2 2022. With regard to your question of who brought it to my attention, my then First
3 Assistant United States Attorney, otherwise known as a FAUSA, which is the only AUSA
4 that I have a direct report to --
5 Q And who is that?
6 A So I'm not comfortable giving names of AUSAs, and I won't be doing that 7 going forward in this -- in this interview. They sacrifice enough financially, in terms of 8 time and in terms of safety, with regard to the cases that we prosecute in our district, and 9 I'm not comfortable giving up names here.
10 I'm here voluntarily. I'm happy to talk to you all voluntarily. But my AUSAs
11 didn't sign up for this, so I'm not going to give individual names.
12 Q Okay. So your first assistant brought this matter to your attention?
13 A My first assistant, my then First Assistant United States Attorney
14 brought -- told me that there had been this request from the District of Delaware to 15 cocounsel or partner on the case; that the chief of my Major Frauds Section, who would 16 be the person who makes these decisions, was recommending against doing so; and that 17 that had been communicated to the District of Delaware.
18 Q And this occurred before you were installed?
19 A I don't know if that occurred before I was installed because the issue came
20 to me in late September-early October, and I came in on September 19th. So I don't 21 know if it occurred before or after I was installed.
22 Q Okay.
23 A But, going back, I was told that this issue had arose, and there was this 24 request there, and my Major Frauds chief was recommending not partnering or 25 cocounseling; my criminal chief, which would be the person directly above the Major

1 Frauds Section chief, was agreeing with that recommendation to not partner or
2 cocounsel; and that the District of Delaware, through Mr. Weiss, wanted to speak to me
3 about that.
4 Q What is the difference between partner or cocounsel?
5 A I see them as the same.
6 Q The same, okay. And how would that work if you had reached a different
7 conclusion, your office had wanted to proceed as the District of Delaware had requested?
8 A I don't understand your question.
9 Q So, if your office did want to partner or cocounsel with Mr. Weiss, how 10 would that have looked? Would your AUSAs have been on the prosecution team, or 11 would the District of Delaware lawyers, AUSAs, be granted Special Assistant U.S. Attorney 12 status?
13 A So a couple things there, and I should have mentioned this. It's a good
14 point you raised. My understanding when the issue was brought to my attention was 15 that certain attorneys within the District of Delaware -- I didn't know their names or who 16 they were -- had already been appointed Special Assistant United States Attorneys in my 17 district.
18 Q Okay.
19 A So they were SAUSAs able to litigate in my district. That had already 20 happened before the question came to me.
21 In terms of how that would look, I don't have personal experience with ever
22 cocounseling with another U.S. Attorney's Office during my time as U.S. Attorney or 23 during my time as an Assistant United States Attorney.
24 Q Okay. Who made them Special Assistant United States Attorneys?
25 A That needs to get approved by the U.S. Attorney. So it would have been

1 my predecessor, either the Acting U.S. Attorney or the Acting U.S. Attorney before that
2 person.
3 Q Okay. And who was that?
4 A So, again, I don't want to give names, but I'm sure it's public record.
5 Q Okay. So you're not willing to tell us who the Acting U.S. Attorney for your 6 district was?
7 A I don't want to give names of people who didn't voluntarily come before you
8 to testify.
9 Q Okay. I mean, that's kind of ridiculous.
10 A I'm sure --
11 Q I mean, we can look it up on the internet. And you're not willing to just tell 12 us the name?
13 A You can look it up on the internet if you like, but I'm not willing to give 14 names of people who didn't voluntarily come before this committee.
15 Q Okay. How many Delaware AUSAs were granted the SAUSA status?
16 A I don't know how many. I just know that it was more than one.
17 Q And do you know what timeframe that happened in?
18 A When they were appointed?
19 Q Yes.
20 A I do not.
21 Q Did you ask?
22 A I did not.
23 Q Okay. Why not?
24 A I didn't ask because it didn't seem relevant. At the time I was being asked
25 the question I had been told that they had already been appointed special Assistant

1 United States Attorney status and can litigate in the district.

2 Q Okay. And so what did they -- what did they need from your office then?

3 Like, why did they request to partner or cocounsel?

4 A So I can't get into the mind of Mr. Weiss or his staff as to why they were

5 making that request. So I don't know why they were asking for this. But I do know

6 that --

7 Q Presumably, you asked the chief of the Major Frauds Section or you asked

8 the criminal chief that question, right?

9 A What I was going to say before you cut me off is that I can't get into the mind

10 of what -- of what they were thinking. They had the ability to litigate in my district.

11 And they were asking me this question, which I was going along with the 12 recommendation of my career attorneys.

13 Q Okay. Did you then make that decision based on the recommendation?

14 A Based on the recommendation of my major frauds chief and my then

15 Criminal Division chief who, combined, had over 40 years' experience as prosecutors, I

16 agreed that we would not partner or cocounsel in the prosecution; but I did tell Mr. Weiss

17 that we'd provide office space and administrative support for his attorneys in their

18 prosecution.

19 Q How many meetings did you have with your chief of the Major Frauds

20 Section and the then criminal chief on this topic?

21 A I had two meetings with them on this topic.

22 Q And when was the first meeting?

23 A The first meeting was sometime in early October 2022, before my phone call

24 with Mr. Weiss, which would have been October -- sorry -- yes, October 19th of 2022.

25 Q Okay. So the first meeting happened in early October 2022. And who

1 was in that meeting with you?

2 A So in that meeting was my First Assistant United States Attorney, was my

3 then chief of the Criminal Division, and my Major Frauds Section chief.

4 Q Anyone else?

5 A That's it.

6 Q And what information did they convey to you during that meeting?

7 Ms. Zdeb. And he can answer that question to the extent it doesn't implicate

8 deliberations or other information related to the ongoing investigation and prosecution.

9 A So the -- before the meeting, I had been provided with materials to review,

10 which I did. And we discussed those materials and their analysis with regard to the 11 question of whether to partner or cocounsel in the charges that were being 12 contemplated.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q And what materials were provided?

15 A So I'm limited in what I can discuss. I've been given a letter which limits

16 what I can discuss. I have to be very careful about not getting into specifics. But it was 17 memoranda analyzing facts and law.

18 Q Just one or more than one memo?

19 A Multiple.

20 Q Okay. How many?

21 A There were three that I reviewed.

22 Q And what were the differences in the three?

23 Ms. Zdeb. And he's not able to get into the differences. He just made clear

24 that they analyzed the facts and the law, and he is not able to talk about the specifics of 25 the memos that are part of an ongoing case.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Okay. So you received three memos prior to your first meeting. You read
3 those memos and then you had the meeting.

4 What else can you tell us happened at that meeting, the first meeting?

5 A So, again, I'm limited in what I can discuss with regard to the process of 6 reviewing and analyzing charges and the specific charges, but that is generally what we 7 discussed.

8 Q Okay. And was there a conclusion reached by the four of you at the end of 9 that meeting?

10 A Ultimately, it was my -- my conclusion. They had already made
11 recommendations. And having reviewed the materials and doing analysis and then 12 speaking with them about materials and analysis, I agreed with their recommendation.

13 Q Okay. And then when was your second meeting on this topic?

14 A The second meeting was after my call with Mr. Weiss.

15 Q Okay. So maybe just going chronologically, the next key event was a call
16 with Mr. Weiss?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. And when was that call?

19 A That was October 19th of 2022.

20 Q And you said the meeting where you reached the decision was early October
21 2022, and then the call was October 19th. So a couple weeks had elapsed?

22 A I can't say whether a couple weeks, 1 week, days. I can't be more specific 23 than what I gave you.

24 Q Okay. Did anything else occur during the -- after the conclusion of your 25 meeting and before your call with Mr. Weiss relative to the case?

1 A I don't know what else might have occurred that I was not privy to, but in
2 terms of my dealings, after that meeting I had no other interactions or discussions of the 3 case until the call with Mr. Weiss.
4 Q Okay. And who initiated the call with Mr. Weiss?
5 A Sorry; I don't understand your question.
6 Q Well, you had a telephone call with Mr. Weiss.
7 A Uh-huh.
8 Q The question is, who initiated that call? Did he call you? Did you call
9 him? Did you schedule the call? Did he schedule the call?
10 A Mr. Weiss asked for a call and we scheduled a call.
11 Q And who was on the call?
12 A The call was me and Mr. Weiss.
13 Q No other staff on the call?
14 A No. Well, not that I'm aware of. I don't know who was on his line. On 15 my line, it was just me.
16 Q Okay. And what did you communicate to Mr. Weiss on the October 19th
17 call?
18 A So, again, I have to be careful about what I discuss. I can't get into the 19 deliberative process. But I discussed our analysis of facts and law to explain to him why
20 we would not be cocounseling on the case, but then I told him that we were happy to 21 provide office space, administrative support for his attorneys. He thanked me for that 22 and the call ended.
23 Q In terms of office space and administrative support, did you also make 24 available the grand jury, the grand jury process in your district?
25 A I'm concerned about answering that question because it might get into the

1 deliberative process, but all administrative support would have been available to Mr.
2 Weiss.
3 Q So, if his AUSAs that had been granted SAUSA status wanted to prosecute a 4 case on their own in your district, they had the ability to do that?
5 A To -- my understanding is if they wanted to prosecute the case as SAUSAs,
6 they had the ability from my standpoint to do that. It would have been supported 7 administratively from my standpoint to do that.
8 I can't speak to any limitations within the District of Delaware or within Maine, but 9 I can just talk about my office.
10 Q As the U.S. Attorney, did you have the ability to revoke the SAUSA status?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And was the SAUSA status -- and correct me or --
13 A And I'll just clarify. I never revoked the SAUSA status. To my knowledge, 14 they're -- I never revoked the SAUSA status.
15 Q And how many -- how many lawyers have this SAUSA status, do you know?
16 A All I can say is more than one.
17 Q Okay. More than five? Like, more than five? Like, what's the ballpark?
18 What's the upper -- if you don't know the specific number, what's the range?
19 A I can't say more than -- more than one; that's all I can say.
20 Q Is that something you could take back and get a definitive answer, how many 21 Delaware U.S. Attorney AUSAs have the SAUSA status?
22 A I'm happy to consult with the attorneys for the Department and see if that's 23 something I can discuss or provide or whether I'm even able to provide it at this point.
24 But I'm happy to discuss it with the Department's attorneys.
25 [redacted]. Okay. I think we'd like to know the number of SAUSAs and the

1 date that they were granted that status, if you could take that back, Sara.

2 Ms. Zdeb. We can certainly take that back.

3 BY [redacted]:

4 Q How long was the call with Mr. Weiss on October 19th, to the extent you

5 remember?

6 A I don't know specifically, but I would approximate 5 minutes maybe.

7 Q It was a very short call. Okay.

8 And you said you discussed your analysis, the facts and the law, and why you

9 didn't want to take the case.

10 Was there any other information you provided Mr. Weiss on the call?

11 A So I didn't say why I didn't want to take the case. So it was his case, his

12 investigation.

13 Q But you didn't want to partner with him on the case.

14 A The question was whether to cocounsel on the case that he had been

15 investigating and was done by his office for many years. So that was the only question

16 on the table.

17 Q Okay. Did you communicate anything else to him that you haven't told us?

18 A In broad strokes, I communicated to him analysis of the facts and law and

19 general reasons why we would not be able to cocounsel on the case; but that 20 nonetheless, we would offer office space, administrative support for his people.

21 Q And then you said you had a second meeting with your team about this topic

22 after the Weiss call?

23 A Correct.

24 Q And when was that?

25 A Shortly after the call with Mr. Weiss on October 19, 2022.

1 Q Okay. And was it a meeting or a conference call with your staff?
2 A It was a meeting.
3 Q Okay. And what do you remember about that meeting? Was it the same
4 group of individuals?
5 A It was the same group of individuals. I told them about my call with Mr.
6 Weiss.
7 Q Was that largely it, just a readout of the call?
8 A That was it.
9 Q And then anything else in terms of meetings or calls on this topic with that 10 group of people?
11 A What do you mean by "anything else," because -- 12 Q Did you have any additional meetings or telephone calls deliberating about 13 the decision on this case with that group of people in your office?
14 A So I had one meeting where we discussed the materials that had been 15 provided and their recommendation --
16 Q Right?
17 A -- of the career attorneys not to cocounsel on the case. The second
18 meeting was just me speaking, telling him what occurred in the call.
19 Q No, no, I got that. I'm just sort of -- I'm getting ready to pivot here, to move
20 on. I'm just saying, were there any other meetings or calls? You told us about two 21 meetings with your staff and a call with Mr. Weiss. Were there any other meetings?
22 A Meetings or calls with whom?
23 Q On the Hunter Biden case with either your staff or with the staff from the 24 District of Delaware.
25 A So I've been instructed to not discuss the deliberative process and potential

1 charges and a potential investigation. I will say there has been one subsequent call with 2 Mr. Weiss.
3 Q Okay. When was that?
4 A Fairly recently, which would have been in September, September 19th of 5 this year. But I can't get into the substance of that, because I've been instructed not to 6 discuss the deliberative process or the ongoing investigation.
7 Ms. Zdeb. Can we go off the record for a second.
8 [Discussion off the record.]
9 Mr. Estrada. So the recent call did not involve the question of whether to 10 cocounsel on contemplated charges against Hunter Biden, just to clarify.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q What did it involve?
13 A So I can't discuss that, because it goes to an ongoing investigation.
14 Q Was that -- the second call that you just identified, were those the only two 15 calls that you had with Mr. Weiss?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Did you have any telephone calls with anyone else in his office?
18 A No. I never had any calls with anyone else in his office.
19 Q And did you have any meetings with anyone in his office?
20 A No.
21 Q The AUSAs in Delaware that have SAUSA status in your district, have they 22 ever come out to your district that you're aware of?
23 A I don't know.
24 Q So you've never met them?
25 A I've never met them, no.

1 Q Do you know if the District of Delaware had meetings with your staff on 2 these topics?
3 A Whether attorneys in the District of Delaware?
4 Q Yes.
5 A I don't know. They may have. I know there was communication between 6 my Major Frauds chief and Attorneys of the District of Delaware. I know there was 7 communication back and forth there. But I'm not aware of any specifics about meetings
8 or calls or whatnot.
9 Q Do you know if these happened in person or on the telephone?
10 A I don't know.
11 Q So, to your knowledge, the District of Delaware lawyers, have they ever
12 come to your district on this topic?
13 A I don't know. And I'll just say this is normal for every case. I don't interact
14 with SAUSAs on a case-by-case basis. We have SAUSAs from almost all the district
15 Attorney's Offices in our 20 million-person district.
16 They do cases from those kind of cases, fentanyl death cases. We need those 17 resources, but I don't meet with them on their cases on an individual basis. So that's a 18 typical practice not to meet with the SAUSAs on any sort of case.
19 Q Right. I was wondering if the SAUSAs had met with your staff in person 20 that you're aware of.
21 A Not -- well, I don't know one way or the other. It's a typical practice that 22 SAUSAs interact with the line attorneys. That's typical. So I would expect that, but I'm 23 not privy to those meetings.
24 Q Okay. I mean, this is a potential prosecution of the President's son. If the 25 lawyers from the District of Delaware were out in your district discussing the case, don't

1 you think you'd know about it?

2 A So I think a little context would be helpful. So, as I said, we have the largest 3 district in the country. We have a Fentanyl epidemic which is one of the worst in the 4 country's. We've done more death-resulting cases than any other district in the 5 country. We're on pace to do more this year than we ever had before.

6 We've got a violent crime epidemic with firearms. We've done more Hobbs Act
7 cases than we ever have in the past 2 years. We have a National Security Section, a
8 division, unlike most other offices, because we're the gateway to Asia. And we have the 9 People's Republic of China trying to influence our elections, trying to target some of our
10 individuals. We have a lot of high-profile cases. We have a Public Corruption Section 11 which has indicted three City Council members in the past few years and including the 12 sitting sheriff of Los Angeles County. There are a lot of high-profile cases, so I don't 13 meet with attorneys on every single high-profile case.

14 Q Okay. I was just asking you if you were aware of the meetings that the 15 District of Delaware had had with your staff and whether those meetings were in person.

16 A I thought I answered that before, that if there were meetings that occurred, 17 they might have happened, but I wouldn't be privy to those.

18 Q So was that discussed at your meeting when you reviewed the three 19 memoranda?

20 A At the meeting where we discussed the memoranda and the analysis, legal 21 and factual analysis, we didn't discuss meetings with folks from the District of Delaware.
22 But I understood there were communications between my major frauds chief and
23 attorneys in the District of Delaware.

24 Q Okay. Do you know if they prepared any presentations for your staff?

25 A By "presentations," you mean PowerPoint presentations?

1 Q Something along those lines, yeah.
2 A I'm not aware.
3 Q Do you know what type of materials they did submit to your office?
4 A Yes, but I'm not sure I can discuss the nature of those materials. But, as I
5 said, there were many legal memoranda that were written and presented to me in 6 making this decision of whether or not to agree with the career attorneys.
7 Q Who wrote the memoranda?
8 A So, again, I want to be careful about getting into the substance of the 9 deliberative process. Some memoranda were written, as I understand it, by attorneys
10 from the District of Delaware and the Tax Division, and other -- others by folks in my 11 office.
12 Q There were three memos. Do you remember who wrote each one?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Okay. And was there one from the District of Delaware, one from the Tax
15 Division, and one from your office?
16 A I can't get into specifics. I'll just say that there was work done analyzing 17 this by attorneys in the District of Delaware, by attorneys in the Tax Division, and by 18 attorneys in my office.
19 Q Okay. Do you know who from the District of Delaware was the primary 20 point of contact for your office?
21 A I do not.
22 Q Was that discussed during any of your meetings?
23 A The primary point of contact from the District of Delaware, no.
24 Q When you had the subsequent call with Mr. Weiss on September 19th of this 25 year, you mentioned that was your second call with Mr. Weiss?

1 A Sorry; you're asking about what date?

2 Q The one that occurred last month.

3 A That was the second call I've had with Mr. Weiss, yeah.

4 Q So you've only had two calls with him --

5 A Yes.

6 Q -- or have you had subsequent?

7 A I've had two calls with Mr. Weiss since becoming U.S. Attorney and just 8 during my lifetime.

9 Q Okay. The second call, how long did that last?

10 A Maybe 5 minutes or so.

11 Q Did he initiate the call, or did you initiate the call?

12 A He initiated the call.

13 Q Okay. And was he asking for something?

14 Ms. Zdeb. And, at this point, we're getting well beyond the scope of what Mr.

15 Estrada is authorized to discuss. This call, as you know from the dates, took place after

16 the events related to the question of whether to partner or cocounsel. And so he is not

17 able to get into the specifics of the more recent call with Mr. Weiss.

18 [redacted] All right.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Have you received any other materials other than the three memos on this

21 case?

22 A I'm trying to think. The materials I've received on the question of whether

23 to cocounsel was limited to the three memoranda.

24 Q What was your understanding of Mr. Weiss' ability to bring charges in this

25 case?

1 A My understanding was that Mr. Weiss had been doing this investigation for 2 several years, was leading the investigation, and would bring charges if he believed they 3 were appropriate.
4 Q And if charges needed to be brought in your district, what did he need to do
5 to do that?
6 A My understanding was that he could bring charges in my district.
7 Q And how would that work?
8 A I don't know the specifics of how it would work. He had SAUSAs in my 9 office. When I offered him administrative support and office space, he thanked me for 10 that. So it was my belief that he was going to be able to do that.
11 Moreover, DOJ components often litigate in my district and have the authorization
12 to do that. I don't know the specific code that necessarily gives that authorization, but 13 they have the ability to do that.
14 So my understanding was that, if he wanted to bring those charges in my district,
15 he could bring those charges in my district.
16 Q What is the difference between what you offered Mr. Weiss and what he 17 was requesting?
18 A He requested to cocounsel on the case, which, in my experience, having 19 practiced for over 20 years, including in private practice, which is most often where 20 I've -- in fact, I shouldn't say most often. That's my experience cocounseling, in private 21 practice.
22 In private practice, when you cocounsel, you're in completely. You litigate
23 everything. You're at every hearing. You're an equal member for trial. Every aspect
24 of the case you litigate, which obviously entails significant resources and entails
25 significant time on behalf of the attorneys involved.

1 Q Okay. Are you aware of any instance where your office agreed to
2 cocounsel or partner with a different U.S. Attorney's Office?
3 A No, I'm not, with a different U.S. Attorney's Office. We do partner quite 4 often with different components at Main Justice.
5 Q Okay.
6 A But I'm not familiar myself with partnering with another U.S. Attorney's 7 Office on litigation.
8 Q And did you communicate that to Mr. Weiss, that this was a request that 9 was out of the ordinary?
10 A I didn't communicate that it was a request -- that the request was out of the 11 ordinary. I mean, I was -- my goal was to be as polite and helpful to Mr. Weiss as 12 possible.
13 I was down 40 AUSAs at the time, so we were very resource-strapped. We were 14 trying to hire as much as possible and had very limited resources. And every attorney
15 you assign to a case means you can't do another case.
16 And it seemed -- and he didn't push back on -- when I told him the situation, that 17 we wouldn't be cocounseling, but he did express appreciation when I offered
18 administrative support.
19 Q So was his request out of the ordinary?
20 A I don't know if I could characterize it as out of the ordinary, because all I
21 know is my district. I was an AUSA in my district, and I am the U.S. Attorney in my 22 district. Our district is pretty unique.
23 Q Right.
24 A It's different from any other district. We have more than we can handle in 25 our district, so we typically do not go and litigate in other districts. But that may be

1 different, as there's 94 districts in our great country. So I don't know what the typical
2 practice is in other places.
3 Q Okay. But, in your experience -- I mean, before becoming U.S. Attorney
4 you'd been with the office for just shy of 8 years. Is that correct?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And you hadn't witnessed any U.S. Attorney from a district, different district
7 cocounseling or partnering with someone in your district, correct?
8 A In the Central District, that was not my experience. But, again, we are 9 unique. We are, unfortunately, the gang capital of this country. We're also the hub
10 for every cartel in this country.
11 So that means we may prosecute activity that occurs in other parts of the country,
12 but we have venue in our district to prosecute those conspiracies. We do national 13 security cases that go to other districts as well, but we generally have venue because so 14 much activity occurs in our district.
15 So our district is unique. So I would never presume to say that my experience in 16 the Central District of California somehow dictates what is typical for the rest of the 17 country.
18 Q When you told Mr. Weiss that you were unwilling to partner, that you 19 weren't interested in being -- having a cocounsel arrangement, did he indicate to you that 20 he was interested in taking you up on your offer of administrative support and office
21 space?
22 A The only indication he gave me was he thanked me when I told him that, and 23 that's all I can say.
24 Q Okay. Did it seem like Mr. Weiss was relying on you to give an up-or-down 25 decision on whether a case could be brought in your district?

1 A That was not my understanding, given that he had attorneys SAUSAed to my
2 district and that he thanked me when I told him I wouldn't be cocounseling but offered
3 administrative support.
4 Q Okay. Did he indicate to you that he was going to take you up on that offer
5 of administrative support?
6 A All I can say is he thanked me.
7 Q Okay. Can you tell us why your office decided not to cocounsel or partner
8 with Mr. Weiss on this case?
9 A So, again, I don't want to get into the deliberative process of how we analyze 10 which cases to do, which cases not to do.
11 What I can say at a high level is, generally, when we evaluate cases, we do so 12 under the Justice Manual guidelines. We look at whether a Federal offense has been 13 committed and whether we believe that there is admissible evidence sufficient to prove 14 to an unbiased trier of fact that an individual has committed an offense beyond a 15 reasonable doubt.
16 So we follow those guidelines. We also look to the practical impact of limited
17 resources. As I mentioned, we have over -- we have about 20 million people in the 18 district, yet, at the time I came in, about 140 AUSAs. That's just over one AUSA per 19 100,000 people in the district. At the same time, we're dealing with -- as I said, we're 20 the gang capital. We, unfortunately, export MS-13, Crips gangs, Hispanic gangs,
21 Mexican mafia to the rest of the country. Our cartels infect the rest of the country.
22 The fraud we have here infects the rest of the country.
23 So there were a lot of issues I needed to deal with right there and then which 24 called for resources.
25 Q Did you express to Mr. Weiss that your decision not to cocounsel with him or

1 not to partner with him on this case had more to do with the law and the facts, or was it
2 more of a resource issue, from your perspective?
3 Ms. Zdeb. And he's not able to get into the specifics of what he communicated
4 to Mr. Weiss or what his analysis was, as he has made clear.
5 BY [redacted]:
6 Q I think that's a pretty important question, so -- I mean, we're talking about a
7 time period that's relevant for this transcribed interview.
8 So I just ask you again, are you willing to tell us whether you communicated to Mr.
9 Weiss that your decision to, you know, deny him the ability to partner with you had more
10 to do with your resources, or did it have more to do with other issues?
11 A So I've been given very specific instructions in terms of what I'm authorized
12 and not authorized to speak about by Mr. Weinsheimer in the October 18th letter. I do
13 not want to violate those restrictions, so I can't get into the specifics. But, as I 14 mentioned to you, there were two general principles that we look at in terms of whether 15 we're going to devote resources to any case.

2 [10:58 a.m.]

3 BY [redacted]:

4 Q Okay. Did you have any additional communications on the Hunter Biden

5 case that you haven't told us about here today?

6 And I can cabin that off to the communications that occurred prior to the plea

7 bargain falling apart, the plea bargain in Delaware falling apart.

8 A Can you give me a date? I don't follow this stuff terribly closely and have

9 the dates in mind. So what date are you giving me?

10 Q Well, you told us about the communications that you had in 2022, in 11 October of 2022.

12 A Uh-huh.

13 Q And then you brought up a call that you had with Mr. Weiss in September

14 of 2023, and I'm just asking, is there any other communications you had either internally

15 or externally of your office on the case?

16 A There were communications that I had with my press folks in the spring of 17 2023 when we started getting press inquiries. As I mentioned to you, that was limited

18 to issuing a brief statement which I described to you earlier.

19 Q Okay. But did you have any communications with Main Justice, either the 20 DAG's office or the Tax Division?

21 A I had the communication with Brad Weinsheimer with regard to that brief

22 statement which I issued.

23 Q Okay.

24 A But beyond that, no.

25 Q Okay. Prior to his appointment as special counsel --

A Should we not be concerned about that buzzer?

[redacted]. Off the record.

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Going back on the record.

BY [redacted]

Q Prior to his appointment as special counsel at the end of the summer, did you believe that Mr. Weiss had ultimate authority over the Hunter Biden prosecution?

A So I would disagree with the way you phrased the question.

Q Okay.

A My understanding, through all of my interactions with Mr. Weiss in Delaware, was that he was leading the investigation and was able to bring whatever charges he wanted at any point.

Q Okay. I mean, whether he had ultimate authority or not is a -- I mean, those are words that Mr. Weiss has used. So I was just asking you about that.

A I thought he had authority to bring the charges wherever he chose to when he was U.S. Attorney and certainly as he is now special counsel.

Q What's your understanding of the meaning of ultimate authority inside of DOJ?

A I don't know what that means within DOJ. It could mean lots of different things.

Q Okay. If someone has ultimate -- if a U.S. Attorney has ultimate authority to bring charges, does that mean they're the final decisionmaker?

A It could. I just don't use that term.

Q Okay. Well, Mr. Weiss has used it. So, you know, you're a U.S. Attorney, and so I'm just asking you. So that the term "ultimate authority" doesn't have meaning

1 to you?

2 A It has no special meaning for me in the context of being U.S. Attorney. I

3 would use authority. I have the authority to bring criminal charges, civil offense

4 charges, national security charges, many different types of charges.

5 Q According to the Justice Department's Justice Manual, the final authority for

6 the prosecution or declination of all criminal matters arising under the Internal Revenue

7 laws rests with the.

8 Assistant Attorney General for the Tax Division.

9 Is that something that you're aware of?

10 A So what I'm aware of is that, for certain tax charges, you need authorization

11 from the Tax Division to bring those charges and then also to dismiss those charges --

12 Q Okay.

13 A -- if you choose to dismiss them.

14 Q All right. But if the -- what's the Justice Manual -- maybe we can start

15 there -- to you? What does it mean to you?

16 A So the Justice Manual is what used to be the United States Attorney Manual.

17 Q Okay.

18 A And it is a lengthy set of guidelines for how offices operate and how

19 litigation should be conducted. So it pertains to criminal prosecutions. It pertains to 20 national security matters. It pertains to civil matters, administrative. There are many 21 different provisions.

22 Q Okay. And the Justice Manual with regard to tax matters states: The final

23 authority for the prosecution or declination of all criminal matters arising under the 24 Internal Revenue laws rests with the Assistant Attorney General of the Tax Division.

25 Is that something that you are aware of and something you're familiar with?

1 A I'm familiar with the fact that the Tax Division must approve certain tax
2 charges --
3 Q Okay.
4 A -- in order to have those filed, but also approve the dismissal of those
5 charges if a prosecutor wishes to dismiss them.
6 Q Okay. But, if the Justice Manual says that the Assistant Attorney General
7 for the Tax Division has the final authority, how do you reconcile that with Mr. Weiss'
8 statement that he had ultimate authority?
9 A I'm not going to attempt to reconcile anything. I can't get into the mind of 10 Mr. Weiss of what he meant by the term. You would have to ask him. And my 11 understanding of what the Tax Division's role is as I stated to you.
12 Q Okay. Are you familiar with 28, United States Code, 515, the special 13 counsel authority statute?
14 A I'm aware of 515 in the context of authorizing litigation by components and 15 also by U.S. Attorneys and attorneys for -- and even attorneys outside of the Department.
16 It's a very -- it's a general statute which pertains to the Attorney General being able to 17 authorize litigation. So I don't know that it is a special counsel statute.
18 Q Okay. Outside of 515, is there another way that the U.S. Attorney for 19 Delaware could have acquired ultimate authority from the Attorney General that you're 20 aware of?
21 A I don't know what the ultimate authority -- that's a vague term to me,
22 "ultimate authority."
23 Q Okay.
24 A It's not something I use, not a specialized term I'm familiar with. So I can't 25 answer that.

1 Q Okay. Outside of 515, are there other mechanisms the Department has to
2 grant charging authority to a U.S. Attorney that would supersede the Justice Manual?
3 A I mean, I have charging authority for cases. I don't know if that comes from 4 515 or elsewhere.
5 Q But your charging authority, I mean, you can't -- you can't go against the 6 Justice Manual. Correct?
7 A I don't know what you mean by "go against." They're principles. They're 8 general principles that we're supposed to follow, but the principles are general. So the 9 principle we most often deal with is deciding whether we believe there's sufficient
10 admissible evidence to prove a case beyond a reasonable doubt. That is a principle.
11 It's not going against or not going against. If we believe there's evidence, we believe 12 there's evidence.
13 Q Okay. I mean, what's not a principle, though, is the Justice Manual says the 14 final authority in tax cases, you know, rests with the Assistant Attorney General for the 15 Tax Division. Correct?
16 A I don't know the Justice Manual provision you're talking about. I can tell
17 you my understanding of what the Tax Division's authority is. They approve charges, 18 and you need approval if you're going to dismiss certain charges.
19 Q Right.
20 A Not all tax-related charges, but certain tax charges.
21 Q Right. So, if you're bringing a tax case in your division, you need the 22 approval -- the authorization from the Tax Division? Correct?
23 A I don't -- I can't say in all instances -- I can't say in all instances what the 24 requirements would be.
25 [redacted] Okay. We're out of time. We'll stop there.

1 [Recess.]

2 [redacted] It's 11:22. We can go back on the record.

3 EXAMINATION

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Good morning again.

6 A Good morning.

7 Q I want to start off with just some followup questions from the prior hour.

8 You mentioned that you talked to a gentleman named Bradley Weinsheimer in

9 the --

10 A Brad Weinsheimer, correct.

11 Q Who is Mr. Weinsheimer?

12 A My understanding is he's the most senior career official in the Department

13 and sits within the office of the Deputy Attorney General. Beyond that, I don't have 14 more on his title.

15 Q And you spoke with him this past spring about media contacts that you had 16 received. Correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Why was Mr. Weinsheimer the person that you talked to?

19 A Because he was the person I understood that was handling questions in this 20 regard.

21 Q And, again, he's a career official. Correct?

22 A Yes, that was my understanding -- well, he is a career official. I know that

23 to be a fact, yeah.

24 Q Okay. And you spoke with him again in the lead up to today's interview.

25 Correct?

1 A I did not. So I received a letter from him --
2 Q I'm sorry.
3 A -- on October 18th regarding the scope of my authority to speak today.
4 Q And is it your understanding that you received that letter from him again
5 because he is the highest ranking career official?
6 A I don't have an understanding beyond the fact that he's the person that's 7 designated to handle this, and he's the highest ranking career official.
8 Q Okay. I want to turn to the discussion of SAUSAs again and just make sure
9 that I have my facts straight on this.
10 A SAUSA is a Special Assistant United States Attorney; correct?
11 A Correct.
12 Q And is it correct that the SAUSAs from Mr. Weiss' office that were appointed
13 as SAUSAs in the Central District of California had already been so appointed by the time
14 that you came to the office in September of last year?
15 A They had been appointed already, yes.
16 Q Okay. So you don't recall the exact date -- or you can't recall the exact
17 date, but it was before you came to the office?
18 A So, when I -- I usually get the request to authorize a SAUSA or to terminate a
19 SAUSA, and that request is made by folks at the line level, and it goes up through 20 the -- that division without attorneys, the Administrative Division. And then it comes to 21 me for signature. So I did not -- the authorization came before, and that's the extent to 22 which I know, and I've never authorized termination.
23 Q Okay. And, with respect to SAUSAs, just generally speaking, what can a 24 SAUSA do in your office when they're assigned to your office?
25 A So a SAUSA has full authority to litigate within our office. Most often

1 SAUSAs come from State practice. So, right now, I mentioned before we have a fentanyl
2 epidemic, and the State is unable to prosecute those cases as homicides. They're
3 limited in their authority of what they can do on those cases. So many of the State
4 District Attorney's Offices have given us State prosecutors to work as SAUSAs to do what 5 we call death resulting cases. Those are title 841 -- or section 841 cases, 21, 841, where 6 an individual sells a controlled substance, and that results in the death of another person.
7 That's a statute we didn't used to use very often before. But now that kids are taking
8 what they think is an Oxy or what they think is a Percocet and waking up dead the next
9 morning and the State is hamstrung by what they can do, we're getting more and more
10 SAUSAs to do those cases. The SAUSAs have the authority to investigate the cases, to 11 indict the cases, to try the cases, and they do that. We have a lot of those cases in our 12 district.
13 Q When a SAUSA is assigned to your office, can they consult with other
14 attorneys in the office, meaning, for example, regular assistant U.S. attorneys?
15 A They generally do because they don't know all the practices. So, just like 16 other AUSAs, they will consult with a supervisor. If there are questions about an 17 indictment or how to get grand jury time, or any sort of questions they may have, they 18 consult with supervisors in the office.
19 Q Okay. So they're not walled off. They're effectively part of the office. Is 20 that fair to say?
21 A Generally speaking, I'm not aware of any SAUSAs being ever walled off, so I
22 don't even know what necessarily that would mean. But I -- yeah, I'm not aware of 23 SAUSAs ever being walled off.
24 Q I want to move on and talk about your background a little bit and especially 25 prior to joining -- prior to your appointment as the U.S. Attorney in the Central District.

1 You said you first joined the Central District of California as an assistant U.S. Attorney in 2 approximately 2007. Is that right?
3 A Correct.
4 Q What was your role?
5 A When I first started I was in the General Crimes Section. I was a rookie, so
6 that was my role. I was a rookie learning how to prosecute cases.
7 Q And those were criminal cases?
8 A Those were criminal cases because I was hired for the Criminal Division. So
9 I started out learning how to do criminal prosecutions. I was in the General Crimes
10 Section for about 6 months. Then I went to what's known as the Violent Organized 11 Crime Section. And so, for the rest of my career I became a supervisor there and was 12 the international organized crime coordinator, which meant that I handled mostly 13 organized crime work in the office. I did mostly Eurasian organized crime, 14 Russian-Armenian organized crime cases. I also did gang cases in the context of 15 Mexican Mafia cases. We indicted one of the largest Mexican Mafia cases in the country
16 involving eight verified members. I also did some work on Crips gangs that were 17 manufacturing and distributing PCP and some cases on MS-13, which is a gang that 18 originated in Los Angeles but is largely Central American and is now present all over the 19 country, including in this area.
20 Q During that time, did you have the opportunity to try cases before a jury?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Could you estimate approximately how many cases you tried before a jury?
23 A Yes. I tried -- as an AUSA, I had 22 cases. I tried 22 cases. And, in 24 general, in my overall practice, I've tried over 35 cases in Federal and State court.
25 Q And, when you say "in general," that includes your time in private practice?

1 A Correct.

2 Q I want to talk through some of the cases that you have overseen since you

3 became the U.S. Attorney in September of last year.

4 Are you familiar with a defendant named Jose Huizar?

5 A Yeah. Jose Huizar was a member of the Los Angeles City Council for about

6 15 years. He was one of the highest ranking members in the city council. He was the

7 first Latino to be a fellow of Princeton University. He was a very sort of high-riser in

8 California politics. We indicted him actually on RICO charges, and he pled guilty I believe

9 either late last year or early this year.

10 Q And which political party was Mr. Huizar a member of?

11 A He was a Democrat.

12 Q So is it fair to say that, while -- and was he also -- did he also plead guilty to a 13 count of tax evasion?

14 A My understanding is yes.

15 Q Okay. So is it fair to say that while you were serving as U.S. Attorney, your 16 office actually prosecuted a Democratic politician for tax-related crimes?

17 A While I've been U.S. Attorney, we've prosecuted several Democratic

18 politicians for a variety of crimes. The most prominent one, we tried an individual

19 named Mark Ridley-Thomas. He was one of the most powerful African-American

20 politicians in the State, if not the country. He served in the city council but also as a

21 member of the county board of supervisors, also in the State assembly and also in the

22 State senate. We charged him with bribery with regard to funneling money to his son

23 who had left his position in the State senate after there were allegations of sexual

24 harassment. And his father, Mark Ridley-Thomas, funneled money through USC to his 25 son inappropriately.

1 But there's many beyond that. We've indicted three different city council
2 members in the last few years, all Democrats. We also have indicted several other
3 politicians in the L.A. area. L.A. is not just the city of Los Angeles. There are many 4 other cities around there, and we've indicted many individuals.
5 Q Is it fair to say that your office is not swayed by political party when 6 considering whether to charge an individual?
7 A We are -- we adhere to the Justice Manual and the principle of validating
8 cases unbiasedly and just based on the facts and law, and we take the facts and law
9 where they take us. And that could mean any individual, regardless of his or hers fame,
10 position, power. It doesn't matter.
11 Q I want to turn to the Justice Manual. And you've mentioned it a couple of 12 times that your office follows the Justice Manual.
13 [redacted] I want to introduce as, I guess it's exhibit number 1 --
14 Mr. Estrada. Okay.
15 [redacted]. -- an excerpt from the Justice Manual's principles of Federal 16 prosecution. It's section 9-27.220, and it's entitled "Grounds for Commencing or 17 Declining Prosecution."
18 [Estrada Exhibit No. 1
19 Was marked for identification.]
20 Mr. Estrada. Is it just these two pages?
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q So this is the cover page of the section, and then it's section 9-27.220. So it
23 is on the bottom of the second page -- of the third page, I guess.
24 A Okay.
25 Q And I should say we printed this off online. The full section; I think it's

1 30-some pages. So, in this exhibit, we're only including the excerpt that we're going to 2 talk through.
3 A Understood.
4 Q I'm going to read out loud the section entitled "Grounds for Commencing or
5 Declining Prosecution."
6 It says: The attorney for the government should commence or recommend 7 Federal prosecution if he or she believes that the person's conduct constitutes a Federal 8 offense, and that the admissible evidence will probably be sufficient to obtain and sustain
9 a conviction, unless, number one, the prosecution would serve no substantial Federal 10 interest; number two, the person is subject to effective prosecution in another 11 jurisdiction; or, number three, there exists an adequate noncriminal alternative to 12 prosecution.
13 Did I read that correctly?
14 A Yes.
15 Q Okay. This section refers to the term "admissible evidence." And you also 16 used it in the first hour.
17 In layperson's terms, what does "admissible evidence" mean?
18 A It means evidence we can present to a jury. So, in many instances, we may 19 be aware of information, scuttlebutt that may be out there. For instance, very often in 20 gang murders everyone in the neighborhood knows who did it. It doesn't mean we can 21 admit that at trial. That would often be hearsay or lack of foundation, so it wouldn't be 22 admissible.
23 So we need to be sure that the evidence that we're admitting is admissible under 24 the Federal Rules of Evidence, and it's sufficient to sustain a conviction beyond a
25 reasonable doubt. And sustain is important because that means not just obtaining a

1 conviction but also making sure that we will sustain that throughout the appellate
2 process.
3 Q And you referenced "beyond a reasonable doubt." "Beyond a reasonable
4 doubt" is actually the highest evidentiary standard in law; correct?
5 A As defense attorneys always like to say, yes, it is.
6 Q And it's a higher standard than, for example, the probable cause standard
7 that is needed just to obtain an indictment; correct?
8 A Correct.
9 Q And it's a higher standard than the preponderance of the evidence standard
10 that's often needed to obtain a judgment in your favor in a civil case. Correct?
11 A Correct, yes.
12 Q In layperson's terms, to the best of your ability, can you explain what 13 "beyond a reasonable doubt" is?
14 A So "beyond a reasonable doubt" is evidence -- there's a Ninth Circuit
15 instruction on this -- that leads you firmly convinced in the guilt of an individual. It's not 16 beyond all possible doubt, but it's based on reason and common sense. But it is the 17 highest standard that exists under law.
18 Q So --
19 A The other important part of that when we talk about sustaining a conviction
20 is, to get a conviction under criminal law, you need a unanimous jury of all 12 jurors
21 voting to convict. And that's an important distinction from civil practice where you 22 don't need a unanimous jury to find even by a lesser standard, which is the 23 preponderance standard.
24 Q Have you ever had an experience as a prosecutor where you felt strongly
25 that you had presented the jury with sufficient evidence to prove a case beyond a

1 reasonable doubt and sustained that conviction, but there was maybe one juror who
2 didn't agree, and so, as a result, that defendant was not convicted?
3 A I've had that occur several times in my career, yes.
4 Q Can you describe those cases just broadly speaking for us?
5 A Sure. Those are known as often hung juries where the jury can't come to a
6 decision. I've had that occur at least four, five times. That's why I've tried so many 7 cases. I've had to repeat some of them. You know, it helps you understand the 8 difficulty of proving proof beyond a reasonable doubt because one person can be 9 unconvinced and prevent a conviction from going forward.
10 I had one instance in my career where we had an individual visiting the United 11 States from Armenia, from the Sochi area -- not Armenia, but Russia, from the Sochi area.
12 He was kidnapped and shot several times by an Armenian group that wanted to extort
13 him and demand money from him. He was held for 5 days and forced to different stash
14 locations. We rescued him on fourth day. SWAT went in. There's videos of SWAT
15 going in rescuing him. He was suffering from significant injuries from the untreated
16 gunshot wound.
17 And I'll never forget the testimony from the trauma surgeon who testified that,
18 when he made the first incision into the individual's stomach, out erupted a fountain of 19 liquid stool. He had to go through four different surgeries. He ultimately survived 20 after 2 months.
21 We tried three individuals for the kidnapping, and it hung, and it was two jurors
22 who hung it, and it was largely what we call jury nullification. They didn't like the 23 prosecution because they believed that the victim was himself involved in criminal 24 activity and had connections to powerful people in Russia, what's known as thieves in 25 law, which is essentially the godfather in Russian organized crime. And, because of that,

1 they didn't want to convict. So we had to retry that case, much shorter, and ultimately
2 got a conviction on that case.
3 But we had -- the evidence was, in our view, extremely strong, but still some 4 jurors didn't agree in the first instance.
5 Q So, turning to the Hunter Biden investigation specifically -- and I don't want
6 to ask you about deliberations, but I want to talk about the kind of considerations that 7 your office had to think through under the Justice Manual and in particular the 8 decision -- or the recommendation that was made to you by the chief of the Major Frauds
9 Section and the Criminal Section.
10 And you said -- before I go there, the chief of the Major Frauds Section and the 11 Criminal Division chief in the Central District are both career employees. Correct?
12 A They are, yes.
13 Q And can you say again for the record how many years of experience they 14 have?
15 A They have at least over 40 years of experience combined, probably more in 16 the ballpark getting to 50 years.
17 Q So, without revealing -- and they made a recommendation to you; correct?
18 A Correct.
19 Q And you accepted that recommendation?
20 A The recommendation was not to cocounsel on this matter, yes, and I
21 accepted that.
22 Q Without revealing your actual deliberations or your discussions on the 23 matter, was one thing that you considered whether there was sufficient admissible
24 evidence such that prosecutors could sustain a conviction from a jury in your district?
25 Ms. Zdeb. And he can answer that question, not about this case specifically

1 because that involves the ongoing case, but he can talk about his general process. To
2 the extent he can talk about his general process, he needs to do it with respect to broadly
3 speaking in all cases. But he cannot speak about the considerations that he evaluated in 4 this case.
5 A So I can't get into the specifics what was discussed and what law or facts
6 were analyzed in this case. I'll say the general matter that we discuss when looking at all
7 matters are the Justice Manual requirement that we only prosecute cases where we 8 believe a Federal offense has been committed and where we believe there will be 9 sufficient admissible evidence to prove a case beyond a reasonable doubt to an unbiased
10 trier of fact.
11 And we also discuss the second principle of ensuring the practical aspect of having 12 limited resources and ensuring we prosecute cases in light of those limited resources.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q And that's the case -- and you said you apply those principles -- or you 15 consider those two principles in all cases that come before you. Correct?
16 A Yes.
17 Q And this was one of the questions that came before you was pertaining to 18 the Hunter Biden matter. Correct?
19 A The question of whether to cocounsel on this investigation, which was being 20 led by the District of Delaware.
21 Q In addition to the probability of obtaining and sustaining a conviction at trial,
22 the Justice Manual's principles of prosecution also instruct prosecutors to consider 23 whether there exists an adequate noncriminal alternative to prosecution; correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And that applies in all cases; correct?

1 A Yes. We have what's known as a CASA program, which is Conviction
2 Alternative and Sentencing Alternatives program, in which some individuals we send to a
3 program where they go through course work for a period of time, and after that, either
4 they receive a probationary sentence or, in a different, track the charges are dismissed.
5 Those are often for individuals who commit crimes as a result of substance abuse,
6 but -- and also as a result of being pressured into committing crimes by gangs and cartels
7 and things of that sort.
8 So we do have a program for that, which I believe ours was one of the first in the 9 country, so we're proud of it.
10 Q And, in tax-related cases in particular, there are alternatives to criminal 11 prosecution that are routinely pursued, such as a payment of civil penalties. Correct?
12 A In our district, we actually have a Tax Division. We have a Tax Division
13 which handles tax matters, and they do it on the civil side, not criminal. But, even their 14 cases largely pertain to tax preparers and accountants and firms that on a routine basis
15 are helping individuals not pay their full amount of taxes. And they'll also prosecute
16 cases against individual taxpayers where they fail to pay the tax or hiding accounts
17 overseas or things of that sort. But those are all done generally on the civil side.
18 Q To the best of your knowledge, has the Central District ever prosecuted an 19 individual for tax-related crimes when that individual has paid the taxes in question? I
20 mean criminally prosecuted.
21 A My understanding is where an individual has not paid taxes in the first 22 instance but later paid those taxes with penalties and interest before a prosecution is 23 initiated or an investigation is initiated, we have never brought criminal charges.
24 Q Is willfulness something that prosecutors have to prove in a tax evasion
25 case?

1 A Under most tax statutes, felony and misdemeanor, for a criminal case, one
2 would need to prove willfulness.
3 Q And what does "willfulness" mean again in layman's terms?
4 A Willfulness means the knowing violation of a legal duty. So it's 5 essentially -- specific intent is another way it's sometimes described -- that you know
6 you're violating the law, not just that you violate the law, but you know you're violating 7 the law.
8 Q If an individual has paid taxes that are due, might that make it challenging to 9 prove willfulness?
10 A That could add to the defense argument that the individual did not
11 knowingly violate the law. But there's lots of factors that go into whether an individual
12 knowingly violated the law, such as whether they hired an attorney or a tax
13 preparer -- that's often part of a defense because they hired trained individuals to do it
14 for them -- whether an individual falsified books and records or kept double books, so
15 that's another factor as to whether or not there's willfulness, and whether or not there
16 was concealment of assets from the IRS. That's another factor that goes to willfulness.
17 When we don't have those facts, it becomes much harder to prove willfulness.
18 Q Can it matter if an individual was suffering from substance abuse, for 19 example, at the time that they allegedly failed to pay their taxes?
20 A It depends on the facts and circumstances. If the defense becomes that 21 the substance abuse was such that they did not have full control of their faculties or 22 unaware of actions they were doing, I'm sure they would present that as a defense and 23 try to convince a jury they didn't act -- they were in violation of a legal duty.
24 Q You said over and over again that, when Mr. Weiss asked your office to join 25 or cocounsel on this prosecution, your response was guided by -- or your response and

1 your office's recommendation and, ultimately, your decision was guided by consideration
2 of the Justice Manual's Principles of Federal Prosecution. Correct?
3 A Yes. That was at least guided by those principles.
4 Q Was your response and your decision influenced in any way by personal,
5 political, or partisan considerations of any kind?
6 A It was not.
7 Q Was your decision influenced in any way by people outside your office, such 8 as people at the White House or the Deputy Attorney General or the Attorney General's 9 Office who sought to affect your decision?
10 A No. And I had no contact with those individuals when making decisions.
11 Q What impact, if any, do you believe that your decision not to cocounsel on 12 this case had on Mr. Weiss' efforts to potentially prosecute Hunter Biden in the Central 13 District of California?
14 A None. I believe then, I believe now that he had full authority to bring the 15 case if he chose to do so. It was his investigation. He knew it best. His prosecutors
16 knew it best. They've had it for several years, and it was up to them to decide whether 17 to bring it or not. And whether or not we cocounseled would be immaterial to whether 18 he could bring the charges that he found appropriate.
19 Q And is it fair to say that you never took any steps to block Mr. Weiss from 20 bringing charges in the Central District of California?
21 A Never. In fact, to the contrary, my office before I had come in had 22 appointed as SAUSAs people from his office, and I had offered him administrative support 23 and office space to pursue his case, which he thanked me for.
24 Q And, when you say "administrative support," can you explain what that 25 means?

1 A It can mean a lot of things. And I use the term in part because I don't want
2 to reveal aspects of the deliberative process. But it could involve secretarial support,
3 filing support, how to file in the Central District, how many copies are required, paper, IT
4 support, trial presentation support, how to do a PowerPoint, folks that help you prepare
5 the PowerPoint, and we have a grand jury administrator who reserves grand jury time,
6 the number of copies that need to be filed with the court after you get a true bill from a 7 grand jury, a lot of things that, thankfully, lawyers don't have to work on, but we have 8 great staff that handle those things.
9 Q And, when you offered Mr. Weiss all administrative support, he understood
10 that this was the type of support you were providing to him?
11 A I believed that he had that understanding given how he thanked me for it,
12 but I always say I can't get into his head.
13 Q You said in the earlier hour that, when you relayed to Mr. Weiss that you 14 weren't interested in cocounseling, joining as cocounsel, but you would be willing to 15 provide any administrative support that he might need, he didn't push back on the 16 decision not to join as cocounsel.
17 Do you remember saying that?
18 A I don't recall specifically, but if you say so.
19 Q Well, what does not push back -- does that mean that he didn't try and 20 convince you to join?
21 A We didn't have a discussion, a back-and-forth, about whether or not to 22 partner on the case or a discussion about the charges he was contemplating. It was 23 simply him listening to me for a short period of time. It seemed like he already had an 24 understanding of my reasons, given that there was little discussion, and it was such a
25 short conversation; I didn't need to say much to him. And then I proceeded to tell him

1 he would have support and administrative support, and he thanked me for it.

2 Q You were nominated in June 2022. Correct?

3 A I believe so.

4 Q As part of your nomination, did you make any assurances or promises to 5 anybody regarding how you would handle the Hunter Biden matter?

6 A No. Sorry to laugh. I was not aware of the Hunter Biden matter until late

7 September, early October of 2022.

8 Q So, during the entirety of your nomination and ultimate confirmation, you

9 had no knowledge of the Hunter Biden matter whatsoever?

10 A I did not have any knowledge of it. But also I partly laugh because of the 11 absurdity of agreeing on any particular case of how I would handle it. I wouldn't have

12 taken the job if I had to make assurances to people of how I would handle the criminal

13 cases. The reasons to do the job is for the love of the office, for the love of the country,

14 and to do the right thing. So I would have never made such assurances.

15 Q The suggestion was made in the earlier hour that perhaps this case should

16 be treated differently because it involves the son of the President, so, for example,

17 perhaps you should be talking to the SAUSAs on the case or something like that. But, in 18 fact, you have treated this case like any other case; correct?

19 A Yes. In terms of how to analyze whether to cocounsel on the case, I've 20 treated it like every case we get.

21 Q And why is that?

22 A Because that's the appropriate way for the Department of Justice to conduct

23 its business. The Department of Justice is not partisan. That's always been one of the 24 abiding principles of the Department. That's why we get some of the best lawyers in the

25 country to work for us because -- and they're of all different stripes, every associated

1 background, every part of the country. They want to work for us because we play it
2 straight, and we take every case where the facts and the law go, regardless of any
3 considerations -- inappropriate considerations who the individual is. That's the reason
4 people love the job, love the office, love the Department and are so proud to serve our
5 client which is the United States of America.
6 [redacted] Thank you.
7 I'm going to turn it over to my cocounsel, [redacted]
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q Hi, Mr. Estrada.
10 A Hello.
11 Q I just want to ask you a couple of questions about your experience with the 12 need to go to the Tax Division on certain types of charges.
13 In the previous hour, you indicated that for certain tax charges you need authority
14 to bring or dismiss those. Is that your understanding?
15 A My understanding is, for certain tax charges, you need authority from the 16 Tax Division to indict them, to file them, and also if you later want to dismiss them.
17 Q Okay. And, when you are referring to that authority from the Tax Division,
18 is that something in the Justice Manual that led you to believe that you needed that 19 authority from the Tax Division?
20 A So I acquired that understanding from my time as an AUSA. I had 21 matter -- another organized crime matter where there was a group of individuals who 22 were stealing identities and submitting false tax returns on a massive scale and made over 23 $20 million through that scheme. And, when I was investigating that case and looking at 24 what charges I could bring, I looked into potential tax charges since they were false tax
25 returns and consulted with the Tax Division and came to the understanding that they

1 needed to approve any sort of specific tax evasion type charges if I was to file those.

2 Q And so the Tax Division was referring themselves to the Justice Manual in

3 terms of the need to get that authority. Is that right?

4 A I was told by a supervisor you have got to go to the Tax Division if you want

5 to bring these charges.

6 Q Okay. But you, yourself, never looked at the Justice Manual with respect to 7 that authority or --

8 A I can't recall if I did or not. This would have been probably 13, 14 years

9 ago, so --

10 Q I understand.

11 A -- I can't recall.

12 Q Okay.

13 [redacted] I'm going to introduce as exhibit 2 -- this is a part of the Justice

14 Manual.

15 [Estrada Exhibit No. 2

16 Was marked for identification.]

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q It's section 6-1.100 entitled "Department of Justice Policy and 19 Responsibilities - Tax Division."

20 A So the previous document I can give back or --

21 Q You can set it aside or -- either way.

22 This one is just one page --

23 A Okay.

24 Q -- the first part of that section.

25 A So you're asking about which provision?

1 Q So, yeah, let me direct your attention. The first section of the sentence
2 actually -- this is that bold paragraph there underneath the headline. It says: The 3 Assistant Attorney General for the Tax Division, subject to the general supervision of the 4 Attorney General and under the direction of the Associate Attorney General, is 5 responsible for conducting, handling, or supervising the following matters.
6 And then it lists certain types of cases; correct?
7 A I see that.
8 Q Okay. I guess what I want to emphasize is the very first part that says that 9 these matters, even these specific ones that are identified as kind of special under the Tax
10 Code, these are under the general supervision of the Attorney General according to the 11 Justice Manual.
12 Is that fair to say? I'm sorry. That's the very first line of the -- 13 A Subject to the general supervision of the Attorney General and under the 14 direction of the Associate Attorney General, yes.
15 Q Right. Okay. And the Justice Manual itself, you indicated earlier it's a set 16 of principles in your mind?
17 A Many of them are principles. It's a very extensive document, so I wouldn't 18 attempt to characterize the entire thing, but there are many principles that we need to 19 follow.
20 Q They're regulations; is that right?
21 A I don't know if it's in the Code of Federal Regulations, if they're CFRs or not.
22 Q I need you to look at the bottom of the page here. You can see a cite to 28,
23 CFR, sections .70 and .71, but I don't want to -- 24 A Apparently they are.
25 Q But they're not statutes. Is that fair to say?

1 A I never understood it to be a statute.

2 Q And you indicated earlier that you understand, as the United States

3 Attorney, that you have authority to bring criminal charges in your district; correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And that authority does derive by statute, correct, section 515?

6 A That's my understanding.

7 Q Okay. And the statutory authority to prosecute Federal offenses in the 8 United States rests in the Attorney General ultimately. Correct?

9 A That's my understanding. We have an org chart. I report technically to

10 the Deputy Attorney General, and the Deputy Attorney General reports to the Attorney

11 General.

12 Q Okay. And the Attorney General can delegate authority as he wishes within

13 the Department of Justice --

14 A Yes.

15 Q -- to some extent?

16 A Yes.

17 Q I guess my point is this. If there's something in the Justice Manual that asks

18 an attorney to seek approval or authority from another part of the Justice Department

19 like the Tax Division, do you see any reason that the Attorney General, him or herself,

20 could not make an exception to that policy just because it's written down in the Justice

21 Manual? Do you think that they would have the authority to direct the Tax Division, for 22 example, to allow charges to go if that's what he chose?

23 A So I've never encountered any situation of that sort. Every Attorney

24 General has broad powers to delegate within the Department and revise aspects of the 25 Justice Manual. The Attorney General is the ultimate authority for the entire

1 Department of Justice.

2 Q Okay. So, if the Attorney General Merrick Garland says with respect to the 3 issue that we've been discussing today that a U.S. Attorney, Mr. Weiss, had full authority
4 to bring charges with respect to a certain person, Mr. Biden, do you believe -- do you
5 have any reason to believe that he was not being truthful when he said that just because 6 there might be something in the Justice Manual that asks for consultation or authority
7 from the Tax Division?

8 A I had no reason to believe that the Attorney General's statement was not
9 accurate. I believe it was accurate, given that was my understanding when Mr. Weiss
10 and his office first sought to have us partner on the case and my career folks
11 recommended not doing it. So my understanding was and is that he, Mr. Weiss, had the 12 authority to bring the case where he chose. And, when the media reached out, that's 13 why we put out a very brief statement echoing what the Attorney General had stated.
14 As the Attorney General stated, Mr. Weiss had full authority over the investigation.

15 Q And, if a career attorney or supervisor or someone else in Main Tax had 16 decided "I'm going to advise you not to bring these charges," do you think that the 17 Attorney General himself could have weighed in on that and made sure that, like he said
18 publicly, Mr. Weiss had ultimate authority to bring those charges, notwithstanding what 19 some other person in Tax Division's opinion might have been?

20 A I would think so, but I never worked in the Tax Division. I don't know how 21 they operate. I don't know how they do things. I only had that one interaction. And 22 we actually declined to bring tax charges because we didn't want to have to go to the Tax
23 Division to decide whether to dismiss them. So it was a limited interaction with the Tax
24 Division that I had.

25 Q Okay. But, in your position with the Justice Department and various

1 positions that you've held, can you imagine situations where you might have to deviate
2 from something that is policy within the Justice Manual by going higher up and asking for 3 permission to deviate in a special circumstance?
4 A I can imagine situations even with the Deputy Attorney General or the 5 Attorney General to directing certain courses of action or changing aspects of the Justice
6 Manual, it's certainly possible. I just haven't encountered it myself.
7 Q All right. And through your career as the former U.S. -- it was actually
8 formerly called the U.S. Attorneys' Manual, and then it changed to the Justice Manual?
9 A It was the USAM, U.S. Attorneys' Manual, yes.
10 Q So, through your career, have you ever seen changes to policies as they've 11 been sort of memorialized in those manuals?
12 A Very frequently.
13 Q Okay.
14 A In fact, this one says: Updated June 2020.
15 [redacted] Okay.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q And so I think just to wrap up what [redacted] was asking, ultimately the 18 Attorney General is in charge of Justice Department; correct?
19 A Correct.
20 Q And the Attorney General has final say over what happens in the Justice
21 Department; is that fair to say?
22 A Yes, yeah.
23 Q And so, ultimately, if the Attorney General wants to effectively override
24 what's written down in the Justice Manual, the Attorney General can do that; correct?
25 A That would be my understanding, but I've never had a situation where I have

1 encountered that.

2 Q I want to move on. You've mentioned a couple of times resource

3 considerations --

4 A Yes.

5 Q -- in your office.

6 A Uh-huh.

7 Q And I want to talk about that in a little more detail. The Central District of 8 California covers the largest Federal district in the Nation; correct?

9 A We're the largest district in the country, correct.

10 Q How many people does the Central District of California cover?

11 A We have just under 20 million people, seven counties, going from Los

12 Angeles County, Orange County in the south, which has about three-something million

13 people. We have the Inland Empire, Riverside, San Bernardino -- San Bernardino being

14 the fastest growing county in the country, about 4 million something -- and to the north

15 we have Ventura, Santa Barbara, and San Luis Obispo.

16 Q And you said I think earlier that your office currently employs around 300

17 Assistant U.S. Attorneys. Is that right?

18 A We have 300, but that's overall. Criminal prosecutors, we have about 170.

19 Q 170. And I think you also said that, in September of last year, so when the 20 decision about whether to cocounsel on this case was first brought to you, you were

21 down about 40. So you would have had 130, approximately, Criminal Division

22 prosecutors?

