to supporting the broader government's

22 effort to protect the democratic institutions and processes of the country? What does

23 that mean, in your experience?

24 A That was our goal. The entire election security community throughout the 25 intelligence community. First and foremost, we wanted to protect our democratic

1 processes. It is something we hold quite paramount to being an American public
2 servant. So every decision we made was really with the end goal of ultimately 3 protecting the election.
4 Q Okay. And then going back down to the heading "The following processes
5 ensures that notification decisions are thoroughly informed," the final two bullet points
6 that we talked about, this is part of the process that occurs after the meeting of the 7 experts group and your decision whether or not to effect a notification.
8 The third bullet point there says, quote, "When the experts group recommends a 9 nonpublic notification, the FBI and/or DHS will provide the notification."
10 Is it fair to say that when you're doing a private notification, the FBI or DHS is 11 designated as the person to relay that information?
12 A So there's a bit more meat in the actual framework. So the FBI is the 13 designated body if it's a malign foreign influence operation. DHS comes into play if it's 14 interference.
15 So the way we differ between the two, interference -- think some sort of cyber 16 attack against election infrastructure. So CISA was the primary lead in any sort of 17 notification to that. So if we got reporting, for example, that country X had gained its 18 way into the voting machines of District 1, CISA would make that notification, I believe.
19 FBI was -- we were the ones tasked with providing nonpublic notification as it
20 relates to malign foreign influence operations.
21 Q Okay. So when you have a nonpublic notification that's due -- with respect
22 to malign foreign influence operations, the fact that the FBI is giving that notification is 23 determined by the framework and not determined in any other way?
24 A Correct.
25 Q Okay. The fourth bullet point says, quote, "When the experts group

1 recommends a public notification, the Director of National Intelligence will convene a
2 leaders group comprised of the Secretaries of State, Defense, Homeland Security, and the 3 Treasury, the Attorney General, and the directors of the Central Intelligence Agency, FBI,
4 Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency, and National Security Agency, to 5 determine if a public notification is appropriate, the nature of the notification, and the 6 notifying agency."
7 Is that fair to say that bullet point describes the process of public notification,
8 which is different than what you've been talking about in terms of defensive 9 notifications?
10 A Correct.
11 Q And those are basically done by the principles of those agencies?
12 A Correct.
13 Q You're not involved in any way in those, or are you?
14 A Only briefing of the intelligence.
15 Q Okay. Is there anything about your experience with the notification
16 process that differs from the way it's described in Exhibit 3?
17 A No, not that I recall.
18 Q Okay. All right.
19 In your experience in your career, do you know about how many times you've 20 given defensive briefings on behalf of the FBI and the IC community?
21 A Again, outside the election space, you know, the difference of briefings writ
22 large, I would say hundreds.
23 Q Okay. And those are private notifications, again, to people who are 24 suspected to be targeted by foreign influence?
25 A Sometimes they're one-on-one. Sometimes they're with a committee if we

1 have information, for example, that a specific committee is being targeted. I've 2 provided, you know, broad defensive briefings related to China, for example, as we
3 continue -- at least in my chair, continue to get reports about China's interest in certain 4 levels of government.
5 Q And you've indicated that you've given defensive briefings to members of 6 Congress in the past, correct?
7 A Yes.
8 Q About how many times have you had to do that?
9 A I don't know. I would have to go back to my Office of Congressional Affairs.
10 It's quite a lot.
11 Q Do you think it would be fair to say that it was more than a dozen?
12 A Yes. Again, outside -- you know, we're talking just broad defensive 13 briefings.
14 Q More than a hundred?
15 A To individual members? Probably not more than a hundred.
16 Q Okay. When you've given defensive briefings, have you strictly followed
17 the guidance that we've discussed which is identified in our Exhibit 3, the ODNI defensive 18 notification framework?
19 A So that framework only relates when the foreign influence campaign is 20 targeting against elections.
21 Q Okay.
22 A So we do different -- by way of the counterintelligence workforce at the FBI,
23 we do defensive briefings all the time outside the confines of election security.
24 More hypotheticals. If we have indication that a member of Congress is 25 potentially going to be targeted for recruitment by an intelligence officer, we would

1 defensively brief that congressman. If we have reporting that a government wants to 2 engage with congressman X to try to influence his or her policies with respect to that 3 country, we would do a defensive briefing. So defensive briefings are not just a tool for 4 election security.
5 Q So when you talked about the hundreds of times that you've given defensive
6 briefings, you're talking about the whole --
7 A The whole gamut.
8 Q -- of briefings that you've given?
9 A Correct.
10 Q How about with respect to election foreign interference?
11 A So I can't speak to that in this classification level.
12 Q Okay. You mean even the number of times?
13 A Even the number.
14 Q Okay. Let's -- I don't know if you've already said this. I apologize if you 15 already have.
16 But to the extent that you have given defensive notifications with respect -- that 17 relate to the election, have you strictly followed the framework described in Exhibit 3?
18 A We have. And when I say "we," because again, it's always an interagency
19 decision. So the IC always followed that framework.
20 Q Okay. And you were asked a series of questions about a particular 21 defensive briefing that you gave on August 6th, 2020, to -- I guess two briefings -- to 22 Senators Grassley and Johnson. Do you recall --
23 A I do.
24 Q -- those questions?
25 Now, those briefings were related to potential influence on the election. Is that

1 right?

2 A Correct.

3 Q And so those were made pursuant to the framework in Exhibit 3?

4 A Correct.

5 Q And with respect to those specific briefings, did you make those notifications

6 consistent with the principles that are described in Exhibit 3?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Consistent specifically with the principle that partisan politics shall not play a

9 role in the decision to provide the notification?

10 A Correct.

11 Q And you were asked about a letter, I think, that was already marked --

12 A Yes.

13 Q -- as Exhibit 1. This was the July 25th, 2022 --

14 I'm sorry. Is that the one that they marked?

15 Yeah. July 25th, 2022 letter sent by Mr. Grassley to Attorney General Garland

16 and Director Wray.

17 In that letter, there is the allegation that the defensive briefing that you gave on

18 August 6th was in response to calls from Democrats that you give that briefing. What is 19 your response to that allegation?

20 A It's not true. We provided the defensive briefing -- the IC made the 21 determination to provide the defensive briefing in response to intelligence that was

22 collected through intelligence channels.

23 Q Okay. And at the time that you gave the briefing, you weren't even aware

24 that there was a letter by certain Democrats in Congress asking for the whole-of-Congress

25 briefing?

1 A Not that I recall.

2 Q Okay. So is it fair to say that letter would have had no role at all?

3 A It would not have, no.

4 Q Okay. I'm going to mark this as Exhibit 4, please.

5 Okay. I'm marking for the record as Exhibit 4.

6 [Floris Exhibit No. 4

7 Was marked for identification.]

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q A letter dated July -- excuse me -- June 11th, 2021. This is a letter from

10 assistant director of the FBI, Jill Tyson, to Senator Charles Grassley, then ranking member

11 of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, and to Senator Ron Johnson.

12 Are you familiar with this letter?

13 A I am.

14 Q Okay. In the letter, Executive Director Tyson refers to the summer of 2020

15 defensive briefing. And in that letter, she states, quote, "The framework was applied

16 after the United States intelligence community received information pertaining to Russian

17 efforts to influence the 2020 Presidential Election."

18 Do you see that reference?

19 A I do.

20 Q And do you agree with that characterization of the reason for the briefing?

21 A I do.

22 Q AD Tyson continues, "The FBI, ODNI, Department of Defense, Department of 23 Homeland Security, and National Security Agency used the framework as our guide and 24 determined it was appropriate to provide defensive briefings to several members of 25 Congress related to Russia's malign foreign influence efforts," end quote.

1 Do you see that line in the letter?

2 A I do.

3 Q And do you agree that the framework, which we described in Exhibit 3, was

4 appropriately used in this instance to provide these defensive briefings related to malign

5 foreign influence in our election?

6 A I do agree.

7 Q And I think I've already gotten to this, but are you familiar with the

8 accusation that the defensive briefing was provided based on political and partisan

9 motivations?

10 A Only by the nature of questions today.

11 Q Okay. And what's your response to that allegation?

12 A I disagree with it. Again, we were driven by the intelligence that the IC had 13 collected. The IC made the determination that a defensive briefing was warranted.

14 Q Okay. I'm going to introduce as Exhibit 5 --

15 [Floris Exhibit No. 5

16 Was marked for identification.]

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q This is a statement from then National Counterintelligence and Security

19 Center Director William Evanina dated August 7th, 2020. It's entitled, "Election threat

20 update for the American people."

21 Take a minute to look at that and see if it's familiar to you, please.

22 A Yeah. I remember this coming out.

23 Q Let me know when you've had a chance to review it sufficiently.

24 A Yeah. I'm familiar with it.

25 Q Okay. Exhibit 5 is dated August 7th, 2020. Do you see that date?

1 A I do.

2 Q So that was the day after the briefings you gave to Senators Grassley and

3 Johnson, correct?

4 A It was, yes.

5 Q And this statement is a public notification as opposed to a private

6 notification --

7 A Sure.

8 Q -- which you gave to the senators, right?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And tell me if this is correct. Would this type of notification to the 11 public that relates to the election and possible foreign influence be made pursuant to the 12 framework in Exhibit 3?

13 A It should have. I don't recall if they actually had a principals-level meeting

14 as far as the details in this press release.

15 Q You wouldn't have been involved in that since you weren't a principal. Is

16 that fair to say?

17 A I wouldn't have been involved in the decision-making, correct.

18 Q Okay. But normally, the framework that's described in Exhibit 3 would 19 encompass the public notifications that related to elections and foreign influence?

20 A Correct.

21 Q Okay. So let's turn to the second page, and there's a highlighted portion 22 that has the title "Russia." Do you see that highlighted portion?

23 A I do.

24 Q Could you just read what's highlighted in the statement?

25 A Sure. "We assess that Russia is using a range of measures to primarily

1 denigrate former Vice President Biden and what it sees as an anti-Russia establishment.
2 This is consistent with Moscow's public criticism of him when he was Vice President for
3 his role in the Obama administration's policies on Ukraine and its support for the 4 anti-Putin opposition inside Russia. For example, pro-Russian Ukrainian parliamentarian
5 Andrii Derkach is spreading claims about corruption -- including through publicizing
6 leaked phone calls -- to undermine former Vice President Biden's candidacy and the 7 Democratic party. Some Kremlin-linked actors are also seeking to boost President
8 Trump's candidacy on social media and Russian television."
9 Q Okay. And are you familiar with that information coming out before the 10 2020 Election? Do you recall that statement being made public?
11 A I didn't recall the explicit details, but I remember generally the theme of that 12 going public.
13 Q Okay.
14 A There was also a press conference between then DNI Ratcliffe and Director
15 Wray, I believe, a little bit closer to the election that had similar themes as well.
16 Q Okay. And what -- in your experience, what is the purpose of providing this 17 public notification at that time?
18 A I can't speak to that. I would defer to ODNI on that since this was a
19 statement specifically from Mr. Evanina. This was not a joint statement, if I recall. So I
20 would refer to them as their motivations for pushing this public.
21 Q Okay. Well, his motivations aside -- again, referring back to Exhibit 3 -- that 22 statement of the framework for briefings, defensive briefings in relation to, you know,
23 foreign interference in U.S. elections, it talked about the reasons that those notifications
24 were given both to private individuals and to public individuals, right?
25 A Sure.

1 Q And one of the reasons that we already went over -- specifically with respect
2 to public notifications, it says, "Public exposure and attribution of foreign election
3 influence and interference can render these operations less effective."
4 Is it fair to say that the reason that this statement about Russia and specifically the 5 details about the kind of information that the Russian proxies were pushing -- the reason
6 that that was shared with the public was in an effort to harden the public against that 7 misinformation so that the influence operation could be less effective?
8 A Again, as this was an ODNI press release, I can't speak to if that was their end
9 goal. If they were following the framework, one could assume that that was their 10 intention, but I don't want to speak for ODNI or Mr. Evanina.
11 Q Okay. But you have no reason to believe that their motivation was 12 anything other than what's described in the framework in Exhibit 3?
13 A I do not.
14 Q Okay. There were some more questions I just wanted to see if we can drill
15 down on from the first hour.
16 I think someone asked you about the intelligence that was underlying the briefing
17 that you gave to Senators Grassley and Johnson. And I understand that you can't share 18 anything that's classified.
19 But the question that was posed to you in the earlier hour was whether that 20 intelligence was, quote, fresh, or, quote, a result of the hangover from 2016. Do you
21 recall that question?
22 A I do.
23 Q And you indicated it was fresh intelligence. Do you recall that answer?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And can you explain why you said it was fresh rather than, quote, a hangover

1 from 2016?

2 A The intelligence was more current. The intelligence was from 2020.

3 [redacted] Okay.

4 Can we go off the record?

5 [Discussion off the record.]

6 [redacted] Back on the record, please.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Okay. I'm going to mark for the record Exhibit 6.

9 [Floris Exhibit No. 6

10 Was marked for identification.]

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q Okay. This is a September 10th, 2020 Treasury Department press release

13 entitled, "Treasury sanctions Russia-linked election interference actors."

14 And take just a moment to look at that exhibit, and let me know when you've had 15 sufficient time to look at it.

16 A I'm familiar with this.

17 Q Okay. At the time that this notice came out on September 10th, 2020, did

18 you become aware of it then, or were you aware of it sometime later?

19 A I was aware of it around then. So as we had the intelligence coming

20 in -- and when I say "we," the intelligence community was looking at the intelligence

21 coming in -- each agency has different tools in their toolbox about how to render these

22 operations less effective. Certainly, Treasury's tool is designation or sanctions. So we

23 were aware that Treasury was going to move forward with the sanctions on Derkach.

24 Q Okay. This exhibit -- the press release states in the relevant part, quote,

25 "Treasury designated Andrii Derkach pursuant to Executive Order 13848 for his efforts to

1 influence the 2020 U.S. Presidential Election. Derkach, a member of the Ukrainian
2 Parliament, has been an active Russian agent for over a decade, maintaining close
3 connections with the Russian intelligence services. Derkach has directly or indirectly 4 engaged in, sponsored, concealed, or otherwise been complicit in foreign interference in 5 an attempt to undermine the upcoming 2020 Election," end quote.
6 Do you see that portion of the 2020 press release?
7 A I do.
8 Q So the concerning foreign influence operation that's motivating this Treasury
9 sanction is not a, quote, hangover from 2016. It's actually targeted at the 2020 Election.
10 Is that fair to say?
11 A That's correct.
12 Q And so at least from this information, it appears that the threat to U.S.
13 elections from foreign actors like Russia and foreign influence continued from 14 2016 -- before that even -- through 2020 and beyond. Is that fair to say?
15 A That's correct.
16 Q Are you aware that Mr. Giuliani, Rudy Giuliani, is an associate of Mr.
17 Derkach?
18 A Not to my knowledge.
19 Q Okay. Do you know who Mr. Derkach is?
20 A I do.
21 Q Who is he, in your experience?
22 A I would characterize him exactly as it's characterized in the Treasury memo.
23 He's a member of the Ukrainian Parliament. He has been an active Russian agent.
24 Pretty prolific in his foreign influence operations.
25 Q Okay. I'm going to mark as Exhibit 7.

1 [Floris Exhibit No. 7

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q A Daily Beast article entitled, "Rudy: Only 50-50 chance I worked with a

5 Russian spy to dig dirt on Bidens and Ukraine."

6 Have a look at that and let me know when you've had time to look at it.

7 A Okay.

8 Q Have you had a chance to review the article in Exhibit 7?

9 A I have.

10 Q Have you seen that article before?

11 A I have not. Not that I recall.

12 Q Okay. If you would turn to page 5, there's a highlighted portion at the very

13 top of page that begins with "Giuliani."

14 This article reports on an hour-long interview with Mr. Giuliani, in which

15 Mr. Giuliani said, quote, that he viewed his latest leak to the New York Post as an 16 extension of his years' long efforts to work with Ukrainians to dig up dirt on the Bidens."

17 Do you see that?

18 A I do.

19 Q Okay. I understand that you haven't seen this reporting before, but would

20 it have been concerning to you to learn that Rudy Giuliani viewed the leak of Hunter

21 Biden's laptop -- which is the subject of the New York Post article he references -- as an

22 extension of his years' long effort to work with Ukrainians to dig up dirt on the Bidens?

23 A I don't know if I would have much of an opinion on what Mr. Giuliani was 24 doing.

25 Q Well, focusing in on the difference that we discussed earlier between the

1 content of information that foreign sources are sending out into the world and the source
2 itself or the attribution to a foreign source, what would be most concerning to you from
3 the FBI?
4 Is it fair to say that if there's information out there that relates to U.S. elections,
5 your concern is that it's from a foreign source, not that the content is of any particular
6 nature? Is that fair to say?
7 A I would be more focused on the source of that information because it would
8 lead credibility that there was a nation-state actor behind the activity.
9 Q Okay.
10 A That's our concern. It's malign foreign influence.
11 Q Okay. And in this case -- I know that you don't know whether or not it's 12 true -- but if it were true that Mr. Giuliani was seeking information from Ukraine that 13 would affect the U.S. Election in 2020, would the fact that he's seeking it from a foreign 14 source be of concern to you?
15 A I mean, he's an American person. He certainly has the right to seek out
16 information.
17 Q He was also the President -- former President Trump's lawyer, correct?
18 A To my knowledge -- to be truthful, I don't really track the inner workings.
19 Q Okay. Well, if any U.S. citizen were seeking information from a foreign 20 source in order to influence the U.S. Election -- so taking something from a foreign source
21 to influence an American election -- would that be concerning to you?
22 A That would be concerning. More so if the foreign source was complicit,
23 and the U.S. person was doing it willingly at the behest of a foreign government
24 ultimately to participate in a foreign government's malign foreign influence operation.
25 Q So the fact that the government and the foreign company -- or foreign state had approached the U.S. citizen would be more concerning to you than if it was the other way around?

A Correct.

Q Okay. Do you know who Andrii Telizhenko is?

A Telizhenko, yes.

Q How do you say it?

A I say Telizhenko. I'm not a linguist. I could be wrong.

Q All right. I'm going to mark for the record as Exhibit 7 a Treasury Department press release dated January 11th, 2021.

Exhibit 8. I'm sorry. I already said seven.

[Floris Exhibit No. 8

Was marked for identification.]

Ms. Floris. I'm familiar with this as well.

BY [redacted]

Q Okay. So Exhibit 8 is a Treasury Department press release entitled, "Treasury takes further action against Russian-linked actors," dated January 11th, 2021.

At the top of the second page, the press release states that Telizhenko, quote, "orchestrated meetings between Derkach and U.S. persons to help propagate false claims concerning corruption in Ukraine."

Do you see that statement?

A I do.

Q So according to that statement, it appears that Telizhenko, who is a foreign agent, is the one who is doing the action, orchestrating meetings between Derkach, the other Ukrainian, and U.S. persons, and doing it for the purpose of propagating false claims concerning corruption in Ukraine. Is that a fair take on what this says?

1 A That is.

2 Q Okay. And is that concerning in your role at the FBI in fighting foreign

3 influence in our elections if it's true?

4 A It is. And, again, I go back to my previous point. Telizhenko being aligned

5 with a foreign intelligence service, that's really the concerning part of that.

6 Q Okay. This press release further states that Mr. Telizhenko was sanctioned,

7 quote, "for having directly or indirectly engaged in, sponsored, concealed, or otherwise

8 been complicit in foreign influence in the United States Election."

9 Do you see that portion highlighted?

10 A I do.

11 Q So that gets to what you were saying, right, that this is the whole heart of

12 what it is, what FBI's FITF and other IC efforts and law enforcement efforts are trying to 13 protect against, which is, you know, concealed foreign efforts to influence our elections?

14 Is that fair to say?

15 A That's fair.

16 Q And concealing is an important element of that, too, isn't it?

17 A It is. One of the main definitions of malign foreign influence is that it's 18 covert. It's undeclared.

19 Q And can you explain why it is that the FBI's concern is undeclared covert

20 actions versus overt foreign actions?

21 A Sure. So overt foreign actions would fall more into day-to-day diplomacy.

22 Meeting with diplomats, meeting with individuals who openly say, I am a member of a

23 foreign government. I am here to talk to you about U.S. policy toward this government.

24 That's diplomacy.

25 Where it becomes of investigative concern to the FBI and certainly a threat

1 concern to the intelligence community is when there is a subversive kind of covert nature
2 to that. When an individual is not outwardly recognizing, admitting to his affiliation with 3 an intelligence service or a foreign government.
4 Q And so that relates to some of what we said earlier when you talked about 5 the intention under Exhibit 3, the framework for notifications. The intention, again, is to 6 fortify the American public by giving them information, letting them know, making what 7 was covert overt. Is that fair to say? Like, letting them have the information and giving 8 them transparency kind of protects against the harm that the FBI is trying to defend 9 against?
10 A Yes.
11 Q That was a lot of words.
12 A That was a lot of words. I wouldn't use the term "covert" and "overt" with 13 how we notify the American public. It's more just public notification versus classified
14 intelligence reporting that, for some reason, the IC is not comfortable sharing or we don't 15 think the American public have a need to know for that information.
16 Q Okay. Mr. Telizhenko is also an associate of Rudy Giuliani. Are you aware 17 of that?
18 A Not that I recall, but --
19 Q Okay. If he were -- Mr. Telizhenko associating and providing information to 20 the lawyer to the President of the United States, again, could that be of concern if 21 Mr. Telizhenko was the one initiating that contact and passing on that information?
22 A That would be of concern.
23 [redacted] I'm going to go off the record. Thank you.
24 [Recess.]
25 Mr. Gaetz. It is 12:01. We're back on the record.

1 Ms. Floris, I want to draw your attention to Exhibit 3. And in this doctrine, it goes
2 over how defensive briefings should be given.
3 The third paragraph begins, "Public exposure and attribution of foreign election
4 interference and interference can render these operations less effective."
5 Do you agree with that statement?
6 Ms. Floris. For the most part, yes.
7 Mr. Gaetz. Why?
8 Ms. Floris. So if we -- and, again, speaking hypotheticals here. If we were to 9 notify the American public that a disinformation campaign indicating the voting system in 10 Idaho is not working, if we say it is in fact working, that's disinformation, that would 11 render the operation hopefully less effective.
12 Mr. Gaetz. Is there a deterrent effect to outing these foreign influence 13 operations directed at our elections?
14 Ms. Floris. I think there can be. I think it can sometimes add fuel to the fire.
15 Oftentimes, when we get reporting, there's benefit to it being classified and not a whole
16 lot of people seeing it. You don't flame the fire, for example. There is potential if you
17 go public with some sort of foreign influence campaign, it just adds fire to it. More 18 people actually see the information than would have seen it had we not gone public with 19 it.
20 Mr. Gaetz. So does part of the going public or not going public analysis involve 21 how in the public sphere the information is already?
22 Ms. Floris. To some extent. It's really hard to measure, though, and quantify
23 how much a narrative has gotten out to the public sphere because we don't monitor 24 content. So that's -- and when I say "we," the IC. That's a very difficult thing to 25 quantify.

1 Mr. Gaetz. The IC doesn't need a intelligence report to say that it's raining. I
2 mean, if something is major news throughout the country, seemingly outing it as foreign
3 interference would deter future foreign actors from engaging in that type of malign
4 behavior, right?
5 Ms. Floris. That is a possibility, yes.
6 Mr. Gaetz. So we've talked a lot about Russia, but in the Evanina report, there
7 were other countries that engaged in foreign interference, too, right?
8 Ms. Floris. Yes, absolutely.
9 Mr. Gaetz. And one of the countries is the People's Republic of China, right?
10 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir.
11 Mr. Gaetz. And so between the election and the swearing in, did Vice President
12 Pence request a briefing regarding the election activities of the PRC?
13 Ms. Floris. Not to my knowledge.
14 Mr. Gaetz. I want to be very precise here.
15 Did you -- were you ever involved in any decision to not give the Vice President a 16 PRC briefing on election interference between the election and the swearing in of 17 President Biden?
18 [redacted] I want to, just before the witness answers, point out for the record
19 that the scope of this interview was the briefings provided to Senators Grassley and 20 Johnson. And to the extent that there are additional questions that she has a 21 recollection about and would like to answer, that's fine, but we're sort of well beyond the 22 scope.
23 Mr. Gaetz. Well, I would disagree. I mean, you're here voluntarily, but I would 24 strongly disagree with that categorization because inherent in the decisions vis-à-vis
25 Grassley and Johnson is the paradigm that overlays when a defensive briefing is given,

1 when one is not, and what policies and doctrines exist at the Bureau to guide those
2 decisions. So --
3 [redacted] You're asking about a very specific briefing additionally, which is 4 beyond the scope of what we discussed with staff. Again, if the witness would like to 5 answer, she may, but --
6 Mr. Gaetz. Yeah. I just want to make sure -- we both made our point for the 7 record in the event that we have to utilize that in the committee process.
8 But as you testified here today voluntarily, you can say with certainty that you
9 were not involved in a decision to deny Vice President Pence a defensive briefing vis-à-vis
10 the PRC?
11 Ms. Floris. To my knowledge, I have no recollection of that.
12 Mr. Gaetz. And do you recall whether or not a similar briefing was requested by 13 Vice President Harris?
14 Ms. Floris. I do not recall that.
15 Mr. Gaetz. So you talked in the last hour about the source of the information
16 being really central to how the FBI thinks about these things, right?
17 Ms. Floris. How the IC thinks about these things.
18 Mr. Gaetz. Right. Of which the FITF is a part?
19 Ms. Floris. Yes.
20 Mr. Gaetz. FITF doesn't have a separate doctrine from the rest of the IC on these 21 things, do they?
22 Ms. Floris. We do not.
23 Mr. Gaetz. So -- and you testified earlier that if a U.S. person is doing something 24 at the behest of a foreign government, that would fall within the envelope of needing to 25 make a decision regarding a defensive briefing?

1 Ms. Floris. Correct.

2 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So is a consulate official's involvement in the criminal

3 shakedown of a U.S. lawmaker election interference?

4 Ms. Floris. Repeat the question, sir.

5 Mr. Gaetz. Does a consulate official's involvement in the criminal shakedown of 6 a U.S. lawmaker election interference?

7 Ms. Floris. I can't speak to that. It depends on the motivation of that consulate

8 official, his intentions.

9 Mr. Gaetz. Well, what -- I guess we'll go from the hypothetical to the specific.

10 I want to mark as Exhibit 9 what purports to be a text message from then Israeli 11 consulate official Jake Novak to Scott Adams, who is the Gilbert cartoonist.

12 [Floris Exhibit No. 9

13 Was marked for identification.]

14 Mr. Gaetz. And I'll draw your attention to the fourth text in this chain where it

15 says, "The real documents do not extort, and we only asked for 25 million as an estimate

16 at first. We came way down."

17 Are you familiar with this text chain?

18 Ms. Floris. I am not.

19 Mr. Gaetz. So I'll represent to you that this text involves the criminal matter that 20 resulted in Steven Alford going to prison for trying to shake down my family.

21 Are you familiar with that matter?

22 Ms. Floris. I am not.

23 Mr. Gaetz. So you were the head of the entity under which the FITF sits in 2021,

24 right?

25 Ms. Floris. Correct.

1 Mr. Gaetz. So I will mark as Exhibit 10 a statement from the consulate of Israel.

2 [Floris Exhibit No. 10

3 Was marked for identification.]

4 Mr. Gaetz. Are you familiar with this document?

5 Ms. Floris. I am not.

6 Mr. Gaetz. So here, the consulate general of the Government of Israel in New

7 York is verifying that one of their staffers sent a text message that relates to this criminal

8 shakedown of $25 million of my family. And this is the first you're learning of this?

1 [12:08 p.m.]

2 Ms. Floris. It is.

3 Mr. Gaetz. At no point did any -- did anyone at the FITF ever even analyze

4 whether or not a consulate official for a foreign government being involved in the 5 shakedown of my family was the foreign interference into my reelection?

6 Ms. Floris. Not to my knowledge.

7 Mr. Gaetz. Well, isn't this the type of thing that normally would be directly

8 within the paradigm of a defensive briefing as outlined by exhibit 3?

9 Ms. Floris. Without specifics, sir, and not having knowledge of what this is, I

10 can't speak to that.

11 Mr. Gaetz. So how would you respond to the criticism that if it's Russia, if it's

12 something that comports with the Evanina memo, that you were really involved and

13 really active and really engaged, but if it's a Republican being targeted, if it's me, there's a

14 foreign official involved in trying to shake my family down, you have no knowledge of 15 that, were never involved? Does that seem to be disparate application of the doctrine

16 laid out in exhibit 3?

17 Ms. Floris. So, sir, the doctrine laid out in exhibit 3 is specific to elections. If I

18 recall, you noted that this was in 2021.

19 Mr. Gaetz. Yes. I was a candidate for reelection in 2021.

20 Ms. Floris. So I'm not familiar with it, looking at this. With extortion, it sounds

21 more on the criminal side of the house, just I --

22 Mr. Gaetz. Well, it's a foreign government official. How is it a criminal matter

23 and not a counterintelligence matter when you have the consul of the state of Israel

24 saying our employee sent these messages? Does it have -- does it -- strike that question.

25 Does it have to be an even numbered year for it to be election interference?

1 Ms. Floris. It does not.

2 Mr. Gaetz. So if I was a candidate for reelection in 2021, why would this not

3 qualify?

4 Ms. Floris. Again, sir, I don't know the details of it, so I can't answer that

5 question.

6 Mr. Gaetz. Why didn't I get a defensive briefing?

7 Ms. Floris. Again, sir, I can't speak to that.

8 Mr. Gaetz. Well, let's go over exhibit 3 then. The Federal Government is 9 committed to protecting our democratic process, institutions, economy, and the 10 American public from foreign malign influence. Of particular concern are the intentions

11 and activities of foreign governments and persons acting on their behalf.

12 So why did you not investigate this?

13 [redacted] Respectfully, these questions about why a briefing may not have

14 been provided per the framework are best directed to ODNI, and I think it's inappropriate

15 to raise questions to the FBI in this forum.

16 Mr. Gaetz. Well, why can't I ask the FBI questions about why they didn't -- why

17 they didn't provide a defensive briefing on one matter as opposed to another so that the 18 committee can understand how to assess the FBI's conduct?

19 [redacted] Sir, you can ask the question, but as the witness has said, the 20 decision to provide a defensive briefing is not made by the FBI. So you have an FBI

21 witness here. If you have questions about the decision under ODNI, go to ODNI.

22 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So ODNI never had concern regarding this consulate official

23 trying to shakedown my family?

24 Ms. Floris. I can't speak to whether or not they did, sir. If they --

25 Mr. Gaetz. They never expressed one to you?

1 Ms. Floris. Correct, yes.

2 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. But doesn't the FBI investigate when -- I mean, you went -- in 3 the last hour, we went over these points you made about how when a U.S. person is 4 doing something at the behest of a foreign government that impacts elections, that the 5 FBI does have equities in that, right?

6 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir.

7 Mr. Gaetz. So why would those equities not have applied here?

8 Ms. Floris. Again, I can't speak to why they didn't.

9 Mr. Gaetz. But doesn't it look ridiculous to you that the gaze of the FBI appears
10 to be weaponized in some areas over partisanship?

11 Ms. Floris. Again, it -- having the FBI being -- claim that we were being 12 weaponized for partisan politics certainly does not sit well with me. I --

13 Mr. Gaetz. But isn't part of the discretion of the Foreign Influence Task Force 14 choosing when to give defensive briefings and when not to?

15 Ms. Floris. So that's not just the Foreign Influence Task Force. It's the entire 16 intelligence community.

17 Mr. Gaetz. But the Foreign Influence Task Force has equities there, right?

18 Ms. Floris. We are part of that conversation, correct.

19 Mr. Gaetz. And you chose to engage in that process with Senator Grassley and 20 Senator Johnson, right? That was a choice you made?

21 Ms. Floris. The IC chose to engage, yes, sir.

22 Mr. Gaetz. And FITF agreed with that choice to engage?

23 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir.

24 Mr. Gaetz. They didn't dissent to that choice to engage?

25 Ms. Floris. Correct.

1 Mr. Gaetz. So in this process, as played out like with Johnson and Grassley, does
2 the FITF ever initiate the need for this interagency process to occur?
3 Ms. Floris. I can't recall if we ever did in 2020. We certainly can. So part of 4 the notification framework is that any agency can nominate any agency's reporting into 5 the process. I don't recall. I know for, specific for Senator Johnson and Grassley, the 6 FBI was not the nominating entity. We did not nominate the reporting into the CAG.
7 And for --
8 Mr. Gaetz. Who did?
9 Ms. Floris. For details on that, I was just about to say, sir, would again defer you
10 to ODNI who's got the record on all of this.
11 Mr. Gaetz. I guess, why didn't the FITF report this information regarding clear 12 election interference regarding me and my family and a criminal shakedown into that 13 system?
14 Ms. Floris. Again, I can't speak to that. I -- I don't --
15 Mr. Gaetz. Why can't you speak to it? You were in charge of the entity.
16 Ms. Floris. Because I don't have details about the specific activity. This is the 17 first time I'm hearing about it. That doesn't mean that -- 18 Mr. Gaetz. This led every news outlet for weeks in this country. And you're 19 saying that the FBI was like ostrich head in the sand on it. You have literally foreign 20 government --
21 [redacted] That's not what she said, and she's answered the question.
22 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. Fine. But you have a foreign government acknowledging 23 their involvement, and you didn't -- you didn't act on this at all, did you?
24 Ms. Floris. I personally did not. Again, sir, I can't speak for the whole of FBI on 25 this matter or the whole of the IC on this matter.

1 Mr. Gaetz. Have you ever heard the name Bob Kent?

2 Ms. Floris. No, sir.

3 Mr. Gaetz. How does the FITF interact with the media?

4 Ms. Floris. So media -- and, again, are you talking specific to 2020, sir, or just in

5 general?

6 Mr. Gaetz. Generally.

7 Ms. Floris. In general, our media engagements are usually done with the 8 interagency, so with the same partners that we work on in the defensive notification

9 framework, primarily CISA and DHS. If we get a request from the media to respond to a

10 question, we go through the channels that everyone in the FBI does, through our Office of 11 Public Affairs. Anything we do has to be coordinated with them. Anything we do has 12 to be coordinated with the interagency.

13 But under my tenure in the FITF -- and, again, I can't speak to what they're doing

14 currently, sir, or what they did in the midterms. Under my tenure, media engagements

15 were few and far between.

16 Mr. Gaetz. During your leadership of the FITF, were you ever aware of 17 circumstances where anyone on the FITF spoke with the media directly?

18 Ms. Floris. Not without authorization and approval from our Office of Public

19 Affairs.

20 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. And how frequently did that authorization occur?

21 Ms. Floris. For me personally, I had participated in, I think, two media

22 backgrounders over the course of, you know, 3.5 -- 3.5 years on the job. I don't really

23 remember. There was maybe one other media backgrounder that I think one of my 24 leaders underneath me did.

25 Mr. Gaetz. What's a backgrounder?

1 Ms. Floris. A backgrounder, I believe in -- a backgrounder is when it's not
2 televised. We give our briefing. Folks from the media can call in and listen to it. My
3 name is not attributed to it, for example, so it's on background. So it would say
4 something along the lines of FBI senior official said X, Y, and Z, as opposed to me being in 5 front of the camera doing like a very formal press conference.
6 Mr. Gaetz. And in those backgrounders that you participated in, what was the 7 subject?
8 Ms. Floris. At least from the FBI perspective, it was my job to just talk about 9 what the FBI was doing to secure the elections, which generally I spoke about the role of 10 the FITF, engagements with our field offices, and State and local partners, very high level, 11 you know, here's what we're doing about it. I believe the other agencies involved had 12 very similar tone and tenor as well.
13 Mr. Gaetz. Was it about Russian malign influence?
14 Ms. Floris. I don't believe we got into any of the threats; if we did, it would have 15 been ODNI. I just can't recall if they were on the call, and I don't have their script for 16 that.
17 Mr. Gaetz. Do you remember the media outlets that participated?
18 Ms. Floris. I do not. I don't believe the FBI organized either of the two media
19 engagements I was involved in.
20 Mr. Gaetz. If you had seen, which apparently you did not, a foreign government 21 discussing their staffer being involved in something that resulted in someone going to 22 prison for a criminal shakedown, is that the type of thing that under the normal course of 23 business at the FITF you would utilize to trigger this interagency process to administer 24 defensive briefing?
25 Ms. Floris. Possibly. Again, without the details. You know, generally

1 speaking, if we have any reporting about a foreign government and/or its proxies
2 ultimately targeting a Member of Congress, that is certainly of concern to the Foreign
3 Influence Task Force. If the reporting was explicit in that it indicated that targeting was 4 intended to influence the outcome of your election, then, yes, that is something that
5 sounds like it would go through the defensive notification framework. But, again, I
6 just -- I don't know -- I don't know the details.
7 Mr. Gaetz. How long have you been in counterintelligence?
8 Ms. Floris. Well, I'm no longer in counterintelligence. I was over there for 9 about 3 --
10 Mr. Gaetz. Throughout your career, how many years have you spent in 11 counterintelligence?
12 Ms. Floris. About 3.5 years.
13 Mr. Gaetz. Oftentimes, do -- in your experience in the counterintelligence world,
14 are consulates of foreign governments at times hubs of malign activity?
15 Ms. Floris. They are.
16 Mr. Gaetz. Frequently, right?
17 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir.
18 Mr. Gaetz. And is it your typical experience, in your extensive background in 19 counterintelligence, that people who work at consulates moonlight and go on their own
20 operations in the absence of guidance from the consulate?
21 Ms. Floris. That can happen, yes.
22 Mr. Gaetz. Well, when you observe malign activity from an official who works at 23 a consulate, do you start with the assumption that that person is acting at the direction of 24 a foreign government or do you start with the assumption that that person is acting of 25 their own volition?

1 Ms. Floris. It really depends on the intelligence traffic. Sometimes we get lucky
2 and we have reporting indicating that country X wants to influence U.S. policy related to 3 this, and then we've got the more explicit reporting about the individual from the 4 consulate that seems to align with it. If that's the case, we would assume there's some 5 sort of direction.
6 Sometimes we only have a reporting about the individual at the consulate, and we 7 can't confirm through the intelligence community that there's any link between that 8 individual and higher levels of government, and then one would assume he's acting at the 9 behest of his own ambition. So really, sir, it just depends on the intelligence.
10 Mr. Gaetz. Very helpful answer, but wouldn't one have to conduct some inquiry
11 or investigation to ascertain whether or not an individual was acting of their own volition
12 or at the behest of their employer foreign government?
13 Ms. Floris. Yes, there would have to be some legwork to be done to make that 14 assumption.
15 Mr. Gaetz. And the absence of that legwork having happened in the matter that 16 we've been discussing regarding Israel seems alarming.
17 [redacted] That's not what she testified.
18 Are you aware?
19 Mr. Gaetz. No.
20 [redacted] She's not aware either way.
21 Ms. Floris. I'm just -- I personally, sir, am just not aware of this story. That 22 doesn't mean that --
23 Mr. Gaetz. That's kind of the point. That's kind of what I'm -- that's what I'm 24 getting at is that a lack of awareness and inquiry seems to inform on the committee's 25 concern about this -- about the FITF being weaponized for political reasons --

1 Ms. Floris. No.

2 Mr. Gaetz. -- and then partic- -- and then explicitly in omissions similar

3 weaponized. That's our concern.

4 Ms. Floris. So, again, sir, I personally am not aware of this. That doesn't mean

5 that folks who worked beneath me in the FITF or in the Counterintelligence Division or

6 perhaps in the Criminal Division were not working it. I just -- I personally don't know, sir.

7 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So now I want to understand the chain of command as to

8 how things get to you. So if malign activity is directed at a sitting Member of Congress,

9 is that typically something resolved by a person below you on the org chart or is that

10 something that would typically be brought to you?

11 Ms. Floris. It really depends.

12 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. And what would it depend on?

13 Ms. Floris. The severity of the activity, actions we need to take on the activity, if 14 we have corroborating reporting, if this is the first time we've seen this.

15 Mr. Gaetz. Or corroborating admission from the Israeli consulate would 16 seemingly be sufficient predicate for an investigation, wouldn't it?

17 Ms. Floris. It does. But, again, sir --

18 Mr. Gaetz. It does.

19 Ms. Floris. -- I can't speak to this. And, you know, my apologies that I don't

20 have information on this. I don't want to talk in hypotheticals as far as what would have

21 been done. I just -- I don't know. And I know that's a frustrating response, sir, but 22 that -- I personally don't know, and I can't speak for the whole of the FBI.

23 Mr. Gaetz. Are there any other circumstances -- leaving this aside, are there any

24 other circumstances you're aware of where decisions regarding the targeting of a sitting

25 Member of Congress were made at the FITF at a level below you?

1 Ms. Floris. Decisions as far as opening cases --

2 Mr. Gaetz. Decisions regarding whether or not to trigger the interagency process

3 with ODNI and others to administer a defensive briefing.

4 Ms. Floris. Those decisions would have had to come up to me eventually by the

5 policy of the framework because I'm in the experts group. It would have come up to

6 me.

7 Mr. Gaetz. So anytime there's going to be action, it's got to go through you on

8 the FITF to trigger that defensive briefing. And the Johnson-Grassley matter did come to 9 you and you did agree that -- or that came to you through the interagency process, but

10 you agreed with that assessment?

11 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir.

12 Mr. Gaetz. And this never came to you?

13 Ms. Floris. No, sir.

14 Mr. Gaetz. Those are my questions.

15 Mrs. Spartz. Just to follow up about you saying not politicizing, just also not a

16 hypothetical. You are maybe not one that knows this. But do you think -- I had a

17 situation with your agency where actually because I questioned oversight of our aid to

18 Ukraine, Ukrainian Government openly attacked me through social media during my

19 election, through TV, writing hit articles through CNN.

20 Do you think something like that I should have gotten some defensive briefing

21 from FBI not just from some people? Do you think that's something as a Member of 22 Congress I should have been briefed from your assessment?

23 Ms. Floris. So this is actually a question I've gotten quite a bit, and, you know, I

24 certainly appreciate the question, ma'am. If -- and, again, we'll talk in hypotheticals

25 because I'm not familiar specifically with your situation.

1 If we had intelligence reporting, so through established intelligence channels, that
2 Ukrainian actors were going to target you specifically through some sort of social media
3 campaign, that does sound like something that we would do a defensive briefing for you
4 about because you would be specifically referenced in intelligence traffic.
5 Now, if we didn't have that side of the story, ma'am, if we didn't have the actors
6 and all we had was social media content that you deemed to be disinformation, that is 7 not something we would engage in because we don't start with content.
8 Mrs. Spartz. But if it's an official government account of the Ukrainian 9 Government, if this information exists, you don't monitor that?
10 Ms. Floris. We do not monitor that, no. We are not in the habit of monitoring 11 social media.
12 Mrs. Spartz. So unless your analyst knows information internally that you 13 believe from some sources received, you know, you don't look into this information of 14 what's happening. So your CIA, all these people don't look into further when they see 15 this potential attack by foreign governments on U.S.-elected official, you know, you don't 16 look at that. So you don't have people looking into that and causes of that?
17 Ms. Floris. I can only speak for what the FBI does, ma'am. We start with the 18 actors, the foreign actors. That's the nature of the malign foreign influence operation.
19 And we look at intelligence traffic. We don't start from social media and open source;
20 we start with the actors. And, again, if we had information and intelligence channels
21 that the Ukrainian Government through their social media accounts, their official media
22 statements were seeking to undermine you and your credibility, that does sound like 23 something wherein we would provide you a defensive briefing.
24 Mrs. Spartz. So since I wasn't provided, even after I requested and I had even 25 signs they were there, so it means that I could assume that they made assessment that it

1 wasn't targeting, right? Because I even did a special request to FBI to brief me on that.

2 Ms. Floris. I don't like --

3 Mrs. Spartz. Since they never did that. So you're assuming that they decided it

4 was not a problem?

5 Ms. Floris. I don't want to assume anything, ma'am. That is something we can

6 certainly look into. I don't know your specific situation.

7 Mrs. Spartz. It seems like it's a double standard, but I understand that you are 8 not on the decision-making. But it seems it's a double standard, but thank you.

9 Ms. Floris. Sure.

10 Mr. Gaetz. Mr. Biggs has some questions.

11 Mr. Biggs. Thanks. Andy Biggs here, Arizona's 5th Congressional District.

12 Thanks for being here today.

13 Ms. Floris. Sure.

14 Mr. Biggs. I want to go back to, I think it is exhibit 3. It's that memo. And it

15 talks specifically about public exposure and attribution of foreign election influence.

16 And the public exposure I think is really interesting to me, how you get there, who makes

17 the decisions, what kind of public notice or information do you put out there.

18 And so we've seen the -- our colleagues have given us three of those. One

19 is -- and I don't know if this is related to this, but it says an ODNI news release -- and this 20 is the one from William Evanina, right?

21 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir.

22 Mr. Biggs. That's the first one. Is that -- was that in conjunction with this?

23 Does that fit into this? Because it's an ODNI news release.

24 Ms. Floris. It does not, sir. So I believe the date on the press release is 25 August 7th.

1 Mr. Biggs. Yes.

2 Ms. Floris. And it only has the ODNI seal on it. So that is not an official

3 interagency press release. That was a decision that I would certainly defer to 4 Mr. Evanina and ODNI as to why they put that out.

5 Mr. Biggs. Okay. All right. And this one seems to be just from Treasury, and

6 this is the one, "Treasury Sanctions Russia-Linked Election Interference Actors." That's

7 just Treasury?

8 Ms. Floris. Yes, sir. So a little bit of background, as we were getting the 9 reporting and we were trying to determine what steps the interagency needed to take.

10 So obviously the FBI provided the defensive briefing, Mr. Evanina in ODNI put out the 11 press release. Treasury, one of their best tools against foreign actors is certainly the 12 sanctions process, so they moved forward with sanctions and made the determination to 13 push out the press release.

14 Mr. Biggs. Okay. All right. And then in this one, this is January 11th. This is

15 where they go after several others: Konstantin Kulyk, Oleksandr Onyshchenko, and 16 Andriy Telizhenko, and back to Dubinsky as well. So this is -- this one is January '21.

17 Same level, right? Is that -- this is Treasury as well.

18 Ms. Floris. That's Treasury, sir, and that's --

19 Mr. Biggs. That's not -- that's not interagency?

20 Ms. Floris. Treasury certainly makes the determination on who and when they

21 sanction, but it's driven by the same intelligence and reporting that the IC sees.

22 Mr. Biggs. So those last couple weren't actually -- they were just press releases

23 about sanctions that Treasury was doing. It has nothing to do with the interagency

24 cooperative, right?

25 Ms. Floris. It was -- it was discussed in the interagency but more along the lines

1 of what can each agency do to protect ourselves against this activity, and Treasury has 2 the tool sanctions.
3 Mr. Biggs. All right. Then I want to go to -- from there to another exhibit that 4 our colleagues put in, and that was the piece from The Daily Beast, which I think is an
5 interesting piece. I don't want to spend too much time on it, but it's just -- it's kind of 6 weird.
7 But here we go, and I've got to ask you these things because of how they use the 8 article. So it's this: So they focus on this hard drive or the computer that Mr. Giuliani 9 is supposed to be using to influence the election and they use his comments to say he 10 was trying to influence the election and he is buddies with somebody in Ukraine.
11 So how long did the FBI have that laptop prior to the 2020 election, do you know?
12 Ms. Floris. I don't know. I don't know what laptop the article was referring to.
13 Mr. Biggs. It's the one that Hunter Biden left with -- and it's referred to in this 14 article -- with a computer repairman in Connecticut.
15 Ms. Floris. I -- I don't have any details about the laptop.
16 Mr. Biggs. Okay. And the reason I bring it up is because -- and I'll get to some 17 other issues in just a sec -- is that laptop has now been -- your agency, I believe, has said
18 that it's legitimately Hunter Biden's, and Hunter Biden's attorneys have actually 19 acknowledged that in pleadings to the court. So it kind of undermines this notion of 20 someone actually creating disinformation, which leads to my question.
21 How do you determine -- I know you've indicated that you guys look at 22 primarily -- initially you look at the source, but -- and if that information that that 23 source -- if the source is whacky but otherwise providing real information that's accurate, 24 what do you do with that?
25 Ms. Floris. That's a tough question. Again, we start with the intelligence

1 collection, you know, we assess the sourcing of it. If we think it's credible, accurate,
2 reliable, then we'll action it.
3 Mr. Biggs. What information? So if the source is otherwise -- you believe the 4 source to be incredible, but they're putting information out there, what do you do to 5 assess the validity or credibility or veracity of that information?
6 Ms. Floris. Oftentimes, you know, the IC will see if there's any corroborating
7 information. That's usually a good start. If it's a new source, if it's a source that's 8 provided false information before, that's usually where we'll try to see, okay, is there any 9 other information that corroborates this story, is somewhat related to this story. But 10 that's part of the job is -- in the intelligence community and our work as analysts.
11 Mr. Biggs. So we get to the point, I guess, that I want to -- rather, I'll probably 12 ineloquently and inartfully make, and that is, mistakes can happen as you assess, because 13 if you think somebody's incredible and they're providing actually what turns out to be 14 credible information, but you determine that because the credibility of the source and 15 there's no corroborating -- immediately available corroborating evidence, you put out a 16 public statement of misinfor- -- that this is misinformation. What -- would that 17 be -- would not that be a mistake if it turns out to be true?
18 Ms. Floris. We -- and when I say we, the IC -- would not go as so far as to push 19 out public information if it's a source that we deemed not credible. That would likely be 20 a step too far. So if we have source -- if we have reporting from a source that has not
21 been validated, that does not seem to be credible, we may share that information
22 throughout the IC; we would not likely share that information with the American public, 23 but that's --
24 Mr. Biggs. So let me -- let me give you an example. So -- and I'm going to use
25 the hypothetical that a Presidential candidate's son has left a laptop in a repair shop, and

1 on that laptop is incredibly damaging material to the President's -- that Presidential 2 candidate, or some would say it is damaging. Comes into the hands of the FBI, and 3 somebody else publicly says, you've got the laptop, it's incredibly damaging, and the 4 information is valid and good and belongs to this individual. Are you guys going
5 to -- what are you going to do at that point if that -- with that laptop?
6 Ms. Floris. I can't speak to that, sir, what we would do with that laptop. You
7 know, I don't have any knowledge of said laptop. I can't talk hypothetically about what 8 we would have done or not have done with that laptop.
9 Mr. Biggs. All right. The point, I guess, ultimately is, if you made a 10 determination and -- that because the source was incredible and there was no 11 independent verifying information what they were saying, if you thought it was going to 12 impact an election, would you then put out information saying we believe this 13 information is bad and could impact the election, or are you going to just say we're going 14 to sit on it, we're going to be quiet because we just don't know what that 15 information -- whether it's credible or not?
16 Ms. Floris. I can't speak to it, and, again, it wouldn't have been an FBI-only 17 decision.
18 Mr. Biggs. Okay. So that leads me to my -- well, you're going to tell me that 19 this is Department of Treasury so you can't really answer that. But I am curious to know
20 if you -- because I think you said that you guys did have discussions interagencywise
21 with -- about what was going on with these Derkach's inner circle, what's in the -- in this
22 press release called Derkach's inner circle, in particular with former general prosecutor
23 Konstantin Kulyk. Did you discuss in your group the prosecutor -- former prosecutor
24 general Kulyk at all? Do you remember --
25 Ms. Floris. Not that I recall.

1 Mr. Biggs. Okay. All right. I'm going to let it -- are you going to talk about
2 Bobulinski?
3 [redacted] We actually had some -- yeah, we're going to get into that a bit
4 later, Congressman.
5 Mr. Biggs. All right. Thank you very much.
6 Ms. Floris. Thank you, sir.
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q Ms. Floris, do you recall receiving a letter addressed to you and Bradley
9 Benavides from Senators Grassley and Johnson dated August 25th, 2022?
10 A Vaguely.
11 [Floris exhibit No. 11
12 Was marked for identification.]
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Okay. I'm going to show you what's been marked as exhibit 11. And that 15 exhibit is the aforementioned August 25th --
16 A Yes.
17 Q -- 2022 letter. So I'd like to go through this letter and have you respond to 18 the Senators' allegations and concerns. But first, having reviewed this letter, do you 19 recall receiving this?
20 A I do.
21 Q Okay. How was this transmitted to you?
22 A Probably via email from my Office of Congressional Affairs.
23 Q Okay. Do you recall if you responded in any way to that office when you
24 received this letter?
25 A To the Office of Congressional Affairs?

1 Q Yes.

2 A I'll usually respond "I received the letter," but defer to them on how to

3 action any correspondence.

4 Q Given that, what did they -- what, if anything, did they suggest you do in

5 response to this letter?

6 [redacted] Well, the witness is not authorized to discuss internal deliberations

7 about how to respond to a different Member of Congress.

8 [redacted] So is that the basis -- are you directing her not to answer the

9 question?

10 [redacted] It's -- yes, and it's out of scope.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q So let's go through this letter and get your response. Directing your

13 attention to the second sentence of the first page, the Senator states: As we have

14 publicly and privately stated to you and Director Wray since the briefing, the briefing was

15 unnecessary and was only done because of pressure from our Democratic colleagues,

16 including Democratic leadership, to falsely attack our Biden investigation as advancing

17 Russian disinformation.

18 Did the one or either -- did one or both Senators state this to you in the briefing

19 you gave them on August 6, 2020?

20 A I don't recall.

21 Q You don't recall whether or not they said the briefing was a result of 22 Democratic pressure?

23 A I don't re- -- I don't believe they said that to me, no. Again, what stands

24 outs in the briefing is what I previously noted.

25 Q Well, then I have to ask, is this characterization false?

1 A It is completely false. The briefing was done because of the intelligence
2 that the IC received and determined warranted a defensive briefing.
3 Q And is it also false that these -- is it your testimony that the Senators did not
4 say this to you?
5 A My testimony is that I don't recall the Senator saying this to me, but, again, it
6 was 3 years ago at this point.
7 Q Well, let me ask you: You would agree it's a very serious allegation?
8 A It is a very serious allegation.
9 Q So it stands to reason that might stand out to you given the briefings you've 10 done over time, right?
11 A The thing that stood out the most was the screaming and pounding on the 12 table and threatening to subpoena me.
13 Q And that was from Senator Johnson?
14 A Yes, sir.
15 Q Not from Senator Grassley?
16 A Correct.
17 Q You would agree that being accused by a United States Senator of providing 18 a politically motivating briefing to advance one party over the other is quite serious?
19 A Yes.
20 Q Let's go to page 2, the last paragraph. Next, the Senators state, quote, 21 With respect to the substance of the briefing, it consisted primarily of information that 22 we already knew and information unconnected to our Biden investigation.
23 Did either of the Senators express this to you?
24 A Again, I don't recall.
25 Q How do you respond to this allegation?

1 A So it's interesting, late July and early August, so July 30th through
2 August 5th, the FBI, along with our colleagues from the IC, provided all Member briefings
3 on election -- threats to the election, which included certainly Russia as a topic. I don't 4 know if Senators Grassley and Johnson attended those briefings, but the context of those 5 was similar into the context of the defensive briefings.
6 The difference was the notion that those Senators were explicitly referenced in 7 the reporting. So some of the information, had they attended those briefings -- and,
8 again, I can't confirm if they were in the room -- had they attended those briefings may 9 have sounded similar in content.
10 Q Okay. Building off of what they state here, was the information you
11 conveyed to the Senators unconnected to the Biden investigation that they were 12 performing?
13 A It was not given in relation to the investigation they were performing.
14 Q Okay. Let's go to page 3, top of -- excuse me. Let me make sure I'm 15 reading the correct -- oh, I can't find my space. Give me a moment.
16 A No worries. Could I possibly have another bottle of water?
17 Q Of course.
18 A Thank you. I talk a lot but not usually this much.
19 Q Oh, here we are. I'm sorry. Page 2.
20 A No worries.
21 Q This is why I got lost. The Senators go on to say -- this is the bottom 22 paragraph.
23 A Okay.
24 Q We made clear to you at the briefing that it was not relevant to the 25 substance of our work. In response, you stated that the FBI is not attempting to quash,

1 curtail, or interfere, end quote, in the investigation in any way.

2 Did the Senators here properly characterize your response to their concerns?

3 A Again, I don't recall that specific line of questioning. As, you know, my,

4 quote/unquote, quotes are in quotes, I would assume that somebody in the room quoted

5 me. I don't recall saying that.

6 Q What would someone from the FBI who did say that mean by that: quash,

7 curtail, or interfere?

8 A If the Senators were alleging that I was there only to curtail the investigation,

9 my likely response would be, as what I've said several times, I am not there to interfere

10 with their investigation. I am there at the behest of the intelligence community to 11 provide a defensive briefing.

12 Q Okay. Let's go to page 3, top paragraph. Quote, the Senators say: We

13 also made clear our concern that the briefing would be subject to a leak that would shed

14 a false light on the focus of our investigation. Indeed, on May 1, 2021, The Washington

15 Post did exactly that, and so did the other inaccurate media articles during the course of 16 our investigation, which falsely labeled our investigation as advancing Russian

17 disinformation.

18 How did you respond to this concern when the Senators raised it to you?

19 A I don't recall them raising concerns of leaks to me. I started the 20 investiga- -- or the defensive briefing indicating that it was a classified briefing. As I do

21 with all defensive briefings, I'd usually note something about their privacy being

22 paramount and I won't share the contents or the fact that this defensive briefing

23 happened with anyone.

24 Q So I think you're stating you don't recall them saying these -- making these 25 assertions to you in the briefing, correct?

1 A I don't recall, no.

2 Q Taking them at face value, would these concerns concern you as someone

3 providing the defensive briefing?

4 A Absolutely. As an 18-year intelligence officer, I take media leaks quite

5 seriously. I take classification quite seriously, as you've seen over the last several hours.

6 I don't want information leaked to the media as much as they don't want information

7 leaked to the media, and something that is absolutely paramount to how the FBI

8 conducts defensive briefings is the privacy of the recipients of that defensive briefing.

9 Q And they continue, stating your briefing was leaked, and it permitted a major

10 newspaper to falsely label a United States Senate investigation as advancing Russian

11 disinformation, leading up to a Presidential election, which the investigation concerned

12 one of the candidates for that office. How do you account for this?

13 A I don't know, sir. Again, as somebody who was in the Counterintelligence

14 Division, media leaks is not something that I take lightly.

15 Q Top paragraph, page 3, reads: Moreover, whistleblowers have recently

16 alleged that on August 2020, the same month you provided the briefing to us, FBI officials

17 initiated a scheme to downplay derogatory information on Hunter Biden for the purpose

18 of shutting down investigative activities relating to his potential criminal exposure by

19 labeling it disinformation. Whistleblowers have also alleged that local FBI leadership

20 instructed employees not to look at the Hunter Biden laptop immediately after the FBI

21 had obtained it.

22 Are you familiar with these whistleblower allegations that FBI agents were

23 downplaying or scheming to downplay derogatory information about Hunter Biden by 24 calling it disinformation?

25 A I am not.

1 Q In your view, why are the Senators tying this allegation to you?

2 A I don't know.

3 Q Do you have any knowledge about local FBI leadership instructing employees

4 not to look at the Hunter Biden laptop?

5 A I do not.

6 Q Second paragraph, page 3. The Senators indicate, quote, At the briefing as

7 well as after, we requested relevant records relating to what happened at the briefing,

8 including the 302 or similar summary, the intelligence basis for the briefing, and the 9 personnel involved in making the decision to brief us. On August 12, 2020, May 3rd,

10 2021, July 25, 2022, and August 11, 2022, those requests were made. The FBI has

11 consistently failed to respond in full to each request and failed to provide those critical

12 records, which casts further doubt on the true purpose of the briefing.

13 If you know, why has the FBI failed to respond to these requests?

14 A Well, I don't believe there is a 302 related to this briefing. And, again, I

15 would defer back to ODNI who has the script, who owns the script, who is in a position to 16 share additional details about the underlying intelligence.

17 [redacted] I would just add that the Senators' allegation that the FBI has not

18 responded to these requests is not accurate.

19 Mrs. Spartz. Who's in charge -- that was at that time of ODNI, the person who 20 can answer these questions?

21 Ms. Floris. So Mr. Evanina was the head of NCSC who oversaw the ODNI's

22 election threat executive.

23 Mrs. Spartz. Okay. Evanina. He would know what validation was done, what

24 sources, all the details, that's the person who would be able to answer us?

25 Ms. Floris. In theory, or he would at least know who at the ODNI would have

1 that information.

2 Mrs. Spartz. Okay.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Given what you -- you conveyed Senator Johnson's response to us. Did you

5 create a post-briefing memo, document, or any summary of his response to your

6 briefing?

7 A I did not.

8 Q Okay. Did you tell anyone at the FBI about it?

9 A I likely told my boss.

10 Q And who would that have been?

11 A AD Alan Kohler.

12 Q Do you recall if he responded, if you did, in fact, tell him?

13 A How he responded?

14 Q Yeah.

15 A I don't remember anything remarkable about his response. But given that I

16 was threatened to be subpoenaed, I felt my boss should probably know.

17 Q I know you indicated ODNI is the appropriate venue, but let me ask you, do

18 you have any -- do you know if the FBI has any documents responsive to the Senators'

19 request?

20 A That I -- do you mean our response back to the Senators?

21 Q Well, specifically what they're asking for, summaries, memorandum, even

22 the intelligence --

23 A The FBI, we don't have anything in possession of that. Again, ODNI would 24 be your best bet for that.

25 Q You would have the intelligence basing for the briefing, though, because that

1 was submitted to the FBI to give the briefing?

2 A I have the script and can access the underlying intelligence.

3 Q That script would presumably fall under this request, right?

4 A I would think so, yes. And, again, ODNI is the place for that.

5 Q But the FBI would also have the script in its possession?

6 A We do.

7 Q Okay. Counsel had made a representation that one of the allegations was 8 untrue as to failing to respond. Is that correct?

9 [redacted] Correct.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q But taking the Senators' view at face value, perhaps when this letter was

12 written, and we're not here to sort of mediate factual disputes at this point as to whether

13 or not the FBI responded, can you understand why the Senators' view that this briefing

14 was political and pretextual is bolstered by the fact there hasn't been, according to them,

15 a response to their request?

16 A I don't have an opinion on their reactions to the briefings or our lack of or 17 responses so far to their request.

18 Q Let's go to the last paragraph on page 3. Quote, Simply put, the

19 unnecessary FBI briefing provided the Democrats and liberal media the vehicle to spread

20 their false narrative that our work advanced Russian disinformation. Although you

21 stated that the FBI didn't intend to, quote, interfere in our investigation, the practical

22 effect of such an unnecessary briefing and the subsequent leaks related to it created

23 interference, which frustrated and obstructed congressional oversight efforts.

24 Would you agree this is a very serious allegation from two United States Senators?

25 A I would.

1 Q Given that we've gone over this letter, let me ask you again. In any way, in
2 part or in full, did you provide Senators Grassley and Johnson the August 6th defensive
3 briefing in response to the request by Senate and House Democrats?
4 A No.
5 Q Other than their oral responses, did they provide you with any information,
6 the Senators?
7 A Not that I recall.
8 Q Other than the script, did you or Mr. Benavides do any additional 9 information gathering in furtherance of the briefing you gave these Senators?
10 A No.
11 Q Who specifically at the FBI directed you to provide that briefing?
12 A No one at the FBI directed me to provide that briefing. It was done under 13 the auspices of the defensive notification framework and the interagency coming to 14 consensus that a defensive brief was warranted.
15 Q And, again, not to be redundant, but to be clear, you do not recall if you
16 created any post-briefing record of their reaction or what you told them?
17 A Not a written record.
18 Q Okay.
19 Mrs. Spartz. So were you just saying information of what you received was 20 within the frameworks that you would have to do the briefing based on all the criteria.
21 Is that correct, my understanding?
22 Ms. Floris. Right.
23 Mrs. Spartz. In general it was presented in a way that generally it would lead you
24 to do briefing. Based on what you receive from whatever agency you receive, it would 25 be within the framework for you to do the briefing. Is that what your --

1 Ms. Floris. Absolutely, the underlying intelligence followed the spirit of the 2 defensive notification framework.
3 Mrs. Spartz. Do you think there was potential that someone tried to use you for 4 political reason?
5 Ms. Floris. I do not. Just given the number of agencies and individuals involved
6 in those conversations, all career intelligence officers and professionals, I do not think
7 that I was in any way set up to give this briefing.
8 Mrs. Spartz. Based on your investigation there were a lot of career officers
9 involved and the reality became a setup, so, you know, that's something. But I
10 understand you don't feel that way.
11 Ms. Floris. I do not, not at all.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Did you, Mr. Benavides, or anyone else at the FBI promise the Senators 14 confidentiality with respect to your defensive briefing?
15 A We probably said something -- or I said something along those lines. Again, 16 usually when I give a defensive briefing to an individual, I indicate their privacy is 17 paramount, and I have no intention of telling anyone that I've provided them a defensive 18 briefing.
19 Q To your knowledge, were the contents of your briefing leaked to The 20 Washington Post?
21 A Not to my knowledge.
22 Q Don't look at this any other way than a question.
23 A It's fine.
24 Q Did you leak the contents of that briefing to The Washington Post or any 25 other media?

1 A No.

2 Q Do you know if Mr. Benavides leaked the contents of that briefing?

3 A Not to my knowledge.

4 Q Okay. But you couldn't say one way or the other?

5 A Well, no, I couldn't.

6 Q Did either Senator Grassley or Senator Johnson express to you their concerns

7 that the content would be briefed -- would be leaked to the media?

8 A Not that I recall.

9 Mrs. Spartz. Does the timing of this leak ever seem strange to you, from your

10 assessment? Does it seem strange all of this happening with all the investigations?

11 Does it seem strange to you?

12 Ms. Floris. Not necessarily. We were in the height of the election season.

13 There was a lot of information flowing around D.C., so really, in my business, ma'am,

14 nothing actually seems strange at this point, but, no it was, again, at the height of the 15 election season.

16 Mrs. Spartz. Is it strange that the people that lead an investigation, it was

17 strange that this information just came to them, or it didn't seem strange to you in your

18 work?

19 Ms. Floris. No. The underlying intelligence, again, was from, you know,

20 multiple sources, reliable sources, a body of information, so it did not seem strange to

21 me.

22 Mrs. Spartz. In your report multiple sources, from lots of sources.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q I want to show you what I think we previously marked as exhibit 2. Let

25 me --

1 A Yeah.

2 Q I want to direct your attention again to -- this letter indicates at the top, it

3 had an "Unclassified When Separated from Attachment." Do you understand what that 4 means?

5 A I'm assuming that with it was a classified attachment.

6 Q So are you aware that unclassified elements of the classified attachments to 7 this letter were leaked to the press?

8 A I have no awareness. I don't know what the classified attachment is.

9 Q According to the Senators, this leak permitted the press to accuse Senators

10 Grassley and Johnson of -- falsely label their investigation as promoting Russian

11 disinformation. Were you aware of this?

12 A No.

13 Q Were you aware that the media framed the Grassley-Johnson investigation

14 as relying on materials from a Russian agent?

15 A No.

16 Q Were you aware that around the time of the briefing that you gave to these

17 Senators, then-Chairman Schiff claimed that -- Schiff, excuse me -- claimed that -- or

18 Schiff -- Senators Grassley and Johnson's investigation into the Biden family's Ukraine

19 connection was the product of Russian disinformation?

20 A No.

21 Q Was it or is it your view that the Grassley-Johnson investigation into the

22 Biden family's overseas financial dealings in Ukraine were rooted in Russian

23 disinformation?

24 A I haven't read the investigation, so I can't speak to that.

25 Q Are you aware that just one day prior to your August 6th briefing, The

1 Washington Post ran a story titled, quote, "Senate Republicans advance Ukraine probe
2 aimed at Biden despite foreign interference concerns"?
3 A No.
4 [Floris exhibit No. 12
5 Was marked for identification.]
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q I don't know that you need to read the whole thing --
8 A Okay.
9 Q -- but I think you probably get the gist of it. I'm going to direct your 10 attention specifically to the second page and the first full paragraph, which begins, quote, 11 Senator Johnson is diverting his committee from oversight of the failing response to the 12 pandemic, even though over 4.5 million Americans have been infected, and is instead 13 facilitating a foreign influence operation to undermine our democracy, end quote, from 14 Biden campaign spokesman Andrew Bates.
15 Do you read The Washington Post?
16 A Sometimes.
17 Q Okay. Were you familiar with this story in particular?
18 A I am not.
19 Q Directing your attention to the first page of this exhibit, it states there this 20 story came out August 5th, 2020, correct?
21 A Yes.
22 Q 6:10 p.m. Eastern Time?
23 A Yes.
24 Q Okay. And this is one day before you gave your briefing to Senators
25 Grassley and Johnson?

1 A Correct.

2 Q Are you aware that Senator Richard Blumenthal published an op-ed piece in

3 The Washington Post on August 7, 2020, just one day after you briefed Senators Grassley

4 and Johnson, and claimed their investigation was, quote, perpetuating Russian

5 disinformation in the U.S. Senate?

6 A I was not aware of that article.

7 Q Showing you what has been marked as exhibit 13, putting that in the record.

8 [Floris exhibit No. 13

9 Was marked for identification.]

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Just take a brief look at that, and then I'll direct your attention to the 12 relevant portion.

13 I'm going to direct your attention to page -- the second page of exhibit 13, last

14 paragraph. Quote, There is no excuse for perpetuating Russian disinformation in the 15 U.S. Senate, just as there is no excuse for barring the American public from learning more

16 about the genuine foreign threats in the November election.

17 Exhibit 12 is a Washington Post article critical of the Grassley-Johnson

18 investigation that comes out on August 5th, correct?

19 A Correct.

20 Q August 6th, you give the defensive briefing to Senators Grassley and 21 Senators Johnson, correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q Now, August 7th, we get this op-ed from Senator Blumenthal who states

24 Russian disinformation is being perpetuated in the U.S. Senate.

25 In your view, did your August 6th briefing that you gave to these Senators play a

1 part in allowing Senator Blumenthal to make such a claim publicly?

2 A Not to my knowledge. He wouldn't have known the contents of the

3 briefing, at least not from the FBI. Again, we provided an all-House and all-Senate brief

4 on threats to the election in the days prior to my defensive briefs. As far as the contents

5 of those briefings, they were classified up to the SECRET/NOFORN level. Defer once

6 again to ODNI as far as the contents of that. My role in those briefings was not to

7 discuss the threat reporting. It was to discuss the FBI's response in preparation to the 8 elections.

9 Q Well, did you brief Senator Blumenthal on potential threat -- malign foreign

10 threats to U.S. elections?

11 A I can't recall if he was in the room. We did a series of briefings. Members

12 and Senators were coming in and out of the briefing, so --

13 Q At the bottom of page 2, the paragraph right before the one we just read,

14 the penultimate paragraph.

15 A Yes.

16 Q On Wednesday, the Post -- quote, On Wednesday, the Post reported that

17 Senator Ron Johnson, Republican of Wisconsin, Chairman of the Homeland Security and

18 Governmental Affairs Committee, is moving ahead with an investigation into presumptive

19 Democratic Presidential nominee Joe Biden's family using documents provided to the 20 Senator by the son of a former KGB officer. Johnson's actions are of such concern to the 21 CIA, according to news reports, that the Agency has refused to brief him. Think of it,

22 Congress may become a forum for debunked conspiracy theories peddled by Kremlin

23 proxies.

24 Did you see that paragraph?

25 A I did.

Q And then, again, the very next paragraph is the Senator saying there's no excuse for perpetuating Russian disinformation in the U.S. Senate, correct?

A Correct.

Q Do you see how, from the Senators' perspective, your briefing tied into a narrative that their investigation into Hunter Biden is Russian disinformation?

A I won't speak to why the Senator thinks certain things.

Q Let's put the Senators aside. August 5th, we have The Washington Post piece that's critical of the investigation; August 6th, we have your briefing; August 7, we have Senator Blumenthal's op-ed.

You would agree that the timing of the briefing book-ended by these two pieces bolsters the media and Democrat view that the investigation these Senators ran was based upon Russian disinformation?

A No one knew the contents of my defensive briefing, so I don't think that's a fair statement. I think a better statement is that the contents of the threat briefing that ODNI, NSA, CIA, FBI, and other partners provided to all Members and all Senators may have been the impetus to some of this. I can't confirm that. All I know is that the contents of my defensive briefing was private and germane only to the Senators and myself and the individuals who wrote the script.

[redacted] Okay. I realize that we are up on time, so we'll go off the record.

[Recess.]

[redacted] Okay. Let's go on the record, please. It is 1:10.

BY [redacted]

Q Good afternoon again, Ms. Floris. I'm going to start by just responding to some of the lines of question that happened in the last hour.

First, with respect to the exhibits 9 and 10, which Congressman Gaetz

1 introduced -- do we have -- could we get examples of those back up here, 9 and 10?

2 [redacted] Nine and 10?

3 [redacted] Please.

4 Here we go. I'm sorry, but if we could just -- do you mind just sharing those two?

5 [redacted] No.

6 [redacted] Okay.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q So, Ms. Floris, we put before you again what's been marked as exhibit 9,

9 which is -- appears to be a screenshot of a text message or some kind of instant message

10 from a person who is identified as Scott Adams, and it appears from the screenshot that

11 the message was sent on March 31st, 2021, at 7:39 p.m. And you indicated in the 12 earlier hour that you've never seen that message before. Is that right?

13 A That's correct.

14 Q And you have no knowledge of the events that are described in that --

15 A Correct.

16 Q -- or purportedly is described?

17 A That's correct.

18 Q Okay. And then putting that next to exhibit 10, exhibit 10 is what purports

19 to be a tweet from a source account @IsraelinNewYork, and the tweet appears to have

20 been sent on September 23rd, 2021. That line of questions, if you recall, by the 21 Congressman seemed to characterize the events described in the message in exhibit 9 as

22 some kind of discussion of an extortion attempt. Is that a fair description of what those

23 questions seemed to be saying?

24 A I think.

25 Q Okay.

1 A Again, with no knowledge as to what this story is, it was hard to determine
2 the line of questioning.
3 Q Very well. And is it fair to say that you don't know any of the people that
4 are referred to in this message, including Bob Kent?
5 A That's correct.
6 Q You know who Congressman Gaetz is?
7 A Yes.
8 Q But you didn't know of the allegations that are described in this exhibit?
9 A That's correct.
10 Q And I think there is a person named Levinson referred to. Do you know
11 who that person is?
12 A The only Levinson I know is the former FBI agent.
13 Q Okay. As far as we know, that's not a former FBI agent that we're referring 14 to?
15 A Correct. Correct. Again, I have no idea.
16 Q Okay. And there's also a person McGee. Do you have any idea who that 17 person is?
18 A I do not.
19 Q Okay. Just if we accept that what is described in here is extortion, fair to 20 say extortion is a crime, is that right, in your experience?
21 A That's correct.
22 Q And the FBI might have some responsibility in some situations for 23 investigating extortion potentially. Is that correct?
24 A That's correct.
25 Q But that wouldn't be your job in the Counterintelligence Division with FITF, if

1 it's strictly a criminal investigation. Is that fair to say?

2 A I -- that's generally fair to say. If a foreign government was involved in the

3 extortion for the goal of ultimately influencing the Congressman, perhaps that was

4 something we would get involved in, but it's hard to decipher from these two documents.

5 Q Sure. So let's talk about what you just said. If a foreign government was

6 involved, that might be something that would trigger the interest of FITF or the groups in

7 the FBI that you worked with, right?

8 A Correct.

9 Q Okay. So if we looked at exhibit 10, again, the tweet, this tweet purports to

10 be from the Israeli consulate, if we take it at face value. And if you look at the -- I guess

11 it's the second tweet, subtweet 2/4, so right here on this exhibit, that tweet says, quote,

12 The consulate general of Israel and New York and the state of Israel are not involved in 13 any way, directly or indirectly, in this issue.

14 Did I read that correctly?

1 [1:13 p.m.]

2 Ms. Floris. You did.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Again, having no idea whether this is even from the consulate of Israel,

5 assuming it is, that appears to say that this person acting in the conduct described in

6 Exhibit 9 is actually not being directed by Israel, correct?

7 A That's how I read it just based on that tweet, but --

8 Q Of course, you have no knowledge of whether that's true because you

9 weren't involved in any of these investigations, right?

10 A Correct.

11 Q But as it's stated in the exhibit that was introduced, the state actor here, the

12 consulate of Israel, has disavowed any action and said that this person was not acting at 13 their direction according to the exhibit?

14 A According to this tweet, correct.

15 Q Okay. So in addition to somebody acting on behalf of the state in order to

16 trigger the FBI's interest in terms of foreign influence, you also mentioned in some of your

17 prior description that there would need to be an intent to influence an election or -- the 18 intent of the state actor would be relevant to the inquiry that the FBI would have. Is 19 that right?

20 A It would be, yes.

21 Q So what would be the relevance of the state's intent with respect to the FBI's

22 interest in that kind of activity?

23 A If the intention was to influence the election, it falls into the defensive

24 notification framework in that interagency process. If the intent was to influence a

25 congressman's policy or views on U.S. relations with Israel, for example, that would be

1 traditional malign foreign influence wherein that primarily falls in the remit of the FBI.
2 So trying to determine the intention of the foreign actor is important regarding what 3 course of action we will ultimately take.
4 Q Okay. And in this case, at least on the face of it, this action was not taken
5 on behalf of a foreign actor, right?
6 A Again, based on what I'm seeing, I don't even know if this is a real handle.
7 So I can't answer that question.
8 Q Sure. So let's pose a hypothetical.
9 Suppose you have an employee of a foreign consulate, any foreign government.
10 Foreign consulates are going to employ a lot of people, especially if it's a large one,
11 correct?
12 A Correct.
13 Q Maybe especially one that's in New York, for example. Is that fair to say?
14 A That is fair to say.
15 Q And is it possible that among the employees who are working at a consulate
16 in New York for Israel or any other country, there might be an employee who commits 17 some kind of criminal conduct?
18 A That is possible.
19 Q Okay. And the fact that a person who is employed by a consulate or a 20 government is committing a crime does not necessarily mean that that crime is attributed 21 to the country that employs that person. Is that fair to say?
22 A That's fair.
23 Q You would need to do a lot more investigating to figure out if the person
24 who committed the crime is actually working on behalf of the government. Is that fair?
25 A That's fair.

1 Q And in this case, at least in the exhibit, the state of Israel is denying that this
2 person is acting on their behalf?
3 A As far as I read it, yes.
4 Q Okay. And we don't have any other evidence in this record that suggests
5 that this person is actually working for Israel. Is that fair to say?
6 A That's fair. I don't even know who the person is at this point.
7 Q Sure. Sure. Now, hypothetically, again, like, if you in your position with 8 the Counterintelligence Division or FITF had access to some kind of intelligence suggesting 9 that this person or some person was committing a crime against a U.S. congressman on 10 behalf of a foreign government, that would interest you. Is that fair to say?
11 A Absolutely.
12 Q And that information typically would come to you through your normal
13 intelligence channels within the intelligence community. Is that fair to say?
14 A Fair.
15 Q And that could be from human sources, potentially. Is that right?
16 A It could be, yes.
17 Q Or signals intelligence, potentially?
18 A Correct.
19 Q A variety of different means, right?
20 A Right.
21 Q And in this case, as far as you know, you had no information from any of 22 those channels that there was any actor on behalf of the state of Israel or any other
23 foreign government who was targeting Congressman Gaetz with respect to criminal 24 activity at that time?
25 A Correct.

1 Q Okay. And if you had received that information, you would have acted. Is
2 that fair to say?
3 A Most likely, we would have acted, yes.
4 Q Can you describe what you would have done in that hypothetical situation if
5 you had credible intelligence that there was a state actor trying to target Congressman
6 Gaetz or any other congressman with criminal activity?
7 A We would likely do a defensive brief to that congressman with as much, you
8 know, detail and information as we're capable and able to share.
9 Q Okay. Did Congressman Gaetz or anyone from his office ever come to you
10 or anyone in the FBI, to your knowledge, to report this alleged crime?
11 A To my knowledge, no. That doesn't mean it didn't happen. He could have 12 done it through his local field office. It just never came to my attention if it did happen.
13 Q I mean, if the congressman had become aware of a criminal activity that was 14 directed at him or his family, normally, would you expect that to come to the FBI's 15 Criminal Division, or is there a certain process that you might expect that information to 16 come to the FBI?
17 A Generally, it comes in through our Office of Congressional Affairs. I believe 18 we have OCA contacts -- support and contacts in the FBI office. But really, at least from 19 the FBI perspective, it doesn't matter how it comes in. If it comes in, we will action it 20 and get it where it needs to be.
21 Q And when you say "we," you're talking about the FBI generally?
22 A The FBI. But depending on what the information is -- again, if there's an 23 election element to it, it becomes an IC-wide issue. If it somehow impacts IC equities,
24 certainly, we would engage with our IC partners.
25 Q And if you had -- let's just say this. There seemed to be a suggestion in the

1 line of questioning earlier that you intentionally -- "you" meaning the FBI and, I guess,
2 "you" meaning personally -- intentionally avoided access to this story that was
3 characterized as widespread in the media because you didn't want to help a Republican
4 congressman. Did you hear that accusation to some degree?
5 A Not in those words exactly. The congressman did seem to think that the 6 FBI was aware of this. But, again, just because I'm not aware doesn't mean that 7 somebody in the FBI wasn't aware.
8 Q Do you think that the FBI tries to avoid situations that prejudice Republican
9 congressmen because you don't want to help Republican congressmen?
10 A That is not how we operate. We don't give any sort of partisan politics
11 consideration when we engage and do either our investigative or intelligence mission.
12 Q Okay. I'm going to set those aside.
13 You also had a series of questions from Congresswoman Spartz. And that set of 14 questions, if you recall, included an allegation of what I believe was characterized as open
15 criticism from a foreign state government of her policies or actions. Do you recall 16 those?
17 A I do. I don't know exactly what she was referring to, but I get the general
18 gist of what she was saying.
19 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that my recollection is correct that the alleged 20 foreign action was overt or open or something to that effect in that scenario?
21 A I believe she indicated it was from the Ukrainian, like, official state media
22 page, which is, in effect, overt influence.
23 Q So if you in your position at FITF or the FBI had knowledge of a foreign 24 government overtly criticizing a member of Congress, would that implicate any of the 25 equities in the foreign influence operations field?

1 A It wouldn't. Again, the overt nature of foreign governments -- that's
2 diplomacy. That would not really fall to the purview of the FBI.
3 Now, if there was an actor operating in the online space masquerading as an 4 American, for example, but that individual was actually operative of the Ukrainian 5 Government, that's where it would become of concern to the FBI, an investigative 6 concern. But Ukrainian state media pushing out information about an American official,
7 as frustrating and annoying as that may be, it is not in the purview of the FBI, and there's 8 not much we can do about that.
9 Q Okay. Have you ever received any complaints from the congressman or 10 anyone else in Congress about covert efforts on the part of the Ukrainians or any other 11 state to target them?
12 A Not to my knowledge.
13 Q If you had, would you have responded to them in the same way as if you
14 would to a Democratic congressperson?
15 A We would have responded the same no matter what it is. If it's covert
16 action and somehow it's been attributed to a nation-state actor, that would be of concern
17 to the FBI regardless of who the target of that activity was.
18 Q Okay. And then, again, there were a series of questions -- I think many 19 from Congressman Biggs -- with respect to the exhibits that we had introduced in the 20 earlier hour, the framework, which was our Exhibit 3, as well as Mr. Evanina's statement.
21 And, again, for clarification, I think it's important that we ask you to differentiate
22 between the interests that the FBI has in authenticating the source of information versus 23 authenticating the content of information that is sent around.
24 Could you, again, just in simple terms, explain -- you know, when you're going 25 through the framework that we described in Exhibit 3, and you have that first step where

1 you talk about credibility, what -- what does the credibility refer to that you're trying to
2 determine? The credibility of what?
3 [redacted] Can I just add, you referred to Exhibit 3 as the framework, and I just 4 wanted to be clear that that -- my understanding is that it is not in and of itself the 5 framework. There are additional materials that are not necessarily publicly accessible 6 online.
7 A That's correct. So the framework itself is much longer. Probably 10 pages
8 or so. That's a one-pager summarizing what the framework is.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Got it. Okay. But I guess I mean, like, the progress that is described in 11 that first step with respect to credibility of intelligence that comes through the IC. And 12 I -- sorry. I forgot what it's called.
13 A The CAG.
14 Q The CAG. When the IC is determining -- is making that credibility
15 determination within that group in the process, what is it that you're trying to determine 16 in terms of -- credibility of what?
17 A So primarily, credibility of the source, the body of reporting. As far as the 18 content, you know, is there any corroborating intelligence? And that is something that 19 doesn't just happen in the CAG. That is an analyst's job.
20 If we see a piece of information come in, step one is to try to verify and 21 understand what the source of that information is. Step two is then to see if there's any 22 corroborating reporting because that usually gives more merit to what that piece of 23 information is. And then we try to determine how that one piece of information fits into 24 the broader storyline that we're looking at.
25 So for Russia, for example, if we get a piece of information that Russian actors

1 plan to do A, B, and C, first, what is the source of that information? Do we have any 2 corroborating reporting that we've seen these same types of Russian actors talk about
3 doing A, B, and C? And how does doing A, B, and C fit into the broader context of 4 Russia's foreign influence agenda?
5 So it is not a decision that is made on the spot. There's a lot of thought and 6 critical thinking that goes into it. That is the job of an intelligence analyst.
7 Q Okay. And you say -- you're looking at whether -- in this example, a Russian
8 actor is going to do A, B, and C. Again, your focus is on the actions of the Russian. It's 9 not on the content of A, B, and C or whatever it is that they're pushing out into the world,
10 correct?
11 A It is not. That becomes a bit of a tricky space when you talk about content
12 monitoring. That content -- an American person can push out that content. That is 13 why there's "foreign" in the Foreign Influence Task Force because we're focused on the 14 foreign actors.
15 Q And your focus is on the fact that this is on the source, not the information?
16 A Primarily on the source. But, again, we do try to corroborate the 17 information as well because if the information is something we've seen in multiple 18 sources -- human sources, technical sources, foreign government -- that probably means
19 there's a "there" there. If this is the first time we've ever seen the information but it's 20 from an uber-reliable source, we usually tend to just caveat that. You know, law
21 information from a well established source.
22 So there's a whole host of how analysts describe information we get depending on 23 the sourcing of that information and then if we've seen the content of the information 24 elsewhere.
25 We don't assess whether that content is accurate, if that makes sense. So if the source says the sky is blue, we don't necessarily say, well, is the sky in fact blue? Our first step is, okay, who is the source? What does he or she have access to? And then who else has said that the sky is blue? And if multiple sources have said the sky is blue, we'll assess with some level of credibility that the sky is blue. I know that's a very simplified response, but that's generally how we look at it.

BY [redacted]

Q I'm going to ask about a different example.

So let's say you have intelligence coming in that the Iranians are creating false accounts on a social media website saying that the election is on Wednesday and not Tuesday.

You're saying -- you're looking at the source of what that information is, and then you're looking at, are other people also saying that Iranians are doing that? You're not actually looking at -- that they're saying that the election is on Wednesday instead of Tuesday. You're not interested in that specific claim. You're interested in the fact that Iranians are doing it. Is that fair?

A Primarily interested in that it's the Iranians doing it. Who are these actors? So are these just individual Iranian actors, or are they tied to the MOIS or the IRGC? And then we say, okay, is there other reporting that Iranian actors are going to push out information about voting day being Wednesday vice Tuesday?

The last step would then be, like, wait. Is, in fact, voting day Wednesday or Tuesday? That may come up in a conversation, but that's not the primary vehicle we use to assess the credibility of the reporting.

Q And when you say you're looking for corroborating information, that's other people -- or other sources that agree that the Iranians are posting this, not corroborating sources about what day Election Day is?

1 A It's both. So if we've got other sources saying Iranian actors are going to
2 push out that Election Day is Wednesday, that would definitely be of concern to us as 3 well.
4 Q Are you looking -- are you fact-checking which day Election Day is in the 5 original credibility assessment?
6 A Not that I know of. That would probably be a question, like, better suited
7 for the folks who actually sat on the CAG.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q Okay. I'm going to ask you some questions sort of about the origin of FITF.
10 We haven't even gotten into that, and I think it helps to frame a lot of the work that 11 you've described here today.
12 A Sure.
13 Q First of all, before FITF was formed in 2017, we had a significant event, which 14 was the Presidential Election in 2016.
15 Do you agree with the intelligence community assessment that Russia interfered 16 in that election?
17 A I do.
18 Q Okay. And just high bar here, could you describe that interference?
19 A Much like what was out in the intelligence agency report, the CISA report.
20 You had cyber operations. You had influence campaigns. You know, two arms of the 21 Russian intel services involved in efforts to undermine the credibility of the election,
22 ultimately to discredit then Presidential campaign - or Candidate Clinton's campaign.
23 Q Okay. Is it fair to say that the Russian interference in the 2016 Election,
24 among other things, included the hacking into the DCC and the DNC computer system
25 there and leaking derogatory information to WikiLeaks in order to denigrate Hillary

1 Clinton and assist Donald Trump?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q That was a finding of Special Counsel Mueller as well as, like, many of the IC

4 reports that came out with respect to the election?

5 A Correct.

6 Q This type of foreign interference is sometimes referred to as hack-and-leak

7 or hack-and-dump. Is that correct?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q Okay. Now, after the 2016 Election, we just said there was widespread

10 consensus among U.S. intelligence and Federal law enforcement agencies that Russia was 11 responsible for that leak, correct?

12 A Correct.

13 Q And these findings were well documented in the Mueller report as well as in

14 an October 7th, 2016 statement from the Department of Homeland Security and the 15 Office of the Director of National Intelligence, which we'll mark as Exhibit 14.

16 [Floris Exhibit No. 14

17 Was marked for identification.]

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Okay. I will give you a chance to look at that exhibit. Let me know when 20 you've had a moment to look at it.

21 A Okay.

22 Q Okay. Exhibit 14 is titled, "Joint statement from the Department of 23 Homeland Security and Office of the Director of National Intelligence on election

24 security," dated October 7th, 2016.

25 Are you familiar with this statement?

A I don't know if I've actually read the exact statement, but I'm, in general, familiar with it.

Q Okay. Is it fair to say this is a three-paragraph statement that confirms that Russia directed the 2016 hack-and-dump operation against the DCC and the DNC in order to interfere in the election in 2016?

A Correct.

Q Now, in addition, after the election, later in August 2020, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence published a report on Russian active measures campaign and interference in the 2016 Election.

Are you familiar with that report?

A In general, yes.

Q Okay. I'm going to mark that as Exhibit 15.

[Floris Exhibit No. 15

Was marked for identification.]

[redacted] This is the cover page and the findings section.

[redacted] Thank you.

BY [redacted]

Q There's a highlighted portion I could draw your attention to, which is on page -- Roman numeral seven in this copy. Do you see that?

A I do.

Q Okay. The highlighted section -- the first sentence under the title "hack-and-leak" section of the findings reads, quote, "The committee found that Russian President Vladimir Putin ordered the Russian effort to hack computer networks and accounts affiliated with the Democratic Party and leak information damaging to Hillary Clinton and her campaign for President."

1 Did I read that correctly?

2 A You did.

3 Q And do you agree with those findings?

4 A I do.

5 Q Okay. In addition to tactics like the DNC hack-and-leak operation, Russia

6 also interfered in the 2016 Election by engaging in a sweeping covert social media

7 campaign designed to interfere with the American political process and to undermine

8 confidence in the U.S. democratic process. Is that fair to say?

9 A That is.

10 Q Are you familiar with the Internet Research Agency?

11 A I am.

12 Q And what is it, in your experience?

13 A Basically an arm of the Russian Government who is tasked -- at least as I

14 remember it, tasked with malign foreign influence campaigns with a focus on social

15 media.

16 Q Okay. And I'm going to mark as Exhibit 16 the indictment in Case No.

17 1:18-cr-32-DLF, U.S. v. Internet Research Agency, et al. This case was filed in the U.S.

18 District Court for the District of Columbia in 2018 following Special Counsel Mueller's

19 investigation.

20 [Floris Exhibit No. 16

21 Was marked for identification.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Are you familiar with this case?

24 A In general, yes.

25 Q Okay. You didn't work on it, though?

1 A I did not, no.

2 Q According to paragraph four of the indictment, which is on page 3, the 3 Russian defendants in this case, quote, "posing as U.S. persons and creating false U.S.
4 personas operated social media pages and groups designed to attract U.S. audiences.
5 These groups and pages, which addressed divisive U.S. political and social issues, falsely
6 claimed to be controlled by U.S. activists when, in fact, they were controlled by 7 Defendants. Defendants also used the stolen identities of real U.S. persons to post
8 on" -- and it says "organization," which refers to the IRA -- "controlled social media
9 accounts.

10 Over time, these social media accounts became Defendants' means to reach 11 significant numbers of Americans for purposes of interfering with the U.S. political 12 system, including the Presidential Election of 2016," end quote.

13 Now, the conduct described in paragraph four of this indictment is sometimes 14 referred to as the activities of a troll farm. Have you heard that?

15 A I have.

16 Q Okay. And can you explain in your own words, like, what is it that troll
17 farms do?

18 A To the best of my ability, understanding I am by no means an expert in this 19 area, a troll farm is an entity that creates social media content and then uses bots to get 20 that content out to as many people as possible. So it looks as if multiple individuals are 21 saying the same thing or a tweet gets millions of likes. But oftentimes, these troll farms
22 create their own content. Oftentimes, they just push out content that is in line with 23 their objectives.

24 So if their objective is to drive a wedge between China and Taiwan, and there's 25 already reports out there and tweets out there about driving a wedge, they would just

1 propagate that through using bots.

2 Q Is it fair to say that that activity is somewhat covert in the sense that the

3 identity of these trolls is not known to the people who see their content on the internet?

4 A That's correct. That's the primary objective, is to obfuscate any affiliation

5 with the foreign actor -- foreign government.

6 Q And sometimes, these trolls actually pretend that they're somebody that

7 they're not. Is that fair to say?

8 A That is very fair to say.

9 Q Okay. And so in this case, in paragraph four of the indictment that we just

10 described, that's exactly what was happening. There were people that were actually

11 sitting in Russia and working at the behest of the Russian Government and the IRA who

12 were pretending to be Americans and posting content on the internet in order to 13 influence Americans. Is that fair to say?

14 A Correct.

15 Q And the reason that that's of concern to the FBI is because of that covert

16 element and the intent to influence without transparency?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Okay. Later in the indictment, in paragraph 10, which is on page 6 -- it's 19 paragraph 10, subsection C, near the top of Page 6.

20 The DOJ notes in the indictment that the defendants sought to conduct what it

21 called, quote, "information warfare against the United States," end quote, "through

22 fictitious U.S. personas on social media platforms and other internet-based media."

23 Were you aware that, during this investigation, the defendants allegedly, as 24 described in this indictment, characterized their own actions as, quote, "information

25 warfare against the United States of America"?

1 A Not specifically. I was not involved in the investigation. But of my
2 understanding of the IRA, that seems to fall in line, at least at that time, with what they
3 were doing and how they would classify it.
4 Q And that's a pretty overt statement of exactly what their motivation was. Is
5 that fair to say?
6 A That's fair.
7 Q Now, the actual criminal charge in this indictment is conspiracy to defraud
8 the United States. And the theory presented in the indictment is that the defendants
9 conspired to defraud the United States by, quote, "impairing, obstructing, and defeating
10 the lawful functions of the Federal Election Commission, the U.S. Department of Justice, 11 the U.S. Department of State, in administering Federal requirements for disclosure of 12 foreign involvement," end quote, "in our elections."
13 So the key criminal element of this activity is not the content or the message that 14 was spread by the troll farms, but rather the fact that a foreign adversary was covertly
15 spreading misinformation with the purpose of influencing our elections while concealing
16 that fact -- the fact that the influence was coming from Russia. Is that fair to say?
17 A Yes.
18 Q And that's exactly the heart of what the FBI with FITF is going to be trying to 19 prevent when it's formed about a year later?
20 A Correct.
21 Q Okay. The Foreign Agents Registration Act or FARA requires that foreign 22 states and their proxies register and disclose their activities so that the U.S. Government
23 and the American people are informed about the source and identity of the persons who 24 are attempting to influence U.S. public opinion, policy, and law.
25 To your knowledge, does DOJ have enforcement responsibilities under FARA?

A They do.

Q Okay. I'm going to show you --

BY [redacted]

Q We talked a little bit about -- you're not -- the focus of this indictment -- the focus of the Foreign Influence Task Force isn't on the content that is being spread but the fact that it is being spread by a foreign government.

A lot of the examples that we used today are straight-up lies, right? The Election Day is on Wednesday, not on Tuesday.

A Uh-huh.

Q I think that we have a pretty good understanding of why that is harmful.

But is it true that malign foreign influence campaigns can also use true information?

A They can. So, again, Russia is not the only actor in this space. It really depends on what the intentions and motivations of the foreign government are.

But let's take Russia, for example. One of their key drivers is to really build this divisive wedge in the American populous. So they will push out information about gun laws, for example, and promote stories on both sides -- pro-, anti- -- not with the intention to push out disinformation, but with the intention to put -- to pit us against each other. That is in their agenda. That is what they are trying to do because if we're fighting each other, we're not looking at Russia.

So foreign influence actors can certainly push out true information. The intention behind that is nefarious in intent, absolutely.

Q But some people argue that this -- if I am repeating the things that a -- or if I am retweeting the things that a troll account or Russian account posts, that's my First Amendment right. And obviously, as a citizen, I am allowed to do that on social media.

1 A Sure.

2 Q Why doesn't the troll account, the Russian account, have that same right?

3 A Because they're not a U.S. person. They don't fall under our U.S.

4 Constitution and our protections we have for American people. And, again, it goes back

5 to why we don't start with content.

6 So if I see a post that says, you know what, President Biden is terrible and should

7 be fired. Great. If that post is from an American, so be it. If that post is from a

8 covert Russian actor who is attempting to stir the pot, and we somehow know that

9 through intelligence channels that that's a Russian actor masquerading as a U.S. person,

10 we would be somewhat concerned about the Russian actor.

11 Q An example of this is in the IRA indictment in paragraph 46. It's on Page 18.

12 A Page 18, you said?

13 Q Yeah. In paragraph B, they refer to an account -- an Instagram-controlled

14 account called "Blacktivist" that is encouraging people to vote third party.

15 That encouragement of people to vote third party isn't what the FBI is interested

16 in, right?

17 A Correct. It's that the defendants masqueraded as Americans online.

18 Q And that account, "Blacktivist," also, in other instances, posted about true

19 things -- like, posted a true video of police brutality unedited. But the problem with that 20 is not that they posted the video. It's that they are covertly a Russian account, correct?

21 A Correct. Correct.

22 [redacted] You can set that down, if you don't mind.

23 And I'm going to mark as Exhibit 14 -- right? Oh, my goodness. Sorry. 17. A 24 June 21st, 2023 letter from Assistant Attorney General Carlos Duarte to Chairman Jordan.

25 [Floris Exhibit No. 17

1 Was marked for identification.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Ms. Floris, are you familiar with this letter?

4 A I am not.

5 Q Okay. Just take a minute to look at it. And specifically the part on page 2

6 that starts under the heading "Countering foreign malign influence operations."

7 Good?

8 A Yeah.

9 Q Okay. In that paragraph under "Countering foreign malign influence

10 operations," the assistant attorney general refers to the special counsel's indictment that 11 we just went over.

12 A Uh-huh.

13 Q U.S. v. the IRA. And the, quote, "information warfare," end quote, that the 14 Russian defendants waged against the United States during the 2016 Presidential

15 Election.

16 Do you see that referenced in the letter?

17 A I do.

18 Q On top of the third page, the letter continues, quote, "The FBI established

19 the Foreign Influence Task Force or FITF in 2017 to identify and counteract foreign malign

20 influence operations targeting the United States," end quote.

21 Do you see that statement?

22 A I do.

23 Q And are you aware that this was the original purpose of FITF?

24 A I am.

25 Q Okay. Is this statement consistent with your understanding of the purpose

1 of FITF as it operates today?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. Are you familiar with -- you can set that letter down. Thank you.

4 Are you familiar with former President Trump's Executive Order 13848 titled,

5 "Imposing certain sanctions in the event of foreign interference in a United States

6 election," which was signed by him on September 12th, 2018?

7 A I am not.

8 Q Okay. I'm going to mark as Exhibit 18 that executive order.

9 [Floris Exhibit No. 18

10 Was marked for identification.]

11 Ms. Floris. Oh, it's familiar now once I see the meat of it.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q Okay. Looking at the beginning of the second paragraph of the order, it

14 begins, "I, Donald J. Trump."

15 A Uh-huh.

16 Q The order states, quote, that President Trump found, quote, "the ability of 17 persons located in whole or in substantial part outside the United States to interfere in or

18 undermine public confidence in United States elections, including through the

19 unauthorized accessing of election and campaign infrastructure or the covert distribution

20 of propaganda and disinformation, constitutes an unusual or extraordinary threat to the 21 national security and foreign policy of the United States."

22 Did I read that correctly?

23 A You did.

24 Q Okay. How does FITF seek to disrupt the threat that was identified by

25 former President Trump's executive order, particularly the part addressing the covert

1 distribution of propaganda and disinformation?

2 A Yeah. So if memory serves me correct, there are kind of three pillars that

3 the FITF used in furtherance of this objective. We had our investigations, which is our

4 law enforcement mission, the bread and butter of what we do.

5 So a FITF investigation could be on, for example, a Russian foreign influence actor.

6 We have our intelligence. So everything we've been speaking about. Our ability to

7 collect information, analyze that information, disseminate that information, and

8 ultimately action that information. For example, the defensive briefings.

9 The last pillar is partner engagement. So based on what happened in 2016,

10 everything that we just went over with the indictments and the findings in the various

11 reports, we knew that we had to essentially arm social media companies with as much

12 information as possible so that they could harden their own platforms against any

13 nefarious activity.

14 So a big aspect of what the FITF did was engagement with social media companies

15 to provide them actual intelligence so that they had an awareness that foreign actors

16 were attempting to abuse and use their platforms in furtherance of their objectives.

17 Q So we'll get into that in a little more depth later.

18 But is it fair to say that when the FBI was providing that information, you were

19 doing it for the benefit of the social media companies so that they could protect their

20 own platforms under their own terms of service?

21 A And the benefit of the American people. You know, one would like to think

22 that information Americans receive is righteous and factual. Obviously, that's not the 23 case always. But it was not just for the benefit of the social media companies, but it was 24 also for the American people. And ultimately -- you know, selfishly, the IC and the U.S.

25 Government wanted to render these operations ineffective.

1 Q Okay. So you believed that transparency for the public would help render
2 the operations ineffective?
3 A I do.
4 Q Okay. So back to the executive order there on Exhibit 18.
5 Can you say generally why you think the work of FITF is important for the national
6 security objective that President -- former President Trump articulated?
7 A Again, I mean, as -- just given our authorities, our ability to investigate these 8 foreign actors that are doing this activity, our ability to engage with social media
9 companies and be that interlocutor between the IC and social media companies to action
10 that information, all, again, with the end goal of rendering these operations ineffective
11 and ultimately protecting our democratic processes.
12 Q And the operations that you are referring to are like the ones that were 13 described in the indictment of the IRA?
14 A Correct.
15 Q The troll farms, for example?
16 A Correct.
17 Q Okay. When the FITF was established by the director of the FBI in 2017 to 18 counteract foreign malign influence operations targeting the United States, who held that 19 position of FBI director? That was 2017.
20 A I should know. I actually don't know when Comey left and Director Wray 21 came in.
22 Q Okay. So you don't know --
23 A I should know.
24 Q It's okay.
25 A I think it was 2017. I just don't know what year or what day in 2017.

1 Q Got it. Okay. Well, in 2017, whoever the director of the FBI was -- I'll
2 represent to you that it was Director Wray at the time that FITF was formed.
3 A I'm pretty sure it was Director Wray because when he testifies, he says, I
4 established the FITF.
5 Q Okay. And who appointed Director Wray?
6 A President Trump.
7 Q Have you ever -- well, actually, sorry.
8 In your experience, has FITF operated in the same manner under both the Trump
9 and Biden administrations?
10 A They have.
11 Q And have you ever seen or heard of anyone from the White House in either
12 administration attempt to exert political pressure or influence the work done by FITF?
13 A No.
14 Q Have the decisions that you've made as an FBI employee and that you've 15 observed from other FBI employees ever been influenced at any time by partisanship, 16 ideology, or political considerations?
17 A No.
18 Q Have you ever witnessed other employees of the FBI appearing to make 19 work-related decisions in a manner that's motivated by partisanship, ideology, or political 20 considerations?
21 A No.
22 Q What would you have done if you had witnessed such improper conduct by 23 an FBI employee?
24 A Likely called them out on it. Made notification to his or her supervisor.
25 Again, it is something that is absolutely paramount. And I think specifically to FITF,

1 being the entity tasked with being the election security lead, there's absolutely no wiggle
2 room for that.
3 Q And you started to already get into the next subject that I want to address
4 when you talked about the three-pronged -- the three-pillar approach at FITF.
5 A Sure.
6 Q So regarding FITF operations -- that's what I'm going to sort of have you
7 describe for us a little bit.
8 You mentioned that there are three buckets or categories of work that FITF is 9 assigned to do. One is investigations and operations. Another is information and 10 intelligence sharing. And finally, private sector partnerships. Did I characterize that
11 right?
12 A You did.
13 Q This is from your testimony.
14 A That's what I was thinking. It's from my testimony.
15 Q Do you recall testifying before this committee in 2018? I think October.
16 A Yes, I do.
17 Q Okay. I don't remember the exact date. I'm sorry.
18 A No, it was -- you're close. It was October 2019, I believe.
19 Q Okay. And the subject of that testimony was what FITF does, the work of 20 FITF?
21 A Correct.
22 Q Okay. And in that testimony, you described those three prongs that we 23 just mentioned. And so with respect to the first one, investigations and operations, you
24 actually gave some detail and examples of the kind of work that's done under that prong.
25 Is it fair to say that FITF works with 56 FBI field offices across the country to

1 counter the extensive influence operations of foreign adversaries by working with the
2 Cyber Division, the cyber task forces, to determine attribution of covert foreign actions
3 and quickly respond to those threats?
4 A That's accurate.
5 Q Okay. And that's the description of the investigations and operations side?
6 A Correct.
7 Q Okay. During your testimony before the committee, you discussed some 8 examples of FITF's investigations work. Do you recall your testimony?
9 A Generally. High level.
10 Q One example that you provided, FITF's investigations work was the 11 investigation leading to the indictment of Elena --
12 A Portina?
13 Q Well, this one is Elena Khusyaynova. It's spelled K-h-y-s-y-a-y-n-o-v-a. A
14 Russian national with criminal violations stemming from her efforts to influence the 2016
15 and 2018 Elections in her role as chief accountant of Project Lakhta, which is L-a-k-h-t-a, a 16 Russian disinformation organization connected to the Internet Research Agency that had 17 budgeted over $10 million for the first half of 2018 to finance initiatives to influence
18 unwitting American political organizations and advocacy groups.
19 Do you recall that investigation or speaking about that investigation?
20 A Not in any detail. I mean, essentially, she was the accountant for Lakhta in 21 IRA. So she had involvement. Very similar activity in the previous complaint that we 22 read.
23 Q Okay.
24 A That's the extent of my knowledge of her.
25 Q I'm going to mark as Exhibit 19 the indictment in U.S. v. Elena Alekseevna,

1 A-l-e-k-s-e-e-v-n-a, Khusyaynova, K-h-u-s-y-a-y-n-o-v-a, out of the Eastern District of
2 Virginia, Case No. 1:18-MJ-464, September 28th, 2018.
3 [Floris Exhibit No. 19
4 Was marked for identification.]
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q Okay. Obviously, I don't want you to read the whole indictment. But if 7 you look at paragraph 15, page 6, there is a Roman numeral three, "Manner and means of 8 the conspiracy," paragraph 15 states, quote, "The conspiracy has a strategic goal, which 9 continues to this day, to sow division and discord in the United States political system, 10 including by creating social and political polarization, undermining faith in democratic 11 institutions, and influencing U.S. elections, including the upcoming 2018 Midterm
12 Election?"
13 The conspiracy has sought to conduct what it called internally, quote,
14 "information warfare against the United States," end quote, "through fictitious U.S.
15 personas on social media platforms and other internet-based media, end quote."
16 So that -- according to the indictment, the defendants in this case, again, 17 characterized their own activity as, quote, "information warfare against the United 18 States." Is that correct?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And similar to the previous indictment, they used fictitious -- well, it doesn't 21 say that yet.
22 They intended to sow division in the political system and undermine our faith
23 ultimately in democratic institutions. Is that fair to say?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And in this occasion, this was meant to influence the 2018 Midterm Election.

1 Is that right?

2 A I believe so, yes.

3 Q Okay. Why in your experience is it harmful to the U.S. national security

4 when foreign actors engage in this type of foreign influence operation?

5 A Again, it's twofold, as I said, with Russia in particular. And they are trying

6 to sow discord into the U.S. society with the end goal of essentially taking our focus away

7 from Russia and ensuring that they don't become a global superpower and instead focus

8 internally on each other. That's a very strategic goal, but it certainly is one of their

9 goals.

10 And, again, I think anytime you undermine the democratic processes of the United

11 States -- the democratic global superpower that it is -- and it calls into question that 12 standing, it can certainly have ramifications for our standing on the global stage.

13 Q Okay. And directing your attention to page 19, paragraph 29 of the 14 indictment. It's under section C, "Use of specific U.S. fake personas.

15 That paragraph states, quote, "Since at least in or around 2015, the conspiracy

16 used social media platforms to create thousands of social media and email accounts that

17 appeared to be operated by U.S. persons and used them to create and amplify divisive

18 social and political content targeting a U.S. audience. These accounts were also used to 19 advocate for the election or electoral defeat of particular candidates in the 2016 and

20 2018 elections, to post derogatory information about a number of candidates, and on 21 occasion, to promote political donations against political candidates."

22 Now, that conduct is -- well, it includes many things, but among them is, again,

23 these troll farm activities. Is that fair to say?

24 A I think so.

25 Q So people pretending to be someone that they're not, pretending to be

1 domestic American voices, when in fact, they are foreign Russian voices. Is that fair to 2 say?
3 A Yes.
4 Q And attempting to use those voices to influence the American political 5 process, correct?
6 A Correct.
7 Q And in this case, the indictment talks about specifically targeting particular
8 candidates. Is that fair to say?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Okay. In your experience, why is this type of covert foreign action harmful
11 to the United States?
12 A Again, the American people should be able to elect whoever they want to 13 elect based on the facts related to the candidates. If you have a foreign government
14 pushing out disinformation on one candidate or another, that could potentially influence
15 how an American ultimately votes. They have, in effect, interfered in our electoral 16 processes. For the same reasons I said before, that has a long-term damaging effect to 17 the United States.
18 Q Okay. You also discussed in your prior testimony before the committee an 19 example of another FITF investigation which led to the indictment of Maria Butina. Do 20 you recall that investigation?
21 A I do.
22 Q And Ms. Butina was a Russian national who was convicted of conspiring with 23 a Russian intelligence service to influence unwitting American political organizations and 24 advocacy groups. Is that correct?
25 A Yes.

1 Q What's your recollection of who she was?

2 A Not much more to add than what's in that. She was using her influence to

3 essentially manage individuals in powerful positions.

4 Q Okay. So I'm going to mark this as Exhibit 20, the indictment in the case of

5 United States v. Maria Butina in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia. It

6 was July 14th, 2018.

7 [Floris Exhibit No. 20

8 Was marked for identification.]

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q And directing your attention to page -- paragraph 14, which is page 4 so to

11 be clear, this exhibit also includes the affidavit of the FBI agent who supported the 12 allegations in the indictment.

13 This paragraph says, quote, "The FBI's investigation has further revealed that

14 Butina and the Russian official took steps to develop relationships with American

15 politicians in order to establish private, or as she called them, "back channel" lines of 16 communication. These lines could be used by the Russian Federation to penetrate the 17 U.S. national decision-making apparatus to advance the agenda of the Russian

18 Federation," end quote.

19 In your experience, why is that type of foreign covert influence operation

20 damaging or harmful to the United States?

21 A Any communication between a foreign government and an elected official of 22 the U.S. Government should be through overt means. Diplomacy. Once you start

23 getting into the covert means, it means that we've essentially lost the eye, that this

24 information or this argument is being at the direction of a foreign government. So it

25 certainly has the impact to interfere in our national security.

1 Q Okay. And the important element there, again, is that the American people
2 don't know about this, quote, "back channel." It's actually being hidden from the 3 American people rather than being presented transparently to them. Is that fair to say?
4 A Correct. And being hidden to the American politicians as well.
5 Q More recently, in April of 2023, a Federal grand jury in Tampa, Florida
6 returned a superseding indictment charging four U.S. citizens and three Russian nationals
7 with working on behalf of the Russian Government in conjunction with the Russian 8 Federal Security Service in the FSB to conduct a multiyear foreign influence campaign in 9 the United States.
10 I'm marking Exhibit 21, which is a DOJ press release dated Tuesday, April 18th, 11 2023, entitled, "U.S. citizens and Russian intelligence officers charged with conspiring to 12 use U.S. citizens as illegal agents of the Russian Government," end quote.
13 [Floris Exhibit No. 21
14 Was marked for identification.]
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q When you've had a chance to look at that, let me know.
17 A Okay.
18 Q Okay. I'm going to direct your attention to page 3 at the very top.
19 Are you familiar with this investigation, first of all?
20 A I am. High level.
21 Q Okay. On the top of page 3, the press release states, quote, "Among other 22 illegal activities, the indictment alleges that Russian nationals working at the direction of 23 the FSB," quote, "conspired to directly and substantially influence Democratic elections in 24 the United States by clandestinely funding and directing the political campaign of a
25 particular candidate for local office in St. Petersburg, Florida in 2019," end quote.

1 The indictment further alleges that one of the Russian defendants, quote,
2 "expressly referred to this effort on behalf of the FSB as," quote, "our election campaign,"
3 end quote, and referred to the candidate as, quote, "the candidate whom we supervise,"
4 end quote.
5 If these allegations are true, why would it be harmful to the security of the United 6 States to have an elected official who is working under the supervision of Russia and the 7 FSB?
8 A I don't even know where to begin to answer that. You know, Russia is 9 certainly one of our primary adversaries on the global stage. It is certainly a country
10 that is not in line with our democratic beliefs.
11 So if you've got an elected official, whether it's at the State level, whether it's at 12 the Federal level, who is, in effect, operating at the direction or a willing participant in 13 Russia's strategic objectives, that said individual can have influence. That said individual 14 can derail something that the United States Government is trying to do.
15 It is detrimental for a whole host of reasons. And, again, I go back to the fact
16 that Russia is one of our top three key adversaries on the global stage.
17 Q Is it fair to say, as we've gone through these indictments, that you see not 18 any kind of reduction in effort on the part of the Russians to interfere in our elections as 19 time has gone on? Instead, they seem to be very well interested and continuing those 20 efforts as time goes on. Is that fair to say?
21 A That's very fair to say. If anything, they may change their playbook, but at 22 least to my knowledge -- and, again, that knowledge extends through the 2020
23 Presidential Election -- I see no indications of them ceasing this activity or their ambitions.
24 Q If you were to continue along on this press release, it says -- again, according 25 to the indictment, the same indicted Russian defendant allegedly intended for the

1 election interference plot to extend beyond the 2019 local election cycle and 2 subsequently discussed that, quote, "the USA Presidential Election," end quote, was the 3 FSB's, quote, "main topic of the year," end quote.
4 What's your response to that?
5 A You know, without knowing specifically what that individual said or what the 6 underlying reporting was to that, it's not surprising. Oftentimes with foreign 7 governments, China and Russia being the primary ones in this space, they'll look to 8 influence at the State and local level, but with the end goal being the Federal level where,
9 again, they can enact some sort of strategic change in U.S. policy toward those 10 governments.
11 Q Okay. Returning briefly to our discussion of the three prongs.
12 We just went through several examples of investigations and operations that FITF
13 has done to combat foreign influence in our elections, and it appears fair to say that there
14 is a lot of work for FITF to do in that field. Is that correct?
15 A That's correct.
16 Q And certainly, as time goes on, it's not something that is no longer an issue?
17 A That's correct.
18 Q Okay. And if, for whatever reason, congressional investigations or criticism
19 or any other outside influence were to chill the work of FITF, is it possible that those kind 20 of cases that were indicted in the examples that we just discussed wouldn't be brought?
21 A Yeah, it's possible. But, you know, I'd like to think that the FBI and its 22 workforce would continue to do its job by the book, following the policies and processes
23 that we have in place, regardless of any external noise and criticism. But we are 24 humans, so it certainly it is possible.
25 Q And just directing this question to you personally, does having been yelled at

1 and screamed at by a senator in the United States for doing your job and notifying him of 2 what you thought was a threat -- does that deter you in any way from doing your job in 3 the future to combat these foreign influence operations?
4 A It doesn't. It is what it is. He's certainly not the only individual to ever
5 raise his voice at me during a congressional engagement.
6 But as I said several times in this discussion, I think it's extremely important for us
7 to lean in and be transparent with the elected officials. It is our job. The FBI is the 8 action arm of the IC, and in my opinion, we owe it to our elected officials to be as 9 forward-leaning as we can in sharing information explicit to them.
10 Q Okay. The second prong that you mentioned in your testimony, again, was 11 information and intelligence sharing. I think, from your testimony, that that basically 12 involved information sharing with law enforcement partners and election officials. Is 13 that what you were --
14 A That's accurate. And, you know, throughout the IC. It's what we do on 15 the intelligence side of the house. Disseminating and producing products for a whole 16 wide swath of audiences.
17 Q Okay. And the final part was private sector partnerships, and this is where 18 you were describing some of the work that FITF does in engagement with U.S. technology
19 companies. Is that fair to say?
20 A Correct.
21 Q And also, you explained in your testimony -- again, before this 22 committee -- that technology companies have a front-line responsibility to secure their 23 own networks, products, and platforms. And you further stated that the FBI has 24 provided actionable intelligence to help these companies, quote, "address abuse of their 25 platforms by foreign actors," end quote.

1 Does that characterization of your testimony still seem accurate to you --

2 A Yes.

3 Q -- in terms of that work?

4 Is it fair to say that you share information with these companies including threat

5 indictors, on occasion, with the expectation that the companies will use their own means

6 to verify whether these indicators are accurate or really -- they use their own means to 7 verify those indicators of whether those actors are really foreign actors?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q Okay.

10 [redacted] Sorry. Just to clarify, her question said "you."

11 Ms. Floris. Oh, yeah. Not me personally.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q Sorry. I know you were testifying on behalf of FITF.

14 A I was.

15 Q Okay. And it's also your understanding that those social media companies

16 will ultimately make their own determination as to whether the identified accounts or

17 postings violate their own company's terms of service. Is that right?

18 A That's correct.

19 Q And the FBI never coerces or tries to influence the decision of the social 20 media companies to remove any particular content. Is that fair to say?

21 A That's fair to say.

22 Q Okay. Does the FBI ever decide to share information regarding an account

23 or post based on the nature of the content rather than the source of the content?

24 A No.

25 Q Is it fair to say that the FBI's only concern is whether the account or post is

1 controlled by a covert foreign actor and that the FBI has no concern at all with the
2 content of the message or any political or ideological message that's embedded in it?
3 A That's correct.
4 [redacted] All right. Okay.
5 I think we can go off the record.
6 [Discussion off the record.]
7 [redacted] Could we be back on the record.
8 Ms. Floris. So regarding content outside the confines of the FITF, certainly any 9 content on social media companies about, you know, threats of violence, child sexual 10 exploitation -- there's certainly a whole host of content-based information outside the 11 purview of the FITF that the FBI writ large is concerned about.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Okay. Sorry. I meant my questions to actually pertain to the foreign 14 influence operations sphere of what FITF does.
15 A Okay. Perfect. Thank you.
16 Q Thank you for that clarification.
17 A Sure.
18 Q Actually, I do have one last question.
19 Are you aware of any increased threats to law enforcement at the FBI or to you or 20 any other employee in particular as a result of some of the allegations that have come out
21 about partisanship or censorship on behalf of the FBI?
22 A Yes. There certainly has been an uptick in threat reporting. We're all
23 familiar with the incident at our FBI Cincinnati office. I personally have been doxxed.
24 So, yes, there has been an uptick. I can't quantify what that uptick is, but it is certainly 25 something we're all concerned about.

Q Has anyone from the committee reached out to you personally or to any other FBI employees who have been affected by these threats to inquire as to their safety or their well-being?

A Not to my knowledge.

Q And do you have anything you want to share with the committee on that or any other subject before we close?

A Again, I would just say that, regardless of the criticisms and, you know, what goes on outside the FBI building, we are an organization comprised of highly-motivated, highly-dedicated individuals whose primary goal is to serve the American people.

I've wanted to work for the FBI ever since I was a little girl, and I would assume a lot of employees in the FBI are the same. So I love working for the FBI. I'm proud to work for the FBI, and I stand by the decisions and actions we've taken over the years.

Q Thank you for that.

A Sure.

[redacted] We can go off the record.

[Recess.]

[2:12 p.m.]

[redacted] On the record.

BY [redacted]

Q So, Ms. Floris, we've been advised that you have a hard stop at 3 p.m.?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. For the record, this is the first the committee is hearing about it, so in the event we have questions that go over that time, we do reserve the right to ask you to come back.

I actually did not have an opportunity to sort of finish up a particular line of questioning before we turned over the time to the minority.

Are you aware that Senator Chuck Schumer and Senator Ron Wyden tried to offer a resolution in the Senate disparaging the Grassley-Johnson investigation into the Biden family's overseas dealings?

A I am not.

Q I'll explain why this is relevant. We have these -- we have consecutive 3-day unifying events. We have the August 5th, 2020, Washington Post article seeking to discredit this investigation. We have the August 6, 2020, briefing that you gave to Senators Grassley and Johnson. And then we have the August 7, 2020, Senator Blumenthal op-ed that also sought to discredit their investigation.

Senator Grassley testified before the Select Subcommittee on the Weaponization of the Federal Government and said that these events in part were, quote, some fictional -- something out of a fictional spy thriller.

He places you and Mr. Benavides as integral to this thriller. Can you understand why?

A Again, there was a lot going on at that time. We were a couple months out

1 from the election. I'll continue to harken back to the all-Member briefings that I, along
2 with my colleagues from the IC, provided, which were very similar in theme and context.
3 But, again, I wish we were as organized to do some sort of great thriller. We are not
4 that organized.
5 Q Well, given what you now know, do you regret providing the August 6th
6 briefing to Senators Grassley and Johnson?
7 A I do not.
8 Q I want to ask you about Andrii Derkach. I think I'm saying that correctly. I 9 think there's been some discussion about him. Are you -- do you know who he is?
10 A I do.
11 Q Okay. Who is he?
12 A Again, I won't say much more than what's in the Treasury sanctions, a
13 longstanding associate of Russian intel services, integral in the foreign influence
14 objectives of the Russian intel services.
15 Q Did you mention Derkach in your August 6, 2020, briefing with the Senators,
16 Senators Grassley and Johnson?
17 A I won't go into specifics about what was mentioned.
18 Q Okay. So you can't tell us one way or the other?
19 A I cannot.
20 Q To your knowledge, did Derkach provide information to Senators Grassley
21 and Johnson or their staff?
22 A I don't know.
23 Q In the July 13, 2020, letter, which I think we had marked as exhibit 1, from 24 senior Democrat officials -- withdraw.
25 Are you aware that Senator Grassley took to the Senate floor on September 29,

1 2020, and condemned his, quote, Democratic colleagues, close quote, for, quote, publicly
2 insinuating that I received records from a Ukrainian national, Andrii Derkach, a Russian
3 agent, end quote, and stated, quote, I've never received nor solicited information from 4 Derkach, end quote? Are you aware that he made this statement on the Senate floor?
5 A I am not.
6 Q Do you have any reason to doubt Senator Grassley's representation about 7 never receiving information from Mr. Derkach?
8 A I would have no reason to doubt any Senator's statements.
9 Q Senator Grassley also praised the Treasury Department for sanctioning
10 Derkach. Did you know that?
11 A I did not.
12 Q Does that sound like someone who would rely on information from 13 Mr. Derkach?
14 A I -- I can't speak to what that sounds like.
15 Q Senator Grassley stated his Hunter Biden investigation was, quote, based on 16 Obama administration government records and records from a Democrat lobby shop,
17 Blue Star Strategies, end quote.
18 Were you aware of this information at the time you briefed the Senators?
19 A No.
20 Q Lastly, Senator Grassley observed, quote, Vice President Biden was 21 responsible for carrying an anti-corruption message to Ukraine on behalf of the United 22 States at the same time his son was making millions of dollars working on the board of a
23 corrupt Ukrainian company. To any reasonable observer, that's a very questionable fact 24 pattern that deserves attention, end quote.
25 Given your experience with the FBI, is that a reasonable basis in and of itself for a

1 Senate investigation?

2 A I can't speak to what the basis of a Senate investigation would or would not

3 be.

4 Q Would you agree that, with or without any alleged disinformation, the fact

5 pattern Senator Grassley laid out is a fair predicate for a congressional inquiry?

6 A I can't speak to that.

7 Q Would it be a fair predicate for an FBI investigation?

8 A I can't speak to that. I would have to know more facts than that.

9 Q Okay. I think we've touched on this, but in the interest of having a

10 complete record, I'll ask again. Were you aware that in August 2019, Senators Chuck

11 Grassley and Senator Ron Johnson opened an investigation into conflicts of interest

12 involving the Biden family's foreign business ventures while Joe Biden was Vice President?

13 A No.

14 Q Have you since become aware of it?

15 A High level, mainly in this conversation.

16 Q Does that investigation in any way relate to your role at the FBI?

17 A No.

18 Q High level, what is your understanding of their investigation?

19 A Not much more than you said.

20 Q Are you aware that upon concluding their investigation, the staff of the 21 Senate Finance Committee and the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs

22 Committee issued a report in September of 2020?

23 A No.

24 Q At the time the report was released, you were deputy assistant director of 25 the Intelligence Branch, correct?

1 A Correct.

2 Q Okay. Generally speaking, have you ever -- have you -- as far -- to your

3 knowledge, the Intelligence Division, the FBI, ever relied on congressional staff reports?

4 A Not to my knowledge. I can't speak for the whole of the FBI.

5 Q What if a report was germane to a, you know, FBI investigation?

6 A I -- I personally have never relied on it. Again, I can't speak for everyone.

7 [Floris Exhibit No. 22

8 Was marked for identification.]

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q So speaking of the report, I'm showing you what I'm entering into the record

11 as exhibit 22, the Hunter Biden, Burisma, and -- "Hunter Biden, Burisma, and Corruption:

12 The Impact on U.S. Government Policy and Related Concerns." It is a staff report. It is

13 87 pages in length. I am only putting into the record the first six pages, which contain a 14 cover page, a table of contents, and an executive summary.

15 If you could look briefly at the table of contents, that would be ideal.

16 Have you had a chance to review it?

17 A Uh-huh.

18 Q Okay. So high level, are you familiar with these -- with sort of these 19 subheadings in the table of contents?

20 A Just from reading it today.

21 Q So it's a pretty extensive report, as I indicated, 87 pages. We're just going 22 to look at the some of the key findings.

23 And to be clear, have you ever reviewed or seen this report prior to today?

24 A Not to my knowledge.

25 Q And beyond this report, given your position, you are familiar with the

1 allegations surrounding Hunter Biden's overseas ventures, particularly with Burisma and
2 how they may implicate his father, correct?
3 A Just high level, not much more than that.
4 Q Okay. So I'm going to direct your attention to page 4 of this exhibit, key
5 findings. It's the second one. It reads: In October 2015, senior State Department
6 official Amos Hochstein raised concerns with Vice President Biden, as well as with Hunter
7 Biden, that Hunter Biden's position on the Burisma's board enabled Russian
8 disinformation efforts and risked undermining U.S. policy in Ukraine.
9 In your briefings with Senator Grassley and Johnson, did you mention similar 10 concerns?
11 A I did not.
12 Q Directing your attention to page 5. The second full paragraph, it reads,
13 quote, Hunter Biden was serving on Burisma's board, supposedly consulting on corporate
14 governance and transparency, when Zlo- -- excuse me, Zlochevsky allegedly paid a 15 $7 million bribe to officials serving under Ukraine prosecutor general Vitaly Yarema, to,
16 quote, shut the case against Zlochevsky -- excuse me -- close quote. Kent testified that 17 this bribe occurred in December 2014, 7 months after Hunter joined Burisma's board, and 18 after learning about it, he and the resident legal advisor reported this allegation to the 19 FBI.
20 Did you discuss this allegation in your August 6th briefing with the Senators?
21 A I did not.
22 Q Were you aware of this allegation or have you since become aware of this
23 allegation prior to just now?
24 A No.
25 Q Okay. So you can't say if anything was done about this report to the FBI?

1 A No.

2 Q Given that we've just reviewed it and given your experience, is this the sort

3 of thing that the FBI would take seriously?

4 A I can't comment on that with additional information.

5 Q Well, if you would just narrow the scope to this particular fact pattern, given

6 your experience, is this something the FBI would be concerned about?

7 A Possibly, but, again, without more information, one bullet is not enough to 8 make a determination.

9 Q Directing your attention to the third from the bottom key finding on page 5.

10 A Uh-huh.

11 Q In addition to over $4 million paid by Burisma for Hunter Biden's and

12 Archer -- who I'll represent is Hunter Biden's business partner Devon Archer -- Archer's

13 board membership, Hunter Biden, his family, and Archer received millions of dollars from 14 foreign nationals with questionable backgrounds, end quote.

15 Did you discuss these facts in the August 6th briefing with the Senators?

16 A No.

17 Q Were you aware that Burisma paid Hunter Biden and his business partner

18 over $4 million?

19 A No.

20 Q Were you aware that those two made millions more from foreign nationals

21 with questionable backgrounds?

22 A No.

23 Q Would such a thing be a concern for the FBI?

24 A Again --

25 [redacted] I'm going to interject here and say that some of these allegations this

1 witness is not the correct one to speak to. There is obviously an ongoing criminal matter
2 regarding Hunter Biden, and the FBI is not in a position to speak for the specifics of that
3 investigation and would refer you to U.S. Attorney Weiss. This witness is not, as she has 4 testified, is not involved in that investigation. So I just want to be very clear about the 5 record here.
6 [redacted] We appreciate the record. We'll continue to ask the questions
7 that the committee deems appropriate.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q Was that a concern for the -- given the key finding we've read, was that
10 a -- do you know if that was a concern for the FBI because Vice President Biden oversaw
11 Ukraine policy for the Obama administration at a time when his son was on the payroll of 12 a giant Ukrainian energy company?
13 A Again, I -- I have no knowledge of this.
14 Q Okay. I think we'll -- we're done with it.
15 [redacted] Oh, please, Congresswoman.
16 Mrs. Spartz. Can I just go quickly?
17 [redacted] worked for you, correct?
18 Ms. Floris. Yes.
19 Mrs. Spartz. So what was his involvement in this defensive briefing that you
20 gave the Senators?
21 Ms. Floris. He had no involvement.
22 Mrs. Spartz. So you haven't discussed with him before or after?
23 Ms. Floris. I did not. He may have booked the conference room that I had a 24 meeting to discuss it, but --
25 Mrs. Spartz. Was he involved in any way to deliver information, obtain information that you would use?

Ms. Floris. No.

Mrs. Spartz. So what was his job under you?

Ms. Floris. Again, it was mainly administrative, handling the production calendar, handling talking points on a whole host of issues, engaging with the other assistants throughout the division to just help with, you know, managerial type stuff.

Mrs. Spartz. So his job under you was administrative. He was -- his title was supervisory intelligence agent, right?

Ms. Floris. Analyst. Supervisory intelligence analyst, yeah.

Mrs. Spartz. Analyst. Analyst, right?

Ms. Floris. Yeah.

Mrs. Spartz. But he didn't do any analysis for you? All he did is just scheduling?

Ms. Floris. It wasn't scheduling in the sense of like an executive assistant would do. Most senior executives in the FBI have a team of individuals under them to help with, again, drafting of talking points, correspondence. For me as an intelligence analyst, quite a bit of production that gets a bit unwieldy, he assisted with that as well. We do have analysts, much like we have agents, who sit in those roles as well because they have a unique perspective.

Mrs. Spartz. How long did he work for you?

Ms. Floris. Maybe 2 years.

Mrs. Spartz. Did you have any other interactions through your career with him?

Ms. Floris. No, that was the first time I met him is when I got over to the Counterintelligence Division.

Mrs. Spartz. So he already was there?

Ms. Floris. When I got there, I believe he was detailed to another investigation.

1 But, again, I think I met him maybe 2019, maybe 2020. I can't remember, because there
2 was somebody else in that role for a while when I first got that job.
3 Mrs. Spartz. Have you ever discussed with him his previous work involved with 4 kind of investigation and all of that? You know, so you have never even discussed with 5 him any of these issues before?
6 Ms. Floris. No, that was intentional.
7 Mrs. Spartz. So you haven't discussed anything related to any other
8 investigations that he did before? So you truly -- it is just the scheduling was him.
9 That's the only discussions that you had?
10 Ms. Floris. Again, he did more than scheduling, as I said, but he was not involved
11 in operational or analytical discussions.
12 Mrs. Spartz. Okay. So what more than scheduling? What else would he do?
13 Ms. Floris. Work on special projects that crossed -- you know, I had three 14 sections, hundreds and hundreds of employees working for me. You know, ensure that 15 certain taskings got met. He was a mentor to, you know, several analysts throughout 16 the division.
17 Mrs. Spartz. Was he involved in any projects related to disinformation by Russia, 18 of election or interference, specifically projects like that?
19 Ms. Floris. He was not in FITF, so no.
20 Mrs. Spartz. So he was never involved with any projects related to 21 disinformation, election interference of Russian -- at all?
22 Ms. Floris. Not specific as it relates to the defensive briefings.
23 Mrs. Spartz. So not specifically under you. Not related to the specific briefing,
24 but when he worked for you during that time?
25 Ms. Floris. He did, but he did not work for FITF.

1 Mrs. Spartz. So he didn't do any for you as dealing with issues of, you know,
2 briefings and election interference, he didn't do any specific projects related to Russia for
3 you?
4 Ms. Floris. He maybe drafted up talking points for me.
5 Mrs. Spartz. Based on what?
6 Ms. Floris. Based on the FBI's role. So, again, when I would do an interagency
7 engagement, be it Hill testimony, a media backgrounder, a briefing to the SACs, for 8 example, my role was to talk about what the FBI was doing, so more in line with the three 9 pillars that I discussed when I testified before this committee years ago. Nothing about 10 the substance or meat of the intelligence.
11 Mrs. Spartz. But you are pretty sure that he was definitely not involved in 12 anything related to this defensive briefing. You're kind of confident about that for sure?
13 Ms. Floris. I am confident.
14 Mrs. Spartz. So you know that --
15 Ms. Floris. I know that.
16 Mrs. Spartz. -- that he never was involved in any of that?
17 Ms. Floris. No.
18 Mrs. Spartz. Okay.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q I want to talk a bit about your -- you were election security lead for the 2020
21 Presidential election. Is that correct?
22 A That's correct.
23 Q Okay. I'm going to ask for some specificity. What exactly did that entail?
24 A I don't even know where to begin on that. So I was the senior FBI official,
25 so all of the interagency meetings, briefings, Hill engagements, media backgrounders, I

1 was the representative. But there was a whole team beneath me who was involved in
2 it. It was my job to essentially play traffic cop, to make sure the Cyber Division was 3 talking to the Counterintelligence Division and talking to the Criminal Division. I was the 4 primary interlocutor between the operational divisions and the 7th floor, the director, the
5 deputy director.
6 So really every agency had a single ingest point, just because there was a lot of 7 information, a lot of folks involved in this. I was that ingest point.
8 Q And sort of get broadly, you were sort of the traffic cop getting this 9 information, but specifically how did you effectuate those responsibilities leading up to 10 the 2020 election?
11 A So, for example, if there was reporting about potential cyber interference, I
12 would ensure the Cyber Division has it -- had that information, actioned that information,
13 would then report back to my partners in the IC, for example, that this information had 14 been actioned. We'd coordinate on talking points, you know, make sure our SACs and 15 our field commanders were aware of what was going on, similar type of activity.
16 Q Did you -- who worked with you in this role at the FBI?
17 A So Brad Benavides was the actual section chief over FITF, so he was my 18 deputy, kind of second in command on that.
19 Q Anyone else?
20 A There were folks from all over the FBI who were involved in election security
21 matters, folks in our Criminal Division for your, you know, historic election crimes, voter
22 fraud and the like; folks in our Cyber Division about any sort of election interference
23 activity. All 56 field offices have an election crimes coordinator. I mean, it was really a 24 whole-of-government effort to secure the elections.
25 Q So basically, though, say in your office, it was just you and Brad for the most

1 part working together on this particular issue?

2 A Yeah, but with a whole legion of folks around the FBI headquarters and the 3 field.

4 Q Right.

5 A I mean, securing the elections is not something that just Brad and I can do

6 ourselves.

7 Q And what were the other government agencies you worked with in this

8 particular role?

9 A NSA, CIA, DHS, CISA, State, Treasury, ODNI.

10 Q And what was the nature of their responsibilities, just intelligence gathering?

11 A Similar to what they do in their normal course of action. For example, we

12 saw Treasury pushes out sanctions, and CISA ensures that the integrity of the election

13 systems are tight, and DHS would help us push out public service announcements, and

14 CIA would do whatever squirrely thing CIA does, and NSA and CYBERCOM would look to 15 swim upstream to target the adversaries overseas.

16 Q And how did you all interact with each other?

17 A I mean, almost daily phone calls. We would have weekly SVTCes, syncs,

18 ensuring that we were all working in concert. It was routine dialogue.

19 Q Did you work with anyone in the private sector?

20 A I personally did not, no.

21 Q Are you aware of private sector entities that were involved in this effort?

22 A The social media companies, again, we provided them with information.

23 Q Facebook?

24 A I don't know the specifics. I mean, it's far more than just the usual players

25 is my understanding, but I don't know specifics.

1 Q But as far as you know, they were a part of it, the large social
2 media -- Facebook, Twitter, et cetera?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Is that fair to say?
5 A That's fair.
6 Q Do you know the names of any of the individuals at the social media
7 companies that were liaisoning with your outfit?
8 A I don't.
9 Q In your efforts in this regard, you had provided certain intelligence to social 10 media companies, correct?
11 A I had never engaged with social media companies.
12 Q Has the FBI?
13 A The FBI has, yes.
14 Q And social media companies have also passed tips to the FBI?
15 A That is my understanding, not directly to me.
16 Q Okay. Your understanding, they've done so sort of leading up to the 2020
17 Presidential election with respect to election interference?
18 A Yes. So, for example, you know, you can remember the headlines,
19 Facebook takes down 10,000 accounts related to Chinese actors, again, hypothetical.
20 Facebook on occasion, my understanding, would take the selectors of those individuals
21 they identified as being Chinese actors and pass those back to the FBI, that would then 22 pass back to the intelligence community.
23 Q Would you then, for instance, in this hypothetical, say, tell Facebook it
24 checks out, take them down?
25 A We would never tell them to take them down. If they provided us those

1 accounts and we had information corroborating that they were, in fact, you know, at the 2 behest of the Chinese Communist Party and we've got additional selectors related to that,
3 we may in turn pass those back to them. But we would never advise them to take down
4 the accounts.
5 Q Would an intelligence agency or the FBI then monitor those accounts given
6 the origin, say, with the CCP?
7 A Probably not. I mean, the FBI, we certainly don't have the scope and scale
8 to monitor social media accounts. What the social media companies can do, I don't 9 know.
10 Q In your experience, are you aware of accounts being flagged as, say,
11 belonging to the Chinese Communist Party but, in fact, were accounts of U.S. citizens?
12 A Not that I'm aware of.
13 Q Have you heard anything like that, though?
14 A I haven't, no.
15 Q Never?
16 A Never.
17 Q Leading up to the 2020 Presidential election, did you or your sort of 18 colleagues at the FBI contact social media companies and share concerns about 19 disinformation being disseminated on their platforms?
20 A I don't know. I didn't personally. I know several folks within FITF had 21 engagement with social media companies. If they shared those concerns, I'm just not 22 aware of it.
23 Q If you know, how would they make such assessments?
24 A Probably based on intelligence community reporting.
25 Q And it's your testimony you've never flagged a specific account for the social

1 media companies?

2 A I personally have not, no.

3 Q And you can't say that others haven't, though, at the FBI?

4 A Correct. I don't know the specifics of what information has or has not been 5 flagged.

6 Q Would the FBI be concerned not only about the origins of the account but

7 the content of the account?

8 A Not necessarily the content, unless said content was about, you know,

9 stoking violence or threats of violence or, you know, child sexual exploitation, for 10 example, no. Our primary objective was the foreign actor.

11 Q But surely an extension of the foreign actor's presence would be what is the 12 sort of malign interference they're engaging in. Fair to say?

13 A That's fair to say, but you've got to have that foreignness to it in order for us

14 to be concerned about it. So we start with the actor, not content.

15 Q So I think before there was testimony, if it was Iran was saying election day

16 was on a Wednesday instead of a Tuesday, you might -- you, the FBI, might make a public

17 statement that this is untrue?

18 A So the FBI would never make a public statement unilaterally. If we had

19 information that Iranian actors were going to push out a disinformation campaign stating

20 elections are on Wednesday vice Tuesday, that is something that would go into the 21 interagency defensive notification framework to determine if we do need to make public

22 notification.

23 Q Okay. Revisiting this point, there's been a lot of reporting on this that

24 Americans have been swooped up in the social media drag, getting information from the

25 FBI, providing information to the FBI, and their accounts have been censored on the basis

1 that they were either foreign actors trying to spread disinformation when, in fact, they 2 were not.
3 I just want to be clear, you have no information or you have not heard this
4 reporting in that regard?
5 A I have not heard this reporting.
6 Mrs. Spartz. Are you -- when you were part of still counterintelligence in '22, and 7 you were in charge of Foreign Influence Task Force, were you aware of SBU collaboration
8 with FBI?
9 Ms. Floris. I was not, and I left that position in May of 2022.
10 Mrs. Spartz. May 2022. So you have not really dealt with SBU at that time?
11 Ms. Floris. I have never personally dealt with SBU, no.
12 Mrs. Spartz. So you're not even aware dealing with that that SBU was dealing,
13 you know, with FBI and getting information sent to social media companies? You're not 14 everyone aware of that?
15 Ms. Floris. I have no knowledge of this.
16 Mrs. Spartz. No one ever told you that this actually was happening at the 17 beginning, you know, the war to provide information to social media companies on behalf 18 of Ukrainian SBU? So you've never been informed, even though you were in charge of,
19 you know, the Foreign Influence Task Force assessment? This was never brought to 20 your attention?
21 Ms. Floris. No.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q Beyond accounts being suspected of being foreign threat actors, when 24 they -- well, withdraw.
25 Let's use the CCP hypothetical again. You have accounts. You have a basis to

1 believe they are foreign accounts. Would the FBI or your partners then investigate
2 further beyond the existence of these accounts?
3 A If we had information that a CCP-linked account was being used to push out
4 disinformation to the American public, yes, we would be interested in those CCP accounts
5 and the actors behind the accounts and if those actors were connected to high levels of 6 the CCP.
7 Q Were America's foreign adversaries actively trying to influence the 2020
8 election?
9 A Yes.
10 Q How?
11 A I would defer you to the ICA that was pushed out by the ODNI March
12 of 2021.
13 Q But to your knowledge, broad strokes.
14 A Broad strokes, yes, Russia was trying to denigrate then-President-elect
15 Biden; China had considered but did not, to our knowledge, with the intelligence we had 16 at that time, participate in any foreign influence operations; Iran did have some 17 semblance of a social media campaign.
18 Q To your knowledge, China's preferred candidate was Joe Biden. Is that
19 correct?
20 A If I believe -- again, having not read the IC for quite a while, I believe that 21 they did not want Trump elected, if I recall the intelligence. But, again, that's clearly laid
22 out in the ICA.
23 Q If you know, has any foreign government attempted to tamper with U.S.
24 vote counts?
25 A Not to my knowledge.

1 Q What did your organization, the FBI, the task force, do in response to the 2 foreign adversaries trying to influence the 2020 election?
3 A Much like we discussed, the three pillars of investigation, intelligence
4 sharing, and partnerships. So we certainly had investigations on key actors, foreign 5 actors who were attempting to promote these operations -- certainly won't get into any 6 details about that -- produced several intelligence products in concert with our IC
7 partners, shared information with our field offices, shared information with State and 8 local partners, and then the partnerships as we've discussed, sharing actionable
9 information with the social media companies.
10 Q To your knowledge, has anyone been charged with a crime for trying to 11 influence the U.S. election, foreign actors trying to influence the U.S. election in 2020?
12 A I don't know. I don't know if we ever ended up charging Derkach or 13 Telizhenko.
14 Q I mean, I ask because we have this sort of broad public information
15 campaign to be on a lookout, all of these foreign actors are trying to influence the U.S.
16 Presidential election, right, FBI, all these -- which is an intelligence agency and a law
17 enforcement agency.
18 A Thank you.
19 Q All of your very serious partners in this endeavor doing important work, no
20 doubt. And yet no one's been charged with a crime for trying to actively interfere in a 21 U.S. Presidential election. Is that peculiar?
22 A I don't know what's peculiar when you talk about election security and 23 foreign influence. I don't think there is a norm when we talk about this.
24 [redacted] And, of course, the FBI doesn't charge.
25 [redacted] Say again?

1 [redacted] The FBI doesn't make charges.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Well, it makes arrests, right.

4 A Sometimes.

5 Q It investigates cases.

6 Mrs. Spartz. Were any other countries trying to influence elections, except

7 Russia and China?

8 Ms. Floris. Again, according to the ICA, there was certainly an Iranian element, 9 but beyond that, no.

10 Mrs. Spartz. So have you get any -- looked into any investigation related to SBU,

11 Ukrainian SBU at all as part of your investigations?

12 Ms. Floris. Not that I'm aware of, but, again, I would defer to the current 13 management over at the Counterintelligence Division.

14 Mrs. Spartz. But at that time, when you were dealing, you know --

15 Ms. Floris. We had no indications that the Ukrainian Government was 16 attempting to influence the Presidential election.

17 Mrs. Spartz. Looking at anything with SBU, because -- you know, in any way,

18 because there was some reports later on there was a lot of infiltration in SBU. But have 19 you ever looked into at all that agency as part of your assessments what's happening?

20 Ms. Floris. I don't know if my team looked into it.

21 Mrs. Spartz. But you aren't personally aware that anyone ever looked?

22 Ms. Floris. Correct.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q I just think I have a few more questions.

25 Are you familiar with the name Tony Bobulinski?

A I am not.

Q I ask because there's been reporting that the FBI designated Timothy Thibault as the point man to manage Mr. Bobulinski. And Mr. Bobulinski is apparently a business partner or was a business partner of Hunter Biden. Do you have any information in that regard?

A I don't.

Q You've never heard reporting on this story?

A I have not.

[redacted] Congresswoman, anything else?

Mrs. Spartz. No.

[redacted] Off the record.

[Discussion off the record.]

BY [redacted]

Q We could go on the record, please. Need to get you out of here.

A It's fine. No, if we go a little over, it's fine.

Q Just really briefly, on the set of questions that you had about whether there had been Department of Justice indictments related to activity to interfere in the 2020 election, you indicated that you don't know of any indictments as you sit here today. Is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. And you're not a prosecutor. Is that fair to say?

A I am not a prosecutor.

Q Do you read all the press releases from the DOJ regarding --

A I do not.

Q Okay. Are you aware of -- I don't have this with me. But are you aware of 1 the November 18, 2021, press release from the Department of Justice entitled, "Two

2 Iranian Nationals Charged for Cyber-Enabled Disinformation and Threat Campaign
3 Designed to Influence the 2020 U.S. Presidential Election"?
4 A Somewhat.
5 Q Okay. It's not your job to review all of the indictments that DOJ puts out.
6 Is that right?
7 A That was also, if memory serves correct, those were cyber actors so it was 8 under the purview of our Cyber Division, which is probably why.
9 Q Okay. But I just want to make it clear that -- is it possible that the DOJ may 10 be considering indictments at this point and not yet either unsealed them or announced
11 indictments that relate to activities to interfere with the 2020 election?
12 A I certainly won't speak on behalf of the Department. I don't know.
13 Q It's possible, though, correct?
14 A It is possible. It's possible they're not --
15 Q Sure.
16 A -- moving toward anything.
17 Q You just don't know, and that's the point, right?
18 A Correct.
19 Q Okay. And it's not unusual for investigations, especially ones that involve 20 conspiracy and many different people, to take many years. Is that fair to say?
21 A That's fair.
22 Q Okay. But you do know that at the time leading up to the 2020 election,
23 there were efforts, widespread efforts by Russia and other state actors, to interfere in 24 that election. Is that fair to say?
25 A Correct.

1 Q And some of that conduct we've already discussed in the record here led to
2 Treasury sanctions against Andrii Derkach, for example?
3 A That's correct.
4 Q Is that fair to say?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And also the other Rudy Giuliani associate, Telizhenko, correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Okay. And some of that conduct, at least as it's stated in the Treasury
9 announcement, could be a violation of Federal law. Fair to say?
10 A Could be, yes.
11 Q And it could lead to a Federal indictment potentially.
12 A Potentially.
13 Q Fair to say?
14 We just know that at this point it hasn't, as far as we can tell, correct?
15 A To my understanding, we have not -- DOJ has not 16 charged Telizhenko or Derkach.
17 Q Okay.
18 [redacted] Just for the completeness of the record, you mentioned the 19 intelligence community assessment of the 2020 election. I just want to enter it for the 20 record as exhibit 23. I won't ask you any questions about it.
21 Ms. Floris. Okay.
22 [Floris Exhibit No. 23
23 Was marked for identification.]
24 [redacted] Okay. That's it. We can go off the record. Thank you.
25 [Whereupon, at 2:48 p.m., the interview was adjourned.]

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

Transcribed Interview Transcript Errata Form

Interviewee	Nikki Floris
Date of Interview	7/19/23
Date of Review	9/5/24
Name of Reviewer	[redacted]
Signature of Reviewer	[redacted]

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
7	1	SCS → SES
14	7	FBI requests [redacted] be redacted.
14	9	"
15	1	"
15	15	"
15	20,24	"
16	4,13	"
17	12	"
18	3	"
32	22	"a CSO" → "SES"

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
35	19	"two" → "to"
147	12	"direction" → "direction of"
160	17	Redact [redacted]
170	20	"IC" → "ICA"
[redacted]

1
2
3
4
5 COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,
6 U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
7 WASHINGTON, D.C.
8
9
10
11
12
13 INTERVIEW OF: [redacted]
14
15
16
17
18 Wednesday, July 19, 2023
19
20 Washington, D.C.
21
22
23 The interview in the above matter was held in Room 164, Cannon House Office
24 Building, commencing at 10:03 a.m.
25

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted] LAW CLERK

8 [redacted] COUNSEL

9 [redacted] DIGITAL ASSISTANT

10 [redacted] INTERN

11 [redacted] DIGITAL DIRECTOR

12 [redacted] COUNSEL

13 [redacted] MINORITY INTERN

14

15

16 For the SUBCOMMITTEE ON CRIME AND

17 FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SURVEILLANCE:

18

19 [redacted] MINORITY DETAILEE

1 For ALPHABET:

2

3 DANIEL F. DONOVAN, ESQ.

4 EHREN HALSE, ESQ.

5 King & Spalding

6 1700 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Suite 900

7 Washington, D.C. 20006

1

2

3 [redacted] Can we go on the record, please?

4 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of [redacted]. Chairman

5 Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's investigation of Alphabet.

6 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

7 [redacted]. [redacted].

8 [redacted] And could you please spell your last name for the record?

9 [redacted]. [redacted].

10 [redacted] We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to

11 freely consult with counsel if they so choose, and it is my understanding that you're 12 appearing here today with counsel. Is that correct?

13 [redacted]. That is correct.

14 [redacted] Could counsel please state their names for record?

15 Mr. Donovan. Daniel Donovan, King & Spalding, Alphabet.

16 Mr. Halse. Ehren Halse, King & Spalding, Alphabet.

17 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing

18 here today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

19 appear voluntarily.

20 My name is [redacted] and I'm here with Chairman Jordan's staff. Now I'd

21 ask that everyone else from the committee that's here at the table introduce themselves

22 as well.

23 [redacted] [redacted] with Chairman Jordan's staff.

24 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

25 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

1 [redacted] [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler.

2 [redacted] [redacted] legal internal for the minority, House Judiciary.

3 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

4 [redacted] I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we

5 will follow during today's interview.

6 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 1

7 hour, and the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period of

8 time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more questions

9 and the interview is over.

10 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you'd like to take a

11 break at any time, please just let us know.

12 As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything we say to 13 make a written record, so we ask that you give a verbal response to all questions.

14 Do you understand?

15 [redacted]. I understand.

16 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do

17 our best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to 18 just the people on staff whose turn it is.

19 Please try and speak clearly so that the court reporter can understand and so that

20 the folks down at the end of the table can hear you. It's important that we don't talk

21 over one another or interrupt each other if we can help it, and that goes for everybody

22 present here at today's interview.

23 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner

24 as possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you don't

25 understand one of our questions, please just let us know.

1 Our questions will cover a wide range of topics, so if you need clarification at any
2 point, just say so. If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not
3 remember, it is best not to guess. Please give us your best recollection. And it is okay
4 to tell us if you learned information from someone else; just indicate how you came to 5 know the information.
6 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, please just say so, and 7 please inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more
8 complete answer to our questions.
9 You should also understand that, by law, you are required to answer questions
10 from Congress truthfully.
11 Do you understand?
12 [redacted]. I understand.
13 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an 14 interview.
15 Do you understand?
16 [redacted]. I understand.
17 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be 18 subject to criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18 U.S.C., section 1001.
19 Do you understand?
20 [redacted]. I understand.
21 [redacted] Is there any reason you're unable to provide truthful answers to
22 today's questions?
23 [redacted]. There is no reason I cannot.
24 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss
25 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.

For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with the court reporter so that they can go in the official transcript, and any copies of those exhibits will be returned by the time we wrap up today.

This is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the minority would like to add?

[redacted] No, thank you.

[redacted] The clock now reads 10:07 a.m. We will start the first hour of questioning.

EXAMINATION

BY [redacted]

Q Thank you, [redacted].

Can you state your full name again for the record?

A My full name is [redacted].

Q And what's your current place of employment?

A I work for Google, specifically out of the Sydney office.

Q And what is your current title?

A Senior director of Google's Threat Analysis Group.

Q What is your educational background, beginning with college?

A I have a degree in electrical engineering from the Australian Defense Force Academy, and I also have a master's degree from the same institution.

Q Okay. And what is your employment history, we'll say, post getting that master's degree?

A I did the master's degree while I was in the military. I served in the Royal Australian Navy -- actually, briefly in the Royal Australian Air Force and then the Royal

1 Australian Navy.

2 After that, I was employed by our defense research lab, then the Defence Signals

3 Directorate, before joining Google in 2010.

4 Q And when you joined Google in 2010, what was your first position?

5 A I was hired to join as part of Threat Analysis Group as it was being formed.

6 I did not lead the group, but I was an engineer and analyst on that team.

7 Q So, just to understand your answer, the group had not yet been formed.

8 You were hired as one of the first members. Does that sound right?

9 A That's correct.

10 Q And who was the leader of that group when you first joined?

11 A [redacted].

12 Q And how big was the group when it was first created?

13 A The five of us.

14 Q And what was your title or position as a member of this group?

15 A Google is not very big on titles, so at the time I think I was just officially, like,

16 down as a software engineer, was just my base title. But I was just a member of the 17 Threat Analysis Group, but my job title was software engineer.

18 Q Okay. And what were your day-to-day responsibilities in this first position?

19 A So, to clarify, we're talking about the position, like, when I first started 20 around 2010 through 2015?

21 Q Uh-huh.

22 A I did a range of roles, including developing software, reverse engineering

23 malicious software, doing various analytical tasks of analyzing threats. And that would

24 be the primary work I did.

25 Q And, then, in 2015, did your position change?

1 A Yes. In 2015, [redacted] left, and I took over management of the team at 2 that time. So I moved into the management role.
3 Q And is that role different than the position you hold today?
4 A The role has evolved. My responsibilities have expanded in some ways,
5 and I've been promoted, but -- I'm still leading the Threat Analysis Group, but it is a large
6 organization today.
7 Q And as the leader, director -- I'm not sure which is the appropriate term -- of 8 the Threat Analysis Group, what are your day-to-day responsibilities in that role?
9 A So, on a day-to-day basis, I am responsible for the operation of the team and 10 supervision of activity. So I manage the leads of the various areas. I also provide 11 specific advice. And I do an occasional amount of direct work, but it's more managerial, 12 supervisory, and providing executive direction at this point.
13 Q And, going forward, sticking with questions, we'll say, post-2015, once
14 you've taken on the leadership role: Is this for all of Alphabet or just for Google?
15 How --
16 A So, to clarify what Threat Analysis Group does, we are responsible for 17 understanding serious threats to both Google and all of Google's users and really all of 18 Alphabet's users, which really covers a huge proportion of the world, in terms of just 19 making the internet more safe.
20 And so we look at the range of threats, including government-backed threat
21 actors, information operation threat actors, and also serious crime.
22 And so my team is responsible for developing that understanding and then 23 producing assessments, intelligence, that allows other parts of Google to take action and 24 counter these threats in order to keep users safe.
25 Q Can you provide an example of something where your group would provide

1 analysis and then a different part of the company would be able to take action on it?
2 A Certainly.
3 A very typical example might be that we would see somebody attempting to send,
4 sort of, malicious software through Gmail. And, then, if it worked out some way to get 5 past the spam filters, we might write a signature or some, you know, detection rule that 6 allows, say, the Gmail team to block future instances of that.
7 That would be an example of, like, we were blocking, sort of, an attack coming
8 from some actor.
9 Q So your team isn't product-specific. Your team is broadly looking at 10 threats, and then there are other teams that are assigned to Gmail, to YouTube, to other 11 Alphabet products. Is that correct?
12 A That is correct. My team is responsible for understanding the threats and 13 the threat actors.
14 Q Who do you report to in this role?
15 A I report to a vice president who is in charge of overall user protection, and 16 then to the next level of vice presidents, who is responsible for privacy, security, and 17 safety.
18 Q And who is that?
19 A My immediate supervisor is [redacted]. And the lead of privacy, security, 20 and safety is [redacted].
21 Q We'll start first in 2015 when you took over the managerial position. How 22 many people were reporting to you at that time?
23 A As I took over the combined two areas, around 18 people.
24 Q And, I'm sorry, what were the two areas?
25 A It was what was the Threat Analysis Group, and I also had some other

1 engineers from another project assigned to me as well.

2 Q And what was that project?

3 A It was an acquisition called Zynamics, which was doing analysis of malware.

4 Q And as part of your responsibilities, did you manage both of these projects

5 for a while?

6 A Yes, and the teams combined to become Threat Analysis Group. So the 7 teams emerged to become one group.

8 Q Do you recall when, approximately, the groups were merged?

9 A I was managing them as one group for -- I'm not exactly sure how long. So

10 they were all under my management, but at some point we changed the name to say it

11 was all one group, but I don't remember exactly when the merger happened.

12 Q How many people do you manage today?

13 A I believe 60.

14 Q And how is your team internally divided? Well, let me rephrase that. Is 15 your team -- are there internal teams?

16 A There are internal teams, yes.

17 Q Yeah. And can you say at a high level what --

18 A At a high level, I have an engineering team who builds, sort of, some of the

19 tooling for our team. And the three missions I mentioned before of government-backed

20 threats, information operations, and cyber crime, I have, you know, sub-teams that

21 analyze and look at each of those classes of threats.

22 Q If I could have you briefly just say from your team's perspective, you know,

23 what do you define as a government-backed threat? And then we'll go through the next 24 two.

25 A Sure. So we consider, like, a government-backed threat -- we're generally

1 talking hacking threats here. So we would consider that, sort of, espionage or other sort
2 of hacking attempts against our users where we believe that the origin is coming from,
3 sort of, some form of government sponsorship.
4 Q And then the second mission you said was with respect to information
5 operation?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Okay. And then how does your team understand that?
8 A There, we are looking for threat actors engaged in coordinated inauthentic 9 behavior on our platforms, generally government-backed activity as well, but from an 10 information point of view.
11 Q And so is there overlap between those first two teams, the 12 government-backed --
13 A Certainly. They're part of the same group. Some groups are more
14 focused on posting information, so they'd be covered by the information operations
15 team. Other groups are focused primarily on hacking. But there is occasional 16 crossover, and the teams work together when there is overlap between those missions.
17 Q And then the third one, cyber crime?
18 A Yes.
19 Q Briefly state --
20 A So we look at ransomware, botnet, sort of, like, major criminal threat actors
21 in order to counter those threats.
22 Q Is there an individual who leads each of these sub-teams for each mission?
23 A I have managers for each of those areas, yes.
24 Q Who is the manager for the government hacking, espionage, the first 25 mission?

1 A The manager is [redacted].

2 Q And for the second mission, information operations?

3 A My direct report who manages that is [redacted].

4 Q And for the cyber crime team?

5 A [redacted].

6 Q As part of your position at Google, do you have interactions with the 7 government affairs and public policy team?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And what's the nature of those interactions?

10 A Generally, we, as a company, we are engaging on security matters.

11 Sometimes I am drawn upon or interact with the government and the government affairs

12 and public policy team, assist in those interactions.

13 Q And -- I'm sorry -- assist with those interactions to have your team interface

14 with governments? I'm sorry.

15 A Yes. So, if, like -- for instance, I testified in front of Congress last year, and

16 the government affairs and public policy team assisted me in my preparation to testify in 17 front of Congress, for instance.

18 Q Are there other instances that require your interaction with the government

19 affairs and public policy team?

20 A We do actively engage with governments worldwide, and often those will go

21 through the government affairs and public policy team.

22 Q Would the government affairs and public policy team be the team that

23 would help communicate questions governments had that were relevant to your team's

24 work?

25 A That would be one of the teams, yes.

1 Q What other teams may be involved?

2 A Our legal team.

3 Q Specifically to the U.S. Government, do you recall what sorts of issues have

4 been raised either directly with your team or through the government affairs and public

5 policy team?

6 A Generally if it's coming to my team, it would be something to do with

7 threats, foreign threats, that is relevant to the three areas I discussed.

8 Q Do you have a primary point of contact on the government affairs and public

9 policy team?

10 A No, I don't.

11 Q Do you know who leads that team?

12 A I believe I do know the vice president, yes.

13 Q And who is that?

14 A I believe it's [redacted], though I may be wrong.

15 Q Are you familiar with the terms "misinformation," "disinformation," and 16 "malinformation"?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And, to your understanding, what is the difference between those three 19 terms?

20 A I'd say, at a broad level -- although I think the exact definitions of those

21 terms is an area being actively discussed at the moment, and not everyone uses those

22 terms in the same way. That's one of them.

23 Q Okay. We'll start with, first, what is your understanding of what the most 24 common definition for each of those three terms would be?

25 A I've mostly heard the first two. I'd say "misinformation" is information that

1 is wrong and misleading. My understanding of the term "disinformation" is it generally
2 it implies some level of active, sort of, effort to kind of spread wrong information for a
3 purpose. And I'm not sure I have a definition for "malinformation."
4 Q Within Google, are any of these terms that you or your team use as part of 5 your work?
6 A Yes, we've used those terms. Generally, I narrow it down to where there is 7 this actual directed threat actor part, and we consider that information operations. And 8 that's, sort of, a more -- the term we use in my team.
9 Q So, for the team that works on information operations, you mentioned you
10 also call it coordinated inauthentic behavior?
11 A That would be -- yeah, that's one of the policies we have.
12 Q Okay. What other policies or things would fall within the scope of an 13 information operation?
14 A Generally, we are looking where there is a threat actor trying to undertake
15 something that is coordinated with intent. And I'd make clear that my role is not to do
16 the policy assessment; we are there to do the threat understanding. So we would 17 generally investigate, and then we would develop the understanding of what is being 18 observed, what's being investigate here, and then we would pass that to the policy
19 experts elsewhere in the organization to make the policy decisions.
20 Q And which team houses the policy experts?
21 A Generally, the central policy team is trust and safety, although there are 22 determinations also made in some products, such as YouTube.
23 Q So that first trust and safety team you're referring to, that team doesn't 24 cover YouTube? Is that right?
25 A I believe there is some overlap, where there's, like, a global policy for all

1 products. There's trust and safety, but there's also specialized efforts between
2 YouTube.
3 Q Who's your primary point of contact for the trust and safety team?
4 A It would depend on what topic.
5 Q On what sorts of topics would you communicate about with the trust and 6 safety team?
7 A The trust and safety team is a broad organization, so we may communicate
8 with them on malware, we may coordinate with them on information operations,
9 or -- you know, they are two of the big ones.
10 Q Okay. For information operations, who would be your point of contact on 11 trust and safety?
12 A My counterpart would be [redacted].
13 Q And for information operations, who would be your point of contact for the 14 YouTube team?
15 A Generally this happens from my team. I don't know the exact point of 16 contact for my team.
17 Q Could you provide an example of how your team interacts with the trust and 18 safety team with respect to information operations?
19 A Certainly.
20 We'd, say, maybe have some lead or discovered some activity on YouTube that we 21 believe is coming from a foreign actor -- in other words, propaganda. We would do the 22 analysis and see the nature of the activity. We would work out all the related details,
23 some of the evidence, how it was coordinated. And then we would pass that 24 information over to YouTube and trust and safety, where they would make the decisions 25 of the actions to take.

1 And then also, subsequently, we transparently, in a bulletin my team publishes,
2 actually produce statistics on the takedowns and other actions taken. We do that on a
3 quarterly basis.
4 Q When your team is communicating your findings to the trust and safety
5 team, how is it communicated?
6 A Generally through our internal electronic systems.
7 Q Such as?
8 A Email is one of them, but I believe there's also other tracking systems, but I
9 don't know the specific details.
10 Q What other internal tracking systems are available to your team?
11 A Google is a very large company with an incredible range of systems. I'm 12 not sure how to answer that, because it's a lot of IT.
13 Q Okay. Besides email, what is the most frequent form of internal 14 communication used between your team and the trust and safety team?
15 A That'd probably be our -- probably the next one would be the internal chat
16 system.
17 Q Is there a name for the internal chat system?
18 A Hangouts.
19 Q Once your team has communicated your findings to the trust and safety 20 team, is any information passed back to you from trust and safety?
21 A Yes.
22 Q And what would they communicate back to you?
23 A They would communicate whether action was taken. And there may be 24 further back-and-forth to clarify, if they needed more information.
25 Q With respect to information operations, you've in a few answers now

1 referred to actors, such as an actor component. Is there a content component to your 2 group's analysis?
3 A We do observe the content in terms of -- we do look at the content in terms
4 to understanding what the actor is trying to do. And we provide information on what
5 the content is and the nature of the content is. But we are not providing and do not 6 provide, sort of, assessment against our content policies, which are enforced elsewhere.
7 But if we're reporting on an actor, part of the report would be what we believe
8 the actor is -- has in their content, for instance.
9 Q As part of your position at Google, do you have an understanding or 10 familiarity with YouTube's content moderation policies?
11 A I've been exposed to them, but I wouldn't consider myself an expert on the 12 details.
13 Q To your understanding, are there some policies that are specific to actors'
14 behavior?
15 A Yes. There is, I think, a specific policy on coordinating authentic behavior.
16 So, if there is -- that was one of the things we are asked, is if we can see that there is a
17 group of accounts or activity that is acting in a coordinated way and is inauthentic.
18 And then that is one of the grounds they take action on, so that is one of the 19 things we assess for them and help assess for them. We don't make the decision, but 20 we provide input for them to use our evidence to make that determination.
21 Q And, to your understanding, are there YouTube content moderation policies 22 that are content-based?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And when the YouTube team, let's say, is communicating back to your team 25 about a decision or an action that was taken, do they inform you under which policy the

1 action was taken?

2 A Generally, yes.

3 Q And, in some of those cases, the action was taken under the CIB,

4 coordinated inauthentic behavior, policy? Is that right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Is that for all cases?

7 A No.

8 Q What other policies will sometimes apply?

9 A An example would be, an actor might be -- we have a policy, if they're calling

10 for violence or the actual content itself was violence or -- are not allowed on our platform

11 at all. So it would be maybe taken down under that policy if it wasn't coordinated.

12 Say, it was, for instance, terrorist content or something, which is banned on that

13 platform.

14 Q Do you recall any instances where the YouTube team informed that a 15 decision to take action was taken under a misinformation related to content moderation

16 policy?

17 A I do believe it has occurred, yes.

18 Q And what about for the main trust and safety team that you referenced

19 earlier?

20 A I would say similar. I'd say similar. They cover the other products.

21 Q When your team presents your findings to the trust and safety team or to

22 the YouTube team, do you provide any sort of analysis of which content moderation

23 policy is being applied?

24 A No. That's their area of expertise, not ours.

25 Q When your team provides your team's findings to either the trust and safety

1 team or to the YouTube team, does the evidence, since it's being communicated to those 2 teams, split out what evidence is actor/behavior-related as opposed to content-related?
3 A I'd say it breaks down, but we try to provide, like, an overall assessment of 4 the nature of the activity and of the details of the, you know -- what we know of who it is,
5 what it is, and the technical details that we have with regards to accounts or contents or 6 videos, the list of the details. That would be the best description.
7 Q All right.
8 For the messages that have information that relates to content, with the 9 understanding that there probably is other evidence and information as well, does your 10 team provide an analysis at all about the veracity of that content?
11 A We do not.
12 Q For the segments of the content moderation policies, whether for YouTube
13 or for a different product, that are misinformation-related and require somebody to, you 14 know, conduct an analysis of the veracity of the content, do you know which teams at 15 Google or within Alphabet play that role?
16 A My understanding is that content moderation generally falls under the trust
17 and safety organization.
18 Q Do you know if any of these trust and safety teams have fact-checkers?
19 A My area of focus is when it comes to threat actors and looking at, like,
20 coordinated activity. So my knowledge of the range of the trust and safety is limited.
21 Q Does your team interact with any fact-checkers employed by Alphabet?
22 A I'm trying to work out the definition of "fact-checker" here.
23 Q Well, we can take one step back and see -- to your understanding, are there 24 any individuals within the company tasked with the responsibility of determining the 25 veracity of content claims on various Google, Alphabet products?

1 A My understanding is, we have content policies, and there are some specific
2 areas where there are specific content policies. My team does not interact with those
3 teams, as far as I can recall.
4 Q So, to your knowledge, are there any instances where your team is 5 communicating something to the trust and safety team or to the YouTube team that does 6 not in some way involve either coordinated and inauthentic behavior or evidence of a
7 potential threat actor?
8 A Generally, our assessment is to look at this to -- we look at the range of 9 activity, we provide our overall assessment of what is going on and whether we believe
10 there is a threat actor, whether we believe it's not, and then we pass it over. And then 11 it is assessed for policy under that policy and any other policies that could be applied.
12 Q How soon does your team communicate its findings -- let me take one step
13 back.
14 Your team conducts analysis. At some point, it sounds like a conclusion is 15 reached. How soon after a conclusion is reached does your team communicate those 16 findings to either the trust and safety team or to the YouTube team?
17 A This is a fairly timely operational, sort of, capability, so generally we'd be 18 aiming for days at a maximum.
19 Q And, on average, how quickly do you hear back from either the trust and 20 safety team or the YouTube team?
21 A Generally, this is quite a quick process. We are aiming to -- if there is 22 malicious activity on our platforms, our goal is to protect users and we want to take 23 action as quickly as possible, so this is generally happening very quickly.
24 Q For issues related to a potential, say, foreign-originated hack-and-leak
25 operation, which team within Alphabet would have primary responsibility for that issue?

1 A It would be similarly split. I think the understanding of the hacking part
2 and the threat actor and what went on, a lot of analysis is done by my team. And we
3 track the threat actors that have done hack-and-leak before. But decisions on -- policy
4 decisions and legal decisions would be made by policy teams and legal teams.
5 Q To your understanding, does YouTube or any other Alphabet product have a 6 content moderation policy with respect to a potential hack-and-leak that is separate from 7 the content moderation policies referring to coordinated inauthentic behavior?
8 A I understand that we do have a hack-and-leak policy, yes.
9 Q To your understanding, do you know when, approximately, the 10 hack-and-leak policy was first developed and implemented?
11 A It was sometime after 2016.
12 Q Do you have, I guess, a more condensed timeline of when it might be since 13 2016? Do you recall if it was before the 2020 U.S. election?
14 A It was well before 2020. I would say somewhere between 2016 and -- so 15 maybe 2016, 2017, 2018. I probably would say it is 2017 -- my best recollection would 16 be around 2017, but it may have gone just after that.
17 Q And, to your understanding, which team or teams worked on the 18 hack-and-leak policy?
19 A The trust and safety policy team.
20 Q Do you know any individuals on that team who worked on that policy?
21 A I don't know individuals -- I don't know any individual working on that 22 specific policy.
23 Q And, then, of the three missions that we were discussing
24 earlier -- government-backed, information operations, and cyber crime -- if there is a
25 potential hack-and-leak that occurs, which of those teams, as your team understands it,

1 would take the primary role in assessing what happened?

2 A It would depend on, like, which actor it is and where the actor falls.

3 Q Okay.

4 A So, if it was a government-backed hacking actor, then it would fall within my

5 government-backed team.

6 Q Are you generally familiar with the October 2020 New York Post story

7 regarding Hunter Biden's laptop?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And are you generally familiar that there were concerns that it may be the 10 product of a Russian hack-and-leak or hack-and-dump operation?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Once that story was released, did your team conduct an assessment of 13 whether materials from the story of the laptop were part of an either Russian

14 hack-and-leak or hack-and-dump operation?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And what were your team's findings?

17 A My team's findings was that we did not find any evidence that it was part of 18 a foreign hack-and-leak operation.

19 Q The story came out on October 14, 2020, early in the morning. I'm not

20 going to ask if you recall that day in particular. But do you recall how soon from when

21 the story first broke -- at least in the United States, it received a good amount of news

22 coverage -- from how soon the story first broke to when your team first began its

23 assessment?

24 A Pretty quickly.

25 Q Same day?

1 A Same day or day after probably.

2 Q And then how long did it take your team to reach an initial assessment?

3 A I'd say we did an initial assessment based on the information we had access

4 to within a few -- within hours.