23 A We were down 40. It was more like 140 because at the same time that I

24 had been hiring as much as possible, we had continued attrition. Our office is one

25 where people often leave for different opportunities, whether it be judgeships, whether it

1 be private practice, whether it be going to another public sector office. So we get
2 attrition too. So I think we're more at the 140 area and are now at 170.
3 Q And you said earlier that 140 -- approximately 140 is equal to one U.S.
4 Attorney for every 100,000 citizens or residents of your district; correct?
5 A Just around that. I mean, just to put it into perspective, it was a crisis mode
6 when I came in because one of the major areas we have is national security. National 7 Security covers not just foreign actors. It includes terrorist actors. It includes domestic 8 extremism. And I've had to double the size of that division during the time I've been 9 there, and we still can't handle all of the cases we have there.
10 Q And that's today, even doubled, you don't have sufficient attorneys to 11 handle all of the cases?
12 A Well, that's true in every one of our areas. We don't have enough AUSAs
13 to handle our national security matters. We could be doing -- every AUSA in my office
14 could be doing PPP fraud cases we have so much PPP fraud. Every -- 15 Q PPP is the --
16 A That's the COVID fraud, COVID-19 money fraud. Every AUSA in my office
17 could be doing healthcare fraud cases we have so much healthcare fraud. We have to 18 deploy our resources in the most effective manner to address the needs of the district.
19 As I mentioned, we have a fentanyl epidemic. That includes not just death-resulting 20 cases, it includes going after cartels which are distributing these pills, not just in powder
21 form but in pill form. We routinely seize over a million pills at a time from vehicles, and 22 we need to prosecute those cases. Each pill could be a death. And routinely now 23 we're finding cartels transporting fentanyl in liquid form, which is a new thing that they're 24 doing. So we have to do those cases.
25 We have a violent crime crisis where, for a variety of reasons, including some of

1 the local policies, there has been an increase, certainly in our view, of violent crime and
2 use of handguns in crimes. We have taco vendors on the streets getting robbed at 3 gunpoint. So we are doing more of those types of offenses than we ever have before.
4 We don't have enough resources to do those.
5 And, as I mentioned, the public corruption area is one where we've been very 6 active. We've been trying to do as much as we can there, but even there it's very 7 resource strapped.
8 BY [redacted]:
9 Q You've talked a lot about the different types of cases that your office
10 handles. Some of those fall outside of the typical buckets, and I just want to ask you one 11 question about one of those.
12 While you're sitting here today answering questions about your decision not to 13 partner on the prosecution of Hunter Biden, your office is beginning trial in a case 14 involving the death of 34 individuals who were killed in a fire on a dive boat; correct?
15 A Uh-huh.
16 Q And that's starting today?
17 A Yes. Sorry.
18 Q I'm sorry to bring up an emotional subject. I will ask one followup
19 question.
20 A Uh-huh.
21 Q Do you feel that your time would be better spent if you were in the office
22 supporting your team on that case?
23 A So we have a -- I'm sorry to get a little emotional, but it's 33 individuals who 24 died. It's a ship called the Conception, which was out on Labor Day weekend of 2019.
25 It was all families, young people, retirees went out for a diving expedition off Santa Cruz

1 Island, which is an island that's rural, has no development, no gas stations, no
2 convenience stores, nothing. And, because the captain hadn't trained his crew on how
3 to use fire equipment that was on the ship, did not, contrary to Coast Guard regulations,
4 have a watch person at all times, allowed a small fire to become a conflagration, which 5 erupted and killed all of the passengers on board except for the captain and a few crew,
6 who were first off the ship and allowed this tragedy to happen.
7 And I get a little emotional because we've been dealing a lot with the victims on 8 the case, the victims' families, and they have been going through hell on the case. So it's 9 a very difficult matter to talk about.
10 [redacted] Thank you. And I apologize.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q I want to move on to -- we have a little bit of time left.
13 A Sure.
14 Q -- to another topic that I guess might also be a little emotional.
15 You referenced the media inquiries that you received for the handling this case in 16 the spring of this year.
17 A Uh-huh.
18 Q Is it fair to say that this investigation, the Republican investigation, into Mr.
19 Weiss' investigation in particular has received substantial press coverage?
20 A I am aware that there has been press coverage. I don't track this on a 21 day-to-day basis. In fact, as executives of the Department, we get a daily email which 22 has snippets from various criminal prosecutions and issues around the country, and that's 23 where I've seen some articles on this topic. But I don't track it myself, but I've seen
24 articles on this topic.
25 Q And your office specifically has been in the public eye because of this

1 investigation; correct? I mean, you got a media inquiry.

2 A I've gotten media inquiries. I wouldn't say we're -- we're not obsessing

3 over the media inquiries that we get. We get a lot of media inquiries. We respond to 4 those media inquiries and move on.

5 Q Have you personally received any incoming communications from the public

6 about this investigation?

7 A Those I wouldn't categorize as media inquiries. But, yes, I have received

8 what I would categorize as hate mail, hate emails on this matter.

9 Q Can you estimate how many hate emails you've received because of this

10 investigation?

11 A Dozens. I don't fixate on it because I try to move those and not let it take 12 up most of my days. I don't focus on it, but it's been dozens of hate communications.

13 Q Can you describe any of the hate communications that you've received?

14 A Again, I don't focus a lot on it. I try to leave it aside, but I have been

15 slandered using epithets, the N word, certain derogatory terms reserved for Latinos. So

16 I've gotten a lot of communications from the public showing a lot of hatred.

2 [12:11 p.m.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Do you have any concerns for your safety because of these communications?

5 A So I've forwarded many of the communications to the Marshals Service, so

6 they've been assisting with security issues.

7 Q Uh-huh.

8 A I have confidence in the Marshals Service, but I've always -- because of the 9 nature of the work I do and what I did as an AUSA with organized crime work, I've always

10 taken precautions. So, if you notice, I don't have a wedding ring. I tend to not -- and I

11 don't have, generally, screensavers with my kids and things like that. So I try to -- I take 12 precautions always because of the nature of the work we do.

13 Q And the work you did prior, in your prior time with the U.S. Attorney's Office,

14 was violent-crime- and organized-crime-focused. Is that right?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And it's fair to say that you were the target of some threats or other

17 threatening communications because of that work?

18 A I received seven verified threats during the time I was an AUSA.

19 Q In your time now, is it fair to say that you're also receiving threats and hate

20 mail because of your work and because of the investigation into Hunter Biden

21 specifically?

22 A I receive a lot of hate mail and threats as a result of doing this work, and

23 there was certainly an uptick when the news came out in the spring regarding the Hunter

24 Biden investigation.

25 BY [redacted]:

1 Q Mr. Estrada, you mentioned during the previous hour --
2 A Uh-huh.
3 Q -- your office, when you were a line AUSA, there was a case that was 4 prosecuted in your office from another district where venue had been transferred to the 5 Central District of California, correct?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And that was a case that came from North Carolina, correct?
8 A No. The case I was thinking of was one that came from the Eastern District
9 of New York.
10 Q So you're not aware of a case from North Carolina, U.S. v. Avedis Djeredjian,
11 that was prosecuted by prosecutors from North Carolina while you were an AUSA?
12 A That one doesn't ring a bell with me, no.
13 Q Okay. Fair enough. And the one that you recall was from the Eastern 14 District of New York?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And that's Brooklyn and Queens?
17 A I don't know if they have Queens. They definitely have Brooklyn. I think 18 it's Long Island. I'm not sure of their full district.
19 Q Fair enough. And, in that case, do you know, was your office asked to 20 partner?
21 A We were not asked to partner. It was transferred by a judge out to our
22 district, so the AUSA on that case had to come out to our district. I know because I
23 helped that AUSA navigate our court system and filing system and things like that.
24 Q Is that the type of administrative support that you offered to Mr. Weiss?
25 A Yeah. Well, that sort and more. I mean, I got direction from the

1 supervisor, you're going to help with this case. But I'm sure that person got other
2 support from our staff, IT support, things of that sort, that I wasn't directly involved in.
3 Q Fair enough. And are you aware of whether that case concluded? Was it
4 a jury trial? Do you know what happened?
5 A Ended up as a change of plea, as a plea agreement, later while it was being 6 litigated in our district.
7 Q And the defendant was sentenced in your district as well?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay.
10 [redacted] Thank you. We can go off the record.
11 [Recess.]
12 [redacted] Back on the record.
13 BY [redacted]:
14 Q At the end of our last hour, when I was asking you questions, I asked you 15 about Mr. Weiss's use of the term "ultimate authority," and I think you characterized that 16 as not a very precise --
17 A Well, I cannot say what he meant by "ultimate authority." It's not, sort of, 18 terminology that I use as U.S. Attorney, so I can't say what he meant by "ultimate 19 authority."
20 Q But could there be anything more than ultimate authority? Like, just as an 21 American reading those words, like, what else could he have meant? Like, if he didn't 22 have ultimate authority, I mean, like, who else could block his attempt to prosecute?
23 A I mean, I would just be guessing. All I know is that, in my situation, my 24 understanding was he had the authority to proceed on the charges he was 25 contemplating.

1 Q Okay. Do you know if the Tax Division had signed off on the charges?
2 A I do not.
3 Q Okay. But you had received the Tax Division's memoranda in your October
4 meeting.
5 A So I have limitations in terms of what I can testify to --
6 Q Right.
7 A -- in terms of the decision-making process.
8 Q Right.
9 A So I'll say, I received memoranda --
10 Q Uh-huh.
11 A -- and they were authored by attorneys in the three different areas I
12 mentioned -- my office, Delaware, and the Tax Division.
13 Q So you weren't aware that the Tax Division had told Mr. Weiss he couldn't 14 prosecute?
15 A Are you saying the Tax Division, in fact, told Mr. Weiss he couldn't prosecute
16 and you're asking me if I know that?
17 Q Yeah, I'm asking you if you know that.
18 A I'm not aware of whether that's a fact --
19 Q Okay.
20 A -- whether they, in fact, told him that, or anything that would've transpired
21 there. All I know is the specific question that was before me --
22 Q Right.
23 A -- and what I told him.
24 Q But if Mr. Weiss characterized his authority as "ultimate authority" going
25 back to last June, you know, before he was the special counsel, do you think that meant

1 that he had received the okay from the Tax Division to prosecute?

2 A I don't know what that means. I don't know what he did with the Tax

3 Division. My understanding was, if he wanted to bring those certain tax charges in my

4 district, he had full power to do so.

5 Q Okay.

6 You indicated that you offered resources to him, including office space, access to

7 your grand jury, I presume --

8 A I said office space and administrative support.

9 Q Uh-huh.

10 A And I don't want to get into the specifics of the grand jury, because I'm 11 concerned it goes beyond the scope of what I'm permitted to testify about.

12 Q But -- and correct me if I'm wrong, but I understood your use of the word

13 "administrative support" to include that, if he needed to use the grand jury, that you

14 would allow him to schedule it.

15 I mean, to schedule a grand jury in the Central District of California, certainly a

16 prosecutor has to go through an individual that arranges that. That's under your 17 purview, correct?

18 A We have staff that help schedule grand jury time.

19 Q Uh-huh. Under your purview, right?

20 A What do you mean by under my purview?

21 Q It's staff of the U.S. Attorney's Office in the Central District of California, 22 which you're U.S. Attorney for.

23 A I don't look at the grand jury schedule on a weekly basis and see who's 24 scheduled for what time or -- I don't micromanage that.

25 Q Of course not.

1 A There's staff that handle those issues.
2 Q But they work for you.
3 A I have various supervisors, so that person would report to a different
4 person --
5 Q I understand you're a very high-level guy. But, ultimately, they work for 6 you. Like, you know, if somebody is going to need access to a grand jury, they would 7 have to ask somebody who works for you, maybe very far down the chain, but ultimately 8 there is somebody that is under your purview, correct?
9 A I'm not trying to say I'm a high-level person. What I'm trying to give you an 10 understanding of is the size of the office and how I don't know specifics of who's using the 11 grand jury on a particular day. I need to, as a matter of functioning and running the 12 office, delegate that to others. It --
13 Q Of course.
14 A -- has nothing to do with self-importance or anything. It's just a matter of 15 running an office.
16 Q Understood. But if Mr. Weiss -- you said Mr. Weiss could prosecute a case 17 in your district, correct, if he wanted to?
18 A My understanding was he could do that.
19 Q And if he needed the use of the grand jury to prosecute the case, you were 20 going to make that available to him, correct?
21 A He could have any administrative support he needed to prosecute the case.
22 Q And do you consider access to a grand jury part of that?
23 A Yes.
24 Q Okay. Do you know if he took you up on any of your -- you know, you
25 invited him to avail himself of some of these resources. Do you know if he took you up on any of that?

Ms. Zdeb. And, at this point, we're getting a bit beyond the question of whether Mr. Estrada blocked Mr. Weiss from pursuing charges, which I think he has clearly said he did not.

And your question is more getting into whether certain steps were or were not taken subsequent to that as part of an investigation that is ongoing. And so that is outside the scope of what he is authorized to testify about.

[redacted] Okay. Well, I was asking about the grand jury to see if that fell into the basket of administrative offerings. And, as I take it, it was.

Ms. Zdeb. He just answered that question. But the question you had just posed, unless I misunderstood it, was whether Mr. Weiss, in fact, availed himself of various types of administrative support. And my point is that the answer to that question necessarily --

[redacted] Okay.

Ms. Zdeb. -- gets into an ongoing investigation and -- [redacted]. Okay. I can unpack that.

BY [redacted]

Q Do you know if anyone in the District of Delaware has an office in the Central District of California? You said you offered office space. Do you know if anyone has taken you up on that offer?

Ms. Zdeb. And I'm not sure unpacking it helps, because the question you just asked is a subset of the broader question.

[redacted] He doesn't have to answer it, Sara. Like -- you know. So, it's a voluntary interview. He said he offered office space, and now I'm asking the question, do you know if they took you up on that offer?

1 Mr. Estrada. So I want to be cautious not to get into the details of an ongoing
2 investigation, and because your question has no, sort of, scope in time --
3 [redacted] Okay.
4 Mr. Estrada. -- it's hard for me to answer that.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q Okay. What types of scope in time would you like me to put on that
7 question? How about, do you know if anyone from the District of Delaware took you up
8 on the offer of office space prior to June of 2023?
9 A That I don't know. I don't know if anyone took us up on office space,
10 whether they did or did not.
11 Q Okay. Do you know if anyone in the District of Delaware took you up on 12 your offer of office space after June of 2023?
13 A There have been requests made since that time, yes.
14 Q Okay. And have they, in fact, occupied any offices?
15 A I can't get into that. All I can say is, the offer was made, and I don't want to 16 reveal an ongoing investigation.
17 Q So you know the answer to my question, then?
18 A Which question?
19 Q About whether they've occupied offices.
20 A I don't know the answer to that. I don't know the answer to that.
21 Q Even subsequent to June 2023?
22 A I don't know that, and I'm concerned that it's going into territory that might
23 reveal an ongoing investigation.
24 Q I understand you don't want to answer the question, but I'm just saying, if 25 you did want to answer the question, would you be able to answer it accurately?

1 A It's not that I don't want to answer the question. It's that I have an
2 obligation not to reveal an ongoing investigation --
3 Q Okay.
4 A -- being handled by others.
5 Q Okay.
6 A I mean, it's a courtesy --
7 Q I understand --
8 A -- it's a courtesy to others not to reveal their ongoing investigation.
9 Q Okay. Whether it's -- okay. Whether it's a courtesy or not, I'm just -- as I
10 understand your testimony, you're not going to answer the question.
11 And so my followup is: Do you know the answer to that question of whether 12 they've availed themselves of office space?
13 A I don't know.
14 Q You don't know the answer?
15 A No.
16 Q Okay.
17 And as we discussed this morning, the number of AUSAs from Delaware that have 18 the SAUSA status, you don't know the answer to that question either?
19 A I know it's more than one.
20 Q It's more than one?
21 A I know it's plural.
22 Q Okay. But you don't know whether it's more than two?
23 A I just know more than one.
24 Q Okay. But it's less than 10, right?
25 A All I know is it's plural. That's all I can tell you.

1 Q Okay.

2 And the question -- and I apologize for asking this again, but do you know the

3 answer to the question and you don't want to tell me? Or you can't tell me because of

4 what DOJ has --

5 A I don't know the answer to the question.

6 Q You don't know the answer. Okay. Fair enough.

7 Getting back to Mr. Weiss's use of the term "ultimate authority," would you agree

8 that someone who has ultimate authority does not require someone else's permission to 9 act with regard to the matter?

10 A I don't understand your question.

11 Q Okay.

12 In a letter to Chairman Jordan in June of 2023, Mr. Weiss wrote, quote, "I have

13 been granted ultimate authority over this matter, including responsibility for deciding

14 where, when, and whether to file charges and for making decisions necessary to preserve

15 the integrity of the prosecution, consistent with Federal law, the Principles of Federal

16 Prosecution, and Departmental regulations."

17 So that's the context in which Mr. Weiss identified his authority as being the 18 ultimate authority.

19 A Uh-huh.

20 Q And so my question is, would you agree that someone that has ultimate

21 authority, as Mr. Weiss said he did in June of 2023, does not require another official at 22 the Department to act with regard to that matter?

23 A I don't know what he meant when he wrote that.

24 Q Okay.

25 A I don't speak that way. I don't tell folks in my office I have ultimate

1 authority.

2 Q Okay.

3 A So I don't know what he meant by that.

4 Q Okay.

5 A You know, I can interpret it as it's written, just like you can, and --

6 Q Right.

7 A -- that's all I can say.

8 Q Okay.

9 I mean, he said, "I have been granted ultimate authority over this matter,

10 including responsibility for deciding where, when, and whether to file charges."

11 That statement seems pretty comprehensive. Do you see it a different way?

12 A I understood it as being consistent with my understanding in October of 13 2022 when we spoke --

14 Q Uh-huh.

15 A -- that he had the authority to bring the charges that were being

16 contemplated in the Central District of California. And when I offered him support and

17 he thanked me for it --

18 Q Okay.

19 A -- that further confirmed my view.

20 Q Okay. And do you know whether he had that authority specifically from 21 the Attorney General or through the Attorney General under 28 U.S.C. 515?

22 A At that time, I didn't know exactly where, except for the fact that he had

23 SAUSAs in the district which could litigate. It seemed like he was partnering with the 24 Tax Division.

25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A So it appeared to me and I was under the understanding that he could bring
2 the case in the district. And his response to our phone call further confirmed that for 3 me.
4 Q Okay.
5 What was your understanding of his partnership with the Tax Division?
6 A My understanding was that attorneys from his office and attorneys from the 7 Tax Division were working on the matter.
8 Q Okay. And was it your understanding as of October 2022 that they had an 9 agreement on how to proceed?
10 A I didn't know one way or the other.
11 Q Okay. And the memorandum that you read in advance of the October 12 2022 meeting didn't further inform you, the Tax Division component of the 13 memorandum?
14 A That what? What's the question?
15 Q I'm just asking whether it was your understanding that the Tax Division and 16 Weiss's office were on the same page, that they were partnering.
17 A It seemed to me that certain attorneys in the Tax Division were working with 18 attorneys in the District of Delaware.
19 Q And do you know whether the Tax Division at that point in time had reached 20 a final determination?
21 A That I don't know. I don't know how high up this was being reviewed or if 22 final authorizations had been granted. That I don't know.
23 Q Were you aware of any dissent within the Tax Division?
24 A I was not.
25 Q Okay.

1 Mr. Weiss followed up on his June 7th letter on June 30th, and he -- to Mr. Jordan,
2 and he wrote, "I stand by what I wrote and wish to expand on what this means. As the
3 U.S. Attorney for the District of Delaware, my charging authority is geographically limited
4 to my home district. If venue for a case lies elsewhere, common Departmental practice
5 is to contact the United States Attorney's Office for the district in question and determine
6 whether it wants to partner on the case. If not, I may request Special Attorney status
7 from the Attorney General pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 515. Here, I have been assured that, if 8 necessary after the above process, I would be granted 515 Authority in the District of 9 Columbia, the Central District of California, or any other district where charges could be 10 brought in this matter."
11 Were you aware of Mr. Weiss's letter to Mr. Jordan? Had you reviewed, sort of,
12 this correspondence as it was occurring?
13 A So there's two questions there. Am I familiar with it? Yes. As it was 14 occurring? No.
15 Q Okay. And when did you become familiar with it? Was it in prep for 16 today?
17 A More recently.
18 Q Okay. In prep for the questioning that you were getting ready for here?
19 A I don't want to reveal any attorney-client communications or work product.
20 I know that, as an employee of the Department --
21 Q Yeah. I mean, there's no attorney-client privilege between you and Ms.
22 Zdeb, but --
23 A Well, my understanding is different, actually --
24 Q Okay.
25 A -- that, as an employee of the Department, there is a privilege. And I'm not

1 authorized to reveal --

2 Q Okay.

3 A -- privileged communications.

4 Q Okay.

5 Going back to the -- do we have a copy of the June 30th letter? Maybe we

6 should just make it an exhibit. What number are we up to?

7 [redacted]. Three.

8 [redacted]. Okay. I'm going to make this No. 4. Because we have the first

9 letter, the June 7th letter -- so the June 7th letter I'll make exhibit 3, and then the 10 June 30th -- sorry.

11 [Estrada Exhibit No. 3

12 Was marked for identification.]

13 [Estrada Exhibit No. 4

14 Was marked for identification.]

15 Mr. Estrada. Thank you.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q So the June 7th letter, you know, the statement I read about "granted

18 ultimate authority over this matter, including responsibility for deciding where, when, and

19 whether to file charges," that seems to me to be consistent with your understanding as of 20 October 2022. Is that correct?

21 A That he had authority to bring the case?

22 Q Yeah.

23 A That was my understanding. He had authority to bring the case in my

24 district.

25 Q Okay. But then his June 30th letter sort of goes the opposite direction.

1 Do you see where it does that?

2 A Where are you looking?

3 Q "I stand by what I wrote" is at the bottom of the first page. And then the

4 first paragraph on the second page --

5 A Uh-huh.

6 Q -- "As the U.S. Attorney for the District of Delaware, my charging authority is

7 geographically limited to my home district. If venue for a case lies elsewhere, common

8 Departmental practice is to contact the United States Attorney's Office for the district in

9 question and determine whether it wants to partner on the case. If not, I may request

10 Special Attorney status from the Attorney General pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 515. Here, I

11 have been assured that, if necessary after the above process" -- "after the above

12 process" -- "I would be granted 515 Authority in the District of Columbia, the Central

13 District of California, or any other district where charges could be brought in this matter."

14 It seems to us that this paragraph is in conflict with what your understanding was 15 in October of 2022 and with the June 7th letter. What are your thoughts?

16 A I don't read them as being in conflict, because he quotes that statement on

17 the first page and is expanding on it. So the way I interpret it is: I have authority to

18 bring charges in my district; some of those charges I, nonetheless, need to get approval

19 from Main on.

20 Q Uh-huh.

21 A So, for instance, national security cases, I need to get approval from the 22 Assistant Attorney General for National Security. On civil rights cases --

23 Q Right.

24 A -- I need to get approval from the Assistant Attorney General for the Civil 25 Rights Division. But it's a collaborative process.

1 Q Right.

2 A We provide our case, provide the facts of the case, and get approval, and

3 then we file the charges.

4 Q But he makes it clear that, if venue for a case lies elsewhere, he needs to

5 contact the U.S. Attorney's Office for the district in question and determine whether it

6 wants to partner on the case.

7 That's what happened in October of 2022. Your office decided that you did not

8 want to partner, or co-counsel, or whatever term you used or want to use.

9 So, because you didn't want to partner, he didn't have the authority -- under his

10 words of the June 30th letter, he didn't have the ability to just bring the case, which is in

11 conflict with the June 7th letter and also what he told you or what your understanding

12 was of the October 22nd call -- October of 2022, the call you had.

13 A So my understanding was, he could bring the case in my district if he chose 14 to.

15 Q Uh-huh.

16 A The mechanism by which he would need to do that I don't know. I don't 17 know what mechanisms he would need to do that.

18 Q Okay.

19 A He'd already had SAUSAs. He had administrative support if he needed it.

20 It seemed to me he was working with the Tax Division. Components of DOJ file cases in 21 other districts all the time.

22 So I don't know the specific mechanism --

23 Q Okay.

24 A -- but my understanding was, he had the ability to do it if he thought it was

25 appropriate.

1 Q Okay.

2 And then on July 10, 2023 -- I don't know that we need to mark this, but -- he

3 clarifies in a letter to Senator Graham that, as of July of 2023, he had not requested

4 special counsel designation under the CFR or under the statute, which would've allowed

5 him to file charges in a district outside of his own without the partnership -- and, again,

6 he uses the term "partnership" -- of the local U.S. Attorney.

7 And my question is: His letters to us make it seem like, in his own mind, he

8 needed you to partner with him to bring these cases, whether it was in D.C. or the Central

9 District of California. What are your thoughts?

10 A I can just tell you my understanding. When we were having the 11 conversation, my understanding was he could bring the case if he so chose, given that he

12 had SAUSAs, given that I had offered him administrative support and he thanked me for 13 it, didn't say anything else regarding that.

14 I don't know what mechanisms he would need to use.

15 Q Uh-huh.

16 A I bring cases in the hate-crime context all the time, and I believe I have the 17 authority to bring hate-crime charges, but I still need to go through the AG to get

18 approval on those.

19 Q Uh-huh.

20 A That often happens within a day.

21 Q Uh-huh.

22 A So I thought he had the ability to do it. I believed he did. All indications

23 were. That was my understanding.

24 Q Okay. Do you know why he didn't bring them in the October 2022

25 timeframe?

1 A I, one, will not get into deliberative process of whether or not to bring
2 charges.
3 Q Uh-huh.
4 A And, two, I'm not going to speculate and try to jump into the head of 5 another person and figure out why they did or did not do something.
6 Q Right. But I'm not asking you to jump into his head. But, you know, your 7 staff has been in communication with their staff. Do you have any idea, you know, from 8 talking with your staff, as to why they had not proceeded?
9 A Had not proceeded on what?
10 Q On bringing a case in the Central District.
11 A On filing -- my understanding was, there was some sort of plea deal that was 12 reached.
13 Q Okay. In the District of Delaware?
14 A I don't know the full contours of it. I don't know if certain charges were 15 waived, venue, or whatnot. I don't know. But I understand there was a plea deal that 16 was reached.
17 Q Okay.
18 After the whistleblowers came forward, this case received more public attention.
19 You talked about working with your press office. Did you have any communications
20 with your staff, when this became public, about what's been going on since October 21 2022?
22 A I had communications with my public affairs person in terms of the 23 appropriate response to the media inquiries we were getting.
24 I had communications with my first assistant U.S. Attorney and the executive
25 United States Attorney on the threats I was receiving and what to do about the threats

1 and who to send those to. I had communications with the Marshals Service about those 2 threats.
3 But in terms of the decision of whether or not to co-counsel, that wasn't discussed
4 at all.
5 Q You mentioned you were dealing with your first assistant and then the chief
6 of the Major Frauds division and the chief of the Criminal Division? Or was it the chief of 7 the Major Frauds Section?
8 A What time context are you referring to?
9 Q In October 2022.
10 A October 2022, it was the First Assistant United States Attorney, the Criminal 11 Division chief, and the Major Frauds Section chief.
12 Q Okay.
13 When the whistleblowers came forward and this was in the news, did you have 14 any communications with these three officials on an update on, you know, what has 15 Delaware tried to do in our district, if anything?
16 A I did not. No.
17 Q Okay.
18 Off the record for a second.
19 [Discussion off the record.]
20 [redacted]. My colleague [redacted] has some questions.
21 [redacted] Good afternoon.
22 Mr. Estrada. Good afternoon.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q You testified that after you took your post and you met with your team and 25 learned about the Hunter Biden matter that the request was pending on whether or not

1 your office would partner with the District of Delaware and that Mr. Weiss wanted to talk
2 to you about that.
3 Do I have that right?
4 A So my understanding was that, at some point shortly after I started, I was 5 told that there was a request from the District of Delaware to co-counsel, partner on the 6 case; that my career attorneys had recommended against doing so; that had been 7 communicated to the District of Delaware; and the District of Delaware then, through Mr.
8 Weiss, wanted to talk to me about it.
9 The timing in terms of when those communications happened, because I came in 10 on September 19th and I was told about this late September/early October, I can't say
11 whether it was before or after the 19th.
12 Q You can't say whether the request to your office came before or after the 13 19th?
14 A You had stated that there were communications between my office on this 15 request before September 19th. I can't say whether it was before or after.
16 Q And do you know if the assistant United States attorneys from the District of 17 Delaware who were designated special assistant United States attorneys, were they 18 already designated on the date you took your post?
19 A Yes, I know that, because I was not the one who approved it.
20 Q And you don't -- do you know whether the request to designate those 21 assistant United States attorneys came before or after the request to partner on the 22 case?
23 A I don't know the timing of that.
24 Q And I'm sorry if you answered this already, but do you know when the 25 request for -- to designate special assistant United States attorneys came to your office?

1 A Can you repeat the question?

2 Q So I'm trying to -- do you know -- you said you're not sure of the timing of 3 the request for partnering on the case. Is that right?

4 A I know that it was presented to me in late September/early October that the

5 career attorneys had recommended against it; communicated that to Delaware; now

6 Delaware wanted to talk to me about it.

7 Just for context, when I came into the seat, I mentioned we were down 40 AUSAs.

8 We had to hire a lot. So I was out there hiring as much as possible. I was meeting with

9 the assistant director in charge of the FBI, meeting with the chief of the LAPD, meeting

10 with the then-sheriff of Los Angeles Sheriff's Department, making the rounds through the 11 seven counties to meet with all the law enforcement.

12 So there were a lot of things on the plate, and there were things waiting for me to

13 decide, like hiring decisions. So there were a lot of things that were happening. This

14 issue did not arise, to my recollection, until late September/early October 2022.

15 Q Do you know whether an Acting U.S. Attorney could make the decision to 16 agree to partner? Hypothetically. Not on this case, but on any case. A request like

17 this, would your predecessor, who was an acting United States Attorney, have the 18 authority to say yes or no?

19 A I believe so.

20 Q I'm trying to understand whether this request was waiting for you to be

21 confirmed so that you could make the decision or whether or not it was requested after

22 you took the position.

23 A I mean, I don't know for certain, but I know some of the memos were dated 24 after I took the seat.

25 Q And --

1 A So it would seem to me that, once the package was prepared, they
2 presented it to the person who was sitting in that chair, which happened to be me at the
3 time.
4 Q And I know you said that this kind of thing doesn't happen very often or 5 perhaps hasn't happened in your time as U.S. Attorney, but do you have any sense for 6 how long it would take your team to do an evaluation and make a recommendation to 7 you in a case like this?
8 A Well, yes. I think it would take several weeks of analysis, legal research.
9 Usually -- I shouldn't say "usually." It's the case that my staff does a thorough analysis
10 before it's presented to me, and I generally expect a memorandum to be drafted. That 11 all takes time. So I would expect a thorough analysis.
12 Q So, if you received, you know, the information at the end of September or in 13 early October, is it fair to say that this request was made either before the 19th or very 14 shortly after the 19th for your staff to get up to speed and be prepared to make a 15 recommendation and brief you?
16 A I can't say. I can't say.
17 Q But if it takes weeks, generally, to do that -- the 19th to even early October
18 would be 2 weeks, approximately, maybe 3.
19 A I can't say about the timing. I know when -- I expect my attorneys to do a 20 thorough analysis. A thorough analysis was done in this case. So -- I don't make 21 decisions until I get a thorough analysis.
22 [redacted]. That's all I have.
23 [redacted] Okay.
24 [Recess.]
25 [redacted] It is 12:59. We can go back on the record.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q In the prior hour, you were asked some questions about the administrative
3 support that your office offered to Mr. Weiss. And I understand you can't get into the 4 specifics, but I just want to ask some overarching questions.

5 Did you ever receive any indication from Mr. Weiss that he did not have the 6 support he needed from your office?

7 A No.

8 Q To the best of your knowledge, did any of your staff ever receive any 9 indication from Mr. Weiss that he did not have the support he needed from your office?

10 A I was never informed of that.

11 Q And, to the best of your knowledge, did anyone in your office receive any 12 indication from anyone on Mr. Weiss's staff, such as the SAUSAs, that they did not have 13 the support they needed from your office?

14 A I never heard that, and I would've expected to get a call from Mr. Weiss if 15 that were the case.

16 Q Okay. And you didn't get such a call?

17 A No.

18 Q Okay.

19 You were just asked some questions about the timeline of the decision coming to 20 you or being presented to you. Was it your impression that the decision was held for 21 you, you know, pending your confirmation?

22 A I did not get that impression.

23 Q It just happened that that was the timeline that it came to you,
24 late-September-ish?

25 A So what I can say is that I was made aware of this and presented with a

1 package of material, and the package included materials dated after I had taken the seat.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay.

4 Moving on, in our first hour, so the second hour of questioning overall, we talked

5 through some of the considerations that prosecutors take into account when deciding

6 whether to bring charges. Do you remember that conversation?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. How do prosecutors learn how to assess and evaluate the type of 9 concerns that you described, such as having to prove cases beyond a reasonable doubt,

10 sustain a conviction? How do prosecutors learn that?

11 A Through experience, through having done many cases and seeing what is 12 required. Through legal ability, knowing the elements of an offense, knowing the law

13 that pertains to an offense, and analyzing those facts and the law together, and having

14 the experience to know that.

15 So experience matters a lot in this context, including having seen many other

16 cases.

17 Q Okay. So it's fair to say that prosecutors have unique training and/or

18 experience, as you said, in assessing the sufficiency of the admissible evidence. Is that

19 fair to say?

20 A I think so. And I think the more experience a prosecutor has, generally, the 21 better at evaluating those sorts of things.

22 Q And along the same lines, prosecutors have unique training, unique

23 experience in assessing the likelihood that the admissible evidence will be persuasive to a 24 jury, correct?

25 A Yes.

1 Q And again along the same lines, it's fair to say that prosecutors have unique
2 training, unique experience in assessing whether the admissible evidence is reasonably
3 likely to result in a conviction, correct?
4 A Doing the analysis required under the Justice Manual -- doing that analysis is 5 something that takes training, takes experience, and consultation with supervisors.
6 Q Now, when prosecutors are working on a case, they work with investigators,
7 correct?
8 A We work generally with agencies, and the agencies will have investigators.
9 Q Okay. And the investigators that prosecutors work with, so the 10 investigators, the people who actually help gather the evidence for the case, for example, 11 they generally don't have the same experience in assessing the admissible evidence -- in 12 other words, in assessing how that evidence -- whether that evidence might be 13 convincing to a jury?
14 A Generally, they do not.
15 Q Okay.
16 Is it fair to say that one, kind of, unique difference between investigators and 17 prosecutors is that investigators typically do their work before trial, before the stage 18 where evidence is tested by defenses at trial, and before jurors are asked to confront the 19 contested evidence?
20 A I mean, it depends, honestly, on the investigator and how experienced that 21 person is. But, I mean, generally speaking, the attorneys are the ones that have the 22 experience, the know-how, the training to determine whether a case can be proven 23 beyond a reasonable doubt.
24 Q Okay. And it's prosecutors that actually have to present the evidence in 25 court, correct?

1 A Correct.

2 Q So it's prosecutors that have to consider the adversarial setting of the trial,

3 including how the evidence will look in light of possible defenses, correct?

4 A Correct.

5 Q And prosecutors are the ones who have to consider how persuasive the

6 evidence will ultimately be at a trial, where 12 jurors have to consider whether it proves a

7 charge beyond a reasonable doubt?

8 A That is our job, yes.

9 Q Okay.

10 Given the differences between what prosecutors do and what investigators do, is 11 it surprising that there might be differences in opinion among investigators and

12 prosecutors about the strength of the evidence and the likelihood of success at trial?

13 A There are sometimes disagreements between agents and AUSAs about a 14 case, whether it should proceed or not. That will occur on some occasions.

15 Q And as a supervisor, you've seen that happen with cases under your purview.

16 Is that fair to say?

17 A It happens fairly often.

18 Q In those cases where prosecutors and investigators disagree about the 19 likelihood of success at trial, it's prosecutors that have the final say on whether to bring 20 charges, correct?

21 A Absolutely.

22 Q And why is that?

23 A Well, because we have the training, we have the know-how, the experience.

24 We can play devil's advocate and see what the defenses will be.

25 Just about in every gang case I've done, the agents have wanted to indict those

1 extra 10 defendants or extra 12 defendants. And it's the prosecutor's job to look at the
2 evidence objectively, not emotionally, and determine whether it can really be proven
3 beyond a reasonable doubt and whether it serves the interest of justice.
4 Q Thank you.
5 I want to move on and talk about questions of venue and plea agreements. This 6 came up briefly in the prior round of questioning.
7 Briefly, in layperson's terms, what's your understanding of what "venue" means?
8 A So "venue" refers to the location. In the Federal context, it would be the 9 district where the misconduct or conduct took place. "Venue" also factors in where 10 defendants, witnesses can be located. But generally it's where the conduct took place.
11 Q And if prosecutors don't bring cases in the appropriate jurisdiction or the 12 appropriate venue, then the court can dismiss the charges, correct?
13 A The court can dismiss. The court can also transfer venue.
14 Q Okay. All that said, a defendant can waive his or her right to challenge
15 venue as part of a plea agreement, correct?
16 A Venue can be waived, correct.
17 Q Okay.
18 I want to introduce as exhibit 5 the memorandum of plea, of the plea agreement,
19 in United States v. Robert Hunter Biden.
20 [Estrada Exhibit No. 5
21 Was marked for identification.]
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q This document was signed on July 26, 2023, and filed in the Delaware District
24 Court on August 2, 2023.
25 A It's just the one stapled copy?

1 Q Yes. Sorry. I think we gave you extras for your counsel.
2 It's Document No. 28 in Delaware Federal District Court case number
3 1:23-mj-00274-MN.
4 A I see that.
5 Q And I just want to look at the very first paragraph here, the -- sorry, I should 6 say the paragraph numbered 1, not the official first paragraph but the first numbered 7 paragraph.
8 A Okay.
9 Q That paragraph reads, "The defendant waives any challenge to the 10 Information based on venue and agrees to plead guilty in the United States District Court
11 for the District of Delaware to: Counts One and Two of the Information, which charge
12 the defendant with willful failure to pay tax, in violation of Title 26, United States Code,
13 Section 7203."
14 Did I read that correctly?
15 A I see that. Yes.
16 Q So, putting aside the process around the plea agreement and what 17 happened after it was signed --
18 A Uh-huh.
19 Q -- the defendant in this case, Robert Hunter Biden, did agree to waive venue,
20 correct?
21 A It appears so. The defendant waived any challenge based on venue.
22 Q Okay.
23 And the paragraph also says that the charges against Mr. Biden were laid out in an 24 information, correct?
25 A Yes.

1 Q An information is different than an indictment, correct?
2 A Yes. An information is something a defendant can agree to. It doesn't
3 require presentation to a grand jury.
4 Q And are you familiar with the difference between a pre-indictment plea
5 agreement and a post-indictment plea agreement?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Can you explain what that is?
8 A So a pre-indictment plea agreement is one that's reached before charges are 9 filed through the grand jury process. And a post-indictment plea agreement is one
10 where the indictment is issued and then a plea agreement is arranged to one or more
11 charges in the indictment. Although it doesn't have to be that way. You could do an 12 information after an indictment's been issued too.
13 Q And can you also explain, if you know, what a global plea agreement is?
14 A So a global plea agreement will often be in the context of where charges
15 either are pending or could be brought in multiple jurisdictions, and the global will cover
16 all the defendant's exposure in those different jurisdictions.
17 Q So, just to sum up, if a prosecutor and a defendant are working towards a 18 pre-indictment global plea agreement in which venue is waived, then there would be no
19 need to bring charges before a grand jury seated in the district where the alleged criminal 20 conduct actually took place. Is that fair to say?
21 A Yes. But, also, there'd be -- the plea agreement already covers that, so -- I
22 don't know if I fully understand the question.
23 Q My point is that, in a case like this, where there is a pre-indictment global 24 plea agreement that waives venue -- and, in this case, you know, the venue might have 25 been in Central District of California, for example --

1 A Uh-huh.

2 Q -- venue is waived. And so U.S. Attorney Weiss, for example, wouldn't

3 really need to do anything in your district in that case, because venue has been waived.

4 Is that fair to say?

5 A Yeah. They've already wrapped up the entire case.

6 Q Okay.

7 I want to move on and turn to the letters that we walked through --

8 A Okay.

9 Q -- in the prior round. And I know you've answered a lot of questions about

10 these already, but I just want to make a clean record so there's not any confusion in the 11 record.

12 A Okay.

13 Q So, looking at what's marked as exhibit 3, it's the June 7th letter.

14 A Okay.

15 Q The second paragraph of the letter reads, "While your letter does not specify

16 by name the ongoing investigation that is the subject of the Committee's oversight, its

17 content suggests your inquiry is related to an investigation in my District. If my

18 assumption is correct, I want to make clear that, as the Attorney General has stated, I

19 have been granted ultimate authority over this matter, including responsibility for

20 deciding where, when, and whether to file charges and for making decisions necessary to

21 preserve the integrity of the prosecution, consistent with Federal law, the Principles of 22 Federal Prosecution, and Departmental regulations."

23 Did I read that correctly?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss's statement

1 that he was granted ultimate authority over this matter?

2 A I'm not.

3 Q Okay. Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss's

4 statement that his authority over this matter includes the responsibility to decide where,

5 when, and whether to file charges?

6 A I am not.

7 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss's statement

8 that his authority over this matter includes making all decisions necessary to preserve the 9 integrity of the prosecution?

10 A I'm not.

11 Q Okay.

12 And I want to turn to the last paragraph in this letter, which is on page 3.

13 A Okay.

14 Q That paragraph reads, quote, "In February 2021, I was asked to remain as

15 United States Attorney for the District of Delaware to continue my oversight of this

16 matter. Since that time, I have fulfilled my responsibilities, consistent with Department

17 practices and procedures, and will continue to do so. Throughout my tenure as U.S.

18 Attorney my decisions have been made -- and with respect to the matter must be 19 made -- without reference to political considerations."

20 Did I read that correctly?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts Mr. Weiss's statement

23 that his decisions in this matter had been made without reference to political

24 considerations?

25 A I am not.

1 Q All right. Thank you.

2 I want to move on to exhibit 4, which is the June 30th letter. And I want to look

3 at the third paragraph on the front page of this letter.

4 A Okay.

5 Q It says, "First, the Department of Justice did not retaliate against 'an Internal

6 Revenue Service ("IRS") Criminal Supervisory Special Agent and whistleblower, as well as

7 his entire investigative team... for making protected disclosures to Congress.'"

8 Did I read that correctly?

9 A I see that.

10 Q Are you aware of any information that contradicts this statement from Mr.

11 Weiss?

12 A I am not.

13 Q Okay.

14 The letter then quotes his June 7th letter saying that he had been granted ultimate

15 authority over the matter.

16 And then on the second page, at the top of the second page, he continues, "As the

17 U.S. Attorney for the District of Delaware, my charging authority is geographically limited

18 to my home district. If venue for a case lies elsewhere, common Departmental practice

19 is to contact the United States Attorney's Office for the district in question and determine

20 whether it wants to partner on the case. If not, I may request Special Attorney status

21 from the Attorney General pursuant to 28 U.S.C. Section 515. Here, I have been assured

22 that, if necessary after the above process, I would be granted Section 515 Authority in the

23 District of Columbia, the Central District of California, or any other district where charges

24 could be brought in this matter."

25 Did I read that correctly?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Were you aware of any information that would contradict Mr. Weiss's

3 statement that he had been assured that he would be granted Section 515 authority if

4 another U.S. Attorney -- if necessary, if, for example, another office declined to partner

5 with him?

6 A I'm not aware of any information of that kind.

7 Q Okay. To your knowledge, did Mr. Weiss ever actually request Section 515

8 authority?

9 A I don't know one way or the other.

10 Q Okay.

11 And I want to introduce as exhibit 6 a letter that was referenced in the prior hour

12 but not actually introduced.

13 A Uh-huh.

14 Q It is the July 10, 2023, letter from Mr. Weiss to Senator Lindsey Graham.

15 Lindsey Graham is the Republican ranking member on the Senate Judiciary Committee.

16 A Okay.

17 Q This will be exhibit 6.

18 [Estrada Exhibit No. 6

19 Was marked for identification.]

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Have you seen this letter?

22 A I don't believe I have.

23 Q Do you want to take a minute to read it?

24 A Sure.

25 Okay. I see it.

1 Q I want to look at the third paragraph. The first sentence of that paragraph
2 reads: "To clarify an apparent misperception and to avoid future confusion, I wish to
3 make one point clear: in this case, I have not requested Special Counsel designation
4 pursuant to 28 CFR Section 600 et seq."
5 Did I read that correctly?
6 A Yes.
7 Q 28 CFR Section 600 et seq gives the Attorney General authority to appoint a
8 special counsel, correct?
9 A I am not completely familiar with the regulation. If he writes that, I have 10 no reason to not agree with it.
11 Q Okay.
12 A I've never had occasion to request to be special counsel.
13 Q Okay.
14 We'll introduce for the record the special counsel regulations. It's 28 CFR Section
15 600.1. This will be exhibit 7.
16 [Estrada Exhibit No. 7
17 Was marked for identification.]
18 Mr. Estrada. Okay. I see that.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q So, having had a minute to review 28 CFR Section 600.1, you agree that 21 these are the regulations that give the Attorney General the authority to appoint a special
22 counsel when he or she determines that it's appropriate?
23 A It appears to be so, yes.
24 Q Okay.
25 Turning back to the Senator Graham letter, are you aware of any information that

1 contradicts Mr. Weiss's statement that, as of July 10, 2023, when this letter was sent, he
2 had not requested special counsel designation pursuant to 28 CFR Section 600.1?
3 A I'm not aware of any information that contradicts that.
4 Q Okay.
5 That July 10 letter continues, quote, "Rather, I had discussions with Departmental 6 officials regarding potential appointment under 28 U.S.C. Section 515, which would have 7 allowed me to file charges in a district outside my own without the partnership of the 8 local U.S. Attorney. I was assured that I would be granted this authority if it proved
9 necessary. And this assurance came months before the October 7, 2022, meeting
10 referenced throughout the whistleblowers' allegations. In this case, I've followed the 11 process outlined in my June 30 letter and have never been denied the authority to bring 12 charges in any jurisdiction."
13 Did I read that correctly?
14 A Yes.
15 Q To the best of your knowledge, is it accurate that Mr. Weiss was never 16 denied the authority to bring charges in any jurisdiction?
17 A I have no reason to think he was denied that authority. Certainly, in my 18 district, I never denied him the ability to bring the case. In fact, I offered him support to 19 bring the case if he chose to.
20 Q On September 20th of this year, Attorney General Garland testified before
21 the House Judiciary Committee. He told the committee that, quote, "Mr. Weiss has full 22 authority to conduct his investigation however he wishes."
23 Do you have any information to contradict the Attorney General's statement?
24 A No.

2 [1:20 p.m.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q The Attorney General also told the committee that, quote, "Mr. Weiss had,

5 as I said at the very beginning, that he had authority over all matters that pertained to

6 Hunter Biden."

7 Do you have any information to contradict the Attorney General's statement?

8 A I do not.

9 Q To sum up, do you have any reason to believe that David Weiss lied to

10 Congress or was misleading to Congress when he described the extent of authority he

11 had been granted by the Attorney General?

12 A I have no reason to think he lied. And what he did say seems consistent 13 with my experience in dealing with him in October of 2022.

14 Q Okay.

15 Do you have any reason to believe that the Attorney General prevented Mr. Weiss

16 from taking any particular investigative step?

17 A I have no reason to believe that.

18 Q Do you have any reason to believe that Attorney General Garland denied Mr.

19 Weiss any resources for his investigation?

20 A I have no reason to believe that.

21 Q Do you have any reason to believe that President Biden interfered in this

22 investigation in any way?

23 A I have no reason to believe that.

24 Q Did you ever tell Mr. Weiss that he could not bring charges in the Central

25 District of California?

1 A I never told him he couldn't bring charges. To the contrary, we had allowed
2 attorneys from his office to be SAUSA'ed to litigate in our district, and we had offered him
3 administrative support. So it's quite the opposite.
4 Q Did you ever take any steps to prevent Mr. Weiss -- I'm sorry.
5 To the best of your knowledge, did anyone else in your office ever take any steps
6 to prevent Mr. Weiss from bringing charges in the Central District of California?
7 A No.
8 Q Okay.
9 Did you do anything to delay the investigation into Hunter Biden?
10 A No, I did not.
11 Q Okay.
12 Throughout your tenure as U.S. Attorney, have you made all decisions without 13 reference to political considerations?
14 A Throughout my tenure as U.S. Attorney, Assistant United States Attorney, 15 frankly as a practicing lawyer, yes.
16 Q Okay.
17 [redacted] All right. We can go off the record. Thank you.
18 [Whereupon, at 1:22 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

22 GRETA GAO, SPECIAL COUNSEL, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

23 SARA ZDEB, DEPUTY ASSISTANT ATTORNEY GENERAL,OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE AFFAIRS

1 [redacted]. Good morning.

2 Mr. Goldberg. Good morning.

3 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of Mr. Stuart Goldberg with the 4 Justice Department's Tax Division. Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part

5 of the committee's oversight of the Department's commitment to impartial justice and its

6 handling of the Hunter Biden investigation.

7 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

8 Mr. Goldberg. Stuart Goldberg.

9 [redacted] And you're here with DOJ counsel.

10 Please state your name for the record.

11 Ms. Zdeb. Sara Zdeb, Department of Justice.

12 Ms. Gao. Greta Gao, Department of Justice.

13 [redacted] And, Mr. Goldberg, you understand that agency counsel has a 14 primarily duty to represent the agency and not you personally?

15 Mr. Goldberg. I do.

16 [redacted]. And you've selected them to be in the room here with you today?

17 We gave you the option to have personal counsel or agency counsel?

18 Mr. Goldberg. Yes.

19 [redacted]. On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here

20 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

21 appear voluntarily.

22 My name is [redacted]. I'm with Mr. Jordan's staff on the House Judiciary

23 Committee. I'll now have my committee colleagues introduce themselves.

24 [redacted] [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

25 Chairman Jordan. Jim Jordan.

1 [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

2 [redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

3 [redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

4 [redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

5 [redacted], Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

6 [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

7 [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

8 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

9 [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

10 [redacted] I'll go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will follow during

11 today's interview.

12 Our questioning will proceed in 1-hour rounds. The majority will go first, then

13 we'll switch sides and the minority will have a chance to ask you questions.

14 We often take a break at the end of each hour, if you'd like to, but the breaks are 15 totally up to you.

16 There is an official court reporter taking down everything we say, so we'll go do

17 our best not to talk over one another. We'll also do our best to have a small number of 18 individuals asking you questions.

19 Mr. Goldberg. Okay.

20 [redacted] So you're not fielding questions from various parts of the room.

21 If you need to go off the record to confer with DOJ counsel or your personal

22 counsel, who I understand is stationed in a nearby room, please let us know.

23 Mr. Goldberg. Thank you.

24 [redacted] If you need to take a break for any other reason, that's also fine.

25 We want to make your stay here as comfortable as possible, given the circumstances.

We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner possible, so we'll take our time.

If you have any questions or don't understand what we're asking, just let us know. Our questions may cover a wide range of topics. If you need clarification, please feel free to ask.

You should also understand that by law you're required to answer questions before Congress truthfully. You understand that?

Mr. Goldberg. Yes.

[redacted] And there's a false statement statute that we remind all witnesses about, 18 United States Code 1001, which subjects witnesses to criminal prosecution for knowingly making false statements. You're aware of that?

Mr. Goldberg. I am.

[redacted]. And we mean no disrespect by bringing that up. Obviously, you're a senior DOJ official and presumably have an appreciation for that. We just mention that to all witnesses.

Mr. Goldberg. That's fine.

[redacted]. We like to keep the content of what we discuss confidential. To the extent we have exhibits and we mark them, we'll collect them at the end of the process, even if they're documents that are publicly available. So we appreciate your cooperation with that.

At 10:08, I'll get going with the first Republican round.

Ms. Zdeb. [redacted] I'm sorry. Before you do, could I make a couple of quick remarks?

[redacted]. Of course.

Ms. Zdeb. And actually, I'm sorry, before I do, does your minority colleague

1 have --

2 [redacted] [redacted], do you have any? I didn't give you a chance to offer

3 welcoming remarks. So I apologize, and please go forward if you do.

4 [redacted] No. We will note the sound system is definitely working now.

5 [redacted] Okay.

6 [redacted] No, we just thank the witness for taking time out of your busy

7 schedule to join us today.

8 Ms. Zdeb. Thank you.

9 As you're aware, the committee's inquiry implicates an ongoing criminal

10 investigation and prosecution. At this juncture, Mr. Goldberg is going to be able to 11 discuss questions that can be answered without compromising the ongoing matter.

12 Specifically, the Department has authorized him to discuss the scope of David

13 Weiss' authority. He is also authorized to discuss the Tax Division's role in criminal

14 investigations and prosecutions arising under the Internal Revenue laws, and that

15 includes the process that the Tax Division follows when working with U.S. Attorney's

16 Offices to investigate and prosecute criminal tax offenses.

17 There may be some additional information Mr. Goldberg can share, depending on 18 the question and, again, consistent with our need to protect the ongoing investigation

19 and prosecution.

20 And as always, if you have questions that he is not able, due to the scope of his

21 authorization, to answer today in the room, we are always happy to take those back and 22 continue engaging with the committee.

23 [redacted]. It now is 10:09. We'll go on the clock for the first hour.

24 EXAMINATION

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Mr. Goldberg, how long have you been with the Justice Department?
2 A Since January 1988.
3 Q And have you always worked at Main Justice?
4 A No. I've worked in the U.S. Attorney's Office in Maryland as well.
5 Q Okay. Could you just give us a -- maybe starting with your current position
6 and duties -- and just give us a recap of your career?
7 A Okay. Currently, I'm the Acting Deputy Assistant Attorney General for 8 Criminal Matters at the Tax Division. I joined the Tax Division in 2015, I think around '15, 9 February 2015. My title at that time was Senior Counselor to the Assistant Attorney
10 General.
11 Before that, I was in the Deputy Attorney General's Office where I was the 12 Principal Associate Deputy Attorney General. A slight period of time before that, chief
13 of staff to the Deputy Attorney General.
14 Before that, I was the first assistant at the U.S. Attorney's Office in Maryland.
15 Prior to that, I was at the Public Integrity Section, where I was the Principal Deputy Chief,
16 and before that the Deputy Chief for Litigation, and before that a trial attorney in Public
17 Integrity.
18 Q All right.
19 How many lawyers report up to you as part of the criminal function within the Tax
20 Division?
21 A So there are roughly 100 lawyers doing criminal-related work in the Tax
22 Division. I have, I think, four or five direct reports.
23 Q Can you explain the leadership of the Tax Division? There's been some 24 question about whether you're the senior-most official in the Tax Division or exactly what 25 your responsibilities are in terms of leadership?

1 A Sure. So there are no political appointees in the Tax Division right now.
2 And I oversee the criminal side. There's another individual, David Hubbert, who is the 3 head of component. He's basically the head of the Tax Division. He oversees the civil 4 side and the appellate side, and I guess the admin side, too, though I kind of help in that.
5 So I'm on top of the criminal side, though I help with the direction of the Tax
6 Division overall. But Dave Hubbert's the head of the Tax Division.
7 Q Okay. But as far as criminal matters are concerned, you have the ultimate 8 responsibility within the Tax Division?
9 A There are particular things where Dave Hubbert might have some ability to 10 do something that I cannot do, in which case he would have to take that action.
11 Q Okay. Can you explain how DOJ Tax interacts with the U.S. Attorney's 12 Offices around the country?
13 A Sure. So we use, as a rough rule of thumb, about 90 percent of all the tax
14 cases that get brought by the U.S. Attorney's Offices and 10 percent the Tax Division.
15 So cases get referred out to the Tax -- to the -- well, there are several ways U.S.
16 Attorney's Offices can get cases, sometimes from the Tax Division. Sometimes they can 17 invite the IRS in and then expand an existing non-tax investigation.
18 And then, on occasion -- most of those cases just the U.S. Attorney's Office
19 personnel are working that case. Occasionally the U.S. Attorney's Offices ask for 20 litigation assistance from the Tax Division or we might see a case where we think this 21 would benefit from having our technical expertise or we have somebody who can 22 contribute from a resource standpoint, in which case we talk to the U.S. Attorney's Office
23 and we will work jointly with the U.S. Attorney's Office on the case.
24 Q Can you explain the role of the Tax Division in approving criminal 25 investigations?

1 A So there are various approval functions that the Tax Division has that might
2 come up in the course of a particular case. Some of those deal with whether or not a 3 grand jury investigation can be opened, whether or not a prosecution can be brought 4 generally.
5 There are investigative steps that are reserved for the Tax Division, and somebody
6 in my position would have to sign off on things like attorney subpoenas, for instance.
7 That's overall what it looks like.
8 Q According to the Department of Justice, the Justice Manual, only after the 9 Tax Division has authorized a grand jury investigation may a United States Attorney's
10 Office issue subpoenas and undertake other investigative actions.
11 Is that consistent with your understanding?
12 A In terms of directly working a tax case. Sometimes there are overlapping
13 Title 18 charges where they might be able to collect information that's useful. But, yes,
14 before they issue a tax-related subpoena should have a grand jury authorization.
15 Q And isn't it also true that under the Justice Manual DOJ Tax's approval is 16 required before the U.S. Attorney's Office may bring charges for felony cases?
17 A Yes, that is true, though there are a very small number of cases, I think, that 18 under the regulations -- I think there are a small number of cases, excise tax cases and 19 things like that, where I think it's possible for a U.S. Attorney's Office to get a direct 20 referral and actually bring the case. But those are small and unusual.
21 Q Are there any instances where a U.S. Attorney's Office would be able to 22 override the Tax Division on questions of prosecution of a felony tax case?
23 A Well, I'm not sure I understand what you mean by override. Can you
24 expand that a little bit?
25 Q Well, if the Tax Division recommends not prosecuting a felony tax case or

1 doesn't provide the required authorizations, are there instances where a U.S. Attorney's
2 Office may go forward anyway?
3 A In that instance we would expect to have a conversation with the U.S.
4 Attorney's Office about it and what their concerns were and see if they can be resolved.
5 They might decide they don't want to go forward or they may decide -- we may decide we
6 missed something and change our views. But they also could go up the line and appeal
7 what we decided to the Deputy Attorney General's Office.
8 Q How would that work? How would the appeal process work?
9 A Generally, they would contact the Deputy Attorney General's Office and they
10 would then decide how they wanted the process to work.
11 Q The DAG's office would?
12 A Yeah.
13 Q How does the process work currently?
14 A Well, it's idiosyncratic. I think a lot of times it has to do with who's there 15 and what the particular case is.
16 Q Okay. Has that situation unfolded during your tenure in the last 3 years?
17 A Yes.
18 Q And could you tell us how that process worked from a general standpoint?
19 I'm not asking about the Hunter Biden case yet.
20 A Just generally, I think the U.S. Attorney's Office indicated -- the DAG's
21 office -- they disagreed with something we had done. And the DAG's office I think 22 solicited memos from them and memos from the Tax Division and had a meeting to talk
23 about it.
24 Q Is there a particular person in the DAG's office that has responsibility for that 25 or is that the PADAG?

1 A I think the PADAG can do that, but it's up to the Deputy Attorney General or 2 the Deputy Attorney General's office to decide who would field that particularly.
3 Q Okay.
4 Chairman Jordan. How often has that happened in the last 3 years, that 5 situation?
6 Mr. Goldberg. Not frequently.
7 Chairman Jordan. Can you give us a number?
8 Mr. Goldberg. I can recall one instance.
9 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Does DOJ Tax just approve whether a U.S. Attorney's Office may bring 12 criminal tax charges against a particular individual or does it have to approve the specific 13 charges that the U.S. Attorney's Office may bring?
14 A Generally speaking, we approve specific charges. But we might provide an 15 option, I guess. In some tax cases the Tax Division might say, "U.S. Attorney, you have 16 discretion to bring this charge or this other charge."
17 Q When does the Tax Division get involved to make a decision on a set of 18 charges against a particular person. It is -- as we understand the processes, the 19 criminal investigative team prepares -- at least in the Hunter Biden case there was a 20 special agent report that was prepared and was sent to DOJ Tax with the concurrence of 21 the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware. Is that the process, how it ordinarily unfolds?
22 A Are you talking about prosecution or are you talking about grand jury?
23 Q Prosecution, correct.
24 A So that's my understanding, is that there typically would be a special agent's
25 report from the IRS.

1 Q And in this case we've learned from two whistleblowers that the special
2 agent report was prepared, sent to DOJ Tax with the concurrence of the U.S. Attorney's 3 Office in Delaware.
4 And then DOJ Tax lawyers, what is their next step? Do they prepare a report or 5 do they just review the papers and make a recommendation?
6 A I'm sorry, I didn't follow who "they" was.
7 Q The DOJ Tax lawyers that are assigned to review the matter.
8 A So just without talking about the Hunter Biden case in particular and lay this 9 out?
10 Q Uh-huh.
11 A When it comes in, generally we have three regional trial sections. And so 12 the report would go to a trial section that had jurisdiction over where the venue for this 13 was or where the field office was that was referring this.
14 And it would come in, it would get assigned typically to a line person to write a 15 memo, I think which we call a pros memo typically. And then they would review the 16 SAR, the special agent report. They would talk to the U.S. Attorney's Office. They 17 would review.
18 We get a memo from CT counsel, which is the lawyers to the Criminal
19 Investigation Division. They would review that as well.
20 Then that memo would typically go to another person, usually an assistant chief in 21 that section, who would read that memo and maybe consult with some of the other
22 materials.
23 Depending upon what the issues are, they would write a review note. And then
24 that would go to a chief in most instances. And that chief would sometimes write 25 something, sometimes not.

1 But that's the typical case, that's where the line would go.

2 Q Okay. Is it fair to say that there's an approval, a declination -- approval or

3 declination given from the Tax Division?

4 A Sometimes cases get sent back for more work. So that is an option. And

5 there is declination, approval, or prosecution with discretion or prosecution authorized.

6 Q And what's the difference between approval and with discretion and a

7 straight approval?

8 A So in approval prosecution authorization there is an expectation the case

9 would be brought by the U.S. Attorney's Office. If it is prosecution with discretion then

10 the U.S. Attorney's Office has the ability to decide not to bring the case. That is within 11 their purview. They don't have to come back to the Tax Division.

12 Q So when DOJ Tax approves an outright approval --

13 A Right.

14 Q -- the thinking is that the prosecution will happen?

15 A It's the expectation. Occasionally U.S. Attorney's Offices come back and 16 they say, "We've looked more at this case and we don't think it should be brought," or

17 they don't act on it.

18 Q And approval with discretion the Tax Division is basically saying, "Yeah, we're 19 okay with these charges but it's up to you whether you file them"?

20 A I don't think we'd frame it as informally as that. But it's --

21 Q Right. Like, how would you frame it?

22 A Well, that generally the case is back to you. It came up because there was

23 an interest in us looking at the case. And so the U.S. Attorney's Office typically in those 24 cases is engaged with the case and has some knowledge of the case.

25 Q Okay. When did the Hunter Biden case specifically come to your attention?

1 A 2019.

2 Q Okay. Is it fair to say that it's notable because it's the son of, at the time,

3 former Vice President Biden?

4 A When it came in, I think people in the Tax Division recognized that it was the 5 son of Joseph Biden, yes.

6 Chairman Jordan. When in 2019?

7 Mr. Goldberg. I'm not precisely sure. I think sort of midyear-ish, but I'm not

8 sure.

9 [redacted] And can you just explain to us how the case was handled from your

10 perspective inside the Tax Division?

11 Ms. Zdeb. And if I could just interject.

12 He is not authorized to talk specifically about this investigation and prosecution.

13 And so to the extent there is a generic response related to the overall processes of the 14 Tax Division and how it works with U.S. Attorney's Offices, he's able to get into that. But 15 if it pertains to the specific investigation, there's not a whole lot he can say.

16 [redacted] Okay. So what can you say?

17 Mr. Goldberg. Can you restate the question slightly?

18 [redacted]. I'm just trying to understand the procedural history of the Hunter

19 Biden case. You said it was first brought to your attention, the Tax Division's attention, 20 midyear 2019.

21 What can you tell us about how the case was handled? Who was it brought to?

22 What work was done? What was requested? And if you can only answer in a privilege

23 log level, it's better than nothing.

24 Ms. Zdeb. Can we go off the record for a quick second?

25 [Discussion off the record.]

1 Mr. Goldberg. Okay. So when the case came in, just for clarity, I was not in 2 charge of the criminal side of the Tax Division. Richard Zuckerman, who was the 3 political appointee, was the Principal Deputy Assistant Attorney General and the Deputy
4 Assistant Attorney General for criminal matters. So he was the one overseeing any steps
5 that took place at that time.
6 The case came in and there needed to be a decision about whether or not to open
7 a grand jury in the case. And that decision was made. And the U.S. Attorney's Office
8 asked for litigation assistance, is my recollection, in connection with the case.
9 So people from the Tax Division were assigned to work with the U.S. Attorney's
10 Office on the case as well. My knowledge is that the U.S. Attorney's Office had a non-tax 11 as well as tax things that they were reviewing. And then the case proceeded to be 12 worked.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q And how many Tax Division lawyers were working with the U.S. Attorney's 15 Office in Delaware at this time?
16 A I think there was a person that was initially involved and dropped off of it
17 from the Tax Division. And then, my recollection, there were two people that were 18 assigned and actively were working.
19 Q And for the tenure of the case, did DOJ Tax have lawyers on the team?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Ultimately, do you know whether DOJ Tax provided authorization to pursue
22 criminal tax charges?
23 A As I understand the line, I'm not sure I can answer that question.
24 Q You're not permitted to tell us whether DOJ Tax authorized felony tax
25 charges?