5 Q Who on your team worked on this assessment?

6 A I took the lead on this, but consulted with my team if anyone had any

7 information.

8 Q And who within Alphabet did you communicate these findings to?

9 A To trust and safety.

10 Q And do you recall who on trust and safety you communicated these findings

11 to?

12 A To vice president [redacted].

13 Q Do you recall how you communicated these findings?

14 A Initially over Hangouts chat.

15 Q And, to your recollection, piecing together earlier answers -- your team was

16 looking at it either the same day or the following day, and it took only a few hours to find

17 an initial assessment -- to your recollection, then, did you communicate this to the trust

18 and safety VP either the day of or the day following when the story broke?

19 A Yes.

20 Q How --

21 A And just to clarify, like, I don't have the exact timeframe recollection, so it

22 may have been 2 days after, just to be clear.

23 Q Sure.

24 A But definitely around that time, fairly quickly. Just to make sure I'm being 25 precise.

1 Q Thank you.

2 And when the story first broke, do you recall what first put it on your team's

3 radar? Did someone from the company request your team to conduct an analysis?

4 A I don't recall exactly. It was a very big story, and -- there was a very big

5 story, and there were some suggestions of hack-and-leak, which, if it was, would've put it

6 in our purview.

7 Q And for the Hangouts chat, is there a call associated with that as well? Is it

8 just written communications? What do you mean by --

9 A So this is our internal chat app. So the initial communication on that was 10 with this chat app, yes.

11 Q Okay. And was this a direct message from you to the trust and safety VP,

12 or were there others who participated in this chat?

13 A This chat was a direct message, yes.

14 Q Do you recall what the VP of trust and safety responded?

15 A Not on that message, except -- not on that message.

16 Q You don't recall, or there was no response?

17 A I don't recall a response. Sorry.

18 Q Generally, taking a step up from this specific example, how is your team

19 made aware of potential threats or, in this case, hack-and-leak, but just generally

20 speaking?

21 [redacted] I'm sorry, I didn't hear. How is your team made aware of what?

22 [redacted] General threats.

23 [redacted] General threats. Thank you.

24 [redacted]. We have a broad range of sources, and we're looking for leads in a

25 number of places. It could be discovered internally by our team through research. It

1 could come from other parts of the company or from external leaks.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q So, following this direct message to the VP of trust and safety, your team has

4 conducted an initial assessment, passed along the findings. Do you recall any

5 subsequent communications with personnel at the company about your team's findings?

6 A Yes. I was called in to a video call meeting later that day.

7 Q Into what meeting?

8 A Into a video chat --

9 Q Oh.

10 A -- a video call meeting, a video call.

11 Q And who was at this video chat meeting?

12 A The meeting was, as I recall, convened by [redacted], and there were a 13 number of other VPs and some lawyers from various products.

14 Q Do you recall which teams the other VPs were from?

15 A I definitely recall YouTube being represented, but I do not recall specifically

16 what other products.

17 Q And what was the purpose of this call?

18 A My understanding was that it was a discussion on Google's response and 19 what action they would take.

20 Q And did you again present your team's findings, or were people familiar with 21 what your team's findings were at the time?

22 A That was why I was called into the meeting. My role was to come in and 23 provide a short verbal brief on our understanding.

24 Q And, to your understanding, what was Google's response?

25 A I'm not sure, and I think it may have varied by product. I'm not sure of the 1 exact details of the response to that, to that issue.

2 Q To your understanding, did the Google Search team take any sort of action?

3 A I do not recall.

4 Q Who would best be able to answer that question?

5 A I'd assume their trust and safety organization. I do not know a contact

6 specifically in Search.

7 Q To your understanding, did YouTube make any decision with respect to how

8 they'd take action or not take any action on the story?

9 A I don't know the specific actions they took.

10 Q How long were you on this video chat call for?

11 A I can't recall exactly, but a fairly short period of time.

12 Q Were you on it for the entirety of the call?

13 A I was not.

14 Q Did you receive any sort of briefing later on about parts of the call you were 15 not on?

16 A Not that I recall.

17 Q Were you asked to provide any sort of written work product in addition to 18 the one written message to the VP of trust and safety?

19 A I was not.

20 Q To your knowledge, did anyone from your team send any written product

21 subsequently about your team's findings?

22 A I don't recall us doing so.

23 Q Do you know how long this video chat call lasted approximately, with the 24 understanding that you were not on for all of it?

25 A I do not know.

1 Q At the time that you were brought into the call, did you have a sense of
2 whether a decision had been made by any Google product on whether to take an action
3 with respect to the story or whether for all the Google products the decision was still 4 under consideration?
5 A My understanding of the meeting is that the purpose of the meeting was to
6 determine the policy decisions that were going to be made and to do that in a
7 coordinated way, and no decision was made when I joined, and my role in the meeting
8 was to provide input to allow decisions to be made.
9 Q Do you recall receiving any questions during your time on the video call?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And what were some of these questions?
12 A The first question was what our understanding -- or whether we had any 13 evidence of that this was hack-and-leak or that we could tie this to a foreign actor. And 14 the second question was what information we had heard from others.
15 Q For the first question, whether it was a hack-and-leak and whether it could 16 be tied to a foreign actor, what answer did you provide?
17 A I provided the answer that we had no evidence of that and could not tie it to 18 any foreign actor, and we had no evidence of it being hack-and-leak.
19 Q And what answer did you provide to the second question on whether you
20 heard anything from others?
21 A I said I had consulted with some contacts in the industry and similarly had 22 not heard any evidence that -- any direct evidence of specific foreign involvement or 23 hack-and-leak.
24 Q Had you heard any indirect evidence?
25 A The only thing I had heard was speculation. I hadn't heard any evidence.

1 Q And by "speculation," are you referring to speculation in the time that
2 followed the story's publication or speculation even before as well?
3 A All my recollection is after the publication, and I don't believe I had
4 knowledge of anything to do with this before the publishing of the story in the New York
5 Post.
6 Q Which industry partners did you reach out to?
7 A I recall reaching out to Twitter and Apple.
8 Q Who at Twitter did you reach out to?
9 A Yoel Roth.
10 Q And who is Mr. Roth?
11 A I understand he was in the trust and safety organization of Twitter.
12 Q Do you recall how you reached out to Mr. Roth?
13 A I don't.
14 Q And do you recall if it was you reaching out to Mr. Roth or Mr. Roth reaching 15 out to you?
16 A I reached out to him.
17 Q And what did you ask him?
18 A I had seen that they had taken -- that Twitter had already taken action, and I
19 asked him if he had any information about the questions asked of foreign involvement or 20 any details that they could share about this that may assist us and what information there 21 was that they could share with my team.
22 Q And what answer did Mr. Roth provide?
23 A He did not provide me, as I recall, any specific information that -- of evidence
24 of that it was a foreign hack-and-leak operation.
25 Q Just to tease out that answer a little bit more, did he say he was unable to

1 provide evidence, or did he provide some sort of answer to your assessment and didn't 2 provide evidence to --
3 A Sorry. No, he did not provide any details. He did not provide any details.
4 Q Do you recall if he said that he was not able to provide details because of the 5 sensitivity of the information, or was it his understanding that there was no evidence to 6 support that it was a potential foreign hack-and-leak?
7 A My recollection, noting that it was a couple of years ago, was that he said he 8 did not have direct evidence.
9 Q After he provided that answer, did you ask why Twitter was taking action if 10 they did not have direct evidence?
11 A I believe I did ask that question.
12 Q You believe you did?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And do you recall Mr. Roth's answer?
15 A I don't recall a specific policy that -- I don't recall.
16 I know that Twitter is a very different product from ours, and their policies are 17 quite different in many different ways. So I'm not an expert on their policies, so I can't 18 recall.
19 Q With the understanding that you don't recall if a specific policy was 20 referenced or how it might apply, obviously, at the company, do you recall Mr. Roth 21 providing any other reasons of why action was taken?
22 A I don't recall. My focus was solely on whether there was evidence -- what I 23 was seeking out of the call was, was there evidence for this foreign influence or 24 hack-and-leak, because that was the information I was seeking in order to provide to my 25 team, because that was what was relevant for us.

1 So we were waiting to do an independent assessment. So our goal in this was to
2 do an independent assessment on the evidence. So my reaching out to industry
3 partners was to determine if there were any sources of information or details that could 4 be used by -- passed on by me to the team to actually make policy assessments.
5 Q During your conversation with Mr. Roth, did he say whether he reached out
6 to anybody else for information?
7 A I can't recall details.
8 Q Do you recall how long this discussion or interaction lasted?
9 A It was fairly short.
10 Q Do you recall at the time that this discussion was occurring, not just that 11 Twitter had taken action, but the extent to which Twitter had taken action to moderate
12 the story?
13 A I have recollections in the news that they were blocking all links to the 14 article.
15 Q Do you recall, to your understanding at the time, whether that sort of action
16 was a fairly significant step?
17 A I don't recall many other instances of this. But I'm not an expert in their 18 policies, and they're very different products, so I can't speak to how often they've done
19 this with other content.
20 Q Did this discussion with Mr. Roth occur before the video chat with the 21 company VPs that you referenced earlier?
22 A Yes.
23 Q During the video chat with the company VPs, did you reference or provide 24 an update regarding your discussions with industry partners?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And did that include your discussions with Mr. Roth?
2 A Yes.
3 Q Do you recall any reactions or responses from people on the video chat?
4 A I don't recall specific reactions.
5 Q And just to make sure we're clear on the record, when conveying these 6 discussions that you had with industry partners before the video chat call during the 7 video chat call, the information you were relaying is that the industry partners also did
8 not provide any evidence that would support that it was a foreign hack-and-leak?
9 A Correct. I provided the assessment we have and also the fact that we had 10 not received information from the industry partners I'd spoken to, and I told them which 11 industry partners I had spoken to.
12 Q Who at Apple did you speak to?
13 A I spoke to their threat intelligence person, [redacted].
14 Q Do you recall if you spoke to Mr. Roth or -- is it [redacted]?
15 A [redacted], [redacted].
16 Q Okay. Thank you. If you spoke to Mr. Roth or [redacted] first?
17 A I believe it was Mr. Roth, but I could be wrong.
18 Q And do you recall that you reached out to [redacted], or did he reach out to 19 you?
20 A I reached out.
21 Q Okay. And what did you ask [redacted]?
22 A Given that the laptop was, I believe, an Apple laptop and some of the stuff
23 could've been on iCloud, I was asking if Apple had any information about the nature of 24 the hack or the source of -- nature of the -- the source of the materials that was being 25 produced here and the sources that had been released. I asked if Apple had any

1 intelligence about what may be the source.

2 Q And what did [redacted] say?

3 A He said he did not have any information about the source of the materials.

4 Q And just to try to parse that a little bit more, when he said he did not have

5 information, to your recollection, was the basis of that answer that he could not provide

6 any information to you or --

7 A He said he did not have the information, did not have any information.

8 Q Thank you.

9 So, besides Mr. Roth and [redacted], do you recall reaching out to any other industry

10 partners?

11 A I do not.

12 Q Do you recall any industry partners reaching out to you?

13 A On this topic, in this timeframe, I don't recall.

14 Q To your knowledge, did anyone else from your team during this time period

15 reach out to an industry partner?

16 A I don't specifically know.

17 Q To your knowledge, did any of the industry partners reach out to someone 18 on your team?

19 A I don't specifically know.

20 Q You mentioned having awareness of the action that Twitter had taken.

21 During this time, did you have any awareness of what action Facebook had taken with 22 respect to the story?

23 A I can't recall, but it may have been discussed.

24 Q And by "discussed," do you mean discussed internally or --

25 A Yes.

1 Q Do you recall or have knowledge of any interactions between someone at 2 Facebook and someone on your team?
3 A I can't recall specifically whether I spoke to my counterpart at Facebook. I
4 may have or I may not have.
5 Q At the conclusion of your discussion with Mr. Roth and/or your discussion
6 with [redacted], did you communicate in writing the contents of those discussions to 7 anybody?
8 A No.
9 Q Besides the video chat that you participated in, did you verbally brief anyone
10 on what you discussed during those calls?
11 A I don't recall any specific discussions, but we provide general updates
12 on -- general updates, so it would've come up as a topic.
13 Q And general updates to whom?
14 A So we could say, within the team.
15 Q With the understanding that you don't recall if you reached out to someone 16 at Facebook but you did reach out to Mr. Roth at Twitter, [redacted] at Apple, in that set of 17 circumstances, to your understanding, who would have been the best point of contact at 18 Facebook to reach out to?
19 A [redacted].
20 Q And who is that?
21 A He is on the -- I believe he's in the security public policy team at Meta.
22 Q Besides these two industry partners that you've identified, do you recall
23 reaching out to anyone else for information?
24 A No. I asked my team if they had any information, and they did not. But I
25 don't recall any other external outreach.

1 Q And do you recall any outreach to academics or researchers in this area?
2 A No.
3 Q Do you recall any outreach to members of the U.S. Federal Government?
4 A I did not do any.
5 Q This is going back a little bit. When I asked how your team becomes aware 6 of different threats generally, obviously your team internally identifies things, but then 7 sometimes information will come in externally. Is one of the entities to provide tips, for 8 lack of a better word, the U.S. Federal Government?
9 A Yes.
10 Q And which agencies will provide information to your team?
11 A With regards to the information operations threats, the primary agency
12 would be FBI.
13 Q And do you have a primary point of contact at the FBI or an office within the 14 FBI?
15 A Generally, these interactions are coordinated by our legal department, but 16 the main point of contact is the FBI San Francisco office.
17 Q And are you familiar with the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?
18 A Yes.
19 Q To your understanding, what is that?
20 A To my understanding, it is a coordination group within FBI with the mission
21 of countering foreign interference.
22 Q And, in 2020, did you have ongoing meetings with the Foreign Influence Task
23 Force?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And would these meetings typically be between just the Foreign Influence

1 Task Force and personnel from Alphabet?

2 A We would -- we had meetings between just FITF and Alphabet. FITF was, I

3 believe, also represented at industry meetings, at meetings with [inaudible] government

4 as well.

1 [11:02 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And who from Alphabet would most frequently attend the meetings in 2020

4 between just FITF and Alphabet?

5 A Myself, [redacted], [redacted]. And we would

6 occasionally -- well, we would bring in, depending on the topic of discussion, you know,

7 one or two people from my team or other teams that were related.

8 Q And once this story broke, the Hunter Biden laptop story, in October of 2020,

9 to your knowledge, and not just limited to your team, did anyone from Alphabet reach

10 out to anyone on the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force to see if they had any

11 information?

12 A I don't specifically know, but it would've been done by our -- such a 13 reach-out would've always been done by our legal, not by myself or my team.

14 Q And who from the legal department specifically?

15 A At that time, [redacted].

16 Mr. Halse. [redacted] you're not saying that it did occur but if it did --

17 [redacted]. Yes, that's right. Like, if it did.

18 I'm talking in the general point of view here, that the general mechanism, if we

19 were making an inquiry, those inquiries would be routed through our legal department.

20 And Richard Salgado was the primary point of contact with the FITF for making requests, 21 and myself and my team did not. We always went through our legal team.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Understood.

24 Do you recall any meetings between FITF and Alphabet occurring after the story

25 had broke but before the 2020 U.S. election?

A I don't recall if there was a FITF meeting between those dates.

[redacted] I'm sorry, [redacted] Were you asking if there were any meetings between October 20th and November --

[redacted] October -- it'd be October 14th.

[redacted] October 14th, sorry, yeah.

BY [redacted]

Q To the extent you have knowledge or understanding, any FITF meetings where the issue of the story of the laptop or anything related to it was raised during a FITF meeting?

A I do not -- do not believe or recall that it was raised in any FITF meeting.

Q And you mentioned earlier there are these broader, we'll call them, U.S. Government and industry meetings. Do you recall at any of those meetings whether the laptop story, anything related to it, was raised in one of those meetings?

A I don't recall it being raised.

Q Okay.

Besides reaching out to Mr. Roth and [redacted] before that video chat occurred with the VPs in the company, did you reach out at any other points to industry partners on this issue subsequently?

A I don't recall. My understanding is it was relatively resolved fairly quickly and the actions had been taken, and it was not an ongoing issue after that time.

Q Did you recall receiving any subsequent requests from anyone in the company to either provide a briefing or provide an update on your team's findings?

A I recall in general being asked a number of times whether -- because of the speculation in the press, asked whether we had information about this or had any evidence, whether we knew that this was one of the threat actors we tracked. I

1 would've received that request from different people. But I always would've replied
2 that, no, we did not.
3 Q Okay. Do you have a ballpark sense of how many times that request came 4 in?
5 A A handful at best.
6 Q Okay.
7 Are you familiar with a statement by 51 former U.S. intel officials that was 8 released on October 19th saying that the story bore all the classic earmarks of a Russian
9 information operation?
10 A I have a vague recollection of that.
11 Q Do you recall any of these requests from internal to the company either link
12 to that because someone had seen the statement or post the statement?
13 A I would say in general this is one of the tasks my team fulfills, is that we 14 provide a more detailed understanding. So, if there is somebody who sees something in 15 the press or from some other sources, it would be a general practice that my team's 16 responsibility were to say, does my team know anything about this, or are we able to 17 provide more context. And that is something we do for executives.
18 So one of the reasons they may have been asking, it was a high-profile incident, so
19 they may have come back and asked us, did we know anything more about the true story.
20 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
21 [Recess.]
22 [redacted] All right. We are back on the record. It is 11:18.
23 And, [redacted], on behalf of the minority, I want to thank you for coming here
24 today.
25 EXAMINATION

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q You said -- I didn't quite hear this -- you work in the Sydney office?

3 A I do now, yes.

4 Q You do. Okay. And how long have you been in the Sydney office?

5 A Since January of this year.

6 Q January this year. Okay.

7 And you have been with the Threat Analysis Group at Google since you started

8 there in 2010, you said?

9 A That's correct.

10 Q And you've been working in the field of cybersecurity since well before then,

11 correct?

12 A That's correct.

13 Q And in your work at the Threat Analysis Group -- well, the Threat

14 Analysis Group itself, your team, detects and works to disrupt government-backed

15 threats?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And other types of cybersecurity threats?

18 A Yes.

19 Q So you would focus on things like malware, correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Spam?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Phishing? That's with a p-h.

24 A Yes.

25 Q And commercial spyware?

1 A Yes.

2 Q You've encountered hack-for-hire operations?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And those are typically engaged on behalf of a foreign government?

5 A Both foreign government and just for commercial purposes.

6 Q Commercial purposes. Okay.

7 And that brings me to another question. It seems like a lot of your team's work

8 is focused on state-sponsored influence operations or other types of illegal activity, but

9 you also focus on coordinated behavior that might just have a purely financial purpose,

10 correct?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q It's not just a political --

13 A No.

14 Q -- mission.

15 A The team was originally founded with a focus on government-backed threats

16 in 2010, but our mission has expanded. And in the last number of years, with the 17 growth of ransomware and other big threats to our users such as botnets, we've also

18 been given that responsibility and built out a sub-team to look at those serious

19 cyber-criminal threats as well.

20 Q Can you talk about the risk that those cyber-criminal threats pose to your 21 users?

22 A Certainly.

23 We see, you know, the growth of a range of attacks. And some of the biggest 24 ones are ransomware attacks, where an organization may be compromised and, as you've

25 seen big examples in the news, where an organization may be compromised, their data

1 can be encrypted. It can cause a huge amount of disruption to an organization.
2 We're also seeing individuals targeted, and they're, you know, being blackmailed
3 or coerced, or information collected and -- you know, different threats to users.
4 Q And where do most of these -- are there particular countries that you're 5 seeing that are engaging in these kinds of attacks more than others?
6 A Certainly, some countries more than others, but this is an absolute global 7 problem, and we track threats from all around the world, and my team is a global team.
8 Q Okay. And I'm going to want to follow up on the global nature of your work
9 in a little bit.
10 So, as you said, this has been something -- these issues are things that you've been 11 dealing with since 2010, correct.
12 A Correct.
13 Q And this is not something that Google only started focusing on in the wake of 14 the 2016 election.
15 A Correct.
16 Q Just give me one moment.
17 You know, as I believe you explained earlier, your team's role is to identify and 18 assess whether activity you see on your platform falls into those three categories that you
19 described -- government-backed influence operations, coordinated inauthentic behavior,
20 or cybercrime.
21 A That's correct. We're assessing whether it's part of that behavior. But we 22 also develop the understanding of the actors and the threats involved to, you know,
23 understand these threats to allow us to better make our protections and better protect 24 our users.
25 Q Okay.

1 And I believe you also said that it's not part of your team's role to determine
2 whether content that is produced by some of these networks is actually true or false.
3 A That is not my role or the role of anybody on my team.
4 Q Okay. And so another way of saying that is, you do not --
5 A We do not --
6 Q -- engage in content moderation.
7 A We do not engage in content moderation.
8 Q Okay. And you do not engage in fact-checking.
9 A We do not do fact-checking.
10 Q Can you talk a little bit about what coordinated inauthentic behavior is?
11 A I'd say, with the caveat that I'm not the policy expert of doing the lines
12 around it --
13 Q Uh-huh.
14 A -- maybe best given as an example, for instance, would be that -- an example
15 would be if a foreign actor tried to create, like, a thousand YouTube accounts, and they 16 were pretending to be somebody else, and then they're actually all posting videos or 17 comments and acting in this coordinated way in order to push some message --
18 Q And --
19 A -- and then --
20 Q Oh, sorry. No, finish.
21 A That's the sort of -- an example of behavior we might see from a threat
22 actor. And then we would provide that assessment of, that's what we are seeing, here's 23 the details of it, here's the accounts involved, and then we'd pass that over to the policy
24 and enforcement teams.
25 Q So your team does the investigation to determine whether, for example,

1 those YouTube accounts are from where they purport to be or by whom they purport to
2 be?
3 A Yeah, we provide our assessment of that.
4 Q And so the "inauthentic" part of coordinated inauthentic behavior refers to 5 somebody using an account, such as a YouTube account, under false pretenses, holding 6 themselves out to be someone or in a country that they're not?
7 A Yes. And then a lot of these policies came from the -- you know, the 8 inauthentic behavior is someone in a foreign country pretending to be American, for 9 instance.
10 Q And can you explain -- and if this is not your area, then that's okay, but can 11 you explain how that type of behavior poses a risk to Google's users?
12 A I think we're sort of speculating the outcome, but -- I think that's getting into 13 speculation. We are trying to maintain a platform.
14 Q Fair enough. And you want users to be able to trust that what they're 15 seeing is what people say it is?
16 A We are building a platform for, you know, our authentic, good users.
17 Q And I believe you stated earlier that, even though you're not an expert, you
18 do know that Google's policies prohibit coordinated inauthentic behavior on its platforms.
19 A That's correct.
20 Q And, again, you said your job is to identify and make assessments but it's 21 another team's job to determine what action to take, if you have made the assessment
22 that you found a CIB network?
23 A Yes. We, I'd say -- that's correct. We pull together sort of like the range
24 of the evidence, sort of like a packet of evidence, but the actual policy determination 25 based on the evidence would say, like, these 10 accounts were coordinated, there's some

1 evidence that they are inauthentic.

2 And so we provide different information about what is going on, but then the

3 assessment against our policies is made elsewhere.

4 Q But, as you stated, you're not assessing the truth or falsity of content.

5 A We never assess the truth or false of the content.

6 Q And when actions are taken against accounts, it's not based on the content,

7 it's based on violating the policy against coor- -- in this area, from what your team deals

8 with. It's based on the behavior of engaging in a coordinated network that is using 9 inauthentic tactics.

10 A Generally, yes. The policy team can enforce any policies, and I think in the 11 last session I gave an example where it could be the content if it broke a clear content

12 policy, such as incitement to violence or something else.

13 Q Right.

14 A If some of that turned up in an investigation and we provided that, the policy

15 team definitely could enforce on those reasons versus others.

16 But we are not providing the assessment on whether something breaks a content

17 policy. But the content team -- the policy team is free to -- is able to enforce against 18 different policies.

19 Q And you've seen CIB networks post content that had nothing to do with 20 politics or people's political views, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q So you've seen networks -- for example, the Dragonbridge network, they

23 would post clips of animals and landscapes, just really benign things that you would not

24 think would be linked to political ideology. Is that a fair assessment, or statement, I

25 should say?

1 A Yes. Actors often mix in some of their political or propaganda messages
2 but mix it in with a large amount of other content to sort of disguise it. So that's 3 something we have seen from actors, including, as you mentioned, Dragonbridge.
4 Q Now, we briefly touched on in the last hour the Foreign Influence Task Force,
5 and I believe you were asked if there were regular meetings. How often did Google
6 meet with the Foreign Influence Task Force?
7 A Generally, I believe we had -- we've had quarterly meetings.
8 Q Okay. And so that's once every 3 months?
9 A Once every 3 months, yes.
10 Q Okay. And it's Google's choice to have those meetings with the 11 government, correct?
12 A Yes.
13 Q The government doesn't force you to have those meetings.
14 A That's correct.
15 Q Google could choose at any time to say, "You know what? We don't want 16 to meet with you anymore."
17 A That's my understanding, yes.
18 Q Okay. And what's your understanding, if you have one, of why Google
19 chooses to have these meetings?
20 A To the best of my understanding, we have meetings, as we have meetings
21 with other people, because we are interested in receiving information about threats, 22 because my team and we are interested in knowing about threats on our platform or 23 about threat actors so we are able to then make our independent assessment and take 24 action against these threats. So we always welcome threat information from any source
25 to allow us to make these assessments.

1 Q And you also, during these meetings, in addition to receiving information
2 about threat actors, sometimes you will brief the government about threat actors that 3 you're seeing on your platform and what patterns you're seeing.
4 A Yes, we provide some threat information back in these meetings and discuss 5 the threats.
6 Q So, fair to say the information-sharing is a two-way street?
7 A There is two-way sharing of information, yes.
8 Q And, again, it's completely voluntary.
9 A Correct.
10 Q Okay.
11 And -- well, let me think about that for a second.
12 A If I could just clarify my last -- when I say "correct," I mean, to the best of my 13 knowledge, correct. So --
14 Q Fair enough.
15 A -- I believe the way that -- I cannot speak for the entirety of agreements at 16 Google, but --
17 Q Of course.
18 A -- everything I'm aware of, I have no indications that anything is not
19 voluntary here.
20 Q Thank you very much.
21 Is it your understanding, when the FBI provides information to you about a
22 possible threat actor, that Google can take whatever actions that company deems
23 appropriate without any suggestion or interference from the FBI?
24 A Yes. My understanding is, when we receive information from the FBI, it is a
25 lead for us to take action or not take action or to use as we wish.

1 Q And when you receive a tip from the FBI or another government agency, I
2 believe you said you make your own independent investigation.
3 A That is correct. We never take anything at face value, and we always 4 assess any lead we get from any source.
5 Q And that's even if the FBI tells you they've already done an investigation?
6 A Yes. In every case, we do an independent investigation.
7 Q And then a different team at Google makes a determination about whether 8 or not to take any action?
9 A For content moderation issues, yes.
10 Q And for other issues?
11 A Generally, there's another team taking action. On occasional cases where 12 something, say, is malware or malicious software, there may be some case where we 13 want a firewall -- we'll add a malware wall to block something along those lines. So 14 they're small cases, but, generally, in the malware case, nothing to do with content where 15 my team may take some level of direct action.
16 Q And that's because your team also involves engineers --
17 A Yes, because -- they're part of --
18 Q -- who are capable of doing --
19 A -- part of our role --
20 Q Yes.
21 A -- and we are the malware experts, and we are part of the security team, so
22 we do have security responsibilities. So we would be taking action. But that would be 23 clear cases of, you know, technical action.
24 Q Okay. Thank you.
25 I want to show you an email. This will be exhibit 1.

1 [Exhibit No. 1.

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 BY

4 Q Okay. This is an email that you received from Stephen Proctor of the FBI on

5 November 3rd of last year, correct?

6 A That's what it says, yes.

7 Q And the email -- Mr. Proctor is forwarding on some possible indicators of a

8 nation-state influence operation, correct?

9 A That's how I read it, yes.

10 Q Yes. And is this email typical of the types of tips you would receive from 11 the FBI in terms of its tone and what it's asking?

12 A It can vary a little bit, but in terms of that -- the typical path is like this, of 13 they're saying that they would be providing us to a link through their system to download

14 the lead and they would -- yeah, that's what it says, a link to the Teleporter. That's how 15 we got leads from them, so typical in that way.

16 Q And, in this email, there's no request for you to take any particular action,

17 correct?

18 A I do not see or take there to be any request.

19 Q And there's no demand.

20 A There's no demand.

21 Q It's information-sharing.

22 A Yes.

23 Q Like you described earlier.

24 A Yes.

25 Q And it was up to Google to determine what to do with this type of

1 information.

2 A Yes. Whenever we get leads through this path, we take them, and it is up

3 to Google to take our action. This is information being provided, which is fed into our

4 processes.

5 Q In your interactions with officials from the U.S. Government, has anybody

6 ever ordered you to take any particular action, to take down an account, a Gmail address,

7 a YouTube channel, anything like that?

8 A I do not recall ever being asked by the U.S. Government to take a specific

9 action.

10 Q Okay. So, not only were you not ordered, you were never even 11 asked -- you don't recall ever being asked.

12 A No. All the interactions I recall were of the form of them providing us

13 information.

14 Q Okay. You did not experience unrelenting pressure from the U.S.

15 Government to take certain content down?

16 A I can't recall ever feeling pressure to take a specific action.

17 Q Okay. Thank you.

18 And Google's policies against inauthentic behavior and the other policies that you

19 personally deal with, those were created without input from the government, correct?

20 A I was not involved in the policy creation process, so I can't speak to how they 21 were made.

22 Q Okay. So you don't create the policies then.

23 A No. I am not part of policy team or policy creation. I may be consulted on 24 the side about the technical enforcement of them, but I'm not a policy person. I'm a 25 technical security expert.

1 Q I imagine there's many folks at Google who have to be consulted about the
2 technical -- technically how to enforce the policies.
3 A Yes.
4 Q You stated earlier, and I said I wanted to follow up, that your work at Google
5 is global, correct?
6 A That's correct.
7 Q And so the U.S. Government is not the only government you interact with.
8 A Correct.
9 Q You have relationships with governments across the world, I would imagine.
10 A A number of other governments provide us information, yes.
11 Q And so you do information-sharing with other governments besides the U.S.
12 Government.
13 A In some forms, yes.
14 Q And that's to help Google identify and disrupt threat actors on your 15 platforms?
16 A Yes. All of our focus is in order to protect our users and to defend Google 17 against threats.
18 Q And, in fact, your team devotes a significant amount of time to combating 19 threat actors that are targeting users outside of the United States?
20 A Absolutely, global remit, covering over 1 billion users, and many of the 21 targets of these threats are outside the U.S.
22 Q Okay.
23 That's it for me for now. We can go off the record.
24 [Recess.]

[12:33 p.m.]

[redacted] Can we go on the record, please?

BY [redacted]

Q [redacted], I want to pick back up where we left off at the end of the first hour, regarding your team's assessment following the New York Post story on Hunter Biden's laptop.

Just at a high level, do you recall what sort of evidence led your team to reach the conclusion it did, or, if it's a better way to answer my question, what lack of evidence?

A I think as I mentioned previously, we had a lack of evidence of any involvement of a foreign actor in this activity and we had no evidence that the source of the material had come from hacking.

Q And when there were individuals -- you said you received a number of requests in the coming days from people at the company, that this was consistent with other, kind of, other high-profile press coverage events. Besides the VP of trust and safety, do you recall any other titles or individuals at the company who reached out?

A I don't recall specifically. It's, you know -- a part of my job was, people would see stuff in the news, and, general curiosity, they'll ask, do I know anything about that, does TAG know anything about this. This happens all the time on many, many topics, so I don't recall on this specific issue about who asked me on that topic.

Q In the years following 2016, obviously there's the DNC hack that occurs. Do you recall any instances where someone from the company would reach out to you or your team about something they heard in the news regarding a potential foreign influence operation that your team believed was not, in fact, a foreign influence operation?

A Sorry. Can you restate the question?

1 Q Sure. Following 2016, do you recall any instances where individuals at 2 Alphabet would reach out to you or your team regarding what was either being reported
3 or was believed to be an foreign influence operation that you and your team understood
4 to not be a foreign influence operation?
5 A This really is the day-to-day job of my team, is that we got leads and 6 questions about activity seen from various leads, and we assess them, and then we 7 understood to see if we had any information or determine the nature behind it.
8 So, if that is what you're asking, then I'm saying that we are constantly assessing,
9 sort of, leads on potential, sort of, foreign influence campaigns and then making our 10 assessment and then feeding that in. So that's the primary purpose of my team.
11 Q Uh-huh. And do you recall any instances where it was being publicly
12 reported that, take, for example, Russia might be behind an influence operation, but you 13 and your team didn't see evidence to support that?
14 A In terms of public reported ones, I would say -- I'd say it's relatively common
15 at various times, I think, at various periods that, you know, whenever -- when something 16 has hit the press, there's always the question of, is it, and in many cases it is not.
17 So there was often a question about whether something is an operation. And 18 often we do not have the evidence that it is, or in some cases have the evidence that it is 19 not.
20 Q And do you recall any time periods -- obviously, you've been at Google, I 21 think, since 2010, in management since 2015 -- any time periods where there was an 22 uptick in these sort of requests or questions?
23 A I'd say it's been fairly consistent both through President Trump's 24 administration but also President Biden's administration.
25 I'd say the requests often ebb and flow with the political cycle. So we would get

1 more questions when it is closer to elections and less focus on this further away from
2 elections, would be the general pattern.
3 Q During the first hour, we talked about how your team will send along -- when 4 you identify a threat actor, you'll send along evidence to the trust and safety team, and 5 they'll communicate back a decision.
6 The Hunter Biden case is a little bit different, where your team wasn't able to 7 reach the conclusion that it was a foreign hack-and-leak influence operation.
8 Are there other examples that you recall where you're passing along information
9 based off the absence, if that's a correct way of looking at it, based off the absence of a
10 finding that there's a foreign hack-and-leak?
11 A Yes, we've seen cases -- like, a typical case may be that something may look
12 like an influence operation or a hacking operation, people are asking whether it's a 13 government operation, and then we determine that it's actually cyber criminals or 14 something like that.
15 So somebody's being targeted by something that looks like it could be an attack
16 on a, like, high-profile individual, but it turns out to be, you know, 1 of 10,000 messages
17 being sent out by a Nigerian scammer.
18 So that sort of assessment is actually relatively common.
19 Q And I don't want to mischaracterize your testimony, but it does sound like, 20 before your team typically shares information with the trust and safety team, some 21 determination has been met that it meets a certain threshold. So, even in the example 22 you gave, where it's not an influence operation, it is a cybercrime.
23 I guess, are there instances where your team is sharing information even when it's 24 not government-backed, it's not an information operation, and it's not a cybercrime?
25 A If we were provided and asked to provide an assessment about whether it

1 fell into those categories or whether we believed it did and what evidence we had, then
2 we would always provide that assessment. We provide that service to trust and safety.
3 So they would get a lead in, and then we would do that assessment and provide 4 our evaluation, both if it was a positive determination that we did have evidence, or if we
5 did not have evidence, that would be the result of our assessment.
6 Q And do you recall how many examples there have been, we'll say since 2015,
7 where your team has been asked to conduct that assessment and the report back has 8 been that you don't have evidence to meet any of the three categories that we've been 9 discussing?
10 A I'd say it's very common. So, like, we're doing assessments every week,
11 and I'd say, my best estimate would be, most weeks there would be cases that don't meet
12 the criteria for action being taken.
13 Q And once your team has relayed the information that -- again, on the 14 categories that your team is responsible and looking at -- that there isn't sufficient 15 evidence there, is any communication given back from trust and safety?
16 A No, it's very -- we're both part of -- Google is very collaborative, so my team
17 is working, sort of, directly and communicating back and forth with the trust and safety
18 team.
19 Q So, with the Hunter Biden example, right, your team received a request, or 20 at the very least it was high-profile, so maybe someone on your team internally already 21 decided to begin to conduct an assessment. You provided your assessment to first the 22 VP and then on a video call.
23 I want to make sure I characterize your testimony correctly as far as, is it your 24 recollection that you did not receive any word ultimately on what action was or was not 25 taken or just that you don't recall either way?

1 A I don't recall either way. I do not believe I was at the part of the meeting
2 where the final decisions were being made, and I was not formally informed.
3 Q Uh-huh.
4 A But I may have heard at some stage, but I do not recall being told
5 specifically, and definitely not the details on different platforms.
6 Q In a more typical example, you testified earlier, I know, that when your team
7 does identify that there is sufficient evidence, you'll pass it along to trust and safety, and 8 it sounds like the usual practice is, trust and safety will communicate back that an action
9 has been taken. Is that correct?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And in the instances -- and you testified this is a fairly common experience, 12 to be tasked this request. For the instances where your team has conducted an 13 assessment and determined that there is insufficient evidence to meet any of the various 14 thresholds, or whichever terminology your team would use, in those instances, does trust 15 and safety come back ever and say, well, we've taken action under a different step, or any 16 other sort of communication?
17 A They may let us know, yes.
18 Q Okay. So it would not be out of the ordinary that they may communicate 19 additional information to your team about if action was taken under a different content
20 moderation policy?
21 A I would not consider that unusual.
22 Q Okay.
23 And when these communications from trust and safety are going to your team,
24 how are they most frequently communicated?
25 A I'd say there's, you know, direct connection, say, between -- close

1 collaboration. So I think Hangouts would be one mechanism, and there'd also be emails
2 in some cases. But I think Hangouts between my team and trust and safety would be
3 one of the more common mechanisms.
4 Q And, to your understanding, when -- actually, let me take a step back and 5 rephrase that.
6 When a message is being delivered from your team to trust and safety, is it routed
7 through you in the manager position, or do your many team members -- are they able to 8 communicate directly to trust and safety?
9 A I am not in the critical path, and the teams have the connections and 10 processes to do so without my direct involvement.
11 Q To your knowledge, are there individuals within your team that have, kind
12 of, primary points of contact on the trust and safety team? Or does it -- an alternative
13 might be, does it go to a team email listserv? Do you know who those communications 14 ultimately are between, then?
15 A I'm actually not fully up to date about the technical mechanisms in which the 16 two teams are coordinating at present.
17 Q So, based off your understanding of the last two questions, the Hunter Biden 18 example, where you are the one communicating that information, is that because it was 19 high-profile request, example?
20 A I think it was a combination of high-profile and also being expedited because 21 it was -- because of the high-profile nature of it, that it was operating in an expedited
22 way.
23 Q And you testified that you solicited information, help, from a couple industry
24 partners. Do you recall receiving any unsolicited information from anyone external to 25 the company?

1 A I should clarify there that, you know, when I did reach out -- this was to
2 Mr. Roth -- it was after the action taken by Twitter and after we'd observed that.
3 Q Uh-huh.
4 A I do not recall any specific incoming leads on this issue.
5 Q So we chatted very briefly at the end of the first hour, we were starting to 6 get into, it sounds like there were two sets of ongoing meetings with the U.S.
7 Government that either you or your team would participate with. There were these 8 FITF bilateral meetings --
9 A Yes.
10 Q -- and then broader U.S. Government and industry meetings.
11 A Yes.
12 Q Starting first with the FITF bilateral meetings, do you recall when those 13 meetings first began occurring?
14 A I don't, actually. They go back quite a way.
15 Q I think, based off a previous answer, we could say before the U.S. 2020
16 election?
17 A Absolutely. It was a number of years before that.
18 Q Do you recall if it was before the 2018 midterms election?
19 A I believe, yes, it was before 2018 midterms election, by the best of my 20 recollection.
21 Q And do you recall the frequency in which these meetings typically would 22 occur?
23 A Generally we had a quarterly meeting, is the standard cadence.
24 Q And are there times when the cadence changes?
25 A There may be -- that's for the general meetings, it has been quarterly, but

1 there has been a call with some -- we have had calls with people who are part of FITF to 2 discuss specific threats if they've come up.
3 Q And, during these meetings, do you know or do you have a sense of how
4 many personnel from the FBI are attending these calls?
5 A I have, I suppose, a rough sense of it.
6 Q And what's your approximate understanding?
7 A Somewhere between 10 and 20.
8 Q And we went through the names briefly of who most frequently attended.
9 Of the individuals you provided, were there any that had primary responsibility for 10 YouTube?
11 A For most of those meetings, it was [redacted], who is sadly deceased
12 now, was the primary contact for YouTube and was a lawyer on the YouTube team.
13 Q Are you familiar with Mandiant?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And what is that?
16 A Mandiant is a computer security firm which also has a threat intelligence
17 function, an incident response function. They were acquired by Google Cloud at the end
18 of 2022.
19 Q And either for the personnel or the knowledge, expertise, does
20 Mandiant -- did that acquisition, did that affect in any way your team?
21 A Yes. We collaborate with Mandiant. They were someone in industry that 22 we communicated with prior to their acquisition, but we partner with them internally.
23 We produced a major public report earlier this year on cyber activity in the Ukraine war,
24 and that was a joint report between Threat Analysis Group and Mandiant. So, yes, we 25 are partnering with them.

1 Q Internally, though, for Alphabet, are they a separate team from your team?
2 A They are separate, yes.
3 Q Did personnel from the FBI ever send to you or anyone on your team
4 Teleporter links?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And, to your understanding, what are Teleporter links?
7 A My understanding is, Teleporter is their system which they use to provide us
8 information. So they would send us a link, and then we would visit the link, and that 9 would allow us to download the documents that they wanted to share with us.
10 Q And just at a high level, what type of information would be included in the 11 document that's being sent by the Teleporter link?
12 A It would be some form of assessment or technical leads about some type of 13 threat.
14 Q Would it ever include specific accounts or specific, we'll say, YouTube links?
15 A Yes, there would be specific indicators as part of these leads.
16 Q Do you know who at the company is the primary recipient when the FBI
17 sends these Teleporter links?
18 A Myself and the representatives from legal.
19 Q And what is your sense of how frequently you or the representatives from 20 legal receive these links?
21 A It can vary over time. Estimate of between once a week and once a month,
22 on average, maybe. It's a little hard to measure, or hard for me to recollect exact- -- to 23 work out exactly how many.
24 Q Uh-huh. And when there are specific indicators -- let me take one step
25 back.

1 When referring to the term "indicators," just to make sure I understand it
2 correctly, that includes both accounts as well as links to specific videos or content? Is 3 that correct? Is it only one or the other?
4 A It may include those. It also often includes technical indicators of malicious
5 activity, such as an IP address or an account or some details of a piece of malware. So
6 it's general technical indicators about a threat, yes.
7 Q For instances where the indicators include either accounts or maybe links,
8 on average, how many accounts or links might be included in a single Teleporter?
9 A You're sort of asking me to sort of estimate here. Generally, it is a fairly
10 small number of links, so it's generally not large links. Most of the cases I can think of at 11 this time would be, they'd be sending a handful of accounts, like, 3 to 10, so, like, not 12 large lists. But there may be cases where there's, like, longer lists.
13 Q Do you recall any examples where there were longer lists?
14 A I recall one case where there was, like, a fairly large number, say, 50
15 different Gmail accounts involved in sending phishing messages to break into accounts,
16 and they sent us a full list of, say, 50 phishing messages or somewhere along those lines,
17 as an example.
18 Q When you receive a Teleporter link with a document and it's got these 19 indicators, is all the information specific to one investigation or, you know, concern? Or 20 can there be multiple, kind of, issues that are being flagged for you and your team?
21 A Generally, they're separated.
22 Q So one per?
23 A One per document. Although sometimes a Teleporter link may link to two 24 different documents or three different documents, but they separate them out into 25 separate documents.

1 Q Okay. Thank you.

2 So, once you or someone from the legal department receives the message -- first,

3 let me take a step back. Are these Teleporter links being transmitted via email.

4 A The link is sent via email, yes. And then you visit the link, you know, in a

5 web browser.

6 Q Okay. So, once you or someone from the legal department receives the 7 link, presumably download whatever's being sent to you, what are the next steps from

8 there?

9 A I would look at the document. We would save a copy of the document.

10 And then I would assess, where is the correct place in my team to investigate.

11 So, if it was regarding Russian hacking, I would send it to my lead for government-backed

12 attacks and maybe the Russia lead. If it was to do with information operation, I'd send it

13 to my information operation lead with the details, and pass it on, that this is a lead, and 14 ask them to investigate.

15 In some cases, it would not seem to be anything for us to investigate and it was

16 general purposes. And I would either communicate or in some cases -- that there was 17 no action or investigation needed to be taken.

18 So I would make that assessment and route it within my team.

19 Q Once it's been assigned and it goes to an analyst or engineer, whatever the 20 correct title would be, how is the assessment tracked internally?

21 A They would generally, like, record the outcome or -- you know, record the

22 outcome in a document and/or email the email back on the email thread to me and the 23 lead with their findings.

24 Q Referring back to the Hunter Biden case specifically, do you recall what the 25 internal mechanism was to keep track of the assessment, whether it was an email thread

1 or something else?

2 A My best recollection is, this one actually happened so quickly and over such

3 a short period of time that there wasn't a thread in that way. It was handled pretty

4 much directly by me making these queries and asking whether we had anything. And

5 because we did not have anything, there is not really very much record here.

6 And the limit of it was, you know, within a few hours of us starting this

7 investigation, we had finished this investigation, we had handed that information across

8 in the kind of discussions we've already said, and then, to some degree, that was the end

9 of that investigation, so there was not any real followup.

10 Q When you were discussing with members of your team, during the relatively

11 short period of this investigation, putting together your team's assessment, do you recall

12 how you were communicating with members of your team?

13 A It would've been Google Hangouts.

14 Q And just a point of clarification on the timeline, to the extent you recall. As

15 your team is working on developing your team's assessment, was it during this time

16 period that you reached out to Mr. Roth and [redacted], or was that after your team's 17 assessment that you did it?

18 A I think these were all happening in parallel.

19 Q When the FBI sends you Teleporter links of indicators, whatever

20 else -- obviously, the information is being sent that the FBI is aware of -- would they ask

21 you if Alphabet took action on anything related to it?

22 A I don't believe generally. Generally, they may ask in a future meeting what

23 leads we found useful or did we find a particular lead useful. And most of the -- if there

24 was incoming questions, it would've come to the legal department, not to me.

25 Q Do you recall any FITF meetings, the bilateral meetings, where someone

1 from the FBI followed up or raised again an issue that had been sent previously in a
2 Teleporter link?
3 A Yes.
4 Q And do you recall how frequently that would occur?
5 A Very frequently, because if there was things that were on the agenda to 6 discuss during the FITF meeting, the pre-reading would also be sent via Teleporter links.
7 So this was the mechanism that they provided -- if there was something to discuss, they 8 would provide it by Teleporter, so it would be common.
9 Q So I'll ask the question again, but setting aside agenda items that are being
10 transported via Teleporter link in advance of a FITF meeting, do you recall any FITF
11 meetings where the FBI is re-raising an issue sent in a different Teleporter message?
12 A They would sometimes provide more information than was in the document.
13 So they may provide some information via the document and then at the meeting they 14 might provide a further briefing about what was there. And they'd also offer us the 15 opportunity to ask any questions if we had questions about what they previously sent.
16 Q And would you sometimes have questions?
17 A Yes, I would ask some questions.
18 Q And were there instances -- I'm obviously not asking you to speak to every 19 example, but, generally, were there times where the FBI could provide substantive
20 responses?
21 A I would say, generally, they provided most -- the information they could was 22 already in the documents. So most of the information was actually -- there wasn't that 23 much followup that they could provide, generally.
24 Q Do you recall any instances where there was followup that they could 25 provide?

1 A Not specifically. Sometimes we might have, like, a fairly obscure question
2 about, say, Russian hacking, or, do we think it's related to this other activity from a few
3 years ago. Occasionally they'll come back: Oh, yeah, we think that's actually the same
4 thing.
5 So we'd have some general conversations about threats, and there may be some 6 clarifying on a specific question that we had about it that they are able to answer. So, if 7 that's what you're asking -- but most of the conversations around threats happened in 8 these threat-sharing meetings, yes.

1

2 [1:00 p.m.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q For the instances where they're not able to provide additional information,

5 would they give a reason why?

6 A The only -- the reason I can recall is, they say, that's all we have -- that's all

7 we're able -- that's all we have to share at this time.

8 Q Okay.

9 Were there any FITF meetings in 2023?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And do you recall how many there have been?

12 A I believe they're about every 3 months. So we would've had one in quarter

13 one and one in quarter two, so we'd have had two so far.

14 Q Did you attend the one in quarter two?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Do you recall approximately when it was?

17 A I would say approximately a month ago. I believe it was sometime in June, 18 may have been late May. But I could be wrong on that, though.

19 Q Are you familiar with the ongoing U.S. proceedings involved in a lawsuit

20 against certain agencies within the Biden administration?

21 A I've been made aware of it, yes.

22 Q And are you aware there was an injunction that came out July 4th of this

23 year? More recently there's been a stay put in.

24 A So, in discussing with our legal people, I have received, you know, some 25 rundown of their assessment of that, yes.

1 Q Since the July 4th injunction, have there been any FITF meetings between
2 Alphabet and the FBI?
3 A There have not been any FITF meetings.
4 Q Did you or, to your knowledge, anyone at Alphabet receive communications
5 from the FBI following the injunction?
6 A I don't recall any communications since the injunction.
7 Q To your knowledge, are there plans to have a meeting in quarter three?
8 A It has not been discussed that I am aware of. I have not been
9 present -- I've not been involved in any discussions and it's not been raised with me that I
10 can recall of anything to do with a Q3 FITF meeting.
11 Q Okay.
12 Just as a typical practice, how were you invited to previous FITF meetings?
13 A Generally, we'd receive an email, and they propose a series of times. We 14 discuss when they're available. And via email we'd pick a time, and then they would 15 send us a calendar invite.
16 Q And, to your knowledge, you haven't received any similar emails with 17 respect to a potential quarter-three meeting?
18 A To my knowledge and recollection, we have not.
19 Q With respect to the kind of broader U.S. Government and industry meetings, 20 first, have any of those occurred in 2023?
21 A They have not.
22 Q Do you know if there's any plans to have another one of those meetings in 23 the future?
24 A Presently, those meetings seem to be on hold.
25 Q And there are a number of Federal agencies involved in that one. Have you

1 or, to your knowledge, anyone at Alphabet received communications from one of those
2 U.S. Federal agencies regarding whether the meetings will continue or not?
3 A I'm not aware of communications with us about that, or to me. I do not
4 recall communications to me about that, and I can't speak to the rest of the company.
5 Q Without getting into any area of privilege, any of the other attendees at the 6 FITF meetings, the USG-industry meetings, have they said anything to you like "the 7 meetings have been paused" or "I heard from a government agency"?
8 A Yes. I've been told that the meetings are currently on pause.
9 Q And were you given a reason?
10 A I was just told that they were paused from the government side.
11 Q And were you told this from someone at Alphabet?
12 A I was told this by [redacted] from Meta, who generally took point on 13 coordinating with the government with regards to scheduling and coordination of the 14 meetings.
15 Q And when you received this information from [redacted] at Facebook, or 16 at Meta, was it directly to you or was it to multiple industry partners?
17 A It was during industry coordination meetings.
18 Q And --
19 A So, to make sure I'm being complete here, too, I may have also -- I do talk to 20 [redacted], so I may have received it directly as well. But the recollection of when I
21 heard that they were on hold first came from an industry meeting.
22 Q Uh-huh.
23 Are these industry coordination meetings -- first, let me take one step back. Are 24 they an ongoing set of meetings, similar to the FITF bilateral and USG-industry meetings?
25 A Yes. We have an ongoing standing meeting.

1 Q And these industry-only ongoing set of meetings, are they tied to these
2 either -- well, I won't say to FITF -- are they tied specifically to the USG-industry meetings
3 with the government?
4 A Yes, they are generally the attendee list on the industry side, and allows the 5 industry people to discuss with only industry people present.
6 Q And so this industry-only meeting where you learned that the meetings were 7 being paused, do you recall when that meeting was?
8 A It would've been sometime last year, but I can't recall specifically. I believe 9 it was last year, but I don't recall specifically when the meetings with USG went on hold.
10 Q So before the 2022 U.S. election?
11 A I don't recall.
12 Q But, given the timeline, these were on pause well before the injunction on 13 this past July 4th?
14 A Yes. They were definitely on pause before the injunction.
15 Q Did the industry-only meetings also pause once the government meetings
16 paused?
17 A No. We still have video calls in that group.
18 Q And just at a high level, what's the purpose of those calls?
19 A At present, these meetings are very short. It is just an opportunity for 20 industry folk to raise any issues, any administration issues, or to share any information
21 that we want to share within the group.
22 Q Do you recall when the last one of these industry-only meetings was?
23 A I'd say within the last month.
24 Q Do you recall if the last meeting was before or after the injunction from the 25 Federal court on July 4th?

1 A To the best of my recollection, it was before.

2 Q To your recollection, during any of these industry-only calls, has the ongoing

3 litigation against the U.S. Federal agencies been discussed?

4 A Not that I recall.

5 Q For the USG-industry meetings, first, to your recollection, there were

6 meetings at some point in 2022? Is that correct?

7 A To my recollection, there were meetings in 2022, yes.

8 Q Do you recall when they first started?

9 A Generally, these meetings have been ongoing now for a considerable

10 amount of time. The cadence of how often the group meets changes, but they have

11 been on an ongoing basis. As I recall, those have been ongoing since well before 2022.

12 Q And, to your knowledge, before the U.S. election in 2020?

13 A Yes. I believe these meetings started before the 2018 midterm elections.

14 Q Who from Alphabet typically would attend these USG-industry meetings?

15 A For a long time, the three attendees were myself, Richard Salgado, and Nate

16 Lipscomb, were the three attendees.

17 Q And which Federal agencies would attend these meetings?

18 A The main agencies I recall were FBI; DHS, CISA specifically; and, at times,

19 DNI.

20 Q Other than these regularly occurring U.S. Government-industry meetings,

21 what were your interactions with CISA?

22 A I don't have a lot of interaction with CISA, but there may have been meetings

23 over the years on cybersecurity issues.

24 Q Any other meetings or interactions that you can recall?

25 A I can't recall any specific meetings.

1 Q Do you recall having a primary point of contact at CISA?

2 A I do not.

3 Q Do you recall anyone at CISA using the term "MDM" or, more broadly, "mis-, 4 dis-, and malinformation"?

5 A I'm not sure if they -- I'm not sure if they phrased it like that.

6 Q Do you recall any of the U.S. Government agencies using the term

7 "malinformation"?

8 A I don't recall that specific term being used.

9 Q Other than the ongoing -- or, at the time,

10 ongoing -- U.S. Government-industry meetings, at a high level, did you have any

11 interactions with ODNI?

12 A In what timeframe, and on what issues?

13 Q We'll say from 2015 until present.

14 A I'd say limited interactions, to talk on -- I believe I met with DNI earlier this

15 year in Singapore.

16 Q Other than that meeting, do you recall any other interactions?

17 A I don't recall specific meetings, no.

18 Q Are you familiar with something called the Global Engagement Center?

19 A I'm somewhat aware of its existence, yes.

20 Q And, to your understanding, what is it?

21 A I understand it is part of State Department.

22 Q As part of your work at Alphabet, have you had any interactions with the 23 Global Engagement Center?

24 A I don't recall meeting with them, no.

25 Q What about the CDC? Do you recall any interactions with the CDC?

1 A As far as I can recall, I haven't met with the CDC.

2 Q What about with respect to the White House?

3 A Again, sort of, what timeframe? And do you mean the entire executive

4 branch here or --

5 Q So specifically within the Executive Office of the President, and we'll say

6 2015 to present.

7 A To the present? I would say that I've done a number of meetings through

8 the different administrations. I've had meetings around encryption, I believe, in 2015.

9 And I've met with the national cyber director in 2022. And I'm not sure whether it falls

10 into this, but maybe one or two meetings with NSC staff as well.

11 Q Would personnel from the NSC ever attend the USG-industry meetings?

12 A I don't recall them doing so.

13 Q Do you know what the Election Integrity Partnership is?

14 A Not specifically.

15 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 2.

16 Was marked for identification.]

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q This is exhibit 2.

19 Are you ready?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Does this email chain refresh your memory at all?

22 A Yes. There are many organizations with very similar names in this space.

23 So this Election Integrity Partnership is out of Stanford. Yes, I am aware of that.

24 Q And what was your involvement, engagement, to the extent it existed, with 25 the Election Integrity Partnership?

1 A I recall having one meeting with them, a video call. That's my primary
2 recollection.
3 Q And was it personnel from Stanford on this call?
4 A That's what I recall, yes.
5 Q And on this email chain, there are some other individuals from Google who 6 are included. To the extent you have knowledge, do you know if anyone at the 7 company had more than that one meeting with EIP?
8 A I don't know specifically what meetings they had.
9 Q Is it your understanding that someone from the company had somewhat of,
10 at the time, an ongoing communication with Stanford or EIP?
11 A I don't specifically know the nature of the interaction.
12 Q With the understanding you don't recall any or know of specifics, was it your 13 understanding that there was, to some degree, a partnership or an engagement?
14 A I think I would be totally speculating about -- if I said anything about, like,
15 what that partnership looked like or whether they met and what information was learned
16 or was passed, because I didn't have visibility.
17 Q The one email is addressed to [redacted]. Who is that?
18 A I've heard the name, but I can't recall her specific position at the company.
19 Q Do you recall ever working with her?
20 A I have recollections that it's a name of somebody I've worked with and been 21 in meetings with, but that's about the limit.
22 Q Yeah. Do you recall which team she was with?
23 A I do not.
24 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Who is that?

2 A [redacted] is on our global affairs and public policy team.

3 Q And do you work with [redacted] as part of your job?

4 A Not as much recently, but I have worked with him in the past, yes.

5 Q In the instances when you worked with him in the past, what was the 6 nature?

7 A His role was engagement around disinformation/information operations and

8 I believe some work around elections. So we have been at some events together and 9 have spoken to people together, and he's asked questions of us.

10 Q At a high level, what were some of the questions he would ask of you or your

11 team?

12 A Just more generally, how the team worked, what we were doing. General

13 questions about our work.

14 Q Do you recall any instances where [redacted] was relaying a question that had 15 been given to him from the government?

16 A I don't recall him relaying any specific -- relaying any question -- anything

17 from the government. And definitely I do not believe he was a conduit for information

18 from the U.S. Government.

19 Q We can take these back.

20 Are you familiar with the company Graphika?

21 A I am.

22 Q And what is Graphika?

23 A Graphika is, as I understand it, a firm that investigates -- what do they 24 call -- disinformation, misinformation, things in this space, and they provide services.

25 Q Does your team work with Graphika?

1 A I'd say we have definitely received leads and collaborated with them in the 2 past.
3 Q How frequently does your team receive leads from Graphika?
4 A I can't recall us receiving any leads from them in the last 12 to 24 months.
5 Most of the interactions were a way back.
6 Q Do you know if Graphika conducted any analysis of the Hunter Biden story in
7 October 2020?
8 A I do not know.
9 Q Do you recall any communications with them about the story?
10 A I don't recall having communications with them about this.
11 Q Are you familiar with the Digital Forensics Research Lab housed within the 12 Atlantic Council?
13 A Yeah, I'm aware of them.
14 Q And do you work with them as part of your role at Google?
15 A Not generally, presently. I believe we have received leads from them in the 16 past as well.
17 Q Other than receiving leads from them, does your team have any interactions
18 with DFRLab?
19 A Not substantive. I know of one incident at general industry events and 20 places along those lines. That's all I can think of.
21 Q Are you familiar with the Global Disinformation Index?
22 A Not specifically.
23 Q Are you familiar with the organization NewsGuard?
24 A Not specifically.
25 Q Are you familiar with the Aspen Institute?

1 A Yes, I am.

2 Q Have you ever worked with them?

3 A I can't recall doing any work with them, no.

4 Q Are you familiar with the Alliance for Securing Democracy, which is housed

5 within the German Marshall Fund?

6 A No, I'm not.

7 Q Do you recall presenting a talk in September of 2020 on election security

8 that was also attended by Matt Masterson and Nina Jankowicz?

9 A Are we talking here about CyberWarCon in D.C.?

10 Q Uh --

11 A So which year was this?

12 Q 2020.

13 A Oh, sorry. Sorry, can you repeat the question again?

14 Q Sure. There was a -- and we can go through and introduce the exhibit if

15 needed. There was a talk you presented at in September of 2020 on election security,

16 and it featured you, Matt Masterson, and Nina Jankowicz?

17 A I don't recall that specific meeting.

18 Q All right. Do you know who Matt Masterson is?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Who is that?

21 A I believe -- my recollection is he is at CISA and attended -- he was an

22 attendee of the USG-industry meetings.

23 Q Have you had any interactions with him other than -- we'll say, other than 24 this talk, but other than the USG-industry meetings?

25 A Not that I can recall. Again, I may have run into him at a conference or

1 something along those lines, but no specific ongoing interaction.

2 Q And do you know who Nina Jankowicz is?

3 A The name seems familiar, but I can't recall her position or organization.

4 Q Did you ever partake in a hack-and-leak tabletop exercise?

5 A I did not participate in an exercise, that I recall.

6 Q As part of the company's efforts in the development of a policy specific to

7 hack-and-leak, do you know if anyone at the company attended a hack-and-leak tabletop

8 exercise?

9 A I can't recall if we had anyone participate in such an exercise.

10 Q Do you know if such an exercise was ever conducted internally?

11 A I can't think of an exercise along those lines, no.

12 Q Do you know what the Center for Internet Security is?

13 A Not specifically. Again, it's -- it's a lot of names here.

14 Q Okay.

15 So, when it comes to communications with the FBI, we'll start with the meetings,

16 the emails to set up the meetings and emails to Teleporter links. Do you recall other

17 forms of communication with the FBI?

18 A Yes. Over the years, we've also gone to meetings and briefings in person

19 about threats, generally hacking threats, at FBI offices.

20 Q And in addition to those in-person meetings, do you recall any other forms

21 of communication with the FBI?

22 A Yeah. Especially during the COVID period, many of those meetings moved

23 to video call, as most meetings did.

24 Q In addition to in-person meetings, video call meetings, emails, emails with 25 the Teleporter links, do you recall other forms of communication with the FBI?

1 A I certainly believe they're the primary mechanisms I can think of. I do know
2 that, prior to Teleporter being used, some material was sent directly via email and
3 occasionally some were sent via email, but Teleporter was the primary source at this
4 time.
5 Q Do you recall ever communicating via Signal with the FBI?
6 A There is a Signal channel that covered the entire USG-industry group, which 7 included the FBI. That's the only Signal communication with FBI that I recall.
8 Q And do you recall when this Signal channel with the U.S. Government and 9 industry partners was first created?
10 A I may be mistaken, but I recall it was probably around 2018.
11 Q Do you recall it having a specific election focus?
12 A I recall it being linked as a mechanism to share information to the group
13 related to the USG-industry meetings.
14 Q And you mentioned there were three of you from Alphabet who would 15 typically attend the USG-industry meetings. Were all three of you, to your recollection, 16 on that Signal channel?
17 A Yes, to my recollection.
18 Q So that would include you?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And do you recall how many individuals were on this Signal channel, 21 approximately?
22 A I don't recall from the Signal channel specifically, but the members of that 23 Signal channel was generally the same as the USG-industry meetings.
24 Q And this Signal channel with the U.S. Government, does it still exist? Is it 25 still being used?

1 A I'd say it exists, but I can't recall the last time anything was sent on it. And,
2 generally, this Signal channel was very rarely used in its entire life. It was maybe a
3 handful of things that I can recall being sent over the entire duration of its existence.
4 Q Do you recall when, approximately, the last time a message was sent?
5 A I don't recall.
6 Q Do you recall if any messages were sent in connection with the 2022 U.S.
7 midterms?
8 A I don't recall any being sent.
9 Q The information that was transmitted via Teleporter, could that ever be sent
10 via the Signal channel?
11 A Again, there's very few messages ever sent on that channel. Like, the 12 Teleporter was the active channel where FBI communicated directly with us. This Signal 13 channel was not really used, with a handful of exceptions that I can recall, over its entire 14 duration.
15 Q Do you recall why it was set up?
16 A I believe it was set up in case -- to ensure that there was a communications
17 channel if there needed to be a way to communicate relatively quickly.
18 Q Do you recall if it was the government or if it was industry that first set it up?
19 A I do not recall. I think it was a -- it was a topic of discussion at the 20 meetings, and it came out of the meetings as a sort of decision, as the group, to do this.
21 Q Did you know which FBI personnel or office were behind the FBI's account
22 on the Signal channel?
23 A I am not sure if I did.
24 Q To your understanding, was it the same individuals that would most 25 frequently attend the U.S. Government-industry meetings?

A That would've been my understanding, yes.

Q When you were receiving the Teleporter links via email, are some of these emails coming from FBI Agent Elvis Chan?

A Yes.

Q Is he the primary person at the FBI who would send these emails?

A He was the primary person for a long time. In more recent times, many of the links were being sent out by someone else in his office, in the San Francisco Field Office.

Q Do you recall ever receiving messages from an office other than the San Francisco Field Office?

A I don't recall other field offices using Teleporter. And, often, material was from other field offices, though, and would often pass through the San Francisco Field Office, as they had the primary point of contact with the tech industry around San Francisco, is my understanding of how they were organized. But I can't speak to internal FBI organization.

Q Understood.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[Recess.]

[redacted] It's 1:37, and we're back on the record.

BY [redacted]

Q I wanted to talk a little bit about the information that you received via Teleporter.

So you stated that Teleporter was how the FBI would provide documents to you that would include this information, basically the tips, of certain accounts that might be engaged in foreign influence?

1 A Amongst other threats. That's how they communicated, yes.
2 Q And those were just -- the documents you received on Teleporter would just
3 contain the information, either URLs or the usernames of accounts, that sort of thing,
4 correct?
5 A That's one thing it would contain. It also may contain general assessments.
6 It was a range of -- when they wanted to provide information about threats to us in some 7 form, whether it was a general assessment or a specific account or a specific detail, all of 8 those were passed via Teleporter at some point.
9 Q And it was all information; it did not include a request for you to take a
10 particular action.
11 A That is correct. Requests are not sent via Teleporter or to me.
12 Q And the tips that you would receive would be related to either foreign 13 influence or cybercrime or something within the types of threats that your team handled?
14 A Yes, the threats would be related to something that was roughly within my 15 remit.
16 Q And I believe you said that there were occasions where you would read the 17 information on the Teleporter, that was sent to you via Teleporter, and you would decide 18 not to even follow up with any investigation.
19 A That's correct.
20 Q Okay.
21 And you were asked about whether the FBI would follow up with you in person
22 during the FITF meetings on some of the information they had sent via Teleporter.
23 Is it fair to say that, when they did follow up, it was to provide additional 24 information about those tips?
25 A I'd say it was either to provide additional information -- sometimes they'd

1 just go through it and talk through it, the times when they were basically providing the 2 information again. And that was the nature of it, yes.
3 Q And the nature of it was not to say "what have you done about this" or 4 asking if you had taken any action?
5 A I can't recall specific questions on that, no.
6 Q And you talked a lot during the last hour about the U.S.
7 Government-industry working group. That was a group that Google chose to be a part 8 of, correct?
9 A As I understand it, yes, we were participating voluntarily in that group.
10 Q And you could choose to leave at any time?
11 A As far as I understand, there's nothing compelling us to stay in this group.
12 [redacted] That's it for me for now. We can go right back to --
13 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
14 [redacted] We're going to go off the record and switch places.
15 [Recess.]
16 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q [redacted], in our previous round, we were talking about the Signal
19 channel. Was there a corresponding Signal channel that was industry-only partners?
20 A Yes, there was a Signal channel which was industry-only partners.
21 Q Okay. And what was the purpose of that channel?
22 A The purpose of that channel was the coordination mechanism between
23 meetings.
24 Q And would members use that channel during the meetings?
25 A Yes, it was also used as a side channel between industry during the

1 meetings. Yes.

2 Q And let me ask first for the FITF bilateral meetings. Did you attend most of 3 the FITF-Google bilateral meetings?

4 A Yes, I attended almost all FITF bilateral meetings.

5 Q And is that true, as well, for the USG-industry meetings?

6 A Yes, I've been primary representative of those meetings as well.

7 Q And what about those industry-only meetings in advance of USG meetings?

8 A I've been a representative there. Those ones I've missed more often, but

9 I've been the primary representative there. Occasionally I'd have someone -- one of the 10 other people would be covering because I had a conflict, but, yes.

11 Q Fair enough.

12 So exhibit 3 will be the Industry Election Integrity Working Group Signal channel.

13 [Exhibit No. 3.

14 Was marked for identification.]

15 BY

16 Q And we have binders here for your review.

17 So there are a couple messages I want to go over. I'm happy to give you as much

18 time as you need to review before each message to make sure you have sufficient

19 context.

20 But, first, I just want to call your attention to the list of names in the middle of 21 page 1, Bates number 16072. There's a, looks like four lines down, reference to "

22 ."

23 To your recollection, were you a member of this Signal channel?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Do you recall if there were multiple different iterations of this Signal channel

1 among the industry partners?

2 A I don't recall. This is the primary one I recall. Noting this goes back to 3 2020, which is a fair way -- a while ago now.

4 Q Yeah.

5 There is a message from you on page 4, which is Bates number 16075, and there

6 are messages above it. I'll give you a chance to review. But there's a discussion of 7 potential action by foreign state actors. And your message is: "A couple of the 8 accounts link back to some Iranian stuff a way back tipped by FireEye."

9 What is FireEye?

10 A FireEye is an information security company. Subsequently -- I don't know

11 the full history -- but they were merged into Mandiant. So what was FireEye at that 12 time in various iterations joined and split through corporate activity. So, yes.

13 Q And that's the same Mandiant that Alphabet acquired at the end of last 14 year?

15 A Yes.

16 Q If I could have you turn to page 8, which is Bates number 16079, there's a 17 message about two-thirds of the way down from Mr. Roth.

18 He says, "Yep. We can touch a bit on the QAnon stuff we've enforced on, and 19 footstomp the lack of foreign interference aspect."

20 Do you recall what he's referring to in this message?

21 A I have recollections of Yoel talking about actions taken against QAnon.

22 Q Do you have -- well, let me take a step back. What are your recollections of 23 Mr. Roth's discussions on actions taken against QAnon?

24 A My recollection is that they were taking action against some behavior on

25 their platform from, sort of, largely QAnon members doing swarming and other activities,

1 and they were taking action against them as a group.

2 Q Do you recall any discussions during the U.S. Government-industry meetings

3 about either these specific actions or actions more generally related to QAnon?

4 A I don't recall any specific conversations.

5 Q Just generally, do you recall the issue ever being raised?

6 A Of QAnon at these meetings?

7 Q Yes.

8 A I don't recall a discussion.

9 This is reminding me that I do recall Yoel speaking on this in some form, about

10 what they were doing at Twitter with regards to QAnon, but I don't recall specific 11 discussions at this meeting.

12 Q Okay. Do you recall the forum in which Mr. Roth may have been sharing

13 this information?

14 A The information about QAnon?

15 Q Sorry. So you have some recollection of Mr. Roth sharing information

16 regarding the enforcement actions Twitter was taking against QAnon. Do you recall

17 what forum, what context, Mr. Roth may have been providing this information?

18 A I don't recall. Either one, of the industry or the government meetings, I

19 believe he provided some update at some point.

20 Q So either the U.S. Government-industry meeting or the industry-only 21 meeting, to the best of your recollection?

22 A That's to the best of my recollection, yes.

23 Q Do you recall, in reviewing this message, what Mr. Roth meant by specifically

24 "footstomp the lack of foreign interference aspect"?

25 A I don't recall.

1 Q Do you recall any discussion at the U.S. Government-industry meetings
2 where the government would present information as having a foreign nexus when either
3 all the industry partners or some of the industry partners were aware there was not a
4 foreign nexus?
5 A I don't recall anything from these meetings of -- and there was -- I don't 6 recall anything specifically shared where there was such a disagreement, no, in these
7 meetings.
8 Q Are you familiar with the term "attribution" in this space?
9 A I am familiar with that term, yes.
10 Q And what does that mean?
11 A Attribution, as I understand it in the field of threat intelligence, is actually 12 determining who or what group is behind a set of activity.
13 Q And when the FBI would provide information to you and your team, would 14 they provide information to assist your team's assessment related to attribution, of who 15 to attribute the conduct to?
16 A In some cases the messages would speak to attribution, where they would 17 say that they believed some activity was linked to some effort and who was behind it as a 18 lead. So, if that's what you're talking about, information along those lines was passed in 19 some of the communications with us.
20 Q Do you recall any instances where you would receive a message where the 21 FBI would present the evidence as suggesting foreign attribution but your team's internal 22 assessment differed?
23 A I can recall at least one case.
24 Q And what is that case?
25 A There was a case where there was some phishing campaigns against an

1 election campaign, and it was suggested that it could be Russian activity. In that case,
2 we investigated and determined it was not.
3 Q And was this the FBI that had initially shared the information with you?
4 A In this case, I believe we received leads from a couple of different sources,
5 and I can't recall which one was first.
6 Q To your recollection, was the FBI one of them?
7 A Yes. My recollection is that they did communicate on this, yes.
8 Q And do you recall when approximately this was?
9 A This was -- I believe it would've been early -- the first half of 2020, maybe the 10 latter half of 2019.
11 Q Do you recall if you and your team shared with the FBI your team's findings
12 on this issue?
13 A In this case, we did.
14 Q And do you remember the context or how it was communicated to the FBI?
15 A I recall there being a call, and I believe there was a legal referral as well.
16 Q Do you recall if this call was one of the FITF bilateral meetings, or was this a 17 one-off call specific to this issue?
18 A This was a one-off call specific to this issue.
19 Q Did you participate in this call?
20 A I did.
21 Q Do you recall how many others from Alphabet participated in the call?
22 A Myself and [redacted].
23 Q Do you recall who from the FBI was on the other end?
24 A I believe Elvis Chan set up the call, but I believe it was with the field office as 25 well.

1 I should clarify on this that the reason we were referring in this case and
2 communicating back is that we had determined that it was a criminal hacking case and
3 that it was a -- we had seen a U.S. individual undertaking attempts at hacking activity on 4 our platform, and we were reporting it as a law enforcement matter to FBI.
5 Q Other than this example that you've described in either late 2019 or early
6 2020, do you recall any other instances where a U.S. agency provided information to you
7 or your team suggesting foreign attribution and that your team subsequently determined
8 did not exist?
9 A I can't recall any specific cases at present.
10 Q With the understanding that you don't recall any specific cases, do you recall
11 just generally if there were instances when that occurred?
12 A I can recall times where we disagreed with the assessment of the nature of 13 the activity. I can't recall specific ones where it turned out to be domestic.
14 Q And when you say disagreed with respect to the nature of the activity, what 15 do you mean by that?
16 A Say, for instance, something that they're reporting as a possible coordinated 17 or government attack, government effort externally, and then we would do the 18 investigation and, from our perspective, it may look like it actually is still foreign but 19 normal users.
20 So, for instance, the difference between, like, a coordinated campaign talking 21 about the Ukraine war and normal users in Eastern Europe talking about the Ukraine war.
22 And sometimes drawing the line between those are difficult, and we were able to tell one
23 of them from the other.
24 Q For that set of examples where there were differing assessments on the 25 nature of the activity, to your recollection, how frequently did that occur?

1 A I would say, where we -- I would say, it'd be relatively rare but not unknown.
2 Q To the extent you have knowledge of this, do you know whether any of the 3 industry partners have had similar examples, where a lead has been provided by a U.S.
4 agency -- let's start first with attribution -- suggesting foreign attribution and then 5 internally the industry partners have determined that it's domestic?
6 A I don't have insights into the bilateral discussions between FITF and these 7 individual other industry partners to any degree -- to any significant degree.
8 Q So, with the understanding that I assume you're not attending the FITF
9 bilateral meetings with Facebook and Twitter, let's say, do you have any knowledge, 10 either shared by industry partners or shared by someone else at the company who had 11 knowledge, of instances where an industry partner, say Facebook or Twitter, received a 12 lead from a U.S. agency with information suggesting foreign attribution, according to the 13 U.S. agency, where the industry partner made a different determination?
14 A I can't think of specific examples. My visibility was very limited to that.
15 Q What about just generally? Do you recall that issue ever being discussed?
16 A No, not generally. No, I don't recall it being discussed.
17 Q Okay.
18 Setting aside the foreign versus domestic attribution, same question but with 19 respect to the nature of the activities, where maybe there was evidence as part of a lead 20 that the behavior is inauthentic and the industry partner determines that it's authentic or 21 reaches a different assessment: Do you recall any -- or do you have any knowledge to 22 the extent that industry partners have had similar examples?
23 A Yeah, I don't -- these things are kept fairly separate, so we really don't have 24 that -- haven't really had those discussions about the USG-individual-industry
25 relationships. We keep those relatively private. One of the reasons there were

1 separate meetings is, there was discussions happening between us fairly separately, and 2 the joint conversations were ones that happened in those meetings.
3 Q Okay.
4 If I could have you turn to page 14 -- or, excuse me, first to page 12, which is Bates
5 number 16083. There are a series of messages beginning at the bottom of page 12 and 6 then continuing on until page 14, which is Bates number 16085. I'll give you a moment
7 to review.
8 A Okay.
9 Q Do you recall working on this statement first introduced by Nathaniel and 10 then there are a couple of comments made by you on it?
11 A This is reminding me that this conversation in this forum existed, but I can't 12 remember any real specifics about it.
13 Q Do you recall there being a debate or a discussion at all among the industry
14 partners on one hand and the government on the other regarding what the scope of 15 these meetings should be?
16 A I don't recall any debate, particular debate, or disagreement.
17 Q There's a message from [redacted] on the bottom of page 12 that continues
18 on to page 13, Bates number 16083 on to 16084. And the last sentence halfway 19 through says, "Our focus should be on the threat actors and behavior, rather than the 20 content itself."
21 What did you understand him to mean by that?
22 A Reading this, I take it as, this is a discussion of the scope being about how to
23 describe what we're doing, and the scope of the -- it's, you know, making clear that, as it
24 was the case, that these meetings were not discussing content and that any discussions
25 about threats were about threat actors. So it seems to be a discussion about, pre-game,

1 writing the actual scope of this meeting and making that clear.

[2:03 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q Do you recall anyone from the government suggesting that discussions related to content should be raised during these meetings?

A No, I don't recall that ever being suggested, and I don't recall specific content issues being raised during these meetings.

Q If I could have you turn to page 19, which is 16090. And there's a set of messages, first starting from [redacted] asking, "Have we come to a conclusion on including NSC in these?"

And there are some messages back and forth including [redacted] and it continues on to the next page, page 20, Bates number 16091.

A Okay.

Q There's a message from [redacted] I'll call your attention to at the bottom of page 19; that's 16090.

He says, "But the answer we agreed on was we'll talk about it, and want to focus on partners that are (a) operational; (b) defensive; and (c) apolitical."

Do you recall what discussion he's referring to here?

A To the best of my recollection, looking at this, there have been discussions at various times about expanding the number of government agencies involved in these meetings.

Q And do you recall any government agencies that the industry partners did not want included?

A I believe the -- the conversations I see here is the -- discussing NSC and they were discussing the GEC.

Q And, to your recollection, were those, the NSC the GEC, two that at least

1 some industry partners did not want included?

2 A I don't remember the NSC conversation, but I do remember the consensus.

3 The consensus from our side was, we were not keen on having the GEC also join.

4 Q And do you recall what the reason was?

5 A I don't recall the specific reasons. I think others had -- I think others had

6 strong -- had opinions on this, but I did not.

7 Q Do you recall the reason for any of the industry partners for being against

8 GEC's inclusion?

9 A I think there were general discussions that expanding the group out too

10 widely would make the group unwieldy, and having too many different government

11 agencies all involved could just cause extra overhead bureaucracy and make the group

12 less functional.

13 So there was a general focus on, can we limit down to a small number of agencies

14 to allow the group to be more streamlined and efficient.

15 Q There's three criteria that [redacted] lays out -- operational, defensive, and 16 apolitical.

17 Sitting here today, do you think those are three good criteria to have when

18 deciding which government partners industry should engage with on these types of 19 issues?

20 A I don't -- I'd say that those three characteristics describe the, sort of, nature

21 of the agencies involved in this work. And I don't disagree that they are 22 characterizations -- they are characteristics of the appropriateness of this group.

23 Q And why would it be appropriate to have apolitical government partners?

24 A From my perspective -- from my perspective, this has always tried to be

25 independent of politics, bipartisan, and focused solely on defending on threats. So

1 there was a -- did not want to introduce politics into any of this activity, and we were
2 doing all of this activity independent of politics.
3 Q And what would be the risk if politics was introduced into this activity?
4 A That would be speculation on my part, of what could happen.
5 Q But you feel confident enough to say that it would represent some sort of 6 risk to the integrity of the work that this industry partnership was working on?
7 A I did not say that. I would say that, at present, it is an apolitical group, and 8 I believe it would change the -- any addition or subtraction from the group would change 9 the nature of the group, and adding political entities to the group would change the 10 group.
11 Q If there was a suggestion to add political entities to the group, would you
12 support or oppose that?
13 A That's a hypothetical situation.
14 Q Well, you're engaging with the industry partners right now, and you've had 15 an industry meeting -- industry-only meetings as recently as a month ago, a FITF meeting 16 as recently as quarter two.
17 A I'd say this group seems to be working fairly well as is, so I would come from 18 a position of skepticism of changing it, would want to have a good reason of why we 19 would be including new partners.
20 But this decision would not be mine either and would also have to take into 21 account other aspects, including legal aspects.
22 Q There are some messages beginning on that same page, page 20, down at 23 the bottom, mostly from [redacted] but a few others, including [redacted], about GEC.
24 The conversation continues on page 21 and then on to page 22 as well, Bates number 25 16093.

1 Do you recall if Facebook was one of the industry partners that opposed GEC's
2 inclusion?
3 A Yeah, I believe that they were not in favor of GEC joining.
4 Q And do you recall what Facebook's reason was for opposing GEC's inclusion?
5 A I don't recall what the specific reason was.
6 Q If I could have you flip forward to page 50. It's Bates number 16121.
7 There are seven messages, but the one I want to call your attention to is by Nathaniel in 8 the middle of the page.
9 It says, "If we end up having to use MDM, I may just quit. I'm not sure I can take 10 it."
11 A Okay.
12 Q Do you recall the context in which [redacted] sent this message?
13 A I don't recall context.
14 Q In this context, would you understand "MDM" to refer to mis-, dis-, and
15 malinformation?
16 A Only because I think you raised the term with me earlier today. I probably 17 would not have, except that you defined that acronym for me earlier in this discussion.
18 Q Do you recall any discussions among industry partners about the dislike of 19 the term "MDM" or dislike of the term "malinformation"?
20 A I don't recall discussions on that.
21 Q On page 68, which is Bates number 16139, there's a question at the top of 22 the page from [redacted] about, "Anyone else seen anything beyond scammers/spammers 23 engaging around the convoy?"
24 And then their response is -- there are two, in particular, I want to call your 25 attention to, the first from [redacted] immediately below and then one from Mr. Roth

1 below that.

2 A Okay.

3 Q First, with respect to [redacted] question at the top of the page, do you

4 recall the context, where he's referring to "engaging around the convoy," what he's

5 referring to?

6 A My understanding, reading this and the dates, would be the -- I would

7 assume that this -- I think it would be the Canadian convoy protests, but I could be wrong

8 there. I don't recall specifically.

9 Q And then there's a message from [redacted] where he says, "We've seen and

10 actioned some financially-motivated actors, but haven't seen (at this point) clear signs of 11 IO."

12 In this context, would "IO" be referring to information operation?

13 A I would assume so, yes.

14 Q And then there's an answer from Mr. Roth below that, sharing what Twitter

15 has seen. The second sentence says, "Not pointing to state actors or anything that 16 interesting... just good old fashioned persistent real people doing bad stuff."

17 Are these two responses consistent with an answer you gave earlier in the hour

18 with respect to differences, where the U.S. Government may provide information on

19 what they believe to be potentially inauthentic behavior and industry partners have seen

20 evidence that it is perhaps inappropriate or unlawful behavior but it's done by real people

21 who aren't state actors?

22 A I don't see or remember any link to anything along those lines here, and

23 that's not how I read this conversation.

24 Q Okay. What do you recall with respect to this conversation?

25 A Mostly what I see here is that the -- this channel, which I believe is the

1 industry-only one -- is that we often -- we had responsibility -- like, when there was a hot
2 topic of the day that was attracting abuse, there would be information shared. And this
3 looks like information-sharing about what the different platforms had seen around this
4 topic at that time. And I don't see any evidence here that there is U.S.
5 Government-related stuff here.
6 Q So the channel would be used for industry partners to share information
7 independent of information that may be shared by the U.S. Government?
8 A Yes. It was a coordination channel amongst us in industry who are working 9 in this space. So conversations here may be unrelated to things discussed with the USG.
10 Q Do you recall in this conversation whether information was received by the 11 U.S. Government, one way or another? Or you just, you don't recall specific to this 12 conversation?
13 A I'm sorry. Could you --
14 Q Sure. So, just to clarify your response, is it your recollection that the U.S.
15 Government did not provide information on this issue that's being referenced in the 16 conversation on page 68? Or is it that you don't have a recollection of whether any 17 information from the U.S. Government was provided?
18 A I have no memory of this topic being discussed with the U.S. Government.
19 Q If I could have you turn forward to page 81, Bates number 16152, there's a 20 message from Nathaniel at the top of the page where he says, "Think it's possible for all 21 of us to refuse to participate if they keep calling it 'mis/dis/mal information'?" Then it
22 says, "(kidding, kidding)".
23 Do you recall [redacted] ever raising concerns related to the use of term "mis-, dis-, 24 and malinformation".
25 A I don't recall this conversation.

1 Q Okay. Based --

2 A Gen- --

3 Q -- off the -- I'm sorry?

4 A I said, generally, as I mentioned, when this issue was first raised in this

5 interview, I do know that there is -- and I said earlier that there's, like, a fair amount of

6 debate about the definitions of these terms and there's, sort of, ongoing discussion about

7 which terms to use for what, and aligning those terms has been difficult, so --

8 Q And I think you said you don't really use the term "malinformation"? Is

9 that --

10 A Definitely not on my team. I can't recall us ever using that term.

11 Q Do you recall ever using that term with, we'll say, [redacted]

12 A I really don't recall that term being used within -- definitely not within

13 industry, but -- yeah.

14 Q And if it's definitely not being used --

15 A I will say that, like, I have no recollections of this term being used.

16 "Definitely" is probably too strong a word to use there.

17 Q Understood.

18 But to the extent that you have some understanding of the terminology industry

19 partners prefer to use, or at least some of the industry partners prefer to use, and in the 20 context here with [redacted] reference, he refers to a "they" -- "they keep calling it

21 'mis/dis/mal information'" -- in this context, would you understand that message to be

22 referring to the U.S. Government is using those terms?

23 A I don't have specific recollection, so I'd only being going off context here.

24 Q So, with the understanding you don't have specific recollections, based off

25 the context that this was the industry-only chat, and it's being used in the context -- one of the contexts in which it's being used is during meetings between the industry partners and the U.S. Government, based off your recollection of what the chat was used for, sitting here today, do you think it's most likely that [redacted] is referring to the government when he says "they"?

Mr. Donovan. I think you've asked and he's answered that question.

[redacted] He said he didn't have a specific recollection.

[redacted]. I would say that that's a possible interpretation, but it's hard, without knowing what else was going on at the time and what our conversation is referring to, for me to draw conclusions about what's being referred to there.

BY [redacted]

Q Do you recall any discussions where someone from the U.S. Government used the term "malinformation"?

A I don't recall specifically.

Q Do you recall any instances where anyone from Alphabet used the term "malinformation"?

A I can't think of any instances that I can recall.

Q In an earlier answer, you said it's not a term that you and your team use.

A That's correct, it's not used within my -- it's not -- I can't recall it used in my team.

Q If I could have you flip forward to page 98, which is Bates number 16169, there are two messages I want to call your attention to.

About two-thirds down the page, [redacted] writes, "Interesting to see them trying to grapple with the domestic side." And then [redacted] responds, "So hard to navigate."

First, do you recall the context of this exchange?

1 A I do not recall the context of this exchange.

2 Q Do you recall any instances where attribution was being discussed on these

3 industry-U.S. Government calls?

4 A "Attribution" is a pretty broad term.

5 Q Just broadly speaking.

6 A Well, broadly speaking, like, certain times, if threats were being discussed,

7 then they would be attributed.

8 Q And how challenging is it to determine the attribution of a threat?

9 A It can vary greatly. In some cases it is relatively obvious, and in some cases

10 we cannot determine attribution.

11 Q Okay.

12 Do you recall any discussions, first, with any individual with Alphabet regarding 13 the government's ability to accurately attribute a threat?

14 A So the question is, has anybody in Alphabet ever discussed this?

15 Q Discussed it with you.

16 A I'd say, in general terms of, like, how people would ask how confident

17 I -- like, do we agree with the government's attribution here, how confident are we, those

18 sort of questions. Because we are doing our independent analysis, the key question is

19 always, if there is attribution, is, do we agree with that attribution, do we disagree, can

20 we confirm it ourselves, because we never take attribution at face value.

21 So, if that's what you're asking, attribution is sort of a key part of our assessment

22 process. So there's always discussions and trying to -- any time we get a lead, part of 23 our assessment is, do we attribute, including leads from the U.S. Government. So our

24 understanding of whether the attribution is correct, whether we can reproduce it, or 25 whether we believe it's wrong is part of the discussions.

1 Q With respect to attributions of threats -- with respect to the U.S.
2 Government's attribution of threats, do you recall any discussions on this issue with 3 industry partners?
4 Mr. Halse. I'm sorry. When you say "this issue" --
5 [redacted] The U.S. Government's attribution of threats.
6 Mr. Halse. Thanks.
7 [redacted]. And these information operations -- sorry, these sort of 8 information operations, disinfo sort of threats?
9 I don't recall specific conver- -- I don't recall specific ones, no.
10 I think, as a general topic of discussing the quality of -- discussing the material
11 that's being provided, yes, in a similar way -- or, like, in a similar way that industry people
12 were discussing a lead that had been provided to us, we would ask each other, do you
13 agree with this, do you not. So, in terms of those general terms, similarly, we would 14 always be discussing attribution, because it was a key part of the assessment process.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q In this context, [redacted] answers, "So hard to navigate."
17 What did you understand him to mean by that response?
18 A I understand that, you know, because of that -- I understand that, like, this is 19 focused on foreign, so making sure that it's navigated and does not go into domestic 20 issues is difficult to navigate.
21 Q So, understanding that the focus is foreign and it's difficult to navigate, do
22 you recall any discussions or any comments by personnel from the U.S. Government to 23 that end, discussing this issue?
24 A In what timeframe?
25 Q In these meetings.

1 A The only conversations I can recall around that was them very specifically
2 and pointedly ensuring to say that they were not interested in domestic activity here.
3 Q Do you recall any instances where the U.S. Government was making the 4 point that they didn't want to be involved in domestic activity but that the industry
5 partners had information to suggest that there was domestic activity involved?
6 A I don't recall such cases.
7 Q If I could have you flip forward to page 126, which is Bates number 16197,
8 there are a series of messages starting two-thirds of the way down from [redacted] then a
9 couple messages from you.
10 I'll give you a moment to review. The conversation continues on to page 128,
11 Bates number 16199.
12 A Yes.
13 Q This message is from November 2, 2022. You write, "It also seems a lot of 14 this has moved to speculation vs observed activity."
15 What did you mean by this message?
16 A My recollection is that the meetings were occurring and there wasn't 17 actually very much threat information to share, so the meetings had turned very much 18 into general briefings about threats or threats that might possibly occur and they were 19 very broad in nature.
20 So my recollection of this discussion -- and I'm reminded of this here -- it was 21 discussing that we're having long meetings and there wasn't really a lot of substance.
22 And I think when I was saying "speculation," what I was referring to was the, like -- you 23 know, they were giving a list of things that could possibly occur, that hadn't, and in 24 general terms. And that's my recollection of what I was saying there.
25 Q At a high level, are there any examples that you recall that were more in the 1 speculation bucket as opposed observed activity?

2 A I don't recall specific examples. I recall, like, they were basically outlining

3 all the possible threats there could be, like, different attacks or possible threats there

4 could be, and just outlining the list, is the recollection I have.

5 Q When they were outlining a list of all the different potential threats, was a

6 foreign hack-and-leak or hack-and-dump one of the things that they listed?

7 A Yes, that would be listed. Yes.

8 Q Specific to hack-and-leak and hack-and-dump, do you recall which Federal

9 Government agency raised that as a potential threat?

10 A That threat has been discussed numerous times, as it is a threat that has

11 been seen in the past. So it's been a topic of discussion a number of times by different

12 agencies.

13 Q Do you recall it being a topic of discussion before the 2020 U.S. election?

14 A Yes, it was definitely a topic of discussion. Subsequent to the 2016 election

15 and since at least 2017, that has been a -- hack-and-leak has been a topic of discussion in 16 this field.

17 Q You mentioned that -- well, first let me ask this.

18 During these U.S. Government-industry meetings, it certainly sounds like the 19 U.S. Government is sharing information with industry partners. Are industry partners

20 sharing information with the U.S. Government?

21 A Yes. We would provide some general information of what we were seeing 22 or not seeing, yes.

23 Q Do you recall anyone in these meetings providing their -- "their" referring to

24 the industry partners -- assessments of the Hunter Biden story in October 2020 and

25 whether it was the product of a Russian hack-and-leak or hack-and-dump?

1 A I can't recall that being discussed.

2 Q And with respect to FITF-Google meetings that were occurring in 2020, when

3 Google was sharing information, do you recall whether Google ever shared its

4 assessment?

5 A I don't believe it was discussed.

6 Q And by not discussed, it's your recollection --

7 A My recollection is, we did not.

8 Q On the top of page 127 here, Bates number 16198, you send a second

9 message saying, "And not being clear on the difference." It appears to be referring to 10 your previous message of "speculation vs observed activity."

11 What did you mean by that second message?

12 A My understanding is that -- and this is a general opinion I have -- is that there

13 needs to be a clear line between "this is what a foreign actor could do" and "this is what 14 we know they do."

15 And I think some of the briefings were fairly general, and I was, you know, raising

16 a point that we should be clear about "this is possible" versus "this is something we've

17 seen a particular actor do." And some of the briefings were -- I was saying that we 18 should be clear on that difference.

19 Q So this is in 2022. In 2020, in the lead-up to the 2020 U.S. election, you said

20 there were discussions that the government would share regarding a potential foreign

21 hack-and-leak or hack-and-dump.

22 Do you recall, when it came to the detail of information that the FBI was sharing,

23 whether it would more perfectly fall under the speculation as opposed to 24 observed-activity bucket?

25 A I would say, FBI were generally good with providing specific information.

1 Q Okay. And do you recall what specific information the FBI provided on a
2 potential hack-and-leak?
3 A In 2020?
4 Q In 2020.
5 A My last answer was, generally you had the information provided as leads. I
6 don't recall a specific lead and I don't believe that we had any confirmed hack-and-leak
7 operations as part of the 2020 election.
8 Q So, to your recollection, it was a more general warning? Or what is your 9 understanding of what level of information was shared?
10 A I'm sorry?
11 Q If I understood your previous answer correctly, in 2020, there are discussions
12 of hack-and-leak, but, to your recollection, there was no specific leads on hack-and-leak
13 that was shared. So, to your recollection, what level of detail or what information was 14 shared with respect to hack-and-leak in 2020?
15 A I think there was information about threat actors that have engaged in 16 hack-and-leak in the past that was shared, either -- not sure whether through those 17 meetings or through FITF or through channel. And that was on the government side.
18 But I don't recall any specific leads on anything that they believed was a successful
19 hack-and-leak operation.
20 Q As part of the information they were providing in 2020, do you recall if the 21 government shared that Russia may be one of the state actors to attempt a hack-and-leak
22 or hack-and-dump operation?
23 A I don't recall specifically, but generally Russia would make a list of threat
24 actors to be concerned about.
25 Q There's a message from you at the bottom of page 127, Bates number

1 16198, where you say, "Midterm syndrome: In 2018 they were overindexing on a
2 repeat of 2016. In 2022 they seem to be overindexing that it will be a repeat of 2020."
3 And then there are some messages too -- I'll give you a moment to 4 review -- where you and Nathaniel go back and forth, to give you some context.
5 And once you've had a chance to review, what did you mean by the first message
6 there, "midterm syndrome"?
7 A This is something I've spoken on publicly, that the midterms end
8 up -- generally look somewhat different to general elections in terms of threats and focus.
9 And I was making a general comment that many of the briefings are talking about the last
10 election. And when there isn't much to discuss, they will just discuss the last election 11 versus what's currently occurring, because they may not be seeing anything currently.
12 Q At a high level, can you provide any examples of a warning in 2018 that was 13 really based off something that was seen in 2016, or a warning in 2022 that was based off
14 observed activity in 2020?
15 A At a high level, I would say that there was -- well, between 2016 and 2018,
16 like, there was a fair evolution of information operation actors, such as the IRA, and some 17 of the actors that were takedowns after 2016, those actors evolved significantly. But 18 the focus -- you know, we still have to look out for how it was before, but, you know,
19 there was evolution in those threat actors.
20 Q And what about 2022 from 2020?
21 A I can't -- both 2020 and 2022 were relatively quiet, so I can't -- with few 22 exceptions. So I can't think of a specific example on that.
23 Q And what do you mean by "fairly quiet"?
24 A So there was some activity in 2020, and Google did go public that we did see 25 targeted, government-backed campaigns against both President Biden's and

1 President Trump's campaigns. So it was not totally quiet, and we went public with 2 things we had seen, but most people would say that there was more activity in 2016.
3 Q This industry-only Signal channel, is it still active?
4 A Yes, it still exists.
5 Q And do you recall the last time someone sent a message in it?
6 A The most recent messages are, I think, around scheduling, so maybe in the 7 last month, saying, is the meeting on today, or, the meeting this week is canceled.
8 Those sort of messages I've seen in the last month, 2 months, 3 months. So that's the 9 nature of most of the recent activity that I can recall.
10 Q And, again, to your recollection, the last either U.S. Government-industry 11 meeting or industry-only meeting -- it sounds like it was an industry-only meeting -- was 12 about a month ago?
13 A That would -- I'd have to see my calendar, but that would be my recollection
14 of the rough timeframe, yes.
15 Q Do you recall any messages in the Signal channel regarding the July 4th
16 injunction or pausing the meetings because of the July 4th injunction?
17 A I don't believe there are any such messages.
18 Q Do you know if there were any messages since July 4th in the Signal
19 channel?
20 A I don't know if there were.
21 Q Do you -- Signal has a self-deleting function for certain channels if the user
22 prefers. For the Signal channel, do you have the messages available still?
23 A I do have the messages. I think with Signal it dates back to -- it doesn't 24 always transfer across with the phone, so I have it going back some distance on these 25 messages, yes.

1 Q And so do you -- sorry, as a point of clarification, do you access it by
2 something other than your phone?
3 A I do access by my phone, yes.
4 Q Oh, okay. Sorry, just to understand that previous response, you do have 5 access to some of the messages going back?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Do you know how far back?
8 A I don't offhand.
9 Q Approximately?
10 A I'd say, consistent with what's in front of me here, most likely.
11 Q Okay.
12 There was a conference you were at in 2021. I'm not going to ask you to recall
13 what you said at the conference, whatever else, but there was a question posed to you
14 about, where is the line between politics and disinformation.
15 There have been some obviously very high-profile public examples of information
16 operations, the role of foreign actors. You, in one of the responses, provided a 17 comment that some of these more high-profile examples lead to individuals at the 18 company to ping your team and ask questions, get more information.
19 To the extent disinformation and information operations have intersected with 20 politics, has that had any impact on your line of work?
21 A So I'm not sure I fully follow. Are you talking about CyberWarCon?
22 Q Yeah.
23 A What are you asking? Has my -- if you are asking --
24 Q I guess my --
25 A -- if you're asking, has the investigations we do been influenced by political

1 realities or that we change the nature of the investigations we do due to politics, the 2 answer is no.
3 We always take our investigations very much on the facts, doing the investigation
4 and taking action according to our policies. And I've never felt any pressure due to 5 political reasons to change our assessment in any form or to pick what we do or don't 6 investigate, if that's where that question is going.
7 Q Okay. And what sort of frameworks are put into place to ensure that's the 8 case?
9 A I'm not sure exactly what you mean. I suppose this is the guidance that we 10 give to the team. This is something that I and others are aware of and we watch out for.
11 We set this as a standard, and it's a, you know, common value and something that we 12 take seriously.
13 Q And with respect to press reports, the reasons that, you know, individuals 14 will ping you and your team, is it your understanding that some of the reason these 15 examples have become more high-profile is because of the intersection with politics?
16 A I think that's -- I'm struggling to answer this question a little bit because the 17 definition of what is politics is very broad and up for debate as well here. So I'm not 18 sure how to answer that.
19 Q The hour is about to expire, so I'll finish with this question.
20 And maybe there is no tie between the two. But there was a presentation at the 21 conference about the line between politics and disinformation. And there's the criteria
22 laid out by Nathaniel in this industry chat with respect to, when it comes to government
23 partners, one of the criteria was apolitical.
24 And so the question would be, independent of you and your team's work, whether 25 when politics becomes involved with how publicized potential information operations are, has that had any effect with respect to how often your team is receiving requests from personnel at the company?

A I don't believe that politics has affected the work that we do in our team. The team, in countering threats, the focus has always been on what we do to protect users and enforce the rules of that platform.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Can we go back on the record?

BY [redacted]

Q I guess just to pick back up, then, on that last question, I guess what the question is getting at is not what you and your team do as a result of these changes, but, if there are changes that are significant enough that can be raised at a conference and that members of the conference will understand what the question is referring to, has there been a change in --

A Can you provide a clarification of what the question was? Like, my recollection or time that I've seen the video of this talk is, like, long passed, and it seems more fresh to you, so --

Q Sure. The question itself was, where is the line between politics and disinformation?

A And this was raised by somebody asking a question of me?

Q You presented it as a question that you are asked frequently.

A Okay. And so I think what I was referring to, then, was actually something, I think, quite different -- somewhat different to the line that you are pursuing here.

I think a lot of this challenge actually happens in a global state of -- I think there's more clear lines in the United States, but one of the challenges we've had is, like, we

1 cover global elections worldwide, so the standards about sort of, like, what is acceptable
2 policies in very different countries of, like, what they consider disinformation versus what
3 they consider normal political behavior is not nearly as well-defined.
4 And I think that was the point of my talk, is that I was raising that, especially in a
5 global level, trying to set a standard between the boundary of those is not nearly as 6 well-defined as it is in the United States. That's my recollection of what I was speaking
7 on at CyberWarCon as a challenge with regard to election protections.
8 Because I should state again very clearly, is that we are not just focused on U.S.
9 teams; we are focused on this as a global problem. And there are many democracies in 10 the world and elections going on on an ongoing basis, so we are constantly looking at 11 threats to elections around the globe.
12 Q The next question that you presented that you are frequently asked is, is it
13 always the Russians?
14 So, in the context of your previous answer, is this something that, worldwide,
15 people are frequently asking, is it the Russians? Is there a U.S.-specific element to this?
16 A I think some of this was tongue-in-cheek, is that, for a while in the threat 17 intelligence community, there was a certain bias towards activity being -- people would 18 guess that something is the Russians when sometimes it would be some other threat
19 actor. And there's a few cases of that.
20 And the cases where we went public in 2020, it was actually not Russia. The 21 cases we went public with was -- the activity was originating from PRC and Iran.
22 Q And you said in your previous answer that people will sometimes incorrectly
23 guess or believe it's Russia. Who are you referring to there?
24 A The example I was thinking of was, we have seen other threat teams
25 produce reports where they have, in our opinion, misattributed to Russia when it was

1 another actor.

2 Q Which other entities?

3 A I was thinking of CrowdStrike at the time.

4 Q Any others that come to mind?

5 A Not specific examples.

6 And, generally, the more mature organizations in the U.S. Government and threat

7 teams do -- I think it's more something that, you know, amateurs and the, sort of,

8 lower-tier security people, kind of, will put a blog and they say, "This could be the 9 Russians." So there is a lot of swirl of the less informed and less capable will sometimes

10 jump at shadows. And that's a -- not everyone has high capabilities in this area.

11 Q Do you recall any examples where, let's say, amateurs or someone who's

12 maybe not as well-trained in this area has a finding that they try to publicize as attributing

13 a threat actor as Russian and that the press picks up that finding?

14 A I don't think so. I think there's a pretty good -- there's actually a fair

15 amount of mechanisms now to debunk these things, and the press is actually pretty good

16 at going to multiple sources.

17 Q Do you recall any examples where someone in the company says, we've seen

18 such-and-such news story in the United States attributing this activity to Russia, and then

19 you and your team took a look and determined that it was not Russian in origin?

20 A I spoke earlier about one case which ended up being a, you know,

21 phishing/hacking attempt which was determined later to be a U.S. criminal effort. That

22 might fall into that category. That's one specific one that some people suggested it

23 would've been a Russian operation but we determined it was not.

24 Q Any other examples?

25 A Not specifically.

1 I think one of the -- for a while, there was a general question whether a threat
2 is -- like, "could this be the Russians," was, like, being asked relatively frequently. But 3 we always did our assessment, and we always were neutral about that and never took 4 that as a starting position, but made sure, if we were going to make that assessment, that
5 it was originating from Russia, that we had the evidence behind it.
6 Q Are you familiar with Hamilton 68?
7 A I don't believe so.
8 [redacted] Can we go off the record?
9 [Discussion off the record.]
10 [redacted] We're done. Thank you very much for your time.
11 [Whereupon, at 2:50 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

Transcribed Interview Transcript Errata Form

Interviewee	Senior Director, TAG
Date of Interview	July 19, 2023
Date of Review	November 19, 2024 (Updated December 16, 2024)
Name of Reviewer	Ehren Halse
Signature of Reviewer

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
3	1	"and [Redacted Witness Name]" should follow "Alphabet"
9	16	"the" should follow "what"
9	21	"serious" should be "cyber"
13	12	"assist" should be "assists"
16	1	"between" should be "by"
19	10	second instance of "violence" should be "violent"
19	15	second instance of "to" should be deleted

21	11	"violations" should follow the first instance of "policy"
23	17	"was" should be "were"

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
26	23	"brief" should be "briefing"
40	14	Remove comma after "team"
45	5	"false" should be "falsity"
57	19	add "for" before "example"
64	5	"was" should be "were"
64	21	add "provide" before "was"
75	5	"way" should be "ways"
85	18	"of" should be "on"
86	25	second "was" (after "there") should be "were"

87	3	"this" should be "it"
94	18	add "and" before "would"
99	18	"being" should precede "used"
111	1	"is" should be "are"
111	4	"in" should be "at"

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: KEVIN ANDREW CHAMBERS

Friday, July 21, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 2237 Rayburn House Office Building, commencing at 10:00 a.m.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted] RESEARCH ASSISTANT

8 [redacted] COUNSEL

9 [redacted] COUNSEL

10 [redacted] DIGITAL ASSISTANT

11 [redacted] CHIEF COUNSEL FOR OVERSIGHT

12 [redacted] CLERK

13 [redacted] MINORITY CHIEF OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

14 [redacted] MINORITY INTERN

15 [redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

16

17

18 For KEVIN ANDREW CHAMBERS:

19

20 JONATHAN SU, ESQ.

21 MICHELLE WADOLOWSKI

22 MARGARET HYNDS

23 LATHAM & WATKINS

1

2 [redacted] Good morning. This is the transcribed interview of Mr. Kevin
3 Chambers. Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's 4 oversight of the Justice Department and Federal Bureau of Investigation.
5 Would the witness state please your name for the record.
6 Mr. Chambers. Kevin Andrew Chambers.
7 [redacted] We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to 8 freely consult with counsel if they so chose. And it's my understanding that you are 9 appearing today with personal counsel; is that correct?
10 Mr. Chambers. Yes. That's correct.
11 [redacted] Could counsel please state your name for the record.
12 Mr. Su. Jonathan Su, with Latham & Watkins. And with me are Michelle
13 Wadolowski and Margaret Hynds.
14 [redacted] Thank you. Behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for 15 appearing here today to answer our questions. The Chairman also appreciates your 16 willingness to appear voluntarily. My name is [redacted] Nabity, and I'm with Chairman
17 Jordan's staff. I'll now have everyone else from the committee who is here in the room
18 introduce themselves.
19 [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff.
20 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
21 [redacted] oversight counsel with the Democrats on the
22 judiciary committee.
23 [redacted] chief oversight counsel for the House Judiciary
24 Committee, Democrats.
25 [redacted] with Chairman Jordan's staff.

1 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

2 [redacted] Thank you. I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines

3 that we'll follow for today's interview. Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The 4 majority will ask questions first for one hour, and then the minority will have the

5 opportunity to ask questions for an equal period of time, if they choose. We'll alternate

6 back and forth until there are no questions and the interview is over.

7 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to

8 take a break apart from that, please just let us know. We are happy to accommodate

9 that. As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything we say to

10 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do

11 you understand?

12 Mr. Chambers. Yes.

13 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we'll do our to

14 best limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just

15 those people on the staffer whose turn it is. Please try and speak clearly so the court

16 reporter can understand, and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you as

17 well. It's important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we

18 can help it, and that goes for everyone present at today's interview.

19 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner

20 as possible, so we'll take our time. If you have any questions or if do not understand

21 one of our questions, please just let us know. Our questions will cover a wide range of

22 topics. If you need clarification at any point, just say so. If you honestly don't know an

23 answer to a question or do not remember, it is best not to guess. Please give us your

24 best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned information from someone else,

25 just indicate how you came do know that information.

1 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so. And please
2 inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete
3 answer to the question. You should also understand that by law, you are required to 4 answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand that?
5 Mr. Chambers. Yes, I understand.
6 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by Congressional staff in an
7 interview. Do you understand this?
8 Mr. Chambers. Yes, I understand.
9 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject
10 criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. Section 1001. Do you
11 understand?
12 Mr. Chambers. Yes, I understand.
13 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to 14 today's questions?
15 Mr. Chambers. No, there is not.
16 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss
17 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this 18 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation. For 19 the same reason, the marked exhibits that we use today will remain with the court
20 reporters to go into the official transcript, and any copies of those exhibits will be 21 returned to us when we wrap up.
22 That is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the 23 minority would like to add?
24 [redacted] No. Just thank you to the witness for taking time out of your day to 25 join us to.

1 [redacted] And I understand, Mr. Su, you have some remarks you would like to 2 make?
3 Mr. Su. Yeah. In logistics, just confirming that this is being taken down by a
4 court reporter and audio and video record; is that right?
5 [redacted] Yes.
6 Mr. Su. Okay. So Mr. Chambers is appearing here voluntarily, [redacted] as you
7 said. He has not had a chance to review thoroughly, obviously, all of his records and 8 emails and whatnot. And so, he is testifying today to the best of his recollection. And I
9 know we discussed that in the lead up to this interview. I don't think you all have any 10 issues with that.
11 Thank you for the courtesy of allowing him to consult with counsel as appropriate.
12 I think we also sort of understand that whatever questions you are asking him about the 13 extent of his knowledge does not apply to conversations that he has had with counsel in 14 the run-up to the matter.
15 So Kevin, I'll just tell you that to the extent that the responses to the questions,
16 you know, call for discussions that you may have had with counsel, these folks are not 17 looking for that. They're looking for your factual knowledge about the events that they 18 want to ask you about.
19 With that, please go ahead.
20 [redacted] That's correct. Thank you.
21 The clock now reads 10:05 a.m. I'll turn it over to my colleague, [redacted] for the 22 first hour of questioning.
23
24 EXAMINATION
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Good morning, Mr. Chambers, and thank you, again, for being with us?
2 A Good morning.
3 Q Can you tell us where you currently work?
4 A Sure. I work at Latham & Watkins.
5 Q And what is your title there?
6 A I am a partner in the firm. I am the global chair of white collar defense and 7 investigations practice.
8 Q And how long have you been there -- working there under that title?
9 A Under the title global chair, approximately 2 months. I've been a
10 partner -- most recently been a partner there since December 2nd, 2022.
11 Q And when did you start working in the Biden Justice Department?
12 A I believe February 1st, 2021, was my first day at the U.S. Department of 13 Justice.
14 Q And what was your motivation for working at the Justice Department?
15 A To serve the country.
16 Q And what did you do right before working at the Justice Department?
17 A I left Latham & Watkins where I was a partner. At the time that I left
18 Latham & Watkins, I was the local department chair or the chair of our local litigation
19 department.
20 Q And can you walk us through the positions that you held while you were at 21 the Justice Department between those two tenures at Latham & Watkins?
22 A Sure. During the entirety of my time at the Justice Department, I was an 23 associate deputy attorney general. For the period from when I started, beginning of 24 February, I believe, February 1st, until about the end of February, beginning of March of 25 the following year, 2022, I took on an additional position. The position was called the

1 director of COVID-19 fraud enforcement. It was a newly created position at the
2 Department of Justice.
3 Q So did you serve in both of those roles simultaneously?
4 A Yes. I was an ADAG, associate attorney general.
5 Q Before you came the director for COVID fraud enforcement and you were 6 just an associate deputy attorney general, could you describe the roles and 7 responsibilities you had in that position?
8 A Sure. The department has a number of ADAGs, use the shorthand, that 9 cover and coordinate with different sections of the department. In my case, I was 10 appointed specifically to handle issues arising out of the criminal division of the 11 Department of Justice.
12 Q Can you describe what the organizational chart for your office was, if it was 13 just dealing with the criminal division, or was that the entire ADAG office?
14 A So just to clarify a little bit, there's not -- I didn't have my own office.
15 Q Oh, okay.
16 A The office to which I was a part is the Office of the Deputy Attorney General,
17 ODAG. So what I mean to say is I did not have a staff. I was staff reporting up to the 18 Deputy Attorney General.
19 Q Then for that Deputy Attorney General, could you describe the 20 organizational chart that works under her or he?
21 A For ODAG?
22 Q Yes.
23 A Sure. ODAG is headed by, not surprisingly, the Deputy Attorney General.
24 There are a number of associate deputy attorneys general who report to the Deputy 25 Attorney General. If memory serves, it was maybe 7 or 8 associate deputy attorneys

1 general.

2 One of those ADAGs is known as the principal associate deputy attorney general.
3 In addition to those -- so that's the first level down beneath the Deputy Attorney General.
4 In addition within the office, there were at various times administrative staff, other
5 lawyers who may have had the title -- I don't know -- counsel or senior counsel. Those 6 were a bit more -- again, those changed over time. You know, there was turnover,
7 people coming, people leaving. I'm just trying to think if there was any other -- I think 8 that covers it.

9 Q And who was your direct supervisor?

10 A My direct supervisor is the Deputy Attorney General. However, the 11 principal associate attorney general, who I mentioned earlier, is at least more informally
12 to whom I would report more often.

13 Q And who filled that position during your tenure?

14 A The principal associate?

15 Q Yes.

16 A The principal associate deputy attorney general for -- so for the first couple
17 months that I was there, I'm not sure that there was a principal associate deputy attorney
18 general in place because that person was serving as the acting deputy attorney general.
19 And his name is John Carlin. Whether he was considered the PADAG, which is the 20 principal associate deputy attorney general, from the beginning, I honestly don't recall.
21 He was without question, the PADAG from when Deputy Attorney General Monaco was 22 confirmed until some time in the summer of 2022. I believe around July, maybe August
23 of 2022. After John Carlin left the role of principal associate deputy attorney general,
24 that role was filled by Marshall Miller -- Marshall is how I know him. I think his last 25 name is Miller. And as far as I know, he is still the principal associate deputy attorney

1 general today.

2 Q Thank you. And how long did you serve in the joint role as director for

3 COVID-19 fraud enforcement?

4 A So I was appointed to that role, I think, it may have been like March 8th,

5 2022, give or take a week. It may have been earlier, certainly wasn't later. And I had

6 that role until I separated from the Department in late November, early December

7 of 2022.

8 Q And can you describe what your roles and responsibilities were when you

9 took that position on?

10 A The director of COVID-19 fraud enforcement?

11 Q Yes.

12 A Sure. As I'm sure you know well, the United States government, in the 13 wake of the onset of the coronavirus pandemic, authorized a number of relief programs.

14 Two very well known ones are PPP, EIDL. PPP paycheck -- Payroll Protection Program.

15 EIDL, Economic Impact Disasters Loans. UI, Unemployment Insurance, and a host of 16 others. The amount of the funds distributed were in the trillions. Unfortunately, with 17 any government relief program, there's going to be some level of fraud in those

18 programs.

19 My role as the director COVID-19 fraud enforcement was to work with our

20 partners throughout the federal government inside and outside of the Department of 21 Justice to devise strategies, to discourage, identify, and where identified, prosecute fraud

22 against those government programs.

23 Q And was this position technically still within the ADAGs or the ODAG's office?

24 A Yes. Yes, it was.

25 Q And who was your direct supervisor in this role? Was that someone

1 different?

2 A No. My supervisory chain did not change.

3 Q And how many people directly reported to you throughout your tenure

4 between 2021 through 2022?

5 A Okay. So in my role as associate deputy attorney general over the criminal

6 division, no one reported to me. I, of course, had an administrative assistant, but it

7 wasn't -- she wasn't reporting to me in any substantive sense. When I was appointed to

8 the position of director of COVID-19 fraud enforcement, I had a -- two deputies, a criminal

9 deputy who handled fraud from the criminal perspective, and I had a civil deputy who

10 handled fraud, obviously, from the civil perspective.

11 Both of those people, like me, added those roles onto what they were already

12 doing. So my criminal deputy was an assistant United States Attorney, I think, in the 13 Northern District of Texas. It's not Northern District. It's where ever Austin is. It's

14 one of the districts in Texas. My civil deputy was a -- I'm not sure exactly what his title

15 was, but he was in the civil division.

16 Q How often did you interact with Deputy Attorney General Monaco?

17 A Generally, or with respect to either of these positions?

18 Q Generally.

19 A Regularly -- or I should say frequently with regular meetings throughout the 20 course of my tenure. When I was -- prior to taking on the role of director of COVID-19

21 fraud enforcement, those meetings would take place maybe once a week. After I

22 moved onto the director of COVID-19 fraud enforcement role, they were less frequent.

23 There would be monthly update meetings to discuss my work in that position. In 24 addition to those regular meetings, I would meet with the Deputy Attorney General as 25 necessary.

1 Q And how often did you interact with Attorney General Merrick Garland?

2 A Less frequently. So again, during the time that I was associate deputy

3 attorney general and not playing the role of director of COVID-19 fraud enforcement, we

4 would have regular meetings with the Attorney General in his office, I think probably

5 every 3 weeks to a month. And again, if necessary, although far less frequently. I

6 would meet with the Attorney General as required.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q And these frequent regular meetings that you had with Deputy Attorney

9 General Monaco, were they standing meetings?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And was it just to provide her an update of what each ADAG was working 12 on?

13 A For the most part. No. No. Sorry. That's not right. I'm actually glad

14 you asked that question because I want to change my answer. So I would -- the 15 meetings that I described to you, the weekly meetings, were just me, Deputy Attorney

16 General, and others specifically to discuss things happening in the criminal division.

17 Probably every week, there would be -- every other week there would be a staff meeting,

18 I guess, is what you call it, where there would be opportunities for each ADAG to discuss

19 issues with the Deputy Attorney General, as well as with the rest of the ODAG team.

20 Q Okay. I just want to make sure I have it clear here. So once a week, you

21 would have a one-on-one with --

22 A It wasn't a one on one, but it was focused on the criminal division. So it

23 was focused on my portfolio.

24 Q So did the Deputy Attorney General generally have awareness of what the 25 criminal division was working on?

1 A Yes. That was in part the purpose of those meetings.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Did you ever have any interactions with the FBI regularly?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And how regularly would you describe those interactions?

6 A Interactions with the FBI would typically be more on an as needed basis if

7 pertaining to a particular issue. If memory serves, there would have been a handful of

8 meetings related to say, for example, corporate enforcement policy, election threats, and

9 other items. But there was not -- I was not part of standing meetings with the FBI.

10 Q Thank you. And who was your main point of contact at the FBI? Would 11 that fluctuate depending on the issue?

12 A My main point of contact with FBI, as best I recall, was typically someone

13 named Jay Greenberg. Now, as you sort of hinted at, depending on the issue, you know,

14 he may be -- you know he may have -- he may have not been the only or first person that

15 I'd reach to. But if I had a general FBI question, I may have gone to Jay if I didn't know

16 who else, you know, was tasked with handling that sort of thing.

17 Q And have you ever heard -- have you ever worked with federal law

18 enforcement before working at the Justice Department in 2021?

19 A Yes.

20 Q What kind of cases?

21 A Okay. Let me -- it's probably a little bit more complicated than it needs to 22 be. It will become clear why. I was prosecutor here in the District of Columbia for

23 4 years. During that time, I worked with both the Metropolitan Police Department as

24 well as law enforcement from, you know, the 47 different federal agencies that are in the

25 District. So Park Police, you know, Police Department for the Bureau of Printing, and the

1 like, in addition to the FBI on certain matters. So yeah, I think technical matter all those 2 are concerned federal, so I did have experience working with them beforehand.
3 Q Thank you.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q You said your main point of contact at the FBI was Mr. Greenberg. What 6 was Mr. Greenberg's title?
7 A I was afraid you were going to ask me that. As I sit here today, I don't recall
8 what his title was. I believe he was an assistant of some sort, but I don't remember Jay's
9 specific title as I sit here.
10 Q Did you have a general understanding of his roles and responsibilities at the 11 FBI?
12 A If memory serves, Jay was in the leadership of the -- what's called CID, the 13 Criminal Investigative Division at the Bureau. That's probably as best as I can give you 14 based on my recollection.
15 Q And as the ADAG for the criminal division, would it have been natural to kind
16 of liaise with the Criminal Investigative Division head at the FBI?
17 A No, I don't think it would have been. So to answer your question, no. It
18 wouldn't have been the routine. I think over time, Jay became my point of contact
19 because we worked together on a number of issues, Chauvin trial in Minneapolis, election
20 threats, I believe. So I don't know that there was a formal, you know, ADAG Chambers
21 this is your point of contact at the Bureau. I think it was more over time this was the 22 person I was most familiar and got to know stuff from. On familiar issues, I may 23 have -- you know, somebody may have said this is the person you reach out to for this or 24 give this person a call. All of which is to say it wasn't maybe as formal as, you know,
25 your point of contact.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And during your time at the Justice Department in 2021 through 2022, did

3 you work out of the main Justice building?

4 A Yes. And from home, but mostly out of main.

5 Q Why did you ultimately leave the Justice Department and return to Latham

6 & Watkins? Any particular reason?

7 A No particular reason. I mean, I was a political appointee. I -- my

8 experience was that political appointees typically stay for, you know, a year and a half to

9 two and a half years. So it was just for -- it was just time to, you know, give somebody

10 else a shot, or you know, return to private practice. But it wasn't triggered by any 11 particular event or anything like that.

12 Q And during your tenure at the DOJ, did you ever participate in a review of 13 your performance throughout that time?

14 A Yes. Well, I received performance reviews, yeah.

15 Q Yeah. And did you get any performance awards while you worked there?

16 A No.

17 Q I'm going to switch gears a little bit, and we'll get into discussing the National

18 School Board Associations letter, which for the most part, I'm going to refer to as the 19 NSBA letter in short?

20 A Understood.

21 [redacted] We're going to enter this into the record as Exhibit 1, and I'll get you a 22 copy.

23 [Chambers Exhibit No. 1

24 Was marked for identification.]

25 Mr. Su. [redacted] before you get into that, can I just confirm, you all did receive

1 the Department's authorization letter --

2 [redacted] Yes.

3 Mr. Su. Do we need to put that in the record in any way? I'm not sure that we

4 need to but --

5 [redacted] We can. If you would like to, we can get copies printed and next

6 round, enter it as an exhibit.

7 Mr. Su. Thank you.

8 [redacted] Of course.

9 [redacted] Take your time to review if you'd like to look at it.

10 Mr. Chambers. Sure.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q Prior to today, are you familiar with the NSBA's September 29th, 2021, letter

13 to President Biden?

14 A I am aware of it, yes.

15 Q When did you first learn of the NSBA's letter?

16 A If memory serves, the first time that I saw this letter and knew that a letter

17 had been sent to the President was when it was sent. And I think the first time I actually

18 saw the letter was downloading it from a news report that contained the letter. That's 19 the best of my recollection.

20 Q And when did you learn that the Justice Department was going to take

21 action related to school board related threats? Was it at the same time of this letter, or 22 was it before or after?

23 A Okay. So I want to be precise, so I'm gonna split this up a little bit. The 24 first time that I learned that we were going to be drafting a memo on behalf of the 25 Department about school board threats was -- my recollection was it was a Friday after

1 this letter was made public. The first time that I learned or became aware that the
2 Department was aware of and considering what, if any, action to take with respect to the 3 issue of threats of violence and acts of violence at school board meetings and other
4 school functions, I believe, was a few days before that.
5 Q Before the October 1st date you mentioned or that Friday?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And do you know what due diligence occurred at the Justice Department
8 between when this letter came out and the memo?
9 A So if I could ask you just to clarify, what due diligence?
10 Q Regarding the threats of violence or any violence that was alleged at school
11 board meetings?
12 A Sure. So the October 4th memo that you referred to earlier is not and was 13 not a direct response to this letter. So it was not a situation where diligence was 14 performed on this letter to decide whether a memo should issue. The Department of 15 Justice, prior to this letter being made public, was aware of a concern about violence
16 at -- violence and threats of violence at school board meetings and other school events.
17 And a process began to, you know, draft our language similar to what we did with 18 election threats and others. But there wasn't diligence -- because of -- the October 4th
19 memo was not a response to this, or it wasn't as if this letter was diligenced. The 20 concerns in there were known to the Justice Department already.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q I think in response to my colleague's question, you spoke about how -- you
23 know, what action the Justice Department would take on the issue. You knew a few 24 days before. Was that before the Friday, October 1st date or before the 25 September 29th date that the letter was sent?

1 A So the September 29th date is not of particular import in my thought
2 process because what I remember is this becoming public. So I don't know if it was 3 issued -- you know, it was public in the press on this date, but whenever it was in the 4 news, that's when I first learned of it. The Department was aware and concerned about 5 violence and threats of violence prior to the October 1st date that I mentioned earlier.
6 The October 1st date is when a decision was made to draft what eventually became the
7 October 4th memorandum.
8 Q Okay. And how did the Justice Department become aware of these 9 concerns about threats and violence at school boards?
10 A So at some point prior to October 1st, at some point prior to my becoming 11 aware of this letter, and quite possibly, although I'm not sure, prior to the date on this 12 letter, one of my colleagues in ODAG reached out to a number of ADAGs advising us that 13 he had received communication from someone at the White House asking if the 14 Department was aware of threats that were taking place, acts of violence at school
15 boards, school board meetings, and other school events.
16 Now, I wasn't part of that conversation, but my colleague said I'm getting this call
17 from someone at the White House about this. At some point, I spoke directly to that 18 person at the White House. And I would say at that stage, the Department was aware 19 of a concern about these school related threats and started the process of determining,
20 you know, whether and what type of response was appropriate.
21 Q Do you remember the date or rough date that the other ADAG would have 22 spoken with the White House?
23 A Just to clarify, it wasn't another ADAG. It was somebody in ODAG. I know
24 we could probably make our acronyms a little less confusing. But it was not an ADAG.
25 Q Okay.

1 A And to answer your question, I don't remember with specificity when that
2 person reached out to the broader group of ADAGs. It was a couple emails. But
3 I -- aside from knowing it was before the 1st and before -- probably before the date of this
4 letter, I can't tell you with specificity, but, you know, a week, 2 weeks, days, some fairly
5 close in time.
6 Q And then at some point, you then reached out to the individual at the White
7 House; is that correct?
8 A I don't recall whether I reached out to the individual or the individual
9 reached out to me, but we did have a brief conversation, yes.
10 Q Do you remember the rough timing of that conversation at all?
11 A I believe -- I believe it was in the same week. So I referenced Friday earlier
12 is when a decision was made to write the October 4th memo. I recall it being in that 13 same week. I'm fairly certain of that, but again, that's about as specific as I can get.
14 Q And who is that individual you spoke with at the White House?
15 A His name is Ephraim, E-P-H-R-A-I-M, McDowell.
16 Q And where does Mr. McDowell work at the White House? Do you know
17 what department or division?
18 A I don't. I don't. I may have at the time, but I don't as I sit here today.
19 Q Have you ever had any interactions with an individual named Mary Wall
20 from the White House?
21 A Not that I recall.
22 Q Do you know if the individual who told the group of ADAGs about the 23 concern from the White House, do you know who they received the outreach from the 24 White House?
25 A No, I don't. But the person I mentioned before, Ephraim was at least one

1 person who spoke to my colleague. In fact, he's the only person at the White House
2 that I'm aware of raising these concerns with Justice, at least as far as I'm aware.
3 Q And do you know how Mr. McDowell became aware of these concerns?
4 How they were raised to him?
5 A I don't.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q Were your conversations with Mr. McDowell or that one conversation, was 8 that in person or was it over the phone or by email?
9 A That conversation I referenced was over the phone. It was a fairly short 10 telephone call.
11 Q Okay. And moving onto the particular --
12 A I'm sorry. Can I clarify one other thing?
13 Q Absolutely.
14 A So the conversation that I referenced was over the phone. I do recall some 15 email tag, either him asking me to call him or my saying I called and missed you. So not 16 conversations, but I don't want to give the impression there was no other kind of contact 17 at all.
18 Q I appreciate the clarification. And then according to a May 2022 report
19 commissioned by the NSBA, on October 21st, 2021, 8 days before the NSBA sent its 20 letter -- so a little over a week -- the NSBA sent a detailed summary of the contents of its 21 letter and listed incidents at school board meetings to the White House and its requests.
22 Were you aware of that communicate from the NSBA to the White House?
23 A No, I was not.
24 Mr. Su. And [redacted] that's September right?
25 [redacted] Yes. Oh, I think there was a May 22nd report, and the list that went to

1 the White House was some time in September.

2 Mr. Su. September.

3 [redacted] Yes. And I'm going to show you our next exhibit is this email from

4 September 21, 2021. It's an email chain between Mr. Chip Slaven, who's the former

5 executive director of NSBA and Mary Wall who was at the White House.

6 Mr. Chambers. Okay.

7 [Chambers Exhibit No. 2

8 Was marked for identification.]

9 [redacted] Take your time to review that.

10 [redacted] Just so the record is clear, this email was an exhibit to the NSBA

11 report that came out in March of 2022 -- or, excuse me May 2022.

12 Mr. Su. Their internal investigation?

13 [redacted] Correct.

14 Mr. Chambers. Of 2022?

15 [redacted] Of 2022, yeah. They did --

16 Mr. Chambers. Oh, okay. Right. Right.

17 Mr. Su. [redacted] I know you're going to ask him questions, you're not

18 suggesting --

19 [redacted] No, and I was about to say, if you want to focus on page 2, kind of

20 towards the middle there if you'd like to just review that for another second, that's 21 mainly what I'm going to ask about.

22 Mr. Chambers. So the Mary Wall email?

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q Yes.

25 A Okay. Ask away.

1 Q Okay. Perfect in email to NSBA, Ms. Wall stated, is there anyway we can
2 take a look at the letter in advance of release, in specific I am meeting with colleagues
3 from other White House offices and DOJ tomorrow morning to see if there might be any 4 options we could pursue here, so if you have concrete recommendations in your letter,
5 eg, the threat assessment you mentioned would be good to know so I can include in
6 discussions.
7 Have you ever in your tenure at the Justice Department interacted with Mary
8 Wall?
9 A No, not to my recollection. And --
10 Q Not in this instance either?
11 A No, not in this instance, and this meeting that's being referred to here, this is 12 the first I'm learning or hearing about this meetings.
13 Mr. Su. Well, to be clear, you -- are you aware of whether a meeting occurred?
14 Mr. Chambers. No.
15 Mr. Su. Okay.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q Did you take part in -- or I'm sorry. You just answered you were not aware 18 if there were any meeting that did end up occurring.
19 Did you take part in any discussions regarding threats of violence related to school
20 boards before September 29th in general other than the one you had mentioned with 21 Ephraim McDowell?
22 A And aside from internal conversations in the Department that I referenced 23 earlier, no. And certainly no meetings with Chip Slaven or Mary Wall.
24 Q Are you aware --
25 A I'm sorry. If that's not clear, you can ask me a question again. I try can to 1 answer your question.

2 Q No. Of course. No, that is clear. Thank you. And if not, do you know if

3 any other DOJ officials took part in these discussions before the September 29th letter?

4 A I do not know.

5 Q Now, let's switch gears a little bit again.

6 A Okay.

7 Q Are you familiar with former FBI Domestic Terrorism Operations Section, so

8 DTOS what they refer to, Section Chief Steve Jensen?

9 A Familiar that I recognize the name. DTOS, I mean, I think I know what it

10 stands for, but that was not a regular part of my work. I recognize Steve's name, but I

11 couldn't tell you much more than that.

12 Q Best to your recollection, how often did you ever interact with Mr. Jensen?

13 A My guess is we would have interacted on this issue. I want to be clear,

14 based on what DTOS does, probably election threats, the Chauvin trial, school board

15 threats, flight personnel threats. I imagine they would have been consulted on all of 16 those.

17 Q During Mr. Jensen's transcribed interview, he testified that on Friday

18 October 1st, 2021, he received an email from you that included his national security

19 branch peer, Thomas Brzozowski, if I'm saying his name right, regarding the NSBA

20 September 29th letter to President Biden. Do you remember this email generally?

21 A I don't remember -- well, generally I remember that I reached out to all of 22 the relevant components, kind of letting them know we're doing this thing. So, you

23 know, be on standby to review, et cetera, but I don't remember that specific email.

24 Q How often did you interact with Mr. Brzozowski?

25 A Less -- I mean, I don't recall interacting with him all.

1 Q I'm going to mark this next email that we have from October 1st, 2021, that I
2 believe you sent to Thomas Brzozowski and Steve Jensen. We'll mark that Exhibit 3 and 3 you can take your time to review.
4 A Sure.
5 [Chambers Exhibit No. 3
6 Was marked for identification.]
7 Mr. Chambers. Okay.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q You start the email by saying that David Newman suggested that you reach 10 out to them. Can you tell us who David Newman is?
11 A Sure. David Newman, at the time, was another associate deputy attorney
12 general. As I mentioned before, I handled the criminal portfolio for the deputy attorney 13 general. David at this time handled the national security portfolio for the deputy 14 attorney general.
15 Q Was he technically in your chain of command, or was he an equivalent?
16 A We're peers, yeah, both reporting to the Deputy Attorney General.
17 Q Okay. And next, in the email, you wrote, leadership has asked me to reach
18 out to the FBI regarding a request from a National School Board Association for assistance
19 in dealing with the recent spate of threats occurring at school board meetings, often 20 related to the imposition of COVID-19 vaccine or mask mandates.
21 You then linked the NSBA letter and a link to a related article from the Washington
22 Post.
23 A Okay.
24 Q Is -- I'm going to pull that next article as our next exhibit.
25 A Okay.

1 [Chambers Exhibit No. 4

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 [redacted] You can just generally look at this.

4 [redacted] This will be Exhibit Number 4.

5 [redacted] Yes.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q Now, I know earlier you mentioned that you saw the letter when it came

8 out, and you thought you had seen it in an article. Would this be the article you saw the 9 letter in?

10 A Yes. So this does seem familiar, and I think that this document -- this -- so

11 this September 30th, 2021 article, my guess is that I learned of the letter being issued the 12 next day. So if this was published at 9:46 p.m. on Thursday, my guess is it's the next 13 morning that I learned of this article.

14 The only thing that surprises me is that I don't see a -- oh, the link to the letter.

15 So I think the article came out. This is the first time that I learned that the letter had 16 been issued. So I would have learned it on Friday, not Wednesday when it was 17 addressed to the President per this article.

18 Q And who in leadership asked you to reach out to the FBI regarding the 19 letter? Do you remember?

20 A John Carlin.

21 Q Did he also send you this Washington Post article, or did you come across 22 this on your own?

23 A Honestly, I don't recall.

24 Q And during your tenure at the Justice Department, was it common to 25 respond to an outside nongovernmental organization's request for federal law

1 enforcement assistance?

2 A Outside, nongovernment --

3 Q Like, not an agency, but maybe like a nonprofit or another nongovernmental

4 entity?

5 A Sure. Yeah. So for example -- so to answer your question, yes, it's fairly

6 common. Let's say, for example, there's a corporation who is the target of a

7 ransomeware or malware attack. I mean, we, at the Department, would certainly

8 respond to that. I mean, there are probably countless examples, but to answer your

9 question, yes.

10 [redacted] And was John Carlin the PADAG at the time?

11 Mr. Chambers. Yes, he was.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q In the remainder of your email from October 1st, you wrote -- I'm sorry.

14 We realize that many of these threats are local in nature and may not obviously implicate

15 federal laws, especially when they do not involve the mail or wires. But we are

16 nonetheless interested in understanding how the FBI can, one, determine whether and

17 when these crimes rise to the level of domestic terrorism; two, track threats against

18 school board officials to identify patterns or trends; three, serve as a clearinghouse to

19 receive information about threats and hand off to the appropriate agency where 20 appropriate.

21 You mentioned that we realized many of these threats are local in nature. Was 22 there anyone else that you were referring to?

23 A In this email, I think I was referring to we as in we, the Department, or we,

24 even ODAG. I was not trying to attribute anyone else that view. That said, yes, you

25 know, anyone and everyone in the Department would be, you know -- would want to

1 study and, you know, gain comfort that there was federal jurisdiction here. So I don't
2 know -- in this email, I wasn't intending to say we, as in a bunch of people, all realize, but
3 it's a fairly noncontroversial thought that federal government should make sure that it
4 has federal jurisdiction.
5 Q Absolutely. And at the time, did you have any information from DOJ or FBI 6 that local law enforcement would be ill-equipped or unable to handle these threats on 7 their own?
8 A No.
9 Q From reviewing this email --
10 A Sorry, just to be clear, no one way or the other, not that they would be 11 ill-equipped or that they would be particularly equipped. Didn't have that information
12 from the Bureau or anywhere else in Justice.
13 Q And from reviewing this email in general, it doesn't appear that there was 14 any deadline to respond for Mr. Jensen or Mr. Brzozowski to answer your questions, 15 correct? Or did you expect to receive a quick answer from them?
16 A So you are correct, there was not a deadline in here. I can tell you that as a
17 matter of, you know, practice in the Department, there is an expectation that things will 18 be responded to quickly. I recall other communications with the Bureau and others 19 about this issue, where it was more of a, you know, this is when we're doing it, what have 20 you. With this one, there wasn't a deadline, but I'm sure if I had not heard in a fairly 21 short amount of time, my practice would be to, you know, reach out again.
22 Q Did you speak with anyone else in the FBI that day regarding these 23 questions?
24 A This day or the next day -- or I'm sorry, regarding these particular questions?
25 Q Yeah, these particular questions other than Mr. Jensen?

1 A My recollection is that there was -- people were brought in on FBI specifically
2 to address both the -- from both CID and CTD on these issues. I do remember at the 3 time, it seemed like with each new email, there were more people from the Bureau being 4 brought on it to.
5 Q Were those emails on this particular day sent by you or others at the
6 Department of Justice?
7 A Well, sent by me at the Department, responded to by the FBI, which is part 8 of the Department. This day and the following day and the day after that. And just 9 one thing I wanted to clarify. We talked about Brzozowski earlier, I may have assumed
10 he was an FBI agent, but it's apparent from this that he's someone at Justice in the 11 national security division.
12 Q Yes. Does that change when you think your frequency of interaction --
13 A It does because I would not have had -- it would have been David, as the 14 ADAG over at NSD, who would have had regular interaction with Thomas, not me.
15 Q Thank you for clarifying. After receiving your email, Mr. Jensen testified to 16 the committee that he and Mr. Brzozowski had a telephone call to discuss it, and Mr.
17 Brzozowski summarized their conversation in an email to you that particular evening of 18 October 1st and copied Mr. Jensen. Do you recall receiving Mr. Brzozowski's email that 19 evening?
20 A Okay. So, no. And just do be clear, you're not suggesting that was a 21 phone call -- they had phone call with each other, or a phone call with me.
22 Q They had a phone call with each other to discuss your email.
23 A No, I don't recall it. But there were a number of emails from a number of 24 different components coming you know back and forth. So because I don't remember 25 doesn't mean it didn't occur.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q When you say a number of components, components to the FBI or main
3 Justice?

4 A So FBI is a component of main Justice. In addition to that, there are -- let 5 me take one step back. Once the decision was made that we were going to issue this 6 document, ordinary course is to enlist any component in the Justice Department that is or 7 may be relevant to the particular issue. So my task, and this was part of it, was to reach
8 out to those components. So I reached out to David Newman at NSD who suggested
9 that I reach out to FBI. But that's not the only component. The criminal division was 10 reached out to as well. The civil rights division was another component that was 11 involved.

12 The Executive Office of U.S. Attorneys, EOUSA, which handles all of the U.S.
13 Attorneys offices throughout the country, who are particularly central to this, they were a
14 component who was part of this process. Smaller components, Community Relations
15 Service, CRS, was another component. I think Office of Justice Policy, OJP, I think came 16 in at the end, like at the end of the process, but I remember them as well and there may 17 be a number that I'm not remembering. Within FBI, the two divisions that I recall being 18 involved were CID, the Criminal Investigative Division, as well as CTD, the 19 Counterterrorism Division.

20 Q Do you remember any other divisions from the FBI of having any sort of 21 interactions with you or any other components of the Justice Department on this 22 particular issue?

23 A No. And to be honest, maybe I should know this, I'm not sure that there
24 are other operational divisions of the FBI that we would have had as ODAG, much in the 25 way of conversation with. But CID and CTD are two that were -- that received reach out.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Do you know who determined who -- do you know who determined which
3 components needed to be reached out to on this? Was that your decision or somebody
4 else?

5 A It was certainly primarily my decision. What I don't recall is whether I got 6 checked with anyone, or for example, in talking with one division, somebody would say,
7 oh, you should also bring in such and such. But at this point in time, you know, my 8 guess is this is shortly after a decision was made that we were going to write this memo,
9 this one may not have been my decision only because it seems like I was told to reach out
10 to David and what have you. But I don't remember specifically CID, CRM, obviously,
11 CRS, EOUSA are all ones that I remember. These are folks that have to have a role.

12 Q And you said you don't recall who told you you should reach out to David 13 Newman?

14 A I don't recall whether it was my decision to reach out to David or someone
15 suggested that I reach out to David. Yeah. So -- and obviously, if it was somebody 16 suggested, I don't remember who that was.

17 Q Of course. And also just to make sure I get it clear for the record as well,
18 did you say that you recall speaking with anyone else in the FBI that day regarding these 19 questions other than this email Mr. Jensen you could have spoken anyone else at the FBI?

20 A I don't recall -- so number two here, track threats to identify patterns or 21 trends, I do recall a conversation, either that day or the next day, where I wanted to get 22 smart on the process for reporting in incidents. FBI has a 1-800 number. They also 23 have what is essentially a website where people can report instances.

24 And I wanted to understand how did that work, so I would have spoken to 25 someone else at FBI. I don't think it was these -- I don't think it was Steve Jensen. But

1 I do recall speaking to someone to kind of explain to me how 1-800 call FBI worked.

2 Q Thank you for clarifying that. So the next day, Saturday, October 2nd,

3 2021, at 11:58 a.m., we've got an email that you sent to a group of individuals from the

4 DOJ and FBI subject line, draft documents to be circulated later today. I will let you

5 review this email. Take your time.

6 [Chambers Exhibit No. 5

7 Was marked for identification.]

8 [redacted] Is that Exhibit 5?

9 [redacted] Yes, ma'am. Sorry.

10 Mr. Chambers. Okay.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q And in this email, it looks like you sent this to Nicholas McQuaid, Robert

13 Mossy, if I'm saying that correctly, Monty Wilkinson, George Toscas, I think it's Katherine

14 Darke Schmitt, Steven Jensen, James Tarasca, Michael Burgwald, and Matt Blue. And

15 you copied Myesha Braden, David Newman, and Iris Lan. You wrote that you wanted to 16 flag something for their attention to review later today for any red flag concerns.

17 What did you mean by red flag concerns?

18 A So whenever the Department is going to send out, you know, a statement on

19 policy or initiative, it's important to remember that the Department, while the leadership

20 is at the OAC and ODAG level, operationally the Department is made up of these 21 components that talked about earlier.

22 So what the Department wants to avoid is a situation where some sort of 23 communication goes out pertaining to an operational issue, and that component hasn't

24 had an opportunity to raise their hand, raise their red flag and say, hey, we don't agree.

25 We need to tweak this, whatever the case may be. So you know that's what it means

1 here is, you know, we want you to look at this, and from your perch being the a career
2 experts in this, let us know if you have any issues with it.
3 Q And below the redacted line that we have here in the email, you noted that 4 document 2 will be a narrative document that sets forth certain steps that the 5 Department may take to address threats against school administrators and officials.
6 Possibilities include, including creation of a task force, training the 7 aforementioned in coordination with state and local law enforcement and threat
8 assessment, and filtering through the National Threat Operation Center or NTOC.
9 Discussing possibilities of steps that the Justice Department may take implies that 10 someone had already started brainstorming these ideas that were included in the email.
11 Who came up with the steps that you listed here, do you remember?
12 A I'm sorry. The first part of your question one more time?
13 Q It says that there are like possibilities, including each of these ideas. And I
14 wanted to know who came up with these steps?
15 A Oh, okay. So as I sit here today, I don't recall. I certainly had some input
16 into them because all of these seem familiar to me. I believe that there was a discussion
17 with Matt Clapper in the Office of the Attorney General, either about this or whether -- or 18 just the form that the communication would take. I don't think I can get much more 19 into it than that.

1 [10:59 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And so did that discussion with Mr. Clapper happen between October 1st

4 and when you sent this email on October 2nd?

5 A It happened Friday night.

6 Q Friday night.

7 Was that in person, or was that by email?

8 A No, it was by phone.

9 Q And can you explain what is your understanding of the National Treat

10 Operations Center?

11 A Sure. So do you remember a moment ago we talked about whether I

12 spoke to anyone else about that item?

13 Q Yes.

14 A I probably learned of this NTOC during that conversation the day before.

15 So understanding that NTOC would be a way, based on what the FBI shared, to identify

16 instances, track them, identify trends and what have you. So this was fairly new

17 knowledge to me, but I remember that was one of the results of the conversation I had 18 with someone at FBI who I don't really recall right now.

19 Q And then you further mentioned that you spoke to some but not all of you

20 on these issues. What issues, more specifically, were you referring to in this email?

21 A I think it's the issue of school board threats, violence and threats of violence

22 at school boards. I certainly spoke to Monty, again, because it's EOUSA that was going

23 to be really operationalizing what we did. I spoke to -- well, as you know, I spoke to 24 David Newman. That's evident from the email. I believe I spoke to Myesha as well,

25 and I would have spoke to Nicholas McQuaid.

1 Q All of these folks before you sent the email, or do you remember who you
2 spoke to before sending this particular email that's listed?
3 A Yeah, so here I say I've spoken to some but not all of you on these issues.
4 Q Yes.
5 A I think, just to go through who I would have spoken to before, it would have
6 been FBI, obviously, CRM, so Nick McQuaid and CRM, Monty Wilkinson, EOUSA. You
7 would have seen that I spoke to Steve Jensen, Tarasca. I don't recognize the name
8 Burgwald. I do believe I spoke to Matt Blue but, again, that may have been another
9 issue entirely. And then Myesha Braden, David Newman, and Iris Lan would all have 10 been people I spoke to about the concern about threats and acts of violence prior to 11 sending this exact email.
12 Q Yes. Thank you very much.
13 And did you speak with these individuals by phone or email?
14 A My recollection is mostly by phone.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q When did those communications occur? Was that Friday night on 17 October --
18 A My guess -- sorry. I didn't mean to interrupt.
19 My best guess, it would have been at some point between when the decision was 20 made that we were going to issue this memo and this date. So it would have been the 21 night before, October 1st, and possibly, I don't know, maybe early in the morning on the 22 2nd.
23 Q And did you frequently interact with these individuals that you spoke about,
24 Mr. Wilkinson, Mr. Newman, Ms. Braden?
25 A Yes.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And then you signed off the email saying: With apologies for the Saturday

3 fire drill. I just wanted to understand why using that language and if there -- why was 4 there a rush?

5 A We worked in a job where, you know, weekends are more technical than 6 actual. You guys may be able to relate. No one likes to get an email on Saturday when

7 they may be out at a soccer game with their kid or at a ballet recital. So I think that was

8 just my way of, you know, acknowledging that, you know, I realize it's a Saturday. I

9 realize there are other things that you may need to do. I'm not insensitive to that.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q And we're nearing the end of our hour, so I just wanted to clarify with 12 exhibit number 5 --

13 A So I haven't numbered them. Can you tell me which one that is.

14 Q That's the one we were just working off of with document 2 bolded. I

15 recognize there's no Bates stamp at the bottom, but this was produced to us by the 16 Justice Department. It was actually reproduced to us late last night in less redacted

17 form. So I just wanted to keep the record clear that this is a document we received

18 from the Justice Department --

19 A Okay.

20 Q -- since there's no Bates stamp on it.

21 But we can go off the record for this round.

22 [Recess.]

23 [redacted] All right. It is 11:15. We can go back on the record.

24 Do you want to introduce the authorization letter?

25 [redacted] Sure.

1 I'm going to introduce for the record exhibit 6, which is the authorization letter
2 from DOJ regarding Mr. Chambers' testimony today, dated July 20th, 2023.
3
4 [Chambers Exhibit No. 6
5 Was marked for identification.]
6 EXAMINATION
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q Mr. Chambers, I'm going to start off the questioning and then turn it over to 9 my co-counsel.
10 A Okay.
11 Q I want to take a step back and talk about your portfolio a little more broadly
12 when you were an ADAG. Before you had the coronavirus, the pandemic response, the 13 task force assignment added, you said you oversaw the criminal division broadly?
14 A If I used the term oversaw, that might be -- I handled the criminal division for 15 the DAG. She oversees the criminal division.
16 Q Understood. Understood.
17 And I want to talk through some of the matters that fell under your portfolio --
18 A Okay.
19 Q -- in that position. So I know we're here today to talk about the school
20 threats memo, but you also had, I think you mentioned, the election fraud, correct, under 21 your --
22 A Election threats.
23 Q Election threats, I'm sorry. Election threats under your jurisdiction.
24 A Yes. It was a criminal division issue handled primarily by the public
25 integrity section, as well as a task force that was put together, and I was tasked with

1 coordinating that with the DAG, as well as the drafting of a memo that went out related 2 to that.
3 Q And I want to introduce that memo. That will be exhibit number 7.
4 [Chambers Exhibit No. 7
5 Was marked for identification.]
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q I just introduced the memo. Its subject line is guidance regarding threats
8 against election workers from the deputy attorney general for all Federal prosecutors,
9 dated June 25th, 2021.
10 Are you familiar with this memorandum?
11 A I haven't seen it in a while, but, yes, I remember this memo.
12 Q And this is the memorandum that you were just referring to that you said 13 you were involved in the drafting of?
14 A Yes, it is.
15 Q Okay.
16 And can you talk through broadly what your role was in preparing or drafting this
17 memorandum?
18 A Sure. As best as I can recall, at some point in June, I was asked to draft,
19 along with someone in the public integrity section, John Keller, to draft a memo to all
20 prosecutors, which included U.S. Attorneys Offices, and also attorneys in the Department 21 who are commonly referred to as prosecutors, as well as to the Bureau, explaining the 22 Department's response with respect to election threats.
23 Q Do you recall who in the Department asked you to draft the memo?
24 A I believe it was John Carlin. I believe it was John Carlin.
25 Q And John Carlin, again, was the principle associate deputy attorney general,

1 right?

2 A Correct.

3 Q Okay.

4 And was there a task force created as part of the -- or following this

5 memorandum?

6 A Yes, ETTF, election threats task force.

7 Q Did you play a role in that task force?

8 A I was part of the task force while it was impaneled. So let me just -- so, yes,

9 I played a role. Amongst the things we did are convened components within the 10 Department. We brought together States, State Secretary of State, other election

11 workers on a phone call in August or September, and then tracked, as a task force, you

12 know, the rise and falling threats, election worker threats over time.

13 Q Okay. And thank you for that.

14 Did you -- you also mentioned threats against flight attendants. Do you recall

15 that?

16 A Flight personnel.

17 Q Flight personnel.

18 A Yes, so that included flight attendants, pilots, ground crew, importantly TSA

19 workers, people with magnetometers, gate agents, just anyone who was potentially a 20 victim of threats, actual violence or threats of violence.

21 Q And do you recall if there was a memo drafted as part of --

22 A There was.

23 Q -- that task force?

24 A Yes, there was.

25 Q Okay.

1 I want to introduce that memo for the record. That will be exhibit number 8.

2 [Chambers Exhibit No. 8

3 Was marked for identification.]

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Okay. So I just introduced a memo dated November 24th, 2021, from the

6 attorney general to the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the director of the 7 executive office for U.S. attorneys, assistant attorney general, criminal division, and all

8 United States attorneys.

9 Subject line, coordinating with Federal, State, local, tribal, and territorial

10 prosecutors and law enforcement to address criminal conduct on commercial aircraft.

11 Do you recall this memorandum?

12 A I do.

13 Q Did you play a role in drafting this memorandum?

14 A Yes, I drafted this over Thanksgiving while on vacation.

15 Mr. Su. Summer vacation optional.

16 Mr. Chambers. Right. Yeah, vacations are also technical more than actual.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Broadly speaking, do you recall the circumstances that led you to draft this

19 memo?

20 A Sure. So over the course of the year, the criminal division and the U.S.

21 Attorneys Offices -- actually, let me back up.

22 Over the course of the year, there were increased reports, news reports related to

23 violence and threats of violence taking place on commercial airliners. People actually

24 striking flight attendants and ground crews because they were unhappy with whether

25 they had to wear a mask, whether their carry-on bag was too big. But it was becoming

1 more of an issue based on what was publicly reported.

2 We, at the Department, were receiving, well, expressions of concern from outside,

3 so from -- ATA is an acronym that springs to mind, but I'm not sure. It was, essentially,

4 you know, a trade organization for airlines or flight attendants, you know, saying what

5 can -- you know, what can the government do to prevent this?

6 At the same time, around the time the decision was made to write this memo,

7 we're heading into the run up to the travel season, right, that season between

8 Thanksgiving and New Years where particularly as the pandemic was coming or at least

9 beginning to abate, there was a significant uptick in traveling and corresponding increase

10 in these unfortunate incidents.

11 So that was the impetus for drafting now a third or fourth threats memo to 12 address, you know, what was occurring and where the Department had a role.

13 There was also, I will mention, the Department, you know, and other agencies,

14 DOT, had to get up to speed on -- it's kind of an interesting thing. If you assault

15 someone outside of an airplane, is that a Federal offense? You know, if it's on the 16 airplane but the door is open, is it a Federal offense? Does that change when the door

17 is closed? If you assault a TSA employee? So there were -- part of what the task force

18 did was to get smart on those kind of jurisdictional questions.

19 And I think that, you know, one of the purpose here was to have them, you know,

20 out in the communities, particularly where you have large airports. Get groups

21 together, State, Federal, local, tribal, territorial, to assess and address these threats.

22 Q So just a couple of follow-up questions. You said that part of the impetus

23 for this November 24th memo was public reporting, so news reports, right? But part of 24 it --

25 A Yes.

1 Q -- was also outreach from private -- or from a nonprofit organization?
2 A I don't know if it's nonprofit, but it's certainly a nongovernmental outside
3 organization, to use some of the language used earlier.
4 Q Okay.
5 And part of the purpose of the memorandum and the task force that was created
6 was to assess whether there would be Federal jurisdiction that would apply to these 7 incidents?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay.
10 Do you recall who made the decision to write the memo?
11 A I don't -- I can't tell you with certainty who made the decision to write the 12 memo. I can tell you that the attorney general's chief of staff contacted me with 13 instructions about writing the memo. So I don't know who made the decision, but I can 14 tell you who brought it to my attention and asked me to lead the effort.
15 Q And so it was that -- that was who asked you to actually draft the memo?
16 A That's my recollection, yes.
17 Q And so we've talked through threats to election workers, threats to airplane
18 personnel. I think you mentioned earlier the Khashoggi matter. Was that something 19 that fell under your portfolio?
20 A I don't think I mentioned the Khashoggi matter.
21 Q Okay, I'm sorry. Maybe I misheard.
22 Are there any other broad, like specific issue areas, I guess, that fell under your 23 portfolio, or was it just everything that the criminal division did?
24 A Everything the criminal division did, not necessarily including what all of the 25 U.S. attorneys' offices were doing.

1 Q Okay.

2 A Some of that did, some of that didn't, but practically everything under the

3 criminal portfolio or that the criminal division was engaged in would have fallen under my 4 portfolio.

5 Q And it sounds like it wasn't that unusual for you to draft memoranda along

6 these lines as part of your responsibilities?

7 A That's right. That was certainly part of my role as an ADAG.

8 Q In the earlier hour, there was some discussion about how often you met

9 with Deputy Attorney General Monaco, and you said weekly and sometimes every other

10 week as well with the other ADAGs.

11 A Correct.

12 Q And during those meetings, all of these matters would be discussed, right, or 13 could be discussed?

14 A Yeah. So, yes. During the meeting with the DAG, so the weekly, we call

15 them the CRM weeklies, we would discuss everything that's going on, you know, above a 16 certain, you know, threshold.

17 Q Okay.

18 A So items like that certainly would have been discussed.

19 Q Okay.

20 A At the all-hands, you know, there were so many people that it wouldn't 21 make sense for everybody to go through everything they're working on.

22 Q Okay. I'm going to turn it over to my co-counsel. Thank you.

23 A Sure.

24 [redacted] Thank you.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Just a couple of questions about some of the exhibits that have already been
2 introduced before we move on.
3 A Okay.
4 Q If you could, do you have a copy in front of you of exhibit number -- which 5 one was it? Sorry.
6 A Take your time.
7 Q It was exhibit 3.
8 A If you could give me a Bates stamp.
9 Q Oh, sorry. We didn't label it. There is a number. Bates number 451.
10 It's an email chain involving Mr. Jensen.
11 A Okay, yep.
12 Q Got it?
13 Just a quick question here. You were asked in the previous hour about whether 14 you had or anyone at Justice had received information that local law enforcement was 15 having trouble or was inadequately equipped to deal with these issues before DOJ
16 proceeded with the task force.
17 Do you recall those questions?
18 A I do recall those questions.
19 Q And your answer was that you neither received information that they were 20 ill-equipped or that they were well-equipped. Is that a fair characterization of what you
21 said?
22 A That is.
23 Q Can you explain a little bit further about why it is that the Justice
24 Department might want to determine whether law enforcement was well- or ill-equipped
25 and whether they needed the resources of DOJ on that issue?

1 A Sure. So with certain types of potential crime, there may often be a
2 question of, you know, whose bucket does this fall into. Does it fall into one? You
3 know, does it fall into Federal exclusively? Does it fall into State, local, tribal, territorial
4 exclusively? Is there kind of a shared responsibility to respond to these kinds of things?
5 One thing that the Department of Justice does not want to do is kind of big foot or 6 big dog, you know, State, tribal, territorial, local law enforcement. So the goal would be 7 to identify an issue that may affect both Federal and -- I'm just going to use the term local 8 for the sake of argument -- and then offer resources to address issues, help local law
9 enforcement understand issues, help local law enforcement -- give them an opportunity
10 to say, you know, not only does the Federal Government have jurisdiction, but we need 11 their help to do that.
12 So I think that may be a long way of answering your question, but it's important
13 for us to -- sorry. It's important for the Department of Justice to understand, you know, 14 not only where their role is appropriate but where the role is actually needed.
15 Q Okay.
16 You made it clear I think from that answer and from the answer you gave 17 previously that at the time that this memo was being drafted and that the task force was 18 being stood up, you didn't have all the answers, and DOJ was trying to find some answers
19 as to whether there was a role for DOJ with respect to threats of violence at school
20 officials and school board activities.
21 Is that a fair characterization?
22 A What was the first part of what you said?
23 Q It sounded to me like from your answer --
24 A Right.
25 Q -- that what you were saying was you didn't know at the time that the task

1 force was stood up whether there was a need to supplement local law enforcement, for
2 example, with respect to these threats. So you were trying to find out. That was one
3 of the tasks that DOJ was undertaking with this effort was to learn --
4 A Yes.
5 Q -- whether there was a problem?
6 A Right. So the second part of what you said is right. So let me just clarify.
7 Q Sure.
8 A Based on reports that were publicly available, bomb threats, death threats
9 communicated by the mail, death threats communicated over the internet, telephone,
10 there was unquestionably a role for the Federal Government with respect to those.
11 But in addition to that, yes, part of the purpose of standing up the task force and 12 convening State, local, tribal, territorial law enforcement with the U.S. attorneys' offices
13 in all of the 94 districts was for them to have conversations about, you know, what's 14 happening in your districts. Are you seeing, you know, an unusual amount of this kind 15 of potential crime? And if so, how, if at all, can we be of assistance to that?
16 So there was -- I don't want to give the impression that the Federal Government
17 thought we have no role here. There was certainly a role for the Federal Government,
18 but there was also an obligation for the Federal Government to understand the extent,
19 the scope of the problem, and how we can help.
20 Does that answer your question?
21 Q Yes, it does. That helps to clarify.
22 And with respect to the example that [redacted] was discussing with you, the 23 election threats scenario, you mentioned that part of what you all were doing with that 24 task force creation was to explore kind of what you might consider novel issues of Federal 25 jurisdiction. The example you gave was whether the offense occurred on an airplane or

1 outside of an airplane, for example.

2 Now, that's not an unusual task, right? The Federal Government sometimes has

3 to think on whether there is Federal jurisdiction in certain situations, and it takes a little

4 bit of reflection.

5 Would it be fair to say that with respect to the school board and school official

6 threats situation, you had to do a similar kind of analysis to see what Federal jurisdiction

7 there was? And you actually personally were involved in considering some potential

8 Federal statutes that would be implicated by some of the conduct that had been

9 reported?

10 A Yeah, so to answer the first part of your question, yes. Not only is it not

11 unusual, it's an obligation of the Federal Government to satisfy itself of actually having

12 jurisdiction to deploy the resources of the Federal Government. So part of it is

13 understanding, getting smart on, okay, what are the Federal statutes that apply to 14 this -- these potential crimes, you know, specific statutes. Like not just it involved the 15 wire, it involved the mail. That's kind of a guiding principle, a threshold question.

16 But there's a deeper question, which is, okay, once you cross that decision point

17 or if, you know, somebody is using a bomb threat, maybe entirely local but still triggers

18 certain Federal laws, so once you get past that first decision point of whether there may 19 be Federal jurisdiction here, we have to understand at Main we need to support the U.S.

20 Attorney's Office. In this case, the Federal, local partnerships in understanding what 21 those statutes could be.

22 I do have some recollection of, you know, kind of doing a survey or actually

23 looking through statutes. I don't recall that with a lot of specificity, but I do think I was 24 involved in that.

25 Q I don't want to give you any kind of legal test here, but do you recall

1 considering 18 U.S.C. 875, which is the interstate communication statute, about whether 2 some of the threats, if they were communicated in that fashion, delineated under the 3 statute might rise to a Federal crime?
4 A I wouldn't have been able to recite it, section, code.
5 Q Fair enough.
6 A But yes, interstate communication was a big part of whether Federal 7 jurisdiction lied.
8 Q And did you also consider 18 U.S.C. section 275, which is federally protected
9 activities? It's like the under color of law statute. Did you consider whether -- because 10 that statute addresses federally funded activities, specifically including education, that 11 some threats directed at schools or other school activities might actually fall under that 12 statute and give rise to Federal criminal jurisdiction?
13 A I have a vague recollection of that discussion. I think that's one of the 14 reasons that we brought in civil rights.
15 Q Mr. Moossy?
16 A Sorry?
17 Q Mr. Moossy?
18 A Yes.
19 And maybe even the reason we brought in OJP to understand like funding
20 questions. As I sit here, I don't have tremendous recollection of that, but yes, I recall
21 there being a discussion of whether Federal funding or, you know, Federal programs
22 would create an independent basis for jurisdiction.
23 Q Okay. I guess my point is that sometimes these questions are not clear 24 right at the beginning of a task force creation, but there is something that you explore as 25 a part of your responsibilities in Federal law enforcement. Is that fair to say?

1 A Yes, it is. I agree with that.

2 Q Okay.

3 I'm going to ask you some more questions about the task force operation --

4 A Sure.

5 Q -- as it existed there.

6 Can I mark for the record it will be number nine. Thank you.

7 [Chambers Exhibit No. 9

8 Was marked for identification.]

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q Exhibit 9, this is an email chain that includes -- well, let me just read the 11 Bates number first. It's part of a DOJ production. It starts with Bates number 1367.

12 There are a couple of pages, for the record, here, and the Bates number is only on the 13 first page because we just blew it up so that you could see the text on the PowerPoint

14 slides on the second page.

15 If you have a minute, just look at that exhibit, if you would, Mr. Chambers, and let 16 me know if you have had a chance to familiarize yourself with it.

17 A So I'm not familiar with this email.

18 Q Okay.

19 A And I don't see my name on it. So I don't know if I was bcc'd or not, but I'm 20 familiar with the content of the email --

21 Q Okay.

22 A -- but not seeing this email itself.

23 The document, I don't know if it's an attachment or it just follows, I am familiar.

24 It appears to be a portion of a PowerPoint deck that I prepared for the initial task force

25 meeting.

1 Q If it's helpful, just on the first page within the body of the email, the
2 paragraph that has the redacted line --
3 A Uh-huh.
4 Q It refers to Kevin, and I don't know if that is you. Do you think that might 5 be referring to you?
6 A Yes, that's me.
7 Q Okay. Does that help you kind of orient what the email might have been 8 about with respect to you?
9 A Oh, I'm sorry. I know what the email is about.
10 Q Okay.
11 A This is just somebody reporting out our first task force meeting.
12 Q Okay.
13 A I guess what I'm saying is I don't think I received this email.
14 Q Okay.
15 A It appears to be from somebody at EOUSA to someone else at EOUSA saying
16 this is what we just discussed.
17 Q Okay. And the date on the email, though, is October 13th, 2021. Is that 18 fair?
19 A Yes, that's correct.
20 Q Do you believe this was the first meeting of the task force?
21 A I think so. I remember it being -- a decision being that we held on 22 Wednesdays. The timing of this makes it sound right, so yeah.
23 Q Okay.
24 And then the PowerPoint slides, did you say that you prepared them yourself?
25 A Yes, I did.

1 Q And so you're familiar with their content?
2 A Yes. Yes, I am.
3 Q Okay.
4 Let's just go through them a little bit.
5 A I mean, it's been almost 2 years.
6 Q I understand.
7 A So if I have to spend a little time looking, I hope you'll indulge me.
8 Q No worries. The pace is yours.
9 A Please go ahead.
10 Q Can you just tell -- so at the very top of the second page of the first
11 PowerPoint here, there is a sentence that says, quote, expectation of USAO is to meet
12 with LE, not school officials, end quote.
13 Do you see that statement?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And do I understand that correctly that what they're saying is that the U.S.
16 attorneys' offices should be holding meetings with law enforcement, referring to local law
17 enforcement, and not with school officials?
18 A That's correct.
19 Q And why is that?
20 A So this part of kind of the do-out or what you're going to do once this task
21 force is stood up, this portion, convening these meetings, was really for law enforcement 22 to be able to coordinate with each other, have discussions about what they're seeing and 23 then come up with an appropriate response. It was not to interact directly with school
24 officials or board members or really anyone outside of the law enforcement community.
25 This was a law enforcement effort to address a particular concern, that concern being

1 violence and threats of violence at school board functions.

2 Q Okay. And I'm going to direct your attention to the first slide.

3 A Okay.

4 Q The very first slide here, it is titled school board, school administrator threats

5 task force, and then it addresses examples of violence and threats. Is that correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And can you just go through some of these. The very first example, I don't

8 know what your eyesight is, but can you read the text in that first slide that describes the 9 first example?

10 A My eyesight is not good, but I can read this. So you just want me to read 11 the text?

12 Q If you don't mind. Let's start with the first one.

13 A Yes, so the first lighter blue box on the left of this exhibit, top row, says a

14 parent attacked a teacher following a mask dispute on the first day of school, a California

15 superintendent said. And then beneath that, Amador County Unified School District,

16 California, August 2021, and physical education.

17 Q Okay. And can you read the second one, please?

18 A Sure.

19 A parent physically assaulted a teacher by ripping a mask off her face. Eanes

20 Independent School District -- that's embarrassing -- Texas, July 2021, physical altercation.

21 Q And the third one, please.

22 A Three men carrying zip ties show up at a Tucson, Arizona elementary school

23 and threatened the principal with a citizen's arrest after the child of one man was told to

24 quarantine under county health guidelines. Mesquite Elementary School, Arizona,

25 September 2021, in-person confrontation.

1 Q And underneath that, there are three more examples. Can we go through
2 those as well?
3 A Sure.
4 Quote, I'm going in with 20 strong men, ellipses. I'm going to speak to the school
5 board, and I'm going to give them an option. They can leave or they can be removed,
6 end quote.
7 North Hampton County School District, Pennsylvania, August 2021, communicated
8 orally at rally.
9 Q And then continuing to the second middle slide there?
10 A Quote, all of you are going to be spoiled in severe ways. Get ready. All of 11 you targeted. Writer then -- sorry. In parentheses, writer then lists the school board
12 members' addresses. And this is a Waukesha school board, Wisconsin, August 2021, 13 communicated via social media.
14 Q And finally, the last slide or last example, I'm sorry.
15 A At the bottom?
16 Q The one right next -- the third one. I'm sorry.
17 A Okay.
18 Quote, we know who you are. We'll find you. We know who you are, end
19 quote. Williamson County school board, Tennessee, August 2021, communicated orally 20 to victim.
21 Q Okay. And there is one final one, which is at the very bottom, that little 22 visual.
23 A Sure.
24 It's an image of two men in a crosshair. It says at the top, you will be taken out
25 by vote or by force. And beneath their pictures are the words in all caps, in large font,

1 public enemies. And this is the Hackensack Board of Education, New Jersey,
2 September 2021.
3 There is a tool bar at the bottom of that slide that's covering some language. I'm 4 fairly confident that that language underneath says something to the effect of 5 communicated by U.S Mail. But there is a full version of this document that would not 6 have that tool bar covering the language if you want to check that.
7 Q All right. Thank you for that.
8 These examples are examples that you found when you were preparing for this
9 meeting. Is that correct?
10 A That's correct.
11 Q And where did you find those examples?
12 A These were public reports, news reports. I don't think it was anything
13 more sophisticated than, you know, a review of publicly available news reports online.
14 Q And why did you choose each of these as an example?
15 A So, you know, we talked a little bit before about jurisdiction. In each of the 16 94 U.S. attorney office districts, there was going to be a meeting of Federal, State, local,
17 tribal, territorial law enforcement. My goal was to educate the task force who may or 18 may not be interacting with these groups about what was and what was not in this area
19 of threats of violence and actual violence.
20 Each of these examples is a reported threat of violence, actual violence, as 21 opposed to someone just, you know, spouting off or speaking their mind or saying 22 controversial things, and I thought it was important for our task force to understand that.
23 And I think later in this document there's another slide that talks about, you know,
24 what is and what isn't outside of our agreement.
25 The other thing that I thought was important to do was to provide examples for

1 discussion amongst ourselves and possibly with these groups about, you know, what may
2 be purely local, what may be, you know, possibly Federal, what may be unquestionably
3 Federal, and that's the reason that at the bottom of each of these I try to describe -- well,
4 in each of these I describe not only the threat or the act of violence but also either how it
5 was communicated or how it was affected.
6 Q Because it's relevant to the Federal statute?
7 A Because it's relevant to whether there's Federal jurisdiction or not.
8 Q And is it fair to say that each of the examples as you've described them
9 involve either violence or threats of violence?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And all of these examples are occurring in -- 12 A I'm sorry. Let me back up.
13 Q Go ahead.
14 A They involved in my view violence or threats of violence. I think part of the 15 discussion is whether, you know, for example, somebody saying we know who you are,
16 we'll find you, we know where you are. You know, I'm sure someone can argue that 17 that's not violence and not a threat of violence. But I think it was important for our task
18 force to understand the entire panoply of what kind of threats were out there. You
19 know, I take the view that's a threat of violence. Somebody else may not. But it's 20 something that as a task force we need to understand.
21 Q And as a former prosecutor, you know that -- I mean, it may be. It's a 22 factual question for a jury, and it's something that you might consider at the DOJ level
23 whether it's chargeable?
24 A What I can say is this is something that should be reviewed and considered,
25 as opposed to someone just saying, you know, I don't like our football field. I don't like

1 masks. I don't like this. This is the kind of stuff that our task force was focused on,
2 and, quite frankly, this is the kind of stuff that the memo is focused on.
3 Q Okay. And each of the examples that you just discussed occurred in either
4 the summer of the fall of 2021. Is that correct?
5 A Yes, it appears that's right.
6 Q I think the latest example that you have here was September of 2021.
7 A Yes.
8 Q And they also occurred over several jurisdictions within the United States.
9 Fair to say?
10 A Yes. Yes, geographic -- right. So these are not all the examples that, you
11 know, one would find if they searched for them, but I had a goal of, you know, geographic 12 diversity, different types of threats communicated in different ways, actual of violence
13 versus threats, that sort of thing. So my goal was to try to give an example of 14 everything. So geographic diversity is certainly part of it.
15 Q Okay.
16 And would you turn to the second page, please, of the exhibit. It appears that at 17 the meeting, according to these notes, after the examples of threats of violence were 18 presented, the task force proceeded to discuss, quote, purpose of the task force.
19 A Yes.
20 Q And this slide here, the section notes -- refers to the AG's October 4th
21 memorandum and the, quote, disturbing spike in instances of threats.
22 Do you see that reference?
23 A I do.
24 Q Now, did the disturbing spike in instances of threats refer to the type of 25 conduct that you just discussed in those examples, which occurred in various locations

1 throughout the country in the summer and fall of 2021?

2 A It refers to what I viewed as an increase in the incidents, some of which are

3 described on the prior page, you know, but, again, you know, when things like this

4 happen, they are typically -- you know, when these things unfortunately happen, they are

5 typically reported in the news.

6 So, you know, it was my view that as you went through the spring and the

7 summer, there was an increase in these things, similar to the increase that we saw incited

8 with respect to election threats, similar to the increase that we saw incited with respect

9 to violence on commercial aircraft.

10 Q So all of those things are actually happening at the same time that DOJ is 11 observing an increase in threats in these various substantive areas?

12 A Yes, that's correct.

13 Q That same slide that's titled purpose, there is a discussion of, quote, DOJ

14 response. Do you see that section?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And can you just read the bullet points that are listed under DOJ response?

17 A Sure. Instructions to USAOs, U.S. attorneys offices to convene meetings

18 with local law enforcement.

19 Next bullet, create training and guidance for use by potential victims.

20 Next bullet, nonenforcement ways to assist.

21 Next bullet, threat tracking and trend identification.

22 Q Okay. And did you prepare that portion of the presentation?

23 A Yes, I did.

24 Q And is that your understanding of what the DOJ's response was going to be

25 of the rise in threats?

1 A It was part of our discussion. So this is a discussion paper. But between 2 our -- you know, between what appears in I think the memo or the press release to the 3 memo and possibly my conversations with John Carlin, it was decided that, you know, the 4 task force was actually going to have tasks and these are what they were.
5 Q Okay. Could we go over each of them briefly.
6 A Of course.
7 Q The first one, instructions to U.S. attorneys' offices to convene meetings with 8 local law enforcement. What did that mean?
9 A So as we discussed a bit earlier, it was important to me, it was important to 10 the Federal Government, more -- sorry, important to DOJ, more importantly, to 11 understand the contours of its jurisdiction, where it had primary jurisdiction, where it had 12 shared jurisdiction, where it had no jurisdiction. And also, you know, the frequency and 13 severity of these kinds of instances throughout the Nation.
14 With that in mind, it was decided that the task force would instruct the U.S.
15 attorneys' offices, the U.S. attorneys in each office to bring together their local partners
16 and, with those partners, have a discussion about the concern about increased violence
17 at school meetings and whether U.S. attorneys' offices could assist, whether there 18 was -- you know, the issue was prevalent, whether local law enforcement thought they 19 had it in hand.
20 But the first task was we can't make decisions about what's actually going to 21 happen until we understand what the issue, what the problems are, and that problem is 22 not going to be the same across the entire country. It may be different in, you know,
23 Virginia, Eastern District of Virginia, and Western District of Virginia. So the idea was to 24 make sure that we didn't -- that we took a nuanced and fact-specific approach to 25 whatever the Federal response would be.

1 Q So with respect to that first bullet point, was DOJ in the mode of receiving
2 information from local law enforcement?
3 A Absolutely.
4 Q The second bullet point, create training and guidance for use by potential
5 victims. Can you explain what that meant?
6 A Sure. So one of the things that we learned as part of our work on the 7 election threats issue, and I think something else that prosecutors generally know is that
8 when someone is potentially the victim of crime, they may not always take the steps
9 necessary to preserve evidence that will allow prosecutors to bring defendants to justice.
10 So, for example, if in the context of what we're discussing here, if someone
11 received a voicemail on their phone saying -- and this is sadly one that I recall, but, you 12 know, don't bring your kid to school because, you know, you don't know what will 13 happen to her. And that was something reported to a teacher or school administrator 14 or something like that.
15 It might be that person's first inclination to just get that garbage off of their phone
16 and hit delete. Or if they get an email, do the same thing. Or these gentlemen in New 17 Jersey, you know, who found -- who received mail on their doorstep or in their mailbox
18 targeting them for death, it might be the easier thing just to say I don't want to think 19 about this. I'm going to delete it. I'm going to rip this up and throw it out. That, of 20 course, would frustrate efforts to prosecute the cases.
21 So part of our thinking here is that similar to what they did in the election threats
22 case is to create a one page or a slick sheet that would say, you know, these are the steps
23 you take in the unfortunate event that you're the victim of crime. So, you know, call the 24 police. You know, take pictures of any evidence. You know, if your car is vandalized or 25 something like that and a death threat is written on your car, take a picture of it before

1 you go wash it off. Save your emails, save your voicemails.
2 You know, do not -- and there is also a component of if it's safety oriented, right.
3 If somebody is a victim of a threat, we don't want them engaging with someone in that
4 case. So it might say do not respond to this threat. Get law enforcement involved.
5 So that was some of the thinking behind the create training and guidance for use
6 by potential victims.
7 Q Thank you.
8 And then the next one, nonenforcement ways to assist. Could you describe what 9 that was about?
10 A Sure. So I think people often think that the Department of Justice is just 11 the FBI and, essentially, prosecutors, but the Department, for ages, has played a much
12 broader role, and that's evident through a few of the components that we mentioned
13 earlier.
14 I think I made reference to CRS, community relations service. Community
15 relations is a unit that is not a prosecuting component. It's not a law enforcement
16 component in the traditional sense, but it's a component that will go into communities
17 with an eye towards providing nonenforcement-type assistance.
18 So just to give you a couple examples, in spring of '21, when the Chauvin trial was 19 going on for the murder of George Floyd, CRS had a critical role in going into the 20 communities and talking to them about how the process would work in court, you know, 21 the importance of, you know, maintaining order, you know, nonenforcement ways that 22 the Department of Justice could be of assistance.
23 So now fast-forward to this situation where we're dealing with violence and 24 threats of violence taking place at school board meetings. The way that CRS would be 25 able to assist in that situation is to, you know, offer, for example, de-escalation training

1 where they go in and say, look, if you are running a school board meeting, whether it's
2 the school board or whomever, and you find yourself in a situation where temperatures
3 are getting inflamed, maybe even threats are levied, here are some of the things you can
4 do to reduce that tension.
5 I am not an expert in that stuff, so I can't tell you what those things are, but I can
6 tell you that they would play a very important role in addressing this concern that does
7 not involve Federal statutes and bringing charges and having trials and, say, a
8 nonenforcement method that the Department has to achieve the desired result, which is 9 less crime, less threats, less acts of violence.
10 Q Okay.
11 And the final one that you have listed here is threat tracking and trend
12 identification. Can you explain that one?
13 A Sure. So this ties in a little bit to the first bullet, which is about, you know,
14 the frequency and degree to which these issues are prevalent in various U.S. attorneys'
15 offices. I think with anything that's important, you want to measure it, and the thing
16 here is how do we measure, you know, where this is happening? Do we have pockets or 17 particular districts where this is more of an issue than others?
18 One, we want to know that from a macro standpoint, which is what is the degree
19 of this issue, but we also want to know from a -- sorry. I keep saying we. I mean the 20 Department also wants to know from the standpoint of, you know, where best to allocate 21 resources. You know, how to address things on a micro level. So, you know, the 22 tracking and trend analysis is important.
23 The other thing that's important is if you're going to undertake to do something
24 related to these threats, these acts of violence, you also want to know that it's working.
25 So, you know, if you see threats decrease over time, then you can say, okay, this is having

1 some effect. If you're not, you might want to, you know, rethink the approach.
2 So it's nothing fancy. I mean, simply put, the Department wanted to know, you
3 know, what trends were related to these threats and acts of violence.
4 Q Okay.
5 And is it fair to say that the four purposes that you've broadly described here for 6 the task force is fairly inclusive of the purpose of the task force as you understood it?
7 A It is the purpose of the task force, yes.
8 Q So there are no other purposes that are not listed there that you're aware of 9 that the task force was meant to accomplish?
10 A No, there were not.
11 Q Okay.
12 A Give me one second to just make -- that's a fair question. I just want to 13 make sure I give an accurate response.
14 Q No worries.
15 A Yeah, that's accurate --
16 Q Okay.
17 A -- with an overall goal of discouraging, reducing, identifying violence and 18 threats of violence.
19 Q Okay, thank you for that.
20 So it's fair to say the DOJ did not have a purpose in the formation of this task force
21 to interact in any way with, quote, parents?
22 A No, and nothing about the memo is directed towards parents in particular.
23 It's directed towards persons, parents or not, who would commit acts of violence or level
24 threats of violence in the context of these school board meetings and other function
25 events. Parents was never uttered as far as I can recall and certainly not a part of the 1 focus of the memo or the task force.

2 Q And it was not the purpose of the task force to engage with any particular

3 type of speech or content of speech that was being articulated at school board meetings

4 or elsewhere?

5 A Absolutely not, and I don't think it can be any clearer from the memo that

6 constitutionally protected speech was not part of the concern about violence and threats

7 of violence.

8 Since we have this document in front of us there, the next slide after the purpose

9 slide is one that I think makes abundantly clear that it was not about ideology. It's not 10 about whether you like masks or don't like masks, like vaccines or don't like vaccines.

11 It's about really one thing or two things, violence and threats of violence by anyone

12 against anyone at these school board meetings and other school-sponsored events.

13 Q I was about to ask you about those, so let's look at that next slide. Can you

14 first look at the left-hand portion that's titled what this effort is, and just read us those 15 bullet points, if you can read it from this document.

16 A Sure. So the first one is understand range of potentially criminal conduct

17 and where Federal enforcement authority rests.

18 Next bullet, assist State and local law enforcement through training and 19 information sharing.

20 Next bullet, help protect school board members and school administrators from 21 violence or threats of violence.

22 And then fourth, educate victims of threats on how to report threats to law

23 enforcement.

24 Q I think those are fairly self-explanatory, and I think you explained them

25 already in your testimony. So let's move on to the right side, and can you read, quote,

1 what this effort is not?

2 A Sure.

3 Not based in ideology. Focuses on acts or threats of violence not on underlying

4 ideologies.

5 Not an attempt to suppress speech. Memo clearly stated that nonviolent debate

6 is protected and will be respected.

7 And not about federalizing State and local offenses. Where Federal authority is 8 not present, DOJ defers to State and local authorities and offers assistance where helpful.

9 Q And let's just go over those a little bit. The first one that says not based on 10 ideology. The focus is on acts or threats of violence. Can you explain?

11 A Sure.

12 I think in a lot of context, but particularly when you're talking about schools, it's

13 almost unavoidable that there are going to be people speaking very passionately about

14 particular issues, parents and nonparents alike. What I wanted to be clear about is that 15 our mandate was to address violence or threats of violence no matter where you stood

16 on a particular topic.

17 So you could be a person who thinks that every kid should be vaccinated and

18 make those views known. You can be a person who thinks that no kid should be

19 vaccinated and make those views known. And as long as you don't threaten violence or

20 commit a crime that's an act of violence, we, the Department, this task force, has no role

21 there. It's only when that behavior crosses those lines into threats of violence and acts

22 of violence that, you know, this task force and law enforcement has a role.

23 And I wanted to make sure -- and I think it was very clear to our group. I wanted

24 to make sure they understood what that was. And also, let me be completely candid, in

25 the aftermath of this memo being issued, there was a lot of discussion about this being

1 about particular ideologies, and I thought it was important to make clear to our team that
2 that was not the case and really would not be tolerated.
3 Q What discussion are you referring to? What kind of discussion are you
4 referring to when you say that there was discussion about this being about ideology?
5 A I mean if the memo was issued on the 4th, I'm pretty sure by the 6th there
6 may have been people who were espousing the view that this was political or ideological
7 in nature because of, you know, particular topics, and I wasn't unaware of that.
8 Q By people, do you mean critics of the Department or people inside the 9 Department?
10 A Outside of the Department. I mean, I won't describe them as critics of the 11 Department. I mean, people are entitled to their views, but I just know that some 12 people receive this as an attempt to address issues of ideology, which it was not.
13 Q Okay.
14 And the second bullet point says it was not an attempt to suppress speech. The 15 memo clearly stated that nonviolent debate is protected and will be respected.
16 So the memo there refers to the August 4th Attorney General's memorandum?
17 A The October 4th Attorney General's memo, yes.
18 Q And so you're adhering, in your view, clearly and closely to the directive of 19 the Attorney General when you say that this is not about speech and it's about violent
20 conduct?
21 A That's correct.
22 Q And the final bullet point says, quote, not federalizing, unquote, State and 23 local offenses. Can you explain a little bit about that limitation?
24 A Sure.
25 It's not a -- the Federal Government has its role, has its jurisdiction, and I think

1 with any endeavor by the Department of Justice, it's important to first understand and
2 study that there is a role for the Federal Government. The Federal Government doesn't
3 do everything it wants to. It does certain things that it can do.
4 Here there was no goal to try to make, you know, what I will call State level, local
5 level crimes into Federal crimes. Again, there's not a way in my view for the Justice
6 Department to do that, but I thought it was important that we acknowledge that, you
7 know, some of these cases there may be no Federal role at all, and I think that's part of 8 what I tried to convey in the examples that we put forward.
9 But, you know, again, maybe I was being too repetitive to this task force, but it
10 was just to say, again, you know, not everything here is Federal, and when it's not 11 Federal, you know, State and local law enforcement, you know, it's their area of 12 responsibility. The decisions are theirs to make.
13 Q So this meeting, again, it appears to have taken place on Wednesday, 14 October 13th, 2021, and we believe that was the first meeting of the task force. Is that 15 your recollection?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Were there other meetings of the task force?
18 A I believe there may have been one or two other meetings of the task force, 19 maybe one about a month later after all the U.S. Attorneys' Offices had reported back in.
20 And I believe, but don't hold me to this, there may have been one more around either in 21 December or near year end but no more than that.
22 Q And as far as you know, was there ever any discussion of elections, any 23 particular elections discussed at any of these task forces?
24 A Well, in the election threats task force.

1 [12:10 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q No, I meant in this one. I'm talking about --

4 A Oh, in this --

5 Q -- this particular task force.

6 A No, not at all.

7 Q Okay. And was there any discussion of the Governor's race in Virginia that

8 was going on at the time in 2021?

9 A The Governor's race in Virginia --

10 Q Yes, uh-huh.

11 A -- with respect to the -- no, no discussion of that at all.

12 Q Okay. And was there any political motivation, as far as you know, for 13 holding these task force meetings, to affect any particular election?

14 A No, there was not.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Just a handful of additional questions.

17 A Sure.

18 Q We have maybe 5 minutes left.

19 You clarified in the earlier hour that your conversations with the White

20 House -- the only communications you had were with Ephraim McDowell, correct?

21 A Communication. Or --

22 Q Right.

23 A -- maybe there was a second communication, but I think there was one

24 substantive conversation on this issue --

25 Q On this issue.

1 A -- which was a phone call.

2 Q Right. With Mr. McDowell.

3 A That's right.

4 Q And can you broadly -- I don't want to get into issues of privilege, but can

5 you broadly describe what was said during that call?

6 A I think the most that I can say -- and it was a short call. And Jonathan will

7 tell me if I need to stop, so I'll speak slowly.

8 But at the end of the conversation that I had with Ephraim, I think his purpose was 9 to know that the Department was aware of this issue of violence and threats of violence.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A I think, at the end of the call, that was clearly accomplished. We were

12 aware, and -- I don't want to say we were fashioning a response, but we were aware of it

13 and considering it. And that was the extent of the conversation with them.

14 I should make clear that neither Ephraim or, to my knowledge, anyone else at the 15 White House had any role in reviewing the memo, approving it. This was a Department

16 of Justice publication.

17 And the only -- as I described to you, that's the substance, at a high non-privileged 18 level, of the conversation that I had with Ephraim.

19 Q Other than wanting to make you aware of the situation, did Mr. McDowell

20 instruct you to take any particular action?

21 A No, he did not.

22 Q And did Mr. McDowell pressure you, in your opinion, to take any particular

23 action?

24 A No, he did not.

25 Mr. Su. And, Kevin, just so the record is clear -- and I think it is -- when you

1 characterize discussions between -- any discussions between the White House and the 2 Justice Department about the matter, you are describing to the extent of your 3 knowledge?
4 Mr. Chambers. My conversation and to the extent of my knowledge. Right.
5 [redacted] Thank you for that.
6 We can go off the record.
7 [Recess.]

1 [1:01 p.m.]

2 [redacted] We'll go back on the record. It's 1:01 p.m.

3 [redacted] Okay, Mr. Chambers. We're going to direct your attention to another

4 exhibit. This is what we're going to mark as exhibit 10 for the record.

5 [Chambers Exhibit No. 10

6 Was marked for identification.]

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q And this is an email from October 2nd at 4:02 p.m. It's from you to a group

9 of folks within the FBI and DOJ. And it is Bates-stamped at the bottom -- the last few 10 digits are 455 through 456.

11 A Yes, I see it.

12 Q And you can take your time, if you want to take a look at it, if you need to.

13 A Okay.

14 Q So, comparing to the earlier email that we discussed -- in our first hour, we

15 talked about the Saturday morning email that you sent regarding the, I guess, initial

16 document that was sent out, and you said, "Sorry for the Saturday fire drill."

17 A Uh-huh.

18 Q And then this is the afternoon. The number of people increased on your

19 email, at the very bottom down there. And I was wanting to know why the number

20 increased from the original email you sent that morning.

21 A Sure. Just give me a second to compare the two.

22 Q Of course.

23 Mr. Su. You're comparing exhibits 5 and 10, right?

24 [redacted] Yes, sir. Sorry. I meant to say the number.

25 Mr. Chambers. So, as best as I recall -- and I think I may have mentioned it either

1 in the first hour or the second hour -- one of the things I noted was that, over time, the 2 number of people on the email increased, particularly from the Bureau, if I'm not
3 mistaken, but also from other folks as well.
4 So, to give a couple examples, on the "CC" line, you'll see John Carlin was added.
5 And that would've been an add because we were actually attaching documents.
6 With respect to the 'To' line, I believe that this was just kind of an accumulation of 7 the additional people who had been brought into the conversation by their respective 8 components. I'm not sure where I got the names or whether I pulled it off of a different
9 email and said, okay this is our working group now. But, kind of as I said before, over 10 time, more and more people were brought into the conversation.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q So is it common practice at the Justice Department, or at least for ODAG, 13 that you would add Mr. Carlin in when documents would be sent around for review? Is 14 that common practice?
15 A I don't know that there was a common practice. It may have been my 16 practice. And, again, because we were circulating this, I did think I wanted to make sure 17 that he was included on the chain. But I don't know that I was adhering to a prescribed 18 practice.
19 Q And in this particular email that you sent that leads into page 456 --
20 A Uh-huh.
21 Q -- you wrote, "Attached are two documents" -- or, at the beginning, you say,
22 "Attached are two documents proposing Department responses to continuing threats
23 against election officials and workers and recent threats against school administrators
24 and board members."
25 Did you draft the documents that were attached to this email?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And did anyone else assist you in drafting them?

3 A Not in the original, the initial drafting. But there were other folks, including

4 some of the people who I'm seeing, who reviewed and, you know, would've provided

5 comment on these.

6 Q To your recollection, who would maybe those people be?

7 A I mean, looking at the list, I think Monty or Norm from EOUSA might've had

8 some revisions or questions.

9 Q One of the documents attached to this email -- I think that there were two

10 you mentioned, but one of them appears to be the draft "School Boards Threat Response

11 Strategy." And that lays out several proposals for addressing "a recent uptick in threats

12 of violence against school board members, as recently highlighted in a letter to the 13 President from the NSBA."

14 And you further noted that "the letter from the NSBA is also attached for 15 reference" and listed the following affected components: EOUSA, FBI, CRM, CRT, NSB --

16 A I'm sorry, [redacted] I apologize --

17 Q Oh, of course.

18 A -- but where are we?

19 Q It is actually -- so we have this version, this email. This is one of the other

20 versions that we had just gotten back from DOJ last night.

21 A Okay. So it's not something I have in front of me.

22 Q No.

23 A Okay.

24 Q I think we actually -- it might've been previously -- if it wasn't entered here,

25 we have another version of it that says the rest of that, that we just got produced from

1 the Justice Department last night. So that was the text of it, and I can find that for you.
2 A If you can find it for me or if you can read it to me again. I wasn't paying 3 attention because --
4 Q Of course.
5 A -- I was looking for where we were.
6 Q Absolutely. And it says the -- one of the documents attached appears to be
7 the draft "School Boards Threat Response Strategy," and that lays out several proposals 8 for addressing "a recent uptick in threats of violence against school board members, as 9 recently highlighted in a letter to the President from the NSBA."
10 And you noted that "the letter from the NSBA is attached for reference," and 11 listed the following affected components: EOUSA, FBI, CRM, CRT, NSD, CRS, and OJP.
12 And I know we talked about some of those components earlier.
13 A Uh-huh.
14 Q And did you say earlier -- I can't remember if you did. Who determined 15 that these components should be included in this response strategy?
16 A Me or a combination of me and John Carlin. But I think, in the first 17 instance, I thought these were the components it made sense to include. Although, let 18 me say, by this -- are we talking about Saturday, October 2nd, now?
19 Q Yes.
20 A Yeah. So, by this time, there would've been conversations, for example,
21 with FBI, who would've said, oh, you should bring in this person or that person. I think it
22 was still just CTD and CID. But OJP, for example, I think maybe, my civil rights
23 counterpart in ODAG, suggested that we bring them on board. The Associate's office is 24 not one that I included initially, but because we're not sending a document around for 25 review, they would've been included as well.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q When you say communications with the FBI and the FBI suggested bringing

3 others in, were those communications that you had or others in the DAG's office?

4 A Well, I can speak to the ones that I had. Certainly, on Friday, when I'm

5 asking, you know, how do you guys track trends --

6 Q Uh-huh.

7 A -- or, you know, is there a CTD lane here that we should be aware of,

8 somebody would say, oh, well, you should bring in X or you should bring in Y because

9 they'd be better versed on this. So that was part of it.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A Whether others had conversations that brought more people in, I don't

12 know.

13 Q Are you able to characterize the number of conversations you think you had

14 with the FBI during that weekend, the October 1st-October 2nd --

15 A Sure. I can try. I would say, phone calls, I don't know, somewhere

16 between 5 and 10.

17 Q Okay.

18 A Some of it was kind of information-gathering and, hey, who's the right

19 person to talk to about this or that.

20 Via email, it'd be harder for me to put a number on it.

21 Q And could you characterize how many conversations or phone calls you had

22 with other components of the Justice Department that weekend?

23 A Yeah. I mean, EOUSA, probably 10 to 15; Civil Rights, maybe 2; OJP, maybe

24 2 --

25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A -- CRM, you know, 5 to 10. I mean, those are ballpark, but --
2 Q Yeah.
3 A -- based on my recollection.
4 Q What about anyone from the NSD?
5 A Maybe one or two conversations early on.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q And what kind of vetting of the allegations that were contained in the 8 NSBA's letter occurred during the drafting process of this response strategy? Did any of 9 that take place during this particular October weekend after the NSBA letter came out?
10 A No. So the NSBA letter highlighted this concern about school board threats 11 and violence and other issues that were mentioned in there, but we didn't undertake to 12 vet their letter, because our response was not a direct response to their letter. I mean,
13 the letter did highlight the issue --
14 Q Uh-huh.
15 A -- but it wasn't as if there was, like, a vetting process.
16 As I mentioned earlier, some of these things were publicly reported; you could 17 look them up and find instances of that.
18 So, sorry. The short answer: No, we did not undertake to vet the NSBA letter.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q And, within the NSBA's letter, there were some suggested statutes and 21 suggested Justice Department components, branches, that should be -- could be involved.
22 Did that play any role in the drafting process? Did you look at those suggested 23 statutes?
24 A I don't recall. I don't even recall that being the case in the letter. I'll take 25 your representation that it is in there. I haven't seen that letter in a couple years.

1 But what I can tell you is, no. I mean, if we undertake to address a particular
2 type of issue or threat, we will decide who in the Department should be involved or 3 potentially involved in the conversation.
4 Q Uh-huh. And so the letter is exhibit 1. I don't know if you still have it with 5 you.
6 A Yep.
7 Q I believe it's on the second page of the letter, in that last paragraph there.
8 Mr. Su. "As these acts of malice..."?
9 [redacted] Yes.
10 Mr. Chambers. Okay.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q In that, it suggests, you know, "enforcement mechanisms from the FBI, 13 including any technical assistance necessary from, and state and local coordination with,
14 its National Security Branch and Counterterrorism Division, as well as any other federal 15 agency with relevant jurisdictional authority and oversight. Additionally, NSBA requests 16 such review examine appropriate enforceable actions against these crimes and acts of 17 violence under the Gun-Free School Zones Act, the PATRIOT Act in regards to domestic 18 terrorism, the Matthew Shepard and James Byrd Jr. Hate Crimes Prevention Act, and the 19 Violent Interference with Federally Protected Rights statute, the Conspiracy Against 20 Rights statute, an Executive Order to enforce all applicable federal laws for the protection
21 of students in public school district personnel, and any related measure."
22 Did the Justice Department look at any of these statutes?
23 A So some of these statutes are familiar to me just from being in the 24 Department of Justice.
25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A But, no, with respect to our decision to write a memo on this issue, it wasn't
2 as if we used this as a guide.
3 I mean, I can tell you, some of these I don't recall ever looking at -- for example,
4 the PATRIOT Act --
5 Q Uh-huh.
6 A -- Gun-Free Zones Act, the Shepard and Byrd Hate Crimes Prevention Act.
7 So the short answer to your question is, no.
8 Mr. Su. So, for purposes of clarity -- and I know, [redacted] that you know
9 this -- when asked that question, did the Justice Department --
10 [redacted] Uh-huh.
11 Mr. Su. -- he's only testifying to the extent of his knowledge, right?
12 Mr. Chambers. Yep.
13 [redacted] Uh-huh.
14 Mr. Su. So I don't want there to be --
15 Mr. Chambers. No, that's a fair -- no, no. That's fair.
16 I did not, and, to my knowledge, I am not aware of anyone else looking through 17 these statutes or provisions.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q And, prior to working on the memorandum and, you know, having the 20 October 1st and 2nd conversations, had you read the full NSBA letter at all?
21 A I'm sure I did. Well, I don't know if it was prior to October 1st. It
22 would've been when it was released publicly.
23 Q Okay.
24 A And there was a Washington Post article we looked at. So whenever I saw 25 that article and downloaded -- I'm sure I downloaded the letter --

1 Q Uh-huh.

2 A -- I would have -- my practice would have been to read it, the entire letter.

3 Q Did it concern you at all that the NSBA was requesting that such a review

4 examine appropriate enforceable actions, including the PATRIOT Act?

5 A I don't remember having a particular concern at the time. But, also

6 remember, I'm not looking at this letter as providing a roadmap or instruction to what the 7 Department is going to do. We don't take marching orders from outside entities.

8 Q And did you ever hear any concerns from anyone within the Justice

9 Department about the inclusion of the PATRIOT Act in this letter?

10 A Not that I recall. Let me just -- it was not the topic of discussion --

11 Q Uh-huh.

12 A -- but I don't recall any discussion of the PATRIOT Act, one way or the other.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Now, going back to that email, exhibit 10, at the end, you wrote, "[I know]

15 the timeline on these documents is short, but we want to provide awareness to your

16 components and give potentially affected components the opportunity to voice

17 views/red-flag concerns."

18 What was the timeline to review these documents at this time, do you remember?

19 A Just give me one second.

20 Q Of course.

21 A My recollection is that the goal was to get these documents out early in the 22 next week. I don't know if there was a set date or time, but, you know, soon, like,

23 within days, not weeks.

24 Q And do you know why the timeline was so quick, within days and not weeks

25 or months or --

1 A So I would say, for a one-page memo, I mean, 3, 4 days is not particularly 2 fast. By way of example, either you or the folks who had the second hour referenced an 3 election threats memo that we put together.
4 Q Uh-huh.
5 A That, I think, was as long, if not longer, and that was an overnight exercise.
6 So, you know, I don't know why the decision was made it was going to go out early 7 that week, but it wasn't my sense that this was being unusually rushed.
8 Q Uh-huh.
9 A In fact, it probably took a little longer than some similar memos we've done
10 before.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q And what prompted this action by the Justice Department related to school
13 board threats?
14 A Again, what I can tell you is that we were aware of a concern about acts of 15 violence and threats of violence at school boards based on a conversation I'd had with the 16 fellow at the White House.
17 Q Uh-huh.
18 A But in terms of what prompted "we are going to write this memo," all I can 19 tell you is that, on that Friday, I spoke to the PADAG, and at the conclusion of that 20 conversation, it was clear to me that we were going to write the memo.
21 Q And what was the content of that discussion?
22 A So I don't --
23 Mr. Su. So that's where the Department's letter comes in. And so he can 24 adequately read out, as he's done, what the conclusion of that conversation was, but that 25 falls under the content of private discussions.

1 Mr. Chambers. Yeah. Right.

2 So the upshot of the conversation was, the Department's going to write memo

3 similar to, you know, what we've done with election threats and -- there may have been

4 another threats memo before that that I was not involved in, involving Members of 5 Congress or members of the judiciary.

6 But it was, as with those others, we're going to write a memo explaining, you

7 know, that the Justice Department is aware of and concerned about the question.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q And then were you tasked with effectuating that conclusion from your

10 conversation with the PADAG?

11 A I was tasked with writing the memo.

12 Q Okay.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Is there any significance between -- I know that we've referred to it as "the 15 memo," but, in this email -- and, again, like, I have a less redacted version, just not on 16 hand. But you have it referred to in the email as the draft "School Boards Threat

17 Response Strategy." Is there a significance in the difference between those titles?

18 A So the draft response strategy really refers to what the Department is going

19 to do via the task force, so that I think the response strategy included convening these

20 meetings. It is a sep- -- my recollection at this point in time, it was a separate document

21 from the memo, that kind of laid out: Okay, here is a concern. The Justice Department

22 is going to undertake to do something. Here is what we're going to do.

23 One other thing that's worth pointing out here, when we're talking about this

24 email from October 2nd at 6:50 is that you'll notice it says that there are two documents

25 proposing responses to continuing threats against election officials and workers and

1 recent threats against school administrators and board members. There's a point in 2 time where it was going to be one combined memo, and a decision was made not to 3 combine them. So the draft response strategy was necessary because we were talking
4 about one piece of what was once going to be a joint memo.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q And when was that decision made, that it would be two separate
7 memorandums?
8 A I believe shortly after this email or maybe the next morning, my PADAG
9 communicated to me that we were going to go with a standalone memo for school 10 administrator threats.
11 Q Okay.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q And I know you've mentioned, like I said, at the end of this email, on the 14 next page, on 456, you had said -- asking to give components the opportunity to voice
15 views and red-flag concerns.
16 Did anybody respond to your email with any concerns?
17 A Yes, to answer your question. The one that I recall is, I think EOUSA had 18 some questions about the timing of when the meetings would take place.
19 Aside from that -- and that wasn't a red-flag concern; it was kind of more of 20 clarification -- I do not recall any other components raising red-flag concerns and certainly 21 not to me.
22 Q And above your email, in response to this -- and I know you weren't on this
23 specific email chain, but this is an email from former Deputy Assistant Director Jim 24 Tarasca. And he forwarded it to FBI officials and added in Deputy Assistant Director of 25 the Criminal Investigative Division Jay Greenberg, who we spoke about earlier.

1 He said that he discussed the need for immediacy of this messaging with 2 Mr. Newman and Mr. Toscas and neither of them was quite sure and questioned the
3 same.
4 Further, Mr. Newman "was going to attempt to find an answer and potentially
5 head it off so we could have a discussion early in the work week when we have more time
6 to review existing cases and develop more of a strategy vs. sending a directive to [special 7 agents in charge] over the weekend that [they]'ve had no input on."
8 Did Mr. Toscas or Mr. Newman reach out to you with the concerns you mentioned
9 before?
10 A No, they did not.
11 Q You said that you believe someone from EOUSA did. Do you recall who 12 that was?
13 A I think it was Monty Wilkinson. Or it may have been Norm Wong. But I
14 remember a conversation with Monty where the issue was whether it should be 30 days
15 or 45 days, how much time the officers needed to convene these meetings.
16 Q And so did Mr. Newman ask for more time to have a discussion the following
17 week, if he didn't reach out with concerns?
18 A No, not to my recollection.
19 Q Can you explain, to your recollection, what the directive to special agents in 20 charge is that Mr. Tarasca is referring to? Like, do you understand what he's saying
21 there?
22 A So, if you can give me one second, I just want to consult the actual memo.
23 [redacted] Uh-huh.
24 [redacted] Do you want to enter it?
25 [redacted] Oh, yes, of course. We can enter that into the record.

1 Mr. Su. You don't have it open?

2 Mr. Chambers. Oh, the October 4th memo?

3 Mr. Su. Correct.

4 Mr. Chambers. No.

5 [redacted] We'll enter that now though.

6 Mr. Chambers. Okay.

7 [redacted] Yeah. We're marking it as exhibit 11.

8 [Chambers Exhibit No. 11

9 Was marked for identification.]

10 Mr. Su. So, [redacted] the question is, is Kevin aware of what Tarasca meant by 11 "directive to SACs"?

12 [redacted] Yes.

13 Mr. Su. Okay.

14 If you have an understanding.

15 Mr. Chambers. Yeah.

16 So, as best as I can recall, there may have been questions about who was going to 17 receive this memorandum. Ultimately, it went to Director Wray; Monty Wilkinson,

18 who's the Director of EOUSA; Kenneth Polite, the AAG over the Criminal Division at the 19 time; and then each of the 93 United States attorneys.

20 What I vaguely recall was, during that discussion, it may have been a question of,

21 is this also going to go to the special agents in charge of each of the FBI's divisions? That 22 may be what this refers to. I don't know.

23 But I think, ultimately, a decision was made not to send it to the individual SAICs,

24 the way that it was, for example, sent to the individual U.S. attorneys.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q And it appears from this email from Jim Tarasca that these FBI officials
2 believed they didn't have input on this directive. Do you agree with their
3 characterization that they had no input?
4 A No, respectfully, I don't agree with that characterization. And I think the 5 emails that you've shown me have borne that out.
6 Q Did anyone from the FBI reach out to you to request a pause until that
7 Monday at this point in time?
8 A No.
9 Q Mr. Greenberg had then replied to Mr. Tarasca's email, and that's up top in 10 the email from October 2nd at 6:50. And he said that he received your email from 11 someone in the Criminal Division of the Justice Department and asked for a delay until 12 the workweek.
13 Did anyone in the Criminal Division of the Justice Department relay
14 Mr. Greenberg's request to you?
15 A No.
16 Q Let's see. Mr. Greenberg mentioned that he had worked with you in the 17 past, and I know that you had said that you had worked with him on other investigations.
18 Can you recall those for us, when and where you worked with him?
19 A I think it was the Federal response to the Chauvin trial following the murder
20 of George Floyd, as well as our efforts to address threats against election workers and 21 volunteers.
22 This is October. It's also possible that around this time Jay would've worked with 23 me on -- as one of several components as we worked on the Deputy Attorney General's 24 corporate enforcement policy.
25 There may be more that I'm forgetting, but those are three that I think Jay

1 would've been involved in.

2 Q No, that's good.

3 And so did he reach out to you that weekend before the memo was published?

4 A Not that I recall.

5 Q The next night, on Sunday, October 3, 2021, at 7:27, it appears you had sent

6 another email on the same email chain to individuals at the FBI and DOJ. We're going to 7 mark that as exhibit 12.

8 A Okay.

9 [Chambers Exhibit No. 12

10 Was marked for identification.]

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q And you can take your time to familiarize yourself with it. We're going to 13 start on page 2, if that helps.

14 Looking specifically at this center email here on what's marked at the bottom,

15 Bates-stamped ending in 433 --

16 A Uh-huh.

17 Q -- this is that email from October 3rd at 7:27 p.m.

18 Was this a draft of the Attorney General's October 4th memo, that you can recall?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Was the document similar to the one that you had yesterday, or were there

21 any major changes to it at this point?

22 A So, here, now, about 24 hours later, I'd mentioned to you guys a moment

23 ago that at one point they were thinking of doing a joint document.

24 Q Uh-huh.

25 A I don't recall that being drafted, but, looking at this, it must have been.

1 I believe that, by the time we get to Sunday, October 3rd, at 7:27 p.m., the 2 decision had been made that it would be a standalone memo rather than a joint memo.
3 So that's one significant change that would've taken place.
4 Q Did anyone from the main Justice or FBI contact you with feedback on this
5 draft that night after you sent this email?
6 A I don't recall, as I sit here today. The conversation I mentioned earlier
7 about Monty or Norm, it could well have taken place after this email.
8 What I can tell you is that at no time do I recall getting any input or 9 communications or anybody raising their hand or waving a red flag about the content of 10 any of these drafts from the FBI or any other components.
11 Q Did anyone ask you when the draft would be finalized at this point?
12 A I don't recall. In the document, there's something that's mentioned about 13 the turnaround. I don't recall what's in that redacted portion, but it may be that it sets
14 forth a timeframe. Again, I don't know.
15 Q Of course. And what you're referring to, the turnaround time, that's 16 actually moving into my next question that is your next email on this chain. That was on 17 Monday, October 4th, at 3:00 p.m.
18 A Uh-huh.
19 Q And the subject line is changed to "FOR IMMEDIATE REVIEW: Draft AG
20 Memo Re: School Board Threats and Draft Press Release."
21 And, at this point in time, you wrote, "Please see attached documents (memo 22 from AG and related press release) re school board threats effort. Please review and 23 advise of any red flag concerns as soon as possible."
24 Because you sent the attached documents to the same group of individuals on the 25 same email chain, is it fair to say that the earlier email and this email both included the

1 memo but now you've included a press release?

2 A I think that's -- I think that's accurate, yes.

3 Q This appears to be now the third time in the emails we've seen that you've

4 requested individuals to advise you of any red-flag concerns. Did you predict that

5 individuals on this email would raise any concerns to you by this point?

6 A I'm sorry, did I predict?

7 Q Yeah. Were you expecting any red-flag concerns to be raised at this point?

8 A With any communication that goes out from a department where

9 components are involved, it's important to have their input and have them say, this is 10 good, this is not good, we have a problem with this.

11 So I didn't predict, you know, that they would, but it was certainly an important

12 part of it, to give them the opportunity to review and raise any concerns that they had.

13 So the fact that I did it three times is not unusual. It's part of the process.

14 Q And did anyone at that point, after that 3:00 p.m. email on October 4th,

15 raise any red flags to you?

16 A Again, it's a Monty conversation that I remember, and I don't remember if it

17 was a red flag as much as, hey, we could use 45 days instead of 30, or 60 instead of 45.

18 But, no, aside from that, that I recall, I don't remember anyone saying, from any 19 component -- let me stop.

20 Q Of course.

21 A There is one exception. When we had the joint memo where it was

22 election threats and school board threats, the Criminal Division did reach out and say, we

23 don't think it should be a joint memo. I'm remembering that now. That is the only 24 substantive objection to any of the drafts that was raised to my attention.

25 I did not resolve that issue. It was later told to me that it would be a standalone

1 memo.

2 So Crim Division did raise what I would call a red flag. That's it.

3 Q So that was a joint memo for election workers and school boards --

4 A Right.

5 Q -- and they thought it should be separate issues?

6 A Yeah. They were separate issues. The prior version had what I would

7 refer to as a callback to the election threats issue. Everything else about the memo

8 pertaining to school boards was the same.

9 Crim -- it was important to them to keep it separate, and I think they wanted to

10 down that question. So the portions related to election threats were excised from that 11 memo, and the rest of memo is what was circulated.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q And that decision was made by the PADAG? Is that correct?

14 A It was communicated to me by the PADAG.

15 Q Okay.

16 A I don't know who made the decision.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Later, on October 4, 2021, your draft of the Attorney General's memo was

19 forwarded at 5:28 p.m. by Cory Fraizer Ellis in the FBI Director's office to Norman Wong at 20 the EOUSA's office. And that's just on the first page of this exhibit 12, Bates-stamped 21 432.

22 Mr. Ellis wrote, "We are asking that the memo be revised. As the leading law

23 enforcement entity in each respective district we feel that the USAOs are the 'convening'

24 authority to be out front on this. OGC is going to engage with ODAG to request it be

25 reworded."

1 Did anyone from the FBI contact you or anyone else in the Deputy Attorney
2 General's office to revise the memo at this point in the day?
3 A So I'm not on this email. It didn't go to ODAG. The most that I can say is 4 that no one reached out to me from FBI about this issue.
5 We discussed a little bit earlier that at one point we were going to send it to the 6 special agents in charge and they were pulled from that. That is actually what occurred,
7 but I was not part of the decision to do that. And this is a question of who is going to be 8 responsible for convening the groups.
9 Q Are you aware of anyone at the FBI contacting your office about revisions, if 10 it wasn't to you?
11 A I am not.
12 Q Did the FBI provide any assessment or data on threats that led the DOJ to 13 conclude there was a disturbing spike in harassment, intimidation, and threats?
14 A No, they did not, not prior to the release of the memo. Later on, they 15 provided information, but at the time this memo was written, we didn't get any analysis
16 or stats from them.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q And when was that analysis or statistics provided to you?
19 A Oh, over the course of the next 3 months, I would have, I would say,
20 fortnightly conversations with -- the name "Luz," L-u-z, is ringing a bell --
21 Q Uh-huh.
22 A -- about what they were identifying in terms of incidents that are related to 23 this memo. But that was post- the issuance of the memo. This is part of the tracking
24 and trending that we discussed earlier.
25 Q Uh-huh. And that individual that you mentioned having a conversation

1 with, was that individual within the FBI or a --

2 A Yeah.

3 Q -- different component?

4 A No, it was someone within FBI. And it may be the person who was tasked

5 with -- we talked about NTOC earlier. She may have been part of that. But this is

6 someone who had access to, okay, here are all the things we're seeing, here's what they

7 look like, here's what's happening.

8 Q But that was only after the memo was issued?

9 A That's right.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q And then we're going to go back and look briefly again at the memo, which is

12 exhibit 11.

13 I know you mentioned that you'd played a major role in drafting the memo.

14 What about disseminating the final draft of the memo? Was that also your 15 responsibility, or was that someone else's?

16 A Disseminating to whom?

17 Q Publicly or to those who are listed as the memorandum is for, each of these

18 individuals listed at the top.

19 A So I was not personally responsible for hitting "send" or the equivalent. I

20 believe it would've been someone in the administrative office for the Deputy Attorney

21 General, but -- or, sorry, in the administrative office of the Attorney General, since it was

22 his memo. But I was not involved in actually pressing "send." My disseminating was to 23 send out to the components to review, revise, make sure they had drafts of it.

24 Q In the third paragraph of the memo, starting with "The Department takes

25 these incidents," the sentence that says, "The Department will announce a series of

1 measures designed to address the rise in criminal conduct directed toward school
2 personnel," were you involved in announcing these departmental series of measures?
3 A So, no. As an ADAG, I wouldn't be announcing anything on behalf of the 4 Department.
5 What I'm struggling a little bit with is whether these series of measures were the 6 four items that we discussed in the prior hour, which I thought were mentioned in the 7 press release itself. But I was not part of a separate announcement of a series of 8 measures.
9 Q Referring to that press release, were you involved in drafting the press
10 release that accompanied the memo?
11 A I may have been, but it would ultimately have been OPA who finalized and 12 put it together.
13 I'm sorry. Can I back up one second?
14 Q Absolutely.
15 A So, going back to your last question, remembering that this was a memo that 16 was issued not to the public but to components within the U.S. Department of Justice,
17 when it says, "The Department will announce a series of measures designed to address
18 the rise," I believe it's referring to the instruction to convene the State and local, kind of,
19 joint working groups. That's what I think it's referring to here.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q And were you involved in any of those meetings that were convened
22 between the U.S. Attorney's Office, the FBI field office, and their State and local law
23 enforcement partners?
24 A Yeah, I was not. ODAG does not get involved in operational items, so I was 25 not invited or expected to attend those meetings.

1 Q Did you provide any guidance on what was to be expected to be discussed at
2 those meetings?
3 A I think that Monty -- sorry, the Director of EOUSA sent something out to the 4 U.S. Attorney's Offices describing -- you know, saying, for example, that the meetings
5 could be held in person, virtually, or by phone, that they had to do it by a particular date,
6 and maybe even attaching information about relevant statutes.
7 I was not the primary drafter of those, but I would've had a kind of, like, a review
8 pen just to make sure, you know, I was aware and it was consistent, so that I, like other
9 people, would have the chance to raise their hand and say, hey, you know, I have a red
10 flag, which I don't recall having.
11 But that would've been the extent to which I was involved in advising the U.S.
12 Attorney's Offices on how to conduct the meetings.
13 Q Did you receive any sort of readout or brief on how these meetings were 14 going or if they were occurring?
15 A Yes. Not directly from the U.S. Attorney's Offices but from the Assistant 16 Director of EOUSA, who kept in touch with the 94 offices to confirm that they were 17 having the meetings.
18 Q Uh-huh.
19 A And then I think -- I'm not sure what their conversations were, but Norm was 20 able to give me, you know, blurbs of, you know, offices that had raised concerns, offices
21 that said they didn't have concerns. It wasn't, like, a list of 94 we went through, but I
22 did get a -- I guess I would call it a summary readout.
23 Q Uh-huh. From your summary readout, did you get a sense of whether 24 there were multiple offices or -- we'll use "districts" -- that local law enforcement or the 25 FBI field office had raised the fact that there were concerns within their district?

1 A Yeah. So, across -- what I recall from the readout is that, across all of the 2 districts, some districts said, we don't have a problem here; you know, some districts said,
3 we have a problem, but, you know, we can handle it -- you know, between us and the 4 U.S. Attorney's Office, we can handle it, we don't need help, additional help, from, you
5 know, main Justice; and then there were a couple, maybe several, that said, no, we have
6 a serious problem here, we've had a recent incident of this, and we could use assistance.
7 I think CRS, if I recall, assisted an office -- I want to say it was on the West Coast, maybe
8 northern California. I don't remember with specificity.
9 Q Uh-huh.
10 A But, to answer your question, it ran the gamut.
11 Q And did you ever get a sense of the local law enforcement partners that 12 were attending the meetings -- what their take on this issue was? Did they need
13 assistance?
14 A So, not directly. And I guess this would even be second- and third-hand, 15 you know, from them, to the U.S. attorney, to Norm, to me.
16 Q Uh-huh.
17 A Again, some of them thought they didn't have an issue or that it was an issue
18 that they could handle on their own.
19 Q Uh-huh.
20 A So that was certainly some portion of that group.
21 Q Okay. Thank you.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q And when you say "CRS," that's the Community Relations Service component
24 of the Justice Department. Is that right?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And I know you mentioned in the last hour, I believe, that the task force had
2 maybe two or three meetings --
3 A Yes.
4 Q -- to your knowledge? Does the task force still exist today, that you're 5 aware of, or was there an end date to it?
6 A I don't know that it was formally disbanded, but I can tell you that by the 7 time I left to take on the COVID fraud enforcement director role, we were not having 8 regular meetings at that time.
9 Q And you don't recall what the last meeting of this task force was?
10 A Not with specificity. I recall it being at the end of -- sometime during 11 December. I want to say end of December -- because of the holidays, it may have been 12 middle of December -- or early January. And I recall that because, as I think I 13 mentioned, there was a readout of kind of almost like a progress report on all of these 14 threats initiatives -- congressional election, school board administrators, commercial 15 aircraft.
16 After that, I don't recall there being additional meetings.
17 Q And I know with the task force, I know we discussed the various 18 components. And I believe each component assigned two people. Is that right?
19 A That could be right. I don't recall.
20 Q Did each departmental component get back to you in a timely manner with 21 these representatives? Or was there a timeline?
22 A No, there wasn't a timeline. But if the meeting took place on the 13th, by 23 the time we had the meeting, I knew who the representatives would be.
24 The one thing I do remember is that FBI, although it's one component, had a
25 representative from the CID side as well as from the CTD side. What I don't remember

1 is if they had multiple representatives on either side.

2 Q And on Sunday, October 10th of 2021, do you remember sending an email to

3 the individuals designated to be on the school board task force?

4 A I don't.

5 Q We can talk through that. We're going to mark that as exhibit No. 13.

6 [Chambers Exhibit No. 13

7 Was marked for identification.]

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Take your time reviewing as well.

10 A Okay.

11 Okay.

12 Q Now, this exhibit, at the bottom, just for the record, Bates stamps number

13 952 through 955 from the DOJ --

14 A Uh-huh.

15 Q -- do you recall asking these representatives to provide a working list of 16 Federal statutes potentially applicable to threats made against school board members

17 and school administrators and workers?

18 A I don't think that we'd asked them to put it together.

19 Oh, no. I take that back. So I guess what we had done is provide a starting list

20 of potentially related Federal statutes and asked them to supplement the list based on 21 their, you know, knowledge and expertise of various subject areas.

22 Q And I know during the last hour there was some discussion about a few of 23 these statutes. And I just want to make sure we have them all listed: 18 U.S.C.,

24 section 875; 18 U.S.C., section 876; 18 U.S.C., 275; and 47 U.S.C., section 2223.

25 Was there any other additional statutes that you can recall added to this list?

1 A Honestly, I don't know. I think that this was, again, a beginning list. It
2 may even have been cribbed from the work that we were doing on election threats.
3 If memory serves, another document went out to the U.S. attorney community
4 that had the list that was sent out. The delta between that list and this list would tell us
5 what additional statutes, if any, were included. But I don't -- I don't recall them, but it's 6 not because they weren't there. I just don't remember them.
7 Q Of course.
8 And I know you'd mentioned the first meeting -- and I know it says that on the top
9 here of this document -- the first task force meeting was on October 13th.
10 A Uh-huh.
11 Q Do you know who ran that meeting?
12 A I did.
13 Q You did. Okay. Do you know who all attended? Was everyone there
14 that was supposed to be there?
15 A So there's a PowerPoint that was put together that I think had the 16 attendees. I believe everybody who was on that list actually attended, but I can't tell 17 you with specificity.
18 Q In addition to the PowerPoint slides that were discussed earlier, did you
19 discuss anything additional, other than that, I guess, feedback of the ideas of what was or 20 what wasn't something that Federal law enforcement should handle, instances of 21 threats? Were are there other discussions that took place at this task force meeting?
22 A I don't recall. I mean, the PowerPoint that was put together was the 23 agenda for the meeting, but if someone asked a question or there was something else
24 relevant worth discussing, we wouldn't have been wedded to the agenda. And sitting 25 here almost 2 years later, I don't remember exactly what was discussed.

1 Q And after the task force meeting or even the additional one or two after
2 that, was there any back brief provided to the senior leaders of the Justice Department or
3 FBI?
4 Mr. Su. About the task force meeting?
5 [redacted] Correct. Yes.
6 Mr. Chambers. I know I'm belaboring this, and I just want to be specific. FBI is 7 part of the Justice Department. So the back brief -- and I don't report to that 8 component.
9 [redacted] Uh-huh.
10 Mr. Chambers. So I would not have been reporting to FBI.
11 In terms of briefing my leadership in ODAG about, kind of, the status, like, "We 12 held the meeting," you know, "Instructions were given out," that's something I would've 13 updated leadership on at our weeklies, Crim weeklies.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q So you're not aware of if anybody who was on the task force that worked at 16 the FBI briefed Director Wray or Deputy Director Abbate?
17 A No, I don't know whether they did or not, and that's a question you'd have 18 to ask them.
19 Q Okay.
20 Do you know if the Attorney General's office plans to rescind the October 4th
21 memo at this point in time?
22 A I'm not -- just to be clear, I'm in private practice now. I'm not --
23 Q I wasn't sure if you still had any conversations with anyone there.
24 A With respect to this issue, my knowledge would've ended when I left in 25 December. When I left in December, I had no reason to believe that the memo would

1 be rescinded.

2 Q Do you personally believe that the memo should be rescinded now?

3 A No. I think the memo served an important purpose.

4 Q We're going to switch gears quickly to the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag that

5 was created following the memo.

6 Were you involved in any conversations or correspondence related to how the FBI

7 could address the alleged threats or violence at school board meetings following the 8 October 4th memo?

9 A Both before and after the October 4th memo.

10 So, before the memo, I mentioned having a conversation with somebody at the 11 Bureau about their process for classifying and analyzing trends. And that's

12 how -- maybe that's how I was able to speak semi-intelligently about NTOC.

13 After that meeting and, I believe, at the first task force meeting, maybe the 14 second one, we actually discussed, like, how would you effectuate this? And I think

15 that's when I would have learned that they have a way of classifying things at FBI.

16 But it wouldn't have been ODAG's -- like, we wouldn't instruct FBI to, you know,

17 "This is how you should classify it, and this is what the classification should be called."

18 What we did is say, you know, "Is FBI able to track these?" and my understanding is that 19 they answered in the affirmative.

20 Q On October 6, 2021, at 4 o'clock, there was an email we have -- or 4:01

21 p.m. -- an email from you to Jay Greenberg. And I believe it's Bates-stamped at the end

22 380. And we'll mark that as exhibit 14.

23 [Chambers Exhibit No. 14

24 Was marked for identification.]

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q It's a short one.

2 And I know you mentioned earlier that you knew Mr. Greenberg previously and he

3 had been an easy point of contact for you when needed, if you didn't have another

4 component or resource that you could reach out to at the FBI.

5 You wrote in this email, "The [NSBA] reports to us that they are receiving

6 threatening calls and emails since they issued their letter last week, which have increased

7 since the AG's memo. Is protocol when one entity is getting multiple threats (via

8 phone/email) to call the local FBI, the 1-800 number, or something else?"

9 Who contacted you from the NSBA about these calls and emails?

10 A I believe that -- so I don't think it was directly to me. If memory serves, it

11 may have been from -- it may have been from a U.S. Attorney's Office. It may have been 12 from EOUSA. It may have been directly to me, but I don't recall that being the case.

13 So that's the best answer that I could give you. And I think what I said is, let me

14 talk to the Bureau and find out how we deal with this -- you know, these threats to NSBA.

15 Q Are you aware of whether or not they reached out to local law enforcement 16 first?

17 A I do not know.

18 Q Do you know of any FBI investigations that resulted from these calls that the 19 NSBA received?

20 A I don't know one way or the other. That's something you'd have to ask the 21 Bureau. They did launch a number of investigations. I don't know whether this was 22 one.

23 Q And are you familiar with the email that Mr. Carlton Peeples, the former

24 Acting Deputy Assistant Director of the Criminal Division at the FBI, sent on October 20th

25 that announced the creation of "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag to special agents in charge?

1 I can rephrase.

2 A Yeah.

3 Q If you're familiar with the email that Mr. Carlton Peeples had sent to the

4 special agents in charge regarding the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag that went out

5 October 20th?

6 A I'm not familiar with the email. I am familiar with the creation of the 7 classification.

8 Q Okay. I will enter that in the record here as exhibit 15. You can check it

9 out.

10 [Chambers Exhibit No. 15

11 Was marked for identification.]

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q And, as you mentioned, you said you were familiar with the email going out.

14 Were you involved in --

15 A So just -- I'm sorry. I don't --

16 Q Oh, of course.

17 A -- mean to interrupt, but just to clarify, I wasn't familiar with the email going

18 out.

19 Q Oh, okay.

20 A I was familiar with the fact that the FBI created this classification.

21 [redacted] You can go ahead and take a minute to review.

22 Mr. Chambers. Okay.

1 [1:56 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And were you involved in any official conversations with the FBI about the 4 creation of the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag?

5 A So, I mean, whether official or unofficial, the only conversation that I

6 would've had with the Bureau are the two that I've described: prior to the memo,

7 asking, you know, is there a method of doing this; and then during the first or second task

8 force meeting -- based on the date of this, I'm guessing it was the first task force

9 meeting -- you know, tasking them with the analysis, the classification.

10 That was the extent of it. I didn't have any involvement in the actual creation of 11 the tag or the selection of its name. That's operational FBI stuff.

12 Q And when you said "tasking them," did "them" refer to FBI?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And did you ever get a sense of how the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag was to 15 be used or, just in general, any threat tag, how that was used at the FBI?

16 A To my knowledge, the way that these classifications are used are -- if you've

17 ever been at a law firm, it's almost like a document review. You're tagging things in 18 order to be able to later say, I want all the information related to this item or that item.

19 My understanding -- and, again, not operationally involved -- is that this was the 20 Bureau's method of classifying items and being able to later pull information related to 21 that one item.

22 So, if someone comes to you and says -- and this is what happened with the 23 January meetings I mentioned --

24 Q Uh-huh.

25 A -- you know, "We'd like to know how many items have come in related to

1 flights," someone could click a few buttons and, using that classification, pull that
2 information down.
3 That's my understanding of how it works, but anything more than that or even to 4 confirm that that's correct would really be a question for the Bureau.
5 Q Did you ever get a sense of how the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag was used,
6 how the FBI tagged any investigations with the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag?
7 A No, I don't know how it was used.
8 I can tell you that, in conversations with the Bureau afterward, I would be told 9 that they have, you know, X number of matters under this classification and then maybe,
10 you know, Y are this type, Z are this type.
11 But as far as how it was used or the -- you know, we gave them guidance, we gave 12 everyone guidance on what we're looking at. But as far as how they operationalize it, it
13 wouldn't have been something that I would've been involved in in ODAG.
14 Q And when you say you gave them guidance of what you were looking at, is 15 that in reference to the memorandum --
16 A Yes.
17 Q -- or was there other guidance?
18 A No, it's what's in the memo in terms of what this is meant to address.
19 Q And when you said the FBI got back to you about, there's, like, X number of 20 these sorts of investigations in this classification, was that all under the purview of, like,
21 school-board-related threats or violence?
22 A Yeah, do you remember the person named Luz that I mentioned before?
23 Q Uh-huh.
24 A So she was the point of contact for, kind of, the updates.
25 Q Okay.

1 A And these would be updates specific to school board, school administrator
2 threats.
3 The meeting in January was more of the broader, kind of, let's talk about all of the 4 threats that the Department is focused on.
5 Q And was there ever a time where -- you know, when you had this 6 conversation with Ms. Luz from NTOC, did you ever have any sort of conversations with 7 the PADAG or the Deputy Attorney General regarding your conversations with her?
8 A So, a couple things. Luz could be her first or last name; I don't remember.
9 And I'm not sure that she was in NTOC. And I just say that because, you know, I want 10 you guys to have accurate information.
11 Q Uh-huh.
12 A I do believe that, at a weekly, I would update the DAG on, kind of, the status
13 of the threats initiatives. And, certainly, in the run-up to what I described earlier as,
14 kind of, the all-threats progress report, whatever you want to call it, I had conversations
15 with the PADAG about that.
16 Q Okay.
17 Mr. Su. So I think we're at the hour.
18 [redacted] We are. We'll go off the record.
19 [Recess.]
20 [redacted] Good afternoon again, Mr. Chambers.
21 Mr. Chambers. Good afternoon.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q I'm going to have you pull out exhibit No. 11, which was the Attorney
24 General's memorandum, if you have it in front of you.
25 A I do.

1 Q Great.

2 Okay. You read some of this in the previous hour. If you need to look at it

3 again, that's fine too, because I know that it's been a while since you were actually

4 involved with this memorandum.

5 But do you recall anywhere in the memorandum the Attorney General using the 6 words "school board meetings"?

7 A No, I don't recall that independently, and in reviewing this memo, I don't see

8 it in the memo.

9 Oh. Well, it makes reference to "board members" -- "school administrators, 10 board members, teachers, and staff."

11 Q And does --

12 A And it -- sorry. It also makes the same reference in the first sentence.

13 Q Of?

14 A "School administrators, board members, teachers, and staff." So it was 15 omnibus, all. Yeah.

16 Q Okay. And that sentence that you just referred to, the sentence is actually 17 referring to threats of violence against those people. Is that correct?

18 A That's correct.

19 Q And that was your concern at the Department of Justice, is acts, threats of 20 violence?

21 A Exclusively, yes.

22 Q Okay. And not any particular status of person?

23 A No.

24 Q Does the memorandum anywhere use the word "parent" that you know of?

25 A No.

1 Q Do you know if that was intentional?

2 A I don't know if it was intentional. What I do know is that this memo was

3 never designed to apply solely to parents. Parentage was not the issue here. The issue

4 here was persons committing acts of violence or leveling threats of violence.

5 Q Okay. Does the memorandum use the word "counterterrorism"?

6 A It does not appear so, and I don't believe that it does.

7 Q And do the words "National Security Division" appear anywhere in the

8 memorandum?

9 A No, not in the memorandum.

10 Q Okay.

11 A No, it does not. Sorry.

12 Q What about the phrase "domestic terrorism"?

13 A No, it does not.

14 Q Does the memo refer to the FBI's hotline or the internet tip line?

15 A No.

16 Q Does the memo actually say anything about encouraging people to, quote,

17 "snitch" on parents at school board meetings?

18 A No, it does not.

19 Q Now, the fourth paragraph of the memo directs the FBI and the U.S.

20 Attorney's Offices to convene meetings with State and local officials to, quote, "facilitate

21 the discussion of strategies for addressing threats," end quote, and to, quote, "open

22 dedicated lines of communication for threat reporting, assessment, and response," end

23 quote.

24 Do you understand this to be a reference to the NTOC tip lines or to lines of 25 communication between State and local officials and Federal law enforcement?

1 A I don't understand this -- I'm sorry. Could you ask your question one more
2 time?
3 Q So I'm asking about the language that appears in paragraph 4 directing the 4 FBI and U.S. Attorney's Offices to convene meetings with State and local officials to,
5 quote, "facilitate the discussion of strategies for addressing threats" and to, quote, "open
6 dedicated lines of communication for threat reporting, assessment, and response."
7 I'm just curious, do you understand that language about opening communication
8 lines for threats to reference the NTOC tip line?
9 A No. The turn of phrase here, "open dedicated lines of communication," is 10 not literal, turning on a switch or picking up a CB. It's facilitating communication to 11 discuss these items -- threat reporting, assessment, and response.
12 Q And that's really communication between the local officials and the FBI and 13 the DOJ?
14 A Well, amongst local officials, FBI, and DOJ. So between any of those parties
15 involved in those working groups, yes.
16 Q Okay.
17 You talked a little bit about NTOC specifically. I think you said that you were 18 trying to learn more about the FBI's capacity to track and to assess these kind of threats
19 and how NTOC might be a tool in that capability? Is that fair to say?
20 A Not exactly. I wasn't attempting to learn or become expert in it. I just 21 wanted to understand from the FBI, how would you do it? So, if that's what we mean by 22 "learning about NTOC," then sure. But I think it's obvious, as I sit here today, that I'm 23 not an expert in NTOC.
24 Q Okay. What was the role for NTOC with respect to this initiative, as you
25 understand it?

1 A A better question for the FBI. But I understand that it is the mechanism
2 that the Bureau has in place to collect information about incidents and, you know, classify
3 them and do whatever analyses they need to do.
4 Q And you indicated that part of the objective with the Attorney General's 5 memorandum and the task force was to assess the level of threat that existed with 6 respect to threats and violence against these school officials. And you also talked about 7 receiving information later, after the task force was stood up, from this person whose 8 first or last name might have been Luz.
9 A Uh-huh.
10 Q Did you receive that information because of the task force? Like, did that --
11 A Yes.
12 Q So can you explain, sort of, how that came to be?
13 A Sure.
14 Just at a very basic level, at ODAG, we -- well, the Attorney General issued this 15 memorandum. At ODAG, I was tasked with leading the task force. I convened all these 16 folks together. We had our four action items, one of which was, figure out a way to 17 identify threats and track them.
18 FBI took the ball from there in actually operationalizing that. So I would've had 19 no visibility into how they did that. The next time this becomes visible to me is when I'm 20 having conversations with Luz about, you know, what they're seeing. You know, I
21 happen to know it was based on their classification, but that's as much as I can tell you
22 about the process.
23 Q Okay.
24 I'm going to introduce for the record exhibit 16. And this is the press release
25 that accompanied the Attorney General's October 4th memorandum.

1 [Chambers Exhibit No. 16

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Kind of take a minute to take a look at that, since it's been a while since

5 you've seen it.

6 A Okay.

7 Q Are you familiar with the memo -- or the press release? I'm sorry.

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay. Does the press release use the word "parents"?

10 A No, it doesn't appear to.

11 Q Is that for the same reason that you described earlier, that the Attorney

12 General's memo doesn't direct attention to parents?

13 A Yes. Again, I don't mean to belabor this, but this memo at no point was 14 directed at parents, parentage. It had nothing to do with the concern. The concern

15 was with violence and threats of violence at school board meetings and other school

16 functions.

17 Q The press release does talk about threats targeting school board members,

18 correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And are you aware of instances when school board members received

21 threats outside of meetings, such as threatening letters sent through the mail?

22 A Yes, I am. I think some of them are detailed in the PowerPoint that I put 23 together for the task force.

24 Q Would threats sent through the mail potentially trigger Federal jurisdiction?

25 A So, again, I mean, it's important for the DOJ to make itself comfortable that it has jurisdiction. I want to be clear that I'm not speaking with respect to particular statutes or the like.

But my understanding is that crimes committed or threats -- in this case, threats or -- threats of violence that are communicated through interstate means does fall into Federal jurisdiction.

[redacted] Are you done?

[redacted] You can go ahead.

[redacted] Okay.

BY [redacted]

Q I want to introduce as exhibits -- it'll be 17 and 18. We're going to introduce them as two separate exhibits.

A Okay.

Q The first one is an email that you sent on October 13, 2021, and it references a letter from Senator Grassley. We're going to introduce the letter from Senator Grassley as exhibit 18.

[Chambers Exhibit No. 17
Was marked for identification.]

[Chambers Exhibit No. 18
Was marked for identification.]

BY [redacted]

Q And I think it may have been a minute since you've seen the letter, so I'll give you some time to read through it again.

[redacted] Hey, [redacted] is this exhibit 18 or 17?

[redacted] So we're doing the email as exhibit 17 --

[redacted] Oh, okay.

1 [redacted] -- and the letter as exhibit 18.

2 [redacted] Thank you.

3 Mr. Chambers. Okay. Go ahead.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Okay. So exhibit 18 is a letter from Senator Grassley, who at the time was 6 the ranking member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, correct?

7 A It is a -- yes, it is a letter from Senator Grassley. I take -- yes, according to 8 his signature, he was the ranking member on the Committee on the Judiciary.

9 Q And if you look, the letter was cosigned by Lindsey Graham, who was a

10 Senate Judiciary Committee Republican, correct?

11 A I understand that to be the case, yes.

12 Q And by Senator Cornyn, also a Republican member of the Senate Judiciary

13 Committee, correct?

14 A I understand that to be correct, yes.

15 Q Michael Lee, who was a Republican member of the Senate Judiciary

16 Committee?

17 A I will take your representation that that's true.

18 Q And then I'll just quickly go through the others. It was joined also by

19 Senator Cruz, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary Committee --

20 A Yes.

21 Q -- Senator Sasse, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary Committee

22 Republican --

23 A Yes.

24 Q -- Senator Hawley, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary Committee --

25 A Yes.

1 Q -- Senator Cotton, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary Committee --
2 A Yes.
3 Q -- Senator Kennedy, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary
4 Committee --
5 A Yes.
6 Q -- Senator Tillis, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary Committee --
7 A Yes.
8 Q -- and Senator Blackburn, Republican member of the Senate Judiciary
9 Committee.
10 A Yes.
11 Q And this was dated October 7, 2021.
12 A That appears to be the case, yes.
13 Q So, in your email dated October 13, 2021, timestamped 21:32:06, you refer
14 to this letter. You say, "Here is Sen. Grassley's letter, which lays out some objectively 15 reasonable points about what our effort is and isn't."
16 Do you see where it says that?
17 A I do see that, yes.
18 Q Do you recall how you learned about this letter?
19 A I don't recall how I learned about the letter. In the -- no, I don't recall 20 specifically how I learned about this letter. In the ordinary course, I would've learned of 21 it by either being publicly available or routed through the Attorney General's office to the 22 Deputy Attorney General's office.
23 Q Okay.
24 And you say here that you consider the Grassley letter to lay out some "objectively
25 reasonable points." Do you recall what you meant by that?

1 A Sure.

2 If you look on the second page of the letter, the first full paragraph, the Senator
3 writes, "To be clear, violence and true threats of violence are not protected speech and 4 have no place in the public discourse of a democracy. To the extent such violence and
5 true threats of violence employ mechanisms within federal jurisdiction, the FBI is squarely
6 within its authority to help local law enforcement investigate such crimes. However, the 7 FBI should not be involved in quashing and criminalizing discourse that is well beneath
8 violent acts."

9 That, I think, is on all fours with the Attorney General's memo of 3 days earlier, 10 where it points out both that constitutionally protected speech is to be respected and 11 that the concern was with violence and true threats of violence.

12 So, in the main, when I'm agreeing that Senator Grassley's letter make some 13 objectively reasonable points about what our effort is and is not, I think it's encapsulated 14 in the first two -- or the first three sentences of that paragraph.

15 Q And in the email you sent, most of the names on the version that we have 16 are redacted, but it's a long list of names. Is that fair to say?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And I think this was based on the context -- "Thank you all for joining and 19 contributing your thoughts" -- this was circulated after that first task force meeting? Is 20 that your understanding?

21 A Yes, it is.

22 Q Okay. So, again, the names are redacted, but is it fair to conclude that 23 these people who are listed here either attended the task force meeting or somehow 24 were involved in the task force?

25 A Yeah. These would be the attendees from the task force.

1 Q Okay. So is it fair to say that you wanted the task force members to see
2 this letter from Senator Grassley?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Is it fair to say that you considered this to be, I won't say -- well, that you
5 considered it to be instructive for these members?
6 A I considered it to be, in some respects, accurate, confirmatory of what was in 7 the October 4th memo. And I did want them to read it, because, again, it was very 8 important for us to understand what our initiative was and what it was not.
9 Q And is it fair to say that you wanted them to keep this in mind as they were 10 doing their work?
11 A "This" being?
12 Q The Senator Grassley letter and, in particular, the paragraph that you
13 highlighted, in mind as they were doing their task-force-related work?
14 A Yes. What I described as the reasonable points the Senator raised are what 15 I wanted to point out to the task force and what I wanted them to keep in mind.
16 Q Okay. We can set that aside.
17 I want to introduce as exhibit 19 an email chain. The top-most email is dated 18 October 12, 2021, 16:58:34, and this is Bates-stamped DOJ-HJC-1335.
19 A Okay.
20 [Chambers Exhibit No. 19
21 Was marked for identification.]
22 Q So, if you look at page 1336 --
23 A Uh-huh.
24 Q -- that email at the top of that page, it's an email from you to a number of 25 people, Sunday, October 10, 2021, 12:35 p.m.

1 Do you see that?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And that's an introduction to the task force. Is that fair, to describe that

4 email as that?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And so that email went from you to a number of people, including George

7 Toscas and Mark Lesko and Brad Wiegmann in the National Security Division. Do you

8 see that?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And then it looks like the email chain continued but you were 11 removed from the chain, right?

12 A I and a number of others, yes, were removed from the chain. That's right.

13 Q Right.

14 And so what I want to look at is page 1335, which is an email chain that only

15 involves George Toscas from the National Security Division, Mark Lesko from the National

16 Security Division, Brad Wiegmann from the National Security Division, and then

17 somebody else whose name is redacted.

18 A Yes.

19 Q Okay. So I want to go through these names first. Are you familiar with 20 who George Toscas is?

21 A I think he was the DAAG, Deputy Assistant Attorney General, or maybe

22 Assistant Attorney General, over NSD.

23 Q And NSD is the National --

24 A National Security Division.

25 Q Okay. Do you recall who Mark Lesko is?

1 A My answer is going to be the same. I think he was either the AAG or the
2 Deputy AAG or the Principal Deputy AAG in NSD.
3 Q Okay. Fair to say both George Toscas and Mark Lesko were fairly senior in 4 the National Security Division?
5 A Both George and Mark were part of the NSD leadership.
6 Q Okay. And what about Brad Wiegmann? Are you familiar with Brad
7 Wiegmann?
8 A The name doesn't ring a bell.
9 Q Okay.
10 The email timestamped 12:43 p.m. from Mark Lesko says, "I just talked with Kevin 11 and made the request." Do you believe "Kevin" here to be a reference to you?
12 A Yes, I'm certain it is.
13 Q Okay.
14 And the email immediately below that from George Toscas to Mark Lesko and 15 Brad Wiegmann says, "Mark: As I previously expressed, I don't see the need for a task
16 force like this." It goes on, "I think we should ask that NSD be removed from this task
17 force."
18 Do you see where it says that?
19 A Yes, I do.
20 Q And then the email stamped 12:43 p.m., Mark Lesko says, "I just talked with 21 Kevin and made the request."
22 Do you understand that to be a request to have NSD removed from the task
23 force?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Do you recall having that conversation with Mr. Lesko?

1 A I do recall a conversation where it was decided that NSD would not be a core
2 member of the task force but would instead act in an acting -- oh, sorry, an advisory
3 capacity, which I think is detailed in my PowerPoint.
4 What I don't recall is whether I spoke to George or Mark directly about it. It's 5 entirely possible. I just don't recall it as I sit here today.
6 Q Okay.
7 And what did you mean by "would not be a core member of the task force"?
8 Can you explain that a little more?
9 A Sure.
10 So my recollection is that -- you'll remember earlier I discussed, you know, when 11 we started this process, part of my role, in drafting and kind of running process on this,
12 was to reach out to any components that were or may have a stake in the issue -- so Crim,
13 FBI, Civil Rights, NSD, and others.
14 My reason for including NSD in that initial, kind of, "here are all the people who 15 may have a stake" was a concern about, in particular, as I recall it, bomb threats, which I
16 understood to fall, at least in part, under the purview of the National Security Division,
17 given that conduct.
18 As we got to the task force phase, I either spoke to Mark or was told about a
19 conversation of Mark -- but the upshot was, their role was very narrow; it would relate to 20 a very specific type of crime. I think you remember in one of the prior emails I actually
21 sent an email to FBI asking for just almost a primer on when it would fall under that type 22 of conduct.
23 And, at this point, the decision was made that the task force would proceed. To 24 the extent that the task force had questions that may implicate national security
25 concerns, we could reach out to NSD to kind of air out those questions and get guidance.

1 But they wouldn't be sitting in on conversations about non-NSD-related crime, they 2 wouldn't be sitting in on conversations about, you know, sending folks into the 3 community -- you know, purely local items.
4 So that's the best of my recollection.
5 Q Do you recall if NSD attended the task force meetings or if a representative
6 from NSD attended?
7 A They did not.
8 Q They did not.
9 A No.
10 Q Okay.
11 And in the 12:43 p.m., October 12th email from Mark Lesko, it references
12 concerns about connections between the threats and White supremacist groups. Do 13 you recall what that was in reference to?
14 A Just give me one second.
15 Yeah, so these are -- I just want to be clear -- these are not my words.
16 Q Correct.
17 A And, as I sit here today, I don't recall this being a part of my conversation
18 with Mark.
19 Yeah, I'm afraid that's as much as I can give you. I don't remember that being 20 part of the conversation.
21 Q Okay. Understood. And I think you said a couple minutes ago that the 22 concern was bomb threats.
23 A Primarily that, and then to obtain an understanding of what else might fall in 24 that category.
25 Q Okay.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Did you or anybody at DOJ receive specific information about bomb threats

3 that were directed at school board officials or other school officials?

4 A My recollection is that, as part of the progress report -- and I have to be

5 careful. I'm not going to speak about specific investigations.

6 Q Understood.

7 A But as part of the progress reports that we received from Luz, I do recall

8 there being discussions of incendiary devices, bombs, being threatened against -- I don't

9 know if it was school board members, administrators, or the like, but related to this issue.

10 Q And you said that information came from the FBI when it came to you?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And was that under the "EDUOFFICIALS" threat tag?

13 A I believe it was, because that was the substance of the conversation that I

14 would've had with them, but I don't know that for a fact.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q And you don't recall if there were any Guardian leads created pertaining to 17 bomb threats, do you?

18 A I don't recall one way or the other.

19 Q Okay.

20 [redacted] We can go off the record.

21 [redacted] Oh, no, no. I'm not done yet.

22 [redacted] Oh, I'm sorry. Never mind.

23 Mr. Su. Just kidding.

24 [redacted] Just kidding.

25 [redacted] Just kidding.

1 [redacted] Stay on the record.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q In the prior hour -- just a couple of wrap-up questions.

4 A Sure.

5 Q -- you referred to threats initiatives. You said that, in the weekly meetings

6 with Brad Monaco, you would discuss threats initiatives, and you said "initiatives," plural.

7 So I just wanted to make sure that we're clear. What did you mean by "threats

8 initiatives"?

9 A Election officials threats, school administrator threats, threats taking place

10 on commercial aircraft. Those were the three that I was referring to.

11 I believe there was another, yet another, initiative that dealt with either Members

12 of Congress and judges, or Members of Congress or judges, or one or the other.

13 But those are the initiatives that I'm referring to.

14 Q So is it fair to say that in 2021 at the Department of Justice there was, kind 15 of, broad concern about threats in general?

16 A Yes.

17 Q So this was not a unique memo or a unique initiative; this was part of a

18 broader Department of Justice area of concern?

19 A Yes, it was part of a broader concern with respect to threats that may have 20 some Federal nexus.

21 Q Okay.

22 And then you said in the earlier hour that the memo served an important purpose.

23 Do you recall saying that?

24 A I do.

25 Q Can you elaborate a little bit? What was that purpose, from your

1 perspective?

2 A Sure.

3 The memo and the initiative related to school administrators and school boards,

4 like the memo and initiative related to election threats, like the memo related to violence

5 on commercial aircraft, all have in common that they're designed to address situations

6 where Americans or others in the country are victimized either by acts of violence or

7 threats of violence. That, to me, is a serious issue that everyone should be concerned

8 with.

9 The Department of Justice, when it has jurisdiction, has an obligation to do its part

10 to reduce those acts of violence, threats of violence, certainly to discourage them. And

11 this memo, like the election threats memo, like the incidents on commercial aircraft

12 memo, I believe served that purpose.

13 To the extent that anyone thought it was okay to commit an act of violence or

14 threaten violence for any reason, these memos, collectively and individually, should've

15 made clear that that's not the case.

16 So, to me, that's an important initiative, it's an important part of what the 17 Department does. And that's why I said I think it served an important purpose.

18 Q Thank you.

19 We can go off the record.

20 [Discussion off the record.]

21 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q We just have a couple followup questions, Mr. Chambers.

24 A Sure.

25 Q On October 21, 2021, Attorney General Garland testified before this

1 committee. And he received a question from Congressman Dan Bishop from North
2 Carolina about whether he had read the October 4, 2021, memorandum. And the 3 Attorney General testified, "I certainly did, and I worked on it."
4 Are you aware of at what stage in the drafting process Attorney General Garland
5 got involved?
6 A Well, it would've been after my initial draft, in that part of the review
7 process.
8 Q And so was it in the time period of October 1st to October 3rd, do you
9 believe?
10 A At some point before -- the memo was the Attorney General's memo.
11 Q Uh-huh.
12 A He would've worked on it at some point between -- yes, between 13 October 1st and when it was ultimately issued, in all likelihood closer to the end of that 14 window than to the beginning.
15 Q And did you have any conversations with the Attorney General regarding the 16 October 4th memorandum?
17 A Yes, but not prior to its being issued. I didn't personally speak -- yeah, I
18 didn't personally speak to the Attorney General about it, but did receive -- as I said, he 19 was part of the review process.
20 Q And did you speak to the Attorney General about the memorandum
21 following its publication?
22 A I did.
23 Q Okay. And how many times do you believe you discussed the 24 memorandum with the Attorney General?
25 A Certainly at the January progress report. I do recall while I was on vacation

1 working on the commercial aircraft memo. I spoke to the Attorney General, and he
2 referenced the work we previously had done on the October 4th memo.
3 Q Okay. Thank you.
4 We can go off the record.
5 [Whereupon, at 2:42 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: [redacted]

Tuesday, July 25, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 164, Cannon House Office Building, commencing at 10:00 a.m.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

5 [redacted] LAW CLERK

6 [redacted] DIGITAL ASSISTANT

7 [redacted] SENIOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

8 [redacted] COUNSEL

9 [redacted] MINORITY CHIEF OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

10 [redacted] MINORITY INTERN

11 [redacted] MINORITY STAFF ASSISTANT

12 [redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

13

14 For the SUBCOMMITTEE ON CRIME AND

15 FEDERAL GOVERNMENT SURVEILLANCE:

16

17 [redacted] MINORITY DETAILEE

18

19 For [redacted]:

20

21 JORDAN L. GREENE

22 REGINALD BROWN

23 Kirkland & Ellis LLP

24 1301 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.

25 Washington, D.C. 20004

[redacted] Can we go on the record, please?

This is a transcribed interview of [redacted]. Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's investigation of how, and the extent to which, the executive branch has coerced and colluded with companies and other intermediaries to censor speech.

Would the witness please state your name for the record?

[redacted] [redacted].

[redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to appear voluntarily.

My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff. I'll now have everyone else from the committee who is here in the room introduce themselves as well.

[redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

[redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

[redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

[redacted] [redacted] Nadler's staff.

[redacted] [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

[redacted] [redacted]

[redacted] [redacted] oversight counsel for the Judiciary Committee. And [redacted] our chief oversight counsel, will be joining us later.

[redacted] Thank you.

I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will follow during today's interview. Our questioning will proceed in rounds.

The majority will ask questions first for 1 hour, and then the minority will have an

1 opportunity to ask questions for an equal period of time if they choose. We will
2 alternate back and forth until there are no more questions and the interview is over.
3 Typically we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to
4 take a break apart from that, please just let us know.
5 As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down everything we say to
6 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do
7 you understand?
8 [redacted] I do.
9 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our best
10 to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just 11 those people on the staff whose turn it is.
12 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks
13 down at the end of the table can hear you. It is important that we don't talk over one 14 another or interrupt each other if we can help it, and that goes for everybody present at 15 today's interview.
16 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with 17 counsel if they so choose. It is my understanding that you are appearing today with 18 counsel. Is that correct.
19 [redacted] That is correct.
20 [redacted] Could counsel please state your name for the record.
21 Mr. Brown. Reg Brown, Kirkland.
22 Mr. Greene. Jordan Greene, Kirkland.
23 [redacted] Thank you.
24 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner
25 as possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you do not

1 understand one of our questions, please just let us know.

2 Our questions will cover a wide range of topics, so if you need clarification at any

3 point, just say so.

4 If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best

5 not to guess. Please give us your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned

6 information from someone else. Just indicate how you came to know the information.

7 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please

8 inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete

9 answer to the question.

10 You should also understand that, although this interview is not under oath, that by

11 law you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand

12 that?

13 [redacted] I do.

14 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an

15 interview. Do you understand this?

16 [redacted] I do.

17 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to

18 criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18 U.S.C., section

19 1001. Do you understand this?

20 [redacted] I do.

21 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to

22 today's questions?

23 [redacted] No.

24 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make a note that the content of what we discuss

25 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about the discussion in this interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.

For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with the court reporter, so that they can go in the official transcript. And any copies of those exhibits will be returned to us when we wrap up.

That is the end of my preamble.

Is there anything that my colleagues from the minority would like to add?

[redacted] No, thank you.

[redacted] The clock now reads 10:05. We will start the first hour of questioning.

EXAMINATION

BY [redacted]

Q All right. [redacted], can you tell us your current job title and where you work now?

A Yes. I am a content policy director at Meta.

Q Okay. And what team are you on?

A I am a member of the content policy team.

Q And can you give us your educational background beginning with college?

A I went to Yale College.

Q And what was your degree in?

A English.

Q And then after that?

A I worked for a magazine right after college.

Q Do you have any other degrees?

A I do.

Q What and from where?

1 A I have a master's in international policy from Stanford University.

2 Q And can you tell us your employment history starting after college?

3 A I worked for a magazine right after college.

4 Q Which magazine?

5 A For The Atlantic magazine.

6 Q And what did you do?

7 A I was a staff editor there.

8 Q Okay. And then?

9 A After I worked for The Atlantic, I went to graduate school.

10 Q And that's the Stanford?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q And then after that?

13 A I -- after graduate school, I went to work for a firm called the Rice Hadley

14 Group.

15 Q And what did that firm do?

16 A The firm advised companies on their international expansion strategies.

17 Q And what was your role there?

18 A I was a researcher and support to the partners.

19 Q Then after that?

20 A After the Rice Hadley Group, I joined what was then Facebook.

21 Q And what was your first position there?

22 A I was a member of the content policy team when I started.

23 Q What specifically was your title?

24 A Product policy manager.

25 Q And what did you do in that role?

1 A I was responsible for developing policies and -- that cross a range of issues,
2 similar to what I do now.
3 Q And what years was that?
4 A I started at Facebook in 2016.
5 Q And was your next position the one that you hold now, or did you have 6 something in between?
7 A My next position was the position I hold now.
8 Q Okay. And can you explain what you do on a day-to-day basis as head of 9 misinformation policy?
10 A I support a team that is responsible for developing Facebook and Instagram's
11 misinformation policies.
12 Q How many people are on that team?
13 A I have six direct reports.
14 Q And who do you work for too?
15 A I report to [redacted].
16 Q And what's his title?
17 A Content policy director.
18 Q And who does he work for to?
19 A We all roll up to [redacted], who leads the content policy organization.
20 Q And how does [redacted] fit in there?
21 A He is also a member of the content policy team.
22 Q Is his role parallel to yours or above or below?
23 A He's more senior to me.
24 Q Okay. Before we go on, can you define "misinformation" as Meta -- you
25 know, the way you use it as Meta?

1 A I can -- I can point you to our definition in our community standards. I'm
2 glad to read that to you. That's tab 20 in the binder. I'm glad to read from the top.
3 Q That's okay. We have it.
4 Can you explain the differences you understand between "misinformation" and
5 "disinformation"?
6 A What I can best speak to you today is our misinformation policies. In our 7 policies, in our public-facing community standards here what we explain is,
8 misinformation is different from other types of speech addressed in our community
9 standards because there is no way to articulate a comprehensive list of what is 10 prohibited.
11 Q Okay. Go ahead.
12 A Oh, some of the other information here, you know, is part of our thinking,
13 but we -- we explain, in our public-facing policies, that our policies articulate different 14 categories of misinformation and try to provide clear guidance about how we treat that 15 speech when we see it.
16 Q And so, back to when you joined Meta in 2016, how many people were on 17 your team then?
18 A I don't remember the specific number.
19 Q Can you give an approximate number?
20 A I don't want to speculate and get that wrong.
21 Q I mean, can you give, like, was it 20? Was it 5?
22 A I don't know the number.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q Has the size of the team changed since 2016?
25 A The size of the overall content policy team?

1 Q Yes.

2 A It has gotten bigger.

3 Q Do you know how much bigger?

4 A I also don't know the number of the current -- current number of members

5 of the team overall.

6 Q When you joined in 2016, who was your direct report?

7 A My -- I had no direct reports at the time.

8 [redacted] Who did you report to?

9 [redacted] Let's see. My managers have changed over time. I believe that,

10 when I started at Meta, I directly reported -- again, I ultimately reported to 11 [redacted]. My direct manager, I believe, was [redacted] (ph).

12 [redacted] And who else have you reported to since 2016?

13 [redacted] I've had a number of direct managers, but I've always ultimately 14 reported to [redacted].

15 [redacted]

16 Q In 2016, when you first joined, how was the content moderation team

17 structured?

18 A I think similar to the way it is today. What's changed about my role is,

19 rather than being a generalist, I now focus specifically on misinformation policy.

20 Q And, as a generalist, what are some other categories or topics that you

21 would focus on besides misinformation?

22 A At the time when I first started, I -- let's see. I remember working on -- 7

23 years ago -- so I remember working on hate speech policy, a little bit on our policies

24 around suicide and self-injury. But it's been many years since I was specifically working 25 in those areas.

1 Q In 2016, were there individuals who focused specifically on misinformation?
2 A Not at the time that I started, no.
3 [redacted] How -- oh, go ahead. Sorry.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q To you extent you remember, when was the first time that the team had 6 folks who were dedicated specifically to working on issues on misinformation?
7 A We started to look at misinformation probably within a year of when I
8 started at Meta.
9 Q And who, within that first year there, who on the team was working on 10 misinformation or related issues?
11 A I don't remember that anyone was working on misinformation specifically
12 when I joined, you know, during that first year.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Do you remember when misinformation became a specific category?
15 A I do remember that by the -- well, let's see. It was roughly by the end of 16 2016, we had shared that we would begin partnering with independent, third-party
17 fact-checkers to rate and review misinformation specifically.
18 Q And which fact-checkers were those?
19 A I don't remember the specific organizations who were our initial list of 20 partners.
21 Q Was there any event that precipitated that change?
22 A I can't speak to all the specifics at this point. You know, since that time, 23 we've been really building out our approach to misinformation, which is explained here in 24 our policies, in building out the fact-checking program as well.
25 Q Why did you decide to build out the fact-checking and misinformation

1 programs?

2 A I think, again, I'd probably have to point you back to some of the things we

3 said at the time. We were getting questions about whether we were taking the right

4 approach to misinformation and hoax content spreading online.

5 When we develop policy, our policies are always evolving. As the world changes

6 and as new kinds of content trends emerge, we're always looking at whether our policies

7 and our approaches are in the right place. And, you know, our work on misinformation

8 is -- is one such evolution.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q Who made the decision to begin working with third-party fact-checkers?

11 A I don't remember at this point if it was one specific individual decision made

12 by -- supported by the content policy team which is the team I'm on.

13 Q Were you part of the decisionmaking process?

14 A I don't, again, recall all of my -- all of my role. I was -- I was, you know, not

15 a -- not a leader in the company at the time. So I remember, you know, being aware we

16 were considering this, but I -- and I don't remember who specifically was involved in 17 making the decision.

18 Q Do you recall if -- you said your person you reported to was [redacted]

19 (ph). Is that correct?

20 A When I -- yes, when I first started, that's correct.

21 Q Do you know if [redacted] (ph) was involved in the decisionmaking?

22 A I do not know.

23 Q Do you know if [redacted] was involved in the decisionmaking?

24 A I do not remember specifically.

25 Q When you first joined Facebook, was everybody a generalist as you

1 described?

2 A What I remember is there were a number of generalists on the content

3 policy team. I don't remember all of the individuals who ultimately rolled up to 4 [redacted] at that time or their specific roles and responsibilities.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Meta has a number of different, I guess they call it products, right, like

7 Instagram, WhatsApp in Facebook, and now Threads, I guess. Do you work on 8 misinformation policy for all of those or just Facebook?

9 A I work on misinformation policy for Facebook and Instagram primarily.

10 Q And has that changed since you began?

11 A No, that hasn't.

12 Q So WhatsApp and Threads have totally different teams, or how does that

13 work?

14 A We enforce our community standards on Threads. WhatsApp is a different

15 product experience --

16 Q Right.

17 A -- its own -- its own --

18 Q Do you work with people from the public -- is it the public policy team -- like

19 [redacted] and [redacted]?

20 A I do sometimes work with members of our public policy team.

21 Q And what do you work with them on?

22 A So, as I might have started to explain, my responsibility is to -- and my

23 team's -- develop policy and consistent with our principles and our values. As the world

24 changes, we're always looking at whether those policies are in the right place.

25 When we develop new policies, we will solicit diverse perspectives, and

1 sometimes that can include hearing feedback from external stakeholders. So that's one
2 way in which I might indirectly get feedback from the stakeholders that those team
3 members work with.
4 I think the primary way I would work with them is: External stakeholders have 5 questions about our policies, and members of our global policy, public policy team will 6 come to me or my team to ask clarifying questions about how our policies apply and the 7 rationale behind those policies. And it's my responsibility to explain that.
8 Q And which external stakeholders are you talking about?
9 A It can, you know, it can really range. So we hear feedback from diverse
10 global stakeholders from the press to researchers and experts.
11 Q What about government?
12 A We do sometimes hear feedback from government, yes.
13 Q Any particular agencies or branches of government that you hear from 14 more?
15 A I would hear that feedback indirectly coming from our public policy team.
16 Q And is there anyone on the public policy team who conveys such information
17 to you other than [redacted] and [redacted]?
18 A Who I would hear from would sort of depend on the day and who asked the 19 question. Again, if you think about the global nature of our platform, I can get questions
20 from colleagues in France, in Brazil, in the U.S. Just depends who's asking a question on 21 the given day.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q Are you receiving these communications or, you know, messages that are 24 being passed along by, we'll say, either [redacted] or [redacted], was that only once you 25 were in a leadership position at the team, or would you receive these -- this kind of

1 contact on the public policy team earlier as well?

2 A So I don't remember all of the specifics across my years at Meta, but a

3 member of the public policy team could reach out to anyone on my team and could've

4 reached out to me in the past with questions.

5 Q How long were you a generalist for, from when you first started?

6 A My memory is that the transition between being a generalist and focusing

7 more specifically on misinformation happened gradually over the course of maybe a year

8 or two.

9 By the time, you know, by January 2020, when I started working on our COVID

10 approach specifically, I was focused on misinformation exclusively.

11 Q When were you promoted?

12 A I was promoted to director in 2021.

13 [redacted] Director is what you are now? That's the head of --

14 [redacted] That's correct.

15 [redacted] And how, when people like [redacted] or [redacted] or whoever

16 reached out to you to convey messages from external stakeholders, how -- do they email,

17 call, meet in person?

18 [redacted] You know, it could -- it could really vary. I'm based in our Menlo Park 19 office, so not always in person together.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q After [redacted] (ph), if I'm saying his last name right -- after [redacted]

22 [redacted] (ph), who was your next person that you reported to?

23 A My next manager at Facebook was [redacted].

24 Q And how long was he your manager for?

25 A I don't remember the specific length of time that I reported to him.

1 Q Do you recall the next manager you had?

2 A I think I have the sequence right here. I think I next reported to [redacted]

3 [redacted].

4 Q And do you have a sense of where we are in the timeline?

5 A I don't remember the time -- the specific times at which I reported to all of 6 these individuals.

7 Q Did they all have the same title?

8 A I don't remember at this point.

9 Q In terms of like the chain of command, how many individuals are there

10 between the manager you're reporting to and [redacted]?

11 A Are you asking about at present or at the time?

12 Q Earlier at the time and if it's changed.

13 A Yeah, I don't remember. The team is dynamic. My direct manager had 14 changed over time, but I always did ultimately report up to [redacted].

15 Q After [redacted], who was your next manager?

16 A I'm not going to get all the sequencing right. I don't remember some of the 17 changes. I've had a number of managers at Meta.

18 Q With the understanding that your memory is not perfect and you're going off

19 memory, who is the next name that you remember that you reported to?

20 A I mean, I guess I could best speak to today. I report to [redacted].

21 Q And when did you begin reporting to [redacted]?

22 A The specific date is blurry.

23 Q Was it after your promotion in 2021?

24 A Sorry. Would you mind repeating the question?

25 Q Do you recall if you began reporting to, is it [redacted]?

1 A [redacted].

2 Q Was that following your promotion in 2021 to director?

3 A I would want to go back to my records and get an org chart to make sure I'm

4 answering these questions precisely.

5 Q When the third-party fact-checker relationship program first starts, it sounds

6 like 2017, if you recall correctly, which team at Meta, or then Facebook, had primary

7 responsibility for interacting with third-party fact-checkers?

8 A That would've been our partnerships team.

9 Q And what is the partnerships team?

10 A It's not part of -- at the time it's not -- I mean, the content policy team was

11 distinct from the partnerships team, so I would defer to members of that team to explain

12 its full scope.

13 Q During this time, did your team have interactions with the partnerships

14 team?

15 A I did interact with members of the partnerships team, yes.

16 Q And what was the nature of those interactions?

17 A So I was responsible for developing our policies for the fact-checking

18 program. Partnerships team was responsible for managing relationships with 19 fact-checkers. So we would explain our policies obviously to our colleagues managing

20 those relationships.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q And who at the partnerships team?

23 A Who specifically?

24 Q Yeah.

25 A Sorry. Can you --

1 Q Who did you interact with on this topic?

2 A I -- again, I would have to go back in time, and it was pretty early -- pretty

3 early on in my time. I'd have to double back to my notes and org charts for the specifics

4 of who all was involved.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Did you interact directly ever with the third-party fact-checkers?

7 A Not frequently.

8 Q But there were occasions?

9 A I can think of an occasion when I was invited to speak at, I guess a

10 conference, being held with third-party fact-checkers in the audience, and I explained our

11 misinformation policies.

12 Q In 2017, when this program for third-party fact-checkers is first being 13 brought together, how did the process work, and in what circumstances would

14 third-party fact-checkers be used?

15 A All right, yeah. I think I can best speak to how the program works today,

16 which we -- we describe in our public-facing policies, so, in this same tab, tab 20, in your

17 binder.

18 Q If I may, when did this policy that you're about to describe take effect, or this

19 process?

20 A So we set up partnerships with third-party fact-checking partners in 2017. I

21 would have to double check my records for when we specifically documented those

22 policies in this public-facing language. I don't know when we updated the language

23 exactly.

24 Q To your understanding, have there been changes from 2017 to today

25 regarding how Facebook uses third-party checkers?

1 A I think largely the program has remained the same, the principles of the 2 program, but like with all of our policies, we've evolved some of the specific details over
3 time as we've learned more.
4 Q What are some changes that have occurred?
5 A When we first started partnering with third-party fact-checkers, certain kinds
6 of content were eligible for fact-checking. So link content was eligible for fact-checking,
7 and we asked fact-checkers to focus their time on that content, on viral misinformation
8 that was timely, trending, relevant.
9 As we learned more and we saw how misinformation spread in different parts of 10 the world and heard, you know, feedback from our users, for example, we evolved the 11 program so that photo and video content was also eligible for fact-checking.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q What happened to content, you know, if a fact-checker said it's not true or 14 it's misinformation, what action was taken?
15 A The way the program works is, fact-checkers decide what content to review
16 and rate. They have a range of specific ratings that they can choose among. Each of 17 those ratings is defined. We define those in our program guidelines.
18 Based on the rating the fact-checker chooses, whether that's false or altered, we 19 then take action on the content. So we -- that's the basic process.
20 Q And what kind of action?
21 A We will reduce the visibility of content that fact-checkers rate as false,
22 altered, or partly false. We also have a rating option that's missing context.
23 For all of the rating options, we will also label the content and direct people to the 24 fact-checking article explaining what the fact-checker found, its determinations.
25 People can always also choose not to read that fact-checking article, to click

1 through, to see the content. The content that is rated by fact-checkers remains on our 2 platform for people to see and share with friends.
3 And recently we've also introduced the ability for people to control how much
4 fact-checked content they see in their feeds.
5 We've heard and we know, and we've known this from the beginning, that people
6 disagree about what constitutes misinformation and want more control over their 7 experiences. So that's how the program is today.
8 Q When you say "decreased visibility," what's that? How do you do that?
9 A All content in the Newsfeed is ranked to help people see content more
10 relevant to them. There's a huge amount of what we would call inventory, sort of a
11 menu of options of content you could see when you log in to your Facebook account.
12 So ranking that content is a way to show people what is most relevant to them
13 and make it less likely they'll see content that is either less relevant to them or where 14 we've heard feedback from people it's not the kind of content they want to see.
15 [redacted] By what percent is content -- or is visibility, to use the term you used,
16 reduced?
17 [redacted] In the signals that go into newsfeed ranking are quite technical, and I
18 can't speak to all -- all of those -- those signals. It extends well beyond the scope of our 19 misinformation work.
20 [redacted] Is it always -- is the visibility always reduced by the same percentage,
21 or are there variable options available?
22 [redacted] So I can speak to our misinformation policies specifically, and under 23 our misinformation policies, when a fact-checker rates content, we take action -- we take 24 the same action on all content rated false, partly false, or altered.
25 [redacted] What about, do people lose their accounts if they have posted

1 misinformation?

2 [redacted] For the most part, no. So there's two different sets of policies that I

3 could -- I could walk through. There are categories I mentioned at the top. We look in

4 different categories of misinformation, so -- and, again, this is in tab 20 -- our policies

5 articulate different categories of misinformation and try to provide clear guidance about

6 how we treat that speech when we see it.

7 And then, here on the next page, we talk about the misinformation we remove

8 and separately other misinformation. So, for misinformation we remove, we have a

9 very high bar there. We remove misinformation where it is likely to directly contribute

10 to the risk of imminent physical harm.

11 For other misinformation, we focus on reducing its prevalence and creating an

12 environment that fosters effective dialogue.

13 So, for fact-checked misinformation, the penalties experienced at the account

14 level would never be to take an account down entirely. We would -- if someone

15 repeatedly shares content that has been fact-checked as false, we will eventually take

16 account-level restrictions, but that does not include banning the account.

17 For the misinformation we remove, which is a very -- a very specific and small

18 subset of all misinformation, if someone repeatedly violates those policies, any of our 19 community standards, we can eventually ban the account, remove the account.

20 We do this -- we try to be very transparent about those policies and give people

21 notice when they've posted individual pieces of content that violate our policies.

22 [redacted] And "imminent harm," so information that might contribute to

23 imminent vaccine refusals is considered imminent harm in this, it looks like? "Natural 24 immunity is safer than vaccine immunity" is an example.

25 So that would be considered imminent harm that would necessitate or justify removal?

[redacted] Of the content, yeah.

BY [redacted]

Q In an earlier answer, the third-party fact-checkers decide what to review and rate. For the first part of that, what do you mean by the "third-party fact-checkers get to decide what to review"?

A So Meta's third-party fact-checkers are independent. Our job is to send content to them that may be misinformation, but they use their judgment to look at the facts and decide whether to rate content.

Q Who from Meta sends content to the third-party fact-checkers?

A It's not one specific individual. That's the way our systems work to send content to third-party fact-checkers.

Q Which teams will send content to the third-party fact-checkers?

A Again, there's a number of -- this is really a process that works through our systems -- yeah. It's an automated process.

1 [10:40 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Can you say more? "Automated" as in, like, certain words will

4 automatically lead to content being transferred? How does an automated system work

5 in this context?

6 A Certain words? I see. No, it's not as simple as that. We use, you know,

7 a number of signals so that our systems can learn what content may be misinformation

8 and send content to fact-checkers that may be false.

9 Fact-checkers can always also identify content on their own that they believe

10 should be reviewed and rated even if we have not sent that content to them.

11 And, if our systems miss content, we can also send that content, specific content,

12 to them --

13 Q Okay.

14 A -- to the third-party fact-checkers.

15 Q So that last part, there are teams at Meta who can, not automatically, just 16 manually send content to the third-party fact-checkers directly? Is that what you're 17 saying?

18 A Yes, that's correct.

19 Q And which teams at Meta will do that?

20 A So my team's responsibility is to write the guidelines. The sort of specific

21 teams that would be involved in sending content could be members of our enforcement

22 teams that do that.

23 Q Is there still a partnerships team that interacts with third-party

24 fact-checkers?

25 A There is, yes.

1 Q And would that team send content directly to the third-party fact-checkers?
2 A No.
3 Q Once it's sent to the third-party fact-checkers, let's say it's content, it's to an
4 article, do the third-party fact-checkers have to review?
5 A They do not.
6 Q And what happens in instances where a third-party fact-checker decides not
7 to review?
8 A The content stays up on the platform, and it's there for people.
9 Q It sounds like there's a number of third-party fact-checkers. How is it
10 determined which content goes to which fact-checker?
11 A Our systems send content to all fact-checkers in a given country at once.
12 So, in the United States, our systems -- and we send content to our U.S. fact-checking
13 partners.
14 One of the principles of the program, as I mentioned, is that we want
15 fact-checkers to rate content that is timely, trending, relevant. So fact-checkers in a 16 given country are best positioned to make those decisions about content relevant to the 17 people in that country.
18 Q And I understand it sounds like there's kind of an automatic system in place.
19 Once it's in the hands of the third-party fact-checkers and it's sent more broadly, do they 20 internally decide which fact-checker is going to handle it? Can any of them? I guess if 21 there's multiple -- multiple reports that come back?
22 A Any fact-checker can decide to rate any piece of content, and multiple 23 fact-checkers may choose to rate the same piece of content.
24 Q And, in the instances where there's a disagreement between fact-checkers,
25 how does Meta handle that situation?

1 A Under our policies, we would apply the less severe rating to enforce on that
2 content. Though it's fairly rare that fact-checkers disagree. From memory.
3 Q And, just typically, what happens most frequently, how long is from the time
4 that content is sent, whether it's automatic or manual, to the third-party fact-checkers,
5 until Meta hears back from a third-party fact-checker?
6 A That can really vary based on the facts and the specific piece of content. As 7 you could imagine, some viral hoaxes on the internet are, you know, tired, you know,
8 regularly circulated, false memes, that might not take a lot of time to research.
9 Some content may be entirely new and require more research for a fact-checker.
10 Q If Meta can receive -- if Meta can receive multiple reports from third-party 11 fact-checkers, how do you know that there are no more reports coming in?
12 A There's no, you know, [inaudible] to answer that. It would be possible for a 13 fact-checker to -- for one fact-checker to rate content and for another to rate content at a 14 later date.
15 We will take action based on the first fact-check when we get the rating. If 16 another fact-checker at a later date chooses a different rating, we would then update our 17 action if that was a less severe rating.
18 Q What action does Meta take before the first fact-checker response comes 19 in?
20 A Our job is to, as I said, send content to fact-checkers. When we send 21 content to fact-checkers, per our policy policies, we may temporarily reduce the visibility,
22 distribution of that content, but the content always remains available. People can 23 choose to see it and share it with others.
24 Q In instances where -- actually, I'm going to strike that.
25 Is that the case for all pieces of content that are sent to third-party fact-checkers?

1 A Again, under our policies, we may reduce the distribution of content sent to
2 fact-checkers.
3 Q Okay. So, by your answer saying you may do it, is that to say that only a
4 subset of the contents of the third-party fact-checkers is -- has reduced visibility pending
5 a report from the third-party fact-checkers and that there's another subset of content
6 that is not reduced?
7 A It can really vary depending on where -- you know, talking about systems in 8 different parts of the world. But, again, under our policies this is something we -- we 9 would do.
10 Q So, focusing on the United States, for content that goes to third-party
11 fact-checkers, I'm just trying to get a sense of what the different outcomes are. Is it a 12 hundred percent -- for the interim period, from when the content is sent to the 13 third-party fact-checkers and they're reviewing it, so you don't know yet what their 14 fact-check report is going to be, for that initial interim period, is it a hundred percent of 15 the contents in the United States has its visibility reduced? Is it only a portion of that?
16 Mr. Brown. She can tell you what she recalls, but if you want a precise, precise 17 answer that covers a date range, because policies sometimes change, you could send us a 18 set of interrogatories on the topic, and we'll be happy to respond.
19 [redacted] Thank you.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Again, well, repeat the question. So, again, to the extent you have 22 knowledge or understanding of it.
23 A Can -- I -- I guess, as my lawyer said, to the extent you have specific 24 questions to the exact numbers, I wouldn't be able to speak to those today.
25 Q Yeah. So the question is not about exact numbers. It's just, what are the

1 options though? Happy to reframe the question this way.

2 Is all content in the United States that is sent to third-party fact-checkers, during

3 that interim period of when the content is sent but before the third-party fact-checker

4 has made a decision, is all content having its visibility reduced in that case?

5 A Today, no, that does not happen in all cases.

6 Q And who makes the decision regarding whether the content will have

7 visibility reduced in that interim period?

8 A So today the way our systems work in the United States is we no longer

9 temporarily reduce the visibility of that content while a fact-checker reviews.

10 Our program is more focused, given its maturity, on the action we take when a

11 third-party fact-checker reviews the content and rates it.

12 Q You say it's no longer the case. Do you recall when this new policy was put 13 into place?

14 A Earlier this year.

15 [redacted] I'm sorry. I didn't hear that. Did you say earlier this year?

16 [redacted] Earlier this year.

17 [redacted] Thank you.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q And, prior to this year, what was the policy?

20 A There our systems in the United States would temporarily reduce the 21 distribution of content when we sent the content to fact-checkers.

22 Q And that was just automatic?

23 A That's correct.

24 [redacted] Why did you change the policy?

25 [redacted] We are always looking at ways to evolve our policies and hear a lot of

1 feedback about our misinformation approach.

2 In the U.S., as I said, the program is fairly mature now. We have 11 fact-checking

3 partners in the U.S. compared to a handful when we started, and so have made changes

4 reflective of that current reality.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q When third-party fact-checkers decline to fact-check a story, do they

7 affirmatively tell you, "we don't want to fact-check this story," or do you just -- you don't

8 hear a response after a certain period of time?

9 A We do not hear a response.

10 Q Okay. How long do you wait until you decide that no response is coming

11 in?

12 A After 7 days, the content would not be sort of in our systems available to

13 fact-checkers.

14 Q And for how the policy existed prior to this year where it was -- there was

15 automatic reduction in the visibility, would it just be automatic that, for instances in

16 which ultimately no third-party fact-checker gets back to you, that the content would

17 automatically be -- have reduced visibility for 7 days and then automatically would have 18 those restrictions lifted?

19 A That's correct.

20 Q You said you had six direct reports?

21 A That is correct.

22 Q Who are they?

23 A My direct reports are [redacted], [redacted], [redacted], [redacted]

24 [redacted], [redacted], and [redacted].

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q And what are their responsibilities?

2 A Largely, they are responsible, like me, for developing our policies for

3 misinformation on Facebook and Instagram.

4 Q So they -- do they each have, like, different subject areas, or how do they

5 relate? How do you divide it up?

6 A They sometimes focus -- they're -- they're a globally distributed team. So I

7 think the primary difference across the team is that members of the team based in a

8 specific region are most responsive to issues coming from that region.

9 Q So the policies might differ not so much -- well, I imagine by subject matter

10 too, but the policies would differ depending on geographical region. Is that correct?

11 A No. The policies don't differ, but the members of the team based in 12 different geographical regions would be more likely to, you know, interface with people

13 in that region on different internal teams or outside stakeholders.

14 Q So who is focused on the United States?

15 A Within my team?

16 Q Yeah.

17 A The -- the members of my team who are based in the U.S. are 18 [redacted], [redacted], [redacted], and [redacted].

19 [redacted] And how big is the -- actually, let me rephrase that.

20 Other than your team, who else in the broader content moderation team has

21 personnel to work on the policies related to the United States?

22 [redacted] Again, the policies we write are global policies. The policies in our

23 misinformation section of our community standards apply to people around the world.

24 So, regardless of where someone is based, they are working on global policies.

25 [redacted] Go ahead.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q So what do they do exactly, and then what do you do in relation to that

3 work?

4 A Are we talking about my specific direct reports?

5 Q Yeah.

6 A Again, we have very -- you know, I'm a manager of the team, so my role is to

7 support my team members, but the bread and butter of what the team does is fairly

8 consistent in developing policy.

9 As of earlier this year, the one new function on the teams is that the team also

10 manages now our relationships with third-party fact-checkers. But that has not been

11 the bulk of my experience or what I was responsible for at Meta.

12 Q So do they -- as they come up with ideas for misinformation policy and then

13 run them by you, and you give input, and then it goes up the chain or --

14 A I think, you know, as I've sort of said, we are always looking to evolve our

15 approach, or whether our policies are in the right place as the world changes and as

16 content trends online change. So any member of my team at any given time might be

17 looking at a specific policy to, again, stress test whether it's still in the right place, and

18 then, yes, would come to me to discuss whether we should formally explore any changes.

19 Q So, in order to get adopted, I'm kind of trying to figure out what the process

20 is that it has to go through, proposed policy change -- or proposed policy would have to

21 go through. So, after you, it would go up to [redacted]? Is that --

22 A [redacted] would be involved in decisions to formally update our

23 policies.

24 Q So who makes the ultimate call?

25 A [redacted] is responsible for our content policies.

1 Q Okay.

2 [redacted] What's the name of the team responsible for enforcement of the

3 policies?

4 [redacted] I'd probably have to check on the org chart. We have a number of 5 teams that are involved in enforcing our policies.

6 [redacted] And which of those teams does your team interact with?

7 [redacted] We can interact with any number of them, again, depending on the 8 specifics of how the policy is enforced.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q Do you play a role in enforcing policies, does your team?

11 A I am not involved in the team enforcement decisions.

12 Q But, sort of in a broad sense, so say, you know, with the third-party

13 fact-checkers, if they said this type of claim is false, then would you make

14 recommendations about what should be done with it?

15 A When it comes to our fact-checking program, fact-checkers decide what to

16 rate, and we do not have a role in -- sorry -- the enforcement action we take is consistent

17 based on the rating. We wouldn't look at a specific decision when it comes to 18 our -- that's how our fact-checking process works.

19 Q So you think that they're sort of formulaic?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q With respect to the third-party fact-checkers policy change at the start of 24 this year, you recall what the policy was at least in 2022 and earlier. Do you recall if

25 there were any changes from 2017 when the program got started up until 2022,

1 regarding how to handle content during that interim period we were discussing earlier
2 when it's sent to the third-party fact-checkers and you're waiting for a response?
3 A So our policies and our specific program guidelines for the fact-checking
4 program have evolved, and I gave you an example of the -- when the program first started
5 leaks were eligible for fact-checking, and we eventually decided photo and video content
6 should also be eligible for fact-checking based on feedback from users that they were 7 seeing viral misinformation spread in photo and video content.
8 So that's -- I don't remember the specific date when that change went into place,
9 but that's an example of a change made to the program.
10 Q With respect to the policy that existed up until last year to automatically
11 have content have its visibility reduced pending review by a third-party fact-checker, do
12 you recall if that specific aspect of the policy changed between 2017 and 2022?
13 A I don't remember the specific timeline on any changes we made there in that 14 particular period.
15 Q Do you recall -- if you don't recall the timeline per se, do you recall if there
16 were any changes?
17 A No -- no changes are coming to mind at the moment.
18 Q What about with respect to the policy that, again, at least as of last year,
19 that Facebook would wait 7 days, and if there was no response after 7 days, it was 20 determined the fact-checkers weren't reviewing, do you recall that aspect of the policy, if 21 there were any changes from 2017 to 2022?
22 A I don't recall specifically whether we would've -- that would've changed over
23 time.
24 Q Who was involved in the decision to change the -- I guess the default rule, 25 for lack of a better phrase, from having -- where content is automatically reduced in

1 visibility pending approval, to the policy that it is today?

2 A Kind of as I -- as I said for our policies, for our content policies and policies

3 covered in our community standards, [redacted] is the senior leader responsible for

4 those policies.

1 [11:02 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Were you involved in the decision-making process?

4 A I was involved in kind of preparing, you know -- yes, I was part of that

5 process.

6 Q And what was your role in the process?

7 A My role is what kind of my team's role is today, to help develop options for

8 whether we should evolve our policies.

9 Q When it comes to -- we'll take this policy as an example. Who first initiates

10 it? Is it coming from the top and your team is roped in? Or does your team offer this

11 change as a proposal?

12 A That can really vary based on the circumstance. Sometimes, you know, any

13 number of people across the company might ask a question about our policies and

14 whether they're in the right place. Sometimes we've also been asking those questions

15 ourselves. And we'll pull together options.

16 Q Do you recall, in this case regarding how to treat content while it's being

17 reviewed by a third-party fact-checker, do you recall who in the company first raised the 18 issue of reconsidering that policy?

19 A I do not.

20 Q To your understanding, was it anyone on your team?

21 A I do not remember.

22 Q Your current person that you report to, is it [redacted]? Sorry. I want

23 to make sure I have my names --

24 A That's correct.

25 Q -- straight. How many other people report to him?

1 A I want to double-check the org chart -- there have been some changes
2 recently -- to make sure I'm being precise on that.
3 Q Do you have an approximation?
4 A I want to double-check to make sure I'm giving you the right information.
5 Q You mentioned that this is kind of a new aspect of your team's role, but what 6 is your team's interactions now with the third-party fact-checkers?
7 A The team that manages those relationships rolls up to me, but I am not
8 directly doing -- I do not directly engage with the third-party fact-checkers.
9 Q And what is the name of that team that rolls up to you?
10 A Internally, we refer to them is as the third-party fact-checking partnership
11 team.
12 Q And who leads that team?
13 A As of this year, the team is led by [redacted].
14 Q And, again, to your knowledge, what's the nature of those interactions
15 between [redacted]'s team and third-party fact-checkers?
16 A The team is responsible for managing our relationship with third-party
17 fact-checkers. That involves educating those fact-checkers about our program, any 18 changes to our policies; fielding questions from the fact-checkers should they have 19 questions for us; making sure that, you know, our systems are working, there aren't 20 errors or bugs that are causing problems.
21 Q You mentioned that it was rare but sometimes there'd be disagreements
22 between third-party fact-checkers. Do you recall any disagreements where from Meta's
23 perspective something did or did not constitute misinformation and from the third-party
24 fact-checkers' perspective something did or did not constitute misinformation?
25 A That's not how our program works. Our role is to send content to

1 fact-checkers. Fact-checkers can also choose what to rate and review. Fact-checkers
2 then use their expertise and their judgment to decide whether to rate content based on,
3 again, their understanding of the facts.
4 Q Can the third-party fact-checker on its own not be automatically sent or 5 manually sent content from Meta? Can the third-party fact-checker on its own identify 6 a piece of content, review it, and send it to Meta?
7 A Yes, they can.
8 Q And have there been instances where -- well, time is -- can we go off the 9 record?
10 Mr. Brown. Go ahead. Do you want to finish the question, just so we close this 11 out?
12 [redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q For those instances where the third-party fact-checker on its own has 15 identified a piece of content, passing it to Meta, and then identified something as 16 misinformation, have there been instances where Meta has received that report and has 17 disagreed with its conclusion?
18 A Again, could you repeat the specific question?
19 Q Sure. It sounds like kind of the default option is Meta sending content
20 either automatically or in some cases manually to third-party fact-checkers. There are 21 also instances where the third-party fact-checkers on their own identify a piece of 22 content, analyze it, and send information to Meta regarding their analysis.
23 Are there times where, in that last subset of category, where the third-party
24 fact-checker has on its own identified a piece of content and sent it to Meta, where Meta
25 has disagreed with the third-party fact-checker's analysis?

1 Mr. Brown. So can I just ask what you mean by -- "disagree," meaning overruled,
2 or "disagree" meaning somebody at Meta didn't think that was the right answer? Like,
3 I'm just trying to understand what you'd be looking for when you say "disagree."
4 [redacted] Sure. So, I mean -- and maybe the answer can clarify this.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q It sounds like there's kind of an almost automatic process where if a
7 third-party fact-checker analyzes it where the content first was sent by Meta, Meta has in 8 place kind of a formulaic response of how to best respond.
9 But, in this case, Meta hasn't sent the content first to third-party fact-checkers.
10 They've identified it on their own and are sending it back to Meta.
11 Is it the exact same response from Meta, automatically taking the formulaic
12 approach? Or does anyone at Meta then take an --
13 A No. It --
14 Q -- opportunity to review it?
15 A -- it -- that was clarifying. Yeah, it doesn't matter if Meta has sent 16 fact-checkers the content or the fact-checker independently chose to review content.
17 We take the same formulaic approach.
18 Q Great.
19 [redacted] We went a few minutes over, and we'll of course extend the same 20 courtesy.
21 [redacted] Thank you.
22 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
23 [Recess.]
24 [redacted] Okay. We are back on the record.
25 EXAMINATION

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And, [redacted], my name is [redacted] I am counsel for the minority.

3 And we appreciate you being here today.

4 I believe you had mentioned that you're based in the Menlo Park office?

5 A That is correct.

6 Q And that's in the Bay Area?

7 A That is correct.

8 Q So you flew in here from northern California for this interview?

9 A Yes, I did.

10 Q And you said that the misinformation policy was developed in -- you believe,

11 in your first year?

12 A Yes, roughly -- by early 2017.

13 Q By early 2017. So that policy was in place during basically the entire Trump

14 administration.

15 A Yes, that would be correct.

16 Q Can you explain to me why it's important to Meta, or then Facebook when 17 the policy was created, to combat misinformation?

18 A So, when we develop a policy -- our goal is to enable expression. We're a

19 platform for expression. And when we restrict expression, we do so in service of one of 20 our values, which are authenticity, safety, privacy, and dignity. And we apply that

21 overarching principle to our misinformation approach.

22 I could point again to our community standards, where we explain in detail the 23 rationale for why we approach misinformation in the way we do. It'd be helpful if you

24 could have 20 in your binder.

25 And I'd read some of this earlier, I believe, but what we explain is, misinformation

1 is different from other types of speech addressed in our community standards, because 2 there is no way to articulate a comprehensive list of what is prohibited.
3 So, with other types of speech -- graphic violence or hate speech -- our policies
4 specify the speech we prohibit, and even persons who disagree with those policies can 5 follow them.
6 With misinformation, however, we cannot provide such a line. The world is 7 changing constantly, and what is true one minute may not be true the next minute.
8 People also have different levels of information about the world around them and may 9 believe something is true when it is not.
10 So a policy that simply prohibits misinformation would not provide useful notice
11 to the people who use our services and would be unenforceable, as we don't have perfect
12 access to information.
13 So, instead -- and we explain this in more detail in the section -- but our policies
14 articulate different categories of misinformation and try to provide clear guidance about 15 how we treat that speech when we see it.
16 Q So I appreciate that, and that is helpful. But I want you to take a step back
17 a little bit. Why does Meta bother to have a misinformation policy?
18 A For all of our policies, we are trying to do what is best to make the platform
19 a good experience for users and for advertisers.
20 Q And if users or advertisers encounter clearly false information on the 21 platform that's being presented as truth, that's not good for Meta, is it?
22 A We have heard from people, users and advertisers, that they want to see
23 less misinformation, though we also know people disagree about what constitutes 24 misinformation, which is why we take a very nuanced approach and do our best to be 25 thoughtful about how we draw lines in this space.

1 Q Okay. Fair enough. But, at the end of the day, I believe what you said
2 when I asked why bother, your initial response was: Our users and our advertisers do
3 not want to see this type of content.
4 A That's correct.
5 Q And so it's essentially a business interest of Meta's to ensure that its users
6 and its advertisers stick with the product?
7 A That's correct. We are accountable to our users and advertisers.
8 Q If you know, how many -- approximately how many users does Meta
9 platforms -- Meta's platforms have?
10 A I --
11 Q That was not grammatical. I'm sorry.
12 A I don't know the latest number right now and would not want to get that 13 wrong.
14 Q It's probably in the billions, though, correct?
15 A I don't want to speculate.
16 Q Fair enough. And a large percentage of those users are outside the United 17 States, correct?
18 A That is correct.
19 Q And you've touched on this a bit, but I just want to make clear. Meta has 20 many different content policies, correct?
21 A That is correct.
22 Q In fact, we've got a whole binder here -- it's probably 2 or 3 inches thick -- of 23 your content policies.
24 A That is correct.
25 Q Can you tell us what type of content other than misinformation is

1 prohibited?

2 A So our community standards define our policies for speech. As you

3 mentioned, this binder has a list of all those policies. If you flip to the beginning, I can

4 see if there's a -- I have the list -- the full list of our policies is here.

5 And on our community standards site, I believe we also summarize -- oh, here, in

6 the introduction before tab 1 -- the range of our policies and -- and -- yes, at the very end

7 of the section in front of tab 1, there is a full list of all of the topical areas covered by our

8 policies, starting with violence and criminal behavior.

9 Q So the general categories are violence and criminal behavior, safety,

10 objectionable content, integrity, and authenticity, correct?

11 A I'm just double-checking if there's more. There's two more sections

12 here -- respecting intellectual property and content-related requests and decisions.

13 Q Thank you.

14 A Are we on the same --

15 Q I think we're on the same page. Oh, got it. Okay.

16 So, for example, child sexual exploitation materials are prohibited?

17 A As defined, yes, under our safety policies.

18 Q And bullying and harassment is a safety policy?

19 A That is correct.

20 Q Hate speech?

21 A In looking at this list, these are not policies I'm specifically responsible for at

22 this point. But I see hate speech is under "Objectionable Content."

23 Q Fair enough. And so is -- this is something that I think most people are 24 familiar with -- adult nudity and sexual activity?

25 A That's correct.

1 Q And so what that means is, I can't post nude photos to my Facebook account
2 or my Instagram account or, now, if I had one, a Threads account.
3 A I'd have to refer to the very specific policy language on that area, because it's 4 outside of my area of expertise.
5 Q And you were working at the company when then-Facebook decided to 6 develop the misinformation policy?
7 A That's correct.
8 Q And it was the company's choice to implement that policy, correct?
9 A That's correct.
10 Q It wasn't something that anybody in the government forced Meta to do?
11 A I have, yeah, no specific recollection of -- I don't remember the specifics of 12 our decision-making at the time, but no sense that that would've happened.
13 Q And it was your understanding that this was something that the company
14 affirmatively wanted to do in order to protect its users and its advertisers?
15 A That is my understanding. I was not involved in all of the decisions at that 16 time or today, but that reflects my understanding.
17 Q Okay.
18 I want to talk a little bit about the third-party fact-checking program, and I want to 19 clarify some of the issues that were discussed earlier to make sure that I understand
20 them.
21 So I believe you said that program was developed in 2017?
22 A I believe -- yes, it -- it --
23 Q Approximately?
24 A Approximately 2017.
25 Q And just as with the misinformation policy was Meta's choice, Meta chose to

1 work with third-party fact-checkers and develop that program?

2 A That is my recollection of how it came to be.

3 Q And Meta has many third-party fact-checking partners, probably over 80 I

4 believe, across the globe?

5 A As of today, we have 90 partners globally, who cover more than 60

6 languages or -- sorry -- more than 90 partners globally, who cover more than 60

7 languages.

8 Q And did you say -- I'm not sure if I heard this correctly, but did you say have

9 you 11 fact-checking partners in the United States?

10 A That is correct.

11 Q And so it's just a small percentage of Meta's global fact-checking program?

12 A That is correct.

13 Q And all of Meta's third-party fact-checking partners must be signatories to 14 the International Fact-Checking Network's Code of Principles, correct?

15 A That is correct.

16 Q And the first one of those principles in the code, if you know, is a 17 commitment to nonpartisanship and fairness, correct?

18 A That is correct.

19 Q And you're aware of that because you helped develop this policy, the --

20 A Yes.

21 Q -- third-party fact-checking policy, not the Code of Principles. I'm sorry.

22 A Yes, that's correct.

23 Q So --

24 A From the beginning, it was important to us to, you know, have an objective 25 way to assess fact-checkers and who to partner with.

1 Q Were you involved in the decision to require that all of Meta's third-party
2 fact-checkers be members of the International Fact-Checking Network?
3 A I don't remember the extent to which I would've been involved in that
4 decision.
5 Q But you know that it was important to then Facebook, now Meta, that its 6 fact-checkers have a commitment to neutrality?
7 A That's correct.
8 Q And nonpartisanship?
9 A Correct.
10 Q And the purpose of the fact-checking program is to help identify and address
11 viral misinformation, correct?
12 A That's correct.
13 Q And I believe, as you alluded to, the program does not concern itself with 14 every conceivable untruth that's on your platforms.
15 A That's correct. We specifically and our public policies state that the goal of 16 the program is for fact-checkers to focus on viral misinformation.
17 Q And you talked about how the company identifies information to be 18 fact-checked, and you also mentioned that the fact-checkers can fact-check any content 19 that they identify.
20 Do Meta's users have any input? Like, can I, as a user, submit a request for a 21 piece of content to be fact-checked? Is that part of the process?
22 A The way the process works is, any user can give feedback on content they 23 see on the platform, including giving us feedback that the content may be false. And 24 that is one factor that informs the systems we use to determine what content to send to
25 fact-checkers.

1 Q And this is one of the things that you mentioned earlier, but fact-checkers
2 review their content independently of the company. The company plays no role in the 3 fact-checker making a rating.
4 A That's correct.
5 Q And so you were asked earlier if you can recall any instances of Meta
6 disagreeing with a fact-checker's rating. Is that something that Meta gets involved in,
7 just in your experience?
8 A Meta makes many, many decisions about millions of pieces of content every 9 day. I don't have any recollection of that happening, but, obviously, I can only speak to 10 my experiences and my memory.
11 Q Thank you, and I appreciate that.
12 And, again, as you said, this is a global program, the vast majority of which is 13 taking place outside of the United States, correct?
14 A That's correct.
15 Q Okay.
16 Now, I believe something else that you said -- or if you didn't say, this is a 17 conclusion -- is that the fact-checkers are not making decisions about what happens to 18 content that they've rated, correct?
19 A That is correct.
20 Q That's a decision that's made on a policy level by Meta?
21 A That's correct.
22 Q So, if a fact-checker rates something as false, Meta has a policy in place for 23 what action it's going to take.
24 A That's correct.
25 Q And that policy applies regardless of why the content was rated as false or

1 what the content is?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q And it's a different action if the content is rated as "partly false" or "missing

4 context" or any other one of the ratings it might receive.

5 A That's correct.

6 Q And I want to talk a little bit about the actions that Meta takes and one of 7 the -- I believe you said -- well, first of all, let me back up. I'm sorry.

8 Content that has been rated by a fact-checker is not removed from your platforms

9 unless it violates one of your community standards. Is that correct?

10 A That is correct.

11 Q So, even if content is rated as "false," you will not remove it unless it violates

12 one of the content policies that we talked about earlier. And I only mentioned a few,

13 but --

14 A That is correct.

15 Q And so you mentioned, for misinformation, you only remove it if there is a 16 risk of imminent physical harm resulting from the content.

17 A That's correct.

18 Q And there are other circumstances, as well -- like, if it interferes with political

19 processes.

20 A That's correct.

21 If you look at tab 20 of the binder, the misinformation section of our community

22 standards, we articulate the categories of misinformation and how we treat them.

23 So we explain, we remove misinformation where it is likely to directly contribute

24 to the risk of imminent physical harm, content that is likely to directly contribute -- sorry,

25 do you want me to give you a minute?

1 Q Well, here, let me see if I can summarize it. So you have, in the 2 "Misinformation We Remove" section -- and this is available on the website, correct?
3 A This is, yes.
4 Q There are four categories that are noted with Roman numerals of the types
5 of information you remove. So it's information that's --
6 A That's correct.
7 Q -- likely to result in imminent physical harm or violence, correct?
8 A That's right.
9 Q Harmful health misinformation?
10 A That's right.
11 Q Voter or census interference, so information that is likely to directly 12 contribute to a risk of interference with people's ability to participate in these processes?
13 A That's correct.
14 Q Elections and the census, correct?
15 And then certain types of manipulated media.
16 A That's correct.
17 Q And all of this is outlined so that people can follow it.
18 A Yes.
19 Q And so, again, just to be clear, if information is rated as "false," meaning it's 20 completely false, it will not be removed unless it falls under one of those four categories?
21 A That's correct.
22 Q But its visibility will be reduced, correct?
23 A If one of our fact-checking partners assesses the content should be rated
24 "false" per our definition of the term "false."
25 Q So I want to talk about that a little bit. When content visibility is reduced,

1 what that means is it's ranked lower on people's news feed on Facebook, correct?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q And on people's Instagram feeds?

4 A That's correct.

5 Q And in -- on the "Explore" page?

6 A On Instagram, it would be filtered out of the "Explore" tab.

7 Q Let's start with Facebook. If content has distribution reduced, it still will

8 show up on a news feed; it just be will be lower, will be ranked lower on the news feed.

9 A That's correct.

10 Q So that means, if I keep scrolling, I can encounter it.

11 A That's correct.

12 Q And it's the same on people's Instagram feeds, correct?

13 A That's correct.

14 And as I mentioned earlier, we are now allowing users actually to tell us if they

15 want to see more fact-checked content or less. Because we heard from people that 16 they wanted more control over their experiences in feed.

17 Q And so a user can say, I want you to show me more content that has been 18 fact-checked.

19 A That's correct.

20 Q So, if somebody suspects that they're not seeing what they want to see

21 because it's been fact-checked, then they can tell Facebook, no, I want to see that

22 anyway.

23 A That's correct.

24 Q Okay. Can users share content that has been fact-checked?

25 A Yes, they can.

1 Q So you can still see it on your news feed, you can see it on your Instagram
2 feed, and you can share the material.
3 A That's correct.
4 Q And there are certain types of content on your platforms that is not subject
5 to fact-checking, correct?
6 A That is correct.
7 Q Okay. Can you tell us a little bit about what types of content that is?
8 A Yes.
9 In our Transparency Center is our public-facing policies that are sort of adjacent to 10 the community standards. We explain our policies for fact-checking, and we explain
11 there that there are several types of content not eligible for fact-checking.
12 So only public content is available for fact-checking.
13 Q So let me -- can I interrupt you for a second?
14 A Yeah.
15 Q So when you say "public content," if a person has a private Facebook or 16 Instagram account, does that mean that anything they post will not be fact-checked?
17 A It could not be directly rated by a fact-checker.
18 Q And I assume that's because the goal of the fact-checking program is to 19 prevent viral misinformation, and private accounts are unlikely to have anything go viral 20 since, by nature, they're private.
21 A That's correct.
22 Q I'm sorry. So that's one type --
23 A Yes.
24 Q -- is private information.
25 A Private information is not eligible to be fact-checked directly.

1 We also explain that opinion generally should not be fact-checked. The purpose
2 of the fact-checking program is not to interfere with people's opinions. And we define 3 "opinion" in our public policies that, obviously, our fact-checkers have access to.
4 Q Okay. And what about content posted in ads by politicians?
5 A So, under our policies, direct politician speech is not eligible for
6 fact-checking.
7 Q And that includes their advertisements, correct?
8 A That's correct.
9 Q And the company's definition of "politician" includes candidates for office at 10 every level, correct?
11 A That is correct.
12 Q And political parties and leaders of political parties?
13 A That is correct.
14 Q So the leaders of the Republican Party in the United States, even if they're 15 not running for office, their speech is not fact-checked?
16 A Their content cannot be directly rated by a fact-checker.
17 [redacted] If I could have 1 minute.
18 [redacted] I think we're done. I just wanted to announce I'm [redacted]
19 I'm the Democrats' chief oversight counsel. I joined about halfway through the 20 interview. Thank you.
21 [redacted] And we can go off the record.
22 [Recess.]

1

2 [12:32 p.m.]

3 [redacted] So we'll go on the record.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q So did you ever have contact with the White House about misinformation?

6 A In my role, I would only in- -- usually indirectly --

7 Q Sure.

8 A -- hear feedback from the White House.

9 Q And through whom? Through whom?

10 A Through whom?

11 Q Yeah.

12 A Our public policy team are responsible for managing relationships with 13 government stakeholders.

14 Q All right. Do you know when their contact with the White House began?

15 A I do not.

16 Q Do you know of any specific meetings that occurred with the White House

17 about misinformation?

18 A I do not recall any of the specifics.

19 Q Are you familiar with Rob Flaherty from the White House?

20 A I recognize his name.

21 Q Do you know who he is?

22 A I don't know him well, or I -- I'm sorry. My understanding is, he was

23 a -- was or is a member of the Biden administration. That's really the extent of --

24 Q Do you know if people at Meta had contact with him about misinformation?

25 A I did not have contact with him.

1 Q Do you know if other people at Meta did?

2 A I can't speak to whether other people did.

3 Q Do you know of any meetings that took place between him and [redacted]

4 [redacted] and [redacted]?

5 A I can't speak to whether those meetings would've occurred. I was not part 6 of them.

7 [redacted] [redacted], can I ask you to speak up just a little bit?

8 [redacted] Yes.

9 [redacted] Thank you.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q So you don't know of any specific meetings? Is that what you're saying?

12 A I don't right now have a specific recollection of meetings that would've

13 happened with external stakeholders during -- are you asking me about a specific time

14 period?

15 Q No. Just, how about more generally? Do you recall information being

16 conveyed about the White House's position on COVID misinformation on Facebook?

17 A So, yes, I was aware the administration asked questions about our COVID 18 approach.

19 Q And was that the Biden administration?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Not the Trump administration?

22 A I cannot remember -- yeah -- back to the Trump administration.

23 Q Okay. But, as you recall, it was the Biden administration that was asking

24 questions?

25 A I do remember, yes, being aware the Biden administration was asking

1 questions about our COVID misinformation approach.

2 Q And what sort of questions?

3 A What I can best speak to is that we received input throughout the pandemic

4 from a variety of stakeholders, asking whether our policies were in the right place

5 and -- yeah.

6 Q What do you mean by the "right place"?

7 A Again, we routinely field questions about whether we are enforcing our

8 policies or if we have adopted policies that are consistent with our principles.

9 I had mentioned previously that our goal is to enable expression. And so, when

10 we restrict expression, we do so in the service of our values, which are authenticity,

11 safety, privacy, and dignity.

12 During the course of the pandemic, we were doing our best to develop policies

13 that were good for our users and advertisers that were taking into consideration the 14 stakes and the public-health stakes of the pandemic.

15 Q When you received information from the public policy team that the White

16 House had some problems -- I know that's not exactly the language you used; I can't

17 remember exactly what you said, but -- they had concerns about misinformation about 18 COVID on Facebook, what did you do with that information?

19 A So, when we get questions from external stakeholders, we will often look at

20 our policies. Our first step is to explain the rationale for those policies, make sure that

21 whoever is asking, whether it's another internal team or if that team is asking because

22 someone else had asked them, understands the rationale, understands those principles

23 and values I referenced, and start there, by explaining our rationale.

24 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 1.

25 Was marked for identification.]

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q So this is exhibit 1.

3 I included the whole chain just so you have it, but what we're really interested in is 4 the March 19, 2020, email.

5 Mr. Brown. Can we just have a few minutes to --

6 [redacted] Sure, sure. Yes, please. Yeah.

7 Mr. Brown. Thanks.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Do you recall this email exchange from March of 2020?

10 A I'm done reading.

11 Do I recall this email exchange? No, I do not.

12 Q Do you know what it was? I mean, it appears to be an industry working 13 group about COVID on social media. That's what it looks like to me, but --

14 Mr. Brown. Can I ask which email you're referring to?

15 [redacted] I'm referring to the March 19th. It's not the --

16 Mr. Brown. There are a couple of March 19th emails. Which one?

17 [redacted] It's March 19th from a redacted at Microsoft. It's at 9:57 a.m.

18 [redacted] Do you have the Bates number?

19 [redacted] Yes. 6521 and on to 6522.

20 So the name of the person who sent the email is redacted.

21 Mr. Brown. Okay. Just so I've got this, she's not on this email.

22 [redacted] She's on the participants list --

23 Mr. Brown. But she's not --

24 [redacted] -- on the --

25 Mr. Brown. -- she's not on the email.

1 [redacted] Okay.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you recall participating in this working group?

4 A No, I don't -- I was not on this email, as far as I can tell. And I don't fully 5 understand the context.

6 Q Okay. So you don't know why, on 6523, your email address is listed under

7 the participants?

8 A I -- yes, I see my name there. I don't remember the context around

9 whatever is being described here.

10 Q Did you attend any meetings with Microsoft and other companies in this

11 time period that you recall?

12 A I don't have a specific recollection. It's possible. Sometimes in my job, I

13 have, you know, been to conferences, for example, with other industry representation.

14 But I don't remember the specifics of what was being discussed on March 19, 2020.

15 Q Okay.

16 If we could take these back, yeah.

17 A Oh.

18 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 2.

19 Was marked for identification.]

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q This one is shorter. So this is exhibit 2.

22 Thank you.

23 A Thank you. I've had the chance to read.

24 Q So this appears to be an invitation to a Zoom or some kind of virtual meeting

25 with the Surgeon General's office. And the subject line is "COVID-19 Misinfo Meeting

1 with HHS senior Advisors to US Surgeon General Vivek Murthy."

2 Do you recall attending this meeting? It's on July 16, 2021.

3 A I do have a vague memory that I met with HHS employees at some point

4 during the pandemic.

5 Q Do you recall who else was at the meeting from both Facebook and from 6 us -- from the government?

7 A I don't remember off the top of my head. I would only have the, you

8 know --

9 Q Were remarks of the Surgeon General and the former press secretary,

10 Jennifer Psaki, from the previous day as well as that day blaming Facebook and other tech

11 companies for COVID deaths a topic discussed at the meeting?

12 A I don't remember what specifically was discussed.

13 Q Was misinformation about COVID on Facebook discussed?

14 A I don't remember the specifics of the meeting. My role in external

15 meetings with government stakeholders -- which I would sometimes join. It's not a

16 primary part of my role. But my role is to, as I think I've explained, explain the rationale

17 for our policies and generally answer questions that external stakeholders have about

18 those policies.

19 Q Do you recall anything that was said at that meeting by HHS leading you to

20 change any policies at Meta or talk to people about changing policies at Meta or to any

21 internal discussions of that nature?

22 A I do not recall what specifically was discussed at this meeting. I have a

23 vague recollection that at a certain point in the pandemic I did meet with HHS employees,

24 but that's really all I remember about this interaction.

25 Q Were notes or other records of the meeting kept that might contain such

information?

A I don't remember.

Q Does Facebook have a policy in terms of, you know, keeping notes about such meetings?

A My team doesn't have such a policy. I don't know.

Q And there wasn't anyone on your team who would be in charge of taking notes or keeping a record?

A My team doesn't have a formal policy for notetaking during external meetings.

BY [redacted]

Q How frequently are you in meetings with the Federal Government?

A With the Federal Government?

Q Yeah.

A I am infrequently in meetings with the Federal Government.

Q Infrequently?

A Yes.

Mr. Brown. Can we go off the record for a minute?

[redacted] Sure.

[Recess.]

[redacted] Back on the record.

BY [redacted]

Q Are you aware of a statement that President Biden made that day, July 16th, saying that social media companies were killing people because they weren't censoring COVID misinformation enough?

A I am aware of the statement.

1 Q Were those remarks discussed at Meta, to your knowledge?

2 A I obviously don't know all the conversations that happened at Meta, but

3 whether I was aware of the remarks, I can speak to that.

4 Q Did you participate in conversations about those remarks?

5 A I can't say with any specificity, you know, whether the remarks came up

6 specifically in conversations I was part of at the time.

7 I know -- taking a step back, I was aware the White House was asking questions

8 about our policies at the time, beyond that specific statement.

9 Q Did the White House's questions or statements have an impact on Meta and 10 its employees?

11 A My role at Meta is to develop policies that are consistent with our principles

12 and values. And I believe that during the pandemic, which was truly an unprecedented

13 time, we did our best to adopt policies that were consistent with those values.

14 We get criticism and questions from any number of stakeholders. And, you

15 know, again, while being aware of the criticism, I'm usually somewhat insulated from it,

16 given I hear that kind of feedback indirectly.

17 Q When you say consistent with your values, I think earlier on we talked a little

18 bit about -- maybe it was during the other hour of questioning, -- you know, the fact that

19 information changes. And this was, as you said, unprecedented, and knowledge

20 changed rapidly, so something that might be considered true one day wasn't considered

21 true the next.

22 How did Meta take that into account in its misinformation policy?

23 [redacted] I'm sorry. Can I ask both you guys just to speak up a little bit?

24 I'm having trouble hearing.

25 [redacted] Yeah.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q How did Meta take that into account in its misinformation policy?

3 A Our approach to developing our COVID misinformation policies really began

4 as early as January 2020, when, you know, the press was, if I'm remembering correctly,

5 first reporting that cases of COVID were spreading outside of China.

6 By the end of that month, the World Health Organization had declared COVID a

7 public health emergency of international concern.

8 And we had shared, Meta had shared, that our approach to addressing

9 misinformation about COVID during the public health emergency would be to remove

10 claims when external public health authorities told us those claims were both false and

11 could directly contribute to imminent physical harm -- for example, contribute to people

12 getting or spreading COVID.

13 And throughout the pandemic, we worked with public health authorities to 14 understand which claims met the bar of that two-prong test -- both false and could lead

15 to imminent physical harm.

16 Q So, just for example, Rochelle Walensky, who I assume would be considered

17 a public health authority as Director of the CDC, said that if you don't get --

18 [redacted] I'm sorry. Could --

19 [redacted] Oh.

20 [redacted] -- you slow down and speak a little louder? I just can't hear down

21 here.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Rochelle Walensky, for example, former Director of the CDC, I assume would 24 be considered a public health authority; is that right?

25 A When we were developing our policies, so early in the course of the

1 pandemic, we consulted with a broad range of external stakeholders, from safety experts
2 to freedom-of-expression experts. Throughout the course of the pandemic, the public
3 health authorities that we most regularly turned to for input on specific false claims were 4 organizations such as the WHO or CDC.
5 Q So, if she said something like -- which she did say -- if you get the vaccine,
6 you can't transmit COVID or you won't get COVID -- that was considered, you know,
7 2 years ago to be the truth -- how would Facebook have implemented that sort of 8 statement?
9 Mr. Brown. I'm sorry. Could you repeat the -- 10 [redacted] What?
11 [redacted] Well, if --
12 Mr. Brown. I don't think -- you say, if --
13 [redacted] How would that --
14 Mr. Brown. -- you got the vaccine, you can't get COVID --
15 [redacted] Yeah.
16 Mr. Brown. -- and that was considered to be the truth --
17 [redacted] Yeah.
18 Mr. Brown. -- 2 years ago?
19 [redacted] By whom?
20 [redacted] By President Biden and Rochelle Walensky --
21 Mr. Brown. If you get the vaccine, you can't get COVID?
22 [redacted] Those were public statements that the CDC made and President
23 Biden.
24 Mr. Brown. I'm -- yeah, look, we can go and deal with the questions. I am not 25 familiar with anyone ever saying that if --

1 [redacted] Well --

2 Mr. Brown. -- you get the vaccine, you can't get COVID. And if you've got a

3 document that says that from the CDC, I think we'd be interested in seeing it.

4 [redacted] There were a number of public statements where, at a later point, a

5 public official says something that's different --

6 Mr. Brown. Two years ago.

7 [redacted] Yeah. The question is, in instances like that --

8 Mr. Brown. If that actually happened. That's what I'm really kind of getting at,

9 is, I don't want her to have to respond to a hypothetical. If that really happened -- I

10 trust you if you read it, but, like, I just don't know what you're referring to.

11 [redacted] This is from the Associated Press on July 22, 2021. "President Joe

12 Biden offered an absolute guarantee Wednesday that people who get their COVID

13 vaccines are completely protected from infection, sickness, and death."

14 [redacted] July 22, 2021.

15 [redacted] "'If you're vaccinated, you're not going to be hospitalized, you're

16 not going to be in the IC unit, and you're not going to die.'"

17 [redacted] I'd say that's different than not getting COVID.

18 [redacted] That's not -- okay.

19 Mr. Brown. Yeah, I don't mind her answering the question. I just want her to 20 answer the question based on an actual statement. And that actual

21 statement's -- because she's going to respond about what the policies are with dealing

22 with it, and if it's a hypothetical, something that didn't actually get said, then it's not a fair

23 question.

24 So, if you want to ask her about that particular quote and what they did about it, if

25 you know the answer, you can give it. If you don't know it, we can go look it up and try

1 to --

[1:02 p.m.]

[redacted] Okay. Here is August 26, 2021. Speaking on "The Rachel Maddow Show" on MSNBC, Rochelle Walensky said that CDC data show that vaccinated people don't carry the virus -- that's in quotes -- and don't get sick.

[redacted] Can you repeat your specific question to me?

BY [redacted]

Q Yes. So, given that that was coming from the CDC director, how would Facebook have approached claims that contradicted that?

A So our general -- excuse me -- our general approach throughout COVID was to start, as I explained, by speaking to a wide range of external experts, to understand -- and this was really as early as January 2020 -- to understand the categories of claims that could contribute to real threats to public safety, to the risk of people getting or spreading COVID.

Once we had that, those categories of claims, we were able to kind of look for trends in what people were saying on our platform -- and then, as any kind of new trends or new claims emerged, the conversation obviously changed throughout the course of the pandemic as information changed -- bring new claims to public health authorities and ask them if that claim was both false and likely to directly contribute to the risk of people getting or spreading COVID.

If public health authorities told us those claims met those two criteria, we would then update our public-facing policies -- I have a list in the binder of what those policies look like, you know, to a certain point in the pandemic. They've continued to evolve today -- and start enforcing on -- on those claims.

We were always very mindful of the importance of allowing people to discuss their personal experiences and ask questions. That was something we heard early on 1 would be -- would be important to public safety.

2 Q I see. Are you familiar with the disinformation dozen, with that term?

3 A I am familiar with the term.

4 Q And are you aware that it includes Robert F. Kennedy, Jr.?

5 A I, yes, do remember that.

6 Q Do you recall Facebook or Meta taking any action specifically against the 7 disinformation dozen?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And what action was taken?

10 A So my memory is, at a certain point in the pandemic, I believe that a group

11 called the --

12 Q Center for --

13 A -- Center for Countering Digital Hate first coined the term

14 "disinformation dozen," pointing to a group of individuals they said were responsible for 15 spreading vaccine misinformation on social media platforms.

16 When we became aware of their accounts, my recollection is, we assessed them

17 under our policies -- policies at the time and took action per those policies.

18 I don't remember specifically which actions we took, you know, when we first

19 became aware of them.

20 Q So the Center for Countering Digital Hate, is that a nonprofit, or do you know

21 what the nature of that group is?

22 A I -- I am not an expert on the nature of that group.

23 Q What was Facebook's relationship with them?

24 A I don't know that we had a relationship with them.

25 Q Oh, so they weren't advising Facebook? You just heard that they had

1 identified the disinformation dozen? Is that a correct understanding?

2 A My memory is that I heard that they had written the report identifying the

3 disinformation dozen, and I do remember reading the report.

4 Q Did the White House or any other government agencies play any role in

5 having the Disinformation -- action taken against the disinformation dozen?

6 Mr. Brown. I'm sorry. Can you just give me that one more time?

7 [redacted] Let's start with the White House. The White House made a

8 number of public statements saying that they considered the disinformation dozen

9 particularly problematic, for the record. Did that influence Facebook's policies or 10 actions toward the disinformation dozen?

11 [redacted] So, as I think I said, I was aware the White House asked questions

12 about -- I was aware the White House asked questions about the disinformation dozen.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Who made you aware of that?

15 A I don't recall at this point. I generally heard feedback from government

16 stakeholders indirectly.

17 Q When you would receive feedback from someone with that matter,

18 regarding feedback from external stakeholders, who usually would communicate that to

19 you?

20 A I think it could be a -- I could hear that from my leadership. I could hear

21 it -- my leadership being more senior members of my team, [redacted] of course,

22 [redacted]. I could also, on occasion, hear directly from members of our public policy

23 team.

24 Q Which members of the public policy team would convey information to you

25 or your team regarding communications with the Biden White House?

1 A I don't remember all -- the specifics of who would've been involved in those
2 conversations at the time.
3 [redacted] Can I just ask a clarifying question? I think that I'm confused
4 about whether you're asking about information she heard about in the news because 5 disinformation is something that was brought up in the news, and she mentioned that 6 she had heard about it, or if you're talking about internal communications of the 7 White House directly contacting Facebook --
8 [redacted] To be clear, the question was just a general question. [redacted] said
9 that there were instances where she'd be made aware of what external stakeholders
10 were saying -- that includes the Biden White House -- not necessarily specific to the 11 disinformation dozen, as an example.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q But, if communication is being relayed to you, regarding communications
14 with the White House, who on the public policy team would be making those 15 communications?
16 A I don't remember the specifics of those specific communications, but in 17 general, our public policy teams around the world do hear directly from government
18 stakeholders and may share what they've heard with me from time to time.
19 Q You mentioned an answer a few answers earlier that typically you and your 20 team were -- "insulated" was the term you used. Who makes the decision regarding 21 when you're insulated and when you're not regarding the opinions or questions from 22 external stakeholders?
23 A The question is, who decides when I am insulated from external input?
24 Q That's correct.
25 A My job is, by definition, and our company is structured so that I am relatively

1 insulated from external input because my job is to focus on developing our policies and 2 doing so in ways that are consistent with our principles and our values.
3 Q And, understanding what you're saying as far as the reason behind why the 4 company wants to keep you insulated, but based off your recollections, there are 5 instances in which you are not insulated. Do you know what the threshold is or why
6 that occurs?
7 A Sorry. Thank you. I understand the question.
8 So, from time to time, when colleagues who are responsible for working directly
9 with external stakeholders get questions or feel like it would be helpful for those people
10 to hear directly from someone developing our policies, I'm -- I would be asked, you know,
11 by probably a senior member of the team -- as I'm a senior member of our team -- to join 12 a meeting or a phone call and explain our policies.
13 Q So, other than instances where the company believes it would be helpful to 14 have you at a meeting with an external stakeholder, are you ever receiving information
15 regarding the -- I'll restate the question.
16 [redacted] You said "viewpoints."
17 [redacted] I'm sorry?
18 [redacted] You said viewpoints. That was the word.
19 [redacted] Oh, okay.
20 [redacted] I don't know why I heard it.
21 [redacted] Great. Thank you.
22 [redacted] It's the one word I've heard.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q So, reflecting your previous response, that at least some of the instances in 25 which you are being contacted about the viewpoints or questions raised by external

1 stakeholders, that situation occurs when the company thinks it would be helpful for you
2 to attend a meeting.
3 In addition to that example you provided, are there other times where 4 information regarding the viewpoints or the questions of external stakeholders is being
5 shared with you or your team?
6 A So, you know, another example of when I would hear feedback from 7 external stakeholders would be when Meta receives letters from Congress, asking us to 8 answer questions on the record. I will help to explain our policies in response to those 9 questions.
10 Q Did you end up attending any meetings with the White House in the summer
11 of 2021?
12 A I do not have a memory of attending meetings.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q What about the Surgeon General's Office?
15 A I do remember meeting with HHS employees. As far as I remember, it 16 was -- it was just once that -- 17 Q Just that one?
18 A -- summer of 2021.
19 Q Okay.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Regarding the White House, if you don't recall attending any meetings with 22 the White House and [inaudible] a letter from Congress, what are the circumstances to 23 explain why you and your team are made aware of what the White House was asking or 24 relaying to the public policy folks?
25 A In general you're asking --

1 Q In summer of 2021.

2 A In summer of 2021. So the specific question is -- can you tell me the

3 specific question one more time?

4 Q Sure. So we started off with a more general question of, your team is

5 relatively insulated. There are instances in which that insulation is pierced. You

6 mentioned one of the reasons might be letters from Congress. Another reason might be

7 when it is necessary for you to meet with the relevant external stakeholder.

8 You've answered that you recall being aware of what the White House was saying,

9 but you don't recall meeting with the White House. So the question is, what were the 10 circumstances that led to you and your team becoming aware of what the White House

11 was saying?

12 A Thank you for repeating the question. I -- I don't remember the specific

13 circumstances that led to my team becoming aware of those questions. I -- you know,

14 it's possible I heard some of them in the press and some from -- from colleagues at the

15 time.

16 Q Do you recall whether anyone from the company informed you of what the 17 White House was telling the company during the summer of 2021?

18 A I do not remember the specifics of how I became aware of that -- those 19 questions and that criticism.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Just one more specific example. Were you aware of statements that the

22 communications -- White House Communications Director Kate Bedingfield made, saying

23 that they were reviewing Section 230 to see if platforms could be held accountable for 24 vaccine misinformation?

25 A I don't remember that communication specifically. That -- that sort of area

1 would be sort of outside my general scope of responsibility.

2 Q You don't remember hearing it just on the news or --

3 A I don't remember specifically today.

4 Q Okay.

5 [redacted] With respect to the disinformation dozen, do you recall when

6 approximately you first learned about concerns related to a group of individuals called

7 the disinformation dozen?

8 [redacted] I believe, my memory is that I first became aware of that term when

9 the CCDH published their report, which, I believe, was early spring of 2021.

10 [redacted] Do you know why you came -- why you saw that report because 11 that's -- how you came across that?

12 [redacted] I don't remember specifically. You know, throughout the pandemic,

13 press, other stakeholders routinely, you know, asked us questions about how our policies

14 applied to different instances and different content. I don't -- I don't remember who 15 specifically first raised that CCDH report.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Is it widely known within Meta that the content moderation team should be 18 relatively insulated?

19 A You know, I really don't know -- I don't know that I can speak for all of Meta.

20 Within the content policy team, something we say, you know, how we would describe

21 ourselves is what I've told you, that our job is to develop policies that are consistent with 22 our principles.

23 Those principles I've cited are, you know, prominently featured on our community

24 standards language, our public language, so our team certainly does our best to carry out

25 that work.

1 Q Do members of the public policy team know that your team is supposed to
2 be relatively insulated?
3 A I can really best speak to what I know from my team and not speak on behalf
4 of the public policy team.
5 Q But, whether the content moderation policy team actually, in fact, can be 6 relatively insulated, it's not relative to the actions of your teams, it's to the actions of the 7 other teams and whether they decide to share information with your team or not.
8 Do you recall ever having discussion about what's appropriate to share with your 9 team or not share with your team?
10 A I'm sorry. Could you repeat the question one more time?
11 Q Sure.
12 Do you recall having discussions, any discussions between your team and any 13 other team at Facebook, regarding what information would be inappropriate to share
14 with your team, in order to maintain this relative insularity for your team?
15 A I really don't recall the specifics of, I think, any of the conversations I had at 16 the time, given it was 2 years ago.
17 Q Just what about in general?
18 A The question would be -- tell me the question again.
19 Q Yeah.
20 Do you recall you or your team having any discussions with another team at Meta 21 regarding what sort of sharing information would be inappropriate in order to maintain 22 your team's relative insularity?
23 A I mean, I don't -- I don't recall having those specific conversations. We do
24 sometimes, you know, when there is a new hire at the company, on another team,
25 explain our policies and our policy approach to that person.

1 So my team and I would be involved in that kind of conversation, but I -- that's an
2 example for you.
3 Q When someone from the public policy team is sharing, we'll use as an 4 example, information or questions from the White House, and the decision has been
5 made to share that information with you and your team, is the public policy team making
6 that decision directly, or do they consult with other members of Meta first to get 7 approval?
8 A I would have to defer that question to the public policy team.
9 Q When the -- when information is being shared from the public policy team to 10 you and your team, is there a briefing that occurs? Is it an email? How typically are 11 you receiving these interactions?
12 A I don't know there's a typical use case that really comes to mind.
13 Q Okay. When it -- to the extent you have a recollection with respect to how 14 you came to understand the, again, kind of viewpoints, questions being raised by the 15 White House, specifically in 2021, did you have a sense of whether the White House's 16 view was that Facebook was too aggressive or not aggressive enough regarding 17 misinformation and the content moderation policies?
18 A My -- my recollection, and based on some of the things you've mentioned 19 here today as well, is that the questions we were getting were primarily about whether 20 we were doing enough to protect public safety during unprecedented time. That was a
21 question we got from a number of stakeholders, again, given how unprecedented COVID 22 was and how impactful it was on people's lives.
23 Q And by "doing enough" -- I mean, your team's role is content moderation, 24 and so by "doing enough," does your answer mean with respect to doing enough to 25 moderate enough content? I mean, what do you mean by -- what is your understanding

1 of what "doing enough" meant?

2 A Whether -- by that I mean, we were asked regularly by a number of

3 stakeholders if our policies were consistent with what we had said at the outset, that we

4 would remove false information -- or information that public health authorities told us

5 was false and could directly contribute to the risk of people getting or spreading COVID,

6 which, again, we said early on in our policies was -- was the approach we had decided to 7 adopt.

8 Q And so was it your -- we'll keep the question specific to the White House in

9 2021. To the extent you had an understanding of the viewpoint, the position, that was

10 being relayed from the White House via the public policy folks, was that there was not

11 enough, I'll say, false information, false content, being removed from Meta's platforms?

12 A Again, I don't -- I don't know if I remember the specifics of all the critique,

13 but I do know the bigger picture was the questions we were getting, as far as I remember,

14 from the U.S. Government, was whether we should be doing more to address false

15 information about COVID vaccines.

16 Q Given the benefits you outlined earlier about maintaining -- keeping your

17 team insular, does learning that information jeopardize any of those benefits?

18 [redacted] I'm sorry. Are you saying "benefits"?

19 [redacted] Yeah.

20 Mr. Brown. I think he's referring to the benefits of so-called insularity.

21 [redacted] That's correct.

22 [redacted] Tell me the question again.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q Sure.

25 If an earlier response, you outlined the benefits of keeping your team insular from

1 other information, viewpoints. Your team likes to focus on what it's working on. In 2 relation to those benefits, does learning information, such as the viewpoint of 3 U.S. Government stakeholders, does that in any way jeopardize the benefits you had 4 outlined?
5 A I guess my team's job would be to look at our policies and develop policy
6 options consistent with our principles and our values.
7 I believe that the policies we adopted during the public health emergency were 8 consistent with those principles and values and that we were really trying to do our best
9 during an unprecedented time to keep people safe.
10 Oh, yeah, okay. To kind of perhaps more directly answer your question, we do
11 want to know when people disagree with our policies or have questions. We are, again,
12 as I have said, always trying to evolve those policies, and so especially when something
13 changes or when the nature of what's happening in the world or what people are saying 14 on our platforms changes, we welcome questions, so that we can look at our policies and,
15 you know, take a really close look and see if there's any changes that we think we should 16 make to update them.
17 Q So I guess where is the line then between making sure that your team is 18 insulated from external influence but as opposed to, it sounds like, welcoming certain 19 viewpoints from certain stakeholders?
20 A I think it -- it's a structural line that I've talked about, so largely structuring
21 the company so that the people who hear that -- who tend to hear that feedback most 22 directly are on other teams. And the people who then think through that feedback look 23 at our -- look at content, look at our policies, are relatively insulated from the feedback, 24 which does not mean that we don't welcome the feedback and expect we should have to 25 answer hard questions, any range of questions, why we're doing too much or too little at

1 any given time.

2 Q When it comes to insulating the team, who is the highest ranking person on

3 the team that the company aims to insulate?

4 A [redacted] is the head of the content policy team. That is my team.

5 Q Obviously, we've heard her name in a number of contexts. Presumably

6 she's interacting, though, with public policy folks and other high-ranking members at the 7 company. I guess let me ask it first this way.

8 Does the company try to insulate [redacted] from knowing what the public

9 policy team does?

10 A Probably have to defer that question -- that question to [redacted].

11 Q In terms of folks on your team who will interact with the public policy folks,

12 if there's a goal to insulate your team to a certain degree, is there a certain threshold or a

13 certain seniority where only certain folks are allowed to engage with the public policy

14 team?

15 Mr. Brown. We're happy to go down this road, but you're assuming a

16 hypothetical about how the company is organized that isn't --

17 [redacted] What's incorrect about the hypothetical?

18 Mr. Brown. The notion that people from the policy team, the executive branch

19 policy team, can't talk to people in her world. And, for instance, we were asked to come

20 here today to talk to you, the policy team involved in making sure she was aware you all

21 wanted to talk to her.

22 You know, there are other instances where [redacted] has been asked to talk to 23 the Senate, the House, and the executive branch. We've been very clear about that.

24 So I think it is definitely true, and we've said this before, that the structure is that most of 25 the engagement with the executive branch happens with people on the policy team.

1 And questions about specific pieces of content get related to people on content teams,
2 and then answers typically get communicated back. Like, this notion of a wall within the
3 company is, I think, not saying that there's anything wrong with you asking the question,
4 but I don't know that she's testified or that we've ever said anything that would suggest
5 there is such a wall.
6 [redacted] Well, I --
7 Mr. Brown. But if you're asking the question --
8 [redacted] The question referred to a wall, but it's been, both in this interview
9 and others, representations regarding, again we use the term that I'm using, to keep the 10 content moderation team insulated from certain external pressures. So it's a perfectly
11 appropriate line of questioning to understand how that operates. Clearly -- 12 Mr. Brown. But they're not external. Their policy team is not external. It's 13 internal.
14 [redacted] But that's the team with primary responsibility for engaging with the 15 external stakeholders.
16 Mr. Brown. Right. And I think we've instructed, they don't talk to -- 17 [redacted] -- they --
18 Mr. Brown. -- I'm sorry about that.
19 [redacted] No problem. Yes, no one's denying what each team's role is, and no
20 one is trying to suggest that teams don't talk to one another --
21 Mr. Brown. Okay.
22 [redacted] -- right? But there are benefits that [redacted] laid out, why the 23 content moderation team is relatively insulated from other teams.
24 Mr. Brown. From the -- from the government?
25 [redacted] Yes.

1 Mr. Brown. Yeah, that's not from teams.

2 [redacted] From -- excuse me -- from the government.

3 Mr. Brown. Yes.

4 [redacted] Because we're trying to gain an understanding of how that filtering

5 process works. So, in some cases, the content moderation team learns who the 6 government stakeholder is, what the viewpoint of that government stakeholder is, and

7 with respect to content moderation policies -- and we're trying to understand who makes

8 that decision, how is that filtering occurring, because some things are getting to the 9 content moderation team.

10 Mr. Brown. If you have an answer for him, you're obviously welcome to give it.

11 [redacted] Is there a more specific version of the question that you most -- that 12 you would like me to answer?

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Sure. And so the answer may be that there's no one on the team that isn't

15 able to be contacted by someone on the public policy team, and if that's the case, please

16 correct me. The question is not trying to assume anything.

17 The question was, is whether there was a certain seniority or if there were junior

18 folks on the content moderation team that were deliberately, you know, walled off or

19 limited in their ability to interact with the public policy team?

20 A Thank you. No one within my team, within the misinformation policy

21 team, would be explicitly not allowed to speak to someone on our public policy team. I

22 think as was said, sometimes people might have a quick question about, you know, when

23 did X policy change, and there's no need to ask [redacted], the head of our team,

24 that question directly. They're able to go to anyone on the team who might have that

25 information.

1 Q With respect to the information that was -- that you became aware of
2 regarding the White House's views in 2021, do you recall if there were any discussions
3 related to that, that rose to the level of roping in [redacted]?
4 A See, I don't recall a lot of the specifics. I think that, in general, throughout
5 the pandemic, our approach was highly scrutinized. So [redacted] likely would've had 6 some oversight over, you know, decisions to change our policies, and ultimately she is 7 accountable for those policies, so it would be normal, almost at any given time, for her to 8 be involved in approving policies.
9 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please.
10 [Recess.]
11 [redacted] Okay. We are back on the record.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q And I wanted to first say something that -- counsel said earlier, he referred 14 to your team, he said your team's role was content moderation. I just want to clarify on 15 that. That was a prelude to a question. And I believe your team was also referred to 16 as the content moderation policy team. Your team is content policy creation, correct?
17 A That's correct.
18 Q I mean, "creation" is not in the word, but that's your job?
19 A My team is responsible for the development of our content policies.
20 Q And your team does not enforce the policies?
21 A That's correct. It's a different team involved in those kind of routine
22 enforcement decisions.
23 Q And so it's fair to say that your team is not actually the team that's doing the 24 content moderation, that's engaging in content moderation?
25 A That's -- that's not the primary responsibility of my team, correct.

1 Q Thank you.

2 I want to talk to you a little bit about this notion of insulation. What I
3 understood from that phrase, and please let me know if I was incorrect, was that your 4 team is insulated in the sense that you typically don't have direct contact with the 5 third-party stakeholders, such as the White House or other government agencies, unless 6 you're brought in for some of the examples you gave, like if one of those stakeholders has 7 questions in a meeting, folks think you might be able to answer those questions better.

8 But, generally speaking, what you're insulated from is the day-to-day contact with 9 the external stakeholders, and that's what you meant by "insulation"? Am I
10 understanding that correctly?

11 A That is correct.

12 Q So it's not that you're insulated from learning what their opinions are. It's 13 just you're not the one receiving that feedback directly from the stakeholders?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q And you were asked several questions about the White House, and you
16 responded by talking about how your team works with or gets information from external
17 stakeholders generally. The White House is only one of many, many external 18 stakeholders that Facebook deals with, correct -- or Meta?

19 A That's correct, yes.

20 Q And I'm trying to phrase my question. I don't want to put words in your 21 mouth, but does the White House or do government agencies have a special status with 22 respect to your work, that differentiates them from other external stakeholders, or are 23 they generally treated the same?

24 A They would generally be treated the same. We would hear feedback from 25 any range of stakeholders and, you know, look at that feedback or questions.

1 Q So that's consistent with you being asked a question about the White House
2 and responding about external stakeholders generally, correct?
3 A That's correct.
4 Q Can you explain a little bit about what you mean by the phrase
5 "stakeholder"? What exactly does that mean, and who are some other stakeholders
6 besides government agencies? I think you mentioned this a little bit before, but if we 7 can --
8 A Sure, sure.
9 Q -- dig into that a little bit more.
10 A I mean, to give a specific example just to reinforce, when it came to 11 developing our COVID-19 policies, which we adopted very early on in the pandemic, one
12 of our values -- and I think this comes out in -- we say this in our public-facing language,
13 but it's to engage with stakeholders from diverse perspectives.
14 We have a global user base, and we want to ensure that as many perspectives as 15 possible are incorporated into our policy development. So, for COVID, some of the 16 stakeholders we consulted -- and, again, I was not, myself, part of most of these 17 conversations -- would've been both experts on epidemiology, public health experts, and 18 also freedom of expression experts, people from the United States, people from Asia,
19 people from all parts of the world, to understand what was top of mind for them and help
20 us -- help us shape the policy that we ultimately adopted.
21 Q And, as you mentioned, the policy was developed early on. I believe you
22 said you started developing the policy in January of 2020, correct?
23 A That's correct.
24 Q And so Facebook had policies against COVID misinformation before even the 25 public health emergency was declared in this country?

1 A Concurrent with -- oh, well, you'll have to remind me of the date the public
2 health emergency was declared in the U.S., but the policies were developed in January
3 2020 and announced at the same time that the World Health Organization declared
4 COVID was a public health emergency of international concern.
5 Q And, along those lines, you were asked earlier -- or I don't recall what you
6 were asked, but I believe you said that you did not recall any meetings with the Trump
7 White House about COVID?
8 A I don't recall personally being involved in such meetings.
9 Q I wanted to draw your attention back to exhibit 1, and I'm going to give you
10 my copy of it. This was the email that you were not on, but your email address was 11 listed as one of the participants.
12 A I recall reading this, yes.
13 Q And, directing your attention to page 6522 and referring to the numbers at 14 the bottom right side of the page, this email references a White House-industry
15 conference call from March 16th, 2020. Do you see that on the second paragraph on 16 that page?
17 A I do see that.
18 Q On March 16th, 2020, Donald Trump was the President of the United States,
19 correct?
20 A Yes.
21 Q And so that would've been the Trump White House that had an industry
22 conference call?
23 A I don't remember the specifics here, but I see the language.
24 Q Everything in this exhibit is from -- all the emails in this exhibit are from 25 March of 2020, correct?

1 A That's my understanding.

2 It looks like what this email is saying is, there was a White House-industry

3 conference call on March 16th, 2020, indicating priorities for, one, prominently directing

4 consumers to accurate and authoritative information, parentheses, the CDC, WHO, or

5 FEMA, and two, directing consumers to accurate information on forthcoming expanded

6 testing and how to get tested.

7 Q Thank you. And, again, I know that you don't remember and you don't

8 even recall if you were part of that meeting, but that meeting would've been necessarily 9 with the Trump White House given that it was in March of 2020?

10 A That seems accurate, yes.

11 Q Okay. Thank you. I can take that back.

12 You mentioned that one part of your job, in terms of interfacing with external

13 stakeholders, is, sometimes you're called in to put together responses to letters from 14 Congress, correct.

15 A That's correct.

16 Q Do you recall specific letters that you've had to respond to?

17 A There have been a number of them over the seven years I've been at Meta.

18 Q Have you responded to any particular to this investigation?

19 A I'd have to think about that. I -- I don't have kind of a clear list of all the 20 letters in my head. And sometimes I'm only asked to look at one question and not even 21 the whole -- the whole letter.

22 Q Makes sense.

23 You were asked a series of questions relating how you came to know about the 24 so-called disinformation dozen and the White House's concerns about them. And again

25 I just want to make sure I understood your answer correctly, which is that you're not sure

1 if the knowledge came from somebody within the company telling you or if it was
2 something that you read about from the press since the White House was -- you know,
3 various people in the administration were making promise -- all you know is that you
4 heard about it somehow.
5 A That's correct. At this point several years later, I remember being aware of 6 it, but I do not have specific recollection of how I came to be aware.
7 [redacted] And that's it for me right now. Thank you.
8 We can go off the record.
9 [Recess.]
10 [redacted] Can we go on the record, please.
11 [redacted] On the record. Sorry.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Do you recall a meeting with other people at Meta in the summer,
14 August -- or summer of 2021 about the Surgeon General's position on vaccine
15 misinformation?
16 A I don't recall the specifics of such a meeting.
17 Q Do you recall discussing a potential response to the Surgeon General?
18 A I am aware we -- we got questions from the Surgeon General's office about 19 our policies.
20 Q And do you know what those questions were?
21 Mr. Brown. If you have a document that reflects the conversation --
22 [redacted] Sure.
23 Mr. Brown. -- that could refresh her memory, we'd --
24 [redacted] Sure.
25 Mr. Brown. -- just as soon see it.

1 [redacted] The question isn't necessarily limited to what's in this exhibit.

2 [redacted] Exhibit 3.

3 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 3.

4 Was marked for identification.]

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q This is exhibit 3.

7 A I've read this email.

8 Q Okay. So you said that the Surgeon General's office posed questions to 9 Meta about misinformation. Is that right?

10 A I do remember being aware, yes, that the Surgeon General's Office had 11 posed questions to Meta about our COVID information response.

12 Q And do you know what kind of questions those were or what the questions

13 were?

14 A I do not remember the specifics.

15 Q Did you see them?

16 A I don't remember.

17 Q Do you know if they were in written form?

18 A I don't remember.

19 Q So, during this discussion that's referred to here on August -- our August 6th

20 discussion regarding your response to the Surgeon General, do you know who

21 participated in that discussion?

22 A I -- I don't -- I don't remember.

23 Q Did you? Do you recall taking part in that discussion?

24 A It's possible. I don't have a specific recollection of whether I specifically

25 participated in the internal meeting in question.

1 Q So, below the email, the signature from [redacted] [redacted], there are a
2 number of options given for what appeared to me to be policy changes. Would you
3 agree with that description?
4 A That's correct, these are policy changes.
5 Q And were those options discussed as part of the response to the
6 Surgeon General?
7 A Based on the email here, it sounds like [redacted] was describing these options
8 as policy options we had discussed subsequent to hearing questions from the 9 Surgeon General.
10 Q You said "subsequent," but would you say that it was because the 11 Surgeon General asked certain questions or said certain things that those policy changes
12 were being discussed?
13 A Based on what's here, and my recollection, is, our -- my leadership asked 14 us -- "me" being misinfo policy team -- to look at certain options with respect to -- to take 15 a close look at our COVID misinformation policies and provided this sphere, that we 16 should look at four discrete policy options to reduce the prevalence of COVID-19
17 misinformation on our platforms.
18 So we scoped out those options -- and, again, this email explains that we made
19 the decision, our leadership made the decision that we should implement these options.
20 Q And so those were all implemented, all four?
21 A Based on what is -- what is written here, these were implemented. I -- on 22 the first specifically, I don't have a great recollection of whether that ultimately was 23 implemented. The other -- option 2, option 3, and option 4, I can speak to those, those 24 were implemented.
25 Q When you say your leadership, just to clarify, is that Nick Clegg,

1 [redacted], and [redacted], or is there anyone else -- or is that not an accurate
2 description of the leadership list?
3 A I'm -- I'm -- when I say my leadership, I mostly mean [redacted], but --
4 Q Okay.
5 A -- yeah.
6 Q Okay.
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q You recall that options 2, 3, and 4 were implemented and possibly option 1
9 as well. Do you recall why there was -- referencing the underlined language, As 10 discussed further below, we plan to roll out the first three options over the next coming
11 weeks and will roll out the fourth option as an escalation-only policy.
12 First, what does that language mean, as, quote, as an escalation-only policy?
13 A Sorry, which option are you on specifically?
14 Q So there's four options listed below [redacted]'s signature, but then, in the 15 body of his email, he has an underlined sentence --
16 A I see.
17 Q -- where he says "as discussed further below," and then he distinguishes 18 between the first three and the fourth, noting the fourth as, quote, an escalation-only
19 policy.
20 Can you explain what he meant by that?
21 A So I can't speak for [redacted]. I can take a step back and explain what an 22 escalation-only policy would be, and it's when we develop policy, we are always looking 23 to develop policies that can actually be enforced. We wouldn't want to write a policy
24 that can't be enforced.
25 Most of the time we develop policies that we can enforce at scale, and that means

1 really we use -- the policy is enforced whenever we become aware of content that
2 violates the policy.
3 An escalation policy means the policy is only enforced when we have sufficient
4 context to assess the policy -- assess the content under the policy. It may not be 5 something that we are operationally able to implement at scale.