1 Ms. Zdeb. That's getting a little bit away from the question of Mr. Weiss'
2 authority and into specific charging decisions and internal decisionmaking.
3 [redacted]. Did the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware and the Tax Division come
4 to an agreement on the types of charges to be pursued at the outset of 2022?
5 Ms. Zdeb. And, again, that is also getting into specific internal decisionmaking
6 around charging decisions?
7 BY [redacted]:
8 Q Between DOJ Tax and the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware, who would you
9 say is the primary decisionmaker on this case with regard to the tax component?
10 A So from my perspective, David Weiss in the U.S. Attorney's Office was 11 leading the case and running the case and were doing that and that Tax Division had 12 responsibilities under the Justice Department procedures and policies to review certain 13 things and approve certain things, yes.
14 Q And if there was a disagreement between David Weiss' office and the Tax
15 Division, how was that resolved in terms of activity during the course of the investigation?
16 A So I expect that during that investigation stages, that there was ongoing
17 discussions back and forth. So any disagreement or difference of opinion as to certain 18 perspectives would be discussed, I think, and if some resolution couldn't be reached, then 19 it would have to be decided by somebody else in higher authority.
20 Q Is it fair to say the whistleblowers provided testimony that the U.S.
21 Attorney's Office in Delaware would often say, "We need to get DOJ Tax's approval for 22 that type of investigative steps"?
23 A Okay.
24 Q Is that fair, is that a fair thing to say?
25 A Without commenting specifically on the Hunter Biden case, there were

1 specific things that I think I alluded to before, like an attorney subpoena in a tax case,
2 where Tax Division has to sign off in order for the U.S. Attorney's Office to take that step.
3 Q Was the fact that Hunter Biden was involved here, did that require DOJ Tax's
4 sign-off because it's a sensitive matter?
5 A Well, without getting into the case, again trying to answer a question at a
6 slightly higher level, there are cases that are sensitive, people -- some would say sensitive,
7 sometimes say significant cases. And those cases typically have closer supervision than 8 other, more run of the mill cases.
9 Q And if there's a target of an investigation that has some political significance
10 attached to him or her, is that -- does that trigger any heightened review process within 11 DOJ Tax?
12 A So if something can be termed as sensitive pursuant to the case it might be 13 because it's a public official or it's a person that has a noteworthy profile or it's going to 14 generate a lot of media attention, or might be congressional interest. It could be a 15 corporation or an individual. That might mean that the case would come to my level for 16 ultimate sign-off on the case as opposed to be handled at the chief's level.
17 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that the Hunter Biden case fell into that 18 category?
19 A Yes.
20 Q On specific investigative steps, did the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware
21 have the ability to overrule a DOJ Tax decision on whether a certain grand jury subpoena
22 was issued or a certain witness was interviewed?
23 A I think typically U.S. Attorney's Office, if we were working with a U.S.
24 Attorney -- and, again, I'm going to try to keep it at a more generic level so that I can 25 respond -- if DOJ Tax is working on a case with a U.S. Attorney's Office, that U.S.

1 Attorney's Office often is the lead in that case and they would be making most of the 2 ultimate decisions. But we would expect them, if we have people on the case, to be 3 consulting with our folks about the investigative steps that were taken and there would 4 be discussions that would be had about those.
5 Q What timeframe did you assume responsibility for the criminal component?
6 A After Mr. Zuckerman left in January 20th, 2021.
7 Q And had you been involved prior to that in terms of the day-to-day approval
8 process?
9 A So I don't believe I had day-to-day involvement in this case at any stage
10 particularly. But I was somebody who Richard Zuckerman consulted with on criminal 11 matters, and this is one of the matters, yes, that he consulted with me on.
12 Q Okay.
13 A The other thing that I would say is, if he was unavailable and there was any 14 action that needed to be taken with regard to a case, he would often ask me to handle
15 that as Acting Deputy Assistant Attorney General, and I might approve that particular 16 action in his stead.
17 Q Okay. So going back to midyear 2019 through the present, you've had a 18 consistent supervisory responsibility over the decisions made in this case?
19 A I wouldn't say it's been consistent, because Richard Zuckerman was 20 interacting with David Weiss and other people in the Department in connection with this 21 case and I wasn't typically during the period when he was there.
22 Q But he kept you looped in, correct?
23 A He shared with me whatever he shared with me. I don't know what he 24 didn't share with me. I'm not suggesting he did anything wrong or that he should have 25 shared anything. But he had dealings with the U.S. Attorney's Office and with others in

1 the Department where I was not involved.

2 Q Special Agent Ziegler testified that an AUSA in Delaware -- that DOJ Tax

3 didn't expect the case to be indicted until 2023 because there were various levels of 4 approvals that needed to be secured.

5 Is that consistent with your understanding?

6 Ms. Zdeb. And, again, this is getting into decisions in an ongoing case. And so

7 to the extent he can provide a general answer about approvals that are needed in any

8 case, he's able to do that. But he can't speak specifically to what did or did not happen

9 in this case.

10 [redacted] Okay.

11 Mr. Goldberg. Cases at some point come to -- as I described the process before,

12 they have to get evaluated and analyzed by the line level, the assistant chief level, the 13 chief level. And if it's coming to me, those three things definitely happened.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q Can you tell us, when a case is being worked by FBI criminal investigators

16 and IRS criminal investigators relating to tax charges, how the duties and responsibilities

17 are divided?

18 A So I'm trying to rely on what I've seen over the years in different jobs.

19 So IRS Tax has a particular role, a very unique role in a criminal investigation,

20 Federal criminal investigation. That is that they have access to tax information more

21 easily than other parts. So there are restrictions on what can be pushed through. That

22 means that IRS Tax handles certain things.

23 But, generally speaking, where I've seen IRS and FBI in cases together, they work

24 closely together and share information relevant to the cases. Generally, the reason the

25 FBI is on the case is because there are potential non-tax charges, Title 18 charges, and so

1 they would have an interest in things the IRS was doing and vice versa, but they would
2 have their own jurisdictions and responsibilities.
3 Q And did you have contact with the FBI field office about this case?
4 A I did not. I met a couple of the supervisors from that office, but I did not
5 have contact with them.
6 Q How frequently did you have contact with David Weiss?
7 A I would -- not that frequently. If something came up that required my 8 attention or he -- or I thought I needed to talk to him. Typically things came through our 9 chain of command, so my main contact on this case would be through the chief of our 10 northern section.
11 Q Okay.
12 A Because Delaware was in the northern section.
13 Q Okay. And it's been well documented that the two IRS Tax Division
14 lawyers, Mark Daly and Jack Morgan, were the primary points of contact for the IRS
15 criminal investigators and the U.S. Attorney's Office. Is that your understanding?
16 A Before I answer that, I've been asked by the Department of Justice to avoid 17 using names of people who are non-supervisory. So I would request that the committee
18 consider redacting their names in the transcript. But both Mr. Daly and Mr. Morgan
19 were assigned to the matter, yes.
20 Q And what were their duties or the differences, how did they split up their 21 responsibilities?
22 A Between each other?
23 Q Yes.
24 A Mark Daly is more senior, he's a senior litigation counsel. Had more 25 experience. Both of them are very smart, hardworking people. But I think they

1 worked along with each other deciding how to split up things in consultation with their
2 supervisor in the northern region.
3 Q Are you familiar with the special agent report that was prepared by the IRS
4 in this matter, in the Hunter Biden matter?
5 A I'm aware that there was such a report, yes.
6 Q And do you know when DOJ Tax received the report?
7 Ms. Zdeb. And, again, we're -- well, he can answer that yes or no if he knows the 8 answer. But he's not able to get into specific documents, specific steps in the 9 investigative process.
10 Mr. Goldberg. I think it was received in February 2022.
11 [redacted]. Okay. And prior to the preparation of the special agent report, 12 there was a consensus developed, as it's been represented to us, a consensus developed
13 by the prosecution team.
14 And by prosecution team, I mean the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware, the IRS
15 criminal tax investigators, the FBI agents came to a determination that they were going to 16 move forward with criminal tax charges against Hunter Biden late in 2021.
17 It's been represented to us through testimony that Special Agent Ziegler at the IRS
18 prepared the special agent report the latter part of 2021 and it was available, submitted
19 to DOJ Tax in, like you said, February of 2022.
20 Is that your recollection of the process?
21 Ms. Zdeb. And there was a lot baked into that question about the ongoing 22 investigative process and decisions, whether or not there was consensus, what happened.
23 All of that involves the ongoing matter and is beyond the scope of what he's able to speak
24 to.
25 If you have a general question about kind of the role of the special agent's report

1 relative to a pros memo, those are the sorts of things he can speak to.

2 [redacted]. Were you aware before the special agent report was drafted that

3 the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware and everyone on the team presumably agreed to 4 move forward with the special agent report?

5 Ms. Zdeb. And it's the same objection.

6 BY [redacted]:

7 Q Do you know whether Mr. Daly or Mr. Morgan were involved with those

8 meetings and that determination that Special Agent Ziegler would draft that report?

9 A Whether they were involved in the decision to have him draft a report?

10 Q Right.

11 A I don't know for sure. I assume there were some discussions, though,

12 between Mr. Daly or Mr. Morgan and the investigators while they were doing that report.

13 Q Do you know -- I mean, the special agent report is a pretty sophisticated

14 document, correct? It's long, it contains recitation of all the evidence collected, correct?

15 A It's a compilation of a lot of evidence, but it doesn't necessarily address all

16 aspects of a case.

17 Q But is it fair to say it's a big project --

18 A Yes.

19 Q -- for the IRS to prepare a special agent report?

20 A It's going to require work. If in a larger case would require more work, yes.

21 Q And Special Agent Ziegler and Supervisory Special Agent Shapley

22 represented to us that before they set out to prepare this document that they wanted to

23 make sure everybody was on the same page. And they represented to us that everyone,

24 in fact, was on the same page. And the question to you is whether that's consistent

25 with your recollection.

1 Ms. Zdeb. And that question also gets into deliberations about the ongoing case
2 and he's not able to speak to that.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q Do you remember how long the special agent report was?
5 A I don't.
6 Q And did you read it?
7 A I did not read the special agent report.
8 Q Was it provided to you? Did you examine it? Did you flip through it to get 9 a sense of what was included?
10 A I might have seen pieces of it but I didn't read it. Typically, I don't read
11 those reports. They get distilled by the pros memo, the assistant chief and the chief, the 12 relevant parts, or they talk about it in various ways.
13 Q And what was the process here? The special agent report you said came in 14 in February of 2022. What were the next steps inside of DOJ Tax Division? And if you
15 don't want to talk -- if you're not able to talk specifically about the Hunter Biden case,
16 maybe you could just give a general process, how the process would unfold.
17 A So I'm trying to take this up a level.
18 The special agent's report comes in. And it depends upon where you are in the 19 case. The case might require a grand jury investigation, it might require additional 20 investigation that was not covered. People read the investigative report and decide that 21 there needs to be additional investigation that has to be undertaken in connection with it.
22 Sometimes there's a conference, a tax conference that's afforded to the target of 23 the report, in which case that occurs, and that information then gets analyzed.
24 There's thought about how the case is going to put together from the standpoint
25 of the Federal Principles of Prosecution. Lawyers look at cases a little differently

1 generally from agents in terms of admissible evidence and order of proof, who the 2 witnesses are going to be.
3 Q And are you able to tell us anything about what happened with the Hunter
4 Biden case in terms of the process?
5 Ms. Zdeb. He is not.
6 [redacted] Do you know whether a prosecution report was drafted by DOJ Tax
7 after receiving the special agent report?
8 Ms. Zdeb. To the extent there is a general process that applies in all cases, he 9 can speak to that.
10 [redacted] Well, no, I'm asking about the Hunter Biden case.
11 Do you know whether a prosecution report was prepared by DOJ Tax?
12 Ms. Zdeb. And I'm saying he can't speak about the ongoing investigation. And 13 so if there --
14 Chairman Jordan. He's not asking what was in the report, he's asking was it
15 prepared.
16 Ms. Zdeb. Right. Yes, I understood the question. But the scope of his 17 authorization does not allow him to speak about the ongoing investigation, whether it 18 involves the contents or the fact of something that is prepared as part of the process.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q Do you know the answer to my question?
21 A As I understand my direction from the Department, I can't say yes or no.
22 Q Well, I understand you're not going to answer the question. But were you
23 permitted to answer the question, would you be able to? Do you know the answer?
24 A Like I said, I feel like I can't answer that question given the direction I've 25 gotten from the Department.

1 Q Well, there was either a prosecution report prepared or not. And my 2 question is whether you know the answer to that question, not whether there was one 3 produced.
4 A I'm trying to think of how I can answer this question in a way that doesn't
5 require me to go back to the Department.
6 Ms. Zdeb. I mean, I think he's conveyed what he is comfortable conveying.
7 But, again, if you want to ask him if that is something that happens in a typical case and 8 what the typical process is, he can speak to that.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Okay. But I'm asking about the Hunter Biden case.
11 Do you know whether a prosecution report was prepared, yes or no? Like, yes,
12 the report was prepared, or no, the report wasn't prepared. I mean, if you know the 13 answer to that question, I guess that's what I'm looking for, do you know the answer to 14 the question, not whether the prosecution report was prepared or not prepared.
15 A Let me -- I was the supervisor of that case. I am the supervisor of that 16 ongoing case. So I'm familiar with any significant matters that took place in that case, to 17 keep that at eye level and answer your question.
18 Q Did you participate in any meetings in person with the Delaware U.S.
19 Attorney's Office?
20 A Yes.
21 Q How many?
22 A One.
23 Q And when was that?
24 A January 2023.
25 Q And who was in attendance?

1 A The U.S. Attorney.

2 Q Mr. Weiss?

3 A Yes. Several assistants from his office.

4 Q Was Lesley Wolf there?

5 A Yes. The lawyers from the Tax Division were there.

6 Q Mr. Morgan and Mr. Daly?

7 A Yes. And defense counsel representing Mr. Biden.

8 Q And who was representing Mr. Biden?

9 A Chris Clark.

10 Q Anyone else?

11 A There were two other lawyers there.

12 Q Associates of his from his firm?

13 A I don't remember whether exactly his firm, but they were working with him

14 on the case.

15 Chairman Jordan. Where was the meeting?

16 Mr. Goldberg. Pardon me?

17 Chairman Jordan. Where was the meeting?

18 Mr. Goldberg. At the U.S. Attorney's Office.

19 Chairman Jordan. In Delaware?

20 Mr. Goldberg. Yes.

21 [redacted] You traveled to Delaware for that meeting?

22 Mr. Goldberg. Yes.

23 [redacted] And what happened at that meeting?

24 Ms. Zdeb. He can't speak to what happened at a meeting about the case.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Certainly you can tell us at least what Mr. Clark, from that standpoint of the 2 conversation, what Mr. Clark said.
3 A He was making a presentation on the case.
4 Q A PowerPoint presentation? Did he have a slide deck?
5 A I think he did, yes.
6 Q And how long was the presentation?
7 A I'm not sure. I think it was about an hour maybe.
8 Q Okay. And was it customary for you to attend that type of meeting or did
9 you only attend here because of the significance of the target and the investigation?
10 A I attended because Mr. Weiss asked me to come up for the meeting.
11 Q Okay. How frequently do you travel to U.S. Attorney's Offices for meetings
12 of that sort? Was that unusual for you to -- 13 A For me to go to a U.S. Attorney's Office on a case?
14 Q Yeah.
15 A It's not something that I would commonly do.
16 Q Okay. How many times have you done it?
17 A In the Tax Division or in other supervisory --
18 Q In your current role?
19 A I think it's the only time I've done it. But I think this is a matter -- the case
20 was being run out of the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware and everybody else was going 21 to be there, so they asked me to tag along as well.
22 Q Okay. But you hadn't been a part of any of the in-person meetings prior to 23 that outside of the presence of Mr. Biden's lawyers?
24 A That was a complicated question. Could you rephrase that?
25 Q I'm sorry. Was that the first time that you had an in-person meeting with

1 David Weiss?

2 A No.

3 Q Okay. On this case?

4 A I had had other meetings with David Weiss prior to that meeting, yes.

5 Q On the Hunter Biden case?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And can you tell us how many? In-person meetings.

8 A Yes.

9 Q Like, how many times have you been to the U.S. Attorney's Office in 10 Delaware? Maybe that's a good place to start.

11 A I think you asked that question. One.

12 Q Okay. So that was the only time?

13 A Yes.

14 Q One visit to Delaware on this case and it was the meeting with Chris Clark?

15 A It was a meeting that David Weiss asked me to attend in connection with the 16 case.

17 Q Okay. But Chris Clark was there making a presentation, right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Okay. And then how many meetings with David Weiss in person did you

20 attend in other locations, presumably D.C.?

21 A I would say -- I'm guessing -- maybe seven or eight.

22 Q And do you remember roughly the dates of those?

23 A I don't. I don't. Some of them were short, some of them less.

24 Chairman Jordan. Those were all in person?

25 Mr. Goldberg. Yes.

1 Chairman Jordan. The many times you met in person, Mr. Weiss would be here
2 in D.C.?
3 Mr. Goldberg. Yeah, all the meetings I had with him were in D.C.
4 Chairman Jordan. So you had seven or eight meetings with him in D.C., then one
5 meeting was in January 2023 at the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware?
6 Mr. Goldberg. He set up a meeting in D.C. -- in Delaware -- and asked me to 7 attend, along with the other people from my office and people from his office that were 8 at the meeting.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Did you attend a meeting in June of 2022 at Main Justice --
11 A Yes.
12 Q -- on this?
13 Do you remember who attended that meeting? And if you don't, I can -- 14 A I have a general recollection of they were --
15 Q Was Gary Shapley there?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Darrell Waldon?
18 A I don't know him very well, but I know that there were IRS supervisors there.
19 So that sounds right.
20 Q And David Weiss?
21 A David Weiss was there, yes.
22 Q Lesley Wolf?
23 A Yes.
24 Q Mr. Daly? Mr. Morgan?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And then two FBI officials, Mr. Sobocinski and Ms. Holley?

2 A Yes. And I think there was other IRS agents there and some FBI agents

3 there as well.

4 Q And do you remember the purpose of the meeting?

5 Ms. Zdeb. And once we start getting into purpose, what happened at the 6 meeting, those go beyond the scope of his authorization.

7 BY [redacted]:

8 Q Do you remember who requested the meeting, who set it up?

9 A David Weiss asked for the meeting to be set up.

10 Q And do you remember if David Weiss was in charge of inviting and

11 assembling the individuals that attended the meeting or was that handled by somebody

12 else?

13 A I don't know who logistically contacted people or decided who should 14 attend.

15 Q I guess my question, though, is, did David Weiss say, "Hey, we need to get 16 everyone in the room, let's get FBI, let's get the IRS, let's get the Tax Division people"?

17 Was that David Weiss' initiative or Lesley Wolf's initiative to assemble everyone?

18 A My recollection is that David Weiss wanted to have a meeting with people

19 involved in the case.

20 Q And we received testimony that Mr. Morgan and Mr. Daly gave a

21 presentation regarding the reasons why the case should not be charged. Is that your

22 recollection?

23 Ms. Zdeb. He can speak to whether there was a presentation, but he is not able 24 to get into what any presentation consisted of.

25 Mr. Goldberg. Yes. There was a presentation that was made.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And do you remember who provided the presentation?

3 A Mr. Daly and Mr. Morgan.

4 Q And anyone else have a presentation or a counter-presentation?

5 A I don't recall a counter-presentation. There were other people there who

6 made comments during the course of it.

7 Q Okay. Do you know if anyone, any of the participants, expressed

8 frustration that the purpose of the meeting had been misrepresented to them?

9 Ms. Zdeb. And, again, this is getting into the contents of the meeting on the 10 ongoing investigation, so he's not able to address that.

11 [redacted] Do you remember whether this particular meeting dealt with the 12 2014 and 2015 tax years?

13 Ms. Zdeb. And that also relates to the contents of the meeting on the ongoing

14 investigation.

15 [redacted]. So I guess the question is, was the meeting related to the global case

16 or was it specific to a couple tax years? I mean, at the time they were -- we've received

17 testimony pursuing tax -- criminal tax charges for 2014, 2015, 2018, and 2019. And the 18 question is, was this meeting dealing with all of those issues or just the 2014 and 2015 tax

19 years?

20 Ms. Zdeb. And I think that's essentially the same question. It's seeking the 21 contents of a meeting on the case.

22 [redacted]. Were you aware that the statute of limitations was about to expire

23 on the 2014 and 2015 tax years?

24 Ms. Zdeb. And, again, that relates to the ongoing case and he's not able to 25 address it.

1 [redacted] Were you aware that there was a tolling agreement arranged with
2 Hunter Biden's lawyers to extend the statute of limitations?
3 Ms. Zdeb. He can answer if he is aware of a tolling agreement. But if what 4 you're asking is whether something like that was discussed at this meeting or any other
5 particular meeting, he can't get into that.
6 Mr. Goldberg. Could you repeat the question? I'm sorry.
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q Are you aware of whether or not there was a tolling agreement on the 2014
9 and 2015 tax years?
10 A I don't believe that -- I believe there was a tolling agreement, but I'm not 11 sure it was restricted to particular years.
12 Q Okay. Can you tell us how tolling agreements ordinarily work?
13 A So in a general case, whether it's a tax case or not, sometimes there are 14 discussions between the Department of Justice and people who are targets of 15 investigations, because there are statute of limitations that might come into play at some 16 point and there may be requests by the Department or an offer by the target to extend 17 that statute through the course of a tolling agreement.
18 Usually there's a request made by a defendant -- or not defendant -- a target
19 prior, that in exchange for that they might want to make a presentation or do other 20 things. And there is a written agreement that gets executed that -- typically there are 21 different variations of it -- that excludes time.
22 Q And why would a target want to enter into a tolling agreement to allow the 23 government more time to bring a case?
24 A You know, I've asked myself that question sometimes. And I think it's 25 because a target sometimes thinks that then they will get an opportunity to provide a

1 more fulsome presentation about things.

2 Other times I think defense attorneys, they are in favor of pushing things down

3 the road a little bit. Maybe they feel like they need time to get up to speed on their own

4 case. But they make their own decision from the perspective of their client.

5 Chairman Jordan. What happened before the meeting? So Mr. Daly and

6 Mr. Morgan make a presentation at this meeting. Were you fully abreast of what they

7 were going to present at the meeting with Mr. Weiss and other people, part of the 8 investigative team?

9 Ms. Zdeb. You can answer yes or no.

10 Mr. Goldberg. Fully abreast is -- I was aware that they were going to make a 11 presentation. I had a sense of that presentation.

12 Chairman Jordan. And you were fine with them presenting the material in the 13 way they were going to present it?

14 Mr. Goldberg. I don't recall I had a detailed knowledge of exactly what they

15 were going to present. I didn't review their slides. I think I had some notion of some 16 of the documents that they had.

17 Chairman Jordan. Were you in agreement with what they presented to the rest

18 of the investigative team, to Mr. Weiss and his team?

19 Mr. Goldberg. I think this was a presentation that was being made by them

20 about the case. I'm not sure I can go into that more given the line I have given me.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q Did you have a pre-meeting with Morgan and Daly and the Tax Division

23 officials that were in attendance to iron out of what was going to be discussed?

24 A I don't think so, not in the way you're talking about. I know I talked to

25 them beforehand that there was going to a meeting and got some sense of what was

1 going to be covered at the meeting.

2 Q Were there any levels of supervisors between Daly and Morgan and yourself

3 involved with this case at DOJ Tax?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And who is that?

6 A So the chief of northern, Jason Poole, and another individual who is an

7 assistant chief in northern as well.

8 Q And did those two officials attend the meeting?

9 A I'm pretty sure that almost assuredly Jason Poole was there, and I think the 10 other assistant chief was there as well.

11 Q Okay. And did Jason Poole, would he be the primary person you would

12 interact with on the contents of matters like this? Or were you dealing more directly

13 with Morgan and Daly, I guess is my question.

14 A Generally speaking, on this case I observed the chain of command.

15 So most of my dealings on the case were through Jason Poole. Occasionally the 16 lawyers that were involved, Mark and Jack, would also be on a call or at a meeting or

17 sometimes they might reach out directly or --

18 Chairman Jordan. Yeah, but we're not talking about generally, we're talking

19 about what happened in June of '22. What happened here?

20 Mr. Goldberg. I can't remember whether or not I talked -- whether Jason Poole

21 or the assistant chief were present before the meeting when we talked at all. I think I

22 talked to Mark Daly and Jack Morgan prior to this.

23 Chairman Jordan. Before the meeting you talked to Mr. Daly and Mr. Morgan,

24 and Mr. Poole and the other assistant may have been there or may not have been there.

25 But you definitely talked to Mr. Morgan and Mr. Daly prior to the meeting?

1 Mr. Goldberg. Yes, yes, yes.

2 Chairman Jordan. Just prior?

3 Mr. Goldberg. I don't know if it was just prior. It could have been 2 days

4 before. But prior to the meeting.

5 [redacted]. Who would have reviewed their presentation and okayed it?

6 Mr. Goldberg. I don't know the answer to that particularly. Remember, this is

7 a joint case with the U.S. Attorney's Office and I don't know what interaction -- and David

8 Weiss had asked for this meeting to happen. So I don't know what interactions there

9 were between the U.S. Attorney's Office and them as well regarding the presentation.

10 Chairman Jordan. Did David Weiss call you to make this meeting happen? Or 11 how did it get coordinated?

12 Mr. Goldberg. I think I got contacted that said -- through one of my folks -- that

13 said David Weiss wants to have a meeting in Washington with folks about the case.

14 That's how I think I got it. It's my recollection.

15 [redacted] Do you recall any differences of opinion that occurred during that

16 meeting?

17 Ms. Zdeb. And that also gets into the substance of the meeting, which he is not 18 authorized to discuss.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Agent Ziegler testified that the special agent in charge of the Baltimore Field

21 Office, Agent Sobocinski, asked several questions about the tax case and presented

22 rebuttals to DOJ Tax attorneys who were presenting on defenses raised by defense

23 counsel. Do you recall that?

24 Ms. Zdeb. That also involves the contents of the meeting on the ongoing

25 investigation. He's not authorized to discuss it.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q But do you know the answer to that question?

3 A I'm not sure how I can answer that question and stay --

4 Q Well, you're here voluntarily.

5 A Yes.

6 Q And so if we ask a question and you don't want to answer it, we need to

7 make the determination whether that type of question -- at the end of the interview we'll

8 make a list of the information we were seeking from you that we were unable to get and

9 we'll make a decision about whether we need to compel your testimony. And, granted,

10 if we compel your testimony you may come back and refuse to answer.

11 But before we do that, we'd like to know whether, if we are successful in

12 compelling your testimony, whether you know the answer to the question, because if we

13 ask you something and you say, "Well, we can't get into it," but it turns out you don't

14 even know the answer to the question, then it's not really worth the quarrel.

15 Ms. Zdeb. But I think you've asked him whether he recalls a specific thing

16 happening at that meeting.

17 [redacted] Yes.

18 Ms. Zdeb. And there's no way that he can answer whether he knows the answer

19 to that question or not without revealing the answer to the underlying --

20 [redacted]. I disagree, I disagree, because -- and my time's up here and so

21 we'll -- this will be it for the first round.

22 But I disagree because I articulated a vignette that Agent Ziegler testified to. And

23 Mr. Goldberg, I think, is in a position to say, "Yes, I remember that," or, "No, I don't

24 remember that," and so that's going to be his answer. But if he can't answer that, then 25 my question is, are you able to say yes or no?

1 Ms. Zdeb. Right. I know what your question is, and my point is that it -- he
2 cannot answer that question without revealing the answer to the other question he is not
3 authorized to speak to.
4 And more broadly, this meeting in general is not within the scope of what he's
5 authorized to speak to. He's happy to speak to Mr. Weiss' authority, to general
6 processes, but he simply cannot get into the substance of the meeting on the case?
7 [redacted] Okay. That's the end of our hour.
8 [Recess.]

1

2 [11:26 a.m.]

3 [redacted] It is 11:26. We can go back on the record.

4 EXAMINATION

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Mr. Goldberg, good morning again. I'm [redacted]. I'm with Ranking

7 Member Nadler's staff.

8 I want to go back. We talked through, at the very beginning of the first round,

9 your background, and I want to just touch on that again.

10 You said you first joined the Justice Department in January 1988, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And you've served in every -- roles from a trial attorney in the Public

13 Integrity Section, supervisory level in the Public Integrity Section. You were in the U.S.

14 Attorney's Office in Maryland for a period of time, then you were in the Deputy Attorney

15 General's Office for a time before you went to the Tax Division.

16 Is that a good summation?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And so it's fair to say that you've seen cases both at a line attorney level, at 19 the supervisory level, and also at kind of the Department management level?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. You received a Director's Award in 2010, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q What was that award for?

24 A It was when I was the first assistant in the U.S. Attorney's Office, and it was 25 for my job overseeing things, in particular white collar cases in the U.S. Attorney's Office.

1 Q Thank you.

2 So is it fair to say that you are a longtime career-level employee of the

3 Department of Justice?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And in that capacity you've served under both Republican administrations,

6 right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And you've also served under Democratic administrations?

9 A I have, yes.

10 Q Okay. I want to look at the Tax Division specifically.

11 I think in the first round you said that right now there's no political appointees at 12 the Tax Division. Is that correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Is that typical?

15 A It's not typical for most components of the Justice Department, but the Tax

16 Division has had a lot of vacancies over the years in their political positions.

17 Q Okay. So is it fair to say that right now certainly everybody in the Tax

18 Division is a career employee?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay. And with regard to the Hunter Biden investigation specifically, you

21 said in the earlier hour that when the case first came to DOJ Tax the person who handled

22 it was Richard Zuckerman. Is that correct?

23 A He was the supervisor of criminal matters at that time, yes.

24 Q Okay. And who was Mr. Zuckerman?

25 A He was a political appointee during the Trump administration. He was a

1 guy who begun his career, I think, in the Department of Justice for a couple years, and
2 then had been a white collar lawyer out in Detroit for a number of years before he
3 became the DAG for criminal matters at the Tax Division.
4 Q Okay. And he was, you said, an appointee of former President Trump?
5 A Of that administration, yes.
6 Q Okay. So is it fair to say that with respect to the Hunter Biden matter -- I'm 7 sorry, and other than Mr. Zuckerberg -- Mr. Zuckerman, I'm sorry -- everybody who has 8 touched the Hunter Biden matter has actually been a career employee, is that fair to say,
9 with respect to Tax Division specifically?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay. Over the course of your career at the Department, and looking in 12 particular, for example, at your time with the Public Integrity Section, did you prosecute
13 both Republican and Democratic politicians?
14 A Yes. When we were -- when I was an attorney there and a supervisor, yes.
15 But we didn't put people in those buckets. We prosecuted public officials and 16 employees who committed violations. We didn't keep track of how many were 17 Republican or how many were Democrat.
18 Q Okay. And can you explain that a little more? When you say, we didn't 19 put people into buckets, why was that?
20 A Well, it's important, particularly in public corruption cases, that partisan
21 politics plays no role in criminal prosecutions.
22 And so we investigate people following the evidence, and then make a judgment
23 based on the evidence that's been developed and the Principles of Federal Prosecution
24 what should be done with the case. Sometimes we declined the case; sometimes we 25 went forward and prosecuted the case. It was based on that evidence and not political

1 labels.

2 Q Okay. And you said that's important in particular with respect to the Public

3 Integrity Section.

4 A Yes.

5 Q But do you think that's also important, for example, when you're prosecuting

6 white collar cases at the District of Maryland?

7 A Yes. Yes. And I think it's important across the Department in everything

8 we do, and criminal cases shouldn't have partisan elements in the middle of them.

9 Q And what about the Tax Division, is it important --

10 A Yes.

11 Q -- for the Tax Division to not look at political labels but follow the facts and 12 the law where they lead?

13 A Yes.

14 Q There have been allegations that the Justice Department Tax Division's

15 decision-making in the Hunter Biden case specifically was driven by some decision to 16 protect Hunter Biden from prosecution because of who his father is.

17 What's your reaction to that allegation?

18 A So just keeping things at a very high level, partisan politics, in my view,

19 played no role and hasn't played and I expect will play no role in the way the Tax Division

20 in the Department of Justice handles the Hunter Biden case.

21 [redacted] Okay. Go ahead.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q On the subject of Mr. Zuckerman's involvement in this case, can you repeat
3 again for the record what his position was when he was ultimately responsible for 4 approving decisions in that case?

5 A Sure. He wore two hats. One was as the Principal Deputy Assistant
6 Attorney General, so he was the head of the Tax Division. But he also wore the hat of 7 the Deputy Assistant Attorney General for Criminal Matters, which is the position I'm in,
8 where he oversaw directly the criminal side of the Tax Division.

9 Q Okay. And the only person during the pendency of the Hunter Biden
10 matter who was a political appointee in that position was Mr. Zuckerman. Is that
11 correct?

12 A Yes. We had a couple of other political appointees in the Tax Division
13 during the Trump administration, but I don't believe they had, to my knowledge, any 14 involvement in the Hunter Biden case.

15 Q And I believe you said in the first hour that one of the case-related decisions
16 that Mr. Zuckerman made with respect to Hunter Biden was the decision to open a grand 17 jury. Is that fair? I say that because I thought that was the testimony in the first hour.
18 If I'm wrong, you can correct me.

19 A So a grand jury was opened during that period of time.

20 Q Was that decision ultimately under the supervision and ultimate approval of 21 Mr. Zuckerman?

22 A Yes, though I don't know if I can get in any further into this given the 23 Department's direction to me.

24 Q Okay.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q When did Mr. Zuckerman leave the Department, if you remember?
2 A I believe it was January 20th, 2021.
3 Q Okay. So he was there pretty much through the end of the Trump
4 administration?
5 A Yes.
6 Q You mentioned earlier, and I know you've asked for the names to be 7 redacted from the final transcript, but Jack Morgan and Mark Daly. Those are -- they're 8 both Tax Division employees, correct?
9 A Yes. Well, Jack Morgan is not currently a Tax Division employee.
10 Q Okay. Where is he -- who is he an employee of right now?
11 A He's an Assistant U.S. Attorney in the Eastern District of Virginia.
12 Q Okay. And is that recent?
13 A It's as of, I think, August 2022, so late 2022, maybe.
14 Q Okay. To the extent that you worked with Mr. Morgan and Mr. Daly and 15 interacted with them in this case, but also just generally as a supervisor in the Tax
16 Division, is it your opinion that they, like you, followed the facts and the law wherever 17 they might meet in a case?
18 A Yes. They're two very dedicated, hardworking, smart prosecutors who are 19 trying to follow the evidence and the law, yes.
20 Q Did you ever have any indications or any reason to believe that partisan
21 political opinion or bias might be playing a role in their decision-making?
22 A No.
23 Q Okay. In the earlier hour, you were discussing the difference between a
24 special agent report and a prosecution memo, and I don't think you really got the chance
25 to explain in detail how they differ from each other.

1 So for the record, briefly, can you explain what a special agent report is?
2 A It's the formal referral from the IRS to the Tax Division asking the Tax
3 Division to authorize charges in a tax prosecution.
4 Q And what type of things might a special agent report contain?
5 A Copies of interview reports, copies of significant evidence, bank statements,
6 or things along those lines. There's generally some overview text that's written by the 7 special agent as well.
8 Q You said in the earlier hour that the special agent report is a compilation of a 9 lot of things, but it doesn't address everything. I think you said something along those 10 lines.
11 A Yes.
12 Q What might not be included in a special agent report?
13 A Just talking generally, there often may not be a well-developed analysis of 14 the defenses in a particular case. And that may be largely because of the agent doesn't 15 have the information at that time or hasn't focused on it. But it also doesn't contain a 16 lot of information that a prosecutor might want and require in order to apply the 17 Principles of Federal Prosecution.
18 It doesn't get into evidentiary questions generally, in my view. It doesn't get into 19 the elements of particular -- I think it has very broad brush typical discussion of elements,
20 but it's not the sort of in-depth analysis that lawyers tend to do.
21 So what the lawyer is looking at in a case may be different from what's in that 22 report. So they may be interested -- the prosecutor may think that upon reading that 23 report that additional evidence needs to be developed further, for instance.
24 Q And that's because a prosecutor is ultimately the individual who would have 25 to try the case, so they have to have a better sense of what evidence might be needed at

1 trial. Is that fair to say?

2 A Yes. And prosecutors are obliged under our role in the Justice Department

3 to evaluate whether something meets the Principles of Federal Prosecution in order to 4 proceed with a case.

5 Q Okay. The things that are not contained in the special agent report, things

6 like evidentiary considerations -- and that would be, for example, whether evidence

7 would be admissible, correct?

8 A Yes. I guess, it's possible there's some reference to that, but certainly there

9 wouldn't be in-depth analysis, in my experience.

10 Q Okay. So things that are not in the special agent report, like evidentiary

11 consideration, like a more extensive discussion of the elements of particular charges, are 12 those the type of things that would be included in a prosecution memo?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. And can you describe what a prosecution memo is, just generally,

15 not with respect to this case in particular?

16 A Generally, it's a memo that reviews the relevant facts in the case and the 17 relevant law. Often there's a discussion of the -- an evaluation of the potential

18 witnesses and maybe their credibility, maybe other assessments about them. There

19 may be discussions of venue or other aspects, legal aspects of a case, as well.

20 Q Who prepares the prosecution memo?

21 A In a tax case, it's generally assigned by the chief of the section to a particular

22 attorney to prepare.

23 Q Okay. And then who would review a memo after it's -- after an attorney

24 prepares it?

25 A It would go up to the next level, which is typically an assistant chief in the 1 Tax Division in a tax case.

2 Q Okay. And then sometimes these memos, in fact, reach up -- they reach

3 you, correct?

4 A Sometimes. If it comes to me, there's usually on top of that a chief's

5 review note as well.

6 Q Okay. You've mentioned the Principles of Federal Prosecution a couple

7 times.

8 A Right.

9 Q And I want to look into those in a little bit of detail.

1 [Goldberg Exhibit No. 1

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q I'm going to introduce as exhibit 1 Section 9-27.220 from the Justice

5 Manual's Principles of Federal Prosecution, which is the section entitled, "Grounds for

6 Commencing or Declining Prosecution." And we're going to look at -- 9-27.220 is at the 7 bottom of the second pages printed.

8 And I should say, we've printed this off. It is, oh, maybe three dozen sections

9 long. So we've only included the one section we're going to go through here. The 10 actual full section is, I think, 30 pages.

11 A Okay.

12 Q I'm going to read the very first paragraph under 9-27.220. It reads,

13 "Grounds for commencing or declining prosecution. The attorney for the government

14 should commence or recommend federal prosecution if he or she believes that the 15 person's conduct constitutes a federal offense, and that the admissible evidence will

16 probably be sufficient to obtain and sustain a conviction, unless, number one, the 17 prosecution would serve no substantial federal interest; number two, the person is

18 subject to effective prosecution in another jurisdiction; or, number three, there exists an

19 adequate non-criminal alternative to prosecution."

20 Did I read that correctly?

21 A Yes.

22 Q So under these principles, prosecutors should only bring charges when,

23 among other considerations, they believe that the admissible evidence will probably be 24 sufficient to obtain and sustain a conviction, correct?

25 A Yes.

1 Q In layperson's terms, what does admissible evidence mean?

2 A It's evidence that a court is going to allow the finder of fact, which typically is

3 a jury, to see and consider in a criminal case.

4 Q So what are examples of evidence that might not be admissible?

5 A It could be evidence that's barred by hearsay or where there is not a witness

6 that's going to have personal knowledge, that you bring in somebody to testify about

7 things that he or she did not directly observe or learn.

8 Q The burden of proof for a criminal prosecutor to obtain a conviction at 9 trial -- so this goes to the obtain and sustain a conviction -- the burden of proof is beyond

10 a reasonable doubt, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q What does beyond a reasonable doubt mean?

13 A That's something that's usually left up to juries to decide, and often courts

14 are reluctant to define that. But it's only a doubt for which you have a reason, really, is

15 what courts sometimes say. It doesn't have to be beyond a shadow of a doubt, but it

16 needs to -- it's a fairly high -- it's a pretty high standard.

17 I think the principle we have in the United States is that rather have a guilty

18 person go free rather than -- not that you want that -- rather than have an innocent

19 person convicted.

20 So we have a very high burden of proof, and the jury needs to be unanimous in 21 finding that it's beyond a reasonable doubt.

22 Q Okay. And it's actually -- beyond a reasonable doubt is actually the highest 23 evidentiary standard in the law, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q So it's higher than, for example, probable cause?

1 A Yes, significantly higher.

2 Q And it's higher than preponderance of the evidence, correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Okay. I want to talk through some of the considerations that a prosecutor

5 might take into account when weighing whether the admissible evidence is sufficient to

6 obtain and sustain a conviction, so sufficient to convince a jury beyond a reasonable

7 doubt.

8 Is sufficiency of the evidence something that a prosecutor might take into

9 consideration?

10 A Yes. Now we're talking generally about --

11 Q Yeah, just generally. Yep.

12 A -- general criminal cases.

13 Q What does sufficiency of the evidence mean?

14 A Whether there is enough evidence that a fact finder, let's say the judge,

15 would determine it could go to a jury because there is enough evidence that if, taking the

16 inferences in the government's favor, that there are elements that -- that there's

17 evidence that meets all the elements of the crime, of a particular crime, and that it's 18 proven beyond a reasonable doubt.

19 Q Okay. Do prosecutors take into account their ability to explain the charges

20 to a jury effectively? So in other words, very complicated evidence might be challenging

21 to present to a jury?

22 A Yes, though, particularly in the Tax Division, we try to work at doing that in 23 our cases. We handle more complex cases generally.

24 Q Are prosecutors required to take into account or should they take into

25 account potential defenses that might be raised by the defense attorney for the

1 witness -- or for the defendant?

2 A Yes. I think both in terms of knowing what those are and then thinking

3 about ways to neutralize those defenses or otherwise show that the person is still guilty

4 despite their bringing up particular defenses.

5 But, yeah, prosecutors need to kind of focus on that as well and try to make an

6 assessment of how the evidence and the defenses that are likely to be offered are going

7 to be perceived by the jury, yes.

8 Q And in tax cases in particular, and this is speaking about tax cases broadly,

9 might one defense that an attorney could raise be that the defendant had actually paid

10 the taxes that he or she owed?

11 A That's something that they may attempt to do, yes, and the Tax Division

12 might attempt to bar that particular testimony.

13 Q But they might raise it, and it might -- if it's allowed in, it could be persuasive

14 to a jury. Is that fair to say?

15 A If it's allowed in, yes, it's possible that a jury might seek to nullify, have a

16 verdict -- would reach a conclusion that the person shouldn't be convicted. We might

17 try to exclude that, yes.

18 Q In a tax case, is a prosecutor required to prove that a defendant's conduct

19 was willful?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And what does willfulness mean?

22 A It's a voluntary and intentional act that violates a specific known legal duty.

23 Q What factors might a prosecutor consider in assessing whether they can

24 prove willfulness to a jury?

25 A So willfulness in tax cases is the highest level of specific intent, highest level

1 of proof we have to show someone -- that they're intent in a case would render them
2 liable for.
3 There are lots of different factors. It may have to do with a person who is 4 knowledgeable about their tax obligation, that they believe that that obligation had not
5 been entirely met, that willfulness is not mistake, it's not negligence, it has to be sort 6 of -- our obligation is really kind of show it's beyond that.
7 Q Okay. So in a situation where a defendant, for example, had a -- was going 8 through challenging personal times at the time of an alleged tax non-payment, that might 9 tend to be used by a defense attorney to show that that defendant was not acting
10 willfully, they were just -- they had other things going on. Is that fair to say?
11 A Yeah, I think in those cases a defense attorney might try to show that 12 somebody was impaired in some way and was not able to assess what their obligation
13 was or to make a deliberate step not to meet that obligation.
14 And in a tax case we would have to confront, if that's the case, what the particular 15 evidence is, and then try to show that we could prove otherwise.
16 Q Okay. We've talked through some of the considerations that prosecutors
17 take into account, and you referenced earlier the need to convince 12 jurors.
18 The jurors' decision must be unanimous to convict, correct?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And so that means that if, considering all these factors, if even only one
21 single juror has what he or she considers to be a reasonable doubt about the sufficiency
22 of the evidence or whether willfulness has been shown or whether defenses outweigh 23 the sufficiency of the evidence, that juror will be actually instructed to find your 24 defendant -- to find the defendant not guilty, correct?
25 A Well, there are general instructions to jurors about they should

1 individually -- they should deliberate with each other but make a judgment about the
2 case, yes.
3 Q Have you ever had the experience as a prosecutor or as a supervisor
4 managing other prosecutors where you felt strongly that you had presented a case to a 5 jury with sufficient evidence to prove the case beyond a reasonable doubt, but there was 6 one juror who did not agree and so, as a result, the defendant was not convicted?
7 A So there are cases where the Justice Department goes forward in the case
8 and does not secure a conviction, and that is a surprise, yes. We're not always allowed
9 to talk to the jurors afterwards. We don't necessarily know why that happens.
10 Q But there have been times when you've presented a case you thought, this is 11 a slam dunk, we've lined up all the evidence, and then sometimes the jury still comes 12 back and it's a hung jury or they don't convict.
13 A There are cases that I've supervised where we've gotten a not guilty verdict
14 when we were expecting to get a guilty verdict, yes.
15 Q We talked through these various considerations that prosecutors make 16 when determining whether to charge or -- to bring charges or not. How do prosecutors
17 learn how to assess and evaluate these considerations?
18 A They learn from training from other prosecutors. They learn from trying 19 cases, observing other people try cases. They learn from participating in what we call 20 indictment reviews, where the goal is to take a case and figure out what the right way to 21 charge it is, to present it in a way that we can get our evidence in and neutralize defenses.
22 They learn it from what we call postmortems, where after someone has a
23 case -- sometimes they win, sometimes they lose -- there's a presentation to other people 24 in the office or the division about that case, and prosecutors talk about what the 25 weaknesses were or what they could've done better or why they thought the case went

1 one way or the other.

2 They learn about it through what we call trial reviews where we -- before the trial

3 somebody might participate in a trial review about someone else's case and you get to

4 see how people think about a case, how you put together a case, and how senior people

5 think it's effective to make your prosecution.

6 Q Okay. So it's fair to say that prosecutors have pretty extensive and unique

7 experience in training and assessing whether -- the sufficiency of the admissible evidence,

8 for example?

9 A That's a central job of the prosecutor.

10 Q And it's fair to say that prosecutors have pretty extensive and pretty unique

11 training in assessing the likelihood that the admissible evidence will actually be

12 persuasive to a jury. Is that right?

13 A They get both training and on-the-job experience on that, yes.

14 Q Okay. And along the same lines, prosecutors have both extensive training

15 and extensive on-the-job learning by doing in assessing whether the evidence that's 16 admitted is likely to result in a conviction.

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. As a prosecutor, you have worked with investigators who are 19 responsible for gathering evidence in a case, correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Is it fair to say that investigators working on a case generally do not have the 22 same kind of extensive experience that prosecutors do in assessing whether the 23 admissible evidence is likely to result in a conviction?

24 A They have different jobs, so their focus tends to be different from a 25 prosecutor.

1 Q And as part of their focus being different, investigators are not necessarily 2 the best positioned to look at the evidence that's been gathered and decide whether or
3 not that evidence is sufficient to convince a jury. Is that fair to say?
4 A Yeah, I don't want to comment about any particular investigator or not.
5 Some have good insights and good experiences.
6 But the role of a Justice Department prosecutor is to make these sorts of 7 judgments, and they're trained and supervised by other people to ensure they do it in a
8 way that's smart and effective.
9 Q And given the difference, this difference in roles that you've described, is it
10 sometimes the case that there are differences in opinion between investigators and 11 prosecutors about, for example, the strength of the evidence and the likelihood of 12 success at trial?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Over the course of your career, have you had such disagreements with 15 investigators about particular investigative steps or about charging decisions?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Have you supervised other prosecutors who have had disagreements with 18 investigators about particular investigative steps or charging decisions?
19 A Yes. And typically in those instances you try to have a conversation and 20 understand why the other person has a particular view, make sure they get the benefit of 21 everybody's thoughts on it.
22 Q And after you have that conversation, if there's still a disagreement, it's 23 ultimately the prosecutors who make the decision about whether to take a particular 24 investigative step or whether to charge a case.
25 A Particularly when it comes to charging a case, that's the Justice Department

1 prosecutor's job. We've got to make the ultimate call under Department rules.
2 Q Okay. In the first round you talked through the difference between 3 approving, the Tax Division approving charges versus denying charges versus granting 4 discretion over a matter. Do you recall that conversation?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And I just want to sum up for the record and make sure I'm clear on this.
7 What specifically does it mean when the Tax Division grants a United States
8 Attorney's Office discretion over a matter?
9 A It's usually in the context of specific charges in a tax case. So the Tax
10 Division grants discretion regarding those charges, and it means that the 11 U.S. Attorney's Office is free to decide not to go forward on those particular charges.
12 Q Okay. But they can also go forward on the charges if --
13 A Yes, they can.
14 Q -- they choose to do so?
15 A Yes, they can.
16 Q Okay. And by contrast, when the Tax Division grants approval, the 17 U.S. Attorney's Office must bring the charges, right? They don't have the discretion to 18 say: Actually, on further review, we don't think these are -- this is a very strong case.
19 A There is an expectation. I think occasionally the U.S. Attorney's Office
20 might come back and ask us to reconsider. But, yes.
21 Q Okay. And then denying approval means that the U.S. Attorney's Office
22 cannot bring the charges, correct?
23 A It means the Tax Division has decided that those charges should not be 24 brought. If the U.S. Attorney's Office disagrees, it could take that up the line.
25 Q So of these three options -- approval, denial, or discretion -- granting

1 discretion actually gives the U.S. Attorney's Office the most authority over whether to 2 bring charges, correct, because they can bring them if they choose to do so, but they can
3 also decide not to bring them?
4 A It gives substantial flexibility to the U.S. Attorney's Office, yes.
5 Q Can you estimate how often the Tax Division grants a U.S. Attorney's Office
6 discretion as opposed to approval or denial?
7 A I can't come up with that number in particular. I'd say it's not uncommon.
8 Q I want to turn to this case in particular.
9 You said that Mr. Weiss -- or the Hunter Biden matter first came to the Tax
10 Division in early 2019, correct?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And you said that at some time in 2019 it was determined that attorneys
13 from the Tax Division would actually become part of the prosecution team. Is that
14 right?
15 A That they would work with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware on the 16 case, yes.
17 Q Okay. How did that happen? How did it come to be that they were 18 effectively -- that they were assigned to work on the case in Delaware?
19 A I think Richard Zuckerman indicated that we should be helping out on this 20 case. And when there was contact with the U.S. Attorney's Office they asked us for 21 litigation assistance. Because sometimes we can just be a consultant on a case or just 22 provide advice or we can actively provide litigation assistance. And my recollection is 23 that the U.S. Attorney's Office wanted litigation assistance in this case.
24 Q And do you have an understanding of why they wanted litigation assistance
25 in this case?

1 A I don't. I mean, it could be because they likely, in my mind, would be that
2 they wanted tax expertise on it, but sometimes U.S. Attorney's Offices also like additional 3 bodies, additional resources to help out on a case.
4 Q Understood. Is it fair to say that tax prosecutions in particular -- and just 5 speaking broadly -- can be somewhat complex?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And is it fair to say that DOJ Tax attorneys have specialized experience in tax
8 cases?
9 A Yes.
10 Q And Tax Division attorneys also have particular expertise in prosecuting such 11 cases. Is that fair to say?
12 A Yes. Tax cases are not commonly done like a violent crime case or 13 immigration case at a U.S. Attorney's Office. They might not have that many people that 14 do tax cases, but they would have lots of other people that do many other Federal 15 offenses on a regular basis.
16 Q So it can be helpful for U.S. Attorney's Offices to have these specialized Tax
17 Division attorneys working with their office directly on cases. Is that fair to say?
18 A Yes. Yes.
19 Q Okay. And the Department of Justice also has an interest in ensuring that it
20 only prosecutes tax cases which are reasonably likely to result in a guilty verdict, correct?
21 A When we bring a case, we want to win, yes.
22 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that tax attorneys who -- or attorneys from the 23 Tax Division who have this specialized expertise are more likely to have experience in 24 ensuring that there is sufficient evidence to support and sustain a conviction in a tax 25 matter?

1 A I think they're knowledgeable about what the elements are and what
2 particular pieces of evidence that are commonly found that might help meet those
3 elements and persuade a jury, yes.
4 Q And an Assistant U.S. Attorney in a U.S. Attorney's Office, who maybe
5 prosecutes a wide range of crimes, wouldn't have that specialized knowledge. Is that
6 fair to say?
7 A Wouldn't have the experience dealing with these issues, right.
8 Q And the Justice Department also has an interest in ensuring that like cases
9 are treated alike. Is that right?
10 A Yes.
11 Q What does that mean?
12 A It means, particularly in the tax area, Tax Division overall is interested in 13 having uniformity, so that a case, a tax case that's brought in one geographic area is 14 comparable to, in terms of the level of conduct and things like that, to another 15 geographic area.
16 Not that they have to be identical in any way, but that, given the nature of tax
17 enforcement, where there are various levels -- people can be audited, there could be a 18 civil lawsuit in tax court against them, or they can be criminally prosecuted -- and try to 19 treat criminal prosecutions the same way, and that they're different from civil 20 enforcement, they're different from audits.
21 Q Okay. So if a case with similar facts in, say, the District of Maine and similar 22 facts in the District of Arizona, the Tax Division wants to ensure that those cases are 23 treated the same. Is that fair to say?
24 A I think it's the nature of the conduct. Every jurisdiction is different. The 25 juries may be different. The level of -- in New York City a $250,000 case, it may not be

1 very significant; in another part of the United States it might be much more significant.
2 When dollar amounts are lower, from the jury's perspective, it can be harder to prove
3 willfulness.
4 Q Okay. And why is that?
5 A Just because a jury might look at it and say: I'm not sure that this is worthy 6 of labeling this criminal conduct or that an individual wouldn't have taken a criminal step
7 just to get that small amount of money.
8 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that DOJ Tax Division attorneys, again, with their 9 specialized experience, their specialized training in this, in these matters, would help to 10 ensure that cases are treated the same regardless of what jurisdiction they're prosecuted 11 in?
12 A Yes. One of our goals is to make sure that there's uniformity, yes.
13 Q Okay. There have been allegations made that having DOJ Tax involved in 14 the Hunter Biden case, in particular, somehow led to delays or blockages in that case, and 15 I want to walk through some of those.
16 Did --
17 A Just to interject for a second. I've got a line from the Department in terms
18 of where we can respond and where we can't necessarily respond about things directly
19 related to the Hunter Biden case, as I understand the line that I've been told.
20 Q Understood. And I will try and keep these at a very high level, and I will try 21 not to take up too much time on them, because I understand that that's the line that 22 you're trying to walk.
23 A I feel like I'm obligated to actually walk.
24 Q To the best of your knowledge, did the Justice Department's Tax Division
25 block or prevent Mr. Weiss from bringing charges in the Hunter Biden case?

1 A I don't think I can answer that question given the line that the Department
2 has given me.
3 I can say that the -- just at a very high level -- that partisan politics played no role,
4 as far as I've observed, in the Hunter Biden case.
5 And any dealings with the U.S. Attorney's Office were based on the Tax Division's 6 efforts to ensure that case was being handled the way cases should be handled, and that 7 the facts and the law were developed and the correct conclusion would be made.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q You indicated in the first hour that it was your belief throughout the 10 pendency of this matter, the Hunter Biden case, that Mr. Weiss was the one who had 11 ultimate authority to make charging decisions. Is that correct?
12 A That he was the lead of the case, yes.
13 Q Okay. And when Mr. Weiss indicated to Congress that he had the ultimate 14 authority to make charging decisions, do you have any reason to believe that he was not 15 being truthful?
16 A So I can't really comment on what David Weiss said. He's the best person
17 to talk about that. And I think you're referring to a letter that he sent. Is that what this 18 is referencing?
19 Q A couple of letters, yes.
20 A So the Tax Division has responsibility to authorize cases or not authorize 21 cases. That's what we're required to do under the Department's policies.
22 My recollection is that David Weiss in his letter qualified or recognized that he 23 was -- I can't remember if it's ultimate authority, I don't have this memorized by any 24 means -- but that he was in that position to make certain appraisals consistent with -- and 25 it's Department's rules, the Federal rules -- the Federal Principles -- Principles of Federal

1 Prosecution, other departmental policies.

2 That's my recollection of what Mr. Weiss communicated. But the letter speaks

3 for whatever it speaks for.

4 Q Right. And when you were talking about -- and throughout this discussion

5 here today you've talked about grants of authority, denials of authority that lie in the Tax

6 Division, you're referring to the Justice Manual, is that right, the procedures that are laid

7 out in the Justice Manual?

8 A Yes, and there may be other policy documents, yes.

9 Q Okay. But you're not referring to statutes, is that correct, that actually lay

10 out where denial of authority within Justice Department procedures would derive?

11 You're talking about the manuals and procedures?

12 A There's a regulation, 28 CFR 0.70, which specifically says that Tax Division

13 has authority over matters arising under the Internal Revenue laws.

14 Q Okay.

15 A That's where the fount of our authority, I think, comes from.

16 [Goldberg Exhibit No. 2

17 Was marked for identification.]

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Are you familiar with -- I'm going to mark this as exhibit 2. This is 28 U.S.C.

20 Section 509, entitled, "Functions of the Attorney General."

21 A Yes.

22 Q Are you familiar with the statute?

23 A I have seen it, not recently, but I have seen it before, yes.

24 Q Okay. Just take a minute to look at it under Section 509, if you would. It's 25 the first column.

1 A Okay.

2 Q It's brief. So the statute says, quote: "All functions of other officers of the

3 Department of Justice and all functions of agencies and employees of the Department of

4 Justice are vested in the Attorney General."

5 And then it lists a few exceptions. None of those have to do with what we're

6 here for today. They talk about administrative law judges, for example, the Federal

7 Prison Industries, and Board of Directors for the Federal Prison Industries.

8 Is that correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. So fair to say that prosecuting authority -- all prosecuting authority

11 within the Department of Justice ultimately lies with the Attorney General of the United

12 States? Do you agree with that?

13 A I think that's a fair characterization of this.

14 Q Okay. And the Attorney General, who holds that authority under the 15 statutes, is able to delegate his authority, his or her authority, as he wishes within the 16 Department of Justice. Is that fair?

17 A I'm not an expert in this area.

18 Q I understand.

19 A There are certain things that are not delegable, that the Attorney General

20 himself has to do.

21 Q That's what I'm talking about, though, is that the authority given to the

22 Attorney General by the statute --

23 A Right.

24 Q -- can be delegated by the Attorney General. In some cases it's delegated

25 to U.S. Attorneys to prosecute Federal offenses within their districts. In other cases,

1 there are policies and procedures, such as in the Justice Manual, where certain Main
2 Justice elements are given approval processes or other kind of discretion over matters.
3 But what I'm asking you is if you understand, within your experience in the Justice
4 Department, that ultimately the statutory authority to prosecute a Federal offense within
5 the United States lies at the highest level with the Attorney General of the United States,
6 and that that authority is then delegated in different ways throughout the Department of 7 Justice and the various United States Attorney's Offices according to the Attorney
8 General's process.
9 A I guess I agree that he has the authority over everything the Justice
10 Department does. There may be -- and like I said, I'm not an expert in this area. I'm 11 not from the Office of Legal Counsel.
12 Q Right.
13 A But my recollection is there is a statute that deals with U.S. Attorneys --
14 Q Yes.
15 A -- that gives them authority.
16 So the authority for a U.S. Attorney, for instance, doesn't derive exclusively from 17 509. So I'm not trying to parse this in some sort of detail, but -- 18 Q Yeah, and I'm not trying to ask you for legal expertise.
19 A Right.
20 Q I'm just trying to -- I'm trying to understand just why we're here. I mean,
21 we're here today because we're trying to understand whether the Tax Division had some 22 authority over the decisions that Mr. Weiss has told --
23 A Yes.
24 Q -- us that he had ultimate authority to do, because he had been given that 25 authority in this case by the Attorney General of the United States.

1 And I guess I can get right down to this question. I mean, if there had been some
2 kind of agreement, just hypothetically, between opinions or conclusions that the Tax
3 Division had with respect to some matter -- with respect to this matter -- and the 4 Attorney General himself had a different sense of what should happen, the Attorney
5 General's opinion could ultimately prevail. Do you agree?
6 A Yes. I think with regard to any matter being handled by the Tax Division or 7 probably any component of the Department of Justice, if the Attorney General wanted to 8 take a contrary action, that he was within his authority to do that.
9 Q Okay. And so he could then offer that same authority or delegate that 10 same authority to Mr. Weiss in this example.
11 A He could take steps where he exercised his authority to ensure that a 12 particular decision was made one way or another, yes.
13 Q Okay. So ultimately, when the Attorney General said, I -- sorry. Okay.
14 Go ahead. Do you want to --
15 [redacted] Yeah.
16 Sorry for the back and forth.
17 On September 20th of this year, so a couple weeks ago, Attorney General Garland
18 testified before this committee, and he said that, quote, "Mr. Weiss has full authority to 19 conduct his investigation however he wishes."
20 Do you have any information to contradict the Attorney General's statement?
21 Mr. Goldberg. No.
22 [redacted] Okay. And the Attorney General also said, quote, "Mr. Weiss had, as 23 I said from the beginning -- at the very beginning -- that he had authority over all matters
24 that pertain to Hunter Biden."
25 Do you have any information to contradict the Attorney General's statement?

1 Mr. Goldberg. I don't have anything to contradict the Attorney General's
2 statement, but I do believe that the Attorney General in his statements is implicitly saying
3 that -- when he says people have full authority -- it's to conduct their work subject to the 4 standard policies and rules of the Department of Justice, unless the Attorney General
5 specifically disagrees with that.
6 And the reason I'm saying that is that special counsels, for instance, in my 7 recollection, the regulations require them to abide by the Department's policies.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q I want to ask you just generally your experience at the Department of 10 Justice.
11 Have you ever seen a situation where Justice Department officials have asked for 12 some deviation in procedures in order to avoid the appearance of impartiality in a 13 politically sensitive case? And, for example, someone recusing themselves because they 14 might have -- be in a political position where it might create the appearance of 15 impartiality in public? Have you ever seen anything like that?
16 A Where people have recused themselves rather than be a decision-maker?
17 Q That's an example, yeah.
18 A Yes.
19 Q So there's some deviation from the policy. The person who's in a position,
20 according to the Justice Manual, to make a decision --
21 A Yes.
22 Q -- to approve or deny.
23 A Yes.
24 Q Can you give an example of that?
25 A I think, just to give an example in a general way, so a U.S. Attorney

1 sometimes might recuse from a case in their district because they got their position with
2 the help of a particular individual who is under investigation.
3 So rather than them specifically working on that case, they recuse themselves.
4 Actually, they need to contact the Department of Justice to formalize that. But, yes.
5 Q Okay. Because, like, there might be some procedure that in the normal
6 circumstance within the Department of Justice would require that person to be the 7 person who gave an approval or made a decision.
8 A Yes.
9 Q Correct?
10 A Right.
11 Q But there was deviation for that procedure because there was a need,
12 someone thought, to avoid the appearance of impartiality, at least in this example, is that 13 correct, in the example that you're giving?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And in order to allow the deviation to happen from procedures within the 16 Justice Manual or some other part of the Justice Department, they had to go up the chain
17 towards the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General, to approve that deviation
18 from policy. Fair to say?
19 A Yes, they can recuse the situation. Often they have to get the approval of 20 the Deputy Attorney General's Office if someone else could be appointed to handle the 21 case.
22 Q Okay. And ultimately someone, the Attorney General himself, is the person
23 who's able to allow the deviation from procedure to occur, right?
24 A He can do that, yes.
25 Q Okay. Now, can I just say, Mr. Zuckerman -- you spoke about

1 Mr. Zuckerman earlier. Mr. Zuckerman was a political appointee, correct?

2 A Yes, he was, he was a political appointee.

3 Q Okay. And at the time he was in a position, according to the Justice

4 Department's procedures, within the Tax Division to be the person who made a decision

5 about whether to open a grand jury with respect to Hunter Biden, correct?