1 [2:14 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay.

4 In option 1, there's a couple references to a term called "non-recommendable."

5 What does that term mean?

6 A We have policies for when we recommend content to users. Those are

7 public-facing policies that we make available in our Transparency Center. Content that

8 is not recommendable is content that we will not proactively show people in places

9 where they might see content they haven't already chosen to see.

10 So, for example, there are features that allow you to see and follow accounts that

11 we have signal may be connected to other accounts you're interested in but you haven't

12 chosen to follow those accounts. That would be a recommendation, surface. And we

13 have a higher bar there for the content we display, because we know people haven't

14 explicitly told us they want to see that content.

15 Q In option 1a, there's a reference to, provided as an example, "RFK Jr.'s IG

16 Account is removed, so his FB Page will be non-recommendable."

17 Do you know, with the implementation of -- or with the addition of Threads to

18 Meta's apps and products, whether a -- just at a higher -- not specific to this example, that

19 Threads would be included in policies like this?

20 So let me rephrase that question.

21 If there's a -- if, prior to the creation of Threads, if there was a policy linking

22 Facebook and Instagram, has that policy automatically been extended to -- to extend to

23 Threads as well?

24 A I definitely can't speak to the specific policies here in Threads. But, at a

25 higher level, we are enforcing our Facebook community standards and Instagram

1 community guidelines, which is essentially the community standards, on Threads content.
2 Q And as part of that, is action ever taken to someone's Threads account based
3 off content they've posted or actions they've taken on Instagram or Facebook?
4 A I am not an expert on Threads, but I can tell you that -- that product is very
5 new and I haven't been closely involved.
6 I can tell you that enforcement actions taken on Facebook content are specific to 7 Facebook when it comes to how we ladder-up penalties. What people post to their 8 Instagram accounts is then looked at specifically on Instagram. The two are separate.
9 Q For option 3, 3a, there's a reference to: "Impact: We currently demote
10 content rated Partly False at 50%. We will increase that demotion level to 80% for 11 COVID and vaccine misinfo."
12 First, the higher-level question. I think it was in the first hour when we were 13 discussing about visibility being reduced. Is the reference here to "demote content" and 14 "demotion level," is that referring to the same action?
15 A This is referring to the action we take when fact-checkers rate content 16 "partly false," which is one of the rating options that fact-checkers have to choose among.
17 Q When you were using the term "reducing visibility" during the first hour, is 18 that the same type of action as "demoting content"?
19 A Yes, that is.
20 Q And there are figures here. What does it mean to have content demoted
21 at 50 percent?
22 A I think what's important about that number is to understand that we're 23 trying to take the status quo and apply a stronger demotion to make that content less
24 visible in the news feed.
25 Q And, I guess, like, how is that measured? What is 50 percent less visible, if

1 I'm accurately saying that?

2 A The way that plays out is sort of -- can be specific to the content in question

3 and goes beyond my expertise to explain accurately.

4 Q Which team at the company handles the percentage by which content is 5 demoted?

6 A Broadly speaking, as I said, my team writes the policies. And we have parts

7 of the company that are responsible for enforcing those policies and also, you know,

8 taking actions within our products, you know, which requires engineering expertise.

9 Q So there are two figures here, 50 percent and then there's an increased level

10 of 80 percent.

11 Do you recall the figure by which -- this question goes back to the first hour.

12 There was a set of questions about the third-party fact-checkers and the policy that you

13 said was changed at the beginning of this year, but the policy that stood last year was

14 that, in that interim period from when Facebook sends a piece of content to the

15 third-party fact-checkers and are waiting for a response back, the content automatically

16 has its visibility reduced -- in this case, sounds like it's demoted.

17 During that interim period, do you know by how much content was demoted?

18 A I don't want to speak to those numbers. I don't want to say anything

19 inaccurate on that.

20 Q You don't know if it's 50 percent or if there's a default number?

21 A What I can confirm based on what is said here is that, at the time we wrote

22 this memo, or at the time [redacted] wrote this memo, our practice was to demote -- I

23 mean, this is specific to the action taken after a fact-checker chooses to rate content.

24 But, again, at that time, our practice was to demote, give reduced visibility, to

25 content rated "partly false" at a specific strength. And then the proposal here was to

1 increase the demotion strength to make that content less visible in the news feed.
2 Q Besides the example that's provided in this email chain about, you know,
3 being if it was "partly false" at 50 percent and then a demotion level to 80 percent for 4 COVID and vaccine misinformation, what other categories received a, you know, specific 5 demotion level?
6 A So, when fact-checkers choose to rate content "false," "altered," "partly 7 false," Meta will give less distribution to that content and show a fact-check.
8 Fact-checkers can also choose to rate content "missing context," and the default
9 there is not to demote the content but to still show a fact-checking label.
10 Fact-checkers can also rate content "true," in which case we do not, obviously,
11 demote the content, but we will link to the fact-checking article so people have more
12 information.
13 And fact-checkers can also rate content "satire." We have a specific definition of 14 "satire" that's in our public-facing Help Center. We're not asking fact-checkers to rate
15 content that is obviously satire and spoil the joke, but we know that in some cases people
16 have, you know, been confused about what is satirical. And so, if a fact-checker chooses
17 the "satire" rating, we do not demote the content.
18 Q So, taking 3a as an example, there's a universe of content that has been 19 rated "partly false." There's then a subset of that universe that relates to COVID or 20 vaccine misinformation that is demoted at a different level.
21 What other examples of content receive a demotion level that is different?
22 A I mean, I can best speak to what's sort of in front of me right now, in terms
23 of remembering all of our policies for the last several years.
24 During at this time, you know, consistent with our overarching principle of trying 25 to keep people safe during the pandemic, we proposed this option of looking at content

1 that, again, fact-checkers had already identified as being "partly false" -- and we have a
2 definition for what that term means -- and layering on top of that, as you said, if the 3 content was related to COVID and vaccine misinformation, and decided it was 4 appropriate to take stronger action, given the stage of the pandemic, to reduce the 5 visibility of that content.
6 I am not coming up with other examples, you know, right now, but I can explain
7 this one.
8 Q With the understanding you can't recall other specific examples, to the 9 extent you have an understanding on this, is this example the only one like it, where 10 there is kind of this specific carve-out to a specific subject matter that receives an 11 increase in the demotion level? Or is this a tool that was available to the company in 12 other examples, in other contexts?
13 A I can, again, best speak to our misinformation policies. I can walk you
14 through some of these other options based on what I'm reading here. But I'm not 15 thinking of other examples that perfectly address your question.
16 Q Do you have any recollection, as far as when this example was being put 17 together and being considered by folks you work with, if this was the first time that this 18 option had been considered for a specific subject area of content?
19 A I think, from what I remember, COVID was, you know, such a -- it played out 20 over a number of years, and at a number of points in the pandemic, we looked at our 21 policies, not only our policies for removing COVID misinformation but also our policies for 22 fact-checking, to understand if we were getting that balance that I had described right of 23 enabling expression, enabling people to share their personal experiences.
24 I think we talked earlier about how certain kinds of content are not eligible for 25 fact-checking -- for example, people's opinions. And under our COVID misinformation

1 policies, we explicitly said we were not intending to prevent people from sharing their
2 personal experiences, so -- but also mindful of the real public health risks and the truly
3 unprecedented nature of the pandemic.
4 So I do believe -- we regularly looked at policies. It's possible these specific 5 options are options we'd, you know, considered at different times using. But in our 6 toolkit of levers, changing the demotion strength would've been one of those tools.
7 Q And, to your knowledge, changing the demotion strength to a different
8 subject area of content that had been rated "partly false," had that ever been used
9 previously prior to August of 2021?
10 A I do not remember. I do not remember.
11 Q Do you know who might be able to -- who else might be able to answer that
12 question?
13 A It's the kind of thing you could potentially ask [redacted] about, given 14 she heads up our entire team.
15 Q Okay.
16 We can take these back. Thank you.
17 Are you familiar with the October 2020 New York Post story on Hunter Biden's 18 laptop?
19 A I am.
20 Q And do you have a familiarity with what actions Facebook took with respect
21 to the story?
22 A I do.
23 Q Okay. And what's your understanding of what actions, if any, Facebook
24 took with respect to the story?
25 A My memory is that we became aware of the New York Post story the day it

1 was published. People were asking questions at the time about the authenticity of the 2 story. We sent the story to third-party fact-checkers so they could decide whether to 3 rate or review. It's the kind of thing that could benefit from fact-checking.
4 It was always available. People could always see it and share the story with 5 friends. And, ultimately, it stayed on the platform.
6 Q And starting with the beginning of your answer, you said that "we" became 7 aware of the story. Were you referring to your team or the company?
8 A I was referring to my team.
9 Q And how did your team become aware of the story?
10 A I don't remember specifically how we became aware of it. My recollection 11 is, we made the decision early on in the day to send the content to third-party
12 fact-checkers.
13 Q And who made that decision?
14 A My memory is, it was a consensus decision, supported across the content
15 policy team, a decision [redacted] supported.
16 Q I'm sorry, what was that last part?
17 A A decision [redacted] supported.
18 Q Do you recall anyone outside of your team being involved in the 19 decision-making process?
20 Mr. Brown. I'm sorry, the decision-making process about what?
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q About the decision to send the New York Post story to third-party
23 fact-checkers that day.
24 A I would just say again, I don't remember the specifics of who all was involved
25 in the decision. It was a decision -- my memory is, it was a consensus decision made by

1 the content policy team that [redacted] supported, that other leaders, such as [redacted]
2 [redacted], also supported.
3 Q And when you say it was a consensus decision, do you recall there being a
4 discussion of some type during the day?
5 A I don't have a specific recollection. What I do remember is, the decision
6 was made early on in the day. I'm based on the West Coast. I remember that was 7 early in my morning. It's not something that I spent a lot of time on during the day.
8 Q But you do recall you were one of the individuals that participated --
9 A I do remember being part of the conversation, yes.
10 Q And do you recall if these discussions were taking place in writing or if there
11 was a videoconference call?
12 A I don't remember the specifics, given how long it's been.
13 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
14 A Yes, I do.
15 Q Who is he?
16 A He is another member of the content policy team.
17 Q And do you know who [redacted] is?
18 A Yes, I do.
19 Q And who is he?
20 A He is also another member of the content policy team.
21 Q Did you have discussions with either of them on the day that the story came
22 out?
23 A I don't remember if I did.
24 Q As part of your role, and not just specific to this example, do you have 25 familiarity with Facebook's hack-and-leak policy?

1 A I am vaguely familiar that there is such a policy.

2 Q And do you know who at the company, if anybody, conducted an assessment

3 of whether the New York Post story -- whether any action could be taken under

4 Facebook's hack-and-leak policy?

5 A I don't remember specifically. That would not have been the responsibility

6 of the misinformation policy team. That was not a policy that our team owned or --

7 Q Would it be a responsibility of the team that [redacted] and [redacted]

8 [redacted] are affiliated with?

9 A I don't remember specifically who would own that policy. Ultimately, like

10 all of the community standards, it's something that [redacted] would be accountable

11 for.

12 Q During any discussions that are taking place the day the story comes out, do

13 you recall receiving any information, internally within the company, about whether the 14 story or any of its contents are the product of a hack-and-leak operation?

15 A I do not remember being part of any conversations on that topic.

16 Q To your recollection, whether the story was a potential product of a

17 hack-and-leak operation, did that at all factor into your team's assessment as far as what

18 the next appropriate step would be?

19 A That kind of an assessment would've been made by another team, as you

20 said.

21 What I remember is, again, we made the decision to send the story to third-party

22 fact-checkers early on in the day because people were asking a lot of questions about the

23 authenticity of the story and it's the kind of thing that could have benefited from

24 fact-checking.

25 Q Once the story was sent to the third-party fact-checkers that day, was the

1 story demoted?
2 A Yes, the story was demoted.
3 Q And how long was the story demoted for?
4 A For 7 days, though it was always available to people. People could share
5 the story with their friends during that time period.
6 Q Do you know the percentage by which the story was demoted during these 7
7 days?
8 A I don't remember the specifics and don't want to get that wrong.
9 Q And this is October of 2020. For the policies we were discussing earlier,
10 that change that will start with this year, but referring to the policy that Facebook had in 11 place in 2022, was that the same policy that was in place in October of 2020?
12 A Under our policies at the time, we would temporarily demote content
13 pending our fact-checkers' review.
14 Q Do you recall, not, say, what the specific number was as far as the degree,
15 but was there in place a default percentage for stories to be demoted pending a 16 fact-checker's review?
17 A Yes, there would've been a default in place, like I said.
18 Q And, to your understanding, was the New York Post story demoted to 19 whatever that default number was?
20 A I would expect so, yes.
21 Q And then, at the end of 7 days, why was the story no longer demoted?
22 A Per our policy, if after 7 days fact-checkers choose not to rate or review
23 content, it's no longer available to them, and we will lift the demotion on the content.
24 Q Oh, so no fact-checker got back to Facebook in October of 2020 regarding 25 this story?

1 A No fact-checker rated this content on our platform.

2 Q Once a -- we'll use this specific case. Once the story had been sent to the

3 fact-checkers on the day, sounds like you said, the day the story was issued, and then for

4 that 7-day period, did anyone at the company follow up with any of the fact-checkers?

5 A I did not, and I'm not aware of anyone who did.

6 Q Do you recall anyone senior to [redacted] who was involved in the 7 decision to send the story to third-party fact-checkers?

8 A I don't recall specifically. My memory is, it was a decision made that

9 [redacted] supported.

10 Q Do you know if the decision was revisited at any point during the 7 days?

11 A I don't recall the specifics of the subsequent days.

12 Q Other than the 7 days where the story is demoted pending a third-party

13 fact-checker's review, did Facebook take any action against the story at any point?

14 A Not that I'm aware of.

15 Mr. Greene. I'm sorry. Did you ask, after that 7 days? Was that your

16 question?

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Yeah, anytime. Yeah, so it's actually after, since the action was taken the 19 day it came out.

20 A Not that I'm aware of. I will caveat that by saying I am only responsible for

21 our misinformation policies and so, you know, can't say for sure how that story has 22 existed on the platform for the last 4 years.

23 Q Do you know if anyone at the company asked anyone in the government for 24 information regarding whether the laptop was authentic or somehow related to a

25 hack-and-leak operation?

1 A I do not know. But our approach under our misinformation policies would
2 be to send the content to fact-checkers and defer to them to investigate the facts.
3 Q With the understanding that 7 days is how long the third-party fact-checkers
4 get, did you ever receive any analysis after the 7 days from any of the third-party
5 fact-checkers?
6 A No fact-checker ever chose to rate the story in our systems, on our platform.
7 Q When content is transmitted or shared in some fashion from Facebook to 8 the third-party fact-checkers, do you know how that occurs, just as a logistical matter?
9 A I think we covered some of this earlier, but our systems send content to 10 fact-checkers. All fact-checkers from a specific country can see the same content.
11 They can also choose whether to identify content that we didn't find that they think is 12 appropriate for fact-checking.
13 And, yeah, that's the basics of the process. If they rate content, then we take 14 enforcement action.
15 Q And you've referred a couple times to your systems. I guess my question is,
16 is it email? Is it a system independent of that that both the fact-checkers and Facebook
17 have access to? Just how, practically, does the content get shared to the fact-checkers?
18 A There's sort of an interface that fact-checkers have access to so they can see 19 the content we send them.
20 Q Is there a name for that interface system?
21 A I don't look at it myself, so I'm -- and I'm not actually sure what we 22 would -- how we would describe it to fact-checkers.
23 Q Do you know which teams at the company have access to this interface?
24 A I don't know all the specific teams who have access to the tool, this 25 interface. It's meant to be an interface that is fact-checker-facing, that fact-checkers

1 look at to see content. It's not something, as I mentioned, that I would look at regularly
2 as part of my job.
3 Q You had referred to a partnerships team earlier. Would that be a team
4 during 2020 that would have access to this interface?
5 A I can't speak for the team. At the time, it was not part of the content policy
6 organization. So I don't want to speak on their behalf.
7 Q When a fact-checker comes in, provides an assessment, I imagine there's the 8 top-line finding itself. Does the fact-checker provide a rationale explaining its finding?
9 A Yes. We require fact-checkers to write a reference article explaining the 10 basis or the rationale for their fact-check. And when that fact-checker rates content on 11 our platform, as I had mentioned, we will label the content and link to that fact-checker's
12 reference article.
13 Q Does the company receive any information that's not included in the 14 reference article?
15 A Well, the information we receive is the rating the fact-checker chose, 16 because that is what enables us to know what action to take.
17 Q Okay. So, besides the rating and whatever is in the reference article, is 18 there any other information that the fact-checker is sending along to the company?
19 A I don't believe so.
20 Q What's the average time between when a -- well, first, from when, whether 21 automatic or manual, someone from the company shares information with a
22 fact-checker, what's the time between from when that occurs to when Facebook receives 23 a response from a fact-checker?
24 A I think we talked about this earlier, but it can vary. For some content that's 25 been around the internet, some, you know, viral hoax stories, it would not necessarily

1 take a fact-checker particularly long to debunk that. Fact-checkers are able to apply
2 existing fact-checking articles to new versions of, you know, old content.
3 But for content that is -- or claims that are new, you know, potentially related to a
4 natural disaster that's playing out in real-time, it can take a fact-checker longer to do the 5 research to understand the facts.
6 [redacted] This is exhibit 4. Thank you.
7 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 4.
8 Was marked for identification.]
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Just take a look at this.
11 If you don't recall this, don't feel like you have to read the whole thing. I just 12 wanted to ask if you --
13 [redacted] Can you speak up a little bit?
14 Mr. Brown. If you don't mind, I think we'd like to --
15 [redacted] Yeah, sure, sure.
16 Mr. Brown. -- read the whole document.
17 [redacted] Sure.
18 Mr. Brown. Just for the record, this is a GDI document provided to you by 19 Google?
20 [redacted] Yeah.
21 Mr. Brown. Not a Meta --
22 [redacted] No, not Meta.
23 Mr. Brown. Okay.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q Does this look familiar to you at all?

A This does not.

Q Okay. Do you know what the Global Disinformation Index is?

A I do not.

Q Okay. So you did not see this, what appears to be a PowerPoint presentation, I guess?

A I don't remember seeing this previously.

Q Okay. Then we can move on from that.

So did Meta ever work with other companies on misinformation issues? Like, did you consult with or meet with other companies to discuss approaches?

A I don't remember, sort of, specifics of any such conversations. I believe I told you previously that I infrequently interact with people at other tech companies. You know, for example, at a tech -- a conference focused on an issue, I may talk to peer colleagues.

Q Sorry?

A If I were at a conference on a particular issue, I might see peer colleagues in that kind of venue.

Q Do you recall attending meetings with other companies? Not so much conferences, but meetings?

A I don't -- if there is a specific that you want to ask me about --

Q Yeah.

A -- that would be helpful, because this is not a big part of my job.

[[redacted] Exhibit No. 5.

Was marked for identification.]

BY [redacted]

Q So this is exhibit 5. Thank you.

1 A Thank you.

2 All right. I've looked at this document.

3 Q Do you know [redacted] and [redacted]?

4 A I do recognize their names.

5 Q Do you recall meeting with them?

6 A Yes. I -- at least, I do recall being on a phone call with [redacted] at one

7 point. I don't remember if -- I know who [redacted] is, given his role, but I don't have

8 as clear a recollection of whether I was in a meeting with him.

9 Q Since this is called a "bi-weekly sync," does that mean that these meetings

10 took place with some frequency?

11 A It looks like this is an invitation that [redacted], who's a colleague of 12 mine, owned. My memory is that at a certain point [redacted] invited me to join a sync

13 he had with some peers working on misinformation and disinformation, but I don't

14 remember the specifics of what was discussed.

15 Q So you don't remember the specifics at all?

16 A I don't --

17 Q Or the general --

18 A Like, this invite is from February 8, 2020, so, you know, at the time, I

19 imagine I could've been working on any number of issues. You know, that date doesn't 20 have a specific significance to me.

21 Q Do you know if you attended more of these biweekly syncs?

22 A My recollection is, it was something I -- infrequently. I wouldn't have done

23 on that many occasions. I don't remember. I don't remember at the time.

24 Q Do you remember if you attended some during the COVID era about COVID

25 misinformation?

1 A Just based on the date here, February 2020, we would've been working on
2 our -- you know, we would've already adopted some of our COVID policies. But we
3 also -- you know, I think earlier we looked at other areas of our misinformation policy as
4 spelled out in our community standards, which I am glad to go through. So it is possible
5 we discussed something else.
6 Q I can take these back.
7 [Exhibit No. 6.
8 Was marked for identification.]
9 BY
10 Q This is exhibit 6.
11 A I've had the chance to look at the document.
12 Q Do you recall this meeting with similar people -- , ,
13 also -- and it's also a biweekly sync?
14 A I do not remember the specifics of this meeting.
15 Q Okay. Just, do you know if you'd have any record of what was discussed at 16 the meeting?
17 A I don't know.
18 Q And so you don't recall coordinating with -- you know, even if you don't 19 remember the specific meeting -- coordinating with Google or Twitter on misinformation
20 policy?
21 A I don't remember the specifics of any coordination. I really don't 22 remember the specifics.
23 Mr. Brown. There's nothing on the document that even suggests that that's the 24 topic of the meeting. So I --
25 That's true.

1 Mr. Brown. Yeah.

2 [redacted] I'm sort of stepping back from the document.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Did you speak to other companies about strategies for combating

5 misinformation? Or coordinate or however you want to put it.

6 A As I said, I think I was very infrequently -- I infrequently am in touch with

7 other companies. Yeah, I don't have a lot to offer on the specifics of coordination with 8 other companies.

9 Q Do you know if anybody else at Meta would have been involved in such a

10 thing?

11 A I don't. I think it is, you know, possible that members of [redacted]'s

12 team would've been involved in conversations. You know, other members of the team

13 are involved in communication around our approach to terrorist content, for example,

14 and I know that happens in a very formalized setting across industry. But it's not an 15 area that, as I recall, I was personally involved in.

16 [redacted] Okay.

17 We can take those back then.

18 [Discussion off the record.]

19 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

20 [Recess.]

21 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q [redacted], I want to follow up with some questions about exhibit 3. This

24 was an email from Nick Clegg to you and several other people at Facebook, including 25 members of your team.

1 A That's correct.

2 Q Yes. And this is the email discussing the four different options that

3 Facebook had discussed or decided to implement to advance its COVID misinformation

4 policies, correct?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q Okay.

7 Now, on the face of this email -- I'm sorry. Actually, I'm looking at the email from 8 [redacted]. And he's your supervisor?

9 A That's correct.

10 Q And what he says is that, during the discussion with the Surgeon General on 11 August 6th, "we" -- and I assume by that he means Meta -- "agreed to further explore our

12 discrete policy options for reducing the prevalence of COVID-19 misinformation on our

13 platforms."

14 That's what's reflected in this email?

15 A That's correct.

16 Q So all that was agreed to was to explore policy options.

17 A Yes, it sounds like that's what happened. Right.

18 Q And, as reflected on this email, there was no agreement to actually change

19 policy; it was just to explore options.

20 A In, yes, that initial meeting.

21 Q Okay. And just to be clear, this is an entirely internal email among 22 Facebook personnel, correct? Or Meta personnel, I should say. Well, maybe it was 23 Facebook at the time.

24 A Yes.

25 Q Company personnel.

1 A Everyone on this email is a Facebook employee.
2 Q And I believe you stated that you recall discussing these options?
3 A Yes, I do.
4 Q Okay. And then the options were discussed, and then ultimately it was 5 decided by folks at Meta to implement these four. Is that a fair statement?
6 A Yes, that's an accurate representation of this email exchange.
7 Q Was anyone, to your knowledge, from the Surgeon General's office involved
8 in the decision to implement these four options?
9 A Not that I have any knowledge of.
10 Q And were there other more restrictive options that were considered and 11 rejected?
12 A Yes. I do remember that we had brainstormed additional options that 13 would've been more restrictive and that ultimately were not adopted.
14 Q And all of Facebook's misinformation policies apply -- if the 15 misinformation -- well, let me rephrase that. Sorry.
16 The policy covers content regardless of who the speaker is. If the content itself
17 falls within the parameters of your policy, it's subject to the policy --
18 A That's correct.
19 Q -- enforcement actions, correct?
20 A That's correct.
21 Q And it doesn't matter if the speaker is from the United States or somewhere
22 else?
23 A It does not.
24 Q It doesn't matter if they're from a particular political party?
25 A It does not. Yeah, our goal is to write policies that apply to our global user

1 base and enforce those policies consistently across all users.

2 Q Now, this email talks specifically about Facebook's COVID-19 misinformation

3 policies. Those policies are no longer in effect, correct?

4 A They are no longer in effect in the United States.

5 Q In the United States. And that's because there is no longer a public health

6 emergency with respect to COVID in the United States?

7 A That's correct. Earlier this year, we made the decision that we would roll

8 back enforcement of these policies given the state of the pandemic in the U.S.

9 Q Now, moving back to the Hunter Biden laptop story, I believe you said that

10 your team made the decision to send it on to fact-checking because your team believed

11 that the story could benefit from the fact-checking process.

12 Separate and apart from any concerns that it was a product of a hack-and-leak, do

13 you remember what factors led your team, which deals with a different type of content,

14 led you to believe that the story needed to be fact-checked?

15 A My memory from the time is, people were asking questions about the 16 authenticity of the story. We made the decision early on to send it to fact-checkers for 17 them to determine if it was appropriate to review and rate.

18 Q And were some of those questions related to the source of the story, the 19 fact that it came from Rudy Giuliani?

20 A I don't remember the specifics of our considerations at the time.

21 Q It was just simply you -- your memory is just that it was about the

22 authenticity, and you don't remember specifically what that was --

23 A That is correct, what I remember at this point.

24 Q And when the story was demoted, that was pursuant to, I guess,

25 then-Facebook's general policy of demoting content while it was being fact-checked.

1 A That's correct --

2 Q At the time.

3 A -- the policy that we would temporarily demote content to give fact-checkers

4 the opportunity to investigate and determine whether to rate and review content.

5 Q And so every piece of content that was fact-checked would be demoted in 6 that same way?

7 A The content that our systems sent to fact-checkers would've been demoted

8 in the same way.

9 Q And so this wasn't treated any differently -- the Hunter Biden story wasn't 10 treated any differently than other content that was sent to the fact-checkers.

11 A That's correct.

12 Q And, as you mentioned, it was still available on the platform?

13 A That's correct.

14 Q It would still show up in people's news feeds, just lower?

15 A That's correct. And people could share the story if they chose. It was 16 always available.

17 Q And, in fact, people did share the story over 300,000 times during that 1

18 week, correct?

19 A I don't remember the specific numbers, but --

20 Q But you're aware that it was shared --

21 A Yes.

22 Q -- during that week?

23 A Yes.

24 Q All right. That's it for us. Thank you.

25 We can go off the record.

1 [Recess.]

2 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Did or do you have contact with the CDC in your role?

5 A I would infrequently engage with that kind of stakeholder, but I --

6 [redacted] I'm sorry. I did not hear the question. I'm sorry.

7 [redacted] Oh. That's okay. Did she have contact with the CDC, or does she 8 have contact?

9 [redacted] Thanks.

10 [redacted] My answer was, I would infrequently have contact with that kind of 11 government stakeholder in my role, but I do recall some infrequent contact that I have 12 had with the CDC, yes.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q And when did that contact begin?

15 A I don't remember. I can think of maybe one time where I was in a

16 conversation with the CDC, maybe two.

17 Q Okay. Do you know if it was during the COVID era?

18 A Yes, I believe it was, yes.

19 Q And was it about COVID and misinformation about COVID?

20 A Again, I don't remember the specifics of the conversation. I don't know if 21 you have any specific documents you want me to look at?

22 Q Yeah. We can just jump to that.

23 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 7.

24 Was marked for identification.]

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q This is exhibit 7.
2 A I've had the chance to look at this.
3 Q Do you recall this meeting with CDC that was scheduled for March 25, 2021?
4 A I don't remember the specifics of what we discussed on, like, this particular
5 date.
6 Q You don't remember any specifics at all?
7 A I don't.
8 You know, looking at the information here and, as I sort of shared previously, my 9 role, if I was asked to join a call with an external stakeholder, would largely be to explain
10 our misinformation policies.
11 Q To the extent you recall, did CDC express concern to you about
12 misinformation policies?
13 A I do not remember what was discussed on this particular date.
14 Q I'm asking generally --
15 A In general?
16 Q -- if you don't recall this date.
17 A I don't have a lot of very specific memory of the questions the CDC asked.
18 As we talked about earlier, we'd initially consulted with a range of stakeholders
19 when developing our COVID policies. And, over time, throughout the course of the 20 pandemic, we would bring content to public health authorities when we were looking for 21 input on whether the content was both false and could lead to imminent physical harm
22 and would've raised, you know, questions of the CDC in that context.
23 Q Okay. So do you recall whether this meeting -- or, if you don't recall this
24 specific meeting, these meetings, the ones that you do recall, did Facebook seek them
25 out, or did CDC ask Facebook to hold the meetings, or how did they come about?

1 A I can't speak to, sort of, this particular series of meetings. From what I see
2 here, I was part of one of these meetings on March 25, 2021. That's really the extent of 3 what I can say. Yeah, I don't remember.

[3:18 p.m.]

[redacted] Okay.

Mr. Brown. You want this back?

[redacted] Oh, yes, please. Thank you.

This is exhibit 8.

[[redacted] Exhibit No. 8.

Was marked for identification.]

Mr. Brown. So there's a reference here to an attached deck, and I didn't know if you have that deck or not. It's possible we didn't have it and couldn't -- if we did have it and missed it. Otherwise, do you have that with you?

[redacted] I don't believe there was an attachment that I had.

Mr. Brown. Okay.

[redacted] I've had a chance to look at this.

BY [redacted]

Q So this also appears to be a meeting with the CDC on March 25th, 2021. Do you -- I understand you may not recall, but do you recall if this was the meeting that was discussed, or is this something separate --

A I don't recall.

Q -- than previous?

Okay. It seems to me that you were presenting. Although I could have that incorrect. Do you remember at all what you did at that meeting?

A I don't remember.

Q Okay. Do you have any knowledge of why the Census Bureau was part of this meeting?

A I don't have a recollection of that.

1 Q Do you recall ever meeting or speaking with Census at any time -- I mean,
2 any role in that?
3 A In the exhibit? I don't have a specific recollection, especially in the context
4 of COVID.
5 Q Okay. If you don't remember, then --
6 Okay. We can take them back.
7 [redacted] This is exhibit 9.
8 [redacted] Exhibit No. 9.
9 Was marked for identification.]
10 [redacted] I've had a chance to look at this email document.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q Do you recall what appears to be a meeting between Meta and the FDA on 13 June 10th, 2022?
14 A I have a vague recollection the meeting took place.
15 Q Do you -- I mean, the subject line says: Meta & FDA Misinformation
16 Briefing. Do you recall what was discussed at the meeting?
17 A I don't recall.
18 Q Do you know who was briefing who?
19 A I don't have a specific recollection of the substance of this meeting.
20 Q Do you recall who else was in attendance?
21 A Again, I don't have a specific recollection, so I would be working off of what 22 this calendar invite says but can't confirm who specifically was on the call.
23 Q Even if you don't remember this specific meeting, do you recall meeting with 24 the FDA at any point -- or if you don't recall the specifics of this meeting --
25 A Yeah, I -- I have a vague recollection that I met with the FDA, and I -- but it

1 would've been an infrequent kind of thing, so I don't remember specifics.

2 Q But it could've been more than once?

3 A I only can remember one interaction. This is -- this particular meeting looks

4 like it took place in 2022. So that's slightly more recent compared to some of the other

5 documents.

6 [redacted] Okay. I don't think I have any more questions.

7 Mr. Brown. Thank you. We'll go off the record.

8 [Whereupon, at 3:26 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

Transcribed Interview Transcript Errata Form

Interviewee	[redacted]
Date of Interview	7/25/23
Date of Review	8/17/23
Name of Reviewer	Jordan Greene
Signature of Reviewer

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
2	21-22	switch order of names: Reginald Brown Jordan L Greene
13	17	strike
13	23	"policy and consistent" → "policy consistent"
35	1	"I want" → "I would want"
35	4	"I want" → "I would want"
35	10	"is as" → "as"
55	17	strike

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: [redacted]

Wednesday, July 26, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 164, Cannon House Office Building, commencing at 10:02 a.m.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted] COUNSEL

8 [redacted] DIGITAL ASSISTANT

9 [redacted] SENIOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

10 [redacted] COUNSEL

11 [redacted] LAW CLERK

12 [redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

13 [redacted] MINORITY PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

14

15

16

17 For [redacted]:

18

19 REGGIE BROWN, ESQ.

20 JOSH GOLDBERG, ESQ.

21 Kirkland & Ellis

1

2 [10:02 a.m.]

3 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of [redacted]. Chairman Jordan has

4 requested this interview as part of the committee's investigation of how, and the extent

5 to which, the executive branch has coerced and colluded with companies from other

6 intermediaries to censor speech .

7 Would the witness please state your name for the record.

8 [redacted] [redacted]

9 [redacted] Thank you. On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for

10 appearing here today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your

11 willingness to appear voluntarily. My name is [redacted] and I am with Chairman

12 Jordan's staff. I will now have everyone else from the committee who is here in the 13 room introduce themselves as well.

14 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

15 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

16 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

17 [redacted] [redacted] Oversight counsel for the Judiciary Committee

18 Democrats.

19 [redacted] I would like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we

20 will follow during today's interview. Our questioning will proceed in rounds, the 21 majority will ask questions first for 1 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity

22 to ask questions for an equal period of time, if they choose. We will alternate back and

23 forth until there are no more questions and the interview is over. Typically, we take a

24 short break at the end of each hour. But if you'd like to take a break apart from that,

25 please just let us know.

1 As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything you say
2 into the written record. We ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do
3 you understand?
4 [redacted] Yes.
5 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our best
6 to limit the number of people directing questions at you. During any given hour it is just
7 those people on the staff whose turn it is. Please try and speak clearly so the court
8 reporter can understand and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you. It
9 is important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we can help it,
10 and that goes for everybody present in today's interview.
11 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with 12 counsel if they so choose. It is my understanding that you are appearing today with 13 counsel. Is that correct?
14 [redacted] That is correct.
15 [redacted] Would counsel please state your name for the record.
16 Mr. Brown. Reginald Brown, Kirkland & Ellis.
17 Mr. Goldberg. Josh Goldberg, Kirkland & Ellis.
18 [redacted] Thank you. We want you to answer our questions in the most 19 complete and truthful manner as possible so we will take our time. If you have any 20 questions, or if you do not understand one of our questions, please just let us know.
21 Our questions will cover a wide range of topics, so if you need clarification at any
22 point, just say so. If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not 23 remember, it is best not to guess. Please give us your best recollection, and it is okay to 24 tell us if you learned information from someone else, just indicate how you came to know
25 the information.

1 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so and please
2 inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete
3 answer to the question.
4 You should also understand that although this interview is not under oath, that by
5 law, you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand
6 that?
7 [redacted] I do.
8 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by Congressional staff in an
9 interview. Do you understand this?
10 [redacted] Yes.
11 [redacted] Witnesses that provide false testimony could be subject to criminal 12 prosecution for perjury for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. section 1001. Do 13 you understand this?
14 [redacted] Yes.
15 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to 16 today's questions?
17 [redacted] No reason.
18 [redacted] Finally, I would like to make a note that the content of what we 19 discuss here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in 20 this interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.
21 For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we use today will remain with the court
22 reporter so they can go in the official transcript. And any copies of those exhibits will be
23 returned to us when we wrap up.
24 That is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the 25 minority would like to add?

1 [redacted] Just thanks for taking the time to come in voluntarily with us
2 today, [redacted]
3 [redacted] Thank you.
4 [redacted] The clock reads 10:05, we will now start the first hour of questioning.
5 EXAMINATION
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q Can you tell us your current job title and where you work?
8 A Sure. I am [redacted]. I am the vice president of Trust and Safety Policy At 9 Meta.
10 Q So you are on a trust and safety team?
11 A Trust and safety is the title I have. The team that I sit on is the content
12 policy team.
13 Q And can you tell us your educational background starting with college?
14 A Sure thing. I attended the United States Naval Academy from 1994
15 through 1998, graduated with a degree in mathematics. Post the Naval Academy, I 16 spent 5 years in the Greek Rhodes, a different type of education. And then after the 17 Marine Corps, I went to law school in 2003 through 2006 at the University of Virginia.
18 Q And can you tell us your employment history?
19 A Sure thing.
20 Q After college.
21 A So I joined the military at 17, that took me through about 27, if you will give 22 or take. That was the period where I served in the Marine Corps. First the Department
23 of the Navy and then the Marine Corps. Following law school, I began to work at a law
24 firm here in Washington, D.C., Patton Boggs, L.L.P., which I now believe has merged with 25 another firm, Squire Patton Boggs is the name. I worked there for approximately

1 8 years, I believe, before transferring laterally into a different firm which was WilmerHale.
2 At that point, maybe roughly 2013 to -- late 2013, early 2016 I was at WilmerHale. I left
3 WilmerHale to join what was then Facebook, now Meta, in 2016 where I currently serve.
4 Q And what roles have you held at Meta?
5 A Sure. I first started out at Meta. I was hired to be a policy manager that 6 focused on our community standards so I joined the content policy team at that time, so 7 overseeing the development of our community standards, one of many people in that 8 field. As we progressed through and, you know, fortunately we were blessed in many 9 ways to both do good work and be recognized for that work. I advanced up in my career
10 leading teams focused on developing those policies and how we do trust and policy safety
11 team.
12 Q How do your roles differ from when you started to now -- in what you do?
13 A In some ways, not much different. I still have responsibility for the rules
14 that we write that dictate what we allow and not allow on the platform. Over the years,
15 they have become more complicated. We have much more breadth. Where perhaps 16 it is a bit different now, I do lead a team of subject matter experts that focus on some of 17 the most high-intensity issues that we face, largely maybe throughout society, but 18 definitely across the internet. Those things include issues like child safety, health and 19 well-being, human rights, terrorism, counterextremism, things like disinformation and 20 misinformation as well.
21 Q And how many people are on the team that you lead?
22 A I don't have the org chart in front of me today. I say that because we just 23 recently went through a reduction in force of roughly 75 people. We still have people in 24 consultation, globally different labor laws, perhaps leaving but not -- roughly 75.
25 Q And how many direct reports do you have?

1 A Including my executive assistant, I have six.

2 Q Can you tell us their names?

3 A [redacted], [redacted], [redacted], [redacted], [redacted]

4 [redacted] and [redacted]. It is a lot the vowels there.

5 Q And who do you report to?

6 A Sure. I report to [redacted].

7 Q And how does your role relate to [redacted]? Are you like parallel?

8 A No, I am more senior than [redacted] but our teams do work very closely

9 together to confront the challenge that we face as a social media company, including

10 those as I know [redacted] and I believe this misinformation work I have spoken with you.

11 And so we work together on those issues making sure that we are in the right place.

12 Some of the work that I help -- helped lead over, or at least have oversight over, has 13 misinformation components, but [redacted] is the lead.

14 Q So which work that you do has misinformation complaints?

15 A Honestly, I guess anything can have misinformation depending on the 16 subject, right? So that's one so we have to deal with it through a number of protocols.

17 But the one that's probably most closely related would be the work that we do on her

18 cybersecurity team. And so, for us cybersecurity covers a wide range of topics, things

19 like traditional cybersecurity, you think of like malware into other areas well, things like

20 account compromise, but also cyber espionage, and things like disinformation.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q When you first joined --

23 A Yes.

24 Q -- Facebook, who did you report to?

25 A At that time I first joined a gentleman by the name of [redacted].

1 Q And what was [redacted] role?

2 A He was, at that time, [redacted] deputy. He oversaw parts of the content

3 and policy team.

4 Q And how long was he the person you reported to?

5 A That's a great question. If I -- to the best of my ability, about 2 years, Ross

6 then transferred to a different part of our company and then subsequently left the

7 company.

8 Q When [redacted] transferred, was there a different person who took his role as

9 deputy or did you --

10 A I essentially took [redacted] role at that point.

11 Q And then once you took [redacted] role, were you reporting to [redacted]?

12 A I was reporting to [redacted] as I do now.

13 Q And how big was the content policy team when you first joined Facebook?

14 A When I first joined Facebook, I believe, give or take, of the content policy

15 team was around 28 to 36 people.

16 [Discussion off the record.]

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q And when you joined in 2016, was there a component of the team that

19 focused specifically on misinformation and disinformation?

20 A In 2016, there wasn't a specific -- we did not have a specific team focused on

21 that. Following a number of issues that arrived in 2016 through 2017 we recognized

22 that this was going an important way for us to both enhance our community standards,

23 and help us deal with content on our platform.

24 Q And what are some of the issues in 2016 or 2017?

25 A I think one of the biggest issues they took in a variety of different tactics,

1 some of the issues focused on seeing misinformation around developing world, world
2 events. I will try to give some color to that. So whether you are in parts of the 3 developing world, whether that's sub-Saharan Africa, parts of Asia, specifically Southeast
4 Asia seeing the spread of misinformation where there were perhaps digital literacy rates
5 and then what that impact had. In some cases that impact would actually turn into off
6 platform violence. And so, we were thinking about how do we develop policies to help
7 address those issues, and then largely a lot of the work that I focused on is how do we 8 ensure that our platform is not being used to or exploited to further some type of offline
9 violence.
10 After some additional developments, there was also foreign interference in the 11 2016 election where we recognize that misinformation comes in numerous forms. It
12 can come in different ways where people are trying to spread it, spread misinformation
13 for various reasons, some for offline violence, some for other reasons that we needed
14 some policies and objective standards to try to help us with these issues.
15 Q Your reference to the 2016 election, is that in reference to the 2016 U.S.
16 election?
17 A I am sorry, yes. I will try to be more clear. Yes, the 2016 U.S. election.
18 Q And in your previous answer, you were providing some global examples as 19 well and some U.S. examples in addition to concerns related to foreign interference with 20 the 2016 election. Were there other U.S. specific issues?
21 A That's the one that jumps out. I can't remember if there was something
22 smaller. That's the one that jumps out.
23 Q And -- and you had joined the company prior to the 2016 election. Is that
24 right?
25 A I did for clarity. I joined the company in April of 2016 so the beginning of

1 2016 in that position and maybe just -- it's helpful, to give a little more clarify on my role.
2 So I had that role that I initially joined the company for about 2 years. As I mentioned, I
3 received a promotion and then about a year after that promotion received I believe some 4 other promotion, but also, then took on the role that I currently lead, so it's about 5 2019 -- yeah, about 2019.
6 Q Can you walk us through as far as the elections in November, 2016 U.S.
7 election?
8 A That is correct.
9 Q How quickly there, you know, after the election occurs, does the company
10 begin to consider taking steps to begin to address misinformation or concerns into foreign 11 affairs?
12 A You know, unfortunately, I don't have a timeline or I can't recall exactly how 13 soon after. That's November, roughly November 8th or so of 2016. It was some point
14 after that, but I -- whether we worked through the holidays or of 2017, I don't have the 15 direct date. I remember being much more involved and focused on it in the summer, I 16 believe, of 2017, but work definitely led up to that point.
17 Q And were you personally involved in these discussions and the 18 developments of the policy?
19 A Well, I oversaw some of the folks that were in it originally involved with 20 helping to develop those issues, but sometimes these things kind the fog together, so I
21 don't -- I don't want to overstate my involvement in it either.
22 Q And what about the folks above you? Was [redacted] involved?
23 Mr. Brown. [redacted] can I ask, this -- the subpoena range is January 2020 to the 24 present so I am just trying to understand your focus on the period. I understand the 25 idea of getting general context. This meeting does not call for documents or information prior to January 1, 2020. So --

[redacted] Yes, we have had witnesses who have come and provided testimony related to content moderation policy changes in 2020, but there was a set of changes earlier, it sounds like, dating back to 2016. So it is entirely perfect to understand what changes were made and what changes were made on top of that.

Mr. Brown. And your view is that would be in scope and this would be --

[redacted] The document subpoena?

Mr. Brown. Yeah.

[redacted] Doesn't limit the scope of the --

Mr. Brown. -- transcribed interview?

[redacted] That is correct.

BY [redacted]

Q Please continue.

A I am going to ask you to repeat the --

Q Sure. You mentioned that you were overseeing folks who were involved.

A Sure.

Q Folks who were above you. So was [redacted] involved in these discussions?

A Yes. And I think maybe they provide some color we -- well, we have hierarchy and we have structure to our organizations, we are also fairly flat across and [redacted] would have been involved.

Q What about [redacted]?

A Yes.

Q And what was the outcome of what changes occurred to the policy?

A Again, what really jumps out to me I think that things are -- there are a few

1 things that jump out. First, we develop a misinformation and foreign policy that would
2 help remove misinformation where we thought that that would lead to imminent harm
3 off platform.
4 So that could be anything of misinformation related to healthcare that's, you
5 know, drink bleach to secure X so we are going to remove that. But also, we found was 6 in certain locations, as I kind of mentioned in some of the developing world on locations
7 where we saw content being shared that was false. For example, look what is 8 happening on the corner of Maine and First in Rwanda and it's a picture of the genocide
9 that happened in the 1990s, and using that as a catalyst to further out some -- you know,
10 some other type of ill, you know, action. And more people where we see enough signal
11 that that was actually or potentially causing offline harm, and we would take action
12 against those. Those were the parts that I think I was most closely involved with. But 13 we did develop a policy that dealt with misinformation, which is important to the extent 14 that we also recognize our limitations on actually identifying what misinformation is.
15 But I think you may have heard us -- I have said this and said this, I think, before this 16 committee that we are not the arbiters of truth. Like, who am I to say what is actually 17 true or not true, especially on developing issues.
18 So at that point, we recognize that we needed a different approach than perhaps 19 our traditional binary approach of leave content up, remove content.
20 In a case like nudity, like, you kind of see Oh, that looks like a penis. It doesn't 21 look like a penis, you can make that decision a lot easier. But when someone is stating 22 something as an opinion or stating something as fact is that misinformation, how do you
23 deal with that? And so we had to develop an approach at that point.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q When you said take an action, what was the action, removing or demoting

1 or --

2 A I'm going to ask you to clarify that action on.

3 Q On misinformation?

4 A Sure.

5 Q So do you consider removal to be the way to deal with it or did you have

6 different types of dealing with different types of misinformation?

7 A I think it -- I think it's the latter, to be clear to repeat that. We had different

8 types of misinformation. So the misinformation harm that I have spoken about we 9 would remove that type of content if we felt that it would lead to imminent offline harm.

10 So if there is, like, an imminent there is from a new reversibility, we would remove that

11 type of content. But again, not wanting to be the arbiters of truth we recognized that

12 we needed a new way actually to approach that. And so we took what we call an

13 approach to misinformation that we, you know, kind of easily can remember as remove,

14 reduce and inform.

15 So we have policies that deal with authenticity of actors so, you know, you have

16 spoken with Nathaniel, and Nathaniel has perhaps he told you about appropriating

17 authentic behavior policies. So we are looking at people who are not representing who

18 they are. It's fake names, all of those things. We may remove the actor, and say,

19 Okay, you are not this person. But for the content, which is the underlying question I

20 think you are going to, with what do you do with the content? So for that content, we

21 don't want to be the ones, like, trying to make that decision, so what do we do? We

22 reduce it so we reduce the availability in your feed and not recommend that to you

23 because we know that those things may carry a level of virality. And also try to use an

24 informed treatment. And so, for the informed treatments, we would essentially label it

25 and say that this has been fact-checked. And I want to make sure that it's clear. As I

1 said, we do not -- we are not the arbiters of truth certain. We don't want to hold that,
2 but we do work with a third-party fact-checking network. And that third-party
3 fact-checking network, based off of their own international standards, they must adhere 4 to the journalistic ethics. They then provide those fact checks, and we entrust them to 5 make those calls.
6 Q And what are those third-party fact-checkers?
7 A There are multidozen fact-checkers across a number of languages globally
8 that adhere to the Poynter's International Fact-Checking Network, and that's a standard
9 body that does fact checking for us. We accept any -- like, we encourage people to go
10 apply, if you don't apply to us, apply through the fact-checking network. We encourage 11 people who have the journalistic capabilities, that experience, the ability to do 12 investigative reporting in some ways to make those applications, apply and to bring those 13 organizations in. We have a wider range of organizations.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q When it comes to the vetting process, does anyone at the company, or is it
16 any processes that are exclusively through Poynter?
17 A The Poynt -- it's the Poynter networks that does the vetting process.
18 Q Do you know if it is part of the vetting process to take into account
19 allegations related to the political bias?
20 A I don't want to speak for Poynter. I don't want to speculate. They do
21 have their own ethics. I believe in those ethics, that they do address insuring that you
22 do not carry any bias in that. But I would defer to Poynter, and I think their information
23 is public.
24 Q Does the company ever periodically vet Poynter International and their 25 vetting folks or once the decision was made, it's just --

1 A That's a great question. I would -- I don't know offhand. If you are asking
2 how do we check Poynter, I didn't know offhand.
3 Q Which team at the company is the primary point of engagement with 4 third-party fact-checkers with Poynter?
5 A It is within the content policy team and with [redacted].
6 Q And is there an individual who leads their team or subdivision that's 7 primarily responsible for dealing with third-party fact-checkers?
8 A I don't have the org chart in front of me, I would go to Justine for these 9 issues.
10 Q Just as a point of clarification, initially a few answers back, we were 11 discussing the steps related to misinformation, disinformation following the 2016
12 election.
13 A Sure.
14 Q A set of policies developed. You also referenced coordinated inauthentic 15 behavior. All right. See if we understand were you referring to two different sets of 16 policies? And if so, when was each adopted?
17 A Can you repeat that last part?
18 Q Sure. Were you referring to two different sets of policies? And if so,
19 when were each set of policies adopted?
20 A On the second question I -- when were each set of the policies adopted, I
21 just don't have the information in front of me to give you an accurate response. There
22 are two separate policies, there is some interplay, but there are two separate policies.
23 Again, the coordinated and authentic behavior is focused somewhat in the name.
24 Let's focus on the behavior of those actors, so you are -- inauthentic -- inauthentic actors
25 that are coordinating away to mislead people about what your intentions are, and that

1 may be for sharing of misinformation. And in that case, we would probably call it
2 disinformation. Misinformation is broadly -- anyone can make, you know, just say
3 something that's false. I could come in here and say, Okay, I am 6 foot 4 and the most
4 handsome guy on Earth. That might be misinformation. That might be 5 misinformation, but is that meant to lead someone to a false conclusion on these things.
6 So we try to make that qualitative in our assessments as well.
7 Q Were you involved in the development of the coordinated and authentic 8 behavior policy?
9 A I -- in the initial stages, I was not.
10 Q What about after the initial stages?
11 A Now that I oversee the team for new and developing issues within that set, I
12 have some oversight.
13 Q And the third-party fact-checkers, are they connected just to the 14 misinformation policy or do they play any role with the enforcement of the coordinating 15 and unauthentic behavior?
16 A No, the coordinated and authentic behavior policy, you know, and I guess
17 maybe it slights it back right now to ensure that becomes clear and specific. We 18 obviously own -- not obviously, I don't mean to say it that way, but we own our policies.
19 We own the policies. We write those policies, we own the enforcement of those 20 policies.
21 For things like misinformation, we do rely on those third-party fact-checkers to 22 actua -- because we don't want to be arbiters of the truth, they actually give us an 23 indication of whether something is false, partly false, partly true, to carry through. And 24 then that helps us go forward making our decisions, maybe we labeled something.
25 Looked at Hey, this is true, perhaps no action. They don't have a direct play other than

1 if a coordinated network of individuals was sharing this information for the purposes of 2 influence -- influence operation, at that point, then there would be the interplay so these 3 things are close but they are separate and distinct. And the fact-checkers they really
4 have no role in our coordinated and unauthentic behavior. Again, we are looking at that 5 point for on-platform signals of inauthenticity coordination.
6 Q Do you recall when approximately they [inaudible] in either direction?
7 A When it became my direct report. Yes, that would have been around that 8 2019 timeframe. So fall of 2019 I believe.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q A couple more questions about your role.
11 A Sure.
12 Q So do the people who report to you, what do they do and then what do you
13 do in relation to that?
14 A I am chuckling. They lead -- they are subject matter experts. I am very 15 fortunate to be -- to lead a team of true subject matter experts. People are often on 16 their second careers of an expertise. We have folks that have worked in academia.
17 We have folks who have done, you know, work for human rights organizations, et cetera,
18 folks who were partners at law firms that bring a certain level of sophistication for the 19 subject matters that they deal with. So whether that is something like disinformation in 20 cybersecurity, whether that is through child safety they bring a level of sophistication 21 expertise to those subjects where they can go in at the very, very tactical level, and also 22 spend up to, like, go up in strategy for a tech company with 3 billion people.
23 My role is to ensure it has a little bit of oversight to kind of, in some ways,
24 synthesize -- because I am from New Jersey I apologize tend to talk with my hands -- to 25 synthesize their issues versus where we are as a business, what we are attempting to do,

1 and maybe seeing across multiple variables. So, for example, and here's one that
2 recently came up, human exploitation and human trafficking, it's a scourge on the planet,
3 and it is a whole site problem. We have teams that focus on safety, safety for children,
4 safety for vulnerable populations.
5 We also have teams that focus on criminal organizations. And so in my role, I sit
6 there and say, You know, we have this issue that deals with human trafficking, yes, you
7 want to protect children, you want to protect the vulnerable that may be subject to that.
8 And you over here, you want to eliminate cartels and you want to eliminate organized
9 crime. Let's bring those together, let's work in a way that can utilize both your skill sets 10 along with the rest of our leads from our team to ensure that we have correct policies in 11 place, we have correct enforcement in place. So that's -- try to synthesize those things 12 where there may be fall along the gaps, give advice on where appropriate and hopefully 13 show that our policies are fit for purpose. And that's the whole idea is to make sure that 14 what we do further is the mission of the company, furthers the mission of our --
15 Q So they, like, draft policies or come up with proposals and then you review it
16 and --
17 A I mean, it is definitely a give and take. There is a lot of conversation, as you
18 can imagine, about where we are. There is a lot of just analysis on what we see on the 19 platform, what we figure we are hearing from our partners outside -- outside of our 20 platform, so that may be civil society, it may make academics. We hear from, you 21 know -- we receive a lot of signal and sometimes it is trying to read through the signal, to 22 get actionable intelligence, things that we can say, it may have an issue on this subject.
23 Hey, this is a developing kind of space. This is something that we want to get our arms
24 wrapped around. How do we go about that?
25 And then through that developing policies, I mentioned our community standards

1 earlier. And that is one way we have a very formal process to developing policies.

2 Q And what is the formal process?

3 A It's something that we call the product -- it is a little bit of a short name,

4 product policy forum. And so, we have sometimes monthly, I guess, forum that looks at

5 whether new policies, updated existing policies to ensure that they are meeting the 6 needs of our community at that point in time.

7 Q So who's the final -- I mean when a policy contact moderation policy gets

8 adopted, who is sort of the final say?

9 A We often do many things by consensus. I sometimes have the final say.

10 Ultimately we all roll up to [redacted] So I guess if we had to say that who has the final

11 say, Monika often has that, but in her absence, I sometimes will have that ability. And 12 again, we often do things by consensus.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Regarding the development of coordinated inauthentic behavior --

15 A Sure.

16 Q -- who is the most senior person involved in the decisionmaking process to 17 adopt that policy?

18 A I would have to go -- again, ultimately we all roll up to [redacted] so I would say

19 as default, [redacted] I don't have the specifics on that policy at that time for the option.

20 Q And with respect to the development of the misinformation policy, it sounds

21 like around 2017 going off [inaudible] here. To your recollection who was the most

22 senior person at the company decision of that policy?

23 A Again, I -- trying to speculate on unfortunately to speculate on that. But

24 ultimately we go through our policy forum, [redacted] has oversight over that through our

25 content policy part, at that point, product policy forum, so I would stop there.

1 Q At these policy forums, is there anyone more senior to [redacted] who
2 would attend these forums?
3 A Generally not. I can't speak for every occasion. Fairly frequently there
4 always is a possibility that someone would join. Often don't see people's kind of level
5 either throughout the company so -- but primarily, it's [redacted]
6 Q Are you familiar with the company's policy -- per with respect to hack and 7 leak?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And what was your role in development of that policy?
10 A So at that time, when the hack and leak policies were developed, I oversaw 11 our trust and safety policy team, which included our cybersecurity policy team.
12 Q And when approximately was the policy developed and ultimately adopted?
13 A We had policies that dealt with privacy for a long -- prior to me joining Meta.
14 And those policies did include some aspects of, you know, leaked materials, they were 15 hack and leak specific. I can't give you an exact date of after I joined -- after I joined 16 [inaudible.] but I don't have an exact date.
17 Q Would you have worked with [redacted] and [redacted] in 18 relation to that policy?
19 A Yes.
20 Q Do you recall the reasons that were behind the company's decision to 21 consider adopting a policy specific to hack and leak, and then ultimately adopting a
22 policy?
23 A We are often through all of our policies, whether that's something like 24 privacy, if it is terrorism, adult nudity or sexualization. We are looking for trends. We 25 are looking for information. And then we are trying to assess and iterate our policies to

1 match the moment in time. Things that were perhaps problematic 5 years ago may be
2 less problematic today. Things that were not on our radar 5 years ago. Maybe, you
3 know, are front and center for us as issues today. So specifically with that just ensuring 4 that we have enough of our defenses up before potential misuse and exploitation of our
5 platform.
6 Q Was there any evidence that suggests that there was an increased likelihood 7 that someone would misuse your platforms to hack and leak?
8 Mr. Brown. Sorry, [redacted] what is your timeframe you are talking about?
9 [redacted] Well, whenever the policy's being considered and ultimately adopted.
10 [redacted] Again, I can't recall. Like, I can't recall the exact analysis that 11 brought that up, but we looked for all the signals and then where we think we have gaps
12 in our policies that we can essentially enact a policy to close a gap. We looked at these, 13 and that's a constant iteration on our policies.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q Are you familiar with the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?
16 A I have heard of it.
17 Q And if you have an understanding, what is that task force?
18 A I don't think I've ever engaged with them, so I don't know any particulars.
19 Q To your understanding, are there members of your team that engaged with 20 the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?
21 A I would have to -- I am having trouble recollecting right now so. I want 22 don't want to state something that's inaccurate. I am having trouble.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q So Meta has different products, right? Like, I don't know if that's the right
25 word. But WhatsApp and certain things like -- does your kind of -- and Threads now I

1 guess -- does your work involve all of those or some of them?

2 A They touch all those -- you used a great term, we generally call them apps,

3 and within each app, there may be specific products within those apps.

4 Q Are the policies the same for all of them or do they differ? I understand

5 WhatsApp is a little different --

6 A There are some slight differences, but between Facebook, the app,

7 Facebook. Instagram, we have Instagram, now currently Threads the app, the policies

8 are substantially similar. There are somewhat small nuances. So for example on

9 Facebook, we have a real name policy, we are evaluating. And if you are on Instagram,

10 or if you go on Threads, you don't have to use your real name, you can use an alias or a

11 handle. But for the majority of policies, things like nudity, terrorism those things will 12 carry through the apps.

13 Q And do you work -- what other teams do you work with frequently?

14 A I often -- I guess maybe take a slight step back, my role content policy is a

15 policy role, so I work fairly closely with our traditional public policy or government

16 relations teams as well. They have issues that are dealing with content policy matters,

17 because some of the work that I do has a legal component to it so you think of things like

18 child safety, terrorism, legality of moving this type of content. I do work with our legal

19 teams. And then I work with the teams that are also tasked with ensuring that our 20 automated systems are correct and our moderators are moderating content.

21 Q Who do you work with on the public policy team, typically if you --

22 A I work with, you know, my peers, so other vice presidents throughout

23 private public policy so these would be our regional leads so we have regions within APAC

24 what we call AMET, Africa, Middle East, Turkey. Europe, Latin America and North

25 America. So I work with those teams, and I work with members of my peer groups, their

1 rollup, if you will. So they have -- they may have -- the vice president may have a
2 director that handles the Canadian department, I would work with that person. They 3 may have a person that works with, you know -- has three or four countries in 4 sub-Saharan Africa I work with them on difficult solutions.
5 Q What about when it comes to the United States, who do you work --
6 A Sure.
7 Q -- with?
8 A I work with a number of people, including the head of our U.S. team, which 9 is [redacted]. I work with [redacted] and then folks in his rollup.
10 Q What about [redacted]?
11 A Yes, I worked for [redacted]
12 Q And then [redacted]?
13 A I did not work closely with [redacted] I am sure I joined a meeting with [redacted]
14 but not worked closely with her.
15 Q How is [redacted] role related to [redacted]? Is he above [redacted]?
16 A Yes.
17 Q And what kind of things do you work with him on?
18 A It depends. If there are -- if things like briefings that need to be done, so
19 like a congressional briefing, I may help out if there is no understanding of how we are 20 approaching content, how we are approaching something that happened with behavior.
21 I may come in and talk to a number of your colleagues on those issues. I try to answer
22 questions and make sure that their service is liked.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q Which team has primary responsibility for enforcing content moderation
25 policies?

1 A Ultimately the content policy team with the policies and the ultimate
2 enforcement. Obviously -- not prep's, not obviously, but we do have a broadened set of 3 teams that help us accomplish that, including the moderation.
4 Q And what -- like within the teams, team name or is there an individual lead
5 for the set of responsibilities?
6 A The team names are -- they are wide and varied, but we have teams that 7 focus on -- focus on content moderation that have undergone a lot of recent reduction.
8 But I think global response is one of those global response operations. It is one of teams
9 that focus on our moderation, our human moderation.
10 Q Are there ever specific enforcement questions that get elevated up to you 11 directly many?
12 A Not frequently, but, you know, on occasion, there may be.
13 Q And what sort of criteria or threshold for something to get elevated up to
14 you?
15 A That's something I learned pretty long ago is try to delegate as much of the 16 authority, you know, kind of down, make sure that people have the power to make 17 decisions. Obviously the responsibility stays with me as a leader. And when we 18 receive questions that someone essentially feels that they -- it's just like above their pay 19 grade but they may feel uncomfortable making those decisions, they will raise those 20 decisions.
21 One area that I guess I frequently address is how we deal with certain terrorists, or 22 new-found terrorist organizations, and that is with their development. So we have a 23 very robust process that impacts that. You have our platform to try to assess what 24 these are, and often, the teams would bring me requests for, based off their findings
25 they'll give a recommendation, or bring me a request for review.

1 Q Do you recall any incidents, to use your term, where someone felt it was 2 above their pay grade related to questions of whether something should be action or not
3 in the misinformation policy?
4 A Rephrase the question. I want to be sure that I answer is as best that I can.
5 Q Sure. You said it sounds like, relatively speaking, few occasions, or 6 something is raised up to you directly, provided terrorism is one example that you recall
7 some incidence where that was the context. Do you recall any that involved
8 misinformation?
9 A I am sure that they happened. I can't recall any specific ones at this time.
10 I know that, again, something that jumps out is within Cameroon, we had a 11 misinformation that ultimately became a misinformation and harm issue based off of 12 local -- local violence I guess to kind of finding -- a violent non state actor versus the 13 government and those actions.
14 So that's one. But I don't have any specifics that unfortunately recall off the top 15 of my mind right now.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q Do you have context with government entities -- U.S. Government entities as 18 part of your work?
19 A May I ask you to just reframe that? I want to make -- am I -- are they 20 contacting me or am I contacting them?
21 Q Either.
22 A So I guess -- I do talk to them so I guess that's contact, right?
23 Q Yeah.
24 A If I am talking with, working with our teams that work with Congress, that 25 work with the administration, I do talk with them, but I don't have any direct contact.

1 Outside of one place which is the GIFCT, so that's a Global Internet Forum on
2 Counterterrorism. That's a cross-industry body that works on counterterrorism.
3 Within that group, we have what we call the IAC, the Independent Advisory Committee
4 which is made up of governments and civil society and some members. And so we do
5 have conversations with a broad range of industry people on counterterrorism.
6 Q Sorry, just to clarify.
7 A Sure.
8 Q So you do have contact with people in government and other contacts as 9 well?
10 A I guess to the extent I talk to them. I guess am I going out and having, 11 like --
12 Q Oh, I mean as part of your work, do you consult with them, or do they 13 consult with you?
14 A I don't know consult -- I am trying to make sure -- I don't want to overstate,
15 but we do have discussions about the work that we are doing on certain initiatives or on 16 GIFCT, we will have discussions with government on those issues.
17 Q And --
18 A Then again, like, I don't know if the briefing is considered consulting, but if 19 you all ask for me to come in and brief on a subject of how are you dealing with X, Y, Z, I
20 would come in and talk with you about how we are dealing with X, Y, Z.
21 So for example I had, last year or a 1-1/2 year ago, with Judge McConnell, we 22 briefed, like, the Senate Republican committee on our oversight board. But I don't know 23 if that's consulting, it was just talking with them.
24 Q I am using the term loosely.
25 A Oh, okay.

1 Q What -- how about executive agencies?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Which ones?

4 A Well, I have talked to folks within the National Security Council about -- you

5 know, again going back. I think the terror is the main space, is another area that is really

6 developing how its anti-illicit drug work. So the only things like fentanyl, fentanyl sales

7 across platforms within social media so I have talked to those folks.

8 Years ago, I had a conversations with DHS on counterterrorism as well. They ran

9 a few programs. Like I said, at the beginning of the Trump administration, dealing with 10 ways to promote counter speech across the developing world, some of that was 11 Afghanistan at the point to fight terrorism.

12 Q And is that are they -- in that situation, are they looking for misinformation

13 or are they looking for illegal activity that could be --

14 Mr. Brown. I am sorry who is the they --

15 [redacted] DHS.

16 Mr. Brown. -- is looking.

17 [redacted] I mean, is what they are interested in. Are they --

18 Mr. Brown. Are you asking about the substance of the meeting?

19 [redacted] Yeah. To the extent, yeah.

20 [redacted] No. Which -- let --

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q DHS.

23 A DHS? Yeah, so that work -- the work that I did most closely with DHS was

24 work that was focused on empowering third parties, so a lot of the actual teenagers think

25 about high school, early university age globally to come up with ideas, maybe develop

1 ideas on how to promote counter -- so one of our theories on to fight terrorism,
2 especially terrorism online was to see bad speech, figure out a way to get more good
3 speech into the mix.
4 Or you see people potentially going down a rabbit hole, going down a path of 5 hate, going down a path towards extremism, are there ways that we can intervene? So
6 through DHS working with us we did help develop and promote a conscious content that 7 these -- you know, anyone could enter, but university maybe even some younger
8 students would enter, but that's largely I think has been funded so it's not occurring to my 9 knowledge anymore.
10 Q What about the White House?
11 A Sure.
12 Q Did you deal with them under Trump?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And on what?
15 A A number of issues, I think, there was some drug issues, but primarily the 16 terror, terror and aid.
17 Q And what about under Biden?
18 A Similarly, drug issues had become more prominent, but terror.
19 Q What about other issues like COVID?
20 A I did not -- I -- I have had conversations with both the Trump White House
21 and the Biden White House on COVID. The Trump White House on COVID, I guess,
22 probably immediately after we were all sent home. I think that's probably March 23 of 2020. And then following that and maybe following the change and transition for 24 administrations early on in the Biden administration as well.
25 Q And what were the conversations with the Trump White House about?

A I think at that time and it's hard. Again, I mean, I don't want to speculate. I think it was just an understanding of what we were seeing and what, to be clear, like going back in time to March of 2020 is difficult for me to remember, but I remember that it was just a wide lack of understanding for what was going on for everybody. And so, I think it was much an information kind of, you know, understanding session, sharing the vaccine trends, things of that nature.

Q And when the administration's changed, when Biden came into office, what was the nature of those conclusions?

A I think it was much the same, an understanding of what we were seeing on our platforms vis-a-vis COVID, COVID broadly, you know, kind of full stop. Obviously we had maybe a more firm understanding of what COVID was at that time. I won't call it a completely firm understanding as we all know. Perhaps our understanding of COVID as a society has continued to evolve, but it was much mentioned the same vein.

Q Did you attend the meetings with the White House on that subject?

A I remember one meeting on COVID with the Biden administration, one meeting with the Trump administration on COVID.

Q And who was at the meeting under the Biden administration from both the White House and from Facebook, Meta?

A From Facebook or Meta, it would have been Brian Rice, as you mentioned, for the Biden administration. For the Trump administration, I don't want to speculate on -- it wasn't Brian, but I don't want to speculate. I can't quite --

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Likely, [redacted], who was leading our administration outreach at that point.

BY [redacted]

1 Q For the meeting that took place during the Biden administration, who from 2 the White House was present?
3 A From the Biden administration, I believe that was Rob Flaherty, Andy Slavitt.
4 Q Anybody else from the White House?
5 Mr. Brown. I think we have given you some documents that have the names.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q And what was the substance of that meeting?
8 A Again, I think it was understanding our approach to COVID. At that time
9 COVID information, potentially COVID misinformation how we were treating content on 10 our platform.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q Who at the company reached out to you about a meeting at the White
13 House?
14 A I can't recall. I don't -- I have emails. Likely [redacted], at that point.
15 Q It likely would have been via email?
16 A I -- I don't know. Perhaps, perhaps email, perhaps via a phone call. But I
17 don't know.
18 Q And do you recall the contents that he laid out about why you were being 19 asked to attend the meeting?
20 A No, no, nothing specific other than the White House -- seeing how we were 21 treating COVID.
22 Q Did he share with you a sense of what the White House's viewpoint was or 23 questions they had in mind?
24 A I can't recall. I can't recall.
25 Q At a high level, do you recall if there were any questions regarding the scope

1 of Facebook's misinformation policies?

2 A I believe -- I believe the topic came up with the specifics on what was asked.

3 I cannot recall.

4 Q At a high level, do you recall there were questions regarding the 5 enforcement of Meta's content moderation policies?

6 A At a high level, I believe they were likely, those questions.

7 Q And either based off the questions or statements was it your sense what the

8 folks at the White House had the position that Meta was not aggressive enough with its 9 enforcement policies, was too aggressive, or had no position at all?

10 A Yeah, based of off -- this is my recollection, I don't know what their intent is.

11 I think they wanted us to be as aggressive as we possibly could be, and more aggressive

12 than we actually were.

13 Q Do you recall how you gathered that understanding?

14 A Just based off the conversation, I think you entered into these conversations,

15 and you can both tell by just the tenor, the intensity, the urgency around and kind of 16 reflecting back. To be fair to both conversations, reflecting back we were in a period of 17 time where we did not know a lot about the virus, and kind of the impacts would be.

18 And I think people were expressing that urgency of people need to do something, we

19 need to ban together to understand what's going on, and making sure that folks, you

20 know, just felt the same urgency that they were feeling.

21 Q This meeting with the Biden White House that you attended, was it a virtual

22 meeting, an in-person meeting?

23 A Yeah, these were -- and I don't remember all the names, this was Zoom or 24 whatever the system of the meeting is so you are on an multiscreen box.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Do you know when it was, the meeting?

2 A I do not recall. Is this the Biden --

3 Q The Biden --

4 A Biden, no, don't recall.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q You referenced partly to gain understanding of the contact situation how the 7 White House folks was feeling, the tenor of the conversation.

8 A Sure.

9 Q What was the tenor of the conversation?

10 A You know, I think, to my recollection, the conversation started off kind of 11 generally, you know, with a bit of background on how we were approaching some of the 12 issues. So that's fine to kind of just control. I think there was a level of intensity that

13 kind of ratchet it up in the meeting when there were just questions about were we doing

14 enough.

15 [redacted] Who was the intensity coming from?

16 [redacted] I think in that period of time, I remember Mr. Flaherty being very,

17 very intense.

18 [redacted] And you remember what issue or what was causing him to ratchet up

19 the intensity?

20 [redacted] General demeanor. I can't remember, it was -- it became more and

21 more intense. That's not -- like I would want to overstate not the most intense thing

22 you have ever been in, but it was more and more intense.

23 [redacted] Did Brian Rice or anyone else tell you about communications that

24 preceded this meeting with Flaherty or others at the White House?

25 [redacted] I can't recall.

1 [redacted] With respect to Flaherty in particular, as the intensity is ratcheting up
2 in this conversation, do you remember if there was a specific issue or something in 3 particular that was causing the intensity of the meeting to increase?
4 [redacted] I can't -- I can't -- I can't recall specifics. I know that, again, focused
5 on the subject matter, and then looking forward to impacts. And I remember that being 6 an issue that they wanted to know the impacts of our policies and that, perhaps, raising,
7 raising the intensity.
8 [redacted] Following the meeting, were there discussions internally at the 9 company to reflect what had been discussed?
10 [redacted] We did have at least one call following the meeting.
11 [redacted] And who was on that call?
12 [redacted] Brian was on that call, I was on the call. I think a number -- one or 13 two folks from Brian's team were on the call as well, just kind of our general debriefing
14 meeting.
15 [redacted] Do you know if any record was kept of the call?
16 [redacted] I do not, no.
17 [redacted] Would records normally be kept of such a call?
18 [redacted] Yeah, that's a great question as far as -- 19 Mr. Brown. Sorry, record of our internal call debrief after --
20 [redacted] Yes.
21 Mr. Brown. -- meeting when somebody makes a record of --
22 [redacted] Would someone take notes?
23 Mr. Brown. Talking to each other?
24 [redacted] Yeah.
25 [redacted] No, I didn't keep a record. I don't know if anyone else took notes on them, but nothing I remember was shared.

BY [redacted]

Q And what was the conclusion of that internal call? Do you know what was the original conclusion?

A I can't recollect specifically. I am sure that we, you know, took the feedback into our system, but I can't recall specifics.

Q Do you recall if any of this feedback being taken back into the system was shared with [redacted]?

A At that point in time I can't recall. Also for clarity, [redacted] experienced some health issues around that time as well, so I can't recall if she was sick or on leave.

[redacted] Was there anyone who was filling in for her or --

BY [redacted]

Q As far as taking back feedback, information you learned from the White House meeting, do you recall if any of those were shared with Nick Clegg?

A I can't recall specifically. We do when we have, you know, meetings of import, we do often have calls. I also don't have oversight on all of what Brian's communications, what our policy folks are.

Q To your recollection, was it is just one meeting with the White House or multiple meetings with the Biden White House?

A For me, on that topic I want to make sure we kind of cabin it to just on the COVID issue. That's the meeting that I can remember. I don't want to overstate that I didn't attend another meeting. It's very possible I was on a broader call and something was raised. That's the one meeting I remember. Because I don't oversee kind of the day-to-day operations, or even -- your operations of a public policy government relations team, I can't say what -- how many -- how much they --

1 [11:00 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you recall if you were surprised during the meeting as the intensity

4 ratcheted up?

5 A Not really -- I would say I wasn't necessarily surprised. I think, again, trying

6 to reflect back on that period of time, there was just a high level of uncertainty going on,

7 like I -- it's almost like I expected that people are going to approach it with a level of 8 urgency.

9 I think everyone was just concerned, concerned for their own health, concerned

10 for their constituents. There was definitely concern to make sure that I'm doing the job

11 correctly for the people that use our platform and making sure that we arrive at the right

12 decisions.

13 Q Do you recall [redacted] or anyone on the public policy team briefing you in

14 advance to say there is this urgency on this issue or that Mr. Flaherty in particular is very 15 focused on this issue?

16 A I can't recall any specific pre-meetings on it.

17 Q Did you present at this meeting?

18 A I talked. I talked, yeah. I don't know if I presented, but I definitely talked 19 and explained our approach to how we deal with things like misinformation, how we're

20 dealing with claims around COVID, perhaps claims around vaccines at that time, some of 21 the information that we received.

22 Q Do you recall any discussion around vaccine hesitancy?

23 A In that meeting specifically, I cannot recall.

24 Q What about more generally around this time period?

25 A With government officials?

1 Q With either directly with government officials or -- we'll start first with
2 government directing officials.
3 A I can't recall direct conversations with government or indirect conversations
4 with government on vaccine hesitancy --
5 Q And then do you recall any discussions with the public policy team regarding 6 concerns that the public policy team was hearing from government officials that were 7 arguing vaccine hesitancy?
8 A Not specifically with the public policy team.
9 Q Any other team?
10 A I do remember having a conversation on vaccine hesitancy based off of 11 conversations with some of our partners that were helping us kind of think through the 12 policies that we deal -- that we used to deal with COVID, including like the WHO and the 13 CDC.
14 [redacted] In the meeting with Rob Flaherty and Andy Slavitt, to the best of 15 your recollection, did they convey that the concerns were coming from anybody else, or 16 did -- were they brought -- were they put forth as their own concerns.
17 [redacted] I remember them as their own concerns. I can't speculate. They 18 may have said something that I missed, but I can't recall.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q Regarding issues related to Meta's content moderation policies related to 21 COVID-19, do you recall having any meetings with Nick Clegg on this issue?
22 A Do I recall -- do I recall the meeting?
23 Q Yes.
24 A I believe meetings happened. Do I recall any substance of those meetings?
25 No.

1 Q Okay. How frequently do you meet with Nick Clegg?

2 A It depends. It depends on the subject. I have a standing meeting with

3 him, I think, once -- biweekly is every other week. So biweekly standing meeting with

4 him and other policy leads. And then, you know, there are possibly meetings with him

5 on other issues.

6 Q Is Nick Clegg the most senior member you have a standing meeting with?

7 A To be clear, it's not my meeting. It's a policy -- a broader policy meeting.

8 But he is the most senior person that I have meetings with or regular meetings with.

1

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you ever meet with Zuckerberg?

4 A Have I or do I?

5 Q Let's start with have you.

6 A Yes, I have.

7 Q How often, or is it just a few times?

8 A With Mark it's not frequent, not frequent. But on occasion if there are

9 issues that are developing sometimes with product launches, things of that nature, I'll be

10 a part of the meeting.

11 Q Did you meet with him about COVID issues?

12 A I can't recall having a specific meeting with Mark on COVID.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q With respect to the developing of either the misinformation policy around

15 2017 or the coordinated inauthentic behavior policy, did you ever meet with Mr.

16 Zuckerberg with either of those two policies?

17 A I can't remember specifically.

18 Q What about with Sheryl Sandberg?

19 A I can't remember specific meetings with her on the development of those

20 policies.

21 Q On the Meta side of the meeting with Rob Flaherty and Andy Slavitt, was 22 there anyone else from your team that was also in that meeting?

23 A I can't recall. I cannot recall. No, I just don't -- unfortunately, I don't

24 recall.

25 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

1 [Recess.]

2 [redacted] Go on the record, please.

3 EXAMINATION

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Good morning again, [redacted]

6 A Good morning.

7 Q It's 11:17.

8 I'm going to jump in with some of the subjects that we were just talking about in

9 the first hour, specifically the misinformation policy at Meta and particularly as it related

10 to COVID-19.

11 Remind me again. Like, you had oversight or some role with misinformation

12 policy at Meta starting in what year?

13 A Reflecting back, when I joined the company in 2016, I remember

14 misinformation more prominently developing in 2017.

15 Q Okay. And you had a role at that point?

16 A Yes, I had a role.

17 Q Okay. So there were a series of questions in the first hour about the policy

18 that developed at Meta with respect to misinformation. And with regard to COVID, in

19 particular, you mentioned that in your role you met with both the Trump White House

20 and the Biden White House at different times about specifically the COVID

21 misinformation policy. Is that fair to say?

22 A I don't want to limit it to COVID misinformation.

23 Q Okay.

24 A I, again, don't want to speculate. But it was on COVID issues.

25 Q Okay. What do you mean? What's the difference between

1 misinformation and issues? What's the difference in sort of the breadth there?
2 A Sure. COVID-19 presented a wide array of different types of content that
3 would appear on our platform. Some of that content was dealing with misinformation.
4 Other parts of that content fall under, what we would say, other policies within our 5 community standards, to include things like bullying and harassment, violence and 6 incitement, hate speech, and seeing how the COVID-19, the virus was now appearing in 7 content that was used to be weaponized against certain people.
8 Q Could you explain what that -- in that example, what does that mean?
9 A Sure. From a bullying and harassment perspective, we have a
10 policy -- actually I have the community standards here today. I think we have an extra 11 copy of the community standards that would maybe point to some of those issues as 12 well.
13 Q Thank you.
14 A Let me make sure I find the correct -- so it's tab 9. So we have an index
15 here. Tab 9 is bullying and harassment.
16 And our community standards are fairly binary. We generally have policies that 17 either allow or remove content, and we talked about misinformation with a slightly 18 different approach.
19 But even things like misinformation, they may trip other parts of their content. If 20 it's something that can be false but also used to incite violence, it may fall under another
21 policy and we would remove. It could be misinformation. But if it breaks a privacy 22 issue, we would remove that.
23 And so if I'm going to go through -- I think we're at tab 9. And looking down
24 here -- and let me be sure I include it -- we have policies that specifically dealt with -- and 25 I, unfortunately, need to take my time to try to find it.

1 Q Take your time. You're good.

2 A For example, on the -- unfortunately, these aren't numbered. It's printed
3 off the website. But the first, second, the third page is where we have the long bullet
4 list. Under tier 1, it says: Universal protections for everyone.

5 If we go to the bottom of those bullets right before tier 2, we have: "Everyone is 6 protected from the following: But for adult public figures, they must be purposefully 7 exposed to calls for death and statements in favor of contracting or developing a medical 8 condition."

9 So something like calling for someone to develop, "I hope you get COVID and I
10 hope you die" --

11 Q I see.

12 A -- is the type of bullying and harassment that we would ultimately remove.
13 So that's not necessarily misinformation. It's just a statement that someone is making,
14 but it would fall under a different one of our policies.

15 Q Okay.

16 A Likewise, with privacy, if someone alleged that you have COVID -- you know,
17 we're not subject to HIPAA, but we do want to protect people's right to their privacy and 18 their medical conditions -- we would potentially remove those claims as well.

19 Q Okay. So this example and the other examples that are in your community
20 standards that deal with content moderation, is it fair to say that all of these are meant
21 by Meta to prevent some kind of harm to your platform users. Is that correct?

22 A That's a fair statement. Maybe to take a slight step back, as we think about 23 the community standards, we develop those standards to promote -- really to uphold 24 marksmanship for the company, and that's to give the people the power to build 25 community and make the world a more connected place.

1 We find that through expression, you know, for our users, that is the way that we
2 can help build community, make that world more connected. And we hear often from 3 our users, from people who are allowed to have partnerships with us and advise us in the 4 case of civil society, academics who help give us input on our policies, as well as our 5 advertisers -- and advertising is a huge component part to our revenue -- of what type of 6 environment they feel is best on our platform.
7 We don't -- we make our decisions. We own our policies. We own our 8 decisions. But we use that as signal.
9 And so to your point, yes, the idea behind these community standards are to give 10 people the wide range of expression and allow people to engage in that expression but 11 also to have some limits around things like safety, privacy, authenticity, dignity, make 12 sure that we have some bounds. And we found out that this has been a very productive 13 way to go about business for us.
14 Q And I think you said "we use that as signal." Are those the words that you 15 used?
16 A I did.
17 Q And tell me about that. What do you mean? What are you looking to as 18 a signal when you come up with your content moderation policy or other community
19 standards at Meta? Where's the signal coming from?
20 A Sure. Our policies take a -- we're very deliberate in our policy
21 development, looking for how content may appear on our platform, looking at trends that 22 are happening on other spaces on the internet, trends that may be happening offline, and 23 then trying to map those to our platform and how that content manifests.
24 So signal for this, we may have an idea about a policy like, okay, we want you to 25 perhaps remove adult nudity and sexualization. We're agreed that that is something

1 that we do not want on our platform for all the variety of reasons I mentioned before.
2 We'll have people who are under 18 and certain cultures that may be more problematic,
3 brand safety for both our brand, for our advertisers' brands. Maybe they don't want to 4 appear next to that similar type of content.
5 We'll then create a policy line or get draft lines through a number of 6 group -- working groups within my content policy team. And then we have folks on our 7 team that also do stakeholder engagement, so they will talk to academics, people who 8 are well versed in freedom of expression, advocates for freedom of expression, but also 9 advocates for safety to see if we're drawing those lines in the correct place.
10 After, you know, multiple conversations on any given policy, we will then make a 11 recommendation based off of their input, our analysis of that input, also the analysis of 12 what we think the content on our platform is at that time.
13 So are we seeing a high prevalence, a high amount, high volume of a certain type
14 of content and will this actually have an impact? Or if we move the line a certain 15 direction, it will have no impact. And if that's the case, do we actually need to do it?
16 So those are the types of questions and the signal that we are taking when we try 17 to go through that balancing of freedom of expression, safety, making sure that we draw 18 the correct line that promotes both of those on our platform that ultimately serves our 19 users.
20 Q Okay. And you mentioned that the signals that are inputs for policymakers
21 like you at Meta --
22 A Sure.
23 Q -- include advertisers. And can you explain why it is that as a business Meta
24 has to take some signals from its advertisers when it comes to its content moderation?
25 A Sure. I want to be clear that our advertisers, you know, they don't

1 influence our policies in a direct way, but we do understand that our advertisers want
2 certain environments for their content, for their own ads, their advertisements to appear 3 next to.
4 There are many different types of platforms across the internet, some that are
5 much more graphic in their displays -- I'll leave it at that -- so whether it's a pornographic 6 site, something of that nature, where advertisers just for their own brand safety they 7 would not want to engage with that.
8 What we try to provide is a place that allows working that freedom of expression
9 but also recognizes that we have our own brand safety, as Meta has their own brand
10 safety. You know, we have to make sure that we are in the right places that we're in 11 and then also those that are our partners and our clients in that space.
12 So while they don't have direct feedback, we do hear, you know, just like whether 13 it is an advertiser, an academic, could be the government, some people they will 14 try -- they will discuss these issues in pretty public forums.
15 We take that and we take the signal back, you know, whether we are having direct 16 conversations or we are absorbing that signal from other places, to make sure that our 17 policies land in the correct place.
18 Q Okay. And you mentioned also that you take signals from, I believe you 19 called them advocates for safety?
20 A From advocates, correct.
21 Q And those could be community members, correct?
22 A That could be community -- everyone from individual community members
23 through large organizations that deal with -- whether those are maybe health issues, child 24 safety issues, in the space of terror, kind of those that have long histories of national 25 security broadly, but also human rights. And we have to strike the balance between all

1 of these concerns.

2 Q And why is it important for Meta to listen to the signals from those type of 3 organizations or individuals?

4 A I think the most simple answer is that we recognize that we do not have all

5 the answers. We are a group of very talented individuals that, you know, work on my

6 team to help develop these policies, but we don't have all of the answers. We are not

7 necessarily experts across the board on every issue that we would face with a community

8 of three billion people.

9 So with that as the backdrop, and as we try to draw those policy lines, we want to 10 make sure that our policy lines actually represent both leading thought and it is having 11 the impact that we desire.

12 Everyone potentially has room for growth in developing these policies, and this is

13 one way that we try to ensure that we are taking a very proactive route to identify where

14 we have room for growth, make sure that we bring that signal in, and craft the best policy

15 for it.

16 Q Okay. And you said I think that part of the objective here is for Meta to 17 protect its brand safety. Can you say a little bit more about what that means at Meta?

18 What is it that you're trying to protect?

19 A I think for any company, for any corporation, any brand, you want to make 20 sure that your brand is viewed in the best light.

21 The one that -- for our brand specifically, that one that provides an environment

22 for expression but does have some bounds on the way that people express theirselves, to

23 make sure that people do not think that the Meta brand, Meta apps and services can be

24 exploited to do harm, whether it's harm on the internet or offline harm.

25 So that is part of the reason why we have these policies, to make sure that as

1 others look at our brands, look at Meta's products and the family of apps and services,
2 that they can say that this is a place ultimately that I feel comfortable sharing
3 information, sharing my meaningful -- making meaningful connections across.
4 Q Okay. When you say that it's important to Meta that the platform not be
5 exploited to do harm, that's a judgment or a value that Meta has internally, correct? It's 6 not being imposed on them from the outside.
7 Is it fair to say that Meta on their own does not want its platform to be exploited
8 to cause harm to its platform users?
9 A That is correct. We maintain a very affirmative point in the development
10 for our community standards. In fact, I want to kind of just reflect back here, if we have 11 the preamble to the community standards. We may not have that in here, 12 unfortunately.
13 I take that back, we do. It's actually prior to tab 1. So if you go just right to the 14 introduction. I think we try to summarize it and try to be very transparent across these 15 issues.
16 And so on the introduction, I'll read: "Every day, people use Facebook to share
17 their experiences, connect with friends and family, and build communities. It's a service
18 for more than 2 billion people to freely express themselves across countries and cultures
19 in dozens of languages."
20 I'm going to skip ahead briefly.
21 "Meta recognizes how important it is for Facebook to be a place where people 22 feel empowered to communicate, and we take our role seriously in keeping abuse off the 23 service."
24 And so we are very transparent that that is what -- we want people to be able to 25 communicate through our platform, our family of apps and services. And to do that we

1 feel that safety is one way that we help undo that, both giving expression but having
2 some limitations there.
3 If we skip down to the next paragraph, again, as I mentioned, taking the advice of 4 experts: "These standards" -- and in this case the community standards -- "are based on 5 feedback from people and the advice of experts in fields like technology, public safety and 6 human rights. To ensure everyone's voice is valued, we take great care to create 7 standards that include different views and beliefs."
8 And so, again, that is one of the reasons, as I tried to say, you know, with all due
9 humility, that we don't have every answer. We do not represent -- while we try to 10 represent the views widely, there are places that we don't have that. And going out to 11 experts that may have different views on certain issues are very, very helpful for us.
12 Q And it's fair to say that keeping Meta's platform safe from harm to its users
13 is a value to Meta itself as it is --
14 A Yes.
15 Q And Meta has existed as a -- actually, and Facebook --
16 A That's correct.
17 Q -- has existed for how many years? Do you know?
18 A It's -- we just passed, I believe, our 18th birthday recently, so going back to 19 2004.
20 Q Okay.
21 A So we're coming up maybe pretty soon -- hopefully, I didn't miss the 22 anniversary -- on our 19th year.
23 Q Got it. So around 2004. So that means that Meta or Facebook in one 24 form or another has existed in multiple Presidential administrations in the United States.
25 Fair to say?

1 A That's correct.

2 Q That represented different ideological and partisan views -- I mean the

3 administration, not Meta -- over the years, correct?

4 A That is correct.

5 Q And Meta intends to remain a corporation in some form or another into the 6 future, correct?

7 A That is correct.

8 Q Through different administrations that may come and go, correct?

9 A That is correct.

10 Q And throughout the world, outside the United States, in other countries with 11 different political systems and different ideologies, correct?

12 A That's a very important point, and that is also correct.

13 Q Okay. So it will be in Meta's -- it would not be in Meta's interest, let me put

14 it that way, for them to conform with any particular political party's interest or be

15 coerced into being a platform simply for the views of some political party that happened

16 to be in power at one particular time in one particular country. Is that fair to say?

17 A That's correct.

18 Q Why would that be contrary to the well-being of Meta as a corporation

19 that's global?

20 A Ultimately we want to provide services for a wide variety and wide array of 21 people. I think I commented here that the community standards mention 2 billion. I

22 think we've actually put 3 billion people across the apps -- family of apps and services.

23 Within 3 billion people, obviously, perhaps, you're going to have a lot of differing

24 views within 3 billion people. But we believe that our platform can serve the purpose of

25 allowing people to communicate and find meaningful connections across their different

1 groups, whether those are groups for individuals to connect in small groups for family
2 issues, it may be church and religious issues, also for small businesses.
3 All these people come to our platform utilizing it for their own benefit, and we
4 want to provide that service. To the point being made that if you were to somehow
5 ostracize significant swaths of those people, they likely would not go away and perhaps 6 not come back.
7 Q Okay. And let's kind of narrow in a little bit more to some of the 8 conversation that we were having in the first hour with respect to Meta's COVID
9 misinformation policy.
10 A Sure.
11 Q Am I correct that that policy began soon after the COVID pandemic arose on 12 the scene in 2020?
13 A That is correct. I believe our first policy was created in January of 2020.
14 Q Okay. And that was when Donald Trump was President of the United 15 States?
16 A Yes, that is correct.
17 Q And that policy applied throughout the platform globally, not just in the 18 United States?
19 A That is also correct.
20 Q Okay. The policy, I take it, evolved over time as the understanding of the 21 COVID-19 pandemic was evolving. Is that fair to say?
22 A Yes. The policy, much like the pandemic and our understanding, evolved
23 over time. As we do with all of our policies and specifically on the COVID-19 issues, as 24 we had more information and more information became readily known and widely 25 accepted, we would take that information. And then, as mentioned previously, take

1 that signal into our policies and iterate and adjust as necessary.
2 Q Okay. With respect to COVID policy, you were taking signals from a range
3 of experts, fair to say?
4 A That is correct.
5 Q Including health experts?
6 A Yes. We took our policies from -- primarily from health experts.
7 Q Okay.
8 A Or excuse me. I should not say policies. We took information and advice
9 from health experts.
10 Q Okay. Any other general sources that you were taking those signals from 11 with respect to COVID policy?
12 A I can't remember. The two that come directly to mind are the CDC and the 13 WHO.
14 Q Okay. In your work with the CDC and the WHO on, you know, receiving 15 those signals to inform your COVID policy, were you ever forced to engage with those 16 experts -- you, Meta? Sorry.
17 A Yeah. I was never forced, and I don't believe anyone was forced to engage 18 with the WHO or the CDC.
19 Q And was Meta or anyone, to your knowledge, at Meta pressured to make 20 changes to its policies from those experts?
21 A Not to my knowledge was anyone pressured.
22 Q Okay. So fair to say that you at Meta and others at Meta wanted to receive 23 that information, those signals from those experts, just like you do in other contexts in 24 order to inform your own policy on how to protect your platform?
25 A That is correct.

1 Q Okay. And I want to be specific. You talked in the first hour about a
2 particular meeting with some members at the Biden White House?
3 A May you repeat the question?
4 Q Oh, absolutely.
5 You talked in the first hour about a particular meeting with -- involving Andy
6 Slavitt and [redacted].
7 Do you recall those questions?
8 A Yes.
9 Q No, Mr. Flaherty. I'm sorry. I said the wrong person.
10 [redacted] is a Meta employee, correct?
11 A [redacted] is a Meta employee. And, yes, he was at the meeting as well.
12 Q Okay. And you indicated that during that meeting -- I don't remember if 13 you said when it was, but do you recall as you sit here when that meeting was, to the best
14 of your recollection?
15 A Unfortunately, I don't recall when the meeting was. 2021, beginning of 16 the -- relatively the beginning of the year, but I do not recall the date.
17 Q Okay. I think you said in the first hour that you thought it was early on in 18 the administration of President Biden?
19 A Correct.
20 Q Okay. And at that time in 2021, certainly the COVID pandemic was still 21 raging in this country. Is that correct?
22 A Yes, very much so.
23 Q And millions of people had died in the United States, correct?
24 A That is correct.
25 Q Millions of people had died globally, correct?

1 A Yes, that is correct.
2 Q And those deaths were attributed to COVID, correct?
3 A In some cases, yes.
4 Q Okay. And so a lot of people in the United States and around the world
5 were concerned about COVID and the harm that it was doing to people, fair to say?
6 A I think it's a fair statement.
7 Q And people at Meta shared that concern, fair to say?
8 A I shared that concern, yes.
9 Q Okay. And the company itself also had a concern about harm that could be 10 done using the platform with respect to COVID misinformation or other --
11 A The company did. The company -- obviously, we adopted -- as a company, 12 we adopted the community standards that dealt with COVID misinformation, and some of 13 the work that we also empowered the teams to explore and then ultimately adopt were 14 our COVID Hub, which is a COVID information portal.
15 So in a developing issue like where we do not have potentially all the facts and the 16 situation is evolving, we take a stance that providing more information or up-to-date 17 information was a way to empower our users to make the correct decisions for 18 themselves. And so we developed the COVID-19 Hub so that people could find the most 19 authoritative information that we were known to have at that moment in time.
20 Q Okay. I don't recall if you mentioned that in the first hour, but the COVID
21 Hub, is that -- I don't know if it's called a product. Is that sort of a Meta product that 22 was developed when your policy evolved with respect to COVID?
23 A You are correct both calling it a product and calling it an evolution. It was 24 something that was developed in reference to realizing that there was a significant lack of 25 information, authoritative information that people could base their decisions off of.

1 And that was one way that we sought to address potential misinformation on our
2 platform.
3 Q How did you at Meta come to recognize that there was a problem that 4 needed to be addressed by developing this product, the COVID Hub?
5 A For the hub itself and just realizing, maybe taking a slight step back in time
6 to the 2020-2021 period when there was not much knowledge or written knowledge of 7 what COVID was and the ways to combat it, what the vaccines were, how readily
8 available those would be, we felt at that point, with the potential for so much
9 misinformation, that where we could collate and aggregate authoritative sources to help
10 people understand and then make the decisions that are more appropriate for them, that 11 was the best course of action.
12 Q So the solution broadly that Meta came up with for all of this misinformation
13 or confusion, lack of information, was to focus mostly on raising authoritative information
14 up on its platform versus pushing other information out? Is that fair to say, in terms of 15 the strategy that led to the COVID Hub?
16 A I believe that's a fair summary of how we thought about upleveling and 17 perhaps ensuring that people had access to authoritative information.
18 Just one caveat. Again, when there was the misinformation that could lead to 19 imminent harm, a classic example is, "You want to cure COVID, go drink bleach," we 20 would remove something like that because of, obviously, the irreversibility if someone 21 was to take those actions to their own physical harm.
22 But when there are a lot of questions in the space and we're looking to get people
23 that information that will help them make decisions from the best authoritative sources
24 that we could identify at the point, that was our philosophy.
25 Q And when did the COVID Hub product appear on the platforms?

1 A I would have to go back. I don't know offhand, unfortunately.

2 Q Okay. What would it look like to a user on the platform if you went to that

3 landing spot?

4 A For the user, if you went to the landing spot and you could find that by just a

5 generic kind of URL, you would see authoritative sources. I think at that point we would

6 have in some cases localized information about COVID for you, also essentially tracking

7 back to the government what they were telling us about COVID issues in their own

8 jurisdictions. And then some of that was best practices, best practice information as 9 well. That is one way to find it.

10 Also, if you were -- if you had seen misinformation within your feed -- I mentioned

11 earlier, I would rely on third party fact-checkers to identify misinformation -- we would

12 label that. And through the label I believe we had a click-through that would

13 also -- essentially a "see more" style click-through that would bring you to the COVID Hub.

14 Q And I'm curious of the example that you mentioned. If you had content on

15 your platform that said, "Hey, drink bleach, it's going to cure COVID," walk me through 16 how your content moderation policy would work with respect to that post.

17 A Sure. So in those cases where we have misinformation that can lead to 18 imminent harm -- "imminent" means in this case drinking bleach would lead to imminent

19 harm -- that is a policy that we would actually remove content, content stating something

20 specifically similar in vein.

21 Our automated systems and our human reviewers would have -- after that

22 content was flagged, would then be able to make the removal. We use a combination

23 of human moderators and automated systems to identify content.

24 Also relying on our users to actually flag content. If you go through your app,

25 three buttons and, you know, through a couple of click-throughs identify content that's

1 potentially violating.

2 At that point we've made the decision something that is kind of hairy on this

3 space, a wild tip, like drink bleach, we would eventually resort to a place where we would

4 allow the automated system to actually action that content directly. Potentially, for a

5 closer call, we would raise those issues with human moderators in certain instances.

6 Q And those are your third party fact-checkers?

7 A No. In that case these would be Meta employees who make content

8 decisions and the -- I'm roughly going to say the binary choices of remove or allow. For

9 third party fact-checking, which is a different system, if this was not violating of our

10 policies but there was a signal that this was potentially misinformation, we would give

11 third party fact-checkers the opportunity to rate that information as true, false, or 12 somewhere between.

13 Q Okay. So it sounds like there is quite a range when it comes to the 14 misinformation and other content moderation decisions. Some things are pretty clear,

15 like the drink bleach, that it's going to cause imminent harm, so Facebook/Meta has a 16 clear response, which is remove.

17 But then there are other questions that are much more nuanced and closer calls

18 that require a more complex process to evaluate that information. Is that fair to say?

19 A That is correct. It is a very complex system that we try to arrive at the right

20 answer. And certain cases were straightforward, as you mentioned, the drink bleach

21 example is one where we can take action. There are also millions of pieces of content

22 that are shared daily that are closer to the line and require some evaluation.

23 Q Okay. And when you have those pieces of content that are closer to the 24 line, your community standards and your policies that are inside this --

25 A Sure.

1 Q -- are meant to guide people at Meta in determining how to deal with 2 that -- those situations, right?
3 A That is correct. Guide both our users and how to, you know, moderate, but 4 also guides our decisions. We try to have a -- strive to enact a number of what I believe
5 are very objective standards about our policies, try to remove the subjectivity on any one
6 given person to make a decision, objective standards, and adhere to those standards.
7 Q Okay. And as you've explained already, what goes into those nuanced
8 processes is a lot of input and a lot of signal, as you put it, from various stakeholders,
9 including experts on health in the context of COVID, people in the community who want
10 to use your platforms, and ultimately Meta's desire to protect its brand as a safe place for 11 people to express their views, fair to say?
12 A That is correct. One point of clarification. That is to help us develop 13 those policies, and we -- ultimately, as I mentioned earlier, we go through the long policy 14 development process, which we own, where there is a line -- a clear line which is that we 15 enforce those policies. We enforce those policies. We're not consulting externally on 16 individual pieces of content and how we enforce it. We enforce those policies directly.
17 Q Okay. And why is that important?
18 A You want to remove -- it's important I think both internally and externally,
19 you want to remove any indication of potential bias or undue influence making a
20 decision. We write these policies very objectively, try to remove that even internally
21 from our people before they would action content so that they're making conscious 22 decisions based off the objective standard, colloquially the letter of the law or what is 23 contained in the four corners of the paper.
24 Q Because, again, Meta is trying to create a platform that is appealing to an 25 incredibly diverse set of individuals, including people in every country in this world, with

1 every kind of political or ideological view. Is that right?

2 A Probably that is correct.

3 Q As long as the platform isn't being exploited to do harm to those users, fair

4 to say?

5 A That is correct. We want a platform that is used for expression for people

6 to have as many connections with the guardrails that we don't want the platform used to

7 exploit others on our platform or offline.

8 Q Okay. So circling back again, after you gave me an interesting context on

9 that COVID Hub and other matters, back to your meeting at the White House in

10 approximately January of 2021 -- not your, but the meeting of many, many employees

11 and others --

12 A Sure.

13 Q -- you indicated in the first hour that Mr. Flaherty in particular was, in your 14 words, intense during that meeting. Do you recall that?

15 A Yes, I do.

16 Q Okay. And, again, this was at a time when COVID was a very significant 17 problem in the United States and around the world, correct?

18 A Yes, it was.

19 Q And when people were dying by the millions, correct?

20 A Yes, they were.

21 Q Is it possible that Mr. Flaherty's intensity was motivated by that context, the

22 fact that people were dying by the millions and he was concerned about the harm that

23 might come to those people?

24 A You know, I can't speculate to what Mr. Flaherty, you know, his intention 25 was.

1 I will say that for me specifically, I also recognized that -- I recognized that we
2 were at a moment in time where, as you mentioned, that there were millions of people
3 that were dying, that there were billions of people perhaps on Meta's products and 4 ensuring that that platform, our platform, our family of apps and services was not being 5 used to exploit or to further whether that's misinformation or something that can actually
6 be harmful in the offline space. Physical harm is what I'm trying to address. I
7 definitely recognized the urgency as well.
8 Q And others at Meta recognized that urgency?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that you and, as far as you know, others in that 11 meeting, including the Biden administration officials, were all there for the purpose of 12 trying to come up with solutions to make sure that people were subjected to the least 13 amount of harm possible with respect to COVID misinformation and other ways of 14 exploiting the platform?
15 A As I mentioned earlier, we take signal, and I think we even, as mentioned 16 here in the community standards -- excuse me -- we talked to academics, we talked to 17 partners, we talked to experts on these issues. It is taking that signal that ultimately 18 helps us write the policies, make sure that we are enforcing them in the correct ways that 19 ultimately protects and better protects our community.
20 COVID specifically where, you know, there are challenges, we do not have teams
21 of epidemiologists. We do not have teams of immunologists or other doctors that are 22 well versed in fighting these types of viruses. So we were looking for those signals from 23 external sources. I mentioned the CDC and WHO potentially as two to make sure that 24 we are writing policies that is having an impact that we ultimately want to have for our 25 platform.

1 And so in those conversations at the end, we are looking for that type of
2 information to help us better assess how we are doing, then evaluating that information
3 against what is manifested in our platform, then making the correct decision.
4 In certain cases you make decisions that may not necessarily agree with a piece of 5 information -- or a piece of that signal, you may dismiss it. In other cases you say that is 6 very valid, and we will see that if can entrust that issue.
7 Q Okay. And in this case how did you take the signal that you received from 8 that meeting from Mr. Flaherty and others?
9 A Again, I can't -- unfortunately, I cannot speculate because I don't remember 10 the specifics. I remember the tenor. I don't remember the specifics of what we 11 shared.
12 Q Okay. Is it fair to say that no one threatened you during that meeting?
13 A I don't recall any threats.
14 Q Okay. And no one coerced Meta ultimately to make any changes to its 15 policies through threats or pressure?
16 A I was not coerced.
17 Q Okay. When you left that meeting, you indicated that there was some 18 discussion at Meta with respect to the policy?
19 A Generally we will have a debriefing meeting on the meeting itself.
20 Q Okay. And is that a process that occurs frequently when you take these 21 outside signals from the U.S. Government or other individuals or organizations?
22 A It varies. It varies. I don't think we have a standard operating playbook 23 on conducting, like, a post-meeting.
24 Q Okay. What I'm getting at is this. Are you familiar with the allegation of 25 some members of this committee that the U.S. Government essentially pushed and

1 pressured Meta to make changes to its policies by threatening them or coercing
2 them -- you, I should say, you at Meta?
3 A I guess maybe the first -- I'll speak to my experience. Maybe we can take a
4 broader view of all of this. I think people often feel pressure or people are often
5 pressured. I think that happens across any business, across personal lives, any 6 interactions people may feel pressure.
7 It's in some ways how that pressure manifests and what you do with the pressure.
8 Do you succumb to it? Do you acquiesce to it? Do you rely on, you know, kind of your 9 existing standards, existing protocols, policies, procedures to go forward.
10 I personally -- I don't know if I felt pressure. I mean -- and I'll try to qualify this a 11 bit. I definitely felt pressure to do my job correctly. I feel that pressure every day to 12 ensure that I'm leading my teams correctly. We have a platform of 3 billion people 13 across a family of apps.
14 I do make consequential decisions that I understand will have a significant impact
15 globally, and so I do feel that pressure. But one given meeting, everybody is only -- it's a 16 culmination of their own identify and their experiences and perspectives.
17 I served in war. I'm a marine. Pressure manifests different for everyone. So I
18 did not feel any type of unique pressure in that meeting.
19 Q Okay. It sounds like the pressure you described is more pressure that you
20 put on yourself to perform in a way that meets your standards. Is that a fair
21 characterization?
22 A That's a fair characterization. I think that's a pressure that, you know, both
23 within Meta, here in this room I think, perhaps even more broadly everyone 24 experiences -- every professional experiences that pressure to be professional, to do their 25 jobs to the utmost of their ability.

1 Q Okay. And with respect to COVID policy at Meta, is it fair to say that the
2 policy that was developed after that meeting at different stages was developed internally
3 by Meta and that Meta owns that policy, as you put it, because it was your decision at 4 Meta to develop that policy as it exists?
5 A Yes. We developed our policies. To the extent that I was involved with 6 the policies, we developed those policies based off of our analysis of the situation.
7 Q Okay. I just want to step out a little bit now just to your misinformation
8 policy generally.
9 Mr. Brown. Could we go off the record?
10 [redacted] Yeah.
11 [Recess.]

[12:34 p.m.]

[redacted] So the time is 12:34. We have 20 minutes left in our questioning here.

BY [redacted]

Q All right. We had some questions in the first hour about Meta's third-party fact-checking program. Do you recall those questions?

A Yes, I recall the questions about the fact-checking program.

Q Okay. Are you familiar with the program?

A I am.

Q And you mentioned in your answers something called the Poynter Institute. That's P-o-y-n-t-e-r, right?

A That's the correct spelling. I believe it's the Poynter Institute's International Fact-Checking Network.

Q Okay. And, yeah, within the Poynter Institute, there's a network called the International Fact-Checking Network, correct?

A That's correct.

Q And they call that the IFCN. Is it fair to say that the fact-checkers that are used by Facebook have to be signatories to that organization, the IFCN?

A That's correct. They must be signatories through the Poynter Network.

Q Okay.

And Meta chose to develop that third-party fact-checking program independently of any outside pressure or coercion, correct?

A That is correct. We developed that, recognizing that we are arbiters of truth, and to give us an organization or at least an entity that could help oversee fact-checking, which has gone on long before Meta existed.

1 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that Meta believes it's in its own interests as a
2 company to develop that third-party fact-checking program?
3 A Correct. For Meta's interest, to utilize the third-party fact-checking
4 program to help us address misinformation is always in our -- it's in our own interest.
5 Q And that policy and the use of a third-party fact-checking program was 6 developed in 2018?
7 A I don't want to speculate. I don't have the exact date.
8 Q Okay.
9 The government did not force Meta to adopt that program, fair to say?
10 A That is correct.
11 Q Now, with respect to the IFCN signatory requirement, that organization has a 12 set of principles that all of the signatories must commit to, correct?
13 A I believe that to be true, yes.
14 Q Okay. And the first principle of the IFCN that would apply to all of the 15 third-party fact-checkers that are employed by Meta is that the signatory organization
16 must fact-check claims using the same standard for every fact-check and use the same
17 process for every check. Is that right?
18 A Unfortunately, I don't have the document in front of me, so I can't -- I can't 19 say.
20 Q Okay.
21 Do you understand, broadly, that the principles of the IFCN require signatories to 22 be nonpartisan and to display fairness in terms of the content that they are checking?
23 A Broadly, I do understand that the signatories must be nonpartisan and 24 exhibit the same standards to all fact-checks.
25 Q Okay. And are you aware that the signatory cannot be an organization

1 affiliated with or that shows support for any political party, politician, or political 2 candidate?
3 A Again, I'm broadly aware. I don't have the document in front of me, so I
4 can't speak to the specifics.
5 Q Okay. Can you say, just generally, why it would be important to Meta for 6 there to be such a principle, in terms of nonpartisanship, for its third-party fact-checkers?
7 A Sure. And maybe to take a slight step back, I think I -- both how we 8 develop our content policies but how the fact-checking network operates as well.
9 I mentioned previously we try to develop policies that are objective, to the best of 10 our ability, to remove that subjectivity. Everyone, perhaps, that comes in touch with 11 our policies has their own life's perspective, but we don't want that perspective
12 necessarily influencing day-to-day decisions on our policies. So we make them very 13 clear and make them very objective.
14 Likewise, for the Poynter Network and the way that they approach the 15 fact-checking partners, having objective standards, you remove the claims of subjectivity, 16 the claims of bias, you try to eliminate any of that undue influence on any decision that's 17 being made.
18 So whether for us specifically at Meta, dealing with our enforcement of our 19 policies, but likewise at Poynter Network, dealing with individual fact-checking partners
20 and the facts-checks that they ultimately produce.
21 Q And would it be fair to say that, if Meta were perceived from the outside as 22 being partisan or biased in some way, that that would be bad for Meta as a company,
23 because Meta appeals to such a broad, diverse set of people across the globe?
24 A Again, we want to provide a service for a wide array of people, including up
25 to the 3 billion that we currently have across the family of apps and services. To 1 ostracize one by thinking that you were biased in any direction would not be with the

2 mission that Mark has held, which is to allow people to build communities and find those 3 meaningful connections.
4 Q And in your experience as an executive at Meta, has it been communicated
5 to you through the leadership above you that objectivity and nonpartisanship is an
6 important value at Meta?
7 A In my discussions with my team and my discussions with my manager,
8 Monika Bickert, it's very clear that objectivity and, kind of, nonpartisan approach to our 9 policies is the correct way to be.
10 Q Okay.
11 The fact-checking program, I don't know how much -- have you dealt with it on a 12 specific level or just sort of more general in terms of you're aware that the program
13 exists? Do you know how it operates on, like, the ground level?
14 A I have a much broader, kind of, up-level view of it. I obviously know that 15 the program exists. I understand the impact of some of the ratings. But I'm not into 16 the day-to-day minutia, if you will, of how the fact-checkers ultimately apply those 17 fact-checks and then all of the impacts that follow.
18 Q Okay. So I'm going to ask you some questions, starting with general ones.
19 If I get --
20 A Sure.
21 Q -- to the point where it's too specific, obviously you can tell me that, that you
22 just don't know.
23 Broadly, though, the purpose of Meta's fact-checking program, is it fair to say, is to 24 identify and address viral misinformation on the platform?
25 A That's a fair summary. The purpose of the program is to identify

1 misinformation or information that has been surfaced to essentially give it a rating that
2 will ultimately allow us to label.
3 One of the byproducts there is that there is a concern with the virality of 4 misinformation and our ability to label that and then use inform treatments, as I
5 mentioned earlier. And that remove, reduce, and inform model is something that helps 6 us both guard against the virality and provide authoritative sources.
7 Q Okay. So the remove, reduce, and inform model, that refers to removing a
8 content that is clearly harmful, like you said before?
9 A Slight nuance. Yes, plus.
10 So the removal can be in two parts. It can be removing misinformation that has 11 an imminent harm, as we talked about the drinking bleach --
12 Q Right.
13 A -- example to cure COVID.
14 But, secondly, we also remove actors -- so this is exclusive of the content of the 15 actors -- that are potentially sharing that, based off of their authenticity, or their in this 16 case inauthenticity, and their coordination.
17 If we have potentially a malicious actor that maybe we have removed from the 18 platform previously that has now come back to the platform, or one that is now just new,
19 engaging in this type of behavior, something that we do prohibit, we remove the actor.
20 So the downstream impact of removing the actor is that that actor's content will 21 also be removed. So that is the removal bucket.
22 Q Okay. I'll get into that a little bit later, but that would touch on some other 23 policies of Meta, like your coordinated inauthentic behavior, for example? Is that right?
24 A That is correct.
25 Q They focus on the actor, not the content?

1 A That's correct. In coordinated inauthentic behavior, the focus is on the 2 actor and the actor's behavior. The coordination piece is -- will be determined to be
3 behavior.
4 Q Okay.
5 The other "R" that you mentioned was -- oh, my gosh -- reduce?
6 A Reduce.
7 Q Sorry.
8 A Right.
9 Q So that strategy is to, what? Can you explain what that strategy means?
10 A Sure.
11 As you mentioned earlier, it's misinformation designed to potentially limit virality
12 of content. In the reduce, we do reduce the -- once labeled by a third-party
13 fact-checker, misinformation is reduced in our system. So we will limit the ability for 14 that to appear in feed; we will limit the ability for our systems to recommend that to a 15 user who would not otherwise see it.
16 That being said, while it's reduced, it is still available on our platform. If you have 17 the URL, you will see it. And it may appear in your feed as well.
18 Q So, if somebody were looking for that material and seeking it out, they 19 would still be able to find it?
20 A That is correct.
21 Q And then, finally, "inform." Can you explain what that strategy is?
22 A Sure.
23 The inform treatments are the labeling that comes with each of the 24 misinformation decisions. And so, in this case, if a third-party fact-checker labeled 25 something as being false, we would -- or, excuse me, they identified something as being

1 false -- I want to be specific -- they identify; we label -- they identified something as being 2 false and gave it the rating, we would then label that content as being false and 3 potentially surface an authoritative source that shows why that is false.
4 In some contexts, we would then, where we have these other treatments -- the 5 hub, for example, around COVID -- we would point people to the hub. "If you're 6 interested in learning more about this topic, here are all the resources" -- not all the 7 resources, but -- "here are resources for you to better understand the issues at hand."
8 Q Okay.
9 So the fact-checking program intentionally separates the first stage, which is 10 reviewing the content -- that's going to be done by the third-party fact-checkers, who are 11 signatories, again, to this IFCN, right?
12 A That's correct.
13 Q It separates that process from the decision on what to do with that content
14 on Meta's platform. That's actually going to be made by Meta.
15 A That is correct.
16 And if I can just take one slight moment to kind of just explain a bit of just how 17 complex the system is and our operation.
18 When we talked about the community standards earlier, I explained that, well, 19 part of that's misinformation but it's also maybe covered by a different policy --
20 Q Right.
21 A -- in that case, bullying and harassment. So we will examine all of the 22 content against the community standards for those direct exclusive-of-misinformation
23 violations. So does this piece of content actually violate our violence and incitement
24 policy? Does it violate our child nudity policy? Whatever it may be, we will examine it
25 under that rubric first. And then sometimes, whether sequential or in parallel, the

1 process for misinformation will begin as well.

2 But, to your point, to be clear, the third-party fact-checkers, they are given the

3 opportunity to rate misinformation on our platform. Once they have come back with a

4 rating, we would then own that from that process on. Do we now reduce the ability to

5 share? Do we label? How do we go forward with the treatment or enforcement of 6 that content?

7 Q Okay. And this separation of those two decisions -- the fact-checking from

8 the decision as to what do to the content on the platform -- it's intentionally separated so

9 that Meta can have objectivity, I guess, in terms of the content evaluation. Is that fair to 10 say?

11 A That is correct. And I'll use -- to use my term, we're not arbiters of the 12 truth, so we do recognize that there are other entities, in this case the third-party

13 fact-checkers through the network, that have the ability to do the investigative work to

14 apply those decisions. And once we have the decisions, we then own, based off of those 15 decisions, how we will enforce.

16 Q Okay.

17 And is it true that not all content on Meta's platform is subject to fact-checking?

18 For example, posts and advertisements by politicians are not fact-checked under the

19 policy?

20 A That is correct.

21 Q And that would include candidates for office in the United States for any 22 level of office?

23 A Yes, that is correct.

24 Q And it would include --

25 A With one slight caveat.

1 Q What?

2 A You asked, would it include all candidates? To the extent that we know

3 you are a candidate. Obviously, at the local levels, we would not necessarily have clarity

4 on someone running for every level of office. And so could there be a situation where

5 that person was ultimately fact-checked? Possibly. But once they are known to be a

6 candidate, they would falls under that exception.

7 Q Okay.

8 And also excluded would be advertisements from political parties in the United

9 States?

10 A There's a lot of nuance in these questions, so I'll try to do my best to take my 11 time and explain them as well as I can.

12 So, for first-party speech -- so, if I am a political candidate and I am making a 13 statement, that would not be eligible for fact-checking.

14 However, if a non-candidate was sharing misinformation on our platform and I

15 subsequently take that, without any editorializing, without any other, you know, kind of 16 comments based off my own -- me as a candidate, and share that, that would

17 ultimately -- because the source itself would be eligible, if that makes sense.

18 Q Yes, it does.

19 A So there's kind of a slight nuance there.

20 Q Okay.

21 And can you explain why it is that Meta carves out this exception within its

22 fact-checking framework or policy for politicians and what I would characterize as political 23 speech?

24 A Yeah. I think because it is political speech, and we -- I, specifically -- I

25 recognize the value in having people hear from their elected officials, from their

1 potentially elected officials, those running for office in all of its forms and ensuring that,
2 by surfacing that and allowing that to be seen by the people, the people will now have 3 the ability to make any decision that they want to, based off of what they understand and 4 they hear.
5 We are not in the business of censoring or removing content from politicians.
6 Q Is it fair to say that Meta has a value within the organization of respecting 7 political speech as a First Amendment liberty in the United States?
8 A We believe broadly in free- -- I believe broadly in freedom of expression.
9 We recognize the value of political participation.
10 We have policies that deal specifically with ensuring that, where appropriate, we 11 remove misinformation related to the political process, but also allowing information 12 about the political process, including that first-party speech from potentially elected or 13 elected officials.
14 Q Does this policy excepting politicians from the third-party fact-checking
15 program, does it apply globally, if you know?
16 A I don't -- I don't want to overstate. Yes, but there may be exceptions.
17 Q That's fine. You can just tell me that might be outside of your --
18 A It is. I think it's maybe -- some slight nuances may be outside
19 my knowledge.
20 Q In the United States, though, the policy excepting politicians and allowing 21 them to post what would potentially be considered misinformation in a different context,
22 does that apply to politicians regardless of their political party?
23 A Would you say that one more time?
24 Q Sorry. The policy that Meta has excepting politicians and political speech
25 from its fact-checking program --

1 A Uh-huh.

2 Q -- basically allowing them to post what might be considered misinformation

3 if it were not in that political-speech context, does that policy apply to all politicians

4 regardless of their political party or affiliation?

5 A Yes, the policy applies evenly across the board.

6 Q Okay.

7 Another exception, as far as I understand it, for the third-party fact-checking

8 program is for private posts. Is that correct? That if you have a private post on

9 Facebook -- I take it that means, like, a message from one user to another that's not

10 public or available -- that that is not fact-checked in any way?

11 A A direct user message through --

12 Q Exactly.

13 A -- the messaging app? No, that would not be eligible for fact-checking.

14 Q Okay.

15 And if a Facebook --

16 A With one --

17 Q Sorry.

18 A -- I want to make sure --

19 Q No worries.

20 A -- just for completeness and fulsome -- if people are sharing information that

21 was previously fact-checked from a public forum, that would still carry -- that would carry

22 the existing label that's in the public forum.

23 So, for example, I share misinformation on Facebook, it is fact-checked, it is

24 labeled, all the treatments, and then someone goes to share in a direct message that

25 piece of that information? It would include that.

1 If we were talking today through Messenger and I made a statement that was
2 false, no one is fact-checking that. It is just not a public --
3 Q Right. So, for example, if I was direct messaging my uncle on Facebook or 4 Instagram and I said something like, "You should drink bleach; it'll cure COVID," where the 5 platform has recognized that they would remove that if it were public, Meta would have 6 no interest in taking that private message between myself and my uncle and own?
7 A We do not apply our fact-checking policies to those private messages.
8 Q Okay.
9 Is it fair to say that that distinction between the public post and the private 10 messaging is because Meta is mainly interested in viral misinformation and, you know,
11 the harm that could come writ large to platform users?
12 A Virality does play a component into our treatment on this. I think it's kind 13 of sort of evident in their remove-reduce-inform cycle that reduction is to limit virality
14 from potential misinformation --
15 Q Okay.
16 A -- at the same time, not removing it from the platform.
17 Q Thank you.
18 Private messages can't go viral, right?
19 A Well --
20 Q Well, I mean, within that -- a private message is not viral by definition,
21 correct?
22 A Yeah, by definition. I believe that's correct. The intent is likely not for it
23 to go viral.
24 [redacted] I'm going to go off the record.
25 [redacted] Okay.

1 [redacted] Thank you.

2 [Recess.]

3 [redacted] We'll go back on the record, please.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q [redacted] with respect to the third-party fact-checker program, you were

6 starting to respond to some of the details. I understand you have an interest really just

7 at a high level of how the program works.

8 To your understanding, when content is shared with the third-party fact-checkers,

9 is content demoted or otherwise affected in any way pending a review by the third-party

10 fact-checker?

11 A I don't know the exact treatment as it stands on July the 26th, today, right

12 now, so I don't want to speculate.

13 Q We interviewed one of your colleagues yesterday. She had said that the 14 policy had changed at the start of this year and that there was a difference in the policy

15 last year.

16 Do you have familiarity with what the policy was as of last year?

17 A The policy around misinformation --

18 Q Yeah, regarding whether content in the interim period while it's pending

19 review by the third-party fact-checkers, whether that content is demoted or affected in 20 any way?

21 A I don't know the exact dates. For a period of time, we did demote content

22 in the fact-checking.

23 Q And during that period of time, do you know the degree by which content

24 would be demoted pending review by a third-party fact-checker?

25 A I can't recall.

1 Q With the understanding that you don't recall the exact figure or the
2 percentage, do you recall if there was a default or a standard degree by which content
3 would be demoted pending the third-party fact-checker's review?
4 A Unfortunately I don't recall, and I don't want to speculate.
5 Q Starting in -- correct me if I'm misstating your testimony. It says around 6 2017 and 2016 the company began working with third-party fact-checkers?
7 A I don't have the exact dates. We began looking at misinformation in, I
8 believe, 2016. 2017 is where I became a bit more involved in that process. The exact
9 fact-checking -- I don't know the exact date.
10 Q And around that 2017 timeframe, do you recall who at the company had 11 primary responsibility for relationships with third-party fact-checkers?
12 A I do not. I don't recall.
13 Q Do you recall which team or teams were involved?
14 A Our misinformation team had a relationship. I don't recall individuals.
15 Q Who led the misinfo team at the time?
16 A Justine Isola was part of the misinfo team. I don't know if she led the team
17 at the time.
18 Q And what about last year? Do you know in 2022 which team had primary 19 responsibility for engaging with the third-party fact-checkers?
20 A Again, within our content policy team, we have our misinformation team.
21 They engage throughout our internal -- through all our teams to oversee our 22 fact-checking -- excuse me -- oversee our misinformation program.
23 Q And from 2017 to 2022, did it ever change, who was the primary team
24 responsible for engaging with third-party fact-checkers?
25 A I can't recall. I don't believe so, but I can't recall.

1 Q Are you familiar with the October 2020 New York Post story on Hunter
2 Biden's laptop?
3 A I am.
4 Q And are you familiar with what actions, if any, the company took with 5 respect to the story in October of 2020?
6 A And, to be clear, I'm familiar the story existed. I may have read it at the 7 time. I don't recall anything about the story itself.
8 Q With that understanding --
9 A Yeah.
10 Q -- do you have any familiarity with what actions, if any, the company took 11 with respect to the story in October of 2020?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And, to your understanding, what actions, if any, did the company take?
14 A We made the original story eligible for fact-checkers to rate. And that 15 was the original action.
16 Q And who made that decision?
17 A I can't recall.
18 Q Was it you?
19 A It was not me.
20 Q Were you involved in the decision-making?
21 A I remember that story. When that story was evolved, I actually had 22 external meetings that day. And I quickly, I believe, told folks to carry on, that I was 23 going to external meetings.
24 Q And these external meetings were not related to the decision-making with 25 this story?

1 A They were not.

2 Q Were any of these meetings with the government?

3 [Discussion off the record.]

4 [redacted] Just for color, so those external meetings were with State -- let me

5 make sure I get this right -- attorneys general -- "ASG," I guess, so attorneys general -- at 6 that time on a variety of topics but not the Hunter Biden issue.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Any meetings with the Federal Government?

9 A On that day, no. Not that I can remember.

10 Q To your understanding, was the story assessed under -- at the time,

11 Facebook -- Facebook's coordinated inauthentic behavior policy?

12 A Recalling that time, we did look at that piece of content under all of our

13 policies, as we do for any piece of content, ultimately deciding on allowing that to be set

14 into a queue for the opportunity for fact-checkers to pick this story up and read it -- a

15 decision I thought was the smart one at the time because it was nonviolative of any of our

16 other policies.

17 Q Yeah. So, to your understanding, it was nonviolative of Facebook's

18 hack-and-leak policy at the time?

19 A That is correct. That's my understanding.

20 Q To your understanding, who made that determination?

21 A Again, I was not -- I was at an external meeting. I left that to my teams.

22 Daniel Gleicher oversaw that policy itself, and so his teams would have.

23 Q To your understanding, do you know how quickly that determination was 24 made?

25 A I don't know.

1 Q Once a determination is made under -- you said it was assessed under all the
2 policies, so an assessment was made under hack-and-leak, an assessment was made
3 under the misinformation policy -- was there any sort of discussion between those two 4 teams, or was everyone operating in independent silos?
5 A For the specifics, again, I wasn't part of those discussions, so I don't know if 6 they occurred or they did not occur.
7 Q To your knowledge, who was part of those discussions?
8 A I don't want to speculate. I do know that Nathaniel had identified that, but 9 I don't know who else was in those discussions.
10 Q Okay. Do you know if [redacted] was part of the discussions?
11 A Ultimately we all roll up to [redacted] as we talked about [inaudible]
12 responsibility of these decisions. But I don't know if she was directly involved in those 13 discussions.
14 Q Not referring specifically to this example, but just in a typical course of 15 business, who was making the decision to refer an article -- in this case, the New York
16 Post story -- but, in a typical sense, who is usually making the decision to refer content to 17 a third-party fact-checker?
18 A We have our protocols and procedures, and I would defer to Justine and her 19 team on how that actually operates. I don't see the day-to-day of who's making those 20 decisions -- or how those things are being identified for --
21 Q Understood.
22 Are there -- have there been -- excuse me. Have there ever been any instances
23 where the person making the decision on whether to send a piece of content to a 24 third-party fact-checker -- whether you have ever been the decision-maker?
25 A Not that I can recall.

1 Q Earlier, in an answer not directly related to this, you'd mentioned that
2 sometimes folks may feel that an issue is above their pay grade.
3 For an issue where there's a closer call or a more difficult question about whether
4 to refer content to a third-party fact-checker, who would that roll up to in the chain?
5 A Again, ultimately, it would go to Monika.
6 Q Okay. To your knowledge, has that ever occurred, where a decision on 7 whether to send content to a third-party fact-checker has gone to [redacted]?
8 A Again, to maybe take a slight step back, we try to have these very objective 9 kind of protocols and principles that we follow in these situations to, essentially, in many 10 ways, eliminate any discussion in the periods of a fog of war or chaos, right, when the 11 company's in an intense situation. And I'm not saying that that's the case here or was 12 the case with the one that you're flagging. But throughout any of the work that we do, 13 we want to just rely on what we have as a detailed, objective procedure, and then we just 14 follow that procedure.
15 So it's not frequent that people are raising these questions for, you know, further 16 adjudication in those instances, but on occasion where there is something significant, it
17 can be raised.
18 So I don't have specifics about, you know, an individual time something may have 19 been raised to [redacted] Again, as I've mentioned, I can't remember a time when 20 something was raised directly to me on the matter. But I also don't want to be so 21 uniform or -- that I know of every conversation that's ever happened at Meta. I don't.
22 Q Uh-huh.
23 Do you know how long the story was demoted for?
24 A Roughly 1 week, per the procedure.
25 Q And, to your knowledge, did any of the third-party fact-checkers review the

1 story?

2 A I don't know if any third-party fact-checkers reviewed the story. I know

3 that we did not get a fact-check on the story. So there's a nuance there. But I don't

4 know if any of them reviewed it, decided not to. I just know that we did not receive a

5 fact-check on this story.

6 Q In the roughly week it was demoted, did you participate in any discussions

7 with personnel at the company about how to handle the story?

8 A I can't recall.

9 Q Do you have a ballpark sense of, we'll say in this time period, fall of 2020,

10 when content is sent to a third-party fact-checker, pending review of the third-party

11 fact-checker, by what degree the content is demoted?

12 A Again, I would only be speculating. I don't have a -- I don't have either

13 accurate knowledge currently or hard paper in front of me to comment.

14 Q Who at the company would know that answer?

15 A I believe [redacted] would have the best recollection.

16 Q Anyone else?

17 A Justine. [redacted] That's who I could go to in situations.

18 Q Okay. Would [redacted] know the answer?

19 A Again, Justine would be the -- she's the person who has the most, kind of,

20 oversight, the oversight, over these issues. And I would go to her before I went to 21 Monika.

22 Q You mentioned there's kind of these standard protocols and the company

23 tries to, you know, follow them.

24 With respect to this story, is there any -- as part of the decision-making process, as

25 far as factors that are considered, is any thought given to the -- if there are times when,

1 say, these related to an election?

2 A Can you maybe clarify? I want to make sure I understand the thrust of the

3 question.

4 Q Sure. So, using the New York Post story as an example, it comes out in

5 mid-October. There's a Presidential election coming up very shortly.

6 A Yes.

7 Q Was there any discussion of shortening the 7-day window that the content

8 was demoted?

9 A I don't recall any discussion on shortening the window, again following the 10 standard procedure.

11 Mr. Brown. Just for clarity, the purpose legislatively was to focus on 12 executive-branch coercion, pressure, et cetera. What Meta's policies are about

13 proximity to elections would seem to be afield to that. And I just was trying to 14 understand the nexus between that topic, sort of general policies around the content,

15 and the subject of the interview, including the letter inviting individuals to come testify

16 voluntarily.

17 [redacted] Yeah. As you're well aware, there's been a number of witnesses who

18 have testified about interactions with the Federal Government, including the FBI,

19 regarding topic areas that are related to the subject of the Hunter Biden story. And as

20 part of that investigation, the committee needs to know what the company's policies

21 were and if they were followed.

22 Mr. Brown. What the company's policies were and whether they were followed

23 is different than whether the government weighed in and -- government weighing in.

24 [redacted] Well, the government did weigh in. And so then the question is how 25 the company reacted.

1 [redacted] Since the allegation is that the government sort of pressured or 2 tricked the companies into changing their policies, it would be helpful to know what the 3 policies were prior.
4 Mr. Brown. Thank you. I just -- thank you. I appreciate the clarification.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q Sorry, anything else to add?
7 A No. I think I lost your -- I lost your last question.
8 Q Yeah, so just -- I asked the question initially for those 7 days. Finally the 9 story was lifted. After the story was lifted, did you recall any discussions with personnel
10 at the company regarding how the story was handled?
11 A I don't recall any conversations.
12 Q Do you recall, with the understanding that earlier you testified you don't 13 recall exactly when the hack-and-leak policy was adopted, but it's your recollection that 14 the hack-and-leak policy was adopted prior to October of 2020?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And do you recall which individuals worked on that policy?
17 A I recall [redacted] being involved with the policy.
18 Q Do you know if [redacted] was involved in the development of the
19 policy?
20 A Again, we all roll up to Monika, so ultimately she has the oversight over the 21 policy. I can't remember her being in a specific conversation about the policy
22 development.
23 Q Do you know whether [redacted] and [redacted] were 24 meeting with the FBI in 2020?
25 A I do know they had government meetings. I don't know exactly what parts

1 of the government they met with.

2 Q Did they ever share information with you regarding discussions they had

3 with the government?

4 A I can't recall.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q You mentioned earlier that you have partnered -- or Facebook partners with

7 the WHO and the CDC. Was that a correct understanding?

8 A I mean, for clarification, "partner with," we sought, kind of, their insights on

9 issues. We separately have had partnerships in different parts of our company, you

10 know, just as we would partner with other clients on issues. If they're running a

11 campaign, we may partner with clients in that way. But for the issues that dealt with 12 COVID and our policies, we sought information from the WHO and the CDC.

13 Q And did you directly meet with them or communicate with them on that 14 issue?

15 A No, I did not.

16 Q Do you know who at Meta did?

17 A I don't recall.

18 Q Would it have been people on the public policy team most likely or --

19 A Unfortunately, I don't recall.

20 Q How about the Surgeon General's Office? Did you meet with the Surgeon

21 General's Office?

22 A I did not.

23 Q Do you know if anyone at Meta did?

24 A I don't know.

25 Q Are you aware of remarks that the Surgeon General and the then-press

1 secretary, Jennifer Psaki, made in July of 2021 about how the tech companies weren't
2 doing enough, especially Facebook, and needed to do more?
3 Mr. Brown. I'm sorry. Just -- it was hard to hear.
4 [redacted] Oh, sure.
5 Mr. Brown. Did you say the Surgeon General, or did you say Jen Psaki?
6 [redacted] Both the Surgeon General and then-Press Secretary Jen Psaki.
7 Mr. Brown. So he would have to know about both or --
8 [redacted] Well, they gave a joint press conference on July 15th of 2021.
9 Mr. Brown. Okay.
10 [redacted] May I ask you, who -- this is embarrassing -- who is the Surgeon
11 General?
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Vivek Murthy.
14 A Okay. I want to retract. Unfortunately I do want to retract. I have met 15 with Mr. Murthy recently, not while -- recently on fentanyl.
16 Q Oh, okay.
17 A So I did meet with him recently. So I have met with the Surgeon General's 18 Office, but not on anything prior to, like, the last year, within the last year, counting
19 fentanyl issues.
20 Now -- sorry?
21 Q Oh, yeah, sure. Were you aware of remarks that both of them made in July
22 of 2021 about how Facebook especially and other tech companies weren't doing enough
23 to stop the spread of vaccine misinformation?
24 A I do -- I am familiar with the comments. I think those comments were 25 made by the press secretary, not necessarily --

1 [Discussion off the record.]

2 [redacted] Just to be as explicit as possible, I am aware that the press secretary

3 made comments. I don't remember watching a press conference. I don't remember

4 going back to see. I remember that there were comments, that she made comments, or

5 at least I was informed that she made comments.

6 I -- as you see, I struggled with the Surgeon General's name. I did not remember,

7 or maybe I was not aware, that he made comments well.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Okay. Did Meta have conferences -- or, conversations about those

10 remarks? Were they discussed internally, is the question.

11 A I can't recall a conference. And I don't want to speak for other people's 12 conversations.

13 Q Was there any concern at Meta over these remarks?

14 A Again, I don't want to speak for other people's concern, but what I

15 concerned? I think --

16 Q Sure.

17 A -- I carried the same amount of concern that I spoke to earlier about just

18 being a professional, making sure that our platforms are not being used for exploitive

19 purposes, that we're going about protecting people.

20 But I don't remember myself having a specific conversation based off of any 21 remarks.

22 Q Okay.

23 Do you know who the "disinformation dozen" are? Or, even if you don't know all

24 12 of them, are you familiar with the term?

25 A I am familiar with the term. I do not know all 12 of them.

1 Q Yeah, neither do I. Do you recall Press Secretary Psaki or anyone else from 2 the administration mentioning them in particular, Meta, as purveyors of misinformation?
3 A Again, I didn't -- I didn't and I don't watch the press secretary's briefings
4 often. I do remember hearing that those comments were made, about the
5 "disinformation dozen."
6 Q Did that, to your knowledge, prompt any internal conversation that you
7 were a part of or that you heard about?
8 A I do remember being made familiar with, although I did not read cover to 9 cover, their underlying report on the "disinformation dozen" that alleged a certain 10 significant percentage of people or content was shared by those 12 individuals, if it's only 11 12.
12 And then I remember us ultimately pushing back on the claim or the allegation
13 that our content was -- or, content on the Meta platform was overrun by "disinformation 14 dozen" content.
15 Q Is that the Center for Countering Digital Hate report, do you recall, that you
16 referenced?
17 A I would have to look at the exact name. It's whoever made the -- it was the 18 group that made the report. That sounds pretty close.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q Who made you aware of the underlying report?
21 A I -- I don't -- I don't recall.
22 Q When you say you were pushing back, against who were you pushing back?
23 A I think there was the claim that was made in that report that something like
24 65 or 70 percent -- I don't actually recall the number -- but greater than 65 percent of all
25 content that was misinformation around COVID came from that group.

1 I know that we did an analysis to find that only about .05 percent of COVID-related
2 content on our platform was associated with that group. And we just made that clear,
3 that the underlying methodology of that report seemed to be lacking.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q Were you aware of discussions at Meta about perhaps the need to get them
6 off the platform, off Meta's platforms, or reduce the virality of their posts?
7 A Again, I think I -- I've tried to explain this to the best of my ability. When 8 we are informed of potential violative content, bad behavior, and malicious actors on our 9 platform, we do take that as a report. So, regardless of whether it's the administration, 10 Congress, civil society, my mom flagging that information, we do take it back to look, to 11 ensure that our policies are being enforced as they are meant to be enforced, as we 12 intend to do. And if there are gaps, then we try to close those gaps around our policies.
13 So, being made aware of that report, we did the immediate kind of review of, are 14 there allegations here that we are not failing to meet our existing policies? And, again,
15 that, I think, spawns -- that spawns the blog post that we made that the underlying 16 methodology seemed to be off in that report.
17 Q If, say, a defined team -- or, say, Justine Isola or someone at Facebook had a 18 different view and thought it was a problem and thought they should be removed and 19 took steps to have them removed, would you necessarily have known about that?
20 A And maybe to broaden it out a little bit, there are billions and billions of 21 pieces of content, like, placed on the platform by our 3 billion users. For every decision,
22 I don't necessarily have direct oversight and know about each of those issues.
23 More narrowly, though, in these situations, especially where we would be able to 24 do the analysis to make sure that what was being alleged -- to see if that was actually 25 truthful or maybe a faulty methodology that was being used, we would go forward with

1 that. And would I be informed? I can't say that I'm always informed, I can't say that I
2 would be informed. But I was uninformed about any decision on that --
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q I'm sorry. I didn't catch the end of your answer. You were not informed 5 about any decision relating to the --
6 A Well --
7 Q -- "disinformation dozen"?
8 A -- I think -- and maybe to clarify what the comments are, maybe I'll ask you
9 to repeat your comment.
10 What I'm referring to was that -- and correct me if I'm wrong -- you asked, would I 11 be informed about every decision made against a piece of content by the "disinformation 12 dozen."
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Or their accounts. Say there was a decision to remove their accounts.
15 Would you necessarily have -- or to decrease visibility of their accounts. Would you 16 necessarily be involved in that?
17 A Not every decision.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Were you involved in any decision regarding the "disinformation dozen"?
20 A Again, I can't recall the names of each specific person that is in that group, so
21 I don't know.
22 Q Were you involved in any decisions regarding content from Robert F.
23 Kennedy, Jr's account?
24 A I don't recall.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Around this same time, there was a statement made by President Biden on
2 July 16th, around the same time as the remarks by the Surgeon General and Press
3 Secretary Psaki, about social media companies effectively killing people by not censoring
4 COVID misinformation.
5 Were you aware of those statements?
6 A I was aware of that statement.
7 Q And did that statement impact you?
8 A Personally, it did have an impact on me. You know, kind of, any time you
9 receive criticism, regardless of where it comes from, I think you -- especially about your 10 professional work, you take some, you know, kind of, immediate -- it has immediate 11 impact. Hearing from the President, it does have an impact as well.
12 Again, but during those times, I think it's, how do you react to that, those type of 13 statements? Do you feel pressure? Do you feel like you need to acquiesce or succumb
14 to some type of external force?
15 In this case, I believe -- like, I do in some ways remember it very vividly. I believe 16 that comment was made on a Friday on the South Lawn as he was walking to Marine One.
17 And by Monday, I believe he -- actually, I don't believe -- I know that he essentially 18 retracted that statement, he came off of that. But I do remember seeing it.
19 Q Did you discuss it with anyone, to your recollection, at Meta?
20 A I don't remember specific conversations about it.
21 Q Did you discuss it with Nick Clegg?
22 A I don't remember the conversations. I'm sorry.
23 Q What about statements from the White House communications director,
24 Kate Bedingfield, that the administration was reviewing section 230 to see if platforms
25 could be held accountable?

1 Mr. Brown. Can I ask, do you have the document -- because I just --

2 [redacted] We can -- sure.

3 Mr. Brown. If he's representing that he heard something, I'd want to make sure

4 that what you're saying is precise --

5 [redacted] He's allowed to answer without a document first.

6 Mr. Brown. Yeah, but I understand. My question is, how do I know and how

7 does he know that those words are the actual words that were used?

8 [redacted] We can pull up the quote.

9 Mr. Brown. I just don't want him signing on to words that perhaps were not 10 used, referencing a specific statement by someone.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q During the summer of 2021, how frequently were you meeting with Nick

13 Clegg?

14 A I can't recall.

15 Q You said you have biweekly standing meetings with him right now?

16 A Correct -- not now, but I did have biweekly meetings with him.

17 Q Okay. And how long was that ongoing?

18 A Since 2020, for me.

19 Q Do you know if people typically take notes at these meetings?

20 A I don't know.

21 Q Do you?

22 A Often not.

23 Q But sometimes you do?

24 A I'm sure I've taken notes at some at some point, but I don't recall.

25 [redacted] So, here. This is a CNN article by Betsy Klein, "White House

1 reviewing Section 230 amid efforts to push social media giants to crack down on
2 misinformation."
3 "The White House is reviewing whether social media platforms should be held
4 legally accountable for publishing misinformation via Section 230."
5 "The Section 230 debate is taking on new urgency in recent days as the 6 administration has called on social media platforms to take a more aggressive stance on 7 combating misinformation."
8 "'We're viewing that, and certainly they should be held accountable,' Bedingfield
9 told MSNBC when asked about Section 230 and whether social media companies like 10 Facebook should be liable and open to lawsuits for publishing false information that 11 causes Americans harm."
12 [redacted] Sorry, what was that article?
13 [redacted] It's a CNN article --
14 [redacted] Is there a date?
15 [redacted] Yes. July 20, 2021. Betsy Klein with a K.
16 [redacted] Okay.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q Were you aware of that statement?
19 A So I think there's a lot there.
20 Q Yeah.
21 A There's a lot there. So, first, who is the person that you said made the 22 statement?
23 Q Kate Bedingfield, who was the White House communications director.
24 A Yeah, I -- A, obviously, that's a story that's written. I don't know if that 25 story -- I'm assuming it's accurate, right? Like, I'm not saying that it's intentionally false.

1 But I don't know if those were the exact terms and how that conversation developed, so
2 there's a lot there.
3 Secondly, I don't know -- is it Bedingfield?
4 Q Yeah.
5 A I think this may be the first time I've heard of her name, so --
6 Q Well, let me ask more generally. Were you aware that people in the White
7 House were reviewing -- or said that they were reviewing section 230 to see if social 8 media companies could be held accountable for misinformation on their platforms in the 9 summer of 2021?
10 A In the summer of 2021?
11 Q Yeah.
12 A I don't recall.
13 Q Okay.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q During the summer of 2021, how frequent were you meeting with [redacted]
16 [redacted]
17 A The reason why I'm trying to -- I mentioned earlier that [redacted] had some 18 health problems, so I don't actually recall the period of time exactly when she was in and 19 when she was out. But, more broadly, we generally meet weekly.
20 Q How frequently do you meet with [redacted]?
21 Let me rephrase that. During the summer of 2021, how frequently did you meet
22 with [redacted]?
23 A Again, for the summer of 2021, I can't recall.
24 Q What about right now?
25 A We generally, as a team, have a team meeting at least once a month. In

1 addition to the broader team meeting, we have a directors-and-above meeting at least
2 once a month, so that would give us twice. And then on an ad hoc basis.
3 Q For the team meeting that occurs once a month, are notes kept of those
4 meetings?
5 A I don't keep notes of meetings.
6 Q Do you know if anyone keeps notes at those meetings?
7 A I don't pay attention.
8 Q How long have those meetings been ongoing?
9 A We've had meetings -- 7 years that I guess we've had meetings, general just 10 staff meetings.
11 Q Okay. And the directors-and-above meetings, do you take notes at any of 12 those meetings?
13 A I do not.
14 Q Do you know if anyone takes notes?
15 A I do not know.
16 Q How long have those meetings been ongoing?
17 A For a less period of time, but I don't know exact dates.
18 Q Since at least 2020?
19 A I don't know. I don't know. They may have started after 2020.
20 Q Do you recall if, during either of those sets of meetings, whether there were 21 discussions regarding how the company should handle the "disinformation dozen"?
22 A I don't recall. And to put a bit of color, these are more administrative 23 meetings that we have, so not necessarily substantive issues being discussed.
24 Q Is substance ever raised during these meetings?
25 A I can't say that it's never raised, but I don't recall any specifics.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q You mentioned meeting recently with the Surgeon General about fentanyl.

3 Was that about misinformation related to fentanyl?

4 A No, huh-uh.

5 Q So -- okay.

6 [Discussion off the record.]

1 [1:35 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q In the course of your position, are there any regular standing meetings

4 where you're meeting with Mark Zuckerberg?

5 A No.

6 Q She is, obviously, no longer with the company, but previously any standing

7 meetings with Sheryl --

8 A I'm sorry. Can you repeat?

9 Q Sure. I was going to -- the next question is in reference to Sheryl Sandberg,

10 who I understand she's no longer with the company.

11 A That's correct.

12 Q But prior to her leaving the company, did you have any standing meetings

13 with Sheryl Sandberg?

14 A Not before she left the company.

15 Q Regarding, say, the --

16 A For clarity, I do remember one standing meeting. I am part of the Civil

17 Rights Task Force, which Sheryl did lead, and I think we had quarterly meetings, which 18 was standard meetings, so for full completeness.

19 Q Regarding your standing meetings with Nick Clegg, you said it involved

20 multiple people, not one-on-one meetings?

21 A That is correct.

22 Q Who else participated in these meetings?

23 A The regional leads for our policy teams. We also have function leads, like

24 policy privacy -- privacy policy, our chief privacy policy officer, and our policy -- global

25 head of policy.

1 Q Do you have any one-on-one meetings with Nick Clegg?
2 A I do not.
3 Q During these meetings with Nick Clegg, is he the most senior person in the 4 meeting?
5 A Yes.
6 Q For the adoption of the Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior policy, for a
7 change like that, who's the most senior person at the company involved with the decision
8 to adopt that policy?
9 A For that policy specifically?
10 Q I'll start there first. Specific to that policy.
11 A I can't remember who exactly was at the company at that time. Our 12 leadership within the policy team underwent a change similar in time, but I just don't 13 know exactly who was at the company.
14 Q Is there anyone you remember?
15 A Ultimately, [redacted] would be the person who's senior.
16 Q Who does [redacted] report to?
17 A She reports to [redacted].
18 Q Do you have any ongoing standing meetings that are attended by [redacted]
19 [redacted]
20 A I attend -- he has weekly meetings, and I attend those. So, again, some of 21 those are just administrative meetings.
22 Q And how long have those weekly meetings been ongoing?
23 A Since I began at the company.
24 Q And how frequently do you attend the meetings?
25 A Just weekly update meetings. It's just that, weekly. So I think everyone

1 tries to meet at the weekly update meeting where teams will report on a tax bill in 2 Liberia, and then we'll have reports, things like that.
3 Q Are you presenting at these meetings or are you just receiving the output?
4 A Yeah. I have presented at those meetings. I have not presented in a long,
5 long time.
6 Q And what about the standing meetings with Nick Clegg, are you presenting 7 at these meetings?
8 A Generally not.
9 Q To your recollection, for the weekly meetings with [redacted], is it ever
10 discussed if a new policy is being adopted for the content moderation policies?
11 A I can't -- I don't want to be so clear that it could never happen. I don't 12 recall that happening.
13 Q And what about the standing meeting you and others have with Nick Clegg?
14 Would the adoption of a new content moderation policy be discussed in those meetings?
15 A Again, I don't want to be so forceful to say that it would never happen. I
16 don't know if it would ever happen. I can't recall any times.
17 Q With respect to the hack-and-leak policy, who's the most senior member of 18 the company involved in the development of the hack-and-leak policy?
19 A Again, [redacted], his team -- [redacted] is a senior member of my 20 team -- had that ultimately, as well as [redacted] [redacted].
21 Q And I have seen reference to [redacted] for a few of these answers. With 22 respect to the Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior and with respect to hack and leak or any 23 of the other policies, do you know if there are any policies where [redacted] required 24 signoff from [redacted] or anyone above her?
25 A I do not know.

[redacted] Q Do you know if anyone briefed [redacted] about your meeting with the White House, the Biden White House, in the spring of 2021?

A I don't know.

Q For the Zoom call that occurred -- or not the Zoom, but the video conference call that occurred between Rob Flaherty, Andy Slavitt, and some people from Meta, do you recall if people had their video cameras on for that meeting?

A There were video cameras on. I don't know who had their camera on and who had their camera off.

Q The reason I ask is you mentioned that Mr. Flaherty in particular, you know, based off the tenor of the conversation, all that, just saying you recall, is that based off he's off camera, just his voice and what he's saying, or was he on camera and could you visibly see his reaction as the meeting was unfolding?

A I just remember the tenor of the voice, the communication. I don't actually remember body language or if he even was on the camera.

Q Do you recall if he used profanity?

A I don't know.

Q In the debrief following the meeting, do you recall if others at Meta had a similar understanding of how the meeting unfolded than you have of this?

A I don't recall. I wouldn't want to speculate.

Q Who participated in the debrief?

A I don't recall everyone. I do know I spoke to [redacted]. I don't remember others who were potentially on.

[redacted] Do you remember what you said at all?

[redacted] No, I don't recall.

BY [redacted]

1 Q Do you recall how soon the debrief meeting occurred following the
2 conclusion of the meeting with the White House?
3 A I don't have specifics.
4 Q Do you recall generally? I mean, was it the same day?
5 A Roughly within the same 24-hour period.
6 Q You mentioned that Andy Slavitt was on the call, to your recollection?
7 A Yes, Mr. Slavitt was on the call.
8 Q Between Mr. Flaherty and Mr. Slavitt, do you recall who was doing most of 9 the speaking on behalf of the White House?
10 A I don't. I don't recall who acted -- who was the primary speaker.
11 Q Do you recall Mr. Slavitt's reaction, if it was similar to Mr. Flaherty's?
12 A I remember Mr. Slavitt being fairly cerebral in that meeting, and that is all.
13 Q Had you ever engaged previously or interacted with Mr. Flaherty or Mr.
14 Slavitt prior to that meeting?
15 A I do not believe so, but I don't want to be so forceful that I had a
16 conversation where I was a party to and I just don't remember.
17 Q Do you recall receiving information in advance of the meeting regarding who 18 Mr. Flaherty or Mr. Slavitt, who they are?
19 A I don't recall.
20 Q Do you have an understanding of how frequently Mr. Flaherty and Mr.
21 Slavitt were communicating with the company during this time?
22 A I just know my conversation. I don't know how frequently they were 23 communicating with others within the company.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q Do you recall [redacted] or anyone else saying anything before the meeting --

A Sorry. [redacted]?

Q Sorry. [redacted]. [redacted], [redacted].

About Flaherty or Slavitt, about their communications with Flaherty or Slavitt?

A Say it one more time. I'm sorry.

Q Do you recall [redacted] or anyone else saying anything preceding the meeting about Flaherty or Slavitt and their communications with them?

A I can't recall.

Q Did they tell you why they wanted you in the meeting? Did they -- sorry. I should have prefaced that. Did they ask you to be in the meeting, [redacted] or --

A [redacted] and [redacted]?

Q Yeah.

A I can't recall who specifically asked me, whether it was Brian or -- and I even have to struggle to remember that [redacted] was there. So I just remember [redacted] being there.

Q But it would likely have -- you likely would have been asked by someone else. It wouldn't have sort of naturally have been your role. Is that a correct understanding?

A The question, to make sure I understand the question, are you asking would the White House -- or would I reach out to the White House or the White House would reach out to me directly?

Q Well, is it sort of -- did someone else at Meta say it would be great if you could be in this meeting or you should be in this meeting rather than -- would that sort of be the natural course of things since you weren't on the public policy team?

A Yeah, I think it's probably fair to say. I did not invite myself to the meeting, so --

Q And you weren't directly invited by the White House?

A No. And I didn't -- I don't engage with the government on my own.

Q Okay. And do you recall them saying why they wanted you there?

A No, not specifically.

BY [redacted]

Q Regarding the decision to -- the company's decision to begin using third party fact-checkers, do you recall the most senior member of the company involved in that decision?

A I do not offhand know for sure.

Q Was [redacted] involved in that decision?

A Yes.

Q Was [redacted] involved in that decision?

A Again, [redacted] reports to [redacted] I don't know their conversations.

Q Who's the most senior member of the company you had a discussion with regarding the decision to begin a program with third party fact-checkers?

A And I want to be clear in case it wasn't -- in case I wasn't earlier. At that point in time, I did not oversee -- when we undertook the misinformation, I did not oversee that part, so that was not part of my bailiwick. So I was -- appeared to the folks that were going through that process underneath [redacted] so I just wasn't involved in those conversations.

Q In the spring of 2021, how frequently were you invited to meetings with members of the U.S. Federal Government?

A Spring of 2021, U.S. Federal Government? I do not know. Of course, I just don't know.

1 Q So meetings like the one with Mr. Slavitt, Mr. Flaherty, is this a regular
2 occurrence with your job? Is it a relatively rare experience that you're asked to directly
3 engage with the Federal Government?
4 A It's not overly frequent. It's also not infrequent. I talk a lot to your 5 colleagues here in the House, across the way with the Senate. I talk to folks at the 6 administration when asked when appropriate. So it's not infrequent, but it's not, like,
7 daily or, you know --
8 Q Do you recall the purpose of -- so for Mr. Flaherty -- the meeting with Mr.
9 Flaherty and Mr. Slavitt, was the primary purpose of the meeting an issue that you were 10 able to speak to, or were you one of multiple folks who was there to help answer
11 questions?
12 A The issues, to the extent that I remember, were dealing with our approach
13 to content moderation, including misinformation, so I can't speak to those issues.
14 Again, I don't recall everyone that was in that meeting. I remember [redacted] being 15 in the meeting. I remember Mr. Flaherty, Mr. Slavitt being in the meeting. But I can't 16 recall other participants.
17 Q To the extent you recall, were there other agenda items, or was that the 18 purpose of the meeting?
19 A That was what was remarkable to me. I do not recall if there were other 20 agenda items.
21 [redacted] Did you essentially explain the company's policies or defend them?
22 Was that --
23 [redacted] I try to explain the policies, our community standards and our 24 approach to dealing with -- whether it's violating content, dealing with things like 25 misinformation. I mean, that's my role in those types of meetings.

1 [redacted] And did you feel after the meeting as though the issue had been
2 resolved, or was there remaining dissatisfaction among the parties?
3 [redacted] Again, as I mentioned earlier, there was a certain level of intensity in 4 our meeting that I could experience and I believe was being expressed, but I also thought 5 that at that point our policies were where we are.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q Do you recall ever providing a briefing to either [redacted] or [redacted]
8 regarding the company's content moderation policies? Let me narrow that question.
9 A Yeah.
10 Q Do you recall, say, in the spring of 2021, providing a briefing to either [redacted]
11 [redacted] or [redacted]?
12 A I don't recall.
13 And may I ask a clarifying question? What do you mean by "briefing"?
14 Q Sure. And correct me if this assumption is wrong. But [redacted] and 15 [redacted] are not on your team?
16 A That's correct.
17 Q And so they don't have the same degree of expertise as you and your team
18 have on content moderation policies?
19 A That is correct.
20 Q Yeah. They are engaging with members of the Federal Government?
21 A That's correct.
22 Q It sounds like receiving questions with respect to your content -- with 23 respect to the company's content moderation policies.
24 You recall one meeting where you were directly engaging --
25 A Correct.

1 Q -- with [redacted] and [redacted], but were there other occasions, say, in 2 the spring of 2021, where you were answering questions to [redacted] or to [redacted] or 3 any questions they've had based on meetings with Federal Government, external
4 stakeholders?
5 A Again, I just don't recall that level of specificity at that time period.
6 Q Okay. Would that be within the realm of your responsibilities?
7 A Again, if someone asks me a question about my work, about our community
8 standards, I'd likely answer it, answer that question both internally and externally. I just 9 don't recall any specifics that were asked by [redacted] or [redacted]
10 Q I mean, what about anybody on the policy team?
11 A Again, likewise, those questions may and perhaps at that point in time may 12 have likely come in. I just don't recall the specifics.
13 Q Typically, when you would engage [redacted] and [redacted], how would 14 you communicate with them?
15 A I often do verbal, just phone calls or at that point Zooms.
16 Q How about email?
17 A I can't say that we never have had email. I traditionally don't rely on email
18 as my primary mode of communication.
19 Q What is your primary form of communication?
20 A I generally use phone calls.
21 Q Do you ever use an internal workplace messaging system?
22 A We do have internal messaging systems, yes.
23 Q And what's the name of the messaging system you use?
24 A Colloquially, it's Ping, but I think it's officially Work Chat, maybe is the 25 correct term.

1 Q Do you ever use that?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And how frequently?

4 A Again, infrequently. It's not my preferred method.

5 Q Is it the preferred method of some of your colleagues?

6 A I can't speak to what their preferred method is. I know what mine is, and

7 I'd rather just pick up the phone and have a conversation.

8 [redacted] Is that usually a one-on-one form of communication, or is that the 9 community Work Chats too?

10 [redacted] I'm sorry?

11 [redacted] Is that a one-on-one form of --

12 Mr. Brown. What?

13 [redacted] Whatever that workplace is, whatever it's called.

14 [redacted] Ping.

15 [redacted] Yeah.

16 [redacted] No, but it's a messaging system. So you can have individual

17 one-to-one or you can have one-to-two on Ping.

18 [redacted] I see.

19 [redacted] You mentioned that you were meeting with State officials on the day

20 of the Hunter Biden New York Post story, when Hunter Biden's laptop came out?

21 [redacted] That's correct.

22 [redacted] Why is it that you remember what you were doing that day in 23 particular?

24 [redacted] I don't know why I remember that day specifically.

25 Mr. Brown. Calls for discussions with counsel, and I'm going to instruct him not

1 to answer.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you recall receiving messages from people from your team that morning

4 regarding questions on how to handle the story?

5 A I remember one message, where I believe my response was informing them

6 that I was going to [inaudible].

7 Q And who messaged you?

8 A I can't -- I don't know.

9 Q Do you recall how the message was communicated to you?

10 A Unfortunately, I don't know.

11 Q Do you recall if it was a phone call or a verbal discussion?

12 A I don't believe it was a phone call, so it would have been some other form of 13 communication.

14 Q Some form of written communication?

15 A Perhaps.

16 Q And do you recall if you touched base at the end of the day to see what

17 decision had been made?

18 A I just don't recall the specific timetable over that day.

19 Q When you were first receiving, it sounds like perhaps a written message,

20 some form of communication from someone on your team, do you recall how early in the 21 day that was?

22 A I don't recall. I do -- the reason I'm stuttering a bit is I was on the West

23 Coast, so I don't actually remember exactly -- I just got back to the East Coast recently. I

24 don't remember exactly what time of the day that was on the West Coast.

25 Q Your external meetings, were they in person or virtual?

1 A At this time we were still doing everything virtually, and I was on those, yes.

2 Q And you mentioned that a bunch of your day was tied up with these external

3 meetings. Was it a lengthy meeting throughout the day, or did you have multiple

4 individual meetings with State officials?

5 A I forget the exact format. We have done both formats. I forget the exact

6 format.

7 Q And what was the subject matter of these meetings?

8 Mr. Brown. Objection. Calls for -- let me take a minute.

9 Let's go off the record.

10 [redacted] We can go off the record, please.

11 [Discussion off the record.]

12 Mr. Brown. We can go back on the record.

13 Answer the question.

14 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

15 [redacted] Just repeat the question one more time.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Sure. Do you remember what the subject matter was of your meetings

18 with the State officials?

19 A Just to be clear, this is the day that the Post -- the Post's Hunter Biden

20 story.

21 Q Yes.

22 A It was on issues that were previously scheduled and not dealing with that

23 story.

24 Q Do you know if anyone at the company reached out to the government for 25 additional information regarding the veracity of the story, the authenticity of the laptop?

1 A I want to make sure I have the words right. Did the government reach out
2 to the company or did the company reach out to the government?
3 Q Did the company reach out to the government?
4 A Not that I'm aware of.
5 Q To your knowledge, did the government provide any information to the 6 company?
7 A Not that I'm aware of.
8 Q Do you recall seeing any email traffic related to the decision -- the company's 9 decision regarding what steps to take?
10 A I can't recall.
11 Q Do you know how long the policy had been in place for a story to be 12 temporarily demoted for 7 days pending a third party fact-checker's review?
13 A No, I don't recall. I would defer to Justine for that.
14 Q Do you know how frequently it occurs that a story is shared with a third
15 party fact-checker and no third party fact-checker writes back a response?
16 A I have not done any analysis on that. I am not aware of any.
17 Q Were you aware of any examples prior to this example, the Hunter Biden
18 example?
19 A Not offhand, I'm not aware.
20 Q And is that because you don't have visibility into it, or is it your 21 understanding that it's a relatively rare occurrence that third party fact-checkers don't 22 provide a response?
23 A My lack of awareness is perhaps visibility into it. At that point these 24 decisions are sometimes made at levels that are not brought to me, so --
25 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

1 [Recess.]

2 [redacted] We will go back on the record, please. It is 2:12.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Good afternoon again, [redacted]

5 A Good afternoon.

6 Q I'm going to ask you a little bit on a couple of different subjects here. I'm

7 going to jump around a little bit.

8 First, I don't think we have touched on this yet, so I just want to get your

9 understanding of how Meta structures itself in the sense that it seems to me that there's

10 a division between the Meta employees who engage in the actual content moderation

11 decision, so like when a piece of content is being considered under some of the policies or

12 under the community standards, so those people who are -- let's just call them like

13 operational, like they are actually looking at the decisions themselves.

14 There's a separation between those people and the people at Meta who interface

15 with government officials or others outside of the organization to kind of hear their

16 signals, as you put it.

17 A Yes.

18 Q Is that accurate as I've described it, or can you tell me more about that 19 division?

20 A I think it's a fair summary. And maybe to give more color, within our policy

21 team we have both people who are regional, and those are considered to be your

22 government relations people. I mentioned some of those regions previously, the

23 Asia-Pacific region, the Africa, Middle East, Turkiye region, the Europe region, Latin

24 America, North America, as our primary regions.

25 And those individuals and their sub teams, they handle the day-to-day

1 government relations functions within those regions, including broader stakeholder
2 engagement within those regions.
3 Separately from that group, from those teams, we have what we call central 4 teams that sit with policy, and they focus on subject matters and sort of expertise.
5 My expertise for the company is on content policies, trust and safety issues. We 6 have teams that focus on things like economic impact and activity. We have teams that 7 focus on developing policy programs.
8 So if there is a need, a regional person may be bringing an elected official or other 9 dignitary back to headquarters, they will have a whole setup of demonstrations about our 10 VR systems, this is how the app works, making sure they have a pleasant experience.
11 We have teams that focus on privacy policy for us, and it's showing that they are 12 interacting with the -- locally with the data protection officers around the world on all the 13 data issues that you can imagine that Facebook faces.
14 So that's how we're generally organized. But to be specific again to your 15 comment -- or your question -- we have people who have interface on a daily basis with 16 government relations, with folks with the government, and those people are not on my 17 teams.
18 Q Is that division intentional on Meta's part?
19 A That division has preceded me, but it is something that is intentional -- were 20 it not that, I can say that we have no intention of keeping that division in the same place.
21 Ensuring that the folks who are working on the central teams were doing and 22 creating those content policies and overseeing enforcement, again trying to remove 23 potential -- whether it's pressures or other stimulus to making those decisions, we try to 24 be objective as possible and then put in the necessary guardrails to make sure that we 25 can adhere to that posture.

1 Q So the people who might be hearing the concerns of the external
2 stakeholders are not the same people that are actually putting in place -- or 3 applying -- sorry -- Meta's policies. They're not the ones that are on the ground making
4 specific content moderation decisions. They're just separation.
5 A Broadly, I think that is the correct answer. Now -- and I've mentioned here
6 that I talk to government officials on occasion. So when you're more senior, you have 7 the role that sometimes you are asked to come through and brief, whether it's a
8 committee, brief an individual office on an issue, and we'll have those discussions. And,
9 obviously, your ears don't turn off, so you will hear the signal and you're able to take it
10 firsthand.
11 But on the day-to-day basis again, that is not my core job. It's not my day-to-day
12 job. It's for the more junior people on the team. It's very, very infrequent. Maybe 13 they will staff a more senior person, but they would not have those conversations with a
14 government relations official for Meta on their own, if that makes sense.
15 Q I think I understand what you mean.
16 But also, like, even in your case, you do hear that signal from government officials,
17 but you're not personally making content moderation decisions on a daily basis. Is that
18 right?
19 A For the specificity that I think is really appropriate here, those people who 20 are tasked with making those daily day-to-day decisions -- again, I don't want to speak in 21 such declarative statements that it could never happen -- but I would be hard-pressed to 22 find a reason why those people would be engaging with government relations officials.
23 Q Why do you think that's important, the division of those two roles?
24 A Again, we have -- it is where your expertise lies, to take a step back. Again, 25 we try to empower people at the company to do their best work where they have their

1 expertise.

2 There are people within my teams that are great content policy monitors that

3 understand these issues. There are people who are well versed how to moderate

4 content for a platform.

5 That does not mean that they're well versed in how to engage with government

6 relations officials. And, likewise, government relations folks that work for Meta who are

7 not trained specifically on our policies, have not done the necessary research to

8 understand our systems, to go out and make these decisions, it would be unfair to them

9 as well.

10 And I think there is the benefit ultimately that you can separate the two, that you

11 can have your interface with governments where they can have frank conversations, but

12 recognizing that there's a level of sanctity, for lack of a better term, with the decisions

13 that are made on a day-to-day basis on individual pieces of content or potential actors.

14 Q And does that division help serve Meta's interest and objectivity with 15 respect to content moderation?

16 A Again, I mentioned earlier the idea that we intentionally try to make our

17 processes and our policies as objective as possible, and this does further that goal. It

18 relieves the individuals forced to make those decisions, forced to create those policies,

19 from external pressure.

20 [redacted] Thank you.

21 [redacted] You mentioned the sanctity of content moderation

22 decisions. Why is that sanctity important to maintain?

23 [redacted] Again, going back to the many reasons -- the way and the reasons

24 why we have our community standards, I spoke about -- a bit about brand safety, both for

25 the brands that we partner with and for our clients, but also for us. And I think that for

1 any group of people it would seem that Meta was making a biased decision or one that
2 would succumb to pressure, that they would have a reaction [inaudible] the platform.
3 In fact, outside the U.S., in other parts of the world where there are more
4 authoritarian governments, we are often, often asked to remove content that they find to 5 be offensive, not necessarily violative of any of our policies. Maybe it's to invoke the 6 law, that we will have to examine the law which is offensive to those sitting in power.
7 And we often push back on those requests because we want to give people the 8 power to express their opinions and have those meaningful connections and sometimes 9 go forward in that vein.
10 With that as the backdrop, recognizing that if you had the same people that were 11 forced to make those decisions also interfacing on a day-to-day basis with government, 12 then there could be an unfelt pressure.
13 And my advice, just to make clear -- I think I mentioned this specifically -- this is 14 how it works in the broad amount, in the vast majority of cases. I don't want to speak 15 so certain that there's not the opportunity that one member of a team who's more junior 16 than me hadn't asked at a point to make a content decision has ever engaged with a
17 government official.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Understood.
20 In the first hour on this subject, there was discussion in more depth about the 21 concerns of some government officials that relate to you, in particular concerns from 22 Biden administration officials in a press conference, for example, or that CNN article that 23 was, I guess, not introduced but discussed.
24 I want to hear your view of those concerns more broadly. Is it fair to say that in 25 your role at Facebook over multiple Presidential administrations that you've heard

1 concerns from government officials who are of both parties?

2 A That is a very fair submission. I've heard concerns from government

3 officials within -- throughout multiple administrations, throughout multiple Congresses

4 express their disagreement, often criticism of my work, of the policies that we enact, and

5 in our enforcement of those policies.

6 Q And are you aware of criticism from various Republican officials that

7 Facebook does -- or Meta does a poor job of moderating in the sense that they suppress

8 too many conservative views? Are you aware of that criticism?

9 A I am aware of that criticism.

10 Q And, in fact, when President Trump was in office -- I don't know if you ever

11 use Twitter. Are you allowed to use Twitter in your role?

12 A Well, we are allowed to use Twitter. I really enjoy the Threads product.

13 Q There you go. Me too.

14 But just, again, like are you aware that when Mr. Trump was President that he

15 used Twitter quite a bit to communicate his, quote, "concerns about social media

16 companies," both Twitter and Meta and others?

17 A I'm aware that President Trump would tweet and use Twitter often.

18 Q But are you aware also that some of his criticism about Facebook and other

19 social media companies would come in those tweets out to the public?

20 A Yes, I'm aware of that.

21 Q Did you ever read any of those tweets or messages that were critical of 22 Facebook from Mr. Trump?

23 A I didn't keep a full running diary of all the tweets that President Trump

24 made, but I am aware of tweets.

25 Q Okay. I'm just going to share one for the record. This is May 27th, 2020,

7:11 a.m., from former President Trump, while he was in office.

He tweeted, quote, "Republicans feel that social media platforms totally silence conservative voices. We will strongly regulate or close them down before we can ever allow this to happen. We saw what they attempted to do and failed in 2016. We can't let a more sophisticated version of that," and then it trails off in ellipses, unquote.

Mr. Brown. What's the source of that?

[redacted] That's a tweet. It's actually from an NPR article dated May 27th, 2020, and the title of that article -- this is on the NPR website -- is, quote, "Trump threatens to shut down social media after Twitter adds warning to his tweets," unquote.

BY [redacted]

Q All I'm asking about is, were you aware of those kind of concerns that President Trump had in his office, and particularly the threat that he would, quote, "shut down" social media platforms like Facebook if you continued to, quote, "censor conservative views."

A I'm not familiar with that tweet specifically. I did hear what you read. And I would not say that was foreign, that type of rhetoric was foreign.

Q Okay. You know, I guess what I'm asking is, you know, it sounds like in your career with Meta you've heard concerns from both Republicans and Democrats and criticism from both Republicans and Democrats as to how then Facebook and now Meta operates, fair to say?

A I've heard criticism from both Republicans and Democrats about how Meta works, yes.

Q And some of that criticism could be pretty intense, fair to say?

A Yes, it can be intense.

Q From both sides, correct?

1 A That is correct.

2 Q And despite the intensity of that criticism and even the threat in this case to,

3 quote, "shut down" Meta or other social media companies, that didn't affect the way you

4 did your job at Meta. Is that fair to say?

5 A Again, we receive criticism from many, many sources, both across the aisle in 6 government, civil society, academics, users themselves.

7 It is our job to take the signal where appropriate and try to cut through the noise

8 to see if there are ways that we should be improving our policies or the course of the 9 platform itself and then objectively apply the standards that we adopt.

10 So we objectively apply those despite the criticisms or the intended pressure.

11 Q And, ultimately, when you've made decisions at Meta to change your policy,

12 to adopt new policies, or whatever other decisions you've made, you've made them

13 because they're in Meta's interest in your estimation. Is that correct?

14 A That is correct. We try to make decisions based off of what is best for our

15 users.

16 Q And not because of any outside coercion or threats from government

17 officials or other external stakeholders?

18 A Again, people will bring issues to us. We will evaluate those issues. And

19 then we welcome the decisions for the objective value of those decisions and the way

20 that they impact our platform.

21 Q Now, there's kind of an elephant in the room, you might say. I mean, we're

22 here today because you've been asked to participate in a congressional investigation,

23 correct?

24 A That is correct.

25 Q And you understand that underlying that request is a criticism from the

1 chairman of this committee as to how Meta has operated, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Do you recall any experience when you've been a Meta executive where a

4 chairman of a congressional committee has threatened to hold Mr. Zuckerberg in 5 contempt?

6 A I cannot recall. I can't recall.

7 Q Or, I mean, are you aware of any other chairman of a congressional

8 committee who has threatened to hold any Meta executive in contempt due to his

9 concerns about the way Meta operates?

10 A Not in the United States, I cannot recall.

11 Q It did happen in Canada. Is that correct?

12 A I was testifying knowing what had happened, so, yes, that is correct.

13 Q Okay. But in the United States that hasn't happened before?

14 A I do not recall that.

15 Q But you are aware that right now the chairman of this committee has 16 threatened to hold Mr. Zuckerberg in contempt?

17 A That is correct, I am aware.

18 Q Does that threat affect you all in any way in terms of the decisions that 19 you're making?

20 Mr. Brown. I'm going to ask you not to answer on behalf of the other

21 employees.

22 [redacted] Yeah, I can only answer for myself. Thank you.

23 I can only answer for myself. It's not impacting the way that I operate and do my 24 job, including appearing here today. So I am committed to being a professional in going

25 forward.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q I want to shift gears a little bit.

3 We talked a little bit in previous hours about two policies which are kind of 4 buckets of policies that Meta has; one with respect to Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior,

5 and the other with respect to hack-and-leak policies.

6 I just want to have you walk us through those if you know.

7 A Sure.

8 Q I have my policy notebook that you provided in front of me.

9 A Okay.

10 Q But let's start with the CIB policy.

11 A Certainly.

12 Q The Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior.

13 Tell me, from what I can see here in this binder that you provided, it's under tab

14 19, is that right, inauthentic behavior?

15 A I believe so. That's correct. It's under tab 19, inauthentic behavior.

16 Q Okay. Tell me what is it that violates the community standards at Meta

17 with respect to inauthentic behavior. Tell me what it means for there to be inauthentic

18 behavior.

19 A Sure. Within our policy rationale for inauthentic behavior -- and I will

20 quote -- we focus on -- and here is the quote: "In line with our commitment to

21 authenticity, we do not allow people to misrepresent themselves on Facebook, use fake

22 accounts, artificially boost the popularity of content or engage in behaviors designed to

23 enable other violations under our Community Standards. This policy is intended to

24 protect the security of user accounts and our services, and create a space where people

25 can trust the people and communities they interact with."

1 And focusing on that last line, and specifically that last clause, that is the thrust,
2 "create a space where people can trust the people and communities they interact with."
3 Coordinated inauthentic behavior often erodes that trust on the sharing of 4 disinformation.
5 Q Okay. So there are a couple of things that I guess are examples of 6 inauthentic behavior.
7 A Yes.
8 Q Use of fake accounts would be one of those? Is that right?
9 A That is correct.
10 Q Foreign actors coopting unwitting domestic actors to amplify a message, that 11 would be something that would come under that?
12 A Those are often hallmarks of Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior campaigns.
13 Q Okay. What about perception hacking? Are you familiar with that term?
14 A I am not familiar with that term specifically.
15 Q We'll skip over that.
16 How about purchasing compromised assets or directing compromised domestic 17 actors through social engineering or hacking? Is that the kind of conduct that would be 18 prohibited under the policy?
19 A To the extent that that conduct was occurring on our platform or we found
20 out that it was part of a larger campaign, that would be prohibited.
21 Q Okay. And you have explained -- it's in the policy -- why it is that Meta has 22 this policy, correct?
23 A That's correct.
24 Q And, broadly, it's harmful to Meta's platform users if they're able to have the 25 platform overrun by inauthentic behavior, correct?

1 A It does erode the ability for people to form meaningful connections. So it's 2 not in our interest to have that type of content or that behavior on the platform.
3 Q Okay. And this policy is actually focused -- this is one of the policies that 4 you described earlier that focuses on behavior and actors rather than on content. Is
5 that right?
6 A That is correct.
7 Q And can you explain that distinction with respect to this policy?
8 A Sure. In many ways the underlying content -- or the policy is agnostic to 9 the underlying content, whether people are sharing potentially truthful content opinion,
10 but they're doing it in a way that is meant to mislead or they are doing it through this idea
11 of using an inauthentic network of individuals.
12 That is the issue that we are seeking to address, and that is why we removed 13 those actors. Subsequently, the way that our systems work by removing those actors, 14 the content that they have posted is also removed.
15 Q Okay. Let me talk to you a little bit about why Facebook or Meta felt it
16 necessary to develop this particular policy. And I think let's first talk about the idea of 17 Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior. There's a larger community standard that has to do 18 with inauthentic behavior, right?
19 A That's correct.
20 Q But then, within that, there's this special kind of behavior that is prohibited,
21 which is the Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior? Is that right?
22 A That is correct.
23 Q And so what is the difference between the two?
24 A Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior, it can carry over to a range of different 25 types of content and actions that appear on a platform.

1 Most traditionally you think about spam as one, and that is often just using
2 inauthentic accounts, the use of inauthentic accounts to spread and amplify spam
3 material.
4 Sometimes that becomes scamming material, the difference being like financial 5 scams versus just kind of a general scam -- buy a pair of this type of sunglasses, buy a pair
6 of this type of tennis shoes -- versus actual scamming that goes into more things that 7 could then lead to phishing and other different types of harm.
8 With the Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior, while those inauthentic accounts and 9 that type of behavior is unwanted and you can remove it, it's often carried out by an 10 individual and just operating for their own perhaps financial goals.
11 The Coordinated Inauthentic Behavior, we find that that is a network of 12 individuals and accounts. Sometimes maybe five people can own a thousand accounts, 13 but they are coordinated in a way that they understand the message they're trying to 14 amplify, the frequency of what they post, and how they are trying to drive the 15 conversations in specific areas.
16 We found that to be particularly problematic following the Internet Research
17 Agency in 2016.
18 Q I love that you just mentioned that.
19 So I'm going to introduce as an exhibit the indictment in that case, which is Case
20 No. 1:18-cr-32-DLF, U.S. v. Internet Research Agency, et al. This is our exhibit 1.
21 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 1
22 Was marked for identification.]
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q You were involved when Facebook adopted its Coordinated Inauthentic
25 Behavior policy around 2017? Is that right?

1 A That's correct. I was on the content policy team at the time, although I did
2 not oversee that policy specifically.
3 Q Okay. And like you just said, you're aware that part of what led Meta to 4 understand that there was a need for this policy was some of the conduct that was 5 unearthed after the investigation of Russian interference in the 2016 election. Is that
6 fair to say?
7 A That is correct.
8 Q Okay. So if you would look at this exhibit 1, and I actually direct you to 9 paragraph 4, page 3, please.
10 A I'm sorry. What page?
11 Q I'm sorry. On page 3, paragraph 4, there's a description of the conduct of 12 the Internet Research Agency and other -- actually this one is about other defendants.
13 Let's talk to that first.
14 Do you know who Yevgeniy Prigozhin is?
15 A I am familiar with the name. I can't recall the specifics of the case.
16 Q Okay. He was one of the indicted defendants in this case. But do you
17 know what the Internet Research Agency is?
18 A I'm familiar with the IRA.
19 Q Okay. And in paragraph 4, this is going to be a description of some of the 20 conduct of the Internet Research Agency. Directing you to that paragraph, according to 21 paragraph 4, the Russian defendants in this case, quote, "posing as U.S. persons and 22 creating false U.S. personas, operated social media pages and groups designed to attract 23 U.S. audiences.
24 "These groups and pages, which addressed divisive U.S. political and social issues, 25 falsely claimed to be controlled by U.S. activists when, in fact, they were controlled by

1 Defendants.

2 And "Defendants" here refers to the IRA.

3 "Defendants also used the stolen identities of real persons to post on

4 ORGANIZATION-controlled social media accounts. Over time, these social media

5 accounts became Defendants' means to reach significant numbers of Americans for

6 purposes of interfering with the U.S. political system, including the presidential election

7 of 2016," end quote.

8 Were you familiar with those allegations, that that was occurring on social media

9 platforms such as Facebook, when the IRA was interfering in the 2016 election?

10 A First, I'm not familiar intimately with the complaint here. But with the 11 allegations, I am aware of the allegations.

12 Q Okay. So what's your understanding of what they were doing on 13 Facebook's platform, the IRA in particular?

14 A The IRA, to the extent that I -- my knowledge was that they were operating

15 inauthentic accounts, fake accounts, to spread divisive messages within the United States.

16 Q I'm going to have you turn to page 6 and paragraph 10, subparagraph c.

17 This is a shorter paragraph.

18 This paragraph in the indictment says -- here the DOJ notes that the defendants

19 sought, quote, "to conduct what it called information warfare against the United States of 20 America," end quote, "through fictitious U.S. personas on social media platforms and

21 other Internet-based media."

22 That's noteworthy because the defendants themselves, according to the DOJ,

23 were referring to what they were doing on social media platforms like Facebook as,

24 quote, "information warfare against the United States of America," end quote.

25 Were you aware that the IRA and the other defendants in this case actually

1 characterized their own actions as information warfare against the United States?
2 A I can't recall being made aware of this other than in this document right
3 here.
4 Q And whether or not you're aware that they used those words or that's how
5 they characterized their actions, is it fair to say that you were concerned about the kind
6 of activity that was being done by the Internet Research Agency on Facebook in 2016
7 when you learned of it?
8 A Yes. Yes, I was concerned.
9 Q And why were you concerned?
10 A As a citizen of the United States, to have a foreign nation attack a private 11 company is, obviously, concerning. The fact that it was my company made it even more
12 concerning. And one that would try to deliberately impact the political process made it 13 truly concerning for me.
14 Q So is it fair to say that, like, as an American, you probably felt that this was 15 damaging to the Nation, but as an employee of Meta, you also felt that it was damaging 16 to the company, Facebook, at the time?
17 A Yes, I definitely thought it was damaging to Facebook at the time and from a 18 broader perspective damaging to national security.
19 Q Let's talk about the damage that that kind of activity does to the company.
20 Why is it harmful to Meta or Facebook at the time for the Internet Research Agency and 21 other proxies of the Russian Government to be exploiting the platform in the way that 22 they did according to the indictment?
23 A Again, going back to -- in some ways going back to first principles of how we 24 try to develop policies and what environment we want on the platform, we want one that 25 people can build meaningful connections, that they are able to express themselves

1 authentically.

2 So we have those structures in place, those guardrails in place to make sure that 3 we are leaning on ideals of authenticity, privacy, dignity in our community standards and 4 creating an environment that people will want to continue to engage and come back to 5 the platform repeatedly to find those meaningful connections, to make the partnerships
6 on behalf of their businesses and in their personal lives.

7 Any attack on that that would undermine that and create doubt in trust for Meta
8 impacts our user base, impacts the way that the platform is received, not just within the 9 United States but globally. So that is something that we take very seriously.

10 Q And would you agree that that conduct that we just discussed that was 11 described in the indictment in exhibit 1 is part of the reason that Facebook/Meta
12 ultimately adopted its CIB policy?

13 A It was to -- our adoption of our CIB policy was to ensure that our platform
14 again adhered to this ideal of creating an environment of people having meaningful 15 connections and to specifically address this type of behavior.

16 Q Okay. And I think in the last hour you were asked some questions about 17 the Foreign Influence Task Force. Do you recall those questions?

18 A Vaguely, yes.

19 Q Okay. But you didn't actually work with the Foreign Influence Task Force in 20 your role at Meta. Is that fair to say?

21 A I did not.

22 Q Okay. Do you understand the purpose of Meta's relationships with the 23 Foreign Influence Task Force?

24 A I don't. I don't know the day-to-day conversations or relationships with the 25 task force.

1 Q Okay. Do you know whether Meta's participation in periodic meetings with
2 the Foreign Influence Task Force was compulsory on the part of Meta or voluntary?
3 A Again, I wasn't part of the meetings. I'm not --
4 Q I'll just skip over that. You don't have that knowledge of that then.
5 Let's talk about the other policy that we discussed a little bit in the last hour,
6 which is the hacked materials policy.
7 A Sure.
8 Q What does Meta call that policy? Is that a privacy policy?
9 A It's in our privacy policies that should be under tab 11 in the binder.
10 Q Okay.
11 A So if you go to tab 11 -- unfortunately, these are not numbered -- one, two,
12 three, four -- the fifth page within that tab.
13 Q Yes.
14 A It's the second bullet -- or the first bullet section on that page that begins,
15 "Information obtained from hacked sources."
16 Q Could you just read that one section for us so that we understand what the 17 hacked sources policy is.
18 A Sure. "Except in limited cases of newsworthiness, content claimed or 19 confirmed to come from a hacked source, regardless of whether the affected person is a 20 public figure or a private individual."
21 For clarification, I will go back and perhaps read that all together with the action,
22 which is important. If we go back to the second page, starting at the top, "do not post"
23 is the key phrase there, "do not post," and then flipping to that subsection, "information
24 obtained from hacked sources, with the exception of in limited cases of newsworthiness, 25 content claimed or confirmed to come from a hacked source, regardless of whether the

1 affected person is a public figure or private individual, do not post that content."

2 Q Okay. And what's the rationale behind this policy?

3 A Again, information that potentially comes from a hacked source, the ability

4 to verify the authenticity, the fidelity of that information would be significantly hard to

5 do; also wanting to not create an environment where people are actively using our

6 systems to try to go and potentially hack other people and exploit them through social

7 engineering or other methods. This is one way for us to address that.

8 Of course, we have the carve-outs and caveats in the limitations of 9 newsworthiness. If something is so newsworthy that it may be better that that type of

10 material was allowed to be on the platform, we do have the ability to pull that lever, for 11 lack of a term, to allow that exception to go forward.

12 Q Can you explain that a little bit more? Like what would be an example?

13 A In so many cases I think the conversations between hacking and/or leaking

14 compared to someone who was whistleblowing, there are sometimes fine

15 lines -- sometimes it is maybe the eye of the beholder -- to ensure that we had enough of

16 a -- or we had a policy basis for allowing it for those newsworthy times that we inserted

17 that language and to make sure that we were not in the moment trying to ad hoc on 18 our -- or excuse me -- come up with a policy in an ad hoc manner.

19 So we included that line about newsworthiness to allow that to occur when 20 appropriate, but otherwise the default would be to remove it.

21 Q Do you know if there was a particular instance or an example that motivated

22 that exception being included in the policy?

23 A I can't -- I cannot recall.

24 Q Okay. It sounds like this policy, similar to the CIB policy, is focused on

25 actors and behaviors and not as much on content. Is that fair to say? Or is there more

1 of a melding of those two in this case?

2 A I think there's actually more of a melding of the two in this case, for a

3 number of reasons. The content itself may be shared -- and shared sometimes

4 inadvertently -- by others that are just passing it along.

5 We would not necessarily want to remove someone's account for making a

6 mistake or making -- or sharing content that they did not, A, realize it came from a hacked

7 source, or, B, realize that it carried such a weighty penalty of removing your presence

8 from the platform. So we would just go through our traditional policy enforcement

9 guidelines.

10 For people who are willingly trying to spread and share and not carrying out the 11 cybersecurity elements of that, of hacking, then we would look at actor-based penalties.

[2:47 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q Okay. And let's talk about that actor-based analysis first, then. Does Facebook or Meta have a way of determining, with its own means, whether sources are hacked or whether material has been hacked?

A Not that I'm aware of. Nothing -- not -- not that I'm aware of.

Q So in a real-world example, if a news article came to you, how would you even know whether to evaluate it under your hack pol -- I'm going to call it the hack-and-leak policy, but this policy that you're identifying.

A Sure.

Q How would you even know if you were potentially hacked, unless the article says, Hey, this is hacked material, which I assume it doesn't usually, but how would you know?

A In some cases, I think you got to the punch line very fast. People are often very up front in sharing information about where their sources came from -- are coming from, and we take people at their word. For example, if you say that you are affiliated with a certain type of hate organization. We don't question it, we take your word and we apply our policies as -- as wanted. So in those cases, we would do that.

In the cases of hacked materials if we are -- if we are unaware, we try to -- are the other violative reasons that we removed the content? And if there are not, we look at other cases where -- we were speaking earlier of other cases and where we thought that third-party fact-checking was the appropriate way to go.

Q Okay. So that's where you might have an overlap between the policies, the content might be in violation of your community standards on its own, whether or not it was the result of a hacking operation?

1 A That's right.

2 Q But still focusing on the hack itself, and I imagine this is something I'm trying

3 to get you tell me something about -- I imagine it's a real challenge, in some cases, for

4 Meta to have insight into whether materials on its platform came from a hacked source if

5 the source itself doesn't self-identify as a hacker. And I guess you're saying that there

6 are instances where sometimes people who have hacked material are not afraid to say,

7 Hey, this is hacked material, I got this because I stole it or I got it --

8 A All right.

9 Q -- because I went into somebody else's system. But are there also cases

10 where material might be presented on the Facebook or Meta platform, and there is a

11 question about whether that material was hacked, but it's not stated by the source that

12 Yeah, it's hacked material?

13 A I guess the counter -- not necessarily the counter, but alternative version of 14 those events is when an entity will claim that they were -- have been hacked, and they

15 claim they've been hacked been an ex-employee, by a competitor or whatever have you,

16 and they make that clear. And that would also allow us to enact our policies. But you

17 are correct to say that there are often cases where material appears on our platform

18 where we do not know how the material was, you know, sourced, for lack of a better

19 term. There was no indication that it was hacked. No one told us whether the 20 individual was posting, or some third party that says that we were the targets of the hack.

21 And often that material will just reside on our platform, absence some other violation.

22 Q Because you don't have any means at that point to investigate further, you

23 don't have any more information at that point?

24 A That's correct.

25 Q Okay. So let's talk about the example that the other side spoke of, The

1 New York Post article that appeared on your platform in 2020 in October. That article,
2 you indicated, you recalled that it existed, but you don't remember the contents of the 3 article. Is that a fair characterization?
4 A I can't remember reading the -- reading the article in full. I know the article
5 existed, I can't recall reading the article in full.
6 Q Do you recall that The New York Post article included a claim about where 7 the laptop came from?
8 Mr. Brown. Can -- do you have the article to share with us?
9 [redacted] I don't know.
10 Mr. Brown. It's just hard for him to react to a document he can't see.
11 [redacted] Do we have it?
12 Mr. Brown. If you remember, if you don't --
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Let's just talk about the decision that Facebook or Meta made with respect
15 to that article. When it came out, do you know what triggered the examination of the 16 article under the hack-and-leak policy?
17 A I can't recall the specifics right now, but material coming from any source 18 not posted by the source themselves so that the owner of that device could be eligible for 19 the hack-and-leak policy.
20 Q Okay. Fair to say that you would look to the article itself to see whether 21 there is any comment in the article about the source of the material?
22 A Under our general protocol we would look for all the signal, including in this 23 case that there are --
24 Q And if the author of the article or the publication --
25 [Discussion off the record.]

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Okay. If the publication itself, or the author of the article said where he or 3 she got the information that was published in the article, would you consider that in your 4 analysis?

5 A To be clear, broadly speaking, on, like, a hypothetical generic case, yes, we 6 would do that for the specifics. I wasn't involved in making the analysis of that.

7 Q Okay. So we can just stay hypothetical then. Let's just say you have an 8 article where somebody is reporting on the contents of someone's diary that they found.
9 And in the article, the author says, I found this diary abandoned, it was lying on the street,
10 and I picked it up and look what's inside, and that's what the subject of the article is.

11 A Uh-huh.

12 Q When you consider whether that material is illegally obtained, would you
13 give any weight to the assertion in the article that it was just found lying on the street?

14 A And I know I -- I'm smiling because I want to speak in the hypothetical and it
15 is heartfelt sometimes to deal with hypotheticals. In those situations, we would take 16 the signal that we had first. So if the article said that I stole his diary, and I am now
17 reading it to you, that would give us an indication of it being hacked. If the diary was 18 otherwise published or somehow found that may ultimately result in a different decision
19 on this. Again, we have newsworthiness because it's being reported on in a news
20 article, does that automatically deem it's newsworthy? Not necessarily, but it would 21 factor into our analysis. Do we need to make an exception to the existing policy?
22 That's where it is a bit fuzzy on the hypothetical, but that's how the process would 23 generally work. We would take the signal, or attempt to take the signal from that was 24 delivered within -- within the news article itself.

25 [Discussion off the record.]

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Okay. I'm not going to go too far with the hypothetical, I don't want it to 3 get crazy, but the easy case would be that you have somebody who writes an article and
4 just says, I stole this, here it is, because then, you have an admission that the information
5 was stolen or hacked. There you don't really have much to determine, fair to say, with 6 respect to whether it was hacked, but you might also be considering whether your 7 exception like the news worthiness might come into play, right?

8 A That is possible, that's correct.

9 Q Okay. But in the absence of that admission within the article itself that the 10 information was illegally obtained or hacked, it actually becomes harder for Facebook or 11 Meta to do that first prong of the analysis, right, to figure out if the hack-and-leak policy is 12 going to be triggered, right? I mean, if there's no admission, how do you figure it out, 13 hypothetically whether something has been hacked?

14 A Again, trying to identify sources around this policy is very difficult. And so,
15 absent clarifying information this policy generally would not -- just not apply.

16 Q Is it fair to say you kind of err on the side of caution in the sense of allowing 17 something on the platform under this policy if you don't have clear information at the 18 time that the information was illegally obtained?

19 A Going back to, you know, the policy itself, content claimed or confirmed to 20 come from a hacked source without being able to satisfy those, the content would not be 21 prohibited, so it would be allowed on our platform.

22 Q Okay. Let's talk a little bit about why that hacked policy came into being at 23 Meta. Are you familiar with those reasons, like why this developed?

24 A I -- I can't remember specifics on when this was developed.

25 Q Okay. And you weren't involved in the creation of the policy?

A I do not believe so.

Q All right. Let me ask you generally, were you aware -- again, going back to the Russian interference in the 2016 election, we talked about the conduct on the Meta platform that was described in the IRA indictment. But were you also aware of Russian conduct that specifically involved hacking and leaking material since the election?

A I can't recall specifics unfortunately on that.

[[redacted] Exhibit No. 2

Was marked for identification.]

BY [redacted]

Q I'm going to mark as exhibit 2. Is it 2? This is a report from the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, report on Russian active measures, campaigns and interference in the 2016 U.S. election. It was released in August 2020. It is an excerpt. I'm sorry. I just have the cover page to identify the report. And this then there's also an highlighted -- this tiny section is highlighted --

Mr. Brown. This is exhibit 2?

[redacted] Yes.

BY [redacted]

Q So there is a portion -- it should be a highlight on your exhibit as well. If you turn to the -- it's Roman Numeral VII, really small.

A Yes.

Q So this section is -- the heading is "hack and leak," hopefully. I'm just going to read to you what it says in the report and let me know if this is an accurate reading. Under the hack and leak section of the report it says, quote, "The committee found that Russian President Vladimir Putin ordered the Russian effort to hack computer networks and accounts affiliated with the Democratic Party and leak information damaging to

1 Hillary Clinton and her campaign for President." It continues, "Moscow's intent was to
2 harm the Clinton campaign, tarnish an expected Clinton Presidential administration, help
3 the Trump campaign after Trump became the presumptive Republican nominee and 4 undermine the U.S. democratic process," end quote. Did I read that correctly, that 5 paragraph?
6 A Based off my reading, yes, yes, you did.
7 Q Thank you. Were you familiar with that? Just generally are you familiar
8 with that finding by the Senate Committee?
9 A Yeah, I'm not actually familiar with this report. So -- but what you read was 10 accurate to the report.
11 Q Okay. Are you aware that the material that was hacked by the Russians
12 from the DNC and the DCCC was later leaked to WikiLeaks?
13 A Not aware -- not aware of the report.
14 Q Were you aware that that conduct occurred by Russia or not?
15 A I -- I'm aware of stories. I don't know what the final findings were.
16 Q Okay. Now during his testimony before this committee in June, your 17 colleague, [redacted], shared his opinion that -- this is from the Gleicher
18 transcript, pages 20 and 22, he shared his opinion that part of what motivated Meta to 19 adopt its hack-and-leak policy was concern over past Russian interference in U.S.
20 elections, and the fear that they were planning to do it again in 2020. Do you agree with 21 Mr. Gleicher that this concern was part of what motivated Meta to hack that policy -- or 22 excuse me, to adapt that hacking policy?
23 A You know, Nathaniel is the expert here, and I would defer to him and his
24 recollection.
25 Q Okay. All right. I'm just going to show one more exhibit. Exhibit

Number 3 is a New York Times article first published on January 13, 2020, later updated October 19, 2020. The title is, quote, "Russians Hacked Ukrainian Gas Company At Center of Impeachment," end quote.

[[redacted] Exhibit No. 3

Was marked for identification.]

BY [redacted]

Q [redacted] have you seen that article before?

Mr. Brown. If you want to give him a minute to read it.

[redacted] Yeah, take your time.

Mr. Brown. While he reads it, we can go off the record.

[Discussion off the record.]

BY [redacted]

Q Have you had a chance to review the article?

A Yes, I did read it.

Q Have you seen it before today?

A I do not believe so.

Q Okay. [redacted], when he testified earlier, maybe it was last month, he said that in January 2020, there was public reporting that Russian military intelligence, specifically the GRU, had already hacked into Burisma, and that is what's reported in this article in the highlighted portion -- oh, your version is not highlighted. I'm sorry. In the one, two, three, four -- in the fifth paragraph that begins with "now," would you just take a look at that? I'm sorry.

I'll read that portion out loud for the record too. "Then, as now, the Russian hackers from a military intelligence unit known formerly as the GRU and to private researchers by the alias 'Fancy Bear' used so-called phishing emails that appeared

1 designed to steal user names and passwords, according to Area 1, the Silicon Valley
2 security firm that detected the hacking. In this instance, the hackers set up fake
3 websites and mimicked sign-in pages of Burisma subsidiaries of it blasting Burisma
4 employees with emails meant to look like they were coming from inside the company,"
5 end quote.
6 And when [redacted] testified, he indicated that there was public reporting that 7 Russian military intelligence, specifically GRU, had hacked into Burisma. And this article
8 appears to be consistent with -- with what [redacted] testified to, correct?
9 A I'm not sure exactly what [redacted] testified to, but --
10 Q As I have characterized it. I'm sorry.
11 A As you have characterized it, that is in the article.
12 Q Okay. Do you agree with [redacted] that this information may have 13 contributed to concerns at Meta about the sharing of hacked materials on the platform in 14 an effort to covertly influence the 2020 election?
15 A Again, defer to [redacted] expertise on the matter in the signal that he's 16 quoting.
17 Q Okay. And finally one more exhibit here which will be our exhibit 4.

1

2 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 4

3 Was marked for identification.]

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q This is a statement from then national Counterintelligence and Securities

6 Center Director William Bill Evanina, which is dated August 7, 2020, and entitled, quote,

7 "Election Threat Update for the American Public," end quote.

8 Just take a quick look at that. Focusing on page 2, the portion that is highlighted

9 hopefully in yours and it's under the Russia highlight?

10 A There's like a bullet point that says, Russia. That's the part I'm going to ask

11 you.

12 Q Have you had a chance to look at the document?

13 A I have.

14 Q Okay. Have you seen it before today?

15 A I do not remember seeing it before today.

16 Q With respect to just that bullet point that is under the heading, Russia, the 17 statement says, "We assess that Russia is using a range of measures to primarily

18 denigrate former Vice President Biden and what it sees as an anti-Russian 'establishment.'

19 This is consistent with Moscow's public criticism of him when he was vice president for

20 his role in the Obama administration's policies on Ukraine and its support for anti-Putin

21 opposition inside Russia. For example, pro-Russian Ukrainian parliamentarian Andriy

22 Derkach is spreading claims about corruption, including those publicizing leaked phone

23 calls, to undermine former Vice President Biden's candidacy and the Democratic Party.

24 Some Kremlin-linked actors also seeking to boost President Trump's candidacy on social 25 media and Russian television," end quote.

1 When [redacted] was here testifying before this committee, he indicated that
2 there was public reporting and also a statement from the U.S. Government Director of 3 National Intelligence, which had been published in a public report and which specifically
4 addressed the hack-and-leak operation from Russia involving Burisma, that might be used
5 to target Biden.
6 Do you agree with [redacted] opinion that that warning, which he was aware
7 of at the time, from the DNI contributed to concerns at Meta about the sharing of hacked
8 materials on its platforms, intended to covertly influence the U.S. election in 2020?
9 A Again, [redacted] the expert on -- in this space so I give a lot of deference to 10 him in how he acknowledges the signal that he receives.
11 Q Okay. Could you understand why experts like [redacted] would be 12 concerned that there might be harm to Meta's platform if, in fact, the U.S. intelligence
13 community was correct that the Russians intended to do their hack and leak practice
14 again and try to influence the 2020 election and exploit Meta to spread that information?
15 A We take election integrity very seriously throughout multiple teams within 16 our content policy organization, including our cybersecurity team. And so ensuring that 17 we protect those elections to the best of our ability is paramount.
18 Q Okay. Sounds good.
19 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 5
20 Was marked for identification.]
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Exhibit 5. Okay. There was talk earlier in the hour about when Facebook
23 decided to demote The New York Post story while it was being subjected to the 24 third-party fact-checking, that there was a limitation on the, I guess availability of the 25 article. Do you recall that discussion?

A Yes.

Q This article, or exhibit 5, is an October 15, 2020, article from Business Insider titled, The New York Post's Dubious Hunter Biden Article Was Shared 3,000 times on Facebook Even After the Company Said It Limited its Reach. Have you seen that article before?

A Could I have a second to --

Q Absolutely.

A Okay. I'm not familiar with this -- this article.

Q Are you familiar with CrowdTangle?

A Yes, I know what CrowdTangle is.

Q And what is it?

A It was a system that we had to provide transparency to content that was posted on our platform.

Q What does it tell people? What's it transparent about?

A It includes -- essentially, it includes the posts of each -- I don't have CrowdTangle, I haven't used it in years so I don't have the specifics of what -- what all was included but it was an archiving system that was on the platform.

Q Okay. And according to this article and dated from CrowdTangle, that New York Post article was shared 400,000 times of Facebook, according to the article?

A According to the article, that's correct.

Mr. Brown. I think we're at time.

Okay, next.

Let's take 5 minutes.

[Recess.]

BY [redacted]

1 Q Do you know who [redacted] is, [redacted]?

2 A Yes, yes.

3 Q Who is that?

4 A [redacted] is -- leads our organic content policy and our lead public core

5 policy team within the content policy group.

6 Q And what is the organic content policy team?

7 A It is a team of individuals that sits on a day-to-day basis helping to ensure

8 that we are writing the rules correctly and ensure there are no conflicts. In some

9 ways -- clear terms, the legislative counsel thinking of those to be very deliberate and

10 ensuring our policies don't conflict, that we enact a policy that actually undermines

11 another policy and ensuring the implementation happens correctly.

12 Q And how big is that team?

13 A I don't have the org chart in front of me unfortunately. I don't have the org

14 chart in front of me.

15 Q And how does that team fit within the modern content policy team?

16 A It's a -- in some ways, a sister team to the teams that we see directly, but it

17 fits as part of the --

18 Q So does this team report directly to you?

19 A It does not report directly to me. It reports to [redacted]

20 Q To?

21 A It reports to [redacted] [redacted] runs the -- [redacted] is the --

22 Q Okay. And who does [redacted] report to?

23 A She reports ultimately up through [redacted] on the org chart.

24 Q Do you know who [redacted] is? [redacted]?

25 A Yes, I do know [redacted].

1 Q And who is that?

2 A She is on [redacted] team.

3 Q I'm sorry?

4 A She was on [redacted] team. I don't know if she still is on [redacted] team.

5 Q Do you recall meeting with the representatives from the National Security

6 Council in the fall of 2022 regarding issues related to disinformation and migration

7 related issues?

8 A Vaguely, but I can't recollect that specifically.

9 Q But do you recall a meeting?

10 A Yes.

11 Q That it happened?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Do you recall if it was an in-person meeting or virtual?

14 A I don't recall it being -- I don't it being an in-person.

15 Q Do you recall the purpose of the meeting?

16 A I recall the issues dealing with migration, and then immigration.

17 Q And what was the nexus between why you were at the meeting and those

18 issues?

19 A For the issues that my teams also oversee, I think I mentioned this earlier,

20 human exploitation, for us that is includes human trafficking and the administration had 21 concerns about possible trafficking across borders.

22 Q Do you recall who else from Meta attended this meeting?

23 A I -- I do not.

24 Q Have you had multiple meetings with the Federal Government on this issue?

25 A I can't recall.

1 Q For the organic content policy team, referred to as kind of a sister team to
2 what is within your direct line of report?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Are there any other content-related teams that are similarly structured,
5 sister teams that are not within your direct line of report?
6 A We have teams that focus on building -- or I guess counseling our products
7 so that they take our policies and work very closely with our products as new products
8 are being launched. We call it product counselors.
9 Q Is there a team specific to Threads?
10 A Threads falls under our Instagram team. There's a team specific to focusing 11 on the product Instagram, so the product counseling -- sitting with the engineers as they 12 launch the products.
13 Q Did those teams play any role in the development of policies, or in the -- just 14 to help facilitate and explain to the engineers when needs take place?
15 A I don't want to diminish anyone, but they are more -- translating those 16 policies to the engineers as they go forward.
17 Q Are you familiar with the agency CISA that falls within DHS?
18 A I've heard -- I've heard the term, but I'm not -- not very familiar with them.
19 Q To your recollection, have you, in your role at Meta, had any interactions
20 with CISA official?
21 A Not to my recollection.
22 [redacted] Can we go off the record?
23 [Discussion off the record.]
24 [Whereupon, at 3:26 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

Transcribed Interview Transcript Errata Form

Interviewee	[redacted]
Date of Interview	7/26/23
Date of Review	8/11/23
Name of Reviewer	Josh Goldberg
Signature of Reviewer

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
2	19	"Reginald Broun"
6	16	"Greek Rhodes" → "Marine Corps"
8	3	[redacted]
8	4	"Serena Tortedello" → "Sarina Tortoriello"
8	25	[redacted]
9	1	" " " "
11	22	" " " "
12	17	" " " "
12	21	" " " "
13	5	"secure X" → "cure COVID"

Next

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
13	8	"Maine" → "Main"
14	10	"there is from a new reversibity" → "harm"
14	16	"appropriating" → "~~inauthentic~~ coordinated"
14	17	"authentic" → "inauthentic"
14	23	"informed" → "inform"
14	24	" " " "
15	21	"insuring" → "ensuring"
17	7	"and authentic" → "inauthentic"
17	15	"and unauthentic" → " "
17	16	" " " "
17	17	"it slights it" → "I'll take a step"
17	24	"labeled" → "label"
18	4	"and unauthentic" → "inauthentic"
18	6	"they [inaudible] in other direction" → Nathaniel Gleicher become a direct report"

Next

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
18	7	"it" → "he"
20	23	trying not to ... to not speculate
21	17	"Leith Bronovich" → "David Agranovich"
24	11	"Worked for" → "work with"
26	17	"context" → "contact"
31	18	"content" → "context"
32	19	"bon" → "band"
35	11	[redacted]
42	24	"marksmanship" → "Mark's mission"
61	16	Marine
63	23	we are not arbiters
78	5	"ASG → AGs
78	22	[redacted] → [redacted]
88	1	0.05 → 0.5

Next

Page	Line	Suggested Correction
88	17	defined → different
107	6	[inaudible] → meetings
111	20	of not keeping
133	15	heartfelt → difficult
139	21	[redacted] → [redacted]
141	3	3,000 → 300,000
24	22	"their" → "our"
8	10	including misinformation work she has spoken with you
2	21	LLP

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: STANLEY MEADOR

Thursday, August 24, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 2237, Rayburn House Office Building, commencing at 10:02 a.m.

Present: Representative Jordan.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted] DEPUTY GENERAL COUNSEL

8 [redacted] RESEARCH ASSISTANT

9 [redacted] CHIEF COUNSEL FOR OVERSIGHT

10 [redacted] COUNSEL

11 [redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

12 [redacted] MINORITY PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

13

14

15 For the U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE:

16

17 [redacted] SPECIAL COUNSEL,

18 OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

19

20

21 For the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION:

22

23 [redacted] ASSISTANT GENERAL COUNSEL,

24 OFFICE OF GENERAL COUNSEL

25

1

2 [redacted] We'll go on the record. Good morning.

3 This is a transcribed interview of Special Agent in Charge Stanley Meador.

4 Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's oversight of the 5 Federal Bureau of Investigation.

6 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

7 Mr. Meador. Stanley Meador.

8 [redacted] Could agency counsel please state your name for the record?

9 [redacted] [redacted] from the FBI's Office of General Counsel.

10 [redacted] [redacted] with the Department of Justice's Office of 11 Legislative Affairs.

12 [redacted] And, Mr. Meador, you understand that agency counsel has a

13 primary fiduciary duty to the Bureau and not to you individually?

14 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.

15 [redacted] And still you'd like to continue with agency counsel today?

16 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.

17 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here

18 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

19 appear voluntarily.

20 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff. I'll now have 21 everyone else from the committee who is here introduce themselves as well.

22 [redacted] [redacted] with Chairman Jordan.

23 [redacted] [redacted] oversight counsel for the Democrats on the 24 Judiciary Committee.

25 [redacted] [redacted] with Chairman Jordan.

1 Mr. Randolph. I'm [redacted] with Chairman Jordan.

2 [redacted] Thank you.

3 I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we'll follow during

4 today's interview.

5 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 1

6 hour. Then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period of

7 time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more questions

8 and the interview is over.

9 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to

10 take a break apart from that, please just let us know.

11 As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything we say to 12 make a written record, so we ask that you provide verbal answers to all questions today.

13 Do you understand?

14 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.

15 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our

16 best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to 17 just those people on the staff whose turn it is.

18 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks

19 down at the end of the table can hear you as well. It is important that we don't talk

20 over one another or interrupt each other if we can help that, and that goes for everyone

21 present today.

22 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner

23 as possible, so we'll take our time. If you have any questions or you do not understand

24 one of our questions, please just let us know. Our questions will cover a wide range of 25 topics, so if you need clarification at any point, just say so.

1 If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best
2 not to guess. Please give us your best recollection. And it is okay to tell us if you
3 learned information from someone else; just indicate how you came to know that
4 information.
5 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please
6 inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete
7 answer to the question.
8 You should also understand that, by law, you are required to answer questions
9 from Congress truthfully. Do you understand that?
10 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.
11 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an
12 interview. Do you understand this?
13 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.
14 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject
15 to criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. section 1001. Do
16 you understand this?
17 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.
18 [redacted] Is there any reason you're unable to provide truthful answers
19 today?
20 Mr. Meador. No, ma'am.
21 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss
22 here today is confidential. We ask that you don't speak about what we discuss in this
23 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.
24 For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with 25 the court reporter so they can go in the official transcript, and any copies of these exhibits

1 will be returned to us when we wrap up.

2 All right. That's the end of my opening remarks.

3 Is there anything my colleagues from the minority would like to add?

4 [redacted] Just thank you for agreeing to speak with us voluntarily today.

5 Mr. Meador. Yes, ma'am.

6 [redacted] The clock now reads 10:07 a.m. We'll start with our first round of 7 questioning.

8 EXAMINATION

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q Mr. Meador, when did you join the FBI?

11 A 2002.

12 Q And what was your key motivation for joining the Bureau?

13 A I would say twofold. I was in State law enforcement, and I had a desire to 14 want to receive the best training in law enforcement. And I also had a motivation to 15 want to do more from an investigative standpoint and make a larger impact.

16 Q Uh-huh. And what's your current position today at the FBI?

17 A I'm the special agent in charge of the FBI Richmond Field Office.

18 Q And when did you start in that position?

19 A March/April 2021.

20 Q And can you describe the organizational chart of your office at Richmond?

21 A Sure. We are divided into three branches: the criminal branch, national

22 security branch, and what would be referred to as the mission support branch. Each

23 operational branch has an assistant special agent in charge. And the mission support

24 branch has an administrative officer that oversees most of the support functions within

25 the field office.

1 Q And how many people work out of the Richmond Field Office?

2 A If we look at agents, intelligence analysts -- or the intelligence cadre support

3 and task force officers, federally deputized task force officers, 280, 300 maybe. I know

4 that when I do an all-employee email it's roughly 300, 310. It fluctuates.

5 Q And how many of those employees directly report to you?

6 A Only six. Six.

7 Q Okay. And who's your --

8 A I can go through them individually just to clarify, but mine would be six.

9 Q Six? And who's your direct supervisor?

10 A That would be the Deputy Director.

11 Q And can you walk us through the positions you've held at the FBI since 2002?

12 A Sure. Special agent, supervisory special agent at FBI headquarters, unit

13 chief at FBI headquarters, senior supervisory resident agent out in the field, assistant

14 special agent in charge, chief of staff to the Deputy Director, and special agent in charge.

15 Q And when you were the chief of staff to the Deputy Director, who was the 16 Deputy Director at that time?

17 A David Bowdich. However, he retired during my tenure, and then I had the 18 current Deputy Director for a short period before being assigned to Richmond.

19 Q And what were the dates of your tenure as chief of staff?

20 A I believe March of '20 to 14 months from that point, so April -- I think

21 April -- March/April timeframe of 2021.

22 Q Okay. And in that position, how often did you interact with the Deputy

23 Director?

24 A Daily basis.

25 Q Daily basis? And in that position, how often did you interact with the FBI

1 Director?

2 A I don't know that I could quantify it. I would see the Director, sit in on his

3 various briefings, I would say, maybe once every couple of weeks or just as needed if

4 there were different briefings.

5 Q And as chief of staff to the Deputy Director, how many people directly

6 reported to you?

7 A Approximately five. Approximately five, I believe.

8 Q And in your current position as special agent in charge of the Richmond Field

9 Office, how often do you interact with the Deputy Director?

10 A Not often. Personal interaction, like, one-to-one? Or --

11 Q Just any sort of professional interaction with the Deputy Director.

12 A I would -- well, we have -- if there is an all-SAC brief --

13 Q Uh-huh.

14 A -- sometimes those can be weekly or every other week -- I can see that.

15 That's not a personal interaction, though, just an as-needed basis. Not frequent.

16 Q And have you ever interacted with the FBI Director in your position as special

17 agent in charge?

18 A Not that I -- other than seeing him at, like, the Special Agent in Charge

19 Conference, not that I can recall.

20 Q Thank you.

21 I want to get to the topic of today's interview, the domain perspective that came

22 out of the FBI Richmond Field Office.

23 Can you kind of just describe for us in general, what purpose does a domain

24 perspective serve?

25 A A domain perspective is a product that is written when the analysts see a

1 change in an environmental variable.

2 Q Uh-huh. And how often is the Richmond Field Office creating domain

3 perspectives?

4 A I'd say not often. I don't recall having ever seen another domain -- I don't

5 recall having seen another domain perspective. So I would say not often.

6 Q And are there other types of intelligence products that intelligence analysts

7 are creating that come out of the Richmond Field Office?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And how often is the Richmond Field Office creating intelligence products, in

10 general?

11 A Oh, I think that the intelligence cadre -- I mean, that's their job.

12 Q Uh-huh.

13 A So there's intel products. There's tactical intelligence products that

14 support investigations. So I'd say that's a daily -- you know, just a daily process in the 15 intelligence -- for our intelligence cadre.

16 Q And how --

17 A It doesn't mean that there's one produced every day --

18 Q Uh-huh.

19 A -- but that's things that they work on.

20 Q And how large is the intelligence cadre at the FBI Richmond?

21 A We have four -- I have the assistant special agent in charge, oversees the 22 intelligence branch. And I have four supervisory intelligence analysts that all have 23 intelligence analysts that report to them, or staff operations specialists.

24 Chairman Jordan. This is the only domain perspective produced while you were 25 at Richmond?

1 Mr. Meador. I would have to take that back and double-check. I don't recall
2 seeing another domain perspective, but I would have to --
3 Chairman Jordan. It's the only one you recall seeing?
4 Mr. Meador. Yes.
5 Chairman Jordan. But could there have been others that you didn't see?
6 Mr. Meador. There could've been.
7 Chairman Jordan. But you don't think so?
8 Mr. Meador. I don't recall.
9 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q And how many intelligence analysts are at Richmond?
12 A I'd have to take that back. I couldn't provide you an exact number there.
13 Q That's fine.
14 And I'll offer as exhibit No. 1 the FBI Richmond domain perspective titled "Interest
15 of Racially or Ethnically Motivated Violent Extremists in Radical-Traditionalist Catholic 16 Ideology Almost Certainly Presents New Mitigation Opportunities."
17 [Meador Exhibit No. 1
18 Was marked for identification.]
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q And, sir, I'm sure you're familiar with this, but please take your time to 21 review as you need. And to the extent we refer to any sections in the perspective, we'll 22 make sure to note the page number for you.
23 And could you describe to us generally, what was the purpose of this domain
24 perspective?
25 A It's my understanding that this perspective was based off criminal activity,

1 more than one point of criminal activity, and the analysts put together information to 2 point out the criminal activity and similarities and that the focus was for outreach, to 3 conduct outreach in support of that, the information that was found.
4 Q And are you aware of the Inspection Division's report and review of the
5 domain perspective?
6 A Yes, ma'am.
7 Q I'll enter that as exhibit No. 2 just so we can have both as we're reviewing.
8 [Meador Exhibit No. 2
9 Was marked for identification.]
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q And are you generally familiar with the Inspection Division's report?
12 A Yes, ma'am.
13 Q And did you take part in the review that they conducted?
14 A Yes, ma'am.
15 Q Were you interviewed by the Inspection Division?
16 A Yes, ma'am.
17 Q Do you remember the date of your interview?
18 A No.
19 Q No? Was it earlier this year?
20 A I believe April timeframe.
21 Q April? Okay.
22 And can you describe for us what a racially or ethnically motivated violent
23 extremist is, the FBI's definition of that?
24 A It would be an individual that's motivated to commit violence on behalf of a
25 particular belief.

1 Q Okay.

2 And the domain perspective talks about, you know, radically traditional Catholics.

3 To your knowledge, what is a traditionalist Catholic?

4 A I couldn't -- I cannot speak to that. I have a general idea of what I've since

5 learned, but I don't know that I could accurately articulate that.

6 Q And what have you since learned about the definition?

7 A I have since learned that there are -- in the Catholic faith, there are Catholic

8 churches that fall in accordance with the Vatican, which is the Vatican has authority over

9 those Catholic churches, and that there are Catholic churches that do not fall under the 10 authority of the Vatican, the official Vatican.

11 Q Okay.

12 And when did you first learn of the term "radical traditionalist Catholic"?

13 A I believe it would've been in the -- I would've first saw it in the perspective.

14 Q Uh-huh. And according to that INSD's report, the intelligence analyst who

15 conceived of the idea for the domain perspective, you know, first thought of this in

16 September of 2022. Does that kind of match your recollection of when the domain

17 perspective idea came about?

18 A No, I would not have that information.

19 Q Okay.

20 And are you aware of the Richmond domestic terrorism case that's cited in the 21 domain perspective?

22 A I am.

23 Q And were you involved in that case at all?

24 A "Involved" as the special agent in charge of a case out of my field office, yes.

25 Q And can you describe what that involvement looks like in practice?

1 A Well, as the SAC, if you have, for example, a priority matter that you may be
2 briefed on, given the severity of the subject matter or the threat to national security if it's 3 on the national security side, you could -- I would -- could be involved in that.
4 Q And would you say this was, like, a high-profile case for the Richmond
5 office --
6 A Extremely.
7 Q -- or high-priority?
8 A Extremely.
9 Q And on page 6 of the Inspection Division report, at the top of the page, it's 10 talking about the Richmond case, and it said, "[Redacted] self-identified as a 'radical 11 traditional Catholic Clerical Fascist.' INSD interviews revealed this was how Richmond
12 initially learned of the term 'RTC.'"
13 Does that match your recollection of where the term "RTC" came from?
14 A It does, because that -- I recall it from the perspective. What I am unclear 15 on is if that was included in a briefing -- in earlier briefings.
16 Q Okay.
17 A I don't recall that, but I'm not certain that that wasn't in a prior briefing.
18 Q And when you say "prior briefing," that was the ongoing briefings that were 19 occurring related to that specific case that you were involved in?
20 A Yes.
21 Q And so would the individuals in charge of that case brief you on how the 22 case was going? Was that the context of those briefings?
23 A When I heard additional stuff -- additional details related to this case, I called 24 for a briefing, given the severity of the investigative matter.
25 Q And can you help us understand why FBI Richmond kind of adopted that

1 term from the subject, the "radical traditionalist Catholic" term?

2 A It's my understanding that the -- that -- can I ask -- may I ask --

3 [redacted] Yep. We'll go off the record.

4 [Discussion off the record.]

5 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

6 Mr. Meador. It was my understanding that the subject self-identified as an RTC.

7 And I think -- an additional clarification. This -- there's no -- from my standpoint

8 as SAC, no pre-review of this prior to seeing the document post the publication. I just 9 wanted to clarify that.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Okay. And so is it kind of the normal course for FBI Richmond to refer to 12 subjects kind of as they self-identify, in regards to "radical traditionalist Catholic"?

13 A I think, in any investigation, if that's information that the investigation finds,

14 that could be incorporated into the investigation.

15 Q And turning back to the domain perspective as exhibit No. 1, on page 1, in

16 the first paragraph, the last sentence of the first paragraph, it states, "FBI Richmond

17 makes this assessment with high confidence based on FBI investigations, local law

18 enforcement agency reporting, and liaison reporting, with varying degrees of 19 corroboration and access."

20 What does an assessment of high confidence mean?

21 A I would have to defer to the explanation, I think, that is incorporated in the 22 report.

23 Q Yes. It's on --

24 A That'd be page --

25 Q -- page 9.

1 A -- 8? Oh, sorry. I would defer to the definition of "high confidence" on
2 page 9.
3 Q So, according to page 9 of the memo, it states that "high confidence
4 generally indicates the FBI's judgments are based on high quality information from 5 multiple sources."
6 How did your office determine that the information it received to inform the 7 drafting of this domain perspective was high-quality?
8 A I would have to defer back to the analyst that -- that would be the analyst's
9 determination on the intelligence side.
10 Q And do you know if, in the review process of the domain perspective and,
11 you know, in your review of the domain perspective as well, did anyone review the 12 underlying information used to formulate the perspective and the FBI's confidence level?
13 A I cannot speak to that. For myself, though, the document had already been 14 approved and published when I saw it.
15 Q Okay.
16 A So I couldn't speak to that.
17 Q Do you believe that this assessment was made with high confidence?
18 A Again, I would have to defer to the analyst that submitted -- that wrote the 19 product and contributed to it.
20 Q And in the beginning of the second paragraph on the first page, the memo
21 states, "In making this assessment, FBI Richmond relied on the key assumption that 22 RMVEs" -- racially motivated violent extremists -- "will continue to find RTC ideology
23 attractive and will continue to attempt to connect with RTC adherents."
24 Where did this key assumption come from?
25 A That would've been from the analytical side.

1 Q And can you describe what you mean by the "analytical side"?
2 A That would be the intelligence cadre who are drafting and putting the 3 product together.
4 Q And what evidence and information supported equating RTCs to RMVEs?
5 A The -- I think the underlying criminal activity associated -- or, that's detailed 6 in the -- that served as the basis for the report.
7 Q Uh-huh.
8 And the INSD review found that there was lack of sufficient support to equate
9 RTCs to RMVEs. Are you aware of that fact from the INSD's report?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And do you know if, during the review process of the domain perspective,
12 did anyone consider the proper support for this assumption?
13 A I couldn't speak to that.
14 Q And who would know whether or not the proper -- during the review
15 process, if it was reviewed that there was proper support for the key assumption?
16 A I think that would be the -- well, I think that's each level.
17 Q Uh-huh.
18 A I think the drafter has a responsibility, and then other approving officials
19 would have a responsibility as well.
20 Q And on the bottom of this page, it says -- or, I'm sorry. Right after that 21 sentence, it says, "Indicators that would cause FBI Richmond to revise the judgments or 22 confidence levels in its assessment include increases or decreases in RMVE subjects'
23 attendance at RTC or traditionalist Catholic places of worship."
24 How many RMVE subjects did Richmond Field Office know were attending
25 Catholic services?

1 A Can you repeat that?

2 Q Yeah, sure. How many RMVE subjects had the Richmond Field Office

3 identified as attending Catholic services?

4 A I'm not aware of any.

5 Q Okay. And so, when it's making this statement that the confidence levels

6 would increase or decrease based upon RMVE subjects' attendance at RTC or traditional

7 Catholic places of worship --

8 A Actually, one clarification.

9 Q Sure.

10 A This is -- because the product was based on criminal activity, three different

11 entities across the country, this could apply at large --

12 Q Uh-huh.

13 A -- not -- it's my understanding, not narrowly defined to Richmond. This

14 could apply for whoever the consumer of the product is, reading across the -- this could

15 apply to that, to the greater.

16 Q And how did the Richmond Field Office know that RMVE subjects were 17 attending these services?

18 A Well, I could only speak to -- can I have a moment?

19 [redacted] Yes. We can go off the record.

20 [Discussion off the record.]

21 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

22 Mr. Meador. So one more time?

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q So how did FBI Richmond determine that RMVE subjects were attending

25 Catholic services?

1 A Through -- in the Richmond -- for Richmond, it would've been pursuant to
2 investigation. It would've found that information.
3 [redacted] For the Richmond investigation?
4 Mr. Meador. For the Richmond investigation. I can't speak to the other.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q Okay. For the Richmond investigation, was the field office monitoring the 7 RMVE subjects' movements to the Catholic service? Or how did you determine that that 8 subject was attending Catholic services?
9 [redacted] So I just want to be careful because we're talking about a criminal 10 investigation, parts of which remain ongoing, so we just have to be careful. I want to 11 make sure you all get the information you need, but just wanted to flag, we have a, you
12 know, criminal investigation, ongoing matter. So I'll ask him to answer to the extent he 13 can without revealing details about an ongoing criminal matter.
14 Mr. Meador. I think that, given the pending criminal matter, I would not feel 15 comfortable answering that.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q Is the FBI Richmond office monitoring attendance at Catholic services?
18 A No.
19 Q Has the FBI Richmond created or maintained a list of radical traditionalist
20 Catholic churches?
21 A No.
22 Q On the bottom of the second paragraph --
23 A With the exception of what -- I mean, what has been noted by the analysts in 24 this report.
25 Q Did the analysts come up with that list, or was that a preexisting list?

1 A They're not -- it's my understanding that these are just pursuant to the 2 report and the criminal activity. These were entities highlighted by the analyst. But,
3 no, I'm not aware of any list.
4 Q On the bottom of the second paragraph on the first page, the memo states,
5 "FBI Richmond assesses RMVE interest in RTCs is likely to increase over the next 12 to 24
6 months in the run-up to the next general election cycle, complicating the overall RMVE
7 threat picture while also creating new opportunities for mitigation efforts."
8 Why do you think there was a reference to the next general election cycle?
9 A As I've since been educated through this process in getting more educated 10 on the product and the substance of the product, it's my understanding that the various 11 topics -- or, topics that are of interest to varying groups are, I think, considered
12 polarizing -- would be polarizing topics and that are topics that I think are in the forefront
13 externally right now. So I think that -- I believe that's where that comes from.
14 Q And when you say the "topics of interest," what topics are you referring to?
15 A I think immigration, LGBTQ+-type topics.
16 Q Did FBI Richmond assess what, you know, interest RTCs and RMVEs had in 17 those topic areas?
18 A I believe the product, if I'm not mistaken -- I would have to go back to 19 the -- so I think that -- okay, like, page 4 --
20 Q Uh-huh.
21 A -- under the "Outlook," first paragraph, I think they've noted those -- some of 22 those topics.
23 Q So, on page 4, it says, "Catalyzing events in which RMVEs and RTC adherents 24 might have common cause include legislation or judicial decisions in areas such as 25 abortion rights, immigration, affirmative action, and LGBTQ protections."

1 Are those the topics that you were referring to?

2 A Yes, ma'am.

3 Q And how did the FBI Richmond assess those topics and how they could be

4 catalyzing events to RMVEs?

5 A I couldn't speak to that.

6 Q And who would be able to speak to that?

7 A That would be the analysts.

8 Q How did the election complicate the overall RMVE threat picture?

9 A I couldn't speak to that.

10 Q And who could speak to how the election cycle would complicate the overall

11 RMVE threat picture?

12 A I think I would have to go back to the analysts, what the analysts are writing

13 to inform or to -- whatever the product is, I think that would be the analysts'

14 responsibility.

15 Q And what basis was relied on to conclude, as the memo does, that RMVE

16 interest in RTCs is likely to increase over the next 12 to 24 months in the lead-up to the

17 election?

18 A I think the -- well, the product was based on criminal activity. They

19 observed -- or, based on the criminal activity. Again, I would have to defer back to the 20 intelligence cadre for that.

21 Q Does the reference to the general election cycle, as well as how you

22 described the polarizing issues, does that concern you at all that it was overly politicized?

23 A I'm not -- I don't -- I'm not -- the over-poli- -- I'm not agreeing with the 24 over-politicalization statement.

25 Q Okay.

1 A I think, you know, the product was based on criminal activity, which, in turn,
2 led to the recommendations to conduct outreach in support of what the analysts found.
3 Q Did the reference -- when you read the domain perspective for the first time,
4 did the reference to the general election cycle as well as, as you described, the polarizing
5 issues, did that concern you at all? Or you had no concern about those references in 6 this intelligence product?
7 A No, I would clarify that when I first -- when I saw the document, I did not
8 give it the review that it's being given today.
9 Q Uh-huh.
10 A But I read through the document, but I did not -- I saw the basis for criminal 11 activity and the -- based on my knowledge of the severity of what it involved and my 12 prioritization of outreach in the Richmond Field Office and the outlook -- or, the 13 conclusions of conducting outreach, for me, that was the only -- that was the connection I
14 made.
15 Q And at the end of that paragraph, it references "the quality of the source
16 information and the lack of significant uncertainties." That's on page 2 of the memo.
17 How did the Richmond Field Office judge the quality of the source information
18 that was used to inform the domain perspective?
19 A I couldn't -- again, I could not speak to that.
20 Q And who would be able to speak to that?
21 A That would be the -- that would be the intelligence side.
22 Q And how did the Richmond Field Office determine that significant 23 uncertainties regarding the information included in this intelligence product did not exist?
24 A I don't know if I understand. Maybe point to where that was again.
25 Q Yep.

1 A I'm not sure I understand that question.

2 Q So, at the top of the page, the last sentence before the yellow box, it states,

3 "FBI Richmond did not include an Analysis of Alternatives in this product due to the 4 quality of the source information and the lack of significant uncertainties."

5 A So, again, the question?

6 Q So how did the Richmond Field Office determine that significant

7 uncertainties did not exist?

8 A I couldn't speak to that. I think that in the totality of -- it would be my

9 understanding, in the totality of this product, based on the criminal activity, the

10 additional information of what the analyst is using to make this -- in totality, I think that's

11 what the analyst put forward. I couldn't speak to what the analysis of alternatives

12 would be. I couldn't speak to that.

13 Q And who would be able to speak to why there was no analysis of alternatives

14 because of the lack of significant uncertainties?

15 A Certainly that would be the intelligence cadre.

16 [redacted] And just to point out that a number of these questions, I believe,

17 address by the Inspection Division's review, in terms of the standards. And I don't 18 believe that the witness has undertaken a separate review on those standards.

19 Mr. Meador. No.

20 [redacted] So, to the extent that the inspection review has drawn conclusions

21 about the review itself, they're reflected in the report.

22 [redacted] Okay. And we're asking about, you know, his knowledge of the 23 topic and his review, as well as, you know, what intelligence analysts were briefing to

24 him --

25 [redacted] Sure.

1 [redacted] -- okay?

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q At the beginning of the "Source Summary Statement" in that yellow box, it

4 states, "Reporting in this Domain Perspective was primarily derived from an FBI Richmond

5 contact with direct access who reported for the first time, an FBI Portland liaison contact

6 with direct access, an FBI Undercover Employee with direct access, local law enforcement

7 agency reporting with varying degrees of corroboration and access, and open source

8 reporting."

9 What does it mean when the memo states the "FBI Richmond contact with direct

10 access"?

11 A Well, that would be -- that would be someone that has direct access to --

12 [redacted] What does "direct access" mean?

13 Mr. Meador. Firsthand knowledge.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q And why is it significant to mention that the individual reported for the first

16 time?

17 A I think that's just a caveat for the reader to know that this is the first time

18 this reporting had been received.

19 Q And what does it mean when it says "local law enforcement agency

20 reporting with varying degrees of corroboration and access"?

21 A That could be -- you know, outside of this document, that could be any

22 liaison contact with the local law -- local, State, or the Federal law enforcement,

23 investigative steps they may have or additional information they may have.

24 Q Did you have an understanding of if it was just local law enforcement agency

25 partners in the Richmond area, or was it Portland and Milwaukee as well?

1 A No, just Richmond.

2 Q Just Richmond?

3 A Uh-huh.

4 Q And did you have an understanding of what the analysts meant by "open

5 source reporting" when you reviewed this domain perspective?

6 A Well, I wouldn't have keyed in on that my time -- my first -- but since then,

7 open-source reporting would be anything that's openly, publicly available.

8 Q And does the FBI typically rely upon open-source reporting?

9 A The FBI relies on varying sources of information.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A And as we conduct our investigations or our analysis, there could be varying 12 sources of information.

13 Q And open-source reporting is one of those sources?

14 A Yes, ma'am.

15 Q The second-to-last sentence of the "Source Summary Statement" states that 16 "open source information was instrumental in providing an understanding of current

17 trends in the far right white nationalist movement and background information on the 18 various RTC and traditionalist Catholic factions."

19 Within the Inspection Division's review of the domain perspective, they

20 determined that the use of "RTC" and "far right" was not -- they were not accurately used

21 in this domain perspective.

22 Do you have an understanding of what is meant by "far right"?

23 A Generally.

24 Q Can you explain that understanding?

25 A Not at this time, no. I don't -- I would not feel comfortable, fearing I may

1 misspeak about that, because I don't -- for me -- yeah, I would not feel comfortable trying 2 to explain that.
3 Q When you were reading the domain perspective for the first time, did you
4 have an understanding of how the intelligence analyst was using references to the 5 far-right in this domain perspective?
6 A From my review, I went -- you know, once I saw the criminal activity, what it
7 was based upon, and, you know, having the prior knowledge of that subject matter, and 8 then the request to conduct outreach, that was my main focus for this document.
9 Q And did you have an understanding of how open-source information was,
10 quote, "instrumental in providing an understanding of current trends" related to the
11 domain perspective?
12 A Not specifically. I know that, in general, in my role, that the FBI uses
13 open-source information for cases and analysis, but I wouldn't have -- this was published 14 and approved, and then I review it. I wouldn't have -- that wouldn't have stuck out to 15 me.
16 Q Okay.
17 Chairman Jordan. Who is ultimately responsible for approving it?
18 Mr. Meador. It would be the intelligence program coordinator, the IPC, who's 19 also a supervisory intelligence analyst. The CDC is only a -- to my understanding, is only 20 a reviewer.
21 [redacted] Will that change, the review process?
22 Mr. Meador. So -- yes. Well, in accordance with knowing we just received the 23 final inspection report, one of the recommendations in the report was that intelligence
24 products be designated sensitive investigative matters. And when they are, they require
25 the approval of the SAC and headquarters personnel -- senior-executive-level

1 headquarters personnel as well.

2 Chairman Jordan. So, on page 6 of the domain perspective, there are five

3 different individuals who are -- we don't know their names, but they give their

4 titles -- "Approval," "Reviewed," "Coordinated with."

5 So the approval, so the very first one, is supervisory intel analyst/IPC RH CSCC.

6 That's the person who's ultimately responsible, that individual?

7 Mr. Meador. Yes, from an approval process, yes, the IPC, the intelligence

8 program coordinator.

9 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

10 [redacted] At this time.

11 Mr. Meador. At this time.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q And how long had that approver -- how long have they worked at the FBI

14 Richmond?

15 A He's -- I couldn't speak to the exact time. He's fairly senior.

16 Q Has he worked there as long as you've been there?

17 A Yes, ma'am.

18 Q And do you know how many intelligence products he's reviewed and 19 approved?

20 A I know that, as an -- no, I couldn't speak to that. Specifically to him, I

21 cannot speak, because he would -- as a field office for the -- I would know for the fiscal

22 year roughly into the number of intelligence products, but whether or not he was the one

23 individual on each one -- you know, I know sometimes there may be someone in an acting

24 capacity or he may be out. So I couldn't speak to the number that he would have done.

25 Chairman Jordan. How many intel analysts are there in the Richmond Field

1 Office?

2 Mr. Meador. There are four supervisory intelligence analysts. Under them, I'm

3 not -- I can't give you an accurate number.

4 Chairman Jordan. Ten?

5 Mr. Meador. I would say --

6 Chairman Jordan. More than 10 total?

7 Mr. Meador. Maybe 10. Maybe.

8 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q Was the approving IPC -- was he the supervising person over the authoring

11 intelligence analysts?

12 A No.

13 Q No, he was not?

14 A No.

15 Q Is there another person who's the supervisor of the intelligence analysts?

16 A That's the SIA, the -- there's a different supervisory intelligence analyst.

17 Q Is that the individual that's below the SIA/IPC on page 6 of the memo?

18 A That's my understanding, yes.

19 Q So that individual supervises the authoring intelligence analysts?

20 A Yes, with the caveat that I'm unsure on -- there's a coauthor.

21 Q Uh-huh.

22 A But the primary author would fall under this SIA. The coauthor I'm unsure

23 on.

24 Q And looking at the approvers of the domain perspective, if you go to page 8

25 of the INSD's report -- that's exhibit No. 2 --

1 A Sure.

2 Q -- the first full paragraph says that "SIA [redacted] stated during her

3 interview with INSD that she didn't make many edits."

4 Do you know if this is common practice?

5 A To not make edits?

6 Q Correct.

7 A Well, that would be -- it's up to the -- I'd have to defer to the individual

8 approver.

9 Q So the SIA who's referred to here would know more about whether or not 10 it's common practice to not make edits to an intelligence product that they're approving?

11 A Well, I would defer to anyone that's in the approval chain, that that would

12 be their -- whether or not they make changes or edits or not, that would be up to 13 whoever the approver is.

14 Q And prior to this domain perspective, did you have an understanding of the 15 review and approval process that went on at FBI Richmond for intelligence products,

16 including domain perspectives?

17 A Yes. I have an understanding that intelligence products go through a chain 18 of command, much like any other document, for approval.

19 Q Uh-huh. And how long had the SIA who approved this domain perspective

20 worked at Richmond? Had she been there as long as you've been there?

21 A I think she had just gotten there. I don't think at the time -- maybe 2-, 22 2-1/2-, 3-year timeframe. I think she had just gotten there.

23 Q Does this SIA still approve intelligence products at this time?

24 A Yes.

25 Q In that same paragraph, it states, "During his interview, IPC SIA [redacted]

1 stated he did not know where the term 'RTC' originated and was not part of the 2 confidence level decision on the DP."
3 Is it your understanding that, at that point, the confidence level specified in the 4 domain perspective had not been decided at that point in the review and approval
5 process?
6 A I'd have to defer to Inspections. This is Inspections' review, so I'd have to 7 defer to their -- that's their findings. I'd have to defer to that.
8 Q And according to your understanding of the review and approval process for 9 intelligence products, when does the confidence level get decided? Is that on the 10 intelligence analyst drafting it, or does that get done during the review and approval
11 process?
12 A I'm unclear on that.
13 Q Does it concern you that the approving IPC didn't know where the "RTC" 14 term originated from?
15 A I think that the -- well, I think there's varying -- there's a lot of data in an 16 intelligence product. I think there are a lot of points. So I think that -- I don't know
17 what he or she would've taken into consideration of -- I couldn't speak to what he knew
18 or didn't know and how that formed his -- do I have a concern? I think that -- I think 19 that the intelligence -- I mean, they have a -- that is their craft. That's their -- they just 20 have more knowledge of that. I couldn't speak to that.
21 Q And how are the approving official's edits documented?
22 A Say -- how --
23 Q How are the approving official's edits to the document documented in FBI
24 systems?
25 A Well, anything, if it comes through the formal workflow process in SENTINEL,

1 has a review, and you can comment there. But I'm unclear, on the intelligence side, if
2 they have a draft place. I think they -- there is a -- I'm unclear on that. I'm unclear.
3 Q And does the IPC still review and approve intelligence products at this time?
4 A He does.
5 Chairman Jordan. I want to make sure I pronounce your name right. Mr. Me- --
6 Mr. Meador. "Medder."
7 Chairman Jordan. "Medder."
8 Mr. Meador. Yes, sir.
9 Chairman Jordan. Mr. Meador, so I want to go back. You said you weren't 10 concerned that the intelligence analyst couldn't define the term "RTC."
11 I mean, you told us earlier that you couldn't define the term at the time that this 12 was put together. And now you're saying you're not concerned that the person whose 13 job it is to approve it, put this document together, couldn't -- we know from the 14 investigation that they couldn't define the term either.
15 [redacted] I'd like to clarify. I think that was where the term came from.
16 Mr. Meador. Yes. Yeah, I --
17 Chairman Jordan. Same question. You're not concerned -- you said you 18 weren't concerned that the analyst who approved this did not know the origins of the 19 term.
20 Mr. Meador. At the time of review? At my time when I see it?
21 Chairman Jordan. No, just -- this is based on what [redacted] just read from the 22 investigation, the internal investigation that the FBI did.
23 Mr. Meador. I'm taking into consideration that -- and probably may be doing it 24 too broadly -- but that the intelligence analysts are taking into a lot of consideration for 25 what they're reviewing.

1 Do I think it's a concern that the IPC did not know where it came from?

2 Chairman Jordan. Uh-huh.

3 Mr. Meador. I think that question could be -- I would actually defer back. I do

4 not know what the substance of those discussions were with the IPC. So, without

5 having the context, I'm unsure of what that could've meant. I don't think I could -- I

6 don't think I could speak to that.

7 Chairman Jordan. I guess I'm just struck by: You, as the guy in charge of

8 Richmond Field Office, can't define the term, couldn't define the term when it was put

9 together, still don't want to define it now. You weren't able to answer, not aware of the 10 number of RMVE subjects attending Catholic places of worship. You can't tell us how 11 you determined that an RMVE went to a, quote, "radical traditional Catholic" church.

12 And we now find out that the person who wrote the document didn't even know the

13 origin of the term. There are so many things that we don't know about, yet it's put in a 14 document that's sent around across the system.

15 I'll go back to [redacted]

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Have you had any discussions with the approving officials regarding the 18 domain perspective?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And can you detail those discussions for us?

21 A Yes. I have had -- the first instance that I learned that the leak occurred, I

22 immediately reached out to Office of General Counsel, Counterterrorism Division, and the

23 Director of Intelligence, and I asked them to come to Richmond ASAP to conduct training, 24 guidance, and more discussion on this to help us learn what the issues were.

25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A So I did -- I had the full intelligence team, the domestic terrorism cadre, I got 2 them all in the room, and we had that training-slash-discussion on this.
3 Chairman Jordan. Just a second, Mr. --
4 Mr. Meador. Yes, sir.
5 Chairman Jordan. Was the concern that a leak had taken place, or was the 6 concern what was in the document?
7 Mr. Meador. My concern was, what -- because of the statement that the 8 product didn't meet the exacting standards, my concern was, what did Richmond -- what 9 did we not do here? My concern is, what is in here that is problematic? And whatever 10 it is --
11 Chairman Jordan. That was based on the fact that main FBI had put out the 12 statement that it didn't meet the exacting standards?
13 Mr. Meador. Well, that's the -- it would've been the first time -- that's the -- post
14 the leak, that's the first time I would've saw it.
15 Chairman Jordan. That's how you knew about the --
16 Mr. Meador. Yes. And so I wanted to quickly, as soon as we could, get more 17 information on this to figure out what had occurred there.
18 I also -- as we moved forward, I asked certain individuals, you know, pointedly,
19 like, what am I missing? Help me understand what -- educate me on this. You know,
20 give me some insight on what we did here and what's the substance of this to get more
21 clarity on the product.
22 I also -- as the time progressed, I also learned of -- when I started getting 23 information from headquarters on the things like not having a clear -- roles and 24 responsibilities clearly delineated, I did not wait on the inspection report. I came back
25 and had the team -- requested the IPC to start having a formal peer-review process. It's

1 not something that is a policy, and it's not a directive from the Director of Intelligence,
2 but I learned that some offices have formal peer-review processes. So I had the IPC
3 start finding those peer-review processes throughout the Bureau so that we could 4 formalize a peer-review process.
5 I also, when I learned of the analytical tradecraft standards, Intelligence Directive
6 203 on analytical tradecraft standards, had more discussion on that and actually
7 held -- invited everyone in the field office to join an all-employee call, where I mentioned
8 that I spoke to the ICD 203 and the new formalized peer-review process. And that was 9 something we -- I also sent out an all-employee communication.
10 I've continued, as I've learned information, to talk with the team on things that 11 have been identified, like the roles and responsibilities and so forth.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q And so, prior to the INSD's inspection as well as the public reporting on the 14 domain perspective, did you have an understanding of the FBI's tradecraft standards or 15 no?
16 A I had -- I have -- I do not recall in my career seeing -- ever having seen ICD
17 203, analytical tradecraft standards.

1 [11:03 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And whose role is it to review for tradecraft standards in the review and

4 approval process of intelligence products?

5 A Well, in Richmond now, we have a formalized peer review process so that

6 everyone knows who is responsible for what in the intelligence product review process,

7 so that if you get it and you're reviewing for tradecraft, you know you're reviewing for 8 tradecraft.

9 Q And in this specific instance with this domain perspective, who's

10 responsibility was it at that time to review for tradecraft standards?

11 A I think that's one of the things that we learned from the inspection report is

12 that there was lack of understanding of who -- that goes back to the roles and 13 responsibilities. There's lack of understanding as to who's supposed to do that.

14 Q Do you have an understanding of whether or not this domain perspective

15 was reviewed for tradecraft standards?

16 A I would have to defer back to the inspection findings that they made their

17 conclusion regarding that.

18 Q And that's on page 7 of the report, so the record's clear. At the end of the

19 second paragraph it says, INSD found that no Richmond personnel reviewed the DP for 20 analytic tradecraft.

21 Does that concern you now knowing that this domain perspective was never

22 reviewed for analytic tradecraft?

23 A I think that the -- what has been extremely helpful now that we have a final

24 report is that -- is to know the substance of the issues related to the document. So I

25 think it's concerning that -- that -- the importance of that, but obviously from what we've

1 learned from this, yes, that they need -- that that is a part of the intelligence process.

2 Q And at the time the approving officials were reviewing this specific domain

3 perspective, did you have any conversations with them about the domain perspective at 4 the time of their approval?

5 A No.

6 Q Did you have any previous concerns about either approving officials'

7 performance?

8 A No.

9 Q And the inspection division report requires an admonishment of the 10 approving officials. Has any other disciplinary action been taken against the approving 11 officials?

12 A No.

13 Q Are you responsible for admonishing the approving officials?

14 A I am, pursuant to the -- I think the way the articulation in the report is that 15 I'm directed -- I believe I'm directed to conduct that admonishment.

16 Q And would you be responsible for taking any other disciplinary action against 17 the approving officials?

18 A Only if directed. Since they do not report to me, they have their own rating

19 and reviewing official. That would not be me, with the exception of the CDC.

20 Q And who's the rating and reviewing official for the two SIAs that approved?

21 A The -- they report to the ASAC.

22 Q The ASAC of the intelligence cadre?

23 A So -- yes, but I would have -- I would have -- correction, I would have 24 reviewed for the IPC in the SIA. I would have reviewed for that, those two. Sorry.

25 [redacted] Any other questions?

1 We'll go off the record.

2 [Recess.]

3 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

4 EXAMINATION

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Good morning again, Mr. Meador.

7 A Good morning.

8 Q Thank you again for joining us today.

9 I just want to talk first a little bit more about your background before we move on

10 to the substance. I understand that you joined the FBI in 2002. Is that right?

11 A Yes, ma'am.

12 Q And I notice a lot of people who join law enforcement or the military in that

13 year were specifically motivated by 9/11. Is that the case in your experience --

14 A Yes, ma'am.

15 Q -- or not?

16 Can you explain a little bit about that?

17 A Yes. I had actually turned my application into the FBI in August of 2001.

18 And then in my role in law enforcement in Virginia, I was a first responder to the

19 Pentagon on 9/11. And so for me, I knew -- obviously, I knew I wanted to join the FBI,

20 but when I responded to the Pentagon and spent the days there, knew that I had made

21 the right choice because of what I -- what I was personally participating in and witnessing.

22 And for me, you know, I knew -- you know, I knew from that, from 9/11, that

23 because of what we had done, I -- I -- my personal opinion was that we were going to get

24 sick from that. So I actually filed a form right after that along the lines of workers' comp

25 for the response to 9/11, and then unfortunately received my first cancer diagnosis in

1 2013, metastasized again in 2016. And then I was successfully -- I joined the 2 World Trade -- got into the World Trade Center Health Organization and was since 3 certified for my health condition to 9/11.
4 Q Meaning that there was a connection that is clear between the cancer that 5 you were diagnosed with to having been exposed to --
6 A Yeah, potentially. I think anyone in the World Trade Center Health -- that 7 get sent to the organization that could've been because of the predisposition that 8 could've affect -- could've resulted in the ailment.
9 Q Not to dwell on this too long, but when you responded on 9/11, was that 10 over the course of several days?
11 A Yes, ma'am. I spent approximately 8 days collecting evidence and working 12 in the rubble pile.
13 Q Well, thank you for your service.
14 A Yes, ma'am.
15 Q And moving to your career in the FBI, just, again, more broadly, it seemed 16 from your description that most of your career has been in the criminal context, is that 17 fair to say, with the FBI?
18 A Yes, ma'am.
19 Q Okay. And you have not had any specific positions in the intelligence field
20 of the FBI?
21 A I served for 1 year as a HUMINT special agent, so that is where you operate
22 sources and collect -- just collect information.
23 Q Okay. But you wouldn't have, like you said before, been exposed to 24 directive 203 or sort of the tradecraft --
25 A No.

1 Q Okay.

2 A No, I'm the special agent, not an intel analyst. They have a -- it's a whole

3 separate training regiment they go through, and it's a whole separate -- one team, one

4 fight, but they have their own training cadre they go through.

5 Q Understood. While you were an agent in the FBI and throughout your

6 career, did you receive any awards for your work?

7 A Yes, I did receive a declaration of valor for 9/11, but that was in the 8 State -- State law enforcement side. But I have received several, numerous.

9 Q Okay. And have you ever been admonished, demoted, or anything in that

10 context with regard to your work in the FBI, other than anything related to this domain

11 perspective?

12 A No, ma'am.

13 Q Let's move on a little bit to the domain perspective itself and your role in

14 that. And I just want to focus -- before we get into like a series of organized questions, I

15 want to focus on two things that came up in the first hour, the first being the term

16 "radical traditionalist Catholic." And you indicated that that is not something that you

17 were familiar with personally in your experience as an FBI agent. Is that correct?

18 A Yes, ma'am.

19 Q Before this happened, right?

20 A Yes, ma'am.

21 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that the term "radical traditionalist Catholic,"

22 even in the context of this domain perspective, did not originate from the FBI analyst or

23 any other FBI employee; it was just repeated by them because a criminal subject in your 24 area of operation identified himself in that way?

25 A Yes. The term "radical traditionalist Catholic" is -- the FBI didn't invent that

1 term. In this particular matter, the subject self-identified as that. So that -- that's 2 not -- and that's not a term -- correct.
3 Q Okay. And so when you said earlier that it might not have been important
4 for you to track down the origin of that term, is it fair to say that that may be because it's
5 not a term that the FBI was adopting or in any way trying to explain; it was just a term
6 you came across in the course of the investigation because someone else had 7 characterized himself in that way?
8 A Yeah, I think what's important to highlight here is that there are 9 investigations and then intelligence products. In an investigation, if -- if a subject, you
10 know, self-identifies as any -- in any particular title or whatever it may -- whatever name 11 you want to give it, that's information that of course it can go -- pursuant to that 12 investigation, it would go into that case file pertaining to that subject who is a predicated 13 or -- or a full investigative subject that we're looking at.
14 On the intelligence side, if the intelligence analyst took the basis of, you 15 know -- took the criminal activity and saw -- you know, was trying to connect dots and 16 kind of look across the country and do what analysts do and connect the dots and to put 17 forth information to be informed, they could've learned that information and taken it 18 from the investiga- -- what they see in the investigation.
19 Q So you all in the FBI were basically observing what you saw in a criminal 20 investigation, and that was the use of this term by the subject himself and other subjects?
21 A Yes. That's my understanding is we have the case, the criminal activity, and 22 that is a part of -- that is something that is observed in the -- in that investigative phase.
23 Q Understood. So in this case, you were asked in the first hour just generally
24 what is a domain perspective, and your answer was -- basically, you indicated that you
25 don't have a lot of experience personally with domain perspectives. Is that fair to say?

1 A Yes, ma'am.

2 Q Okay. Would you agree that domain perspectives can be used in the 3 context of criminal investigations to identify patterns and to also help with outreach?

4 A Yes. Yes. I think that -- that is the purpose. It is to look at -- it -- in

5 my -- maybe see something, say something. That's -- in law enforcement that's common

6 speak for how we try to get ahead of a threat and we try this, you see something, say

7 something. And so if you -- and especially if we ask a lot, especially in the post-9/11

8 world of our analysts to, you know, their responsibility and role is to try and connect dots

9 and get ahead of the threat. So if you see something, say something.

10 So that domain perspective is one outlet to do to show that, hey, there's a change

11 in the environment. Hey, someone should look at this and maybe go talk to someone

12 and conduct outreach -- as this example, go conduct outreach in support of it.

13 Q Okay. And let's talk a little bit about the context in Richmond and in the 14 country at the time that this domain perspective was created. We've already heard

15 testimony that you had a subject -- a predicated, fully predicated domestic terror subject

16 who had engaged in criminal activity within the Richmond area of operations, correct?

17 A Yes, ma'am.

18 Q And that subject was of very high importance to your office, correct?

19 A Yes, ma'am.

20 Q That was because of the violence that he threatened in that community?

21 A Based on the investigation, it was determined that it is the severity and

22 dangerousness of the individual involved, yes, that the investiga- -- we found that

23 pursuant to our investigation.

24 Q And that person at the time was an -- you -- was determined to be an

25 ongoing threat by the FBI?

1 A Yes, ma'am.

2 Q Okay. Now, it was that person who used the term "radical traditionalist

3 Catholic" to describe himself, correct?

4 A Yes, ma'am.

5 Q And when the domain perspective was conceived and written, other -- the

6 analysts reached out to or found information about subjects in other areas of operation

7 who also identified themselves in a similar way in terms of radical traditional Catholicism,

8 correct?

9 A I believe so, and I would have to defer to the -- to the contents of the DP

10 where those specific points are outlined --

11 Q Okay.

12 A -- as far as what the analysts --

13 Q Is it fair to say based on your reading and your recollection of the DP that,

14 again, those terms referring to radical traditionalists or Catholic, those terms came from 15 the criminal subjects not from any FBI employee who tried to characterize the people in 16 those ways?

17 A Yeah. It's my understanding it came from our main predicated subject --

18 Q Okay.

19 A -- because he self-identified.

20 Q In -- the Richmond subject?

21 A Yes, ma'am.

22 Q But also with respect to the people in the other areas of operation, when

23 they refer to themselves, those terms are self-identification. They're not FBI terms that

24 are being superimposed over these people.

25 A I would have to defer to how the analysts explained the other subjects'

1 affiliation with that.

2 Q Okay. And affiliation, meaning like the actual church organizations that

3 they were involved with?

4 A Yes, ma'am, and what that is, yes.

5 Q Understood.

6 A Yes.

7 Q And so let's talk about that, because that was another subject that was

8 raised in the first hour. I think that you were given the question, you know, do you

9 know or does anybody who participated in the formation of the DP know how many racial

10 and ethnically motivated violent subjects happen to attend these Catholic churches, and 11 you said no?

12 A No.

13 Q That's not something that --

14 A That's not something I would -- right.

15 Q Right. But it is clear from the domain perspective and the work that the

16 analysts did in preparing it that, with respect to the Richmond subject, he did attend a

17 local organization, the Society of Saint Pius X, which is in the domain perspective. Is that

18 fair to say?

19 A Yes, ma'am.

20 Q Okay. And he attended that church organization for, I believe it says

21 7 months, but a substantial period of time, according to the analysts who wrote this?

22 A I would have to -- I'm unsure of the date, the length of time.

23 Q If I -- so under exhibit 1, if you would refer to page 2. And it's right there in 24 the first bullet point at the bottom of the page. Actually, the last sentence there in that 25 last bullet point.

1 A Yes. Yeah, 7 months as noted in the DP.

2 Q Okay. And so, I mean, that information, it's just a fact that was derived

3 from the investigation, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Okay. And --

6 A Because, remember, this -- the -- if I could -- if I could note the -- in the same

7 bullet point the 2022 arrest.

8 Q Yep.

9 A And then the drafting of the DP as post, if we go to the timeline, the 10 inspections timeline, it is post this. So this was already --

11 Q This was known to the FBI when the --

12 A This had already occurred.

13 Q Right.

14 A Yes.

15 Q And, I mean, that -- the subject's participation in that organization or church,

16 whatever you want to call it, that was ongoing and known to the analysts who prepared

17 this, correct?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Okay. Is that what you were trying to say, or are you trying to say

20 something more?

21 A Yes, ma'am. Yeah. Yes, they would've -- they would've known that, yes.

22 Q Sure.

23 A Oh, absolutely.

24 Q Sure. So when you're asked about whether you're concerned that this

25 document prepared by the FBI analyst is using terms that refer to Catholics or Catholic

1 organizations, is it fair to say that those terms are not being sort of equated with any 2 violent activity; they're just being used because it describes a factual situation that was
3 found during the course of the investigation?
4 A Correct. And if I could -- if I could give an analogy, if we're conducting an 5 investigation and, you know, someone is stealing catalytic converters from a certain 6 location, that certain location would probably be noted in the case file, not because of 7 anything related to the location other than the criminal -- than the connection that the 8 subject had to the location. So, yes, to answer your question.
9 Q Okay. And now, with respect to this particular church organization, the 10 Society of Saint -- sorry, Pope [sic] Pius X, I want to make that right, the subjects that were 11 discussed in other places in the domain perspective, the Portland subject and the other 12 one, at least one of those also attended the same -- or church with the same name. Is 13 that fair to say, according to the document?
14 A According to the document, yeah.
15 Q Okay. So, again, when the analyst is highlighting that, they're noting a 16 pattern that derives factually from the investigation; they're not suggesting that on the 17 FBI's own volition?
18 A I would add an additional word of criminal activity has been identified, and 19 that is information found in conducting that criminal investigation that formed the basis
20 of -- that that is additional information that was observed and so the analyst is seeing 21 something that is consistent.
22 Q Right. Each of those subjects were properly predicated domestic terror
23 subjects, correct?
24 A Yes, ma'am.
25 Q Meaning that they were engaged in criminal activity?

1 A Yes, ma'am. It's my understanding, yes, ma'am.

2 Q And, again, stepping out, that is why the FBI was interested in identifying

3 these patterns for information purposes?

4 A Yes. If -- you know, in a -- in these -- in predicated investigations, you

5 know, it's the analysts' responsibility if you -- if we have subjects predicated -- fully

6 predicated subjects conducting criminal activity that have things in common, that is the 7 analysts' responsibility to connect the dots and inform and educate us on how -- on things

8 where we can maybe need to do to get ahead of the threat, which would be to conduct

9 outreach --

10 Q Right.

11 A -- and to go -- go tell someone we've seen this, we're seeing this, we want to,

12 you know, convey it to you, learn from you, learn from us.

13 Q Okay. So let's talk about that, because that's exactly what I'm hoping to get

14 more answers from you about, is what did you do with it. So when the domain

15 perspective was produced, it wasn't available on FBI systems for very long, actually less

16 than 2 weeks, right?

17 A Yes. I don't know the final, but --

18 Q Approximately.

19 A Yeah.

20 Q Okay. So when you were exposed to it and read it for the first time, your 21 reaction was what? What did you think that you could do with that document?

22 A Well, I thought it was a -- because of the -- and I had -- I had intimate

23 knowledge of this particular case because of the severity and the specificity of what I

24 knew about this particular individual.

25 Q Right.

1 A And so when I saw the document and I saw that it was based on that
2 particular subject, and then I saw the recommendation to conduct outreach, that was, for 3 me, a nobrainer.
4 Q Okay. Talk about that. What was the outreach that you intended to 5 conduct?
6 A Well, I had actually -- it would've been to conduct outreach to the diocese,
7 but first to sit with the team and talk about what does the outreach look like, get a more
8 fuller understanding, obviously, before I pick up the phone and conduct outreach.
9 Q Okay. A fuller understanding of the threat?
10 A Of what is in the substance of the product and the threat -- and what that 11 outreach would look like.
12 Q Okay. And can you be specific? I mean, what were you -- what were you 13 intending to tell the leadership of the diocese based on this?
14 A Well, what I would've done is, and I actually commented to the team that 15 this, you know, was a -- was a document that would help in outreach to the diocese, and I
16 wanted to put them around the table to talk about that and have this conversation and 17 get a kind of a more understanding of what should we say when we go to the diocese, like 18 what should we tell them. So I would need, in order to do that, kind of an 19 understanding of what -- what should we say, because, remember, we have a pending
20 criminal matter --
21 Q Right.
22 A -- but what did that look like. And also, you know, outreach is important to 23 me. It's a priority that I've set for the field office. I believe in outreach in a -- not only
24 being reactive to cases you work but being proactive with outreach. So I, again, saw it 25 as an excellent opportunity to not just talk about anything that may be the substance of

1 this, but also to talk about -- just to have a -- have a -- that -- make that connection.
2 Q So just a -- have a relationship with the leaders in the community at the 3 church generally and be available to them for resource?
4 A Uh-huh.
5 Q Is that what you mean?
6 A Yeah. And that wouldn't have -- would not have been the first time we 7 would've conducted outreach to a house of worship.
8 Q Okay. But getting back a little bit more to the threat that is identified here.
9 When you seek to convey information to the Catholic diocese, in this case, or any
10 community about a threat that you're learning of at the FBI, what is the general purpose
11 for conveying that information to them? What are you hoping -- 12 A To inform. Inform and educate.
13 Q Do you expect any action on their part based on what you tell them?
14 A No.
15 Q Do you hope for any -- well, do you hope for any assistance in preventing 16 harm to that community or to the community at large?
17 A Yes. And it's also to give them a resource for, if they saw activity related to 18 the threat material that we're briefing, they have someone to call and reach out for for 19 assistance.
20 Q And that's --
21 A And they're educated on the threat.
22 Q Is that what is referred to I think somewhere in the domain perspective as 23 the tripwire?
24 A Yes, ma'am.
25 Q Can you explain what that means?

1 A A tripwire would be anytime we go out into the public, that is, I would say,
2 standard kind of course of practice for us in our operations is we -- we make contacts in 3 the community, and if they're in a position and they see something, violation of criminal 4 activity, and they want to say something, they -- they have a point of contact to call.
5 I will give you an example. If -- kind of back to the example, if we have a number 6 of dealerships that are, you know, having catalytic converters being stolen from them, we 7 may go engage in the ownership of the dealership to say, you need to know what's going 8 on in this area and we're here as a resource. If there's anything we can do to educate,
9 inform, or you need from our direction, you can contact us.
10 Q And so in the case of that example, if you were to go to a car dealership and 11 say, hey, at the FBI we've noticed a pattern of criminal activity which targets car
12 dealership because, you know, these catalytic converters right now happen to have a 13 certain mineral, that it's very valuable and people are stealing it, you're telling them not 14 because you suspect them --
15 A Right.
16 Q -- of being associated with criminals but because you know that criminals are 17 targeting them for criminal association or activity, correct?
18 A Correct. We have an obligation not to only be reactive to when people 19 violate the law and there's an actual incident, we have an obligation to be proactive with 20 the community to ensure that we're getting out and educating them on all our threats.
21 And I'll give you an example. You know, we have a very robust outreach that we 22 do to private sector corporation -- entities because of the cyber threat that we're facing
23 across the country and across the world. So we will -- we will engage cybersecurity 24 experts from various private sector entities to share information, things that we're seeing 25 in the space, to learn from them, and also give them -- be a resource for them in the

1 event they need -- the unfortunate event they would need our assistance if they were to 2 have a compromise.
3 Q Okay. So when you reached out to the Catholic diocese after having been
4 exposed to the domain perspective and with the knowledge that you had about the DT
5 subject in your area of operations, it was your intention to warn them of potential 6 criminal subjects who might be coming to them or people in their community, so that if 7 they saw it, they would recognize the threat?
8 A Correct. It would be to sensitize them to something we -- we have in our 9 back -- that we saw in our backyard and to sensitize them to what this threat is, what it
10 looks like. We often -- we have a, on our IT/DT, international terrorism/domestic 11 terrorism site, we have a booklet that we often hand out that's mobilization -- indicators
12 of folks mobilizing for violence. It's a handy resource that we have that we actually 13 disseminate, that we'll give to folks so that they see -- it's kind of a -- it's a good summary
14 of things to look for and when folks are on a pathway to violence, as it's -- it's a handy 15 resource.
16 Q Is that identifying specific subjects or just kind of something that 17 characterizes generally like the flags to look for for somebody who might be -- 18 A That's the flags. That's the threat -- the threat in general, and it's -- of 19 course, it would be based off things that we've learned over years of working these 20 particular threat pictures.
21 Q Okay. And in this case, the domestic terror suspect -- or subject that was in 22 your AOR was ranked fairly high on that scale. Is that fair to say?
23 [Discussion off the record.]
24 Mr. Meador. Yes.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Okay. Are you familiar with what a defensive briefing is?
2 A I am.
3 Q Okay. Can you explain what your understanding of that is?
4 A Defensive briefing would be if, for example, there was a -- maybe someone
5 was traveling to a foreign country and had counterintel- -- had a counterintelligence 6 threat or a counterintelligence concern, they may request a defensive briefing where we 7 would conduct a briefing on things to be aware of, at unclassified -- or depending on who 8 they are could very well be classified, on things that they need to be aware of, things that 9 we're seeing, trends, and how to take precautions and protect yourself.
10 Q Okay. And if you had an individual, particularly one who was in a position
11 of some authority or elected official in the United States who was being targeted, say, by 12 like a foreign government, that might be a context where the FBI or some other 13 organization might try to give that person a warning --
14 A Yes, ma'am.
15 Q -- hey, you're being targeted by this malign actor and we just want you to 16 know about it, correct?
17 A Yes, ma'am.
18 Q And that would be a defensive briefing?
19 A Yes, ma'am.
20 Q In that context, the FBI is doing that not to accuse the person who is the U.S.
21 official of any misconduct but to just warn them that there's a threat out there and that 22 somebody who is a threat might be interested in trying to manipulate them or have 23 contact with them in some way, correct?
24 A Yes, ma'am.
25 Q And is that similar to what you were trying to do in this context in identifying

1 a part of the community, some particular Catholic churches, who a real criminal subject
2 had expressed interest in and had been involved in, you were trying to warn them of the 3 threat that that person and others like him might pose?
4 A Yes. Unfortunately, I mean, that -- we didn't get the opportunity to 5 have -- even have the conversation internally because of the leak that happened fairly 6 soon after I saw it. So that would've been -- the focus would've been to talk with the 7 team on what's the best way to communicate and what can we communicate and what 8 should we -- you know, what should the substance of our brief be to them.
9 Q Okay. And I think that you had also, in your role as SAC, had some 10 interfaith briefings or meetings with leaders of the Catholic church and other churches.
11 Is that right?
12 A We -- I -- again, I prioritized outreach as a top priority for the field office.
13 And post the Colleyville hostage -- U.S. synagogue hostage situation in January of, I 14 believe, '22, you know, we -- we wanted to take a proactive step with all houses of 15 worship and to educate and inform and try to be a resource. There were a number of 16 folks who were asking for information.
17 So we took the initiative and put together an interfaith awareness briefing virtual 18 and coordinated with headquarters to be able to do a large-scale event. And we 19 attempted to reach out to as many houses of worship across all faiths that we could in 20 our AOR, which is 82 of the 95 Virginia counties, and we put together that presentation
21 virtual. We had a -- two U.S. attorneys from each district spoke, I spoke. And then we 22 provided information on domestic terrorism, international terrorism, hate crimes,
23 because a lot of entities have hate crime -- may have hate crime situation.
24 And we also spoke to crisis management, if an entity had an -- unfortunately had 25 an incident, what would the FBI do, what does that look like in the response. And that

1 was, I believe, February of '22. And we had -- it was -- it's my understanding that was
2 the largest external team -- live Teams event that the FBI had attempted. And we
3 had -- while the system said over 1,000 joined on, we had, I think, roughly 600-plus on 4 that call from all across the Commonwealth.
5 Q My colleague is going to ask you a few questions about that.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q Are you proud of the attendance of that event? It sounds like you are.
8 A Yes, ma'am.
9 Q Why?
10 A And I think -- well, for one, for me, you know, I prioritize outreach. It's in 11 the top four pillars of what I put forth for the office, and I believe in -- especially when 12 you look at the collegial situation, that we needed to do something in the Commonwealth
13 to educate and inform houses of worship in our AOR.
14 And I'm real -- I believe -- I want to be as impactful as possible, and there's no way
15 I can go to every house of worship, because there's thousands. There'd be no way to do
16 that. And so to be able to communicate that and then host that event and then see the 17 attendance and then see the demand for followup, we even -- we took it a step further
18 and actually put together -- they wanted -- in talking about our crisis response matters,
19 we even put together a separate handout that we could send to them, but it was just a 20 well-attended event.
21 [Meador Exhibit No. 3
22 Was marked for identification.]
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q I want to introduce for the record as exhibit 3 some notes about that event.
25 I'm not going to introduce the full thing. It's -- there's like 200-some pages. But this

1 includes the -- a few pages about electronic communications summarizing the briefing
2 and then some of the Q&A report and some of the feedback report.
3 Do you recognize this?
4 A [Nonverbal response.]
5 Q It's okay.
6 A So I would not have -- I would not have approved it, so I wouldn't have seen 7 the actual --
8 Q Yeah.
9 A But I'm very well aware of the substance of it, uh-huh, yes.
10 Q So the first three pages describe that the interfaith awareness briefing took 11 place on February 10th of 2022, and then describes the agenda. You mentioned you 12 spoke?
13 A Yes, ma'am.
14 Q Turning to the first landscape page that has the Excel. So there were many 15 pages of, it looks like, Q&A that was submitted for this event, and so I -- we just excerpted
16 a couple of them.
17 The first page has questions from a congregation leader about specific threats in 18 the Richmond area, such as, are gangs a threat. It also asks, are there ways that we can 19 partner with the FBI to better serve our communities.
20 Were questions like this common in your community engagement?
21 A Yes. As I recall, we tried to be -- when we were looking at the agenda, we 22 tried to be informative, so when they did the -- as I recall, the -- when they signed up,
23 they had an opportunity to ask a question as to what do they want to learn most about,
24 and this is the feedback that we would've received.
25 Q The next page has a few questions from a congregation leader: What are

1 some things we should be looking for over the next several months? What are
2 perceived threats? What legitimizes a threat?
3 Are those common questions that you received from community organizations --
4 A Yes.
5 Q -- during this outreach?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And you mentioned earlier the scale for how likely someone is to commit
8 violence. Might that be something you share with an organization for factors to look 9 for, what legitimizes a threat?
10 A Yes. We can -- when we teach on like indicators of people who are on a 11 pathway to violence, who are mobilizing to violence, we can -- we would brief -- we can 12 brief through that.
13 Q And then at the -- turning to the portrait pages again. At the top it says,
14 "FBI Richmond Interfaith Awareness Briefing Feedback." This looks like -- 15 [redacted] Which Bates number?
16 [redacted] It's Bates 211.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q This looks like it was a feedback form that organizations submitted after the 19 briefing. Is that fair?
20 A Yes, ma'am.
21 Q Looking at some of the feedback, there is a couple of things that deal with 22 cyber threats and cyber terrorism. You mentioned that earlier, right?
23 A Uh-huh, yes, ma'am.
24 Q Is that something that the FBI routinely engaged with the community about?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Do you think that that was something that was helpful for organizations?
2 A Yes. That's actually top priority for the Bureau right now especially, yeah.
3 Q There's -- at 10:30 a.m., on February 17th, I think it's line 12, it's on page 4 211.
5 A Oh, sorry.
6 Q You're good.
7 A February 17th, at what time?
8 Q 10:30 a.m. It's line 12.
9 A Uh-huh.
10 Q Somebody suggested -- or said that they were interested in updates on 11 safety/security/terrorism issues as they become available. Is that something that you 12 would regularly engage on, what kinds of threats are arising?
13 A Yes. And I think that speaks to -- you know, our challenge is how do we get 14 our -- the message out to as many faith-based communities as possible, which was the 15 reason we did the virtual awareness briefing. But the feedback is rather overwhelming
16 as to the demand for what folks are asking for and what they need, but, yes, we would've 17 done that.
18 Q The last one I want to look at is line 16, February 16th, 5:13 p.m. It says,
19 This was a great presentation because it gave us information that relates to the faith
20 community. I would like to see a continuation of this type of sharing of information.
21 Do you think that generally reflects some -- a lot of the feedback that you got 22 about this event?
23 A It does. And, again, the demand is -- it was -- is excessive, and the 24 challenge that we have is how do we -- how can we be impactful going forward in this 25 space, because there's -- it's -- our backyard is so big.

1 Q Yeah.

2 A Right.

3 Q So there is four pages of feedback in this form. Do you think it's fair to say

4 that these faith-based organizations generally wanted to continue engagement with the

5 FBI?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And was that in your mind as you were -- at the beginning of this year when

8 you were thinking about outreach in the case of the domestic terror subject who

9 identified as a radical traditionalist Catholic?

10 A Yes. Yeah, it goes back to the severity of the subject and, again, the level of 11 what we were dealing with, the importance of saying something.

12 Q Does the FBI engage in community outreach to conduct surveillance on 13 organizations?

14 A No, ma'am.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q On that line of questioning, it's fair to say that this example that my

17 colleague just went through with you is a good example of the role the FBI has in

18 providing information to the community as opposed to trying to discover information

19 through investigation, correct?

20 A Yes, ma'am.

21 Q Because that is an important role of the FBI, to provide information as well,

22 correct?

23 A Yes. I believe that we have a proactive obligation to educate the 24 community, connect with them, not just to tell them who we are, but to educate them on

25 the threat because we're -- we're better by knowing them and letting them help us, and

1 then same is true for us helping them.

2 Q And so when you did this interfaith exercise, this meeting, you were not

3 there to get sources or get information for your investigations; you were just there to

4 push out information to them --

5 A Correct.

6 Q -- at that time?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And with respect to the Catholic community that you were preparing to

9 conduct outreach with based on the domain perspective, again, your role, or as you

10 conceived of it, was to go push out information to them to help them?

11 A Yes. The analysts' recommendation was to conduct outreach to the -- to 12 these -- the leadership, to these specific entities to sensitize them to this threat and 13 things to be aware of.

14 Q And did you ever intend to conduct any surveillance of any Catholic

15 communities or Catholic churches in the Richmond area?

16 A No.

17 Q To your knowledge, did anyone at the FBI, in your office or elsewhere, ever

18 have that intention to surveil the community or infiltrate it in some way to find

19 information about them?

20 A Our agents surveil predicated subjects of investigations.

21 Q Only, correct?

22 A Only, wherever they go.

23 Q Meaning people who are engaged in criminal activity?

24 A Criminal activity.

25 Q Okay. As far as you know, did the FBI ever take any investigative steps

1 whatsoever based on the domain perspective that we've discussed here today?

2 A No.

3 Q Was that ever the intention?

4 A No.

5 Q Does the FBI target Catholics?

6 A No.

7 Q And can you have -- give us your reaction to the allegation that some on this

8 committee have made based on this domain perspective and other things that the FBI

9 does, quote, target Catholics?

10 A Well, I think -- I think it strikes a personal chord with me --

11 Q Why is that?

12 A -- because my wife is raised Catholic, from a devout Catholic family. I was

13 married in a Catholic church in Richmond by a Catholic priest. So the thought that

14 something would've -- that I would've observed something that is what people are 15 indicating is challenging for me.

16 Q And do you believe that your colleagues on the intelligence side and in other

17 positions that worked on this domain perspective share your opinion of that allegation

18 that they were targeting Catholics, that it was a -- that allegation is false?

19 A I would say that they -- they do and also probably have even more stronger

20 opinions on it because of some of the -- some of them being devout Catholics.

21 Q Some of the analysts who worked on this product are devout Catholics?

22 A Yes, ma'am.

23 Q And would you find it very hard to accept the accusation that they were 24 using this product or any other FBI resources in order to target people of their own faith?

25 A I think it is -- this has been traumatic from --

1 Q In what way?

2 A -- not just the -- those individuals who may attend, may be devout Catholics;
3 this has been just simply traumatic for all of the individuals involved in the -- involved in 4 this.

5 Q When you say "this," do you mean the reaction to this domain perspective
6 and the accusation that this is somehow, again, an effort by the FBI to target Catholics?

7 A Yes. You have individuals who I would argue are a dedicated,
8 mission-driven team, who get up every day and try to do the right thing to protect the 9 American people. And in an attempt, based on criminal activity, an attempt to see 10 something, say something, and for the tenure that some of these folks have in the 11 Bureau, it's been -- it's -- it's been crushing.

12 Q Have any of those employees, to your knowledge, received threats based on 13 publication of their involvement in this DP?

14 A They have not, but I, however, have taken steps to -- I have felt, as a leader, 15 it's my responsibility to stand beside them regardless -- no matter what, you know -- how 16 hard it is or how good that they may be, it's my responsibility to stand with them. So 17 I've been fully transparent with them. And I've also taken steps to bring in folks from 18 our field office to talk to them about -- to help prepare them for things like -- things 19 that -- if their information was to get out, things that they need to be concerned about, to 20 be a resource --

21 Q Do you have concerns about their names being leaked during the course of 22 this congressional investigation?

23 A Absolutely.

24 Q And what are those concerns?

25 A My concerns are that the -- based on my career, based on what I do for a

1 living, I know what's out there, because I deal with it every day, and I run a field office
2 that deals with it every day. And for the time that I've been, I know the potential of 3 what is out there, and exposing them when there is no -- again, there was no malicious
4 intent and no wrongful purpose found in what they were doing, they just -- could've been 5 a better product, the potential for them because of just the environment and what
6 is -- what this has evolved into, yeah, I think they have to be very cautious.
7 Q What about you yourself, do you feel that you have to be cautious based on 8 the fact that your name has been associated with this controversy that's been created?
9 A Yes, and I have taken a step to ensure that I'm as safe as I can be for myself.
10 Q And your family as well?
11 A Yes, specific to my family.
12 Q During the course of your more than 20 years with the FBI, have you ever
13 had to take a step like that before to protect yourself or your family?
14 A Never.
15 Q Have you ever been involved in congressional testimony before?
16 A No, ma'am.
17 Q Okay. Do you think that the heightened threat that you have experienced
18 is a direct result of this investigation in Congress and your role in it?
19 A It's the only, yes. I mean, the -- it's -- with the leak and the subsequent 20 follow-on, it's the only thing, yes.
21 Q Okay. You mentioned, just stepping back a little bit, the -- I don't know if 22 I'm going to get this word right, but the Colleyville situation?
23 A Oh, Colleyville, Texas.
24 Q Colleyville. Oh, okay. Can you just explain what you meant by that?
25 A Sure. So that is the situation in the Jewish synagogue where they were

1 taken -- the priests were taken -- held hostage, and we deployed in partnership with the
2 local police department there. And the situation -- unfortunate resolve to that situation
3 occurred, but it was a very high-profile, very national -- nationally covered event.
4 And, you know, we -- we have a very robust relationship in Richmond with the 5 Jewish community and the Jewish Federation, so much so that we presented the 6 director's community leadership award to the regional security director for the Secure
7 Community Network for the Jewish community. That was in 2021. But we have a very 8 robust relationship there.
9 And in conversations with individuals about how can we be more of a resource, I
10 found that there has to be a way we can help educate our houses of worship and give 11 them, because we are always doing outreach to private sector, critical infrastructure, 12 various threats, how can we help in this space. That was our attempt to be proactive to 13 do that.
14 Q Is it fair to say that in your experience in the FBI, you were observing that 15 there were more houses of worship of various faiths that were being targeted for 16 violence?
17 A Repeat that.
18 Q In your experience in the FBI, you were observing that there was a trend 19 seemingly of more houses of worship in many different faiths that were being targeted 20 for violence?
21 A Well, I know, especially with the Jewish community and the continued
22 comms I have with them, the number of violent acts that -- or activity that they have to 23 navigate. So, again, it was -- you know, I felt the need was there to connect in that 24 community and do our part as a field office.
25 Q And you were also aware of the Pittsburgh synagogue murder --

1 A Yes, ma'am.

2 Q -- correct?

3 A Yes, ma'am.

4 Q And all of that was sort of in the context of this domain perspective thing

5 developed?

6 A Yes, ma'am.

7 Q Okay. And, finally, there's just one other set of questions that was based

8 on the first hour. You were asked about some language in the domain perspective that

9 referred to an assessment that there would be more threat as the election cycle

10 proceeded. Do you remember those questions?

11 A Yes, ma'am.

12 Q And I think you were asked like why was it important to refer to elections,

13 and I think you deferred to the analyst in that setting. Is that fair to say?

14 A Uh-huh.

15 Q Okay.

16 A I think I -- I made an additional caveat about the topics. I think the topics --

17 Q Oh, right, the topics that were raised in the course of an election.

18 A That polarizing topics of -- right.

19 Q Right. And that discussion in the domain perspective also included

20 reference specifically to the predicated Richmond subject and statements he had made

21 about the election in the investigation, correct?

22 A It's my understanding.

23 Q Okay.

24 A That's my understanding.

25 Q And I'm not going to quote it. I think it's --

A I think it's in the domain.

Q There is reference to conversations that, I don't know if it was an FBI source or somebody in the FBI who participated in that criminal investigation had overheard the Richmond subject saying that, because of some election results, it was only violence that remained for him, or something to that effect, correct?

A I could --

[redacted] I obviously would acknowledge we're talking about an ongoing criminal matter, so I just want to be careful.

Mr. Meador. I don't think I could speak to that. I'm unsure.

[redacted] Okay. I'll just withdraw that.

I guess my point is, the inclusion of discussion of elections in the domain perspective, again, that is a subject that the investigators observed criminal subjects speaking of, not a subject that the FBI itself wanted to inject into this analysis?

Mr. Meador. Correct.

[redacted] Okay. I don't have any other questions at this time.

[redacted] We can go off the record. Thank you.

[Recess.]

[redacted] We'll go back on the record.

BY [redacted]

Q Sir, when we last ended our first round, we were talking about the approval and review process of the domain perspective. I want to talk about the authors of the domain perspective. According to the inspection division report, there were two authors. Does that match your recollection?

A Yes, ma'am.

Q And were both of those authors intelligence analysts?

1 A Yes, ma'am.
2 Q And how long had each of the intelligence analysts worked at Richmond at 3 the time of the drafting of the --
4 A I have general -- I don't know the specific in Richmond, but I know
5 their -- their approximate tenure in doing the job.
6 Q Ten years in doing the --
7 A Oh, no, no. The primary author is, I believe, 18 years, 18. The coauthor
8 is -- he may be upwards 20-plus years, maybe even as much as 25.
9 Q And would they be considered senior intelligence analysts or just regular
10 intelligence analysts?
11 A We don't have a -- I don't think we have a classification. We have 12 supervisory intelligence analysts, but they're -- they'd be senior, the tenure they'd been 13 doing it, yeah.
14 Q And what subject matter areas do they generally work on, these intelligence
15 analysts?
16 A The primary author works DT.
17 Q Okay.
18 A And the coauthor is the, what's called the DMC, the domain management
19 coordinator.
20 Q And what does the title "domain management coordinator" mean?
21 A In that role, responsible for understanding, looking from the domain
22 perspective. So our AOR would be 82 of the 95 Virginia counties, so it'd be activity and 23 things occurring in the domain and reviewing that particular information relevant for our 24 domain. It's like coordinating the intelligence that we're -- we're -- it's in our 25 back -- from our backyard.

1 Q And do you know how many, roughly -- how many intelligence products each
2 intelligence analyst has created in their tenure at the FBI?
3 A No, ma'am.
4 Q Do they have to have a specific amount of intelligence products that they
5 produce each year?
6 A They are -- every threat in our yearly plan, every threat will have a measure
7 related to it of certain things, like number of arrests, number of intel products could be 8 one of those for threat -- for each threat.
9 Q And does the Richmond field office have a set number of intelligence 10 products it needs for certain threats?
11 A Those are field office specific, based on the field office's assessment. That's 12 a -- that's -- those are set by each field office.
13 Q And had you set one for your field office?
14 A Excuse me? Can you repeat that?
15 Q Had you set one for your field office, a measure?
16 A Well, they -- as a -- during our annual process to set that for the coming fiscal 17 year, the intel, in coordination with the operational squads, will -- you know, they will 18 make recommendations on what they -- what measure they want to put for a 19 particular -- whatever the measure is. They'll make that recommendation. Ultimately, 20 though, that comes up -- you know, intel will have theirs, the operations folks would have 21 theirs, and then ultimately at the end I would approve all that as the SAC.
22 Q Okay. Did you have an understanding of what number you approved for 23 the intelligence cadre?
24 A Not -- not -- I mean, there's -- that's for every threat --
25 Q Okay.

1 A -- so I couldn't -- you know. I know on, specific to DT, I looked at one, but I
2 don't -- for the -- that goes for every threat. Every threat's got its own.
3 Q And so would this domain perspective have counted towards the field office
4 measures for this specific threat that it was -- pertained to?
5 A I believe so.
6 Q Okay. And are the coauthors of the domain perspective, do they still have 7 responsibility for creating domain perspectives in other intelligence products as of today?
8 A They do.
9 Q And have they received additional training?
10 A So we had our -- yes. We -- as I believe I mentioned earlier, the moment
11 this happened, I had OGC, the DI, CTD provide a training to us, and I had the -- we did an 12 intelligence personnel, DT personnel, other supervisors in there for that training. And 13 then we've also went and once I started learning about that peer review process and that 14 some offices have it, some don't, we instituted that and formalized that.
15 We also had an all-employee call where I mentioned ICD 203 and the peer review
16 process, and I also communicated that out to the field office. And we also -- I heard -- I
17 learned of a report analytical training, and we took steps to have that scheduled. We 18 were due to have that course in mid-August, but due to scheduling conflicts, we've had to 19 delay I think a month. I've also -- the team also went up to CTD to have additional 20 discussion with CTD on this and other -- other matters.
21 Q Did either intelligence analysts who authored the domain perspective, did
22 they have responsibilities or work on the Richmond-specific DT case related to this
23 domain perspective?
24 A Well, the analysts would've been -- if the analyst is working the DT threat, he 25 or she will know the DT cases. That's where she -- he or she is going to be reviewing.

1 Q So that individual may have not had responsibilities for the specific
2 Richmond case that's referred to in the domain perspective. Is that accurate?
3 A Could you repeat that?
4 Q So the authors of the domain perspective, did either of them have 5 responsibilities related to the ongoing Richmond DT case that was the subject of the
6 domain perspective?
7 A Well, the primary author as the DT analyst has to know the DT cases.
8 Q Okay. And other than the admonishments required by the inspection
9 division, are either intelligence analysts receiving any other disciplinary actions as a result 10 of this?
11 A No, not at this time, not to my knowledge.
12 Q Would you be responsible for kind of taking those disciplinary actions?
13 A If I was directed to do, I would be -- if I'm directed to do additional, but 14 they -- each one still has their own supervisors they report to.
15 Q So it could be their direct supervisor that would take disciplinary action?
16 A It could. Just in the standard performance they can take -- actually, I caveat
17 that. Disciplinary in the sense of you did -- I think we got to --
18 Q Yep.
19 A What do we mean by disciplinary? Because we've got to be -- 20 Q So the inspection division report talked about an admonishment during their 21 performance reviews, but also left it up to the human resources division if any other
22 disciplinary action would be taken. And we're just trying to understand if other 23 disciplinary action is going to be taken.
24 A No, I don't think that's correct. I think that the -- per the inspection results,
25 the directive is that the SAC would admonish the individuals involved and coordinate with

1 HRD, as appropriate, to ensure any future deficiencies aren't met. That would be in a
2 performance review. The performance -- annual performance review covers the whole
3 year. If an individual has a performance issue, we would work with the employee, give 4 the employee -- try to give the employee the tools to succeed, and then help the 5 employee improve. In that process, if that employee is having issues or concerns, we 6 would coordinate through our performance appraisal unit with additional things that may 7 need to take place to ensure that employee is improving or held accountable.
8 Q So as of right now, you're not aware of any other disciplinary action that will 9 be taken against the authoring IAs. Is that correct?
10 A I hesitate -- when I think of disciplinary, I'm thinking there's an inspection
11 report found no wrongful -- no malicious intent, no wrongful purpose, no official 12 misconduct, which I would say is disciplinary. But this -- from a performance standpoint, 13 the only thing I know that there is going to be additional discussion, as I have been 14 advised on what that would look like for these -- for all individuals involved --
15 Q Okay.
16 A -- because, remember, the performance period covers the year and not just 17 from a point in time.
18 Q And after the intelligence analysts have put together a draft, we have an 19 understanding from the inspection division report that it was then peer reviewed. Is 20 that your understanding as well?
21 A Yes, ma'am.
22 Q And do you know how many peer reviewers there were?
23 A Two.
24 Q And what were the titles of those peer reviewers?
25 A Intelligence analysts.

1 Q And how long has each of the peer reviewers worked at Richmond?

2 A I can't speak to Richmond, but I know one peer reviewer, I estimate 18 years.

3 The second peer reviewer maybe less than two.

1 [12:19 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And who was their direct supervisor?

4 A Well, an IA will report to a supervisory intelligence analyst.

5 Q And was this -- their direct supervisor, were they one of the SIAs that

6 approved this domain perspective?

7 A Not one of -- of the two, one does not.

8 Q Uh-huh.

9 A The second one -- I think I know, but I'm uncertain.

10 Q Okay.

11 A I don't want to misspeak.

12 Q And do these individuals still have responsibility for creating and/or 13 peer-reviewing intelligence products as of today?

14 A Yes, ma'am.

15 Q Did either of these individuals have responsibilities of knowing about the 16 Richmond DT case that's mentioned in the domain perspective?

17 A They wouldn't have -- I mean, they can know about it in the course of just

18 intelligence-sharing amongst the intelligence cadre. They do their own meetings. I

19 mean, they could've learned about it there. But I don't -- they're not primarily

20 assigned -- it's my understanding they're not primarily assigned to that threat-specific

21 group.

22 Q Uh-huh.

23 And turning to exhibit 2, which is the Inspection Division's report, on page 7,

24 looking at the second paragraph on that page, it states of the first peer review that they

25 "edited the DP for mechanical and structural edits to ensure the DP conformed to the

1 Style Guide for FBI Analytic Intelligence Products. Although trained as an Analytic
2 Tradecraft Reviewer, the peer reviewer stated she did not conduct a tradecraft review or 3 edit for substance because the DP was not an external product."
4 Does that seem troublesome to you, that she was trained to edit for tradecraft but 5 did not in this case?
6 A On this one, I'm going to have to defer to the inspection results. I think this 7 is challenging because I don't know the conversations between the inspectors and the 8 analysts.
9 Q Uh-huh.
10 A And I think that, for me, now that we know that there are formalized
11 peer- -- that a formalized peer-review process is something that some offices do, and now
12 we know we have that in place. That's, again, not a policy, not something that's given
13 by the DI to do, but we did it, we're doing it. Now we know there's going to be no 14 question who is supposed to be reviewing a product for analytical tradecraft.
15 I think specific to this, though, I would have to defer back to the Inspection
16 Division and that conversation. I think there may be some disagreement on who 17 reviewed it for tradecraft and who didn't.
18 Q And you described this as "challenging." What's challenging about this 19 portion of the Inspection Division's report?
20 A Well, the comment I just made, I think that in my conversations -- because I 21 talk with the team about tradecraft and this continued thing of tradecraft -- is the 22 question of whether or not -- you know, were they -- did they have tradecraft 23 going -- were they looking for it in the back of their mind while they were reading the 24 product or not.
25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A I think that's something, again, I'd have to go back to the inspectors and the 2 actual individuals involved as to what they were --
3 Q But shouldn't someone who had been trained to conduct these sorts of 4 reviews been thinking about tradecraft when they're looking at this?
5 A Well, one thing I think, especially for me, that's been a benefit is, now that, I
6 mean, I know what, again, the ICD 203 directive is regarding analytical standards, I think
7 that, you know, inspection found that there was analytical tradecraft issues. Yes, it's 8 concerning, and it's a good reminder for us that, one, everybody needs to understand 9 what analytical tradecraft standards -- you know, what they are, and the importance of,
10 whoever is reviewing the product, you've got to know what --
11 Q Uh-huh.
12 A -- you've got to be reviewing for that.
13 Q And in that next paragraph -- this is talking about the second peer 14 reviewer -- the final sentence says, "IA [redacted] did not have any major issues with the 15 substance, but suggested some items for clarification."
16 Do you have an understanding of what sort of clarification he sought?
17 A I do not.
18 Q And who would have more insight as to what clarification was sought?
19 A Well, the individual.
20 Q Was their review documented anywhere in the FBI systems?
21 A I don't know.
22 Q Have you personally seen or reviewed the edits that these individuals made
23 to the document?
24 A No.
25 Q Next, after the peer-reviewing process, the intelligence analyst sought legal

1 review by the chief division counsel. Does that match your recollection?

2 A According to the report, yes.

3 Q And according to page 7 -- we're looking at the last paragraph now on that

4 page -- it said, "The CDC advised he had never reviewed a DP before."

5 How long had the CDC been working at the FBI Richmond at this juncture?

6 A He's probably been there 15 years, maybe.

7 Q And are you surprised that he had never reviewed a DP before?

8 A I'm actually not, because I don't -- I don't know that I've ever seen one. So

9 I'm not --

10 Chairman Jordan. Is it a new thing?

11 Mr. Meador. No. I couldn't answer that, because the product lines have -- I

12 mean, different products have -- in their product line, they have 30, 40, 50 different

13 things they can do. I don't know when certain ones would've come on -- you know,

14 "Hey, here's a new way they're doing something." And if I went back 20 years, I could

15 see something was done this way but now it's different. But I don't know how that 16 would've been.

17 But, again, it's not -- to me, that's not surprising, especially in a small field office.

18 In a large field office, it may be a different story. But in a small field office, fewer 19 people, you're going to get fewer -- fewer production.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q And who is the CDC's direct supervisor?

22 A That would be me.

23 Q That would be you?

24 A Uh-huh.

25 Q Does the CDC still have responsibility over reviewing intelligence products,

1 including DPs?

2 A Yes, ma'am.

3 Q And do you know if, during his review, he reached out to any other CDCs

4 who had reviewed DPs prior --

5 A I do not know.

6 Q -- in your tenure?

7 A I do not know.

8 Q You don't know?

9 The next sentence of the report states that "he advised the products should

10 include a First Amendment legal caveat, but otherwise concurred as long as the product

11 remained an internal product."

12 Can you help us understand what the difference at Richmond is between an

13 internal and an external intelligence product?

14 A Well, I think, in general -- and I can't speak to his, you know, comment there.

15 I couldn't speak to that. In general, for an external -- and this is Bureau-wide -- for an

16 external product, all external products go through headquarters and are actually scored,

17 reviewed. And if there's an issue with them, they're pushed back down, and of course

18 the analysts can make edits. And the internal products are not.

19 So I don't know. I mean, that's something I know just in a general sense, but I

20 don't know -- I could not provide additional explanation as to what he would've thought.

21 Well, if it's going external, what would it change? I'm not sure, from a legal review.

22 Q And so, as far as the domain perspective being an internal product, so it was 23 just meant for the Richmond Field Office? Was it meant for FBI-wide?

24 A Well, it could be -- it could be both. It could be to inform me or

25 management in the Richmond Field Office, but it also could be to inform the other

1 intelligence analysts across the country.

2 Q So do you know, if the document was going to be external, does that mean

3 that there's -- obviously, there's a headquarters review, but would it undergo a more

4 strenuous review at Richmond, or is the review process the same at Richmond?

5 A Well, I think that -- well, I just think the external process just has 6 headquarters' input and review and oversight before the document is released to the

7 public.

8 And I think that, again, if we go back to the inspection report -- and the huge

9 takeaway here is that, moving forward -- and I'm confident, in Richmond, we understand

10 the full aspect of this -- is that it doesn't matter if it's internal or external, we've got to

11 look at every product and just anticipate and expect -- you know, look at it through the 12 eyes of, if this were to go external, what it would look like.

13 Q Uh-huh.

14 And then the next sentence states, "In his legal analysis of the DP, the CDC did not

15 review the terminology and deferred to the SIAs to use accurate terminology for their

16 program. He also deferred to their expertise on any definitions."

17 Have you had conversations with the CDC about his legal review process following

18 the domain perspective?

19 A I have.

20 Q Do you know if he's changed his review process so he isn't so deferential to 21 the SIAs?

22 A I think, again, this is a challenging area, because I think the question is,

23 should CDCs be reviewing documents for analytical tradecraft?

24 Q Uh-huh.

25 A Is that their responsibility? I think that's a separate question. I'm not a

1 lawyer. I'm not in that space. I don't know.

2 Q Have you had any conversations with the CDC about his legal review of this

3 domain perspective?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And what was the content of those discussions?

6 A One, again, it was formed on the basis of criminal activity. He has to add

7 the caveat -- again, he reviewed it -- that, you know, I think, looking back on it, hindsight,

8 you know, the more sensitivity being placed on just the terms and things that were used.

9 Q Uh-huh.

10 A More care and caution.

11 Q And had you had any previous concerns about the CDC's performance

12 overall?

13 A No.

14 Q And turning to your review and feedback of the domain perspective, when 15 did your role in reviewing the memo begin?

16 A That would've been -- the document was approved, published about a week

17 after.

18 Q About a week after?

19 A Uh-huh.

20 Q So would that have been around, like, January 26th?

21 A No. It would've been the -- February -- it would've been sometime in the 22 next week, because I think it was the next week -- end of the next week.

23 Q That you --

24 A I looked at it.

25 Q -- looked at the document for the first time?

1 A Uh-huh. Uh-huh.

2 Q Okay. And was that the -- when it was posted, was that the first time you

3 had learned of the existence of this specific domain perspective?

4 A Uh-huh. Yes.

5 Q At what point did you read the domain perspective in its entirety? Do you

6 remember the day?

7 A I may have -- no, I did not.

8 Q Okay.

9 A I don't remember the day.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A I remember pulling it up and skimming some and then on to other things.

12 And I remember, maybe the next day, I maybe skimmed, looked through some more.

13 But I don't remember specific.

14 Q Do you remember providing feedback on the domain perspective?

15 A I do.

16 Q On February 3rd?

17 A Yes, ma'am.

18 Q Okay. So I'll enter as exhibit No. 4 -- it's your feedback post on the 19 feedback loop from February 3, 2023.

20 [Meador Exhibit No. 4

21 Was marked for identification.]

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Do you remember providing this feedback?

24 A Yes, ma'am.

25 Q And I'm sorry, the version that we have, the L's are missing, but -- so I'm just

1 going to read it aloud.

2 A Yeah.

3 Q It say, "Appreciate this perspective, especially after what was gleaned from

4 the [redacted] investigation. I plan to engage in additional conversation regarding

5 engagement at the Diocese of Richmond. I think there is an opportunity here to 6 consider putting several folks in a room (from different locations) to have the

7 conversation."

8 What did you mean by "appreciate this perspective"?

9 A Well, this comes from -- in Richmond, we have something that's been 10 identified as a best practice; it's called the feedback loop.

11 Q Uh-huh.

12 A And that is -- you know, one of the important things in the FBI is to have 13 executive management engagement with the intelligence program.

14 Q Uh-huh.

15 A And so what they developed -- and this was before my time -- they

16 developed this feedback loop. And once a document has been approved and published,

17 the supervisors will send a -- SIA will send an email to supervisors and command staff

18 letting us know a new product has been posted in the feedback loop, if we're interested

19 in going to look.

20 For me, what's important is that periodically I go in there so that my intelligence

21 team knows that I pay attention and I care about their work, I appreciate their

22 perspective.

23 Q Uh-huh.

24 A And that's what that comment -- I appreciated them -- appreciate their

25 work.

1 Q And prior to the Inspection Division's review and the completion of their
2 report, you were not in the approval or reviewer process for this domain perspective. Is
3 that correct?
4 A No.
5 Q But now with the changes, you would be in the approval process? Is that
6 how you understand it?
7 A No. For our peer-review process?
8 Q For a domain perspective of this kind which would be classified as a --
9 A Oh.
10 Q -- sensitive investigative matter.
11 A Pursuant to the inspection's findings, if an intelligence product is designated 12 a sensitive investigative matter, it would require SAC and FBI headquarters senior 13 executive approval before it -- before approval, for final approval.
14 Q And what's your understanding of what that review and approval would look 15 like on your end?
16 A Well, in the FBI, in a sensitive investigative matter, that is any investigative 17 matter that involves a public official, political candidate, member of the media, member 18 of academia, religious organization, people that hold prominent positions within any of 19 those groups.
20 Q Uh-huh.
21 A And I also believe, in the DIOG, that it also says "and anything that should 22 have FBI/DOJ oversight."
23 Q Uh-huh.
24 A So those are SIMs for our investigative matters, which requires SAC approval 25 for those.

1 Now, on the intelligence side, if an intelligence product is designated a SIM, the
2 same requirements apply. I will now -- you know, which will -- it is going to be -- be up
3 to the Bureau.
4 Q And when you said "after what was gleaned from the [blank] investigation,"
5 is that in reference to the Richmond DT case that we've been speaking about here?
6 A Yes, ma'am.
7 Q When you say that "I plan to engage in additional conversation regarding 8 engagement at the Diocese of Richmond," what did you mean by "additional 9 conversation"? Were those internal to the FBI or external-facing?
10 A My goal was to put our folks around the table and talk about this and what 11 that outreach would look like.
12 Q Talk about the domain perspective; is that correct?
13 A Uh-huh, everything, and what it would look like, outreach to the -- because 14 this is an example of intel informing operations. It's informing management of things
15 management can do in our role. So, again, I'm going to sit with them and say, okay, tell
16 me what you're asking me to do here, and let me make sure I understand what we're 17 doing.
18 Q And who would've been involved in those conversations on the Richmond
19 FBI side of things?
20 A Well, that would be something that I would've just asked for, as I did there.
21 So it could've been intelligence analysts, could've been the SIAs, IPC. I just never got to 22 that. I don't even know that I even -- we didn't even get to that point, because it was 23 leaked.
24 Q Uh-huh.
25 And when it said, "I think there is an opportunity here to consider putting several

1 folks in a room (from different locations) to have this conversation," what different
2 locations were you referring to?
3 A I don't recall at the time. It could've been -- I don't recall at the time.
4 Q And was this --
5 A Headquarters? I don't know.
6 Q And was this the same conversations that you were referring to in the 7 sentence before that, or were there going to be two different sets of conversations?
8 A No. Same conversation.
9 Q Did you provide any additional feedback on the domain perspective --
10 A No.
11 Q -- besides this?
12 A No.
13 Q Did you provide any substantive edits?
14 A No.
15 Q Did your views on the domain perspective ever change?
16 A Well, I think that in -- you know, I would defer back to Inspection's findings
17 and the substance of what Inspection found after the DI and CTD's review.
18 Q Uh-huh.
19 A And, I mean, I've learned a lot just as the SAC in this process, so -- from 20 having clearly defined roles in your intelligence -- which is, again, not a policy or directive
21 we had. We had some offices doing it somewhere. So I now have an understanding of 22 having those roles identified. I also have a clear understanding of who's responsible for 23 what.
24 Q Uh-huh.
25 A Analytical tradecraft standards should be a priority, as with any -- as with the

1 external products. We've got to put focus on both products, whether it's internal or 2 external.
3 I think that, you know, when I look back at it, you know, when I see -- there's no
4 malicious intent, no wrongful purpose. Based on criminal activity, you know, an analyst
5 trying to connect the dots and request, recommend outreach.
6 I think when you look at the substance of the additional stuff that was put in 7 there, I think, you know, a lot of it, especially based on, kind of, CTD's review, needed
8 more information. If we say certain things and you assert certain things, you've got to 9 put more information as to why you put it, or maybe less information. I think there was 10 one comment that I wrote that the DP wouldn't have suffered any contextual loss if it
11 didn't have this additional information. So --
12 Q And turning back to the substance of the domain perspective, on page 2 of 13 the domain perspective, underneath the bold title that reads "Increasingly Observed
14 Interest of RMVEs in RTC Ideology Almost Certainly Presents New Opportunities for 15 Threat Mitigation," that first sentence states, "FBI Richmond assesses the increasingly 16 observed interest of RMVEs in RTC ideology almost certainly presents new opportunities
17 for threat mitigation through the exploration of new avenues for tripwire and source
18 development."
19 Can you explain what was meant by "new avenues for tripwire and source
20 development"?
21 A Well, I think, in any threat, that's, you know -- we are always looking to, you
22 know, establish tripwires. And source development is something that is a technique we 23 can use in our operations. So, regardless of the threat, that's something that we do in 24 just normal course of business.
25 Q And in regards to this domain perspective, what would source development

1 have looked like here?

2 A Well, source development would be towards predicating full investigative

3 subjects conducting criminal activity. Individuals that would have information

4 pertaining to those people or to those particular subjects or are in a position to engage

5 with those subjects.

6 Q And was there any sort of plan about how to develop these sources or reach

7 out to these individuals?

8 A Well, I think that's -- standard FBI practice is source development and 9 tripwires.

10 Q What did it look like, in your mind, for this domain perspective, the source

11 development piece?

12 A Well, to me, again, regardless of the threat, that's common-speak for a

13 threat. If you have criminal activity, if you've got sources involved in criminal activity,

14 sources is in your toolbox to help mitigate that threat.

15 Q And would the outreach to the parishes and the Catholic places of worship

16 that were listed in this domain perspective, would that have informed the source

17 development?

18 A Well, I think the outreach would have sensitized leadership to the threat of 19 what we're seeing, and especially if it's in our backyard. One, it would've sensitized

20 them to that. And it would also have given them a resource for knowing who we are, in

21 addition to educating them and informing them, having a point of contact for them to call

22 us for assistance if they needed that.

23 Q And I think you discussed this with my colleagues last hour. Can you

24 describe what you meant by "sensitize the parishes"?

25 A Sure. So, as an example, if we see a new particular cyber variant -- and I'm

1 going to give you just as an example a cyber variant -- that we're seeing, if we go to a
2 private-sector company and we sensitize that company to the trends of what we're
3 seeing related to that variant, that would be: "Hey, this is informing you this is what
4 we're seeing. These are some of the indicators of compromise. These are things you 5 need to be aware of."
6 It would be the same here. If we go to a particular house of worship to sensitize
7 them to a particular threat, we'd be informing them and educating them on what we're 8 seeing.
9 Q And so, looking at the first bullet point here, it says that the Richmond
10 subject, prior to his arrest, had been attending the Society of Saint Pius X-affiliated parish.
11 Did you have an understanding of what "SSPX" was prior to this domain
12 perspective?
13 A No.
14 Q Do you have an understanding of what the Society of Saint Pius X is?
15 A Yes. Broadly, yes.
16 Q Can you give me your broad description of what SSPX is?
17 A There are Catholic churches that fall under the Vatican, where the Vatican
18 has authority over those churches, and there are Catholic churches that do not.
19 Q And why were the SSPX parishes of concern in this domain perspective?
20 A I think based on the criminal activity that was identified in pages 2 and 3. I
21 think the analysts pulled that information from across the country from predicated cases
22 that -- similar information.
23 Q Similar information as to the RMVE status of the subject or of the SSPX place
24 of worship?
25 A Both. These are fully -- these are predicated subjects across the country,

1 and there's an affiliation there.

2 Q Affiliation with the --

3 A SSPX.

4 Q -- SSPX? Okay.

5 And was it your understanding that, at the time of this domain perspective -- on

6 the second page here, it talks about his 2022 arrest. Was the individual in custody at 7 the time this domain perspective was authored?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay.

10 Looking at the second bullet, it states, "According to an FBI Portland liaison

11 contact with indirect access, as of September 2021, deceased RMVE subject Robert

12 Reynolds had previously posted online that he first sought out a mainline Roman Catholic

13 community that practiced the Novus Ordo liturgy and then gravitated to the SSPX."

14 Is it your understanding that this example of the case from Portland involves a 15 subject who was deceased at the time of the domain perspective?

16 A Based on what's in the -- based on what's in the report, yes.

17 Q And do you have any understanding of why it was important to include that

18 he sought out a mainline Roman Catholic community? Do you know what they meant

19 by "mainline Roman Catholic community"?

20 A I do not.

21 Q Okay.

22 Looking at the third bullet point example, it mentions an FBI undercover employee

23 with direct access and an RMVE subject who attended the SSPX.

24 Is it your understanding that this specific bullet deals with the Milwaukee case

25 that's referenced in the INSD report?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And did you have an understanding of whether this investigation at FBI

3 Milwaukee was open or closed at the time the domain perspective was drafted?

4 A I don't know.

5 Q And can you describe the correspondence that took place between

6 Richmond and the Milwaukee Field Office and the Portland Field Office on the domain

7 perspective?

8 A I think, one, I'd have to defer to the inspection timeline -- or -- I believe it's in

9 the inspection timeline. But I do know, in general, that an intelligence analyst, if they

10 see information that they want to use, that they would like to use in a product, they

11 cannot just use that information; they have to have coordination with that intel team

12 from that particular field office, because we don't own other divisions' cases. So the 13 analyst would've had to have sought approval to use anything from their investigation.

14 Q So would there have been discussions prior to, you know, what was

15 mentioned in the Inspection Division's report of sending the specific bullet point that

16 pertained to the Milwaukee investigation with the Milwaukee Field Office?

17 A I think I would have to defer to Inspection's timeline on that.

18 Q So it says on page 6 of the report --

19 A Inspection --

20 Q Inspection Division, exhibit 2, sir.

21 A Okay.

22 Q On the bottom of the page, it states, "Accordingly, the authors coordinated

23 with the case managers of the [blank] investigation, as well as with agents and analysts in

24 Milwaukee and Portland, to verify the facts cited in the DP. The agents and analysts in

25 Milwaukee and Portland only reviewed the bullet points associated with their respective

1 investigation and did not review or contribute to the broader DP."

2 We're just trying to understand what that coordination looked like between the

3 field offices involved.

4 A Yes. I think that's -- I think that's the -- that's the summary. You know,

5 that's -- if the analyst wants to use information, they have to ask permission.

6 But it does not -- there is no -- you've got investigations, intel products. There is

7 no -- that's not -- there is no coordinated investigative --

8 Q Uh-huh.

9 A This is an intelligence product. In order for the analyst to use the 10 information, he or she has to have approval.

11 Q Do you have an understanding as to whether the subjects in the Milwaukee

12 and the Portland case referred to themselves as "radical traditionalist Catholics"?

13 A I do not.

14 Q Do you know if the term "RTC" came up in the investigations that took place

15 out of Portland and Milwaukee?

16 A I do not.

17 Q Did you review any of the three underlying investigations prior to providing

18 your feedback on February 3rd?

19 A I had information from the Richmond investigation, but not the other two 20 ones that are cited in the product.

21 Q On page 9 of the Inspection Division report, in the last paragraph there, it

22 states, "In the three FBI investigations cited in the DP, the authors mentioned interest in

23 religion alongside concerning rhetoric and illegal acts, but did not establish that interest

24 led subjects into the RMVE movement or had an impact on the acts for which they were

25 investigated or arrested."

1 Would knowing this information have affected any of the feedback you provided
2 on the domain perspective?
3 A Well, if I would've had CTD's expert analysis, of course.
4 Q And if you go to page 10 of the report, the middle of the second paragraph,
5 it states, "While there are instances in which the FBI may take appropriate cognizance of 6 the role religion may play in the motivation for criminal or terrorist acts, (i.e. when 7 subjects of investigation state their criminal or terrorist acts are based on religious
8 doctrine), such was not the case with the three subjects of the DP."
9 Would knowing this have affected the feedback you provided?
10 A It would have.
11 Q And how would it have affected the feedback you provided?
12 A Well, I think it would -- it would go -- well, I think it would just factor into my 13 feedback, that this is a question that needs to be answered or something that needs to be 14 addressed.
15 But if we -- if we had -- if the review process was like the external product review
16 process, we very well may have had this feedback.
17 Q Uh-huh.
18 A But you don't have that for the internal products.
19 Q Moving back to the domain perspective, exhibit No. 1, page 3, at the very 20 bottom, under the "Perspective" heading, it states that "the Southern Poverty Law Center
21 identified nine RTC hate groups operating in the United States." These nine alleged RTC
22 hate groups are listed in Appendix D of the memorandum.
23 Do you view the Southern Poverty Law Center as an unbiased and nonpartisan 24 source that should be cited in FBI products?
25 A Can I have a moment?

1 Q Absolutely.

2 We're off the record.

3 [Discussion off the record.]

4 [redacted] We're back on the record.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q I'll re-ask the question.

7 A Sure.

8 Q Do you view the Southern Poverty Law Center as an unbiased and 9 nonpartisan source that should be used in citations in FBI products?

10 A Firstly, I did not know what the SPLC was.

11 Q Okay.

12 A Now knowing what I know and following Inspection's findings and the DI and

13 CTD on the appropriate use of caveats with the organizations that potentially have bias,

14 there would be an importance to note that.

15 Q Are you aware that the SPLC has issued apologies in the past for its labels

16 and characterizations that it has used?

17 A No. No, I don't have specificity of that.

18 Q On page 7 of the INSD's report, exhibit 2 again, sir --

19 A On the Inspection --

20 Q Yes. Page 7.

21 At the top of the page, it states, "IA [redacted] acknowledged that SPLC was

22 known to have a political bias," but "did not provide any details about potential bias or 23 the credibility of sources" and ended up citing to the SPLC.

24 Were you aware that the IA acknowledged that SPLC was politically biased?

25 A No, not -- no.

1 Q Does it concern you that an intelligence analyst at your field office would
2 know that a source was politically biased and still use that information to cite factual
3 information in an intelligence product?
4 A Well, I think, here, something that may be lost in the explanation is that I
5 believe, in analyst-speak, that the SPLC was used to offer perspective, but wasn't officially 6 cited as a, quote/unquote, "source" in the document.
7 Q Uh-huh. Yeah. And I'll --
8 A If that makes sense.
9 Q Yeah. I'll direct you to page 11 of the domain perspective, and end-note
10 number nine cites to the Southern Poverty Law Center.
11 A Uh-huh.
12 Q Does it concern you that an intelligence analyst in your field office would 13 know that the SPLC was politically biased but use it as an end-note to cite to factual
14 information in the report?
15 A I couldn't speak -- because I'm not an analyst, I couldn't speak to -- I think,
16 going back to the inspection, I think it is important to note that if there are -- as we've 17 learned, if those organizations are used, then you need to specifically cite that 18 information, that potentially biased information, in the product so the consumer is able 19 to see that.
20 Q Uh-huh.
21 A The concern of does it concern me, I think that -- well, I want the feedback
22 from CTD and the DI to tell us how to do the job better. So, as we're learning all the 23 different things that we need to do better, that's one of the things we need to focus on.
24 But I don't know, because I had so many -- there were so many approvers and 25 reviewers -- the need -- if that would've been a requirement to do in the product. I

1 don't know that.

2 Q Do you think, going forward, with the procedures and new policies that are

3 being put in place as a result of this domain perspective, do you think that that political

4 bias should've been noted in the domain perspective?

5 A Well, I think going forward, I think that that is the -- now that we have the

6 official report, we see that the importance of ensuring that caveat -- in accordance with

7 ICD 203, that the appropriate caveats are placed on source citings -- or, if you're going to 8 use a source, that if you have that information, you need to put it in the product.

9 Q And at the time that the domain perspective was authored, were you aware

10 of any sort of FBI policies regarding third-party sources?

11 A No.

12 Q If you go on to the fourth page of the domain perspective, the first sentence

13 states, "Open source reporting and FBI investigations have noted a growing overlap

14 between the far-right white nationalist movement and RTCs."

15 What evidence of the overlap between White nationalists and RTCs did the 16 Richmond Field Office observe prior to the domain perspective being authored?

17 A I couldn't answer that.

18 Q Who would be able to answer that question?

19 A That would be the individuals who wrote the product.

20 Q During the briefing on the Inspection Division that the committee received

21 on Tuesday, there was discussion of the July 2021 Consolidated Strategy Guide. Do you

22 have awareness of the Consolidated Strategy Guide, also abbreviated as "CSG"?

23 A I do.

24 Q And, according to CTD, the terms that were used for far-right and RTC wasn't 25 the correct usage according to the CSG. Do you agree with that?

1 A Again, there, I'm not an expert in that particular area, so I would have to 2 defer to CTD and the DI for their input as to what falls in line with that.
3 Q And has the Richmond Field Office received any additional training from CTD
4 on the CSG?
5 A We've done the -- we had our first training. I had OGC, DI, CTD. And then 6 we have a report analytical training that we were supposed to have this month but 7 unfortunately I had to reschedule. But I don't know any -- I'm not -- anything specific to 8 CSG, I'm not aware of.
9 Some of the team members did go to CTD early on for a discussion, but I don't 10 know if that involved anything related to the CSG. And of note, we didn't have this 11 report until fairly recent.
12 Q Uh-huh.
13 In that same paragraph, a couple sentences down, it states, "The ongoing
14 convergence of the far-right white nationalist movement and RTCs was further 15 demonstrated through the increase in hostility toward abortion-rights advocates on social 16 media sites in the run-up to and aftermath of the Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health
17 Organization decision that overturned Roe v. Wade."
18 Do you know why abortion rights was specifically mentioned in this
19 memorandum?
20 A Now, I think, again -- and I can't provide much clarity here, but -- that the 21 discussion of topics, like, those polarizing topics, and their relation to how the analyst is 22 explaining what RTCs were and were not, I think that's maybe where it comes from. But 23 I couldn't offer any more.
24 Q In relation to the domain perspective's mention of the hostility toward 25 abortion-rights advocates, was there similar concern at the FBI Richmond Field Office

1 regarding the over 100 churches and pregnancy resource centers and pro-life facilities
2 that were attacked following the leak and then eventual decision in the Dobbs case?
3 A What's the question?
4 Q Was there similar concern about pro-life facilities that were being attacked
5 after the Dobbs decision?
6 A There would be concerns if we had Federal criminal violations to investigate,
7 but I'm not aware of any -- anything.
8 Q And to the extent that pregnancy resource centers are attacked and fall
9 under the purview of the Freedom of Access to Clinic Entrances, would that fall under the 10 purview of the FBI?
11 A Uh-huh. FACE Act.
12 Q And was there similar concern about attacks on pregnancy resource centers
13 that would fall under the FACE Act at the Richmond Field Office?
14 A Well, I think, broadly, that that would be our purview and would be of 15 concern. If it was occurring, it would be a concern.
16 Q Was there any sort of intelligence products from the Richmond Field Office
17 regarding attacks on pro-life facilities?
18 A I'm not aware of any.
19 Q When you look at the "Outlook" section, we've talked about that the 20 "catalyzing events in which RMVEs and RTC adherents might have common cause include
21 legislation or judicial decisions in areas such as abortion rights, immigration, affirmative
22 action, and LGBTQ protections."
23 Was there specific legislation or judicial decisions that the FBI was concerned
24 about?
25 A No, not that I'm aware of.

1 Q When you look at the last sentence on page 4, it says, "Nonetheless, the 2 current trend of RMVE interest in RTC ideology provides new opportunities to mitigate 3 the RMVE threat through outreach to traditionalist Catholic parishes and the 4 development of sources with the placement and access to report on RMVEs seeking to 5 use RTC social media sites or places of worship as facilitation platforms to promote
6 violence."
7 What was the sort of "placement and access to report on RMVEs" that the 8 Richmond Field Office was seeking here?
9 A Well, in our full predicated investigation, we would target the subject
10 wherever the subject is, if we were able to gain access to the subject. So, regardless of 11 the particular threat, you know, we have a responsibility, with full investigations, to try 12 and collect evidence against that subject.
13 So, if we were looking to continue the investigation, then source development 14 would be one of the techniques we could use to try and get more information on the 15 subject that's committing violent criminal activity.
16 Q And when you're talking about an RMVE subject going, you know, wherever 17 they go, does that include their place of worship?
18 A Yeah, oftentimes -- and we've known this. You know, we do know that 19 people seek justification for violence in religion. And we also know that there are 20 limited windows, oftentimes, when subjects may leave a particular location, and they 21 may go to a religious entity as their only outlet. So --
22 Chairman Jordan. But, in this case, the subject's in custody. So was there 23 another subject you were looking to develop sources on?
24 Mr. Meador. Well --
25 Chairman Jordan. I mean, it's a long, complicated sentence, but if you break it

1 down, it's pretty simple: "outreach to traditional Catholic parishes," "development of
2 sources with the placement and access to report on," "places of worship."
3 So the guy you've been after, the predicating thing, is in custody. He's been 4 arrested; he's in custody. And this comes out after and says, we're looking to develop 5 sources and put those sources in places of worship.
6 Mr. Meador. No, I think that what the domain perspective is saying is that we 7 are educating and sensitizing locations on the RMVE threat. If they see any signs of 8 indicators of violence that we've educated them on, then obviously that is something that 9 we're encouraging them to report to us.
10 However, if we are -- and if that is fruitful and there's an additional person
11 identified, then, obviously, that would be -- we would, in a fully predicated investigation, 12 target that subject.
13 Chairman Jordan. Well, that's fine, but that's not what it says. "Development 14 of sources with the placement and access to report on...places of worship."
15 Mr. Meador. So that would be -- you know, again, a source could be anywhere
16 reporting on a subject, could be in any location.
17 Chairman Jordan. Fine, but that's not what it says. "Sources with the 18 placement and access to report on...places of worship."
19 Mr. Meador. Well, that's -- but, according to the domain perspective, that is 20 the -- if the domain perspective is showing that fully predicated subjects who have this 21 affiliation are conducting criminal activity and we are actively investigating RMVEs that 22 are affiliated, then we have an obligation to use source development in those locations to 23 target that subject regardless of where they're at.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q As far as when the domain perspective was approved and ready for

1 publication, if you will, do you know where it was placed on the FBI systems?
2 A When the removal occurred is where I learned that.
3 Q Okay. Go ahead and discuss that with us.
4 A It went -- one, we had the SharePoint site, which we talked about earlier.
5 SENTINEL, our official recordkeeping. And then the DI, I believe, has a portal. And 6 then the FIG. I think the SharePoint site is the same as the FIG portal, the Field
7 Intelligence Group portal.
8 Q And did you ever receive direction from anyone regarding the domain
9 perspective and its removal from FBI systems?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And who did you receive that direction from?
12 A The Deputy Director.
13 Q How many conversations did you have with the Deputy Director regarding 14 the domain perspective?
15 A To date?
16 Q To date.
17 A Maybe five? Four or five, approximately, specific to the perspective.
18 Q And was the decision to pull the domain perspective off FBI systems made 19 before or after the public reporting on its existence?
20 A It was made after. It was the following day. And there were two -- yeah,
21 the following day.
22 Q Uh-huh. So, according to the Inspection Division's report, it was uploaded
23 to SENTINEL on January 24th. Then it was uploaded to the SharePoint on January 26th.
24 You commented on February 3rd. Does that match your recollection?
25 A Yes, ma'am.

1 Q On February 8th, the media began reporting on the existence of the domain
2 perspective. And that same day, the Deputy Director advised you to remove the DP
3 from all FBI systems. Is that correct?
4 A The Deputy Director said pull it down.
5 And then I received a followup call from the AD of the Directorate of Intelligence
6 indicating that the Deputy had communicated the same that morning and that I needed
7 to notify them when I had taken the necessary steps. And I said, I will do that, and I will 8 also send you an email to tell you what we've done.
9 Q So what did you take the Deputy Director's directive of "pull it down" to 10 mean?
11 A To remove it from wherever the document was posted.
12 Q And in doing --
13 A That Richmond has control over, that we have control over.
14 Q And in doing so, the SharePoint folder was deleted. Is that correct?
15 A It's however they -- the team did that is there.
16 Q And what team was in charge of doing that?
17 A I put folks around the table, and we went through, kind of, locations of 18 where it was at. We had the discussion on the SharePoint site, like, how do we deal
19 with the SharePoint site? And then the SENTINEL discussion, and then the DI portal
20 discussion.
21 Q And prior to February 8th, when the existence of the domain perspective hit
22 the news, had anyone raised concerns to you about the propriety of the domain
23 perspective?
24 A "Propriety" meaning what?
25 Q Whether or not it held up to the exacting standards of the FBI?

1 A No.

2 Q Had you had any discussions with anyone at headquarters prior to February

3 8th about the domain perspective?

4 A No.

5 Q Do you know, if the domain perspective had not been, you know, made

6 public, would it still be in FBI systems?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Would outreach have been conducted based upon the domain perspective?

9 A I would've -- I would've prioritized and had the discussion. Quite likely, I

10 would've reached out to the diocese.

11 Q Okay.

12 We'll go off the record.

13 [Recess.]

14 [redacted] Back on the record, please.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Okay. Good afternoon again.

17 A Good afternoon.

18 Q I just want to return to exhibit 1, page 4 and 5. This is the domain

19 perspective again.

20 And you were asked some questions by Chairman Jordan about one particular

21 sentence in there in the "Outlook" section. And, if you recall, this set of questions

22 were -- you kind of went back and forth on development of sources, as that statement

23 says.

24 So I just want to direct your attention to that so you can remind yourself. Would

25 you mind just reading, first of all -- this is the last full sentence in the last paragraph on

1 page 4. It starts with the word "nonetheless."

2 A Uh-huh.

3 Q Would you read that sentence to yourself and let me know when you've had

4 a chance to read the whole thing? It continues on the next page.

5 A Okay.

6 Q Okay. So I'm going to read it. This is, again, in the section entitled

7 "Outlook" in the domain perspective.

8 The full sentence reads, "Nonetheless, the current trend of RMVE interest in RTC

9 ideology provides new opportunities to mitigate the RMVE threat through outreach to

10 traditionalist Catholic parishes and the development of sources with the placement and

11 access to report on RMVEs seeking to use RTC social media sites or places of worship as 12 facilitation platforms to promote violence," end quote.

13 Did I read that correctly?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 So the question that Chairman Jordan had asked you from that sentence sort of 17 shortened the sentence and basically focused on the part that says: opportunities to 18 develop sources with the placement to access places of worship.

19 But it leaves out a lot, doesn't it? Because what the sentence actually says with 20 regard to development of sources is that you're talking about sources to report on 21 RMVEs, correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q And those are fully predicated criminal subjects, correct?

24 A Yes. Yes.

25 Q Not churchgoers --

1 A No.
2 Q -- correct?
3 A Correct.
4 Q Can you explain the importance of including that part of the sentence in 5 order to understand its full meaning?
6 A Yeah, I think what's important in this context is, in investigations, if we have
7 a fully predicated subject that we're investigating, we have in the toolbox an opportunity
8 through source development to try and place sources close to the individual or obtain 9 sources who are close to the individual, regardless of where they're at.
10 And in this particular instance, again, it speaks to having a fully -- if we have a 11 racially motivated violent extremist that we know about in a certain location, an 12 investigative step for us to take would be to develop a source to get close to that 13 individual, which very well could be in a house of worship.
14 Q Okay. And, in this case, the Richmond office did have a fully predicated 15 domestic terror subject who was affiliated with this particular -- or one particular house
16 of worship, correct?
17 A Yes.
18 Q But, beyond that, even though he was incarcerated at the time, the domain
19 perspective is foreseeing that there may be others in the future who are fully predicated
20 criminal subjects who might be associated with a variety of places of worship, correct?
21 A Correct. And, specifically, why the domain perspective is predominantly 22 outreach-based, it is to initiate those relationships, so that when they are sensitized to 23 what a racially motivated violent extremist is, warning signs of different things they 24 demonstrate, and in the event they see something, they can say something.
25 And, then, if a racially motivated violent extremist is identified, the investigative

1 step that we would take in a fully predicated investigation would be to develop -- could
2 be to develop a source targeting that individual or a source who has information to report
3 on the activities of that fully predicated subject.
4 Q Okay. And what's contemplated in that scenario, like, potentially 5 developing sources in the future who could report on another fully predicated criminal 6 subject, that is something that is hypothetical at this point, correct?
7 A Correct. Correct.
8 Q It's not talking about putting people in a church in order to spy on them,
9 correct?
10 A Correct.
11 Q And can you explain the difference between the sort of suggestion there 12 that you're placing people and what you're actually trying to do?
13 A Yes. We have very strict protocols that we follow internally. We do not 14 violate First Amendment rights. We don't do that. We work within the confines of the 15 Constitution and what our policies and procedures allow.
16 And in the event that we were going to -- let's say we had an RMVE subject
17 identified that was in a religious organization. We have a very specific additional 18 approval process that we have to go through just to use a source with that individual.
19 You just cannot go out and recruit. We don't do that.
20 Q Was that policy, that extra protection, in place even before this domain
21 perspective was written --
22 A Yes.
23 Q -- and the Inspection Division report --
24 A And, again, the Bureau recognizes the sensitivities involved with 25 religious -- specific to religious organizations, so much that we have an additional

1 approval process for even doing that kind of activity towards predicated full subjects.

2 Q Okay.

3 [redacted] And, generally speaking, the fact that a subject is incarcerated does

4 not necessarily mean that there is not an ongoing FBI investigation.

5 Mr. Meador. Correct.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q In this case, the subject, even though he was incarcerated, there was -- and

8 indicted, there was still an investigation continuing?

9 [redacted] There could be.

10 Mr. Meador. Could be.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q Could be. Sorry. Okay.

13 One other question, too. There were a couple of times during this interview that 14 you've mentioned that the domain perspective itself was sort of a rare entity in the 15 Richmond office, correct?

16 A Yes, ma'am.

17 Q But there are lots of intelligence products that your intelligence analysts

18 would be producing that are not domain perspectives, correct?

19 A Correct.

20 Q Is it possible or fair to say that maybe one of the reasons that your very

21 experienced intel analysts and yourself had not either produced a domain perspective or

22 seen one, in your case, is because, at the Richmond office, you hadn't before had a

23 subject like the one that was the basis for this domain perspective, in terms of the threat

24 that he posed?

25 A I think that that's something I would have to defer to the intelligence cadre.

1 And when there are so many different products and so many different ways they can
2 communicate things, based on the substance of what specifically applies, I think it would
3 dictate how it should be presented.
4 I think, here, the analysts, again, looking at our specific case information and then
5 looking across the country and doing what analysts do, saw other fully predicated
6 investigations with similar information, I think they determined the domain perspective
7 was the appropriate way to communicate this information.
8 Q Okay. And, again, the domain perspective in this case was based on the 9 fully predicated criminal activity and not based on some other interest that the FBI had --
10 A Correct.
11 Q -- in churches?
12 A Correct.
13 Q Okay.
14 I'm going to defer to my colleague here with a few questions.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q I know that we've gone over this a few times, but when you first read the 17 domain perspective, what were your main understandings and takeaways?
18 A The focus on the predicated information of the subjects, the criminal 19 activity, and the severity of who it was, and that it asked for the recommended outreach.
20 I do recall, you know, seeing the sources -- placement of sources and thinking to 21 myself, eh, it didn't really need that, because that's common-speak for FBI agents. I 22 mean, we just know that's part of our job.
23 But, again, given the severity and, at that time, the briefings I had received and 24 the increased emphasis I specifically placed on this because of what I learned, I knew that 25 this was the right thing to do because the subject was in our AOR and, yes, we need to do

1 this outreach and make contact.

2 Q When you say "this was the right thing to do," you mean reaching out to the 3 community was the right thing to do?

4 A Yes. We just -- I mean, it's unfortunate we just couldn't get the

5 opportunity. And in my follow-on -- you know, in conducting that outreach and my

6 follow-on meetings, that is what I put forward, was that the whole purpose of this was for

7 me to come sit here and tell you what I'm telling you right now. I just didn't get the 8 opportunity.

1 [1:30 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q I want to look at the opportunity section of the domain perspective that

4 starts on page 5. You mentioned earlier, we've talked about just now, the main

5 takeaway from this was engaging in community outreach. Looking at the first

6 opportunities bullet, it talks about sensitizing congregations to warning signs of

7 radicalization and enlisting their assistance to serve as suspicious activity tripwires. Is 8 that consistent with your understanding?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And we talked a bit earlier about sensitizing congregations to the warning

11 signs of radicalization. Can you summarize quickly what that means?

12 A Yes. Anytime, you know, when we're going out and doing, whether it's a

13 training or an outreach event and we're speaking to specific topics, we're sensitizing the 14 audience to whatever the threat picture is. And back to the tripwire, it goes back to the 15 basic premise of see something, say something, and having folks know, be more informed

16 on a particular threat, and know that if they do see these things, that there is an avenue

17 to reach out and contact us and let us know. And also, you know, the reverse, if we

18 have additional information or questions or we see something, reaching back out to let 19 them know.

20 Q And earlier in the domain perspective there's a reference to both tripwires

21 and source development. In your understanding, those are separate things, correct?

22 A They are.

23 Q And what -- how does a tripwire differ from an FBI source?

24 A Well, a tripwire could be anyone that we just have regular or just have -- you

25 didn't have to have regular content, anyone we have contact with that -- just that we've

1 established contact with, and through the -- through the course of our business, whether
2 it's private sector outreach to the private sector entities, whether it's -- just general
3 outreach, could be basic contacts.
4 The source is a -- is our formalized process for individuals that have to adhere to a
5 completely separate policy guide on source operations and development that are -- that 6 are in a capacity to report on violations of criminal -- criminal laws.
7 Q Some have accused the FBI by hoping to enlist congregations assistance to 8 service tripwires the FBI is engaging in surveillance. Do you agree with that 9 characterization?
10 A I do not.
11 Q Why not?
12 A The FBI conducts our investigations -- or conducts our activities and 13 operations in fully predicated investigations. We do not go out without an authorized
14 purpose to do our job. So the indication that we would just arbitrarily go do things like 15 that is just borderline absurd. We don't do that. Our mission is to uphold the 16 Constitution, and we hold that near and dear to our mission -- to our heart, and so -- and 17 fall in accordance with -- with that.
18 Q And serving as a tripwire, like you said, is completely voluntary?
19 A [Nonverbal response.]
20 Q Could you answer for the record? Sorry.
21 A Yes.
22 Q And it's something -- it's similar to see something, say something education?
23 A It is. And what could happen is there are, you know, instances where a 24 tripwire based on the nature of the information may develop into a person who may have 25 additional information or access that could transition then to a potential source, but

1 that's --

2 Q That wasn't what was envisioned --

3 A No.

4 Q -- in this?

5 A No.

6 Q The next bullet point, the main bullet point, also talks about sensitizing the 7 congregation to warning signs of radicalization and enlisting their assistance to serve as

8 suspicious activity tripwires. Do you see that?

9 A Yes, ma'am.

10 Q And this is similar to the bullet point before about information sharing with 11 congregations. Is that fair to say?

12 A Yes.

13 Q The third bullet point at the top of the next page, at the end of it talks about

14 providing background information for Catholic parishes and assistance in sensitizing the 15 parishes to the warning signs of radicalization. Would you agree that this is similar to 16 the earlier two bullet points?

17 A Yeah. But what I would offer for this one is the benefit and the -- I would

18 say the commonsense approach from the analysts putting that is going to the diocese

19 because they are over their Catholic par- -- their churches under their purview would be

20 asking them, one, sensitizing them, showing them what we have, and then asking them

21 what do they recommend -- what could we do to help them in their congregation, like

22 if -- you know, as far as sensitizing and providing additional information, would it -- seek 23 their input and advice on what their recommendations are.

24 Q So not only giving information from the FBI side but asking how can the FBI

25 best support you?

1 A Yes.
2 Q Only the fourth bullet point references sources. Do you see that?
3 A Yes, ma'am.
4 Q So there's four major bullet points, three of them reference community
5 outreach. Is that fair to say?
6 A Yes.
7 Q So would you agree that generally the domain perspective is focused on 8 community outreach?
9 A Again, what I've -- I think I've alluded to earlier is that my takeaway from this 10 document, this was an outreach document, so, yes, the major -- nearly all of the bullets 11 are all outreach focused.
12 Q And then the last bullet point that talks about sources, it doesn't reference 13 any specific congregation or church, does it?
14 A No.
15 Q And that's because that's not what the interest of developing sources is?
16 A No.
17 Q The focus of that bullet point and the focus of developing sources is on the 18 racially motivated violent extremists?
19 A Yes, it's for subjects that do that.
20 Q And with the opportunities that you had read in this domain perspective,
21 your first reaction wasn't even going to be let me go call up the numbers that were listed
22 here, right?
23 A No.
24 Q Your first reaction was, let's have a meeting about it?
25 A Correct.

1 Q And you didn't even get to that point?

2 A No.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Just a couple of questions, again, based on the first hour. You were asked

5 about some of the reference in the domain perspective by the author to particular

6 political issues like the Dobbs decision and other things that were kind of being, I guess,

7 discussed. Do you recall those questions?

8 A I do.

9 Q And I think one of the questions that was asked was are you aware of any

10 domain perspective or intelligence product that was produced in reference to criminal

11 events on kind of the other side of the political spectrum, specifically, attacks on the 12 clinics where people kind of -- I forget what they're called -- pregnancy clinics that are 13 more conservative or religious. Do you recall that question?

14 A I do.

15 Q Okay. And I think that your answer was, well, if there was an act of 16 violence associated with that political view or religious view, then, yeah, the FBI might do

17 the same thing, might have a predicated subject and then they might further have intel

18 products like a domain perspective, correct?

19 A If there's a criminal Federal nexus, and the FACE Act would be one of those,

20 then there would be -- there could be an investigative avenue there. But on the 21 intelligence side, if the intelligence saw some similarities there on subjects that -- then

22 they could -- they could be in a position to report on that.

23 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that your main point was the intelligence

24 products are being driven by what criminal acts the FBI is seeing and not vice versa?

25 A I would say that it's -- yes, to a point. You have the criminal acts that are

1 being identified, but then the intelligence analysts' role is to look at consistencies,
2 because I'm not paying attention to what's going on in Portland, and I'm not paying
3 attention in Milwaukee. That's the analysts' role is to see those like-minded criminal 4 activities and any similarities that would help inform on the threat.
5 Q And so because you were sitting in Richmond and your analysts in this case
6 were sitting in Richmond, they were looking at criminal activity that was happening in 7 your area of operation, but then the intelligence analysts were trying to draw conclusions
8 that might have been nationwide that would inform the type of investigation that you
9 were working on?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay. And just in your experience more generally, what is your response to 12 any allegation that the analysts and the FBI agents that you've worked with in Richmond
13 are politically motivated in their work?
14 A I think it's -- I think it's absurd. I think it's an inaccurate representation 15 every time we hear that. I work with a dedicated group, an awesome team of 16 individuals who dedicate themselves to protecting the American people and upholding
17 the Constitution. They do it every day, and sometimes late at night and through the 18 weekends. And we are motivated based on those who seek to do harm to our people, 19 and that's what drives what we do. And we work our cases, we stay dedicated to the 20 mission, and we don't get caught up in the noise of everything that's external to affect 21 that, because we have a mission to keep people safe.
22 Q And based on the questions that you've heard today and your experience 23 with this domain perspective in particular, is there anything else that you want the 24 committee to know about your work or the work of the people who were involved in this 25 product?

1 A I think that when you -- I think one thing that's been lost -- that was lost
2 early on is that -- I think when you look at the domain perspective, the fact that it was
3 based on criminal activity, the fact that the inspection report found no malicious intent,
4 no wrongful purpose, you had individuals whose hearts and minds are in the right place
5 trying to do the right thing, and could the product have been better now that we have 6 this review and this amount of review that has been placed on the product, absolutely.
7 There's things we can improve on, and there's things that we have done to develop to be 8 better, which I think is great -- is good for the organization because it will help us do our 9 job better.
10 I do think that when we look at the people that were involved in this, again,
11 everyone's hearts were in the right place. I wouldn't think for a moment that if there
12 was ever a thought, even for my own personal connections to the Catholic faith, if I 13 thought for a moment that there was anything inappropriate or wrong here, that I would 14 have said something.
15 But judgment is judgment, and we're only human, and I think people, again, put 16 forth their best effort. And I think it is unfortunate that when you go back to the 17 beginning of this, that the leaking of the document was redacted in such a way, redacting
18 the basis for why it was written and for what the document was asking us to do -- asking 19 us to do. And in the public light, that, you know, unfortunately left it up to 20 interpretation, which has brought significant -- has been hard for everyone involved.
21 Q Hard on the FBI employees, you mean?
22 A Yes. Yeah. And I'm -- you know, we are taking steps. They are a -- you
23 know, my team is a -- they're a dedicated group of individuals. And as I've 24 communicated to them, you know, we -- I'll open the books for anyone. I believe in 25 oversight. I believe in anyone that wants to look at our books. You want to look at

1 how we do business, absolutely. Come look at it. I'll share whatever we can share
2 with you. Come look at it. We'll take the input. We're not above review. We're
3 not above reproach. We'll take that input.
4 And if there's areas where we need to improve, well, then, we're going to take 5 that recommendations and guidance and we're going to improve, because I have every 6 bit of the confidence in my team and every bit of the confidence in their abilities to take
7 this and to move forward and do better.
8 Q And regardless of the improvements that the inspection division has pointed 9 out that could've been made to the domain perspective, do you still think that that 10 product had a valid use given the context in which it was created?
11 A I do, and I -- there have been -- there have been additional discussions on 12 how to get the information out in a -- because they're -- you know, there were -- I think,
13 as you could see the inspection report, there was step -- there were steps taken to put 14 this into an external product. So, yes, I think there's -- there's validity there, because 15 when you have a criminal -- something that's based on criminal activity and a potential 16 threat to people, then the right thing to do is to say something. Because for us, the 17 business that we work in, we don't have the luxury of being wrong, because if we're 18 wrong one time, the results can be catastrophic.
19 So we -- and to the analysts' point of why we ask so much of them, we are 20 dedicated to leaning forward and trying to get in front of that next incident. And 21 sometimes it -- you know, no one said protecting the American people would be easy.
22 And when you work in this business, this is not easy stuff when you deal with these types
23 of subjects and what steps we need to take to deal with them. You know, we live, again, 24 in a world of having to make hard calls in a very high-pressure environment, recognizing 25 that if we miss it, it would not be good.

1 Q And you've said very clearly I think today that the value in the domain
2 perspective was potentially allowing you and others to reach out to these communities,
3 to provide information so that potentially there would be less of a threat with respect to 4 this type of racially motivated violence, correct?
5 A Yes.
6 Q Do you believe that the kind of negative consequences that have fallen upon
7 the people who worked on this product will chill the FBI and its analysts from producing 8 this kind of product in the future and helping to mitigate those type of threats?
9 A That is one of the -- one of the biggest concerns -- one of my main -- one of 10 the concerns I have, yes, is that because of the result here, because there's no malicious
11 intent, no wrongful purpose, but what was called into question and the way, I do fear that 12 there will -- that there will possibly be a chilling effect, which we want our analysts to lean
13 forward, to do the right thing, and do what they do to protect the American people. We 14 want them to do so knowing that when we do it in accordance with our policies and 15 procedures, that they're doing the right thing; and that if they have a book report that 16 could've been written better, that we will take steps to do that. But given the severity
17 of the external coverage or narrative of this, that that could make it hard for people.
18 Q And could one of the results of that chilling effect be that the office will not 19 be able to conduct the same kind of outreach that it might have been able to do without 20 this type of kind of uneven, unfair spin, and therefore won't be able to prevent some of 21 the harm that it might otherwise have been able to prevent?
22 A Well, I think it prevents -- presents itself a -- an opportunity -- somewhat of a
23 challenging opportunity for me in how we proceed forward, because now that we have a
24 final report and now that we see that the report could've been written better, I will have 25 to, you know, kind of assess, but -- how we move forward.

1 But I am confident that, because I knew and was confident that there was no
2 wrongful purpose here and no malicious intent, that now that I can see what the 3 inspection found and where there were site-noted deficiencies or where improvements
4 can be made, and now I can confidently speak to things that we've done and that we're
5 doing.
6 What's important to me is if -- as a leader, if you -- if you have an area you need to
7 improve in, you need to be vulnerable enough to tell people you need to improve in it
8 and not act like you're untouchable, you're awesome. I believe you own it, you be 9 vulnerable enough to own it in front of people, because I believe that builds you more
10 confidence with folks.
11 So I'm confident in our team that even despite the negativity and what has come
12 of this, that we're going to be able to move forward. And I'm confident that when we 13 have those discussions, that we're going to continue to try and be effective in that space.
14 [redacted] Okay. Thank you. I have no further questions. We can go off
15 the record.
16 [Discussion off the record.]
17 [redacted] We'll go back on the record. The time is now 1:50 p.m.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Sir, I want to draw your attention to page 12 of the inspection division
20 report. And I know you briefly mentioned this last hour about the external product on 21 the same topic. On January 5th, 2023, the inspection division timeline shows that 22 Richmond DT SSA received an email from the DMC advising of an internal intelligence
23 product being written and that IA -- redacted -- was coordinating with CTD, DTOS on an 24 external product, a Strategic Perspective Executive Analytic Report.
25 Can you describe what your awareness was of this external product?