6 A Yes. Ultimately, he was responsible. Whether somebody at a lower level

7 made the actual decision, I can't tell you for sure. But, yes.

8 Q He was in the position to approve that decision as it was made, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. Was there any discussion, to your knowledge, that Mr. Zuckerman

11 should recuse himself from that decision given that this was a highly sensitive political

12 matter involving the son of the candidate who was going to challenge the President who

13 had appointed that person to his position?

14 Ms. Zdeb. That gets into deliberations and decision-making on an ongoing case,

15 and I think that it's beyond the scope of what he can speak to.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Okay. He didn't recuse himself, to your knowledge?

18 A No.

19 Q Okay. When politically sensitive matters in general are being handled by 20 DOJ, you indicated that sometimes procedures can be deviated from, correct?

21 A I wouldn't frame it like that because --

22 Q With the provision of the Attorney General, I'm sorry, or someone in his

23 office?

24 A The Attorney General has the ability to order that different decisions are

25 made or different paths are taken in connection with cases being handled by people

1 beneath him, yes.

2 Q Okay. And in this case the Attorney General has deviated from procedure

3 in several ways, according to his own public statements, including by keeping the

4 Trump-appointed U.S. Attorney, Mr. Weiss, in place so that he would avoid the

5 appearance of impartiality by letting the prosecution of Hunter Biden be undertaken or

6 continued by someone who was a political appointee of the President.

7 Do you understand that process here of what's happened?

8 A Yeah. Mr. Weiss was held on, but I can't say exactly who made that 9 decision or what the exact reasons were for it.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q And just -- we're almost out of time, but I did want to ask, in the prior round,

12 the meeting that you attended in Delaware in January, 2023, was discussed.

13 A Yes.

14 Q That was a meeting with defense -- where defense counsel presented a

15 presentation to a number of individuals from the Delaware U.S. Attorney's Office, to 16 yourself, and some others. Is that right?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. Is that type of meeting, at which defense attorneys effectively

19 present a case to prosecutors, is that uncommon?

20 A No. I think it's common in a white collar case for defense attorneys to

21 make a presentation to the government in an effort to try to persuade the government

22 not to take certain actions.

23 Q So that's happened in a number of other cases that you've worked on?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Has it happened many times? Is that fair to say?

1 A Well, I think it's common for that to happen in a case. And in Tax Division
2 there's a mechanism called the conference where they afford people the opportunity to 3 do that.
4 Q Okay. And why did those meetings take place, just generally speaking, not
5 the January 2023 one specifically?
6 A Well, I think one is it's an effort to provide the defense an opportunity to 7 show facts or make legal arguments that demonstrate that their client should not be 8 charged. And if there are facts that we don't know about or that we've missed or don't 9 understand or legal aspects that we didn't pick up on, we want to hear that to get to the 10 right decision.
11 At the same time, I think it's very valuable from the standpoint of the Department
12 of Justice, because we get to hear ahead of time what the defenses are going to be. And 13 that allows us to kind of kick the tires on that and figure out if there are ways to 14 neutralize those defenses or collect additional evidence while we still have an open grand 15 jury to run down facts that might be useful for us in proving our case.
16 Q So in other words, the presentation from the defense attorneys might 17 actually help inform your case as prosecutors?
18 A Yes.
19 [redacted]. Okay. All right. Thank you.
20 We can go off the record.

1

2 [12:30 p.m.]

3 [redacted] Good afternoon. We're back on the record. It's 12:30.

4 Mr. Goldberg. Good afternoon.

5 [redacted]

6 Q In March of 2022, David Weiss and U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware staff

7 brought a case to the D.C. U.S. Attorney Matthew Graves. Are you aware of that?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And were you aware -- before that presentation was made to Matthew

10 Graves, were you aware that it was going to happen?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And did you concur with the presentation that was made by Mr. Weiss?

13 A I wasn't part of the conversation that Mr. Weiss had with Mr. Graves.

14 Q Okay. What did you know about that presentation going into it?

15 A That there was going to be a contact with Mr. Graves about bringing a case

16 in D.C.

17 Q Okay. And did the Tax Division support that initiative?

18 Ms. Zdeb. And I think at this point, we're getting a little bit far into internal 19 decision-making and deliberations around this particular episode during the case.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Okay. Did you oppose that?

22 Ms. Zdeb. It's the same question.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q Do you know when the presentation occurred?

25 A Mr. Weiss' call?

1 Q Yeah. Well, as we understand it, the U.S. Attorneys and his office had been
2 working with Mr. Graves' staff.
3 A So my recollection is there was a call between the two of them, and then
4 there was interaction between AUSAs and D.C. and people working on the Hunter Biden
5 case.
6 Q And do you know what the outcome of it was?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Mr. Graves declined to partner with Mr. Weiss, correct?
9 A Yes. Yes.
10 Q And do you know why?
11 Ms. Zdeb. And that, again, gets into deliberations about the ongoing case, and 12 he's not able to address it.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q How would Mr. Weiss be able to bring a case in D.C. without Mr. Graves'
15 okay?
16 A So to take this up a level so that I can try to address it as much as possible:
17 If a U.S. Attorney wanted to bring a case in another district, and the U.S. Attorney there 18 was not agreeing to -- didn't want to be partnered with it, didn't want to sign on to the 19 indictment, then the U.S. Attorney would need to secure a 515 letter in order to bring 20 that case in that district.
21 Q Okay. And do you know if Mr. Weiss sought a 515 letter?
22 A I don't know the answer to that.
23 Q Do you know if Mr. Weiss has 515 authority now?
24 A I don't know the answer to that.
25 Q And 515 authority is 28 United States Code 515?

1 A 515. Yes.

2 Q And that's the special counsel --

3 A Not special counsel.

4 Q Special attorney?

5 A It's special attorney. Yeah.

6 Q And is that the designation that Mr. Weiss is operating under currently?

7 A Is what the designation? He's under a special counsel designation.

8 Q It's not under the special attorney provisions of 28 United States Code?

9 A I only know -- I know about the public reports. I wasn't involved in the 10 appointment. I'm not exactly sure. But I believe he has got a special counsel

11 designation, and that's what he is operating under.

12 Q Okay. Were you aware that Mr. Weiss also was interested in bringing 13 charges in California?

14 A I'm aware that he had contact with the U.S. Attorney's Office in California,

15 yes.

16 Q In the Central District of California?

17 A Yes.

18 Q The Los Angeles office?

19 A Right.

20 Q Do you know when that occurred?

21 A I'm not entirely sure when he actually made that outreach. Possibly

22 September.

23 Q And do you know what the outcome of that was?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And what was the outcome?

1 A That U.S. Attorney's Office did not want to partner with the case either.

2 Q And so, at that point, what were Mr. Weiss' options? I mean, he went to

3 D.C., and they said no. He went to Los Angeles, and they said no. What, in your mind,

4 were Mr. Weiss' options at that point?

5 A If he wanted to proceed with the case, he was to obtain 515 authority.

6 Q Okay.

7 [redacted] Let's see. What are we up to? 3?

8 [redacted] 3.

9 [redacted] Marking exhibits 3, 4, and 5.

10 [Goldberg Exhibits Nos. 3,4, and 5

11 Were marked for identification.]

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q I just marked three letters that we received from Mr. Weiss. The first is 14 exhibit 3. It's a letter on June 7th to Chairman Jordan.

15 Exhibit 4 is a letter to Mr. Jordan from Mr. Weiss dated June 30th.

16 And the third letter, which is exhibit 5, is a letter to Senator Graham from David 17 Weiss dated July 10th.

18 Have you seen these letters before?

19 A I have.

20 Q Did you see them in real time, or did you see them in your preparation for

21 today?

22 A I saw them when they came out, roughly. I think they appeared in the 23 media, a number of them.

24 Q Okay. We talked about earlier this morning that the final authority for 25 prosecution or not of criminal matters arising under the Internal Revenue laws rest with

1 the Tax Division, correct?

2 A We have approval authority, though someone can appeal us if they disagree.

3 But, yes, it's our responsibility in the first instance to do that.

4 Q Okay. So if felony tax charges are going to be brought, the Tax Division has

5 to sign off? Has to okay it?

6 A In a typical case, yes, we would have to okay that. But if somebody

7 thought we should have okayed it and we didn't, then they could appeal. But, yes, it's

8 our responsibility.

9 Q Okay. And if someone -- if Mr. Weiss gets 515 authority, he would still be 10 required to go through the Tax Division to get approval of tax charges. Is that correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. So even if Mr. Weiss had been afforded special attorney status or

13 special counsel status, he would still be operating within the Justice Department's

14 guidelines in the Justice Manual, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q The June 7th letter, exhibit 3, states in the second paragraph -- it's the 17 second sentence of the second paragraph where Mr. Weiss states, quote, "I have been

18 granted ultimate authority over this matter, including responsibility for deciding where,

19 when, and whether to file charges, and for making decisions necessary to preserve the 20 integrity of the prosecution consistent with Federal law, the principles of Federal

21 prosecution, and departmental regulations."

22 Do you see that sentence there?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Is that consistent with your understanding of how things work at the 25 Department?

1 A Well, these are not my words, so --

2 Q Fair enough.

3 A -- I'm not in a position to interpret them exactly how the writer -- whoever

4 the writer was of this -- meant it.

5 My understanding is that if you're a U.S. Attorney who is leading a prosecution,

6 that you can make recommendations on your case, but that you -- if you want to bring a

7 tax case, you need to get Tax Division authority.

8 Q So just the plain reading of this part of the letter, I mean, isn't true, right?

9 A Well, it does reference departmental regulations, and 28 CFR 0.70 is the

10 regulation that talks about the Tax Division being vested with authority. So I don't know

11 if the author meant that as a shorthand as a list of these kind of qualifiers in here.

12 Q But when he said that he had been granted ultimate authority, I mean, he

13 did not have ultimate authority. He needed to make sure that the Tax Division

14 authorized the charges, correct?

15 A I don't know what the writer meant by "ultimate authority" here.

16 Q Okay. And he certainly didn't have ultimate responsibility for deciding 17 where, when, and whether to file charges, correct?

18 A Again, the phraseology of the words that were used here, I don't know

19 exactly what the writer was trying to convey.

20 Q Okay. Turning to exhibit 4, the next letter from Mr. Weiss.

21 A This is June 30th?

22 Q The June 30th letter.

23 A Okay. All right. Mine are not marked. They don't have numbers on 24 them.

25 Q Oh, fair enough. The June 30th letter to Mr. Jordan from Mr. Weiss.

1 I want to call your attention to the last sentence on the first page and then the
2 first paragraph on the second page, whereas in the June 7th letter, Mr. Weiss had made a
3 pretty sweeping statement that -- he said, "I have been granted ultimate authority over 4 this matter, including responsibility for deciding where, when, and whether to file
5 charges."
6 In the June 30th letter, he seems to walk that back a good bit, and he states, "I
7 stand by what I wrote" -- but, of course, he doesn't stand by what he writes -- but "I stand
8 by what I wrote and wish to expand on what this means. As the U.S. Attorney" -- and 9 this is the top of page 2 of the June 30th letter.
10 A Okay.
11 Q "As the U.S. Attorney for the district of Delaware, my charging authority is
12 geographically limited to my home district. If venue for a case lies elsewhere, common
13 departmental practice is to contact the U.S. Attorney's Office for the district in question
14 and determine whether it wants to partner in the case. If not" -- and, of course, he had 15 done that.
16 He had taken the case to two separate United States Attorneys. He took it to the 17 U.S. Attorney for the district of D.C., and he took it to the U.S. Attorney for the Central 18 District of California, and both U.S. Attorneys declined to partner, correct?
19 A That's my understanding, that they did not want to partner on the case.
20 Q So, again, "If venue for a case lies elsewhere, common departmental practice
21 is to contact the United States Attorney's Office for the district in question and determine
22 whether it wants to partner." They didn't want to partner.
23 "If not, I may request special attorney status from the Attorney General pursuant 24 to 28 United States Code 515. Here, I have been assured that, if necessary after the 25 above process, I would be granted 515 authority in the District of Columbia, the Central

1 District of California, or any other district where charges could be brought."

2 Are you aware if he -- after the declination from Mr. Graves and Mr. Estrada, are 3 you aware of whether he sought 515 authority?

4 A I wouldn't really characterize it as declination. That's your word.

5 Q He declined to partner. Is that a word we can agree on?

6 A Yes. I'm not going to get hung up on it, but declination is different than 7 decline to partner.

8 My understanding is that they did not want to join the case. Whether he sought

9 515 authority, I think, like I said before, I'm not aware of whether he did or didn't.

10 Q During times relevant, the Tax Division was intricately involved with what

11 the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware wanted to do on these cases, correct?

12 A We were working with them and consulting with them, yes.

13 Q And so you were aware that there was an avenue to bring a charge -- for 14 2014, 2015, to bring that case in D.C., correct?

15 Ms. Zdeb. I think he can speak generally to avenues to bringing any charges.

16 He is not able to get into specific tax years and venues for those tax years.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q So presumably, if Mr. Weiss brought a case to D.C., at that point in time, the 19 Tax Division had okayed that. Is that a fair assumption?

20 A Well, I think I mentioned that I talked to Mr. Weiss before he contacted Mr.

21 Graves about bringing the case there.

22 Q So if it's felony tax charges -- as we understand it was -- in D.C., then the Tax

23 Division had okayed that. It had given Mr. Weiss the approval to move forward. Is

24 that fair to say?

25 A Well, he was contacting the U.S. Attorney's Office about venueing a case in

1 D.C. That's what the discussion was, as I understood it.

2 Q And had the Tax Division already rendered a decision?

3 A Based on the direction that I've gotten from the Department of Justice, I

4 don't think I can answer that question.

5 Q Okay. But you were working -- the Tax Division was working collaboratively

6 with Mr. Weiss --

7 A Yes.

8 Q -- on the team? Mr. Morgan, Mr. Daly, yourself as the senior person with 9 criminal responsibility in the Tax Division, correct?

10 A We were working with him on the case. I did not have day-to-day

11 involvement in the case, as opposed to Mark Daly and Jack Morgan, who were 12 involved -- actively involved.

13 Q So isn't it fair to say that if the Tax Division did not okay the charges, then it

14 would be fruitless for Mr. Weiss to go to Mr. Graves and ask to partner on the case?

15 A I think we're -- I don't think I can answer the question given the directions

16 I've gotten from the Department of Justice on this.

17 Q Okay.

18 A He contacted them.

19 Q Okay. To bring a case? To partner?

20 A To -- you know, partnering on a case means working ultimately with a case.

21 It doesn't necessarily say what stage of the case and where the case is or anything like

22 that. I can't really get into that.

23 Q Right. But before he did that, he would obviously need to check the 24 appropriate Justice Department boxes, right?

25 A This is about moving the case from Delaware to D.C. That's what the

1 contact was. It was an ongoing case that got moved from Delaware to D.C.

2 Q But was it about bringing charges, or was it about just conducting additional

3 investigative activity?

4 Ms. Zdeb. I think he said he understood it to be about potentially partnering,

5 and beyond that, whether it involved investigative activity or charging activity gets into

6 the ongoing matter.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q But the statute of limitations was about to expire, correct?

9 A I don't remember the exact chronology on that in terms of that time period.

10 Q Okay. And then the third letter to Senator Graham. Calling your attention

11 to the third paragraph that begins "to clarify."

12 A You said third paragraph? Oh, I see it.

13 Q Yeah. The third paragraph on the first page. "To clarify."

14 A "To clarify." Okay.

15 Q "To clarify an apparent misperception and to avoid future confusion, I wish

16 to make one point clear. In this case, I have not requested special counsel designation

17 pursuant to 28 CFR Section 600 et seq. Rather, I had discussions with departmental

18 officials regarding potential appointment under 28 USC 515, which would have allowed

19 me to file charges in a district outside my own without the partnership of the local U.S.

20 Attorney."

21 But it's clear from this letter that he didn't have special counsel authority under

22 the statute or the regulations, correct?

23 A I'm just reading the rest of the letter. Sorry.

24 I'm not sure I can answer that question.

25 Q Okay. Well, do you acknowledge that he writes, "In this case, I have not

1 requested special counsel designation pursuant to the CFR"?

2 A That's what that lines says, yes. "One point clear. In this case, I have not

3 requested special counsel designation." Yes.

4 Q Okay. And then he states, "Rather, I had discussions with departmental

5 officials regarding potential appointment under 28 USC 515, which would have allowed

6 me to file charges in a district outside my own without the partnership of a local U.S.

7 Attorney," correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q So at this point, on July 10th, 2023, Mr. Weiss is asserting to Senator Graham

10 that he didn't have special counsel authority under the regs or special attorney authority

11 under 515?

12 A I don't read it exactly that way.

13 Q Okay.

14 A I didn't write it, and it's a little confusing --

15 Q Okay.

16 A -- honestly to me. So it is not clear what tense this was in.

17 Q Okay. What was your understanding at this point in time of Mr. Weiss'

18 authority?

19 A Whether he had 515 authority? I don't know whether he asked for it or

20 not. I know that he was aware of 515 authority, and I think he expected and I expected

21 that he would get it if needed.

22 Q Okay. Without that authority, he was unable to bring charges in a district

23 not his own, correct? Without --

24 A Correct. Yes.

25 Q Okay. What was your understanding of Mr. Weiss' intention to use the

1 authority of 515? Was there a discussion that he was going to seek special counsel
2 status? Was that part of the --
3 A Not with me. He didn't have any discussion with me about seeking special
4 counsel status.
5 Q And did he have any discussion with your people?
6 A Not that I'm aware of.
7 Q Okay. And so what were you thinking was the resolution of these matters,
8 both in D.C. and California?
9 A As I said, I expected that he would be able to get 515 status if he asked for it.
10 Whether he, in fact, asked for it, I don't know, but I expected that he would get it. It's 11 not -- it's authority that is given in the Justice Department all the time.
12 Q It is given all the time?
13 A Yeah. With some frequency, sure.
14 Just to be clear, you know, in the Tax Division, we send people out to go to a U.S.
15 Attorney's Office. I sign a letter, a 515 letter, so that they can go and operate in that 16 district.
17 Q Okay.
18 A If, let's say, a U.S. Attorney in a particular district is recused, and they need 19 to bring another U.S. Attorney's Office in to handle that case in that district, then the 20 DAG's office typically issues 515 letters in that context.
21 Q Okay. But for this particular case, no request was made for that type of --
22 A That's the part that I don't know.
23 Q Okay.
24 A Right.
25 Q And do you think, in this particular case, would it have been you that would

1 have signed the 515 letter?

2 A No. No.

3 Q Who would have signed it?

4 A I'm guessing somebody in the DAG's office.

5 Q Going back to the June 7th letter.

6 After looking at the -- all sort of talking about all three letters, I would just like to

7 go back to the statement that he made that he's been granted ultimate authority, but he

8 hadn't. Nobody gave him 515 designation. Nobody gave him any other type of 9 authority, whether it be through the regs or otherwise, correct?

10 A So, like I said, I don't know exactly what was meant by "ultimate authority."

11 My understanding is that he was the lead on his case. He was in a position where he

12 was going to make a recommendation --

13 Q Right.

14 A -- regarding the prosecution, and that -- and we had advised him that he

15 was -- if we authorized charges that he was seeking, that it was going to be with

16 discretion, so he had the ability to not bring the charges or not. That's my

17 understanding of where it is. And that if he disagreed with our determination in the 18 case, he could take it to the DAG's office or the AG. That's my understanding.

19 Whether that amounts to ultimate authority, I think that's for somebody else to --

20 Q Did he do that, to your knowledge?

21 A Did he do what?

22 Q Did he take it to the DAG or the AG?

23 Ms. Zdeb. That's getting into the ongoing case.

24 [redacted] But it also gets into Mr. Weiss' authority.

25 Ms. Zdeb. Well, I think Mr. Goldberg has addressed his authority as it pertains to

1 the ability of the U.S. Attorney to take something up the chain to the DAG or the AG.
2 Whether that actually happened involves the case.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q Okay. But the term, "ultimate authority," is certainly something Mr. Weiss
5 did not have. And he couldn't override the Tax Division, and he couldn't override the 6 two U.S. Attorneys. Is that correct? Without some special authority that he didn't 7 have?
8 A And I don't know what conversations he had with people at other levels in 9 the Justice Department that might have told him that he could do certain things or not.
10 Q But as of June 7th, he didn't have that authority, correct?
11 A Like I said, I don't know what -- you know, he had conversations with people
12 in the DAG's office. I was not present for those conversations. What the nature of 13 them or what was said, I can't say. And I wasn't involved in writing this letter or drafting 14 the words in it.
15 Q But the Tax Division was intricately involved with the prosecution's efforts
16 here. I mean, Mark Daly, Jack Morgan, they're in this day to day.
17 And so, if Mr. Weiss, as of June 7th, did indeed have ultimate authority, you would 18 most likely know it, correct?
19 A Well, like I said, I'm not sure exactly what was meant by this. And I go back
20 to -- because I'm just trying to read it and understand it -- is that it's qualified. It says, "I 21 have been granted ultimate authority," and it says, "consistent with," and then it says, 22 "Federal law principles, Federal prosecution, and departmental regulations," which -- and 23 I read that -- just trying to read this language in a coherent way -- as saying that it's 24 subject to limitations that are placed on departmental prosecutors.
25 Q Right. But I could say the same thing. I've been granted ultimate

1 authority over a matter consistent with Federal law, the principles of Federal prosecution,
2 and departmental regulations, and I can't go prosecute a case.
3 A No, but he was actually the U.S. Attorney. He had been running this case.
4 He was going to be making a recommendation on the case.
5 Q Right.
6 A He's in a different posture than you are.
7 Q Right. But he hadn't -- you know, the way he makes it sound, it's as if it's 8 his authority and not the Tax Division's. I mean, isn't that a fair reading of it?
9 A I've told you what I think is my best reading about it.
10 [redacted]. Okay.
11 [redacted]
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Who made the decision to keep U.S. Attorney Weiss in place around the 14 time of the new administration coming in January 2021?
15 A I don't know.
16 Q Were you consulted about that decision?
17 A No.
18 Q Okay. Do you know anything about why the prior U.S. Attorney would be 19 kept on?
20 A No.
21 Q In your career at the Justice Department, have you seen U.S. Attorneys held 22 over from one administration to the next when the party switches?
23 A Yes. I can think of instances, but I'm not sure about the party switching. I
24 think so. I think so.
25 Q And it's common for U.S. Attorneys to offer their resignation at the end of a

1 Presidential term. Is that right?

2 A It's become more common. There was a period of time where people were

3 refusing to, I think, resign. So I think Rod Rosenstein was held on and continued

4 as -- and then there were two other people as well. Maybe George Holding. I'm trying

5 to reach back into memory, but --

6 Q That's okay. I'm just trying to get a sense of how common it is from a

7 general perspective.

8 A Generally, there aren't a lot of them. There are few that are held over or 9 none.

10 Q When a U.S. Attorney changes -- when a U.S. Attorney moves on and a new 11 U.S. Attorney is installed, there are typically pending cases, right?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Okay. So cases are handed from one U.S. Attorney to a new U.S. Attorney 14 commonly?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Okay. So do you have any sense as to why this case needed to be -- needed

17 to have a U.S. Attorney kept in place?

18 A I was not involved in the decision. I don't know why they made that

19 decision.

20 Q Do you have an opinion about it, just from your own observation?

21 A I don't want to speculate on it.

22 Q Do you think it was because the target of the investigation was the son of 23 the incoming President?

24 A I don't want to speculate on that.

25 Q In your role at DOJ Tax Division, do you interact frequently with the IRS?

1 A I wouldn't say frequently. I would say I have some regular interaction with 2 the head of the CI, the Criminal Investigations Unit. I have some -- I attend some
3 meetings with other senior folks at the Chief Counsel's Office. Occasionally, I intersect
4 with an agent or two in a case.
5 Q And line level attorneys that report to you, do they interact more frequently
6 with the IRS?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Okay. You know, for example, we've been talking about Mr. Daly and Mr.
9 Morgan. Do they interact frequently with IRS agents investigating a case?
10 A In the course of their duties at the Tax Division, yes.
11 Q Is that typical on investigations of criminal tax cases?
12 A That there would be interaction with IRS agents, yes.
13 Q Okay. In your career, have you interacted with the civil side of the IRS or 14 just the criminal side?
15 A A little bit on the civil side.
16 Q Okay. More so with the criminal side?
17 A Yes. Though limited, like I said, on the criminal side, but yes.
18 Q Okay. So our understanding from the testimony we've received on this 19 matter is that it began as a spin-off of another criminal tax investigation, and so, the 20 matter began at IRS CI as a criminal investigation. Is that consistent with your 21 understanding?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And our understanding is that, when IRS CI is doing a criminal tax
24 investigation, the civil side is paused during that time. Is that consistent with your 25 understanding?

1 A Sometimes that's true, and other times, I think, it's not true.

2 Q So sometimes, from your understanding -- and I know you're not at IRS.

3 You're at DOJ.

4 A Right.

5 Q But can a civil audit proceed alongside a criminal investigation? A criminal

6 tax investigation?

7 A I'm not an expert on this, so -- but my understanding is that you can't

8 leverage a civil audit for criminal purposes. That would be impermissible. But there

9 may be ways to have things in a different channel. But other times, they stop them, yes.

10 Q Okay. So sometimes they do stop --

11 A Yes.

12 Q -- the civil side while a criminal investigation goes forward?

13 A Yes.

14 Q So our understanding from the testimony we received is that that was the

15 case here, that the civil audit side was paused, and that, as we discussed, the tax years

16 2014 and 2015 statute of limitation was allowed to expire.

17 Do you know whether the civil side was paused for Hunter Biden in this case?

18 Ms. Zdeb. Whether -- I'm sorry. Are you asking about the IRS's investigation?

19 [redacted] Yes. Does he know whether the civil audit procedures were 20 paused for Hunter Biden?

21 Ms. Zdeb. Can we go off the record for a second?

22 [redacted] Can we go off the record?

23 [Discussion off the record.]

24 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

25 Mr. Goldberg. All right.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q So we discussed whether a civil audit can be paused while criminal tax

3 investigations proceed.

4 A It doesn't mean that there is a civil audit, though, right?

5 Q True. Yeah, I'm not --

6 A Are you suggesting that there was a civil audit?

7 Q No. There may never --

8 A Okay. That's the part I'm confused about.

9 Q I guess I should ask you --

10 A I can't comment if there was because it would be 6103 information.

11 Q Okay. But it's possible for there to be a criminal tax investigation without a 12 civil audit. Is that correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. And if it begins on the criminal side and the civil audit side is paused

15 or --

16 A But there may not be.

17 Q -- or is not allowed to go forward, you don't open a civil audit if you've 18 started it as a criminal tax matter. Is that correct?

19 A I think that -- I'm not an expert in this area. I think that's probably true,

20 though civil audits can get opened, I think, later in later stages depending upon. So you

21 can -- you don't have to wait until the end of a criminal case in order to green-light

22 civil -- taking action on a case.

23 Q Okay.

24 A So, you know, I'm aware of that happening in other cases where the agents,

25 the IRS CI agents -- told us they can go ahead and look at certain things.

1 Q And do you know if that decision or procedure is an internal IRS process
2 determination?
3 A The IRS would have to make a determination of whether to go forward on a
4 civil matter.
5 Q Okay. So our understanding is that it began as a criminal matter inside the 6 IRS and the civil audit -- a civil audit didn't go forward.
7 And our understanding is also that the statute of limitations expired for tax years
8 2014 and 2015. And our understanding is also that, because of the rules, the look-back
9 period for civil audit, that a civil audit -- the timeframe for a civil audit has now passed.
10 In other words, there is no way for a civil audit to be opened in this matter.
11 Would that be consistent with your understanding?
12 Ms. Zdeb. And, I'm sorry, but that is getting into the ongoing investigation.
13 And I urge him to also express some concerns about questions related to potential
14 civil audits in a specific case also implicating 6103.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q Okay. I can ask it at a general level. I'm just trying to understand your 17 understanding of how these tax cases work across from one agency to another. There's 18 civil. There's criminal. There's DOJ. There's DOJ Tax. It's a little complicated. I'm 19 just trying to understand the issues here based on what we've been told.
20 Our understanding is that it's possible in a criminal case for a civil audit to not be 21 opened because it's already being criminally investigated. And if a statute of limitations
22 is allowed to expire, or an investigation lasts for a number of years -- 6 years or 7
23 years -- that you get beyond the civil look-back period, and an audit can no longer be 24 opened. Is something like that possible?
25 A It's very speculative to me. I don't know a lot about the civil area, except

1 my understanding is there is no civil statute of limitations. IRS can go -- it's unlike in the 2 criminal area. So the IRS can go back, theoretically, and assess any case if there is fraud
3 or false -- or evasion. Those are the circumstances that are required for that.
4 So that, I know. But internal IRS procedures beyond that, I don't know.
5 Q Okay. But with a showing of fraud or evasion, you could -- your 6 understanding is that the IRS could open a civil audit that would otherwise be past the 7 look-back period?
8 A I don't know what you mean by "look-back period."
9 Q It's the equivalent of a statute of limitations. I think it's typically 6 years for 10 most tax issues on the civil audit side.
11 A Like I said, my understanding is -- and I'm not a civil tax lawyer, so I'm not 12 going to get in a dangerous area for me -- is that there is no statute of limitations if there 13 is fraud in connection with a civil collection case. That's what my understanding is.
14 Q If there's fraud?
15 A There has to be fraud or evasion. I don't have the statute in front of me,
16 but yes. If there was fraud or false statements or evasion. I don't remember the exact
17 wording of the statute.
18 Q Okay. So we've received testimony that, if the statute of limitations has 19 expired, that there's no way for the U.S. Government to recover unpaid tax liabilities
20 going back to 2014, 2015.
21 Is that a possible outcome in a situation like this?
22 A Like I said, I have exhausted my knowledge of civil tax.
23 Q Would you be concerned if it was the case that the length of a criminal
24 investigation could prevent the IRS from collecting unpaid taxes?
25 A I don't think I should speculate about this.

1 Q About whether that would concern you?

2 A No. About the premise that there's a bar because of this or that. That's

3 where this is coming from.

4 Q I'm asking you to accept the hypothetical now. If that were the case, would

5 that be a concern?

6 A And I don't want to get in hypotheticals about this. You're talking to a

7 criminal prosecutor, really.

8 Q I understand. Okay.

9 In the last hour, you were asked some questions about considerations that the 10 Department of Justice and the prosecutors have to take into account when determining

11 whether or not to bring charges. Things like chances of success, admissibility of 12 evidence, proving a case beyond a reasonable doubt. Do you remember that line of 13 questioning generally?

14 A Yes.

15 Q In your career at the Department of Justice, have you worked with a large 16 number of prosecutors?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And would you say that the Department of Justice has skilled prosecutors in 19 its employ?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Yesterday, we interviewed U.S. Attorney Estrada, who detailed some of the 22 horrible crime going on in his district. He talked about cartels, gangs, Mafia, some pretty

23 difficult and challenging cases and potential defendants involved in his work in that

24 district.

25 Do you think that the Department has prosecutors talented enough to prosecute

1 cases related to activities of individuals like that? Cartel members? Mafia members?
2 A Yes.
3 Q In your experience, are DOJ prosecutors typically afraid to bring cases
4 against those individuals?
5 A Cartel members or things like that? I think we're lucky to have a number of 6 career narcotics prosecutors that are willing to take those cases on. Sometimes they do
7 get threats or have to have protection from the Marshals Service, so.
8 Q But they don't usually stand down and drop their cases in those situations?
9 A You know, there may be individual prosecutors that are concerned about 10 themselves or their family and want to stay -- move into another part of the Justice
11 Department, yes.
12 Q But the Department wouldn't drop a case because of a threat?
13 A The Department? No.
14 Q Okay. And do DOJ attorneys interact with defense counsel frequently?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And, in your experience, are prosecutors you've worked with typically afraid
17 of or intimidated by defense counsel?
18 A No. I don't think they should be intimidated by -- but sometimes defense
19 attorneys attempt to do that, yes.
20 Q Are you aware of testimony that says that Chris Clark told DOJ officials that 21 bringing charges against Hunter Biden would be career suicide?
22 A I recall seeing something like that. You know, in my experience, having sat
23 in on some meetings where defense attorneys make -- not necessarily those statements,
24 and I'm not saying Chris Clark said that or not because I wasn't present -- but I think it's 25 counterproductive. That tends to solidify prosecutors in the Justice Department not to

1 put their head down and try to do their job.

2 Q Okay. And so you weren't present when -- if that was said, you weren't

3 present for it?

4 A No.

5 Q Okay. Did anyone ever report that to you?

6 A I don't recall it. You know, I know that there was, you know, often

7 contentious discussions between defense counsels and prosecutors, and I think some of 8 that happened here. But I don't recall the specific verbiage, no.

9 Q Okay. And are you aware of reporting that Chris Clark stated that he would

10 call President Biden as a witness if DOJ moved forward with the case?

11 A I saw that mentioned somewhere.

12 Q Were you aware of that beyond the public reporting?

13 A No, I wasn't. But I don't think it's relevant at all to how we would handle

14 the case.

15 Q So you don't think prosecutors involved in the case were concerned or 16 worried or intimidated by that statement?

17 A I don't know if the statement was actually made because I wasn't there.

18 But prosecutors in the Tax Division were engaged in the case and trying to get to the right

19 decision on it without any external comments that may be made.

20 Q So prosecutors don't typically fold under pressure from defense attorneys?

21 A Not in my experience.

22 Q If someone meets all the elements for a felony tax evasion case, and later

23 gets caught for tax evasion and then, once caught, pays tax liabilities off, pays the IRS the

24 money that they should have that they previously evaded, was a crime still committed if

25 all the elements of tax evasion were there?

1 A Can you restate that again? I'm having trouble following.
2 Q So if all the elements of the crime of tax evasion are met, but the target or 3 the defendant later pays off the liability of the amount of tax due, has a crime still been 4 committed?
5 A The question would be whether -- I'd have to know the whole -- all the facts.
6 But the defense would try to argue that somehow -- that that payment showed what 7 willfulness the defendant had in his or her mind.
8 Q But what if they pay it back after they've been caught?
9 A Right. Right. Right. The Department -- like I said, that's what the 10 defense would argue. In some courts, they may admit that payment. In other courts,
11 they may not. It depends upon what the circuit is. It depends upon what other -- what 12 the circumstances are. I can't really opine on a case like that.
13 If they came up with the money -- they had no money initially and then they came 14 up with the money, and as soon as they came up with the money, they paid it, that might 15 be more relevant, right?
16 Q My question isn't whether it would be relevant or admissible. It may be 17 relevant or admissible to any sentencing in whatever the case may be.
18 But if the elements of the crime are met, does paying off the liability alleviate you
19 from the criminal conduct? Have you still committed a crime if you initially evaded 20 taxes?
21 A And I'm just trying not to opine on a case where I don't have all the facts.
22 You say the crime has been committed, but the question is what the evidence is relating 23 to that. And whether this payment -- subsequent payment has an impact or not, I can't 24 say. So it's hard for me to opine on that.
25 Q Okay. I'm just trying to understand if paying off your taxes after you get

1 caught for any tax crime alleviates you of criminal liability. Is that the Department's 2 position?
3 A So no. If you commit a crime -- like, just take this. Let's take bank
4 robbery, right? You rob a bank, and you get caught, and you hand the money back later.
5 That's not going to alleviate you for liability for the crime. That's clear.
6 And in many respects, similar -- in a tax case, we have to prove willfulness, which 7 is the highest level of intent. And all the circumstances about how that person reacts in 8 connection with his or her tax liabilities are going to be relevant to whether or not 9 willfulness is proven. And it is possible that the way they handle this repayment may be 10 relevant to that.
11 So without knowing all the little pieces, I can't say. But I can tell you that defense
12 attorneys try to bring that stuff in all the time in regular cases, and the government often 13 tries to exclude that.
14 Q In the testimony we've received, we've also been interested and concerned
15 about how the different agencies and different parts of the agencies involved in a
16 tax -- criminal tax matter work together, or fail to work together in some cases. You
17 have IRS CI. We talked about the possible role of civil, but put that to the side for now.
18 FBI, U.S. Attorney's Office, Main Justice, Main DOJ, DOJ Tax. It's a lot of entities.
19 Throughout your career, how have you found the working relationship to be 20 between all of those entities in the coordination necessary for investigation?
21 A I've been lucky enough to find that I think there generally is pretty good
22 coordination, though there in cases where a case is going for a while, there can be bumps
23 in the road in terms of people don't see things exactly the same or that there's change in 24 personnel when -- but DOJ does a pretty good job, I think, working within itself. And Tax
25 Division has a good relationship, my impression is, with IRS CI. And that's how we make

1 our cases. We have the IRS CI in every one of our cases. So I think we navigate those 2 things.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q In late March of 2022, we've been told that Mark Daly contacted Special
5 Agent Ziegler to say that, in his communications with the first assistant in the D.C. U.S.
6 Attorney's Office, that the first assistant was optimistic that the case would be permitted
7 to be brought in D.C.
8 Did that fact ever make it to your attention? That before Mr. Graves declined to 9 partner, the staff-to-staff communication of your staff, Mr. Daly, and Mr. Graves' staff has 10 been -- you know, we have testimony to say that Mr. Daly believed that the first assistant
11 was very encouraged that Mr. Graves would be able to, you know, allow the case to be 12 brought. Had that been brought to your attention?
13 A That the first assistant in D.C. said --
14 Q That Mr. Daly was encouraged by his communications with Mr. Graves' staff.
15 A We're getting into deliberations, I think, right? So based on the line that 16 the Department is drawing, I'm not sure I can get into conversations that may have taken
17 place.
18 Q Did Mr. Daly keep you updated on the blow-by-blow?
19 A I don't know whether I was updated on the blow-by-blow, but it was 20 reported back to me about the dealings with the U.S. Attorney's Office, at least in some 21 instances or some level. Whether there were -- how many interactions and whether I
22 received information after each one, that I can't say.
23 Q Did you have an idea that Mr. Graves was going to decline to partner before
24 he did?
25 A I don't -- I'm not sure I understand the question. Could you ask it again in a

1 different way?

2 Q Of course. Was it your expectation that Mr. Graves was going to partner or

3 not going to partner before he made his final decision?

4 A I'm not sure when he made his final decision exactly. I'm a little -- I don't

5 have a current recollection. As I said before, they -- I learned that he was not interested

6 in partnering with us and that he was willing to give us a point of contact and things like

7 that.

8 Q Okay. Leading up to that, did you have any inclination -- did you have an

9 expectation that he would or would not partner?

10 A I don't know that I can answer that question without getting into what 11 conversations -- deliberative conversations might have taken place.

12 Q How common is it for a U.S. Attorney, like Mr. Graves, to decline to partner

13 when the U.S. Attorney from the different jurisdiction, Mr. Weiss, apparently has the 14 support of the Tax Division? How common is that?

15 A I know it occurs. I can't tell you how common it is because I don't know the 16 full universe of people. I don't think it's all that common for U.S. Attorney's Offices to 17 move white-collar cases from one place to another. It happens occasionally.

18 Q Well, for tax cases, though, are venues pretty certain?

19 A Right. But sometimes that decision is made at an earlier stage, or if it's at a

20 later stage, then I think U.S. Attorney's Offices might carve up their own case in a way that 21 didn't require them to move.

22 Q Why did it take Mr. Weiss so long to bring the D.C. component to Mr.

23 Graves?

24 Ms. Zdeb. That gets into the ongoing case, and it's beyond the scope of his 25 authorization.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Do you remember when the case was brought to Mr. Graves?

3 A I think in March of 2022.

4 Q And the case had -- at least the tax part of the case had began in 2019,

5 correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q You had a supervisory role during that whole time period, right?

8 A Even though it was a different role, I would say that I had a supervisory-type

9 role, though Richard Zuckerman, between 2019 and 2021 -- beginning of 2021 -- was the 10 one supervising the case.

11 Q But it was clear all along that for the tax years 2014 and 2015, the venue was

12 appropriate in D.C., and for the other years, the venue was appropriate out in Malibu and 13 the Los Angeles area?

14 Ms. Zdeb. That gets into internal analysis and deliberations around venue, and 15 it's not something he is authorized to discuss.

16 BY [redacted]:

17 Q So I'm just wondering why it took so long. That's sort of a big question. I

18 mean, I guess that's one of the reasons we want to speak with Mr. Daly and Mr. Morgan

19 because they're much more involved with the day-to-day blow-by-blow.

20 So had anyone brought concerns to you or maybe Mr. Poole about what was 21 taking so long in bringing these cases to the respective U.S. Attorneys?

22 Ms. Zdeb. That question seeks deliberations about the ongoing investigation.

23 And whether you're speaking to Mr. Goldberg or any other witness at this point, the 24 Department hasn't authorized testimony on that sort of topic.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Who is John Kane?

2 A John Kane is an assistant chief in the Tax Division.

3 Q Does he work for Mr. Poole?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Earlier, you mentioned -- we had asked you which personnel in the Tax

6 Division were working on this case, and I think we agreed it was Mr. Morgan, Mr. Daly,

7 Mr. Poole, and then there was --

8 A I said assistant chief because I'm trying to follow the direction --

9 Q No, I understand.

10 A -- given from the Justice Department. And I'm going to request again that 11 you redact his name from the transcript.

12 Q So Mr. Kane would be the fourth person?

13 A He would be the assistant chief I was referring to, yes.

14 Q Okay. But do I have that right, that essentially there were four people

15 involved with the consideration of this case from a Tax Division standpoint other than 16 yourself?

17 A Yes. Yes.

18 Q And is it fair to say that he was assigned to review the special agent report

19 that Mr. Ziegler prepared?

20 A We're getting into details about how the case was conducted, right? So I'm 21 not sure I can get to that.

22 [redacted]. Okay. It looks like my time is up, so we need to stop here.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q It's 2:11 in the afternoon, we can go back on the record.

5 I want to circle back to some conversations from the prior round of questioning.

6 The comment was made that the U.S. Attorney's Office in Delaware couldn't override the

7 tax division's decision and I wanted to explore that a little more. If, not necessarily this

8 U.S. Attorney's Office, any U.S. Attorney's Office if they disagree with the tax division

9 maybe they can't just say, No, we're going to disregard what you say and move forward,

10 but they do, there's a mechanism for them to have your decision overridden, correct?

11 A Yes, there is.

12 Q What is that mechanism?

13 A They can go to the Deputy Attorney General's Office or the AG.

14 Q Okay. And the Deputy Attorney General or the AG can say tax division, I'm 15 going to grant the U.S. Attorney's Office the authority that they are seeking, right?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And if the tax division grants discretionary authority over a matter, there is

18 nothing to override, right, because in that case the U.S. Attorney's Office gets to decide

19 whether to bring charges or not?

20 A Yes, they are unlikely to complain, yes.

21 Q I want to turn back to Goldberg -- what's marked as exhibit 5, this is the

22 July 10th letter and I want to look at, I think we talked through a couple of the earlier

23 sentences in that third paragraph, but I want to look at the sentence that begins at the 24 end of the fifth line down that says, I was, it begins I was.

25 A Right.

1 Q It says, I was assured that I would be granted this authority if it proved
2 necessary and this authority is a reference to 28 U.S.C. section 515.
3 Do you have any reason to believe that Mr. Weiss was not being truthful when he
4 said he had been assured that he would be granted 28 U.S.C. section 515 authority if it
5 proved necessary?
6 A No reason to believe that.
7 Q And you can set that aside.
8 I want to talk a little bit about the interactions between Mr. Weiss and both the 9 U.S. Attorney's Office in the District of Columbia and the Central District of California that 10 came up a little bit in the prior round. I think there's a statement made the U.S.
11 Attorney's Offices declined to bring charges, and I want to explore that a little bit. To 12 the best of your knowledge, did U.S. Attorney Matthew Graves ever tell David Weiss that 13 he, meaning David Weiss, could not bring charges in the District of Columbia?
14 A No, that's not my recollection at all.
15 Q Okay. And what is your recollection?
16 A That night, I thought we had discussed this earlier, but that they decided not 17 to partner with him on the case. They didn't tell him he couldn't bring the case himself
18 in that district. They just decided they didn't want to partner their offices with David
19 Weiss.
20 Q And partnering is not the same as prosecuting a case, right? Somebody
21 can -- U.S. Attorney Weiss can still prosecute a case?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Even if U.S. Attorney Graves decided not to partner with him, correct?
24 A Right. My understanding is that he was saying he didn't want to partner,
25 that the U.S. Attorney's Office indeed said that they would facilitate, they give us a point

1 of contact or David Weiss a point of contact to bring the case if that's what they wanted
2 to do.
3 Q Okay. Do you know if Mr. Graves also offered to provide any
4 administrative support that Mr. Weiss might need?
5 A I don't know, but I assume most U.S. Attorney's Offices in this situation
6 would do that.
7 Q And Mr. Weiss never said that Mr. Graves said he would not provide such 8 administrative support, right?
9 A I don't believe he said that to me, no.
10 Q Okay. And looking at the Central District of California, do you know if U.S.
11 Attorney Martin Estrada ever told Mr. Weiss that he, meaning Mr. Weiss, could not bring 12 charges in the Central District of California?
13 A No, that's not my understanding.
14 Q What is your understanding?
15 A That, again, that he did not want to have his office partner on the case with 16 him. But my understanding is that David Weiss was free to bring them -- bring the 17 charges if he thought it was appropriate in L.A.
18 Q Do you know if in fact there are -- so Martin Estrada I'll represent to you was 19 confirmed by the Senate in September of 2022, so September of last year. Are you
20 aware that at the time that Martin Estrada was confirmed in September of 2022, Mr.
21 Weiss actually already had special assistant U.S. Attorneys already assigned to the Central
22 District of California?
23 A No, I'm not aware.
24 Q You weren't aware of that. Are you aware that there was a phone call
25 between Mr. Estrada and Mr. Weiss in early October of 2022?

1 A I'm not sure I'm aware of that. I know that Mr. Weiss was going to contact
2 the U.S. Attorney's Office, but -- it's possible. I have a vague recollection that there was 3 a contact, but I'm not sure about the timing.
4 Q Do you know if Mr. Weiss asked Mr. Estrada to provide administrative 5 support in the Central District of California?
6 A I don't remember whether he did.
7 Q Do you have any reason to believe that Mr. Weiss did not obtain any 8 requested administrative support from the Central District of California?
9 A No.
10 Q I want to --
11 [Discussion off the record.]
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q I want to turn to section 515 authority briefly. What is, without bringing 14 out the statute, what's your understanding of what 515 authority is?
15 A It provides authority to -- when you're talking with regard to a Department
16 of Justice attorney, it provides authority for that attorney to go into a district and handle 17 civil or criminal cases here before magistrates, and to have authority that's in line with 18 what the U.S. Attorney would have in that district.
19 Q Does the tax division frequently request section 515 authority?
20 A Yes. Those requests come to me in the tax division with regard to tax
21 division personnel.
22 Q And so, are you familiar with the process for requesting section 515
23 authority, then?
24 A I'm familiar with what the process is in the tax division.
25 Q And can you describe that process?

1 A A memo gets written coming from the chief of the relevant geographic
2 section saying there's this case, throwing out some of the facts, and that the chief wants
3 to appoint a specific attorney to that particular case and usually it's in response to a
4 request from the U.S. Attorney's Office. And that memo comes to me with a draft letter
5 from me that gives a person 515 authority.
6 Q And in the earlier hour you said that this happens all the time. Is it fair to 7 say that this is a common thing that happens at the Department of Justice?
8 A In Main Justice components it is, where they are going out and doing cases in 9 U.S. Attorney's Office often without the involvement of the U.S. Attorney's Office in the 10 specific case.
11 Q And when -- would you describe the process for obtaining 515 authority as 12 burdensome, or is it a fairly fast process or do you have any way to evaluate that?
13 A The Tax Division, it's a fairly fast process.
14 Q About low long does it take? Can you estimate is it a week, maybe a couple 15 of days?
16 A As soon as they write the letter -- excuse me, draft the letter and draft the 17 appropriate memo that gets sent up to me. And whether the chief spend time thinking
18 about who the person is that should be assigned, I don't know. I assume they do. So 19 when it gets to me, it doesn't take very long for me to execute the memo so fairly 20 concise. And the format is pretty much the same for each letter. So once I decide after 21 reading the memo that it's appropriate to provide 515 authority I just quickly eyeball the 22 letter, make sure there are no obvious typos and have somebody sign off on it for me.
23 Q And that's with regard to the tax division specifically. Have you been 24 involved in the process when somebody has sought 515 authority from the Deputy 25 Attorney General's Office?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Is the process substantially similar?

3 A I think it's a little more extended process because -- at least my experience in
4 terms of the Deputy Attorney General's Office, often it is in a recusal type situation. So
5 first there needs to be a finding about whether recusal is justified under the Department's 6 rules and whether it should be the whole office or part of the office. And then there
7 needs to be another prosecutive office to take on the case. Sometimes it's the Main
8 Justice component, sometimes it is going to be the U.S. Attorney's Office. At that point, 9 you can issue the letters to the people handling the case.

10 Q Okay. And that's in a situation where one U.S. Attorney is recused from a
11 case?

12 A Right, right.

13 Q Therefore you have to find somebody else to fill in the gap effectively?

14 A Right.

15 Q In your experience, how often do you approve 515 requests? Or maybe a 16 better way to phrase it is how often do you actually deny 515 requests? Are they 17 usually approved or is it sometimes they are denied?

18 A They are almost always approved by me because that's what comes up to 19 me. The chiefs have made a decision that this is the appropriate person. In this case,
20 it's one that we should be supporting. And so, when I look at it, it's usually in line with 21 that. If I have a question, I'm more likely to call them up and ask them about it rather 22 than just deny it.

23 Q And is it your experience that similarly in the rest of the Department 515
24 requests are routinely approved?

25 A So my recollection going back many years in public integrity is it was done on

1 a fairly routine basis.

2 Q Just some kind of final questions here to wrap up. In this case, in the

3 Hunter Biden investigation in particular, do you have any reason to believe that President

4 Biden interfered in the investigation in any way?

5 A So let me just keep it at a very high level so we don't get into line here. I'm

6 not aware of any interference with the case on a partisan political basis.

7 Q Do you have any reason to believe that any of the line attorneys were

8 intimidated or were worried about working on this case because it involved the son of 9 President Biden?

10 A My expectation, based on my involvement with them on this case, is that

11 they were going to make the recommendations they thought were appropriate based on 12 the facts and the law.

13 Q We went through this earlier but one more time for the record.

14 Throughout your tenure at the Justice Department's Tax Division, have you made all

15 decisions without reference to political considerations?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And particularly with respect to the Hunter Biden investigation, have you

18 made all decisions without reference to political considerations?

19 A Yes.

20 Q To the best of your knowledge, has U.S. Attorney Weiss made all decisions in 21 the Hunter Biden matter without reference to political considerations?

22 A Yes.

23 Q To the best of your knowledge, has U.S. Attorney Matt Graves made all

24 decisions in the Hunter Biden investigation without reference to political considerations?

25 A I fully expect to answer yes, but I've had very little dealings -- I've had no

1 direct dealings with Matt Graves.

2 Q Understood. To the best of your knowledge.

3 A Right.

4 Q To the best of your knowledge, do you have any reason to believe that U.S.

5 Attorney Estrada -- I'm sorry, to the best of your knowledge in the Hunter Biden matter,

6 has U.S. Attorney Estrada made all decisions without reference to political

7 considerations?

8 A And I'm not aware of him letting political considerations interfere. But 9 again, I've never talked to Mr. Estrada, so I just want to make that clear.

10 Q To the best of your knowledge in the Hunter Biden matter, have the 11 employees of Mr. Weiss' office made all decisions without reference to political

12 considerations?

13 A Yes.

14 Q To the best of your knowledge in the Hunter Biden matter has assistant U.S.

15 Attorney Lesley Wolf made all decisions without reference to political considerations?

16 A I'm not aware of politics having an impact on the Hunter Biden case, no

17 partisan political considerations to my knowledge have factored into that case.

18 Q And that includes with respect to Lesley Wolf in particular?

19 A It includes everybody involved in the case.

20 Q And one last question on this line, to the best of your knowledge, has all

21 Justice Department Tax Division employees made all decisions without reference to 22 political considerations in the Hunter Biden matter?

23 A Yes.

24 [redacted]. Thank you. We can go off the record.

25 [Discussion off the record.]

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q 2:28.

3 You were asked whether you were aware of any political interference in the case.

4 And I believe you said you're not aware of any?

5 A I'm not aware of political interference in the case, right.

6 Q Are you aware of allegations that special treatment was afforded in this case

7 because the subject was the son of the President of the United States, and before that,

8 the leading candidate for President?

9 A The -- could you just restate that?

10 Q Are you aware of allegations -- the whistleblowers.

11 A Yes, yes, yes.

12 Q When the whistleblowers raised those allegations and we can go through

13 them, they went through a number of instances that they felt political favoritism was part

14 of the equation. And so, I guess the question is, is that the first time you heard about it

15 when the whistleblowers brought it up or were you aware as it was happening?

16 A I wouldn't accept the premise that there was political interference. No one

17 came to me during the course of my supervision on this case and said there's political 18 interference in this case.

19 Q Okay. Were you aware of investigator's plan to search an abandoned

20 storage unit at the end of December 2020.

21 Ms. Zdeb. That involves the ongoing investigation. He's not able to address

22 that.

23 [redacted] Okay.

24 BY [redacted]:

25 Q Are you aware of situations where defense counsel was notified prior to the

1 service of a search warrant?

2 Ms. Zdeb. That also involves the ongoing case and he can't address it.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Are you aware of before investigators were able to search the storage unit

5 that I mentioned that DOJ tax attorney Mark Daly and Lesley Wolf, the AUSA, the lead

6 AUSA on the case, wanted to inform the target, Hunter Biden's attorneys, about the 7 search of the storage unit?

8 Ms. Zdeb. It's the same objection because it is essentially the same question.

9 You're asking about an ongoing investigation.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q When decisions like that were involved, Mr. Daly or Mr. Morgan, would they 12 seek approval up their chain of command before they would provide that authority?

13 A So I can try to answer that at a higher level. Generally speaking, the trial

14 attorneys working on a case would discuss the cases with their supervisors. Whether

15 they discussed every particular contemplated action or not, probably not, but

16 they -- that's typically what happens in a Tax Division or DOJ case.

17 Q So if Lesley Wolf communicated that Mr. Shapley or Mr. Ziegler that they

18 can't do investigative move X or investigative move Y because DOJ tax hasn't approved it,

19 is that the type of decision that would be made at Mr. Daly's level, Mr. Morgan's level, or 20 would that fall to their supervisor, or would that be you?

21 Ms. Zdeb. You're getting into very specific allegations about the ongoing case at

22 this point. If there's something he could say at a high level of generality about how 23 cases typically work in this respect, that's fine.

24 [redacted] I tried to -- I framed it as a generic investigative move that would

25 need DOJ Tax's approval.

1 Ms. Zdeb. But the preamble to your question referred to specific people
2 assigned to this case and specific decisions in this case. If you want to ask him
3 hypothetically about some generic criminal prosecution.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q What was Mark Daly's title?
6 A Senior litigation counsel.
7 Q And what was Jack Morgan's title?
8 A Trial attorney.
9 Q Would these types of decisions be made at the trial attorney level or the 10 senior litigation counsel level or would they be made at the supervisor level?
11 A Which kinds of decisions?
12 Q Decisions about investigative techniques or procedures, whether you're 13 going to search a storage unit, whether you're going to identify a particular person on a 14 search warrant?
15 A So this case was being run out of the Delaware U.S. Attorney's Office, David 16 Weiss was leading that. My experience generally on cases, there is discussions between 17 the prosecutors and with the agents and the prosecutors about investigator steps that 18 are contemplated, whether they should be taken or not, they talk about that back and 19 forth all the time. I don't think all those discussions get elevated.
20 Q Okay, fair enough.
21 On August 2nd, 2020, Lesley Wolf sent an FBI special agent an email where she 22 wrote, there should be nothing about political figure one, who is Joe Biden, in the draft
23 search warrant. Are you familiar with the search warrant in question that related to Joe
24 Biden?
25 Ms. Zdeb. That involves -- your question involves the ongoing investigation and

1 prosecution, and it is beyond the scope of what he's authorized to discuss.

2 [redacted] In December of 2020, there was an email exchange between Lesley

3 Wolf and Joseph Ziegler regarding managing expectations with regard to timing. In

4 AUSA Wolf's email to members of the prosecution team she wrote that a warrant needed

5 to go through the Delaware U.S. Attorney's Office, DOJ Tax, possibly OEO, the Office of

6 Enforcement Operations, and definitely EDVA, who had never seen a case before. And

7 the question is, how often does a warrant such as this need to be reviewed by so many

8 different offices?

9 A A warrant such as this, what warrant are you talking about?

10 Q This again relates to the search warrant for the storage unit.

11 A So without commenting on this particular case, because I'm directed not to 12 do that, if documents are being sought from -- a search is going to take place of an

13 attorney's office, let's say, then -- and that's out of the district of where U.S. Attorney is,

14 then it would have to get viewed probably under the Department's practices and

15 procedures by OEO because attorney premises are highly sensitive and that was recent in

16 2020, there was recent new guidance about that limiting it. The U.S. Attorney's Office in

17 Delaware would have to be behind it and support it in order -- the U.S. Attorney's Office

18 involved. If it was going to be in a different district, then typically that district, or at

19 least most districts, in my experience, before they bring a search warrant and let

20 somebody bring a search warrant to a judge in their district, they review those things. If

21 it was a tax case, then it would probably implicate potentially tax procedures too,

22 because we have review and approval processes in place for search warrants involving 23 attorneys.

24 Q Would those types of procedures have come into play when decision was 25 being made whether to search Joe Biden's guesthouse?

1 Ms. Zdeb. He can't speak to the specifics of what may or may not have
2 happened in this case.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q Are you aware the investigators were interested in searching Joe Biden's 5 guesthouse, they believed that relevant evidence existed at that location.
6 Ms. Zdeb. Same objection?
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q Are you aware that Lesley Wolf told the investigators there's no way we will 9 get that approved?
10 Ms. Zdeb. Same objection.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q And the implication, of course, was they wouldn't get that approved because 13 it involved Joe Biden.
14 Ms. Zdeb. I don't know if that was a question. But if it was, it's the same 15 objection.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q Are you aware that of that allegation being raised by Mr. Shapley and Mr.
18 Ziegler?
19 A I'm aware of something along those lines, yes.
20 Q Are you aware of it because it came out in their public testimony?
21 A Yes, yes, yes, or news reports, yes.
22 Q Or are you aware of it because in real time you were involved with that
23 decision?
24 Ms. Zdeb. He can't speak to that part of your question because it involves an 25 ongoing case.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Are you aware of why the investigators wanted to search the Biden

3 guesthouse?

4 Ms. Zdeb. He can't answer that, and you're free to ask as many questions like

5 this as you want, but I think you know that the scope of his authorization does not enable

6 him to talk about the ongoing investigation.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q The testimony of special agents Shapley and Ziegler raised a lot of these

9 political concerns, they believe and they testified that the investigative activity was

10 curtailed for political reasons. Were you aware of these allegations in real time, or did

11 you only learn about them when they became public through the whistleblower

12 testimony?

13 A So I -- because I mentioned before, I'm not aware of partisan political 14 considerations playing a role in this case.

15 Q Are you aware that DOJ tax attorney Jack Morgan instructed the 16 investigators to remove Hunter Biden's name from a search warrant?

17 Ms. Zdeb. He's not authorized to discuss that.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Are you aware of that allegation?

20 A I'm aware that that was reported, something along those lines.

21 Q But were you aware of it in real time?

22 Ms. Zdeb. He can't answer that, Steve.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q In the January 2023 meeting that you had in Delaware with Chris Clark, you

25 testified that that wasn't the meeting where Mr. Clark allegedly told the prosecutors this

1 is career suicide?

2 A I think I said that I didn't hear him say that at their -- that the that meeting,

3 to my recollection.

4 Q Were you aware that he said that at a meeting? Was that reported to you

5 in real time?

6 A I think you asked that question previously and my recollection is that it

7 doesn't sound familiar to me, but I know that there was contentious dealings between

8 Mr. Clark and prosecutors at various points.

9 Q Did you witness any of those contentions during your January 2023 meeting?

10 A Nothing more than average prosecutor defense attorney interaction.

11 Q Was Mr. Clark exhibiting brash behavior in trying to get the prosecutors not 12 to move forward?

13 Ms. Zdeb. At this point, we're getting into internal meetings and discussions

14 about the ongoing case, and he's not able to address that.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Did you witness Mr. Clark lean on Mr. Weiss about his legacy, that his legacy

17 would be defined by how he handles this decision?

18 Ms. Zdeb. Same, same objection. We're talking about meetings about the 19 ongoing case.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q After the special agent report was prepared by Agent Ziegler and sent to the

22 Tax Division, according to whistleblower testimony, the Tax Division, under your

23 leadership, requested that Mr. Morgan or Daly prepare a 99-page -- or a memorandum

24 that ended up being 99 pages. Was that something that you tasked out.

25 Ms. Zdeb. That's getting into the ongoing case. He's not authorized to discuss

1 it?

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And do you know who wrote that memorandum from the Tax Division.

4 Ms. Zdeb. He is not authorized to discuss --

5 [redacted] I think that's a fair question. I mean who wrote a memo. I mean,

6 we're not talking about the content of the memo.

7 Ms. Zdeb. He hasn't said there was or wasn't a memo that was --

8 [redacted] I don't think anyone disputes that DOJ Tax prepared a memo. I

9 mean the special agent report comes in, and then the Tax Division, I think he testified to

10 this earlier, ordinarily would then prepare a document. So I guess the question is who 11 prepared the document, was it Mr. Morgan, Mr. Daly?

12 Ms. Zdeb. Can we go off the record for a second?

13 [redacted]. Yes.

14 [Discussion off the record.]

15 Ms. Zdeb. I think at this point the question of what memos may have been

16 prepared when and by whom are getting into the internal process of the case, and he's 17 not going to address that.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q From a process standpoint, what types of documents would be prepared by 20 the Tax Division lawyers?

21 A Working on a case?

22 Q Yeah. After the special agent report comes in from the IRS recommending

23 prosecution of a particular person or particular charges, then the Tax Division prepares

24 some paper, correct?

25 A Yes, but there as I laid out previously. There often is ongoing investigation

1 that takes place after the special agent's report and there may be also various legal 2 analyses that are done relating to potential charges themselves, relating to venue of 3 charges, relating to a number of different issues.
4 Q So you're not willing to answer the question about whether a 99-page memo
5 was prepared by DOJ Tax on this matter?
6 A I've been directed not to answer that question.
7 Q Okay. But presumably you know the answer to the question, if we 8 compelled you, you would -- you'd be able to provide a definitive answer on that
9 question?
10 A What?
11 Q If you were compelled and we were able to prevail?
12 A It's a metaphysical question, right?
13 Q Okay.
14 A Whether it exists or does not exist.
15 Q What's that?
16 A Whether something exists or doesn't exist.
17 Q Well really you are aware that it was prepared and exists.
18 A I can say, as I said before, that there's a common process that takes place,
19 and part of that is putting together a pros memo to point, and then review note, and then 20 a chief's note before it comes to me. That's the way the process generally works.
21 Q There's been some discussion that the 2014 and 2015 tax year charges fell
22 off the board because the statute of limitations ran. Are you aware of any mechanism
23 prosecutors have to recapture those tax years once the statute has run?
24 Ms. Zdeb. He can't speak to this specific case. If there's kind of a general
25 principle --

1 [redacted] That could be a general question.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q If the statute of limitation has run for 2 tax years, let's say hypothetically

4 2014 and 2015, the tolling agreement has expired, is there any mechanism that

5 prosecutors can somehow prosecute that?

6 A You've got baked 2014 and 2015 in here, so you're asking me the same

7 question it strikes me as what I've been directed not to answer.

8 Q The question is, and you're a DOJ Tax official so you're a good person to ask:

9 Once the statute of limitations runs on a particular tax year, is there a mechanism to claw

10 that back and get it back into the zone where it can be prosecuted?