1 A Post the leak and the discussions --

2 Q Uh-huh.

3 A -- I did learn, you know, as I was having conversations, asking questions, that

4 there was -- from the analysts that there had been a communication with CTD on the

5 relea- -- the release of this information in an external product, in a SPEAR, and that the

6 response from them based on the DP was that the information should go into a different

7 type of product, which is called an EI -- for an external release, an EIR, emerging

8 intelligence report, and versus a SPEAR.

9 Q And was the topic of the external product, whatever the form, the SPEAR or 10 the EIR, what was the topic going to be for that external product?

11 A I don't know. I know -- I think I would have to defer back to the inspection,

12 because I think there's an indication that it was based on the DP.

13 Q Yeah. If we turn to page 13, February 2nd, it says, The Richmond personnel

14 sent the draft SPEAR, based on the DP, to CTD, Domestic Terrorism Operations Unit.

15 Do you know if it focused on RMVEs and RTCs?

16 A I do not.

17 Q Did you ever see the draft SPEAR?

18 A No.

19 Q Do you know if the FBI is still pursuing an external product based upon the 20 DP?

21 A There -- I know internally there have been some discussions that -- through

22 the -- through the months and -- throughout the months of a desire to still try and get this

23 information out somehow, but I don't have any -- there's been no -- I've not seen

24 anything as a result of that.

25 Mr. Jordan. What information out?

1 Mr. Meador. The subject -- I think just a general subject, RMVE connection --

2 Mr. Jordan. An RTC?

3 Mr. Meador. Yeah.

4 Mr. Jordan. Okay.

5 [redacted] Do you know if it's about RTC or RMVE?

6 Mr. Meador. No. I would assume it's RMVE, but I don't -- I couldn't speak to 7 the broader --

8 Mr. Jordan. You never -- and you've not seen this draft SPEAR, this document?

9 Mr. Meador. No.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q I want to talk about some of the specific findings in the inspection division

12 report on page 10. It says the DP equated interest in a particular form of religion with

13 RMVE ideology without sufficient evidence or articulable support. The errors in the DP

14 are significant as they created the false appearance that the FBI conducts investigative

15 activity based on religious affiliation.

16 What's your reaction to that portion of the report?

17 A Well, I think it -- my reaction is that the report, according to CTD's findings,

18 that the -- they needed more in the report for the assertions they made, or the 19 statement. They needed to put more information in.

20 Q And how can you assuage our concerns about, you know, the lack of support

21 in the domain perspective and, you know, how according to the inspections division it

22 created a false appearance that the FBI conducts investigative activity based on religious

23 affiliation? How can you assuage our concerns that it's going to happen again?

24 A Well, I think for Richmond, you know, we've taken considerable steps, one,

25 in hosting training and establishing that peer review process, you know, disseminating

1 analytical tradecraft standards by way of ICD 203. We have more -- more training
2 upcoming, and -- I think, again, when we proactively have done that before this was
3 released, what this will also do for us is now that I can see CT -- this, the final report, I can
4 now have more conversations with our team in CTD and the DI on -- to help better
5 educate us in this space, for Richmond specifically.
6 Q And then the report states, As a result, the publicity the DP received
7 diminished public trust and had a significant negative impact of the reputation of the FBI.
8 Do you agree?
9 A Well, I think the -- I think the one -- the one caveat -- before I answer, the 10 one caveat I would ask is -- I would offer is, as a result, the publicity, the redacted leaked
11 version of the DP that did not include the basis for which the DP was written, which was 12 criminal activity and fully authorized purpose, that I would have added that additional 13 information. But overall, when obviously taken -- when it was in the public space, yes,
14 the -- that it has had a negative impact on the organization.
15 Q And does it concern you that an intelligence product came out of your field
16 office that created this false appearance that the FBI is conducting investigations based 17 upon religious affiliation?
18 A Yes.
19 Q I'm going to turn it over to my colleague, [redacted]
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q All right. So we're going to switch gears into the communication with 22 Diocese of Richmond post the leak of the memo. So after the Catholic memo went 23 public, did you meet with the bishop and others at the Diocese of Richmond?
24 A Yes, ma'am.
25 [Meador Exhibit No. 5

1 Was marked for identification.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q I would like to enter an exhibit dated March 13th, which is an email you sent,

4 as exhibit No. 5.

5 A Yes, ma'am.

[1:57 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q All right. So, on Monday, March 13th, you emailed someone associated with the Diocese of Richmond and wrote, "Thank you for allowing me the opportunity to meet with you and Bishop [redacted]."

Was this Bishop Knestout?

A Yes.

Q And whose idea was it for you to reach out to the bishop?

A Well, it was mine initially. I had made the request to headquarters to conduct this outreach.

Q Did you make that request to the Deputy Director?

A I did.

Q And he gave you permission?

A Yes.

Q Great. And on what date did this meeting occur?

A The first meeting was -- this is -- the first meeting was March the 9th. The second meeting was March -- the one this is referring to occurred on March the 24th. This invitation occurred on March the 24th.

Q Great.

And going back to this March 9th meeting, what time did that happen? Was it during the day?

A Uh-huh.

Q Okay. About what time?

A I can't recall.

Q Okay. How long was the meeting?

1 A I don't know that it was 40 -- 30, 45 minutes maybe.

2 Q And did this meeting occur at the Diocese of Richmond?

3 A Yes, ma'am.

4 Q And how many people attended this meeting?

5 A Including myself, four.

6 Q And who on behalf of the Diocese of Richmond were in attendance?

7 A The vicar general and the general counsel.

8 Q And the bishop?

9 A And the bishop.

10 Q Did you go to the meeting alone on behalf of the FBI, or did a colleague join

11 you?

12 A I went alone.

13 Q And what was the purpose of the meeting?

14 A Well, obviously, given the attention the product had received, you know, I

15 wanted to, one, offer, you know, an apology on behalf of the field office for the negative

16 attention that's been drawn to the -- as a result of this.

17 And I also wanted to speak to them and inform them as to why -- and give them

18 what information I could as to why this -- what it was and what it wasn't and help inform

19 them.

20 Q Did you get the sense that the bishop or the reverend were concerned about 21 the memorandum when you had the meeting?

22 A Yes. I think, in general, I think, common sense, to me, is that they would've

23 been concerned.

24 Q Uh-huh.

25 A Because I do know -- I mean, the bishop did release a statement, so I knew

1 that there was some concerns in that statement. I had reviewed that statement. So --
2 Q So you read the statement in its entirety?
3 A Yes.
4 Q All right.
5 Going back to exhibit 5, in the next sentence, you wrote, "I sincerely appreciate
6 you taking the time to meet and do hope the discussion was helpful."
7 Can you walk us through the conversation of the entire meeting and how it took 8 place?
9 A Certainly.
10 I, you know, one, offered an apology on behalf of the field office for the negative 11 light that it had placed the organization in, that that was not the intention at all of the 12 product.
13 I explained a little bit about the challenges of working in the domestic terrorism
14 arena and gave them a basic explanation of, when we look at domestic terrorism, we look
15 at -- it's a three-pronged approach. We look for ideology, violence, and criminal law
16 violation. Explained that it is a more challenging area to work because it has that 17 three-pronged requirement, so it's a lot of pressure to ensure we have -- the three points
18 are met.
19 I also spoke to the purpose of the product and offered insight that, you know, the 20 purpose of it was to engage in outreach to them. And I went through some of the 21 specific information that was the basis for the document, and then expressed to them
22 that, you know, the purpose, again, was to -- the document was telling me to come talk to 23 them and that I just did not get that opportunity because it was leaked.
24 Q Uh-huh.
25 Do you need a domain perspective to conduct outreach in the community, or can

1 you --

2 A No.

3 Q -- just do that?

4 A I can just do it.

5 Q Okay. So, even though this DP may have disrupted doing outreach with,

6 like, Catholic churches or parishes, you could still conduct outreach with them?

7 A I can conduct outreach. However, now I have to go through the general

8 counsel to do that.

9 Q Okay.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Is that for all religious-affiliated organizations or just with specifically

12 regarding this domain perspective?

13 A Well, I sent this invitation and then was advised that, great, appreciate the 14 invitation, but, you know, going forward, they understand the importance of the 15 partnership with law enforcement; however, please, you know, if you could direct your

16 request and the communications to the general counsel, we can help -- we'll help

17 accommodate that.

18 Q Did you get the sense from the bishop and the general counsel that they

19 were worried about the effect that the domain perspective would have on their

20 parishioners?

21 A They were more in listening mode.

22 Q Uh-huh.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q All right. Going back to the exhibit, you then wrote, "I wanted to follow up

25 and extend an open invitation to you and Bishop Knestout," which is redacted, "to visit

1 our Richmond FBI Field Office. In addition to showing you around, I think it would be a
2 great opportunity to have you both meet some of our team members, who could also, if
3 you like, provide a short briefing on some of our priority threats."
4 Did you end up having this tour and briefing at FBI Richmond Field Office?
5 A Yes, ma'am.
6 Q Great. And what did the visit entail?
7 A We brought them into the office. We had the vicar general, general
8 counsel, and they had an additional attorney. We gave them a short, just overall
9 briefing on DT. I think we may have touched on IT, international terrorism, I believe.
10 We also had headquarters representation to speak to hate crimes across the country and 11 civil rights. And then, you know, had, you know, Q&A and then an additional discussion
12 with them.
13 Q Were you in attendance for this briefing, or was it someone on your team
14 that offered the tour and briefing?
15 A No, I was in attendance.
16 Q Okay.
17 A And I recall, you know, at the conclusion of the briefing, specifically, that the 18 vicar general commented and said -- and he said it repeatedly -- that "I don't know if the 19 authors of the product are in the room, I don't know if you're in here, but if you are, I
20 want you to know" -- and I actually put this in a document and we wrote this down
21 because I thought it was important -- "to whoever wrote the document, the authors
22 provided a clear, theologically sound base understanding of the Catholic faith." And it
23 was a commendation, "nice job."
24 You know, he made comments, I understand, some sensitivities with some of the 25 language. But, overall, that was -- again, presented a clear, thoughtful understanding of

1 the Catholic faith --

2 Q And --

3 A -- based on what he saw online from the leaked portion.

4 Q Uh-huh. And this was the vicar general, correct?

5 A Yes, ma'am.

6 Q Okay.

7 And have you given this type of briefing before?

8 A Yes. We've done different briefings for different groups, different people.

9 Q And how long do these briefings usually last?

10 A It can last 30 minutes, an hour. I mean, there's no set time. It just 11 depends on the number of topics that we want to put -- that we want to give to folks.

12 Q And is it normal to invite houses of worship or faith communities to visit the 13 FBI Richmond Field Office, or was this a special occasion?

14 A Well, we did the interfaith awareness briefing virtually because there's no

15 way we could invite that many people to the field office.

16 Q Uh-huh.

17 A This one was specific, you know, of course, in following up on my meeting

18 with them.

19 We also have other outreach events that we do where we invite members of the 20 community, which could include houses of worship, whether it's Citizens Academy

21 or -- and so forth. We have those entities, as well, to invite people in.

22 Q And since March 24th, have you had any other contact with the Diocese of 23 Richmond?

24 A No. I think that was the last one.

25 Q What about anyone on your team from the Richmond Field Office?

1 A For the Diocese of Richmond, I'm not aware of any.

2 Q And after this initial meeting with the bishop, did you have any other

3 conversations with him personally after that?

4 A No.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Has anyone on your team reached out to any faith leaders in the Catholic

7 religion in Richmond following the March 24th meeting?

8 A The March 24th -- not that I'm aware of.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q And before the creation of the DP, did you ever meet with staff from the 11 Diocese of Richmond or the bishop?

12 A No.

13 May I ask one clarifying thing real quick?

14 [redacted] Yes.

15 We're off the record.

16 [Discussion off the record.]

17 [redacted] We're back on the record.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Go ahead, sir.

20 A The questions on the outreach to the Catholic was just Richmond-specific,

21 but I have also met with the cardinal in Washington, D.C., with the assistant director in 22 charge of the Washington Field Office.

23 Q And when did that meeting take place?

24 A I think that was, hmm, sometime in May, June, early -- I'm not sure.

25 Sometime in the late spring, early summer.

1 Q And who requested that meeting? Was it the --

2 A I learned of the meeting from one of the special agents in charge of the

3 Washington Field Office. He had told me that he was coordinating that meeting and

4 wanted me to know. And I asked if I could attend to help with that meeting, and they

5 said, of course. Put me in touch with the assistant director in charge of WFO,

6 Washington Field Office, whom I know, and he said, absolutely. And so he and I went

7 and conducted that meeting.

8 Q Did the cardinal request that meeting, or did WFO reach out to the cardinal?

9 A That's in WFO's territory.

10 Q What was discussed at the meeting?

11 A The similar -- I presented similar information that I did with the bishop.

12 Q Did you get the sense that the cardinal was concerned about the domain

13 perspective?

14 A Well, I think they were just concerned at large. I don't have any 15 information expressed to me from the cardinal on his thoughts, on his stance related to it.

16 I was there in a proactive sense and to help the ADIC because I had more of the firsthand

17 information on the product.

18 Q And besides the ADIC and yourself, were there any other individuals from 19 the FBI at the meeting?

20 A No.

21 Q From the cardinal's office, was it just the cardinal, or --

22 A No.

23 Q -- were there other individuals?

24 A There were, I think, counsel and the communications director.

25 Q So, besides the two meetings with the Diocese of Richmond and the meeting with the cardinal, any other outreach to the Catholic community?

A Not by me.

Q And none that you're aware of by the Richmond Field Office?

A No.

[redacted] We'll go off the record.

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] We're good to go. And thank you for your time.

[Whereupon, at 2:12 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

_____

Witness Name

_____

Date

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: PHILIP KRAUSE, M.D.

Thursday, September 7, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 6400, O'Neill House Office Building, commencing at 10:01 p.m.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted] SENIOR PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

8 [redacted] SENIOR COMMUNICATIONS ADVISER

9 [redacted] DIGITAL DIRECTOR

10 [redacted] COUNSEL

11 [redacted] DIGITAL ASSISTANT

12 [redacted] SENIOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

13 [redacted] PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

14 [redacted] MINORITY INTERN

15 [redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

16

17

18 For PHILIP KRAUSE, M.D.:

19

20 THOMAS KRAUSE, ESQ.

1 [redacted] Okay. Let's begin.

2 This is a transcribed interview of Dr. Philip Krause. Chairman Jordan has

3 requested this interview as part of the committee's oversight.

4 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

5 Dr. Krause. Well, my name is Philip Krause.

6 [redacted] Could your counsel please state your name and law firm for the

7 record?

8 Mr. Thomas Krause. My name is Thomas Krause. I work for a U.S. Government

9 agency, the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. I'm here in an unofficial capacity with 10 respect to them, but I have their permission to represent my brother.

11 [redacted] Okay. And just to be clear, are you representing solely your 12 brother's interest unrelated to your agency affiliation?

13 Mr. Thomas Krause. That's absolutely correct.

14 [redacted] Do you understand this, Dr. Krause?

15 Dr. Krause. I do, yes.

16 [redacted] And you said that your attorney is your brother as well? Did I

17 understand that correctly?

18 Dr. Krause. That is correct.

19 [redacted] Okay. On behalf of the committee I want to thank you for

20 appearing here today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your

21 willingness to appear voluntarily.

22 My name is [redacted] and I am with Chairman Jordan's staff. I'll now have 23 everyone else from the committee who is here at the table introduce themselves as well.

24 [redacted] I'm [redacted] I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff.

25 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

1 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

2 [redacted] I'm [redacted] oversight counsel with the Democrats on the

3 Judiciary Committee.

4 [redacted] [redacted] I'm a legal intern of the Democrats, Judiciary

5 Committee.

6 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

7 Mr. [redacted] [redacted] Judiciary Committee.

8 [redacted] I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we'll

9 follow during today's interview.

10 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 1

11 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period

12 of time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more

13 questions and the interview is over.

14 Typically we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to 15 take a break before that, just let us know.

16 As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down everything we say to

17 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions.

18 Dr. Krause, do you understand that instruction?

19 Dr. Krause. I do understand.

20 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our

21 best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour so

22 that -- withdrawn.

23 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks

24 down at the end of the table can hear you. It is important that we don't walk over -- we

25 don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we can help it, and that goes for everybody present at today's interview.

We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner as possible, so we will take our time in today's interview. If you have any questions or if you do not understand one of our questions, just let us know.

Our questions will cover a wide range of topics, so if you need clarification at any point, Dr. Krause, just let us know. We're happy to rephrase the question or ask it in some similar fashion.

If you honestly do not know the answer to one of our questions or do not remember, it is best not to guess unless we expressly ask you to speculate. That's rare, but it could happen. But generally speaking, if you don't know the answer or you are at a loss to remember, just let us know.

Please give us your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned information from someone else. Just indicate how you came to know that information and from whom you came to know that information.

If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, but please inform us, to the best of your knowledge, who you believe may have that information.

Can I get a commitment from you to do that, Dr. Krause?

Dr. Krause. Yes.

[redacted] You should also understand that by law, you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand that?

Dr. Krause. I do.

[redacted] This also applies to questions posed to you by congressional staff in this interview today. Do you understand that?

Dr. Krause. Yes, I do.

[redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject

1 to criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18 United States Code, Section
2 1001. Do you understand that?
3 Dr. Krause. I do.
4 [redacted] Okay. Is there any reason today you are unable to provide 5 truthful answers to today's questions.
6 Dr. Krause. No reason.
7 [redacted] Okay. And, Dr. Krause, we give everyone that admonishment
8 about what the law is.
9 Dr. Krause. I understand.
10 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make a note that the content of what we discuss
11 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this 12 interview to anyone else -- to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of this 13 congressional investigation.
14 Can I get a commitment from you to do that, Dr. Krause.
15 Dr. Krause. Yes.
16 [redacted] For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will 17 remain with the court reporter so that they can go into the official transcript. Any 18 copies we use to show you we will ask that you return those.
19 All right. This is the end of the preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues
20 from the minority would like to add?
21 [redacted] No. Just thank you for coming voluntarily today. We 22 appreciate your time.
23 Mr. Thomas Krause. And I have a couple of statements to make first if you don't 24 mind.
25 [redacted] Oh, yeah. Just about to go on the record, and then we'll take your

1 statement.

2 Mr. Thomas Krause. All I wanted to say was --

3 [redacted] Then we'll go back on the -- yeah.

4 Mr. Thomas Krause. Oh, I thought this was on the record.

5 [redacted] We're on the record. I apologize. I'm about to give a final

6 statement and then --

7 Mr. Thomas Krause. I can wait for your final statement.

8 [redacted] The clock now reads 10:06 a.m. We will start the first hour of 9 questioning, but, of course, Mr. Krause, if you have a statement to make.

10 Mr. Thomas Krause. Yes. As [redacted] just noted, Mr. Krause -- Dr. Krause is 11 here voluntarily. He's seeking to cooperate with the committee.

12 We do have two points that I'd like to make.

13 You mentioned that he is not to disclose the contents of this subcommittee

14 meeting to anybody to protect the integrity of the investigation.

15 Can we get a reciprocal commitment from the subcommittee that you will not

16 disclose the contents of this outside the subcommittee, that nobody with access to it will

17 compromise this investigation that way?

18 [redacted] Mr. Krause, we're not in a position to make any representations

19 one way or the other, but it's in everyone's interest to keep these things confidential and 20 quiet, is what we can say on behalf of the committee.

21 Mr. Thomas Krause. Okay. Our concern is that parts of the transcript perhaps,

22 or the videotape, would be used in certain manners, and we request that if that is to be

23 done outside the committee, we receive a copy of the transcript prior to that release.

24 Can I get your commitment on that?

25 [redacted] The transcript is committee property, and while we allow your

1 client and you to come and review it, we do not disclose it. And any other
2 requests -- and this is all on the record -- we will take to the chairman for consideration.
3 Mr. Thomas Krause. Okay. Well, we've just agreed that this is a confidential
4 subcommittee meeting, and it's not normally to be disclosed outside the subcommittee.
5 I'm just asking in the extraordinary event that you see a need to disclose it outside
6 the subcommittee, that we get access to the transcript so we can check to make sure that 7 it's accurate and also provide context.
8 [redacted] So again, we will take all requests to the chairman for his ultimate 9 ruling. He'll make those decision. But so you know, upon receiving the transcript of 10 this interview, you will be notified, and you and your client can come and review the 11 transcript.
12 Mr. Thomas Krause. Okay. But we understand we're not allowed to take it 13 with us or --
14 [redacted] Correct. Correct. That's committee --
15 Mr. Thomas Krause. Just completely understand that. So it's important to us 16 to get a copy of the transcript in the event the transcript is to be used outside the 17 committee, which you've kind of assured me it won't be.
18 [redacted] The committee's investigation is confidential. Your request will be 19 taken to the chairman, but to be clear, I have not assured you that the transcript will be 20 given to you. You will be permitted to review the transcript in its entirety in our offices
21 when -- at a mutually convenient time.
22 Mr. Thomas Krause. Totally understand. Just phrase the request, in the event
23 the committee sees a need to breach the confidentiality of this hearing, then we request
24 that we get advance notice of that and a copy of the transcript.
25 [redacted] We'll take that request to the chairman.

1 Mr. Thomas Krause. And, please, you'll report back to me what the chair says on
2 that.
3 [redacted] Happy to do so in the event -- yes, happy to do that.
4 Mr. Thomas Krause. Thanks. And you've also seen the letter from the Food
5 and Drug Administration, HHS, setting limits on what Mr. Krause's purpose of 6 this -- Dr. Krause, Mr. Krause -- Dr. Krause's purpose at this transcribed interview is.
7 They've also asked us separately to respect their claims of deliberative process
8 privilege. We'll attempt to do that. We ask that you try to frame your questions so as 9 not to elicit deliberative process-privileged information.
10 If you do, I may find myself objecting to your questions and asking my question
11 not to answer.
12 [redacted] I'll defer to my colleague on the letter from the agency, but I will tell
13 you this: We don't -- the committee doesn't recognize the deliberative privilege
14 process.
15 In the event you feel compelled to direct your client not to answer a question,
16 you're welcome to do -- this is a voluntary interview. You're welcome to do that. You
17 make a brief record as to why you're doing that, but we will also admonish that the 18 committee reserves the right, if they deem that answer necessary for the committee's 19 oversight work, to have your client come back in, perhaps under subpoena, to get that 20 answer.
21 Mr. Thomas Krause. Appreciate it. Thank you very much. That's all I have.
22 [redacted] Okay. I'll get started then.
23 EXAMINATION
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q Dr. Krause, are you currently employed?

1 A Yes. By myself.
2 Q Okay. And what is the name of your business?
3 A It's called Logics.Bio, LLC, but it's a consulting business.
4 Q Okay. You said Logics.Bio?
5 A Yes.
6 Q LLC?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Do you also work with Mesoblast, Incorporated?
9 A Yes. I'm on the board of directors of Mesoblast.
10 Q Okay. And how long have you been working in your consulting business?
11 A Since I left the FDA.
12 Q And how long have you been on the board of directors for Mesoblast?
13 A I don't remember exactly when I started, but a year, give or take.
14 Q Okay. And what is your title with Mesoblast?
15 A I'm just a member of the board of directors.
16 Q Okay. And what are your responsibilities on the board?
17 A Well, as a member of the board of directors of any company, I help provide 18 direction to the company in strategic matters, as well as obviously oversight of what the 19 CEO is doing.
20 Q And in your consulting business, Logics.Bio, LLC, what kind of work do you
21 do?
22 A I do consulting for companies that are interested in developing biological 23 products. I also do consulting for the World Health Organization. Yeah, those two 24 things.
25 Q And did you work anywhere between your consulting business and

1 Mesoblast and the FDA?

2 A No.

3 Q When did you first join the FDA?

4 A I joined the FDA in 1991. I did not bring a copy of my CV, and so I -- I've

5 been admonished not to guess if I can't remember something, but I'm pretty sure 1991 is

6 right.

7 Q Completely okay, give or take.

8 A Yes.

9 Q And what made you want to work at the FDA?

10 A The FDA is an important public health agency. The FDA also offered me a

11 position as a research scientist where I could run a research laboratory, and gave me the 12 resources necessary to do that, and of course, it was appealing.

13 I trained at the National Institutes of Health and so was already in the area. So it

14 was appealing not to have to move. And so these were all factors that made it a good

15 place for me to start my career.

16 Q And I know you'd mentioned -- you said not having your CV in front of you.

17 To your best recollection, can you walk us through the positions you've held with the 18 FDA?

19 A I can. Would you mind if I gave you a little bit of background what I did

20 before I got to the FDA?

21 Q Absolutely.

22 A Because that will put things in context perhaps.

23 Q Of course.

24 A So I grew up in Urbana, Illinois. I received a -- well, I ultimately went to

25 medical school at Yale. I became board certified in internal medicine and in infectious

1 diseases.

2 I then did training in virology at the National Institutes of Health, and then ended

3 up going to the FDA from there.

4 While at the FDA -- I'll give you the big picture first, and if you need more detail,

5 I'm happy to provide it -- I worked in a number of different capacities, ranging from

6 running a laboratory to being the deputy director of the Division of Viral

7 Products -- actually, being the acting director of that same division for a year, being in the

8 Office of Vaccines Research and Review, the associate director for vaccine safety and 9 medical policy.

10 Then ultimately in around 2013, the deputy director of the Office of Vaccines,

11 which is the position I held until I left the FDA.

12 During the COVID pandemic, I was the -- the highest-ranking infectious diseases

13 physician in the Center for Biologics. During the COVID pandemic -- well, and while at

14 the FDA, I published over 100 peer-reviewed articles on topics that ranged from 15 vaccinology, virology, epidemiology, vaccine safety, and even biostatistics.

16 While at the FDA during the COVID pandemic, I also was assigned as a liaison from

17 the Office of Vaccines to the WHO, and in that capacity, very soon after the pandemic

18 began, the World Health Organization made me the chair of their expert working

19 committee on COVID vaccines, which entailed running frequent meetings on the topic of

20 COVID vaccine development, helping to coordinate international and WHO scientific

21 responses in addition to the work that I was doing for W -- or for FDA.

22 And then in addition to that, through this time, starting in -- well, there was an

23 organization called the Coalition for Epidemic Preparedness Innovations, CEPI, which was

24 founded in 2017, but I was involved in -- even before the organization was formed, also as

25 part of my duties at FDA in helping to advise them how to set themselves up.

1 It's a nonprofit NGO with a goal of trying to promote the development of mostly
2 vaccines to prepare for epidemics and pandemics. And so, I've been on their scientific 3 advisory committee since then.
4 Since I left the FDA, I have still continued to do consulting work with the WHO and 5 have remained on the scientific advisory committee of CEPI.
6 Q And you said you were with CEPI since 2017. Is that right?
7 A In one capacity or another, but mostly as an adviser on the scientific advisory 8 committee, so not employed by, but as an unpaid, senior, scientific adviser.
9 Q And you had mentioned the WHO in there. How long had you been doing
10 work with them, like during the FDA and post?
11 A Well, as far as the WHO is concerned, while I was at the FDA, I intermittently
12 helped different offices at the WHO on different things, especially regarding stability of 13 vaccines, which is a big problem, of course, especially in the developing world, and how 14 to make sure the vaccines are adequately stable.
15 So I did that for many years, using a combination of my regulatory, scientific, and 16 mathematical background.
17 Oh, I didn't mention that I also have a master's degree in computer science and an 18 MBA, which played a role, obviously, in that mathematical background.
19 And -- but then, starting around 2016, they started requesting my help in 20 preparing for pandemics and for emerging infectious diseases. And so since 2016, give 21 or take, I've been involved in various consultations with the WHO in one way or another 22 to help them think about how they will prepare for different kinds of outbreaks in the 23 developing world and around the world.
24 And then, of course, when the COVID pandemic came, I was on many of their early 25 calls and was soon then asked to chair their expert working group.

1 Q And what kind of -- what topics, or like, what was the focus of that working
2 group that you were the chair of?
3 A The expert working group included a lot of people who were working around
4 the world, on an ad hoc basis, to provide advice to the WHO, but also to provide advice,
5 using the WHO as a forum to the entire international community.
6 So the WHO would sponsor, or would convene meetings where they brought 7 people together who were experts to answer critical questions that might come up about 8 how vaccines should be developed, how people around the world could collaborate to 9 make better and faster COVID vaccines, what are good ways to evaluate COVID vaccines,
10 and all of those kinds of things.
11 Most of that work centered around clinical evaluation, but there was also a fair 12 amount of science involved there too, and immunology, because understanding the 13 immunology of a disease like COVID is obviously an important component of thinking 14 about what one is up against.
15 Q And is there a reason -- and there might not be, but is there any significance
16 to you being the acting director, not just the director? Like, did you not hold that 17 position the entire time that that working group existed?
18 A Oh, I'm sorry. I think you must've written something down wrong. So I 19 was the chair of the --
20 Q Oh, the chair.
21 A -- committee for WHO. I was the acting director of the Division of Viral
22 Products at FDA for a year or so. And I would guess this was around 2009 or 2010, but I
23 don't remember exactly what year that was.
24 Q I did get that mixed up. Thank you. Sorry. You've held a lot of 25 positions.

1 And primarily, it sounds like you did work on virology, immunology, and
2 vaccinations. Is there any other science subject matter that I missed.
3 A Well, clinical trials.
4 Q Clinical trials.
5 A So I'm viewed as -- I'm viewed as -- I'm fairly well-known as an expert around
6 the world in all those topics.
7 Q Great. And while you were at the FDA and you were in your role with the 8 Office of Vaccine Research and Review, your direct supervisor was Dr. Marion Gruber,
9 correct?
10 A Correct.
11 Q And did you have more than one direct supervisor?
12 A No. Dr. Gruber was my sole direct supervisor while I was the deputy 13 director of the office. Of course prior to that and prior to the time that she became the 14 office director, I had other supervisors.
15 Q Okay. And then how long would you say that you worked with Dr. Gruber, 16 not even necessarily in that capacity but in total?
17 A In terms of working with -- so, of course, I knew who she was for many years.
18 I remember working closely with her probably when we were on a committee together in 19 around 2010, but that's a -- that's also a guess. So I would say a dozen years or so.
20 Q Yeah. And how many people directly reported to you when you were 21 deputy director?
22 A So the way that the office was structured, the -- a number of people
23 reported directly to the office director. And the role of the deputy director was 24 obviously to advise the office director but also to sit in for the office director when the 25 office director wasn't present.

1 And so, when the office director wasn't present, the same direct reports that
2 Dr. Gruber had were reporting to me when I was then the acting director during periods
3 of time when she was not around or available.
4 I also was running a laboratory for much of this time, and while I was running the 5 laboratory, I had a small number of direct reports who were involved in doing laboratory
6 work.
7 Q How often would you say that you had to step in for Dr. Gruber when she 8 wasn't present?
9 A It was intermittent. Normally would occur if she was on vacation or -- or 10 needed to go to a meeting or something like that.
11 Q Did that ever happen during the pandemic?
12 A During the pandemic we all tried to maintain an all-hands-on-deck posture,
13 and, of course, we were all also operating remotely. And so, I don't recall a time when it
14 was impossible to reach Dr. Gruber in that capacity. Is it -- is it possible that she needed
15 to leave town? I don't remember. It's possible.
16 Q And did you have regular interactions with Dr. Marks?
17 A "Regular" would be a strong word, but I certainly interacted with him quite a 18 bit in -- at senior staff meetings. Normally, the office directors and the deputies were 19 invited.
20 And then, of course, occasionally I would see him at other times as well. I would 21 probably see Dr. Marks normally once every -- once or twice a month.
22 Q And did the frequency of your interactions change throughout the COVID-19
23 pandemic?
24 A Yes. Obviously through the pandemic, there were more interactions
25 between the Office and the Office of the Center Director, and I was in a position to be in

1 meetings with Dr. Marks more often.

2 Q What was his title during the pandemic starting at the beginning of it, March

3 2020?

4 A Dr. Marks --

5 Q Yes.

6 A -- was the director of the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research.

7 Q And how long did you work for him -- I'm sorry. Let me take that back.

8 You worked for Dr. Gruber, and was your office, OVRR, underneath his purview?

9 I'm trying to understand the structure a little bit better.

10 A That's exactly right. So the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research

11 has three product offices -- or at that time, had three product offices, and still does, but

12 the names have changed in the meantime.

13 But it was the Office of Vaccines Research and Review, which was responsible for 14 vaccines and certain allergenic products.

15 There was the Office of Tissues and Advanced Therapies called OTAT, which was 16 responsible for cell therapies and gene therapies and tissue therapies.

17 Then there was the Office of Blood Research and Review, which was responsible 18 for blood-related products.

19 So all of those types of products comprise biological products, which again, are 20 regulated by a separate center within CBER.

21 There are additional offices within CBER that included an Office of Biostatistics and

22 Epidemiology which -- in which most of the statisticians and a lot of the 23 epidemiological -- epidemiology expertise resided.

24 There was an Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality, which was responsible

25 for -- well, compliance, and certain kinds of quality testing and -- and often, certain kinds

1 of -- of review of assays that companies might use to characterize their product.
2 There was an Office of Management that included people whose job it was to
3 facilitate the work of the rest of the center. And it wouldn't shock me if I'm forgetting 4 an office right now, but those are the main ones I'm remembering right now.
5 Q No, I appreciate your explanation. Yeah, I know that there's a lot there.
6 How long would you say that you worked for him in his capacity as director of 7 CBER, you said, C-B-E-R.
8 A CBER.
9 Q CBER?
10 A Yeah. Well, the entire time that I was the deputy director -- well, actually,
11 when I first became the deputy director, Dr. Karen Midthun was the director of CBER, and 12 Dr. Marks was her deputy director.
13 And I do not remember what year Dr. Midthun left. This is something I could 14 look up on my phone. But when -- when she left, Dr. Marks took over as the center
15 director. I would guess that was somewhere around 2015 or 2016, but I could have that 16 wrong.
17 Q I appreciate it. Estimations are fine, too.
18 Did you have regular interactions with the FDA Commissioner, Janet Woodcock?
19 A Regular interactions, no. I sort of knew who Janet Woodcock was. She,
20 of course, for most of my tenure at FDA was the director of the Center for Drug 21 Evaluation and Research, CDER. She was the acting commissioner for a while during 22 COVID.
23 You recall Dr. Stephen Hahn was the commissioner for a while, and then 24 Dr. Woodcock became the acting commissioner before she was replaced by Dr. Califf.
25 Because I'd been at the FDA a long time, I certainly knew who Dr. Woodcock was.

1 I think she knew who I was. If we were to see each other in the cafeteria, we would be
2 cordial, but we didn't really have serious interactions on substantive issues.
3 And the only time I had a direct interaction with her during the COVID pandemic
4 was at a meeting on July 19th, 2021.
5 Q Okay. And we'll get to that meeting a little bit later on, but you had said,
6 other than that one direct meeting, you had probably just passed her in the hallways but 7 nothing -- no other direct contact?
8 A Yeah. And of course during the pandemic there were no hallways because 9 the FDA had everybody working from home.
10 Q Okay. Perfect.
11 How often would you say that you interacted with Dr. Gruber?
12 A I would say daily. She and I talked about everything that was going on in 13 the office. I gave her advice. We often went back and forth to try to figure out what 14 the right solutions to problems were, and obviously, two heads are better than one 15 usually.
16 And so my sense is that she valued my advice and I also felt as though I was often 17 able to positively influence decisions that the office needed to make.
18 Q Did you ever have disagreements with her over certain studies or certain 19 products that had come out of OVRR?
20 A So, you know, of course it's not possible to be a scientist at FDA and not have 21 somebody who -- and not occasionally disagree with somebody, but you know very often,
22 what I find is that when there are major disagreements that people have, it's because the 23 people are approaching the problem from somewhat different perspectives, and perhaps 24 value systems, and that if ultimately the organization decided to do something that 25 wasn't what I recommended, often it was a very reasonable decision when approached

1 from -- from a perspective that was held by -- by somebody else.

2 Q Generally speaking, how often would you say that maybe you'd ever

3 disagreed with Dr. Marks regarding your research or review of vaccines?

4 Mr. Thomas Krause. I'd caution you to use your judgment and not disclose any

5 deliberative process information, but she's asking a general question. You can provide a

6 general answer.

7 Dr. Krause. Yeah, I think I can answer that generally. So occasionally, I would

8 disagree with Dr. Marks. I was involved with the research program and saw myself as an

9 advocate for the research that was being done within the center.

10 Dr. Marks wasn't always a -- he often appeared to question the value of some of 11 the research that was going on where it seemed more obvious to me that that research

12 was of high value, and so, I would attempt to explain those kinds of things to him.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Did that happen around the time with the COVID vaccines?

15 A No, not around that time. So I remember some discussions with Dr. Marks

16 about key issues where it appeared that he might disagree with what I thought was the

17 right thing to do at the beginning, but after discussing them with him, he ultimately

18 ended up agreeing with what I thought was the right thing to do.

19 Q What about Commissioner Woodcock? I know that you didn't have direct

20 interaction, but did you -- were you aware of any disagreeing opinions that she might

21 have about OVRR?

22 A I was not.

23 Q Okay.

24 A I was not.

25 Q In your line of work at the FDA, did you find that there were any common

1 disagreements amongst your staff or anybody helping you work on the vaccines?
2 A Well, you have to understand that regulation is a complicated business and
3 that it's people -- different people with different backgrounds may approach regulation
4 from different perspectives, and some might be more or less conservative than others
5 about how they might think a certain problem should be solved.
6 And so, I wouldn't say there were disagreements, but there were robust 7 discussions in which everybody's point of view was heard, and it then became possible to 8 make a decision that ultimately everybody agreed with, based on an understanding of 9 everybody's perspective -- well, everybody's opinion and the perspective from which 10 those opinions came.
11 And to me, that was a really important part of the review process to have those 12 kinds of robust discussions. If everybody walks in a room and thinks that they know 13 what the right thing to do is, probably they're missing something.
14 And so, that's not -- you then -- as a leader, I felt it was my job to try to elicit
15 almost sometimes some disagreement to try to understand how different people were 16 reviewing things.
17 There's also always the risk that if somebody walks into a room and states a 18 position, that you end up having some people who will just agree with that position for 19 the sake of agreement or not -- not arguing.
20 And so I think it's an important part of the regulatory process to have those kinds
21 of robust discussions. So I don't think I would call them common disagreements, but 22 they -- they need to be discussions of different perspectives.
23 Q And due to the size of your agency and your parent agency, HHS, who did
24 you regularly interact with outside of the FDA in your line of work? I know you've 25 mentioned WHO. I didn't know if -- I can't remember if you mentioned anyone else.

1 A So I didn't. And depending on what was going on, I had fairly frequent
2 interactions with people at the National Institutes of Health.
3 One of the things that I did as deputy director was, I organized, often in 4 conjunction with NIH, various scientific meetings to address important questions that 5 came up in the context of needing to understand the science.
6 And so, this is not like an advisory committee meeting, but it -- it's -- because no
7 advice was requested in these meetings, and yet, it's very important for an organization
8 like FDA to be operating with the most current and most cutting-edge science, and to 9 hear, from the scientific community, what is actually going on in an area.
10 So to give you an example, I -- with NIH, I organized and chaired a meeting on 11 cytomegalovirus vaccines, and CMV is a virus which causes devastating congenital
12 disease. And there were companies that were interested in studying that, but they 13 actually also needed more scientific perspective from scientific leaders in the field.
14 And so having a meeting to discuss that helped move the field forward and then 15 also had the byproduct of bringing some of those -- that scientific expertise, or scientific 16 thinking, into the FDA on those vaccines.
17 Even early in the development of some of the vaccines -- and, of course, we still 18 don't have a licensed vaccine -- and I repeated these kinds of things for other viruses too.
19 I did this for Ebola with NIH. I did this for Zika with NIH. I was a co-chair of a 20 meeting on Dengue virus, which I believe also involved NIH. So I had fairly quick
21 interactions with NIH in the context of convening and sharing those kinds of scientific
22 meetings.
23 I also, during various kinds of emergencies, although not during COVID, went to 24 NIH to provide regulatory advice on various studies that NIH wanted to do.
25 So, for example, during the Zika virus outbreak, NIH was very interested in

1 developing Zika vaccines and funding Zika vaccines, and so they wanted to understand
2 what the regulatory landscape looked like for those vaccines and how ultimately FDA
3 might evaluate those.
4 And so, in collaboration with a sister agency, we listened to what they had to say
5 and -- and gave them general advice on -- on -- on these regulatory issues. So I went to 6 NIH, for instance, for those kinds of meetings as well.
7 Q Did you give that -- or have those types of meetings with the CDC as well?
8 A So I did have occasional meetings with CDC, usually less formal. So the CDC 9 plays, obviously, an important role in studying epidemiology and in recommending which 10 vaccines should be given. And so, during the COVID pandemic, I found myself on more
11 calls with CDC.
12 During the 2009 H1N1 flu pandemic, I found myself on a lot of calls with CDC as 13 we were trying to understand the epidemiology of these diseases.
14 Obviously during COVID there also was concern over safety issues, like 15 myocarditis. The CDC was generating data that was relevant to that, as were other parts
16 of the FDA.
17 The chief epidemiological component in the Center for Biologics is in the Office of 18 Biostatistics and Epidemiology, and so, they were having the primary interactions with 19 CDC.
20 Again, I was often invited to those meetings to provide the perspective of -- of 21 somebody who understood the products, and understood the way that they'd been 22 clinically evaluated, and also had, actually, a very strong understanding of epidemiology
23 and could contribute to those discussions.
24 Q Do you feel that they listened to your advice when it came to the -- you 25 explaining the regulatory landscape or any of your discussion and your background on

1 these particular issues? Did you feel that the CDC listened to your advice on that?
2 A In general, I found that wherever I went, people valued my advice, or at least 3 they said that they did, and very often they -- it appeared that they were also listening to 4 it.
5 Q And you had mentioned that during the pandemic you found yourself on 6 more calls with the CDC than previously. Did that -- was that also the case with the 7 WHO and the NIH? Like, did your interactions with each of those agencies increase?
8 A Well, my interactions with WHO increased quite a bit because that was a
9 direct assignment that I had as part of my duties at FDA.
10 There were other people who were assigned to work more with NIH, so I did not
11 interact as directly with NIH during the COVID pandemic.
12 Q I'm going to switch gears a little bit, talking a little bit about the vaccine
13 approval process. You're probably very familiar with the FDA's biologic license 14 application process, correct?
15 A Yes. That's fair to say.
16 Q Could you give us a brief overview of what it's used for and why it's 17 important?
18 A Sure. So the biologics license application process is a process that a 19 developer goes through in order to obtain a marketing license for a biological product, or,
20 in this case, a vaccine, which allows them to market the product in the United States.
21 There -- so fundamentally the BLA is a marketing authorization. But another 22 equally important part of what the FDA does in the review of a BLA is to evaluate all of 23 the claims that the developer wants to be able to make about that product, and to 24 determine the veracity of those claims.
25 And that then ends up showing up in what is in the package insert for that product

1 and -- and then it constrains what advertisements the developer is allowed to make,
2 because they're only allowed to advertise things that the FDA has reviewed and
3 determined to be correct.
4 So the FDA, through its biologics licensing process, serves as an independent and 5 objective reviewer of fact. The FDA employees are expected not to have any conflicts of 6 interest, and thus, can look at the license applications from a perspective that nobody 7 else can and do their -- do their best to challenge the claims that the developer will make 8 and make sure that those are correct.
9 So let me just finish -- give you one final sentence. So in -- which maybe was 10 your next question anyway. But so in reviewing a biologics license application then, the 11 FDA has to determine that the product is safe, pure, and potent, is what the statute says.
12 And what that means is that the FDA has to independently evaluate the safety of 13 the product, and make sure it's safe. They have to independently evaluate its efficacy, 14 which is how the word "potency" is then interpreted from the very old language.
15 And they have to independently evaluate its purity, which really means an 16 evaluation of the chemistry, manufacturing, and controls and evaluation of the facility
17 that is manufacturing the product to make sure that all of the controls that are used by 18 the company or by the marketer, by the developer, to manufacture the product will 19 assure that the product is the same many years after it's been licensed as it was during 20 the clinical trials before it was licensed.
21 So I think you can understand that if it's safe and effective, that's fine, but if the 22 manufacturer can't make that safe and effective product in the future, that doesn't help
23 you. So really, the BLA stands on those three key elements that the FDA has to 24 evaluate.
25 And then, of course, there's a benefit-risk decision that accounts -- that brings all

1 of that together and summarizes that assessment.

2 Q And I'm going to jump back to something else first, but while you touched on

3 it, can you briefly explain the benefit-risk analysis that you do at the FDA? I've briefly

4 read on it, but to get a little bit more of a better understanding of why that's important.

5 A Well, obviously, any product needs to have -- that is going to be marketed to

6 people -- needs to have more benefits than it has risks. And in vaccines, traditionally,

7 because vaccines are given to healthy people who aren't otherwise sick at the time they

8 get the vaccine, that benefit-risk ratio should be highly favorable, because otherwise, you

9 might be giving people, who are otherwise healthy, some substantial risk without

10 knowing whether or not they will later encounter the disease that the vaccine is 11 protecting against.

12 Q Now, going back to what you had mentioned with the FDA independently

13 evaluating a product's safety, it's purity, and its potency, did you feel that the FDA was 14 able to fully evaluate those three elements with the COVID vaccines?

15 A So the -- maybe if I could digress to make this easier, let me describe the 16 emergency use authorization process which was also used to make many of the COVID

17 vaccines available.

18 Q That was my next question. Please do.

19 A Okay. So -- sorry for taking you out of order.

20 Q No, that's perfect. Not a problem.

21 A You see I'm a very cooperative witness.

22 All right. So in the emergency-use-authorization process, the FDA has to make a

23 determination that the product may be effective and that the known and potential

24 benefits outweigh the known and potential risks.

25 And so there's also a risk-benefit determination for the EUA, but the EUA standard

1 is not nearly as substantial as the BLA standard is.

2 The EUA standard, as it's written, of course involves the FDA looking at the efficacy

3 data and the safety data and the CMC data, but allows the FDA to take all of that and

4 integrate it into a -- an overall assessment of whether the known and -- known and

5 possible benefits exceed the known and possible risks.

6 And so -- and whereas for BLA, the requirement is substantial evidence of efficacy.

7 For the EUA, it's that the product might be effective.

8 So the FDA, in issuing an EUA, has to be -- has to be careful, but also needs to 9 think about this -- these different elements in the context of the actual situation.

10 And so, for example, when the vaccines were first authorized -- and I'm going to

11 try to be careful in spite of the fact that many people get this wrong. So I'll say this right

12 now, is an emergency-use authorization means that the vaccine is authorized, but

13 licensure means that it's approved.

14 And yet, many people mistake this and say approved when they mean authorized.

15 So I'm going to try and keep this straight, but even I sometimes slip up.

16 So when the vaccines were first going to be authorized, the FDA then had to think

17 about, in the context of the pandemic, how can one meet this requirement of believing

18 that the known and possible benefits outweigh the known and possible risks for a

19 vaccine.

20 And there were a number of concerns early in the pandemic which included that

21 many vaccines were being developed at once, that if there were a vaccine that turned out

22 not to be effective, that that could actually do considerably more harm than good,

23 because that could then prevent better vaccines from being used or evaluated.

24 And so, in thinking about the standard and the way that the pandemic was

25 unfolding, the FDA set a standard for efficacy of vaccines that required a 50 percent

1 efficacy estimate and a 30 percent, 95 percent lower confidence in that efficacy estimate.
2 So that's a statistical way of saying that the -- we'll accept a vaccine as long as we
3 have a high degree of confidence that it will reduce the incidence of disease by at least 30
4 percent.
5 Now, if we had said we would accept a vaccine that, for example, appeared to be 6 better than nothing, we would be accepting, if multiple vaccines were authorized under 7 that standard, some significant risk when you do it with many vaccines, that some of 8 those vaccines might not work at all.
9 And so, given the pandemic and the need for public confidence in what was done,
10 the FDA set what some people might say was a fairly high efficacy standard. And yet,
11 this was a similar efficacy standard to that which was set elsewhere around the world
12 which the WHO ultimately recommended, and which many countries ended up using too.
13 So what that meant was when the vaccines were originally approved under 14 emergency use authorization, we actually had very solid data on the efficacy of those 15 vaccines.
16 We -- it turned out that the vaccines blew away those criteria anyway, right?
17 The vaccines were about 95 percent effective, and the lower bound was in the high 80s or 18 even above 90 percent for one of the vaccines.
19 And so, the public could have very high confidence that those vaccines worked.
20 At that point, though, we had only very short-term follow-up of these vaccine -- of 21 people who received these vaccines, and so, what I would say is that we had some 22 uncertainty about safety.
23 But of course, because we had great certainty about efficacy, you could state that 24 the benefits were clearly outweighing the risks, even though we had follow-up that was 25 much shorter than one would normally want for a BLA.

1 So in a BLA, we actually, at the beginning of the pandemic, issued a guidance
2 document describing what we would want to see, what the FDA would want to see for a
3 BLA, and that included 6 months of safety follow-up.
4 But, of course, as the pandemic wore on and as it seemed like it was likely that we
5 would come to a vaccine, it was clear that we could not wait 6 months to gather all the 6 safety data to license a vaccine.
7 And so, the question came up, what's the minimum amount of safety data that 8 one could contemplate using, as well as what's the minimum amount of efficacy data that 9 one could contemplate using.
10 And so a subsequent guidance was ultimately published that described a median
11 of 2 months' follow-up for safety and efficacy, and so -- but that 2 months' follow-up
12 didn't meet the standard that one would've wanted for a BLA at the time that the 13 vaccines were first authorized in December of 2020, if that makes -- 14 Q Who had made that determination of the -- of the amount of data that was 15 required?
16 A Well, so that -- that decision arose organically through discussions within the 17 Office of Vaccine, and I think also with the Office of the Center Director, and was 18 consistent with the kinds of decisions that were being made elsewhere in the world as 19 well.
20 Q And who was the center director at the time?
21 A Peter Marks.
22 Q And you said, This was around the beginning of the pandemic that they set a
23 standard for BLA. That was --
24 A That would've been in June of 2020, I think, that the guidance document was 25 published that said that for a BLA, 6 months of safety data would be required.

1 Now, of course for BLA, one also would've needed the manufacturing data -- the 2 chemistry, manufacturing, and controls data, and that data wasn't at a level during the 3 original emergency-use authorization that one would've wanted during a BLA either.
4 And so, the initial emergency use authorization then, just to summarize, actually
5 had the level of efficacy data that one was either equivalent to or close to, but I would say
6 equivalent to that, which one would normally want for a BLA, because we had a very high
7 standard in the efficacy study.
8 It did not have quite as much safety data as one would want for a BLA, but it had 9 enough safety data that one clearly determined that the benefits, you know, substantially
10 outweighs the risk, it turned out.
11 Q How much safety data did you have versus how much you wanted?
12 A Well, at the time that the vaccines were originally authorized, it was roughly 13 a median of 2 months, which meant that half of the people in the study had been 14 followed for more than 2 months, and half had been followed for less than 2 months.
15 And then of course with every additional month, additional safety data became 16 available. But, of course, the desired amount of safety data was around 6 months of 17 safety data.
18 And of course if one is doing this, you would like to follow everybody who's in the 19 study for 6 months. So you don't come up with that answer 6 months after the first 20 person is vaccinated.
21 You come up with that answer 6 months after the last person is vaccinated and, in 22 this case, probably 6 months after the last person in the study has had two vaccinations,
23 right?
24 And so -- so -- and then, of course, the EUA also didn't have the same standard, I
25 think I said, of CMC data that one would expect to have in a BLA.

1 Q Now, were the standard EUA procedures followed throughout the COVID-19
2 vaccine approval process for as long as you were with the FDA?
3 A So there were several additional EUAs that were done while I was at the 4 FDA. Some of these involved expansion of the age group for vaccines, and there
5 generally the standard procedures were followed.
6 And -- and then in the fall of 2021, or August of 2021, there were two additional 7 EUAs that were -- that were authorized by the FDA for -- for immunocompromised
8 individuals who were to receive either the COVID or the Moderna vaccine or 9 for -- ultimately for individuals at -- of certain ages and in certain occupations to receive 10 booster doses.
11 And so, under those circumstances, arguably one could still say that those 12 authorizations met the statutory requirement for an EUA, but at that point, the reason
13 they met the statutory requirement for the EUA was quite different.
14 So for the immunocompromised, for example, the efficacy data was based on a
15 couple of published papers.
16 For a BLA, FDA always reviews the individual data and is in general not so trusting
17 of published papers because they can't see the data.
18 And there are many cases where FDA has seen published papers that are 19 published even in very prestigious journals and have rejected some of the conclusions
20 from those papers when they've had a chance to actually see the data.
21 So if the FDA relies on a published paper, one could still say that the product may 22 be effective, and one could still say, especially by that point, because we had a fair 23 amount of data on vaccine safety, and especially, for instance, if you're giving a vaccine to 24 the immunocompromised who were at great risk of getting very severe disease -- one 25 could say that the benefits, or the known and possible benefits outweigh the known and

1 possible risks.

2 At that point, one is shooting in the dark almost on how effective it is, but what

3 has more confidence in the safety. So I think it would be fair to say that if you looked

4 specifically at the EUA requirements, some people could interpret those EUA

5 requirements to have been met, but that -- but they would've been met for different

6 reasons.

7 And the same, of course, is true ultimately -- and this was after I left the FDA for

8 some of the booster vaccine EUAs, where, in August -- and I think you'll probably ask me

9 more detailed questions about this later, and so I don't want to go through that entire

10 story right now, but in August of 2021, there were announcements about the availability

11 of booster vaccines by September 20th.

12 And the intent, I think, was to make the vaccines available for everybody. The 13 discussions at the FDA's advisory committee ultimately supported making them available

14 only in a subset of people.

15 And in that subset of people, it's probably fair to say that that criterion was met,

16 but later on, one could have greater doubt as to whether that criterion was met when the 17 EUA was expanded -- for boosters was expanded to the entire population, for example,

18 above age 16.

19 Q And you said "one could say." Did you personally believe that there was 20 grounds to expand it to all age groups, or to everybody, however -- whatever the 21 classification would be?

22 A Well, there's is a lot of detail in the story, but I had, you know,

23 co-authored -- or was the first author, so I had written the first draft of an article in

24 September 2021 that laid out the data that supported giving boosters. And that article

25 fairly definitively showed that most people would be unlikely to receive substantial

1 benefit from a booster.

2 And so, my opinion was that there were probably some subgroups who would

3 receive benefit from getting a booster, but that for everybody it -- I did not think at that

4 time that one could say that the known and potential benefits exceeded the known and

5 potential risks for everybody.

6 Q And you're right, we will touch a little bit on that a little bit later, too. And

7 before I finish up my hour, I had just a -- one other question too.

8 You had said that the FDA had relied on a couple of published papers in

9 determining their -- the EUA for immunocompromised, and I believe you said for

10 the -- was it the immunocompromised and the booster, or did you say it for --

11 A Oh, I said it for the immunocompromised, but for the booster, there was an

12 advisory committee meeting at September 17th, 2021. And at that meeting, Dr. Marks

13 invited scientists from Israel to present data that had never been provided to the FDA for 14 review. So the first time anybody was seeing it was at that advisory committee meeting.

15 And Pfizer presented the results of a study that was -- had been briefly available in 16 preprint form, but also was not -- had not been submitted to the FDA for review.

17 So there, in contrast to typical advisory committee procedures for BLAs, at least,

18 data that FDA reviewers had never had a chance to look at was being presented to the

19 advisory committee to -- to, on the one hand, let them know the latest breaking news,

20 but at the same time, an important part of the advisory process, at least for BLAs had 21 been to allow the FDA to review those data.

22 So I can't say that that's an inappropriate thing to do in the context of an EUA,

23 because the standard for an EUA is much lower, and yet, it -- I think it highlights how 24 different the standard is.

25 And I know that your committee is interested in figuring out how to do better in

1 the next pandemic. And so, the one thing that I think could possibly be done would be
2 to require the FDA to, if they're going to issue an EUA, to explain for that given EUA why it
3 isn't a BLA, in other words, their independent assessment of the safety data, the efficacy
4 data, the CMC data, and what would need to be done.
5 And that way, people who are looking at an authorization would know, for 6 example, in the case of the -- one of these booster authorizations, that the efficacy data
7 was weak, but they also would've known, in the context of the original EUA, that the 8 efficacy data was strong.
9 And then, it would've provided a basis for a clearer interpretation of what the 10 FDA's assessment was.
11 I don't think it would require the FDA to do more work because they do these 12 assessments anyway, but it would be a different way of communicating which would 13 allow the lay public, the prescribing physicians, and other policymakers to really 14 understand in greater depth what the results of the FDA review was.
15 [redacted] Well, that is very helpful, but -- and I think that at this time, we'll go off
16 the record.
17 [Discussion off the record.]

1 [11:11 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Good morning again, Dr. Krause. If I could start just with a couple of --

4 A Actually, could I ask --

5 Q Yeah. Sure.

6 A I'm wondering if I could just clarify two things quickly that I just said --

7 Q Yeah, of course.

8 A -- to make sure that I got them right.

9 So, of course, what I -- I said that the Israeli data was presented, the Advisory

10 Committee had not been reviewed by FDA, but of course, I can't be certain that no one at 11 FDA saw those data, but those were not reviewed by the Office of Vaccines --

12 [redacted] Okay.

13 Dr. Krause. -- which was what I was aware of -- would've been aware of at the

14 time.

15 And just to be clear, when I was talking about the boosters meeting the EUA

16 standard, this referred to the original booster application, where Pfizer came in and

17 wanted a booster and everybody above age 16, and I disagreed that it met the EUA

18 standard in that age group, and, in fact, the Advisory Committee also disagreed it that

19 met the EUA standard for that group. And, ultimately, it wasn't -- it was authorized for a 20 more limited subset of people.

21 Later on, the FDA authorized boosters for broader groups of people, and in those 22 cases, I don't know what additional data the FDA had.

23 I actually, together with a colleague, published an editorial lamenting the fact that

24 the FDA did not convene an Advisory Committee to discuss that decision, so I don't know

25 what data they used to ultimately make that decision or if they had more data than they

1 had at the time when I was there and when the Advisory Committee recommended
2 against authorizing it that broadly.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q Okay.
5 A Sorry. Go ahead.
6 Q Oh, no worries. That's good. You're a very technical expert here, and I
7 want to defer to your expertise, and if you ever feel that you need to clarify something,
8 please absolutely feel free, because I myself am not a doctor, and I don't think anyone
9 else here is but you.
10 So I just wanted to back up a little bit before we get into the -- kind of the stuff
11 that you were discussing in the first hour. Can you just talk a little bit more broadly 12 about vaccines, and what are they, and do you believe that they're beneficial and why for 13 most people?
14 A Sure. So vaccines are regarded, at least in medicine, as one of the most 15 important inventions of all time in terms of their ability to prevent disease. And so, it's 16 because of vaccines that we've eradicated smallpox from the Earth; we have come close 17 to eradicating polio, although we're now failing again due to some problems, mostly 18 related to vaccine hesitancy; we have, I believe, unless this has changed, eradicated
19 rubella, or German measles, from the -- from this hemisphere.
20 And so, vaccines have had an enormously positive impact on human life and on 21 the quality of life, and quantity of life, around the world.
22 I can tell you a little bit about what vaccines are and how they work, if that's all
23 right.
24 Q Sure.
25 A I'll keep going.

1 Q You can keep going, and I'll keep asking.

2 A All right. Sounds good. So vaccines work by stimulating an immune
3 response against what is called an antigen. The antigen is the vaccine component that is 4 administered to a person. And so, the vaccine antigen provokes the same kind of 5 immune response that that person would get if they were infected with the organism that 6 that component came from.

7 And that immune response then, depending on the vaccine, can provide a lot of 8 protection. And many vaccines will protect you for life, even with a single dose; other 9 vaccines may require some additional doses to protect. Some vaccines are better at 10 protecting against certain outcomes than other vaccines are.

11 But at the heart of this is this idea of mimicking an infection for the body so that 12 the body then responds to it as though it were infected, so that when a person actually 13 gets infected they treat the real infection as though it were a second infection. And 14 because the immune system is ready for that, the severity of disease is normally less, if 15 the vaccine works, or the infection might be prevented all together.

16 Q Okay. So fair to say that there are both risks and benefits involved with 17 vaccination, generally speaking?

18 A That is true. While vaccines are generally very, very safe, vaccines also can 19 have side effects, and it's very important to pay close attention to people who receive 20 vaccines and to make sure we understand what side effects those vaccines might be 21 causing.

22 One of the biggest advances in vaccinology over the last 15 years or so has been
23 the ability to look at large databases of people who've received vaccines and compare
24 them with people who did not receive vaccines and to understand what even rare side 25 effects vaccines might be causing.

1 And so our ability to find even very rare side effects is much, much greater now,
2 and this ability keeps increasing every year than it has ever been at any time in history.
3 And so if these databases are not finding substantial side effects, that can give us a great
4 deal of confidence in the safety of a given vaccine.
5 Q And that's because of the advances in data analysis and just the way you can
6 see more statistically?
7 A That's exactly right, yes, so you can compare people who are
8 vaccinated/who are not vaccinated. You can look much more -- in a much more
9 granular way at time-dependent effects. So because many vaccine-associated adverse 10 events appear shortly after vaccination, things that occur in a certain time window after 11 vaccination might be more likely to be vaccine related than those that occur in a different 12 time window.
13 And so, all of these different ways in which very clever scientists have learned to 14 look at the epidemiology of vaccines has given us greater confidence in vaccine safety 15 than we've ever had.
16 Q Okay. And fair to say then, because you can see more from the data in 17 terms of the potential risks for vaccine, your standard might actually change, because you 18 have the capacity to understand these risks. You may expect more of yourselves as 19 public health advocates when you make a recommendation, because the information is 20 available to you, you need to analyze it and balance it all, as you've described?
21 A I think -- I see the FDA's primary role there as in being a fair presenter of 22 information, and of course they need to do this in the context of how the public is going 23 to look at vaccine side effects.
24 And so, an example of this, for instance, is that back when there was a lot of polio
25 everybody was very happy to take the oral polio vaccine, and even though the oral polio

1 vaccine carried with it a very small risk, maybe one in a million, of causing a disease that
2 was very similar to polio. But the risk of getting polio was so much greater, and the 3 devastating consequences for families and for children of getting polio were such that 4 nobody doubted that that small risk was worth getting the vaccine.
5 Over time though, a -- well, a killed polio vaccine became sort of used more,
6 because that vaccine did not carry even this one-in-a-million risk. And so -- and 7 eventually the oral polio vaccine, which carried that risk, was withdrawn from use in the 8 U.S., although it is still used in a few parts of the world. And so, the -- it's a combination 9 of things that play into the public's and regulators' willingness to accept risks.
10 The J&J vaccine against COVID became associated and was found using these 11 kinds of methods to cause a very rare but sometimes fatal disease. And I'm blanking on 12 the acronym, but it -- involving a clotting disorder and -- TTP -- no, it's not TTP. Anyway,
13 it'll come to me probably during Ms. Jag's time or at lunch, then I'll come back to you.
14 But in any event -- and, of course, the availability of other vaccines that didn't 15 have that side effect played a role in people's willingness to do without the J&J vaccine,
16 and eventually the J&J vaccine was withdrawn from the market here in the U.S.
17 And so this is just an example of how well these safety systems work and how 18 they can move us towards using the very safest vaccines.
19 Q Okay. So when you're talking about the risk-benefit analysis, just to be 20 clear, you've talked about the risks and that can be seen in the data, especially the big 21 data that is now available to scientists.
22 But on the benefits side, that is like the severity of disease, right? Like you have 23 some diseases that can be a very serious, life-threatening risk, and then you have others
24 that might not be so serious.
25 Can you talk a little bit about how the benefit fits into the analysis?

1 A It's an enormously important component of this. You know, one of the
2 important parts of the BLA analysis that the FDA needed to do for the Pfizer vaccine was a
3 formal and quantitative benefit-risk analysis of the myocarditis signal that had been 4 observed. And so, it was clear that, at that time, that a small percentage of people who
5 got either the Pfizer or the Moderna vaccine, the mRNA vaccines, carried a low risk of a
6 disease called myocarditis.
7 Now, myocarditis is an inflammation of the heart, which, in theory, should be 8 something that you would worry very much about, and in fact, this was the case.
9 When people started coming in with myocarditis, they were very carefully observed, and 10 it was very important to figure out what happened to them.
11 And over time, various things were learned about the myocarditis that was 12 associated with COVID vaccines. It tended to be more common in males than in 13 females; it tended to be more common in younger people; and the peak seemed to be 14 roughly the 16- to 18-year age group. And you could find different reported rates of 15 that myocarditis by changing the age span that one was looking at.
16 But it was common enough that it was very important to think about how to put 17 that in the context of the benefits of vaccination, especially from we're thinking about 18 approving a vaccine also for males in that particular age group.
19 And so, the analysis that the FDA did included an examination of myocarditis that 20 is caused by COVID itself, because COVID can also cause myocarditis.
21 Q Right.
22 A And, of course, one has to make assumptions of how quickly the population
23 would've gotten infected with COVID. But it became clear that even for the -- this young 24 male age group that had the highest risk of myocarditis, the benefits in terms of 25 preventing severe disease, hospitalization, and COVID-induced myocarditis greatly

1 exceeded the number of cases of myocarditis that the vaccine could possibly cause. So
2 that particular benefit-risk analysis was performed formally as part of the BLA.
3 Now, even then, when the BLA was ultimately approved, the FDA required that 4 Pfizer continue additional studies on myocarditis to understand more about what 5 happened to people who had myocarditis and to better define the frequency of 6 myocarditis. And so, the responsibility to keep looking at this didn't end with the 7 licensure of that vaccine.
8 What became known over time, and actually was already known at the time the 9 vaccine was licensed also, is that COVID-vaccine-induced myocarditis is much milder than 10 the typical case of myocarditis that I would've seen when I was an intern or that a typical 11 doctor would see.
12 And very often, while there would be some EKG abnormalities and there would be 13 chest pain and there would be clear evidence of an inflammation of the heart, it would 14 resolve fairly quickly and wouldn't have the same kinds of sequelae that myocarditis was 15 associated with other causes would've had.
16 And so that also helped play a role in this benefit-risk analysis by gaining a better
17 sense of what the risk side of that equation really looked at. But you really need to do 18 these kinds of quantitative analyses when one -- when you're looking at that kind of an 19 adverse event to understand how to put it into the context of the vaccine benefit.
20 Q And I don't want to digress too much, but because you brought up that 21 particular analysis with respect to myocarditis, I think what I heard you just say is that 22 COVID itself, there's evidence that COVID itself, the disease, causes myocarditis, correct?
23 A Correct.
24 Q And then there was this evidence that you discuss that the vaccine might 25 cause it in a mild form in some population, particularly younger men, correct?

1 A Right.

2 Q But because, you know, the decisions that the FDA and other people,

3 individuals are making when they decide to take a vaccine or not are actually affecting the

4 course of the disease. Fair to say? Like when people start to have access to the COVID

5 vaccine, people were -- more people were -- were being prevented from getting the

6 disease, correct? Like as the vaccine became more available --

7 A No, there's no doubt the vaccine was saving lives, yes.

8 Q Okay. But the end point, or the objective of this vaccine was not

9 necessarily to prevent infection, but to prevent COVID disease. Is that correct?

10 A Well, so that's an interesting question. The original clinical trials showed 11 that the vaccine prevented COVID disease, and that's what they were designed to do.

12 What people always care the most about with vaccines, though, is will they prevent

13 severe disease? Will they keep people out of the hospital?

14 And for COVID this was particularly important, because we were worried about 15 the hospitals getting overwhelmed.

16 Q Right.

17 A And if everybody got infected all at once and the hospitals got overwhelmed,

18 that could lead to worse consequences even for the people who didn't have COVID.

19 And so, hospitalization is actually the end point, and of course, death, that society

20 probably cares about the most.

21 The difficulty is, is that hospitalization is a pretty rare end point. And so, for

22 example, in the Pfizer vaccine trial, which enrolled around 43,500 total people, half in the 23 placebo group and half in the vaccine group, there were -- and now, since I'm under oath,

24 I could get the numbers wrong, but -- well, the efficacy was around 95 percent, which

25 means that there were, I think, over 160 cases in the placebo group, and a handful in the 1 group that had the vaccine of COVID disease.

2 If you looked at the number of people who had hospitalization due to COVID, or 3 severe COVID disease, and I don't remember exactly which one this is, it was nine to one.
4 There were nine people in the placebo group who had that and one in the vaccine group
5 that had severe disease. And that's not a big enough difference to statistically say that 6 the vaccine clearly protects against severe disease.

7 So we're stuck with a system that allows us to look at and to understand the 8 efficacy of a vaccine against milder disease. But, of course, what we care the most 9 about is its ability to prevent severe disease. And then, of course, we also care, if we 10 can achieve that, about its ability to prevent transmission to additional people.

11 But there's a general rule in vaccinology that, to my knowledge, is followed by 12 every vaccine, and as I've told you, I've been in this field for more than 30 years, and that 13 is that vaccines are always more effective at preventing severe disease than they are 14 preventing mild disease. I don't know of any counter example to that rule.

15 And they're also always more effective in preventing mild disease than they are 16 preventing infection. And, in fact, many vaccines, especially at times remote from 17 vaccination, don't prevent infection at all. One might be able to get evidence that the 18 person was infected, but they might not even know they were infected because they had 19 such mild disease, but these infections can occur. If an infection occurs or if a person 20 has mild disease, they probably have at least some theoretical risk of transmitting the 21 disease. And so, the efficacy against severe disease is also likely to be greater than the 22 efficacy against transmission.

23 But -- so, if you put this together for the Pfizer vaccine, for example, as it was 24 evaluated in December 2020, with evidence that there was prevention of any disease,
25 which included mild disease of 95 percent reduction, there would've been fairly high

1 confidence that it would also reduce severe disease by that much as well.

2 But -- so I'm just putting a little bit of a finer point on your statement, which is that

3 the goal really -- the number one goal has to be to keep people out of the hospital, and in

4 a pandemic like COVID, that had to be the number one goal. But a way of proving that

5 we were likely to reach that goal was by demonstrating efficacy for mild disease, for

6 symptomatic disease.

7 Q Okay.

8 A Does that make sense?

9 Q I think so. So telling you what you were looking at, it was helping you to 10 see what might be the case as you get more data?

11 A Right. Yes.

12 Q Okay.

13 A So if the vaccine was going to be highly effective against mild disease, we

14 likely had a good vaccine. But that wasn't necessarily the goal of vaccination, per se.

15 Q Okay. I want to go back a little bit to where I was trying to get to before,

16 again, with the general risk-benefit analysis that you do with any vaccine. You

17 mentioned that, especially I think in your example, the polio, one concern of public health

18 officials is what happens when people stop taking what is considered a safe and healthy

19 vaccine, and vaccine hesitancy is introduced into a population.

20 Now, when you have, you know, a population like in the United States or

21 anywhere else in the world, most of us don't understand vaccines and virology the way

22 that you do, we don't have that technical knowledge, and so we rely on experts like you

23 and agencies like the FDA to help make large public health decisions.

24 And can you tell us a little bit, just broad view, what is your concern, if any, about

25 vaccine hesitancy, like on the other end of the spectrum here? Is there any concern that

1 this committee should have in terms of the message that's sent when, you know,
2 politicians and other people with a pulpit are talking about this highly technical, you
3 know, subject? Do you think there's a risk on the side of promoting vaccine hesitancy
4 with respect to public health?
5 A There absolutely is. And vaccine hesitancy is obviously a danger, because 6 what it means is that people who would benefit from vaccines might be misinformed and 7 choose not to take those vaccines.
8 And there are, of course, many things that can contribute to vaccine hesitancy.
9 And overall, the public's confidence in the public health agencies overall, and in the 10 quality of decisions that are coming out of the public health agencies, whether it's the 11 FDA or the CDC, can play a role in vaccine hesitancy.
12 It's also the case that if people say that there are problems with vaccines that 13 don't exist, that can also contribute to vaccine hesitancy.
14 So there are -- the difficulty is that there are many contributors to vaccine
15 hesitancy, and I know that the public health agencies have spent a lot of effort trying to 16 figure out how to combat vaccine hesitancy, but it's a difficult thing to do, as I'm sure you
17 know.
18 Q Have you, since you were in the FDA or after you've left, have you followed 19 sort of the public debate that is in the news or in other media settings about the safety of 20 COVID vaccines? Do you pay attention to that?
21 A To some degree I do, yes.
22 Q And tell me what it is -- what is your reaction to that on, like, a high level?
23 What are your concerns, if any?
24 A So, of course, there have been some people who have misled some of the 25 data and have concluded that the vaccine has caused many deaths.

1 And the difficulty is that if you look at these databases, these are enormous
2 databases that include many, many people in them, and they include many people who
3 are vaccinated.
4 And it's not hard, if you include people who are vaccinated on every day of the 5 year, and you also know that people die every day of the year --
6 Q For any cause, right?
7 A -- for any cause, whether it's a traffic accident or something else, it won't be 8 difficult to find somebody who died of some cause within, in some proximity, to receiving 9 a vaccine.
10 And that's why these very rigorous statistical methods that I was talking about for 11 looking at these databases are so important, because they can tease that out and ask
12 whether the risk of dying or of something bad happening after vaccination is truly
13 different from the risk of what would have happened if one hadn't received the vaccine.
14 And so really, in the end, it's this aggregation of data and the ability to do these 15 kinds of statistics which is the only reliable way to figure out when one is looking at this 16 kind of data, whether it's showing a true vaccine adverse effect or something that is 17 spurious.
18 But I'll give you an example from my experience also, which -- since you're asking
19 about vaccine hesitancy, and maybe you'll come to this question anyway, but when I was 20 the associate director for medical policy and vaccine safety at -- in the Office of Vaccines, I
21 had the occasion to go to meetings where I would talk with parents and would hear from 22 parents of children who believed that autism had been caused in their child by a vaccine.
23 Q Right.
24 A And what would happen is that these were parents whose child had received 25 a vaccine, and some period of time not long after getting the vaccine, their child would

1 start behaving in a way that caused them to suspect autism.

2 And there would be nothing you could do to shake the belief of these parents that

3 this vaccine was somehow associated with autism in their child, because they saw it

4 happen in close proximity to each other.

5 But if you look at the entire population and ask how often are children receiving

6 autism diagnoses, and how often are they receiving vaccines, and are we seeing more

7 children receiving autism diagnoses in proximity to vaccines than not in proximity to 8 vaccines, the answer is that there isn't an association.

9 But if you're the one person who sees that, and especially if you're a parent, I

10 mean, that's something that has changed your life and you see the change in the life of 11 your child.

12 And so, that parent is always going to believe that that vaccine was associated

13 with autism and that there's nothing that you can do to shake that belief, in spite of the 14 fact that all of the most sophisticated methods that can be used will show that that 15 vaccine had nothing to do with autism.

16 And so, that's what one is up against when one is dealing with vaccine hesitancy,

17 people who have very real stories that they have lived and that are, for them, are 18 completely true and from their perspective represent unshakeable beliefs.

19 Q But as a scientist, with respect to that example, are you confident with your 20 position that those vaccines are not causing autism?

21 A 100 percent confident. That's exactly right, because the data that the

22 scientists can look at that becomes more powerful and stronger every year gives us

23 assurance that there is no association between the vaccines and autism, and that these

24 kinds of events are coincidences.

25 So likewise, the same thing is true about deaths after COVID, where if -- there may

1 be examples of people who got a COVID vaccine and might have died some period of time
2 thereafter, or may have had some other adverse event sometime thereafter.
3 But unless this is looked at in the aggregate to see whether other people who got 4 vaccines had the same thing happen to them and then had it happen more frequently
5 among people who received vaccines than people who didn't, then you simply can't say 6 that the vaccine caused that.
7 Q So when somebody, say this unfortunate parent, makes that association for 8 reasons that you can imagine because it's personal to them, that decision really becomes 9 problematic, I guess, when it's broadcast population-wide and people then have vaccine
10 hesitancy. They're worried that their child might get autism, even though they haven't
11 had the experience of the parent with the autistic child. They're hearing this message
12 kind of filtered through culture or media or whatever, and they're thinking there's a 13 danger here that really doesn't exist. There's no evidence that there's a causal 14 connection between the vaccine and autism, and so --
15 A That's exactly right, and of course those kinds of problems are amplified 16 through social media as well, because the reach of these stories ends up increasing.
17 Q And so it takes away -- this fear that's not based in science takes away from 18 the benefit that vaccines could provide to the population writ large. Is that fair to say?
19 A That is fair to say, yes.
20 Q And with respect to COVID, as you followed the kind of 21 disinformation/misinformation that has sort of proliferated in conversations, do you have 22 concerns about the way the general public, in this country in particular, but elsewhere
23 around the world, sees the risk benefit of COVID vaccines?
24 A So I'm less concerned now than I was before, because at this point many 25 people have been vaccinated and many people have already been infected. And we

1 know that even now getting vaccinated, even with just the original two doses, is still
2 pretty highly protected against severe disease.
3 And of course getting infected, the evidence suggests, is even more protective
4 than getting vaccinated, and many people who have been both vaccinated and infected,
5 many people have been infected multiple times.
6 So the urgency of COVID vaccines right now is nowhere near the level that it was 7 in 2020, for example. I think, overall, though, to the extent that the population or the 8 public starts believing that COVID vaccines are associated with adverse events, I'm almost 9 more worried that they will carry that over to other vaccines and that we'll have a
10 broader public health impact, because if they believe that COVID vaccines are causing 11 adverse events, it means that they've lost confidence in our public health apparatus, it
12 means that they don't believe what the CDC is telling them, and it means that they don't 13 believe what the FDA is telling them, and that disbelief is going to extend beyond COVID.
14 So, I'll say, I'm less worried about the ramifications for COVID itself than for other
15 diseases.
16 Q Okay. Let's talk about that. Actually, that is another subject I wanted to 17 get into. And you as a scientist, but also as a FDA government regulatory official have a 18 unique perspective in terms of, you know, how experts like yourself can affect the public
19 health. Like there's an element here of trust that the American people need in their 20 government in order to receive the expertise that people like you have with respect to 21 virology and vaccines.
22 Is that fair to say?
23 A It is fair to say, yes.
24 Q And what, in your opinion, is dangerous, if that is your opinion, about 25 undermining trust in Federal officials like yourself, and in regulatory agencies like the

1 FDA?

2 A So I'm a believer in transparency and openness, and so, to the extent that I

3 hope that Federal agencies can do a better job in a future pandemic, it's not that I intend

4 to undermine confidence in those agencies now. On the other hand, I do think it's

5 important to take stock of where we've been and figure out what can be done better and

6 see whether there were things that were done that themselves might have undermined

7 confidence in these agencies.

8 Q Now, you were at the FDA under multiple presidential administrations,

9 correct?

10 A Correct, yes.

11 Q And you've seen the operation of that agency with Republicans in control

12 and also with Democrats in control, right?

13 A That is correct.

14 Q Have you ever observed political influence from either party affect scientists'

15 ultimate decision-making at the FDA in a way that would affect the safety of the American

16 people?

17 A I need a moment to think about that, also because I have to go to the 18 restroom. Can I just take a couple minutes to run out?

19 [redacted] Sure. We can go off the record.

20 [Discussion off the record.]

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q We can go back on the record.

23 A Can I ask you to just repeat the question so I have it, if you can read it back.

24 Q Yeah. My question is, like, after having been at the FDA through various 25 administrations and both political parties, are you concerned, first of all, about the

1 motivation of FDA employees and their ability to make decisions that are based on
2 science and based on the motive of helping Americans outside of political influence?
3 Are you concerned about the employees at the FDA making the right choice?
4 A I have no concerns about that.
5 Q Do you have confidence in people in your position and the people around
6 you that they're doing their job with the motive of keeping Americans safe?
7 A I think -- I can certainly speak for myself, and my sense is that most people at 8 the FDA have that as their primary motivation.
9 Q If you had experienced something at the FDA that you thought, like, say, an 10 employee or somebody who was ordering you to do something, that would risk the 11 health of Americans that you thought was wrong, like asking you to make a decision that 12 was wrong, or to hide some information from the American people, what would have 13 been your response?
14 A If they asked me to do that, I would've said we can't do that.
15 Q Have you ever had to say that?
16 A No.
17 Q Okay. And as you sit here today, do you have confidence in the FDA as it's 18 constituted now under the current administration to make decisions with the well-being 19 of the American people in mind?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Okay. Let's go back to COVID.
22 A So, of course, before I took the break you actually did ask me a slightly 23 different question, which I'm happy to answer if you want me to.
24 Q Okay. Sure. Go ahead.
25 A Well, that was the question I asked you to repeat.

1 Q I'm sorry. I don't know how you characterized the first versus the second,
2 but if you had something else that you wanted to add.
3 Mr. Thomas Krause. The court reporter probably has the question.
4 Dr. Krause. You had asked a question about whether any administration had
5 done something that had some impact on FDA decisions, didn't you?
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q On your decision-making, yes.
8 A Is that what she said, on my decision-making? I mean, I'm happy to 9 answer.
10 Q Well, you can answer whatever you -- if you have something you want to 11 share, just go ahead and answer.
12 A No, no. I was puzzled by the question, so --
13 Q Okay.
14 Mr. Thomas Krause. It was about any administration whether political pressure
15 could affect the health of the American people.
16 Dr. Krause. I think -- is that right? It was a broader question.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q You can answer whatever you would like to answer. Like, you can, if you
19 have something that you want to share, share it.
20 A Okay. Well, so, I think it's been reasonably well-documented that there 21 was suspicion that political pressure led to certain decisions being made at the -- just to 22 start, at the FDA, early in the COVID pandemic.
23 So, for example, without very much data, hydroxychloroquine --
24 Q Right.
25 A -- was authorized by the Center for Drugs under the same EUA rules that I

1 was talking about earlier. And there, if you sort of follow the analysis that I described,
2 the hydroxychloroquine, although I was not in the Center for Drugs and wasn't involved in
3 evaluating drugs, there was very shaky, if any, there was zero credible data that that 4 would be effective in the thing it was being authorized for, which was COVID.
5 Q Can you just explain that a little bit further. So I didn't even realize that 6 that was the case. So hydroxychloroquine was authorized for --
7 A Hydroxychloroquine was an antimalarial --
8 Q Right. And --
9 A -- which was authorized by the FDA in early 2020 to treat COVID.
10 Q Under the Trump administration, correct?
11 A That is correct, yes.
12 Q Okay. And tell me how that decision was made, from your knowledge.
13 A Well, from my knowledge, I only know what I read in the papers, but it
14 seemed that political pressure led to that authorization because the President was 15 touting that as a cure for COVID, and soon afterwards the FDA authorized it.
16 Q Was there any data, to your knowledge, that supported the President's view
17 that hydroxychloroquine was an effective treatment for COVID?
18 A I was not aware of any such data. And ultimately, a couple of months later, 19 the FDA revoked that.
20 Now, also, later that year, the FDA authorized convalescent plasma to treat
21 COVID. So convalescent plaza is blood or plasma that is taken from people who have 22 recovered from COVID, and it was authorized to be used to treat people with COVID.
23 And this was viewed at the time as being very suspicious because the 24 announcement of this authorization, to which the NIH strongly objected, and I remember
25 looking at the data myself at the time, although it was not in my part of the Center for

1 Biologics, I did not think that the data suggested that it was really working at all.
2 And yet -- and I believe that people at the NIH also didn't think it worked. And
3 yet it was authorized, and people found the timing suspicious because it was authorized
4 on the eve of the Republican National Convention. And --
5 Q When was that? Do you recall the year?
6 A That would've been August 2020, I think.
7 Q Okay.
8 A No, August? No, no, earlier, I think.
9 Q Trump administration as well?
10 A That was the Trump administration.
11 Now, so those are certainly situations where political pressure influenced things
12 that the FDA did. So the question then is, was there political pressure applied also 13 during the Biden administration in the context of the BLA for COVID vaccines, or the 14 booster vaccination?
15 And, of course, in the context of the BLA, there was -- I have no direct evidence of 16 pressure applied specifically by the administration, but it certainly -- and we'll probably 17 get into this later, is that there is certainly evidence that there was applied
18 from -- pressure applied from outside of FDA to speed up that evaluation.
19 Q Where -- was that from a position you were in that you could feel that 20 pressure?
21 A Yes, absolutely.
22 Q Okay. And so what was your response to that pressure?
23 A Well, when that pressure occurred, initially, Dr. Gruber and I resisted that 24 pressure, but then as the history will show, we were both relieved of responsibility for 25 directing that review when we resisted that pressure.

1 Q And so what was the ultimate result -- I mean, I want to be very specific
2 about the decision. Now, with respect to the BLA for the COVID vaccine, are you talking 3 again about what you were saying in the first hour, the boosters for the particular -- for 4 the general population, or are you talking about --
5 A No. No, the boosters for the general population was an EUA not a BLA.
6 Q Okay. So you're talking about the licensing later?
7 A The licensing that occurred in August of 2021, yes.
8 Q Okay. And what were your concerns?
9 A Well, the -- the concerns there related to the speed with which the vaccine
10 needed to be evaluated, and --
11 Q And can you just map out the difference, like what your view was and what 12 the, you know, view was from the outside that was being advanced?
13 A So let me be clear, I'm not saying that this led to a safety problem for the 14 American people, but I am saying that this led to a credibility problem for the FDA.
15 Q Okay. Can you explain the difference. Like how can you be confident that 16 it didn't lead to a safety problem?
17 A Well, because to the questions that you've asked me, we've established that 18 when the FDA loses credibility that then potentially increases vaccine hesitancy.
19 Q Yes.
20 A And so, if the FDA behaves in a way that suggests that it is subject to outside
21 influences, whether it's through authorizing hydroxychloroquine or authorizing 22 convalescent plasma, or speeding up the review of a BLA and what came along with that 23 or speeding up a review, and actually having the FDA Commissioner before the FDA
24 was -- even conducted review and before one of the companies even submitted any data
25 say that a vaccine is going to be available for the American people in a month's time,

1 these things strongly suggest external pressure on the FDA. And this is not lost on the
2 American public.
3 Q So that concern --
4 A And the American public will lose confidence in the ability of the FDA to 5 make good and independent and science-based decisions.
6 Q So just so I understand, the concern that you're describing right there is 7 about the public perception of the FDA and how -- how able they are to resist outside
8 political pressure and let science prevail. Is that correct?
9 A Correct, yes.
10 Q Okay. And then you also said that there is this other potential concern, 11 which is safety itself. And I think that you said that your concern is more about the 12 public perception of the FDA's integrity, if you want to put it that way, and not so much
13 that there was actually a decision made at the FDA that ultimately sacrificed the safety of 14 the American people. Can you distinguish between those two?
15 A So the difficulty is I'm struggling with your definition of the safety of the 16 American people, because you started off with the correct proposition that the safety of 17 the American people depends on people's confidence in vaccines.
18 Q I see what you're saying, yeah.
19 A And so, if things happen that cause confidence in the public health
20 agencies to decline --
21 Q Okay.
22 A -- that does have an impact on the safety of the American people.
23 Q Okay. But is there a distinction in your mind between that kind of risk to 24 safety, which has to do with public perception and the ability to rely on the FDA in the 25 future, and an immediate threat to safety with respect to a specific vaccine, for example,

1 like COVID?

2 A And a recipient of a vaccine, of course those are different things, yes.

3 Q Okay. And do you think in the case of COVID vaccines that there was

4 ever -- that --

5 A And then -- so, by the way, what I'll say, though, is that for the examples I

6 gave under the Trump administration, my major concern there also was the hit to the 7 credibility of the FDA.

8 Q Yeah.

9 A Not that these fundamentally ineffective treatments necessarily led to major

10 safety concerns for recipients.

11 Q Right. Because if you took hydroxychloroquine, you're not going to die

12 most likely. You're just not going to help --

13 A Well, it turned out over time that when a lot of hydroxychloroquine was 14 given, there were more side effects than people expected.

15 Q Okay.

16 A But nonetheless, that's right. So I'm putting these on roughly the same

17 level --

18 Q Got it.

19 A -- where, to me, the concern is not that the political pressure is going to

20 cause a person who goes out and gets a vaccine to have a worse outcome because they

21 got the vaccine, but I do think that a perception of political pressure, whether it exists or

22 not, will affect the public's confidence in the public health agencies, which will then also

23 have an impact on vaccine hesitancy.

24 Q Okay. Because if they don't trust the FDA then they're not going to take 25 the next vaccine when we have another pandemic, right?

1 A Right. And as we said before, right, the same people who believe that
2 COVID vaccines are causing side effects or deaths or whatever, they're open to that
3 proposition because they don't trust the public health agencies. If they trusted the CDC
4 and the FDA, they wouldn't believe that.
5 Q Right.
6 A And so vaccine hesitancy is, at its heart, built on the credibility of the public
7 health agencies, as well as other things, so it's not just up to experts like me.
8 Q Right. And, you know, here's another level of analysis that I'm curious
9 about your opinion. So the FDA is regulatory agency, it's going to give 10 recommendations to Americans based on highly technical expertise, that frankly no one
11 can understand if they're not a doctor or an expert. But above the regulatory scheme,
12 the FDA is Congress itself, and the people that are organizing this interview here today.
13 And, in theory, we're here to try to get information from you that will help in 14 terms of the FDA being -- any kind of legislation that might affect the FDA in the future.
15 But also, like Congress, in my opinion, and I'm curious about yours, is not 16 completely outside of that process of either undermining or supporting faith in the FDA.
17 Like, do you have any thoughts or opinions that you would like to share about what this 18 investigation itself, and the information that is derived from this investigation and sent to 19 the public, what affect that could have on this problem that we might see in the future
20 with people not trusting the FDA?
21 A So, my sense is that there are people who already are not trusting the public
22 health agencies, which is why it is that we see people believing things that could not 23 possibly be true.
24 And so, I think it's important for the people in charge of the public health agencies 25 and the people who interact with them, to keep the importance of that credibility in

1 mind.

2 And I think that is a lesson learned that I don't mean to be applied more to one

3 party than another. It's -- and, of course, it would be unrealistic to imagine in a

4 pandemic that politicians would have no interest in these kinds of decisions when people

5 are dying due to a disease.

6 But my goal here obviously is to answer questions truthfully and to help as a

7 citizen, who has been asked by Congress to provide whatever information I can, to help

8 figure out what happened so that we can do a better job next time.

9 So I'm approaching it from that perspective, which is why I'm a -- I'm here

10 voluntarily. The --

11 Q So could you answer that question that you just posed to yourself? I mean,

12 what if anything could the FDA do differently or --

13 A Well, so the one thing I suggested to [redacted] and I do think that this would

14 help, is if the FDA needed to provide more detail about the nature of their evaluations of

15 products that are made available, especially under EUA, I think there's something about 16 the EUA process where the standard for an EUA is, of necessity, somewhat ambiguous.

17 In an emergency, it may be necessary to get something out with very, very little data if

18 there really is no choice, and that's a decision that needs to be made at that time.

19 And so, I don't think one can change the way that the EUA standard is written,

20 although other experts might disagree. But what I do think is that when the EUA

21 standard is used, the public physicians, actually even Albert Bourla, who tweeted out that

22 the Pfizer vaccine had been approved rather than it had been authorized, don't really

23 always understand the difference between an EUA and a BLA.

24 And, in fact, many of the questions that you guys are asking me here today come

25 down to what does it mean if something is authorized versus licensed, what level of 1 confidence do we have in the authorized versus the licensed product, and so forth.

2 And it seems to me as though just because the EUA process has this intrinsic
3 ambiguity, it also makes it a process that whether a politician intends to or not, can be
4 perceived to be influenced by politics.
5 And so if there were a way of making sure that when an EUA is used, the standard
6 that was applied for that EUA were made clear that the FDA's true assessment of why it is 7 that this is an EUA and not a BLA were made clear, then the public and physicians and 8 other public health authorities would have more to go on.
9 So, for instance, if under hydroxychloroquine, rather than simply say we think that 10 the product might be effective and that the known and potential benefits outweigh the 11 known and potential risks where somebody might say, well, this is a person who might 12 die anyway, so any theoretical benefit might outweigh any risk --
13 Q Right.
14 A -- somebody could look at that standard and say that hydroxychloroquine
15 met that standard.
16 Even though once the FDA authorized it, it almost certainly shouldn't have been 17 authorized based on what was known about its likely efficacy, and the fact this was an 18 antimalarial drugs, and antimalarial drugs don't have, in general, efficacy against these 19 kinds of viruses.
20 And so, if the FDA would've been -- would've needed to say with that 21 authorization, Well, we actually don't have any evidence for efficacy, and we're 22 authorizing this because we see this as a Hail Mary pass, then people might have viewed 23 that authorization differently from if it just came through as, the news report today, the 24 FDA authorized hydroxychloroquine. And then people go out and seek a drug that isn't 25 helping them and maybe keeps them from seeking things that might actually help them.

1 And so I do think that finding a way to convey better and stronger information
2 about the nature of any individual EUA could go a long ways to reduce the temptation, if
3 there were temptation for politics to influence the outcome.
4 But I also think that it would go a long ways to reduce a perception of political 5 interference as well, because if there -- if the data were very weak, and the FDA were 6 forced to say what the data were in that sense and divide it up in this way and provide a
7 clear explanation of why it doesn't meet the standard for licensure, why is it an EUA
8 instead, then it would make the EUA a less-tempting target for -- well, for politicians, but 9 then it also would decrease the likelihood that people would mistakenly believe that the 10 process had been politicized.
11 Q Right. Do you have any concerns -- this reminds me of another question
12 that, have you been following some of the work of this committee and other committees
13 in Congress that seek to deregulate lots of the American bureaucracy, but in particular,
14 the FDA and other agencies? Have you followed that effort?
15 A Not closely, but -- and, again, if you're asking for an opinion --
16 Q I am.
17 A Okay. So if this is an opinion, I'm safe under oath here, right? I believe 18 that regulation is a very important aspect of the American economy that distinguishes the 19 U.S. economy from the economy of many other countries, because what regulation
20 allows is for people to know the facts about the products that they're using; it allows, 21 well, for instance, people who buy stock to know the facts about the company they're 22 buying stocks in; it helps us assure that various safety standards are met. If you buy a 23 car without regulation, you don't know, for instance, if the airbags are going to work or 24 not, and but maybe you care about that.
25 And so, confidence in the economy does depend on having some level of 1 regulation, but it also requires on having very clear communication that surrounds what

2 that regulation is. And so, I feel as though I think getting rid of regulations for the sake
3 of getting rid of regulations will probably harm the U.S. economy, although I'm not an
4 economist. I do have an MBA.
5 Q I'm talking about the FDA in particular. Like, what if we had no FDA when 6 COVID hit, and how would -- how can you imagine that the American people would've
7 navigated this very technical cost-benefit analysis with respect to COVID?
8 A Well, we wouldn't have vaccines if there were no FDA, because without an 9 FDA there would've been no basis for a company to make credible claims that a vaccine
10 worked. And so, vaccines or purported vaccines that didn't work, would have just as 11 easy a time market -- being marketed as vaccines that did.
12 Q So do you think that the danger to the American people, if there is any, is 13 more from the people who work inside bureaucracies like the FDA, the sort of 14 technocrats who are making decisions based on their expertise, or from some other place
15 outside?
16 A I mean, there are plenty of dangers to the public, for sure. And so, maybe I
17 can ask you to be more specific. I don't think that the people who were working at the 18 FDA, by and large, are a major hazard to the American public, and yet you're giving me a 19 very vague and anonymous comparator. So it's hard to answer the question specifically.
20 [redacted] Okay. I have no more questions, and we can go off the record.
21 [Discussion off the record.]

1 [12:29 p.m.]

2 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Let's see. Now, Dr. Krause, I know that we touched on this a little bit

5 because you've clarified before that Dr. Marks had brought in a group of Israeli physicians

6 to review data by the FDA -- or to review data, but it had not been reviewed by the FDA.

7 Can you clarify what you had said? I think you said the Office of OV --

8 A Right. So at the advisory committee meeting on September 17th, where

9 the boosters were discussed, data that had not been reviewed by the Office of Vaccines

10 was presented to the advisory committee. And if this had been a BLA, surely the Office

11 of Vaccines would've reviewed those data.

12 The question always is, in the advisory committee process, you know, what are

13 the expectations of the advisory committee members, and how does this kind of data

14 that the FDA hasn't had a chance to carefully review, how should it play a role in ultimate

15 decisionmaking.

16 Q Did it play any role?

17 A Well, in the end, the advisory committee recommended against the full

18 authorization of boosters for everyone over age 16. They limited their authorization to 19 the elderly and people in certain -- certain jobs.

20 The immunocompromised had previously already had a booster dose authorized

21 for them, and so, the authorization at that meeting added the elderly and some

22 additional people, but was not an authorization for universal boosting which is what

23 Pfizer had requested and what had been announced previously by the Commissioner, the 24 CDC Director and the NIH Director, NIAD Director, as well as the President.

25 Q And whose idea was it to bring in the Israeli physicians? Was that a

1 decision made by Dr. Marks, or was it made by someone else, you know, above him, to
2 your knowledge?
3 A To my knowledge, what had happened prior to that advisory committee
4 meeting was that Dr. Gruber, who normally would've been in charge of the advisory 5 committee, was relieved of responsibility for that advisory committee by Dr. Marks.
6 And so, it would be reasonable to assume that it was Dr. Marks who brought in 7 those speakers, but -- but I do not know.
8 And I'll point out, right, it was -- and I think I said this before, that the data had not 9 been reviewed by the Office of Vaccines. It's quite possible that Dr. Marks or someone 10 else at the FDA had seen the data.
11 Q Okay. Perfect.
12 And kind of switching gears back to what we were talking about before during our 13 first hour, in your position at the FDA, specifically within anything with the vaccine
14 approval process for a BLA or an EUA, is it fair that -- or, I'm sorry. Scratch that.
15 Did you exercise any discretion, like, was it ever permitted by your role for 16 licensing, in licensing any of these products?
17 A I have to understand what you mean by "discretion." I'll give you a partial 18 answer, and you can tell me if that covers what you need. So, for example, early in the 19 pandemic, the FDA issued guidance documents that described what it was that the FDA
20 would expect to see for a licensed COVID vaccine, and then later in the pandemic, for an 21 EUA for a COVID vaccine. Excuse me.
22 And so that involved interpretation of the underlying regulations in the context of 23 FDA's understanding of vaccines and the situation, and those guidance documents that I
24 think ultimately were signed off on by Dr. Marks.
25 So, if by "discretion" you meant that the FDA had the ability to define how it was

1 interpreting the regulations, to me, that's an intrinsic component of what the FDA does,
2 is, if there's a regulation where they need to provide guidance to sponsors, it needs to be
3 done in context, and that was the purpose of providing those guidance documents.
4 But of course, once the FDA provided that guidance, they, in essence, take any
5 discretion away from themselves. And so it was important to put those -- that guidance
6 out early on in the pandemic so that everybody would know what to expect.
7 And of course, the guidance documents themselves are subject to public comment
8 and to further discussion as well. And so, it's not as though the FDA just picks
9 something, puts it in a guidance document, and that's the final word.
10 Q No, that does answer my question. That's exactly kind of what I was 11 wanting to know.
12 And can you explain, you know, based on some research -- cursory research I had 13 done, anything, what would be important to see in maybe post-vaccine rollout studies?
14 Like, what kind of role did you play in reviewing post vaccine rollout studies and why 15 they're important?
16 A So, are you talking about post-vaccine rollout studies after the original EUA
17 authorizations in December 2020?
18 Q Any of them. EUAs or BLAs in general.
19 A Well, so the FDA, of course, was very interested in making sure that there 20 was good and increasing safety data on these vaccines, because that obviously was 21 something that they did not have as much of, as one would have for a BLA right at the 22 time that the EUA was -- was done.
23 So some of these studies were conducted by the company, and some of these 24 studies were done by FDA and CDC. And of course, international health authorities
25 were also doing safety studies as well, and so FDA needed to keep tabs on those.

1 In addition, of course, there were missing data on pediatric use, and so it was
2 important to understand how well these vaccines might work in children as well. And so
3 those -- those studies needed to be designed and executed once the vaccine was made
4 available.
5 There were important studies that were -- were done, although perhaps not quite
6 under FDA's authority, to look at how well the vaccine was working during that rollout,
7 and to look over time at what was happening.
8 And I had the opportunity in the article that was published in The Lancet in early
9 September 2021, to summarize almost all of those studies. So I can tell you a little bit
10 more about that paper now if you want --
11 Q Yeah, we can talk about it.
12 A -- or you may have a separate question about that.
13 Q Absolutely. I've got it actually right here. We'll enter it as exhibit 1 for 14 the record.
15 [Krause Exhibit No. 1.
16 Was marked for identification.]
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q There you go, sir. And if you want to continue on with what you were just 19 saying in reference to this article, feel free, and I can jump to any of my other questions 20 about this.
21 A Sure. So -- so what we did in this article was we looked at all of the data
22 that had been published on how well vaccines were working. And so we looked at every 23 published study that included information, both about vaccine efficacy against severe 24 disease, and vaccine efficacy against mild disease.
25 And what I can say is, if you look at the co-authors, there's a long list of them, and

1 these include, well, myself, they include Dr. Gruber, they include colleagues from the 2 WHO, they include people from other countries who had contributed to WHO 3 consultations on this matter, and they also include people from -- who participated in the 4 Cochrane Collaboration.
5 And the Cochrane Collaboration is a highly respected group that aggregates data
6 from clinical studies in order to provide advice to doctors about the nature and quality
7 of -- of the medical literature and what conclusions can be drawn from that.
8 And so, this was a fairly highly trained and experienced group of co-authors, also 9 included people who, in my view, are some of the best statisticians in the world.
10 And together we looked at every study that had been published that could 11 possibly lay -- provide any -- any insight into whether vaccine-induced immunity was 12 waning over time.
13 And, of course, there had been some studies suggesting that vaccine-induced 14 immunity was waning, and this was one of the big questions that came up in this issue of 15 whether or not a booster might be needed.
16 Because in deciding that a booster should be given, it's important first to figure 17 out, is the booster needed? And then to figure out, you know, does it work, because 18 you really need both of those. If it isn't needed, then "does it work?" becomes a 19 meaningless question.
20 And so this was just looking at these -- these studies that had been published.
21 And you can look at these -- these four figures here that sort of summarize the findings of 22 the paper, which is that, on the X axes there, you have vaccine efficacy against any 23 infection, and at each of these four graphs on the Y axis, you have vaccine efficacy against 24 severe disease -- or against -- so we have any disease versus severe disease.
25 And what you can see is that in panel A, even in vaccines that had fairly much

1 lower efficacy against mild infections -- that's the 26 reports to the left -- the efficacy
2 against severe disease was still quite high, was close to 90 percent, based on a study
3 aggregation method -- actually, two different methods were used to put all of the data
4 together.
5 And, of course, if the vaccine continued to work very well even against mild
6 disease in these studies, they also continued to work very well against severe disease.
7 So this is showing that vaccine efficacy in all of these reports together was 8 retained against severe disease as being quite high.
9 And then panel B shows that regardless of which variant you looked at -- Alpha,
10 Beta, or Delta, and the Gamma perhaps a little bit lower, but for Alpha, Beta, and Delta
11 variants especially, which were the only ones which had been published at that time,
12 vaccine efficacy against severe disease was retained as being very high, even if it
13 appeared that vaccine efficacy against mild disease had started to decline.
14 Then panel C shows that this same finding is true regardless of what kind of 15 vaccine it is.
16 In the U.S. we only had mRNA vaccines at that time, and we had the J&J vaccine
17 which are the vector vaccines, but what you can see is, even for other kinds of vaccines
18 which were used in other parts of the world, the vaccine efficacy against severe disease
19 was, in general, retained much better than efficacy against milder disease.
20 And, of course, you see the inactivated vaccines were the least of the vaccines
21 against mild disease or severe disease. But you see the mRNA vaccines, especially when 22 you put all the 32 studies on mRNA vaccines together, you could see that when you
23 aggregated that data, that these vaccines were continuing to work well, no matter where 24 in the world you were looking.
25 Q So ultimately that's what you and these other doctors were trying to argue in

1 your article, that because the efficacy remained high after the initial vaccines, against
2 severe disease, that the booster would not be needed? Is that correct?
3 A Well, so, that was the inescapable conclusion, that a booster was not going
4 to have a significant impact on people's protection against severe disease.
5 And then the final panel, some people had said, well, people who got vaccinated
6 early in the pandemic were having greater infection rates than people who were 7 vaccinated later in the pandemic, suggesting that immunity might be waning.
8 But the difficulty with all these kinds of studies -- and here you see there was also 9 no difference in impact on severe disease -- but that difference could also have been 10 because people who were vaccinated early in the pandemic were, in general, people who
11 were already perceived to be at higher risk, because we tried to vaccinate the higher risk
12 people early in the pandemic.
13 So if that -- the difference even in mild disease there could've been just due to 14 differences in who was vaccinated.
15 So what's interesting is that we actually cited early data from the Israeli study that 16 was ultimately presented at the vaccines and related biological products advisory 17 committee, even in this study, which had a very small amount of data by the time we 18 wrote this article, had a little more data by the time they presented it at the vaccines and 19 related biological products advisory committee.
20 And we pointed out that this study actually could have significant biases in it that 21 were making it look like a vaccine was needed when it wasn't.
22 And what that Israeli study had shown -- well, reported, was that if you looked at 23 people who had received a booster dose, they seemed to do better than people who 24 didn't receive a booster dose.
25 Q And you're saying that study was biased?

1 A Well, we pointed out that that study could be biased.

2 Q Could be.

3 A What's interesting is that just a month or so ago, there was a letter to the 4 editor of the New England Journal of Medicine by a group from San Francisco, which 5 pointed out that this and several other studies from Israel were biased, because they 6 were able to go back and look at some of the primary data, and they showed that the 7 people who happened to get booster doses in Israel were fundamentally different from 8 people who did not have access to booster doses.

9 And the people who had access to booster doses were people who were perhaps 10 wealthier, had access to better healthcare and other things.

11 And you could find things that had absolutely nothing to do with COVID that also 12 distinguished those groups, which is proof of -- in that study, of what we call healthy 13 vaccinee bias, which means that if the people who get the vaccine, the booster, are 14 fundamentally healthier than the people who don't, it makes it look like the booster
15 helped those people.

16 But in fact -- so this was one of the main studies that had been relied upon in 17 deciding that boosters might be needed in the U.S.

18 And what was interesting was that the advisory committee, in considering this, did 19 not give huge weight to that, but nonetheless that was something that we pointed out in 20 this article.

21 So the conclusions that we came to were that -- that a booster probably wasn't 22 necessary in most people. These studies can't rule out the possibility there are some 23 people whom a booster would help, and indeed, probably did help the 24 immunocompromised and older adults.

25 Although the immunocompromised, it's a hard question. They were getting

1 COVID at a very high rate, but one of the reasons is because they didn't respond well to 2 the vaccine in the first place.
3 And so an additional booster might not have helped them that much either, but it
4 was certainly a reasonable thing to try.
5 [redacted] Can I ask?
6 [redacted] Go ahead.
7 [redacted] Why would -- in your experience, why -- either you know the 8 answer or in your experience -- why would the advisory committee not take into account
9 the potential for this biased model, as you put it?
10 Dr. Krause. Well, but they did, in the sense that they ultimately came up with a 11 recommendation not to recommend booster vaccination in everybody.
12 [redacted] Okay. I --
13 Dr. Krause. So when they met, they actually came to conclusions not so different 14 from the ones that my co-authors and I had come to in this paper.
15 [redacted] Okay.
16 [redacted] You also -- oh, I'm sorry. Go ahead.
17 Dr. Krause. Can I just finish?
18 [redacted] Yeah.
19 Dr. Krause. There were sort of just a couple of things that we pointed out as 20 consequences of this. And, of course, this paper was published on September 9. This 21 was actually based on a meeting at the WHO that was held on August 13th that brought 22 together experts from around the world.
23 I mean, you can see that this collaboration of people who were putting this data 24 together didn't arise out of nowhere, but it really came out of a lot of robust and 25 international scientific discussions to try to come up with a clear-eyed answer of what the

1 data was showing.

2 And so, we concluded that probably boosters were not needed for most people.
3 We pointed out that if given that boosters were not going to help many of the people
4 who might otherwise take them, that giving doses of vaccine, regardless of where in the 5 U.S. or in other countries or whatever, that one would be using as boosters as primary 6 vaccination shots would clearly save a lot more lives, because the first two doses of 7 vaccine is really what it took to get people that high level of protection, and that high
8 level of protection against severe disease.

9 So we pointed out that we could save more lives if -- if the booster doses -- well, if 10 doses that people wanted to use as both boosters were doses that might otherwise be 11 unnecessarily used as boosters, were purposed differently.

12 And the other thing we pointed out was that, given that difference, it seemed that 13 to the degree that public health authorities, the media focused on boosters, that actually 14 might undermine confidence in the original vaccines in the first place.

15 Because if the message is, you need to go out and get a booster, and the message
16 also is, you should get your first two shots, you're sort of telling people, well, these first 17 two shots aren't expected to work that well.

18 And so -- so the booster message may actually have even undermined, to some 19 degree, the message that was clear, which was that the first two doses were going to be 20 highly protective and would save lives.

21 And so, these were the points we made in the article, and honestly, I think these 22 points are, you know, turned out to be correct because it was based on very solid science
23 with good scientists, excellent scientists, who did a very comprehensive study.

24 So this is not really an opinion piece. It's -- it's data and an effort to then figure 25 out what the sequences of those data are.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And you also mentioned, I see like at the bottom of the first page of this
3 article, you noted that there could be risks if boosters are widely introduced too soon.
4 Is that concurrent -- or is that kind of what you were suggesting before, that the booster
5 message could undermine the original vaccination messaging if people weren't all 6 vaccinated yet, or were there possibly other risks if boosters were introduced to the 7 public too soon?

8 A I don't recall whether we said that explicitly in this article.

9 Q Oh, I'm sorry. It's at the bottom of page 1, and it's a piece of -- it's at the 10 bottom of page 1 in the first column. It says, Although the benefits of primary COVID-19
11 vaccination clearly outweigh the risks, there could be risks if boosters are introduced too
12 soon or too frequently, especially with vaccines, that can have immune-mediated side
13 effects, such as myocarditis, which is more common after the second dose of some mRNA
14 vaccines or GB Syndrome -- I can't fully --

15 A Guillain-Barre, right.

16 Q Yeah.

17 A Right. Just so -- so I couldn't remember if we'd raised those specific 18 outcomes. But yeah, so the myocarditis at that time was believed to be potentially 19 immune-mediated, which might have suggested that the more you stimulated someone's 20 immunity, the greater the risk of myocarditis.

21 Likewise, Guillain-Barre syndrome is an immune-mediated side effect, and so,
22 there might have been some risk that with additional doses of vaccine, one might have an 23 increased risk of that.

24 The Guillain-Barre syndrome was observed mostly with the J&J and Astrazeneca
25 vaccines, which weren't used very much in the U.S., and so it's not clear whether that

1 came to pass. It turned out with additional data that additional doses of the -- of the 2 mRNA vaccines didn't lead to a higher risk of myocarditis.
3 Although there was still some small risk of myocarditis even with additional doses,
4 so -- but time there was -- at the time there was no way to know whether, if one were to 5 give a lot of extra doses of mRNA vaccines, what the safety of that would be, and so this 6 was just a cautionary note.
7 Q And you had mentioned the J&J vaccine. Can companies like Johnson &
8 Johnson and Pfizer and Moderna ultimately be held liable, like, from American citizens if 9 they suffered those types of injuries from a vaccine produced by them, from your 10 experience?
11 A So --
12 Mr. Thomas Krause. If you know. It's a legal question.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q If you know. From your experience.
15 A So it is a legal question, and so I'm not deeply familiar with the liability laws, 16 and yet, one of the things that makes these vaccines feasible are the protections under 17 the rules that make EUAs feasible in the first place.
18 And so, whether the company can be held liable or not, I'm not sure, but I believe 19 that the companies have some protections against liability under these circumstances.
20 Q And kind of going back to this article, too, do you believe that the data
21 collected since you published this article, do you think that vindicates the concern you
22 expressed in 2021 which may, at that time, have not been popular? People, at that 23 time, I think people were expressing the need for boosters, but it sounds like you and 24 Dr. Gruber and some of these other physicians might've been in the minority at that time
25 for thinking that boosters weren't needed? Am I wrong in understanding this?

1 A Well, at the time that we published this, at least the advisory committee
2 ended up mostly agreeing with what we were saying.
3 You know, the difficulty is that at that time, we had -- well, the Delta variant,
4 which had people very concerned because it seemed to be causing severe disease.
5 Although, as you can see from this paper, not so much in people who had received the 6 vaccine, but was causing severe disease in people who had not been vaccinated.
7 And there was some worry, I would say, among people who hadn't done this 8 careful an analysis that if vaccination efficacy was going to wane against mild disease, that 9 waning efficacy against severe disease might be far behind -- might not be far behind.
10 And so the worry there was that -- that the Delta virus, or, perhaps, ultimately the 11 Omicron virus might change the equation.
12 The -- my own opinion at the time was that it was unlikely that that would be an 13 issue because it seemed that longer-term protection was mediated by cell-mediated 14 immunity, which is a kind of immunity where the cells in your body attack cells that are 15 infected with the virus and controls the infection that way.
16 That's different from what scientists call humoral immunity, which is where 17 antibodies attack the virus and can sometimes control the infection even before it gets 18 started.
19 Q Not to interrupt you, but which of those two is what is commonly referred to 20 as natural immunity, do you know? Like, I know how everyone's just like natural 21 immunity can be equal --
22 A Both.
23 Q They're both?
24 A Both.
25 Q Okay.

1 A So -- so natural immunity is a term that as I understand how it's been used, is 2 simply meant is simply meant to describe the immunity that somebody has after they've 3 been infected.
4 And after somebody's been infected, they have a combination of antibodies,
5 humoral immunity, and cell-mediated immunity.
6 And so, the -- it seemed the humoral immunity was more important in protecting 7 against mild disease, and the cell-mediated immunity, once the humoral immunity had 8 waned, was more important in protecting against severe disease.
9 And so, if you have only humoral immunity, you would've been protected against 10 both, but it's just that the cell-mediated immunity would take over once the humoral
11 immunity started to wane. And people would have both anyway that would contribute 12 to controlling an infection.
13 So, that's a biological explanation for why it is that people had reduced experience
14 over time, reduced efficacy against mild disease, because the antibodies started waning, 15 but the cell-mediated immunity did not. So that continued to protect them against 16 severe disease.
17 So it's even deeper immunology then to think about what it is that is being 18 protected against by humoral versus cell-mediated immunity. And the cell-mediated 19 immunity was directed at parts of the virus that didn't change as much, and so, the 20 cell-mediated immunity is longer lived than the humoral immunity and is much more
21 resistant to variants because those parts of the virus aren't changing when new variants
22 evolve.
23 Q So those -- the natural immunity, which obviously covers both the cell -- the 24 term just escapes me. Is the cell immunity versus the -- 25 A Humoral.

1 Q -- humoral, both of those fall under the category of natural immunity?
2 A But they also both fall under the category of vaccine-induced immunity.
3 The mRNA vaccines also induce both.
4 Q Okay. And do all of -- I guess any of the data that was collect over the 5 last -- or over the last 2 years, does that -- I don't know the word I'm thinking of is -- like,
6 does that kind of fit in and agree with this article that you've published as far as the need
7 for boosters?
8 A Overall, the data is pretty consistent with what we published here and is 9 pretty consistent that the cell-mediated immunity protects people against infection.
10 Now, over time, even the cell-mediated immunity can wane, but certainly at this
11 time, it was very clear that there was no need for boosting --
12 Q And --
13 A -- in most people.
14 Q And you said the people that it would be needed in -- or at that time, the 15 data suggested that it would be needed for the elderly and the immunocompromised.
16 Were those the two main categories that were needed?
17 A Those are the main categories where the data suggested that a booster
18 might save lives, yes.
19 Q Okay. And then I'm briefly going to touch on something before I switch
20 gears again because we've already discussed a little bit about the September 17th
21 advisory committee meeting.
22 Do you recall during that meeting conveying skepticism about Pfizer's possible
23 misrepresentation of data or withholding any data?
24 A So "misrepresentation" is a strong word. During that meeting I did have an 25 opportunity to briefly, for probably just 2 or 3 minutes, talk about one of the studies that

1 Pfizer had presented at the meeting. And this was also a study in which Pfizer claimed
2 showed waning of immunity.
3 And this was also a study which had not been provided to the Office of Vaccines at 4 least, for review prior to that meeting. So this was an analysis that -- I presented an 5 analysis during this meeting that I generated on the fly during the meeting.
6 But it seemed as though there were inconsistent results within different pieces of 7 data that were presented there.
8 Pfizer requested that the authors of the studies come on, and the authors insisted 9 that they had used completely standard methods to generate those results, but 10 nonetheless without having the ability to understand exactly how those results were 11 generated, without having the ability to actually review those data in advance, it's -- even 12 to this day, it is not clear to me that their analysis was correct.
13 Q Did that happen often throughout this time in the pandemic where maybe 14 any of these pharmaceutical companies if they had presented data -- was this a rare
15 occurrence that, like, Pfizer presented data that the FDA, or at least the OVRR had not 16 had the chance to review prior to, that you guys were expected to?
17 A So -- so the first time I saw changes in the type of data that were being 18 presented to support the EUAs, was with the EUA for the immunocompromised, where 19 that EUA was based almost exclusively, at least for the Moderna vaccine, on published 20 articles.
21 And one of those published articles was actually not with the Moderna vaccine. I
22 believe it was with the Pfizer vaccine. So I think there was one article about the 23 Moderna vaccine in the immunocompromised with a relatively small number of people.
24 And yet, I, at that point, given the situation in the immunocompromised who 25 otherwise did not have much that they could use to help them, and the fact that many of

1 them were ending up in intensive care units if they got infected, in spite of the fact that
2 they'd received two doses of vaccine, it seemed almost as a Hail Mary that it was 3 reasonable to give that specific population a -- an opportunity to get another dose of 4 vaccine because they otherwise had nothing.
5 And so, I think that although that EUA was based only on published papers, it did
6 meet the EUA standard. It was reasonable to assume that the -- well, that it might be 7 effective, of course, which is a very low standard, and that the known and likely benefits,
8 or known -- not likely -- known and possible benefits exceed the known and possible risks.
9 Well, the known and possible risks in that population were low, but the possible 10 benefit was potentially life-saving because so many of these people were getting very,
11 very ill.
12 And so that was a population in which it seemed like the EUA standard was met
13 even when the quality of the data was not at the level that the FDA would've requested
14 for a BLA. So that appropriately was an EUA.
15 Q Who made that determination, though, to your knowledge, that even if the 16 data wasn't as -- the word you said, like if it wasn't as, you know, broad of a data set, or if 17 it wasn't something that you all didn't get the chance to evaluate, it was just based on 18 published papers -- how often did that happen, and also, who made the determination 19 that, yep, just because we're going to rely on these published papers for, you know, our 20 decision, an EUA would be given?
21 Mr. Thomas Krause. You can use your judgment on deliberative process
22 privilege on that one.
23 Dr. Krause. So --
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q You mentioned the Moderna ones. That's why I was thinking if there were

1 other instances.

2 A So -- so that particular one was not reviewed at all within the Office of

3 Vaccines, I'll say that. And so those decisions were made -- that final decision

4 was -- so -- but I actually don't remember who signed that.

5 Q Okay. And then, but other than that instance with Moderna where you

6 had to rely on -- or I guess where the FDA, not saying you necessarily, but whoever would

7 make that final decision on if an EUA should be granted based on the data presented

8 from these published papers, but not from, you know, your office's ability to study and

9 evaluate, you did it yourself, how often had that happened to your recollection, or was 10 that the only time?

11 A At that time that was the only time I was aware of, but then of course at

12 least some of the data that was presented in favor of boosting the more general

13 population also was of a different standard.

14 Q And it was of a different standard for the EUA or --

15 A Well, so it's in -- Pfizer originally submitted the booster dose as a

16 supplemental BLA, with the idea that that might be included under their license. But in

17 the end, FDA authorized the booster in the elderly and in people with certain

18 occupational situations as an EUA.

19 Q What's the difference? And this is purely coming from, again, as we've

20 discussed, like none of us are doctors, but like the difference between a supplemental

21 vaccine under the BLA versus an EUA, like, is there a difference in those considerations?

22 A So a BLA is still a license application. So a supplemental BLA has to reach

23 the licensure standard whereas the -- which is as I described, right -- safe, pure, and

24 potent -- whereas under the EUA, it just needs to meet the EUA standard, which is, may 25 be effective and known and possible benefits outweigh the known and possible risks.

1 And so, the FDA somewhere in there, and I do not recall where, decided that this
2 booster, even just in the elderly, could be authorized but not approved because they
3 didn't think that the data met the standard for approval.
4 Q Well, I'm going to switch gears a little bit, going back to a little bit about the 5 BLA approval process, and this is going to go into talking a little bit about, during the 6 summer of 2021, do you recall working with Dr. Gruber on a timeline update for the 7 Pfizer COVID-19 BLA in July of 2021?
8 A I do recall that, yes.
9 Q Okay. And we're going to admit this as exhibit 2.
10 [Krause Exhibit No. 2.
11 Was marked for identification.]
12 Dr. Krause. Can I just take like a 3-minute bathroom break?
13 [redacted] Absolutely, of course.
14 We'll go off the record.
15 [Discussion off the record.]
16 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q Going back to where we were just getting ready to discuss a time in July of 19 2021 --
20 A Sorry. Let me mute this.
21 Q Oh, of course.
22 A It's a junk call anyway, a scam likely.
23 Q I get those too.
24 A All right.
25 Q We were just getting ready to talk about a time when you and Dr. Gruber

1 were asked to provide a timeline update for the Pfizer COVID-19 BLA in July of 2021, and I
2 had just passed out what we've marked as exhibit 2.
3 And this is a previously FOIA'd email from Dr. Marks to Dr. Gruber -- oh, I'm sorry.
4 One moment, actually.
5 A Is that the right one?
6 Q I'm going to make sure it is.
7 Oh, yes, this is correct.
8 Okay. So this is a timeline that you all had provided, and it's marked at the 9 bottom, Bates-stamped FDA-OC-2021-5574-000355 through 000357.
10 Do you recall being copied on this email -- or I'm sorry -- yes.
11 A Yes, I do.
12 Q In this email, Dr. Gruber also copied Mary Malarkey and Steven Anderson.
13 Who is Mary Malarkey?
14 A Mary Malarkey, at that time, was the director of the -- of OCBQ, which, if I'm 15 remembering the acronym correctly, is the Office of Compliance and Biologics Quality, 16 and I described the function of that office earlier.
17 Q Yes. And then who is Steven Anderson?
18 A At that time, and possibly still, Steven Anderson is the head of the Office of 19 Biostatistics and Epidemiology, another office which I described earlier today.
20 Q Do you know if either of them are still working at the FDA?
21 A I know that Mary Malarkey retired because she invited me to her retirement
22 party. I do not know if Steven Anderson is still at FDA or not.
23 Q Why, to your knowledge, would they be copied to this email on the timeline
24 for the BLA, out of curiosity, if you're aware?
25 A The -- the two of them would've contributed to the development of the

1 timeline, because the review of the BLA would've depended -- or did depend on activities
2 in multiple FDA offices. So the full review of the BLA depended on, for instance, a 3 benefit-risk epidemiological analysis of the myocarditis, which was being spearheaded by 4 people in Dr. Anderson's office.
5 And the approval of the BLA -- not -- yes, the approval -- sorry, I'm using the 6 correct word here -- would've depended, or did depend, on activities within 7 Mary Malarkey's office as well in terms of certain aspects of the chemistry,
8 manufacturing, and controls review, inspections, and things like that.
9 Q And to this email, Dr. Gruber had attached a document that was the updated
10 Pfizer COVID approval timeline, and it started in May of 2021, and ended on September 11 15th of -- September 15th, 2021. Is that correct?
12 A That's correct.
13 Q Now, in her email -- and feel free that if you need to take any time to review
14 it as we're walking through it, you absolutely can do so -- in her email, she had wrote that 15 the bar graph reflects target completion dates. Some of these pending timely sponsor 16 response to information requests which we have been and are sending as we review the 17 info contained in the submission.
18 Can you explain what that means?
19 A So maybe to explain this graph, I need to take you back in time some weeks,
20 and explain what the action due date is and all of these things in the context of the BLA --
21 Q Absolutely.
22 A -- which will give you sort of a bigger picture of what this is, which then may 23 enable you to ask more specific questions.
24 Q And while you walk us through that, I'll actually take this moment to 25 introduce another email exhibit that I think it includes a memo that maybe will help you

1 with what you're possibly going to walk us through.

2 A Sure.

3 Q And feel free to get started if you would like. I'm going to admit this into

4 the record as exhibit 3 --

5 A Sure.

6 Q -- while I get it, but feel free to start.

7 [Krause Exhibit No. 3.

8 Was marked for identification.]

9 Dr. Krause. So what you can see on the left here is that the first part of the BLA

10 submission came to FDA on May 6th. The so-called roll 2 of the BLA's mission, which 11 means that as of that point the submission was complete, came in on May 18th.

12 Now, according to the normal Prescription Drug User Fee Act deadlines for a

13 priority review -- and this is the requirements that FDA agrees to -- a priority review like

14 this would be completed within a total of 8 months.

15 So, of those 8 months, the first 2 months are consumed with a filing review to 16 determine whether the application is materially complete, and the remaining 6 months

17 are spent on the review.

18 So if you take those 8 months from the May 18th date that the BLA was

19 considered complete or was considered completely filed, when Pfizer asserted that

20 everything had been submitted, that would give a -- a PDUFA, which is how we say

21 Prescription Drug User Fee Act, a mandated action due date of January 18th, 8 months

22 from May 18th.

23 The -- it was clear, based on the COVID situation, that January 18th would

24 be -- was longer than what we thought -- and this would be Dr. Gruber and I -- would

25 want to wait to take action -- final action on this BLA.

1 And so -- and I do not recall exactly how this happened, but we reached an
2 agreement with Dr. Marks that we would target completion in mid-October. And I can't
3 remember exactly when we reached that agreement with him, but it would've
4 been -- well, sometime probably in late June, give or take.
5 Dr. Marks agreed with that, but then, not long afterwards, he came back and said,
6 I think mid-October is taking too long for this, I'm worried about -- whatever he was 7 worried about. I don't know what -- I'm quoting something I don't know that he said,
8 but he said, Can you do it faster than that? And he suggested that we try and complete
9 it by September 15th.
10 And so, Dr. Gruber and I went back and we talked with the people in the Office of 11 Vaccines, as well as the people in these other offices and asked whether they thought if 12 we worked very hard at this, we could finish it by September 15th.
13 And keep in mind that when we're telling Dr. Marks that we can finish it by 14 September 15th, that doesn't mean that's necessarily how long it must take, but we 15 assumed that he was going to take whatever date we gave him, and he was going to tell
16 other people that it will be done by that date. And other people might do things relying 17 on it being done by that date.
18 [redacted] Who might those other people be?
19 Dr. Krause. Hard to know but people outside the center perhaps who maybe 20 needed to figure out how to distribute vaccine, for instance, or things like that.
21 It's -- it's -- so -- so we were nervous about providing a date that we were not 100 percent
22 sure that we could meet.
23 And so we, after going back to the various people within the office and in other 24 offices, gained confidence that we could agree to complete the review by 25 September 15th.

1 Well, not long afterwards, he came back again and said, we are going to need this
2 to be done faster than September 15th but on an earlier date. And based on that,
3 Dr. Gruber and I, again, looked to see what might be feasible, but of course we already 4 had an idea what everybody was telling us about what they thought was feasible, and we
5 came back to him and told him, based on the memo that is exhibit 3, which I don't think I
6 have a copy yet of --
7 [redacted] Oh, I'm sorry. It's over there.
8 Dr. Krause. Oh, there it is. There it is. Okay. There it is, yes -- which we 9 sent on July 15th, explaining why it was why we didn't think we could promise that this 10 could be done faster than September 15th.
11 So -- and, of course, this was -- but of course the timeline that it actually would 12 take to complete a review was dependent on many things that were outside the control
13 of the Office of Vaccines, including what might happen in these other offices, including, in 14 particular, very often during a BLA review, there's very robust communication between 15 the reviewing offices and the sponsor.
16 And so, in fact, what Dr. Gruber's email that you asked me about says, was that 17 there were some pending sponsors requests for information.
18 So in other words, FDA had sent information requests to the sponsor to interpret 19 what Pfizer had sent in, and we did not yet have answers back from Pfizer on those 20 information requests.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q And those were needed in order to determine the --
23 A Well, those were needed to complete the review, but the concern was there
24 would be additional information requests too, and the Office of Vaccines had no control
25 over how long it would take Pfizer to respond to those.

1 And so, this just gets to this point where it was very difficult to predict in advance
2 how long it would take to complete the review and -- but when asked to promise a date,
3 obviously that had to include a worst-case scenario in terms of what else needed to be
4 done, how long it took to do the overall benefit-risk analysis, coordinating the dozen or so
5 different reviews which needed to be done in order to complete the BLA review, as well
6 as then what the company was going to provide in response to requests for information
7 and how quickly they would be able to do it.
8 Q And who was asking you to make a promise on a deadline?
9 A Dr. Marks was requesting that we -- that's what the ADD is. So it's an -- in 10 this case, it's -- the action due date, as entered in the computer, would've been 11 January 18th. But the question is, what is the intent, when are we actually going to get 12 this done?
13 And so Dr. Marks was requesting that it be done sooner than September 15th
14 and -- but he did not provide a suggestion of how quickly he wanted it done. But he said
15 sooner than the 15th.
16 Q And is that ADD, that action due date you've described, is that something
17 that's normally publicized to, you know, to the American public, or is that something 18 that's, like you said, something for your all --
19 A That's intended to be something that is kept within the FDA.
20 Q Was it, in this situation, to your knowledge?
21 A I do not know whether that was kept within the FDA. Although I note that 22 CNN, in Marion Gruber's email to Dr. Marks, announced on that very day -- and actually, I
23 saw this email from a Judicial Watch F-O-I, so I actually was able to find the CNN article
24 where they said that it will be completed within 2 months of July 15th, which is a pretty 25 sure way of saying September 15.

1 So it seemed that the September 15th ADD, as had been agreed prior to this email
2 with Dr. Marks, had found its way outside of the center.
3 Q Is that -- was that common, or was that something that -- was that
4 happening, where this information about a projected timeline for when the vaccine
5 would be approved, was that common, or was that -- did that seem like a rare occurrence
6 to you for your time in the FDA?
7 A So I -- I would say that was -- from my time at the FDA was very rare.
8 Within COVID, I'm less certain, but I can't give you a specific example.
9 Q No, that's okay.
10 [redacted] Do you have a personal opinion on who -- on how or who may be
11 responsible for this ADD-projected date being leaked to the public or the media?
12 Dr. Krause. Well, I'm 100 percent sure that it was not leaked from within the 13 Office of Vaccines, and I can't speak to where else it might've been leaked. It's 14 conceivable that this was -- information was provided to the acting commissioner. It's 15 conceivable that it was provided to the White House task force.
16 So figuring out where -- I don't know who else knew this, so I can't hazard a guess
17 as to who -- who would've leaked that information.
18 [redacted] Now, what, if any, effect does this sort of public exposure place on 19 your office at the time?
20 Dr. Krause. Well, at the time, at that moment, we were pretty confident that the 21 review could be completed by September 15th, and so thought that by following our 22 usual processes, that could be -- could be done.
23 Although one possible exception to that is, is that if it were going to be completed
24 by September 15th, it would not have been possible to take this to an advisory 25 committee. And I don't recall what discussions we had internally on whether this should

1 go to an advisory committee.

2 This, however, is the type of thing that, in order to gain public confidence in FDA's

3 process, one might prefer to send to an advisory committee. And so, even the 4 September 15th date would not have allowed sufficient time for that.

5 [redacted] Is that an important step in making your determination for a BLA,

6 having an advisory committee?

7 Dr. Krause. So not all BLAs go for advisory committees. And, of course, if there

8 are critically important issues that require outside advice, it's essential for those to go to 9 the advisory committee.

10 My sense is that we already had very strong efficacy data. We had a substantial

11 amount of safety data at this point, in some studies, almost an entire -- more than a

12 year's. And we had the CMC data that we had, but advisory committees don't deal with 13 CMC data.

14 So the other reason to go to an advisory committee would be to maintain and 15 build public confidence in what we're doing.

16 So there wasn't a problem that the FDA would've needed to send to an advisory

17 committee. But by opening the process and making it more transparent, an advisory

18 committee might have, nonetheless, been viewed as an important thing to do.

19 Of course, there is -- there is a trade-off between taking it to an advisory

20 committee and the total amount of time that it would take to complete the review.

21 [redacted] Okay. Well, I think we've reached our hour for now. We'll touch

22 back, pick back up on that, next round.

23 But we'll go off the record.

24 [Discussion off the record.]

1 [2:17 p.m.]

2 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Okay. Dr. Krause, in the last hour, we talked a little bit about the 5 September 17, 2021 meeting. Do you recall those questions?

6 A More or less, yes.

7 [Krause Exhibit No. 4.

8 Was marked for identification.]

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q I just wanted to introduce -- since it wasn't introduced before, I just want to 11 introduce, for the record, the summary minutes from that -- from that meeting. And 12 this is, I guess, going to be marked as Exhibit 4. I'll give you a minute to just look at it so

13 you can remind yourself.

14 Mr. Thomas Krause. Have you seen this before?

15 Dr. Krause. I haven't read it, no.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Take some time to look at it if you need to.

18 A Okay.

19 Q The only reason I'm introducing this is just for the completeness of the 20 record. Can you just tell us, like, what was the objective of this meeting?

21 A So the initial objective of the meeting was to have a public discussion to

22 describe and present in a transparent way the data that -- that pertained to whether

23 boosters, in particular, the Pfizer vaccine, should be made available to everybody, age 16

24 and up, which is what Pfizer had requested.

25 Q Okay. And you mentioned earlier in the last hour that there was some data

1 from Israel that was discussed or introduced at this meeting. Is that right? Is that
2 when this -- that data was introduced?
3 A That's correct, and that's consistent with the line here: This was followed
4 by a presentation by Dr. Sharon Alroy-Preis with the Ministry of Health, Israel, and 5 Dr. Ron Milo with the Weizmann Institute" --
6 Q Okay.
7 A -- "made a presentation titled, 'Booster protection against confirmed
8 infections and severe disease- data from Israel.'"
9 Q You're reading from exhibit 4 on page two, the second-to-last paragraph.
10 Is that right?
11 A Correct.
12 Q Okay. And you said in the previous hour that you had noted some 13 concerns about that data. Is that fair to say?
14 A Well, in The Lancet article we pointed out ways in which that data might be 15 misleading.
16 Q Okay. And the ways in which you found the data potentially misleading,
17 was that discussed at this meeting?
18 A Not to my recollection.
19 Q Okay. Did you bring it up at the meeting?
20 A I wasn't in a position to bring it up. Dr. Gruber was not running the 21 meeting, and Dr. Marks was. I did get an opportunity, right after the committee
22 returned from a break, to ask a question, and so I asked the question about the study that 23 Pfizer presented.
24 Q Is that the data that we're referring to, or is that study something else?
25 A No, that's a different study.

1 Q Okay.
2 A That was -- that was -- I don't know if they mentioned that here. That was
3 related to the, well, the Pfizer presentation, but they -- this doesn't -- doesn't 4 describe -- the minutes, in general, represent a very, very abbreviated summary of these
5 meetings, and so it -- that doesn't describe those specific data or the concerns that I
6 raised.
7 Q Okay. But when you say that you raised the concerns, are you saying you
8 raised the concerns in your article or that you raised them in the meeting or something
9 else?
10 A No, actually at the meeting I raised them, because Pfizer was citing the data
11 prominently as though that created an open-and-shut case that boosters were needed.
12 Q Right.
13 A And I pointed out that the study itself was -- had not been reviewed by FDA
14 and itself seemed to have some internal inconsistencies that needed to be understood
15 before one could interpret the data.
16 Q Okay. And raising concerns like that, that's your role as an expert, correct,
17 to share your opinion or concerns about?
18 A It's a little bit unusual to be in a position where I need to raise those 19 concerns in an Advisory Committee meeting, because normally when a company presents
20 something in an Advisory Committee they're presenting data that they've already 21 submitted to the FDA --
22 Q Right.
23 A -- and that the FDA has had a chance to review.
24 Q Okay.
25 A So -- but one of my roles was to try to make the office be as good as it could

1 be, and if I saw something that I thought could be improved to point it out to somebody.
2 Q Okay. And can you see, I guess it's beginning on page three of exhibit 4,
3 there's the numbers one and the number two down below, and I take it that those were 4 the questions that were presented for vote to the committee. Is that correct?
5 A That's exactly right, yes.
6 Q Okay. And question one, it says, quote: Do the safety and effectiveness
7 data from clinical trial C4591001 support approval of a COMIRNATY booster dose
8 administered at least 6 months after completion of the primary series for use in 9 individuals 16 years of age or older," end quote. Did I read that right?
10 A Yes, you did.
11 Q And COMIRNATY, for the record, that's the Pfizer vaccine?
12 A That's the trade name of the Pfizer vaccine, yes.
13 Q Okay. And then the members of the Advisory Committee were asked to 14 vote yes or no, right?
15 A Correct.
16 Q And the results of the vote are listed there. It says that two people on the 17 committee or on the Advisory Committee voted yes, and 16 voted no. Is that right?
18 A That's correct.
19 Q Is that consistent with your recollection?
20 A It is, yes.
21 Q Okay. So ultimately, the result of this Advisory Committee was that this 22 particular booster for that subset was not approved or authorized?
23 A Exactly, yes.
24 Q Okay. And then if you look below, I guess it's number two, the question
25 presented to the advisory group was, quote: Based on the totality of scientific evidence

1 available, including the safety and effectiveness data from clinical trial C4591001, do the
2 known and potential benefits outweigh the known and potential risks of a COMIRNATY 3 booster dose administered at least 6 months after completion of the primary series for 4 use in individuals 65 years and older. Did I read that right?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And was that the question presented to the advisory group?
7 A It was, to the best of my recollection.
8 Q Okay. And then you see below that the results of that vote were yes, 18,
9 and no, zero, correct?
10 A Correct.
11 Q Okay. And that's consistent with your recollection?
12 A Yes, it is.
13 Q Okay. With respect to those results, like the yes and the no and ultimately 14 the authorization for the group 65 years or older, let's start with that, did you agree with 15 that recommendation?
16 A I thought that was a very reasonable recommendation.
17 Q Did you vote on that, or is that some other member?
18 A No, no, FDA employees don't vote.
19 Q Got it.
20 A So it's an external advisory committee that is meant to reflect what the 21 general scientific community and outside experts would think.
22 Q Okay. And then back to the first question, the vote was yes -- two people
23 voted yes and 16 members voted no, with the ultimate result being that it was not 24 authorized for use in individuals 16 years or older. Did you agree with that ultimate 25 recommendation?

1 A I thought that was the right vote based on the data that were presented,
2 yes.
3 Q Okay. And those were the only two questions that were presented to the 4 Advisory Committee at that meeting, is that right, in terms of the vote?
5 A These were the only two voting questions.
6 Q Okay.
7 A There was some additional question -- discussion after these questions were 8 voted on regarding whether there might be some value to making the vaccine available to 9 some additional populations.
10 Q And so --
11 A But this is my recollection. It's not obviously listed in these minutes.
12 Q Okay. Was that discussion -- I don't know if you can explain, but why was 13 that not voted on, that second or third question?
14 A Normally, the FDA puts a lot of time into thinking about what the voting
15 questions are, the exact wording, because they have such importance. And this 16 additional discussion was, as I recall, induced by a question from Dr. Marks that he would 17 like to have some additional discussion about whether there were other groups in which 18 there might be some value to a booster dose.
19 Q Okay. So he was just looking for the Advisory Committee's thoughts?
20 A Informal thoughts, yes.
21 Q Understood. You can set that aside.
22 A Okay.
23 Q That's the only question I had about our exhibit 4.
24 A couple questions about just the COMIRNATY BLA approval process generally.
25 Ultimately, that licensing authorization was approved on August 23, 2021. Is that

1 correct?

2 A That's -- just to clarify the language --

3 Q Yeah, please.

4 A -- the license was approved. So normally, when I say approved, I mean,

5 and people at the FDA mean, but this is hard language to enforce, approve means that

6 the license or the BLA was approved. When you say "authorized," or "authorization,"

7 you're talking about emergency use authorization --

8 Q Yep.

9 A -- as a way of keeping these distinct from each other.

10 Q Okay. So --

11 A So the BLA was approved.

12 Q Okay. On August 23rd --

13 A On August 23rd, yes.

14 Q -- 2021. Is that right?

15 A Correct.

16 Q Got it. With respect to the BL -- the COMIRNATY BLA review process, was it

17 thorough, in your opinion, as it went through the approval process with OVRR?

18 A The review was thorough. The review addressed all of the critical issues

19 needed to come to the conclusion that it was appropriate to approve a BLA.

20 Q Okay. And are you confident that in that review in total that it was based 21 on reliable evidence?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. And did you -- in your opinion, did you find that the review utilized

24 reliable methods?

25 A Yes.

1 Q You said that normally a BLA review process would take about 8 months if it
2 was priority. Is that right?
3 A That's correct.
4 Q Okay. And in this case, it was priority review, right?
5 A Correct.
6 Q Is that determined by statute, or what is the priority determination?
7 A There are several different criteria, but it has to do with the urgency for the 8 product, how unusual it is, and also how lifesaving it is, and various other criteria that are 9 written in the statute that are designed to assure that products that are really needed get 10 reviewed faster.
11 Q Okay. To your knowledge, was there any dissenting opinion with respect to 12 that COVID vaccine being a priority review under the statute?
13 A No, I don't think so.
14 Q And to your knowledge, what factors allowed OVRR in this case to finish the 15 review, the BLA review faster than it would have in other cases that might have taken 16 8 months?
17 A So -- well, I'm just trying to think -- so, well, one reason is that the review
18 involved a larger team of people and experts. So this really was an all-hands-on-deck
19 situation where OVRR, especially as its review was prioritized, put all -- as many resources
20 as it could into this review. And so, that was one thing.
21 Of those who were playing critical roles in this review, many of them put in extra
22 hours, including nights, weekends, and really worked very, very hard on the review. It
23 surely contributed to the review that Seiber had been involved in -- well, in discussing the 24 studies before they were conducted, looking at the study results in the context of 25 evaluating the EUA based on that same study. And so, having that experience with this

1 data set probably also sped things up over who would otherwise have happened.
2 It's also the case that even when there's a priority review, reviewers often have
3 multiple simultaneous tasks because that's the nature of business at the FDA. There's a
4 lot of work to do and a lot of things are priorities. In this case, there was a desire to 5 complete this even faster than the normal priority review timeline, which meant that the 6 people who were working on it couldn't be working on other things.
7 Q So the desire that you spoke of to review the process more quickly, was that
8 a desire that was shared among the FDA's scientists?
9 A Well, I can't speak for other specific FDA scientists. The -- we haven't gone
10 through all of these exhibits yet obviously, but Dr. Woodcock and Dr. Marks indicated 11 from their perspective the great importance of rapidly reaching the conclusion of this 12 review. And the organization ultimately is responsive to its leadership, and so if 13 people -- and so the reviewers did what they were asked and told to do.
14 Q In the -- you're talking about the review process, the BLA review process writ 15 large?
16 A Well, and the individual reviewers --
17 Q Right.
18 A -- who put in a lot of extra time and a lot of extra effort to make it possible to 19 review this BLA so quickly.
20 Q Okay. Is it fair to say that, you know, these employees who are working 21 extraordinarily hard under these circumstances are motivated at least in part because 22 they have their own concerns about the COVID pandemic and as it was unfolding in the 23 country?
24 A I think that everybody who was working there at the time, myself included,
25 had concerns about the COVID pandemic and how it was unfolding in the country. And

1 we all wanted to in general do what we could to facilitate the availability of products that 2 would help.
3 Q Okay. And I think some of this is extremely obvious, but I'm just going to 4 ask it anyway, but why were you concerned about the COVID pandemic at that time?
5 A Well, so many people, of course, had already died of COVID. The vaccines
6 had been available since December of 2020. There were new variants that were 7 evolving at that time, including the delta variant. The delta variant was actually 8 well-protected against by the vaccine, but there -- I think some people had concerns that 9 the -- that not enough people were getting the vaccine.
10 Q Like getting any version of the vaccine?
11 A Getting any vaccine, yes.
12 Q Okay.
13 A And they're -- motivating some people was the hope that if the vaccine were 14 approved, that might motivate more people to get the vaccine.
15 Q And you mentioned this I think in the context of the booster authorization
16 that there were some people in your position or tangent to you that were concerned 17 about the messaging around boosters because they were worried ultimately that it might 18 undermine people getting the original vaccine?
19 A Yeah, that was certainly a statement that I made that was The Lancet article
20 and that I also made in a Washington Post op-ed that was published in late November.
21 Q And what was your concern, just if you could summarize it?
22 A The basic concern was that to the extent that all of the discussion and public 23 discussion centered around boosting people, it meant that the energy that was needed in 24 order to communicate with people who hadn't yet been vaccinated didn't exist. Many 25 of the public -- official public communications really were led off with boosters, and if

1 they mentioned getting the primary series, the first two doses, at all, it, in some cases,
2 appeared as an afterthought.
3 And the -- and so, there was a question of how did that impact the messaging, but
4 then there also was the question that I think I -- I mentioned in the previous interview
5 that to try and simultaneously give people the message that they need to get two doses
6 of vaccine in order to save their lives, but if they had two doses of vaccine they needed a 7 booster to stay alive, is difficult messaging to be giving at the same time, because if the 8 same people hear both of those messages, they're not -- they sound contradictory.
9 Q Right. Is it also a concern -- correct me if I'm wrong, but the booster dose 10 at the time is literally the same product as what somebody would've gotten in part of the 11 original series?
12 A That's correct, yes.
13 Q Was there a scarcity issue in terms of the product itself, or does it depend on 14 what part of the world you were in?
15 A That depended largely on what part of the world you were in. There were 16 large numbers of doses of EUA-authorized vaccine in the U.S. around that time, so there
17 was no -- no shortage of vaccine in the U.S.
18 Q So your concern at that point for the United States was just about messaging 19 more than anything in terms of undermining the message that the original series was 20 important?
21 A Well, both of those things. It was potentially undermining the message
22 that the original dose was important, and that -- that the -- I'm sorry, I don't remember
23 what my other thing was. This is the lunch catching up.
24 Mr. Thomas Krause. Do you want to take a minute?
25 Dr. Krause. Yeah, let me just take 1 minute.

1 [redacted] Sure, of course.

2 Dr. Krause. Okay. Sorry.

3 [Discussion off the record.]

4 Dr. Krause. Yeah, so I'm sorry, I was -- well, we have to resume, don't we?

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q We're back on the record -- or we stayed on the record.

7 A Okay. So I was a little confused by the question.

8 Q I'm sorry.

9 A And so, were you asking about issues that came about with boosters overall

10 or --

11 Q Yeah. I'm sorry, yes. I was talking about the previous discussion that we

12 had where you were raising the concern or you had raised the concern that --

13 A So -- right. So one part of this is, of course, that the boosting message

14 undermined the message to get the first vaccine series, but aside from that, is all of the 15 data that I showed that the boosters themselves weren't needed.

16 Q For the general population?

17 A For the general population, exactly. And the further point made in The 18 Lancet article that boosters would save more lives if those doses were actually given as 19 primary doses.

20 Q Okay. That -- thank you for that clarification. That makes sense. Is 21 there more to it?

22 A No. I think that covers what I believe the question was though.

23 Q Yes. I didn't want to cut you off.

24 Mr. Thomas Krause. Just to clarify, you had switched topics from the BLA

25 approval to boosters, and that kind of --

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Yeah. Well, one of the reasons -- I was asking about -- I just -- I wondered,
3 when you were talking earlier about the booster and that particular concern about it
4 undermining the original series, I just wondered how it related to -- if scarcity was an
5 issue. And I think you cleared that up. It was just a separate question.

6 A Correct. Scarcity was not the issue there.

7 Q Okay. I'm sorry. So let's just -- I'll try to stay more focused on the -- one
8 process at a time so it's less confusing.

9 You said that the -- back to the COMIRNATY BLA procedure, one of the reasons
10 you indicated that it was possible for the FDA to complete that review in less than 11 8 months was due to staffing and, I guess, choices that the agency made in terms of 12 workload. Is that --

13 A Prioritization, exactly.

14 Q Okay. Who made those decisions about prioritization and staffing?

15 A So the decisions about prioritization and staffing for the BLA review were 16 made by Dr. Gruber, who, together with me, wrote, for instance, the September 15th
17 memo that described why we thought we could not --

18 Mr. Thomas Krause. July 15th.

19 Dr. Krause. Oh, sorry, July 15th memo that described why we thought that we 20 could not further accelerate the BLA promise to action date. And so the -- and of note,
21 when Dr. Marks relieved Dr. Gruber and me of being in charge of that BLA review, he did
22 not add additional staff to that review. So the team was the right team, and it did not 23 need further augmentation.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q Oh, I see what you're saying. So when you and Dr. Gruber left, there.

1 Was no additional staffing to --

2 A Sorry. We haven't been through all of these events, but there's a memo

3 from July 21 that I found a copy of online that describes the meeting on July 19th during

4 which Dr. Woodcock and Dr. Marks relieved Dr. Gruber and me of responsibility for 5 directing the BLA review.

6 Q Right.

7 A And so -- and put Dr. Marks in charge of managing that BLA review. And so

8 after that point --

9 Q Do you know when that was?

10 A I just said. So that memo was on July -- or that meeting was on July 19th.

11 Q So at the meeting that's when the staffing changed, at the same day?

12 A Dr. Marks said he was taking over right then, yes.

13 Q Okay.

14 A Yes.

15 Q Go ahead.

16 A And so there was no subsequent change in staffing for the review of that 17 BLA.

18 Q So the staffing, I guess the building of the staff happened before that when

19 you were still --

20 A That's exactly right, because the BLA came in according to the timeline

21 May 6th, and the final submission that started the review clock was on May 18th, so by

22 mid-July the review was already -- had already been underway for 2 months.

23 Q Okay. When did the staffing change occur?

24 A There was no staffing change.

25 Q Oh, I'm sorry. I thought you added people or prioritized their work in

1 different ways so that people were more focused on the review.

2 A No. We initially put a robust team on this.

3 Q Is that May, then?

4 A Yes, right from the beginning, yes.

5 Q Okay. So that was a decision that you and Dr. Gruber made during the BLA

6 review process in May?

7 A Or even slightly in advance of it, yes.

8 Q Okay. And can you say, like, did that -- how many people did that -- did it

9 involve actually assigning people who were not working on this, or did it just involve

10 taking the people who would otherwise be looking at it and telling them you're going to 11 work on this only or both?

12 A A little bit of both.

13 Q Okay.

14 A But the total number of people who were engaged in the review of this BLA

15 was certainly over 50, maybe even more.

16 Q From the beginning -- or May, from May --

17 A Well, had some responsibility. Not everybody had responsibility on the 18 first day, but who had some responsibility associated with this BLA.

19 Q Okay. What was it that motivated you and Dr. Gruber to make those 20 staffing decisions to have people prioritize this?

21 A We viewed it as an important BLA, and we knew that a BLA required a much

22 more thorough review than an EUA did, and so -- and we already started off with the idea

23 that we were going to try to finish this BLA that was originally due on January 18th by

24 mid-October. So we knew that we would have to devote substantial resources to 25 rapidly completing that BLA.

1 Q Okay. And was that because you felt pressure from leadership, or was 2 there some other reason, or both?
3 A Early on, no. Early on I think everybody agreed that we didn't know what
4 was going to happen in the pandemic, that this BLA was going to need to be reviewed
5 anyway, and so, that it would be useful and important to complete the BLA review faster
6 than the original January 18th priority review timeline.
7 Q Okay. Was there resistance from staff members when being asked to work
8 these extraordinary hours or to focus exclusively on this matter?
9 A So I do not know that directly, because the additional acceleration in the 10 review occurred after Dr. Marks took over that review. And so, there's no doubt that 11 people on the team worked very, very hard; and without that additional work, it wouldn't 12 have been feasible to further accelerate the review.
13 I think that people who work at the FDA, and this gets back to a question you were 14 asking me earlier, in general, are there because they're highly motivated to make a 15 difference for public health. And they -- they see their work as being very, very 16 important. And so when they're told by leadership that the work is critical, then 17 they -- they go the extra mile.
18 Q And so fair to say that when you and Dr. Gruber were in charge of this BLA
19 review, you understood that the staff was working -- was prioritizing this over other 20 things, and that they were working longer and kind of harder --
21 A Well, they were already working very hard.
22 Q Right.
23 A And after we were relieved of responsibility for this, my sense is perhaps 24 they were working even harder. But I don't have direct knowledge of differences in the 25 number of hours each individual worked.

1 Q Okay. All right. So when I asked you earlier, you know, what was it that
2 made it possible for OVRR to review -- do this review process in more than 8 months, the 3 first thing you said was basically you prioritized it with staffing and people just kind of 4 dropping maybe some other matters and focusing hard on this. Is that --
5 A Correct. That's correct, yes.
6 Q Okay. Were there any other issues that were kind of unique to COVID or 7 this circumstance that helped this review go faster?
8 A I think expertise, right, because we had been living COVID for the last, well,
9 by then, year and a half or so, or more, the experience that everybody had with COVID, as 10 I said, the understanding they had of this particular clinical trial, and they would've gained 11 some facility with the specific databases in which data was presented. These are all 12 things that -- that certainly helped, having that experience, having the people. And 13 some of that experience comes from the EUA; some of it also comes simply from being 14 involved in other COVID-related reviews over a very short period of time.
15 Q Is it true that in kind of your typical BLA review process where it's prioritized
16 and you have 8 months, you may not have had an EUA before that? Is that something 17 that usually comes hand in hand?
18 A You would never have had an EUA before that, because the EUA is 19 something that is unique to an emergency situation. So that requires an emergency 20 declaration, it requires a life-threatening illness, and it, of course, then changes the 21 standard under which the product is reviewed and ultimately authorized.
22 So the Office of Vaccines, before that time it had only one EUA and that was for a
23 different schedule of an anthrax vaccine, so that was on a completely different scale. So 24 the -- the sequence that occurred here was unlike any sequence that had ever occurred in 25 the office.

1 Q In the entire history of the FDA?

2 A Well, in the history of the office for sure.

3 Q Okay. By the OVRR?

4 A Where there was this EUA product which then turned into a BLA with 5 obviously a lot of data.

6 Q Because -- and I think you've already said this. Forgive me for just keeping

7 asking the same thing, but because the EUA process, even though it was a different

8 standard, involved data that you could later analyze in the BLA review process, is it fair to

9 say that the FDA was able to move more quickly because they had already seen some of 10 the data in the EUA process?

11 A So it's fair to say that that helped the FDA move more quickly, but I don't

12 want to downgrade your impression of how much more complicated it is to review the 13 BLA, because the BLA is reviewed to a very different standard. And in this particular

14 case, when the EUAs were authorized, there was clinical data, but it encompassed

15 relatively short follow-up on these people.

16 And by the time that the BLAs came in -- or the BLA came, the duration of 17 follow-up was much longer and the total amount of data to be reviewed was much, much

18 greater. And of course, in the meantime, there also was information about myocarditis

19 that needed to be considered and much deeper dives into all of the individual

20 components of a BLA review and approval to come up with the necessary conclusions

21 that the statutory criteria were met.

22 Q Okay. And you already described the difference between the EUA and the

23 BLA standard, but I don't know if you were asked this before: When Pfizer is submitting

24 its own data for the EUA like initially, are they continue -- like is it a rolling process where

25 they continue to submit data?

1 So like their product is out there under the EUA and then people are using it and
2 then I assume there's data being generated, and then the BLA process is distinct and it's a
3 different standard and everything. But are they continuously submitting data to the 4 FDA, like from that initial period, or is there -- is there a distinction between like when
5 you accept data under the BLA process, and when you accept data under the EUA
6 process?
7 A Right. So for BLA to be reviewed by the FDA it needs to be a self-contained
8 document that has everything in it that is needed in order to support the license. And 9 so that came from Pfizer in two pieces, some of it on May 6th, I think. Right? Or the 10 5th. I get that mixed up. The 6th, and the other on May 18th. And so, that 11 submission between those days needed to include everything that was going to be 12 reviewed as part of the BLA.
13 So the original EUA came in and was approved -- was authorized in December,
14 and, of course, there was additional data that became available after that. Some of that 15 came in in chunks to support EUA authorizations in certain pediatric age groups, and 16 some of that came in as safety reports. But it all came in in a formal way. It's not that 17 there is a pipeline between Pfizer and the FDA where data is constantly being streamed
18 that the FDA has to look at in real time.
19 Q Okay. But still, the EUA process, because the FDA had looked at some data
20 in the EUA process, in some ways it made it easier or faster for the FDA to look at some of 21 that data in the BLA process?
22 A I think to -- so -- very often, the ways in which the databases are organized 23 can be a little bit different from one application to another, and so these are things that 24 would've stayed constant and so would've facilitated reviewing additional data from the 25 same study.

1 Q Okay.

2 A So -- but at the same time, the volume of data that needed to be looked at

3 for the BLA greatly exceeded that, that needed to be looked at for the EUA. So the

4 review of data for the EUA probably didn't appreciably help, but it was really the

5 experience of having been through the data as it was organized for the EUA, in my

6 opinion, that likely made the bigger difference.

7 Q Okay. Thank you for that.

8 I don't think you've mentioned this as a factor in terms of the speed with which

9 the FDA was able to do the BLA review, but let me ask you: Do you think that -- I mean,

10 obviously you're waiting on Pfizer or whoever, the sponsor, you know, the company, to 11 give you information so that you can complete your review, right?

12 A Yes.

13 Q So some of the timing probably is dependent on how responsive they are to 14 your requests. Is that fair to say?

15 A Absolutely.

16 Q And how was Pfizer's responsiveness to the FDA's request? How would 17 you characterize it?

18 A Overall, I would say it was good. My impression is that after the -- after 19 Dr. Marks took over that it was even faster.

20 Q Do you have any opinion about why, or do you know?

21 A I don't know. My -- it would be reasonable to suggest, though, that -- it

22 would be reasonable to imagine that they knew, or were told that FDA was trying to

23 complete the review rapidly, and was hoping that they would cooperate by providing 24 rapid answers to questions.

25 Q Okay. Because it's fair to say, like this BLA process, it involves the FDA and

1 the company, and there needs to be --

2 A Absolutely, yes.

3 Q -- some cooperation between the two --

4 A Correct.

5 Q -- right?

6 A Correct, yes.

7 Q And I take it that when you or Dr. Gruber or anybody in your position is

8 trying to come up with a timeline under this priority review or any other, you have to

9 build in some uncertainty because you don't know how responsive the company is going

10 to be. Is that fair?

11 A No, that's exactly right, and that's what I was trying to say earlier. In

12 coming up with the September 15th deadline, or ADD, that didn't mean that we were

13 sure that it would take until September 15th, but we thought that was a date by which

14 we could reasonably promise the review would be done, based on reasonable

15 assumptions about how long it would take Pfizer to respond to questions, and how long it

16 would take our teams to complete their reviews.

17 Q Right. And you made some effort in your position at FDA to get your

18 people to move faster by doing staffing changes and prioritization, but you don't know

19 what Pfizer was doing on their end, if they were dedicating more people to these 20 responses or anything like that?

21 A That's correct, I don't know that.

22 Q Okay. I'm going to totally switch gears. We can set that subject aside for 23 a second. I have a question that's kind of vexing me in some ways about boosters.

24 And tell me if I'm wrong about this, but initially, when Pfizer's boosters were being, I

25 guess, reviewed under the EUA, was all of -- were the boosters geared toward the alpha

1 variant, or were they -- were the boosters supposed to be like evolving as the variants
2 were changing?
3 A So there was a lot of thought into that, but the boosters as they were 4 originally conceived in the fall of 2021 were exactly the same vaccine as the vaccine that
5 we started off with in December of 2020.
6 Q Was that alpha?
7 A No, it was actually before that.
8 Q Oh.
9 A It's what's called the variant --
10 Q Oh, right.
11 A -- the Wuhan strain. Although, actually, I think it -- there might have been 12 even a couple of modifications from that. But it really -- the vaccines that were made
13 available in December of 2020 were based on the virus that was sequenced much earlier
14 that year in January of 2020. And then the boosters that were made available in the fall, 15 in September of 2021, were that exact same strain also based on the viral sequence from 16 early 2020.
17 Q At that point, when those boosters were being considered by the FDA, were 18 other variants of the virus already circulating in, like, the United States?
19 A Yes, by that time we'd been through the alpha variant, the beta variant, and 20 that was a time for the delta variant. There was a gamma variant also that did not find 21 its way substantially to the U.S. And then you probably remember that not long after 22 that we ended up with -- well, there were actually, if you go through the Greek alphabet,
23 there were other variants, but the one that caught everybody's attention later that fall
24 was the only Omicron variant. And the virus that we have even now is derived from or 25 related to those Omicron variants that appeared at that time.

1 Q So how, if at all, did the change in the different variants that were 2 introduced affect the FDA's review process when it came to -- and how you looked at the 3 data? Like, did you have a consideration for like, say, data that was lagging and that 4 might have been involving one variant versus another?
5 A It was a difficult question. And one of the companies, and I don't recall
6 which one, and it may not even have been one of the mRNA companies, but at least one
7 did some studies, for example, with a vaccine that was directed against the beta variant,
8 and compared the immune responses in people using that kind of a vaccine versus 9 the -- versus the original vaccine when used as a booster.
10 And a beta variant booster actually didn't appear to do substantially better than 11 the original vaccine. And, of course, to switch the vaccine strain, or to switch the 12 vaccine sequence would've been a much more complicated thing that one wouldn't do 13 unless there were strong evidence that that would make a big difference.
14 Q Did considerations of these different strains, did that, in any way, affect your 15 analysis when you looked at data about, say, waning immunity, for example, or the need
16 for boosters in any particular population?
17 A So there were two factors in play when one was thinking about waning
18 numeral immunity, which is antibodies. One of them is that if the virus is changing, the 19 antibody that neutralizes the virus might not neutralize a changed virus as much as it
20 neutralized the original virus. And then, of course, there's also the question of, if you
21 got the vaccine a long time ago, you get some peak antibody level but then that may 22 decline over time.
23 And so, with both of those factors that raised the question of both having some 24 decline in antibody titers, and then those antibodies not being as effective against a new 25 variant was a concern that the antibodies might no longer give the same kind of

1 protection that they were giving before. The good news is that the vaccines were also 2 inducing cell-mediated immunity, just as the natural infection induces both. And the 3 cell-mediated immunity did not wane as rapidly, and also the cell-mediated immunity was 4 not as susceptible to changes in the viral sequence.
5 So the cell-mediated immunity that would back then, for instance, that protected
6 against the original -- original strain as it infected the U.S., was still effective in protecting
7 against the variants as they evolved. And so, the -- even when the antibodies started 8 waning, the cell-mediated immunity provided people with strong protection against 9 severe infection.
10 Q Regardless of the variant?
11 A Regardless of the variant, yes. And that's the immunological or scientific 12 explanation for the data that I showed in The Lancet article, which showed that even 13 though protection against mild disease appear to be lower in some of these studies, the 14 protection against severe disease held up.
15 Q And when people get the vaccine today, are they getting one that's tailored 16 toward a particular variant, or does it remain constant?
17 A So there have been different vaccines, and I'm not sure which vaccine is 18 available is this very day. There is a bivalent booster, which was part Omicron and part 19 original strain, and the rationale for giving that bivalent booster, and that came out last 20 year, roughly in the fall, was to have a viral strain that would protect both if the virus
21 went back to an earlier strain, so was -- or that would provide an immune response that 22 would cover both an earlier strain if the virus turned the clock backwards and evolved in a
23 new strain from something that we'd already seen, but then also, would better cover
24 some of the Omicron strains that were becoming apparent last fall.
25 And so that vaccine had both of those viruses in it. The evaluation of that

1 vaccine covered what was done just by antibody titer. So there still wasn't any clear
2 evidence that immunity protection against severe disease was waning substantially, but 3 the hope was that by increasing the antibody titer, that might reduce the incidents of 4 mild disease.
5 Unfortunately, studies that were done since then suggested that that booster did
6 provide some protection against mild disease, but it was fairly short-lived. And -- and 7 that because people already had pretty good protection against severe disease, there
8 wasn't good evidence that it made a big difference against severe disease.
9 Now, last fall, that was a vaccine that we heard from various public health
10 authorities was absolutely essential, or there would be tens of millions of cases and 11 perhaps millions of hospitalizations, I don't remember the exact numbers, but then, a 12 very small proportion of the population took that bivalent vaccine last fall as a booster.
13 And so, you could say that's bad news, but the good news is that the dire
14 predictions did not come to pass. And so, it seems as though, although many people
15 didn't take it, not taking it didn't harm many of the people who didn't take it. But it was 16 available for the elderly and the immunocompromised, and people who otherwise might 17 have been more likely to succumb to more severe disease.
18 And so, there was a lot of discussion earlier this year to try to figure out what the 19 vaccine should look like this fall given that there was a sense that -- and this was 20 discussed at various Advisory Committee meetings -- that it would be difficult to change
21 the vaccine more than once a year. And so ultimately, the vaccine strain was selected in 22 June, also of an Omicron sub-variant now, and that was set forward to be the vaccine that 23 would be made available this fall.
24 The last I heard, it will be available sometime September. It's now September,
25 and so I don't know if it's available yet or will just be available soon. But that's a vaccine

1 that I think one could expect, based on past experience, will provide some relatively 2 short-term protection against mild infection; and in people who need it, they provide
3 some boosting against more severe infection, but at the same time may also be optional
4 for many people.
5 The -- of course, the other thing that has happened in the meantime is that there
6 have been many, many cases of COVID in the U.S., and many people who are vaccinated,
7 as well as many people who are not vaccinated, have also gotten COVID. So it's very 8 unusual to find somebody, for instance, who's only had a couple doses of the original
9 vaccine and never had a mild case of COVID.
10 And so overall, in the population, except among the most vulnerable people, there 11 is a much higher level of immunity against the virus than we've -- than we've ever had.
12 Although, if you measure that immunity by antibodies as the virus changes, it doesn't look 13 as good. But if you measure it by cell-mediated responses, it still looks pretty good.
14 Q Can you say something, just stepping out, about the nature of COVID in 15 terms of how quickly this was evolving and how much challenge there was to respond to 16 this situation as it evolved so quickly, I mean, in relation to other, you know, flu or other
17 matters that came before the FDA when there was a vaccine available?
18 A Sure. The evolution of COVID was unprecedented. And I remind myself
19 that this evolution perhaps shouldn't have been such a surprise, because however this 20 virus found its way into humans, it probably evolved very quickly and changed a lot in 21 order to gain the ability to be transmitted quickly among humans. And so, even the 22 early strains of COVID probably were based on a lot of evolution from animal precursors.
23 And so the fact that it evolved quickly before it found its way into humans could 24 reasonably have suggested that it was going to continue to evolve after it found its way
25 into humans.

1 Q When you say it's unprecedented, do you mean specifically like the rapid
2 evolution, or do you mean something more?
3 A Well, unprecedented for a virus that causes this much -- this big a public
4 health problem. So, for instance, flu tends to be fairly stable. The flu vaccine has four 5 strains in it, and in any given year two of them might be changed usually on average from 6 the previous year. And sometimes three are changed, but all four are almost never 7 changed.
8 And so, the flu virus, although it changes, doesn't change nearly as fast.
9 Coronaviruses are different viruses though, and coronaviruses can also cause common 10 colds and other diseases where it's -- there's good evidence that the virus is also evolving 11 rapidly.
12 So what made the rapid evolution of coronavirus so difficult was the fact that it
13 was evolving greater infectivity as it was increasing its ability to infect humans while 14 staying pretty pathogenic, and able to cause serious disease in the most vulnerable
15 people, and early in the pandemic in a high proportion of people who weren't vaccinated.
16 Q Would you say -- is it fair to say that, you know, from the FDA's standpoint in 17 making approvals so that people can have these vaccines available, that this COVID 18 pandemic and this process that you had to go through to review the vaccines, was 19 unprecedented from the agency's perspective?
20 A Yes, I will certainly wholeheartedly endorse that idea. What I would say is 21 that the most unprecedented was what we had to do in 2020; next in unprecedented was 22 what we had to do in 2021, and the situation is getting better with time as we understand
23 more. But at the same time, the whole story caused -- necessitated a substantial
24 disruption in the way that FDA did business in order to be able to respond.
25 Q And are you able to learn something looking back, just because in retrospect

1 there are lessons to be learned by seeing what happened, that you couldn't have
2 necessarily responded to in the moment just because it wasn't all clear?
3 A So, of course, the difficulty in the moment is there are many, many different
4 experts, all of whom are saying different things, and it becomes very difficult to figure out
5 who's going to turn out to be right. And so, in retrospect, you can figure out who was 6 right at least, although maybe it doesn't matter who was right because at least then you
7 know what actually happened.
8 And so to me, one of the -- the key lessons from COVID is the extreme importance
9 of paying attention to confidence in vaccines and confidence in public health agencies,
10 because once that starts getting undermined it's a very slippery slope that can create 11 problems not only for the pandemic but for other things.
12 But, you know, we've learned other things as well. There are international 13 efforts now to figure out how to predict the next pandemic, to make sure that vaccines 14 against additional strains of unusual viruses are available or have at least -- have had 15 development initiated, so that there will be opportunities perhaps to come up with 16 vaccines even more rapidly in a future pandemic.
17 And so, by seeing what worked here and what may not have worked as well, and 18 to also apply the best current science, which has evolved even through COVID and even 19 since, the hope is that the world is going to be much better prepared for a future
20 pandemic.
21 Q Is that specifically about mRNA technology that you've learned, or are you 22 talking about more broad issues than that?
23 A Much more broadly. So mRNA technology is -- obviously was very 24 important for the response to COVID, because it allowed a rapid design of vaccines that 25 turned out to be very effective, especially against severe disease. And it was fortunate

1 that technology was ripe at the time COVID came around. It was ripe, and yet largely
2 unproven, and so now it's been proven, at least in this context. But that doesn't mean
3 that mRNA technology is going to save us in the next pandemic, because the next virus
4 might be different, and to control it might require a different kind of immunity than the 5 kind that mRNA vaccines are able to induce, or there may be other complexities
6 associated with getting the kind of protective immune response that we need. So I
7 don't think that anybody can be complacent now that we have the mRNA and imagine
8 that that's going to be the solution to all future pandemics.
9 [redacted] Okay. I think we're actually at the end of our hour. We can go
10 off the record.
11 [redacted] Off the record.

[3:22 p.m.]

[redacted] We can go back on the record.

BY [redacted]

Q Now, Dr. Krause, I apologize for kind of jumping around a little bit. I feel like some of this stuff can be pretty dense for us. So I think there might be a few reiterations or some clarifications or what seems to be similar questions. Hopefully not so much.

But going back to what we marked earlier as exhibit 2 and 3 -- 2 being the email with the timeline and 3 being the email with the memo -- now, I know exhibit 3 came on that Thursday, July 15th, and the timeline was Friday, July 16th. So I kind of introduced those in a little bit of reverse order on accident. But I wanted to get some clarification about a couple things in these emails.

Going back to exhibit 3, with the memo, in the email on page 346, at the very bottom, it's marked 346, Dr. Gruber wrote: "Phil and I further discussed with DVRPA and DVP management the review timeline for the above BLA. As you know, we are targeting September 15 as the ADD." Which we discussed was the action due date. "It will not be possible to move the ADD up further without cutting corners and lowering our review standards and that I would not be able to defend. We have described our rationale and logic in the attached memo. Feel free to share with JW."

What does DVRPA and DVP stand for?

A Those are two divisions that are part of the Office of Vaccines.

Q Okay.

A So DVP is the Division of Viral Products, and that's a division that conducts vaccine-related research, but also contributes a lot of expertise to review of assays and manufacturing processes.

1 And DVRPA is the Division of Vaccines and Related Products Applications -- we
2 called it DVRPA -- and that division comprised two elements. So there were actually two 3 deputy directors who ran that division.
4 One of them was Dr. Doran Fink, who was in charge of the medical officers in that
5 division who were responsible generally for conducting clinical reviews.
6 And the other side was run by Dr. Loris McVittie, and that side was responsible for 7 regulatory project management and for communications with sponsors.
8 So many of these people were highly educated Ph.D.s who needed to be able to 9 understand all of the elements of an ongoing review and then be able to communicate 10 with the companies about that, while then also making sure that all the projects were on 11 track and that all the reviews were meeting their milestones, and everything that was 12 between a milestone, to make sure that we were doing everything that we were 13 supposed to be doing.
14 Q So did these two divisions report up to you, including --
15 A That's correct. They reported up to the Office of Vaccines.
16 Q So Doran Fink technically was a subordinate of yours and Dr. Gruber's?
17 A Correct.
18 Q Okay. And before Dr. Gruber drafted this email, on July 15th of 2021, I
19 remember earlier in your testimony you had discussed the due date had been -- you all 20 had been asked to move the due date up from October to September. Is that 21 correct? Was that --
22 A And we had agreed to that.
23 Q Okay.
24 A And then this is the response to a request to move it up further from 25 September 15th.

1 Q Okay. And who asked for you all to move it up both times?
2 A Both times it was Dr. Marks.
3 Q And do you know, to your knowledge, did the White House ask the FDA to 4 move the due date up at all around this time?
5 A I have no knowledge of any communications between the White House and 6 the FDA.
7 Q Would you, in normal circumstances, pre-COVID and then during COVID,
8 ever have any direct communication with anyone in the White House regarding any of 9 your work at the FDA?
10 A Normally not. Occasionally -- I remember one time I was invited to the 11 White House -- I don't remember if this was related to ebola or Zika -- for some National 12 Security Council subcommittee meeting. It takes a long time to get into the 13 White House, I will say that. But not routinely.
14 Q Now, if corners were ever cut in the BLA approval process, would you or 15 Dr. Gruber be, like, personally responsible for anything going wrong, like -- and I say 16 personally responsible, meaning, like, for the sake of your job or, like, your department?
17 A Obviously, in the Federal employment, everybody is reporting to a 18 supervisor, and there's an annual rating scheme, and there's a personnel system. So as 19 far as job security goes, there are systems in place for dealing with employees who are 20 problematic either due to their conduct or their performance.
21 And, luckily, I don't have so much experience with those systems. But I think,
22 obviously, if something were to go wrong --
23 Q Would it reflect poorly on your work if cutting any of the corners for the BLA
24 approval process, like, in your opinion?
25 A So that's such a hypothetical question I can't even answer it, because neither

1 Dr. Gruber nor I would go along with cutting corners. If somehow we were asked to cut
2 corners, we would object.
3 And if something were to go wrong as a result of something we did, I don't think
4 either of us would have worried about the personnel consequences. But if we felt 5 responsible for something, we would have certainly felt terrible.
6 Q That's perfectly fine, and that's exactly what I was essentially getting at.
7 And "JW" in this email, that refers to Commissioner Janet Woodcock, correct?
8 A Acting Commissioner Janet Woodcock.
9 Q Yes.
10 A Yes.
11 Q And did you personally draft the memo attached, or was that a mixed effort
12 between you and Dr. Gruber? Or who all was involved in that?
13 A I don't recall the number of people who were involved in that. I
14 contributed some sections, but I don't remember what I contributed. And I know that 15 Dr. Gruber, being a very careful person, also ran this by other people within the office to 16 make sure that they found this to be as persuasive as they could.
17 Q And it would be other people within your specific OVRR group, or would it 18 have been other divisions?
19 A So I don't recall whether or not this was sent, for instance, to Mary Malarkey
20 or to Steve Anderson at this stage or not. I see that it was cc'd here to Celia Witten, who 21 was the center deputy director and directly reporting to Peter.
22 And I don't remember who else would have participated in this, but surely this 23 was more than just Marion and me.
24 Marion would have drafted -- well, did draft the first version.
25 Q Was it common for you all to compile a memo like this to discuss any type of

1 BLA to send up to the director of CBER or the acting commissioner? Was this, like, a
2 typical thing for you all to do?
3 A So my recollection at the time is that Dr. Gruber felt under substantial
4 pressure from Dr. Marks and so felt that it was important to document her reasoning in 5 writing.
6 Normally, there might have been a much shorter discussion that wouldn't have 7 required this level of detail.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q How did you come to that understanding?
10 A I don't recall. Almost certainly, though, because I was talking with 11 Dr. Gruber every day, that this came about in the context of a conversation with her 12 about discussions she had had with Dr. Marks that I was not a part of.
13 Q To the best of your recollection, what were some of the things Dr. Gruber
14 conveyed to you about this pressure she felt from Dr. Marks?
15 A Just that Dr. Marks was intransigent that the action due date, that the ADD
16 should be moved up, and that he was insistent that September 15th wasn't fast enough.
17 Q So as a practical matter, he said there will be no date beyond September
18 15th, as far as you know from your discussions with Dr. Gruber?
19 A I'm not sure I'm understanding the question.
20 So he was pushing for a day earlier than September 15th, and we had already 21 agreed that this BLA, barring some unusual event, could likely be completed by 22 September 15th.
23 Q Okay.
24 A So remember that we started with a plan of mid-October, and then he 25 requested -- he agreed to that first but then requested September 15th, and then after

1 that, came back and requested an earlier date. And it was that, upon the request for a
2 date earlier than September 15th, that we felt that we couldn't, in good faith, promise
3 that.
4 Q Right. I guess my question was -- in some ways it's irrelevant -- was that if
5 he was insisting on a day prior to September 15th, then the notion that you would need
6 more time than September 15th would have been out of the question for Dr. Marks?
7 A Oh, if we'd said we wanted more time, for sure, he would not have gone
8 along with that.
9 Q Okay.
10 [redacted] Did he provide any research or, like, a supportive reason as to why he
11 wanted it to be moved up each time, or was it just, "We need this done sooner"?
12 Dr. Krause. I don't recall. What I remember best are things that were 13 documented in Dr. Gruber's email to him and to Dr. Woodcock after the meeting we had 14 on July 19th. I actually don't have a copy of the email, but I was able to find a FOIA'd
15 copy online.
16 Mr. Thomas Krause. Can we just make it an exhibit?
17 [redacted] Yeah, of course.
18 Mr. Thomas Krause. I'm giving him latitude on the deliberative process because 19 there is so much in these emails already.
20 [redacted] Absolutely.
21 [Krause Exhibit No. 5.
22 Was marked for identification.]
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q I will enter this into the record as exhibit 5.
25 And not to disrupt your answer, if whatever you were saying, if this helps you to --

1 A Sure. Well, the specific concerns expressed in this memo are the ones that 2 I recall being brought up at the time, namely, that there were rising COVID cases in the 3 U.S. and globally due to the delta variant, which is sort of towards the end of the second
4 paragraph; the opinion that absent a license, States couldn't require mandatory
5 vaccination, and that people hesitant to get an EUA-authorized vaccine would be more
6 inclined to get immunized when the product was fully licensed.
7 So those were the three arguments in favor of going faster that had been put 8 forward by -- in that meeting -- by him and Dr. Woodcock; and, in other meetings, in 9 different orders, I recall having heard those but can't specify a meeting or a time.
10 Q Did Dr. Woodcock or Dr. Marks state that the goal was to require mandatory 11 vaccination?
12 A Well, the, as stated in the email, the discussion was about State mandates,
13 and of course there already had been some mandates announced by the Biden
14 administration. There was a so-called vaccinate-or-test rule that they had put in place
15 at some point earlier in August, as I recall.
16 And so there was no doubt, in my recollection, that Dr. Marks and Dr. Woodcock 17 saw the licensure of the vaccine as a prerequisite to mandates.
18 Obviously, it's not up to the FDA to mandate vaccines, and so I don't know beyond 19 what is written in this email exactly which mandates they were thinking of.
20 Q And going back a little bit -- I know we jumped ahead a little on talking about 21 this email, but it lapses in with this exhibit 3 in the memo.
22 In the next section of your memo, it was titled -- it's in the middle of page
23 347 -- the next section, that's titled, "The BLA merits a complete and thorough review," it
24 says: "OVRR's reviews of vaccine BLAs, unlike those of regulators in other countries, do
25 not rely on summary tables that are generated by the developer. OVRR views it as

1 essential that review of the safety and efficacy data not only includes an evaluation of the 2 data analysis conducted by the applicant, but also includes CBER's own analysis of the 3 datasets submitted by Pfizer. This has been OVRR's standard for all other BLAs, and 4 while time-consuming, OVRR believes that confidence in COVID vaccines would not be 5 served by starting to cut corners on this review."
6 Is it fair to say that the FDA's usual practice is to evaluate and analyze BLAs
7 separate and apart from any analysis provided by a pharmaceutical company like Pfizer?
8 A Yes. For BLAs, FDA looks at the analyses provided by the companies, but 9 often does some of their own analyses, and in addition to that, confirms the analyses by 10 going down to the individual source data and making sure that the individual source data
11 supports the analyses that are presented.
12 Q And how long does that dataset analysis usually take?
13 A Depends on the size of the dataset, and it depends on -- and I don't know
14 how big this dataset was in megabytes. But for a trial of, in this case, 43,500 people,
15 that had been going on for, at this point, about a year, I believe that would have been a 16 lot of data and would have taken a lot of effort.
17 Q And can you explain how the FDA's own analysis of a developer's data affects 18 the confidence in the vaccine, in your opinion?
19 A Well, because the FDA states that they perform their own analyses, this way
20 the public knows that the decisions that are made by the FDA are completely supported 21 by the data and that the FDA isn't relying on assertions that are made by the developer.
22 Q And at the end of page --
23 A So it creates confidence in the objectivity of the review because assertions
24 made by the developer might -- might -- be compromised by bias.
25 Q Of course.

1 And at the very end of page 1 of this memo, in the section that's titled, "As 2 compared with other BLAs, the proposed completion date of September 15 would be
3 unprecedented," in that last section, the term "rolling" BLA was used. And I know my 4 colleagues, they had mentioned before, in their last hour, I think they had asked you
5 about the rolling BLA, but would you mind repeating or re-explaining?
6 A Sure. It's funny how I have to keep referring back to this diagram to 7 remember the dates. But you can see above May in this picture in exhibit 2, there's 8 "May 6: BLA Submission," called "Roll 1," and "May 18" BLA Submission," which is called 9 "Roll 2."
10 And so for vaccines that can be reviewed under priority review, and the FDA will 11 sometimes agree to start reviewing parts of the data before the entire BLA is in, it's a
12 normal requirement for the entire BLA to show up at once.
13 But sometimes sponsors have some sections of the BLA ready before others.
14 And if there's a desire to be efficient about the review process, sometimes it can be 15 reasonable for the FDA to start reviewing some sections before all the other sections are 16 there.
17 Sometimes that can also create some inefficiencies because a question might arise
18 in a section and then that may raise a question that could be answered with reference to 19 another section, and if that section isn't there, that actually may make the FDA's review
20 less efficient.
21 But nonetheless with these two rolls -- and I don't remember how they were 22 divided up -- what this just means is that the FDA received the data for this BLA in two
23 tranches. But when there's a rolling review, the action due date is always calculated off
24 of the date in which the BLA is considered to be complete by the sponsor. And so the 25 action due date was calculated off of May 18th, even though some of the data had come

1 in by May 6th.

2 Q Okay. And then going back to exhibit 3 in the memo on page 2, in the

3 section titled, "This is possible only with deprioritization of other reviews, including some

4 related to COVID, and reassignment of work to other experienced medical officers," it

5 says: "We have de- prioritized certain COVID-vaccine related submissions (including

6 some from Pfizer), e.g., amendments pertaining to protocols and studies in pregnant

7 women and immunocompromised subjects, until such time that the BLA review is

8 completed."

9 Does this mean that the BLA review was prioritized over the review of studies

10 related to individuals with underlying conditions receiving their first dose of the COVID

11 vaccine? I just want to get clarification.

12 A I don't know if it was prior to -- probably not prior to getting their first dose.

13 More likely boosting.

14 And also I can't say that these were results of studies. They might also have

15 been planned studies. So what's written here is ambiguous enough, and I don't 16 remember exactly what is being referred to, to know precisely what these studies were.

17 But it does mean that the reviewers, who would otherwise potentially provide

18 more rapid responses on those two topics, were pulled into the review of this BLA.

19 Q Who determined the order of priority for the reviews?

20 A This was -- well, the way that the system worked, this would have been

21 determined within the office. But if something important needed to be deprioritized,

22 the center director would have been informed in order to make sure that the center

23 director was aware that that was happening.

24 Q In the last sentence of that paragraph, it reads: "In addition, if the 25 trajectory of the pandemic/emergence of variant of concerns (i.e., delta variant)

1 necessitates the review of EUA amendments for booster doses for the currently U.S. EUA
2 authorized COVID-19 vaccines, from a public health perspective, these reviews will need
3 to take priority over completing the BLA review by September 15, 2021."
4 What is the difference between the review of the EUA amendments for the 5 booster doses versus the BLA review you were already being asked to perform? I think 6 you started to touch on that, but just to get clarification.
7 A Sure. So this BLA review was to provide full licensure for the two-dose
8 series, the initial two-dose series of the Pfizer Comirnaty vaccine. And so this would 9 take a vaccine that was authorized under emergency use authorization and available to 10 people and change it to a vaccine that was licensed, but it would not change
11 fundamentally the availability of the vaccine.
12 And so what I believe Dr. Gruber is saying here is that if there are new things that 13 might change the availability of specific vaccines, then that might be more important than 14 a review that won't change what vaccine is actually available to people.
15 Q Okay. And then the next section discusses how additional support from 16 outside OVRR would not speed up the review process. Could you briefly summarize 17 why?
18 A The difficulty is that these reviews, in order to be done efficiently, required
19 reviewers who are very experienced with doing these kinds of reviews, and to do them
20 efficiently also required the very reviewers who had already been involved in the Pfizer 21 review.
22 And let's not forget, by the time this memo was written, the review had already 23 been ongoing for a couple of months. So if one were to take somebody who is 24 completely green and put them on that, the people who were busy doing the work would 25 then have to take some time off to bring other people up to speed.

1 And so there certainly are times when you can train people, but right in the 2 middle of a review that is viewed as urgent is not the best time to take the reviewers who 3 need to do that and have them do the training.
4 And by the time that training was completed, the review itself might also have 5 been done.
6 Q That makes sense.
7 And Dr. Marks had then, it looks like either that day or the next day, he had
8 mentioned he forwarded your email -- or Dr. Gruber's email -- to Deirdre Hussey. And --
9 A Yeah. I don't have that here.
10 Q Oh, okay.
11 A Do you have it?
12 Q Oh, I think it's on page 351.
13 A Oh, it's farther. Okay, good.
14 Q Yeah, I'm sorry.
15 A That's fine.
16 Q At the very end.
17 And he wrote that Dr. Gruber declined additional resources from him to expedite
18 the Pfizer BLA review.
19 Is her reasoning consistent with what was outlined in the memo, and did you
20 agree with her?
21 A Yes. Yes, I did.
22 So Deirdre Hussey, just to answer the unanswered question, was the chief -- or 23 the director of our Office of Management. And so she would have been in charge of 24 HR issues.
25 So my interpretation of this email is that Dr. Marks is trying to document

1 Dr. Gruber's intransigence with somebody who might be in a position to create a human
2 resources consequence for her.
3 Q Did this concern you?
4 A I didn't see it. I only saw the --
5 Q Seeing it now, does this concern you?
6 A Yes, of course it does. Dr. Gruber was a highly dedicated Federal employee
7 who gave her career to the Office of Vaccines, who put in countless extra hours, did 8 everything she could to make vaccines available to the public that they could have 9 complete confidence in.
10 And while it seems that Dr. Marks had a relatively minor disagreement with her
11 about his request for a timeline, which I think he'd requested just a few days before but 12 which she could not possibly provide without also involving other people, to send this to 13 somebody in HR is pretty outrageous.
14 On the other hand, that is not the most outrageous thing that happened.
15 Q What was the most outrageous thing that happened, in your opinion?
16 A Well, I mean, from an HR -- from a human relations perspective, removing 17 Dr. Gruber and myself from the review of a BLA that he regarded to be critical and 18 important, when we were the two people in the office who knew the most about it,
19 seems to be counterproductive.
20 Q Now, jumping to that, and this is where we can get back into exhibit 5, which 21 is that email recounting your July 19th meeting with Acting Commissioner Woodcock and 22 Dr. Marks. And I believe the chief of staff, Julia Tierney, was there as well. Is that
23 right?
24 A That's correct.
25 Of course this was an online meeting --

1 Q It was an online --

2 A -- so none of us were in the same room.

3 Q Right. And how long did that meeting last?

4 A According to my recollection, probably a half hour or so.

5 Q And in this July 21 -- I'm sorry -- July 21st, 2021, email Dr. Gruber had

6 drafted, she wrote that during the meeting she made reference to the memo that we just

7 discussed, that was sent to Dr. Marks on July 15th, and it delineated OVRR's rationale for

8 why the review timeline and target action date, September 15th, 2021, for this BLA

9 cannot be compressed further.

10 We discussed before that Dr. Marks was obviously in favor in trying to compress

11 this timeline. Do you know if there was anyone else that was trying to compress this

12 timeline?

13 A Well, based on the opinions expressed during that meeting, it appeared that 14 Dr. Woodcock also wanted the timeline to be compressed.

15 Q Did she explain why?

16 A Well, both of them together expressed the concern about the Delta variant,

17 the need to have a licensed vaccine in order to be able to support mandates, and the idea

18 that a licensed vaccine might engender more confidence than an EUA-authorized vaccine

19 among the vaccine-hesitant.

20 [redacted] Now, you just said the need to support mandates. In your view,

21 was that need part of why you all were being pressured to meet this deadline, or this

22 assumed date?

23 Dr. Krause. Given that they brought it up, it's hard to imagine that that was not a 24 component of this pressure.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q And she went on to write in the email that the memo to Dr. Marks stated
2 that "the review requires a thorough evaluation and FDA's own analysis of the safety,
3 effectiveness and manufacturing information submitted to support licensure of this
4 vaccine. This has been OVRR's standard for all other BLAs, and while time-consuming,
5 OVRR believes that public confidence in COVID-19 vaccines would not be served by 6 rushing our review and evaluation of the submitted data."
7 And I know earlier -- it was either the last hour or two hours ago -- you discussed
8 your opinion that the FDA did ultimately provide a thorough review of the Pfizer BLA.
9 But was this review done before or after you were relieved from working on this BLA?
10 A Well, the review had been initiated before Dr. Gruber and I were relieved
11 from supervising the BLA.
12 I'll point out, I actually continued to try to contribute to the review even though 13 normally, when Dr. Gruber would leave, I would have been the one who would have 14 taken her place. But I still did my best to contribute to the review while it was ongoing
15 even though I was not leading it.
16 Q And you had mentioned that normally you would be the one to be in charge
17 or step in her shoes if she was gone, and I know that she had been away for a period of 18 time on annual leave.
19 Do you know what the decision was to not have you be the acting director and 20 why Dr. Marks was the one that became the acting director?
21 A I'm very puzzled by that. And what I can tell you is that, if you look very 22 closely at the FOI emails, there may be some hints in there. And I can tell you which 23 ones I think might have some hints, but I can't speak for any direct knowledge, only that 24 some of these emails have some suggestions in them.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Well, please provide --

2 A And I don't have any of the emails in front of me, and I don't know if you

3 have them all either, from Judicial Watch. But --

4 Q From your recollection is fine.

5 A Sure. Well, there was a reference from the -- let me just see. One of 6 the those words was in here. There's the timeline and -- 3, 4 -- what did I do with No. 2?

7 Maybe it's in here.

8 Yeah, so there's a hint here in an email on Friday -- the first email in No. 2, which

9 of course I wasn't on but I saw when I looked at the Judicial Watch emails -- and it says:

10 "Please see the attached. Marion finally provided this timeline. I can already see a

11 number of potential efficiencies. Perhaps we can discuss over the weekend briefly in 12 preparation for Monday?"

13 Now, there were other emails that were sent on either Thursday or Friday

14 between Dr. Marks and Dr. Woodcock that -- and there's one, I think, from Dr. Woodcock

15 to Dr. Marks, suggesting that they would need to do certain things after he took over.

16 So it seemed clear that that previous week there was already a plan for Dr. Marks to take

17 over the review.

18 So aside from that, I don't have any basis for knowledge of what the reasoning for

19 that might be. In general, I've learned that usually these things are not personal, and so

20 at the time it occurred to me that there were aspects of the review that he might want to 21 control.

22 Q Is that your --

23 A That he didn't think -- that was my opinion based on the situation, yes.

24 Q Do you have any other opinions on the situation?

25 Mr. Thomas Krause. Want to go outside?

1 Dr. Krause. Yeah, okay, we'll go outside.

2 [redacted] Off the record.

3 [Discussion off the record.]

4 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

5 Dr. Krause. I think we've covered it. If you go back and look through the

6 Judicial Watch emails, there are a number of emails that address the planning of 7 Dr. Marks to take over.

8 [redacted] In your opinion, would you have been more prepared to lead the team

9 on the Pfizer BLA in Dr. Gruber's absence and even after had she not retired?

10 Mr. Thomas Krause. More than what?

11 [redacted] I'm sorry.

12 Dr. Krause. More prepared than what?

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q To lead the team on the Pfizer BLA, as opposed to Dr. Marks, in Dr. Gruber's

15 absence and then subsequent retirement.

16 A So there I have no doubt that I was fully prepared to step in and lead the 17 team to a successful conclusion of the review.

18 Q And then, going back to exhibit 5, in response to Dr. Woodcock -- I'm 19 sorry -- in response to Dr. Gruber's email, Dr. Woodcock writes back thanking her for 20 summarizing the meeting and noting that, "With respect to the specific timeline for 21 completion that you propose, I do not have enough information to venture an opinion."

22 Based on the previous memo that you both drafted with a team of folks and the

23 updated timeline, and your discussion at the meeting, does her response in this email

24 track with what she said in the meeting?

25 A Well, you're asking me a question that a semanticist might be able to better

1 answer. But I will give you my opinion that she had just decided to relieve Marion and 2 myself from direction of this BLA, it would appear, solely over the question of whether 3 this was the right timeline or not.
4 And based on the emails I was referring to between her and Dr. Marks, it
5 appeared that this was -- she was -- had thought this was the right thing to do for some 6 number of days.
7 And so it's hard to imagine that she did not feel that she had enough information
8 to venture an opinion, or maybe she felt that she had enough information to make a
9 decision but not enough information to venture an opinion.
10 Q And also, in recapping the meeting in Dr. Gruber's email, like we had already 11 discussed, she had said that absent a license States cannot require mandatory vaccination
12 and that people hesitant to get an EUA-authorized vaccine would be more inclined to get 13 immunized when the product is licensed. And that was recapping what Dr. Marks and 14 Dr. Woodcock had said.
15 Do you recall if Dr. Marks or Dr. Woodcock expressed this belief about States
16 requiring mandatory vaccines coming from outside of the FDA?
17 A So the decisions about mandating vaccines, whether for the Federal 18 Government or for the States, did not -- were not made by the FDA. And the FDA
19 normally separates itself substantially from decisions about how vaccines are used
20 because of the need to retain confidence in the FDA's objectivity.
21 And so the FDA, the way the system is set up, performs objective reviews of the 22 data to determine whether the product should be authorized or licensed and to make 23 sure that the claims that the developer might want to make about this vaccine are 24 supported by the data.
25 But the risk, if the FDA starts getting involved in deployment decisions, is that it

1 will appear as though there's a bias there, because if the FDA says, for instance, these 2 people should get that vaccine, these people shouldn't, it should be mandated for these
3 and not those, or whatever, and then what if something goes wrong, then the FDA can't 4 anymore be perceived as an objective arbiter of what to do next.
5 Maybe the vaccine needs to be recalled, but if the FDA said everyone should take
6 it, maybe the FDA will be reluctant to make that decision.
7 And so this is how, when I was at the FDA, I learned was the evolution of the 8 system where the recommendations for how vaccines be used were generally made by 9 the Advisory Committee for Immunization Practices of the CDC and the decisions about 10 what vaccines to authorize and license were made completely independent of any use
11 decisions by the FDA.
12 So a statement that this is necessary for -- in order to mandate vaccines would 13 suggest that that statement is coming from outside of the FDA because it's not part of the 14 FDA's usual function.
15 And in giving you that proviso, I'll add an opinion here. And of course mandating
16 vaccines, just as it was not in Dr. Woodcock's or Dr. Marks' purview, it also was not in 17 mine, but my own opinion at the time was that that was not a sensible reason for 18 speeding up a review. And really I had two main rationales for that.
19 One of them was the concern -- and this was evident just from reading the 20 newspaper around that time -- that if vaccines were mandated, whether at the State level
21 or the Federal level, that many people would resist that, because many people would be 22 against being forced to get vaccinated for whatever reason.
23 And what I thought would likely happen was that that resistance to mandates
24 could then turn into resistance to the vaccines themselves and that mandates themselves
25 might paradoxically increase vaccine hesitancy. And one might be able to force some

1 people to get vaccines, but then that might cause other people to be very reluctant to get
2 vaccines.
3 And of course if there's a mandate and you also are hoping that you're going to 4 convince people that the vaccine works well, then they might reasonably ask: Well, if 5 you're so confident that this is a good and safe vaccine, why do you have to mandate it?
6 Why can't you trust me to make that decision myself.
7 And so I actually thought that moving towards mandates also undermined the 8 very stated purpose of increasing confidence in the vaccine.
9 I will add one other thing, and that is, from a public health perspective -- so I guess
10 actually I'm up to three reasons -- from a public health perspective, for a mandate to 11 make the most sense, it has to be for a vaccine which will interrupt transmission of the 12 virus, because one of the main ideas behind a mandate is that you're trying to protect 13 additional people.
14 So if by insisting that you get vaccinated I can protect many other people, then 15 maybe that's a societal good that comes out of the mandate.
16 But at the time that we at least reached the end of the BLA review, but around 17 that time, there was increasing data that the vaccine wasn't actually substantially 18 reducing transmission from people who were infected.
19 And so it was, while it was still protecting people against severe disease, its impact
20 on transmission was much, much weaker.
21 So the public health case for mandates, I thought, was weak and -- but I was as 22 concerned about the risk that mandates could actually paradoxically reduce confidence in 23 the public health authorities and reduce confidence in the vaccines.
24 [redacted] And did you share this considered opinion with anyone in your 25 office?

1 Dr. Krause. I did discuss this with Dr. Gruber. I don't know whether she shared
2 it with Dr. Marks.
3 You know, these discussions were happening very rapidly under a lot of pressure,
4 and by the time the meeting with Dr. Woodcock occurred, which was just one business
5 day after the timeline was sent and Dr. Gruber and I had a brief meeting with Dr. Marks to 6 explain why we thought the action due date couldn't be sped up faster than 7 September 15th, but there the issue of did we agree with the reasoning didn't really 8 come up.
9 But by the time we were in the meeting with Dr. Woodcock, we'd both been 10 relieved of responsibility, and so it didn't seem as though that was a time when anybody
11 was going to listen to us.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q When did you -- when were you relieved of responsibility? You said it was 14 before the July 19th meeting?
15 A Well, at the July 19th meeting, Dr. Gruber was told that Dr. Marks was in 16 charge, and I was told that I would not be in charge when Dr. Gruber left.
17 Q So that you were both informed of that on July 19th at that meeting?
18 A That's correct, yes.
19 Q And then, going back to what you mentioned about the mandates, that 20 being part of the discussion in that meeting, had there been any other discussion at the 21 FDA or even just within your OVRR, to your knowledge, about the concern that there
22 needed to be a license in order for these States to mandate the vaccine, like, or was this 23 the first time that this was discussed?
24 A I don't recall. It seemed like this argument was coming out sort of most 25 forcefully right around this time. It's possible that it was mentioned earlier, but I don't

1 recall that.

2 Q And I briefly want to switch gears, going to -- going back to our discussion

3 about your departure from the FDA. And I know that we discussed Dr. Gruber had been

4 on leave, and I believe she was gone for, like, a month, and then she returned.

5 When did you decide to leave the FDA? Was it after this July 19th meeting?

6 When did you make your decision to depart?

7 A I made my decision to depart as I heard that Dr. Gruber was departing.

8 Q And why is that?

9 A The -- well, the -- I had probably -- well, I had stayed at the FDA longer than I

10 had originally intended to. I did not perceive that I would finish my career at the FDA,

11 and I always wanted to do something else. And of course the question always is, then,

12 well, when to do that, as one also gets older, right?

13 And so when the COVID pandemic came around and when I had the opportunity

14 to have, I think, a very substantial influence in favor of public health, there was no

15 question that the FDA was the right place for me to be and to stay.

16 I admit that the events in July and August surrounding the BLA and the booster

17 vaccines made me concerned, without direct knowledge of any specific outside

18 interference, because I didn't know of any communications from the outside, but it

19 appeared as though major decisions that normally would have been within the purview of 20 the office were now being made outside of the office, whether at the center director's

21 level or even elsewhere.

22 And certainly, if one were to read the press at the time, many people interpreted 23 some of these actions as representing political interference, especially around the 24 booster issue.

25 [redacted] Is that how you interpreted it?

1 Dr. Krause. So, as I said before, the President announced that everyone in the 2 country would be boosted, and he made this announcement on September 18th -- on 3 August 18th -- and he said that they would be boosted by September 20th.
4 Also on August 18th, three leaders of public health agencies said, including the 5 acting commissioner of the FDA, said that boosters would be available for everybody by 6 September 20th. So it was at that time there was some data on boosting in-house on 7 the Pfizer vaccine and there was no application in-house from Moderna at that time.
8 And so it was clear that people outside of the FDA were creating an expectation
9 around boosters. And of course they said, well, this is all subject to FDA approval. But 10 the acting commissioner had also signed on to this, and this was the same acting
11 commissioner who had just relieved Dr. Gruber and me of duty when we suggested that 12 we might not be able to meet an aggressive timeline that was favored by other people.
13 And so, given that evidence, it was very difficult to imagine that there was -- that 14 the Office of Vaccines would have the same level of autonomy going forward as it had 15 had in the past.
16 [redacted] And the intrusion upon that autonomy was coming from where, in
17 your opinion?
18 Dr. Krause. Well, in the case of the booster --
19 Mr. Thomas Krause. You don't need to speculate. Go ahead.
20 Dr. Krause. Well, in the case of the boosters, there were announcements
21 simultaneously from the President and three public agency heads, right, Tony Fauci, 22 Rochelle Walensky, and Janet Woodcock was the acting commissioner of the FDA. And 23 so from someplace that impinged upon those levels, it appeared as though that this 24 pressure was coming.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Okay. To follow up, during one of our colleagues in the minority's
2 questioning sessions, I believe there was an allusion to potential political pressure during 3 the administration in office in 2020.
4 Given what you've just testified to, is it fair to say that, in your opinion, you've
5 witnessed political pressure in the vaccine and/or booster process from the Biden
6 administration?
7 A I can say that I witnessed political pressure from outside the FDA likely, but I
8 cannot point to any direct evidence of where that pressure came from. Everything else
9 is a conjecture based on the evidence.
10 But there is no smoking gun of somebody who had -- where there's some 11 evidence of a single person outside the FDA directly applying such pressure.
12 Q And I think you very carefully just testified, you didn't base that on direct 13 evidence, but it sounds like you're saying based on the circumstantial evidence there was 14 the political pressure from the administration -- the Biden administration.
15 A There was, again, circumstantial evidence that suggested to me that staying
16 at the FDA didn't make any sense, and it was because of -- well, it was because I was 17 planning to leave anyway, in part, and partly because of that circumstantial evidence.
18 It appeared to many in the press that this pressure came from the White House.
19 I don't know exactly how that would have worked, and so I'm reluctant to say that I know
20 that it came from the White House, but there is certainly some -- there is -- a reasonable 21 person might think that was a possibility.
22 Q Fair enough.
23 [redacted] And in that same vein, I actually want to touch on briefly -- I don't know
24 how much time, I think we are running low on time -- but I want to briefly touch -- cool -- I
25 will enter this article into the record as exhibit 6.

1 [Krause Exhibit No. 6.

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 [redacted] And I won't ask a ton about it. But this might be a little bit about what

4 you were referencing as things you were reading in the news regarding things that the 5 FDA was trying to accomplish.

6 And I know at the time that this article -- and this is a New York Times article

7 published August 27th, 2021, and it said that "Biden Floats Faster Access to Booster Shots

8 Amid Spread of Variant." You were still at the agency at this time.

9 Had you announced at this point, to your recollection, that you were going to be

10 resigning?

11 Dr. Krause. No. I made that announcement on the first business day of 12 September.

13 [redacted] Okay. Did this announcement about the boosters -- I know you

14 started to touch on it -- but this announcement coming from the White House, where

15 President Biden had said, after his meeting with the Prime Minister of Israel, he had said,

16 "We were going to start mid-September, but we're considering the advice that you've

17 given that we should start earlier. The question raised is should it be shorter than eight

18 months? Should it be as little as five months? That's being discussed."

19 And when he says, "That's being discussed," is that something normally that the 20 FDA would be discussing and making that type of determination?

21 Dr. Krause. So, yes, the FDA would normally be responsible for approving or

22 authorizing an indication defining the population of people who would be eligible for 23 boosters.

24 And so in the initial comments I think the suggestion was that people who had had

25 their second dose of vaccine 8 months or more ago might have had sufficient waiting that they might benefit from a booster, at least as was being described by the people who were in favor of boosters.

And the comment raised by Mr. Biden was: Should that interval between the second dose of vaccine and the first booster be as short as 5 months?

In my view, that's a comment that is pretty damaging to public confidence in the original vaccine series because what you're saying is, initially, well, we think it at least lasts 8 months, but now we're not even sure it lasts 5 months.

And so it's really saying that the White House doesn't have confidence that the original vaccine series will protect people.

Now, I'm willing to accept that this may have been a completely unintentional comment and Mr. Biden may not have thought about the impact of such a comment on vaccine confidence or vaccine hesitancy or on people's willingness to accept the vaccine in the first place.

But of course that's a good reason to consult with vaccine experts before making these kinds of comments, because I'm sure that wouldn't have been his intent.

[redacted] We'll go off the record.

[redacted] We'll go off the record so Dr. Krause can consult with his counsel.

[Discussion off the record.]

1 [4:23 p.m.]

2 [redacted] We'll go back on the record. We probably only need just a few more

3 minutes.

4 Dr. Krause. Can I just back up and make a correction of a statement that I made

5 before where I may have been a little bit too glib in paraphrasing Mr. Biden as saying on

6 August 18th about -- I might have said something like everybody will be eligible for

7 boosters by September 20th.

8 And, of course, that wouldn't have been everybody. As you pointed out here,

9 that would be people who have had their second dose of vaccine at some period of time

10 before.

11 But he was talking about a fairly universal booster campaign. And so I would just

12 like to make sure that I am not misunderstood as to have thought that he literally

13 intended for everybody to get a booster by -- or have a booster available by September

14 20th.

15 [redacted] Thank you for clarifying that.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Yeah, thank you very much.

18 And I think just in regards to two more additional questions that I have.

19 Other than you and Dr. Gruber, did anyone else on your team in OVRR decide to 20 leave the FDA as well after or around this timeframe in September, October, 21 November 2021?

22 A In those months, I think it was just the two of us. Since then, Dr. Fink has 23 left the FDA, but it was not at exactly that time in terms of senior people in the office.

24 Q Do you know what Dr. Marks' reaction was regarding your resignation?

25 A I don't have a clear picture of that. He was certainly cordial, and he held a

1 retirement ceremony at which both Dr. Gruber and I were honored and received
2 Distinguished Career Service Awards, and people were -- had an opportunity to give
3 speeches. And so that was his visible reaction.
4 Q Awesome. Now, a little quick switching gears.
5 Did you do any work on Ivermectin?
6 A None.
7 Q None. Okay. That was in a different center then or a different --
8 A That's correct. Ivermectin would have been in the Center for Drugs, and 9 we were in the Center for Biologics.
10 Q Who would have been the director, deputy director around this time, in 11 2021, that worked on that?
12 A That's a great question. There's an office of antivirals, and the director of 13 that office is John Farley, I think, unless he's moved.
14 I don't know whether Ivermectin would have received a review through that office 15 or through an antiparasitic drugs office, though, because that's the major indication for 16 Ivermectin, and I don't know who's in charge of antiparasitics.
17 Q Okay. Well, I just didn't know if you did any work on that, so that's all I
18 need. And then I think my colleague has a question, and then I'm -- 19 [redacted] If I could just conference with my colleague for one second.
20 [redacted] We'll go off the record for a moment.
21 [Discussion off the record.]
22 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.
23 [redacted] Back on the record. I have one last question for you, Dr. Krause,
24 and my colleague, [redacted] will ask a question.
25 You had indicated previously that at some point you were ready to step down and

1 do something different. Is it fair to say -- from the FDA. Is it fair to say that you made
2 the decision to leave when you did because of Dr. Marks' sort of interference in the work
3 that you were doing at the FDA?
4 Dr. Krause. So there are two ways in which I would slightly quibble with your
5 statement.
6 So I wouldn't personalize this to Dr. Marks. I think that there was enough 7 evidence of outside interference, without it being completely clear where it came from,
8 that it made me uncertain that I would be able to do my job effectively as I thought it
9 needed to be done.
10 And I suspect if this had not happened and there had been no pandemic, I would 11 have left long before this. And so while, of course, the pandemic was a lot of work, and 12 it was very important, and it was exhilarating to be involved in that work and to know
13 how important it was to so many people, perhaps by contrast that also made the sudden
14 change in how it was that the work of the office was being managed, it turned it into a 15 more obvious difference.
16 And so I don't know if that's a fair answer to your question. So I wouldn't say it's 17 just because of Dr. Marks. I would say that the situation, given the pandemic, made me
18 more likely to leave at that time.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q Yeah. Thanks for your endurance. I'll be quick here.
21 If I understood you correctly in the first hour, it seemed that you indicated that 22 you were kind of aware of this phenomenon of groupthink, and you would actively stoke
23 debate in your team to bring out minority opinion. Is that right?
24 A Absolutely, yes.
25 Q And it seems like that contrasted with what Dr. Marks did with you guys in removing you and Dr. Gruber. Is that right?

A I have wondered, if he was convinced that he had a solution for how to speed up the review, why he wouldn't have just told us what that solution was and we could have implemented it. There was certainly nobody who -- in the Office of Vaccines -- who was resistant to brilliant management suggestions.

Q Right. Right. So you were relieved along with Dr. Gruber because you had a minority opinion and Dr. Marks sought consensus?

A Well, I'm not sure how we define the word -- I'm not sure that "consensus" is the word that --

Mr. Thomas Krause. What do you mean by "minority opinion"?

[redacted] Well, it seems like you had a different perspective on what a reasonable timeline was, and rather than engage with you on the logic for your perspective on the timeline, you were just removed from the conversation.

Dr. Krause. I think that's fair. Of course, he might say that he attempted to engage and we came back to him and told him why we didn't think we could promise better.

But you're right, then he took over and did not officially change the ADD either. He just worked until the job was done, which is, of course, what I would have done in that position as well.

[redacted] Right.

Dr. Krause. But there's no doubt that he and I have contrasting management styles.

Mr. Thomas Krause. Do you want to address whether yours was a minority view of the timeline?

Dr. Krause. Well, again, I guess the question is, minority compared to what?

1 Certainly, his desire for a more rapid timeline was held by himself and Dr. Woodcock. It
2 may well be that -- it seemed like, when you look at the number of office directors who
3 were also contributing to Dr. Gruber's assessment of what the most appropriate timeline
4 to promise would be, is his actually was the minority opinion.
5 [redacted] Understood.
6 Just one final question on this. To me, this appears that the graph in the Lancet
7 article, it appears to me that the data very much supported your conclusion. I think you
8 had said earlier that to look at this data would force you to this inescapable conclusion
9 that the booster was not necessary.
10 Dr. Krause. That was my conclusion. And of course this paper, you didn't 11 reproduce it because it's hard to find online, but there's also an appendix which lists all of 12 the individual studies that were reviewed and what the individual results in those 13 individual studies were.
14 And there are about 100 of them that were available at this time that met the 15 criteria for this analysis of having -- of presenting credible analyses that would allow one 16 to both look at efficacy in -- efficacy against severe disease and efficacy against 17 symptomatic disease.
18 [redacted] Right. And in spite of the strength of the data that you 19 presented, it was overwhelmed by another force, and that was what exactly, just the 20 political pressure?
21 Dr. Krause. Well, so based on what I was reading at the time, the White House
22 COVID task force was a strong believer in the Israeli data, and they were afraid that Israeli 23 would be a harbinger for what would happen here, and so it would be a harbinger, and 24 that we would soon find in the U.S. that there would be reduced efficacy even against 25 severe disease.

1 I don't know how they came to that conclusion, because on looking at the Israeli
2 data I did not find it to be persuasive, and I suspect other people with experience in 3 epidemiology could have looked at that and come to the same conclusion.
4 But there certainly were scientists out there who I think may have been
5 operating -- and I don't know if this was in the White House -- but who may have been
6 operating as much out of fear as out of logic, and they were afraid of the Delta variant
7 and were afraid that something might happen and wanted perhaps to be seen as doing
8 something.
9 [redacted] And fear is not science?
10 Dr. Krause. Are you sure?
11 [redacted] I'm asking.
12 [redacted] That's all.
13 [redacted] All right. We can go off the record. Thank you.
14 [Discussion off the record.]
15 [redacted] Okay. We can go back on the record, please.
16 All right. I'm going to introduce for the record exhibit 7, and this is the actual 17 FDA approval letter dated August 23th, 2021, for the BLA.
18 [Krause Exhibit No. 7.
19 Was marked for identification.]
20 Dr. Krause. Thank you.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Have you seen this before?
23 A I have, yes.
24 Q Okay. And can you just turn to the very last page? And there's two 25 names on it that were the approving officials for this BLA review. Can you tell us who

1 they were?

2 A Sure. Mary Malarkey and Marion Gruber.

3 Q Okay. So a couple of -- and Marion Gruber is Dr. Gruber that we've been

4 talking about throughout this TI, right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q So can you explain -- as you might be aware, Dr. Gruber came before this

7 committee as a witness and was asked a series of questions about this approval process

8 just as you were, and she testified that she approved and signed the approval letter.

9 Does that surprise you, that she testified to that effect?

10 A No.

11 Q Okay. So you knew that she actually did participate in this process, the BLA

12 review and approval?

13 A Yes, of course. I was there, yes.

14 Q Okay. So when you say that she was removed by Dr. Marks, can you

15 explain what that means in light of the fact that she actually signed the approval letter?

16 A Yeah. I'm not exactly sure how that came to be, because Dr. Marks was

17 supervising the approval process from the time he took over until the end. But in the 18 end, Dr. Gruber signed as the director of the Office of Vaccine Research and Review. But 19 she was not supervising the review process up until August 23rd.

20 Q While she was on leave?

21 A Well, she was on leave until early August, perhaps August --

22 Q August 7th, correct, or do you know?

23 A You know better than I then.

24 Q Well --

25 A Somewhere around there. That's consistent.

1 But just as I did, I think she attempted to help as much as she could to make sure
2 that the review was complete and thorough.
3 And, indeed, she reviewed many, if not all of the documents in the approval file.
4 I reviewed many of these documents also and had a few comments on them. I made 5 recommendations for how the benefit-risk analyses could be improved, and those 6 recommendations were accepted.
7 And so she and I were both involved in doing everything we could to make this
8 process as robust as possible.
9 Q Okay. So fair to say that you both participated in the approval process, but 10 you were not the supervisor at that stage?
11 A That's correct, yes.
12 Q Okay. And your input was considered by the people who were supervising?
13 A Absolutely, yes.
14 Q Okay. Was there anything at the end of the day, when you came to be 15 aware that this approval was granted by the FDA, that concerned you about the 16 conclusions that are inherent in that approval?
17 A No. I completely agreed that the product met the standard for approval
18 and that it was appropriate to approve the BLA.
19 Q Despite the compressed timeline that had you concerned at some points?
20 A So the compressed timeline had us concerned not because -- so what we 21 were concerned about wasn't that -- wasn't the compressed timeline, per se. What we 22 were concerned about was we were being asked to promise that the review would be 23 completed on a certain date that we were not sure was a promise that we would be able 24 to keep.
25 Q And ultimately Dr. Marks never promised that the FDA would complete the 1 approval process on August 23rd. Is that right?

2 A I don't know what he promised external to the FDA. There are some emails

3 that suggest that he had had a notional approval date of August 20th.

4 And there are some emails in the Judicial Watch tranche, which I'm sorry I can't

5 provide you with, but if you are willing to dig through many, many pages -- or maybe it

6 isn't even Judicial Watch, it's another one -- you could find those that imply that he was

7 aiming initially for the 20th, but then it appeared that he wasn't -- that the team was not

8 going to be able to meet that. The 20th was a Friday, and so it was ultimately approved

9 the following Monday.

10 Q Okay. But he never moved the -- what was it again, the date is called the 11 ADD?

12 A That's correct. So what he said was that the review was proceeding

13 without an ADD. It was proceeding with the goal of completing it as quickly as possible.

14 This is my recollection of what he said, and I was at many of those meetings.

15 Q Okay.

16 A I don't remember which meeting he said that at.

17 So what he did then obviously was operating under a somewhat different set of 18 rules than the one that he was requesting that the office operate under. He requested

19 that the office provide a certain date by which it would be finished as opposed to simply

20 proceeding until it was done and hoping to get it done as rapidly as possible.

21 Q But ultimately exactly what happened was it got done as fast as possible

22 without a required date, right?

23 A Yes. Yes.

24 Q And you have no concerns about the process itself as it was completed by 25 the 23rd of August?

1 A So as I mentioned earlier, the one concern that I do have is that, while this
2 was within the range of activities that the FDA could -- within the range of appropriate
3 process for the FDA, I think that confidence in the approval in the FDA would have been
4 enhanced if there had been an Advisory Committee meeting. But that would have taken
5 longer, probably, even than September 15th, to put that together and do that, because 6 an Advisory Committee meeting for a BLA is very complicated.
7 So while I -- and I did not think, as I mentioned earlier, that the Advisory
8 Committee was required in order to provide key advice to the FDA, which is one reason
9 for calling the Advisory Committee, but I did think that overall confidence in the decision
10 and public confidence in what the FDA was doing could have been increased if there was 11 an Advisory Committee.
12 Q But you, yourself, when you were in charge of the supervision, along with 13 Dr. Gruber, accepted that September 15th was a reasonable date, right? That was one 14 of your recommendations?
15 A Well, Dr. Marks originally was the one who said that he wanted it to be 16 September 15th instead of mid-October, but we ultimately agreed with that.
17 And, again, that's a suboptimal situation where you don't have the Advisory 18 Committee. But if your goal is to approve quickly, then you have to sacrifice the 19 Advisory Committee. The Advisory Committee was a nice-to-have but not a 20 need-to-have.
21 Q And I'm just asking because you agreed to that September 15th. Under the 22 circumstances, the extraordinary circumstances of this pandemic and the priority review,
23 that was not something you disagreed with at that point when you and Dr. Gruber said
24 September 15th is reasonable?
25 A At that point, we -- that's correct. We would have -- well, we did agree to

1 an action due date of September 15th.

2 Q And it actually became problematic later than that, in your view, because

3 they were trying to push the date earlier than September 15th. That's when it became

4 more of a concern for you?

5 A I'm not sure I can agree exactly with your characterization of "concern,"

6 right? What we said was that we couldn't promise an ADD before September 15th

7 based on what the people who needed to do this work and the accounting were telling

8 us, and the accounting that we needed to do for the interactions with Pfizer.

9 And so we were concerned that if there were an ADD before September 15th that

10 that might create problems. Dr. Marks proceeded, and he also did not have an ADD

11 before September 15th.

12 Q Exactly.

13 A And so --

14 Q So it didn't change?

15 A That didn't change.

16 Q Right.

17 A So I did not fundamentally have any concerns with the idea of saying let's

18 proceed as quickly as we can. If the goal is to do it quickly, then that's a reasonable

19 thing to do.

20 But if you asked me were there ways in which this process could have been better,

21 right, I think you asked did I have any concerns about the process, although I don't

22 remember exactly what the question was --

23 Q Well, I was asking you to kind of describe how your concerns kind of evolved

24 with these different decision points.

25 A Right. So -- right.

1 So once the decision is made that this needs to be done by September 15th, then
2 there cannot be an Advisory Committee meeting anyway; and yet, this approval would
3 have engendered more confidence if there had been an Advisory Committee meeting.
4 And so the question then is just, was the added transparency, which could have
5 been accomplished with an Advisory Committee meeting, worth the amount of time it
6 would have taken to do that?
7 Q And in your opinion, at least as of the time that you signed on to the 8 September 15th goal, you decided what in terms of that balance, that it was not --
9 A Well --
10 Q -- outweighing the benefit of going ahead on this --
11 A So it's difficult, because when you're in a hierarchical organization like the 12 FDA and your supervisor is saying it's very important to me that this get done by a certain 13 day, then one has to, of course, weigh the potential advantages of getting it done by that 14 certain day and what the cost of that is in terms of transparency.
15 Q And is that what you did when you and Dr. Gruber said September 15th is 16 one possibility here?
17 A Well, again, Dr. Marks was the one who suggested September 15th.
18 Q But you agreed, correct?
19 A And we agreed to do that, that is correct.
20 Q Okay. And by agreeing that, you had decided, at least with respect to this
21 Advisory Committee, that on balance you were willing professionally to let that go?
22 A Yes. On the other hand, one could argue that if one understood
23 completely -- and of course, by the time that he said September 15th we didn't know 24 that -- one could argue that if the consequence of this approval would be mandates, or if 25 the consequence of this approval would be other things, then the importance of public

1 confidence in that decision would be increased.

2 And so at the time that we agreed to September 15th we had no knowledge that

3 there was a plan or that there was a likelihood that this decision would then be used to

4 justify downstream decisions that might actually require an even higher level of public

5 confidence in the decision.

6 And so that calculus, at the time we agreed to change the action due date to

7 September 15th, was different from the calculus once we understood all of the rationale

8 for speeding things up even further.

9 Q Sure. Because at the time, like, none of those things existed, and you were 10 trying to make a decision at the moment in time when it was presented to you?

11 A That's correct, yes.

12 Q Okay. I'm going to talk a little bit about public perception, because you've

13 mentioned that that is kind of an overarching concern, is, like, how the public views the 14 FDA and whether they could trust the decisions that are being made.

15 And you have -- I'm going to ask some questions about exhibit 6, which is this New 16 York Times article that quotes President Biden.

17 Do you have that article in front of you?

18 A I'll find it here.

19 Q Okay. I can give you another copy.

20 A No. All right. Sounds good. Six.

21 Q Yep. Okay. So in the very first line, you see it says: "President Biden

22 suggested on Friday that the government could offer coronavirus vaccine booster shots to

23 most vaccinated adults sooner than eight months after a second shot, underscoring the 24 administration's concerns about the spread of the Delta variant."

25 And it's interesting, I mean, they say he suggested on Friday. Is there anywhere

1 in this article, or to your knowledge are you aware of any statements that Mr. Biden
2 made with respect to this booster shot that are stronger than a suggestion as they're
3 characterized in this New York Times article?
4 A I do not have articles that -- actually, let me just look at something here. I
5 don't think I have something that suggests that -- I don't have a copy of what he said on 6 August 18th. But what he said on August 18th I recall as being more definitive than a
7 suggestion.
8 Q Okay.
9 A But I could be -- but I can't -- I don't have a copy of that. And so it is 10 possible that my memory is incorrect on that.
11 [Krause Exhibit No. 8.
12 Was marked for identification.]
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q I'm going to go back to that in a minute. But for right now, I'm going to 15 introduce for the record exhibit 8, which is a tweet from former President Donald Trump.
16 And I have copies for you guys.
17 A Fantastic.
18 Q It's short so you can just look at it real quick.
19 A It's a tweet, right? 140 characters.
20 Q Very brief, yep. Right to the point.
21 Okay. So this tweet, as you'll see, is dated October 6th, 2020, 9:09 p.m., and it's 22 from President Trump while he was in office. And the tweet reads, quote: "New FDA
23 rules make it more difficult for them to speed up vaccines for approval before Election
24 Day. Just another political hit job!" And then he tags @SteveFDA, so directly meaning 25 to communicate to the FDA.

1 Now, earlier in the hour when you were asked about Mr. Biden's statements you
2 hesitated to say that there's any direct evidence that the White House was trying to 3 influence the process, but you said maybe circumstantially you could argue that.
4 Well, what about this? Like, would you consider this some direct evidence that
5 the occupant who was the President at the time, the occupant of the White House, made
6 this statement directly to the FDA, would you consider that direct evidence of a political 7 effort to influence the FDA?
8 A It certainly looks like it's direct evidence of such. Of course, it's -- and it's 9 certainly a complaint. It's not completely clear what it is that he wants the FDA to do as 10 a result of this.
11 Q Well, it seems to say -- he's complaining about FDA rules that make it, quote,
12 "more difficult for them to speed up vaccines for approval before Election Day," unquote.
13 Would it be of concern to you if political operatives or actually the President of 14 the United States wanted to speed up vaccines for approval before election day? I
15 mean, is election day a consideration for the FDA when they make approval decisions?
16 A No, of course not. Election day is not a consideration.
17 Q So would that be a concern?
18 A And so it -- this does look like direct interference in the FDA's work.
19 Q I mean, it's pretty clear on its face, right? Like, election day is the concern
20 for the President, right?
21 A Yes.
22 Q He says so.
23 A Yes, that is correct.
24 Q And this is a direct communication from the President himself to the FDA,
25 right?

1 A Well, to Dr. Hahn, I assume, yes.

2 Q Right. I mean, his -- that's who's tagged there, right?

3 A Right, yes.

4 Q Okay. I think, just for the record, the one I read I labeled as exhibit 9. So

5 let me introduce both of these. I have exhibit 8, which is the August 22nd --

6 [redacted] No, exhibit 8 is the October one.

7 [redacted] Oh, that's --

8 [redacted] Exhibit 9 is this --

9 [Krause Exhibit No. 9.

10 Was marked for identification.]

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q Okay. The one I read is exhibit 8, sorry.

13 And then I'm going to introduce exhibit 9, which is another tweet from Donald

14 Trump on August 22nd. So this is actually an earlier tweet but a later exhibit number.

15 I'll give that to you. Again, it's brief.

16 Okay. So the tweet says, quote: "The deep state, or whoever, over at the FDA

17 is making it very difficult for drug companies to get people in order to test the vaccines

18 and therapeutics. Obviously, they are hoping to delay the answer until after 19 November 3rd. Must focus on speed, and saving lives!" And, again, tagging

20 @SteveFDA.

21 Did I read that correctly?

22 A You did, yes.

23 Q Okay. And this was August 22nd, one day before the approval. Is 24 that -- or this is, sorry, one year and one day before the final approval.

25 A Yeah, I think this may have been in very close proximity to the authorization

1 of convalescent plasma that I described earlier.

2 Q Okay. So how close, in your recollection, was this tweet to that

3 authorization?

4 A Within a day or two, I think.

5 Q Hmm. And do you find that timing suspicious or at least potentially

6 damaging to the view of the public of the FDA?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Why is that?

9 A Well, because if FDA is perceived to be making decisions as a result of this

10 kind of a statement then that can damage the credibility of the agency.

11 Q Do you think that this tweet could have had any influence on the FDA

12 officials who did approve that therapeutic that you testified earlier you didn't think was 13 effective or based on science?

14 A The convalescent plasma?

15 Q Yes.

16 A So I don't know all the ways in which communication occurs between higher

17 levels of government and government agencies. I would be surprised if this was the 18 only -- if, in fact, there was political interference there, I would be surprised if this was the

19 only thing that happened. This might be -- if there were political interference, this might 20 be the only readily available or openly available evidence of that. But -- so I don't know.

21 But --

22 Q You mean, like, if there were a FOIA request, there might be emails out there

23 that show more communications between White House officials and FDA officials?

24 A That I don't know. But if -- I've certainly read in various articles that people

25 were suspicious of the authorization of convalescent plasma around this time. And so if,

1 in fact, that authorization had something to do with this tweet, then there might sort of 2 be other documentation of that.
3 Q Okay. But @SteveFDA, do you have an opinion about who that is, or do
4 you have knowledge of who that might be?
5 A Well, just as I said in the previous one, it's likely Stephen Hahn, who at the 6 time was the commissioner of FDA.
7 Q Okay. And what would his role have been with respect to any of the 8 approvals of convalescent plasma, for example?
9 A Probably very little, because those decisions were made within the centers.
10 So I think Dr. Marks may have been the one who signed off on the authorization of 11 convalescent plasma.
12 Whether -- but it's clear that -- well, not clear. It seems as though the President
13 is trying to apply pressure on the commissioner so that the commissioner will apply
14 pressure on other people who would make this decision, and I don't know how the 15 commissioner responded.
16 And I also don't know whether the President making a statement of what he 17 wanted that happen might have also influenced other people besides the commissioner.
18 Obviously anybody can read a tweet.
19 Q Right. It could have influenced Dr. Marks in this instance potentially? He 20 was in the same position that he was later?
21 A So you would have to ask him. I've probably already speculated too much.
22 That's beyond what I'm willing to say.
23 Q Do you know if he was in the same position --
24 A Yes, he was. He was the center director.
25 Q Okay. And so his role in the approval of convalescent plasma, was it the 1 same as his role in the approval of these other vaccines and things we've discussed?

2 A So I'm not completely sure how his role in the approval of convalescent
3 plasma was defined. But he played a pivotal role in that approval.
4 Normally convalescent plasma would have also been signed off on by -- well, the 5 review would have occurred within an office, and then an emergency use authorization
6 would have been issued by the FDA's Office of Chief Scientist.
7 And so I don't know whether he -- I don't know the degree to which his signature
8 is on various documents related to that authorization, but he certainly was a strong
9 proponent for it within FDA.
10 Q So you wouldn't have had any role with respect to the approval of 11 therapeutics like convalescent plasma. Is that right?
12 A It is true that I did not have any role, but when I heard that this was 13 imminent -- and I don't remember if it was this week or the previous week -- I did actually 14 send an email to Dr. Marks asking him if he was sure that this was the right thing to do,
15 because it seemed like the evidence was very weak.
16 Q Did he respond to you?
17 A I don't recall.
18 Q Okay. Do you know if the person -- there must be a person who's in the 19 equivalent of your position that would have been the expert underneath Dr. Marks, right, 20 with respect to the convalescent plasma therapy?
21 Mr. Thomas Krause. We might be getting into deliberative process on -- we don't 22 have the emails.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q I'm not asking about the deliberation. I'm just saying, is there a person?
25 A So the answer is the convalescent plasma would have been covered by the

1 Office of Blood. Dr. Nicole Verdun at that time was the office director. She's actually
2 now the director of the -- they've changed the name, the replacement for OTAT, the gene
3 therapy and cell therapy office, Office of Therapeutic Products, I think it's called.
4 Q Would it be fair to say that, to the extent that you have concerns about any 5 outside pressure from the White House or from anywhere else that's making the 6 FDA -- influencing the FDA's decisions in a political manner, those concerns that you have,
7 would they be the same concerns in the process, like, of approving convalescent plasma
8 when there was no data that it was effective and when there's evidence of direct
9 influence politically from the President of the United States?
10 A So I would have those concerns there as well, yes.
11 Q And does it surprise you that there was never a congressional investigation 12 with respect to that decision, the approval of convalescent plasma ignoring science and in 13 light of political influence?
14 A I know very little about how Congress works and what are the bases for 15 congressional investigations. But I do understand that -- well, and so I know that at 16 various times since then different parties have been in control of the House and the 17 Senate. Either branch could launch investigations, I guess, but I don't know how the 18 branches prioritize the investigations that that they would perform.
19 Q Sure. But in an ideal world, from the perspective of somebody who cares
20 about how the FDA is perceived and how much trust people have in that regulatory 21 process, would you like to see Congress interested in political influence over decisions like 22 this in a nonpartisan way?
23 Like, say, if the FDA is being influenced unfairly by political pressure, would you
24 like to say that that Congress is going to be just as interested if that political influence
25 comes from a Republican President as if it comes from a Democratic President?

1 A Of course, I would hope that. But, honestly, it's very easy to look
2 backwards and see problems. And so, to me, the critical question is, how can one devise
3 systems going forward to reduce the likelihood that in a subsequent pandemic or a
4 subsequent emergency especially that the temptation for political pressure is reduced?
5 And that involves making sure that the Federal organizations are strong enough
6 that they can do their job, and if they're not doing their job, it will become apparent that 7 they're not doing their job.
8 And so this gets back to the suggestion that I made earlier, that regardless of 9 whether or not specific interference occurs, it's clear that in many of these cases there is 10 good reason for a public perception that there at least have been attempts at 11 interference.
12 And so the question is, how can one -- how can we devise a stronger system, a
13 stronger -- stronger Federal agencies such that that is less likely to happen?
14 And it's difficult when you look at the EUA standard, which of course was the 15 standard for convalescent plasma and was the standard for boosters as well.
16 And so finding a way to make the work of the Federal agencies more transparent
17 so that people can understand the basis on which these decisions are made, and how it is,
18 especially that an EUA, which is such a remarkable mechanism for making products
19 available and only can be used during an emergency, to create a situation where, as I said
20 before, the public, physicians, other public health agencies, everybody can really 21 understand what the evaluation that went into an EUA is and how it is that that might 22 differ from, at least from the FDA perspective, full licensure of that product, I think would 23 help, because that might then reduce these kinds of temptations and would then also 24 reduce public perceptions, which then could be easily addressed by careful 25 communication about what it is that the agencies actually did.

1 Q My colleague is going to ask you a couple questions.

2 A Sure.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Thank you.

5 I just have a couple questions.

6 So in the previous hour you had stated something to the effect of scientists

7 working under fear rather than logic. I just wanted to clarify, the fear that you had

8 spoke of is related to the pandemic and all the kind of health consequences that would

9 come with that specifically?

10 A Yes. I don't remember how much of that I said. But to me, I thought that

11 some of the decisions were driven by fear of the evolution of the pandemic. So that was

12 in the context of worry about what would happen with the Delta or a subsequent variant,

13 where, although there wasn't any good evidence that vaccine protection against severe

14 disease caused by the Delta variant was fading, nonetheless, some people may have 15 worried that it would.

16 And yet the question is, how does one -- how can one make decisions based on

17 science and data versus conjecture or in some cases fear? But the fear I was referring to 18 was fear for the outcome in terms of public health.

19 Q And not political fear?

20 A Exactly, yes.

21 Q Okay. And then I just have a question, referring back to the 22 September 17th meeting in 2021, in the Advisory Committee.

23 A Yes.

24 Q You had mentioned that FDA members do not vote during those meetings?

25 A Correct.

1 Q Would you -- do you happen to know why that is?

2 A It's a general rule that it's an outside Advisory Committee that is intended to

3 provide objective advice from outside experts. If FDA employees were to vote, then

4 FDA employees might then drown out the voice of those outside experts.

5 It's an Advisory Committee, and so the purpose is to bring together people who

6 know a lot and have thought a lot about the issues and to present data to them, some of

7 which they might not have seen before, but to get their reaction to it as an independent

8 check on what the FDA is doing.

9 And so while the FDA can play some role in what data are presented, and the FDA

10 normally presents its evaluation of the data that the sponsor might present, it's very

11 important for the integrity of an advisory process that the people we're advising not be 12 the advisees, if that makes sense.

13 So these are outside advisers, and the FDA is not bound to accept their advice.

14 But of course if a well-constituted Advisory Committee makes a recommendation to do

15 something -- or not to do something -- and the FDA rejects that advice, people ask a lot of 16 questions why.

17 And so there is -- the FDA had better have good answers for why they would reject

18 the advice of people who represent the scientific and medical community at large; also

19 includes patient representatives and representatives of the public. And so there is very 20 broad expertise on the committee.

21 But, I don't know, I hope that answered the question. So it would really fly in the

22 face of an advisory process for the FDA to vote on what its own advisers are telling them

23 they recommend should be done.

24 Q That makes sense. Thank you.

25 [redacted] I don't have any other questions. We can go off the record.

1 [Discussion off the record.]

2 [redacted] Back on the record.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Dr. Krause, our colleagues from the minority showed you what's been

5 marked as exhibit 8 and 9. These are two tweets from President Trump when he was in 6 office, correct?

7 A That is correct.

8 Q And President Trump was known for, among other things, tweeting publicly,

9 correct?

10 A Correct.

11 Q And, as far as you know, these two tweets -- which were public for the world

12 to see, correct?

13 A Correct, yes. That's my understanding of Twitter, although I admit my 14 understanding is incomplete.

15 Q Fair enough. So this is transparent, what he's saying, this complaint, as you

16 called it?

17 A It is transparent, yes.

18 Q It's open for everyone to see it, correct?

19 A Correct.

20 Q Okay. But the pressure, the political pressure or external pressure, as you

21 perceived it, was done internally, privately, not for the world to see. Fair to say?

22 A Well, a mix perhaps. Obviously, the pressure that was created for the 23 boosters was also publicly based on the announcement made that boosters will be

24 available and the -- a statement made by Doctors Fauci, Walensky, and Woodcock that

25 they would move to make boosters available by September 20th.

1 And so that was public as well. And so that also created a kind of a pressure on
2 the FDA, especially when their own acting commissioner was saying this is what was going
3 to happen, subject to the approval of the FDA, which I also control and can make sure 4 that -- right, then we will make this happen, is perhaps an imprudent way to 5 communicate, because it creates for the people of the FDA the impression that an 6 outcome is foreordained, and for the public it creates an impression that this outcome is 7 foreordained.
8 Q But as far as you know, Dr. Marks didn't tweet his internal discussions with 9 you publicly?
10 A About?
11 Q The September 15th deadline and/or advancing that even earlier.
12 A Oh, so you're mixing the -- well, right now I was talking about the 13 announcement about the boosters.
14 Q Correct.
15 A And the September 15th deadline was related to the approval of the 16 Comirnaty vaccine.
17 Q No, I'm just -- I'm referencing that in which you did speak of feeling some 18 pressure, and your understanding is Dr. Marks, others, there was an external pressure.
19 That was internal discussions, correct?
20 A That's correct, yes.
21 Q And as far as you know, Dr. Marks did not tweet his views on that deadline
22 or any other day publicly, correct?
23 A That's correct. There was no tweet or public announcement that, to my 24 knowledge, that mandates or an approved vaccine would -- well, I mean, there was 25 actually the CNN article that Dr. Gruber referred to that said that they thought that the

1 vaccine would be approved by -- in 2 months from July 16th. And so that somehow

2 found its way out.

3 Q Right.

4 A But I can't -- so I think it's very difficult to line the situations up, though. I

5 take your point.

6 [redacted] Thank you.

7 [redacted] I have another question, then.

8 [redacted] Off the record and back on the record.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Okay.

3 So Dr. Marks was -- what's his position? What's his title?

4 A Director of the Center for Biologics Evaluation and Research.

5 Q Okay. He doesn't work for the White House?

6 A No.

7 Q No. And he worked during the Trump administration and the Biden

8 administration, right?

9 A Correct. Yes.

10 Q And he was in the same position to approve the convalescent plasma

11 therapy that was not supported by the evidence as he was when he encouraged the rapid

12 BLA approval process for COVID, right?

13 A He was in the same position during both of those episodes, yes.

14 Q Okay. And so his -- whatever pressure he might have put on you or other

15 people in similar positions within the FDA, the theory is that if there's political pressure

16 it's coming from the outside, going to him, and then being kind of dispersed onto the 17 people in your position. Is that what you understand is being said here?

18 A Well, so some of the circumstantial evidence about political pressure comes 19 from public statements that have been made by people, right?

20 Q Right.

21 A And so -- and some of this comes from private statements that are in these

22 emails. And so --

23 Q These are statements from Dr. Marks in the emails? Is that what you're

24 referring to?

25 A Well, for instance, if one thinks, for instance, about the question of

1 mandates, that was in the email that summarized the discussion with Dr. Woodcock and 2 Dr. Marks, and so that was in an email obviously.
3 Q Okay.
4 A And yet, one could -- a reasonable person would think that a concern over
5 mandates would not be something that would be within the purview of a center director
6 or even a commissioner at the FDA. And so that must have -- may have come from the 7 outside, without knowing where from the outside that came.
8 Q Right. So the speculation is that there's outside pressure above them in the 9 political world, right, that is influencing their decisions or the pressure that they then put 10 on the FDA employees?
11 A Well, I think it would be irresponsible for them to put pressure based on 12 their own opinion about mandates given that that has nothing to do with their jobs.
13 Q Okay. I guess my point is this. Dr. Marks was in the same position under 14 President Trump as he was under President Biden, right?
15 A Correct.
16 Q Okay. So whatever political pressure was coming from either party, if 17 Dr. Marks is now being accused of private pressure or something to that effect, it was 18 coming from Trump when he was in the position of approving convalescent plasma and it
19 was allegedly coming from Biden when he was in the position of the BLA for the COVID 20 vaccine approval, right?
21 A Well, as I stated, I don't know where the outside pressure, for instance in 22 favor of mandates, would have come from in the context of the BLA approval. It may 23 have come from many different places.
24 Q But if Dr. Marks was inappropriately influenced in that instance, clearly the 25 implication is that it's coming from the administration that's in power at that time, right?

1 Mr. Thomas Krause. Her premise is if he was inappropriately influenced --

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q If he was. I'm not saying he was. I'm saying -- that's what we keep talking

4 about here, right, a suggestion?

5 A If he was inappropriately influenced, yes, or from the acting commissioner, I

6 suppose.

7 Q Okay. But the same thing is true when he is in the position in 2020 and

8 there's the suggestion that he may have approved convalescent plasma without evidence

9 or inappropriately or in response to political pressure, he would have done that in

10 response to the administration that was in power, right, that was exerting the pressure, if

11 he did it?

12 A So -- yes. So I don't know if he did that.

13 Q Right. But if he did, right?

14 A And so, yes, I've seen that asserted. So, yes.

15 [redacted] Okay. That's the only question I had. We can go off the record.

16 Thank you so much.

17 [Discussion off the record.]

18 Mr. Thomas Krause. Can I say something on the record still? I'd just like to

19 renew my request for a copy of the transcript or even access to the video in the event

20 that this proceeding is publicly disclosed in some manner outside the subcommittee.

21 And I just want to state that Mr. Krause -- Dr. Krause -- has come here as a

22 scientist. He has been completely nonpartisan. I think he's provided great testimony

23 of significant importance to the public, which should not be used in a partisan manner.

24 And to the extent that it is, we would like to be able to have access to his testimony so as

25 to be able to rebut or to put it in the broader context with which he's come here today on

1 a completely voluntary basis.

2 And you said you'd take that request to the chairman, and I'm just reiterating

3 here, we're willing to sign any kind of NDA that would be appropriately tailored to allow

4 us to make limited use but to place whatever gets out to the public into the proper

5 context.

6 [redacted] Thank you, Mr. Krause.

7 As previously indicated earlier, prior to the interview, all requests are subject to 8 the chairman's discretion. And we're happy to take those requests to the chairman.

9 We make no such representations here; that's the chairman's call.

10 But our standing policy is, as you know, the transcripts are committee property

11 and we do not make them available, but we do make them available for you and your

12 client to review, as long as you need, to go over the transcript. And ultimately, if there's

13 issues that you have with any of the transcription, you are free to make those and submit

14 those to the committee.

15 That's standing policy. And your requests are on the record and will be 16 submitted to the chairman for a decision.

17 Mr. Thomas Krause. Okay. Appreciate that.

18 One question, though. Will parts of this potentially go into a report that's made

19 public? Is that part of the conclusion of an investigation like this?

20 [redacted] These questions are ultimately subject to the chairman. Nothing

21 has been decided at this point.

22 Mr. Thomas Krause. Thank you very much.

23 [redacted] Off the record.

24 [Whereupon, at 5:23 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

1 Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

2 I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the

3 answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

4

5 _____

6 Witness Name

7 _____

8 Date

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: THOMAS J. SOBOCINSKI

Thursday, September 7, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 2237, Rayburn House Office Building, commencing at 10:02 a.m.

Present: Representative Jordan.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted], COUNSEL

8 [redacted], GENERAL COUNSEL

9 [redacted], COUNSEL

10 [redacted], COUNSEL

11 [redacted], PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

12 [redacted] CHIEF COUNSEL FOR OVERSIGHT

13 [redacted], MINORITY CHIEF OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

14 [redacted], MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

15 [redacted], MINORITY STAFF ASSISTANT

16

17

18

19

20 For the U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE:

21

22 [redacted] DEPUTY ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL,

23 OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

24

25

1

2 For the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION:

3

4 [redacted] ASSISTANT GENERAL COUNSEL,

5 OFFICE OF GENERAL COUNSEL

1 [redacted] Good morning.

2 This is a transcribed interview of Special Agent in Charge Thomas Sobocinski of the

3 Baltimore Field Office of the FBI. Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part

4 of the committee's oversight of the Department of Justice commitment to impartial

5 justice and integrity of the Hunter Biden prosecution of which numerous irregularities

6 have been reported.

7 Mr. -- or, Agent Sobocinski, would you please state your name for the record?

8 Mr. Sobocinski. Thomas J. Sobocinski.

9 [redacted]. And you are joined here today with agency counsel as opposed to 10 personal counsel?

11 Mr. Sobocinski. Correct.

12 [redacted] Would agency counsel please state their names.

13 [redacted] [redacted] from the FBI's Office of General Counsel.

14 [redacted] [redacted] from the Department of Justice.

15 [redacted]. And you understand that agency counsel represents the Department

16 and the FBI, not you personally.

17 Mr. Sobocinski. I do.

18 [redacted] And you're comfortable with proceeding that way.

19 Mr. Sobocinski. I am.

20 [redacted]. Okay.

21 On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here today to

22 answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to appear

23 voluntarily.

24 Initially, a deposition subpoena had been issued for today, and we have

25 withdrawn that in lieu of today's voluntary transcribed interview. Obviously, if we don't

1 get very far and you're not able to answer the questions we have, we may have to revisit
2 the subpoena for a deposition.
3 My name is [redacted]. I'm with Mr. Jordan's Judiciary Committee staff. I'll 4 have the staffers here in the room introduce themselves.
5 [redacted] with Mr. Jordan's staff.
6 [redacted], Mr. Jordan's staff.
7 [redacted]. [redacted] Mr. Jordan's staff.
8 [redacted]. [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
9 [redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
10 [redacted] Mr. Jordan's staff.
11 [redacted], Mr. Jordan's staff.
12 [redacted]. I'll go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will follow during 13 today's interview.
14 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 15 an hour. Then the minority will have a chance to ask their questions for an equal period
16 of time. We'll alternate back and forth. They'll actually come over and sit in these 17 seats to help the court reporter best capture what we're saying.
18 Ordinarily we take a break at the end of each hour if you need it, but it's entirely
19 up to you. We will only take breaks if you need them. The same goes for if you need 20 lunch, if it's going too long. It's up to you. A lot of times we power through.
21 Sometimes we don't. So it's your call.
22 If you need to confer with agency counsel, just let us know, and we'll just go off
23 the record.
24 There's an official court reporter taking down everything we say and make a
25 written record, so every now and then we need to prompt witnesses to give a verbal

1 response if you had just nodded your head and so forth.

2 We'll do our best to limit the number of people questioning you at once during

3 any given hour. Usually it's just one staff person. And if the members join us, of 4 course, we defer to the members to ask their questions. So then it would be a situation

5 where it's more than one person asking the questions. But that's the way it works with

6 the Members of our Congress.

7 We ask you, of course, to please speak clearly so the court reporter can accurately

8 make a record and so that the people at the end of the table can hear.

9 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner

10 possible, so we'll take our time. If you have any questions or if you don't understand

11 one of our questions, please let us know. Our questions may cover a range of topics.

12 So if you need clarification at any point, please let us know.

13 If you don't honestly know the answer to a question or do not remember, it's best

14 not to guess. However, if you do remember and you say you don't remember, that of 15 course is a problem when it comes to 18 United States Code 1001, which I'm sure you're 16 familiar with.

17 Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to criminal

18 prosecution for making false statements. You understand that, correct?

19 Mr. Sobocinski. I do.

20 [redacted]. And we say that to all witnesses, so certainly mean no disrespect of 21 somebody of your caliber here today.

22 We try to keep the information that we talk about during these sessions

23 confidential. We don't have anything like Rule 6(e) that makes it unlawful to discuss.

24 What we discuss, however, we do our best to keep it confidential. So to the 25 extent we mark exhibits, we will retain those exhibits. And sometimes if a witness

1 provides us a document and then we want to keep it, it gets a little awkward, but you
2 haven't provided us any documents. But just for the sake of mentioning it, we will
3 collect the exhibits.
4 That's the end of my welcoming remarks.
5 [redacted], do you have anything?
6 [redacted] Not at this time. Thank you.
7 [redacted] [redacted] would you mind if I jumped in with a couple quick things --
8 [redacted]. Of course.
9 [redacted] -- before you start your round?
10 [redacted]. Of course.
11 [redacted] Thank you.
12 As you noted, Mr. Sobocinski is here voluntarily, and we really appreciate the 13 committee's willingness to proceed with a voluntary transcribed interview and in 14 particular the work that the staff did jointly with the Department and the Bureau to get us
15 to this point.
16 As you know, your inquiry implicates an ongoing criminal investigation. We've 17 talked about this. We've also talked about the fact that at this point Mr. Sobocinski is 18 going to be able to address questions that can be answered without compromising the 19 ongoing investigation and prosecution.
20 Specifically, the Department has authorized him to discuss U.S. Attorney Weiss'
21 authority, as well as the October 7th, 2022, meeting, subject to some constraints around
22 the ongoing investigation issue. There may be some additional information he can share 23 as well, depending on the questions and, again, consistent with our need to protect the 24 ongoing investigation.
25 We understand the committee may have a broader universe and does have a

1 broader universe of information that you're interested in. To the extent you have
2 questions that go beyond the scope of what he has been authorized to get into at this
3 juncture, we reiterate our willingness to continue the discussion with the committee on 4 those topics and our willingness to consider additional accommodations down the line.
5 That said, our goal today is very much to facilitate Mr. Sobocinski in sharing as 6 much information as he can, consistent with his authorization.
7 So I just wanted to put all of that on the record before we get started.
8 [redacted] Okay.
9 EXAMINATION
10 BY [redacted]:
11 Q Mr. Sobocinski, did the Department send you a letter --
12 A They did.
13 Q -- about what you can or can't speak to?
14 A They did.
15 Q And is that a letter that -- would that be helpful for us to have, or are we not 16 allowed to have that letter?
17 [redacted] The letter is consistent with what I just described and what we have 18 talked about before. I'm not sure the letter adds anything to that. But if you're asking 19 for a copy of the letter, I don't have it with me today.
20 [redacted] Okay.
21 [redacted] But we can talk about getting that to you.
22 [redacted]. Okay.
23 Chairman Jordan. When did they send that to you?
24 Mr. Sobocinski. Yesterday.
25 [redacted] And I understand you're not allowed to talk about ongoing matters,

1 and it would be helpful for us to know exactly what's ongoing. There's the tax charges
2 from 2014 and '15. The statute of limitations has expired for that, correct?
3 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not -- as the FBI I'm not -- I have no general knowledge of 4 what the IRS charges are as far as when they lapse or when they don't lapse.
5 [redacted]. Okay.
6 [redacted] And, [redacted] I think -- we may well have a difference of opinion on 7 what does and does not relate to the ongoing matter. So what I can say is when 8 we -- when and if we get to those points, we may jump in and convey that that is a thing
9 that we believe involves the ongoing matters.
10 [redacted]. Okay.
11 [redacted] But, again, we're happy to continue working with the committee
12 going forward.
13 [redacted]. Okay. But just at the top, I was just going to ask a couple questions
14 about is the 2014 tax matter, is that something you can help us understand about?
15 Mr. Sobocinski. At this point I'm not in a position to talk about that.
16 [redacted]. Okay. So that is -- even though the statute of limitations has 17 expired, you can't help us with that?
18 Mr. Sobocinski. Not today.
19 Chairman Jordan. Is that specifically in the letter saying you couldn't talk about
20 that?
21 Mr. Sobocinski. I don't recall the specifics, if it said that. It was a general
22 overview of what is ongoing or not. Those -- what were being discussed right there,
23 those are tax charges --
24 [redacted]. By the way, I started the clock.
25 [redacted] I would just say, on the particular tax charges, I don't want to talk

1 past what information the witness may or may not have on that, particularly as it relates
2 to Mr. Weiss' authority. So if there are questions about his authority, the witness can
3 answer what he knows --
4 [redacted]. Okay.
5 [redacted] -- regardless of the charge.
6 [redacted]. Okay.
7 BY [redacted]:
8 Q But the fact that the 2014 and '15 tax years were subject to a tolling
9 agreement, you're aware of that, correct?
10 A What do you mean by that?
11 Q That the Department entered into an agreement with defense counsel to toll
12 the statute of limitations.
13 A I'm not aware of the specifics of any -- of that agreement.
14 Q Okay. You're aware it was discussed at a 6/15/22 meeting that you
15 attended, correct?
16 A Can you be more specific on that meeting?
17 Q Well, there was a June 15th, 2022, meeting --
18 A Correct.
19 Q -- at Department headquarters with DOJ Tax Division officials, Mr. Goldberg, 20 Mr. Daly, Mr. Morgan. You attended, I believe, and there was IRS personnel there as 21 well, correct?
22 A Correct. I now know which meeting you're talking about.
23 Q Okay. And so at that meeting, it's our understanding, that a discussion of 24 the statute of limitations expiring for the 2014, 2015 tax years was discussed. Is that
25 correct?

1 [redacted] I'm sorry. Before the witness answers, the meeting you're 2 describing is outside the scope of his authorization --
3 [redacted]. Okay.
4 [redacted] -- unless you have some basis to think that there was a discussion
5 about the issue of Mr. Weiss' authority at that meeting --
6 [redacted] Okay.
7 [redacted] -- in which case he's welcome to talk about it. But --
8 [redacted]. Okay. And we flagged that in our email, that we were interested in 9 that meeting, and that meeting was the subject of -- it was discussed in the Ziegler and 10 Shapley transcripts.
11 [redacted] Right. And we understand. And that's an example of what I mean
12 when I said that we may just have to agree to disagree in the room today on our 13 respective views on what is and is not encompassed in the ongoing matter.
14 [redacted] Okay.
15 [redacted] But I also want to emphasize that Mr. Sobocinski is here to talk to 16 some of the issues that the committee has identified as being kind of a central interest
17 and focus, and I don't -- I don't want to spend too much time getting into what he can't 18 address since he is here to answer --
19 [redacted] Well, I understand that. But I'm just trying at the top here to figure 20 out what I can and can't have productive Q&A with him on.
21 BY [redacted]:
22 Q And so, as I understand it, the fact that the 2014 and '15 tax years expired, 23 you can't help us here today with facts relating to that?
24 A Yeah, I'm not in a position to talk about the ongoing investigation.
25 Q Okay. So, in your mind, that's considered part of the ongoing investigation,

1 even though the statutes expired?

2 A Without addressing that question directly, as the FBI, IRS tax charges are

3 not -- those are not my violations that I was investigating. So I'm not in a position to 4 discuss the minutia of that.

5 Q Okay. But during the 6/15 meeting, you did have some communications

6 with Gary Shapley, correct, sort of offline?

7 A Yeah, Gary was in the meeting. Mr. Shapley was in the meeting.

8 Q And did you speak with him on the sidelines of that meeting?

9 [redacted] And, [redacted] again, I'm sorry, but this meeting is outside the scope of

10 and particularly deliberations that may have happened at that meeting, discussions

11 around --

12 [redacted] Okay.

13 [redacted] -- the status of the investigation that may have happened at that

14 meeting.

15 [redacted]. Okay.

16 [redacted] The Department views all of that as part of the ongoing matter.

17 [redacted]. Fair enough. But asking the witness whether he attended a

18 meeting doesn't implicate any ongoing investigation.

19 [redacted] And he just answered that question.

20 [redacted]. Asking a witness whether he remembers whether Agent Shapley

21 was at the meeting implicate any ongoing investigation.

22 Asking whether the witness had communications with Agent Shapley at the 23 meeting, on the sidelines of the meeting, that doesn't implicate any ongoing

24 investigations, correct?

25 [redacted] It all involves an ongoing investigation.

1 [redacted]. Okay.

2 [redacted] He has answered those types of logistical questions --

3 [redacted]. Okay.

4 [redacted] -- that you just asked him.

5 [redacted] Okay. I'll just ask one more time. I don't want to be

6 argumentative here. I'm just trying to get the lay of the land here so we can be as

7 efficient with our time as possible. I've got a whole lot of questions about the 8 2014-2015 tax year. I've got a whole lot of questions about meetings that happened.

9 And I guess I'm not going to answer them because we've had this preliminary back and 10 forth.

11 BY [redacted]:

12 Q So I'll just ask one more time. Do you recall having communications with 13 Agent Shapley at the 6/15/22 meeting sort of the sidelines of that meeting?

14 A I was in a meeting with a bunch of people. In a general sense I would have 15 talked -- I don't necessarily remember it, but it's not abnormal that I would.

16 Q Okay. So if Agent Shapley remembered something vividly and told us

17 about it, you would have no basis to suggest that was inaccurate, right?

18 A I'm not going to comment on what Agent Shapley said or didn't say about 19 that meeting.

20 Q Okay.

21 Sir?

22 Chairman Jordan. Can I just go back to the letter? You got the letter yesterday

23 from the Department of Justice. Who signed the letter?

24 Mr. Sobocinski. I don't know.

25 Chairman Jordan. Was it the Attorney General, was it the DAG, was it the 1 counsel's office? Who sent you the letter?

2 Mr. Sobocinski. I just don't remember who --

3 [redacted] Was it FBI or DOJ?

4 Mr. Sobocinski. It was a DOJ letter.

5 [redacted]. Was it Weinsheimer.

6 Mr. Sobocinski. I don't remember who sent the letter.

7 Chairman Jordan. Special Counsel David Weiss' office?

8 Mr. Sobocinski. No.

9 [redacted]. [redacted] do you know who signed the letter?

10 [redacted] We are happy to get you a copy of the letter, but it was a letter signed

11 by the Department.

12 [redacted]. Okay. But you won't tell us who signed it.

13 [redacted] It was Mr. Weinsheimer.

14 [redacted]. It was Mr. Weinsheimer. Okay. We got an answer there.

15 BY [redacted]:

16 Q So sort of the next -- I understand the tax years 2017, '18, and '19 are part of 17 the ongoing investigation and you can't talk about that. Is that correct?

18 A I can't talk about the ongoing case.

19 Q Okay. The prospect of bringing FARA charges, is that something that is part

20 of the ongoing investigation?

21 A I cannot comment on anything about potential ongoing investigative activity.

22 Q Okay. If I ask you questions about FARA then, are you going to be able to

23 help us? I mean, if it's not part of an ongoing probe, then I would hope that the answer

24 would be yes.

25 A Are you asking about my understanding of FARA and what FARA charges

1 look like, or are you asking is it relating to an ongoing investigation?

2 Q Well, I don't know in if it's ongoing or not. That's the question.

3 Are the questions about Hunter Biden and FARA, is that part of the ongoing

4 investigation?

5 A I'm not going to classify what is and what isn't currently involved in a

6 potential ongoing investigation.

7 Q Okay. But if I ask you questions about Hunter Biden and FARA, are you

8 going to be able to answer them here today?

9 A Let's see.

10 Q Okay. Are you aware of any FARA investigation currently ongoing?

11 A Yeah. Once again, that is something I cannot talk about. You're asking

12 me about a potential ongoing case.

13 Q Okay.

14 All right. When did you -- you're currently the special agent in charge of the 15 Baltimore Field Office?

16 A I am.

17 Q And when did you commence those duties?

18 A July of 2021.

19 Q And how involved have you been in this particular case since you joined the 20 office?

21 A This, like every other -- all the other cases in Maryland and Delaware, I have 22 responsibility for as the senior leader for the FBI.

23 Q And is that the Baltimore Field Office's jurisdiction, Baltimore and -- I'm 24 sorry, Maryland and Delaware?

25 A It is.

1 Q The whole State of Maryland?

2 A Correct.

3 Q And as it relates to the Hunter Biden investigation, did you receive any

4 transition meetings or communications when you took over the office from, I believe it

5 was the special agent in charge, Boone?

6 A So when I came in, yes, I received updates, verbal and in written material,

7 reviewed written materials about what investigations were currently open.

8 Q And what were you told about this particular case?

9 A Because it's ongoing, I can't go into the specifics other than it existed and 10 that I was made aware of it.

11 Q And how often did you join prosecution team meetings on this case? Was 12 it regular or was it just a handful that you can recall?

13 [redacted] Could we cabin to a time period perhaps to help him to start to 14 answer? Are you talking about when he first joined the Baltimore Field Office?

15 [redacted] Since July 2021.

16 Chairman Jordan. Yeah.

17 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, I don't -- less than 12.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Okay. And would that include meetings in Delaware with the U.S. attorney

20 and Main Justice?

21 A Yeah. So let's talk about that.

22 So what do you mean by investigative -- what are you asking for in investigative

23 meetings?

24 Q Meetings with the -- investigative or prosecutorial meetings with the U.S.

25 Attorney's Office about this case, with Main Justice about this case.

1 A So I regularly meet with all of my team on a fairly regular basis. So
2 meetings with the U.S. Attorney's Office and my team in certain instances, I'm going to 3 say less than 20.
4 Q Okay. But I'm talking about specific meetings just about this case, like the 5 10/7 meeting that Mr. -- Agent Shapley identified.
6 A I don't have a real sense of what that number looks like.
7 Q Okay. And when you communicate with Main Justice -- I'm sorry -- FBI
8 headquarters, who at the headquarters do you ordinarily communicate with? Like if 9 headquarters is contacting you to ask about a particular investigation, how would that 10 communication work generally?
11 A Unfortunately, it runs the gamut. So depending on what I'm working, it 12 could be the deputy director. It could be assistant directors in charge of various lines of 13 authority that they have. It could be their follow-on agents. I mean, so it's a mixture 14 of folks that will contact me.
15 Q Okay. As it relates to this particular case, who at FBI headquarters would 16 contact you for updates and potentially give you guidance on the case?
17 A This case was managed out of our Criminal Investigative Division, and so it 18 would have been probably at a deputy assistant director level for the majority of it,
19 potentially a section chief level.
20 Q And who were those folks?
21 A The DAD at the time was Aaron Tapp. The section chief would have been 22 Joe Rothrock.
23 Q And how frequently did headquarters reach out to you about this particular
24 investigation?
25 A I don't know how -- whether I precipitated it or whether they called me.

1 It's fuzzy. I just don't know. We talked fairly regularly around this and other cases.
2 Q Okay. Was it any more common -- or any more frequently for this case
3 than any of your other cases?
4 A In the recent few months, it's gotten more and more communication.
5 Q Okay. But largely that communication is at the DAD level?
6 A Correct.
7 Q Have you had communications with the deputy director or anyone more
8 senior than the DAD?
9 A I have.
10 Q And how frequently?
11 A Yeah, I mean, the numbers for me are -- I just don't have a clear, consistent 12 number that you're looking for.
13 Q Okay.
14 A But it's something I talk to them about.
15 Q But did they have their pulse on the case?
16 A I can't comment on whether -- they absolutely had awareness of the case.
17 Q Uh-huh. Witnesses have testified -- and I'm sure you're aware -- Agent
18 Shapley and Agent Ziegler, that during the entire pendency of the investigation their 19 efforts to conduct what they considered ordinary investigative techniques were curtailed,
20 and sometimes they said they were curtailed by FBI officials.
21 Do you have any awareness of that?
22 A I'm not aware of that at all.
23 Q Okay. So to the extent they were curtailed by FBI officials, you wouldn't 24 know who that was or how that originated?
25 A I have no knowledge of FBI curtailing their investigative activity.

1 Q Okay. And when you have communications with Main Justice, different
2 from FBI headquarters, who is your point of contact that you normally speak with?
3 A So the way we work, I do not go direct with the Department of Justice.
4 Procedurally, in general, that's a headquarters function. I go to headquarters.
5 Headquarters then facilitates that communication with the Department of Justice.
6 Q Okay. So you don't ordinarily have incoming phone calls from Main
7 Justice?
8 A I do not.
9 Q Okay. So Stuart Goldberg doesn't call you?
10 A I'm trying to be as open as I can.
11 Q Sure.
12 A I don't know who he is.
13 Q Okay.
14 A And so then that's an easy one. But I don't want to get into specifics of,
15 like, is somebody from the Department talking to me about this case. I don't know that 16 person.
17 Q During the pendency of the case, did you have communications with the Tax
18 Division lawyers, Jack Morgan or Mark Daly? Is that something that happened at the 19 SAC level, at your level?
20 A Who are those people? Do you know -- can you describe their roles for 21 me?
22 Q They're lawyers in the Tax Division of Main Justice.
23 A So without going into specifics of the ongoing case, you brought up that 24 meeting that we had this discussion about --
25 Q Right.

1 A -- I don't have an ability to talk about. If they were in that meeting, then
2 they would have been in that meeting.
3 Q Okay.
4 A I may have met them there.
5 Q But outside of a meeting like that, you don't have regular communications
6 with the Tax Department officials?
7 A I do not.
8 Q Okay. Can you help us understand -- this particular case had IRS
9 investigators and had FBI investigators -- how that was split up and how the duties were 10 divided and how they work together?
11 A So, once again, cannot talk about this particular case, but I can talk about in 12 general how cases like this work.
13 Q Okay.
14 A And depending on what the thing we're looking at is, whether it's an 15 investigation or an intelligence operation, different agencies have different authorities.
16 The FBI regularly partners with these folks.
17 I think at a basic level we have task force officers. Those are officers, State and 18 local partners, that are given authorities for the FBI. They sit in our office. They work
19 our investigations.
20 We also have joint investigations where components are assigned to work a 21 similar case. They vary from -- all these cases vary. But in general you split up based 22 upon what your organization does most.
23 And so, hypothetically, if it was -- if this was a tax case, IRS is going to usually work
24 the tax component of a joint investigation. Terrorism, which is what I mostly worked my 25 career, you would then -- we would be in charge of the terrorism side charges.

1 Q Okay.

2 A And at some point they'd come together for prosecution, close the case,

3 move on, resolution.

4 Q Okay. But it's fair to say sometimes IRS criminal investigators are working

5 hand in hand with FBI agents to go interview witnesses and conduct investigative activity?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And when that's happened, is there any rules of the road about how those

8 duties are split, or do they just operate as a team?

9 A You know, in a general sense you want to record information in one place.

10 So my hope is that before that meeting, that interview, or whatever happens, they've

11 agreed in advance that one of the persons is going to make the -- to record what just was 12 discussed. One person is going to take items, evidence, things like that.

13 Q Okay. Agent Shapley talked about a day of action, for example, that was

14 scheduled to occur in I believe it was December of 2020. And he spoke about how [redacted]

15 [redacted], an FBI official, and himself were on the ground in California and were getting 16 ready to go do interviews.

17 How would something like that, how would the duties be split?

18 A You know, so, once again, can't talk about that. I wasn't even in this

19 position during that frame.

20 Q Fair enough.

21 A But, yeah, we regularly send agents over. And from my current position

22 other levels would discuss in advance, "Hey, we're sending you to Milwaukee." "Why

23 are you going to Milwaukee? Why couldn't Milwaukee handle it if we are sending

24 agents out together?" I mean, at this point that's an agent-level decision on how that

25 usually gets split when they're doing it.

1 Q Okay. Now, if there's an investigative decision about whether they're going
2 to approach a witness cold, who makes that decision? Is that IRS or FBI or is that made
3 jointly, knock on a door and just try to get a witness in a candid moment to talk?
4 A Yeah, that's an agent decision.
5 Q Okay. And if there was a plan to talk to a particular witness -- I'm just 6 talking generally -- if there was a plan to talk to a particular witness and catch that
7 witness cold, if someone at FBI or a different -- or Main Justice tipped off that witness
8 that the FBI agent and the IRS agent were going to talk to cold, would you consider that 9 to be problematic?
10 A There are different strategies for interviews. And in my almost 30-plus 11 years of law enforcement, I've done different things.
12 Q But if the game plan was to catch a witness cold, knock on his door and see if 13 he's willing to talk, would you consider it problematic if someone else in the mix alerted,
14 say, the defense attorney for that witness that perhaps the FBI was going to knock on 15 their door the next morning?
16 [redacted] Are you asking him to speculate on an actual thing that you believe 17 happened in this specific case?
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q I'm just saying generally. You know, you've been with the FBI how many 20 years?
21 A 25, going on 25.
22 Q So you have an incredible wealth of experience about best practices for 23 conducting investigative work, correct?
24 A At this point I'm dangerous enough to kind of know what I'm doing a little 25 bit.

1 Q So if the plan -- generally speaking, not talking about anything specific -- but
2 if the plan generally was to catch a witness by surprise, which you do from time to time,
3 correct, you try to get witnesses to talk to you, right, without the benefit of their lawyer,
4 without the benefit of too much opportunity to think things through, correct?
5 A Have I done that in the past? Sure.
6 Q But that's something the FBI and IRS criminal investigators do all the time,
7 correct?
8 A Interview people? Absolutely.
9 Q And try and take them by surprise and get them in a candid moment?
10 A You know, I've done hundreds of interviews, and there are a hundred 11 different ways I come about each one of those interviews.
12 Q But that's one of the regular ways, right?
13 A Trying to surprise people? It may very well be, but -- 14 Q Maybe "surprise" is the wrong word, but just try to visit with them and see if 15 they'll talk?
16 A I and my agents every day are visiting with people trying to get them to 17 talk --
18 Q Right.
19 A -- and get information from the community.
20 Q And sometimes the game plan is try to get them to talk without them
21 knowing you're coming, correct?
22 A Sure, that's absolutely an option.
23 Q Okay. And if that was the plan with a particular witness -- generally 24 speaking -- and someone at DOJ or somebody else at FBI tipped that witness off, that 25 would not be a best practice, would it?

1 A You're asking me to speculate. There may have been a justifiable reason of 2 why that happened that I wasn't aware about in your hypothetical situation.
3 Q Okay. Do you know Agent [redacted] that I mentioned? He was in the --
4 A Can I go off, have a moment here?
5 [redacted]. Sure.
6 [Discussion off the record.]
7 Mr. Sobocinski. Yes, I know [redacted]. I would ask that he is not an executive
8 in the FBI and that as best as we can we keep his identity as it relates to my testimony
9 here anonymous.
10 [redacted] Okay. At the end of the interview, we'll give you a -- I'm going to 11 stop the clock here for recordkeeping purposes. At the end of the interview, the court
12 reporters, they'll turn it around pretty quickly, you can come in and review the transcript
13 for accuracy.
14 Mr. Sobocinski. Okay.
15 [redacted]. And agency counsel, those that are in the room, can come in and 16 look at the transcript. And if there's any inaccuracies, you can identify them for us. If 17 there's any proposed redactions, we'll take that into consideration.
18 And also, just when you're reviewing the transcript, if you realize that you got 19 something wrong or you remembered something, you can tell us. You can tell us at that 20 time.
21 And so if you or FBI, DOJ counsel thinks that a particular name needs to be 22 redacted, they can propose it, and then we'll consider it. A lot of times we're okay with 23 that redaction. Sometimes we're not.
24 With Agent [redacted] in particular, he's testified for a different committee, so --
25 [redacted] The committee did redact his name and has not released his name,

1 however, so I think that's --

2 [redacted] OGR did that?

3 [redacted] Yeah.

4 [redacted]. Is that true, [redacted]?

5 [redacted] Correct.

6 [redacted]. Okay. All right.

7 [redacted] And I think there were -- just on this point -- there were a few of the 8 Tax Division attorney names also fall into this category.

9 But appreciate the offer, and we're happy to look at that after the fact.

10 [redacted]. Yeah, just so you understand how the transcript review works.

11 Usually the court reporters give it to us pretty quickly too. They're awesome.

12 Anyway, we'll go back on the clock here.

13 [redacted] Got to praise the court reporter.

14 [redacted]. Absolutely.

15 BY [redacted]:

16 Q So Agent [redacted], he was under your purview?

17 A He was a supervisor that worked for me for a time, yeah.

18 Q Okay. And how long did he work for you?

19 A I think maybe a year.

20 Q Okay. And was he based in Wilmington?

21 A He was.

22 Q Okay. And he was one of the main agents on this case?

23 A He was a supervisor in the office.

24 Q How many folks are in the office up in Wilmington?

25 A Yeah, I can't -- we don't regularly give out the numbers of our office.

1 Q Okay. So you know the answer, but you're not going to tell me the
2 answer?
3 A I have a general sense of the answer.
4 Q Okay.
5 A I would say I would love more. But I don't have a --
6 Q So you know the answer, but you're not going to give me the answer. Is 7 that what you're saying?
8 A I have a general sense of the numbers, yes.
9 Q I want to turn our attention to the October 7th meeting.
10 A Uh-huh.
11 Q And we'll mark as an exhibit -- it will be exhibit 1 for us, but it was exhibit 10
12 for Agent Shapley's deposition.
13 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 1
14 Was marked for identification.]
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q Is this the first time you've seen this document?
17 A It's not.
18 Q And when have you seen this document before?
19 A Sometime in the last week.
20 Q Okay. So these are contemporaneous notes prepared by Agent Shapley of 21 the IRS summarizing a meeting that happened on Friday, October 7th, 2022. And it's my 22 understanding you attended this meeting?
23 A I attended a meeting around that date, yes.
24 Q And do you remember who was in that meeting?
25 A Yeah, in a general sense I do.

1 Q Okay. And can you tell us who?

2 A So, yeah. Myself, would have been my assistant special agent in charge.

3 Q And who is that?

4 A She is not an SES employee, so right now I'm not going to give you her name.

5 Q Is that Agent [redacted]?

6 A I'm not going to discuss her name right now.

7 Q Okay. I mean, we sent a subpoena to her. She's slated to testify on 8 Monday. So, okay.

9 A The SAC for IRS. Other SACs --

10 Q And who was that?

11 A I believe it was Darrell Waldon.

12 Q Okay.

13 A And then other IRS employees. I don't have a -- I don't know the specifics

14 of who there was in there. I do believe Mr. Shapley was one of them. David Weiss,

15 the U.S. attorney, was in there, and then members of his staff. But, once again, it's just 16 a general sense of who they were. Specifics I don't recall from that.

17 Q And what was the purpose of the meeting?

18 A You know, the purpose -- why I showed up for the -- why I went to this

19 meeting is there had been a media leak reported in one of the papers, and I was there to 20 discuss the media leak.

21 Q What do you remember about the leak?

22 A That it was -- it appeared to reference ongoing investigative activity in this

23 case.

24 Q Do you remember what publication it was in?

25 A I believe it was The Washington Post.

1 Q And what was the gist of the article or the gist of the concern?
2 A That potentially somebody was working -- a law enforcement investigation
3 was talking to a reporter.
4 Q Did you have an idea who that was?
5 A Yeah, I didn't speculate at that point. It could have been quite a few
6 people.
7 Q Like who do you -- this case obviously has been the subject of a lot of 8 reporting and leaks, whether they're authorized or unauthorized. Who's talking to the 9 press on this case?
10 A Yeah, you're asking me to speculate. I don't know.
11 Q But you're not?
12 A I am not.
13 Q Okay. And, to the best of your understanding, nobody at the FBI is,
14 correct?
15 A I'm not aware of -- I can't speculate on who the leaks are.
16 Q Okay. So the meeting was called to talk about the leak?
17 A Yeah, to reference the leak and to make sure we were focused on the 18 investigation and moving it forward to a resolution.
19 Q Did U.S. Attorney Weiss, did he exhibit concern about the leaks?
20 Do you know who called the meeting? Was it a regularly scheduled meeting or 21 was it a --
22 A Yeah, I don't --
23 Q You don't remember?
24 A I don't have a sense of whether it was previously scheduled or it was we 25 were showing up because of that. My memory is it was -- I was there because of the 1 timing as it related to that leak.

2 Q But you drove up to Baltimore?

3 A Wilmington.

4 Q I'm sorry. You drove from Baltimore to Wilmington?

5 A Correct.

6 Q Did you drive specifically to Wilmington for the meeting, or did you have

7 business there that you were already scheduled to be there?

8 A Yeah, I don't know. I regularly go up. It's part of my -- I have teams there.

9 I try to go there regularly. I try to do as much -- to cram as much in as I can.

10 Q Okay. And do you remember any other purpose that the meeting was 11 called?

12 A Other than what I just talked about, no.

13 Q Yeah. Looking at -- let me just ask you one question.

14 FBI Form 302s are reports of interviews that FBI agents prepare, correct?

15 A Correct.

16 Q For the most part, do you think FBI 302s are reliable documents?

17 A I do.

18 Q And why are they reliable?

19 A Because it is by which the way the FBI records -- and has for some 20 time -- records interviews.

21 Q Okay. So FBI investigators are trained to interview witnesses, correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q And write up the contents of their interview in a contemporaneous fashion,

24 correct?

25 A Correct.

1 Q And the same goes for IRS criminal investigators. They write up their
2 interview summaries and reports much in the same fashion, correct?
3 A Yeah, I can't comment on what their process is. But I think law
4 enforcement worldwide writes up interviews of --
5 Q And from your perspective the 302s are reliable because they're 6 contemporaneous, and they're written by a professional whose job it is to conduct
7 interviews and write reports about those interviews, correct?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. So exhibit 10 here is a contemporaneous report, in effect, of the 10 October 7th meeting prepared by Agent Shapley. And Agent Shapley identifies in this 11 particular document that Mr. Waldon, the special agent in charge, asked him for this 12 report.
13 So, for the most part, this type of contemporaneous capture of a meeting is, in 14 essence, a reliable document, correct?
15 A I can't comment on the veracity of this. You have what looks like an email
16 chain. I really don't know who wrote it. I was not referenced in it. But I can talk 17 about what it states.
18 Q Uh-huh. But you don't have any evidence to suggest --
19 A No.
20 Q -- that Mr. Shapley didn't write this, correct?
21 A No. But we are in a conversation. You're asking me to be truthful, and I
22 just don't know the veracity and when this was written.
23 Q Okay.
24 A And I do see regularly emails that are manipulated in my course of business.
25 Q Okay.

1 A And so I just want to put that out there.

2 Q Okay. Fair enough. I mean, for the record, Agent Shapley testified under

3 oath. He brought this document to that deposition. And he articulated that he

4 prepared this email contemporaneously because his special agent in charge asked him to.

5 So with that sort of stipulated to, there's no reason that these notes would be

6 unreliable?

7 A Okay.

8 Q So you understand that, you don't have any evidence or suggestion that

9 these are unreliable?

10 A No. I appreciate your statement, yeah.

11 Q Okay. And so this is a two-page document, and it talks about six 12 enumerated items.

13 Number 2 on here is: "Weiss stated that he is not the deciding person on

14 whether charges are filed. I believe this to be a huge problem -- inconsistent with DOJ

15 public position and Merrick Garland's testimony."

16 You were in the meeting. Did that -- do you remember that occurring?

17 A I don't.

18 Q So you do not remember the U.S. attorney stating that he is not the deciding 19 person on whether charges are filed?

20 A Yeah, I do not.

21 Q Okay. Now, at this point in time in the investigation, who did you think had 22 authority to bring charges?

23 A David Weiss.

24 Q Okay. And if David Weiss wanted to bring charges outside of his 25 jurisdiction, who had authority to make that happen?

1 A David Weiss.

2 Q Okay. So if David Weiss brought the 2014-2015 tax cases to D.C., to the 3 U.S. attorney, Matthew Graves, whose call was it to bring those charges?

4 A Once again, I'm not aware of that discussion. I was consistently aware that

5 David Weiss had the authority in the U.S. to bring the charges where venue presented

6 itself.

7 Q Okay. Wherever he wanted? He could bring it in California? He could

8 bring it in D.C.?

9 A Correct.

10 Chairman Jordan. And on what basis did you understand he had that authority?

11 Because that's not normal. He can bring them in his district. On what basis did you

12 understand he had that authority?

13 Mr. Sobocinski. So from when -- the minute I got there in July of '21, it was

14 always the understanding and the communication between David Weiss and myself is 15 that he had that authority to bring it on behalf of the Department.

16 Chairman Jordan. So you believed that he had this authority when, where, and 17 whether?

18 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah.

19 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q And so you are aware that charges were brought to Matthew Graves in D.C.,

22 correct?

23 A I am not.

24 Q So you don't remember being at any meeting or at any point during the

25 investigation where you learned that the U.S. attorney for D.C. denied David Weiss the

1 ability to bring charges?

2 A Without getting into the specifics of an ongoing case, it did come -- it was

3 brought to me at some point -- probably the summer that I arrived, maybe a little bit

4 later -- that they had been exploring where to bring charges, and one of those locations

5 was D.C.

6 Q Okay.

7 A I'm not aware of a declination. I'm not aware of what that -- that occurred

8 prior to me getting involved. But I was aware that there had been discussions.

9 Q Right. Well, I don't think it happened -- I think it happened during your

10 pendency that the 2014 and '15 tax charges were brought to D.C. But you don't 11 remember that?

12 A You know, as we started, the tax charges were IRS. And so for me and my 13 role, yeah, I didn't have visibility into that.

14 Q Okay.

15 [redacted] Could we go off the record for just one second?

16 [redacted] Okay.

17 [Discussion off the record.]

18 Mr. Sobocinski. So, yeah, I want to give you context on what we talked about,

19 what the cases look like. So I want to be as expansive as I can so you have an

20 understanding of this.

21 So for us, when it comes to charging decisions, that's not an FBI role. I always

22 assume that the U.S. Attorney's Office that I am working with has some authority to do it

23 in their venue. And if they don't, there are administrative ways in which cases are 24 brought to other districts in the U.S. That's something I've worked with regularly

25 throughout my career.

1 There are various ways that happens. We can transfer a case. I have a general
2 sense that David could go to -- Mr. Weiss could go to another district. He could ask to 3 have that joined. If it's not, then he goes back for an administrative authority to bring 4 the case on his own.
5 But it's administrative in nature. At no point did I think he did not have that 6 authority to do all of those steps with all that we were looking at.
7 [redacted]. So as I understand your testimony, you were unaware that in March
8 of 2022 -- this is after you, you know, this is after you joined the Baltimore Field Office, in 9 March of 2022 they brought -- the prosecution team brought the case to Matthew 10 Graves, the U.S. attorney for D.C., and asked him to prosecute the tax years of 2014 and 11 2015.
12 You're saying you're unaware of that?
13 Mr. Sobocinski. Once again, I can't comment on the specifics of an investigation.
14 But I know that from my role, I was looking to support David Weiss' office to bring a 15 resolution to this, whether it's charges or whatever it may be.
16 [redacted]. I mean, you have responsibility to this case. Certainly you were 17 curious whether this was going to be brought in D.C., in Delaware, in California, correct?
18 You were tracking that. You were managing that. You're the manager here.
19 Mr. Sobocinski. I was not curious as to, like, the minutia of this process. It's not 20 something that fell to me. I absolutely wanted to get a resolution in this investigation.
21 Chairman Jordan. You always thought that Mr. Weiss had the authority to bring 22 charges wherever and whenever he wanted to?
23 Mr. Sobocinski. Correct.
24 Chairman Jordan. You thought that the entire time?
25 Mr. Sobocinski. Correct.

1 Chairman Jordan. From July 2021 when you got there all the way through, you
2 thought he could bring them wherever he wanted to bring them?
3 Mr. Sobocinski. Correct. And that there was an administrative process that I
4 don't know the minutia of that the Department -- then he would work within the 5 Department to have that authority to do that within whatever venue this ultimately 6 resided in.
7 BY [redacted]:
8 Q And do you ever remember David Weiss stating that he was denied by the 9 U.S. attorney in D.C. to bring those charges?
10 A Once again, I don't want to go -- I'm not going to -- I can't go -- I don't want 11 to go into deliberative process about what he did or didn't. It was my general sense is 12 I'm aware that there had been conversations with venues and then we were continually
13 looking to support him as he was trying to figure those venue issues out. But it was my 14 understanding that he had the authority -- ultimate authority to work through the 15 administrative process to bring these cases.
16 Q To bring a case in D.C.?
17 A To bring a case where he deemed appropriate.
18 Q If that's the case, why did he feel the need to ask for any special authority in 19 August of this year?
20 A You'll have to ask Mr. Weiss that.
21 Q Uh-huh. So when did you learn that the 2014 and 2015 tax cases which 22 had venue in D.C. weren't going to be able to go forward?
23 A Once again, I cannot comment on the specifics of the case. I will say I'm an 24 FBI agent. I'm not an IRS agent. Those charges solely were led within IRS. And I was 25 looking on bringing the totality of this investigation to a close.

1 Q Right. But this is a high-profile investigation. It's the son of the President
2 of the United States. You were managing it. You were following it. Okay? You've 3 got to be able to tell us when you realized you can't bring the 2014 and '15 tax charges in 4 D.C. and how you learned that.
5 A I can't get into the minutia of the actual case. I will say if you've ever sat in 6 a room with IRS agents and lawyers talking about taxes, unless you're an expert and you
7 are engrossed in the minutia of that, they get very complicated.
8 Q Okay. Fair enough.
9 But he had millions of dollars in income from Burisma, right, for a no-show board
10 appearance. Okay? And that income was about to escape taxation because the 11 statute of limitations were expiring. I mean, you as the head of the relevant FBI field
12 office had to be tracking this, correct?
13 A Tracking -- when you -- by "this," what do you mean "this"?
14 Q That millions of dollars of income subject to the 2014 and '15 tax years were 15 about to expire that needed to be prosecuted, otherwise the statute of limitations would 16 be -- would lapse. You had to be tracking this. So what can you tell us about it?
17 A Without going into specifics of the actual investigation, I was focused on 18 bringing this case to a resolution.
19 Q Okay. I mean which case? Like the whole case or the tax part?
20 A I was focused on bringing cases -- everything -- you know, the hundreds of 21 cases I have, we want to get them to end. Whatever those charges ultimately end up is 22 not up to me as the FBI. I'm putting the evidence together, providing it to a prosecutor.
23 Q Okay.
24 A They're working those issues on what charges actually are brought.
25 Q Okay. At some point you learned that the 2014-'15 cases couldn't be

1 prosecuted in D.C. and couldn't be prosecuted at all. When was that?

2 A I'm not commenting on the specifics of ongoing cases.

3 [Outside interruption.]

4 Q Sorry.

5 A Yeah, I'm not going to comment on the dialogue of what we were discussing

6 as the case is --

7 Q Is it because you know and you're not going to tell me, or is it because you

8 don't know?

9 [redacted] I think it's -- [redacted] it's the reason we said earlier, the 2014 and 2015

10 tax years, and these questions get at issues that are outside the scope of what --

11 [redacted]. This is at the heart of what we're looking into, Weiss' ability to bring

12 charges in D.C., Weiss' ability to bring charges in California, his authority to do that. He

13 tried to do that, he tried to bring it in D.C., and he was denied. And I'm simply trying to 14 ask the witness when he learned that.

15 [redacted] You were asking him about specific tax years, and I think he's spoken

16 to your question.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Well, I think we can stipulate that '14 and '15 are D.C. So, I mean, this is at,

19 like, the heart of our, like, interest, the heart of Weiss' authority.

20 So, I mean, I think we're going to be disappointed if you're not able to tell us about

21 that. And if you're not going to tell us about it, I'd like to know whether you know the 22 answer and you're just not telling us or whether you just don't know the answer.

23 A Are you asking me that question?

24 Q Yes.

25 A I am not going to specifically talk about prosecutorial decisions.

1 Q Okay.

2 A What charges are brought or not brought, that's up to the U.S. Attorney's

3 Office.

4 Q But my question is, do you know the answer of when you learned they

5 weren't bringing the case in D.C. for 2014 and 2015 tax years?

6 [redacted] Can we pause, go off the record?

7 [redacted] Sure.

8 [Discussion off the record.]

9 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, so as I mentioned earlier, I was around the tax portion of 10 this case. The minutia of what years, what not years had been discussed throughout

11 that process. I have no real direct knowledge of how they ultimately were resolved and 12 the time frame of when they ultimately resolved.

13 BY [redacted]:

14 Q Okay. Are you aware that the 2014 and '15 tax years had a lot of money

15 coming in from Burisma?

16 A I cannot comment on ongoing aspects of this case.

17 Q And, again, do you know the answer to my question or do you -- and you're

18 not willing to tell me because of the direction from the Department, or do you not know

19 the answer?

20 A I have a -- can you rephrase that question for me?

21 Q I'm just wondering whether you know the answer to my question about the

22 2014 and '15 tax years encompass, like, millions of dollars untaxed income coming in from

23 Burisma, which he was sitting on the board in case you haven't -- are you aware that he

24 was sitting on the Burisma board?

25 A I have seen open-source media reporting that he sat on a Burisma board.

1 Q Okay. And he was paid a handsome annual fee to sit on that board. Are
2 you aware of that?
3 A I can't comment on what I know about his financial activity as it relates to 4 this investigation.
5 Q Okay. And is it because you don't know the answer to that or you're not 6 able to comment because it's an ongoing investigation?
7 A I'm not able to comment because it's an ongoing investigation.
8 Q Okay. Fair enough.
9 So my question about the 2014 and '15 tax years, when that statute of limitations
10 was about to expire, there's, like, millions of dollars in untaxed income that was just 11 about to go away. And I'm just asking you if you were tracking that.
12 A I had a very high-level sense of IRS charges. IRS and the U.S. Attorney's 13 Office were in the weeds on what that process would like and what the minutia of their 14 ability to charge would be.
15 Q Okay. But at some point there was a resolution that they're not charging 16 2014 and 2015 and they can't charge it because the statute has expired, correct?
17 A I can't comment on a charging decision by the U.S. Attorney's Office.
18 Q But did you know that was happening?
19 A I have an ongoing case. I cannot talk about aspects of that case that might 20 be continuing.
21 Q Okay.
22 [redacted] Do you have a specific recollection that goes to the question?
23 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, I don't. You're asking me about tax years, and I go back
24 to I'm not -- I and my agents are not tax agents. The minutia of tax law is very 25 complicated. We have the -- there's a whole government entity. There's various

1 lawyers that specialize in this. I had a general sense of this.

2 Chairman Jordan. Yeah, but this is simple. He got a boatload of money and

3 didn't pay -- this wasn't complicated. This is, like, he just failed to pay the taxes on a

4 boatload of money he got. So this is as simple as it gets. And this has got to be the 5 highest profile -- well, one of the highest profile investigations your office is doing.

6 And [redacted] is asking a simple question. Did you know when they decided not to 7 do it?

8 Mr. Sobocinski. No, I have no direct date or knowledge of when any of those

9 decisions may or may not have happened.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q But you know that the decision did happen, correct?

12 A When -- once again, I refer -- I'm not going to speculate on what they

13 decided as far as potential charges in an ongoing investigation.

14 Q But you knew, for example, they couldn't bring those charges in Delaware,

15 right?

16 A It is my understanding, based upon the U.S. Attorney's Office and 17 prosecutors making that determination, that Delaware was not the appropriate venue.

18 Q That they had to go to D.C. or California to do the tax charges, right?

19 A That they were actively exploring other locations.

20 Chairman Jordan. And you thought they had the authority to do so?

21 Mr. Sobocinski. Correct.

22 Chairman Jordan. You were always under that assumption?

23 Mr. Sobocinski. Correct.

24 Chairman Jordan. Which sort of begs the question [redacted] asked earlier. If they

25 already had it, why does he need it? If they already had the authority to bring it, which

1 you thought they did, why does he need the special counsel designation now?

2 Mr. Sobocinski. That's a conversation with somebody else other than me. I

3 was not a part of that.

4 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q You said that you weren't tracking these tax -- the tax part because you're

3 FBI, not IRS.

4 What were you tracking? Like, what part of the investigation were you tracking?

5 A I can't comment on ongoing portions of this investigation.

6 Q Okay.

7 A But I was regularly working with the U.S. Attorney's Office.

8 Q Okay.

9 [redacted] At a general level?

10 Mr. Sobocinski. Meaning? Excuse me.

11 [Discussion off the record.]

12 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. So as I talked about earlier with moving forward, is that

13 regardless of what the U.S. Attorney's Office chose to charge, my team and I were

14 collecting information to be used however he deemed to use it for whatever specific

15 charges he wanted to use. I wanted to keep that momentum going so that we got to an 16 end point, whatever that end point would be.

17 BY [redacted]:

18 Q Okay. And what were the venues that that end point could have been that 19 you were tracking so carefully?

20 A So I had awareness of previous discussions in D.C. and then I did have 21 awareness in L.A.

22 Q Okay. And then there was a point where Graves said no, correct?

23 A I'm not personally aware of that, of what actually happened.

24 Q Okay. Did you know that they stopped working towards prosecuting a case

25 in D.C. at any point in time?

1 A You know, that's a question for David W eiss. I don't know what his -- what
2 they were doing on their side.
3 Q But at some point you're managing this and you're thinking, "Hey, this case
4 that I'm managing, I'd like to bring it to a resolution," and that resolution is either going to 5 happen in D.C., Delaware, or L.A., right?
6 A That -- I -- well, first, it wasn't up to me, and I didn't -- I didn't care about 7 what venue we went to. I just wanted to bring it forward to resolve this case.
8 Q But you said you'd been in meetings, in 12 or 20 -- I forget the number -- but,
9 obviously, you were tracking where the cases were going to be, how they were going to 10 be put together, and where they were going to be brought, right?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Okay. And you knew it was either D.C., L.A., or Delaware, right? There's 13 no other venue I'm missing, is there?
14 A I can't go into the specifics of what DOJ and the U.S. Attorney's Office
15 explored as far as potential venues.
16 Q But as far as your awareness, those are the three venues, right?
17 A Those were three venues that were discussed.
18 Q Okay. And at some point D.C. dropped off the map, it wasn't an option,
19 right?
20 A I think the dropped off the map is clear.
21 Q Okay. And did you ever have any communications with David Weiss about
22 that?
23 A I can't go into specifics. But, once again, conversations with David Weiss 24 always were focused on he had the authority to bring this case wherever he felt the 25 venue was most appropriate.

1 Q Okay. And did David Weiss ever explain to you why he was just going to let 2 go of the 2014 and 2015 tax years?
3 A You know, I have no -- that was -- no, that was not a discussion. Taxes
4 were not a discussion that Dave and I regularly had. It was whatever the full case
5 resolution would look like. And so, yeah, the tax years was not something that David
6 and I regularly talked about.
7 Q Okay. Turning back to this exhibit 1.
8 Number 2: "Weiss stated that he is not the deciding person on whether charges 9 are filed."
10 2a: "I believe this to be a huge problem -- inconsistent with DOJ public position."
11 So you don't remember Weiss saying that at the 10/7 meeting?
12 A That he was not the deciding person?
13 Q Correct.
14 A Correct. I do not remember -- I don't -- he didn't say that. In my 15 recollection, if he would have said that, I would have remembered it.
16 Q Okay. So you're saying in your recollection that didn't happen?
17 A Correct.
18 Q Okay. "Process for decision: Needs DOJ Tax approval first -- stated that 19 DOJ Tax will give 'discretion.' (We explained what that means and why that is 20 problematic)."
21 Do you remember that part of the discussion?
22 A Without going into specifics, there were discussion about taxes and venue.
23 And, once again, Mr. Weiss had the authority to bring it.
24 Q So he didn't need DOJ Tax's approval?
25 A There was, like, a bureaucratic administrative process he had to work

1 through, but I never viewed it as or talked about it as approval. I don't remember David
2 saying approval. It was solely a process that he had to work through.
3 Q And we've discussed a good bit that -- Shapley writes here: "U.S. Attorney
4 Weiss requested Special counsel authority when it was sent to D.C. and Main DOJ denied
5 his request and told him to follow the process."
6 Do you have any awareness of that?
7 A I don't.
8 Q Flipping the page.
9 "Mid-September they sent the case to the central district of California" -- Los 10 Angeles -- "coinciding with the confirmation of the new Biden-appointed U.S.
11 attorney" -- Martin Estrada.
12 Do you have any recollection of that being discussed at the meeting?
13 A Once again, I can't get into the specific conversations as it relates to the 14 ongoing case. But, yeah, I had a general sense that there were discussions in California, 15 as we talked about.
16 Q Okay. But my question was do you remember this being discussed at the
17 10/7 meeting?
18 A I don't, but it wouldn't be abnormal.
19 Q Okay. So you don't remember it being discussed, but there's no reason to 20 believe that it wouldn't if Shapley writes this up?
21 A In most of the meetings I was -- let me be really clear here. Most of the 22 meetings I was in with David and everybody else, it was the process of moving this 23 forward, that that's what my focus was, to move this case to a resolution.
24 Q What would a resolution look like in your mind?
25 A You know, the case is going to close, we're going to have charges or we're

1 not going to have charges. That's up to the U.S. Attorney's Office. But to do
2 everything within the FBI's power to get the evidence we need to have somebody
3 else -- the prosecutors -- make those charging decisions.
4 Q Okay. I want to jump down. Number 3 was: "They are not going to 5 charge the 2014/2015 tax years."
6 Do you have any recollection of that topic being discussed at this meeting?
7 A I'm not trying to be argumentative, but when it comes to the -- we talk about 8 whether this was simple or not.
9 Q Uh-huh.
10 A I have found in my time that every time IRS and tax attorneys talk, it
11 becomes overly complicated. And so for me, I have no general sense of tax years, when 12 and when we discussed those.
13 Q But there's -- fair enough. And I admit that's a point I'll concede there.
14 But, generally speaking, the issues with 2014 and '15 related to the Burisma
15 income, correct?
16 A I cannot comment on an ongoing case.
17 Q Do you know the answer, or are you just not --
18 A Do I know the answer of those years --
19 Q Yes.
20 A -- were there Burisma income?
21 Q Yes.
22 A I can't comment on that.
23 Q Okay. And, for example, in 2018, he was expensing sex clubs and 24 prostitutes. Are you aware of that allegation?
25 A I can't comment on any of that.

1 Q Okay. So, again, you don't -- you're not going to comment or you don't 2 know the answer? You know the answer and you're not going to tell me or --
3 A I'm not going to comment.
4 [redacted] The question was, are you aware of the allegation?
5 Mr. Sobocinski. That -- I'm sorry? That I was aware of the allegation of 6 Burisma, that I was aware of the allegation of prostitutes, which --
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q Well, he expensed, like, a sex club on his 2018 tax return, and that, as you
9 can imagine, is a problematic deduction.
10 A I am aware of the allegation.
11 Q And there were a lot of deductions like that in 2018. And so if you're trying 12 to identify the different issues of the different tax years, 2018 is, like, there's a lot of 13 issues of that sort. I'm asking you whether you're aware of that.
14 A Once again, I can't talk about ongoing cases. However, I'm not in the 15 minutia of what --
16 Q Number 4 on here: "The FBI SAC" -- presumably that's you -- "asked the 17 room if anyone thought the case had been politicized."
18 Do you remember saying that?
19 A I do.
20 Q And what do you mean by that? I mean, in general that's somewhat
21 ambiguous. So can you tell us what you meant by that?
22 A Yeah. At the time I hope it wasn't ambiguous.
23 There was the media leak. Obviously, that was incredibly troubling to me and 24 any potential investigation that we were going to continue to do. I think -- I have a 25 general sense that that was part of it, is that this was being politicized.

1 I, at the time -- I did not think that it was. And so I wanted to go on record in the 2 room of the leaders who were involved in this investigation, I wanted to say I didn't, offer
3 my team the opportunity to do that, to say it there, and offer the other individuals in the 4 room this was the appropriate venue to bring that up and let's discuss it. Because if it
5 was, that was going to be a problem, and we needed to work through it because, for me, I
6 wanted to get this case resolved.
7 Q At that point were you aware that the day of action -- which, in fairness, was 8 before you joined the office, it was December 8th, 2020 -- that the day of action the 9 investigators, Joe Gordon, Gary Shapley, wanted to go talk to Hunter Biden?
10 And were you aware that somebody in the U.S. Attorney's Office or somebody in 11 the FBI tipped off the transition team, the political transition team? Were you aware of 12 that fact?
13 A I was not in this role at that time.
14 Q But were you aware of that fact, or is it the first time you're hearing about 15 it?
16 A Can I go off the record?
17 [redacted] Sure.
18 [Discussion off the record.]
19 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. At some point when I came onto the job, I was aware 20 that there had been an attempt to interview Hunter Biden in California. The minutia of 21 what that process was, approvals, things like that, I was not directly involved in.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q But would you agree -- and this will be my last question, my hour is up 24 here -- would you agree that if somebody had tipped off the transition team, the political 25 transition team, that that would have politicized the investigation?

1 A I can't comment about specifically this case. But you haven't asked, but I'll
2 say it. I was a Secret Service agent. And it would have been expected for me, and I
3 would expect an investigative entity if they were going to want to interview a protectee
4 of mine, to come directly to me.
5 And so I don't know what that process would look like during that moment in time
6 to get to that protectee. I just don't know what that would look like.
7 Q Okay.
8 A But it would definitely be of concern to me if I was a Secret Service agent 9 and somebody's knocking on my door -- an armed individual claiming to be somebody is 10 knocking on my door. Yeah, that would have been a concern for me.
11 Q Okay. But when you asked whether the case had been politicized, in 12 essence, is it fair to say you were asking whether there had been any political favoritism?
13 A I was asking in a room of leaders on this case to say, "Hey, we are working
14 together. We're moving this thing forward. Do you think there's any manipulation 15 from the outside that's stopping us from what we're doing?"
16 Q And you thought at that point the answer was no?
17 A Thought that it was no, and nobody in that room raised their voice to say 18 anything other.
19 Q Okay.
20 A Because I -- because that -- like, that's what we do, and our job is to make 21 sure we are leading groups of people who feel that they're doing the right things.
22 Q Okay.
23 A And if you as a leader, no matter what your rank is, sitting in that room are 24 choosing not to do that, then that's of concern to me. That's what I wanted that space
25 to be, like, communication is really important to me amongst teams working cases like

1 this.

2 [redacted]. Okay. My hour is up.

3 [redacted] Take 5 minutes?

4 [redacted]. Yeah, take as much time as you need.

5 [Recess.]

6 [redacted]. It is 11:26. And we can go back on the record.

7 Thank you again for joining us. I'm [redacted]. I'm the Democrats'

8 oversight counsel in this case.

9 EXAMINATION

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Mr. Sobocinski, I want to take a step back from where we were and talk

12 about your background. And I think at the end of the last hour you mentioned your

13 prior work as a Secret Service agent.

14 When did you actually -- when did you join the FBI?

15 A 1998.

16 Q Okay. And before you joined the FBI, were you working? Were you in 17 school?

18 A I was a Secret Service agent. And then before that I was a police officer for 19 a few years.

20 Q Okay. Where were you a police officer?

21 A Here in Washington, D.C., with the U.S. Park Police.

22 Q Okay. And then what was your first position with the FBI?

23 A I was a case agent in North Carolina.

24 Q Okay. And what kind of cases did you have? What were your

25 responsibilities?

1 A So when I first started, it was rural North Carolina. It was drugs, violence,
2 things like that.
3 9/11 happened, and then I found myself at the Pentagon for digging through the 4 rubble. And then my entire career was counterterrorism and working overseas on those 5 type of cases.
6 Q Okay.
7 A And working and living overseas on those type of cases.
8 Q And then you were actually named deputy assistant director of the FBI's
9 International Operations Division in 2019, right?
10 A Correct.
11 Q What did that position entail?
12 A I ran operations for -- FBI's worldwide operations, their employees, facilities,
13 hiring operations.
14 Q And that's a pretty big office, right?
15 A It was COVID, so it was even more complicated than I expected.
16 Q How many employees does that office have?
17 A You know, in a general sense, there are over a thousand, I think, worldwide.
18 Q Okay. And the annual operating budget is, like, $170 million, right?
19 A Sounds about right.
20 Q Okay. So you had a lot of people and a lot of budget under your purview.
21 Is that fair to say?
22 A Correct.
23 Q Okay. And then you said that you were named special agent in charge in 24 Baltimore in July of 2021?
25 A Correct.

1 Q So not great at math, but that's about 25 years as a career FBI employee,
2 correct?
3 A Correct.
4 Q Okay. And it's fair to say that you've done everything from being a line
5 attorney -- or I'm sorry -- a line agent investigating matters to supervising line agents and 6 then actually managing pretty large components -- or large divisions?
7 A Yeah, that's fair.
8 Q Okay. Have you been awarded any awards or commendations during your 9 time with the FBI?
10 A I have.
11 Q What are those?
12 A Internally, monetary awards, letters of commendations. I've received 13 awards from various U.S. Attorney's Offices, from the Department of Defense, from the 14 CIA, from the State Department, and other foreign governments, partners, governments.
15 Q Okay. Is there anything you can tell us about that, or is that kind
16 of -- because I know you're doing counterterrorism.
17 A Yeah. No, I mean, that's pretty much a good summary of what that is.
18 Q Okay. Now I want to focus more on the Baltimore Field Office specifically.
19 A Sure.
20 Q The Baltimore Field Office is one of the larger field offices geographically
21 speaking. Is that right?
22 A It's considered one of the largest -- one of our large offices.
23 Q Okay. And I think you said earlier it's all of Maryland and all of Delaware is 24 the territory it covers?
25 A Correct.

1 Q How many -- I know you can't talk about specifics for number of employees
2 in an office, but can you talk about writ large how many employees the FBI Baltimore
3 Field Office has?
4 A Hundreds.
5 Q Hundreds. Okay.
6 Is it possible for you to estimate how many individual criminal matters the 7 Baltimore Field Office handles in a year?
8 A Hundreds. And they're rotating. I mean, regularly they open, they close,
9 they open, they close. So I would say as a general sense hundreds.
10 Q Okay. And that's in addition to counterintel work, right?
11 A Correct.
12 Q I want to introduce as exhibit -- I guess we're on exhibit 2, a February 6th,
13 2023, Baltimore Field Office press release entitled "Maryland Woman and Florida Man
14 Charged Federally for Conspiring to Destroy Energy Facilities."
15 We'll mark this as exhibit 2.
16 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 2
17 Was marked for identification.]
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q And I know this is a potentially an ongoing matter, so I'm not going to ask
20 you about anything that's nonpublic. I just kind of want to get a sense of the work that 21 your office does and the work that it did around this case in particular.
22 Are you familiar with this matter?
23 A I am.
24 Q And can you broadly describe what happened in this case?
25 A In general there were two racially motivated -- racially and ethnically

1 motivated individuals who were looking to conspire to destroy an energy station in and
2 around Baltimore.
3 Q Was this a domestic terrorism case?
4 A It was.
5 Q What role did the FBI play in disrupting this plot?
6 A Without getting into the specifics of what we did, we were -- this was our 7 investigation where we worked with our State and local partners to fully identify these 8 people and to be able to figure out what they were trying to do and then ultimately get 9 the evidence to charge them, working with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Baltimore.
10 Q And can you talk about, broadly speaking, the type of resources your office
11 had to devote to this case?
12 A Yeah, in a general sense this or anyone else who I've talked about. So
13 we've had case agents. We've had analysts, analytical support on this. There's 14 technology that we use that is incredibly time-consuming, cumbersome to go through.
15 There are surveillance assets.
16 We worked this one with multiple field offices throughout the U.S., working with 17 State and local partners to assist us with this, and then also with our local power industry,
18 had to work really closely with them.
19 Q Are you proud of the work that your team did on this case?
20 A I am. This is a good one, but this is just one that you're seeing about.
21 There's plenty that we're not talking about today, and there's even more that don't make 22 the news because we're able to disrupt them in other ways.
23 Q Can you estimate what percent of your office's work is focused on Delaware
24 as opposed to Maryland?
25 A Percentages are going to be fuzzy, but it's a smaller footprint for us, and it's

1 a -- geographically it's a smaller population, so it's -- Maryland definitely dwarfs it.
2 Q I want to turn back, I want to go, move on to the October 7th meeting that 3 we were talking a little bit about earlier, and I want to turn back to what was marked as
4 exhibit 1.
5 We walked through this email a little bit in the prior hour. I want to go through it
6 just a little -- in a little more detail.
7 So if you recall that number 2 on the first page of this -- "Weiss stated that he is 8 not the deciding person on whether charges are filed" -- you were asked about that 9 statement, and you said: I don't recall him saying that.
10 Do you recall that?
11 A Correct.
12 Q And you said: If he had said that, I would have remembered it.
13 Do you recall that?
14 A I do.
15 Q Okay. So I want to go through some of the other statements in here and 16 ask if you have a specific recollection, if you think you would have recalled them.
17 A Uh-huh.
18 Q Under 2b -- well, the very last sentence. I'm not going to try and do the 19 math there.
20 A Yeah.
21 Q But it says: USA Weiss requested Special counsel authority when it was 22 sent to D.C. and Main DOJ denied his request and told him to follow the process."
23 Do you see where it says that?
24 A I do.
25 Q Do you have any recollection of Mr. Weiss saying that?

1 A I don't have a recollection with him saying that there or at any point in my
2 communication with Mr. Weiss.
3 Q Okay. And you think that if he had said that, here or otherwise, you would 4 have remembered that?
5 A Yeah. That would have been a total 180 from all our previous 6 conversations about authorities.
7 Q Okay. Turning the page, it's Roman numeral v.1, I guess, it's the third bullet
8 down, it says: "He" -- which refers to Mr. Weiss -- "would have had to request
9 permission to bring charges in California from the Deputy Attorney General or the 10 Attorney General (unclear on which he said)."
11 Do you see where it says that?
12 A No -- oh, got it. Yep.
13 Q Do you recall Mr. Weiss saying that?
14 A No. Like, this, like several other meetings I have had with Mr. Weiss, there
15 was a process within the Department of Justice that he would have to go through to bring 16 charges outside of his assigned district, which was Delaware.
17 You know, we had high-level conversations of what that looked like. But as far
18 as seeking approval or permission, I don't ever remember that. And my memory of this 19 is that it was a process or a bureaucracy thing he moves through, not a permission or 20 authority issue.
21 Q And do you think that if he had been said that he needed to seek permission
22 or to obtain permission, that's something you would have remembered?
23 A Yeah, I would have thought I would have remembered something like that.
24 Q Okay. You were asked a little bit ago about number 4, which is when you
25 asked the room whether anyone thought the case had been politicized.

1 A Uh-huh.

2 Q And just again for the record, you do recall saying that?

3 A I do.

4 Q And do you recall anybody responding in the affirmative?

5 A No.

6 Q Okay. And do you recall if there was a discussion around that?

7 A There was. I mean, I opened it, I talked about my personal view, once

8 again talked about on the need for us to come together, there's a media leak.

9 Obviously, media leaks are very important for us in the FBI. We have a process we go

10 through then to make a referral so that other entities within the Department will look

11 into that. It's not my responsibility.

12 My responsibility is to work this with my team to continue moving it forward,

13 although I had -- you know, the FBI were my direct reports. I felt we were working as a

14 team on this case. We each had our own role. And if we wanted to move this forward,

15 now was the time to talk about any concerns at the U.S. attorney, the SAC for IRS, and 16 myself to at least, at our level, discuss if there were concerns.

17 And so I took the lead at that and opened it up and said, "Hey, I didn't, but I want

18 to hear if anybody else does and let's move through that."

19 Q And did anybody say that they had concerns that the investigation had been 20 politicized?

21 A No.

22 Q And you, sitting here today, you would recall if somebody had said that,

23 correct?

24 A I would have.

25 Q And if somebody had raised such a concern, what specific steps do you think

1 you might have taken in response to that?

2 A I would have tried to get a better understanding of what they thought.

3 Obviously, people can have different perspectives for things that are going on.

4 But for me, in the time I've spent in law enforcement, it's important for us to be

5 apolitical. That is what makes the FBI so good at what we do. We work these cases to

6 resolution regardless of what that target is, and it's important to replicate that in a

7 nonpolitical way. That's a core function of what we do. And so if something is 8 interfering with that, then I find that to be incredibly troubling.

9 Q Okay. And so, again, you asked if anyone in the room had concerns. Mr.

10 Shapley did not say he had concerns, for example?

11 A He did not.

12 Q Okay. And so to the extent that there are I guess what could be described 13 as concerns expressed in this email, this email is the first time that you're hearing of that.

14 Is that fair to say?

15 A There are things in -- so I can't speak into the mind of Shapley, but I do -- you

16 know, there is one part in here where he talks about communication issues. That is

17 something I and my team regularly talked about in this group, which was, "Hey, we need

18 to communicate more. We need to make sure we're all on the same page."

19 So when we talk about the politicization of this, I'm also talking about 20 communication. I'm, like, "Hey, let's continue to talk. If there are problems, if there 21 are problems within your team, this is the venue to do that."

22 Q And is it fair to say that in a case like this where there's an IRS investigative

23 team, there's an FBI investigative team, there's the U.S. attorney from Delaware, a case

24 where there's a lot of players, I guess is the point, is communication something that can

25 be a challenge in these kind of cases?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay. And so it's not specific to this; it's this is a big investigation with a lot

3 of moving pieces. Is that fair to say?

4 A Correct.

5 Q Okay. I want to introduce -- I'm going to change subjects a little bit here.

6 You've said repeatedly that you were always under the impression that Mr. Weiss

7 had authority to bring charges, that there perhaps would be a process, an administrative

8 process, but that he had that authority.

9 Broadly speaking, what do you mean by an administrative process?

10 A There were steps that he was going to have to take with -- originating in 11 districts he was looking to explore. I think I mentioned earlier he goes to that district.

12 He asks if they want to join with them. I don't know what that looks like. I don't know

13 what the reasons for and against are. But that's what happens.

14 Then, if they agree, then I think it's a joint case. They bring USAs. But if they

15 don't, then it goes back to the Department. The Department can then give them some 16 type of status that allows them to bring this case in other venues.

17 Q Okay. So, one way or the other, he could bring the case. It's just a matter

18 of how you get to that point?

19 A Correct.

20 Q Okay. Are you aware that Chairman Jordan and other Members of 21 Congress wrote to Attorney General Garland about the scope of Mr. Weiss' authority

22 earlier this year?

23 A I have a general sense. I don't know if I read the actual letter, but I'm 24 familiar with, in general, with that.

25 Q And are you aware that Mr. Weiss responded directly to a number of these

1 letters?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. I'm going to walk through those letters. And I know some of them

4 you may have seen. Some you might not have. So I'm happy to give you, as I walk

5 through them seriatim, if you need a minute to review, you have that.

6 A Great.

7 Q On May 25th, 2023, Chairman Jordan wrote to the Attorney General about

8 individuals from the IRS who testified before the Ways and Means Committee. That

9 letter was forwarded to Mr. Weiss, who responded on June 7th, 2023.

10 And I want to introduce that June 7th, 2023, response as exhibit 3.

11 A Okay.

12 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 3

13 Was marked for identification.]

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q Have you seen this before?

16 A Yeah, I believe so.

17 Q Take as long as you need to review.

18 A Yes.

19 Q Do you understand this to be a letter in response to questions about the 20 matter involving, among others, Robert Hunter Biden, or Hunter Biden as he's more

21 commonly known?

22 A I am.

23 Q Okay. And that's the matter to which Mr. Weiss was ultimately appointed 24 special counsel, correct?

25 A Yes.

1 Q The second paragraph of this letter reads, quote: "While your letter does
2 not specify by name the ongoing investigation that is the subject of the Committee's
3 oversight, its content suggests your inquiry is related to an investigation in my District.
4 If my assumption is correct, I want to make clear that, as the Attorney General has stated,
5 I have been granted ultimate authority for this matter, including responsibility for 6 deciding where, when, and whether to file charges and for making decisions necessary to 7 preserve the integrity of the prosecution, consistent with federal law, the Principles of 8 Federal Prosecution, and Departmental regulations."
9 Do you see where it says that?
10 A Do you have the page number?
11 Q Sorry.
12 A Oh, sorry. Got it. Yes, I do.
13 Q Okay. And specifically with respect to, "I want to make clear that, as the 14 Attorney General has stated, I have been granted ultimate authority for this matter," to 15 the end of that sentence, are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss'
16 statement that he was granted ultimate authority over this matter?
17 A No, I have no direct knowledge that counteracts that.
18 Q And do you believe that to be a true statement?
19 A I do.
20 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss' statement that 21 his authority over this matter includes responsibility to decide where, when, and whether 22 to file charges?
23 A No, I have no direct knowledge that would contradict that.
24 Q And do you believe that to be a true statement?
25 A I do.

1 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss' statement that
2 his authority over this matter includes making all decisions necessary to preserve the 3 integrity of the prosecution?
4 A No. I believe that to be true.
5 Q Okay. And I want to turn to the very last paragraph of this letter, right
6 above the signature block.
7 Is says: "In February 2021, I was asked to remain as United States Attorney for 8 the District of Delaware to continue my oversight of the matter. Since that time, I have 9 fulfilled my responsibilities, consistent with Department practices and procedures, and 10 will continue to do so. Throughout my tenure as U.S. Attorney my decisions have been 11 made -- and with respect to the matter must be made -- without reference to political 12 considerations."
13 Did I read that correctly?
14 A You did.
15 Q And are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss' statement 16 that his decisions in this matter have been made without reference to political 17 considerations?
18 A I'm not.
19 Q And do you believe that to be a true statement?
20 A I do.
21 Q So following Mr. Weiss' June 7th response, Chairman Jordan then wrote to 22 Mr. Weiss directly -- this was actually in response to a letter, this June 7th response was in 23 response to a May 25th letter to the Attorney General. Chairman Jordan then wrote to 24 Mr. Weiss directly.
25 Mr. Weiss responded on June 30th, 2023, and I'm going to introduce that as

1 exhibit 4.

2 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 4

3 Was marked for identification.]

4 BY [redacted]:

5 Q And I'll give you a minute to review.

6 A Okay.

7 Q Have you seen this before?

8 A I have.

9 Q Okay. The third paragraph on the first page reads: "First, the Department

10 of Justice did not retaliate against 'an Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") Criminal

11 Supervisory Special Agent and whistleblower, as well as his entire investigative team...for 12 making protected disclosures to Congress.'"

13 Do you see where it says that?

14 A I do.

15 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts this statement?

16 A I'm not.

17 Q Okay. Do you believe that to be a true statement?

18 A I have no -- nothing to disprove it.

19 Q Weiss' June 30th letter then quotes the statement that I read earlier from his

20 June 7th letter stating that he's been granted ultimate authority over this matter. He

21 then states that: "I stand by what I wrote and wish to expand on what this means."

22 So if you can turn to the following page. And I'm going to go through this top

23 paragraph sentence by sentence, but before I do that, I do want to note for the record,

24 you're not an attorney, correct?

25 A That's correct.

1 Q Okay. So -- but notwithstanding that, given your 25-plus years with the
2 Bureau and your time in law enforcement before that, it's fair to say that you've been 3 involved in discussions regarding whether to charge somebody, right?
4 A Uh-huh.

1 [11:48 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And those decisions sometimes involved discussion about what jurisdiction

4 an individual can be charged in, correct?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And that's generally known as venue, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q Okay. So turning back to this paragraph, the first sentence of the 9 paragraph reads, quote, As the U.S. Attorney for the District Attorney of Dela- -- for the 10 District of Delaware, my charging authority is geographically limited to my home district.

11 Do you see where it says that?

12 A I do.

13 Q What's your understanding of what that sentence means?

14 A That U.S. attorneys are appointed for a specific geographical area to 15 prosecute cases, and if various elements of a crime occur within that, they have the 16 authority to prosecute in that area, that district.

17 Q And then the second sentence for that reads: If venue for a case lies

18 elsewhere, common departmental practice is to contact the United States Attorney's

19 Office for the district in question and determine whether it wants to partner on the case.

20 What's your understanding of what that sentence means?

21 A That if a U.S. Attorney's Office, I think, comes to a resolution in a particular

22 matter and they find that venue either does not exist in their own district or the case

23 would be a stronger case in another district, they contact that district to work through

24 how that case would be prosecuted.

25 Q And specifically the term "partner." Are you familiar with that term as used

1 in this context?

2 A In a general sense.

3 Q What's your understanding of what that term means?

4 A That they would both have AUSAs assigned to the particular case.

5 Q Okay. And partnering is different than seeking permission, for example,

6 right?

7 A I believe it is.

8 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that partnering means that both of those U.S.

9 Attorney's Offices will work together on a case as opposed to one kind of ceding

10 prosecutorial authority to another?

11 A I believe so.

12 Q Okay. Have you been involved in matters in which one U.S. Attorney's 13 Office investigated a matter but partnered with another for purposes of prosecution?

14 A I have.

15 Q And that's not uncommon, maybe it doesn't happen in every case, but it

16 happens, right?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that when a particular United States Attorney's

19 Office or an FBI field office begins investigating a matter, they might not actually know

20 where venue may ultimately lie, correct?

21 A That's correct.

22 Q And that's because, in investigations, you follow the facts where they lead,

23 correct?

24 A Correct.

25 Q Okay. Going back to this paragraph. The third sentence reads, If

1 not -- meaning if another U.S. Attorney's Office does not wish to partner on the 2 case -- quote, I may request special attorney status from the Attorney General pursuant
3 to 28 U.S.C. Section 515.
4 Do you see where it says that?
5 A I do.
6 Q Are you familiar with 28 U.S.C. Section 515?
7 A I'm not familiar with the actual -- with that code in specifics, but what it's 8 referencing in that process, I am familiar with.
9 Q And what's your understanding of that?
10 A That the Attorney General or somebody within that chain has the authority
11 to provide authority for somebody to prosecute that -- to prosecute that case in another 12 venue that's not an AUSA assigned to that. And I do have experience that that's not 13 abnormal.
14 Q Okay. And just so we have a complete record, I'm actually going to 15 introduce the statute.
16 A Okay.
17 [redacted]. That'll be exhibit 5.
18 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 5
19 Was marked for identification.]
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q So 28 U.S.C. Section 515 is entitled "Authority for legal proceedings; 22 commission, oath, and salary for special attorneys."
23 And I do want to note this is special attorneys, not special counsel, right?
24 A Yes.
25 Q So it's different. It's two different provisions.

1 Paragraph A of this section says: The Attorney General or any other officer of the 2 Department of Justice, or any attorney specially appointed by the Attorney General under 3 law, may, when specifically directed by the Attorney General, conduct any kind of legal 4 proceeding, civil or criminal, including grand jury proceedings, and proceedings before
5 committing magistrate judges, which United States attorneys are authorized by law to 6 conduct, whether or not he is a resident of the district in which the proceeding is brought.
7 Did I read that correctly?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. So this provision specifically permits anybody who's appointed as a 10 special attorney to conduct any kind of legal proceeding; it's not limited, correct?
11 A I believe so.
12 Q Which U.S. attorneys are authorized to conduct, quote, whether or not he is 13 a resident of the district in which the proceeding is brought, correct?
14 A Yes.
15 Q Okay. So if the Attorney General -- if Mr. Weiss had requested status, 16 Section 515 status, and if the Attorney General had granted that to him, Mr. Weiss would 17 have been permitted to bring a case in, for example, Washington, D.C.?
18 A Based on what you're showing me, that looks like the bureaucratic process
19 that I had mentioned earlier.
20 Q Okay. And the same, he could have brought a case in the Central District of 21 California under this authority, correct?
22 A It appears so, yes.
23 Q Okay. The last sentence -- going back to the June 30th letter. The very 24 last sentence of that third paragraph reads: Here, I have been assured that, if necessary
25 after the above process, I would be granted Section 515 authority in the District of

1 Columbia, the Central District of California, or any other district where charges could be
2 brought in this matter.
3 Are you aware of any information that would contradict that statement?
4 A I'm not.
5 Q Do you believe that to be a true statement?
6 A I do.
7 Q To your knowledge, did Mr. Weiss ever actually request Section 515
8 authority?
9 A Yeah, I'm not aware.
10 Q You don't know?
11 A I don't know.
12 Q And is it fair to say that Mr. Weiss would be the better witness to testify as 13 to that point?
14 A It would.
15 Q And are you aware that he's said he's willing to come before the committee
16 when he's able to?
17 A I am.
18 Q So finally, Senator Lindsey Graham -- and moving on from this
19 letter -- Senator Lindsey Graham, who is the Republican ranking member on the Senate
20 Judiciary Committee, wrote to Mr. Weiss on June 28th, 2023, and Mr. Weiss responded
21 on July 10th, 2023.
22 [redacted] I want to introduce that as well as exhibit 6.
23 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 6
24 Was marked for identification.]
25 BY [redacted]:

1 Q Okay. Have you seen this before?
2 A I have.
3 Q Okay. The first sentence of the third paragraph, which is on the first page,
4 it reads: To clarify an apparent misperception and to avoid future confusion, I wish to 5 make one point clear: In this case, I have not requested special counsel designation
6 pursuant to 28 CFR Section 600 et seq.
7 You see where it says that?
8 A I do.
9 Q That's the regulation that gives the Attorney General the authority to 10 appoint a special counsel, correct?
11 A I believe so.
12 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss' statement that 13 as of July 10th, 2023, he had not requested that special counsel designation?
14 A I don't.
15 Q Okay. The letter continues, rather -- quote, Rather, I had discussions with 16 departmental officials regarding potential appointment under 28 U.S.C. Section 515, 17 which would have allowed me to file charges in the district outside my own without the 18 partnership of the local U.S. attorney. I was assured that I would be granted this 19 authority if it proved necessary. And this assurance came months before the 20 October 7th, 2022, meeting referenced throughout the whistleblowers' allegations.
21 Did I read that correctly?
22 A You did.
23 Q So you just, a couple minutes ago, already confirmed that you have no
24 information to contradict Mr. Weiss' statement that he was assured that he would be 25 granted 515 authority if it proved necessary. But looking specifically at the statement

1 that this assurance came months before October 7th, 2022, do you have any information
2 to contradict that statement?
3 A I don't.
4 Q And to the best of your knowledge, is that accurate based on --
5 A It is.
6 Q So looking quickly back at exhibit 1, which is that -- so the -- I'm sorry, the 7 Shapley email, that what I just read to you from that response to Senator Graham, that
8 would seem to directly contradict Mr. Shapley's statement that USA Weiss requested
9 special counsel authority when it was sent to D.C.
10 Do you see where it says --
11 A Yes, I do.
12 Q Okay. And it would likely seem to contradict the statement that he would 13 have to request permission to bring charges in California, correct?
14 A It does.
15 Q Okay. In -- turning back to the July 10th letter. In -- Mr. Weiss' letter
16 continues: In this case, I followed the process outlined in my June 30th letter and have 17 never been denied the authority to bring charges in any jurisdiction.
18 To the best of your knowledge, is it accurate that Mr. Weiss was never denied the 19 authority to bring charges in any jurisdiction?
20 A I have nothing to re -- personal knowledge to refute that.
21 Q Okay. So do you believe that to be an accurate statement?
22 A I do.
23 Q So in March of -- in March 2023, the Attorney General testified before the 24 Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Commerce, Justice, and Science. Senator
25 Grassley, who is also on the Senate Judiciary Committee, asked the Attorney General to

1 address concerns that, if Mr. Weiss was not given special counsel authority, he might 2 need permission from another U.S. attorney to bring charges outside of the District of 3 Delaware.
4 The Attorney General responded, quote, the U.S. Attorney in Delaware has been
5 advised that he has full authority to make those kinds of referrals that you are talking
6 about or bring cases in other jurisdictions if he feels it's necessary, and I will assure you 7 that if he does, he will be able to do that.
8 To the best of your knowledge, was that an accurate statement by the Attorney
9 General?
10 A I believe so.
11 Q Okay. The Attorney General also told Senator Grassley that Mr. Weiss, 12 quote, has been advised that he is not to be denied anything he needs, and if that were to 13 happen, it should ascend through the Department's ranks, but I have not heard anything
14 from that office to suggest that they're not able to do everything the U.S. attorney wants 15 to do.
16 To the best of your knowledge, did any Justice Department official ever prevent 17 U.S. Attorney Weiss from taking any steps or from accessing any resources he requested 18 for this investigation?
19 A Not that I'm aware of.
20 Q Okay. Did anybody at FBI headquarters ever prevent U.S. Attorney Weiss
21 from taking any steps or accessing any necessary resources?
22 A Not that I'm aware of.
23 Q Okay. Did anybody else, to the best of your knowledge, ever prevent U.S.
24 Attorney Weiss from taking any investigative steps or from accessing any resources that 25 he might need for this investigation?

1 A Not that I'm aware of.

2 [Sobocinski exhibit No. 7

3 Was marked for identification.]

4 BY [redacted]:

5 Q Okay. I want to introduce as exhibit 7 remarks that Attorney General

6 Garland delivered on Friday, August 11th, 2023, in which he announced that he was

7 appointing Mr. Weiss as special counsel in the investigation concerning allegations of 8 certain criminal conduct by, among others, Robert Hunter Biden.

9 Do you know if you're familiar with those remarks?

10 A I am.

11 Q So not to make you count, but the eighth paragraph down -- and I realize this

12 is printed off from the website and I think the formatting's a little funky, but these are the 13 remarks as delivered.

14 In the eighth paragraph down, the Attorney General said, quote, On Tuesday of 15 this week -- which I will represent to you was August 8th, 2023 -- Mr. Weiss advised

16 me -- meaning the Attorney General -- that in his judgment, his investigation has reached

17 a stage at which he should continue his work as a special counsel, and he asked to be so

18 appointed.

19 To the best of your knowledge, is it accurate that Mr. Weiss first requested special

20 counsel status on August 8th, 2023?

21 A Yeah, I have no direct knowledge on when he requested that status.

22 Q Okay. But to the best of your knowledge, that's approximately the 23 timeframe? In other words --

24 A Yes.

25 Q So you don't have any knowledge of him having requested it, for example, in

1 March of 2023?

2 A I don't.

3 Q Okay. So August 2023 is approximately the right time?

4 A Sounds about right.

5 Q Okay. Do you recall how you learned that Mr. Weiss had requested this

6 special counsel status?

7 A I officially learned from the AG's remarks, but I had had a conversation

8 earlier in the day with Mr. Weiss where it was discussed but not confirmed that he was 9 going to be given the status.

10 Q Okay. The Attorney General's remarks continue in the following paragraph:

11 Upon considering his request -- meaning David Weiss' request -- as well as the 12 extraordinary circumstances relating to this matter, I have concluded that it is in the 13 public interest to appoint him as special counsel.

14 And I'm just going to -- to make a complete record, I'm going to introduce the 15 actual appointment order.

16 A Okay.

17 [redacted]. We'll mark that as exhibit -- it'll be exhibit 8.

18 [Sobocinski exhibit No. 8

19 Was marked for identification.]

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Have you seen this before?

22 A I have not.

23 Q Okay. Is it your unders- -- I'm sorry, I'll give you a second to review.

24 A I'm good.

25 Q Okay. So this is signed August 11th, 2023, correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And it's signed by the Attorney General?

3 A It is.

4 Q So -- and this appoints David Weiss as special counsel over the matter -- the 5 investigation and prosecutions referenced and described in United States v. Robert

6 Hunter Biden, and it provides the case numbers, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q Okay. So, in fact, Mr. Weiss first requested special counsel authority

9 approximately on or about August 8th, 2023. On August 11th, so roughly 3 days later,

10 the Attorney General granted him that authority, correct?

11 A Yeah, that's my general understanding.

12 Q Okay. So just to sum up kind of what we just talked about. Do you have

13 any reason to believe that David Weiss lied to Congress about the extent of his authority

14 that he had been granted by the Attorney General?

15 A I don't.

16 Q Okay. Do you have any reason to believe that the Attorney

17 General prevented -- that Attorney General Garland prevented Mr. Weiss from taking any 18 particular investigative step in this case?

19 A No, I don't.

20 Q Do you have any reason to believe that Attorney General Garland denied

21 Mr. Weiss any resources for this investigation?

22 A No.

23 Q Okay. Do you have any reason to believe President Biden interfered in this

24 investigation in any way?

25 A No.

1 Q There have been allegations that the FBI and the Delaware U.S. Attorney's
2 Office handling of this case is an example of two-tiered system of justice. What's your 3 reaction to those allegations?
4 A Speaking on my behalf of my team, we've worked this as diligently as we
5 work all the cases we do. And as we referenced my discussion about politics and my 6 belief of where that should play in our cases, it has no role. And so my goal as the 7 leader of this team has been focused on getting a resolution in that case.
8 Q Thank you.
9 I want to turn back to there was conversation earlier about trying to surprise a
10 witness, to conducting interviews, whether it might be advantageous to surprise a
11 witness. And I think you had said that you had -- as a former Secret Service agent 12 yourself, there are certainly certain particular considerations to be taken into account.
13 Do you recall that?
14 A I do.
15 Q And can you explain a little bit further what those considerations may be?
16 A So it's been over 25 years, but, you know, as a Secret Service agent, you
17 know, you're there to protect individuals as designated by law. And so that is a full
18 encompassing protection of them. Depending on the proctectee, you prohibit people
19 from coming in contact with them or restrict that or protect them. And so as a Secret
20 Service agent, anybody knocking on their door is somebody that they're interested in, and 21 somebody interested who is obviously carrying a gun and potentially in an adversarial
22 issue is something that they would want to know about in advance.
23 Q And is it fair to say that that's for the safety of everybody involved?
24 A Correct.
25 Q Because if somebody who's carrying a gun shows up at the home of a

1 proctectee, the instinct of the Secret Service officer would be to protect the proctectee,
2 correct?
3 A Correct.
4 Q Okay. And it's also the case -- again, you talked about having -- over your 5 course of your 25 years, you've been involved in many interviews, you've supervised
6 agents who have done many interviews, correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Is it fair to say that each one of those interviews is different?
9 A Yes, it is.
10 Q And the facts in each one of those interviews is different?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Okay. And so there's a question about taking a witness, quote/unquote, by 13 surprise. That could be a tactic in some cases, and in some cases it might be ill advised.
14 Is that fair to say?
15 A Correct.
16 Q So, for example, in the case where an individual has security?
17 A Correct.
18 Q Okay. Is it also the case that even if you take a wit- -- even when an FBI
19 agent takes a witness by surprise, that witness can still decline to talk to them, correct?
20 A Correct.
21 Q And if somebody is an attorney who has an understanding of the law, they 22 might be more inclined to decline to have that voluntary conversation?
23 A I have found that to be true.
24 Q And if somebody is represented by counsel, they might also decline to take 25 part in a voluntary interview without counsel present?

1 A Corre -- yeah, I find that to be true as well.

2 Q Okay. And so, again, these are all fact-specific situations, but the idea of

3 taking somebody by surprise doesn't necessarily mean that, even if that was the plan,

4 that that would have played out anyways, right?

5 A Yeah. You never know how those are going to end.

6 Q Okay. All right. You spoke earlier -- in the earlier hour, we talked a little

7 bit about who has ultimate charging decision -- and I'm talking about within a case, not

8 different venues, but -- and you said that the ultimate charges are up to the prosecutors.

9 Do you recall that conversation?

10 A I do.

11 Q Okay. And, again, you're not an attorney, but in your experience, have you

12 been in situations where you thought that prosecutors -- that you hoped prosecutors

13 would bring charges that they ultimately decided not to bring?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And without getting into specifics, can you describe any of the circumstances

16 around those?

17 A Yeah. In a general sense, I mean, the FBI opens cases on people we

18 think -- criminal cases on people we think have broken the law. We put a lot of time,

19 effort, and energy into gathering the evidence. And when we get to a point where we

20 think there's enough evidence for an arrest and an ultimate prosecution, yeah, we

21 are -- you know, our goal is to get that there. But as I said, the U.S. Attorney's Office or

22 State prosecutors are the ones that make that ultimate decision, and they may have a

23 difference of opinion.

24 Q And is it fair to say that -- and I want to get back to that difference of opinion

25 in a second. But you said that you put -- your agents put a lot of work into these cases.

1 Is it fair to say that they in some cases get kind of personally invested in these cases?
2 A Yes.
3 Q And so if somebody spent a lot of time, a lot of energy working on a
4 particular case, they might be disappointed if a prosecutor decides not to bring a
5 particular charge, correct?
6 A Yeah, if they feel it should be, yeah, there is that.
7 Q And as a supervisor, have you experienced instances in which agents you
8 manage have had disagreements with prosecutors about investigative steps?
9 A Yes.
10 Q And is that sometimes a challenging issue to manage as a supervisor?
11 A It is.
12 Q And why is that?
13 A Becau- -- first of all, each circumstance is different, but this is something I
14 regularly have dealt with in my career, if weekly, if not daily. And listen, we are putting 15 time and effort into this. We think we've gotten to certain standards, but ultimately it's 16 not our decision.
17 And so I have two-pronged approaches. The first is to support my investigative 18 team, the employees that are working this case that are actually out there putting in 19 time, putting their lives in danger to do this. And so part of that is to hear what they 20 have to say and advocate on their behalf, as each leader in my office does. And then 21 there are times when I will have conversations with U.S. attorneys on these cases.
22 There are times when I have to communicate, you know, bad news to these teams even 23 before the communication. I may agree with the prosecutors in certain circumstances.
24 So all of these are varied, but, yeah, those can be tough conversations.
25 Q And they happen often?

1 A They happen often.
2 Q Okay. Ultimately, you said this earlier, it's up to the prosecutors to decide
3 what charges to bring, correct?
4 A Correct.
5 Q And that's because prosecutors are best positioned to understand the 6 relative strength of the evidence, right?
7 A Yes, as it relates to going to court. Absolutely.
8 Q Right. And prosecutors are best positioned to evaluate the weaknesses a 9 case might have if it is tried before a jury, right?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that sometimes prosecutors and agents -- when 12 an agent disagrees with a prosecutor, sometimes the prosecutor will sit down with the 13 agent and will talk through and explain here's the strengths and weaknesses, here's why
14 I'm unable to pursue this particular charge, right?
15 A Correct.
16 Q And some prosecutors don't do that, some just don't have that relationship,
17 right?
18 A Correct.
19 Q Okay.
20 A Can I say that my -- as I talk to my --
21 Q Yeah.
22 A -- communication earlier, my hope and what I try to lead and what the U.S.
23 attorneys and I talk about are that communication. And it's really important to have 24 that at that level so that there's no misunderstanding about what's going on. That is 25 something that I personally strive for and I hold my leaders responsible for that. But

1 there are always personalities, and sometimes that just doesn't happen, but it does
2 create problems when it doesn't.
3 Q And sometimes prosecutors are busy or overwhelmed and don't have the 4 time in the moment to sit down with an agent and explain a charging decision too,
5 correct?
6 A Sure.
7 Q There was a discussion earlier about whether the 2014 and 2015 tax cases
8 were open/shut. And I don't want to get into the specifics of that. I do want to note, 9 though, you are not a tax investigator, right?
10 A I am not.
11 Q And you've never done tax investigations?
12 A I have not.
13 Q Okay. And in general, that's actually not something that the FBI generally 14 would do, right?
15 A Correct. We would prefer to have the IRS do those cases.
16 Q Okay. And so there was a comment made earlier that Hunter Biden had 17 received a, quote, boatload of money and he didn't pay taxes, I guess suggesting that that 18 was an open/shut case. But in reality, tax cases can be complicated, right?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And, in fact, they're so complicated that when you're in the meetings,
21 sometimes you don't necessarily track all of the discussion. Is that fair to say?
22 A That is more than fair, yes.
23 Q Okay. And so it's not necessarily a simple charge or don't charge; you
24 know, there might be defenses to a case, for example?
25 A Yeah, to every case. Correct.

1 Q And so in tax cases in particular, there might have been deductions that
2 were taken that have to be assessed whether they were legitimate or not, right?
3 A Once again, that's getting into the weeds of something that -- in a general
4 sense I understand that that is an issue.
5 Q Okay. I'm just -- my point is just that these tax cases are not simple.
6 There's a lot that there are defenses that defendants can raise, correct?
7 A Correct. And IRS and prosecutors and DOJ attorneys are trained in that,
8 and they do it. But I want to bring that back full circle here, which is, you know, as I said,
9 I'm not an absent leader when it comes to this. I was focused on bringing whatever 10 charges this team thought we could bring with the evidence that we've accumulated to 11 get to a resolution. That was the full focus of almost every phone -- every conversation
12 meeting I had with the U.S. Attorney's Office.
13 Q And the -- on that note about -- comment you just made about the evidence
14 and gathering the evidence. Evidence in any case, and it might -- it's fact specific, it
15 could be hard to prove, it could be hard to use to convince a jury, right?
16 A Correct. Absolutely.
17 Q And is it fair to say that prosecutors generally only bring cases where they're 18 reasonably confident that they can obtain a conviction?
19 A I find that to be true.
20 Q Prosecutors like to win, right?
21 A Yes, they do.
22 Q Okay.
23 [redacted]. Just one second. I think we can wrap up my hour, but -- we can go
24 off the record. Thanks.
25 [Recess.]

1 [12:23 p.m.]

2 [redacted]. Back on the record. It's 12:23.

3 BY [redacted]:

4 Q Go back to exhibit 1. Your recollection of the 10/7 meeting had a

5 component where -- discussing the leak -- had a component where you remember

6 discussing whether the case had been politicized, and then you remember talking about

7 coordination and communication issues. From your perspective, was that the only stuff

8 talked about at that meeting?

9 A That was the just of what I remembered from that meeting.

10 Q Do you remember how long the meeting was?

11 A No. It wasn't hours, but it wasn't like a 15-minute meeting.

12 Q Okay. Longer than an hour maybe?

13 A Yeah, give or take.

14 Q Okay. And you have no recollection of discussion about whether Weiss

15 stated that he's not the deciding person on whether charges are filed?

16 A I've never heard Weiss say that he was not the decider or anything other

17 than he had the authority to bring these charges.

18 Q Okay. And do you remember anything in that meeting about the fact that

19 D.C. had declined to bring a case?

20 A I don't remember that portion of this meeting, no.

21 Q So it's possible it came up or you just have no recollection of it?

22 A I was really focused on -- my memory of this meeting is of my concern over

23 the media leak and how to move this case forward.

24 Q How did you think the case needed to move forward?

25 A I just thought that we needed -- the U.S. Attorney's Office needed to use the

1 information he had to make a charging decision. And then short of that, what else
2 would the FBI need to bring them that would help him assist in whatever his decision
3 would ultimately be.
4 Q And at that point, what were the options for bringing the case in terms of 5 venue?
6 A The venue was what it always was, what has been talked about, is wherever 7 he felt that he ultimately had the -- was going to make that decision.
8 Q Okay. But at that point in time, the October 7th meeting, you didn't 9 believe that D.C. was off the table?
10 A Yeah, I don't have a sense of that. Without getting into specifics, I think 11 we've talked about California I think around this timeframe, it might have been that.
12 But that was -- what he -- what and who he was talking to was his decision. I was 13 looking for resolution.
14 Q When the case was presented to the U.S. attorneys in D.C. and California, do 15 you have any awareness who did that?
16 A No. It wasn't the FBI.
17 Q Was the FBI involved at all in the meeting?
18 A In the present -- not that I was aware of, in presentations, no. That's -- my 19 understanding of that that's an internal department process.
20 Q Do you know if it was U.S. attorneys from the Delaware office that did it or 21 the Tax Division?
22 A I don't know.
23 Q And then Shapley's contemporaneous notes from this meeting, number 6
24 states: Both us and the FBI brought up some general issues to include:
25 communication issues, update issues and, C, these issues were surprisingly contentious.

1 What do you recall from that discussion about issues being contentious?

2 A Yeah. I can't comment on what he stated, but, for me, it was -- I would

3 describe this as, you know, we were talking about something that was uncomfortable. I

4 mean, there was a media leak in an investigation. We were all -- my belief was that

5 we're all working towards the resolution of this case. And so areas that I had control

6 over were, hey, communication, let's talk more. Part of that was the politics comment,

7 or discussion that I brought up, and then way forward, how were the teams going to

8 continue to talk about this case for the things -- if and where there were more things we

9 needed to do on the investigation.

10 Q Where did the issues of contention lie? Was it IRS and the U.S. Attorney's

11 Office? Was it the IRS and the FBI?

12 A Yeah, I didn't use the word "contentious." I think you'd have to ask him

13 why he chose that.

14 Q Okay. But from your recollection, the communication issues, was that 15 communication issues between IRS and the FBI or was it between IRS and the U.S.

16 Attorney's Office? I mean, what was the nature of the communication issues?

17 A You know, I think that we as in -- we in general need to communicate -- it's

18 important for us to communicate more. And so I was just -- I reinforce over and over

19 again, there's this media leak, now more than ever we need to all be on the same page to

20 work an investigation that was and continues to be open so that we can move towards

21 that resolution.

22 Q Was Lesley Wolf at that meeting?

23 A I don't have a sense of her being there, but if somebody says she was, I

24 wouldn't disagree.

25 Q Did you ever witness U.S. Attorney Weiss admonish Lesley Wolf?

1 A Yeah, I'm not going to get into any comments of their internal discussions.

2 Q That wasn't the question. The question was whether you witnessed U.S.

3 Attorney Weiss admonish Lesley Wolf. You did, didn't you?

4 A I'm going to take -- I'm going to go off record here.

5 [redacted]. Okay.

6 [Discussion held off the record.]

7 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. I've never seen David Weiss admonish anybody.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Okay. Do you know if David Weiss communicated in front of you to Lesley

10 Wolf his frustration about the statute of limitations lapsing?

11 A No.

12 Q You didn't witness that?

13 A I have no memory of that.

14 Q You have no memory of that. Okay. But if someone said you did, then 15 maybe you did?

16 A Depends on the circumstances. I don't want to speculate.

17 Q Okay. Did anyone at the FBI, to your awareness, express concern to David

18 Weiss or the Department of Justice that a special counsel needed to be appointed or

19 David Weiss needed special counsel authority?

20 A Yeah, I'm not in a position to talk about ongoing issues within the 21 Department as it relate -- or in the Bureau as it relates to this case.

22 Q That's one of the core things we -- we're here today to talk about is David

23 Weiss' authority and whether he needed special counsel authority and so forth. So --

24 A Yeah. I appreciate that. But I'm being very clear that I as the leader of 25 the field office running this investigation am clear that David -- it was my understanding

1 that David Weiss had the authority, and at no point did I ever differ from that. There's 2 never been anything in my view that changed that.
3 Q Right. According to Shapley's testimony, Joe Gordon told him that his field
4 office thought they should push this case to be given special counsel authority. Do you
5 have any awareness of what [redacted] was referring to?
6 A I have no knowledge of that.
7 Q Okay. To the extent Joe Gordon was representing that his office, meaning
8 the Baltimore office of the FBI, was pushing for that, that didn't include you?
9 A Yeah, I have no idea what [redacted] meant by that.
10 Q Okay. Are you aware of any documents that [redacted] prepared or 11 advocacy that he put together for -- around the special counsel topic?
12 A No. I have no memory of him putting anything together about that.
13 Q We have testimony that in May of 2022, FBI Supervisory Special Agent [redacted]
14 [redacted] reportedly told IRS Supervisory Special Agent Shapley that, my leadership is 15 wondering why your leadership isn't asking for a special counsel in this investigation.
16 I know that's a similar question, but do you have any awareness of that type of --
17 A I don't.
18 Q At any point in time, were you wondering why IRS wasn't pushing for a 19 special counsel?
20 A That's not something that I was -- that's an IRS issue.
21 Chairman Jordan. Let me ask you this. So U.S. Attorney Weiss sent the 22 committee two pieces -- two letters this summer, and I want to see how you reconcile it.
23 Because you've been very clear that you said that he had authority to bring charges
24 wherever. And he said that in his June 7th letter to the committee -- maybe you had 25 chance to review this -- I've been granted ultimate authority over this matter, including

1 responsibility for deciding where, when, and whether to file charges.

2 Are you familiar with that letter?

3 Mr. Sobocinski. I am.

4 Chairman Jordan. And then he wrote me -- wrote the committee 3 weeks later,

5 and said, I stand by what I wrote, but I want to expand on what this means. My 6 charging authority is geographically limited to my home district.

7 Which one is accurate?

8 Mr. Sobocinski. So one is the January 7th, and what was the other one?

9 Chairman Jordan. Oh, excuse me. June 7th, June 30th.

10 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. I have no personal knowledge about -- about him

11 writing that. I was not involved in this. So the best of my knowledge, both were -- he 12 was truthful in both. I have nothing that disproves that to me.

13 Chairman Jordan. But the first one is -- the first letter on June 7th is the one

14 that, I guess, would give you the reason to believe what you've said now multiple times,

15 which is that you thought he had ultimate authority to bring charges where he wants.

16 The letter on June 30th, where he says my authority is limited to my home district is -- it

17 can't be both of them. So -- but you said all along you felt he had the authority to bring 18 it. There was no distinction there. That's what I'm trying to reconcile.

19 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. You know, my interpretation of these letters are he's

20 expanding upon and providing more information to help you -- that would help you

21 understand what his intent was. That's the bureaucracy, the nuance of what he thought

22 his authority was. And in general, the intent of both letters confirms with my belief,

23 which is he had the authority to bring the case.