11 A And like I said, it strikes me you're asking me the same question about this

12 ongoing case, that it's in connection with.

13 Q I'm really not, though. I'm just trying to understand are there ways to 14 move on tax case where the statute of limitations has expired after its run?

15 Ms. Zdeb. If there are ways to generalize about that that aren't specific to this

16 case, he can speak to that, but I don't know whether that's the case or not.

17 Mr. Goldberg. I think it is hard to generalize here. I think you need to know

18 specifically the facts, circumstances of a particular case. And then I might be in better

19 position to answering this question.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q But do tax -- criminal tax lawyers have techniques that they can use to keep

22 alive allegations or, you know, tax-year charges that have expired?

23 A There's a case general -- if there is a case in which that identified before the 24 statute has lapsed, then often people can use a tolling agreement or attempt to search

25 for other affirmative acts that might provide a more lengthy period of time in which to

1 charge the case if you can find one that's further down the road than that. But short of 2 that, you would want to make a determination whether or not the case was viable prior
3 to the statute of limitations running. And if not, then you would focus on other charges
4 that might cover the same year or might cover other years that are better or properly
5 capture the offense.
6 Q In your experience, have you ever witnessed a case being revived after the 7 statute of limitations has expired?
8 A Well, once this statute has expired, then it's -- I'm thinking there are other 9 exclusions besides the 6 years, there may be time out of the country, there may be 10 foreign treaties that are used that can exclude the time and things like that, but that 11 would extend the statute. So those things exist and those are possible.
12 Q Did you have any communications with Mr. Weiss about Mr. Shapley and 13 Mr. Ziegler?
14 A About their --
15 Q Their involvement in the case.
16 A I don't think so, I don't recall that.
17 Q Are you aware that Mr. Weiss asked the IRS to remove them from the case?
18 A I don't know specifically what was said or not said.
19 Q So you're only aware from news reports?
20 A I'm aware that they were -- the case was transferred to another group, yes.
21 Q And did you have any input on that?
22 A That action I did not have conversations leading up to that action.
23 Q As we understand it, Mr. Weiss telephoned the leadership at IRS, specifically 24 Mr. Waldon. And Mr. Batdorf got involved, Mr. Batdorf is Mr. Waldon's supervisor at 25 the IRS. And a decision was made to take Mr. Shapley and Mr. Ziegler off the case. I

1 guess my question is, did DOJ Tax personnel have any involvement in that?

2 A Not that I'm aware of.

3 Q Okay. Have you had any communications with anyone at the IRS about this

4 case, any meetings with IRS officials?

5 A I did not have any meetings with anybody.

6 Q Other than the June 15th meeting we discussed?

7 A Yes, no, that's right. And I do recall that I -- that, Jim Lee asked me a

8 question about the case while the case was ongoing, yes.

9 Q Had you been in any meetings with Mr. Shapley or Mr. Ziegler other than the 10 June 15th meeting?

11 A I don't think so.

12 Q So that was the only time you met them?

13 A It's possible I met Mr. Shapley at an earlier stage before the Hunter Biden

14 case. I'm not sure.

15 Q How about same question but related to FBI? Did you have any meetings

16 with the FBI other than the June 15th meeting?

17 A No.

18 Q Do you know if any memos that your people prepared in DOJ Tax were 19 presented to Mr. Graves or Mr. Estrada?

20 A I don't -- I don't know the answer to that.

21 Q Okay. Is that something that would ordinarily happen?

22 A It wouldn't surprise me if some documentation was provided, but I don't

23 know.

24 Q So if a prosecution memo was prepared, that certainly could be shared with 25 the relevant U.S. Attorneys?

1 A That's kind of speculative. I'm not sure I understand -- you said if a
2 prosecution memo had been prepared.
3 Q Right. I mean you explained to us that after the special agent report comes 4 in DOJ Tax lawyers would analyze the situation. And you said a prosecution memo could 5 be prepared.
6 A Yes, right.
7 Q So if a prosecution memo is prepared, would that ordinarily be shared with 8 the U.S. Attorney's Office?
9 A Yes, it could be. Sure.
10 Q Who is the consumer I guess for that memo?
11 A In a regular tax case, it's the -- it's both internal to the Tax Division, but it's 12 also for the benefit of the U.S. Attorney's Office where they are going to prosecute the 13 case.
14 Q Okay. And do you know if any memos like that were shared with 15 Mr. Graves or Mr. Estrada?
16 A I don't. It's possible. I have a vague recollection that some 17 documentation was shared, but I'm not sure what it was.
18 Q Some documentation that had been prepared by the Tax Division?
19 A Right, or -- yes.
20 BY [redacted]:
21 Q Mr. Morris (ph) testified that they had asked their leadership for support on 22 charging the 2014, 2015 tax years and that Director of Field Operations Batdorf was going
23 to call you about the IRS's view on the charges. Did you speak with Mr. Batdorf by 24 phone?
25 A No.

Q Ever?

A I don't recall ever talking to him by phone.

Q What about Mr. Waldon?

A I don't believe I've talked to him either.

Q Okay.

[redacted]. We're good.

[redacted] Give us 2 seconds.

[redacted]. Yes.

[Recess.]

[redacted] We're good.

[Whereupon, at 2:59 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

1 [redacted] We'll go on the record.

2 Good morning. This is a transcribed interview of Dr. Yoel Roth.

3 Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's

4 investigation of how and to what extent Federal Government coerced or included with

5 social media companies to sensor speech.

6 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

7 Mr. Roth. Yoel Roth.

8 [redacted] Thank you.

9 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with

10 counsel if they so choose, and it is my understanding that you are appearing today with

11 counsel.

12 Is that correct?

13 Mr. Roth. That's right.

14 [redacted] Could personal counsel please state your name for the record?

15 Mr. [redacted] This is [redacted], [redacted], with the law firm of Nixon Peabody, and 16 with me is [redacted].

17 [redacted] Thank you.

18 On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here today to 19 answer our questions.

20 The chairman also appreciates your willingness to appear voluntarily.

21 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff.

22 I'll now have everyone else from the committee who is here in the room introduce

23 themselves, as well.

24 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

25 Chairman Jordan. Jim Jordan.

7 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

8 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

9 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

10 [redacted] Great.

11 I would like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we'll follow

12 during today's interview.

13 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions for the 14 first hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal

15 period of time if they so choose. We'll alternate back and forth until there are no more

16 questions and the interview is over.

17 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you need a break

18 apart from that, please just let us know.

19 As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down everything we say to 20 make a written record. So we ask that you give verbal responses to all of our questions.

21 Do you understand that?

22 Mr. Roth. Yes.

23 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we'll do our best

24 to limit the number of people directing questions to you during any given hour to those

25 people on the staff whose turn it is.

1 Please try and speak clearly so that the court reporter can understand and the
2 folks down at the end of the table can hear you.
3 It's important that we don't talk over one another, and that goes for everybody
4 present at today's interview.
5 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner
6 as possible. So we will take our time.
7 If you have any questions or you do not understand one of our questions, please
8 just let us know.
9 Our questions will cover a wide range of topics. So, if you need clarification, just 10 say so.
11 If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best
12 not to guess. Please give us your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned
13 information from someone else. Just indicate how you came to know the information.
14 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so. And please
15 inform us who to the best of your knowledge might be able to provide a more complete
16 answer to our questions.
17 You should also understand that by law you are required to answer questions
18 from Congress truthfully.
19 Do you understand this?
20 Mr. Roth. I do.
21 [redacted] And this also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an
22 interview.
23 Do you understand that?
24 Mr. Roth. Yes.
25 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject

1 to criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18, U.S.C., section 1001.

2 Do you understand this?

3 Mr. Roth. Yes.

4 [redacted] Is there any reason you're unable to provide answers to today's

5 questions?

6 Mr. Roth. No.

7 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss

8 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this

9 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.

10 For that same reason, the marked exhibits will stay with the court reporter to go

11 in the official transcript, and we'll collect any copies of those exhibits as the interview

12 wraps up.

13 That's the end of my welcoming remarks.

14 Just checking to see if any of my minority colleagues have anything to add.

15 [redacted] Nothing. We just thank you for coming in.

16 [redacted] And, Mr. Roth, I understand that you have a document you'd like to 17 make part of the record.

18 [redacted] So we have just the statement that he gave during the February

19 Oversight hearing this year.

20 We've just remarked it for today's date on it. We have a couple of copies if you'd 21 like, but we'd submit that for the record.

22 [redacted] We'll mark that as exhibit No. 1 for today's interview.

23 [Roth Exhibit No. 1

24 Was marked for identification.]

25 [redacted] Okay. The clock now reads 10:05 a.m. We'll start with the first

1 hour of questioning.

2 EXAMINATION

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Dr. Roth, could you state your full name for the record, please?

5 A Yoel Roth.

6 Q What is your current place of employment?

7 A I am an independent tech consultant, and I'm also employed by the

8 University of Pennsylvania in the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and have

9 an unpaid affiliation with University of California, Berkeley.

10 Q What is your affiliation with Berkeley?

11 A I'm a tech policy fellow.

12 Q And, as a tech policy fellow, what do you do?

13 A I conduct research into technology policy and related issues.

14 Q And how long have you had the fellowship, or how long have you been a 15 fellow?

16 A Approximately 6 months.

17 Q And what was your affiliation with the University of Pennsylvania?

18 A I'm the -- I'm a Knight Visiting Scholar in the Center for Media at Risk at the 19 University of Pennsylvania.

20 Q And what do you do as part of that role?

21 A Conduct research into online trust and safety and technology policy issues

22 and in the spring semester will be teaching a course about those issues.

23 Q And how long have you been a nonresident solar?

24 A At the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, I've been a nonresident

25 solar for approximately 6 months.

1 Q Beginning with college, what is your educational background?

2 A I attended Swarthmore College for my undergraduate. I have a degree in

3 political science and film and media studies. After college, I attended the University of 4 Pennsylvania where I received a Ph.D. in communication.

5 Q What year did you receive your Ph.D.?

6 A I completed my Ph.D. in 2015 and graduated in 2016.

7 Q Did you work in between college and your graduate studies?

8 A I worked throughout college. I worked at Apple as a Genius, which is a fun

9 job title, and then proceeded directly from undergraduate to my Ph.D.

10 Q Following your Ph.D., what is your professional background?

11 A During my Ph.D., I was affiliated with the Berkman Klein Center at Harvard

12 University as a researcher with the Dangerous Speech Project. That was concurrent

13 with the work I was doing during my Ph.D. Also, in 2014, I was an intern in the Trust and 14 Safety Department at Twitter. That was while I was working on my Ph.D.

15 And then, after I finished my Ph.D research, I joined Twitter full time and was at 16 the company for just shy of 8 years.

17 Q What was the Dangerous Speech Project at Harvard?

18 A It's a research project led by Professor [redacted] who has studied the 19 effects of potentially dangerous speech around the world, including the possibility for 20 online speech to incite violence and genocide.

21 Q And when did you join Twitter full time?

22 A I joined full time in July of 2015.

23 Q And what was your first position at Twitter?

24 A I was -- the official job title was Product Trust Partner.

25 Q And what were your responsibilities in that role?

1 A In that role, I was responsible for working with software developers in
2 Twitter's Product and Engineering teams on new features that they were developing to
3 help them think about potential vectors for abuse, harassment, spam, and other safety
4 issues so that Twitter could design products that were more resilient to potential abuse.
5 Q How long were you in this role for?
6 A I was promoted a number of times and ultimately came to lead that team,
7 and so there was a bit was a continuum of different roles from 2015 through 2017. But
8 the first major shift in my role at Twitter was in late 2017.
9 Q And what was your next position after this major shift?
10 A My next role at Twitter was at head of Site Integrity.
11 Q And what were your responsibilities as head of Site Integrity?
12 A The position of head of Site Integrity was created following Russian 13 interference in the 2016 U.S. elections.
14 My role was initially to uncover what had happened and the ways in which 15 Twitter's product had been misused and manipulated by a foreign government and then,
16 from there, to prevent that type of activity from recurring in the future.
17 Q Were you the first person at the company to have this role?
18 A I was.
19 Q And just to clarify, you said late 2017 is when you --
20 A That's right. I started taking on responsibility for that work in late 2017. I
21 think the paperwork for my official promotion happened in 2018.
22 Q With this new role of head of Site Integrity, when it was first created and you 23 first took the job, who did you report to?
24 A I reported to Del Harvey, who is the vice president of Trust and Safety.
25 Q And how big was your team when you first took the role?

1 A Initially I was a team of one.

2 Q Did that -- did the size of the team change over time?

3 A Substantially. By 2022, the Site Integrity team was approximately 60

4 people worldwide.

5 Q At a high level, how -- what was the pace of growth? When did the team

6 start to expand?

7 A I don't recall precisely. But, if I had to estimate, it was probably 10 or 15

8 additional staff within the first 1 to 2 years and then accelerating growth from that point

9 onwards.

10 Q Were you responsible for the hiring for your team?

11 A I was.

12 Q Once the team starts to expand, did you have a series of senior managers or 13 a primary deputy who would assist you?

14 A I did. I had a leadership team by 2021 of between 5 and 10 people, 15 depending on how you count it.

16 Q And, based off responsibilities, how was that leadership team divided?

17 A Yeah. There were leaders for both functions itself and different

18 geographies. So there were regional heads of Integrity for the Americas, for Europe and

19 the Middle East and North Africa, and for Asia Pacific. And so there were senior leaders

20 in each of those roles.

21 And then I had leaders in place for key functions within the team, including Threat

22 Disruption which was a role responsible for identifying and disrupting malign activity on

23 Twitter, as well as the policy organization responsible for setting the rules in the space.

24 Q So, for that second function, when you say "setting the rules in the space,"

25 what do you mean by that?

1 A Yeah. Twitter's disruption of threats to the service had to be based in a set
2 of policies and rules that governed what the service was allowed to do and that disclosed
3 clearly to Twitter's users what our expectations for their behavior were.
4 And so some of my employees were focused on drafting and refining the policies
5 that we would publicly share as the ground rules for what you are and aren't allowed to 6 do on Twitter.
7 Q For the process of drafting and refining the policies, who had final say on the 8 approval of a new or revised policy?
9 A Ultimately, I was responsible for the Site Integrity team's policies. But I
10 would note that this is happening in the context of a large corporation. I had a 11 manager. My manager had a manager. My manager's manager reported to the CEO,
12 Jack Dorsey.
13 And so, at some level, ultimately, the CEO is accountable for the company's 14 policies. But I would say, as a day-to-day manager, I take responsibility for the 15 company's rules and policies and was overseen in that work.
16 Q We'll use 2020 as a timeframe. What was the hierarchy between the CEO
17 down to your role, as you can recall?
18 A Yeah. In 2020, I reported to Del Harvey, who was the vice president of 19 Trust and Safety. Ms. Harvey reported to Vijaya Gadde, who is the company's chief legal 20 officer, and Ms. Gadde reported directly to the CEO, Jack Dorsey.
21 Q When you became head of Site Integrity until the end of your tenure at the 22 company, did your title change or did your responsibilities change significantly?
23 A Both changed. Over time, the scope of responsibilities of the Site Integrity
24 team expanded to include misinformation, as well as foreign interference. So there was 25 a broader set of responsibilities.

1 But then also, in late 2021, I took on a broader set of responsibilities in the Trust
2 and Safety department generally.
3 In late 2021, Ms. Harvey departed the company. And I took on her former role
4 as head of Trust and Safety. And so, in late 2021, I began reporting directly to Vijaya
5 Gadde and had a broader set of responsibilities for Twitter's Trust and Safety work.
6 Q What were some of your new responsibilities?
7 A Notably I had taken on managerial responsibility for Twitter's Safety
8 organization. This was the organization that set rules around things like abuse, 9 harassment, violent extremism, child safety, and so on.
10 Q You mentioned misinformation. Are you familiar with the terms
11 "disinformation" and "malinformation," as well?
12 A I am familiar with those terms, yes.
13 Q And to your understanding, what is the difference among those three terms?
14 A I'll say upfront I don't really like any of those terms. I think there's a lot of 15 rhetorical imprecision associated with them. The term "malinformation" in particular I 16 find a business incomprehensible.
17 But, at a broad level, I understand "misinformation" to mean information that is 18 untrue, not necessarily information that is shared maliciously, not necessarily somebody
19 that is willfully wrong, just information that is untrue.
20 In contrast, I use "disinformation" to mean the malicious sharing of information,
21 either true or false, with manipulative intent. And I find those to be the two categories
22 that are the most relevant to the work that my team and I did at Twitter.
23 Q When others use the term "malinformation," what is the most common
24 understanding of the term?
25 A I truthfully couldn't say. I really find it to be a confusing term. As best I

1 understand it, it sort of refers to elements of what I defined as "disinformation," the sort
2 of intentionally malicious sharing of potentially true information. But I find that whole
3 category very confusing.
4 Q As part of your role at Twitter, you would interact with Federal agencies. Is
5 that right?
6 A That's right.
7 Q In those interactions, do you recall personnel from the Federal agencies
8 using the term "malinformation"?
9 A I'm sure it came up, but I don't recall a specific instance where that term was 10 used.
11 Q What about generally? Was the term "malinformation" used more
12 frequently by personnel from the government, as opposed to maybe personnel from 13 industry partners?
14 A To the best of my recollection, it was not a term that industry widely used.
15 We talked about misinformation. We talked about disinformation. We talked about 16 coordinated manipulation or inauthentic behavior. Malinformation wasn't really a term
17 that was broadly used by industry.
18 It -- I'm sure it was mentioned by government agencies and by some of the 19 researchers that we spoke with, as well. But I really I don't recall a specific instance 20 where that term played a major role in any of the conversations that we had.
21 Q With respect to you mentioned coordinated inauthentic behavior and that,
22 when you first took the role, it was concerned with foreign influence.
23 Can you say a little bit -- we'll start with late 2017.
24 A Yeah.
25 Q How did Twitter handle its policies with respect to potential foreign

1 influence or interference, as well as misinformation? Were those separate policies?
2 A In 2017, Twitter did not have any policies related to misinformation. The 3 first policy of misinformation was introduced in 2020. And so, in 2017, our primary
4 focus was on manipulative behavior. And, at the time, our work stemmed primarily 5 from our investigations into spam and platform manipulation.
6 When we were first investigating Russian activity on Twitter, we identified fake
7 accounts that Russian operatives had set up on the service and addressed those, as a
8 policy matter, as a subset of our broader rules around spam and inauthentic behavior,
9 which had been in place for many years.
10 Over the following years, we clarified a number of our policies to differentiate 11 between commercially motivated spam like advertisements for counterfeit products and 12 politically motivated spam, which could be coming from something like a 13 government-backed troll farm in another country.
14 Q When in 2020 was Twitter's first misinformation policy adopted?
15 A Twitter started researching a policy approach to misinformation in late 2019,
16 initially focused on synthetic and manipulated media.
17 And, following a research study that we fielded in late 2019, our first policy
18 related to misinformation, the synthetic and manipulated media policy, was launched in 19 the first quarter of 2020. I want to say January, but I'm not a hundred percent certain.
20 Q And, in January of 2020, both this new misinformation policy, as well as the 21 other existing policies, as it related to spam or inauthentic behavior, all fell under your 22 team's purview. Is that right?
23 A That's right.
24 Q And then, internally within your team, there was one part of it that was 25 responsible for managing the inauthentic behavior aspect, another part of the team

1 responsible for handling the misinformation?

2 A In what was a pretty typical pattern for my team, when we would take on a

3 new area of responsibility, typically it was just me responsible for it.

4 And so, by 2020, I had built out a part of the team that was focused on

5 coordinated behavior and platform manipulation. But, for our earliest work on

6 misinformation, it fell with me specifically. And so I was the person drafting some of the 7 initial policies and helping to develop some of the initial product behaviors.

8 Q During your time at Twitter, was there misinformation policy specific to 9 election-related content?

10 A Yes, there was.

11 Q And when was that policy developed?

12 A Twitter's first policy focused on election integrity was introduced in, to the 13 best of my recollection, in 2018, but it could have been in early 2019.

14 And initially it was specifically focused on voter suppression and specific forms of 15 conduct on the service that could have resulted in voters not participating in elections

16 that they were eligible to participate in.

17 Q Did that policy change post-2020, once you had a misinformation-specific

18 policy developed?

19 A It did. Twitter updated its Civic Integrity Policy in 2020 to cover a broader 20 range of potentially misleading behaviors.

21 Q Can you provide an example of what a misleading behalf would be in either

22 the election integrity or, more broadly, Civic Integrity space?

23 A Sure. One of the most straightforward examples would be saying that if an

24 election -- if election day's November 6th, saying that election day's actually on

25 November 5th would be a form of misleading conduct that fell under Twitter's Civic

1 Integrity Policy.

2 Q Using the terms earlier, "misinformation" and "disinformation," it sounds

3 like the latter was referring to when there's intent. So, for the example you gave, how

4 would that apply if the person was not intentionally trying to spread false information?

5 A Yeah. Oftentimes it can be hard to understand what somebody's intent is

6 when all you have to go on is a tweet. And so, in situations like that, we would try not

7 to rely on discerning the poster's intent but instead would focus on what we could

8 identify in the message and what the most effective strategy for addressing it would be.

9 And so, in a situation like that, where somebody shares incorrect information

10 about how to participate in an election, Twitter would have enforced its policy against it

11 without needing to know whether it was shared maliciously or simply accidentally.

12 Q Can you help me understand a little bit better then the dividing line as far as,

13 pre-2020, if it's focused more on behavior or the actors but you're not looking at intent,

14 was the policy pre-2020 to a certain degree both looking at content as well as the 15 behaviors to inform decisions?

16 A I'd say, pre-2020, Twitter was hardly, if at all, looking at the content of posts

17 in the context of addressing coordinating manipulation and manipulative behavior.

18 In the behavioral space, I think it is possible to discern intent by looking at some of 19 the technical signals of user behavior.

20 For example, when we were investigating Russian activity on Twitter, we would

21 see that the same phone or the same laptop would be logged into Twitter accounts

22 pretending to be Democrats and Twitter accounts pretending to be Republicans. And 23 these accounts would get in arguments with each other.

24 And so, in that situation, I actually don't need to read the content of any of the 25 posts. I can look at that technical behavior that the same device is pretending to be a

1 Democrat and a Republican and is manufacturing this kind of debate to say that that's
2 manipulative conduct that would violate Twitter's policies.
3 Q At any point during your tenure at Twitter, did the policies as it related to 4 election-related content change where it was no longer necessary to have these technical
5 signals that there's coordinated inauthentic behavior, it is an authentic individual posting
6 false information that would still be violative of a policy at Twitter?
7 A Yes. There was a point at which Twitter addressed misinformation as a
8 content issue separate from disinformation as a behavioral issue.
9 Q And when did that change occur?
10 A So I'd say the first broad introduction of misinformation policies happened in 11 2020.
12 But, just in the interest of being comprehensive, I would say Twitter's Civic 13 Integrity Policy, which addressed some types of misleading content like saying the wrong
14 date of an election, were in place earlier than that in 2018.
15 And so you could say that there had been a version of a misinformation policy as 16 early as 2018, but, within Twitter, we regarded the broad introduction of our work here
17 as beginning in 2020.
18 Q Sticking with election-related content, do you recall during your time at 19 Twitter if there was a Content Moderation Policy with respect to mail-in balloting in 20 particular?
21 A There was not a specific policy focused on mail-in balloting, but misleading
22 claims about the safety and security and potential for fraud associated with voting by mail
23 fell under Twitter's Civic Integrity Policy.
24 Q And, when it comes to content as it relates to the integrity or the security of 25 mail-in balloting, were there any policy changes that occurred in 2020 related to that?

1 A Twitter's Civic Integrity Policy was written quite broadly in early 2020, and it
2 was the company's interpretation of the policy that claims like that would fall under the 3 policy as it was written in the first part of 2020.
4 Later on in the year, the company clarified the policy and issued a more detailed
5 public version of it because we felt that it was appropriate to provide more information
6 about the specific types of narratives that we considered under the Civic Integrity Policy.
7 But, as an internal matter, we considered it to all fall within the penumbra of the 8 policy as it was written.
9 Q For this clarification that occurred later in 2020, who at the company
10 internally signed off on that decision to publicly announce that change -- or clarification,
11 to use your word? Sorry.
12 A I mean, ultimately, I directed the development of an updated policy, and the 13 updated policy language was approved by my supervisor, Del Harvey, and by Vijaya
14 Gadde, the chief legal officer. I also assume but don't know for sure that Jack Dorsey
15 was at least made aware of the changes.
16 Q Okay. Did Twitter during your time there have a policy as it related to 17 hacked materials?
18 A It did. Twitter had a Distribution of Hacked Materials Policy.
19 Q And when was that policy first developed?
20 A To the best of my recollection, it was developed and introduced in 2018.
21 Q And did it change during your time at Twitter?
22 A It did. The policy was substantially changed in 2020.
23 Q And how did it change in 2020?
24 A Following Twitter's decision to restrict the New York Post's coverage of 25 Hunter Biden's laptop, the company made a decision to change the scope of Hacked

1 Materials Policy to much more narrowly focus on situations in which there was a clearly
2 confirmed hack that had taken place and to change the remedy under the policy from 3 being the removal of content to the application of labels that would provide additional
4 information.
5 Q And when did this change occur?
6 A The updated policy was developed in October and November of 2020. I
7 don't remember exactly when it was introduced within that window. To the best of my
8 recollection, it would have been in October 2020, but there were public announcements
9 from the company that would have the exact date.
10 Q Okay. And who at the company signed off on this change?
11 A The policy was developed by me and by members of my team and ultimately 12 was signed off on by Del Harvey and by Vijaya Gadde.
13 Q From 2018, when the policy's first introduced, until before October of 2020,
14 were there any changes that you can recall to the policy or how it was enforced?
15 A No, none that I can recall.
16 Q What spurred the development of the policy in 2018?
17 A In January of 2017, the U.S. intelligence community released -- unclassified a
18 report and then released about Russian active measures in the 2016 election.
19 One portion of that report discussed a campaign to hack into the emails of John
20 Podesta and others at the DNC and then to share those emails first through social media
21 and then through WikiLeaks as a potential strategy for trying to impact the election.
22 Following the release of that report, Twitter examined its role in the distribution
23 of John Podesta's emails and other hacked materials. And the company reached the 24 conclusion that we needed to have a policy restricting that type of behavior.
25 Q Okay. Under the policy, as it -- under the Hacked Materials Policy as it

1 stood from 2018 to prior to October of 2020, if the DNC hack from 2016 had occurred,
2 what steps would Twitter have taken than policy?
3 A Twitter would have removed tweets that were sharing the hacked materials,
4 would have banned accounts directly associated with the hackers themselves, which was 5 a tactic in 2016, and, while we didn't discuss it explicitly, likely would have restricted the 6 sharing of links related to the hacked materials.
7 Q Was there any part of the policy that took into account whether the source
8 being hacked was a public filling?
9 A No, that was not a consideration under the policy.
10 Q Was there any part of the policy that covered whether the hacking itself was 11 considered newsworthy?
12 A That was one of the clarifications that was made in 2020, not whether the 13 hack itself was newsworthy but the sources covering the content.
14 In the initial drafting of the policy, Twitter had been focused primarily on the 15 activity that we saw in 2016, which were Russian hackers sharing it themselves. The 16 hackers created Twitter accounts in their own personas and were directly laundering the 17 content on social media using aliases like Guccifer 2.0 and DCLeaks.
18 And so we were focused on restricting that kind of direct distribution. Twitter 19 didn't consider the possibility that the hack would take place or -- excuse me -- the 20 disclosure of the hack would take place through a mainstream media outlet.
21 Q So the policy was just silent on that latter point?
22 A I would say it was a point of ambiguity, yes.
23 Q Okay. Besides the DNC hack, were there other hacking incidents that were 24 considered as the hacked policy was developed?
25 A That was the primary incident that Twitter considered in the development of

1 the policy.

2 Q Are you familiar with the Panama Papers that came out in 2016?

3 A Yes, I am.

4 Q With respect to the Panama Papers, how would Twitter have treated those

5 under the hacked policies that stood from 2018 to pre-October 2020?

6 A As a broad matter, things like the Panama Papers or even Edward Snowden's

7 disclosure of documents obtained from the NSA and then leaked to journalists would not

8 have fallen within the scope of the policy as defined in 2018 because there was not clear

9 evidence that a technical hack had taken place.

10 And so I should say there weren't other hacking incidents that we considered, but

11 we did discuss things like the Snowden revelations and the Panama Papers as potential

12 counterpoints to what fell within the scope of the policy.

13 Q Who at the company, when developing the hacked policy, were you

14 discussing with?

15 A In the initial development of the policy, I recall the folks in the room being

16 myself, Del Harvey, Vijaya Gadde, [redacted], who at the time was the company's head

17 of Global Affairs, and [redacted] who is a senior member of Twitter's legal team. There

18 may have been others, but I don't recall specifically who.

19 Q Are you familiar with the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And did you have standing meetings with them during your time at Twitter?

22 A Yes, I did.

23 Q In 2020, how frequently did those meetings occur?

24 A There was a meeting scheduled quarterly between Twitter and

25 representatives of the Foreign Influence Task Force and then, as needed, we would

1 schedule additional calls or meetings on an ad hoc basis.

2 Q Did you also participate in standing meetings between industry partners and

3 the U.S. Government?

4 A I did or members of my team on my behalf.

5 Q Okay. How frequently would you attend in 2020?

6 A The cadence of the meetings changed throughout 2020. So, as we got

7 closer to election day in November, the meetings moved from being quarterly to monthly

8 to biweekly to in some cases I recall weekly.

9 And so, in those instances, I would say I probably attended 75 percent of the calls.

10 But there would always have been at least one representative of my organization in those

11 meetings.

12 Q If you were unable to attend a meeting, who from your team was most likely

13 to attend?

14 A It would have evolved a bit over time, but typically it would have been the 15 head of Threat Disruption in my organization.

16 Q And who was that in 2020?

17 A This was a relatively junior employee. So I would note that, while they had

18 responsibility for a technical function here, ultimately I was overseeing their work and I

19 was the primary public representative of this work.

20 Q Okay. We can come back to that, if needed.

21 In 2020, there are the bilateral Foreign Influence Task Force meetings between

22 Twitter and the FBI. Then there's the U.S. Government/Industry meetings.

23 Were there any other standing meetings that you or your team had with U.S.

24 Federal agencies in 2020?

25 A Not to the best of my recollection. There may have been other standing

1 meetings by other Twitter employees but not within my organization.

2 Q As you're well aware, you had a declaration that touched upon the

3 discussion of hack-and-leak and the concerns regarding a potential hack-and-leak in 2020.

4 Were those concerns raised both in the FITF meetings and the U.S. Government/industry

5 meetings?

6 A Could you clarify what you mean by "concerns"? I think I understand the 7 context but want to make sure I respond to the right thing.

8 Q Sure. In either set of standing meetings, do you recall someone -- any 9 party -- raising the concern of a potential hack-and-leak operation occurring in 2020?

10 A Yes. That was broadly discussed in all of those meetings.

11 Q Okay. For the FITF bilateral meetings, who would raise the concern? Was 12 it Twitter, the FBI, or both parties?

13 A To the best of my recollection, both parties would have discussed it. I

14 would say Twitter for its part provided regular voluntary briefings to the FBI and to other

15 parts of the U.S. Government about our assessment of the threat landscape facing

16 American elections, of which the possibility of a 2016 style hack-and-leak was certainly a

17 threat we were considering.

18 And so I'm certain that Twitter raised it in those meetings. I would say it's in my

19 recollection likely that the FBI at least mentioned the possibility of a hack-and-leak as a 20 concern, but I don't recall a specific instance of them doing so.

21 Q Okay.

22 A I would just note that obviously I would love to be as detailed as I can be, but

23 I don't have possession of any of my documents, meeting minutes, any of that. That's 24 all in Twitter's custody.

25 Q At the conclusion of either a FITF bilateral meeting or one of the 1 USG/industry meetings, was it practice of your team to record meeting minutes?

2 A Informally. So I would not say that they were particularly detailed or 3 comprehensive minutes but members of my team certainly had a practice of taking at 4 least some notes from the meetings, and I did so as well if there were topics that were 5 particularly interesting.
6 Q Okay. And how would nose notes be shared?
7 A Typically, they would have been recorded in Google Docs, which was 8 Twitter's primary document system. They could have also been shared in Slack
9 messages amongst members of the team.
10 Q For the bilateral FITF meetings, how many personnel from Twitter would 11 most frequently attend?
12 A I'd say approximately five, but it could go up or down.
13 Q And what about for the U.S. Government/industry meetings?
14 A Typically, two or three.
15 Q And do you recall concerns of a potential hack-and-leak operation occurring
16 in 2020 being raised in the U.S. Government/Industry meetings?
17 A Yes, I recall that being discussed.
18 Q Do you recall how many times?
19 A I would guess more than once, but I couldn't say for sure.
20 Q And do you recall the -- whether industry partners or the government or 21 both discussed the potential of a hack-and-leak operation?
22 A I would confidently say both.
23 Q In either set of standing meetings, do you recall if there were certain 24 countries, certain state sponsors that were likely to be behind a hack-and-leak operation?
25 A I would say that the discussions with the FITF, especially, but then more

1 broadly focused around the big three -- Russian, Iran, and China -- and then, to a lesser 2 extent, there were some discussions of other nation-states of having a track record of 3 foreign interference. Venezuela, Cuba, in particular, emerged as themes.
4 But, in the context of a hack-and-leak targeting American elections, the focus was 5 on Russian, China, and Iran.
6 Q As it related to the focus on a potential hack-and-leak, whether from Russia,
7 China, or Iran, do you recall in either standing meetings whether Hunter Biden was 8 raised?
9 A I recall one meeting in which the topic broadly of Hunter Biden and Burisma
10 came up in this context.
11 I think this is maybe a good moment to clarify -- and I discussed this on the record
12 in my hearing in front of the Oversight Committee, but I'll reiterate here -- that there is a 13 broad misinterpretation of my declaration before the FEC.
14 The interpretation of an admittedly ambiguous sentence is I said the FBI raised the 15 possible of a hack-and-leak and that it was related to Hunter Biden. Those should have 16 been two separate sentences.
17 The FBI discussed the possibility, the risk, the potentiality of a hack-and-leak.
18 They have their preferred term for characterizing it. I don't know what it is.
19 But then my recollection is that another participant in that meeting from industry
20 raised the possibility of that that hack-and-leak could relate to Hunter Biden and Burisma.
21 I don't recall which company raised it specifically, but I do recall that in the context of the 22 FBI discussing a hack-and-leak, somebody from industry suggested that it could relate to
23 Hunter Biden.
24 Q Do you recall if there was any response from anyone in the government to 25 the person from industry raising that?

1 A Not to the best of my recollection, no.

2 Q Okay. As you mentioned, your declaration was in the context of 3 submission before the FEC.

4 Are you familiar with the FEC's decision that came out I think it was in August of 5 2021?

6 A I am.

7 Q And are you familiar with how they characterized your declaration?

8 A It's been a while since I read that decision. So let's say, no, I'm not.

9 Q Okay. We can get into it later, if necessary.

10 Did you, prior to your testimony in early 2023, publicly make any sort of, you

11 know, verbal written record attempting to clarify your declaration?

12 A The only instance that I can recall of even broadly discussing the issue of the 13 hack-and-leak incident and the New York Post laptop was an interview with [redacted]

14 that was conducted shortly prior to my appearance before the Oversight Committee.

15 But, to the best of my recollection, I don't recall any discussions specifically of the 16 FEC declaration, no.

17 Q Okay. So and the declaration itself is from December of 2020 or 18 thereabouts.

19 A I'll take your word for it.

20 Q Who were your most frequent contacts at the FBI during 2020?

21 A In 2020, overwhelmingly the person I spoke with most was Special Agent

22 Elvis Chan.

23 Q Did you have interactions with Laura Dehmlow?

24 A I did. Ms. Dehmlow was a frequent participant in meetings with the FITF.

25 Q Did you have interactions with [redacted]?

1 A I did.

2 Q And who is [redacted]?

3 A I don't recall his exact role, but I know [redacted] was involved with the FITF.

4 He may have been a section chief for one part of the FITF. It may have been Russia or

5 China. I'm not certain which.

6 Q Did have you interactions with [redacted]?

7 A That name sounds familiar, but I couldn't place it exactly.

8 Q Did you have any interactions with Bradley Benavides?

9 A Again, the name sounds familiar, but I couldn't say exactly.

10 Q After you left Twitter, have you had any interactions with Elvis Chan?

11 A I've spoken with Mr. Chan, to the best of my recollection, once since leaving

12 Twitter.

13 Q And what was the context of that interaction?

14 A Mr. Chan reached out to me after news had been made publicly available

15 that I had to leave my home and sell it following a series of threats that I received, and 16 Mr. Chan reached out in a personal capacity to check in on how I was doing.

17 Q Turning to the October 14th, 2020, New York Post story, do you recall how 18 you first became aware of the story?

19 A I was alerted to the story by a member of my team I believe via Slack

20 message. This was a member of my team based in Dublin. So I woke up in San 21 Francisco to an alert from my team about the story.

22 Q Okay. Do you recall how early in the morning it was?

23 A I'm a pretty early riser. So let's say between 7 and 8 a.m. Pacific.

24 Q Prior to the morning of the 14th, did you have any knowledge of whether

25 the FBI had any ongoing investigations related to Hunter Biden?

1 A I don't believe so, no.

2 Q Did you have any knowledge of whether the FBI was in possession of Hunter

3 Biden's laptop?

4 A No.

5 Q Once you found out about the story, again, to your recollection, walk me

6 through what you did next.

7 A Yeah. My first step was to ask a member of my team to develop what we

8 called a policy assessment of the situation, a brief document that compiled the available

9 evidence about what had happened and to make a recommendation under Twitter's rules

10 for what the company should do.

11 I recall the situation at that point being pretty ambiguous. There was one article

12 or perhaps a series of articles from the New York Post discussing the incident, but there

13 wasn't a lot of available factual evidence at the time.

14 And so my recollection is that the member of my team working on the policy

15 assessment struggled to identify what the right course of action here would be.

16 From that point, I discussed the issue with Del Harvey, who was my supervisor,

17 and I represented to her that I didn't believe that the activity in question warranted

18 enforcement under Twitter's distribution of Hacked Materials Policy.

19 But, based on the available evidence that seemed to indicate a laptop of unknown

20 provenance, a laptop that potentially had been broken into and the contents of which

21 were being divulged, I made the recommendation to my supervisor that Twitter should 22 take steps to not recommend or amplify the circulation of this content.

23 That is, I didn't recommend that Twitter delete the story or block its distribution

24 entirely, just that Twitter take steps to not actively recommend it to users, which was a

25 content moderation action we would take in ambiguous cases.

1 It's my understanding that Ms. Harvey discussed that with Ms. Gadde, and the
2 decision was communicated to me at some point in first half of the day -- but I couldn't
3 exactly say when -- that Ms. Gadde had decided that the content was a violation of 4 Twitter's policy and that we should enforce against it under the Distribution of Hacked
5 Materials Policy.
6 Q Okay. When you're first offering your recommendation about to not
7 amplify the story, how are you delivering that recommendation to Ms. Harvey?
8 A It would have either been in a meeting by video conference or by chat. I
9 don't recall which.
10 Q The memo that your team member was working on initially, was that memo
11 completed, and was it a written work product that could be shared?
12 A I don't recall. I think in part because of the ambiguity of the situation, at a
13 certain point, I just took it out of that employee's hands and was talking about it with 14 executive leadership. And so I don't recall whether there was ever a finished work 15 product or not.
16 Q Do you recall approximately how long you spoke to Ms. Harvey the first time 17 with respect to what your recommendation was?
18 A I don't recall no.
19 Q Do you recall how long it was from when you had that conversation with 20 Ms. Harvey to when you heard back from her following her discussion with Ms. Gadde?
21 A I would really be guessing. It wasn't long. I think all of this happened
22 within a matter of a couple of hours, at most, but I don't recall. It's been a very long
23 time.
24 Q Okay. Do you know whether Ms. Harvey and Ms. Gadde spoke to anyone 25 else in the company senior leadership about the decision?

1 A I would be speculating. I don't know. I had heard, I believe, that
2 Ms. Gadde may have discussed it at a meeting of Twitter's staff, which is the C-suite, but I
3 don't know what was discussed, who was in attendance, in what detail it was discussed,
4 or even if that happened at all. That's sort of pure speculation.
5 Q With respect to the hacked policy, independent of this story but just in 6 general, prior to October 14th, 2020, if there's a situation where Twitter determines it's 7 violative of the Hacked Materials Policy, is the prohibiting the sharing of the story via 8 direct message an automatic enforcement step?
9 A In situations where the hacked materials are being distributed via a link to an 10 outside website, yes, it was Twitter's standard enforcement practice to mark the link as 11 bad, which would have a number of actions taken automatically, including restricting its 12 sharing by direct message.
13 Q Okay. And, in addition to the restrictions regarding sharing it by direct 14 message, what were some of the other automatic actions?
15 A Tweets that had already shared that link would be visibility filtered. That is,
16 their appearance in places like Search would be restricted or eliminated.
17 Q Anything else?
18 A The other big restriction would be the creation of new tweets that also 19 shared that link. So, if you -- after the link had been marked as bad, if you tried to 20 compose a tweet that shared that same link, Twitter would return a sort of inscrutable
21 error message saying that a problem had taken place.
22 Q Were there any action items that were available to the team with respect to 23 enforcing the Hacked Materials Policy that were not taken with respect to the New York
24 Post story?
25 A Do you mean were there types of content moderation Twitter could have

1 employed but didn't with regards to that story, or do you mean moderation actions that
2 were a part of the standard operating procedure of the policy as it stood that Twitter did
3 not employ?
4 Q I meant the latter, but I'll ask both questions. Thank you.
5 A I should have known.
6 In the case of the latter, no, Twitter followed the standard operating procedure of 7 the policy.
8 [redacted] Can I ask for one sec, which one's the latter, and which one's the 9 former? I'm sorry. I'm confused.
10 [redacted]. Do you want to cover it one at a time?
11 Mr. Roth. Yes.
12 [redacted]. Just for the clarity of the record.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Yeah, with the latter question, and make sure I'm actually repeating,
15 understanding what you were saying correctly, under the Hacked Materials Policy, there
16 were, once it's found to be violative, there were actions that Twitter would take under 17 the terms of enforcing that policy.
18 A Yes.
19 Q As it related to the New York Post story, Twitter determined it was violative.
20 Were there any actions that Twitter did not take that they would have under the terms of 21 the enforcement of the policy?
22 A Yep, as part of the standard operating procedure --
23 Q Yes.
24 A -- under the policy, the policy allowed for the permanent suspension of 25 accounts that were engaged in the distribution of hacked materials. This was primarily

1 written to deal with the accounts of hackers themselves.

2 And so, while that remedy was a part of the policy, we didn't believe that that was

3 applicable in the case of the New York Post.

4 Q And then, for the first question, and, again, to make sure I understood what

5 you were saying, as far as just, more broadly, content actions --

6 A Yes.

7 Q -- that could be taken, were there any that were declined too -- Twitter

8 declined to do so the morning of October -- I shouldn't say the morning -- the day of 9 October 14th, 2020?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And what were, at a high level were there --

12 A Yeah.

13 Q -- some that you recall being considered that were not taken?

14 A So the one that I had recommended was actually to not amplify or 15 recommend the content in question, which was a technology that Twitter had developed

16 and had available, but it didn't fit within the standard operating procedure of the policy.

17 And my understanding is that that disjuncture between my recommendation and

18 the policy was why Ms. Gadde disagreed with my recommendation and overruled it. I

19 had been recommending something that didn't fit exactly within the rules. I believed it

20 was appropriate in that situation. She disagreed.

21 The other technology that existed at Twitter at the time that we didn't employ

22 were labels on misinformation, which was a product that we had introduced in early

23 2020. And so Twitter had the technical capability to apply a visible label. But, similar

24 to restricting the amplification of the content, that didn't fit within the policy as drafted

25 pre-October 14th.

1 Q Did you ever have an opportunity to talk directly to Ms. Gadde about her
2 decision?
3 A Only after it had been made and implemented.
4 Q And when approximately was that?
5 A I would say Ms. Harvey and I were speaking directly and in a group with 6 Ms. Gadde about how to handle the situation by the afternoon of the 14th.
7 Q Do you recall whether you had any of the standing FITF meetings or U.S.
8 Government/industry meetings the day of the 14th?
9 A I know there was a meeting around then, but without the ability to look at 10 my calendar, I don't -- I don't exactly remember the timing from 2020. I'm sorry.
11 Q Do you recall if it was a FITF meeting or a U.S. Government/industry
12 meeting?
13 A It would likely have been a U.S. Government/industry meeting, not a FITF
14 meeting.
15 Q Okay. And do you recall if the New York Post story was discussed during 16 this meeting?
17 A To the best of my recollection, it was.
18 Q Okay. And do you recall who spoke about the story?
19 [redacted] Please.
20 Chairman Jordan. Was that meeting prior -- so my understanding is you learned 21 about 7 a.m. from a colleague, a team member in I think you said Dublin.
22 Mr. Roth. Yep.
23 Chairman Jordan. And then, by 10:20 Pacific time, you had implemented the 24 enforcement action. Is that right?
25 Mr. Roth. That sounds right, yes?

1 Chairman Jordan. So, 3 hours and 20 minutes after you get notice of this, you
2 guys take action.
3 Did the meeting with the U.S. Government agencies happen in that time span or 4 after the 10:20?
5 Mr. Roth. To the best of my recollection, it would have been after.
6 Chairman Jordan. After. So you took action before you talked with the 7 government that day.
8 Mr. Roth. Yes.
9 Chairman Jordan. Were there any phone calls or any other kind of 10 correspondence that you or your team had with the Federal Government between 7
11 when you learned and 10:20 when you guys take action?
12 Mr. Roth. Not to the best of my knowledge, no.
13 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q When -- the morning when the story broke, did you reach out to any of your 16 colleagues at other social media companies to see how they were handling the story?
17 A Yes.
18 Q Who did you reach out to?
19 A I recall discussing the issue with [redacted], who was the head of 20 security policy at Meta. It's possible that I discussed it with others as well, but that's the 21 only one I remember.
22 Q And do you recall when in the day approximately you spoke to -- or I
23 shouldn't say you spoke -- communicated with [redacted]?
24 A I would assume it was somewhere after 7 a.m., and I believe we spoke prior 25 to Twitter taking enforcement action at -- Representative Jordan said 10:20. So I'll

1 accept that as the time.

2 So my assumption would be somewhere in that window, but I don't recall.

3 Chairman Jordan. Do you recall if he had talked to the government, and, if so,

4 did he relay that to you?

5 Mr. Roth. If he did, he did not specify that, no.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q Do you recall what was shared between the two of you?

8 A My recollection was it was just a broad comparing of notes about the 9 situation. We both acknowledged that there was a lot we didn't know about it.

10 I believe at some point I communicated to [redacted] that Twitter's executive

11 leadership had made the decision to restrict the story. I believe at some point

12 [redacted] communicated to me that Meta had taken steps to -- I don't know what their

13 term is -- suppress or down-rank the content on their end.

14 But I recall it being a fairly broad, high-level conversation where we compared 15 notes and not anything more detailed.

16 Q Do you know if anyone from Twitter reached out to the FBI for information?

17 A To the best of my knowledge, no.

18 Q Did anyone reach out to the New York Post directly?

19 A It's my understanding that a member of Twitter's News Partnerships Team

20 was in contact with the New York Post during this incident, but they're not a member of 21 my organization. They didn't play a part in the moderation decision. And certainly

22 they -- I don't believe they were in communication before Twitter took action at 10:20.

23 Q Did anyone from Twitter reach out to the DNC?

24 A Not to the best of my knowledge, no.

25 Q Did anyone from Twitter reach out to the Trump White House?

1 A Not to the best of my knowledge, but it's possible.

2 Chairman Jordan. Is there a reason you didn't contact the New York Post?

3 Mr. Roth. Are you asking about me specifically or about Twitter?

4 Chairman Jordan. Twitter, your team and Twitter.

5 Mr. Roth. So, for my team, the answer is we would never contact the target of 6 an enforcement action prior to taking that action because it would be inappropriate.

7 In that situation where we believe somebody has violated or potentially violated

8 the rules, we try to maintain a strict firewall between the teams making that policy

9 decision and the external party.

10 It's also my belief that it would be inappropriate for Twitter to contact anybody

11 about a potential enforcement action because it would be unfair. If a random person on

12 the street violates the Twitter rules, Twitter enforces its rules against them without prior

13 notice; it would create a unequal system of enforcement if powerful people, celebrities,

14 organizations, businesses got preferential treatment and advance notice so that they

15 could change their behavior ahead of time.

16 That said, Twitter had a Partnerships Team. Their job was maintaining these

17 partnerships. And so I couldn't really say for sure whether or not those communications

18 happened, but we tried to maintain a strict separation there.

19 [redacted] When -- sorry.

20 Chairman Jordan. Was that 3-hour timeframe from when you learned about it

21 and when you take action, was that rapid? Was that normal? Was that longer than 22 normal?

23 Mr. Roth. I would say that's pretty normal. To an incident of this scale and 24 magnitude, 3 hours was I would say about right.

25 Chairman Jordan. When you say "this scale and magnitude," what is this?

1 What do you mean? Is this one of -- is this a big incident? Is this a minor one? How 2 would you describe it?
3 Mr. Roth. I would say this was a fairly major incident. An election security
4 incident impacting the United States, involving a major news outlet is a fairly significant 5 incident by any measure.
6 Chairman Jordan. Yeah, that would be my definition, too.
7 Okay. So, if I go to No. 11 on your declaration, you said -- well, I'll start with No.
8 10: Since 2018, I've had regular meetings with the Office of Director of the National
9 Intelligence.
10 We can probably get you your statement.

1 [11:01 a.m.]

2 Mr. Roth. Yes. If there is a copy, I can look at that. Thank you.

3 [redacted] Are we marking this?

4 [redacted] This will be exhibit 2.

5 [Roth exhibit No. 2

6 Was marked for identification.]

7 Chairman Jordan. I wanted to focus on 10, 11, and 12 since we were on the 8 subject.

9 Mr. Roth. Yep.

10 Chairman Jordan. If you want to review it. But number 10, it says you had 11 regular meetings.

12 Mr. Roth. Yes.

13 Chairman Jordan. Number 11, you described in greater detail what took place in

14 these meetings. You say they happened weekly. You said that the government

15 communicated to you that they expected hack-and-leak operations, and that those were

16 expected to happen before the Presidential election, likely October. So weekly

17 meetings, hack and leak expected -- expected to happen in the timeframe of in October

18 before the Presidential election.

19 Near the bottom of 11 you said, These expectations were discussed throughout

20 2020. So numerous times, weekly meetings, hack and leak, going to happen sometime

21 before October. And then the last sentence there you said that there were rumors a

22 hack-and-leak operation would involve Hunter Biden.

23 Did the fact that that had happened, weekly meetings throughout 2020 where

24 they tell you what's likely to take place, did that influence the actions you guys took on 25 the 14th?

1 Mr. Roth. It's hard to say whether it had a direct or a causal impact. Certainly,
2 we had discussed the possibility that a scenario like this would transpire, but we talked
3 about it independent of those meetings as well. And so while I would say it was possible
4 that the regular discussion of these issues influenced Twitter's interpretation of what
5 happened that day, I do think it's noteworthy that I was the primary participant in these 6 meetings, and I actually didn't believe that it was a hack and leak. And so if they
7 were -- if this was an attempt to influence Twitter or to guide the company's 8 decision-making, it didn't persuade me.
9 Chairman Jordan. Uh-huh. Okay.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q In the New York Post story, there's reference to an FBI subpoena. There's 12 obviously been significant discussion in the years following about what the FBI knew.
13 If the FBI had shared with Twitter that there was an ongoing investigation or that 14 it was in possession of the laptop, would that have been information that was relevant to 15 your team's decision-making?
16 A Yes, that absolutely would've been relevant information.
17 Q Okay. And would it have been information relevant enough to share with 18 Ms. Harvey?
19 A You're asking if I had become aware of that information, would I have 20 discussed it with Ms. Harvey as part of the incident?
21 Q Yes.
22 A Yes, absolutely.
23 Q Okay.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q In your discussions with [redacted], you said that there was some

1 correspondence between the two of you regarding you didn't have a lot of information
2 about the New York Post story from October 14, 2020. What information did you have?
3 Did you discuss the information that both companies had at that time?
4 A We just had the New York Post story to go on, so we were all operating from 5 a shared set of facts. And then I recall that morning I was scrolling through Twitter and 6 reading people's commentary about the incident and about what was going on, but I
7 didn't regard that as anything other than sort of rumors and speculation.
8 Q So would you say that the enforcement decision was based upon the 9 New York Post story itself, as well as you said it was kind of influenced by the discussions
10 that you had had previously with the U.S. Government partners?
11 A I wouldn't accept the latter part of that characterization.
12 Q Okay.
13 A I would say Twitter made a decision to enforce its policies based on the 14 company's independent judgment. And I would note that, in particular, [redacted] was 15 responsible for a decision that I personally disagreed with. And so a policy that I had 16 written and that my team was responsible for enforcing, I was overruled on by one of the 17 company's executives here.
18 But I wouldn't accept the characterization that the company's decision was 19 influenced in some way by these discussions with government. We developed the 20 policy in 2018 independently. We chose to do it because we acknowledged, as the 21 intelligence community had disclosed, that Russian activity had taken place and that we 22 had a part to play in addressing it. And it was ultimately the company's independent 23 decision to apply its rules here.
24 Chairman Jordan. So the fact that you had been repeatedly told that there was a
25 hack-and-leak operation coming right before the Presidential election and it was likely to

1 involve Hunter Biden had no influence on your decision?

2 Mr. Roth. I mean, it's hard --

3 Chairman Jordan. I find that hard to believe when you just said that you

4 would've loved to have the information relative to the FBI having the laptop. That

5 would've been pertinent information. But the fact that the government told you this

6 repeatedly had no impact on your decision?

7 [redacted]. Well, can we just clarify, were you told it was likely to involve Hunter

8 Biden?

9 Mr. Roth. So this is where, again, my recollection is fuzzy. I have no notes, no

10 meeting minutes, nothing like that to go on. It was discussed in these meetings, and I

11 would say it was discussed by many participants in these meetings. Certainly, I recall

12 instances in which the FBI discussed the possibility of a hack and leak. There were

13 instances in which the Department of Homeland Security and CISA discussed the 14 possibility of a hack and leak, and also other companies discussed this possibility. I

15 recall Meta talking --

16 Chairman Jordan. So is it fair to say you're hearing from everyone?

17 Mr. Roth. And Twitter was an active participant too. I briefed in these

18 meetings --

19 Chairman Jordan. You're hearing it from the tech community. You're hearing it

20 from numerous Federal agencies.

21 Mr. Roth. And we ourselves were briefing others on what we believed was a 22 possibility.

23 Chairman Jordan. Fair enough.

24 [redacted]. But just to clarify for the record, a generic hack and leak is different

25 than specifically a Hunter Biden action.

1 Mr. Roth. That's right. And so I think in terms of a broad awareness of this
2 possibility, like, that wouldn't be dispositive one way or the other for me or, I think, for 3 the company. If we had specific information that said, yes, this laptop exists, yes, it is 4 authentic, that would've meaningfully impacted the way that we were approaching our 5 enforcement actions that day.
6 Chairman Jordan. Yeah. I was just reading from your declaration.
7 Mr. Roth. Yeah.
8 Chairman Jordan. These expectations of hack-and-leak operations were 9 discussed throughout 2020 during weekly meetings. I also learned -- I being you -- these 10 meetings that there were rumors that a hack-and-leak operation would involve Hunter
11 Biden. I'm just reading directly from your statement where those are fundamental 12 facts. Weekly meetings, throughout 2020, hack and leak expected right before the 13 election, also I heard that it would involve Hunter Biden. Five key facts in that number 14 11. That's all I'm reading.
15 Mr. Roth. Yeah.
16 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
17 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
18 [Recess.]
19 [redacted] Okay. It is 11:19, and we are back on the record.
20 EXAMINATION
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Hi, Mr. Roth. How are you?
23 A I'm doing all right. How are you?
24 Q Good. Thank you.
25 I'm going to start by just clarifying a few things from the previous hour. Looking

1 at your declaration before the FEC, in paragraph -- excuse me, paragraph 11, during these
2 weekly meetings, just to clarify, the meetings were not weekly throughout all of 2020,
3 were they?
4 A That's right. The cadence changed throughout the year.
5 Q Okay. And I believe you said earlier they were quarterly for most of the 6 year and then the cadence picked up as you got closer to elections?
7 A That's my recollection, yes.
8 Q Okay. Thank you.
9 And the declaration's reference to Hunter Biden and your recollection
10 independently of the declaration is that somebody at the meetings, somebody not 11 government, at one meeting maybe mentioned rumors that a hack-and-leak operation
12 would involve Hunter Biden?
13 A That's right.
14 Q That rumor was not discussed on an ongoing basis throughout 2020?
15 A No, it was not.
16 Q Okay. And although you don't remember who brought it up, you do
17 remember that it was a private industry partner?
18 A Yes.
19 Q Okay. And -- hold on. Give me one moment, please.
20 Turning to the New York Post story itself, you were asked in the previous hour
21 about whether your meetings with the government informed your decision. And I just 22 want to be clear, your recommendation was not to enforce the distribution of Hacked
23 Materials Policy, correct?
24 A That's right.
25 Q Okay. And you were overruled by Ms. Gadde?

1 A That's right.

2 Q Okay. Were you present for the conversations in which it was decided by

3 people above you to overrule your decision?

4 A No. The decision was communicated to me. And I should say I disagreed

5 with the recommendation but not enough so to, you know, threaten to resign over the

6 decision or something like that. I felt that reasonable minds evaluating the same

7 evidence could arrive at different conclusions. Ms. Gadde's decision was communicated

8 to me, and I then directed my team to implement that decision, even though I personally

9 disagreed with it.

10 Q Okay. And -- so you don't know the extent of the conversations that 11 Ms. Gadde had with others in the company in arriving at the decision to overrule your 12 recommendation?

13 A No, I don't.

14 Q Okay. And you don't know -- well, is it fair to say that you had more

15 information based on, not just your meetings but your many years of experience and your

16 study and your training, about threats to U.S. -- I'm sorry, about intelligence -- the U.S.

17 intelligence community about foreign influence operations? That's your area of 18 expertise, correct?

19 A I would certainly say it was one of my areas of greatest experience at 20 Twitter, and I had been doing that work for a number of years by that point.

21 Q Okay. Fair enough. I don't want to -- I don't want you to have to embrace

22 the word "expert" if you don't feel comfortable. It was something that you had more

23 experience in than Ms. Gadde and the decision-makers. Is that fair to say?

24 A Again, I'll say Ms. Gadde is a very experienced attorney. She is deeply

25 knowledgeable about content moderation broadly and about governance of a platform

1 like Twitter. But as a matter of practice, I had been closer to election security work than 2 she had.
3 Q Thank you. And that is a much more articulate way of saying what I was 4 trying to get at.
5 And I believe you made this clear in your prior state -- testimony in the prior hour,
6 but also the many times you've been asked to speak about this, your -- to your
7 knowledge, the FBI had no role in Twitter's decision to enforce on that story?
8 A That's right.
9 Q And we discussed in the previous hour whether there was a meeting of the 10 industry working group or the Foreign Influence Task Force that day, and I believe you
11 said it was either that day or sometime around then?
12 A That's right, within a day or two of that time. And it could've certainly been 13 that day --
14 Q Okay.
15 A -- but I don't recall exactly.
16 Q And -- so fair to say that the discussions during that meeting were not 17 memorable enough for you to know exactly when it happened?
18 A No.
19 Q Okay. But you're confident that it happened after Twitter had made the 20 decision?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Okay.
23 A I recall in that meeting Twitter communicating at least some part of the 24 decision that we had made and implemented in that case, but I don't recall any of the 25 other discussions in that meeting being at all relevant to the incident.

1 Q But because your memory is of communicating that enforcement decision,
2 by definition it had to have happened after the enforcement division would've made --
3 A It's a fact that we would've made the decision prior, yes.
4 Q Exactly. Thank you.
5 And when the decision was made by your supervisors to enforce the 6 hack-and-leak policy on the story, that enforcement lasted approximately 24 hours,
7 correct?
8 A That's right.
9 Q And then the decision was reversed?
10 A That's right. Twitter reversed its action under the policy and unblocked the 11 sharing of the New York Post story.
12 Q Okay. And during that time, anybody who wanted to see -- during that 13 24 hours when it was blocked on Twitter, any Twitter user who wanted to look at the 14 story could still go to NYPost.com or NewYorkPost.com, whatever their website is, and 15 read the story themselves?
16 A That's right. And there was broad discussion of the story that day and in 17 following days, both from the New York Post and other news outlets. The story was in 18 broad circulation.
19 Q Thank you.
20 I want to back up a little bit and talk about just some of the work that you did at 21 Twitter more broadly and why you did that work. So as someone whose work focused
22 on foreign influence operations, do you believe that foreign malign influence operations
23 pose a threat to American democracy?
24 A Absolutely, without hesitation.
25 Q Okay. And why -- can you explain why that is?

1 A I think there's a few areas of concern for foreign interference in elections.
2 The first and most overt is that malign foreign influence divides Americans and increases
3 polarization. When we find that Americans are not having policy debates with each
4 other but instead are observing manufactured drama between agents of a foreign
5 government, I think that makes it less likely that we can connect with our fellow citizens
6 and operate as a representative democracy should.
7 Q When you say manufactured drama between agents of a foreign
8 government, are you referring to the types of examples you mentioned earlier where you
9 saw accounts that appeared to be American Democrats and American Republicans
10 arguing with each other, but they were actually being operated by the same Russian 11 agent?
12 A That's right.
13 Q Okay. And that's an example of what you just mentioned?
14 A That's right.
15 Q Okay. And how else did these sorts of influence threaten -- incidents of 16 operations threaten American democracy?
17 A Yeah. I think the existence of hack and leak as a strategy undermines the 18 cybersecurity of American institutions. The incentive to try to influence an American 19 election by breaking into the email accounts of politicians and political operatives and 20 then disclosing those emails publicly makes it so that there is a clear security risk to those 21 individuals. Everyone becomes a target. Their communications become a target.
22 And I think that collectively makes us less secure.
23 Q And it's fair to say that that sort of activity, breaking into the accounts,
24 whether it's email accounts or the Twitter accounts, of elected officials, that would be 25 against Twitter's terms of service, correct, against Twitter's rules?

1 A Yes. Hacking of Twitter accounts is prohibited under our policies.
2 Q And it's also prohibited under Twitter's policies to -- for a user to
3 misrepresent who they are with respect to their geographic location. So, for example,
4 pretending to be [redacted] from Wisconsin when you're really somebody in Russia,
5 that is prohibited under Twitter's policies?
6 A That's right.
7 Q Okay. And you've seen foreign malign actors from Russia and China and 8 Iran and other countries abuse Twitter's platform to interfere in elections in the United 9 States, correct?
10 A Absolutely.
11 Q But it's not just the United States. These malign actors have used Twitter
12 and other social media platforms to interfere in elections around the world, correct?
13 A That's right.
14 Q And your team worked to combat foreign malign influence not just in the 15 United States. Is that fair to say?
16 A Yes. My team had a global mandate and focused on this activity wherever 17 we saw it emerging.
18 Q And you focused on that activity regardless of the political leaning of the 19 content of the activity?
20 A That's right. I would say Twitter had a clear business imperative to address
21 this conduct. Independent of whether I think it's good or bad for democracy -- and I
22 think it's clearly bad for democracy -- it's also bad for business for Twitter to allow bots
23 and inauthentic accounts to run rampant on the service.
24 Q Let's talk about that, because it might not be obvious. Why is it bad for 25 Twitter's business? How does it hurt Twitter's bottom line if bots are running rampant

1 on Twitter's service?

2 A Yeah. First and foremost, Twitter is a platform that relies on people, users

3 voluntarily contributing content to the service and engaging in conversations. That can't

4 happen if people don't want to use Twitter and don't trust the service. And what we

5 observed following the 2016 election was that people would tell us, I'm not going to

6 bother participating on Twitter because I don't trust the integrity of the conversations on

7 the service. I don't trust that the person I'm speaking with is another American as

8 opposed to a Russian bot.