24 Chairman Jordan. Well, obviously, he didn't, because it says his charging

25 authority is limited to his home district, and 3 weeks earlier, he had told us, I've been

1 granted ultimate authority -- can't be any stronger language -- including responsibility for
2 deciding where to file charges.
3 So he got ultimate authority to file charges wherever he wants. That's a lot
4 different than I can only do it in my home district.
5 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. I refer you to Mr. Weiss to get a more clear answer on
6 that.
7 Chairman Jordan. We're going to ask him too. But we've got you today, that's 8 why I'm asking.
9 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Have you had any communications with Mr. Weiss about this?
12 A About -- specifically "this" --
13 Q About your testimony here today.
14 A He knows I'm testifying.
15 Q And you had a conversation with him about your testimony here today?
16 A That I am going to be testifying, not about the contents of the testimony.
17 Q When did you talk to him about that?
18 A You know, without going into specifics of an investigation, I'm continuing to 19 lead an office that is working with David Weiss and his team on multiple issues. I talk to 20 him regularly.
21 Chairman Jordan. Did you have any conversations him or anyone else at DOJ
22 regarding the correspondence that was just cited in the June 7th, 2023, letter to the 23 committee and the June 30th, 2023, letter?
24 Mr. Sobocinski. No.
25 BY [redacted]:

1 Q Did you have any communications with him about the 10/7 meeting?
2 A Yes.
3 Q And what were they?
4 A As it relates to his author- -- A, that it existed. I think it was -- yeah, that we
5 knew we were in a room together talking about it. I don't remember specifically
6 going -- yeah, I have not gone back with him and outlined certain things or --
7 Q Like, when did you have that conversation?
8 A Yeah, I have no -- it wasn't like it stuck in my mind. I talk to David Weiss
9 and potentially folks in his office regularly.
10 Q Yeah. Just when did you talk to him about the 10/7 meeting?
11 A Obviously, on 10/7, and maybe it would have come up in some other 12 meeting as the leak and the whistleblowers unfolded. I mean, I still had a case to 13 manage.
14 Q Have you talked to him about the 10/7 meeting in the last couple weeks?
15 A Not that I'm aware of.
16 Q The fact that you've got to come to Congress to testify about 17 the -- potentially the 10/7 meeting?
18 A Yeah, I think he had awareness in that, yeah.
19 Q Like, when's the last time you talked to David Weiss?
20 A Sometime this week. It might even have been yesterday.
21 Q Okay. You talked to him yesterday, did you tell him you were coming to 22 testify here today?
23 A He knows. Whether I told him yesterday or another date, I think it's pretty 24 well out there that I'm here today.
25 Chairman Jordan. But you talked to him about the 10/7/22 meeting after the

1 whistleblowers' testimony went public, the transcript went public?

2 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. I don't have a sense of when I would have or that it was

3 a specific thing.

4 Chairman Jordan. But it's recent?

5 Mr. Sobocinski. I don't have a sense of that. I mean, I am talking to David

6 about moving this case forward and what does my team need to do to move this case

7 forward as a resolution. That's my sole focus on this.

8 BY [redacted]:

9 Q But what Agent Shapley says in his notes and his testimony is pretty different

10 than what you're saying here today. And first, you said you didn't remember, and then

11 you said if it did -- if it did happen, you would have remembered. But I'm just wondering

12 whether you had any conversations with David Weiss to the extent -- to the effect of can

13 you believe what Shapley is saying?

14 A I don't believe I had that type of conversation with David Weiss.

15 Q Okay. But you would agree what you're saying about the 10/7 meeting and 16 what Shapley's saying about the 10/7 meeting are pretty different?

17 A They are.

18 Q Have you had any conversations with anybody else about the 10/7 meeting

19 and, specifically, how your recollections differ from Shapley's?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Who?

22 A Various members of the team I was working with.

23 Q Okay. Anyone that was in the meeting?

24 A Probably. I mean, the sense was I wanted to make sure that if my team felt

25 that there was any difference in -- if they view this differently, then that becomes an

1 operational matter for me to want to get -- getting resolution. And that's what I was
2 focused on. So not as a he said/she said; as a, hey, did I miss -- did I miss something that 3 you think that may have happened that's going to prohibit or interfere with how we're 4 going to conduct this investigation.
5 Q If Gary Shapley's version of events, if that did happen, would that have 6 interfered with the way you're conducting the investigation?
7 A What about his --
8 Q If what Gary Shapley said happened on October 7th in his contemporaneous
9 notes, if it went down that way, would that impact how the investigation --
10 A I mean, he said a lot. Do you want to identify line by line what you mean?
11 Or is there a general sense of what -- there's a lot in his email.
12 Q I mean, it's two pages. It's not that much.
13 So if Weiss had stated that he's not the deciding person on whether charges are 14 filed -- I mean, if Weiss had said that -- you say you don't remember that. If that was 15 said, would that impact the way this investigation was handled?
16 A If Weiss didn't have authority to bring this case forward, yeah. Absolutely,
17 that would have impacted this case from where I sat at that moment in time.
18 Q Okay. Did you have any communications with [redacted] about this?
19 Did you tell her what you were going to say when asked about the 10/7 meeting?
20 A Here in this -- here? No.
21 Q She's aware you were coming today to testify?
22 A She's my direct support. I talk to her every day. She's got dozens of very 23 complicated cases that she's leading. And so, yeah, I talk to her every day, and she's 24 very much aware that I'm here today and she's here on Monday.
25 [redacted] And I believe the committee made the two subpoenas public, which

1 included the dates.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q So I'm just asking you whether you had communications with Ms. [redacted]

4 about what you were going to say about the 10/7 meeting?

5 A As -- you know, as my direct support, when this kind of percolated up, she

6 was somebody that I had a conversation about my concerns about authority of, hey, of

7 prosecution, can we do it, do you have a differing opinion of it? When it came to the

8 subpoena and the testimony, no, we've been fairly clear on not having those

9 conversations.

10 Q Okay. Did you have any communications with Weiss or [redacted] about, hey,

11 what Gary Shapley's saying happened didn't happen?

12 A I don't have a concrete mem- -- like a date and a time where I've done it but,

13 yes, I have said that because that is a difference of opinion than what I remember from

14 that meeting.

15 Q Okay. And you had that with [redacted] and Weiss?

16 A Yeah.

17 Q Any other witnesses? Or any other people involved with the 10/7

18 meeting?

19 A Yeah, not necessarily with the 10 -- not that I'm aware of with the 10/7

20 meeting, but in general with my investigative team, I want to make sure that

21 if -- something like this would have been important for us. And so leading a team of 22 investigators in an open case, if all of a sudden somebody found out we don't

23 have the -- there's not an authority issue, yeah, that's going to be an issue. So yeah, we

24 talked about it in that sense.

25 Q Do you have regular communications with Lesley Wolf?

1 A No.

2 Q Do you have regular communications with anyone in the U.S. Attorney's

3 Office other than the U.S. attorney?

4 A Mostly the U.S. attorney and others are very remote.

5 Q Okay. Have you talked to anyone else in the office about this 10/7

6 meeting?

7 A No.

8 Q Just Mr. Weiss?

9 A [No verbal response.]

10 Q I want to go back to testimony from both Ziegler and Shapley about what

11 they have represented their FBI counterparts felt, to see if it rings any bells.

12 Ziegler testified: I recall discussions with our FBI counterparts on the case, the 13 same issue, and I thought they were just trying to raise the special counsel issue up

14 through their leadership. On that note, I just want to let you guys know that the way

15 the FBI and their leadership -- their leadership was very, very involved in this

16 investigation. I heard of multiple times that they were reporting up to their leadership, 17 meeting with their leadership, they had to -- they had to advise them on this.

18 And I'm just, you know, wondering whether that rings any bells.

19 A No.

20 Q So -- and you would have been part of that leadership, right? The FBI

21 counterparts Ziegler's talking about, that would have been people that report to you,

22 right?

23 A I can't speculate on what he meant by that.

24 Q But it would have been folks that reported to you, right?

25 A I have no idea who he was referencing.

1 Q Okay.

2 A I am an FBI official within Baltimore. Yeah, I mean, that's obviously why I'm

3 here.

4 Q Right.

5 A But I have no idea what he meant by that.

6 Q But, I mean, the testimony is that [redacted] told Ziegler that they raised it

7 through their chain of command for at least half of the time the case was going on.

8 That's you.

9 A I have no direct awareness of that.

10 Q And were you aware whether [redacted] had, you know, previously, prior to,

11 you know, under your predecessor, had expressed any --

12 A I'm not aware of that.

13 Q Okay. And did your predecessor, Ms. Boone, did she tell you about the 14 interest in getting a special counsel appointed by any of the folks in your office?

15 A She had left the FBI months before I took the role. So I had no direct

16 conversation with her about any operational matter within the FBI.

17 Q Okay. So you didn't have a real transition with her?

18 A No.

19 Q When did you become aware that the U.S. Attorney for Central District of 20 California wasn't going to be able to bring charges?

21 A Yeah, I have no direct awareness of that to this day other than you say that.

22 I was aware that there were conversations out there.

23 Q And so that was a big part of, you know, Shapley and Ziegler's testimony,

24 that that's become public. Was that the first time you heard that?

25 A No. I had known -- I knew that David Weiss and attorneys were talking with California.

Q But you didn't know the resolution of that matter?

A Uh-uh.

Chairman Jordan. Back up a second, [redacted].

[redacted]. Sure.

Chairman Jordan. When you took the position in '21, summer of '21, who briefed you up on the case then?

Mr. Sobocinski. Would have been employees within the division; supervisors, case agents.

Chairman Jordan. Some of the people that work for you now?

Mr. Sobocinski. Uh-huh.

Chairman Jordan. Okay.

BY [redacted]:

Q Do you remember who that was?

A I don't.

Q Okay. Was it [redacted]?

A It very easily could have been, but I don't have a direct memory of that.

Q Do you remember how many FBI officials were working on this case as a -- as one of their primary duties? Are we talking two? Are we talking 20?

A When you say officials, we have a -- we in the -- we have a very -- I'm the only FBI official in Baltimore, so it would be solely me. Employees is a different answer, and as we talked about, I'm not going to get into the specific numbers.

Q Somebody like Agent [redacted], like, how many folks were in his -- similarly situated to him?

A Yeah, so he's a supervisor. We have dozens of squads throughout

1 Maryland and Delaware. On each squad, in general, there are 8 to 10 agents and 2 analysts, other support staff working that.
3 Q Was Agent [redacted] highly respected?
4 A Yeah, I thought so.
5 Q So you had no reason to disbelieve his trustworthiness?
6 A Yeah. I'm not going to get into the specifics of that. But [redacted], as 7 we talked about, retired and he retired in good standing as an FBI supervisor.
8 Q Okay. So I mean, if he retired in good standing as an FBI supervisor, he's 9 inherently a reliable person, right?
10 A I would hope so.
11 Q I want to turn to the June 15th meeting. Do you remember, you know,
12 who attended the meeting? And if you don't, I can give you some names and maybe 13 that jogs your memory.
14 [redacted] Didn't we go over this in your first round?
15 [redacted] A little bit, yes.
16 Mr. Sobocinski. Once again, I'm not in the position to talk about the specifics of 17 that meeting.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Okay. If I ask you, like, who was there or who wasn't there, can you tell
20 me?
21 A No. I mean, I was there. And there were FBI employees and DOJ
22 employees.
23 Q Okay. Was there U.S. Attorney's Office employees from Delaware?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Okay. And do you remember Jack Morgan and Mark Daly gave a pretty big

1 presentation?

2 A I'm not going to go into the specifics of what transpired in that conversation.

3 But once again, I don't know those -- the names of those people don't ring a bell to me.

4 Q Okay. But two Tax Division lawyers made a presentation?

5 A I'm not going to go into the specifics of that.

6 Q Okay. But you know the answer to my question, you're just not willing to 7 go into specifics, or you don't know the answer to my question?

8 A You had U.S. Attorney's Office, you had FBI, you had IRS, and you had DOJ

9 officials in there discussing what is still an ongoing case.

10 Q Okay. But in terms of among that group, whether any subset of that was 11 doing a huge presentation?

12 A There -- obviously, when you get a group of people in a room to discuss an

13 ongoing case, you're talking about things.

14 Q You remember who called that meeting?

15 A I don't.

16 Q Okay. Do you remember what the purpose of the meeting was?

17 A To discuss an ongoing investigation. But in general -- I mean, I'm not -- I'm

18 literally not trying to be evasive. I want you to know that my role in that meeting was

19 continually to be -- to essentially corral or provide input in a way that provided the FBI

20 and what we represented to bring this to resolution.

21 Q Fair enough. It was just represented to us that you were -- you were -- you

22 asked a lot of pointed questions, it was represented to us, of the Tax Division lawyers,

23 that, you know, you were not necessarily a protagonist to the presentation that the tax

24 lawyers were making, you were asking some tough questions.

25 A So once again, I'm not going to talk about the specifics, but I do -- but

1 my -- but I was trying to move this forward. And I'm trying to get resolution and work
2 with a team of very different individuals to move a case forward.
3 Chairman Jordan. Was this case moving slow? You said like at least --
4 Mr. Sobocinski. Yup.
5 Chairman Jordan. -- three dozen times you wanted to get this thing to 6 resolution. And so that sort of suggests that it wasn't getting to resolution and you
7 thought it should be moving a little faster pace.
8 Mr. Sobocinski. I would have liked for it to move faster.
9 BY [redacted]:
10 Q It was represented to us that at that meeting the FBI special agent in charge
11 asked several questions about the tax case and presented rebuttals to DOJ tax attorneys
12 who were presenting on the defenses raised by Hunter Biden's defense lawyers. Does 13 that ring any bells?
14 A Yeah, I'm not going to get in the specifics of the content of what those 15 conversations were.
16 Q But earlier you said that when it came to the tax charges, you were -- that 17 was not your bailiwick, is my term, but that, you know, the FBI was not experts with tax
18 matters?
19 A Yeah, I am not an expert with tax matters.
20 Q But, you know, it was represented to us that you were presenting rebuttals
21 to the DOJ tax attorneys. And so I'm just trying to see if there's anything you remember 22 from that back and forth.
23 A I'm not going to get into the specifics of that, but I will just reiterate once
24 again is that all my conversations were about moving this forward.
25 Q Do you remember having -- I'm not asking for the content, but do you

1 remember having that back and forth?

2 A I'm not going to get in discussion about that. I'm just giving you what my

3 motivation was during that meeting.

4 [redacted] Can we go off the record for 1 minute?

5 [redacted] Yes.

6 [Discussion held off the record.]

7 Mr. Sobocinski. So, yeah, getting back to that meeting, you know, my focus on

8 that was trying to bring a variety of folks together, leaders and other entities, in a way

9 that, like, this isn't -- I'm not going to say overstepped my boundary, but I was definitely

10 talking about something that I would have much preferred another organization to bring

11 up. It wasn't being brought up, so I as just a general investigator wanted to ask

12 questions so that I could help at least understand what I thought was a very complicated

13 process to move it forward, so that when we came out of that meeting, that wasn't just a

14 meeting to have a meeting, that that was a meeting with clear understanding of where

15 we were going to move forward on it and what the -- in particular what the FBI and my 16 team's role and things that we needed to do to continue to move this forward.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Okay. Do you remember telling Special Agent Shapley during a break in

19 that meeting that the issues raised by DOJ tax that might result in not charging are 20 nonsense?

21 A I'm not going to go into the specifics with the individual conversations with 22 anybody in that meeting. But in -- as the chairman said, I was focused on moving the 23 case to a resolution.

24 Q Okay. And again, sorry to ask this. It seems like you hate when I ask this

25 question. But do you know the answer and you're not going to tell us here, or do you

1 not know the answer about whether you used the term "nonsense" to Shapley in relation
2 to characterizing the DOJ tax lawyers' presentation?
3 A I have no recollection of using the word "nonsense."
4 Q Okay. Or a similar word, expressing frustration or crankiness about the 5 presentation you were seeing?
6 A I was in a room full of tax lawyers and other investigators focus on very 7 intricate tax laws. That is not some place I enjoy being. It took much longer than what
8 I expected. But literally, it could have lasted a half an hour; it felt like forever. And I
9 was focused on trying to bring it together so that a layman like me and my team could 10 then understand what we needed to do and what the team needed to do to continue to 11 move this forward and not just have a meeting to have a meeting.
12 Q Okay. At that point, was it just the tax charges that were on the table?
13 A I can't get into the specifics of what was discussed during that meeting.
14 Q If it were just the tax charges, what would be the FBI's role in that? Like, if 15 they decided to just pursue the tax charges, would the FBI still be involved?
16 A Can I go off the record?
17 Q Sure.
18 [Discussion held off the record.]
19 Mr. Sobocinski. If it was just a tax charge, the FBI wouldn't be -- the FBI wouldn't 20 be there.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Okay. Let's go back to the 10/7 meeting. In Shapley's contemporaneous
23 notes, on the first page of the exhibit, under B, process for decision, the email states that 24 Weiss needs approval first from DOJ tax.
25 Was that your understanding, that before Weiss was going to bring a case, that

1 part of the administrative approval process inside of DOJ required him to get the okay
2 from the Tax Division?
3 A So I want to start with one thing. You keep saying contemporaneous notes.
4 This is an email that appears to be written hours after that. So I know it's semantics but,
5 for me, contemporaneous notes are something that's generated as it's ongoing. And so
6 for me, I want to say that this was more of a -- I would describe this more of a summary
7 email than contemporary notes. And then, I'm sorry, if you could give me that question
8 again.
9 Q Well, let me -- now that you raise that, did you take any notes during that
10 meeting?
11 A I did not.
12 Q Did you write any emails about what happened in the meeting?
13 A Not that I'm aware of.
14 Q Okay. So going back to the first page -- and this is from the notes prepared
15 the same day that the meeting happened. These notes are the same day the meeting
16 happened, right, Friday, October 7th?
17 A Yeah. I'm not fighting you on this. This is an email that appears --
18 Q Okay.
19 A -- that you keep referring to the notes. I don't remember him in a room
20 with a laptop taking these as this was ongoing. And that would have been abnormal if I
21 saw that amongst investigators, so --
22 Q But it's not abnormal to type up summaries of meetings?
23 A And send emails, absolutely not.
24 Q Okay. So this is the type of, you know, record that would expected to be 25 produced in the ordinary course, right?

1 A Yeah, an email of record, yes. But to keep calling it contemporaneous
2 notes is just not -- you know, I'm just telling you I disagree with that assumption of that,
3 not that it's an email.
4 Q Okay. So I'll just refer to it as an email prepared the same day the meeting
5 happened.
6 A Sure.
7 Q Under the 2.b.i., the needs DOJ tax approval first, states that Weiss needs
8 approval first. Did you understand that he had to go on a tax case to get the approval of 9 the Tax Division officials?
10 A The word "approval" is -- I've never felt that he needed approval. He's -- it
11 was my understanding he had the authority to bring whatever he needed to do. There 12 was administrative charge -- or administrative process, not within DOJ, but also within 13 tax. I don't know the intricacies of that, but it definitely seemed very cumbersome.
14 Q But going back to the June meeting with the DOJ tax lawyers, it's obvious
15 that if you're having like a really long meeting and the DOJ tax lawyers are making a huge
16 presentation and you're rebutting them, you know, it's obvious that these DOJ tax
17 lawyers have a role here. I mean, isn't that fair to say, and they've got to clear this 18 before Weiss can prosecute it?
19 A I have no idea what -- when you say "clear this," I don't know what that 20 looks like. I mean, obviously, DOJ has multiple specialty attorneys, trial attorneys that 21 are involved in a wide variety of cases.
22 Q But you'd agree that Weiss had to get approvals, whether they were 23 administrative or whether they would be a foregone conclusion, that he needed to 24 get -- he needed approvals to bring charges outside of his district, right?
25 A I am not -- approval is not what I thought. He needed some type of

1 author -- some type of something within the Department of Justice. I don't know what
2 it was. Approval means, to me, that's more like, hey, I can say no. I never thought that
3 anybody was there above David Weiss to say no.
4 Q Okay. Do you know if he needed to go through that exercise if he was 5 going to bring the tax charges in Delaware? Did he have to come to Main Justice in 6 Washington D.C. and have that type of meeting?
7 A I, unfortunately, have had experience with this in multiple districts where 8 the process when you work with IRS is there are multiple back and forth within IRS, then
9 there are multiple sideways within the Department to IRS tax attorneys. And it is a 10 circular thing that just keeps churning and churning for long periods of time.
11 Q And just given your substantial experience on that, what's your view of like 12 the DOJ Tax Division? Do they need to sign off on it? Do they need to concur? Like,
13 how do you get through that hurdle? It's obviously a hurdle if you have to come to D.C.
14 and sit in a long meeting.
15 A Yeah, in a general sense, not this case, yes, I think there is an approval
16 process in place, I think different than this. I think this one was clear in all of our 17 discussions that that approval had been delegated to Mr. Weiss. He's had the ability to 18 do it. And then it was just the movement of whatever the specific issues were back and 19 forth to get to that point.
20 Q Do you think the DOJ Tax Division lawyers were trying to convince Mr. Weiss
21 not to bring the tax charges?
22 A I couldn't comment on that.
23 Q Okay. But you know the answer to that question, right, because you were 24 in the meeting and it was long?
25 A I'm not going to talk about the specifics of what was going on amongst those

1 deliberations.

2 Q Okay. But it's not something you forget. It's something you know the 3 answer to and you're not able to tell me here today?

4 A I'm not going to say that either way of whether -- I'm just not going to 5 comment on that.

6 Q Okay.

7 [redacted] We can go off the record.

8 [Discussion held off the record.]

9 [redacted]. So when I asked you if you know the answer and you're just not able

10 to tell me, is it because you don't remember or is it because you believe the Department

11 won't let you?

12 Back on the clock here.

13 [redacted] Do you know what the precise question is?

14 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, no. Let's get that question again.

15 BY [redacted]:

16 Q So at the June 2022 meeting, there was -- it's been related to us -- I wasn't in

17 the meeting -- so it's been related to us that the Tax Division lawyers presented a huge

18 presentation, that you asked some pointed followups, some rebuttals, that on the 19 sidelines you mentioned that you thought it was nonsense or words to that effect.

20 And so I asked you about that. And you said that you're unable to comment on 21 that because -- due to the ongoing investigation, due to the instructions from the

22 Department.

23 And my follow-up question was, okay, do you know the answer, and you're not

24 willing to tell me because of the instructions, or do you not know the answer?

25 A I have very limited more information I could give if given authorization by the

1 Department, but it would not be specifics, nor would it be -- it would be context.

2 Q Okay.

3 A And I do not believe it would in any way get you where you wanted to go

4 with the question, like get the answers you're wanting.

5 Q After it became public that Gary Shapley was going to come to Congress and

6 he gave, I think, an interview on CBS in the -- at the end of May before his congressional

7 testimony, who did you discuss that with?

8 A My team within Baltimore, probably folks within the Criminal Investigative

9 Division. Definitely David Weiss.

10 Q And what was the nature of your conversation with David Weiss?

11 A I need to go off the record for a minute.

12 [redacted]. Okay.

13 [Discussion held off the record.]

14 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. In general, it was concerns about how this was going to 15 affect the ongoing case and were there issues we needed to take into at least from the 16 FBI side to move forward.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q After Shapley's testimony became public in June, did you have any

19 conversations with David Weiss about that?

20 A We acknowledged it, but it wasn't -- I mean, we didn't sit there with the 21 transcript going back and forth. We both acknowledged that it was there and that it

22 would have had -- it had an impact on our case.

23 Q Okay. Did any of your conversations with David Weiss, you know, have

24 anything to do with like, can you believe what Shapley's saying, this is totally 100 percent

25 untrue?

1 A I don't remember that level of it.

2 Q If it was --

3 A I was more concerned about how this is affecting my employees. I now

4 have FBI employees that names are out there. I have FBI employees and former FBI

5 retired agents who've served for 20-plus years whose parents are getting phone calls,

6 whose photos with their girlfriends, who their children who are being followed. That is

7 not something that we were prepared for, and I was concerned about having that

8 continue or expand to another one of my employees.

9 Q If what Shapley and Ziegler had testified to was totally fictitious, totally false,

10 totally off base, you would concede you probably would have a conversation with David

11 Weiss about, can you believe these guys are just making up all these facts?

12 A Yeah, I'm not going to go into specifics of what I had or had not as it relates 13 to them. My focus with David was how are we going to move this case forward.

14 Q And likewise, then they testified in July before the Oversight Committee.

15 What types of conversations did you have with David Weiss about that?

16 A Once again, it was -- I'm not going to get into specifics, but in general it was,

17 okay, David, where are we going? Let's move this case forward. What do you need

18 from the FBI and my team that will enable us to continue to move a case?

19 Q Okay. But those conversations didn't involve, can you believe Shapley and 20 Ziegler are totally lying about this?

21 A Yeah, I'm not going to comment on what his opinions was, and I don't

22 remember having what you just said with him.

23 Q You don't remember that?

24 A Yeah, I don't.

25 Q Okay. Presumably, you would remember it if you and Weiss had like a big

1 conversation about, everything Ziegler and Shapley are saying is totally false, they're 2 making this stuff up?
3 A As you're probably aware that -- you know, I joined the FBI 25 years ago. I
4 joined for a reason: to protect the American people and uphold the Constitution. I've 5 been to war. My family's been in bad places. My kids have been evacuated from war
6 zones or quasi-war zones. I've been in some bad things.
7 Q This is --
8 A I've accepted that. No, no, this is important to me. And so when you ask
9 what I remember, what I not, I am solely focused on two things, and they're not mutually
10 exclusive. The first thing is, like every investigation, I want to get to a resolution in a fair,
11 apolitical way. The second thing, and it's becoming more important and more relevant,
12 is keeping my folks safe. And the part that I never expected is keeping their families
13 safe. So that, for me, is becoming more and more of a job that I have to do and take 14 away from what I was -- what I signed up to do, which was investigate and do those 15 things.
16 So when you talk about potential frustrations with communication, I am 17 personally frustrated with anything that places my employees and their families in 18 enhanced danger. Our children, their children didn't sign up for this.
19 Chairman Jordan. No, and we certainly appreciate that and your service to our 20 country. And there's no place for those kind of threats and that kind of thing. But I'll 21 just point out, [redacted] has faced the same kind of thing when -- as our chief counsel a
22 few years ago during the impeachment proceedings that Democrats brought against 23 President Trump. So no place for any of that. We appreciate what you do.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q So again, you know, the question was, if Shapley and Ziegler are fabricating

1 this entire thing, you probably would have had a conversation with somebody about that.
2 Have you had a conversation with anybody about Shapley and Ziegler fabricating the gist
3 of what their testimony was?
4 A I'm not going to go into speculative content of what I -- I was frustrated with 5 some --
6 Q No, I didn't ask you to speculate. I just said, did you have any conversations
7 with anybody? First I said Weiss, and now I'm expanding it to anybody, about 8 like -- about saying that Shapley and Ziegler are just lying about everything?
9 A No. I've never said those words.
10 Q Okay.
11 Ms. Greer. I would just note for the record, I don't think the witness has stated 12 that they are lying about everything either.
13 [redacted] Okay.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q Are you -- I'm going to turn to some of the allegations that the agents were 16 obstructed in their investigation. So if you can help us, we appreciate it. If you can't,
17 I'll probably ask you if you know the answer and don't want to tell me or that type of 18 thing.
19 In August of 2021, that's after you became the special agent in charge of the 20 Baltimore field office, correct?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Okay. Shapley and his team told prosecutors about other interviews they 23 would like to conduct, and they were denied. Are you aware of that?
24 A Can we go off the record?
25 Q Okay.

1 [Discussion held off the record.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q All right. Do you need me to repeat the question?

4 A I do.

5 Q So in August of 2021, after you became the special agent in charge of the 6 Baltimore field office, Shapley and his team told prosecutors about other interviews that

7 they wanted to conduct, and they were blocked from doing that. Do you have any

8 awareness of that?

9 A Yeah, I'm not going to talk about ongoing investigative activity.

10 Q If you were permitted to talk about ongoing investigative activity, would you

11 be able to answer that question?

12 A In a general sense.

13 Q You would be able to answer it?

14 A I would be able to respond differently.

15 Q In September, Lesley Wolf emailed Shapley and his team saying, I do not

16 think you are going to be able to do these interviews as planned, adding that they would

17 require approval from the DOJ Tax Division.

18 Was that a fact you were aware of?

19 A Once again, it's ongoing investigative matters.

20 Q If David Weiss had complete authority to do -- to bring the cases that he

21 wanted, but yet investigators still had to get DOJ Tax's permission to do like basic 22 investigative steps, aren't those contradictory?

23 A Yeah, I think it's semantics and word choice. I think it was clear to me, as

24 I've stated over and over again, is that I believed and still do that David Weiss had the

25 authority to bring the charges. There was administrative process that people may have

1 referred to as approval within the IRS. I don't know. I don't know what the IRS -- I
2 mean, because that's -- there are ways things rise up. I'm aware of that in a general
3 sense and then they're referred via prosecution reports to prosecutors to prosecute. I
4 don't know what that looks like in the IRS. And so that might be the word choice they
5 use in this, but I am not aware of approval --
6 Chairman Jordan. You've dealt with other tax cases before?
7 Mr. Sobocinski. Yes.
8 Chairman Jordan. Numerous?
9 Mr. Sobocinski. More than I would have liked.
10 Chairman Jordan. Yeah. I mean, I can appreciate that. But again, you've said
11 so many times you were looking to get this resolved as quickly as possible. And yet you 12 tell us time and time again you don't how the process works to get it resolved. So those 13 seem to be contradictory to me.
14 If you wanted this resolved, you would think -- and you've dealt with the IRS time 15 and time again in cases, you would sort of know how the process works to get to 16 resolution. So I don't know how you can say both things, which you've said numerous 17 times here to the committee.
18 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah. And I've also said that it's a very complex internal 19 process. I don't expect IRS to understand the internal processes of the FBI either. And 20 so for me it is I knew they had things they had to work through, as I've worked with them
21 previously, and I know that takes a long time.
22 Chairman Jordan. Yeah. But this was -- this was not -- this was a pretty darn
23 important case. Again, we can have the court reporter at some point figure out how 24 many times you've said you want to get to resolution as soon as possible. I asked you
25 was this case going slow, and you said yes. So that -- I think all that would, I think,

1 would compel you to say, how does this thing actually work? And you would think you
2 would know that because you've dealt with all kinds of cases, working agents at the FBI
3 with agents at the IRS before, but yet you don't know how process works and/or you
4 won't answer [redacted] questions when he gets into how that process worked.
5 Mr. Sobocinski. So I understand what my role was and what I needed to do as 6 the SAC of the FBI to move that process and continually talked about ways in which or if 7 there was things we needed to do within my control. I had a general sense of what 8 other individuals needed to do, but I also knew that I as the FBI SAC didn't have a role in 9 that and there was no administrative way for me to interject myself into that.
10 [redacted] Can we go off the record for 1 minute?
11 [Discussion held off the record.]
12 BY [redacted]:
13 Q So back to my question. Lesley Wolf emailed Shapley and his team saying, I 14 do not think you're going to be able to do those interviews, adding that they would 15 require approval from DOJ Tax Division.
16 How do you reconcile on one hand David Weiss says he's got authority to 17 do -- charge whatever he wants, but on the other hand, basic interview steps -- you know, 18 basic investigative steps, such as conducting interviews, appear to be blocked?
19 A I wasn't a participant of that. I have no awareness of that.
20 Q You have no awareness of that?
21 A [No verbal response.]
22 Q In October, Wolf emailed Shapley and his team saying that it will get us into 23 hot water if we interview the President's grandchildren, after investigators determined 24 that talking to grandchildren was pertinent to the investigation. Were you aware of 25 that?

1 A Once again, this line does appear that I am unable to -- because this is an
2 ongoing case, I am unable to talk -- to answer that question.
3 Q Okay. So, generically speaking, if you're working a tax case and there's a 4 deductions claim for children's education, is it fair to go and interview the beneficiary of 5 that deduction?
6 A Once again, thankfully, I don't work tax cases. I work adjacent to them.
7 And you'd have to ask the IRS that.
8 Q Okay. Were you aware that they were blocked from interviewing the 9 grandchildren?
10 A Yeah, I'm not in a position to talk about investigative steps and what did or 11 didn't happen.
12 Q Do you know the answer to that question or are you just not able to talk
13 about it?
14 A I have an answer to that question.
15 Q You know the answer to that question?
16 A I have an answer to that question from my -- from where I sit in this chair.
17 Q Okay.
18 A But I'll go back to there's nothing nefarious in what that answer would be,
19 and there's nothing in my answer that would bear on whether David Weiss had authority
20 to or not bring this case forward or the investigative steps in this case forward.
21 Q Were you aware of the instance where a search warrant was going to be 22 executed on a storage unit?
23 A Can you be more -- like in this case?
24 Q Yes.
25 A I'm not going to talk about ongoing things in this investigative matter.

1 Q So Hunter Biden had a storage unit, and there was a request for documents
2 that everybody knew was in the storage unit. And so there was a plan to monitor the 3 storage unit and see if anybody from the Biden camp went to look for it. And if they
4 didn't look for it, that would be telling that they weren't complying with the records
5 request.
6 Do you have any recollection of that? Was that during your tenure?
7 A Do you have a date?
8 Q I don't have a date handy. But I'm just asking you whether that was 9 something that you remember happening during your tenure?
10 A Well, I think the first step is if we have a date, I could tell you whether it was 11 during -- whether it's something happened in my tenure.
12 Q Fair enough. Do you remember that?
13 A Once again, I'm not in a position to talk about ongoing investigative steps.
14 Q Okay. Once again, do you know the answer to the question and you're just 15 not willing to talk about it, or would you need to rack your brain a little bit more and have 16 your memory jogged?
17 A No. I think that I -- this is going to be a repetitive process where I am going 18 to say I'm unable to answer that question because of an ongoing investigative matter.
19 You're asking me yes or no questions. So obviously, all of these are going to a resolve to 20 a different answer than that.
21 Q Okay. Were you aware on the day of action, which was before your tenure,
22 okay, this is December of 2020, there were specific guidelines given to the investigators
23 about what they can and can't ask witnesses they were going to go interview? Were 24 you aware of that?
25 A Once again, I can't comment on any investigative activity in this case.

1 Q If investigators were told that they couldn't ask about President Biden or 2 couldn't ask about what 10 percent for the big guy meant, if that happened, do you think
3 that would have an impact on the investigation?
4 A I have no comment. I don't know what that really -- what that is.
5 Q You don't know what what is?
6 A What you're asking me. I have no idea the context of what that is. I don't 7 know what you're referencing. And if it is an ongoing investigation, I'm going to be 8 unable to discuss it.
9 Q Okay. In the runup to the day of action, U.S. Attorney's Office, specifically
10 Lesley Wolf, provided instruction to Agent [redacted] and Agent Shapley and other agents 11 that were going to be participating in the day of action, that they were prohibited from 12 asking questions about Joe Biden. They were prohibited from asking questions about 13 what 10 percent for the big guy meant.
14 Do you -- if that's the case, do you believe that impacts the integrity of the 15 investigation?
16 A You know, first off, that didn't happen. That was before my tenure.
17 And --
18 Q It didn't happen or it didn't happen during your tenure?
19 A So two issues. The date you referenced was before I was in this position.
20 The second thing is you keep referring to the day of action. What do you mean by that?
21 Q So in 2020, it was an election year, they were -- the agents told us they were 22 prevented from taking any overt acts until after the election. After the election, they 23 wanted to go and interview people, take overt action. They wanted to go to Hunter
24 Biden's house in California and see if he'd be willing to talk to them. They wanted to go
25 visit Rob Walker in Arkansas, see if he was willing to talk to them. Turns out Rob Walker

1 was willing to talk to them. So they got some information out of Rob Walker.

2 But they had a day of action planned. That's how they characterized it. It was

3 December 8th, 2020. And in the runup to the day of action, they were given all these

4 guidelines about you can't ask about Joe Biden, you can't ask about 10 percent for the big 5 guy.

6 And so what I'm asking you as a real experienced FBI person, whether you have a

7 problem with that type of limiting apparatus being placed on the investigation?

8 A So once again, wasn't there during that timeframe. I'm not in a position to

9 talk about any investigative steps that may or may not. However, it's a regular course of

10 levels of authority within an organ -- within the FBI of when we do or do not authorize

11 certain investigative steps. And so I can't opine to this parti- -- I'm not going to opine to 12 this particular one, but in general, I regularly have conversations and make decisions on 13 investigative steps that agents may be or other employees may be conducting.

14 Chairman Jordan. Were you comfortable with the proposed plea agreement?

15 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, that's a U.S. Attorney's Office decision. DOJ.

16 Chairman Jordan. I understand it's their decision. I'm asking were you

17 comfortable. You told us you weren't comfortable with the pace of the investigation.

18 I'm asking, were you comfortable with the plea agreement as proposed to the judge?

19 Mr. Sobocinski. This is an ongoing case. And so with that, I'm just going to 20 defer my personal opinion on that.

21 Chairman Jordan. You can give us a personal opinion on the pace of the 22 investigation, but you can't give us a personal opinion on what was going to be the 23 outcome of the investigation. And you've said, again, at least a dozen times, probably

24 multiple times, that you were focused on resolving this case. And I'm asking -- that was

25 your focus, you said it time and time again -- were you comfortable with how it was going

1 to be resolved if the judge had not declined?

2 [redacted] I think the distinction between those two personal opinions is that he

3 has been providing his personal opinion on the pace as it relates to the questions that he

4 has been asked about some of the meetings and the issue of his authority which he is

5 authorized to discuss. But questions about his personal view on a potential plea

6 agreement relates directly to the underlying investigation, and it's not within the scope of 7 what he has been authorized to talk about today.

1 [1:28 p.m.]

2 Chairman Jordan. This plea agreement was put forward. The whole country
3 knew about the plea agreement. I'm just asking the guy who did the work, the guy who
4 oversees the people doing the work, what he thought of it. That seems like an entirely
5 appropriate question, particularly in light of the fact he was willing to tell us he was not
6 comfortable with the pace of the investigation.

7 Mr. Sobocinski. This isn't resolved. I mean, this is an ongoing issue that I am
8 currently managing, and I do not think it's appropriate for me to discuss my opinion of 9 that right now.

10 [redacted]. I went 1 minute over last time, so I will stop short 1 minute.

11 [redacted] For the record, I think I stopped 10 minutes early last time.

12 Chairman Jordan. You can keep doing that.

13 [Recess.]

14 [redacted]. It is 1:40 in the afternoon. We can go back on the record.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Before I get going, Mr. Sobocinski, did you have something you wanted to 17 say?

18 A Yeah, I did.

19 So with majority counsel, when they were talking to me about my meetings with 20 David Weiss, I think -- I continue to have this case as an ongoing investigation, but I am
21 running an office that has ongoing cases with David.

22 And so I don't want to give it the perception of we are having these one-off
23 conspiratorial conversations about anything. He is my main point of contact for the 24 prosecution's office in Delaware. My team is working with him. Our teams are 25 working together every day. I talk to him regularly about our ongoing cases. And so I

1 just want to make sure that that's the intent of what those meetings look like.
2 I also to be clear, I did not talk about what I was going to -- my testimony here
3 today with him or anyone else about that.
4 Q Thank you for that.
5 I want to talk -- elaborate a little further on something you said in the prior hour
6 about exhibit 1, which is the Shapley October 7th email.
7 You said -- made the point earlier about the distinction between 8 contemporaneous notes and a summary written up after the meeting, right?
9 A Uh-huh.
10 Q And you said that, to the best of your recollection, Mr. Shapley was not in 11 there taking notes during the meeting. Is that fair to say?
12 A Yeah, I can't comment of whether he was taking notes. I don't have a 13 distinct memory of him with a laptop open creating this email.
14 Q Okay.
15 A And so that's really more what I was meaning.
16 Q And so he wasn't taking notes on the computer at least?
17 A Not that I'm aware of.
18 Q Okay. And you would have probably remembered that, if he'd had a
19 computer open in front of him?
20 A Yeah, if he had. In the Federal Government, that's still pretty rare.
21 Q Okay. Do you know if anybody else had a computer open and was taking 22 notes?
23 A Not that I'm aware of.
24 Q Okay. And this meeting was largely in person, right? There was not -- it
25 wasn't partially over Zoom, was it?

1 A No, I believe everybody was in the room.

2 Q Okay. In the prior hour you said -- and I think the chairman picked up on it

3 as well -- you said that you wanted to keep the case moving forward.

4 Do you recall saying that?

5 A I do.

6 Q You said that a couple of times?

7 A I have.

8 Q What does that mean, keep the case moving forward?

9 A So the FBI, we have more than enough work, and what we do is really

10 important. And so for me it is about prioritizing our time and the time and energy of 11 what the FBI does.

12 And so for me when we open a case is we don't open them up forever. There's a 13 variety of reasons why we want to get to a resolution.

14 And so for me, without going into specifics, I -- but I will when I talk about this

15 case, which is what does the FBI need to do or provide to a prosecutor that's going

16 to -- they're going to use and they need as far as information to bring the case to 17 prosecution or not.

18 Q Okay. And actually you just said there are a variety of reasons you want to

19 bring the case to a resolution, and that's across all cases, right? Not just this case, it's 20 every case that you work on?

21 A Correct.

22 Q And what are those reasons? You don't have to give me the exhaustive list, 23 but can you explain some of them for the record?

24 A Yeah. In general what we do is we arrest bad people who are doing bad

25 things. And that may be anything from white collar crime, like what we're talking about

1 here today. It's nation-state actors coming after us. It is, especially in Maryland and 2 Delaware, it is violent folks killing people on a regular basis.
3 And so it's really important for us to get involved and to get involved quickly and 4 have that immediate impact to protect the American people and save lives.
5 Q And if a case -- when a case is going forward, you have resource -- I mean
6 people, employees -- that are tasked to it that then maybe can't be working on other
7 matters as well, right?
8 A Correct.
9 Q And so it may be the case that you also want to move a case forward 10 because you have other matters that you need to focus on?
11 A Correct.
12 Q Okay. Over the course of your 25 years with the FBI, you've worked with a 13 number of different U.S. Attorney's Offices, correct?
14 A Correct.
15 Q So you've worked with -- now you work with Maryland?
16 A Correct.
17 Q And you work with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware?
18 A I do.
19 Q You've worked with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Washington, D.C.?
20 A I have.
21 Q Any other jurisdiction that I'm not thinking of? North Carolina, I guess?
22 A Yeah. Two or three in North Carolina, EDVA, a couple in New York. And 23 then when I was overseas there were dozens more that I would work with that had 24 international nexus.
25 Q And is it fair to say that each office -- each U.S. Attorney's Office that you've

1 worked with has had a different approach to how it handles cases?

2 A Yeah, I think there was -- the approach was always the same, the intent was

3 the same, but they had different cultures.

4 Q What do you mean by different cultures?

5 A I think just really in a concrete way. Some were slower; some were faster.

6 Q Okay. So some office maybe are more deliberative. They take a longer

7 time to mull over decisions. Is that fair to say?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And how would you describe the pace at, for example, the U.S. Attorney's

10 Office for Maryland?

11 A They're fast.

12 Q They're fast?

13 A Uh-huh, they're responsive.

14 Q So they make decisions quickly?

15 A Uh-huh.

16 Q And Washington, D.C.?

17 A Fast -- yeah, they're in the middle. I'll say they're in the middle.

18 Q Okay. Are there any jurisdictions that you've worked with that you'd 19 consider a little more deliberative, like they take a little longer to make a decision?

20 A Delaware would fall under that.

21 Q Okay. And that's in all the cases that you work on with Delaware. Is that

22 fair to say?

23 A It is.

24 Q Okay. Thank you.

25 I want to go back to the discussion about the Tax Division meeting. And I

1 know -- I understand you can't get into the specifics of that meeting, so I'm going to try
2 and stay away from that. But if you can answer a question, I don't want to put you in a
3 position you can't answer.
4 A Uh-huh.
5 Q There was a suggestion made that there was a -- some presentation made by 6 the Tax Division attorneys.
7 Do you recall that suggestion being made by the Republican staff?
8 A I do.
9 Q Okay. And the claim was that that was because the Tax Division had to 10 clear the charges. Do you recall that?
11 A I believe that's what he said.
12 Q Okay. So in that case would it be logical for the entity that has to clear to 13 provide a presentation to try and persuade somebody?
14 A Yeah. Taking it out of the context of that case, sure, that sounds -- that's 15 the process, you're trying to persuade somebody.
16 Q Right. But if you actually had sign-off authority, you wouldn't need to 17 persuade anybody, right? If you were the ultimate decisionmaker, you wouldn't need to 18 persuade anybody?
19 A Yeah, I don't -- I think they're not mutually exclusive. I think that, at least 20 now in the environment we live in, yes. So for me, in particular, I'm the SAC. I can 21 make a decision, and people are going to have to live with it.
22 Q Right.
23 A My hope is that not only am I providing information as to why I'm making
24 that decision, but I'm also getting my employees the ability to give their counternarrative 25 of what that is.

1 And so two things. There's, one, for them they are -- they have an
2 understanding of my thought process and so what I -- my expectations; and, two, I
3 actually am still learning, and so I do get information that changes my mind.
4 Q Okay. And so in that case you might actually solicit that information
5 because, for example, you want to know what the weaknesses in an investigation might 6 be, correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q And that might help you formulate a stronger case. Is that fair to say?
9 A Correct.
10 Q Okay. I want to move on to a discussion about leaks. And you talked
11 earlier about the concerns about -- around the October 7th meeting and potential leaking
12 in that case. But I want to talk about just leaks, take a step back and leaks more 13 generally.
14 Are you familiar with the term "law enforcement sensitive information"?
15 A I am.
16 Q And what's your understanding of what that term means?
17 A It is one of several classification levels.
18 Q It's not actually classified material, right, necessarily?
19 A Wow, now you're going to get me in -- I better not fail this test.
20 You know, there's top secret, compartmented secret, confidential, and law
21 enforcement sensitive is the bottom of those four.
22 Q Right. And you don't need to be in, for example, a SCIF to do law
23 enforcement sensitive information?
24 A That's correct.
25 Q Okay. Law enforcement sensitive information often encompasses

1 information about ongoing investigations, right?

2 A Correct.

3 Q So information maybe isn't classified, but it could still be law enforcement

4 sensitive?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And is it fair to say that the FBI works to keep such things close-hold or

7 works to keep them from being broadly released even if the information itself isn't

8 actually classified?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Why is that?

11 A As it relates to ongoing cases, I mean, we're doing certain things in our

12 investigations against people that we don't want them to know about what we're doing.

13 And so for us, twofold. It is -- it keeps what we're trying to do protected, but then also

14 there are safety issues with that information getting out and potentially could have 15 negative consequences on our employees.

16 Q And is it fair to say that if the information gets out, your employees could be

17 at personal risk?

18 A Yeah. Some of this, yeah.

19 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that if that information got out, it could actually 20 compromise the investigation?

21 A Yes.

22 Q How so?

23 A In a perfect world, people don't know we're investigating them. That's why

24 they -- unless they're engaged in immediate violence, we watch them and gather

25 evidence that's going to enable us to work with the U.S. Attorney's Office or State and

1 locals to prosecute them. And if people know we're watching them, they have a
2 tendency to stop doing that.
3 Q Okay. And so it actually might prevent you from completing an 4 investigation or it might prevent prosecutors even from obtaining a conviction. Is that
5 fair to say?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that the release of information about ongoing 8 investigation also creates a risk that the reputation of the individuals involved in the 9 investigation -- I'm not talking about the agents, but, like, the witnesses or the targets or 10 even the subjects -- that those reputations could be impacted even if ultimately there are 11 no charges brought?
12 A Correct.
13 Q So that's another reason that the FBI works to keep that type of information
14 from being broadly released?
15 A It is.
16 Q Okay. Without getting into the -- and I'm not asking about this case
17 specifically, but over the course of your career, have you ever worked on an investigation
18 where there were leaks of information to the press?
19 A I don't recall ever being an investigator investigating the leaks, but I've been 20 involved in investigations that had information leaked about what I was doing.
21 Q And has that impacted those cases in those situations?
22 A Yeah. Yeah, me personally, without going into details, it was a
23 counterterrorism case and a foreign government, and specific things about what we were 24 doing and descriptions of things about us was released at a time I was investigating
25 people that had killed Americans and were very interested in probably harming more

1 Americans and now to include myself. So, yes, I was very upset by it.

2 Q So those are pretty serious?

3 A That was not a happy day.

4 Q And that sounds like a pretty serious leak. But even leaks in -- I don't want

5 to say lesser cases, but cases that don't necessarily involve counterterrorism, that can still

6 potentially impact the case.

7 It can also impact how agents work together on a case, right? Could it

8 potentially sow distress among a case team?

9 A Yeah, I think that's fair.

10 Q Okay. When a leak occurs, does the FBI conduct an investigation to 11 determine what happened?

12 A The FBI, amongst many, the executive branch entities will do that

13 investigation. But yes.

14 Q Okay. And that investigation sometimes takes -- could take a long time to 15 complete, right?

16 A Correct.

17 Q And while that investigation is ongoing, it's possible that the person or the 18 persons who did the leaking, if they still have access to the information, could continue to 19 leak more information, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. So there are circumstances in which a concern about a leak might

22 justify removing an investigative team, for example, to protect the integrity of the

23 investigation?

24 A Yeah, in a general sense I could see that happening.

25 Q Okay. And ultimately when the FBI or whoever is investigating the leak

1 determines the source of the leak, there are likely to be ramifications for the individual
2 involved, correct?
3 A Correct.
4 Q For example, somebody who leaks sensitive information to the media could 5 lose his or her security clearance, right?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And FBI employees are required to maintain a security clearance to do their 8 jobs, right?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Do you know if IRS investigators are likewise required to maintain a security 11 clearance to do their jobs?
12 A I don't know, but I would assume so.
13 Q Okay. So if they are, if someone is at risk of losing his or her clearance and,
14 accordingly, his or her job, then it would make sense for them to try to take steps to 15 prevent that from happening, correct?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Moving on, are you familiar with the term "sensitive investigative matter"?
18 A I am.
19 Q Sometimes abbreviated as a SIM, correct?
20 A Uh-huh.
21 Q What's your understanding of what a SIM is?
22 A SIM is a category of or a designation that we give to certain investigative 23 matters that put a higher level of scrutiny or oversight approvals, process in motion.
24 Q Are you familiar with the FBI's Domestic Investigations and Operations
25 Guide?

1 A I am.

2 Q Sometimes referred to as the DIOG, correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Can you explain for the record what the DIOG is?

5 A DIOG is based upon the Attorney General guidelines that dictate how the FBI

6 does what it does and our authorities. The DIOG then goes into more granular detail on

7 how we do things, the process of doing things, and then the corresponding authorities

8 that we need to do the things we do.

9 Q I'm going to introduce section 10 of the DIOG. This is the section on

10 sensitive investigative matters. And I should say I think the DIOG itself -- the current 11 DIOG is law enforcement sensitive. This is the 2021 version, which is available online.

12 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 9

13 Was marked for identification.]

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q And I'm not going to ask you about the whole thing. I think it's 17 pages as 16 printed.

17 A Okay.

18 Q Okay. Just on the very first page, under "Sensitive Investigative Matters,"

19 the overview section, that very first paragraph on that first page says that: "Certain

20 investigative matters should be brought to the attention of FBI management and

21 Department of Justice officials because of the possibility of public notoriety and 22 sensitivity."

23 Do you see where it says that?

24 A I do.

25 Q What's your understanding of what "public notoriety and sensitivity" means?

1 A I think things that would, if the general public knew we were doing them,
2 would raise concern.
3 Q And I want to be clear here. This says that -- this sentence says certain 4 matters should be brought to the attention of management. It does not say that they
5 require additional approval from management, right?
6 A It does not say that.
7 Q Okay. It does. And then it says: "Assessments and predicated
8 investigations involving 'sensitive investigative matters'" do have "special approval and 9 reporting requirements," right?
10 A You have now lost me. Where are we on this?
11 Q The second sentence of the first paragraph.
12 A Okay. Yes.
13 Q Continues on, and it defines -- under 10.1.2.1, there's the definition of a
14 sensitive investigative matter, and I'm just going to summarize it quickly.
15 Among other things, it says members of the news media, religious and domestic 16 political organizations, academic -- matters with an academic nexus. And it also says the 17 activities of a domestic public official or domestic political candidate and, quote, "any 18 other matter which, in the judgment of the official authorizing the assessment, should be 19 brought to the attention of FBI HQ and other DOJ officials."
20 Do you see where it says that?
21 A I do.
22 Q Is all of this generally consistent with your understanding of what a SIM is?
23 A It is.
24 Q Okay. And then in the next paragraph it says that, while the definition of a
25 SIM generally pertains to the behaviors and/or activities of the subject, target, or subject

1 matter, quote, "This definition does not, however, prohibit a determination that the 2 status, involvement, or impact on a particular witness or victim would make the 3 Assessment or predicated investigation a SIM," right?
4 A Uh-huh.
5 Q So, in other words, a matter could be classified as a SIM even if the target is 6 not -- the subject of the investigation is not necessarily a protected person. It's if one of 7 the witnesses or somebody that's potentially involved in it could be enough to trigger the 8 SIM designation. Is that fair to say?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Okay. Who actually designates a matter as a SIM?
11 A Yeah, that's a bureaucratic question. I think the authority, depending on 12 what the case type is, resolves at different levels.
13 I think, with everything, it comes into a first-line employee, a special agent, an 14 intelligence analyst, or other employee. They recognize this as a potential.
15 Sometimes it's very clear-cut. So then they look within the updated version of 16 DIOG and make a decision and put it into, like, essentially a chart and say, "Okay, I need 17 to do that," depending on what level of investigation it is.
18 And then other times that it's not as clear-cut. And so you may bring in your 19 supervisor. You may bring in our chief division counsel, which is the lawyers within a 20 field office. Sometimes that, the discussions go to headquarters, OGC. And at times
21 we discuss that with the U.S. Attorney's Office as well on occasion.
22 But the approval -- the actual approval really depends on what's the facts of the 23 individual case and then what's the case type and what we're being asked to do.
24 Q And regardless of who actually signs off on the designation or makes the 25 designation, the FBI is required to notify both FBI headquarters and DOJ leadership that

1 that designation has been made, right?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay. So the investigation into Hunter Biden was opened in

4 November 2018, correct?

5 A I don't have a -- I don't know what the date was.

6 Q Okay.

7 A I do know that it was years ago.

8 Q I'll represent to you that it was in -- according to the testimony from Mr.

9 Shapley, it was November 2018.

10 In 2018 -- in November of 2018, the Department of Justice was under the 11 leadership of first Attorney General Jeff Sessions and then Acting Attorney General Matt

12 Whitaker, correct?

13 A Give me the years again.

14 Q November 2018. So we're looking at -- it would have been right around the 15 midterm elections?

16 A Yeah, that sounds about right.

17 Q Okay. And both Attorney General Jeff Sessions and Acting Attorney

18 General Matt Whitaker were appointees of President Trump, correct?

19 A I believe so.

20 Q Okay. And then Attorney General Bill Barr was confirmed by the Senate in 21 February 2019, if you recall?

22 A That sounds about right.

23 Q Okay. And Attorney General Barr was appointed by President Trump as 24 well, correct?

25 A Yes.

1 Q So any notifications, for example, about a sensitive investigative matter,
2 2019, 2020, those would have ultimately gone up to Attorney General Barr, who was a
3 President Trump appointee, right?
4 A Yeah. I don't know the internal process of where the -- how that
5 notification goes within the Department.
6 Q But he was the head of the Justice Department?
7 A Yes.
8 Q I want to turn to section 10.1.3, which I realize this would be easier if it had 9 page numbers, but take that back to FBI leadership. It's on the -- I think it's on 10-4.
10 A Okay.
11 Q And about halfway through, so under section 10.1.3, there's a list of factors
12 regarding the authorization of SIMs.
13 And then immediately after that list of factors there's a short paragraph, and it
14 says: "In the context of a SIM, particular care should be taken when considering 15 whether the planned course of action is the least intrusive method if reasonable based 16 upon the circumstances of the investigation?"
17 Do you see that?
18 A I do.
19 Q What's your understanding of what that means?
20 A I think the difference with this one is "particular care." I mean, in general
21 least intrusive method is the way we work our cases. We want to do this as 22 unintrusively as we can. When it becomes a SIM, it's just highlighting that you need to 23 even do more for that, that it's more important.
24 Q Okay. I want to move on from the DIOG and turn to the Justice
25 Department Tax Division's Criminal Tax Manual. And I know this is probably not

1 something you've reviewed before because you are not a tax -- you don't do a lot of tax
2 investigations. But we'll have -- we'll walk you through the document.
3 A Sounds good.
4 Q And this will be exhibit 10.
5 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 10
6 Was marked for identification.]
7 [redacted]. I've got too much paper in front of me.
8 And we're going to look at 9.4.9.3.3.3, which is at the bottom of the page and on 9 to the next page. There's got to be a better way to do this.
10 [redacted] Which is the --
11 [redacted] Oh, I'm sorry. I actually just gave you the IRS. We're going to look 12 at both of them, but if I can pull those back.
13 Mr. Sobocinski. Okay.
14 [redacted] That is the IRS manual. This is the DOJ manual.
15 [redacted] What's that number?
16 [redacted]. So this will be exhibit 10 and the next one will be -- end up being 17 exhibit 11. I'm sorry about that.
18 BY [redacted]:
19 Q All right. So we are looking at section 1.05[3][b]. This is "Exclusive 20 Authority Retained by the Tax Division." And this is from the DOJ's Criminal Tax Manual.
21 So the section immediately above this -- this is 1.05[3][a] -- provides U.S.
22 Attorneys with authority to execute search warrants in tax investigations, but that's 23 qualified by the following section, which is 1.05[3][b], which provides that the Tax
24 Division, meaning the Tax Division of the Department of Justice, "retains exclusive 25 authority to approve a search warrant that is directed at offices, structures, or premises

1 owned or controlled by the following," and then there's a list.

2 Do you see that list?

3 A I do.

4 Q Okay. Number two on that list is a lawyer, correct?

5 A It is.

6 Q And number four on that list is a local, State, Federal, or foreign public

7 official or political candidate, correct?

8 A Correct.

9 Q And so in the case of both an attorney -- and I will represent to you that the

10 storage unit in Virginia was owned by an attorney, Hunter Biden -- or controlled by an

11 attorney or property owned by a political official -- such as, for example, a garage owned

12 by the then Vice President -- that would -- to execute a search warrant on either one of 13 those, the Tax Division would have to clear that search warrant, right?

14 A Yeah, I'm not going to comment on the specifics of the investigation.

15 However, yeah, Hunter -- my awareness is Hunter Biden is a lawyer and Joe Biden is the 16 President of the United States.

17 Q And if you turn the page to page 23 -- it's just the back side of the papers I've

18 given you -- it lists a number of factors that the Tax Division should consider before

19 approving a warrant. Do you see where it has that list that's in the paragraph itself?

20 A Got it.

21 Q The third factor is "whether the particular evidence at issue can be secured

22 without a warrant (i.e., whether a search warrant is the 'least intrusive means' to obtain 23 the evidence)" correct?

24 A It does.

25 Q And so the Tax Division is required to consider if, for example, a subpoena

1 that an individual could voluntarily comply with might be an option.

2 A Yeah, I think that would fit the definition of least intrusive.

3 Q Or I guess there are --

4 A Or less intrusive.

5 Q Or they could just ask for it without a subpoena, right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay. So under this the Tax Division is -- this is a guideline that's been in

8 place for a long time, and in the case of property owned by an attorney or a public official,

9 the Tax Division must sign off on it, and the Tax Division must consider less intrusive

10 means, right?

11 A It does appear to say that.

12 Q Okay. Now we're turn to the Tax Division's -- the IRS guidelines.

13 [Sobocinski Exhibit No. 11

14 Was marked for identification.]

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q And we're not going to spend a long time on this, but we're going to look

17 quickly at 9.4.9 -- I'm sorry, that is not where I'm going to go quickly -- at 9.4.9.3.3.3.

18 A Okay.

19 Q I think I can see why you get frustrated in tax meetings.

20 A Right. It's all becoming clear. Yeah.

21 Q This section -- have you ever reviewed this before?

22 A I have not.

23 Q Okay. So paragraph 1 of this section says that the DOJ, Tax Division retains

24 exclusive authority to approve search warrants directed at offices, structures, or premises

25 owned or controlled by a lawyer or a Federal official, among others, right?

1 A Okay. Where is that on this?

2 Q So that is on -- we have the wrong number in front of us.

3 A Okay.

4 Q I will represent to you that the IRS manual mirrors the Tax Division Code.

5 And actually we'll come back to this because there's a line that I do not have printed off

6 here.

7 A Okay.

8 Q Sorry.

9 All right. You would agree in general that property owned by an attorney, for 10 example, there are additional factors to consider beyond just probable cause when 11 seeking a search warrant?

12 A In a general sense, yes.

13 Q In a general sense.

14 And the Tax Division in particular has to consider less intrusive means?

15 A Outlined in these memos -- or in these manuals, yes.

16 Q Okay. And that's because searches of attorneys actually present particular 17 challenges, right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q For example, it might involve coming into contact with material that's 20 protected by attorney-client privilege, right?

21 A Correct.

22 Q And can you explain briefly what your understanding is of attorney-client

23 privilege material?

24 A Yeah. It's protected information that is restricted -- you know, that is

25 protected. It is only the attorney and his client and then other people can get -- can be

1 included in that.

2 But from an investigative standpoint we -- there may be needs to get that type of

3 information. That information may be included in a larger gathering of a bulk of 4 information. And so there are processes that we apply to preserve that protection

5 when we obtain it.

6 Q And is it problematic if an agent working on a case is exposed to material

7 that's protected by attorney-client privilege?

8 A Yeah. From an FBI perspective, if an ongoing case and he was exposed to 9 it, yes, there would be issues with that, administrative issues with that.

10 Q Okay. That attorney -- or I'm sorry -- that agent could potentially be 11 removed from the investigation. Is that right?

12 A I think that's one logical step.

13 Q Okay. And if the prosecutor on a case is inadvertently exposed to 14 attorney-client protected information, that's also potentially problematic, right?

15 A I would think so.

16 Q It's possible that that attorney -- that prosecutor might be removed from the 17 case, correct?

18 A Yeah, I think so.

19 Q And it's possible that, I guess worst-case scenario, that a case actually could 20 be dismissed or potentially charges not brought because of that, right?

21 A Yeah, I believe so.

22 Q Okay. So you mentioned that there are specific steps that you take to

23 prevent against the risk of exposure to attorney-client privilege material. And is it fair to 24 say that the FBI takes this pretty seriously?

25 A Yes.

1 Q So, for one example, if -- even if -- the first option is likely to pursue a less
2 intrusive means in a search warrant, correct?
3 A Correct.
4 Q So, for example, even if a prosecutor has probable cause to seek a search
5 warrant, the prosecutor might instead go with a subpoena or just ask the attorney to 6 produce the information so that presumably that attorney will know it's privileged and 7 can remove it from the production?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And even -- and if the prosecutor determines that a search warrant is 10 necessary, the FBI and the Department of Justice then might create a filter team, right?
11 A Correct.
12 Q And what's your understanding of what a filter team is?
13 A So depending on what the process was to get the documents, it would come 14 to a group of attorneys and/or FBI employees, agents, and others that are separated from 15 the case team.
16 And so they will get those -- the information. They obviously can review
17 the -- whatever the means of what we're looking for, the affidavit, the items of interest.
18 But then they also have a general understanding of what would look like attorney-client
19 material.
20 They would work through it. So essentially then you have two bulk -- two 21 groupings of items. One is agreed that it is not attorney-client privilege, and then the 22 second item is then potential. And then there's -- and I don't know what that next 23 review is -- but then there is yet another review or two to confirm to agree.
24 I think it's then passed to potentially opposing counsel. They talk about it. And 25 then in the times in an ongoing trial I think this can come up again and those

1 determinations can be relooked at.

2 Q Can this process sometimes take some time?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And sometimes it can take a lot of time?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Because I think you just talked through about five or six different steps,

7 correct?

8 A Correct.

9 Q And the goal of this process is to ensure that any privileged information is 10 sequestered, correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q This is a pretty typical process when a search warrant is executed for 13 property belonging to an attorney, correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q There's nothing unusual about it?

16 A No.

17 Q And the goal is not to slow down the case, right?

18 A Yeah. This is a mandated process that we have to go through.

19 Q Okay. The goal, as I said, is to protect privileged information?

20 A Correct.

21 Q All right. I want to get back now to something that you talked a little bit

22 about in the earlier hour, but I want to explore it a little more.

23 This investigation has been fairly prominent in the press. Is that fair to say?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And just taking a step back, if you had to put a number on it, how many

1 investigations do you think you've worked on during your time with the Bureau? Is it
2 hundreds, thousands?
3 A It would be -- I've touched thousands of cases.
4 Q Okay. In your experience, has this investigation received more press
5 attention than others you've worked on?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Can you -- do you have anything further to say on that?
8 A Yeah. I think that this investigation, without going into specifics of the 9 investigation, is something that people regularly bring up to me. I am outward facing.
10 I go to media events. I work with State and local partners. People talk and bring this 11 case up. And then in talking with other FBI employees, SACs in particular, they get 12 similar questions about this.
13 Q Have the names of the FBI employees working on this case been made
14 public?
15 A They have.
16 Q And has that had -- is it common for employees' names or agents' names to 17 be made public?
18 A Yes and no. I mean, we are affiants on various processes that go into court.
19 You get to a certain level like myself where I am giving press releases and press
20 conferences. But as a general rule we're not in the media. Most of my 25 years
21 nobody would know who I was.
22 Q In fact, it's fair to say that -- well, thinking about kind of line agents as 23 opposed to supervisors. But the FBI generally works to keep agents' names out of the 24 public eye?
25 A Correct.

1 Q Why is that?

2 A There's a variety of reasons, but I think the main ones are our anonymity of,
3 like, our faces. We're investigating cases, and so if people know who we are and it's 4 during the workday, they kind of know we're doing something for what we do.

5 And then, secondarily, that's becoming more and more prevalent, is there has 6 been a massive increase in personal threats against FBI personnel and the facilities.

7 Q And on that note, in this particular case have the agents or other employees
8 working on it suffered any personal impact based on the fact that their names have been 9 in the press and that this is a very public-facing investigation?

10 A I'm not going to talk about individual people, but in general, yes. There's a 11 large grouping of people, as I talked about earlier, that their names are now out there,
12 and then on social media things are being directed at them. We can handle that. But 13 when their identities, their families, things towards their families, that has absolutely 14 increased.

15 Q And so in this case individuals' families have actually been the target of 16 threats?

17 A I'm not going to get into the specifics of that. I mean, like, there's legal 18 definitions of threats and all that other stuff. I will say the sense of the employees and 19 especially the sense of their families is, yes, they feel threatened.

20 Q Do you have concerns for their safety?

21 A I do.

22 Q Are you taking any steps -- and I don't want to compromise any law 23 enforcement protected information -- but are you taking steps to protect your 24 employees? Do you feel the need to do that?

25 A Yeah, them and family members.

1 Q So there are very specific things that you're doing to ensure the safety of 2 those involved?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Okay. And your name has also been in the press. Your name was on the 5 letter that Chairman Jordan publicly released. Have you personally faced any impacts
6 from this investigation?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Are you comfortable describing any of those?
9 A You know, as a general sense of -- you know, we do this job for a reason.
10 We are -- you know, I have a goal. I talk about the process. I'm trying to move things
11 forward. That's a -- it sounds very administrative and bureaucratic, but it's not.
12 I mean, I wanted to do this job to protect people in an apolitical way to keep this 13 country safe. And that changed throughout the career of what that looked like and 14 expanded into counterterrorism and more worldwide operations, and that was a great 15 opportunity that the Bureau gave me and I'm proud to do it.
16 But for the first time in recent years I have people coming up to me recognizing 17 me or showing up at events and questioning my personal ethics and the ethics of the 18 team and the ethics of the FBI. It's just different. We can handle that. Like I said, I'm 19 comfortable with that. It's when you start looking at family members that it becomes 20 more disconcerting.
21 Q Do you have any concerns for your safety?
22 A Sure.
23 Q Do you have concerns for the safety of your family?
24 A I do.
25 [redacted]. We can go off the record.

1 [Recess.]

2 [redacted]. Back on the record. It's 2:23.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q You mentioned that Shapley's email wasn't what you considered

5 contemporaneous notes, and you said you didn't know -- you didn't see him taking notes

6 at the meeting. Is that right?

7 A I don't have a remembrance of him with a -- of anybody with a laptop.

8 Q But if he had contemporaneous notes, would that be more reliable than this

9 email?

10 A I don't know.

11 Q But you did take issue with the terminology "contemporaneous." And so I

12 guess my question is, if there was a snapshot in time, like if he had notes, is that

13 something that you would find more valuable than his email?

14 A Not necessarily. They might be the exact same thing. I just don't know.

15 And you just kept using "contemporaneous notes." I just wanted the record to 16 show that it was an email, and it appeared to be hours after that meeting. And so for

17 me that was not contemporaneous --

18 Q But if it were --

19 A -- and it didn't appear to be notes.

20 Q -- if it were contemporaneous, it would be better?

21 A No, I don't know.

22 Q Do you think it was reasonable for any attendee in the 10/7 meeting to 23 conclude that U.S. Attorney Weiss wasn't the deciding official?

24 A Yeah, I can only speak for myself, and I believed him to be the -- I went in 25 believing he was the deciding official, and I left believing the same.

1 Q But the question was, do you believe it would be reasonable for other
2 attendees in the meeting to determine otherwise?
3 A Yeah, I'm not going to comment on what they -- I don't know what they 4 heard, speculate on that, or how they perceived the conversation.
5 Q Right. But if the tax years couldn't be charged in 2014 and 2015, and that
6 was announced at the 10/7 meeting, doesn't that call into question whether David Weiss
7 had ultimate authority?
8 A You know, I'm not going to comment on ongoing discussions of this case. I
9 will say in a general sense the meetings I'm involved with are discussing things about 10 cases throughout them, and you're not at the end until you're at the end.
11 Q You said a number of times that the case was moving very slowly, you had 12 concerns about that, that your focus was bringing the case to resolution. You also said
13 that you talk to David Weiss all the time.
14 So I'm wondering, what did you do to bring the case to resolution as the top FBI
15 official here?
16 A So without going into specifics about this particular case, what I do in every 17 case is try to identify if there are any barriers or things that need to be done that's within 18 the responsibilities of FBI Baltimore, which is what I -- which incorporates Delaware, and 19 if there are, identify them, assign folks to work that, and then move that forward and get 20 the prosecution the information they needed to make that decision.
21 Q But you were concerned about the pace, and you were concerned about 22 bringing the case to resolution, and you talk to Weiss all the time, but you never had 23 discussions with David Weiss about bringing the case in D.C. and what the impediments 24 were to doing that?
25 A That was David's decision to make. And whatever decision he made that

1 was going to get us there, that's the decision I was going to live with.

2 Q But you never had discussions with Mr. Weiss about his efforts to bring the

3 case in D.C.?

4 A I'm not going to discuss my -- you know, the ongoing deliberative discussions

5 about this. But it is David -- I new it was David Weiss' decision to make that decision.

6 It wasn't mine.

7 Chairman Jordan. It was his decision, but did you recommend it? What did you

8 recommend?

9 I see how investigations work. You guys are doing the investigating. You're

10 looking at the facts, the evidence, and you're making recommendations to prosecutors.

11 Did you recommend that he go to D.C. particularly about these particular tax years that 12 [redacted] is talking about?

13 Mr. Sobocinski. I --

14 [redacted] I'm sorry. He can answer that question if there's a way to do so

15 without getting into particular deliberations around charging decisions or the ongoing

16 investigation.

17 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, I recommended he make whatever decision with 18 whatever venue he needed to do to move it.

19 [redacted]. But if you're so focused about bringing the case to resolution, it's

20 hard to believe you didn't have a conversation with him like, "David, what are you going

21 to do? Are you going to bring it in D.C.? Are you going to bring it in Delaware? Are

22 you going to bring it in California?"

23 Chairman Jordan. Or all three.

24 Mr. Sobocinski. My conversations were, like, bring it, and I'm in control of giving

25 him the information he needed to bring it, and it was up to him to bring it where he felt

1 he had the best opportunity or the venue to do that.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q I mean, at some point -- and it was way earlier than October 7th, 2022 -- the

4 investigators have told us that there were no other investigative actions needed to bring

5 the case.

6 So if that's the case, then for you to bring the case to resolution it would seem

7 that you would be talking to U.S. Attorney Weiss and trying to figure out, like, where's the 8 case going to be brought, since nothing else has to be done.

9 A Not going to get into the weeds back and forth with David Weiss. My thing

10 was, "Do you need anything from the FBI that would help you make your prosecutorial

11 decision?" And it's with him.

12 Q Like, if you're hyperfocused on bringing the case to resolution, if you're

13 hyperfocused on the fact that the case was moving slowly, and you talked to Weiss all the

14 time, it just seems hard to believe that you didn't know they brought the case to D.C. and 15 it was denied, that they brought the case to California and it was denied.

16 A Is there a question?

17 Q Yeah. It's hard to believe. Like, so you have no recollection of talking to 18 David Weiss about bringing the case to D.C., having it be denied? No recollection of 19 talking to David Weiss about bringing the case to the Central District of California and 20 having it be denied?

21 A Once again, I'm not going to discuss the internal deliberative process. But I

22 will state, once again, I believed, and I still believe, David Weiss had the authority to bring

23 the charges.

24 I, as the SAC for the FBI, was responsible for providing him information and

25 evidence for the things that I was involved in. And if there were things he needed as it

1 related to whether he was going to make the prosecution decision and the venue he was
2 going to choose, that was up to him.
3 Q Do you remember when you came on board in 2021 there was -- we've been 4 told David Weiss was hyperfocused on the statute of limitations running out, and he
5 admonished Lesley Wolf in front of, we're told, you and other people that you need to 6 bring this case, we need to bring this case before the statute expires.
7 Do you have any recollection of that?
8 [redacted] And we've already gone over the fact that he can't get into specifics of 9 any internal deliberations that may or may not have occurred about investigative and 10 prosecutorial decisionmaking on this case. It's the same response as the last time you
11 asked that question.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Yeah, the question is, I'm just asking, do you remember the Weiss-Wolf
14 discussion in front of you about the statute of limitations expiring?
15 A And I'm going to be consistent. I'm not going to talk about the deliberative
16 discussions we had on -- which is now -- which is an open investigation, which I'm still 17 leading, and I still have a team that's out there doing this to move this forward to get --
18 Q Isn't there a way to bring charges on these -- on the statutes that have 19 expired?
20 A I'm not going to -- that's a decision for the U.S. Attorney's Office and IRS to 21 discuss whether things have expired or not and whether you're allowed to use that in 22 court right now, whether it's a legal charge.
23 Q Okay. You said you were doing your best to push the case forward. Can 24 you just tell us, like, specifically what you were doing, other than attend meetings? Like,
25 what were you doing from a leadership standpoint to get your -- to get this initiative

1 moving, to bring this case to a close?

2 A Once again, I'm not going to talk about the deliberative process. But it's a

3 general sense of -- as the chairman mentioned, I'll say -- I'm going to say it again -- which

4 is I had a -- we, the FBI, had a role in this investigation.

5 I asked -- I have a clear understanding of what that role was. I asked if there was

6 things that needed to be done within what the FBI's purview was, made in general

7 communication about if there was anything needed, and that's what that was.

8 And so things that needed to be followed on with other entities or decisions by

9 other people, I wish the FBI SAC had that authority to make things happen, but,

10 unfortunately, we don't.

11 Chairman Jordan. When did you first learn of the FD-1023 form?

12 [redacted] That's also outside of the scope of what he's authorized to get into.

13 Chairman Jordan. I'm not asking him to get into it.

14 I'm just asking, when did you learn of it?

15 [redacted] And I'm indicating that he is not authorized to answer questions

16 about the 1023.

17 Mr. Weiss has said in a recent letter that that is part of an ongoing investigation,

18 and so the Department is not able to authorize this witness or any other witness to speak

19 about anything having to do with a 1023 at this point.

20 But, again, the Department is happy to continue these discussions, and to the 21 extent we can share additional information at some future date, we are happy to 22 continue talking.

23 Chairman Jordan. Can I ask this? Have you reviewed the 1023 form?

24 Mr. Sobocinski. As counsel just stated, I'm not able to answer that question.

25 BY [redacted]:

1 Q Do you know the answer or do you -- do you know the answer to that
2 question?
3 A As counsel stated, I'm not at liberty to discuss that 1023.
4 Q You don't have to discuss it by saying you know the answer to the question.
5 A You're asking for a response that means -- you're asking me a question.
6 You're asking for a response. That's a discussion I cannot --
7 Q Well, either you read it or you didn't read it, and then you know the answer
8 to that question.
9 A Yeah, I'm not at liberty to talk about that.
10 Chairman Jordan. What about the laptop? When did you first become aware 11 of that?
12 Mr. Sobocinski. Once again, there is an ongoing criminal investigation and I'm 13 not at liberty to discuss that.
14 Chairman Jordan. How about the -- was the Baltimore Field Office in any way
15 involved with the memorandum from the Richmond Field Office regarding radical
16 traditional Catholics?
17 Mr. Sobocinski. Not that I'm aware of. And -- yeah, not -- what are you 18 referencing?
19 Chairman Jordan. It's been in press reports about the memorandum put out of 20 the domain perspective of the Richmond Field Office. Other field offices we've 21 subsequently learned were involved. Originally we were told by the FBI it was just the 22 Richmond Field Office. I'm just curious if Baltimore had any involvement with the 23 development of that product.
24 Mr. Sobocinski. I have no awareness into that.
25 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Any communications you had with David Weiss or anyone involved with the 3 10/7 meeting about the veracity of the whistleblower's testimony?

4 A No. I'm not going to get into, like, specifics of what that looked like. But

5 in general, regardless of what they said, usually they were doing -- somebody was

6 providing information to motivate folks. And so for me it was the results of it. What

7 do I -- it's out there. Something is there. How's that going to affect us? How do we

8 move forward?

9 Q But you didn't have any discussions about the veracity of the testimony

10 being true or false?

11 A Yeah, I'm not going to get into the specifics of that.

12 Q And who, again, did you have those discussions with among the 10/7

13 meeting participants?

14 A You're saying -- by your question, you're saying I answered that I had 15 discussions. I'm not saying that. I'm saying I'm not going to be discussing that, those 16 aspects of that meeting.

17 Q I thought you did tell us that you had discussions, at least with David Weiss,

18 about the whistleblower testimony. Certainly you've had it with ASAC [redacted].

19 A The purpose of that meeting -- part of that meeting was to discuss the 20 whistleblower. When you say specifics of it --

21 Q At the 10/7 meeting?

22 A Correct. When you say specifics, I'm not going to get into specifically what I

23 said or didn't say and with who and with the team.

24 Did I -- obviously, I've said in general that's what at least my intent of that meeting

25 was because I was concerned that it was jeopardizing what was and continues to be an

1 ongoing criminal investigation. And so I was looking to get those folks together so that 2 we could attempt to continue to get a resolution on that.
3 Q But you're not providing any testimony here today that you raised veracity
4 issues with anyone following the publication of the whistleblower testimony?
5 A Yeah, I'm not going to go into specifics of what I did or didn't say in that 6 meeting like that.
7 Q Are you aware of anyone calling into question the veracity of the testimony?
8 A Yeah, I'm not going to speculate on other people's opinions.
9 Q No. I'm just asking if you're aware.
10 A I'm not going to speculate on that.
11 Q So you're not aware?
12 A I'm not going to speculate on that.
13 Q I'm not asking you to speculate. I'm saying, are you aware of anyone calling 14 into question the veracity of the testimony?
15 A Want to go off the record?
16 [Discussion off the record.]
17 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, as we've talked about earlier, this is all over the media.
18 So I've seen media reporting on whether this was or wasn't true. And so, yeah, I'm 19 aware of those conversations.
20 Chairman Jordan. Did you have any conversations with U.S. Attorney Weiss
21 about -- we briefly touched on this, I think, the first hour -- about the two pieces -- the 22 two letters he sent to the committee, the June 7th letter and the June 30th letter, where 23 he said he had ultimate authority to determine where, when, and whether to file
24 charges? And then he follows up 3 weeks later and says, I can only do charges in -- bring 25 charges in the Delaware U.S. attorney's district.

1 Did you have any conversation with him about those conflicting things? And it's 2 been in the press that the Attorney General said one thing. David Weiss seems to 3 indicate two different things there. Any discussions with Mr. Weiss about that issue?
4 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not going to go into specifics. However, I think the 5 Attorney General, David Weiss, and these two letters to my -- you know, and I just saw 6 them -- all fit. I don't see differences in the three of those.

1 [2:39 p.m.]

2 Chairman Jordan. But that's not what I asked. I said, did you have any 3 discussions about what Mr. Weiss conveyed to the committee, what's been reported in 4 the press about this concern, whether he could bring charges anywhere, when, where,
5 and whether, or whether he couldn't and was limited to his U.S. attorney's district?

6 Mr. Sobocinski. So I -- as to the letters, I'll take the first piece -- the letters, I
7 never had conversations with David about his letters. Beforehand, he may have made --
8 I'm not -- in a general sense, he may have made reference to them. I saw them in the 9 media like a lot of other people.

10 And then the second piece is his -- in a general sense, he's been consistent with 11 he's had authority to bring this case, where the venue -- whatever venue that is, if he 12 chooses to bring the case forward.

13 Chairman Jordan. Well, it took him three letters to tell us that he had -- you
14 know, to be consistent. So, I mean, I've done a lot of correspondence with the agencies
15 over the years, 17 years. [redacted] and I have written the DOJ and the FBI tons of time, and 16 this was the most unusual correspondence. So it's been anything but consistent. You
17 can describe it that way, but that is certainly not the case. Because he wrote a third 18 letter to Senator Graham and said something different in that letter as well 2 weeks after 19 the June 30th letter.

20 And I'm just asking, did you have a discussion with him regarding -- not the letter 21 specifically, but about that issue and whether he had been consistent and whether he had 22 this authority? Even the Attorney General said in his August 11th statement, as I said
23 before, David Weiss has always had the authority to do this. So that's what -- I keep 24 coming back to that fundamental question: If he always had the authority, why does he 25 need it now?

1 And I can't -- you can't give us an answer. You've been trying, but -- maybe
2 you've been trying, but you haven't given us one. I want to know what the answer to
3 that question is. And we'll ask the Attorney General when he's here in a week and a
4 half, but I kind of like to know what you know.
5 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, I refer to the -- I think the Attorney General is an
6 appropriate person. The FBI does not have a role in that designation.
7 Chairman Jordan. As I've said before, Mr. Weiss would be permitted to continue 8 his investigation, take any investigative steps he wanted, and make the decision whether 9 to prosecute in any district.
10 Well, obviously he didn't have that authority or he wouldn't need special counsel
11 authority. So how is it all consistent?
12 Three different things he's said to Congress, two to our committee, one to Senator
13 Graham. And then this statement on August 11th. It makes no sense to anyone with 14 common sense. And I'm asking the guy who ran the investigation. And you say it's 15 consistent? It's anything but.
16 Mr. Sobocinski. So I appreciate that. But it is -- I felt and still believe that David 17 Weiss had the authority to bring a case forward, whether -- what determination or 18 what --
19 Chairman Jordan. Well, that's different. That's different. A case forward is 20 different than I can bring a case in any jurisdiction I want to bring it. That's different.
21 Mr. Sobocinski. Then I'll use your words. I still think and thought then and 22 throughout this investigation that he had the authority delegated to him to bring this case
23 forward in any prosecutorial district within the Federal system of the United States of 24 America.
25 Chairman Jordan. Do you think it was -- do you think that he needed special

1 counsel designation?

2 Mr. Sobocinski. That's a decision that you're going to have to refer to the DOJ on 3 that one.

4 Chairman Jordan. And we will. We'll ask them. But we have you here today.

5 I want to ask you. You've been willing to answer about the pace of the investigation,

6 given us somewhat of an answer on another question about how the plea agreement

7 worked.

8 I'm asking you: Do you think the special counsel designation was warranted

9 after 4.5 years?

10 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not a lawyer, and I don't think it's appropriate for me to give 11 my opinion on that. It's an ongoing case that I'm continuing to work.

12 Chairman Jordan. And that's to speed up the resolution of this case, which you

13 talked about numerous times, or slow it down?

14 Mr. Sobocinski. My goal is to make this thing go fast. If that's one thing you get

15 after this testimony is I am trying to move this as fast as we can using all of the effort

16 we -- all of our authorities to do that in a professional and apolitical way.

17 Chairman Jordan. Has your involvement and your investigation changed now

18 that there's a new distinction for the U.S. attorney as special counsel? You guys still 19 investigating?

20 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm going to have to go off the record on that.

21 [Discussion held off the record.]

22 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, without getting into specifics, I still have -- I'm still leading 23 a team of agents that have an ongoing investigation.

24 Chairman Jordan. So 6 weeks ago, there was a plea agreement, which would

25 indicate the investigation was complete. Both sides decided here we're going to take

1 this to the court. Plea agreement.

2 What new things are you investigating?

3 Mr. Sobocinski. I am not at liberty to discuss the ongoing investigation.

4 [redacted] You ever discuss with David Weiss what a mess this case has 5 become?

6 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not going get into direct -- you know, I'm not going to go into

7 the details of what David Weiss and I did or didn't say as this thing's moving forward.

8 [redacted] I mean, you're trying to bring the case to a close you said, but you

9 have a case involving the President of the United State's son. It just seems that this case

10 presents some unique challenges that have never really been dealt with before by a

11 Justice Department. And just asking about your discussions with David Weiss about 12 navigating that.

13 [redacted] And he, the witness, is not authorized to talk about the ongoing case, 14 his discussions and deliberations on the ongoing case.

15 BY [redacted]:

16 Q Are you happy with, are you proud with the way the case been conducted 17 from an investigative standpoint?

18 A I'm not going talk about the details. When I'm talking about the 19 performance of my employees, yeah, I am -- they have worked hard on this matter.

20 They continue to work hard, regardless of what obstacle has come in front of them, with 21 potentially great personal issues being brought up. So yeah, I'm proud of their actions.

22 Q A lot of the investigative techniques that they tried to implement were

23 blocked by, whether it be the Tax Division or the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware. Do

24 you have concerns about that?

25 A I'm not going to agree or disagree with that statement. I'm not at liberty to 1 talk about the ongoing investigative matter.

2 Q Do you think the volume of issues raised about that type of thing has been a

3 little bit larger than any other case you've been involved with?

4 A No.

5 Q So this is an ordinary case for you?

6 A You want to talk about cases, I'll talk about what we're doing in a general

7 sense every day. I mean, I've got hundreds of cases that are going on.

8 Q Having the U.S. attorney like tip off the defense counsel --

9 A And so I'm continually managing this. And so my team is continually

10 managing it. Let's look at today, or the last week, I've had guns pulled on agents. I've

11 had agents that are going into buildings this morning attempting to arrest -- no, this is

12 important. You're asking me how this is in context of what my life looks like and what

13 this office looks like. That's what we're doing every day. I have folks that are going

14 after foreign nation-state actors, spies that are trying to do bad things with us today, this

15 week. We're doing those things.

16 And so, for me, I think that's important that this is in perspective of what my office

17 and the team in this office are doing every day. And so, yes, this is important, but it is

18 also important to recognize everything else that they're doing and putting their, you

19 know, families' lives, their personal safety, you know, out there every day.

20 Chairman Jordan. You ever have a case where the subject of the investigation's

21 defense counsel tells you if you continue to press charges, they're going to put the 22 President of the United States on the witness stand?

23 Mr. Sobocinski. You know, as it relates to other cases, no. And I don't know

24 that -- you know, as it relates to this case, I don't know anything about that.

25 [redacted]. You haven't had any discussions with defense counsel, have you?

1 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm going go off the record.

2 [Discussion held off the record.]

3 Mr. Sobocinski. No, I have not.

4 Chairman Jordan. Were you aware that defense counsel had made that threat?

5 Mr. Sobocinski. I had no direct conversations with defense counsel.

6 Chairman Jordan. We didn't ask that. I said, are you aware that that

7 was -- that was something they had conveyed to the U.S. Attorney's Office?

8 [redacted] To the extent that is true, which we are not saying whether it is or

9 whether it isn't, but that relates directly to the ongoing case, and he's not authorized to 10 talk about it.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q You'd acknowledge notifying defense counsel of a pending search warrant

13 would be a problem in an ordinary investigation?

14 A I'm not going to talk about the specifics of this case, but there are moments

15 in time. Every case is different. And there are times I've done that and been aware of 16 that previously.

17 Q That you've notified defense counsel in advance of an upcoming search

18 warrant? I mean, the whole purpose of a search warrant, correct me if I'm wrong, I'm

19 not an FBI official, but the whole purpose of a search warrant is to go in and grab

20 evidence because you're afraid it's going to get away. Someone's going to throw it

21 away, right?

22 A The purpose is to gather evidence, correct.

23 Q Right. But you're concerned that you can't just ask for it voluntarily. You

24 need to go in and take it, right? That's why you have to go to court and get a search

25 warrant.

1 A The search warrant allows us to legally get evidence. Each situation is very
2 different. There are reasons why we may go through defense attorneys. There are 3 reasons why we go directly to the subject of cases. So each case is very different.
4 Q Okay. So as a general matter, you don't have any issue with notifying
5 defense counsel of a pending search warrant?
6 A As a general matter, I hope that the investigative team was reviewing the 7 facts of that particular investigation, and they are doing what they need to do to keep 8 agents safe as well as balancing getting the evidence we need.
9 [redacted]. Let's go off the record.
10 [Discussion held off the record.]
11 [redacted] Go back on the record.
12 Mr. Sobocinski. Sure.
13 BY [redacted]:
14 Q What can you tell us about the removal of the investigative team from the 15 case?
16 A I'm not going to talk about any administrative actions with this investigation.
17 And I'm not going to -- I'm also not stipulating that I know that that's true or not true.
18 Q Okay. Are you aware that Shapley and Ziegler have said that they've been 19 taken off the team?
20 A I've seen that in media reporting.
21 Q And have they been taken off the team?
22 A I'm not going to comment on administrative matters relating to this
23 investigation.
24 Q How does it work? The IRS has said that this is a DOJ decision. How does
25 it work, in theory, taking investigators off a case that don't belong to Justice Department

1 components?

2 A Yeah. In theory, I couldn't tell you that. I know from an FBI perspective, I

3 think I have sole authority on who I designate to be the investigators on cases. There's a

4 variety of reasons why or why not they would be on there, but I -- from the FBI's

5 perspective, I think that solely resides with me.

6 Q And the person you communicate with from IRS standpoint is Waldon. Is

7 that correct?

8 A Waldon is the correspon- -- was at the time the SAC for a certain amount of 9 time, but I'm -- and so he was my counterpart.

10 Q Did you have any communications with Waldon about taking Shapley and 11 Ziegler off the case?

12 A I'm going to go off the record on that.

13 [Discussion held off the record.]

14 Mr. Sobocinski. Yeah, I've had maybe three or four conversations with him. So

15 without getting into specifics, I think the last one would've -- I think the last time I talked

16 to him was that October meeting.

17 [redacted]

18 Q Okay. Do you have any idea why Lesley Wolf has been taken off the 19 pleadings?

20 A Once again, I'm not going to talk about ongoing personnel matters.

21 Q Do you know the answer?

22 A I'm not going to talk about ongoing personnel matters.

23 Q That's not the question. I said, do you know the answer? I guess you're 24 not going to answer my question, right?

25 A Based on guidance from the Department, I'm not allowed to discuss

1 ongoing --

2 Q I'm not asking you to discuss. I'm asking you if you know the answer. Do

3 you know why Lesley Wolf was taken off the pleadings?

4 A I don't -- you're asking me to -- I don't know that your statement is factually

5 correct.

6 Q Okay. Well, I don't think her name's on the pleadings, is she?

7 You -- sorry.

8 Chairman Jordan. In the Attorney General's statement on August 11th, you said

9 on Tuesday of that week, August 8th, Mr. Weiss advised me that in his judgment, his

10 investigation has reached a stage at which he should continue his work as special counsel

11 and asked to be so appointed. What stage of the investigation are you in?

12 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not at liberty to discuss where I am in this case. We've 13 acknowledged there's an ongoing criminal investigation.

14 Chairman Jordan. But that's not what the Attorney General said. He

15 said -- there's a statement David Weiss asked him about. He says we're in a stage where 16 I need to be special counsel.

17 I just would kind of like to know, are we in the beginning stage, in the middle

18 stage? Are we in the I don't know what's going on? What kind of stage are we in?

19 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not at liberty to discuss the ongoing investigation.

20 Chairman Jordan. You think you're close to being done?

21 Mr. Sobocinski. I'm not at liberty to discuss the ongoing case. But I will say, as

22 you've heard me say over and over again, I on behalf of the FBI and my team is doing

23 everything we can and using all of our resources to effectively investigate this case, bring

24 it forward to the Department of Justice, to the lawful person we think currently has that,

25 which is now special counsel. And we're doing everything we need to get there.

1 Chairman Jordan. I'm just curious. I think the country would like to know when
2 the Attorney General and the U.S. attorney, who is now special counsel, use the term
3 "stage," they'd like to know what stage we're in. But we'll have to wait for someone
4 else to give us that answer, I guess.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q In the October 7th notes, exhibit 1, I just want to be clear that my 7 understanding's correct. When Shapley writes that Weiss stated that he's not the 8 deciding person on whether charges are filed, you don't have a recollection of that being 9 said, correct?
10 A I'm sorry. We've gone through this one again. Can you point out here 11 which part you're talking about?
12 Q Yeah, it's on the exhibit 1.
13 A Yup.
14 Q Page 1.
15 A Yup.
16 Q Item No. 2.
17 A Yup.
18 Q Weiss stated that he is not the deciding person on whether charges are filed.
19 A As I think I've said almost as much as I've said I'd move this case forward,
20 that is not what I heard. I went into that meeting believing he had the authority, and I
21 have left that meeting believing he had the authority to bring charges.
22 Q But is it not what you heard or is it not what you remember?
23 A You have continually asked me in various ways of whether or not what my 24 perception of his authority was.
25 Q Right. Is that discussed at all or is this part of a meeting just --

1 A My perception of his authority was he had the authority to the bring 2 charges.
3 Q But at the 10/7 meeting, did this -- was this discussed or was this just not
4 part of the meeting? Are you surprised that that shows up in the notes?
5 A As it relates to this meeting and his authority, without going into 6 specific -- nothing was said in that meeting by anybody that led me to believe that David
7 Weiss did not have the authority to bring this case.
8 Q Was he talking about his authority in that meeting? Squarely in the scope
9 of the -- today's interview.
10 A Yeah. I -- it's kind of like, are we breathing air? We all were working 11 under the impression that he had the authority. Whether -- I don't have a memory of 12 that particular moment, bringing it up. But like I've said, I've talked to David quite a bit.
13 I talk to him regularly. And throughout that, I've assumed he's had and believe he has 14 authority.
15 Q I guess, last question I said was, did it surprise you that this showed up in the 16 notes, that you didn't remember it from the meeting? You said it was a long meeting
17 and, you know, it's two pages of notes. There's not that much stuff here.
18 A Once again, it's an email, 6, 7 -- 5 or 6 hours afterwards. I -- there was 19 nothing in that meeting that changed my belief that David Weiss had the authority to 20 bring this case forward.
21 Q Okay. But the question was: Are you surprised it showed up in the notes,
22 then, if you don't remember it being discussed at the meeting?
23 A Yeah, these aren't my notes. This is not my email.
24 [redacted] I think we're all done on our side.
25 Chairman Jordan. Thank you.

[redacted]. Go off the record.

[Recess.]

1 [2:57 p.m.]

2 [redacted] We're going to go back on the record. It's 2:57 p.m.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q You were asked I don't know if it was in the earlier hour or 2 hours ago at

5 this point, but if you had any discussion with anybody about the testimony that

6 Mr. Shapley gave?

7 A Yeah. Can I just go back to one thing, because as we just shifted here, I just

8 want to make it clear is that, you know, I've talked to David regularly. This is part of

9 what I do. I hope you would expect the SAC of the FBI to have regular conversations

10 with his U.S. Attorney counterpart.

11 And so when you asked for specific moments of time and specific things, all I'm

12 going to give you is that I, you know, unfortunately at this point in my career, you have

13 dozens of meetings. Something as significant as this would be memorable. I don't

14 remember a specific meeting, but I do not have any memory of David altering or changing

15 his ability or discussion about his ability or anybody in his office to have the authority to 16 bring this case forward. That's it.

17 Q Thank you for that.

18 You were asked earlier if you had discussions about Mr. Shapley's testimony. Do

19 you recall that conversation?

20 A I do.

21 Q Okay. And I think the statement was made that if you totally disagreed

22 with it or if you thought it was offensive, you and him would probably would have had a

23 discussion about that. Do you remember that statement being made?

24 A Yeah, in general.

25 Q Is it fair to say that following -- after you learned about Mr. Shapley's

1 testimony, your number one concern was the integrity of the case and the ability for it to
2 move forward?
3 A Combined with, you know, the morale and safety of my folks, yeah.
4 Q And that was my second question. And your secondary concern, maybe
5 equal concern, was the safety of your employees?
6 A Correct.
7 Q So that was your real focus, not the veracity of the testimony?
8 A Correct.
9 Q Okay. You were asked some questions about statements allegedly made 10 by a defense attorney --
11 A Yes.
12 Q -- in this prior -- just a couple minutes ago. Without getting into those 13 statements specifically, would you agree that the job of the defense attorney is to 14 zealously represent their clients?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And in your experience, are defense attorneys sometimes unpleasant to 17 work with?
18 A Yes.
19 Q They can be jerks, right?
20 A Yes, they can.
21 Q Okay. And that's pretty standard. I'm not saying that all defense
22 attorneys are jerks, but it's standard that, you know, there may be headbutting?
23 A Yeah. Let's be fair, there are prosecutors that are jerks. So, yes, it's 24 very -- there are even -- I'll even admit FBI agents that might be jerks as well.
25 Q You were asked different questions about Lesley Wolf and whether she's still

1 assigned to the case or not. You are not a supervisor for Ms. Wolf, correct?

2 A I am not.

3 Q Okay. To the best of your knowledge, does Ms. Wolf primarily -- outside of 4 this case, does she primarily handle tax cases? Is that fair to say?

5 A I'm not aware of her role.

6 Q Okay. Do you know if Ms. Wolf has faced threats personally because of this

7 investigation?

8 A There has been greater interest in her and things about her.

9 Q Okay. So is it fair to say she may have concerns for her own safety?

10 A I think that's fair.

11 Q Okay. One --

12 A And let me -- you know, when you talk to the FBI about threats, it's a very

13 legal definition and things like that. We -- without going into specifics, my office and the 14 FBI have done things and initiated things to ensure that she remains safe.

15 Q I want to turn quickly back to these June 7th and June 30th and July 10th

16 letters. And I don't want to talk through them in detail. I think we did that during my

17 first hour of questioning. But I did want to just note for the record that in this -- you had 18 said that you don't see inconsistencies between these letters, correct?

19 A Correct.

20 Q And I do want to note that in the June 30th letter, and we talked through

21 this earlier, that the first sentence of the first paragraph on the second page says that

22 the -- my charging authority is geographically limited. But then it does go on to discuss

23 his ability to obtain authority in other districts under that 28 U.S.C. Section 515, correct?

24 A It does.

25 Q And as we talked through earlier, that Section 515 authority is the special

1 attorney status, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And you said that you had no reason to disagree with his statement that he

4 would have authority -- he would be able to be granted that authority if he had so

5 requested it?

6 A Correct.

7 Q And you believe that to be a true statement?

8 A I do.

9 [redacted]. Thank you. We don't have anything further. We can go off the 10 record.

11 [Whereupon, at 3:03 p.m., the interview was adjourned.]

1 Certificate of Deponent/Interviewee

2

3

4 I have read the foregoing ____ pages, which contain the correct transcript of the

5 answers made by me to the questions therein recorded.

6

7

8

9 _____

10 Witness Name

11

12

13 _____

14 Date

15

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: RYESHIA HOLLEY

Monday, September 11, 2023

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 5480, O'Neill House Office Building, commencing at 10:07 a.m.

Present: Representative Jordan.

1 Appearances:

2

3

4

5 For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

6

7 [redacted] COUNSEL

8 [redacted] GENERAL COUNSEL

9 [redacted] COUNSEL

10 [redacted], DEPUTY GENERAL COUNSEL

11 [redacted], PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

12 [redacted] COUNSEL

13 [redacted], CHIEF COUNSEL FOR OVERSIGHT

14 [redacted], MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

15 [redacted] MINORITY CHIEF OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

16 [redacted], MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

17 [redacted], MINORITY STAFF ASSISTANT

18 [redacted], MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

19

20 For the U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE:

21

22 [redacted] DEPUTY ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL,

23 OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

24

25

1 For the FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION:

2

3 [redacted] ASSISTANT GENERAL COUNSEL,

4 OFFICE OF GENERAL COUNSEL

1

2 [redacted] We'll go on the record. This is a transcribed interview of Assistant
3 Special Agent in Charge Ryeshia Holley with the FBI. Chairman Jordan has requested
4 this interview as part of the committee's oversight of the Justice Department's 5 commitment to impartial justice and its handling of its investigation into Hunter Biden.
6 Will the witness please state your name for the record?
7 Ms. Holley. Ryeshia Holley.
8 [redacted] And you're joined here today with agency counsel as opposed to 9 personal counsel? Is that correct?
10 Ms. Holley. Yes.
11 [redacted] And do you have personal counsel at all for this matter?
12 Ms. Holley. I do not.
13 [redacted] Okay. And you understand agency counsel represents the interests
14 of FBI and DOJ and not you personally?
15 Ms. Holley. Yes.
16 [redacted] And you're comfortable moving forward with their counsel?
17 Ms. Holley. Yes.
18 [redacted] Okay.
19 And, Agency Counsel, could you please put your name on the record here?
20 [redacted] [redacted] from the FBI's Office of General Counsel.
21 [redacted] [redacted] from the Department of Justice.
22 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here
23 today to answer our questions. We appreciate that you're here voluntarily. Initially a 24 deposition subpoena was issued to secure your testimony. We've withdrawn that with 25 the hope that we can get as far as possible today in a voluntary setting.

1 I'd like to go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will follow during
2 today's interview. Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask
3 questions first for 1 hour, and then the minority will have a chance to -- we'll actually 4 switch seats, they'll come over, and they'll get a chance to ask questions for an hour.
5 We can take breaks at the end of each hour, but you can also take a break
6 whenever you need to, or if you need to confer with counsel, just let us know.
7 We have an official court reporter here taking down everything we say to make a
8 complete written record. So, from time to time, we will have to remind each other not 9 to talk over one another, and sometimes if you give a nonverbal response, we'll need to 10 go back and get you to provide a verbal response as opposed to a head shake or a nod.
11 Do you understand that?
12 Ms. Holley. Yes.
13 [redacted] We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and 14 truthful manner possible, so we'll take our time. If you have questions or if you do not 15 understand one of our questions, please let us know.
16 If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it's best
17 not to guess, but we do ask that you give us as much information as possible. So give us
18 your best recollection, and it's okay to tell us if you learned information from someone 19 else. Just indicate how you came to know the information.
20 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so. But, if you say
21 you don't remember, but in fact you do remember, that's a violation of 18 United States
22 Code 1001. And do you understand that?
23 Ms. Holley. Yes.
24 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject
25 to criminal prosecution. Is there any reason that you are unable to provide truthful

1 answers here today?

2 Ms. Holley. No.

3 [redacted] We'd like to keep the content of what we discuss here today

4 confidential. If there are -- and there will be marked exhibits, and we will collect them.

5 We're not going to let the exhibits leave the room. So, if you could cooperate with that,

6 we'd appreciate that. Is that okay?

7 Ms. Holley. Yes.

8 [redacted] That's the end of my opening remarks.

9 [redacted], do you have anything you want to say?

10 [redacted] Not at this time. Thank you.

11 [redacted]. [redacted]

12 [redacted] Thank you, Steve. As you noted, Ms. Holley is here voluntarily.

13 The Department and the FBI appreciate the committee's willingness to proceed with a

14 voluntary appearance, and I might add, we also appreciate the committee and the staff's

15 willingness to work with us, including over the weekend on the logistics associated with 16 today's appearance.

17 We went over this last week, but just so there's a complete record for today, as

18 you are aware, this inquiry implicates an ongoing criminal investigation and prosecution.

19 At this juncture, Ms. Holley is going to be able to address questions that can be 20 answered without compromising the ongoing investigation and prosecution, and

21 specifically the Department has authorized her to discuss U.S. Attorney Weiss' authority

22 as well as the October 7th, 2022, meeting, subject to some constraints around the

23 ongoing investigation.

24 There may well be some additional information that Ms. Holley can share

25 depending on the question and, again, consistent with our need to protect the ongoing matter.

We understand the committee likely has additional questions that you would like to ask, and to the extent you do have questions that go beyond the scope of what the Department has authorized, at this point, we, again, reiterate our willingness to continue engaging with the committee in good faith and to consider further accommodations at the appropriate time.

That said, our goal today very much is to facilitate Ms. Holley sharing as much information as she can today, consistent with the scope of her authorization.

So, if you have questions that she can't answer, again, we are committed to taking them back and continuing to work with you.

[redacted]. Okay. And I understand there's an authorization letter?

[redacted] There is, and I gave you a copy --

[redacted]. Okay.

[redacted] -- when I came in the room.

[redacted] When you came in the room. So we're trying to make photocopies of that so everyone here can have a copy, but we don't have those copies yet.

So I'll just ask Ms. Holley, if we can go on the clock for our hour --

[redacted] Sorry. Before we start, for the record, on behalf of the FBI, it is extraordinary to make an assistant special agent in charge available for a congressional interview. I understand we'll have an opportunity to request redactions of her name of a non-SES individual in the transcript.

I would just add, for the record, that this witness' name has been disclosed by Congress in connection with this investigation, and we would just ask that to the extent it is not necessary to further put the witness' name out there, we would very much appreciate it.

1 [redacted]. Okay. And just a counter point to that, we asked for a voluntary
2 transcribed interview long before the deposition subpoena came to a head. So you
3 could've cooperated at that point and minimized the disclosure of the agent's name.
4 Ms. Greer. Understood. I was not referencing the subpoena. There were
5 other materials released from Congress --
6 [redacted] So --
7 Ms. Greer. -- which were put --
8 [redacted]. And the sensitivities around this, this is the first we've, you know,
9 the first we heard about it was last week. So, if you would've come to us in a proactive
10 way and helped us understand the concerns, we might've been able to do things
11 differently.
12 Ms. Greer. We have been clear about our concerns with non-SES employees.
13 [redacted] Yeah, but not about this particular non-SES employee, correct? I
14 mean, did you bring up anything regarding Ms. Holley before last -- before 15 Mr. Sobocinski's interview?
16 Ms. Greer. The FBI has not been part of all discussions with the committee
17 about the transcribed interview requests.
18 [redacted]. Okay. But the first time I heard about these issues was at 19 Mr. Sobocinski's interview, so.
20 Ms. Greer. Again, the FBI has been clear about our concerns about all of our 21 non-SES witnesses --
22 [redacted] Okay.
23 Ms. Greer. -- throughout this time.
24 [redacted] Okay. But over the weekend you provided us with some specific 25 information about Ms. Holley, which is the first we've heard about it. So it's hard for us

1 to tailor our behavior, you know, that's already occurred. Would you agree with that?

2 [redacted] I'm just asking the committee not more than necessary put the

3 witness' name out in the public.

4 [redacted] Okay. And also, before we go on the record, just so everyone is

5 clear on how the transcript review works, after we get the transcript in, usually it comes

6 in relatively fast. The agency -- the witness and the agency counsel that were in the

7 room will have a chance to come in and review the transcript -- we don't email it to FBI or

8 DOJ -- to come into our offices to review the transcript for, you know, any errors or -- of 9 the like.

10 Also, at that time, the Department, the witness can propose redactions. We

11 can't promise that we will comport with those recommendations, but we will take them

12 into consideration.

13 And also, during the transcript review process, if there's anything you realize in

14 hindsight that maybe you forgot or you said inaccurately, you could flag for us at that

15 time.

16 I'll go on the record -- or go on the clock. It's now 10:16.

17 EXAMINATION

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Ms. Holley, you received an authorization letter from the Department of 20 Justice dated September 8th. What is your understanding of this authorization letter or 21 the scope?

22 A That I have been authorized to discuss matters involving Hunter Biden

23 investigation at -- obviously recognizing that it's an ongoing investigation, but also in 24 reference to Mr. David Weiss' authority and the -- a meeting that occurred on October

25 7th, 2022.

1 Q And also the run-up to that meeting? Any communications about how the 2 meeting was set up and so forth?
3 A Potentially.
4 Q Okay.
5 A Depending on what the questions are.
6 Q And how about the June 15th meeting, which I understand you attended at 7 Main Justice, are you going to be able to help us with the information from that meeting?
8 A Yes.
9 Q With largely, you know, some of the same players?
10 A Yes.
11 Q But DOJ Tax officials were at that meeting as well?
12 A Yes. I'm not sure of the date, but I recall the meeting.
13 Q Okay. And will you also be able to answer questions about the process for 14 Mr. Weiss bringing charges?
15 A To my understanding, yes.
16 Q Okay. And you're going to have to maybe help us understand, but as we 17 have come to learn, Mr. Weiss can bring charges in D.C. if the U.S. attorney for D.C. is 18 willing to partner. If the U.S. attorney for D.C., or a particular district, isn't willing to 19 partner, then there's other -- there's other things that Mr. Weiss can do.
20 And are you aware of the other things Mr. Weiss can do as part of that process?
21 A I am aware that if he is not able to partner with a particular district, that 22 there are other processes he can go through --
23 Q Okay.
24 A -- to move forward --
25 Q Okay.

A -- in the investigation.

Q So we may get into some of those questions, and if you're able to help us, we would appreciate it.

A Okay.

[redacted]. I'm going to stop the clock briefly. We've heard -- my oversight, we forgot to announce everyone in the room. So we'll do that. My name is [redacted]. I'm a staffer with the House Judiciary Committee. I work for Mr. Jordan. And we'll go around the room.

[redacted] Mr. Jordan's staff.

Chairman Jordan. Jim Jordan.

[redacted], Mr. Jordan's staff.

[redacted] Mr. Jordan's staff.

[redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

[redacted], oversight counsel for the Democrats.

[redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

[redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

[redacted], Mr. Jordan's staff.

[redacted] with Chairman Jordan.

[redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

[redacted] All right. Did you receive this authorization letter?

Do we have enough copies to make an exhibit?

[redacted]. Uh-huh.

[redacted] We can just make it exhibit 1, so you have it in front of you.

[Holley Exhibit No. 1.

Was marked for identification.]

1 Ms. Holley. Thank you.

2 BY [redacted]:

3 Q It's dated last Friday. Is that when you received it?

4 A Yes.

5 Q All right. Prior to you agreeing to appear here with agency counsel in this

6 setting, we had asked for an interview with you as well as 10 other officials involved with

7 this matter. When's the first time that you learned the committee was interested in 8 meeting with you?

9 A I do not remember the date. I think it's been a couple of months.

10 Q Okay.

11 A But I'm not positive.

12 Q Okay. And who told you the committee was interested in speaking with

13 you?

14 A Someone from our general counsel's office. Again, I don't remember the 15 name.

16 Q Okay. And what did they relate to you about that request?

17 A That I had been requested to speak with the committee and that -- I don't

18 remember if that time it was a subpoena or if it was an initial request and then a

19 subpoena came but basically that the request had been made, and we would -- they

20 would let me know if it was going to be something that came to fruition.

21 Q Okay. Did they provide you a forecast on whether it was likely that you

22 would have to come in and provide an interview or whether it was unlikely that it would

23 come to an actual interview?

24 A No. It was unknown.

25 Q Okay. And did you have discussions with -- your supervisor is the Special

1 Agent in Charge of the Baltimore field office, Mr. Sobocinski, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And did you have discussions with him about the committee's request?

4 A We both knew that -- so, yes, in the sense that we both had been

5 requested --

6 Q Okay.

7 A -- yes.

8 Q And what did he relate to you about the committee's request or the 9 likelihood that one or both of you would have to come in for questions?

10 A Just that our OGC, our Office of General Counsel at the FBI and possibly 11 Congressional Affairs would be involved to determine if this was going to, again, happen.

12 Q And, at any point in time, did you consider having personal counsel help you

13 think through these issues?

14 A No.

15 Q Okay. And did the FBI's General Counsel's Office let you know that you

16 were authorized to seek personal counsel if you wanted to?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. And did they provide pros and cons of doing that? Did they give 19 you any -- did they try to convince you not to get personal counsel?

20 A No.

21 Q Okay. Special agent -- supervisory special agent with the FBI, Gary Shapley,

22 and Special Agent Ziegler of the IRS provided testimony to the Ways and Means

23 Committee earlier this year. Mr. Shapley came in May 26th, and Mr. Ziegler came in 24 June 1st. Are you aware of that?

25 A I am aware that they came in, and I just wanted to correct, Mr. Shapley is

1 also with the IRS.

2 Q I'm sorry, did I --

3 A You said FBI.

4 Q Oh, that's my mistake. I'm sorry.

5 Both Mr. Shapley and Mr. Ziegler are with the IRS. Mr. Ziegler is a special agent

6 with the IRS Criminal Investigative Division, and Mr. Shapley's a supervisory special agent.

7 Is that correct?

8 A Yes. To my -- my knowledge, yes.

9 Q Okay. So you're aware they provided testimony to the Ways and Means

10 Committee, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And that committee was made public in June. Is that correct?

13 A I think so.

14 Q Okay.

15 A I didn't track the dates.

16 Q And, when it was made public, how did you -- did you read the copies of the 17 transcripts? Did you look at news reports? What did you do to learn about that 18 testimony?

19 A I don't remember how I initially became aware of it, but I did skim the

20 transcript because I was looking to hopefully not see any of my team members' names in 21 the report. But I didn't read it in its entirety.

22 Q Okay. Was there anything about the testimony that, you know, concerned

23 you as being, you know, untrue or problematic on that front, either in the testimony that

24 you read or the news reports about the testimony?

25 A My concern was only that it potentially could prolong an investigation that

1 was already ongoing.

2 Q Okay. But you didn't see anything in the testimony that jumped out at you

3 and made you think, "That's not true, I was a part of these -- part of these meetings"?

4 A Again, I didn't read it in its entirety, but what I -- what I remember of what I

5 did see, not that anything was untrue, just that I didn't have the same recollection of 6 everything or the same understanding.

7 Q Okay. And was that with regard to the 10/7 meeting, the 6/15 meeting, or 8 everything?

9 A So the only thing that I mostly remember is the October 7th --

10 Q Okay.

11 A -- generally speaking, again, not specifically, but only in reference to 12 that -- that meeting.

13 Q Okay. And, after the testimony was made public, did you have any 14 communications with people in that meeting about what Mr. Shapley or Mr. Ziegler had 15 said?

16 A No.

17 Q Okay. So, after the testimony was made public in mid-June -- there were

18 news reports -- you didn't talk to Mr. Sobocinski about what happened in the 10/7

19 meeting?

20 A Oh, only that, again, I didn't remember the meeting being extremely 21 important as it appeared to be in the media and -- yeah, that's it.

22 Q How many times have you talked with Mr. Sobocinski about the 10/7

23 meeting since it was made public, the transcripts?

24 A I don't know exactly how many. I don't think it's been a lot of times.

25 Q Okay.

1 A I mean, as you know, Mr. Sobocinski is my supervisor --
2 Q Correct.
3 A -- so not only in this ongoing matter but others --
4 Q Sure.
5 A -- talk often, but I don't remember talking to him a large amount of times or 6 even anything memorable as far as this meeting is concerned.
7 Q Okay. Now, as far as your testimony here today, did Mr. Sobocinski urge 8 you to provide a certain type of testimony?
9 A No.
10 Q Okay. And did you have any communications about the content of your 11 testimony or his testimony to the committee?
12 A No.
13 Q Okay. So, since Mr. Sobocinski came in last week, have you had any 14 communications with him about his testimony?
15 A No. Only we talked, not about his testimony, just that obviously him
16 recognizing that this is the first time for me, that I would be okay.
17 Q Okay. And when you met with DOJ or -- the Department of Justice lawyers
18 or FBI lawyers, did they tell you anything about Mr. Sobocinski's interview?
19 A No.
20 Q Okay. So they didn't tell you what types of questions we asked him?
21 A No, they did not.
22 Q Okay. And they didn't recommend ways that you can testify to us?
23 A No.
24 Q We're going to get into the 10/7 meeting in some detail as I'm sure you're 25 aware. Do you recall, as you sit here today who was at that meeting?

1 A At the October 7th meeting?

2 Q Yeah.

3 A I remember that there were --

4 [redacted]. And we can actually maybe -- because it might help jog your

5 memory, we can mark as exhibit 2 --

6 Ms. Holley. Okay.

7 [redacted] -- Mr. Shapley's notes that he sent to his supervisor, his SAC --

8 Ms. Holley. Okay.

9 [redacted]. -- Mr. Waldon.

10 [Holley Exhibit No. 2.

11 Was marked for identification.]

12 Ms. Holley. Okay.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Understanding this is an IRS agent's internal notes to other IRS people.

15 So getting back to the attendees for the 10/7 meeting, can you remember who 16 was there?

17 A I remember Mr. Weiss, SAC Waldon -- is that his last -- yes -- Mr. Shapley, my

18 SAC, Sobocinski. I think Mr. Weiss had two people from his office there, but I'm not 19 positive.

20 Q Okay. Could they have been Mr. Weed?

21 A Yes. The people that I'm thinking that might have been there is Mr. Weed

22 and -- Shannon's last name -- I think Ms. Hanson.

23 Q Ms. Hanson. Okay.

24 And what's your understanding of their roles in responsibilities in the AUSA -- I'm 25 sorry -- in the U.S. Attorney's Office?

1 A I think Ms. Hanson is the first assistant in Delaware U.S. Attorney's Office,
2 and Mr. Weed is the criminal chief.
3 Q Okay. And was Ms. Lesley Wolf in attendance at that meeting?
4 A I do not remember Ms. Wolf being there.
5 Q Okay.
6 A I don't think so.
7 Q And do you know why she wasn't there?
8 A The meeting was -- the plan for the meeting was to have supervisors from 9 the different agencies that are part of this ongoing matter. So I think that's why she was 10 not.
11 Q Okay. So Mr. Ziegler wasn't there?
12 A No, he wasn't.
13 Q Along the same lines?
14 A Right. And none of the FBI investigative personnel -- the other investigative 15 personnel weren't there either.
16 Q Were you aware of any tensions that had developed between the 17 investigative team and Ms. Wolf?
18 A What do you mean by "tensions"?
19 Q Tensions -- the investigative team, you know, ordinarily would want to take 20 interviews, you know, have interviews with specific witnesses, request documents, take 21 investigative actions such as search warrants. Are you aware of any tensions that had 22 existed between the investigative team and Ms. Wolf?
23 [redacted] And she can answer that to the extent there's sort of a general
24 response to the existence of tensions, but to the extent it gets into specific investigative 25 steps --

1 [redacted] Okay.

2 [redacted] -- she's not authorized to get into that.

3 Ms. Holley. I am aware, like many of the investigations that I've been a part of

4 and have overseen, that sometimes there can be disagreements between investigative

5 parties and AUSAs, U.S. Attorney's Office. So, other than that, no, I'm not aware of 6 any --

7 [redacted] Okay.

8 Ms. Holley. -- real tension.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q So the working relationship was fine from a professional standpoint?

11 A Yes.

12 Q With Mr. Shapley and Ms. Wolf and so forth?

13 A To my knowledge, yes.

14 Q Okay. And did that change at any point in time?

15 A I don't know if it changed. This matter has been -- or Ms. Wolf is, you

16 know, was a part of the ongoing matter. So, to my knowledge, it had not changed.

17 Q It's our understanding that, shortly after the October 7th meeting, Mr. Weiss

18 had communications with the IRS and basically said he didn't want to work with 19 Mr. Shapley anymore. Were you aware of that?

20 A No.

21 Q Okay. Or Mr. Ziegler?

22 A No, I don't have that awareness.

23 Q Okay. What is your understanding of how the 10/7 meeting for supervisors

24 came to be scheduled?

25 A There had been ongoing meetings as this investigation has been ongoing,

1 and so often the meetings were to discuss, you know, overall status and progression of
2 the matter. So that was my understanding, that it would be those conversations. I
3 can't remember if they were other things that were specifically outlined.
4 Q Okay. And do you remember who asked for the meeting, was it the 5 investigative, team or was it the prosecutors?
6 A I don't remember.
7 Q Okay. And did you meet with Mr. Shapley in response in mid= or late
8 September about this meeting?
9 A I had met with Mr. Shapley once in person. We may have also talked on 10 the phone in the past. I don't remember when it was.
11 Q Okay. And in mid- to late September, you met with Mr. Shapley. I
12 understand it was in your office?
13 A We did have a meeting in my office.
14 Q And do you remember what you talked about at that meeting?
15 A Best I can remember is the ongoing investigation and just, you know, overall
16 as to the progression of it and continuing to keep it moving.
17 Q Okay. Did he ask for that meeting, or did you ask for that meeting?
18 A He asked for that meeting.
19 Q Okay. And do you remember at the time what his concerns were about the 20 progression of the case?
21 A I know that, from my general memory, that Mr. Shapley definitely wanted
22 the case to continue to move forward. I think that he had some -- he definitely wanted
23 it to ensure that it was thorough and diligent, but specifically I can't tell you specifically 24 what it was that we talked about.
25 Q Did you review any -- in preparation for today, did you review any email

1 chains or notes about the 10/7 meeting?

2 A No.

3 Q Okay. So you didn't review the notes that you took at the 10/7 meeting?

4 A I didn't take -- well, I don't remember taking notes at that meeting, so I can't

5 tell you if I have any because I don't remember taking notes.

6 Q Okay. So you didn't review --

7 A No, I didn't review --

8 Q Okay.

9 A -- review any notes.

10 Q Did you review any email exchanges?

11 A No.

12 Q Heading into the 10/7 meeting, would it be fair to say that both IRS and the 13 FBI wanted to raise issues with Mr. Weiss?

14 A I don't know if we wanted to raise issues but definitely wanted to, again,

15 have a discussion on, as far as like the status, because, again, that was an ongoing -- an

16 ongoing discussion because we want the case to move forward to its resolution.

17 Q And did you have any role in trying to set that meeting up? Did you have 18 any email exchanges with anyone in the U.S. Attorney's Office?

19 A I don't remember if I did. I may have --

20 Q Okay.

21 A -- but I don't remember.

22 Q Okay. Would it surprise you if there's email exchanged where you

23 represented that it was important to wait until Gary is back -- he was traveling

24 overseas -- to set the meeting up?

25 A No, it would not surprise me. If it's a meeting that we were having as a

1 collective group, then I would've wanted him to be there.

2 Q Okay. So it would not surprise you if you were advocating that Mr. Shapley

3 was included in that meeting?

4 A No.

5 Q Okay. And also was the meeting important that it was conducted in

6 person?

7 A Yes. I mean, I would say most meetings we tried to have in person when it

8 came to -- to leadership and even some of our investigative teams. It's just 9 better -- better communication flow when you have something in person.

10 Q So you're based out of the Baltimore office?

11 A Yes.

12 Q You and Mr. Sobocinski drove to Wilmington, Delaware, for this meeting?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And presumably Mr. Shapley also drove to Wilmington for the meeting?

15 A Possibly. I actually don't know where Mr. Shapley was --

16 Q Okay.

17 A -- situated. But it's also not uncommon for us to go up to Delaware with 18 having other squads that work there.

19 Q Okay.

20 Chairman Jordan. Who ran the meeting?

21 Ms. Holley. Who ran the meeting? Probably Mr. Weiss. And just in the sense

22 that it was in his office and his office's conference room, but I don't know if there

23 necessarily was a true point person.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q Before the meeting, did you have any exchanges with Mr. Shapley about

1 getting on the same page so the investigative elements can present a united front?

2 A I don't remember if -- like I said, I know that we had met prior to that

3 meeting in my office, may have had a conversation. That I'm not sure about but

4 possibly. I'm not sure.

5 Q Okay. And did Mr. Shapley or did you recommend that you come up with 6 three or four topics that you both could settle on?

7 A Not sure of the topics, but I can remember wanting to just kind of make sure

8 that we had, like, an agenda. So I may have, like, checked with the SAC -- my SAC, to see

9 if we were on the same page, and at that time, if Mr. Shapley told me what he

10 wanted -- or what he and his SAC were going to talk about --

11 Q Okay.

12 A -- just made sure that the information was relayed.

13 Q And do you remember if Mr. Shapley indicated that the IRS wanted to talk

14 about special counsel authority?

15 A I don't remember.

16 Q Okay. That the IRS investigators were concerned about delays in the

17 election?

18 A I know that that had come up.

19 Q Delays related to the election?

20 A Yes, I noted that had come up.

21 Q And what was your understanding of those delays? Because this is in the 22 middle of the run-up to the midterm elections, so there was no Presidential component

23 here.

24 [redacted] And -- finish your question. I'm sorry.

25 [redacted]. So the question is, what did the midterm elections have to do with

1 any delays?

2 [redacted] And she can answer that question to the extent she has a general

3 understanding of the impact that elections may have on Department and FBI actions but

4 not to the extent it gets into specific decisions or delays to the extent there were any

5 delays in this case.

6 Ms. Holley. So my understanding generally as a FBI employee is, you know, if

7 there is an election that is coming about, whether it's midterms or so forth, obviously

8 actions that may involve or may be related are -- are done to -- in a way to make sure that

9 it does not hinder or cause any issues with an election.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Okay. Are you aware of any other issues Mr. Shapley wanted to bring up or 12 the IRS? Do you remember if he wanted to talk about venue?

13 A Venue was a conversation that had happened in more than one meeting, so 14 it's possible that that was something that was being discussed in this meeting as well.

15 Q Okay.

16 A And I think, again, just overall conversation as to the status of the 17 investigation and moving it forward.

18 Q Okay. And what were the topics the FBI wanted to talk about at the 10/7

19 meeting, do you remember?

20 A I don't.

21 Q Do you remember if delays was one of them?

22 A I don't.

23 Q Venue, do you remember if that was one of the issues the FBI wanted to talk

24 about?

25 A I don't remember if -- if there were specifics that I or SAC Sobocinski laid out

1 prior to, I don't remember what they specifically were, but I would say it's not uncommon
2 to have had conversations about both venue and just generally how are we moving along.
3 Q Okay. And communication, was communication an issue?
4 A Communication in many investigations that we work in -- well, shoot,
5 investigations that we've worked in both Maryland and Delaware, sometimes
6 communication is an issue. I think that that's just generally speaking in my experience 7 no matter what, but, yes, communication was something that we had discussed in the 8 past and possibly at this meeting.
9 Q Okay. What were the specific communication issues that were going on?
10 A Just generally speaking sometimes communication was delayed.
11 Q Delayed from who? From what standpoint?
12 A As far as information that was coming from the U.S. Attorney's Office. So I 13 think it was just -- wasn't anything intentionally or malicious, just sometimes just wasn't 14 the thought initially to share and then -- normally they would.
15 Q So is it fair to say there was frustration from the investigative components
16 with communication issues?
17 A Again not specific to this investigation, but generally speaking, sometimes 18 there were frustration as far as communication is concerned and just general frustration
19 in the sense of, again, wanting to move the investigation forward and continue.
20 Q Okay. I mean, it's our understanding that communications were an issue
21 with this specific investigation. Is that correct?
22 A I would say communication overall sometimes was an issue of discussion.
23 Q Okay. And that ended up being a topic of discussion at the October 7th
24 meeting, correct?
25 A Possibly.

1 Q Okay. What do you remember about that topic being discussed at the
2 October 7th meeting?
3 A Because communication had come up before, again, it very well could've
4 come up at this meeting, and so if it did, it probably was something in the sense of like it
5 had been in the past, of, you know, we are looking for things to be communicated sooner
6 than maybe they had been.
7 Q Okay. Do you remember this part of the meeting being contentious?
8 A I don't.
9 Q Okay. What was your understanding of the -- the process for bringing 10 charges, you know, for David Weiss to bring charges in this matter?
11 A So overall my understanding is, U.S. Attorney's Office will make that 12 determination and will proceed in, you know, having a grand jury and obviously bringing 13 in witnesses to charge an investigation.
14 As we've already noted here, if there are venue discussions, then there will be 15 another process that Mr. Weiss or a U.S. attorney will go forward with to bring charges in 16 a different venue.
17 Q And what was the status of that at the time of the October 7th meeting?
18 A I know that there had been conversations with, I want to say, both D.C. and 19 Central District, California. I don't remember what the status of those were.
20 Q Okay.
21 A At that time.
22 Q I mean, were you aware that the 2014 and '15 tax charges had to be brought 23 in D.C., and the rest of the charges had to be brought in California, relating to tax?
24 A I'm aware that obviously charging discussions were happening, and, yes,
25 there was a difference in the venue for some of those charges.

1 Q And were you aware that the case was presented to the U.S. attorney for 2 D.C., Mr. Graves, and that he decided not to partner, which is, I guess a euphemism for 3 saying -- for denying?
4 A I don't remember when that determination was made or when that 5 conversation was had. So, if it was around that time, I don't remember that it was.
6 Q But do you remember learning that the U.S. attorney for D.C. decided not to 7 partner with Mr. Weiss on bringing the tax charges for 2014 and 2015?
8 A I remember learning at some point in the investigation that Mr. Weiss would 9 have to go through his other processes because the U.S. Attorney's Offices had, I guess, in 10 that sense, using that terminology, wasn't going to partner.
11 Q Okay. So -- but you don't remember when the U.S. attorney for D.C.
12 denied the ability to bring the case, at least through him?
13 A I don't.
14 Q Okay. And do you remember who presented that case to the U.S. attorney
15 for D.C.?
16 A No. I don't have knowledge of who presented that.
17 Q Okay. So before it was presented, you weren't aware that it was going to 18 be presented, for example?
19 A Not that I remember.
20 Q Okay. And same question for bringing the case to the Central District of Los 21 Angeles -- or Central District of California in Los Angeles. Do you remember when the 22 case was presented to Mr. Estrada in California?
23 A I don't remember when that was presented. I thought it was before
24 October, but I don't remember --
25 Q Okay.

1 A -- if that's correct.

2 Q Okay. And do you remember that Mr. Estrada also decided not to bring the

3 case?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Okay. So he decided not to partner or he rejected the case, whatever the 6 term is?

7 A I understand that, yes, that a decision had been made that the Central

8 District of California wasn't going to, I guess -- my understanding is that they weren't

9 going to bring the case on their own.

10 Q Okay. And, at this point in time, the types of charges that were going to be

11 brought were tax charges, the gun charge. Any other types of charges that were on the 12 table at this point?

13 [redacted] And, Steve, this is getting into the -- excuse me -- the scope of the 14 ongoing investigation prosecution, and it's beyond the scope of what Ms. Holley is 15 authorized to discuss.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q And do you know the answer to the question I just asked?

18 A Can you ask the question again, please?

19 Q What types of charges were being pursued at this point in time? And I

20 mentioned tax charges, the gun charge.

21 A I am aware of what charges were being pursued at that time.

22 Q Okay. And I asked, were there other charges that were being pursued, and

23 then Department counsel said you can't answer that. And my question was, do you

24 know the answer?

25 A I don't know that the answer is different. I don't think the answer is

1 different.

2 Q Okay. And what was your understanding of how Mr. Weiss could bring

3 charges if Mr. Estrada, Mr. Graves said no?

4 A My understanding is that -- and, again, I don't -- I don't know the specifics

5 but that Mr. Weiss could -- and I could be incorrect in the terminology, but basically be

6 like a special -- special counsel, special AUSA -- I'm sorry, not special counsel but like a

7 special AUSA, partnering AUSA, in an attorney's office that is outside of his own.

8 So, again, there had been a process. He would still have the authority to do so.

9 It's just that now he would do it differently.

10 Q Okay. And did Mr. Weiss pursue that avenue, to your knowledge?

11 A My understanding is from that -- the meeting in October is that that is the 12 process that he was discussing with us, that he was walking us through that he was going

13 to be taking.

14 Q Okay. And what do you remember of him saying at the 10/7 meeting?

15 A Just generally that, you know, now not necessarily having the U.S. attorney

16 in -- and, again, California sticks out in my memory more than D.C., but that since that

17 was not going to be worked by the Central District of California, he would then go

18 forward with his process to still -- and again I don't know the specifics but still move

19 forward to bring the case in the Central District of California. So basically where I think

20 normally if a U.S. attorney's office partners, it makes it easier when an outside district has

21 to come in and they haven't worked in that district before.

22 But, since that was appearing not to happen in this situation, he would still

23 proceed with doing it and just would do it without that U.S. attorney.

24 Q Okay. So Mr. Weiss was preparing to send his AUSAs from Delaware out to 25 California? Was that your understanding?

1 A That eventually that would be some part of the process, but I didn't know
2 when that was going to happen.
3 Q And what was your understanding at this point in time of the 2014 and '15
4 charges which had venue in D.C.?
5 [redacted] And again this is getting beyond the scope of what she's authorized to 6 talk about. To the extent we're talking about specific charges, prosecutorial decisions, 7 she's not authorized to address that because it goes to the ongoing investigation and 8 prosecution.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Okay. I'm not sure -- yeah, at the heart of this is the 10/7 meeting and 11 what happened in the 2014 and '15 charges if he couldn't bring them in D.C. What was 12 your understanding of what happened -- what was going to happen with those charges?
13 A My understanding is that the U.S. Attorney's Office, Mr. Weiss and his team, 14 were making a determination of what charges were going to be brought.
15 Q Okay. And was it your understanding that he could bring them in D.C. if he 16 needed to?
17 A Yes. My understanding is, whenever they decided what charges were 18 going to be brought, they could pursue those charges wherever they needed to.
19 Q Okay. Even if Mr. Graves didn't want to partner?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Okay. And what was the role of DOJ Tax -- the DOJ Tax Division in that
22 process?
23 A Not being an IRS agent, I don't know all the ins and outs of what DOJ Tax
24 does, but my understanding in this matter was that they would have some type of consult 25 in the investigation.

1 Q Okay. And what was your understanding of DOJ's tax position -- DOJ Tax
2 Division's position as of the 10/7 meeting?
3 A I don't remember, because I don't remember when, you know, specific 4 decisions were made or not made, so I don't remember what the determination was at 5 that time.
6 Q Okay. But you do remember DOJ Tax Division officials changed their tune
7 on the charges, correct?
8 [redacted] This is getting into deliberations around the ongoing investigation and 9 prosecution, and it is beyond the scope of what she's authorized to discuss.
10 [redacted] Okay. I mean, this really is at the heart of what we're looking for.
11 So this is the type of question -- and also Mr. Sobocinski, you know, there are some of 12 these questions that his failure to answer is going to be a real -- a real roadblock, you
13 know, in this process.
14 So, if you can help us get a little bit better understanding of this timeline of when 15 DOJ Tax Division changed their tune, that would, I think, help us move forward without 16 taking the next step of deposition subpoena and that type of thing.
17 [redacted] Okay. As I said last week, we are happy to take those questions back 18 and consider whether there is more information that can be shared on the tax piece of 19 this, but for the time being, what you're asking her goes beyond the questions of David 20 Weiss' authority and the 10/7 meeting that she is authorized to discuss today.
21 [redacted] Yeah. I would -- I would say that that may not be accurate because 22 if DOJ -- I'm stopping the hour here as I correspond with you -- if DOJ Tax authorizes David 23 Weiss to move forward, he has much -- much more leeway to move forward.
24 If DOJ Tax withdraws their approvals, then David Weiss has a harder time.
25 Would you agree that that's the case?

1 [redacted] I would -- I would agree that there are going to be issues throughout
2 the course of today that you may think relate to the issue of the authorization and that
3 we think relate directly to the ongoing investigation, and we are going to have to agree to 4 disagree today on those.
5 [redacted] Okay.
6 [redacted] She will answer the questions she can, and to the extent there 7 continue to be areas of disagreement, we will take those back and follow-up with the
8 committee.
9 [redacted] Okay. Sure.
10 Chairman Jordan. Ms. Holley, I just want to make sure I understand, and, again,
11 thanks for being here today. So I think you said you knew before October 7th that the 12 U.S. attorney in California had said no to partnering with Mr. Weiss. Is that right?
13 Ms. Holley. So I -- my recollection is more about Central District of California. I
14 don't remember when it was -- that decision had been made. I don't remember the 15 date. So I think it was before the October 7th, but I'm not positive.
16 Chairman Jordan. Okay. And then you, I think -- I don't want to -- I just want to 17 make sure I got you right. You learned at the October 7th meeting, or sometime around
18 the October 7th, 2022,.
19 Mr. []. Meeting, that D.C. was also not going to partner. Is that accurate?
20 Ms. Holley. I don't remember when I learned that, sir.
21 Chairman Jordan. But you did learn that at some point prior to the last few 22 months when it's been in the public eye?
23 Ms. Holley. I learned that prior to today, for sure, but I can't tell you when 24 exactly it was.
25 Chairman Jordan. Okay. Okay. Thank you.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Getting back to the subject of the 10/7 meeting, was there a leak that had
3 occurred that was of concern, especially to Mr. Sobocinski?

4 A There was a suspected leak, and the reason I say suspected is also ongoing
5 matters, but I think that that was -- the suspicion of that was a concern, I would say, to 6 both SAC Sobocinski, myself, and at least -- I can't speak for others, but I would say at 7 least. And Mr. Weiss, I would also say Mr. Weiss.

8 Q Okay. And what was the nature of the leak to the extent you remember?

9 A There was an article. I don't remember which newspaper it was that had 10 information that seemed pretty close to meetings we had had in the past in reference to 11 the ongoing matter, so that is why there was a decision of some type of leak.

12 Q Okay. And what's your recollection of the discussion at the 10/7 meeting
13 of the process to bring charges and specifically of what Mr. Weiss was talking about?

14 A Just that, again, not -- not necessarily having those U.S. Attorney's 15 Offices -- or whichever one, again, I don't remember -- both of them at the time -- but he
16 would then move forward, he would continue in the process of, my understanding, I
17 think, would be to have conversations with potentially others in the Department of 18 Justice but move through a process that was already present and already, you know, in 19 place, and is done in the past, to continue those cases.

20 And so what I equated it to was, in working cases in the past with sections from 21 Department of Justice and their trial attorneys will come out to a U.S. Attorney's Office to 22 prosecute a case, that is what I understood that he was going to do, a similar process to
23 that.

24 Q With Tax Division attorneys or with his own attorneys?

25 A With his -- his AUSAs from his office.

1 Q Okay.

2 A If he was going to have other attorneys, Department of Justice attorneys, I

3 didn't who they would be.

4 Q Okay. In Mr. Shapley's notes, he says that Weiss stated that he's not the

5 deciding person on whether the charges are filed. Item No. 2. Is that a fair statement

6 from what you remember from the meeting?

7 A I don't remember him saying that.

8 Q Okay. Underneath -- by the way, do you know if anyone recorded this

9 meeting --

10 A I don't think so.

11 Q -- on their phone?

12 A I don't think so, but I don't know.

13 Q Okay. Under 2B, the process for decision, do you remember any of this

14 discussion? Needs DOJ approval -- Tax approval first, stated that DOJ Tax will give 15 discretion, we explained what that means and why that is problematic.

16 A No. The only thing that I remember and what I currently understand is that 17 DOJ Tax provides their discretion when it -- when it comes to tax charges in any case.

18 But I don't know that they have to provide approval or do not have to.

19 Q Okay. But what does "discretion" mean?

20 A Generally speaking, you know, reviewing an investigation and looking at the 21 elements of the investigation and whether or not the elements are there and they are

22 able to proceed.

23 Q Right. And do you remember that the investigative team, including DOJ

24 Tax, had asked for the special agent report -- this is going back to earlier in the year

25 2022 -- but DOJ Tax was pushing for the special agent report from IRS on this case?

1 [redacted] And this is getting into internal deliberations potentially around the 2 ongoing investigation and prosecution, and so it's not within the scope of what she's
3 authorized to discuss.
4 BY [redacted]:
5 Q Okay. Notwithstanding that, do you know the answer to the question I just 6 asked?
7 A I don't know the answer.
8 Q Okay. What is your awareness of the discussion around the statute of 9 limitations expiration or extension agreement?
10 [redacted] And that's the same objection. It gets into deliberations and 11 discussions around the ongoing matter.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Okay. Were you aware that there was a statute of limitations issue with 14 the 2014 and '15 tax years?
15 A Just generally knowing some statutes and how they have a statute of 16 limitations, I would think eventually. But I don't know if there was a -- a specific issue.
17 Q So you don't remember any meetings or discussions around that topic?
18 A That -- of the statute of limitations?
19 Q Of certain statutes getting ready to expire.
20 A No, I don't.
21 Q Okay. The June 15th meeting, do you remember that being referred to as a
22 tax summit?
23 A I don't.
24 Q Okay. And who do you remember being in attendance at the June 15th
25 meeting?

1 A FBI personnel, IRS personnel, Delaware U.S. attorney's office, and personnel
2 from Main Justice, Main Department of Justice, I think DOJ Tax.
3 Q Okay. Do you remember the names of the folks?
4 A From the Department of Justice?
5 Q Right.
6 A No.
7 Q If I gave you the names, would you be able to -- like, Stuart Goldberg, was 8 he -- was he --
9 A I would not be able to tell you.
10 Q Okay. How about Mark Daly, do you know who Mark Daly is?
11 A I've heard the name before, but I don't know.
12 Q How about Jack Morgan?
13 A I don't know.
14 Q Okay. And who from the U.S. attorney's office in Delaware was at that 15 meeting? Mr. Weiss was there, correct?
16 A Mr. Weiss was there. Bless you. I remember --
17 Q AUSA Wolf?
18 A I remember -- yes, AUSA Wolf. I don't remember if any of the other AUSAs
19 were there.
20 Q Okay. And then from IRS?
21 A From IRS, Mr. Shapley, Mr. Ziegler. I think there were other people there 22 from IRS, but I don't remember who.
23 Q Okay.
24 A And there were personnel. As I said before, Mr. Sobocinski and I, and 25 personnel from --

1 Q Okay. Mr. Waldon, was he there?

2 A I don't remember if Mr. Waldon was there.

3 Q Okay. And do you remember the posture of that meeting as to, like, who

4 was presenting? Like, whose meeting was it, and who was conveying the information?

5 A I just remember it being a meeting that was talking about the ongoing

6 investigation and the discussions of that. I don't remember specific presentations or 7 who specifically was presenting -- yeah.

8 Q Do you remember why the meeting occurred or had to occur?

9 A So my understanding and thought was that the meeting, again, like many

10 others, had just been talking about the -- the investigation as a whole, obviously the 11 prosecutors having opportunities to discuss matters, but again just talking about the 12 status and making some decisions or leading to some decisions as the case moves

13 forward.

14 Q Okay. Do you remember any feedback that Mr. Sobocinski gave during the 15 course of that meeting?

16 A No.

17 [redacted] This gets -- this gets into potential deliberations around an ongoing

18 issue. So, if you have some reason to believe that the issue of Mr. Weiss' authority was

19 discussed at this meeting, that's within the scope of what she's authorized to discuss, but 20 beyond that, specific discussions, deliberations, not within the scope.

21 [redacted] Okay. If DOJ Tax personnel basically says you can't bring the case

22 and Mr. Sobocinski, you know, pushed back and grumbled about, you know, various

23 aspects surrounding that, I would say that goes pretty much to the heart of what we're

24 agreed to talk about here today.

25 [redacted] We agreed to talk about her firsthand knowledge and understanding

1 of Mr. Weiss' authority as well as the October 7th meeting. She is able to discuss issues
2 related to this June meeting at a high level of generality. She has answered some of 3 your questions already on the logistics of the meeting.
4 What I am saying is, when you get into specific deliberations and discussions, that 5 relates to the ongoing matter, and today she is not authorized to discuss that.

1 [11:06 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 [redacted] Do you remember at the 6/15 meeting that DOJ Tax had been

4 recommending that the tax charges not be prosecuted?

5 A I don't remember what the specifics of those discussions were.

6 [redacted] And do you remember any issues that Mr. Shapley and the IRS had

7 articulated back to the DOJ tax lawyers --

8 A No.

9 [redacted] when they were doing this presentation.

10 A No, sir.

11 [redacted]. Okay. I want to go back to exhibit 2. We left off at 2B, Process

12 for Decision, and we talked a little bit about "Needs DOJ tax approval first. No venue in

13 Delaware."

14 You know, as I understand it, the FBI officials, maybe including yourself, wanted to 15 talk about venue at this meeting in the preliminary email exchanges that occurred.

16 A Okay.

17 [redacted] Do you remember if venue was discussed at the 10/7 meeting.

18 A I don't remember if it was, but I'm not -- I wouldn't be surprised if it was.

19 [redacted]. Okay. And I have three little "i"s here in Mr. Shapley's notes, and

20 he prepared these notes just -- he prepared these notes on October 7th, the day the 21 meeting occurred, and he emailed them to his supervisor, Mr. Waldon, who replied up

22 top: Thanks, Gary. You covered it all.

23 So these notes are in effect relatively contemporaneous. Is that the case?

24 A It appears so.

25 [redacted]. So iii at the bottom of the page was: Went to D.C. U.S. Attorney's

1 Office in early summer to request charge there. The U.S. Attorney said they could not
2 charge in his district.
3 With the benefit of these notes being contemporaneous, does that refresh your 4 recollection at all about whether the D.C. portion of the case had been denied at that 5 point in time?
6 A It doesn't refresh my recollection, but I don't have a reason to, you know --
7 [redacted]. Dispute it.
8 A -- dispute it.
9 [redacted] Okay. Item No. 1 under here is: U.S. Attorney -- under iii: U.S.
10 Attorney Weiss requested special counsel authority when it was sent to D.C. and Main 11 DOJ denied his request and told him to follow the process.
12 What's your recollection of that topic?
13 A I don't remember Mr. Weiss telling us that.
14 [redacted]. Okay. Do you remember any discussion of special counsel
15 authority --
16 A No.
17 [redacted]. -- at this meeting.
18 A No.
19 [redacted] But you told us before that if the U.S. Attorney for D.C. or the U.S.
20 Attorney for the Central District of California decided not to partner, that it was your 21 understanding that Mr. Weiss had the authority to bring the case on his own.
22 A Yes.
23 [redacted] Okay. And was that special counsel authority as you understood it.
24 A No. What I understood that to be is still outside of special counsel
25 authority.

1 [redacted]. Okay. And so, at this point in time, to your knowledge, he hadn't
2 requested special counsel authority.
3 A I don't know if he had or had not, but I don't remember him telling us that 4 he had.
5 [redacted] Okay. The second page of these notes --
6 A Okay.
7 [redacted] -- it indicates: Mid-September they sent the case to the Central 8 District of California, which coincides with your recollection where you believe that the 9 Central District of California component of the case was discussed at this meeting. Is 10 that right.
11 A I just remember the Central District -- that component being discussed in 12 this timeframe.
13 [redacted] Okay.
14 A It might have been at this meeting. It might have -- yeah, I don't remember 15 that part.
16 [redacted]. Okay. But, if Mr. Shapley's notes that he prepared the same day of 17 the meeting happened, I mean, it's more likely than not that -- 18 A Possibly, yes.
19 [redacted]. -- that it was discussed at this meeting?
20 Roman V: If California does not support charging, USA Weiss has no authority to 21 charge in California, he would have to request permission to bring charges in California
22 from the Deputy Attorney General or the Attorney General. And Mr. Weiss says it's 23 unclear on which he said.
24 Do you remember a discussion of that process?
25 A So I remember this is a little bit similar to the process that I understand that, again, he would still have the authority. He would do it separately from the U.S. Attorney in those districts. Now what specifically he has to do and the Department of Justice I don't know.

[redacted]. Okay. So it was your understanding that he could have gone to the Deputy Attorney General or the Attorney General for that authority.

A My understanding is that he was still able to move forward and bring charges if that was what the determination was and he would go forth in doing that.

[redacted]. Okay. But do you remember any discussion at the meeting involving the types of approvals he would need to seek.

A I don't.

[redacted]. Okay. Roman numeral VI: With DOJ tax only giving discretion, they're not bound to bring the charges in California and this case could end up without any charges.

Do you remember that, that prospect, that the charges in California may not be able to move forward?

A No. My memory is, as with any investigation, like, it's a possibility of charges, and it's a possibility of not. And so my understanding is that as this investigation was continuing, those deliberations and discussions were continuing. And so I don't know what that determination was or that this was -- I don't remember him saying this.

[redacted]. Item No. 3, they are not going to charge the 2014 and 2015 tax years.

Do you remember that being discussed?

A I remember overall charges for being a conversation in the sense that that is something that they are still deciding. I don't remember if it was stated at this meeting

1 that that was not -- those tax years were not going to be charged. I just know that,
2 again, those tax years and others were part of the overall discussions.
3 [redacted]. Okay. But, if Mr. Shapley wrote this in his notes that he prepared,
4 you know, contemporaneously, we would have no -- you don't have any --
5 A I don't have any --
6 [redacted]. -- reason to suggest that that's inaccurate or he lied about that.
7 Right.
8 A I don't have anything to say or provide that would say otherwise.
9 [redacted] Okay. In your experience in working with Mr. Shapley, did you ever
10 notice him misrepresenting facts or lying about anything.
11 A My experience with Mr. Shapley is very limited. And so, with that limited
12 experience, no, I didn't have any thoughts that he had lied about anything.
13 [redacted]. Okay. So there's nothing about your collaborative work experience
14 that led you to think that he was somebody that would misrepresent facts or lie about 15 something. Correct.
16 A No, I don't have that experience to say that.
17 [redacted] Mr. Shapley in his notes, 3A writes: I stated for the record that I
18 did not concur with that decision and put on the record that IRS will have a lot of risk 19 associated with this decision because there is still a large amount of unreported income in 20 that year from Burisma that we have no mechanism to recover.
21 Do you remember that being discussed?
22 A I remember Mr. Shapley bringing that up in the past, so it could have been at 23 this meeting.
24 [redacted]. Uh-huh.
25 A It could have been in our previous conversation, but I do remember him

1 bringing up this point.

2 [redacted] Okay. So the 2014 and 2015 tax years, there was a lot of Burisma

3 income that was unreported at that point.

4 Do you remember that being the issue?

5 Mr. [redacted] And, again, we're not going to get into the substance of the 6 underlying investigation, analysis of the evidence, prosecutorial deliberations. And the

7 question you just asked goes to all of those potentially and is outside the scope of her

8 authorization.

9 BY [redacted]

10 [redacted] Okay. There has been a lot of news reports about the Burisma

11 income escaping taxation, and the bulk of that is in 2014 and 2015. There's some in 12 2016 as well, but 2014, 2015, the bulk of that.

13 So do you remember discussions about the 2014 and 2015 tax years being, you

14 know, a real issue if you can't prosecute them?

15 Mr. [redacted] It's the same objection because it was the same question. She's not 16 authorized to discuss that.

17 BY [redacted]

18 [redacted] Okay. And so then my next question is, do you know the answer to 19 my question, even if you're not going to answer it?

20 A And because of the -- I apologize. Because of the back and forth, can you

21 ask that question one more time?

22 [redacted] Were you aware that the Burisma income was the source of the 23 2014, 2015 tax years and there was a lot of -- I mean, it's like millions of dollars in income

24 that had escaped taxation at that point in time.

25 Were you aware of the answer to that question?

1 A So, again, sir, with it being an ongoing matter and the authorities that I have,
2 I'm not going to be able to answer that.
3 [redacted] I understand you're not going to answer the question, but I said -- I
4 guess my question is, do you know the answer to my question.
5 A I would say generally no.
6 [redacted] Okay.
7 A Because I would have to look at the overall investigation again to understand
8 what was in what years.
9 [redacted]. Okay. I only have a couple of minutes left, sir. Do you have 10 anything?
11 BY [redacted]
12 [redacted]. Item 3A is, Mr. Shapley stated for the record. And you said you 13 don't remember him saying that for the record in the meeting?
14 A I remember Mr. Shapley bringing up this subject matter in letter a, 3A.
15 [redacted] Okay.
16 A So, if he says that he -- you know, he stated it during the meeting, I have no
17 reason to dispute that.
18 [redacted]. Okay.
19 Chairman Jordan. Because he had brought it up at previous meetings.
20 Ms. Holley. I remember him bringing it up before with me.
21 Chairman Jordan. Yes.
22 BY [redacted]
23 [redacted] Okay. And do you also remember him also bringing up the special 24 counsel authority?
25 A I don't.

1 [redacted] Okay. Item 4 -- and I'm running out of time here so maybe I will
2 stop here. I'm running out of time on my hour. So I will stop here.
3 [Recess.]
4 [redacted] All right. It's 11:26. We can go back on the record.
5 EXAMINATION
6 BY [redacted]:
7 [redacted] Ms. Holley, good morning again. I'm [redacted]. I'm the 8 counsel for Ranking Member Nadler.
9 A Good morning.
10 [redacted]. Ms. Holley, how long have you been with the FBI.
11 A A little over 16 years.
12 [redacted] Okay. So have you testified in cases before.
13 A Yes.
14 [redacted] And you've seen investigations go from beginning
15 through -- opening through investigation through actual trial through conclusion. Right.
16 A Yes.
17 [redacted]. Okay. You referenced earlier the authority that -- the special 18 attorney authority that Mr. Weiss could seek.
19 Do you recall talking about that?
20 A Yes.
21 [redacted] Okay.
22 [redacted] I want to introduce as exhibit 3 a statute. It's 28, U.S.C., Section
23 515, and we'll introduce this as exhibit 3.
24 [Holley Exhibit No. 3.
25 Was marked for identification.]

1 BY [redacted]:

2 [redacted]. And I will give you a minute to review, and let me know when you're

3 ready to proceed.

4 A Thank you. I'm ready.

5 [redacted] Okay. So the title of this statute is "Authority for legal proceedings;

6 mission, oath, and salary for special attorneys." Correct.

7 A Yes.

8 [redacted]. And in paragraph (a) of this statute, it says that: The Attorney

9 General or any other officer of the Department of Justice, or any attorney specially

10 appointed by the Attorney General under law, may, when specifically directed by the 11 Attorney General, conduct any kind of legal proceeding, civil or criminal, including grand

12 jury proceedings and proceedings before committing magistrate judges, which United

13 States Attorneys are authorized by law to conduct, whether or not he is a resident of the 14 district in which the proceeding is brought.

15 Did I read that correctly?

16 A Yes.

17 [redacted] So, under this provision, somebody appointed as a Special attorney

18 is able to conduct any legal proceeding in any jurisdiction. Is that fair to say.

19 A Yes.

20 [redacted]. Is this consistent with the type of authority that you understood Mr.

21 Weiss could seek.

22 A Yes.

23 [redacted]. And this would permit him to bring a case in California if he chose.

24 A Yes.

25 [redacted]. And this would permit him to bring a case in the District of Columbia

1 as well. Correct.

2 A Yes.

3 [redacted]. Before I showed you this statute just now, were you familiar with 4 this, the actual statute itself I mean -- not the authority but the actual statute.

5 A No, I was not.

6 [redacted] And you're not a lawyer. Right.

7 A I am not.

8 [redacted] Do you agree that, if somebody is not familiar with this statute, they 9 might not understand what it says?

10 In other words, let me rephrase that. That's confusing. If somebody hasn't

11 actually read this word for word, they might not be familiar with what special attorney

12 status is. Correct?

13 A I think that's possible, yes. If they are not familiar with the statute as a 14 whole or have read this, yes.

15 [redacted] Okay. And, as you said, you've been with the FBI for 16 years.

16 Right.

17 A Yes.

18 [redacted] And you yourself hadn't seen this before I showed it to you today.

19 Correct.

20 A I had not.

21 [redacted]. Okay. I want to turn back to what was marked as, I believe,

22 exhibit 2. It's the email from Mr. Shapley.

23 A Okay.

24 [redacted] And I seem to have lost my copy.

25 You were at the October 7th meeting. Correct?

1 A Yes.

2 [redacted] And you said that everyone attended that meeting in person.

3 A Yes.

4 [redacted]. Do you recall seeing Mr. Shapley at that meeting.

5 A Yes.

6 [redacted] Do you recall if Mr. Shapley had a laptop with him.

7 A I don't recall.

8 [redacted] Do you recall if he was taking notes during that meeting.

9 A I don't -- I do not recall.

10 [redacted] Okay. So the comment was made earlier that these were 11 contemporaneous notes. Do you recall what time the meeting took place.

12 A I think it was in the afternoon, not positive.

13 [redacted] Do you recall what time it ended.

14 A I don't.

15 [redacted] Okay. Do you recall if it ended before close of business say.

16 A Yes, it did.

17 [redacted] Okay. These notes are marked, Friday, October -- I'm sorry. The 18 sent time on these notes are, Friday, October 7, 2022, at 6:09 p.m.

19 Do you see where it says that?

20 A Yes.

21 [redacted]. So these notes were actually taken -- or I'm sorry -- this email was 22 actually typed up after the fact. Is that fair to say.

23 A Yes.

24 [redacted]. So these aren't actually notes of the meeting. Right.

25 A No.

1 [redacted] This is actually his recollections of the meeting that he wrote down
2 after the meeting. Correct.
3 A Yes.
4 [redacted]. I want to go through point by point kind of like [redacted] was just 5 doing a few minutes ago.
6 On No. 2, which is: Weiss stated that he is not the deciding person on whether
7 charges are filed. You said you don't recall him saying that. Do you remember -- do 8 you agree that you don't recall him saying that?
9 A Yes, I agree.
10 [redacted]. If he had said that, is that something that would have stuck out to 11 you.
12 A Yes.
13 [redacted] You would remember that.
14 A I think so.
15 [redacted] Okay. Under 2B, Roman numeral I, Needs DOJ Tax Approval First, 16 do you recall him using the word "approval" with respect to DOJ Tax.
17 A I don't. My only understanding was that DOJ Tax provides some type of 18 discretion.
19 [redacted]. Okay. And, if he said that he needs to get permission, for example,
20 from DOJ Tax before bringing charges, is that something that you would probably recall.
21 A I think so.
22 [redacted] And you don't recall that.
23 A I do not.
24 [redacted] Okay. Under Roman numeral IIB, small Roman numeral iii, reads:
25 Went to D.C. USAO in early summer to request to charge there. Biden appointed USA

1 said they could not charge in his district.

2 Do you recall the words "could not charge in his district" as opposed to "would not

3 partner with him"?

4 A I don't remember any specifics about D.C.

5 [redacted]. Okay.

6 A And, particularly in this meeting. So, no, I don't remember it as this

7 statement.

8 [redacted] Okay. So, if Mr. Weiss had said that he did not have permission to 9 bring charges in Washington, D.C., is that something that you would recall.

10 A Yes, I think so.

11 [redacted] So earlier you said you didn't have anything to dispute Mr. Shapley's

12 recollection here, but you personally, you don't recall Mr. Weiss saying that he had been 13 denied permission to bring charges in Washington, D.C. Correct.

14 A That is correct.

15 [redacted] And you would recall that if he had said that.

16 A I think so.

17 [redacted] Okay. You said you don't recall any discussion of special counsel

18 authority. Correct.

19 A No, I do not.

20 [redacted] And do you think that that's something you would recall if that had 21 been discussed.

22 A Yes.

23 [redacted] Turning the page, under Roman numeral V, letter -- I'm sorry, No. 1:

24 He would have to request permission to bring charges in CA from the Deputy Attorney

25 General/Attorney General.

1 Do you recall specifically him using the word "permission"?

2 A No.

3 [redacted] Do you think that you would recall if he had used the word

4 "permission".

5 A Yes.

6 [redacted] Going into this meeting, were you under the impression that Mr.

7 Weiss would have the authority to bring charges -- whatever charges he wanted to bring

8 in any district he wanted to bring them in.

9 A Yes.

10 [redacted] Leaving the meeting, were you under the impression that Mr. Weiss

11 had the authority to bring whatever charges he wanted to bring in whatever district he 12 wanted to bring them in.

13 A Yes.

14 [redacted]. Moving on to No. 4, it says: The FBI SAC -- that means special

15 agent in charge. Right.

16 A Yes.

17 [redacted]. -- asked the room if anyone thought the case had been politicized.

18 We can discuss this if you prefer.

19 The FBI special agent in charge was Mr. Sobocinski. Correct?

20 A Yes.

21 [redacted] Do you recall him asking this question.

22 A I don't.

23 [redacted] You don't recall that question.

24 A I do not recall that question.

25 [redacted] Do you recall if anybody said they thought the case had been

1 politicized.

2 A I don't.

3 [redacted] And, if somebody had said that they thought the case had been

4 impacted by any type of political pressures, would you have recalled that.

5 A I think so.

6 [redacted] If somebody had said that, are there steps that you think you might

7 have taken in response to those concerns.

8 A Yes.

9 [redacted] What steps might you have taken.

10 A Well, I probably -- if I'm in a room to hear it, I would say from my opinion

11 that it has not been politicized by the investigators. I think everybody that was -- is and

12 is working this ongoing matter are doing their jobs and are doing their jobs to the best of 13 their ability. And, if there's any political, you know, or anything being politicized, that is 14 outside of the investigative entities.

15 [redacted] I want to talk about the communications issues that are referenced.

16 That's number -- it's reference 6A here, and we talked about it a little bit in the earlier

17 hour.

18 You said that communication issues are frequently an issue. What did you mean

19 by that?

20 A Just that, in my experience and in various investigations, so outside of this

21 one, there have been times that things that are happening in the investigation were not

22 communicated immediately.

23 [redacted]. Okay. And is that communication top down, so from supervisors to 24 line personnel; bottom up from line personnel up to supervisors, or both directions?

25 A I would say, generally speaking, almost as a 360.

1 [redacted]. Yes.

2 A So -- and I believe that includes both U.S. Attorney's Offices and the

3 investigative entities as well. So comprehensive of the whole team I think that there

4 have been communication issues.

5 [redacted] And, in this case specifically, there were teams working on this case

6 from the Baltimore Field Office, and I mean Baltimore proper, not the Delaware. So, in

7 other words, you and Mr. Sobocinski were both based out of Baltimore. Correct.

8 A So, yes. But I will say that the Baltimore Field Office covers Maryland and

9 Delaware.

10 [redacted]. Yes.

11 A So although we sit there --

12 [redacted]. I understand.

13 A Okay.

14 [redacted]. So you sit in Baltimore. Correct.

15 A Yes.

16 [redacted] And you also had a case team sitting in Delaware working on this

17 case. Correct.

18 A Yes.

19 [redacted] And there were IRS agents working on this case as well. Correct.

20 A Yes.

21 [redacted] And where were they located.

22 A I'm not sure.

23 [redacted] Okay.

24 A I found that other agencies -- locations of their personnel is a little -- and

25 how they have their personnel dispersed and handling the areas that we handle out of

1 the Baltimore office are a little different, so it's sometimes hard to keep track.

2 [redacted] Fair enough.

3 But they weren't sitting with you in Baltimore in your office. Right?

4 A That is correct.

5 [redacted] And they weren't sitting with your team members in Delaware.

6 Correct.

7 A That is correct.

8 [redacted] And then there was the Delaware U.S. Attorney's office as well.

9 Correct.

10 A Yes.

11 [redacted] And then Delaware was talking with the U.S. Attorney's Office in the 12 District of Columbia.

13 A I believe so.

14 [redacted] And Delaware was talking with the U.S. Attorney's Office in the 15 Central District of California as well. Correct.

16 A Yes.

17 [redacted]. So that's one, two, three, four, five -- approximately six different

18 teams that are involved in this. Is that fair to say.

19 A Yes.

20 [redacted] Would you agree that in that situation where there's a number of 21 teams and they are geographically dispersed like that, that can make communication

22 even more challenging.

23 A Yes, I would agree.

24 [redacted] Have you worked other cases where there's been a number of teams

25 located in different locations.

1 A Yes.

2 [redacted] Is it your experience that in general communication can be harder in

3 those situations.

4 A Yes. Communication, as I stated earlier, is often a matter that we can all do

5 better.

6 [redacted]. And I think you had said earlier that there was some concerns about

7 the degree to which U.S. Attorney Weiss or his team were communicating with both the 8 FBI and with IRS. And that came up at this October 7th meeting. Right.

9 A Yes.

10 [redacted] Did you ever get the sense that U.S. Attorney Weiss was withholding 11 information from you or from anyone else for any malicious reason.

12 A No.

13 [redacted] Did you ever get the sense that he was withholding information for 14 any political reason.

15 A No.

16 [redacted] Did you ever get the sense that he was intentionally withholding

17 information from you or from anyone else.

18 A No.

19 BY [redacted]

20 [redacted] One followup question from what [redacted] asked you.

21 You testified clearly that you did not feel like the case was being politicized by the

22 investigative entities. And those were the words you used, "investigative entities." I

23 just want to clarify, do you also feel that the case was free from politicalization from the 24 prosecutory entities, so the U.S. Attorney and the other trial attorneys?

25 A Yes. And I apologize. When I -- most of the time when I say

1 "investigative," I'm thinking of the whole team, and so maybe I will try and be clearer in
2 saying "the team" or just really specify in this sense. But I think of it as a team
3 atmosphere because, again, we're working the cases together, although we have our 4 specific roles. But, yes, I was talking about everyone, that I did not think anyone
5 involved in the ongoing matter was politicizing it.
6 [redacted] And you also testified that you hadn't -- I believe you said you had 7 never seen these typed email notes before today.
8 A No. No, I'm sorry. I had seen this first page, but I hadn't seen the second
9 page.
10 [redacted] Okay. But these notes, as far as you know, you don't know when 11 they were taken. Correct.
12 A Other than what this email looks like -- it looks like it's a copy of an email and 13 what it states, no.
14 [redacted] I think you had testified very clearly in the first hour that you had no
15 reason to believe that Mr. Shapley would have been lying, in this sense, in any of the 16 notes that he took. Is that fair to say.
17 A Yes.
18 [redacted]. Is it possible that he could have been confused about some of the 19 conclusions that he drew based on that meeting and the communications that were 20 heard.
21 A Yes, I think it's possible. And, again, of my understanding, as well as my 22 recollection of the meeting, I definitely think there is either some confusion or 23 misunderstanding in things that were communicated.
24 [redacted] And you indicated when [redacted] went through some of the 25 specific words that were used in these notes, like "permission," for example, and others,

1 that you were surprised to see those words because that wasn't how you felt the case
2 was going. Is that fair to say that some of the words he chose to describe the authority
3 of Mr. Weiss, for example, are not the words you might have chosen because the 4 understanding could be different between what Mr. Shapley believed and what you
5 believed based on your position in the case.
6 A Yes, that is correct.
7 [redacted]. Can you elaborate on that in any way?
8 A Just that, again, my understanding generally of that meeting is that Mr.
9 Weiss was just giving us an overhead of where we were and things that were still ongoing
10 and just the steps that he would generally be taking to move forward. And, again, like I
11 said, for whatever reason, California sticks out in my mind more, that they were not 12 moving forward solely. And so, again, he would have to do, like, a special 13 AUSA -- special attorney process.
14 [redacted] But your general understanding at the time of this meeting was that 15 Mr. Weiss had the authority to pursue whatever charging decisions he chose as a 16 prosecutor in any venue in the United States. Is that fair.
17 A Yes.
18 [redacted]. And, to the extent that these e-mailed notes that Mr. Shapley
19 prepared sometime after the meeting suggest otherwise, that understanding that Mr.
20 Shapley has expressed is not consistent with the understanding that you have.
21 A That is correct.
22 BY [redacted]
23 [redacted] I'm going to move on from the October 7th meeting, and I actually 24 want to take a step back and talk about your background a little bit. And I want to be 25 clear I'm not asking for law enforcement sensitive information. I just want to get just

1 more of a general sense.

2 You said you joined the FBI 16 years ago. Right?

3 A Yes.

4 [redacted]. Why did you decide to join the FBI?

5 A The FBI was always, like, a long-term goal. It's just something that I guess

6 kind of, you know, pulled at the heartstrings, so to speak. But it really is about and has

7 been about helping others, being able to serve others.

8 My interest in coming into the FBI shifted some in the sense that I initially wanted

9 to pursue the Behavioral Analysis Unit while still being a special agent and working in

10 those type of investigations. But it's just always been wanting to serve, wanting to be in 11 law enforcement, and this was the only place that I could think to be ultimately.

12 [redacted]. And, broadly speaking, can you describe your duties in your current 13 position.

14 A Sure. So, as an assistant special agent in charge, I am responsible -- I'm one

15 of four in this particular office, and I'm responsible for a branch that has various criminal

16 violations, as well as administrative violations. And my responsibility is to ensure that

17 my team are staffed as best as possible, has the resources that they need to be able to do

18 their work, so to facilitate those things for them but also to ensure accountability and 19 building relationships not only internally but also externally.

20 [redacted]. How long have you been assigned to the Baltimore Field Office

21 specifically.

22 A Just a little over 2 years.

23 [redacted] How large is the Baltimore Field Office in terms of employees.

24 A So professional staff and special agents -- and that professional staff

25 category includes several different roles -- I believe it's approximately 480 or

1 4 -- something between 470, 480, I think.

2 [redacted]. And you said earlier that the Baltimore Field Office covers both

3 Maryland and Delaware. Correct.

4 A Yes.

5 [redacted]. Is it fair to say that Baltimore is one of the largest geographic regions

6 in terms of FBI field offices.

7 A Yes, we are one of the large field offices.

8 [redacted] Okay. How much of your work in that -- I mean, the investigations

9 that you personally work or you personally oversee is focused on Delaware as opposed to 10 the District of Maryland.

11 A I don't know specifically. There's a good number of investigations in both.

12 Kind of hard to say.

13 [redacted] Okay. But you oversee investigations in both Delaware and 14 Maryland. Is that fair to say.

15 A Yes.

16 [redacted]. And do you work with both the District of Maryland and the District

17 of Delaware U.S. Attorney's Offices.

18 A Yes.

19 [redacted]. Have you worked with other field offices over the course of your

20 career.

21 A Yes.

22 [redacted] Can you name some of those for us.

23 A The New York Field Office, as well as the Los Angeles Field Office.

24 [redacted] Okay. Would you agree that each of these offices has a different

25 approach to handling cases.

1 A Yes.

2 [redacted]. Can you describe those different approaches.

3 A So I would say, first and foremost, I think all the field offices in the FBI as a

4 whole approach is to be thorough and take every logical step there is to, you know, see

5 an investigation to its end. However, based on the different localities, there are 6 sometimes situations where an investigation may move a little bit quicker than others.

7 It depends on staffing in those field offices and the partners that we're working with, and

8 it also depends on maybe a little bit of the culture. But I really think it comes down to 9 just staffing and, you know, what the availability is of resources.

10 [redacted] And what about the U.S. Attorney's Offices that you work with? Do

11 the different U.S. Attorney's Offices take different approaches to cases.

12 A Yes.

13 [redacted] Is it fair to say that some U.S. Attorney's Offices move more quickly

14 and some U.S. Attorney's Offices are more deliberative and perhaps move a little slower.

15 A Yes. I think just in the same similarities that I mentioned about field

16 offices, you would also see that in -- or I have seen that in my experience with U.S.

17 Attorney's Offices as well.

18 [redacted] So, for example, could you describe -- in your opinion, does the Los

19 Angeles U.S. Attorney's Office, do they tend to move more quickly or are they more

20 deliberative in nature.

21 A More deliberative from my experience.

22 [redacted]. What about the District of Maryland's U.S. Attorney's Office.

23 A Deliberative but maybe not as deliberative as the Central District of 24 California and Delaware.

25 [redacted] And have you worked with offices that you think tend to move more

1 quickly than other offices.

2 A New York.

3 [redacted]. Let the record reflect that there was no hesitation there.

4 What about the District of Delaware? Do they tend to move more quickly, or do

5 they tend to move more slowly, or somewhere in the middle?

6 A They were more deliberative.

7 [redacted]. More deliberative.

8 A Yes.

9 [redacted] And, without getting into the specifics of any pending matters and in 10 particular this pending matter, can you explain broadly what you mean by that.

11 A Across the board, you know, we have three different squads that handle a

12 number of violations in that area. They basically are covering everything in Delaware

13 that we cover in Maryland, and working with the Delaware U.S. Attorney's Office, I have

14 seen that across the board, so violent crime, financial crimes, national security. It

15 doesn't matter. They are just a very deliberative U.S. Attorney's Office in the processing

16 of investigations.

17 [redacted]. So, in the earlier hour, you said a number of times that you were 18 interested in keeping the case moving forward. What did you mean by that.

19 A I meant, again, just wanting to ensure that the teams had everything that 20 they needed to move a case forward and just understanding, again, wanting it to get to its 21 resolution.

22 [redacted]. And why was it important for you to get this case to its resolution.

23 A Like all investigations, we don't want anything that's lingering. It's not

24 beneficial to the entities or -- individuals, entities that are being investigated, as well as to 25 the U.S. Attorney's Office and the different law enforcement partners that are doing the 1 investigations.

2 So the whole purpose of doing an investigation is obviously, you know, reviewing

3 any allegations and determining if there's evidence there, being able to present that, and

4 there being a decision to, you know, move forward and determine if there are going to be

5 any charges, and so forth, if that turns out to be a trial or whatever that may be. So it's

6 not helpful to anyone for those things to linger.

7 [redacted] And that's in every case that you work on. Correct.

8 A That is correct, every case.

9 [redacted]. Okay. Earlier in the first hour, you were asked about

10 disagreements between investigators and prosecutors. And you said that, like in many

11 investigations, prosecutors and investigators don't always see -- didn't always see eye to 12 eye in this case. Is that -- do you recall saying that.

13 A Yes.

14 [redacted] Okay. And we just discussed different U.S. Attorney's Offices, and

15 you said that some offices move more quickly than others and that your interest was

16 always in bringing a case to conclusion or bringing an investigation to conclusion. Is that

17 right.

18 A Yes.

19 [redacted]. So I take it from that conversation and from the conversation in the 20 earlier hour that it's fair to say that, in some cases over the course of your career, you've

21 had disagreements with prosecutors about, for example, particular investigative steps.

22 Is that fair to say.

23 A Yes.

24 [redacted] And, as a supervisor, have you experienced instances in which the 25 agents that you supervise have had disagreements with prosecutors about particular

1 investigative steps.

2 A Yes.

3 [redacted] Have you also had disagreements with other law enforcement

4 entities, meaning either State and local law enforcement or maybe DHS, Homeland

5 Investigative Services, or the IRS, where you were jointly working an investigation and

6 your investigators -- or investigators that you oversaw disagreed with the investigators

7 from another law enforcement entity.

8 A Yes.

9 [redacted] Okay. Is it fair to say that it's fairly common for FBI agents to have

10 disagreements with prosecutors and other law enforcement entities about investigative

11 steps.

12 A I think it's -- yes, it's fairly common, definitely not unusual for there to be