9 And that was an existential risk for Twitter's business. It undermined the 10 viability of the service, the ability to sell ads, the ability to attract new users. And so

11 from the company's perspective, addressing these types of issues was a matter of core

12 business strategy, and also, separately, a good thing to do for democracy and for the 13 world. But it was a self-interested business decision to address these matters.

14 Q To the point where you felt that Twitter had a fiduciary duty to its 15 shareholders to address these matters?

16 A Absolutely.

17 Q Okay. And to invest in things like election security?

18 A I felt that and Twitter's executive leadership and board of directors also felt

19 that and enacted that in funding the substantial growth of my team over time.

20 Q You talked briefly in the earlier hour about Twitter's -- I'm not -- I don't recall

21 exactly what the phrase was. Was it election integrity policy?

22 A Depending on the timeframe.

23 Q Civic -- I believe it was civic integrity.

24 A It became civic integrity in 2020. Prior to that, it was called the election

25 integrity policy.

1 Q Okay. But throughout that time period, Twitter prohibited users from 2 engaging in tactics that would be considered voter suppression tactics, correct?
3 A That's right.
4 Q Okay. So, for example, encouraging people -- you've seen campaigns
5 where users would encourage people to vote by text?
6 A That's right.
7 Q And it's an objective fact that you cannot vote in a U.S. election by text, at 8 least not now?
9 A Yes, that's right.
10 Q Okay. And so if somebody posted a tweet encouraging people to vote by 11 text, you would remove that?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And you would remove that regardless of whether the poster appeared to 14 be coming from a conservative orientation or a liberal orientation?
15 A That's right. Across the board, that type of activity was a violation of 16 Twitter's policies. And we were enforcing a version of that policy in 2016 and then 17 throughout the years following.
18 Q Okay. Now, I want to talk about Twitter's hack-and-leak policy. You 19 mentioned that the hack-and-leak policy was adopted in 2018.
20 A That's right.
21 Q And you were involved in drafting that policy and in the adoption of that 22 policy at Twitter?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And just for the record, who was the President of the United States in
25 October of 2018?

1 A It was Donald Trump.

2 Q Thank you.

3 And when you made those changes, I imagine it wasn't something that just

4 popped out of your head in 2018. I imagine it took some time to consider and develop

5 those policies?

6 A That's right. There had been a series of meetings at Twitter between

7 myself, Del Harvey, Vijaya Gadde, and others to reflect on what had happened during the

8 2016 election in terms of foreign interference and develop a strategy for what we needed

9 to do to prevent that activity from happening again in the future.

10 Q And -- so the goal of the policy was to avoid the mistakes of 2016?

11 A That's right.

12 Q Okay. Did the government play -- any government agents play any role in 13 Twitter's decision to adopt a hack-and-leak policy in October of 2018?

14 A No, I wouldn't say so.

15 Q Okay. You didn't call the FBI and say, hey, what do you think about this 16 policy?

17 A No.

18 Q Okay.

19 A And I can -- I can clarify why I paused for a minute and was thinking about it.

20 Q Sure.

21 A I think in the last hour, a lot of questions were raised about, you know, if this

22 was discussed, did it influence your decision-making. And I'm not a psychologist. I

23 can't speculate as to sort of how decisions get made in the brain or how influence works

24 there, right. Like, I think you are exposed to information, you process it, you integrate it

25 with what you know and what you've heard from other sources, and you ultimately reach

1 a conclusion.

2 I don't believe that there was a determining characteristic to any of the 3 conversations that I had or others at Twitter had with the FBI or the U.S. Government.

4 They didn't determine the decision the company ultimately made.

5 Ahead of introducing the policy in 2018, Twitter briefed the U.S. Government on

6 our efforts. We reported to bipartisan committees in Congress who were investigating

7 Russian interference about our efforts. Twitter executives testified before the House

8 and Senate Intelligence Committees about our work. We announced the introduction of 9 our policies. I believe I briefed representatives of the FBI about our policies, but we

10 didn't take direction from the FBI or from anybody else about the development of those 11 policies.

12 Q Thank you. And that was -- that was exactly what I meant, and I appreciate

13 you drawing the distinction between whether your work and your meetings had any 14 psychological impact that you can't pinpoint.

15 What I was asking -- and, again, you were more articulate than I was -- was did

16 they play a more active role in shaping those policies, in asking you to implement those

17 policies, and your answer to that is no.

18 A To the best of my recollection, the answer is absolutely not.

19 Q Okay. You are familiar with the litigation of Missouri v. Biden, correct?

20 A I am.

21 Q And in that case, the district court stated that platforms, including Twitter,

22 updated their policies in 2020 to provide that posting hacked materials would violate

23 their policies. Is that an accurate statement with respect to Twitter?

24 A I don't believe that's accurate, no.

25 Q Why not?

1 A Twitter introduced its policy regarding the distribution of hacked materials in
2 2018. And while the policy changed following the Hunter Biden incident in October
3 of 2020, the broad enforcement of rules against hacked materials substantially predated
4 that incident.
5 Q And I believe what you stated earlier was that when the policy changed in 6 2020 it was narrowed?
7 A That's right.
8 Q Okay. So it wasn't that you -- you introduced a more broader policy; you
9 narrowed your policy?
10 A That's right.
11 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that Twitter was well aware -- separate and apart
12 from meetings with government agents, Twitter was aware from publicly reported 13 information by 2017 of the problem of hack-and-leak operations on social media?
14 A Absolutely.
15 Q So I want to talk to you a little bit about Twitter's collaboration with U.S.
16 Government agencies, these meetings that we've been discussing, but I want to step back
17 and just talk more generally.
18 Why -- well, was it important and, if so, why, for Twitter to attend these meetings
19 and to collaborate with government agencies in fighting foreign influence operations?
20 A It was my belief and ultimately the strategy that I implemented at Twitter
21 that collaboration between platforms and government was an essential part of a security
22 strategy. And it was essential because I looked at the lessons of 2016 and observed that 23 parts of the United States Government had material intelligence and information about 24 foreign activity targeting American elections, and that information could've allowed 25 platforms to step in and stop the activities of the troll farm, stop the distribution of

1 hacked materials, and platforms didn't, and part of why we didn't was because we lacked
2 the information about what was happening.
3 It's my belief that platforms should also exercise their own diligence and research
4 these issues and try to identify them, but we can't do that alone. And so I think
5 collaboration has to exist there.
6 Q And in addition to the fact that the government and agencies like the FBI
7 have access to information through their own investigative techniques and tools that 8 platforms like Twitter do not have, platforms like Twitter have operational capacity to 9 disable bot farms, accounts on a massive scale, that the FBI simply does not have as well?
10 A That's right.
11 Q Each side brings something to the table?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Okay. And you've mentioned occasions where you would brief the FBI on 14 what Twitter was doing. Did you sometimes solicit information from government
15 agencies like the FBI to help Twitter root out foreign malign influence on its platforms?
16 A On limited occasions, yes. I can broadly recall instances where Twitter
17 would brief the FBI about investigations or activity that we had identified and would in 18 sort of an open-ended way say, if you have any further information about this, please feel 19 free to let us know. There were also instances where the FBI would brief Twitter about 20 activity, and we would ask clarifying questions or solicit more information. And so it was 21 sort of a regular, ongoing exchange focused on malign foreign influence.
22 I would clarify, especially because it came up in the last hour, that these 23 exchanges were seldom -- I can't recall a single instance where they were focused on 24 activity happening in the moment and immediate content moderation decisions
25 happening in the moment. They were broadly focused on threats that were emerging,

1 patterns of behavior, technologies of manipulation, not sort of day-to-day,
2 account-to-account individual issues.
3 Q Okay. And you're talking about the types of discussions that you would 4 have in your meetings with, for example, the Foreign Influence Task Force?
5 A That's right.
6 Q Okay. And I'm sorry, but can you remind me again when those meetings
7 that -- when Twitter started engaging in those meetings or participating in those
8 meetings?
9 A Bilateral meetings between Twitter and the FBI, to the best of my 10 recollection, started in 2018. Some of the first meetings were multilateral, so there
11 were representatives of the FBI, of ODNI, of DHS, and then multiple technology
12 companies. And then over time, those evolved into the multilateral meetings and then 13 also into the bilateral discussions between Twitter and the FBI.
14 Q Okay. And so the bilateral is exactly what it sounds like; it's just the two 15 parties: Twitter, FBI?
16 A That's right.
17 Q Okay. And were Twitter's meetings, whether bilateral or multilateral, with 18 the Foreign Influence Task Force, they were voluntary on Twitter's part, correct?
19 A Absolutely.
20 Q Okay. No government official ever told Twitter that you had to participate 21 in those meetings?
22 A Yes.
23 Q It was -- okay.
24 A We were never told --
25 Q Thank you.

1 A -- that we had to participate in those meetings.

2 Q And if you decided that the meetings weren't helpful, you could've chosen

3 not to attend?

4 A That's right.

5 Q And I assume you chose -- well, I don't want to assume. Is it fair to say that

6 you chose to attend because, as you just discussed, you felt that receiving information

7 from government investigators like those on the Foreign Influence Task Force was critical

8 to prevent foreign malign actors from abusing Twitter's platforms?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. And just as your team focused on global threats, was the Foreign

11 Influence Task Force, were those meetings talking about global threats as well or only 12 foreign malign influence in the United States?

13 A The meetings were predominantly focused on threats targeting the United

14 States, but I would say at times the scope was slightly broader. Typically, the meetings

15 would involve briefings from four constituencies within the FITF: FITF Russia, focused on

16 Russia; FITF China, focused on China; and then FITF -- like Iran emerged as sort of a

17 regular theme; but then there was FITF global, which had a broader mandate to focus on 18 foreign interference and influence campaigns coming from different countries around the 19 world.

20 And I would say in that context, at times, the focus expanded to impacts on

21 American interests around the world. I would say South and Central America were sort

22 of the topics that most frequently came up, activity from Venezuela and Cuba. And

23 certainly, there was a nexus to American interests, but that was sort of where things, I

24 would say, got the furthest away from a direct impact on American elections.

25 Q Okay. And as you've made clear, the meetings with the task force

1 were -- the communication was shared in both directions, correct? Twitter was
2 providing information and Twitter was receiving information from the government?
3 A That's right.
4 Q Okay. And was that the case also in the U.S. Government industry working 5 group meetings that you had?
6 A That's right.
7 Q Okay. And those meetings, like the meetings with the Foreign Influence
8 Task Force, or FITF as it is sometimes referred to and I might refer to it, those were 9 voluntary as well, correct?
10 A That's right.
11 Q Twitter could've chosen not to attend those meetings?
12 A That's right.
13 Q But you chose to attend because you felt it was valuable to prevent the 14 abuse of your platform by foreign malign actors?
15 A I would go further than that even and say I was one of the driving forces
16 behind the creation of those meetings in the first place.
17 Q Can you explain that a little bit?
18 A In 2018, as every tech company was developing its strategy for the midterms
19 and for election security more generally, it was my belief that collaboration within the 20 tech industry and between the tech industry and government was a key part of what we 21 needed to do to secure American elections.
22 And so I reached out to my counterparts at Facebook and suggested that, not only 23 should our teams talk with each other about the work we were doing, but that we should 24 create an industrywide forum for engagement across companies and between companies
25 and government. Facebook were the initial conveners of some of these early

1 discussions. The first meeting happened at Facebook's headquarters in Menlo Park in 2 2018, but the driving force behind the creation of those meetings was industry
3 recognizing the importance of creating a forum like this and then driving its creation.
4 Q Okay. So these meetings that have received so much attention and so
5 much criticism with Twitter being referred to as a subsidiary of the FBI or, you know,
6 referred to as being the -- you know, the target of government censorship, what you're 7 saying is you were actually proactively seeking out that sort of communication?
8 A Absolutely.
9 Q Okay. And those meetings were not secret, were they?
10 A We regularly put out press releases about those meetings. I would say 11 some of the earlier ones, especially when we were first feeling out what those 12 interactions were, I don't think were immediately made fully public, but there was no
13 particular secrecy around any of it. Twitter and Meta and others put out press releases.
14 I spoke with journalists about engagements across companies. There was no -- there 15 was no mystery about companies talking with each other and companies talking with 16 government.
17 Q Okay. You didn't think that you were doing anything that needed to be 18 hidden from the public?
19 A Certainly not.
20 Q Okay.
21 A I would actually say, in the other direction, I think it was a part of Twitter's
22 strategy to rebuild trust post-2016 to be public about what we were doing. We wanted
23 people to know about it and that we were investing in securing elections.
24 [redacted] If we can go off the record for 1 minute.
25 [Discussion off the record.]

1 [redacted] Okay. We can go back on the record. Thank you.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q So you -- you've talked about your efforts to develop and implement policies

4 at Twitter that would protect the platform from various types of abuse, including abuse

5 by foreign malign actors.

6 Does the platform formerly known as Twitter still have those policies in place, to 7 your knowledge?

8 A As best I can tell, at least some of the policies are still in place. It's less

9 clear whether the capability to enforce those policies remains in place.

10 Q Okay. Can you explain what you mean by that?

11 A Yeah. A policy is ultimately just that; it's a document that lays out rules and 12 expectations. But more important than just the existence of the policy is its

13 enforcement. And especially when you're talking about malign foreign influence, telling

14 Yevgeny Prigozhin and the operators of a Russian troll farm not to do that is not going to

15 deter their activities. They are knowingly violating Twitter's rules. And so the key task

16 is detecting when those violations happen and proactively banning those accounts from 17 the service.

18 And so a significant portion of my former organization at Twitter was dedicated to

19 identifying and proactively removing malign foreign interference from the service. That

20 requires advanced technology and it also requires people to do this work. It's my 21 understanding that very few, if any, of the staff responsible for this work remain at the 22 company today.

23 Q Okay. And I believe you said there were 60 people on your team when you

24 left, or did I --

25 A Yeah. The Site Integrity organization was approximately 60 people at the 1 time of my departure from the company.

2 Q And what about Trust and Safety overall?

3 A The overall Trust and Safety team was approximately 120 people globally.

4 Q Okay. Do you know what the size of that team is now?

5 A At this stage, I don't know a single employee by name who is still at the 6 company.

7 Q Okay. And are you -- are you still a user or somebody who visits the

8 platform?

9 A I don't actively use Twitter anymore, no.

10 Q Okay. And by use, I mean, do you see what's on there as part of your

11 research of one of your -- your many positions that you have, are you tracing the content

12 that's on Twitter --

13 A Episodically. I would say, Twitter is not my primary focus for research, but I

14 am -- I periodically see content on the service and am studying it.

15 Q And are you seeing any change in the type of content that when you do

16 episodically look at the platform formerly known as Twitter -- very difficult for me to get

17 myself to say X -- are you seeing content that would've been removed and enforced

18 against under the policies and the personnel in place when you were at Twitter?

19 A Yes, absolutely.

20 Q Can you explain some of what you're seeing?

21 A I think, especially in the current moment following the atrocities in Israel and

22 in Gaza, I think we're seeing a proliferation of content on Twitter that would've run afoul

23 of a variety of the service's rules, including content sharing, hateful speech, and attacks

24 on both Palestinians and Jews and Israelis.

25 We're seeing images of atrocities and gore that are proliferating on the service.

1 And we're seeing a wide variety of forms of misinformation about the conflict that are not
2 just proliferating on the platform but also have been monetized by Twitter. The 3 creators of misinformation now get paid by the service when they attract attention.
4 None of that would've been the case prior to the acquisition of the company.
5 Q And what do you think are the potential ramifications of allowing that type 6 of content to proliferate and, in fact, to encourage it to proliferate?
7 A I think there's both short-term and long-term ramifications. In the short
8 term, the proliferation of misinformation makes people less informed. It makes them
9 less able to advocate for policies that they believe in and to engage with a major global 10 crisis unfolding in the Middle East. And that's just one example of one crisis.
11 We're headed into a year where 3 billion people around the world are going to 12 vote. In each of those elections, there are the same risks of misinformation, the same
13 possibilities of incitement of violence that we saw on January the 6th, and all of that 14 potentiality exists in a less moderated or unmoderated Twitter.
15 And that's not even beginning to touch the question of nation-states conducting 16 malign influence campaigns on Twitter. We know that governments target their own
17 citizens with disinformation. We know that governments target the United States and 18 our allies with disinformation campaigns. And I would expect that all of those threats 19 will be present in 2024 and that they will make it harder for people to understand the 20 facts of elections, to participate meaningfully, and to turn to social media as a source for
21 information.
22 Q And even some of the more, you know -- the types of election integrity
23 threats that you discussed earlier, the basic encouraging people to vote by text, that sort 24 of, you know, the time, place, and manner misrepresentations, those appear that they 25 would be allowed on Twitter now as well?

1 A I mean, nominally the company says they are still banned under their rules,
2 but rules that nobody enforces are not worth the paper they're written on. And I worry
3 about the lack of capacity at Twitter right now to even enforce a very straightforward
4 policy like not misrepresenting the time, place, and manner of an election.
5 Q I want to shift gears and touch on something that you mentioned earlier.
6 You were asked about your contact with Agent Chan since you left Twitter, and you
7 mentioned that he reached out to you in the wake of some news about your personal
8 circumstances. And I want to just back up and say, how has -- well, you -- you said that 9 you had to move from your home because of threats that you received?
10 A That's right.
11 Q When did you start receiving threats as a result of your work at Twitter?
12 A It began years ago. Some of the first threats that I received actually had 13 nothing to do with politics. They were from a group of teenagers that were really angry
14 that we banned their Twitter accounts. And so in 2019 -- actually, one of the first times
15 that I met Special Agent Chan was in connection with those teenagers calling in a bomb
16 threat to the Twitter office pretending to be me. And I was played a recording of them
17 mispronouncing my name as they called in a bomb threat pretending to be me. It
18 was -- it was a pretty amateurish thing. But the threats against me never went away
19 after that. They, sadly, only grew in magnitude.
20 In May of 2020, after Twitter fact-checked one of Donald Trump's tweets, I was 21 put in the center of a fire storm led by the New York Post, by White House Senior Advisor
22 Kellyanne Conway, and others that painted me as sort of the primary figure driving the 23 censorship of conservatives on Twitter. And this wasn't the case, but it led to a
24 substantial escalation in the volume of threats that I received on Twitter, by email, by text
25 message.

1 And then in 2022, after I departed the company, a series of homophobic
2 conspiracies advanced by Elon Musk and others further ratcheted up the level of violent
3 rhetoric that I was facing.
4 Q Can you describe a little bit, you know, and you don't have to go into great
5 detail, but just give us some sense of the nature of the types of threats and violent
6 rhetoric that you were receiving?
7 A Yeah.
8 Q And I'm sorry, I know this is likely to be emotional, but I think it's important
9 for the record.
10 A One of the most common tropes was about being thrown alive into a wood 11 chipper, which is very specific rhetoric, but it was -- it's something that is considered by 12 some corners of extremists on the internet to be the appropriate punishment for 13 suspected pedophiles. And this was based directly on Elon Musk's misrepresentation of 14 my Ph.D. research, research that was focused on advocating for tech companies to offer
15 better safety solutions for kids; and instead, Mr. Musk misrepresented that work to 16 suggest that I somehow condone or tolerate pedophilia.
17 And on the basis of that language, entire communities on Twitter started to email
18 me, direct message me, text message me to suggest that I should be thrown into a wood
19 chipper alive as punishment for the exploitation of children that I allowed to happen on 20 my watch.
21 Others suggested that the correct punishment for somebody who had committed
22 treason against their country was death by firing squad and that, on the basis of Twitter's
23 decisions to ban Donald Trump, that I should be executed for my role in that. And this 24 was common rhetoric, not -- not just one or two, but hundreds of posts and emails
25 advanced exactly these same claims.

1 Q And it wasn't just to your public Twitter profile, but you received it on text
2 messages and emails, you said?
3 A That's right.
4 Q And at some point, was your personal residence address publicly disclosed?
5 A It was by the Daily Mail. So it was -- it is not even what, sadly, most victims
6 of abuse experience, which is somebody on social media posting their address. For me,
7 it was the Daily Mail publishing a tabloid-style expose about what they called my
8 mansion, a two-bedroom suburban home, and in so doing they revealed exactly where I
9 live. And that was the day that my husband and I left our home and didn't return.
10 Q What other steps have you had to take to protect yourself in light of the 11 threats that you've received?
12 A While I was an employee of Twitter, the company regularly provided armed 13 security outside my home and would also provide security when I was traveling, as 14 needed.
15 Q And fair to say the harassment got worse after the release of The Twitter
16 Files?
17 A Certainly, that was a driving factor.
18 Q Did you receive -- but you did receive -- I'm sorry. Some of the threats, the 19 homophobic rhetoric was publicly posted on Twitter?
20 A A significant amount of it was, yes, thousands and thousands of posts.
21 Q And do many of those remain up on X to this day?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Okay. Do you recall seeing a post that said: You need to swing from an 24 old oak tree for the treason that you have committed. Live in fear every day?
25 A Yes, I recall that one.

1 Q And that is still up, correct?

2 A I haven't checked in the last couple of weeks, but I believe I reference that

3 post in an op-ed that I wrote for The New York Times, and at the time that that article

4 was published it was still live on Twitter.

5 Q Did you live in fear every day?

6 A For a time, yes.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Mr. Roth, I'm going to switch gears just a little bit and go back to a subject

9 that they -- that the majority brought up in the previous hour focusing on the New York

10 Post article. I think that you indicated, just broadly, that you didn't have a lot of 11 information when you were trying to make a decision or make a recommendation about a 12 decision. Is that fair to say?

13 A That's right.

14 Q And can you just tell us, with the kind of high level, what it is that -- what

15 information did you have as you walked through that recommendation for your Twitter

16 executives?

17 A Really just what we read in the New York Post that morning. My --

18 Q The story itself?

19 A That's right. My broad recollection of the story was that it described some

20 of the contents of emails. It included some screenshots of messages. I confess I

21 wasn't especially interested in the content of the messages. Like, it wouldn't really have

22 been dispositive under the policy, and I didn't find it that interesting. But I remember

23 reading the stories, and they mostly focused on characterizing the content of the 24 messages and then only to a limited extent the provenance of the laptop.

25 My recollection is that, later that day and subsequently, we got some more

1 information about the repair shop owner and the laptop and Rudy Giuliani's involvement
2 and sort of the whole story there. But that morning, as Twitter was making a decision,
3 we pretty much just could go on what was in the New York Post's original reporting.
4 Q Okay. And I think you've just said this, but to be clear, do you recall that 5 the title of that article, the New York Post article, was, quote, "Smoking-gun email reveals 6 how Hunter Biden introduced Ukrainian businessman to VP dad"? Do you recall it being 7 something to that effect?
8 A Yeah. Broadly, yes.
9 Q So the main subject of the article as you just described it was these alleged 10 emails that came to Hunter Biden from this Ukrainian businessman. That was sort of 11 the gist of the smoking-gun, quote, emails that they were allegedly revealing?
12 A Derkach or something like that, yeah.
13 Q Well, like, we don't have it in front of you, and I apologize. I could get it if 14 I'm going to ask you more specific questions. But do you recall that the article also 15 contained PDFs or some kind of images of these alleged emails?
16 A That's my broad recollection. And, again, there were multiple articles
17 posted over the course of the day, and I know some of them contained PDFs. Some of 18 them contained screenshots. And so I don't remember exactly which ones were in 19 which articles, but broadly, yes, I remember that.
20 Q Okay. And so what you -- your main source of information that you had to 21 go on at that point was the article itself. Fair to say?
22 A That's right.
23 Q Okay. And in the previous hour, you were asked some questions about,
24 you know, what went into your decision in terms of your recommendation, and if you had 25 known some other information that you didn't have, how would that have affected your

1 decision. And I just want to clarify the answers that you gave in the first hour, so let me
2 walk it through.
3 My recollection is that, in the first hour, you were asked if your recommendation
4 would've been influenced by knowledge that the FBI had a laptop that was purported to 5 be from Hunter Biden. Do you recall that question?
6 A I do.
7 Q Okay. And your answer was, yes, that would've been important
8 information. Is that fair?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Okay. Now, let's talk about the information. You, at the time, didn't have 11 any information from the FBI regarding any purported laptop that was from Hunter
12 Biden. Is that fair?
13 A That's right.
14 Q Okay. Now, some of the questions that you were asked in the first hour
15 included sort of a preamble about what the FBI allegedly had in its possession. But I 16 want to be clear, you didn't work for the FBI, correct?
17 A No.
18 Q And you don't know what the FBI indeed had in possession at that time, do
19 you?
20 A That's right. I had no knowledge of it.
21 Q Okay. So if someone said to you in a question, if you had known that there
22 was a laptop from Hunter Biden in the FBI's possession at the time, you're just accepting 23 the premise of the question today. You actually don't know what the FBI had in their 24 possession at the time. Is that right?
25 A Yes. That's a fair -- that's a fair clarification.

1 Q Okay. So I just want to be clear on that. When someone in the first hour
2 put in their question the characterization of the laptop as authentic, do you have any 3 information, as you sit here today or at any point, that the, quote, laptop in the 4 possession of the FBI was authentic?
5 A I mean, in the years since, I've read public reporting discussing the 6 provenance of the laptop. My understanding, and, again, this is a broad recollection, is 7 that Hunter Biden or people acting on his behalf have initiated some type of legal 8 proceedings against the repair shop based on an invasion of privacy. To me, that 9 intuitively suggests that the laptop is authentic, but I'm going on public reporting. I
10 don't have firsthand knowledge of this. I don't have law -- knowledge from law
11 enforcement. I -- I only know what's been talked about publicly.
12 Q Okay. So when you said in the first hour that information about the FBI
13 having some laptop purported to be from Hunter Biden would've been relevant to your 14 recommendation, can you just explain in your own words how would that have been 15 relevant?
16 A Yeah. Under the distribution of Hacked Materials Policy as it existed prior 17 to October of 2020, one of the standards that Twitter looked at was whether the material
18 had been obtained through a hack. And this was actually to differentiate it from things
19 like the Panama Papers or the Snowden revelations where it was a leak from an employer
20 or somebody with direct access. We were focused on specific technical intrusions, like
21 the hacking campaign carried out by APT 28, a Russian Government-backed hacking group
22 targeting the DNC and John Podesta.
23 And so it would have been material to know that day whether what we were 24 seeing was somebody who had broken into Hunter Biden's email account or somebody
25 who had leaked those communications through another channel or -- you know, it

1 would've been a question we had to wrestle with about whether an intrusion into a
2 laptop in your physical possession is hacking. The CFAA has opinions on that subject. I
3 won't profess to be an expert. But it would have certainly triggered a different set of 4 conversations about the definition of what a hack is, which was the foundational element
5 of policy analysis.
6 Q Okay. So the fact that there was an allegation that a laptop existed that 7 had at one point belonged to Hunter Biden, that ownership would've been important to 8 you in evaluating whether this policy would've come into place?
9 A That's right.
10 Q What about if you had had information that the laptop that was given over
11 to the FBI eventually was actually not ever in the possession of Hunter Biden but that it
12 had been used to house a hard drive that, you know, may or may not have contained 13 some information from Hunter Biden, but it also may have been manipulated? Would 14 that information have affected the way you made your recommendation that day?
15 A It's a little hard to speculate on a hypothetical, but I like to think that we 16 would've considered that and it would have been impactful. And I would say, in the 17 subsequent clarifications to the policy that we issued after this incident, we explicitly 18 contemplated the possibility of doctored and manipulated content being released here
19 and made for provisions in the policy for what we would do in cases where we suspected 20 the content was doctored or manipulated.
21 Q But that was after --
22 A That was after this incident.
23 Q Okay. If you had information that the FBI was investigating at the time
24 whether the information purported to come from Hunter Biden, this laptop, the hard
25 drives or other things, at the time they were investigating whether those materials

1 actually came from Rudy Giuliani and were part of a Russian disinformation campaign,
2 would that information have affected your hack and leak -- your decision regarding the
3 hack-and-leak policy enforcement?
4 A If there was reliable information that the content was Russian in origin and
5 was being laundered in some kind of way through somebody, certainly that would've
6 impacted our decision-making.
7 Q Okay. So if there was information like the metadata, for example, on the 8 emails that were contained in that article, the New York Post article, if there were 9 evidence that that metadata showed the emails were actually created after they were 10 allegedly dropped off or that the laptop was allegedly dropped off in April 2019, would 11 that information have affected your recommendation?
12 A It certainly would've complicated the decision-making, yes.
13 Q Okay. And also with regard to metadata, one of the emails that was sort of 14 screenshotted or a PDF in that article was purported to be from a Ukrainian businessman
15 by the name of Vadym Pozharskiy. I'm not going to spell that just because part of my 16 point is that there was a difference in spelling. And if, you know, analysis with the 17 government or otherwise had shown that the spelling of Mr. Pozharskiy's name in the 18 purported email was actually incorrect, it was not the way the man spells his name, it was 19 a Russian version of the spelling versus Ukrainian, would that kind of metadata analysis or 20 information that that evidence existed have affected your recommendation at that time 21 that this material might have been hacked and might have needed to be enforced 22 against?
23 A I mean, that's a very nuanced version of that analysis.
24 Q Sure.
25 A So I think like it -- on one of our best days I think the investigators on my

1 team could've figured that out and it would have been important to know. But I would
2 say, like, looking back on it with hindsight, this was a complex situation. Any additional 3 information we could've gotten from any source that reliably pointed to the origin of the 4 content, its authenticity, any of that would've been absolutely essential in our 5 decision-making.
6 Q Okay. And I'm just going to have one more example. I'm not going to 7 torture you any further with this. But if you had known that there was evidence at the 8 time that this email regarding Mr. Vadym Pozharskiy was actually fake in the sense that it
9 was supposed to be a Gmail email, and it had at the top, and you can see this in the 10 article, had the letters VP, meaning Vadym Pozharskiy, that appeared in this email that 11 was supposed to have come from Pozharskiy to Hunter Biden. And if metadata's
12 analysis showed that that's actually not how email from Gmail works because those only 13 appear -- this had to be a sent email --
14 A Yes.
15 Q -- because those only appear to the person sending it, would that kind of 16 analysis or that evidence that this email was faked have affected your recommendation
17 with respect to enforcing under that hack policy?

1 [12:12 p.m.]

2 Mr. Roth. It would have, yes.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Okay. But just to sum up, fair to say you were making a recommendation

5 in a fast-moving situation? Fair to say?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And you did not have a lot of information about the metadata, for example,

8 in these emails?

9 A That's right.

10 Q Or the source of this information that the government was also looking into,

11 whether it had been part of a Russian disinformation campaign?

12 A Yeah. We didn't know that when we were making the original decision.

13 [redacted] Okay.

14 [redacted] I think we can go off the record.

15 [Recess.]

16 [redacted] Can we go back on the record, please? It's 1 o'clock.

17 EXAMINATION

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Dr. Roth, did you work with Nick Pickles during your time at Twitter?

20 A I did.

21 Q And what was his role?

22 A He had a few different roles in my time at the company, including serving as

23 head of the U.K. public policy and then certainly as head of, I think it was something like

24 public policy strategy and programs, but he was a senior member of Twitter's Public

25 Policy Team.

1 Q Okay. Was he involved in any of the discussions on October 14, 2020,
2 regarding how to handle The New York Post story?
3 A Not to the best of my recollection, but I'm not certain.
4 Q Did you work with Jim Baker during your time at Twitter?
5 A I did.
6 Q And what was the nature of your interactions?
7 A Mr. Baker was a vice president in the legal department, and so, he was one
8 of the advisors to the company on legal matters and advised me and my team on the laws
9 as they applied to our policies.
10 Q Did you consult with Mr. Baker on October 14, 2020, as it relates to The New 11 York Post story?
12 A My recollection is that Mr. Baker, or a member of his team, or multiple 13 people on his team, were involved in some of the later discussions in the day, but I don't 14 recall consulting with him prior to the original enforcement action the morning of the 15 14th, but that's -- again, that's just my recollection. I'm not certain.
16 Q And then during this time of fall 2020, did Mr. Baker report to Ms. Gadde?
17 A My recollection is that he reported to [redacted] who is Twitter's general
18 counsel, and [redacted] reported to Ms. Gadde.
19 Q During your time at Twitter, was there a team known by the name SCALE in 20 all caps?
21 A Yes, Safety, Content, and Law Enforcement.
22 Q And where did SCALE fit in the organization compared to Trust and Safety?
23 A SCALE was the legal team that advised Trust and Safety. So they reported
24 in to Mr. Baker and were a team of attorneys that advised the Trust and Safety Team.
25 Q Okay. In the fall of 2020, just approximately how big was this team?

1 A My best guess would be about 10 lawyers globally, but it could have been a
2 little more or a little bit less.
3 Q During your time at Twitter, was there a team that went by the name of the 4 Strategic Response Team or the Global Escalation Team?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And what was the proper name of that team just so we --
7 A Both of those are proper names of that team.
8 Q Okay. We'll go with Strategic Response Team.
9 What were the responsibilities of that team, and where did it fit in relation to 10 Trust and Safety?
11 A Yeah. The Strategic Response Team was a part of Twitter Service, which 12 was the operations organization at Twitter. They were responsible for the scaled
13 enforcement of Twitter's policies. So when it came to the frontline review of individual
14 tweets or posts or responses to user reports, Twitter Service was the organization with 15 the mandate of performing most of those actions.
16 The Strategic Response Team was an escalated team within that organization that 17 would deal with employee escalations of issues, so if an employee was reporting
18 something or with otherwise prominent or attention getting instance.
19 Q Okay. What was the threshold of what would be appropriate to escalate to 20 this Strategic Response Team?
21 A That was never precisely defined.
22 Q As it relates to The New York Post story, was that an incident that was 23 escalated to the Strategic Response Team?
24 A My recollection is no. My recollection is that that incident was handled
25 primarily through the Trust and Safety Team directly, and was not something that was

1 delegated, at least at first, to the Strategic Response Team or to any part of Twitter
2 Service.
3 Q What about with respect to Twitter's decision to remove President Trump
4 from the platform in January of 2021?
5 A That decision was made by members of Twitter's executive team, I was part
6 of that group, but that was not handled by the Strategic Response Team. Other content
7 moderation actions regarding the President's account were handled by the Strategic 8 Response Team.
9 Q Are there any that come to mind?
10 A I mean, between Election Day in 2020 and January the 6th, I believe over 140
11 separate posts from the former President's account were labeled as misinformation.
12 The Strategic Response Team applied the overwhelming majority, if not all of those 13 labels.
14 Q What is Twitter's Site Integrity Policy Escalation Support Team, if I got that
15 right?
16 A I know the acronym that you're referring to, but it actually didn't refer to Site
17 Integrity. SiP stands for site policy, which is a different -- it all gets a little confusing.
18 Site policy is the part of Trust and Safety that I referred to as the safety team, so that was 19 the part of the organization I became responsible for only in late 2021. But they were 20 capital S, lower case i, capital P, site policy is the abbreviation. They did safety, abuse,
21 harassment, child safety, extremism. And then PES stands for policy escalation support.
22 So essentially, if there were cases of ambiguity regarding the enforcement of a policy, a
23 prominent instance that required some additional scrutiny, that team would be consulted
24 as part of the enforcement decision.
25 Q Turning to the U.S. Government, industry meetings we were discussing

1 earlier, during 2020 did those meetings occur via video conference, like Zoom or 2 something similar?
3 A Certainly many of them did. Some of them were over Zoom. Some of 4 them may have been over Webex at one point. Some of them may have been 5 conference calls by phone. I think especially early in the pandemic, we were sort of 6 figuring out what the right technology to use was.
7 Q Prior to the pandemic, did these tend to be in-person meetings or were they 8 still someone joining via some kind of a conference line?
9 A My recollection is that most of them, if not all, were in person.
10 Q And where would they be hosted when they were in person?
11 A They varied. A number were hosted by Facebook at their headquarters in 12 California. At least one was hosted by Twitter at our headquarters in San Francisco, but 13 they sort of moved around.
14 Q For the in-person ones pre-pandemic, do you recall approximately how 15 many people would attend these meetings?
16 A I would say somewhere north of 20 and under 50.
17 Q And then once they move online because of the pandemic, do you recall if 18 the number of folks attending changed in that general range?
19 A No. I think it still stayed about that same range. I mean, my recollection 20 was that sometimes there would be a conference room dialed in and the camera would 21 be at a weird angle, so we couldn't see exactly how many people were in that room, but I
22 think it's still roughly in that same range.
23 Q Would people generally -- did they have the cameras on for this meeting?
24 A For the most part, yeah, that's my recollection.
25 Q Now, we touched upon this a little bit in the previous hour. I just want to

1 make sure it's clear for the record. We were discussing about October 14th, first
2 realized -- you know, find out about the article. You have a more junior team member 3 who's working on a memo, and then you're ultimately delivering some sort of 4 recommendation to Ms. Harvey.
5 In the memo, or in your recommendations to Ms. Harvey, was there any reference
6 to, as you put it, the awareness by social media companies and the government of the 7 risk of hack and leak generally that was included?
8 A Let me first say, like, I recall a member of my team working on a document
9 about it. I don't recall there ever being a finished document that I saw, so I don't want
10 to, like, talk about the contents of a document that I'm not actually sure existed.
11 But in terms of my discussions with Del Harvey, it would have gone without saying
12 that there was sort of a broad recognition of the risks of hack and leaks. We didn't 13 discuss it prior to that original decision in any specific way that I recall.
14 Q Independent of The New York Post story, but just generally around this time,
15 the fall of 2020, how frequently was it the case you had to elevate something like that to 16 Ms. Harvey where you're making a recommendation?
17 A Maybe once a week, if that. I would say on the whole the goal of a trust 18 and safety organization is to reduce the number of times that senior executives have to 19 be involved. So I would try to reduce how often Del had to make a decision. My team
20 would try to reduce how often I had to make a decision. But, obviously, when you're 21 talking about moderation in the context of an election, those are big decisions with very 22 serious consequences. And so, especially in the context of elections and moderating 23 politicians, many of those decisions would be escalated from my team to me, from me to 24 Del Harvey, from Del Harvey to Vijaya Gadde and others.
25 Q For the instances where -- and we'll stick with the fall 2020 timeframe.

1 How frequently was your recommendation overruled either by Ms. Harvey or Ms. Gadde
2 when you were in a position where you had to elevate a question?
3 A I don't recall a sort of direct yes-to-no or no-to-yes overruling happening in 4 cases other than this one. There would certainly be discussions where there would be
5 disagreements, sometimes heated disagreement, but this is the only instance I can recall
6 where there was sort of a direct reversal of a recommendation.
7 Q Uh-huh. When Ms. Harvey is coming back to you and saying what the 8 decision was and asking you to implement it, as part of the conversation, was there an 9 acknowledgment of it sounds like a somewhat unique situation where you're kind of 10 the -- I know you didn't like the term earlier -- but expert in this field and made a 11 recommendation and now are effectively getting overruled?
12 A To the best of my recollection, I think it was mentioned, like, a different
13 decision came down. But we were trying to move quickly, and I think in that 14 moment -- thinking about my own experience of it, I don't recall disagreeing vehemently
15 enough to object in that moment. And so I just said, Okay, and then we implemented
16 the decision.
17 Q When you were -- ultimately you said you were responsible for the Trust and 18 Safety Team. Did you have an opportunity early in the morning to consult with other 19 team members -- you mentioned one, but just even more broadly than that -- before
20 delivering your recommendation to Ms. Harvey?
21 A It would be completely standard for that to have happened, but I don't recall
22 specifically.
23 Q Are you familiar with Twitter's L3 deamplification tool?
24 A The L3 is throwing me a little bit. I know there's been a lot of public
25 discussion of some of these tools through the Twitter Files and elsewhere. That doesn't

1 ring a specific bell. Deamplification certainly does ring a bell and I am familiar with that,
2 yes.
3 Q Okay. Building off public reporting, including the Twitter Files, but there
4 were a number of terms that have come around. Just trying to get a better sense of 5 what they meant.
6 So, first, was there anything within the company -- a term referring to a search
7 blacklist?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And what was a search blacklist?
10 A Most commonly that would refer to a label, such as a designation or a flag, 11 that could be applied to a tweet or an account that would remove that account from 12 search results. Most commonly, that label was used as a way to enforce against spam.
13 Q Was this a designation that could be applied automatically or only manually?
14 A Predominantly it was applied automatically. In a limited number of cases,
15 it could be applied manually, but that was not a commonly deployed mechanism.
16 Q Was there a designation during your time at Twitter called "Do Not amplify"?
17 A Yes.
18 Q And what was the effect or purpose of that designation?
19 A Pretty much what it says on the label. It would restrict any algorithmic
20 amplification of a piece of content or an account in the Twitter product. So it wouldn't 21 delete the conduct. If a viewer navigated to it directly and tried to view it, that would 22 still be possible for them, but it would make it so that Twitter would not, through its 23 product, elevate the prominence of that content. It would not amplify it.
24 Q And was this designation -- did it tend to be applied automatically or 25 manually?

1 A Both.
2 Q Was one more common than the other?
3 A I couldn't really say with certainty. That sort of calls for the prevalence of 4 those applications. That's data I'm sure Twitter has, but off the top of my head, I don't
5 know.
6 Q Was there a designation within Twitter called "shadow ban" or "shadow 7 banning"?
8 A There was not.
9 Q What about with respect to visibility filtering?
10 A Visibility filtering was the name of a -- we called it surface, but you could 11 think of it as a feature of the Twitter product that was responsible for deciding when and 12 where to show specific pieces of content or accounts.
13 Q And for this designation, was it applied automatically or manually?
14 A This was a system for designations to be applied in the product. So, for 15 example, search blacklist which you referenced earlier is one of those designations. The 16 visibility filtering system would say for a user labeled with, search blacklist, don't show
17 them in X, Y, and Z locations. Do show them in A, B, and C.
18 And so it was a system that was the integration point for labels, if that makes 19 sense.
20 Q It does. Did the term "visibility filtering" change at all during your tenure at 21 Twitter? Was it called different things at different times?
22 A That's a good question.
23 That's the only term that I recall off the top of my head.
24 Q For the designation "recent abuse strike," what did that mean and how long 25 was it in effect for?

1 A That was a label that would be applied to accounts if they had recently
2 violated the Twitter rules and had an enforcement action taken against them. It would
3 typically be applied automatically by Twitter's enforcement systems, and it would persist
4 on accounts for a variable period of time, sometimes for 1 month, 3 months, 6 months.
5 It could be configured in different ways.
6 Q Did the length depend on the type of abuse that, you know, was purported
7 to have occurred?
8 A That's right. The severity of the violation typically -- a more severe
9 violation would result in a longer duration of that label being applied.
10 Q What did the designation "trends blacklist" mean?
11 A That one is a bit of a confusing one. And I'll say in the public reporting
12 about that label, including the Twitter Files, it has been broadly mischaracterized and 13 misrepresented. Trends blacklist was a label that would mark an account ineligible as 14 being counted towards trends. It would not restrict the visibility of their content.
15 Their content would still show up in trends and in search results. That's the basic thing
16 that the reporting gets wrong. It would just mean that if you're counting up the number 17 of tweets about a topic to see whether it should appear in the list of trending topics, that 18 one user wouldn't count towards the computation of a trend. So it was a very, very 19 mild, primarily, way of dealing with spam.
20 Q Did it tend to be applied automatically or manually?
21 A In nearly every instance, if not every instance, it would have been applied
22 automatically.
23 Q Okay. What does the designation "strike count" mean?
24 A That was a newer system that Twitter had been developing to track the 25 number of enforcement actions that had been taken against an account. So if you

1 repeatedly violate the Twitter rules, you accumulate what are called strikes, and then,
2 you know, if it's -- like in baseball, three strikes and you're out.
3 And so the strike count designation in Twitter's internal tools was meant to tally
4 up those strikes. It was never fully implemented, at least in my time at the company,
5 and so it focused instead on repeated takedowns of content under the Digital Millennium
6 Copyright Act where, for repeated copyright takedowns, those strikes would be tallied.
7 And once a user had had, I believe, six takedowns, their account would be banned.
8 Q For the designation or label "notification spike," what did that mean and 9 what was the effect of it?
10 A Yeah. That label had no effect on user account experience. It would just 11 indicate that they had started receiving an abnormally large number of verification -- of 12 notifications relative to the number that they typically received. So usually, if you're 13 mentioned once or twice a day on Twitter, and all the sudden you're mentioned 1,000
14 times a day, Twitter systems would recognize that and apply that designation to the 15 account, but it had no effect on user experience.
16 Q Okay. So not for that most recent one, but some of the terms we are going 17 through, it sounds like in many cases it's applied automatically, but for the instances 18 where its applied manually, which team is responsible for applying or, you know, bringing 19 into effect those designations?
20 A The teams that most often would have applied those designations, if it were 21 applied manually, or removed manually, which was more common, would have been the 22 Strategic Response Team and then less frequently the Trust and Safety Team.
23 Mr. Issa. When you say "team," how many human beings? How many 24 different people could have access to one or the other of those capabilities?
25 Mr. Roth. The ability to apply labels directly was relatively uncommon. So I

1 would say within the Trust and Safety Team, approximately 50 or 60 people would have
2 had access to it. And within the Twitter Service Team and Strategic Response, it would 3 have been probably between 20 and 50 individuals.
4 Mr. Issa. And was that password-controlled?
5 Mr. Roth. Yes, it was strictly access controlled, so at several layers. First, with 6 the ability to log in and access these tools, not every Twitter employee could get into the 7 tools at all. That was heavily locked down. Second, within the tools, not everybody
8 had the same capabilities, so that was heavily restricted. A random employee who 9 didn't have a need to apply or remove labels couldn't do it. And then, finally, usage of 10 these tools was carefully audited. And so between the Trust and Safety Team and 11 Twitter's Information Security Team, if there was evidence that somebody was accessing 12 and using tools without a legitimate business purpose or is doing so outside of Twitter's
13 policies, there were systems to detect that and prevent it.
14 Mr. Issa. But were those systems sophisticated enough to detect one
15 occurrence? You know, if an individual using his password or someone else's password
16 logged in and restricted what we call throttling sometimes in generic terms, somebody 17 would -- would there be a way to determine that or could you, in fact, randomly pick 18 somebody?
19 Mr. Roth. It depends. I would say for particularly prominent accounts, 20 especially elected officials or celebrities or news sites, the auditing on access to those 21 accounts was significant and real time. Alerts would go off if somebody tried to open
22 the account of the President or a Member of Congress, and those alerts would trigger
23 investigations by people on Twitter's Security Team.
24 Mr. Issa. So it's fair to say, even though it could be done manually, it would have 25 to be done manually and with more than one person being aware and involved in the

1 process of allowing that, you know, whatever change to occur, putting something on or
2 taking something off?
3 Mr. Roth. I would say it's possible somebody could perform the action on their 4 own without authorization, but it would be detected quickly, and unauthorized usage
5 would be reversed quickly.
6 Mr. Issa. That's what I'm saying is --
7 Mr. Roth. Yeah.
8 Mr. Issa. -- you have to have, for a high-profile person, a person who does it and 9 a person who is responsible to say it's okay. But if you have those two, then that could 10 occur?
11 Mr. Roth. Not in every instance. I mean, I would say Twitter didn't have a 12 formal, kind of two-party verification system. There was no, like, somebody gives the 13 launch order and then somebody gives the code to confirm it. Most of the time, 14 content moderators could act on their own to enforce these policies, but there was 15 after-the-fact auditing. And so, if somebody made a mistake or acted without 16 authorization, that action could be rolled back.
17 Mr. Issa. So I'm getting two answers. If you don't mind, one more follow-up.
18 People can do it on their own, a single individual. In most cases, you believe an 19 auditor would determine that, and if it was wrong, roll it back, most, but not all?
20 Mr. Roth. That's my belief, yes.
21 Mr. Issa. Then to use what this committee would often look at, if it occurred one 22 or more times, then it wasn't likely to be the action of an individual, but in fact, using our 23 term, a conspiracy of two or more in order to make it happen when it shouldn't have 24 happened, the individual and the auditor?
25 Mr. Roth. I'm struggling with the word "conspiracy" in that context.

1 Mr. Issa. Well, conspiracy is any time more than one person decides to do
2 something, and they conspire together. So it would have to be a coordination, based on 3 what you told us, in order for this to happen, particularly if it happened to more than one
4 person over a period of time. And that's why I'm asking is if more than one person,
5 more than one time were, in some way, wrongfully reduced in their effectiveness or 6 taken down, so to speak, that would have to have an individual doing it and an auditor,
7 correct?
8 Mr. Roth. Another scenario that could result in that is an ambiguity in the policy
9 or a mistake. And I would not characterize that as a conspiracy or collusion or people
10 coming together. There could simply be a thing that is poorly understood and people
11 can independently arrive at the wrong conclusion.
12 And so I -- certainly what you described could happen. I don't recall instances in 13 which I became aware of multiple parties colluding in some fashion to enact incorrect
14 content moderation decisions. But also Twitter made content moderation errors all the 15 time. Every tech company does. There are millions of moderation decisions made 16 each month, and a tiny percentage of those are mistakes. I believe that many of those 17 mistakes get caught and get rolled back successfully. I'm sure some of them don't. But 18 I don't -- for me, it's hard to see it as a form of conspiracy that those mistakes happen.
19 Mr. Issa. So if you misunderstand a policy, that's a mistake. If you choose to 20 have a bias in the policy, what is that?
21 Mr. Roth. I'm not sure I understand the meaning of the -- 22 Mr. Issa. There's a pattern, as has been alleged publicly, that conservatives got 23 different treatment than liberals in how often these takedowns and throttlings, and so
24 on, occurred. If that is true, is it a mistake? Is it a bias? Is it both?
25 You know, you say you have controls, but what I'm hearing is that if people choose

1 to interpret something in a certain way and they collectively interpret it that way, then, in
2 fact, it's not going to be picked up by your system as an error. So then the question is, is 3 that a mistake if it affects one group disproportionately over another, or is it a bias?
4 How would you characterize it?
5 [redacted]. If you know anything about this.
6 Mr. Issa. Because we've been told until -- quite frankly, until Twitter was bought
7 out, that all of these were algorithms and they were benign and we didn't understand.
8 Your testimony, and testimony we've had before, now indicates there's a lot of 9 human intervention.
10 Mr. Roth. Yeah.
11 Mr. Issa. So that's why I'm asking about how human intervention potentially 12 could cause that, just to understand it, because we're no longer talking about algorithms
13 that just did it. We're talking about human intervention, and we're trying to figure out
14 what it takes to have that human intervention have an outcome.
15 Mr. Roth. Yeah. I mean, I think there's a lot of components to what you just 16 asked, and so I'll try to parse it out a little bit.
17 First, I wouldn't accept the characterization that it's somehow new that there
18 were humans involved in the moderation process. Twitter has, for years, going back to 19 2010, 2012, '14, spoken publicly about humans involved in the moderation process. My 20 former supervisor, Del Harvey, gave a TED Talk in 2014 about this very topic and the way
21 that humans are involved. And so, it's always been a mixture of algorithms and people,
22 and both of those are fallible. Algorithms are fallible. People are fallible.
23 I'd also say that while there are allegations that circulate that conservatives were 24 dis -- American conservatives were disproportionately affected by Twitter's content
25 moderation, first, that's not borne out empirically in any of the peer-reviewed studies

1 that I'm aware of, so most of the studies that I've seen -- I'll say all of the studies that I've 2 seen -- suggest that conservatives actually enjoyed greater amplification on Twitter than 3 their liberal counterparts. And this is peer-reviewed academic research coming from 4 Twitter and coming from others.
5 And so, I understand that people have that feeling and that experience. It's not
6 borne out in the evidence that I've seen.
7 But then, finally, like, if we accept even the premise that there are unequal
8 outcomes, the question is, is it unequal because of unfairness in the process or is it
9 unequal because the rate of violations amongst different groups is different? Do
10 Democrats violate the Twitter rules as often as Republicans do?
11 Now, Twitter's rules don't care if you're a Democrat or a Republican. It was my 12 job and the company's job to enforce those policies impartially. But if the rates of 13 violations were different, you would see an unequal outcome. I wouldn't call that bias, 14 but it could represent a skew in the population that we're talking about.
15 Mr. Issa. Thank you.

17 Q Turning back to October 14, 2020, and The New York Post story, the morning
18 of the 14th -- or actually any time during the day, besides the hacked materials policies,
19 did Twitter consider whether other content moderation policies were applicable?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Which other policies were considered?
22 A I recall the company specifically considering whether the policy around
23 posting private information might be applicable in this circumstance.
24 Q Any other policies that come to mind?
25 A That's the only one that I recall the company discussing.

1 Q Do you know if any enforcement actions were taken with respect to the 2 posting private information policy?
3 A At various points, yes. So over the course of the day as additional 4 information came to light, and as additional stories were published, some of those stories
5 included unredacted email addresses and contact information for some of the people
6 that I believe Hunter Biden had been communicating with or is alleged to have 7 communicated with. And so, in situations where there was unredacted private personal
8 information, my recollection is that Twitter removed some of those instances as well.
9 There was also about a week later, in my recollection, a separate release of 10 primarily photographs and images, again, alleged to have come from the laptop that were 11 primarily sexual images of Hunter Biden. Twitter removed a number of those under its 12 nonconsensual and nudity policy, so the policy prohibiting revenge porn. But that was 13 separate from the original New York Post coverage.
14 Q On the 14th, you mentioned -- excuse me. In this interview, you
15 mentioned on the 14th you had discussions or some sort of communications with [redacted]
16 [redacted] at Facebook. Was it your understanding, based off of those early 17 communications, whether Facebook was looking at whether to take action or not under 18 its -- the corresponding Hacked Materials Policy at Facebook or the misinformation policy
19 at Facebook?
20 A I don't recall.
21 Q We were, in the first hour, discussing about how the election integrity and 22 civic integrity policy at Twitter changed over the years and then into the second half of 23 2020, there was a focus on content and truthfulness that fell under this misinformation
24 umbrella. To your recollection, was that set of policies ever considered for taking action
25 against The New York Post story?

1 A No, not to the best of my recollection.

2 Q Okay. And if it were to be considered, if action were to be considered

3 under that set of policies, that would primarily start with your team's analysis. Is that

4 correct, or is there --

5 A That would have been with my team, yes.

6 Q Again, during the first hour we discussed kind of the different options that

7 were available to Twitter once the decision is made to enforce the story.

8 When Ms. Harvey is telling you the decision that had been made, was she also

9 providing detail on what enforcement steps would or would not be appropriate in this

10 case?

11 A My recollection is that when the decision was communicated to me, it was

12 something along the lines of this is a violation. We should just take it down. And from

13 there, I interpreted that as a call to block the distribution of the link and remove the 14 specific post from The New York Post.

15 Q Okay. What about the account suspensions that occurred that day?

16 A Could you clarify which ones you're thinking of?

17 Q Sure. We'll start first with The New York Post account itself.

18 A So I would say then The New York Post account was not suspended. The 19 New York Post was what, in Twitter parlance, we call "bounced." What that means is 20 the account was put in a read-only state pending the deletion of a tweet that violated the 21 rules.

22 So if The New York Post had deleted that post, their account would have been

23 immediately reinstated. They could have posted as usual. And The New York Post

24 objected to Twitter's enforcement decision and would not delete that post. And,

25 consequently, their account was locked in a read-only state.

1 Even after Twitter changed its enforcement decision regarding the story broadly,
2 it was Twitter's standing practice not to retroactively change its enforcement actions.
3 And so, for a period of time, there persisted a standoff between Twitter and The New
4 York Post where Twitter didn't want to retroactively change its decision, The New York
5 Post wouldn't delete its post, and so I believe they were locked out of their account for 6 2 weeks, or something like that, until Twitter ultimately retroactively changed its policy
7 and reinstated them.
8 Q Who at Twitter made that decision to retroactively, you know, reverse its 9 policy from before and reinstate them?
10 A Ultimately was Vijaya Gadde.
11 Q In those 2 weeks, were there ongoing discussions? How many times was 12 the decision revisited internally at Twitter?
13 A Constantly.
14 Q And who was participating in these discussions?
15 A Primarily the discussions included me, Ms. Harvey, Ms. Gadde, [redacted], 16 Mr. Baker, members of Mr. Baker's team. I also recall [redacted], who was 17 the vice president of public policy for the United States and the Americas, being involved
18 in those discussions. I recall [redacted], who was an attorney on the legal team,
19 being involved. There may have been others, but I believe that's the core group.
20 Q Okay. And what was your recommendation?
21 A I drafted an updated version of the distribution of Hacked Materials Policy 22 that provided primarily for labeling suspected hacked materials rather than removing the 23 content in its entirety, so it would apply additional context.
24 So in a situation like The New York Post story, if there had been evidence that it
25 was, in fact, the product of a hack, which I didn't believe it was, but if there had been that

1 evidence, then instead of deleting the tweet, Twitter would have applied a label to it that
2 said: This is suspected to have originated with a hack.
3 And so, I developed that updated policy, and at some point after the 14th -- I
4 forget precisely when -- Twitter introduced the updated policy publicly.
5 Q Did the introduction of the new policy and the decision to -- I don't know
6 what the right word would be -- but unbounce The New York Post account --
7 A That is the right word.
8 Q Okay. Did that occur simultaneously? Was it the same decision, or was 9 there a gap?
10 A No. They were separate decisions. And, again, I'll say, like, in my nearly 11 8 years at the company, I can only recall one instance of the company retroactively
12 changing its policies. In every other instance, Twitter would say: Our rules have 13 changed from this day forward. If you previously were enforced against under these 14 rules, the past is the past.
15 And in this instance Ms. Gadde made a single, one-time exception for The New 16 York Post and said that because their objections had directly triggered the policy change,
17 we would reinstate their account. But that was a unique occurrence in my experience.
18 And it's why she made the decision directly.
19 Mr. Issa. If I could ask a follow-up question on that. It's a hypothetical.
20 If they had deleted their material, and the next day put it back on, would they, in 21 fact, have not violated anything?
22 Mr. Roth. Yes, because 24 hours after Twitter's original decision, we reversed
23 course on the designation of this as being hacked materials. That was the point of 24 original disagreement, and so --
25 Mr. Issa. Right. So having said that, you discovered that it wasn't hacked

1 material, but for 2 weeks kept it locked up because it had been banned for being hacked
2 material. Isn't that, by definition, refusing to admit you're wrong while, in fact,
3 admitting you're wrong but not changing your decision for 2 weeks?
4 Mr. Roth. I mean, I'll clarify here. Like, my personal view on this was that it
5 was not hacked materials. The company's action was for 24 hours to treat it as hacked
6 materials, and then separately, there was -- I would describe it as digging in one's heels as 7 a company on persisting with that decision.
8 Now, my personal judgment, looking back on all of this, is that that doesn't seem
9 like a fight worth having, and it was perhaps a refusal to admit fault. It was a
10 fast-moving and complicated situation. I think the company made the best decisions it
11 could make. But in that moment, 24 hours later Twitter said, This is not hacked
12 materials. Anybody could post that content and share it without restriction. The New 13 York Post were stuck in this standoff because of the retroactive policy.
14 Mr. Issa. Is that policy still in place such that you can tell the truth, be accused of 15 not telling the truth, and then be banned until you're willing to remove the truth even if 16 you can repost it?
17 Mr. Roth. I don't know that Twitter has a policy in those terms, so I --
18 Mr. Issa. Well, we are talking about truth versus accused not truth. They told 19 the truth. Twitter was wrong about it being hacked material, 24 hours later, admitted it 20 was wrong, and for 2 weeks would not allow the truth to come out unless you were 21 willing to delete it and, I guess, resubmit it. I just want to understand --
22 [redacted]. Is that an accurate description?
23 Mr. Issa. Is that an accurate description?
24 Mr. Roth. Again, I object a little bit to truth versus falsehood. We talk about 25 this in terms of violations of policy, and so, there was what was understood by the

1 company to be a violation of its rules. The company then reversed course on that
2 policy. And then, after that point, future activity that didn't violate the rules would have
3 happened without restriction. If I understand the question correctly, it's --
4 Mr. Issa. Do you follow sports at all?
5 Mr. Roth. I don't, no.
6 Mr. Issa. Okay. Well, you follow it enough to know that in football, they have 7 cameras and somebody calls out something, and then if someone objects, they look at 8 the camera, and the outcome is then reconsidered de novo. And they say, What does 9 the camera show?
10 What I want to understand is isn't it the case that Twitter recognized that this was 11 not hacked material 24 hours later as though they looked at the camera, if you will, in 12 the -- for deciding whether the referee had made the right call, and then for 2 weeks,
13 said, but we don't go back -- we don't do retroactive changes in policy.
14 I'm not seeing a policy. I'm asking in my terms -- and you objected to the word
15 "truth." But you accused The New York Post of having used hacked material.
16 [redacted] He didn't. Twitter did.
17 Mr. Issa. Twitter, you, the company. They substantiated that they hadn't.
18 Twitter agreed with that, but then you're calling it a policy change when, in fact, it really 19 was just a matter of the truth, right, that it wasn't hacked material?
20 Mr. Roth. I'm not exactly sure I follow -- I mean, broadly, I think the strokes of 21 how you're describing those 24 hours are right. Let me maybe, like, take a step back
22 and explain why Twitter had this seemingly stupid policy of not retroactively changing
23 things.
24 It's built primarily because content moderation decisions are seldom about one
25 tweet from one prominent account. They are about thousands of tweets from millions

1 and millions of accounts. And so it would be a logistical impossibility for Twitter to 2 retroactively go back and say, You know what, we blew this call. We're going to 3 reinstate all of these posts. Like, that's not possible for the company to do. If we're
4 talking just about this one narrow case of The New York Post, it is clearly possible to do,
5 and, ultimately, the company relented and did it.
6 But we tried, in every instance, to be as consistent in the application of policies
7 across all of Twitter's hundreds of millions of users. And so, you can characterize it as 8 stubbornness, as rigidity, as digging in heels, as a stupid policy, but it was rooted in a
9 desire to be absolutely consistent at scale which resulted sometimes in these slightly
10 absurd outcomes.
11 Mr. Issa. Thank you.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q You'd mentioned that there was only the one instance you could recall of 14 this kind of retroactive. Was that in reference to The New York Post story or one 15 instance in addition to?
16 A That was in reference to The New York Post story.
17 Q Okay. With respect to other accounts that were tweeting the story, so the 18 White House press secretary tweeted the link, those enforcement actions, like, against 19 her account, were those automatic? Were they manually enforced? And is it the same 20 term as bounced?
21 A Bounced.
22 Q Yeah.
23 A My recollection is that one of [redacted] tweets was bounced, yes.
24 That would have, I believe, been performed by the Strategic Response Team, but I don't 25 recall specifically.

1 Q Okay. We'd spoken earlier about if anyone at Twitter reached out to
2 particular groups. Just a couple more. I don't know if we covered them in the first
3 one.
4 Did anyone reach out at Twitter to the Biden campaign?
5 A Not to the best of my knowledge.
6 Q Did anyone reach out -- anyone at Twitter reach out to anyone affiliated with 7 or representing Hunter Biden?
8 A Let me clarify the timing. Is this before Twitter took its enforcement action
9 that morning?
10 Q Anytime, we'll say the week of October 14th.
11 A Was anyone at Twitter during that week in contact with anyone representing 12 Hunter Biden?
13 Q Yes.
14 A To the best of my knowledge, no.
15 Q Okay.
16 A Certainly I can say with confidence, nobody involved in content moderation
17 decisions directly made any contact with anybody representing Hunter Biden.
18 Q In terms of your team's analysis and understanding things are moving 19 quickly, but even once the initial analysis is done and you're, you know, looking for 20 additional information, was there any internal discussions about reaching out to either
21 the Biden campaign or someone affiliated with Hunter Biden to see if they were willing to 22 say whether the laptop was his or not?
23 A I recall the subject coming up, but nobody seriously pursued direct outreach
24 to the individual because that would be quite far outside of our standard enforcement
25 procedures. I recall a discussion where we said, Let's wait and see if they acknowledge

1 it. And I believe that was where the company left it.

2 Q Are you familiar at a high level with the statement that 51 former

3 intelligence officials issued about 5 days after The New York Post story where they said

4 the story bore all the classic earmarks of a Russian information operation?

5 A Yes, I have.

6 Q Did you -- did any of the 51 former intel officials, to your knowledge, reach

7 out to anybody at Twitter?

8 A I'm trying to remember the specific timing, but I believe one of the former

9 intelligence officials was an employee of Twitter. I don't know whether she was actively

10 employed by Twitter at that point, or if she became employed by Twitter subsequently,

11 but I know there's that one connection.

12 Q And who are you thinking of?

13 A This was, again, a relatively junior employee. So if the name is relevant, we

14 can talk about that later, but I'd rather not provide their name on the record unless it's 15 necessary.

16 Mr. Issa. Per standards -- there's 51 names on a piece of paper that's been

17 widely spread. You're saying that we wouldn't be able to find out that one of them was 18 an employee of Twitter and what their dates were?

19 Mr. Roth. I'm sure that would be knowable.

20 Mr. Issa. That's all I think we want to know is when she started, and whether she 21 was employed during that time would be relevant.

22 Mr. Roth. Yeah. I don't recall this individual's specific dates of employment, so

23 I can't provide that. But also I'll just say, like, I -- having suffered pretty significant

24 personal safety consequences in relation to information being disclosed about this, it's

25 my preference not to expose any of my former employees to that potential targeting.

1 I'd prefer not to provide their names on record, but we can certainly follow up about it if
2 it's needed.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q But she signed the statement, right, so --
5 Mr. Issa. Yeah, these are not -- these are people that already would have been 6 exposed, sadly, but exposed. If there is anything, there's nothing -- they're not going to 7 be more upset with her because she worked for Twitter than they are that she was one of 8 the 51 that was outright wrong.
9 Mr. Roth. I couldn't say.
10 Mr. Issa. Okay. Well, we'll ask for it in a different venue.
11 [redacted] I would like to introduce -- I think we're only to exhibit 3.
12 [Roth Exhibit No. 3
13 Was marked for identification.]
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q And I will represent this is taken from the Twitter Files. The committee has 16 done its best to recreate it in a more likeable format. But I'm going to be asking about 17 the screenshots and what they mean.
18 A Okay.
19 [redacted]. Okay. What is this? Could you just describe it?
20 [redacted] So at a high level -- I know Dr. Roth is familiar. They're the Twitter
21 Files. This is pulled from one of the Twitter Files editions. I'm not going to ask about 22 the text above or below the screenshots. I'm just going to ask about the screenshot
23 itself. But to reveal how the committee got it, it's publicly available.
24 Mr. Roth. I recognize this as publicly I believe from Matt Taibbi's reporting in the 25 Twitter Files.

1 [redacted]. Is there a date on these at all?

2 [redacted] Well, there's some numbers -- it looks like there's a time stamp from

3 the screenshot, and then Mr. Taibbi's -- we can get it to you during the break, but it's

4 from either December or January.

5 [redacted] Okay.

6 Mr. Roth. This was posted by Mr. Taibbi in December of 2022. The exact date

7 of the screenshot is an interesting question. From context, it looks like it would have

8 been either the 14th or the 15th, but I couldn't say for sure. Only Mr. Taibbi has that 9 information and has chosen not to include it.

10 [redacted]. Have you had a chance to look it over?

11 Mr. Roth. Yes.

12 [redacted]. Okay.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q So, first, if we could even take one step back from even a potential date, can

15 you describe, just briefly, what we're looking at with the screenshot, what the bot

16 application is, and how this sort of message is generated?

17 A Yep. This is, as far as I can tell, a screenshot taken from Twitter's internal

18 Slack Instance, which is a chat app used by Twitter employees. It was my practice for

19 my employees, which I also adopted, to provide what we called a weekly check-in. So

20 we would use an internal tool to submit a brief write-up of what we had been doing that

21 week, and it was a way for me to see what my employees were working on and for my

22 employees to hear from me about what I was working on.

23 And so, this appears to be a screenshot of one of my check-ins that had been

24 shared to Slack, and the bot application refers to the automation that would take that

25 check-in and automatically repost it in Slack.

1 Q And when it's automatically reposted, this is to a Slack channel that you and
2 your team had access to?
3 A Not my entire team. My check-ins would have gone to a much smaller
4 group, which was my core leadership team, but it would have gone into a group channel
5 that a number of people had access to.
6 Q And again, with the understanding you only have the screenshot here, the 7 16:19:26, you know, back in the fall of 2020 when you were using this, would that be a
8 time stamp?
9 A Yeah, although I don't even know what time zone that is. Maybe UTC. I
10 couldn't say.
11 Q Okay. Understanding that you've seen this before in the public reporting, 12 but re-reviewing this now, does this refresh your memory regarding meetings you had 13 either the day of or shortly thereafter with the government?
14 A Not in any way that reminds me of something new that differs from what we 15 spoke about earlier.
16 Q Okay. There's a reference to weekly sync with FBI/DHS/DNI regarding 17 election security. It's about four lines -- five lines from the bottom. Is that in reference
18 to the USG industry meetings?
19 A That would be my understanding, yes.
20 Q Starting third line from the bottom and going into the second line from the 21 bottom, it says: The government declined to share anything useful when asked.
22 A Yeah.
23 Q Do you recall who asked the government for information?
24 A I don't recall specifically, no. I know it was discussed during that call, but I
25 don't recall who asked the questions.

1 Q Do you recall if it was someone from Twitter or someone -- a different
2 industry partner?
3 A I don't recall. It was somebody in industry, but I just -- I don't remember.
4 Q Okay. Then there's a dash: Monthly meeting with FBI FITF.
5 Do you recall if that was then a second FITF meeting that same day or shortly
6 thereafter?
7 A That certainly sounds right. I mean, I know there were meetings around
8 that time. I don't recall the specific sequencing of them.
9 Q Do you recall --
10 [redacted]. Can I just interrupt? I would like to go off the record for just a brief
11 moment. I want to talk to my client about something.
12 [redacted] Sure. Let's go off the record.
13 [Discussion off the record.]
14 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.
15 Was there anything that you wanted to clarify or -- 16 [redacted]. No. I think we're okay. I just wanted -- I think it was more for my 17 understanding than anyone else. I appreciate it.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Do you recall any internal discussions at Twitter about raising the issues of 20 The New York Post story, or any information it can gather to raise it during the next FITF
21 meeting that would be available to you?
22 A I don't recall any conversations like that specifically. It wouldn't surprise
23 me if those conversations had happened. I just -- I don't remember any of them in any 24 detail.
25 Q Okay. What was the date that you left Twitter?

1 A It was in November of 2022. I want to say it was November 10th, but I
2 could have that date off by a couple of days.
3 Q Do you know why Jim Baker was fired?
4 A I don't have specific firsthand knowledge, no.
5 Q It was before you had left the company. Is that right?
6 A No. My understanding is Mr. Baker was terminated after I had already left
7 Twitter.
8 Q Okay. To your knowledge, did Mr. Baker destroy or attempt to destroy
9 documents upon learning that Twitter was being purchased by Elon Musk?
10 A I have no knowledge of that.
11 Q To your knowledge, did anyone at Twitter destroy or attempt to destroy
12 documents upon learning that Twitter was purchased by Mr. Musk?
13 A Not to the best of my knowledge, no.
14 Q When did you first learn that journalists would have access to internal 15 Twitter documents for the purposes of the Twitter Files reporting?
16 A When Mr. Musk tweeted it out publicly.
17 Q Okay. You had no awareness prior to that?
18 A No.
19 Q We've talked about a couple industry government meetings on or about 20 October 14th. Independent of October 2020, in advance of most government industry 21 meetings, would there be industry only kind of pre-meetings to discuss what industry was 22 interested in talking about?
23 A There wouldn't necessarily be a meeting. There would typically be some 24 conversation by email or by chat about potential agenda items, but it was usually quite 25 brief.

1 Q Do you recall having any sorts of those discussions prior to the government
2 meetings where someone asked about The New York Post story?
3 A No, I don't recall that specifically.
4 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
5 A I do.
6 Q And who is he?
7 A [redacted] leads the threat analysis group at Google.
8 Q Do you believe having discussions with [redacted] about The New York Post
9 story or how it should be handled?
10 A When I said earlier that it's possible I spoke with other folks, [redacted]
11 would be in that small group of people who I possibly would have spoken with. I don't 12 recall doing so. I only recall specifically speaking with Mr. [redacted], but [redacted] was 13 in the small group of my peers and counterparts at other companies. So it wouldn't 14 surprise me to know that. I just don't remember it.
15 Q Okay. Do you know who at the company was responsible for preparing the 16 documents for the Twitter Files journalists to review?
17 A No, I have no direct knowledge of that.
18 Q To your knowledge, did that process start after you had left the company?
19 A To the best of my knowledge, yes. But again, that's speculation.
20 Q You wrote an op-ed in the New York Times after you left the company and 21 discussed a couple of points, one of which was the power that Google and Apple have 22 over Twitter just as a function of operating the App Stores.
23 Did you have any discussions with company leadership about the power that
24 Google and Apple were able to wield over the company?
25 A Not really in those terms, but certainly the subject had come up on a

1 number of occasions. I would say I have been writing about the power that App Stores
2 have over Twitter and other platforms for almost 15 years at this point. I wrote about it
3 in my Ph.D. dissertation, and I think it's a real concern. And during my tenure at Twitter,
4 there were a number of instances where Apple in particular reached out to the company
5 about concerns they had regarding content available in Twitter. Primarily it was about 6 pornography and adult content. And Twitter had to make changes to its product and its 7 policies in order to address Apple's concerns.
8 And so, those issues had come up on a number of occasions, but I don't ever recall
9 a specific discussion that was about, you know, their power as an abstract notion. It was 10 really about dealing with the problem in front of us.

1 [1:59 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q With respect to dealing with the problem in front of you, the kind of 4 concrete examples, setting aside the pornography concerns, do you recall any instances
5 where you were part of discussions at Twitter where there was a concern about Apple
6 maybe taking some steps against the company, again, because of issues other than the 7 pornography related ones you identified?

8 A I recall two other issues. The first one was about the incitement of violence
9 following the events of January the 6th. And the second, shortly before I departed the 10 company, related to hate speech and hateful rhetoric on the service following Elon
11 Musk's acquisition of the company.

12 Q Starting with the first one, to your recollection, what -- first off, did you have 13 any discussions directly with Apple as it related to that issue?

14 A Not that I recall. Again, if I could have looked in my calendar from the time,
15 I'd be able to give you a definitive answer. I don't remember a meeting, but it certainly 16 could have happened.

17 Q Okay. Do you recall participating in internal Twitter meetings about this 18 issue?

19 A I recall there being discussions about this issue, yes.

20 Q And for the discussions you participated in, who else from the company was 21 involved?

22 A I would be speculating. I don't recall specifically.

23 Mr. Issa. Pardon me. Did you say that you don't have access to your calendar
24 for that period of time?

25 Mr. Roth. That's right. When I left the company, Twitter took possession of my

1 computers, disabled my access to my internal email account. And so like there was
2 nothing I could do to prepare for this interview or my hearing before the Oversight
3 Committee.
4 Mr. Issa. You never exported a .pst or any other form of saving of any of your 5 calendars?
6 Mr. Roth. No, sir. That would have violated Twitter's employment policies.
7 Mr. Issa. Thank you.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q Did these discussions, the company's discussions internally as it related to 10 concerns with Apple on this first issue you identified, did they predate, occur
11 simultaneously, or postdate Twitter's decision to suspend President Trump's account?
12 A I don't recall.
13 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
14 [Recess.]
15 [redacted] We are back on the record at 2:15.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q And I just want to follow up on a few things that came up in the previous 18 hour.
19 The employee -- the Twitter employee, the one-time Twitter employee whose 20 name you declined to provide, who was on one of the 51 former intelligence officials who 21 wrote the letter that was referenced earlier, that employee played no role in the 22 decisions -- Twitter's enforcement decisions regarding the New York Post story regarding 23 Hunter Biden's laptop, correct?
24 A That's right.
25 Q Okay. And that employee, in fact, did not even start working for Twitter

1 until September of 2021. Does that sound right?

2 A That certainly could be right. I'm not sure, but --

3 Q And if I told you that we actually verified that her employment was from

4 September 2021 through November of 2022 --

5 A That sounds correct.

6 Q -- would that sound right? Okay. Thank you.

7 And this letter of 51 former intelligence officials that came out on October 19th,

8 2020, did that letter have any impact on Twitter's enforcement decision regarding the 9 New York Post story?

10 A It did not.

11 Q And, in fact, it could not have because the enforcement decision initially was 12 made on the 14th, correct?

13 A That's right.

14 Q And then it was reversed on the 15th.

15 A That's right.

16 Q And when the decision was reversed -- well, when asked about the reversal

17 in the previous hour, I believe it was said that Twitter learned that the laptop had not

18 been hacked.

19 Was the reversal due to a factual determination by Twitter that the laptop had not

20 been hacked? Was that the basis for the reversal as you understand it?

21 A No, I wouldn't say so. I don't believe that the company became aware of 22 materially new facts in that day. The company realized that its interpretation and I

23 would say specifically the executive team's interpretation of the facts as they were 24 available was flawed.

25 Q So it wasn't new facts. It was the interpretation of the policy or the 1 application of the policy to the facts, the same set of facts --

2 A Yes.

3 Q -- that you all knew on the 14th.

4 A I mean, I can really only speak to my knowledge. And I would say that in

5 that 24-hour period, we learned a lot more information, but it was not information that

6 changed my assessment.

7 A lot came to light about the repair shop guy and Rudy Giuliani and all of that.

8 But, like, all of that just contributed to the situation seeming ambiguous and messy.

9 And for me, the threshold decision was, was this conclusively a hack? And the morning

10 of the 14th, I believed that we didn't have the evidence to conclude that. The afternoon

11 of the 14th, I still held that view. And on the 15th, I still held that view.

12 In that intervening period, the company's executive leadership, I believe, came to

13 agree with me that we didn't have enough of a conclusive understanding one way or the 14 other. But I don't know that, at least as I understood them, the facts really changed all 15 that much.

16 Q And having -- deciding that you didn't have a conclusive understanding is not 17 the same as concluding that it was not hacked?

18 A That's right.

19 Q And you did not do the latter.

20 A That's right.

21 Q Okay. Now, I just want to go back to exhibit 3, the screenshots from The 22 Twitter Files that were discussed in the previous hour.

23 You mentioned a meeting that happened 15 minutes after the aforementioned

24 hacked materials implosion, correct?

25 A I should clarify that these were internal messages between me and my direct team, and that I pretty frequently wrote with colorful language. Matt Taibbi parses some abbreviated profanity in this post.

And so I would say, like, I don't believe I was saying that there was a meeting actually 15 minutes after a decision was made here. I think it was just sort of bemoaning the proximity of some of these conversations to an ongoing stressful event. I don't think it was a literal representation of the timeframe involved.

Q Thank you. I appreciate that clarification.

And if you recall, the use of the word "implosion," were you referring to -- well, let me ask a different story -- a different question.

Earlier in this message, you said: We blocked the New York Post story, then we unblocked it.

Was the meeting that you're referring to here after taking both of those actions?

A I don't recall. It -- in looking at this context, it sounds -- it reads to me as though this message were sent on the 15th, not on the 14th. But because the check-ins were sort of an aggregate of a week of information and were sent after the fact, it's really hard to know from just this small excerpt what the true context was or when it was sent or what was meant.

Q Okay. And just as in your declaration to the FEC, when you're referring to a weekly sync, you're referring to something that was only weekly for a short period of time before the election, correct?

A That's right.

Q It was not weekly throughout the year.

A That's right.

Q Okay.

[redacted]

1 Q Mr. Roth, just quickly on this particular exhibit No. 3 and the reporting
2 around it, I just want to open the floor a little bit to you and ask: First of all, did
3 Mr. Taibbi ever reach out to you to confirm or to get comment on anything that he was 4 about to publish with respect to your own messages?
5 A Several minutes before The Twitter Files were due to be published, I believe
6 Mr. Taibbi sent me a direct message on Twitter asking if I cared to comment on 7 something. And I didn't take him up on that offer, in part, because I wasn't really on 8 Twitter at the time. And then --
9 Q When you say something, was there something he sent you that he asked if 10 you wanted to comment on or was --
11 A He didn't provide specific source materials. I don't even recall a specific 12 question. I just think it was sort of an offer to connect. And it was -- again, my 13 recollection is it was just before The Twitter Files started to come out.
14 Q And at that point when he asked if you wished to comment, you didn't know
15 specifically what he was going to publish or what he was asking for comment on. Is that 16 fair to say?
17 A That's right.
18 Q Do you have any response to that now that you know what he did publish
19 and what happened afterward in terms of what Mr. Taibbi offered you --
20 A Yeah.
21 Q -- in terms of opportunity to add context or truth?
22 A I mean, I should say, months later, Mr. Taibbi emailed me and said that he
23 would be very happy to speak with me confidentially if I cared to help inform his future
24 reporting on this subject, and offered very deferential terms of engagement. But by this 25 point we were months into the disclosure of the so-called Twitter Files, and we saw the

1 way that Mr. Taibbi, Bari Weiss, Michael Shellenberger, and others paired out of context
2 screenshots like this one with incredibly inflammatory commentary that often bore no
3 resemblance to what was in the source material.
4 It didn't strike me -- as somebody with a Ph.D. in communication and the study of 5 journalism, this didn't strike me at all as ethical journalistic practice, and I had no intent of 6 engaging with Mr. Taibbi.
7 [redacted] Did you have anything?
8 [redacted] Just 1 minute.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Do you think if you had had more of an opportunity to comment or follow up
11 before the publication of these materials, that you could have -- you could have offered 12 more context, for example, so that some of the misinformation or the -- that resulted 13 from this reporting wouldn't have been so severe?
14 A I think that would have been in the public's interest. I've, for my entire 15 career, been a proponent of transparency. I've advocated for companies like Twitter to 16 do more to explain themselves and their reasoning, and I had a track record in my 8 years
17 at the company of helping the company push its own limits on what it would share.
18 The idea of disclosing internal company deliberations about key content
19 moderation decisions is an interesting one to me. It's a provocation, and I would have 20 liked to see it carried out with ethics and with rigor. And I do think the reporting would 21 have benefited from engagement with the people depicted in it and experts.
22 For example, Bari Weiss' commentary on visibility filtering labels and trends
23 blacklists actually gets the facts wrong. At multiple key points, Ms. Weiss asserts things 24 that are not true demonstrably, not a matter of opinion, not a matter of policy, just 25 wrong. And if she or others had thought to ask questions or seek comment, perhaps

1 they could have reported these issues of significant public importance more accurately.

2 Q Did it seem to you that Mr. Taibbi was interested in getting the facts right or

3 that he might have had some other agenda?

4 A I couldn't say what his intent was. But it certainly didn't strike me that this

5 was intended to be neutral, just-follow-the-facts reporting.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q Along those lines, one of -- you mentioned the inflammatory commentary

8 that was released along with out-of-context screenshots of messages.

9 In one of those messages, and I don't recall which of the reporters said this, but

10 they used examples of some of your communications with the FBI to refer to Twitter as a

11 subsidiary of the FBI.

12 Do you agree with that classification?

13 A I do not in any way.

14 Q Okay. Why not?

15 A Subsidiary to me suggests that Twitter was following orders or directions

16 from the FBI, that we were acting at their behest and turning over data or suppressing

17 content in way that was somehow improper or outside of the law or outside of Twitter's

18 established policies and practices. And that was never my experience.

19 When I interacted with the FBI, it was because I wanted to and because I believed

20 it was in Twitter's interests and the interests of Twitter's users that the company have

21 these engagements.

22 Elsewhere in that installment of The Twitter Files, there's a suggestion that

23 because the government reimbursed Twitter for expenses that it incurred in complying

24 with legal demands, that somehow that was, you know, like money lining the pockets of 25 Twitter in order to, you know, acquiesce to government. It's not. It was a payment in

1 accordance with the law associated with expenses that Twitter as a private entity
2 incurred in obeying lawful search warrants and subpoenas for Twitter data.
3 This was business as usual. These were completely standard, law-abiding
4 interactions. And to see them misrepresented in that way strikes me as wholly 5 disingenuous.
6 Q And it's fair to say that as the reporters who posted Twitter Files even
7 recognized, you often would push back against requests that you got from the FBI if you
8 thought those requests were for something that you were not authorized to give or did 9 not, just did not want to give.
10 A Commonly. I would say I did this regularly, and Twitter as a company
11 regularly pushed back on improper requests.
12 There were multiple instances documented in The Twitter Files of me pushing 13 back on requests from the FBI and other parts of government for access to Twitter data.
14 There were instances where the FBI reported what they suspected to be malign foreign 15 influence and Twitter disagreed with their conclusions and didn't enforce against that 16 activity.
17 We were not sort of blindly following directives and reports from the FBI. We 18 scrutinized and evaluated every single one against our policies.
19 Q So along those lines, you mentioned that the FBI would sometimes point out 20 accounts that they believed to be agents of malign foreign influence, correct?
21 A That's right.
22 Q And whenever the FBI would pass along that sort of information, did they 23 ever -- did that information come along with a request to remove the accounts?
24 A No.
25 Q What would those communications look like?

1 A The FBI, to my recollection, was fastidious almost to the point of it being a
2 little absurd about using caveated language that never ever demanded Twitter do
3 anything. The language typically would say things like, Here's information for your 4 awareness, or, We request that Twitter review this under your policies.
5 It would not assert violations of the policies. It would not demand or assert that 6 Twitter had a responsibility or a duty to remove content. It would simply be shared as 7 material for our awareness.
8 And I don't -- you know, I don't have access to every communication that I
9 received. But from what's in The Twitter Files and from what I remember, every one of 10 these messages was absolutely careful to always just say we are sharing this for your 11 awareness.
12 Q And did that, those careful messages, they never included even a request,
13 albeit a polite one, to remove an account or a tweet?
14 A Not to the best of my recollection, no.
15 Q And when you would receive these communications, did you feel, even 16 though the words on the paper did not include any sort of request or demand, did you
17 feel any internal pressure or any implied pressure, because this was coming from a 18 government agency, we have to do -- we have to look into these tweets and we have to 19 remove them?
20 A No. I would say that that was something Twitter selected for in executive
21 leaders. Deference to outside authority is not something that you want in the people
22 responsible for making these kinds of decisions.
23 Q And what -- so would Twitter handle the information that it received from 24 agencies like the FBI the same way that it would handle information received from private 25 parties in terms of how it would go about deciding whether to enforce?

1 A In terms of the sort of standard of scrutiny and the rules application, it was
2 all exactly the same standards. We did have some additional security procedures that 3 we put around content received from the FBI. I chose to handle those within the 4 investigations group in my direct organization just as a matter of trying to preserve the 5 confidentiality of information that had been shared to Twitter from the FBI.
6 To be clear, none of it was classified, and the FBI never specified that they
7 expected us to do that. But I felt that it was good practice to keep that information
8 need to know instead of making it more broadly available. But that was truly the only 9 difference in handling.
10 Q And so with respect to what Twitter would do in terms of its analysis of any 11 information, anytime Twitter would receive information about an account or a tweet that 12 might be in violation of its terms of service, Twitter, whether it was your group or another
13 group, would conduct its own independent evaluation of the material and make its own
14 determination of whether or not there was a violation. Is that fair to say?
15 A That's right.
16 Q And, in fact, is it fair to say that it's an essential nature, essential part of 17 content moderation that there be independent evaluation by the company whose 18 policies are being enforced?
19 A That's right. That's the entire job of Twitter's content moderation
20 apparatus.
21 Q And sometimes if a, you know, a tweet or an account that was pointed out
22 to you by the FBI as potentially being in violation of your service, if you conducted the,
23 you being Twitter, conducted the analysis, your own independent analysis and 24 determined that it was in violation, then you would enforce against it, correct?
25 A That's right.

1 Q And there were many times, I believe as you just mentioned, where you
2 concluded that there was no violation of your policy and there would be no enforcement?
3 A That's right.
4 Q And each time it was Twitter's decision whether or not to enforce, not the 5 government's?
6 A Every time.
7 Q And -- give me one second, please.
8 [Discussion off the record.]
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q And you mentioned that The Twitter Files themselves contained some 11 examples of you pushing back against the FBI.
12 A That's right.
13 Q I'm going to introduce some of those for the record.
14 [redacted] And we are on No. 4, correct?
15 [Roth Exhibit No. 4
16 Was marked for identification.]
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q Okay. Do you recognize this as being part of an email exchange that was 19 released as part of The Twitter Files?
20 A I actually didn't remember this one specifically, but that wouldn't surprise
21 me.
22 Q And in this -- in this exchange, somebody whose name is redacted from the 23 Counterintelligence Division of the Foreign Influence Task Force recognizes that providing 24 the IP addresses of certain VPNs would likely require legal process, but asked if Twitter
25 would be open to sharing which service providers those VPN IP addresses resolved to,

1 correct?

2 A That's right.

3 Q And can you summarize your response?

4 A I said no. It was Twitter's view that even aggregated in this way, even

5 providing descriptive context about those IP addresses represented a form of basic

6 subscriber information for which legal process, i.e., a subpoena or search warrant, would

7 be required. And I told the FBI we would not be able to provide it without that.

8 Q And that was not -- again, that was not the only instance of you pushing back

9 in that way?

10 A No, not at all. I would say these types of requests were rare, in part,

11 because I so summarily dismissed them whenever they came up that at some point the 12 FBI stopped trying and wouldn't make these kinds of requests anymore.

13 Q And do you recall another exchange in The Twitter Files with a reference to 14 the fort?

15 A I do.

16 Q Can you describe that?

17 A Yeah.

18 Q And explain what the fort is.

19 A Well, my understanding is that refers to Fort Meade, i.e., the National

20 Security Agency. But my recollection of that interaction in The Twitter Files was about

21 Twitter's refusal to allow parts of the intelligence community to directly access Twitter's

22 APIs, so to access the stream of tweets in real time.

23 We had a policy of not permitting parts of government to directly ingest that

24 stream of data from Twitter because we were worried about the privacy and surveillance

25 risks associated with that. And that had been a controversial position that the company had taken. And at various points different folks in government had applied pressure to Twitter to change that policy, which I was responsible for, and Twitter declined on every occasion.

And so at one point, a contact at the FBI -- it might have been Special Agent Chan, I don't recall -- reached out and said that the fort were requesting that Twitter change its policy to allow them to collect this data. And I responded that we were not willing to change our policy, and that was that.

Q And do you recall that Agent Chan also suggested that the folks at the fort would like to have a meeting to discuss it?

A Yes. And I believe I turned down that meeting request.

Q Right. You wouldn't even meet with them to discuss it.

A That's right.

Q And you felt --

A I felt it would be inappropriate.

Q And you felt comfortable enough to say, I won't even meet with you, National Security Council. Thanks but no thanks.

A That's right.

[redacted] That's it for now. We can go off the record, take a break.

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?

BY [redacted]

Q Dr. Roth, during the course of your work at Twitter, did you communicate with government officials via Signal?

A I did.

Q And how many Signal channels did you have that included government

1 officials?

2 A To the best of my recollection, one.

3 Q To your recollection, what was that one and what was its purpose?

4 A As part of the USG/Industry working groups during election periods, we tried

5 to identify ways to streamline information sharing from government to platforms when

6 the government would need to communicate with the tech sector broadly all at once and

7 wanted to ensure that there was a shared understanding of different pieces of

8 information.

9 And so as part of that process, we established a group chat where the FBI or

10 potentially other parts of government through the FBI could disseminate information

11 rapidly to the appropriate stakeholders at the various tech companies that were a part of 12 this group.

13 Q Okay. What role did you play in the creation of this Signal channel?

14 A I developed it.

15 Q And who at the FBI did you consult with prior to developing it?

16 A I recall speaking with Elvis Chan about it. I don't recall speaking with 17 others, but it's certainly possible.

18 Q Was there a reason Signal was considered as opposed to email?

19 A We wanted a channel where everybody could be present in the discussion at

20 once. So that was sort of the first consideration. And then the second was we wanted

21 an encrypted messaging channel where information could be relayed securely, and Signal

22 was the best fit for purpose/solution.

23 Q Do you know if the FBI retained records as it related to this Signal channel or

24 other similar Signal channels?

25 A It was my understanding that they did. Specifically, my understanding from

1 those interactions was that the FBI had obtained specific phones for the purpose of being
2 in this group chat and they expressed the need for Twitter to not add individual agents
3 directly but instead add these FBI group phones for document preservation purposes.
4 And I was never exactly clear on the logic, but it was my understanding at the time that
5 part of their motivation for how they were handling this was about document
6 preservation.
7 Q When the FBI would communicate on the Signal channel, could you tell who 8 from the FBI was communicating?
9 A I remember the communications saying that it was FBI HQ or the San
10 Francisco Field Office. I don't -- I don't recall whether specific agents identified
11 themselves in the chat. It wouldn't surprise me if they did. I just -- I don't remember.
12 Q Did you receive Teleporter attachments during your time at Twitter?
13 A Yes, I did.
14 Q And just at a high level, what is Teleporter and what are the -- how does it
15 work?
16 A Teleporter is a U.S. Government system that's used to securely transmit files
17 to external recipients. So the basic idea of the system is if you need to send an 18 attachment to somebody and you want to make sure it's getting to the right person and 19 hasn't been intercepted by somebody in the middle, you can send them a link to that 20 content using Teleporter.
21 On my end, I would receive a file via Teleporter. I would click a link to access it.
22 The Teleporter system would then send my email automatically a code to confirm that I
23 was, in fact, the recipient of that link. I would enter the code on the Teleporter website,
24 and then I would be able to download the attachment.
25 Q So is it a one-way form of communication where the government could send

1 you information but Twitter could not --

2 A That's my recollection, yeah.

3 Q With respect to the Signal channel, could any of the participants -- I guess in

4 a typical Signal channel, the folks can add in friends or whoever. Were there any sort of 5 restrictions on who could be added to the Signal channel?

6 A Not as a technical matter, but as a matter of policy, yes, we had decided the

7 list of participants well in advance. And I had actually collected the list of phone

8 numbers from industry and then received the list of phone numbers from Special Agent

9 Chan and that was the list of participants in the group chat.

10 [redacted] Are we up to exhibit 5? Yeah.

11 [Roth Exhibit No. 5

12 Was marked for identification.]

13 [redacted] This will be exhibit 5. This is a reproduction of this chat that's been

14 produced to the committee. We're only going to ask about a couple of messages, but

15 we want to give you a few moments to review, get a sense to refamiliarize yourself with 16 it.

17 Mr. Roth. I won't read through all of it in detail, but if there's specific messages, I

18 can --

19 [redacted] Great. And if you, after any question, feel that you need some time

20 to review the context, more than happy to give you that.

21 [redacted]. And just to clarify, it's 33 pages, double-sided in this exhibit --

22 [redacted] Five

23 [redacted]. -- exhibit 5. Thanks.

24 So do you have particular pages you want to ask about?

25 [redacted] Yes.

1 [redacted] Okay. Go ahead.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q If I could you have turn, it's page 10 of the 33, Bates No. 15047.

4 A Yep.

5 Q There's a message from you where you say: Hi all. I'll shortly be adding a

6 number of contacts from DHS-CISA to this group.

7 First, I think we've covered this at various points in the interview. But CISA's the

8 Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency and the same system that participated

9 in the USG/Industry meetings. Is that right?

10 A That's right.

11 Q About the middle of the page, it says that you added [redacted] of CISA. Do

12 you recall who that is?

13 A I don't, no.

14 Q Does [redacted] ring a bell?

15 A No, truthfully.

16 Q There are two more names a little bit further down on the page, [redacted]

17 [redacted] and [redacted].

18 Do you recognize either of those names?

19 A I don't, no.

20 Q If I could have you flip the page, Bates No. 15048. At the very bottom, you

21 add someone named [redacted].

22 Do you know who that is?

23 A I don't recall, no. I'm sure at the time I at least had some knowledge of 24 who they were or somebody at their agency had told me to add them, but I don't -- I

25 don't recall specifically.

1 Q Okay. For the previous names, and, again, just based off the context of the 2 chat, it looks like it could be people from CISA. Do you recall having any discussions with 3 the FBI where the FBI was saying we want some non-FBI government employees to be 4 added to the chat?
5 A I don't recall those conversations. I mean, it stands to reason that either
6 that happened or CISA reached out directly and requested to be added. But I -- I don't 7 remember at all what the sequence of events was.
8 Q If I could have you turn to page 14, which is Bates No. 15051.
9 A Yeah.
10 Q And it looks like [redacted] is posting, which it starts on the bottom of the 11 prior page.
12 A Yep.
13 Q But there's a post about a misinformation report. There's some looks like 14 the header of an email that's posted in, and then there's, you know, additional 15 information provided.
16 At the middle of the page, there's an email address,
17 misinformation@cisecurity.org. Do you recognize that email address?
18 A I recognize the domain cisecurity.org as being the Center for Internet
19 Security, or information security, I'm not sure. CIS was one of the entities involved in 20 sort of managing reporting of misinformation during the 2020 election.
21 I believe that was an email address that they used as a reporting clearinghouse,
22 but I don't know anything more specific than that.
23 Q For the purposes of this chat, and, again, happy to give you an opportunity
24 to review it if you'd like, but just based off your recollection of when it was getting set up,
25 was it concerned -- was it a way to -- an avenue to report concerns or information as it

1 related to inauthentic behavior or as it related to post concerns regarding content
2 misinformation or both?
3 A My recollection was that the intent of the group was to focus on inauthentic
4 behavior, but it would appear from context that the scope of it expanded over time to 5 include other types of misinformation about elections.
6 Q Okay. And then taking a step back, independent of this particular Signal
7 channel, you spoke in one of the earlier hours about your interest and the interest of 8 industry partners in setting up information-sharing meetings with the government.
9 We've discussed a bit about Twitter's own policies as they initially were focused on 10 foreign -- potential foreign influence operations and expanded to include other 11 misinformation categories.
12 The standing U.S. Government/Industry meetings that were ongoing for a number 13 of years, to your recollection did the scope of those meetings change over time?
14 A I mean, that question's very broad. So, yes, but I think to -- what I think 15 you're asking is did the scope of the meetings expand to also include discussions other 16 than malign foreign interference. And on that point I would say, actually from some of 17 the earliest meetings, that was already on the table as part of the discussions.
18 My recollection is that some of the earliest meetings included discussion of what 19 the Department of Justice characterized as illegal voter suppression through social media
20 and that those remained themes infrequently but consistently throughout industry's 21 engagement with government on election security.
22 Q Okay. Did those -- the frequency of those themes change during your 23 experience at attending those standing USG/Industry meetings?
24 A It's hard to generalize about it. I mean, in my recollection of it, not really.
25 I would say the meetings still were mostly focused on foreign interference, but it's really

1 hard to say without, you know, being able to review any kind of notes, meeting minutes,
2 any of that.
3 Q At a high level -- so correct me if I'm wrong, the standing FITF meetings that
4 Twitter had also related to, you know, concerns relating to foreign malign influence
5 campaigns. Is that correct?
6 A That's right. I would note just briefly that while my team's primary goal in 7 those meetings was to get information from the FITF, there, I believe, were 8 representatives of other parts of DOJ at at least some of those meetings who during that 9 same Twitter-FBI bilateral meeting would talk about subjects beyond just foreign
10 interference.
11 And, again, specifically illegal voter suppression schemes came up on at least 12 some occasions. That was, to the best of my recollection, not the focus of the vast 13 majority of those meetings, but it did happen periodically.
14 Q Okay. Regarding the scope of the FITF meetings and the scope of the U.S.
15 Government/Industry meetings, was there anything that one set of meetings covered
16 that the other meetings did not with respect to the reach of the scope?
17 A That's a really broad question. So I would say, like, some of the meetings
18 were different because DHS was present and ODNI was present. I would say that 19 generally the FBI engagements were more focused on cybersecurity activity and foreign 20 influence specifically, while the broader USG/Industry meetings were related to election
21 security as a more general topic, including voter suppression schemes and, you know,
22 readouts about critical infrastructure protection and various other things.
23 So the focus was slightly different in each of the meetings. But, again, that's 24 really at a broad level of generalization.
25 Q If I could have you turn to page 27, which is Bates No. 15064, and then

1 there's a series of messages from you, until --

2 A There we go.

3 Q -- page 29, which is Bates 15066, the top of the page. I'll give you a

4 moment to review.

5 A You said starting on 27?

6 Q Yeah. So starting on 27 and finishing the top of 29.

7 A Okay.

8 Q So your message on the top of 29 says: My error - wrong channel but all

9 info is public anyway.

10 Reviewing this, does this refresh your memory at all? Were there other similar,

11 you know, reporting channels either with the government or with other entities?

12 A There was -- there were two channels that I created as part of this process.

13 One of them was with government. One of them was only within industry.

14 And my recollection of what I meant here was that I sent a message intended for 15 just other tech companies instead in the channel titled Broadcast-Election/Industry,

16 which was meant to be the government broadcasting information to industry.

17 Q Gotcha. Great.

18 We can take these back or if you want to set them aside for now.

19 Exhibit 6 will be the industry-only Signal chat, and it will be a few posts we'll go

20 over.

21 [Roth Exhibit No. 6

22 Was marked for identification.]

23 Mr. Roth. A binder this time.

24 [redacted] So this one's significantly longer than the other exhibit, so if you want

25 to take a few moments to flip through, but we'll just maybe make more sense to --

1 Mr. Roth. I'll read through it when there's specific ones that we want to focus
2 on.
3 [redacted]. Let me just take a minute and take a look at it. So exhibit 6 is 136
4 pages?
5 [redacted] Yes.
6 [redacted]. It is from Yahoo?
7 [redacted] That's correct.
8 [redacted] Entitled, Industry Election Integrity Working Group, WG?
9 [redacted] That's correct, yes.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q If I could have you turn first, it's going to be Bates No. 16075, which is page 12 4.
13 A Yep.
14 Q There's a post, it's actually by [redacted], but it's about the middle of the 15 page. It says: A couple of the accounts link back to some Iranian stuff a way back
16 tipped by FireEye, but no activity I can see on out platforms.
17 I think they meant "on our platforms."
18 Are you familiar with FireEye?
19 A I am.
20 Q And what is FireEye?
21 A FireEye is an old name for Mandiant, which is a cybersecurity consultancy.
22 They have since been acquired by Google.
23 Q How frequently did -- during your time at Twitter, how frequently did you
24 interact with FireEye?
25 A Periodically throughout my tenure. At various points, Twitter considered a

1 commercial engagement with FireEye to receive threat intelligence reporting from them.
2 But to my recollection, we never actually signed a contract or fully pursued that
3 engagement.
4 Q Other than the interactions about potentially pursuing an engagement, what
5 was the nature of your interactions with FireEye as it related to your time at Twitter?
6 A FireEye would publish public reports about security threats and what they
7 perceived to be malign foreign influence. Twitter would read those public reports.
8 And in situations where there was potentially a personal relationship, where we knew
9 somebody at FireEye who'd worked on something, we might have a conversation about 10 some of it. But it was, to my recollection, always focused on specific reports that 11 FireEye had put out about foreign interference.
12 Q If I could have you look at the next page, page 5, which is Bates No. 16076.
13 A Yep.
14 Q There's a message from [redacted] First, you know, with the understanding
15 this has been reproduced to you, to your understanding, would that be [redacted]
16 [redacted] from Facebook who we've been mentioning throughout the interview?
17 A That's the only [redacted] I know in this context, yes.
18 Q He writes: Anyone else want to jump in after [redacted]
19 Do you recall if this channel would be used during the USG/Industry meetings?
20 A Yes, it would.
21 Q Okay. If I could have you turn to page 8, which is Bates No. 16079. There 22 are a series of messages but going to ask in particular about the one about two-thirds of 23 the way down from you, which says: We can touch a bit on the QAnon stuff we've 24 enforced on and footstomp the lack of foreign interference aspect.
25 But we'll give you a moment to review the messages before and after.

1 A Yep.

2 Q First, reviewing this message, do you recall the context in which this message

3 was sent?

4 A I can infer the context from this, but I, you know, don't have a specific

5 recollection of it beyond what I'm reading on the page.

6 Q Okay. With the understanding you don't have a specific recollection, but

7 what are you able to infer?

8 A So in the days following January the 6th, there were either ad hoc or

9 scheduled meetings on election security matters. I don't remember which. But in one

10 of those meetings, I delivered an update about Twitter's actions to ban QAnon from the 11 platform.

12 And so from this message, it sounds like I was going to be briefing on Twitter's

13 enforcement actions against the QAnon conspiracy and also was going to discuss our

14 finding at the time that the activity on January the 6th and activity from QAnon, broadly,

15 did not appear to be malign foreign influence but instead appeared to be domestic in 16 origin.

17 Q Do you recall in the lead-up to this whether the government had either

18 provided information or had raised the possibility that there was a foreign interference

19 aspect?

20 A Not that I recall, no.

21 Q If I could have you turn to page 12, which is Bates No. 16083, and then read

22 through page 14, which is Bates No. 16085.

23 A Okay.

24 Q First, do you recall the context of these messages?

25 A I don't. I can infer some of it from this, but I don't recall why we were

1 having a conversation about this carefully massaged language.

2 Q We'd started to touch upon this a few questions earlier. But the

3 statement, again, we were in a couple of times but, as one example, from the bottom of

4 page 12 onto page 13, [redacted] writes: We could discuss a range of content topics in

5 this context, but our focus should be on the threat actors and behavior rather than the 6 content itself.

7 Do you recall discussions, other discussions within industry about the appropriate

8 scope of industry's meetings with the U.S. Government?

9 A I do.

10 Q And as part of those discussions, what was the perspective of the industry

11 partners?

12 A Going back to some of the very first meetings of companies and government

13 on election security, we talked about the distinction between content moderation

14 focused on the content of messages and a focus on inauthentic behavior. And, broadly,

15 there was consensus that the most straightforward points of collaboration were focused

16 on behavior rather than on the content of messages. Because even if foreign activity

17 does not enjoy the protection of the First Amendment, there was enough ambiguity there

18 that industry preferred to stay focused on behaviors.

19 That was not something that was ever really codified in an explicit way, and the 20 boundaries there become complicated. But, broadly, there was a recognition from 21 some of those earliest meetings that our primary focus was going to be on deceptive

22 behaviors rather than on abusive content or even on, you know, threats of violence or

23 extremism.

24 There were other channels for engagement about extremism or things like that.

25 This group was going stay focused on inauthentic behavior.

1 Q Do you recall any communications from the government or any meetings
2 where the government appeared to be interested in increasing or -- "increasing" is the 3 wrong word -- expanding the scope of the meetings to include things more about the 4 content itself as opposed to actors or behavior?
5 A I recall two ways in which that happened. The first was the focus on illegal
6 voter suppression which, again, was something that had come up as early as 2018. And 7 there was a consistent interest from the Department of Justice in particular in exchanging 8 information about that.
9 I would say, for Twitter, we had no objection to it because all of that work fell
10 under my organization. At Facebook, they had a slightly different organizational 11 structure where those content questions fell under different teams and, therefore, it was 12 challenging for them to navigate that. So that was one category of engagements.
13 The other area of overlap was around violent extremism and terrorism where,
14 again, Twitter didn't really have any objections to having those conversations in one 15 place, but because that related to specific actors and extremist groups that could be 16 domestic in origin, could be foreign in origin, some companies, notably Facebook,
17 expressed a preference that those conversations happen in other settings.
18 Q You mentioned DOJ's interest for the first bucket. Which agency or 19 agencies were interested with it as it related to violent extremism-related content?
20 A My recollection is it was the FBI.
21 Q And do you recall if these discussions occurred in the context of one of these 22 USG/Industry meetings or were there emails related to them?
23 A I don't recall, no.
24 Q If I could have you turn to page 19, which is Bates No. 16090. And actually,
25 if I could have you read on to page 20, there's a -- for the rest of [redacted] message.

1 A Okay.

2 Q If I could call your attention first to [redacted] message in the middle of the page

3 on page 19, asking about the NSC. Do you recall if the National Security Council was

4 ever invited to attend the U.S. Government/Industry meetings?

5 A I can infer from this context that that may have been a discussion, but I don't

6 recall it specifically.

7 Q Okay. And do you recall any meetings where there were representatives

8 from the NSC on one of the calls?

9 A I'll say it was sometimes hard to tell. As I spoke about earlier, there were

10 instances where there would be a camera at one end of a room somewhere in a

11 government office and it would be kind of pointed towards people. And sometimes you

12 could make out who was there and sometimes you'd just kind of see a blob in a suit.

13 And so is it possible that somebody from the NSC was present? Perhaps, but I

14 couldn't say for sure.

15 Q [redacted] message at the bottom of page 19 and then carry on to the next

16 page, he says: The answer we agreed on was we'll talk about it and want to focus on 17 partners that are, (a) operational, (b) defensive, and (c) apolitical.

18 First, reading his message, did you understand that to mean to be referring to 19 government partners?

20 A That's right.

21 Q Do you agree with [redacted] that these are three criteria that are 22 appropriate when considering which government partners to work with?

23 A I believe those criteria originally came from me, so yes.

24 Q Do you recall which agencies in the government may not have met these

25 criteria?

1 A The primary source of contention reflected on the next page of this chat
2 relates to the State Department's Global Engagement Center.
3 Q First, taking one step back, what is the Global Engagement Center?
4 A I couldn't say exactly what their official mandate is, but my understanding
5 was that the Global Engagement Center was a part of the State Department that 6 investigated and reported on what they believed to be malign foreign influence and 7 disinformation campaigns. They may have had other responsibilities as well.
8 Q And happy to give you a moment to review the discussion on the Global 9 Engagement Center. It continues on for a few more pages.
10 A Yep. Okay.
11 Q First, independent of this particular Signal channel, during your time at 12 Twitter, do you recall having interactions with the Global Engagement Center?
13 A I do.
14 Q And what was the nature of those interactions?
15 A I recall at least one meeting, if not two, with representatives of the Global 16 Engagement Center where they discussed some of their research regarding Russian and 17 Chinese influence campaigns. And there may have been other exchanges by email as 18 well.
19 Q Reviewing this channel and, you know, having sort of discussed it a bit, do
20 you recall what the group's concerns were with whether the Global Engagement Center
21 should join or not?
22 A I would say most of those concerns were driven by me and came from me.
23 And so I can't speak to what others in the group believed or represented. But I believed 24 that the Global Engagement Center were an inappropriate partner to have in this 25 particular group because I had concerns about them failing to meet the second criteria in

1 [redacted] message, i.e. defensive. And then also separately, I had concerns about the 2 quality of their analytical products.
3 Q Taking that first part, the defensive part, to your understanding, I guess -- I'll 4 rephrase that.
5 What do you mean by that?
6 A Yeah. In 2019, I became aware of the State Department and specifically
7 the Global Engagement Center's funding of something called the Iran Disinformation
8 Project. And I'd note this was happening in 2019, so during the Trump Presidency.
9 But my understanding was that the Iran Disinformation Project was an outside
10 group that engaged in disinformation to counter Iranian disinformation. And,
11 specifically, there was public reporting that the State Department-funded initiative was 12 trolling and harassing activists who were discussing Iran and related issues online.
13 When it came to light that this is what the Iran Disinformation Project was doing,
14 the State Department say that they ceased funding it. But in my interpretation, that 15 incident reflected the fact that the State Department's mandate went beyond just 16 identifying and defending against foreign interference campaigns and towards taking a
17 more active or offensive posture on the subject.
18 In my view, that made them an inappropriate party to join a group focused on 19 defending against foreign influence.
20 Q And to your understanding, were State Department personnel directly 21 involved in this Iranian disinformation project or were they funding a different entity to 22 actually partake?
23 A My understanding is it was funding a separate entity, but I'm not certain.

[3:14 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q Was the Department of Defense ever considered for this group?

A I think it depends how you define Department of Defense. I'd say that some representatives of various parts of things proximate to the DOD were in some of these meetings. There were folks from the NSA who at -- I can recall at least on one instance, were invited to some of these discussions. And so, in general, I would say the military proper was not invited to these meetings and was not a part of it, but could folks who are ultimately on the DOD payroll have been considered part of this group, it's possible, yes.

Q Are you familiar with whether the DOD had requested from Twitter to white list certain accounts?

A Yes, I am aware of that incident.

Q Did that incident have any connection to the GEC State Department incident regarding the Iranian disinformation project?

A To the best of my knowledge, no. The incident I think you're referring to was activity conducted by a contractor to, I believe it was Central Command, but I'm not exactly sure which part of the DOD. But I am not aware of any connection between that activity and the Iran disinformation project.

Q For the DOD's white listing request, how did you find out about this incident?

A I became aware of it when another Twitter employee, a more junior member of staff, approached me to ask a technical question regarding how to apply this white listing to accounts. And when I asked them why they needed to apply this white listing, they explained a request that had come to them from a mid-level contact at the

1 FBI who was passing it on on behalf of the Department of Defense, and it was related to a
2 counterterror matter, which was why it had gone to a different team.
3 As soon as this employee explained what was going on to me, I told them, in no
4 uncertain terms, that we should not do this and that it would be a violation of Twitter's
5 policies to do it. And I requested that they turn over to me all information about these 6 conversations. Once I reviewed that information and saw the scope of the Department
7 of Defense's activity, and also what that junior Twitter employee had done, I directed my 8 team to, first, undo that employee's actions. So a few accounts had been marked as 9 exempt from some things. I told them to immediately undo that.
10 Second, I directed my team to investigate the broader network at hand and 11 identify all of the accounts connected to it.
12 And then third, I instructed my team to ban those accounts and cease the activity.
13 Q Following those steps, did you hear from someone in the Federal
14 Government?
15 A Yes, and I'm trying to remember whether that came to me directly or 16 through channels. But as Twitter was investigating this activity, we had a series of 17 internal discussions not about whether to ban these accounts, but about whether to 18 disclose the activity publicly and how to disclose it.
19 I'll add as kind of context here that it was Twitter's standing policy whenever we 20 discuss -- whenever we found a state-backed influence operation, that we would not only 21 remove it from the service but share data about it publicly. And this activity, in my 22 assessment and my team's assessment, met all of those standards, and, therefore, was 23 eligible to be publicly disclosed.
24 But it was the first time that we had identified specifically American originating 25 activity on the service that was targeting other countries, and so we had an internal

1 discussion about exactly how to handle it. Ultimately, it was Twitter's decision that we
2 should disclose this activity, and we did, but there were a series of conversations there.
3 And on one occasion we did have a conversation directly with representatives of the DOD
4 about our findings and about Twitter's policies.
5 Q And what did the DOD say in those interactions?
6 A My recollection was that on this phone call a representative of the DOD read 7 a prepared statement three times, and the prepared statement said something along the 8 lines of, Twitter should enforce its policies as it sees fit, and the Department of Defense
9 has no other comment.
10 Q Regarding the internal Twitter discussions as it relates to this matter, how 11 senior of folks were roped in as part of these discussions?
12 A I mean, I would say, it was largely happening at my level, which was at the 13 executive level. I discussed it with Vijaya Gadde, I discussed with Jim Baker and with 14 [redacted], and so it was happening at a quite senior level. I'm not aware of whether 15 that discussion -- whether Vijaya had a discussion with Jack Dorsey about this activity as 16 well or if it stopped at her level.
17 Q If I could have you turn back to the Signal channel, have you flip to Bates No.
18 16121, which is page 50.
19 A Okay.
20 Q There's one message from [redacted] I'll give you a moment to review the 21 messages before and after so you can view the context. But the message -- it's in the 22 middle of the page, and it says, "If we end up having to use MDM, I may just quit. I'm 23 not sure I can take it."
24 A Okay.
25 Q In this context, would you understand MDM to mean mis-, dis-, and

1 malinformation?

2 A I would, yes.

3 Q Do you recall the context of [redacted] seeming dissatisfied with the term?

4 A I don't recall the specific context, but I know he shares my distaste for it.

5 Q Yeah. And speaking on, at least just for your behalf, what is the distaste for

6 it?

7 A The analytical imprecision of the term. It lumps together misinformation,

8 which could come from real people who are just wrong; disinformation, which is

9 intentional and malicious; and malinformation, which means who knows what, and it sort

10 of mushes them all together into a single acronym that, in my view, and I believe in his,

11 does not represent an analytically precise framework for characterizing activity on social

12 media.

13 Q So this is the industry only Signal channel. Do you recall who was using the 14 term "MDM," or who he may be referring to?

15 A I have no idea, no.

16 Q Are you familiar with whether CISA had an MDM team?

17 A I'm aware that there was, I forget if it was called a task force or an advisory

18 board or a working group or something, but I'm -- I'm aware that CISA had a group of 19 folks who were looking at MDM issues.

20 Q Do you recall, whether CISA or otherwise, personnel from Federal agencies

21 using the term "MDM" in the context of discussions with industry?

22 A I mean, I can infer from this context that they did and that -- it wouldn't

23 surprise me to know that, but I don't recall specifically.

24 Q Okay. Do you recall any discussions with personnel at Federal agencies

25 where the imprecision with the term "MDM" became a problem with respect to the

1 group's work?

2 A I don't, no. I think -- to my recollection, whenever we were having

3 conversations about specific activity, it was always precise and caveated, and we could

4 understand what was going on. I think to the extent there were kind of broader

5 strategic discussions that might have used that term, like, I wouldn't really consider that

6 operational information anyway.

7 Q If I could have you turn to page -- it's page 81, which is Bates No. 16152.

8 A Okay.

9 Q If I could call your attention specifically to [redacted] response -- or 10 message at the top of page 81. He again is talking about mis-, dis-, and malinformation.

11 He says, Think it's possible for all of us to refuse to participate if they keep calling it mis-,

12 dis-, and malinformation, and then there's a smiley face. And he says, kidding, kidding.

13 Given the context of this Signal channel, did you interpret that "they" in the 14 message to refer to the government?

15 A That would be my interpretation, yes.

16 Q If I could have you turn to page 84, which will be Bates No. 16155, and then

17 there are messages that continue onto page 87, which is Bates No. 16158.

18 A Okay.

19 Q So I want to call your attention to the top of page 86. There's a message

20 from [redacted]. First, do you recognize who that likely is?

21 A I do. I believe it's [redacted], who was an attorney at Google.

22 Q All right. He says, I think this is a flex by CISA. Whether specific to this

23 particular message or just more generally, do you recall there being any turf battles

24 between the various government agencies in this space?

25 A I think turf battles is probably overstating it a little bit, but I think there was

1 some amount of jockeying for prominence on these issues. I would say, from 2018
2 onwards, there was a lot of attention being paid, especially from Congress, to the 3 question of how government was securing American elections. And in that context,
4 both the FBI and the Department of Homeland Security emerged as leading voices on 5 these issues. The FBI got its act together faster than DHS and built strong and trusted
6 relationships with industry where they shared information with industry, and industry
7 found it useful.
8 DHS was always an engaged partner and a valuable partner, but was just a little bit
9 slower to get going. And so, my interpretation was that there was some amount of 10 push/pull between FBI and DHS about who would -- you know, who would be the leading 11 dance partner in these engagements. But I'll say, I personally never paid very much 12 attention to it, because it just didn't seem like it mattered.
13 Q Are there any examples or instances you recall that help provide the color
14 for that recollection?
15 A You know, the only one that I recall was about these war rooms that various 16 folks would host on Election Day. The FBI would set up a war room in a field office, or I
17 think perhaps here in Washington, and would sort of say, like if people want to come to 18 the FBI war room on election stuff and be here in person, you can do that. They always 19 invited me, and I always declined, because it would be inappropriate for me to be doing 20 content moderation work within a government building.
21 But -- it could be other Twitter employees were there not on the moderation
22 team. I'm not sure about that. But then there was discussion of would there be 23 multiple war rooms, would the DHS have their war room, and would there be this battle
24 of war rooms, and it just all struck me as deeply silly. Like I -- I was securing American 25 elections. I was not there for an interagency fight, and I had absolutely no interest in

1 engaging with it.

2 Q In this context you're describing, as related to ODNI, was there a similar

3 dynamic, or how did ODNI fit into the picture?

4 A ODNI -- or representatives of ODNI were present beginning at the very first

5 meetings that took place at Facebook's headquarters. And I would note that some of 6 the early friction in the industry USG relationship was primarily driven by ODNI.

7 Specifically, in one of the early meetings, there was a confrontation between an attorney

8 from Twitter and a representative of ODNI regarding proactive referrals of information

9 from industry to the government.

10 And this representative of ODNI suggested that platforms should voluntarily,

11 without the need for legal process, refer information about specific accounts to the 12 government. And a Twitter attorney, in my opinion correctly, pushed back on this and

13 said, if you want information about specific users, come with a subpoena or a search

14 warrant, and we will provide that information consistent with legal process.

15 And ODNI pushed back and suggested that in service of a shared goal of 16 combating foreign interference, we could dispense with, you know, all of the formalities

17 of legal process. And that nearly derailed the entire engagement between government

18 and industry. The meeting nearly ended. The Twitter attorney nearly walked out of 19 the room. And part of what we had to do over the following years was rebuild trust

20 from that incident that neither side would cross a line that was unlawful in terms of the 21 disclosure of confidential user data.

22 And so, there was not a rehash of an incident like that. I would say it was a -- it

23 was a major learning, I think, for ODNI and for the government generally about

24 appropriate limits. But ODNI were present in subsequent meetings to the best of my 25 recollection, though they never made a similar request to that.

1 Q Do you recall who from ODNI was representative in that meeting?

2 A I don't recall everyone who was there. I am only remembering her first

3 name, Shelby something.

4 Q Shelby Pierson?

5 A Yes, Shelby Pierson. That's right.

6 Q Do you recall the attorney from Twitter who pushed back?

7 A I believe that was [redacted]

8 Q And this was an in-person meeting?

9 A That's right. It was at Facebook's headquarters.

10 Q And I'm sorry if you said this at the beginning, do you recall when it took

11 place?

12 A 2018 or '19. I couldn't say for sure.

13 Q Did any other industry representatives in the room take the side of Twitter in 14 this discussion?

15 A It was deeply awkward. Like the -- the meeting was -- the room was dead

16 silent other than two people yelling at each other, is my recollection of it. I could've

17 now dramatized it years later, but my recollection was that there was a heated debate

18 between these two people, and everybody else kind of sat in stunned silence, myself

19 included.

20 Q And your recollection is it was heated to the point of both parties were 21 shouting?

22 A I recall that, yes.

23 Q Do you recall how long the, I was going to say discussion, but the fighting 24 went back and forth?

25 A A few minutes.

Q Yeah. And at the end of that, you know, was there some sort of agreement, or how did it end ultimately in that particular meeting?

A I think we just agreed to move off of that topic, in part because it was not really germane to what the meeting was supposed to be about. Like the overall meeting was about election security collaborations, and we'd somehow started pigeonholed on this subject of legal process for -- it was irrelevant to the subject of the meeting.

Q At a high level, independent of that particular meeting and independent of this chat, when engaging with the U.S. agencies, the fact the FBI's got the Foreign Influence Task Force, CISA has task forces that are involved, ODNI has a center, was it clear, as an industry partner, what the responsibilities were for each agency as it related to this space?

A It wasn't always clear to me, no. But I also was never particularly bothered to get to perfect clarity about that in my head.

Q I'll have you turn back to the Signal channel and flip to page 98, which is Bates No. 16169.

A Yep.

Q I'll give you a chance to review. There's -- the messages before are from earlier dates and don't appear to be relevant, but it continues on to the next page.

A Uh-huh. Okay.

Q So two-thirds of the way down, [redacted] says, Interesting to see them trying to grapple with the domestic side. And then [redacted] says, So hard to navigate.

First, if you have a specific recollection, interested to hear that too, but inferring from this -- the context of this, did you understand [redacted] to be referring to the government when saying interesting to see them trying to grapple with the domestic side?

1 A I truly don't know what he might have meant.

2 Q Independent of this particular exchange in March of 2022, do you recall any 3 instances where the government was presenting information and there were concerns, at 4 least among the industry partners, about whether it implicated domestic actors?

5 A The word that I'm thinking about is "concerns." I don't recall concerns
6 being raised by members of the industry group. There were certainly instances as in the 7 other chat that we reviewed where CISA and others shared reports regarding 8 misinformation from domestic audiences, and in some cases, that converged with the 9 FBI's interest in illegal voter suppression efforts.

10 I think some individuals in this group, like [redacted], whose mandate extended
11 only to inauthentic behavior and foreign activity, they might have found it irrelevant. I
12 don't know if they were concerned about it. I didn't feel concerned about it in this 13 context.

14 Q Independent of this particular exchange, do you recall any of the discussions
15 with the U.S. -- or with the Federal agencies where the Federal agencies represented that 16 they had certain authorities as it related to foreign actors, but it did not have those 17 authorities as it related to domestic actors?

18 A I recall one interaction in a quarterly bilateral meeting between Twitter and 19 the Department of Justice where a DOJ attorney opened the meeting by discussing the 20 First Amendment, and sort of offered, I remember it being about 5 minutes, a speech of 21 sorts about the focus of the FBI on malign foreign interference, and on illegal voter 22 suppression, but about, you know, needing the -- to emphasize the utmost respect for the 23 First Amendment rights of Americans. And it was a perfectly fine speech, and we all sort 24 of smiled and said thank you and then the meeting proceeded, but that's my only specific 25 memory about somebody from the government in detail talking about that particular

1 question.

2 Q And do you recall when approximately that was?

3 A I don't. I want to say maybe 2020 or 2021, but I -- I don't recall. I know

4 the meeting happened at Twitter's offices, but I don't remember exactly when. So it

5 likely would not have been in 2020 if it was at Twitter's offices, because they were closed

6 for the pandemic.

7 Q Uh-huh. Independent of, again, this particular exchange and independent

8 of the example you provided, at a high level, do you recall -- when receiving information

9 from Federal agencies, do you recall instances where the Federal agency is identifying

10 accounts as foreign accounts, but Twitter internally has awareness that they're domestic 11 accounts?

12 A I can -- I have a broad recollection of at least one instance of that. I think it

13 may have been mentioned in the Twitter Files, and I'm sure there were other instances of 14 that as well.

15 Q Yeah. Again, not necessarily a specific recollection, but just do you have

16 any general recollections of how frequently that may have occurred?

17 A Pretty infrequently would be my -- my broad impression here. I'd say part

18 of why I valued and Twitter valued engagement with the FBI was that they were right

19 more often than they were wrong, a lot more often than they were wrong. And

20 especially on the subject of attributing activity to a foreign government, they hardly ever

21 were wrong.

22 I think there may have been one instance in which my recollection was that the 23 FBI may have been passing on information from another party. I don't know if it was in

24 the government or from researchers. They had all sorts of other engagements, and they

25 sometimes would pass on this information without attribution, and my recollection is that

1 in one of those cases, we disagreed with the attribution. But I would say, those
2 were -- those were quite uncommon.
3 Q Do you recall any instances with agencies other than the FBI?
4 A Where --
5 Q Sorry.
6 A Where U.S. Government agencies rendered incorrect attribution of activity?
7 Q Yes.
8 A Not with any specifics, but I would say that my broad concerns about the 9 State Department Global Engagement Center included concerns about the quality of their 10 attribution. Sometimes their reports were quite accurate. I would say, many of their 11 reports about Russia were quite good. I had concerns about the quality of some of their 12 analyses of China-related activity. I don't remember any of those concerns specifically 13 at this point, but I remember, at least on some occasions, getting information from the 14 State Department that didn't quite ring true.
15 Q Regardless of the agency, if it's FBI, the Global Engagement Center, or 16 whoever it might be, when there were instances of where there was misattribution, do
17 you recall the most common reason why that occurred, or if there was a fact that Twitter
18 had knowledge of or access of that likely led to the mistake?
19 A You know, taking a step back, like there's lots of different ways of trying to 20 characterize suspected malign foreign activity. And as a former employee of a tech
21 company, I had a particular set of tools and access to a particular type of data that would 22 enable a certain type of investigation. I could look closely at how accounts were 23 registered on Twitter, the technical infrastructure they used to access our service, but 24 that knowledge really only extended as far as the limits of Twitter itself.
25 And there's lots of other ways that you can investigate this activity. The

1 intelligence community has spies on the ground. They have the ability to conduct signal
2 intercepts. There's lots of information they would have that Twitter would not that
3 would potentially enable other types of findings.
4 And similarly, outside researchers scrutinizing public data could look for things like
5 linguistic patterns in posts to try to say, these posts are very similar to posts from a
6 Russian troll farm, and therefore, we think that this stuff is the Russian troll farm.
7 And people can disagree about these conclusions. There have been lots of 8 instances, many of them documented colorfully in the Twitter Files, where I disagreed
9 with people's analytic conclusions. There's lots of instances where people disagreed
10 with mine. And I think that disagreement is healthy and productive, but ultimately, my 11 job at Twitter was to enforce the company's policies in a manner -- in a manner
12 consistent with my best judgment of the evidence in front of me. And so in those cases,
13 if I found the evidence I was presented with to be lacking, I would direct my team not to 14 enforce against that activity.
15 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please.
16 [Discussion off the record.]
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q Okay. All right. We're back on the record.
19 Mr. Roth, you mentioned -- well, we spent a lot of time in the last hour talking 20 about these two Signal channels. And I'd like to introduce an email for the record.
21 If you could get me an exhibit. Thank you.
22 This is exhibit 7. It's actually an email exchange.
23 A Thank you.
24 [Roth Exhibit No. 7
25 Was marked for identification.]

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q So fair to say, Mr. Roth, that it wasn't just that you developed these

3 channels, but it was your idea to create them and to use them to begin with?

4 A That's right.

5 Q And that's reflected in this email?

6 A That's right.

7 Q And the choice of Signal as the messaging platform, that was your idea?

8 A That's right.

9 Q Okay. So it's been suggested before, at least hinted, that the choice to use

10 Signal was some sort of attempt by the FBI to hide its censorship machine from the 11 American people. Is that accurate?

12 A No, I wouldn't say so at all.

13 Q Okay.

14 A I -- I can add a little bit of color about the selection of Signal in particular.

15 Q Sure.

16 A I mean, the essential context for this is that we were trying to counteract

17 malign foreign influence campaigns, attempts by another government in their security

18 services to interfere in American elections. I can assume that just as the United States

19 has the ability to intercept communications, so do foreign intelligence services.

20 And so, when we were selecting a communication channel, it was imperative, in

21 my estimation, and in that of my colleagues, that we have a secure communication

22 channel that was end-to-end encrypted to protect against the possibility of foreign

23 intelligence services figuring out what we were doing to shut down their activity. Signal

24 is an industry-standard product. It uses audited, well-known security protocols, and in 25 my view, it was the best available option for cross-platform messaging.

1 Q And the security protocols were necessary, as you just said, to protect those
2 communications from outside malign foreign influence?
3 A That's right.
4 Q Okay.
5 A But I would say, we -- what we didn't do was have the messages disappear.
6 None of the communications, as these exhibits demonstrate, none of these
7 communications were self-destructing. They were all preserved. I was aware that in 8 the broadcast channel the FBI intended to preserve their communications, and that never 9 even entered into the conversation as something that we needed to work around,
10 something that we saw as a problem. We were doing this work in a manner that we 11 thought was above board and appropriate.
12 Q Thank you. Now, you mentioned in the previous hour that there was, I
13 believe you said, consistent interest from the Department of Justice in sharing
14 information between Department of Justice and the platforms about illegal voter 15 suppression methods that were taking place on social media platforms, correct?
16 A That's right.
17 Q And we're talking about voter suppression that constitutes Federal crimes or 18 that they believed constituted Federal crimes?
19 A That's how they represented it.
20 Q Okay. And that interest dates back to when the meetings began in 2018?
21 A I would say, potentially even prior to that. I mean, some of the more
22 recent convictions that the Department of Justice has secured for illegal voter
23 suppression date back to activity in 2016.
24 Q But their interactions with the platforms and the interest that they were 25 conveying, you recall that interest being conveyed as early, if not earlier, than 2018?

1 A That's right.

2 Q So during the Trump administration?

3 A That's right.

4 Q Okay. And on another timeline issue -- well, actually, let me just -- one

5 follow-up question. Despite the fact that the Department of Justice was interested in

6 the use of your platforms to commit actual crimes relating to voter suppression, at no

7 time were you personally ever asked to remove a tweet or an account for violation of 8 those -- of your own rules?

9 A Never.

10 Q Okay. Now, the -- shifting topics, the Department of Defense white listing

11 accounts that occurred that you learned about only after they'd been going on for some

12 time, that operation, I can't recall what it was called, the Iranian -- if you can help me out

13 with that?

14 A The Iran Disinformation Project.

15 Q The Iran -- yeah?

16 A But those were distinct.

17 Q Oh, I'm sorry.

18 A The DOD's campaign and the Iran Disinfo Project were separate efforts.

19 Q Fair enough. The DOD's campaign was -- that began with Twitter using

20 white-listed accounts from other employees at Twitter began in 2017. Does that sound

21 right?

22 A That does sound right, yes.

23 Q Now, you described a very colorful incident between a Twitter attorney and

24 somebody from ODNI that you recall regarding whether or not Twitter would provide

25 information that the Twitter attorney believed was necessary to have legal process for.

A Yes.

Q And you couldn't recall if it was in 2018 or 2019, but you do recall that it was at Twitter's headquarters?

A It was at Facebook's headquarters.

Q I'm sorry, at Facebook's headquarters.

A Yes.

Q And it was an in-person meeting?

A Yes.

Q And is it fair to say that that was pre-pandemic?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So -- so pre-March of 2020?

A That's right.

Q So it was ODNI under the Trump administration that was asking for that information?

A That's right.

BY [redacted]

Q Good afternoon, Dr. Roth. I'm [redacted] with the minority staff. I know in the last hour, we discussed a lot of different government agencies, and I just want to ask you some questions to clarify the record. We asked questions along these lines earlier today, so I apologize if they get a little bit repetitive, but I just want to make sure we have a clear record here.

So first, we talked about the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency, CISA. Were any of Twitter's policy decisions the result of improper coercion by CISA, to your knowledge?

A Not proper, not improper, not any form of coercion or influence.

1 Q Were any of Twitter's enforcement decisions on any pieces of content or
2 accounts the result of coercion or influence by CISA?
3 A Not to the best of my knowledge or recollection.
4 Q Were any of Twitter's policy decisions the result of coercion by DOJ?
5 A Again, not to the best of my knowledge.
6 Q How about any enforcement decisions, were those the result of coercion by 7 DOJ?
8 A No.
9 Q Can you say the same thing about policy decisions not being the result of 10 coercion by the State's Global Engagement Center?
11 A Certainly.
12 Q Why do you say certainly?
13 A I would say broadly, Twitter's engagement with the State Department was 14 more limited in nature, and I don't even recall specific conversations with them about 15 individual accounts or individual pieces of content. And so, I -- I don't think there was 16 even the potentiality for them to influence policies or enforcement decisions.
17 Q And were any of Twitter's policy decisions the result of coercion by ODNI?
18 A To the best of my knowledge, no.
19 Q Were any of Twitter's enforcement decisions on pieces of content or any 20 accounts the result of coercion by ODNI?
21 A To the best of my knowledge, no.
22 Q And lastly, we talked about a non-government entity, the Center for Internet
23 Security, CIS. You're familiar with them?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Were any of Twitter's policy decisions the result of coercion from CIS?

A To the best of my knowledge, no.

Q Were any of Twitter's enforcement decisions on any pieces of content or any accounts the result of improper coercion by CIS?

A To the best of my knowledge, no.

[redacted] We can go off the record.

[redacted] We can go off the record.

[Pause.]

[redacted] Can we go back on the record, please.

[redacted] Thank you. And know that we're back on the record, I just wanted to clarify that the email exchange that was just introduced by the minority as exhibit 7 has some highlighting on it, the phrase "action items for this group." And I just wanted to clarify that this exhibit was produced with that highlight on it. It is not our work product. Thank you.

BY [redacted]

Q Thank you.

Dr. Roth, do you recall other interactions with Shelby Pierson during your time at Twitter?

A I do.

Q What was the nature of those interactions?

A I recall having dinner with Ms. Pierson and a number of other folks from platforms and from the government following an in-person meeting. I don't recall exactly when it was, but I believe it was somewhere around Menlo Park, so I assume the meeting had been somewhere there with the tech company. And I recall one, perhaps two phone calls with Ms. Pierson as she was, I believe, changing her role within the government, so she was leaving ODNI, and she called to apprise me of that change, and 1 really to exchange pleasantries.

2 Q For the dinner you mentioned, was that after a U.S. Government industry

3 meeting?

4 A Probably, but I don't -- I don't remember specifically.

5 Q Did Ms. Pierson tend to attend most of the U.S. Government industry

6 meetings that you can recall?

7 A For a time, yes. And then I believe as her role changed, and I forget exactly

8 to what, she no longer was attending those meetings.

9 Q Are you familiar with who Rob Flaherty is?

10 A No, I'm not.

11 Q Do you know who Andy Slavitt is?

12 A That name rings a bell, but I couldn't say for sure.

13 Q During your time at Twitter, did you have any interactions with the Biden

14 White House?

15 A To the best of my recollection, no.

16 Q During your time at Twitter, did you have any interactions with 17 representatives from pharmaceutical companies?

18 A Again, to the best of my recollection, no.

19 Q Do you recall having the -- any interactions with Scott Gottlieb, whether 20 when he was in government or in industry?

21 A I don't believe so, no.

22 Q We've talked extensively about Twitter's election integrity, civic integrity

23 policies. Which team was responsible for Twitter's content moderation policies for 24 content related to COVID-19?

25 A Responsibility for those policies fell under the Site Integrity team, and

1 ultimately I built out a misinformation policy team that was specifically responsible for
2 that, but the policies fell within my organization's purview.
3 Q Who was the head of the Site Integrity team in 2020?
4 A I was.
5 Q Did you eventually have a senior manager or somebody who was in charge
6 of overseeing the application of the content moderation policies as they related to 7 COVID-19-related content?
8 A I did.
9 Q And who was that?
10 A This was, again, a relatively junior employee organizationally. They were 11 not external facing. I was ultimately responsible for the policies themselves and 12 oversaw the team's work.
13 Q What would the title of that individual have been?
14 A Senior manager misinformation policy.
15 Q For the content moderation policies as they related to both the virus
16 and -- actually, let me rephrase that question. Did Twitter have any content moderation
17 policies with respect to content that concerned discussion of where the virus originated
18 from, SARS-CoV2 virus for clarity in the record?
19 A No. And I would note, this is a particular point of departure between 20 Twitter's policies and Facebook's, and something that has been publicly misrepresented.
21 Twitter never regarded claims about the virus's origins, lab leak, Wuhan, any of that as 22 being within the scope of our COVID-19 misinformation policies. We never once
23 enforced against that content.
24 Q And whose decision was that?
25 A That was mine.

1 Q Was that a decision that required consultation with Ms. Harvey or anybody
2 more senior to you?
3 A I mean, in the early days of the pandemic, we were inventing new policies.
4 The first version of Twitter's COVID-19 misinformation policy I wrote a couple of days
5 after the Twitter office closed early in the pandemic. I was sitting in my bedroom
6 writing it. We were all working from home, and it was an uncertain time.
7 And certainly, I communicated often with Ms. Harvey as my direct supervisor and 8 with Ms. Gadde about the pandemic and what our response should be. But on that 9 particular issue, there was broad consensus that it simply did not fall within the 10 parameters of what our policies were meant to do.
11 Q In an earlier hour, we discussed that one of the first times Twitter had 12 fact-checked President Trump was around May of 2020. Is that right?
13 A That's right.
14 Q In the lead-up to that decision, who from Twitter's leadership was involved 15 with the decision to add a fact-check label, take some sort of step with respect to the 16 President's account?
17 A I recall that present in some of these discussions were myself; [redacted] 18 who was the acting general counsel at the time; [redacted] who was the 19 company's vice president of communications, I'm pretty sure -- I'm pretty sure he was 20 involved. I know that was his title. And it's possible that several members of Twitter's
21 public policy team in Washington, D.C. were involved in the decision as well, but I don't 22 exactly remember who was part of the discussion.
23 Q And do you recall how long these discussions predated the ultimate decision
24 to label one of President Trump's -- excuse me, one of President Trump's tweets?
25 A I would say that we'd had broad discussions about the application of the 1 civic integrity policy through misinformation labels going back weeks, if not months.

2 We'd introduced labels as a product feature in the first part of 2020, and we had sort of 3 always planned to use those labels in the context of the civic integrity policy as well, but 4 the discussion about the specific tweets from President Trump's account that ultimately
5 were labeled happened that day. Those discussions were always happening a la minute.
6 Q Prior to January 2021, do you recall discussions of any other world leaders
7 and about whether to remove their accounts from the platform?
8 A I do.
9 Q And which world leaders?
10 A I recall particular discussions about then-President of Brazil Jair Bolsonaro.
11 Q And when did those discussions occur?
12 A I don't recall specifically.
13 Q Okay. And what decision was ultimately made?
14 A I believe his account is still active on Twitter. While Twitter enforced 15 against rules violations from his accounts on several occasions, none of them rose to the 16 level of warranting a permanent ban.
17 Q I'm going to ask a few questions about January 6th, January 7th, January 8th.
18 To your recollection, the action taken against President Trump on January 6th, was that 19 to bounce his account in the same use of the term we've used earlier?
20 A That's right.
21 Q Okay. Who made the ultimate decision to bounce President Trump's 22 account on January 6th?
23 A The decision -- the recommended action was -- I wrote the document that 24 made that recommendation, so the policy memo evaluating -- it started as one tweet,
25 then two, then ultimately three was authored by me. It was reviewed by Del Harvey,

1 who was my supervisor at the time.

2 And in fact, our initial recommendation on January the 6th was that on the basis

3 of three tweets that were ultimately bounced, Ms. Harvey and I believed that the

4 President should have been suspended that day. In particular, a tweet that he posted

5 that attacked Vice President Mike Pence we felt was a particular incitement of violence

6 and was particularly dangerous.

7 We communicated that recommendation to Ms. Gadde, who disagreed with it.

8 And it was communicated to us by her that she wanted us to rewrite our

9 recommendation to be a milder enforcement, bouncing the tweets instead, which I did.

10 That document, I believe, was then reviewed by Ms. Gadde with other members of 11 Twitter's executive team, including, I believe, Jack Dorsey. And ultimately, she then

12 communicated to me that the executive team had approved the language in my policy

13 memo.

14 Q To your recollection, how much time was there between when you first 15 prepared the memo to Ms. Gadde rejecting the initial recommendation?

16 A I don't recall. I believe broadly all of this happened within a span of a

17 couple of hours, but I'm not sure.

18 Q And on January 6, 2021, are folks in the same office? Are people working 19 from home? How are these communications occurring?

20 A We were all working remotely, and so, this was happening over chat and 21 over videoconferences.

22 Q Were you allowed to attend or listen in on any of the -- you're senior

23 leadership yourself, but the leadership senior to you, the discussions they were having

24 about how to handle --

25 A Neither Ms. Harvey nor I attended the staff meeting, i.e., the C-suite meeting

1 about those actions on the 6th.

2 Q Do you recall the development of a repeat offender system around this

3 time?

4 A I do.

5 Q And what is your recollection of when that was developed?

6 A I don't recall the specific timeline, but I know that Twitter's most -- most of

7 Twitter's policies already had a repeat offender policy where repeat violations would, you

8 know, the "three strikes you're out" thing. And Twitter's misinformation policies were

9 somewhat distinct in not having explicit repeat offender guidelines.

10 And so one of the changes Twitter made proximate to the 6th, but I don't recall

11 exactly when, was introducing a repeat offender framework whereby repeatedly posting

12 misinformation that violated the rules would result in escalating punishments, including

13 time-outs and then ultimately suspension.

14 Q Was this change in this part of the policy directly because of the steps the 15 company was taking about how to handle President Trump's account?

16 A No.

17 Q Did it predate January 6th?

18 A I don't recall, but I would say these documents are in Twitter's possession,

19 and so, I would encourage the committee to either invite a witness who currently works

20 at Twitter or request these documents from Twitter directly. They exist. I -- I wrote

21 many of them. I reviewed many of them. But I don't recall.

22 Q Regarding this change for repeat offenders as it relates to that part of the 23 misinformation policy, who within the company ultimately signed off on that change?

24 A Ultimately, I did. I discussed it with Ms. Harvey and with Ms. Gadde. I

25 believe it was potentially discussed with Mr. Dorsey and others, but ultimately, I had

1 responsibility for the company's policies at this moment.

2 Q Do you recall any discussions -- did you have any discussions with Mr. Dorsey

3 on or around January 6th?

4 A Not directly. To the best of my knowledge, Mr. Dorsey was on an island in 5 French Polynesia.

6 Q Other than -- actually, let me rephrase this -- this question. From

7 October 14th, The New York Post story, to January 6, 2021, were there any other

8 decisions that you can recall where Ms. Gadde overruled your recommendation?

9 A Could you give me the date range again?

10 Q Sure. October 14, 2020, which is the day that The New York Post story

11 comes out, to January 6, 2021, which is the line of question we just went over where

12 you --

13 A Yeah.

14 Q -- issued a recommendation.

15 A None that specifically come to mind, no. There were, obviously, a number

16 of cases where we had debates about content moderation but none of them that, in my

17 recollection, were her unilaterally overruling me.

18 Q Okay. To your recollection, who made the ultimate decisions to suspend

19 President Trump from Twitter on January 8th of 2021?

20 A The policy memo, which was published almost in its original form by Twitter

21 as a blog post, was authored by me and by Del Harvey. The decision was directly

22 approved by Ms. Gadde. It's my understanding that Ms. Gadde discussed it with 23 Twitter's C-suite, and also with Twitter's board of directors.

24 [Roth Exhibit No. 8

2 Q This will be exhibit 8. And similar to one of our earlier exhibits, this is the

3 committee's recreation of some of the Twitter Files reporting. We'll give you an

4 opportunity to review.

5 [Pause.]

6 A Okay.

7 [redacted] Okay.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Ready, counsel?

10 So again, as represented in the Twitter Files, the representation is that these

11 screen shots are from January 8th. At a high level, is that consistent with your 12 recollection?

13 A Yeah, that seems right.

14 Q Okay. There is discussion about employees are not responding well to the 15 30-minute brief. To your recollection, was there a, you know, wide staff meeting? Do

16 you recall what was, you know, happening, you know, in the middle of January 8th?

17 A Yeah. My recollection is that on the 8th or at some point around that,

18 there was an -- a meeting open to every employee at the company where Mr. Dorsey,

19 dialing in remotely, and other company executives heard employee feedback and

20 answered questions about the events of January the 6th and what the company would be

21 doing.

22 Q And to your recollection, what was the employee feedback?

23 A Not positive.

24 Q And of the different perspectives shared, what was the most common one of 25 what employees thought the company should be doing?

1 A I don't know that I could kind of characterize it in a rigorous way. I would
2 say, my impressionistic recollection was that many employees were dissatisfied that the
3 company had not banned former President Trump's account on January the 6th. But I
4 don't recall the specific conversations beyond that.
5 I would say, Twitter, especially on Slack, had an internal culture of fearless
6 communication. And many employees, in my opinion, crossed the line of what 7 appropriate conversation and feedback would be in a workplace, but people were quite 8 upset and registered their discontent with the company's actions publicly.
9 Q Do you recall profanity being used?
10 A I'm sure it was.
11 Q Did you speak up during this meeting?
12 A No, I was not a speaker at that meeting, at least to the best of my 13 recollection.
14 Q In the second screen shot on what's been marked as page 69, but, again, this 15 is a recreation of the Twitter Files, there is a message from you saying, Del is rewriting the 16 doc per requests from Jack to make it simpler.
17 Do you recall, first off, which document she's referring to -- or that you're 18 referring to that Del is talking about?
19 A Yeah. This refers to the policy analysis memo that Twitter ultimately 20 published publicly. At the time, there had been a version of the document that had 21 been written by the safety team, which Del and I then rewrote and then which Del was 22 sort of performing final edits on as there were discussions about the action that we were 23 going to take.
24 Q And for the discussions that Ms. Gadde is having with the C-suite and the 25 board of directors, to your knowledge, was Ms. Harvey -- did she also attend those

1 discussions, participate in those discussions?

2 A My understanding is she did not.

3 Q Okay. And to your understanding, was Ms. Harvey receiving everything

4 then, as far as what Mr. Dorsey or someone else would want, through Ms. Gadde?

5 A That's my understanding, yes.

[4:18 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q The text is, again, from The Twitter Files reporting, and it says: One hour later, Twitter announces Trump's permanent suspension.

Do you recall, at just a high level, how quick the turnaround was from when you authored -- this is, again, for clarity sake -- the memo on January 8th, to any feedback you got, to when you sent the final version, to when you ultimately -- the decision was made to suspend President Trump's account?

A It would've been within a matter of a couple of hours. But, again, Twitter has the records that could conclusively answer that question.

Q Do you know if the company notified the Trump White House first?

A My best recollection is that we had a conversation about whether to do that and decided not to.

Q To your understanding, who participated in that discussion?

A It would've been senior members of Twitter's public policy team; notably, [redacted] and [redacted]. There may have been others, but that was my recollection.

Q And did you hear this secondhand or were you part of these discussions?

A I was part of those discussions. Again, to the -- this is my recollection. It's been awhile, and that was an exceedingly stressful day. There may have also been other conversations I wasn't a part of, but I do have a memory of some discussion of providing advance notice. And even for this decision, my recollection was, no, he will receive a notice when his account is suspended.

Q Do you know who made, at least for the discussions that you're aware of, who made the ultimate decision about to not provide an advance notice?

1 A I recall it being a consensus of the assembled group and not one individual
2 making a decision.
3 Q Was Ms. Harvey part of these discussions?
4 A Probably, but I'm not sure.
5 Q What about Ms. Gadde?
6 A Almost certainly.
7 Q At the end of one of the hours, we were starting to discuss the role that 8 Apple and Google play over providing the two App Stores and the impact that can have 9 on Twitter and other, you know, similarly situated companies. And if I recall your 10 testimony correctly, you recall there was a whole subset as it related to pornography, but 11 there were two other instances that you remember; one as it related to, let's just say
12 broadly, January 6th or President Trump or that time period, and then one around the 13 time Mr. Musk acquired the company. Is that correct?
14 A That's right.
15 Q I want to pick back up with the question as it relates to the first of those two.
16 I guess one point of clarity, to your understanding, what was the concern that was 17 being communicated by Apple to Twitter?
18 A I'll say, broadly, Apple communicated publicly that they had a concern with 19 the use of social media apps to incite violence. And my recollection at the time was that 20 whether or not there were specific discussions with representatives at Twitter -- and I'm 21 not certain of that. I just don't remember -- there were enforcement actions that Apple
22 took against a number of other social media apps, including, I believe, Gab and Parler,
23 that restricted their presence on the App Store. And so my recollection was that Twitter 24 wanted to make sure that it was prepared as a company to respond adequately to 25 potential concerns about the incitement of violence and to differentiate our moderation

1 approach from that of Gab and Parler.

2 Q And what discussions do you recall internally as they relate to that?

3 A Really just about documentation, about making sure that we could explain

4 adequately that, yes, we were moderating incitement of violence, that we had the

5 appropriate policies in place, that we were enforcing those policies, and that Twitter was

6 not sort of permitting unrestricted incitement of violence the way a number of other

7 platforms were.

8 Q For the second of the two examples you provided, around the time Mr.

9 Musk acquired the company, what is your recollection of the internal company

10 discussions as it related to concerns about Apple?

11 A I was approached by a member of the team at Twitter that interfaced with

12 Apple who shared that Apple had read public reports about an increase in the presence of 13 racial slurs on the service around and following Mr. Musk's acquisition of the platform.

14 This was activity that I had been investigating and had, in fact, discussed at length with

15 Mr. Musk. And Apple reached out to express their concern about the presence of this

16 activity.

17 At the urging of a member of the team that regularly worked with Apple, I joined a

18 video conference that included representatives of the App Store team and

19 representatives from Twitter, where I explained to them Twitter's moderation policies

20 regarding hate speech. In particular, I was trying to clarify with them why the presence

21 of one particular term in the abstract on the service didn't necessarily represent a

22 violation of the Twitter rules.

23 You could imagine, for example, a slur that in the context of interactions between

24 friends wouldn't be offensive or as part of a musical lyric wouldn't be offensive. And so I

25 was explaining to representatives from Apple that if they simply searched for a slur on

1 Twitter and found that there were search results returned, that wasn't indicative of 2 violations of the Twitter rules. They had seemed to be applying a standard where if
3 there were any search results for a given term at all, that de facto was a problem. And it
4 was not Twitter's position that it was. I recall even pointing out to them that some of 5 these words were in songs on Apple Music, and they understood that. They were 6 reasonable in those conversations.
7 And at the conclusion of the discussion, they said they would share a couple of 8 examples that they had come across that seemed more problematic. I recall reviewing 9 those examples. I believe most, if not all, of them, in fact, were violations of the Twitter
10 rules, which we removed. And at that point, Apple said that the issue had been resolved
11 to their satisfaction.
12 Q How long did this meeting last?
13 A Probably 30 minutes.
14 Q Do you recall when, approximately, it occurred?
15 A I don't know.
16 Q So was it your understanding, based off what they were saying, that Apple
17 had conducted some sort of its own internal analysis of Twitter's -- of the speech being 18 used on Twitter at this time?
19 A That's right.
20 Q You referred a couple of times to the Twitter team that interfaced with 21 Apple. What was the name of that Twitter team?
22 A I don't remember. Yeah, I don't recall. I'm sorry.
23 Q Do you recall who from Twitter asked you to attend the meeting?
24 A I don't recall this individual's name. They weren't somebody that I worked 25 with closely.

1 Q Do you recall any other discussions related to this concern broadly during
2 this time at the company?
3 A As in the issue of hate speech on Twitter and its rise on the service after the 4 acquisition or about Apple specifically?
5 Q Apple specifically.
6 A The day that I resigned from Twitter, one of the last Slack messages that I
7 received before I turned off my company laptop was from an employee interfacing with 8 Apple who said that Apple had reached out to express concern about impersonation on 9 the service. This was after what I would say was the disastrous launch of Twitter Blue,
10 which let anybody pay $8 to get a blue verification checkmark. And somewhat 11 predictably, in my view, impersonators and scammers were exploiting that system to 12 mislead people, and it was resulting in significant impacts to advertisers and businesses.
13 Eli Lilly, in particular, had their stock drop significantly as a result of an impersonation
14 scheme. And Apple reached out to -- it was characterized to me as ask questions about 15 what we were doing to stop the impersonation. And I told this employee that I had just 16 resigned my job at the company and this was no longer my problem.
17 Q For these two incidents, the one in January 2021 and then this is late fall
18 2022 it sounds like, were there similar discussions or concerns with Google?
19 A I don't recall specific discussions with the Google team or this coming up
20 specifically from them. It's possible there were; I just wasn't necessarily aware of it.
21 Q To your recollection, do you know how many accounts of Members of 22 Congress have faced some sort of action taken against them?
23 A I don't. Twitter would be able to answer that question.
24 Q During your tenure, do you have a ballpark sense of how frequently that 25 would occur?

1 A Relatively infrequently, but I would be guessing.

2 Q Okay. We can introduce the exhibit if we need to, but if we don't need to,

3 we can go faster through it.

4 Are you aware of when Congressman Massie was tweeting about natural

5 immunity that Twitter took steps to prevent responses to his tweets?

6 A I don't recall that specific incident. Like, broadly, that sounds like

7 something that could have happened, but I don't recall the specific case.

8 Q As it related specifically to COVID-19, enforcement of Twitter's content

9 moderation policies as it related to COVID-19, who at the company was ultimately

10 responsible for decisions like that?

11 A Individual moderation decisions would've been made by, in some cases,

12 individual content moderators located around the world or by members of the Strategic

13 Response Team or by members of the Misinformation Policy Team. Ultimately, I was 14 responsible for the policies.

15 Q For Members of Congress, of the different folks you outlined, were there

16 certain groups where it always at least be escalated to that group or could any content

17 moderator take a step against a Member of Congress' account?

18 A Typically, there would be an escalation, and there were several steps of 19 escalation. Twitter had procedures in place where verified accounts -- pre-Twitter Blue

20 verified accounts typically couldn't be actioned by a frontline very junior content

21 moderator and would have to be escalated. And then there were standing instructions

22 that accounts of political figures that might be eligible for the public interest exception

23 should be further escalated and that Trust and Safety would need to be involved. Those 24 restrictions were not programmatically implemented at Twitter. It was just a policy.

25 And so it could possibly have happened that a member of the Strategic Response

1 Team would take action on a Member of Congress that would not have been something
2 that should have happened.
3 Q Are you aware of any instances where it did happen?
4 A None that come to mind specifically, no.
5 Q Again, this has been part of The Twitter Files reporting. Do you recall what
6 role you had when it came to Twitter's consideration of how to handle Congressman Matt
7 Gaetz' account around January 6th?
8 A I don't recall it specifically, no. I'm sure those discussions happened. I'm 9 sure I was at least aware of it, but at this point it's been a number of years, I just -- I don't
10 remember.
11 Q What about the -- and this was covered partly in the Oversight hearing as 12 well. For members that were shadow banned, does your answer change at all with 13 respect to what teams that decision should have been escalated to?
14 A The term "shadow ban" is sort of analytically imprecise, and it's not one that 15 Twitter used. And so I don't know -- I don't know that I can answer that question about 16 shadow banning. I think if there's a question about whether there were enforcement 17 decisions involving the restriction of the visibility of content in some cases, that would 18 have been a standard content moderation procedure.
19 Q Yes. So I'll rephrase the question, then, with respect to visibility filtering.
20 Taking the last part of your answer as far as what the standard procedure for it would be,
21 is it the same case that the standard procedure would be what you had answered earlier
22 for Members of Congress, where that is something that should be escalated?
23 A Typically, restricting the visibility of an account would be sort of a
24 consequence of an enforcement decision. And so the policy decision to say a given post
25 violates the rules would be something that should be escalated. And so one of the

1 consequences of that verdict would be visibility filtering. It typically wouldn't be
2 something where we would do, you know, a line item review of the consequences. It
3 was all or nothing.
4 Q Okay. Do you remember any posts for accounts of Democratic Members of 5 Congress being considered during your time at Twitter?
6 A None with any specificity. I'm sure -- to be clear, I'm certain that it
7 happened. I just don't recall any specific instance.
8 Q Do you recall the context in which it might have happened?
9 A I don't. I'm sorry.
10 My best recollection -- and, again, this is quite, quite broad and vague -- is in 11 relation to Twitter's synthetic and manipulated media policy, specifically I remember a
12 video that went somewhat viral on Twitter that purported to expose Vice President
13 Pence, you know, showing he was lifting a heavy box, but actually the box was empty, and 14 this video was purporting to expose it. The video had been doctored. And so Twitter
15 enforced its policy against a number of left-leaning accounts that were sharing that video 16 to try to mock Vice President Pence. It's possible Members of Congress were in that.
17 Certainly, members of the media were in that.
18 But that was one incident that stands out to me as Twitter's enforcement of its 19 misinformation policies against individuals on the left.
20 Q During your time at Twitter, did you have interactions with the CDC?
21 A None that I can recall.
22 Q What about the Office of the Surgeon General?
23 A None that I can recall.
24 Q Anybody with HHS broadly?
25 A None that I can recall.

1 Q Do you recall with what degree of frequency at the FITF meetings there
2 would be representatives from OGA, Other Government Agency?
3 A Again, with the caveat that sometimes we couldn't exactly tell who was on 4 the line, and especially for some of the quarterly bilateral meetings which were 5 conducted by phone call, we truly couldn't know who was on the line because the 6 conference call was managed by the FBI. I couldn't say with certainty. There were 7 certainly some instances where OGA was represented, but I don't know how often.
8 Q Did you know that Ms. Gadde was serving on CISA's Advisory MDM
9 Subcommittee in 2022?
10 A I was aware of that, yes.
11 Q Did you ever attend any of the meetings?
12 A No.
13 Q Did you have any discussions with Ms. Gadde about her time on the 14 subcommittee?
15 A She mentioned it to me at one point in one of our one-on-one meetings,
16 really just as like broad awareness, I think in the context of meeting with somebody else
17 on the committee that I was also in contact with in other settings. Like, it was a brief, 18 momentary mention of her presence on the committee.
19 Q Do you recall who the mutual contact was in that case?
20 A It was Dr. Kate Starbird.
21 Q Okay. What work had you done with Dr. Starbird during your time at 22 Twitter?
23 A I had followed with great interest Dr. Starbird's research into foreign 24 interference and disinformation and had communicated with her and with a number of 25 her students regarding foreign disinformation and the tracking of those activities across

1 social media.

2 Q At a high level as somebody engaged or was at least receiving

3 communications from the FBI, based off, again, the accounts and the posts that the FBI

4 would flag for Twitter, do you think that was a good use of the FBI's time?

5 A I think the vast majority of what the FBI shared with Twitter was absolutely a

6 good use of the agency's time. Sending information to platforms about malign foreign

7 interference was not just good, not just valuable, but essential. There were a number of

8 instances where the FBI flagged or passed on reports related to illegal voter suppression

9 that, in my estimation, as I testified to the Oversight Committee, was not a great use of 10 the FBI's time, but that represented a small proportion of our interactions with the FBI.

11 Q For that subset of interactions, why do you think that?

12 A In general, that type of content, while problematic certainly and potentially

13 illegal, it never really got that much traction across Twitter or other social media. It

14 doesn't mean it's not a problem, to be clear. But the scope of impact of the Russian troll

15 farm in 2016 was attaining millions of followers, tens of millions and hundreds of millions

16 of views on their content. And, in contrast, some of the incredibly clumsy and

17 rudimentary voter suppression schemes that we saw attained basically no traction on the 18 service at all.

19 And so when we would get reports of a tweet from an account with like five

20 followers that nobody had seen, sure, it violated our rules, but it just didn't strike me as 21 being that important in the grand scheme of things.

22 Q Do you recall if anyone from Twitter expressed that view to the FBI as it

23 relates to the subset?

24 A No, I think we were too polite to mention that.

25 Q Switching gears a bit. Do you recall any discussions with CIS or with CISA about the development of a misinformation portal that would be run by CIS?

A I only recall one conversation I ever had with CIS directly, and it was not about anything tactical. It was about the broad idea of establishing an ISAC, sort of a formal mechanism for information sharing and collaboration in the election security space. And CIS expressed some interest in convening that, and I remember Twitter kind of demurred and the rest of the industry demurred, and nothing ever came of it.

I know CIS was engaged with the Election Integrity Project, but our primary engagement with EIP was through the Stanford Internet Observatory rather than with CIS or with the Department of Homeland Security.

Q Okay. What is your recollection of what Twitter's involvement was with the EIP?

A Twitter had, for a number of years, had a working relationship with the Stanford Internet Observatory regarding malign foreign interference. Specifically, we knew a number of the researchers there, including Alex Stamos and Renee DiResta and [redacted], and had been reading their work analyzing foreign disinformation campaigns across social media.

And so in 2018, when Twitter started to publish data sets of state-backed influence operations, we had the Stanford Internet Observatory as an early partner in our disclosure of that data, where we would give them early access to some of those data sets and they would publish reports on the basis of that. They wouldn't get any kind of special information. They would just get it a little bit sooner than everybody else.

And as -- I wouldn't even say as an extension of those engagements, but in part because we knew each other and were talking, we were approached by Alex Stamos and Renee DiResta and others about whether we would be interested in participating in the Election Integrity Partnership as a recipient of reports about misinformation that they

1 identified.

2 And from Twitter's standpoint, it was really just about having an intake channel

3 for receiving reports from the EIP. We didn't really know a lot about what the structure

4 of the EIP was, who was going to be generating those reports. There were some

5 meetings and discussions, but for us it was a very simple tactical question which was, are

6 you open to receiving these reports? And the answer was absolutely, yes. We were

7 open to receiving reports from anyone, and EIP were some of the most sophisticated and

8 experienced academic researchers studying these issues. And so it was really a

9 no-brainer to receive reports from them.

10 Q Who from Twitter was involved in the decision to work with the EIP?

11 A I made that decision.

12 Q Did you consult with anyone senior to you?

13 A I informed others, but that was a decision that I felt very comfortable making

14 independently.

15 Q To your understanding, were there any government agencies involved with

16 EIP?

17 A It was my understanding that the Department of Homeland Security was

18 engaged somewhere in the EIP process. But, truthfully, my knowledge of DHS'

19 involvement only came much later as EIP received a degree of public scrutiny. But I

20 would say, even if I'd had perfect and complete knowledge then, it wouldn't have

21 changed my decision, and it wouldn't have changed how Twitter handled those reports.

22 Q Who on Twitter was responsible for receiving the intake of the EIP reports?

23 A The reports were created through a system called Jira, which is just a

24 ticketing system. It's not a censorship tool or anything like that. And there would be

25 email notifications of tickets created in the Jira system that would go to me and probably

1 a few others on my team. I don't recall everybody who received them, but I know I did.
2 Q And for Jira, did your team use Jira -- not this --
3 A Not the EIP Jira.
4 Q -- but use Jira in other contexts?
5 A Absolutely. It was a standard project management and ticketing tool.
6 Twitter extensively used it to manage every element of our software development and 7 engineering work. And Jira was also used for project and task management by 8 operational teams, including the Strategic Response Team and my team directly.
9 Q Do you recall if Twitter played a role with the EIP in 2022?
10 A I don't recall. If it existed, I'm sure we did, but I don't recall specifically.
11 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the Virality Project?
12 A I am.
13 Q Did Twitter have some degree of participation or involvement with the 14 Virality Project?
15 A We did. We received reports from the Virality Project. I don't recall it
16 being very many. I don't recall it being especially useful, but we did receive reports.
17 Q Are you familiar with the Center for Countering Digital Hate?
18 A Only indirectly and largely in connection with Mr. Musk's lawsuit against 19 them.
20 Q Okay. Do you recall interactions during your time at tenure -- or during 21 your time at Twitter with them?
22 A Not directly. I was aware of a report that CCDH had put out about the 23 so-called Disinformation Dozen, which is a very evocatively branded list of Twitter
24 accounts that they objected to. But I was -- my team and I were more engaged with the 25 substance of the report and not with the organization that had created it. It was not

1 really that important to us.

2 Q Did you think there was merit to the substance of the report?

3 A It's a complicated question. I think CCDH's methodology, to me as a social

4 scientist, didn't seem to be as rigorous as I would have wanted it to be. Why these

5 dozen accounts? And they made some argument for how they selected them and how

6 they evaluated it. And, ultimately, like, the point of a public research process is that you

7 can have good research and bad research, and people debate it, and that's that. But it

8 was not my view that the evidence presented alongside the Disinformation Dozen was

9 especially clear or persuasive.

10 The report also conflated activity from across Twitter, Facebook, and other

11 platforms, and it criticized social media generally, which made it very hard to respond to

12 because people would be upset about the Disinformation Dozen, and most of the activity

13 was on Facebook, but Twitter would get yelled at about it.

14 And so there was some frustration about that, but, you know, ultimately, the 15 company's viewpoint, prior to Mr. Musk's acquisition, was we're not the arbiters of good

16 or bad research. People can publish all the bad research they want.

17 Q Did you -- do you recall any conversations with any industry partners

18 about -- specifically to the Disinformation Dozen -- research that CCDH was putting out?

19 A Not that I recall specifically, no. It certainly could have come up in 20 conversations, but I don't remember any specifically.

21 Q Are you familiar with Clemson's Media Forensics Hub?

22 A I am.

23 Q All right. At a high level, do you recall how frequently you would interact

24 with Clemson in this context?

25 A Sporadically. Researchers associated with Clemson had been studying

1 Russian disinformation since sort of the earliest days following the IC's disclosure in 2017
2 and, in my estimation, had a bit of a mixed record. The Twitter Files -- again, I've shared
3 some of my more colorful emails about this that I won't rehash -- but I found that the 4 researchers at Clemson sometimes were right and sometimes were wrong. But we were 5 particularly frustrated with their tendency to -- instead of sharing information with 6 Twitter first so that we could review it and discuss it with them and exchange findings,
7 they would go to the press first, and we would hear about their findings from the press,
8 or they would go to the FBI, and then we'd hear about their findings from the FBI. And 9 given their mixed track record, this could sometimes result in major negative press cycles
10 that, in Twitter's estimation, weren't supported by the evidence.
11 Q Did you ever share these frustrations with the professors at Clemson?
12 A I did.
13 Q And what was their response?
14 A They politely disagreed.
15 Q For the instances where they shared information with the press or with the 16 government, where Twitter had evidence or based off its own analysis would have 17 disagreed, when you had discussions with the press and with the government, were they 18 receptive to what you were trying to explain to them?
19 A Sometimes. And I would say more so over time. But especially in 2017
20 and '18, there was enormous distrust of large tech companies, Twitter included, and I
21 think that distrust was on -- Twitter and Facebook and Google had missed the mark on 22 preventing Russian interference in 2016, and people were right to criticize us.
23 And so I think the press were skeptical of what tech companies were saying, even 24 when we were right, and it was only by, over time, being public about our findings,
25 providing transparency that we started to earn more of their trust. And even when

1 reporters would then write about some of these more sensationalized findings, usually 2 we would see that the tenor of the coverage was a little bit more caveated and 3 circumspect than it had been in years prior.
4 Q Do you recall any press cycles in particular where someone in the company
5 senior to you came to you about concerns about the press cycle?
6 A I mean, it happened regularly. I don't recall any specifically. But, you
7 know, senior leaders in the product management organization would, you know,
8 approach me and ask questions about bots and spam and, you know, the Hamilton
9 dashboard, and all of these things that were in the news, and I spent an enormous
10 amount of time between 2017 and my departure from the company patiently answering
11 those questions.
12 Q Are there any senior leaders at Twitter that you recall in particular would be 13 concerned about the negative press cycles?
14 A I recall Twitter's former head of product, [redacted], being concerned
15 about it and asking questions.
16 Q All right. To your knowledge, did Apple ever threaten to kick Twitter off
17 the App Store during your time at Twitter?
18 A The phrase "threaten to kick off" is an interesting one. Apple never 19 threatened. They were never -- to the best of my knowledge, there was not a moment
20 where Apple or its representatives specifically said that they were going to kick Twitter
21 off or would kick Twitter off if X didn't happen. The structure of the interactions was 22 more like Twitter would submit an update of its app for review and then would hear that 23 the review team had questions. And the review process would sort of grind to a halt 24 until those questions were resolved, but it was never an open confrontation, it was never 25 a direct threat. It was, we have questions and this review is in progress,

1 euphemistically, until those questions are resolved.

2 Q And were those questions the questions we've discussed throughout the

3 interview, concerns about pornography, the ones in January 2021, and then the ones

4 around Mr. Musk's acquisition?

5 A That's right. There may have been others, but those are the ones I was

6 aware of.

7 Q Are you familiar with an entity called New Knowledge?

8 A I am.

9 Q And what is that, to the best of your understanding?

10 A I don't know exactly what their business model was, but they were, circa

11 2017 and '18, a company that was studying disinformation and reporting about it. I

12 believe they were a consultancy as well.

13 Q Did you have an awareness or knowledge of their involvement in the 14 Alabama Senate race in 2018?

15 A I did.

16 Q And how did you come to learn this information?

17 A I don't recall whether Twitter became aware of it independently and banned

18 the accounts or if it was publicly reported and then we became aware of it and banned

19 the accounts. But I remember some awareness of some number of inauthentic social

20 media accounts in connection with the Alabama race that clearly violated our rules and 21 would have been enforced against.

22 Q And what's your understanding of why New Knowledge engaged in this

23 activity?

24 A I couldn't speculate. I don't know.

25 Q To your understanding, was Renee DiResta involved?

1 A I know Ms. DiResta at some point was employed by New Knowledge in some
2 capacity. I don't know whether she had any involvement in this particular campaign. I
3 would say the timing of her employment with New Knowledge and this specific campaign,
4 like, that's a fairly straightforward to determine factual matter. I just -- I don't know
5 offhand.
6 Q All right. Other than the incident with the Alabama Senate race, do you
7 recall any other interactions that -- or know of any other interactions that Twitter had as 8 it related to New Knowledge?
9 A Yeah. I remember there being a number of cases where New Knowledge
10 would publicize findings about alleged disinformation, and Twitter sometimes agreed and 11 sometimes disagreed. I don't recall the specifics of those conflicts or disagreements
12 specifically, but I remember there were moments where we would read in the news
13 findings from New Knowledge and say like, this doesn't ring true to us.
14 Q Are you familiar with the Hamilton 68 dashboard?
15 A Extensively.
16 Q Just a high level, can you state your -- Twitter's involvement -- or not 17 involvement -- Twitter's -- any interactions as it relates to the Hamilton 68 dashboard?
18 A The dashboard was created using publicly available Twitter data using the 19 Twitter APIs. So representatives of the Alliance for Securing Democracy and the German
20 Marshall Fund registered for access for Twitter's developer APIs and were automatically
21 approved for it, and collected Twitter data to produce this dashboard. Twitter learned 22 about it when we started reading about it in the press, and it was cited authoritatively as 23 a chronicle of what Russian bots were talking about on Twitter. And it drove public
24 narratives about Russian disinformation in 2017, '18, and onwards.
25 And first, we were aware that because every time one of these stories was

1 written, which was on a near daily basis, my team had to investigate it and often push
2 back on those findings. And so, second, we tried to figure out how the dashboard had 3 been constructed. There was a list of accounts that made up the dashboard. The 4 Alliance for Securing Democracy did not disclose those accounts, and so there was a bit of 5 a tension between Twitter and ASD and GMF about what's in the dashboard. And there
6 was some interaction at some point -- I think I was in at least one call between 7 representatives of ASD and folks from Twitter, myself and Nick Pickles, to urge them to 8 disclose the list of accounts in the dashboard. They declined to do so.
9 I reverse-engineered the dashboard and identified the list of accounts, and found
10 that the dashboard included some Russian accounts and then a whole bunch of accounts
11 that were not Russian at all. And I expressed my concerns about the methodology
12 associated with this dashboard to ASD directly in no uncertain terms. And it took awhile
13 but, ultimately, they published a clarification about how the dashboard should be used 14 and then, ultimately, released a second version of it that dispensed with this list of 15 accounts and instead turned the dashboard into an account of what Russian, I believe 16 later Chinese as well, state media were discussing.
17 Q How long was it from when the Hamilton -- press reports are coming out
18 based on Hamilton's 68 work until you're able to reverse engineer and figure out the 19 accounts that are behind it?
20 A I remember it being pretty quick, a matter of weeks maybe.
21 Q And then once you, you know, share with Hamilton 68 your findings, how 22 quickly was it from that first discussion until they issued some sort of clarification?
23 A I don't believe we ever told them that we uncovered the accounts. I think
24 that only became public through The Twitter Files. And it was largely about relationship
25 management. We didn't want to burn bridges with them. Again, like, we disagreed

1 with their research and with the quality of their findings. But I didn't believe it was in
2 Twitter's interest to adopt an antagonistic posture towards researchers, and so I didn't
3 share with them that I had reverse-engineered their dashboard. I just knew it, and it
4 gave me confidence in pushing back on findings that cited Hamilton 68.
5 Q When you first pushed back, and with the understanding you hadn't
6 revealed how you knew this, what was their reaction?
7 A I don't recall specifically, but broadly I remember them defending their 8 methodology and saying that they believed these were, you know, Russian associated or 9 affiliated accounts. And, you know, they defended the legitimacy of the dashboard.
10 Q You participated in the Aspen Institute's September -- or we'll just say
11 broadly summer 2020 tabletop exercise?
12 A That's right.
13 Q Do you recall if you were part of the planning for that scenario?
14 A I don't believe I was and certainly not in any detailed way. But I think I may 15 have been in a call about whether Twitter would participate and about the broad scoping
16 of the event, but nothing about the development of the scenario.
17 Q Okay. To your understanding, who was involved in the -- or who was 18 primarily involved in the development of the scenario?
19 A My understanding is mostly it was developed by Garrett Graff and Vivian
20 Schiller of the Aspen Institute.
21 Q Do you know if anyone from the Federal Government was involved?
22 A To the best of my knowledge, no. And I don't believe anybody from the 23 Federal Government attended the tabletop scenario.
24 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
25 [Recess.]

1 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q In The Twitter Files, there's a reference to a Project Birmingham. Do you

4 recall what that was in reference to?

5 A You said Project Birmingham?

6 Q Yes.

7 A I don't, no.

8 Q What about a Project Hernon, H-e-r-n-o-n?

9 A No, I don't recall.

10 [redacted] I'm going to introduce another couple of screenshots from The Twitter

11 Files. We are up to exhibit 9? This will be exhibit 9.

12 [Roth Exhibit No. 9

13 Was marked for identification.]

14 [redacted] I'll give you a moment to review. Again, this has been recreated by 15 committee staff.

16 [redacted]. So on this exhibit, are there any statements that are Mr. Roth's?

17 [redacted] The statement in question doesn't have an author, but I'm going to ask

18 about his familiarity with the middle image.

19 [redacted]. The box -- which one?

20 [redacted] The box referring to the external offboarding policy, and there's a 21 second paragraph regarding internal guidance.

22 [redacted]. Okay.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q First, at a high level, do you recognize this document or the language

25 that's -- or the screenshot, I should say, and the language in it?

1 A That's in reference to the middle box?

2 Q Yes.

3 A Broadly, but I would note that Twitter's advertising policies were managed
4 by a different team and, I would say, don't fall within the scope of content moderation as 5 I understood it or as I worked on in my time at the company. The Ads Team had their 6 own standards for what you could advertise, and often they were different and much
7 stricter than the policies that Twitter had for organic content on the surface.

8 Q During your time at Twitter, how frequently would you interact with the Ads
9 Policies Team?

10 A Regularly. I mean, at one point, my team shared a desk with them, but ads
11 were sort of their own universe at the company and were -- especially on some of these 12 issues -- "these" being foreign interference issues in 2017 and '18 -- sort of operated as an 13 independent unit.

14 Q Okay. Who is the head of the Ads Policy Team while you were at Twitter?

15 A There were a few different people, but for most of my tenure, the head of 16 Ad Policy was [redacted].

17 Q Do you recall any similar dynamics where Twitter's policies would depend on 18 whether the user had been identified by the U.S. intelligence community as part of an 19 operation?

20 A No. And I would actually say, like, I pretty stridently disagree with the 21 characterization of this language in The Twitter Files. Like, to put this message in 22 context and this policy in context, in January 2017, the intelligence community released
23 an assessment of Russian active measures. It discussed the role that Russia Today and 24 Sputnik had played in disseminating Russian Government talking points as part of an 25 election interference campaign. And in the aftermath of that, Twitter made the decision

1 to prohibit RT and Sputnik from advertising on Twitter and drafted policy language that
2 turned to intelligence community attribution as a source of evidence here.
3 But when The Twitter Files characterized this as letting the intelligence community
4 into its moderation process, I object to that in two parts. The first being, this is not
5 about moderation in any way that The Twitter Files discuss it. It's about how Twitter
6 chooses to make money, which is a bit of a different space. And then, second, this is 7 really narrowly about state-backed information operations like what we had seen in 2016
8 where the team was turning to that type of evidence.
9 Q Did you receive -- or not you, but did Twitter receive emergency disclosure
10 requests from the FBI?
11 A Yes, Twitter did.
12 Q Okay. And just at a high level, what's the nature of those requests?
13 A I'll note those requests were handled by a different division of the company
14 than mine, and so I never once handled an emergency disclosure request myself. But,
15 broadly, an EDR is a request from a law enforcement agency for the provision of data in 16 certain life-or-death situations where obtaining legal process to request that data could 17 happen too slowly to save somebody's life. So a situation like receiving a report that 18 somebody may be committing suicide.
19 In situations like that, local law enforcement might send an emergency data
20 request to Twitter requesting information about that user's account. Twitter would 21 review those EDRs. We had internal policies. There would be a group of people who 22 adjudicated the legitimacy of the request, and potentially Twitter would supply that 23 information ahead of receiving a formal subpoena or search warrant.
24 Q And which team at Twitter was responsible for handling those requests?
25 A The Legal Policy Team.

1 Q I want to return to your declaration one more time. Again, just so we're
2 clear on the record, the only instance you can recall where you were publicly trying to
3 correct the record, so to speak, was before your testimony before the Oversight hearing?
4 A I'm not sure I take your meaning of correct the record.
5 Q Okay. To clarify what you understood your declaration to mean with 6 respect to paragraph 11 in particular.
7 A I know I discussed it during the Oversight hearing, yes.
8 Q Okay. Had you discussed it publicly, other than the one interview you
9 identified and the Oversight hearing, before then?
10 A Not to the best of my recollection. And even in that interview, I don't think
11 I discussed the FEC declaration at all. I discussed the broad matter of Hunter Biden's 12 laptop in the New York Post.
13 Q Do you recall what spurred you to -- let me rephrase that.
14 Prior to testifying before the Oversight Committee, were you aware that some had 15 interpreted your declaration to mean that someone from a Federal agency had brought 16 up Hunter Biden in one of these USG/Industry meetings?
17 A Yes, I was aware of that.
18 Q And how did you become aware of that?
19 A I read press coverage of Special Agent Chan's deposition, I believe in the 20 Missouri case, but it could have been in some other case, where as part of a very lengthy 21 deposition, Mr. Chan discussed his interpretation of my FEC declaration and shared his 22 recollection of the meeting.
23 Q Did you have any discussions with Mr. Chan, other than the one personal 24 interaction you referenced, after your departure at Twitter?
25 A To the best of my recollection, no.

1 Q Okay. I think his deposition occurred after you had left Twitter. But
2 either way, do you recall any conversations with Mr. Chan regarding either his deposition
3 or your declaration?
4 A No. I think in my phone call with him I may have said, I saw your 5 deposition. Sorry you had to do that. But that was the extent of it.
6 Q To your recollection, nothing regarding the substance?
7 A Certainly not.
8 Q With respect to the USG/Industry meetings, you mentioned a few times the 9 government a lot of times would be in a conference room, it was difficult to tell who was 10 there. Would industry partners ever be similarly situated?
11 A As in multiple participants in a conference room where --
12 Q Yes.
13 A Yeah, that seems likely.
14 Q Okay. And during 2020, whether it's Webex, whatever the forum that's 15 being used, do you recall approximately how many participants were attending these
16 meetings?
17 A Still be about what I said earlier, 20 to 50, somewhere in that range.
18 Q How is it, you know, looking back now, years later, that you recall -- you're 19 not able to recall who it was but that it was an industry partner in particular? Do you
20 recall if it was one of the major social media companies like Google or Facebook?
21 A I'd be -- I feel like I'm sort of being led to an answer there. And so, like, I
22 don't remember, genuinely. Most of the time the companies that spoke in those 23 meetings were Twitter, Facebook, and Google, sometimes Microsoft, sometimes Yahoo,
24 sometimes Reddit. But primarily the meetings were Twitter, Facebook, Google.
25 It wasn't Twitter, to the best of my recollection. Could've been the others, but I genuinely don't remember.

Q Okay. How confident are you in your recollection that it was not someone from a Federal agency?

A Quite confident.

Q All right. And to your understanding, were the rumors of -- as it related to Hunter Biden, were they ever raised in an industry-only call?

A Not that I recall specifically. I mean, coincidentally, the Aspen Institute event related to a laptop -- or a hack and leak involving Hunter Biden. So there was, I'm sure, discussion of that in various settings, but I don't -- I don't recall anything, like, specifically as opposed to about a fictional scenario.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] We can go back on the record. Thanks.

BY [redacted]

Q I just have a question about something you said during the last hour. You mentioned a meeting with CIS where you discussed the possibility of an election ISAC. Am I summarizing that correctly?

A That's right.

Q Do you remember about when that meeting was?

A I would guess in 2018, but I'm not certain.

Q And you said that Twitter and other industry companies demurred. Am I saying that right?

A Yeah.

Q Could you explain what you meant by that?

A Yeah. So we were aware that there was already an ISAC focused

1 specifically on critical infrastructure related to elections and sort of voting machines and
2 things like that. And then also with an industry we had just started to build
3 information-sharing relationships between the company, so signing NDAs and legal 4 agreements to allow us to talk to each other in a safer way. And so we felt -- I felt and 5 my understanding is that my colleagues at other companies agreed that trying to 6 institutionalize this through something like an ISAC would be adding a lot of scaffolding
7 and a lot of bureaucracy around a relatively new process that we were all kind of figuring
8 out together. And so it felt to me like formalizing something that wasn't ready to be 9 formalized.
10 Q So when you said you demurred, you weren't talking about from the Election
11 Integrity-ISAC; it was a idea for a new one?
12 A That's right.
13 Q So Twitter did not have any objection to the formation of the EI-ISAC?
14 A We didn't have any role in it whatsoever.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q You spoke during the last hour about the suspension of former President
17 Trump from Twitter. He was suspended because he violated Twitter's policies against 18 incitement to violence, correct?
19 A Yes. The exact policy is glorification of violence, of which incitement is a 20 subset. But, yes, that was the basis of the suspension.
21 Q He was not suspended based on your political beliefs or affiliations?
22 A Certainly not.
23 Q And the memo that you wrote explaining the policy analysis, it's my 24 understanding you wrote the memo, and then Ms. Gadde analyzed it, and then the 25 ultimate decision was made by members of the C-suite, perhaps a consultation with Mr.

1 Dorsey?

2 A For the suspension of Mr. Trump?

3 Q Correct.

4 A Yes, that's my understanding.

5 Q So Ms. Gadde could have overruled you?

6 A Yes.

7 Q As she had before?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And the C-suite could have overruled you and her?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And Mr. Dorsey could have overruled all of you?

12 A And the board of directors could have overruled everyone, yes.

13 Q And everybody was in agreement about that?

14 A I don't know whether there was sort of universal consensus, but certainly 15 there was not dissent to the point where anybody pushed back on the decision.

16 Q And you were not made aware of any dissent?

17 A I was not. I was aware of unease certainly, and I felt unease. Like,

18 banning a sitting President, even in the aftermath of the 6th, is not an easy decision. It's

19 a terrifying amount of power for a tech company to have. I felt uncomfortable with 20 making that decision then. I feel uncomfortable with it now. But I wasn't aware of 21 dissent about that decision; just everyone wrestling with the gravity of the decision that

22 we had to make that day.

23 Q And what you're saying is it's not a decision that you took at all lightly?

24 A Certainly not.

25 Q And you analyzed it from all angles?

A To the best of our ability.

Q And you determined that that was the safest course for Twitter?

A Not just for the company, but for the country, right. My concern that day and that of Ms. Harvey and Ms. Gadde was avoiding a resurgence of violence the way that we had seen on the 6th. By the time there was violence in the Capitol on the 6th, there was not much that Twitter could do. The organization of that activity, it happened on other platforms. And on the 6th, it wasn't like people were inciting each other. They were already in the Capitol. And so my concern was how to prevent that type of violence from ever happening again and certainly from happening days after the insurrection in the Capitol.

Q And you and others at Twitter determined that banning the former President was the only way to avoid it?

A On the basis of his continued use of Twitter to share inflammatory rhetoric and the way that his posts were received by many of his supporters, yes, we felt that was the only responsible course of action.

[redacted] Okay. Thank you.

We can go off the record.

[redacted] Can I just ask one last followup to that? Are we on the record still?

BY [redacted]

Q You said that based on what you saw at that time, that was your decision to suspend him from Twitter to avoid this incitement to violence happening in the future, right?

A That's right.

Q Was it specifically the tweet about the Vice President, or was there just more

1 context that you wanted to explain?

2 A My belief on the 6th was that the tweet about the Vice President was a

3 particularly extreme example of directing violence towards one individual, in fact,

4 towards his own Vice President and that, in my estimation, that warranted a ban.

5 On January the 8th, the reasoning was a little bit different. On the 8th, the

6 President's rhetoric was about inauguration and about not attending inauguration. And

7 then his second tweet that day was about his supporters having a prominent voice long

8 into the future, or something along those lines, and that language we observed was

9 received by his supporters as a call to violence. We observed discussions happening in

10 various online forums off Twitter where that language was being cited by people as

11 evidence that President Trump would have their back, that he would pardon them if they

12 committed acts of criminality or violence, and that they should continue to carry out acts

13 of violence on his behalf. And we felt that that rhetoric was too dangerous to leave up

14 on the platform.

15 Q So it wasn't the tweet itself. It was the interaction between that tweet and

16 what you were seeing on the platform in terms of other people actually reacting to it in a

17 way that it seemed like it foretold some more violence?

18 A That's right. It was about the way that the tweet landed in the world and 19 the way that it was being interpreted and received.

[5:20 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q And you said just a few minutes ago that you had some concern that this was a grave decision to remove the sitting President from the platform because that suggested some awesome power on the part of Twitter.

Fair to say?

A That's right.

Q Would it also suggest some pretty frightening power on the part of the President if he were permitted to incite violence and treated unlike any other person, allowed to produce more violence, without Twitter stopping the use of its platform for that purpose?

A Yeah, certainly. I would say that, as the President of the United States and as somebody with an outsized media and reach, I don't think Mr. Trump needs Twitter to incite violence and reach mass audiences. Like that happens independently.

And part of the discussion that we had was that, while banning Mr. Trump from Twitter was a terrifying and enormously consequential decision, we did so with the recognition that, you know, if there was an emergency and the Commander in Chief needed to address the American public, he could do so, and every network would carry it live from the White House in real time.

So, we felt that Twitter as a company and as a platform didn't want to be complicit in the incitement of violence, and that we could do so responsibly without inhibiting the ability of the Commander in Chief to do his job.

Q And it sounds like you went out of your way at Twitter to allow Mr. Trump to remain on the platform, despite violations that, if anyone else had committed them on Twitter, they would have been removed.

1 Fair to say?

2 A I think the company wrestled with the enormity of that decision. I know
3 that former members of Twitter staff have characterized it as the company going out of 4 its way. I wouldn't fully agree with that characterization.

5 I would say these are hard decisions, and particularly the company wrestled with 6 this question of the public interest. We talked a lot about, What is the worst thing that 7 can happen to an elected official if they post something horrible on social media? And 8 the discussion that was the worst thing that happens is that they lose an election and get 9 booted out of office.

10 And so, when we thought about what Twitter's role was there, we felt that there 11 was an important public interest in making speech from elected officials available to 12 voters and to their constituents.

13 But there were limits to that. And on January the 6th and on January the 8th, we 14 encountered directly what the limits of that public interest approach were, even for a 15 sitting President.

16 And with 2020 hindsight, you know, I wish Twitter had listened to me on the 6th
17 and had banned the President that day. But it was an enormously challenging decision
18 with no precedent and no clearly right answer, and I believe the company did its best to 19 balance many competing factors in that moment.

20 [redacted] Thank you for that.

21 [redacted] We can go off the record.

22 [Discussion off the record.]

23 [redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q Dr. Roth, we were talking in a couple of the earlier hours actually about the

1 power that Google and Apple can have over Twitter, but anybody who has to rely on the 2 app store, the equivalent.
3 Did you have any discussions with senior leadership of the company during your
4 time at Twitter about the power that advertisers had over Twitter?
5 A I wouldn't say in those terms but it was certainly widely recognized that 6 advertisers were an influence on the company's decisions and had power to shape the 7 company's policies. And I wrote about that in my op-ed in The New York Times.
8 Q Do you recall any particular time periods during your time at Twitter where 9 either you heard directly from advertisers or there was a concern within the company
10 that there would be pressure from advertisers regarding the company's actions?
11 A I mean, the pressure was omnipresent, and I think is just a reality of what 12 ad-supported platforms deal with.
13 But in -- I don't remember the exact dates. I want to say somewhere in the 14 window of 2018 to 2022 there was a campaign called Stop Hate for Profit which was a 15 coalition of advertisers that criticized tech companies for inaction against hateful and 16 violent content on the service.
17 Twitter met with representatives of that coalition on a number of occasions. I
18 believe I was in at least some of those meetings. And we heard their feedback and their 19 criticisms of the company's moderation approach. Sometimes we changed our 20 approach. Sometimes we didn't. But there was an ongoing dialogue between that 21 coalition and others and the company.
22 Q Do you recall any internal discussions with leadership in the company more
23 senior than you about this issue?
24 A The structure of that question threw me off a little bit.
25 Q Yeah.

A Could you ask it a different way?

Q Sure. Sure. Whether specific to this particular campaign or just generally this issue and concern of, you know, advertisers wanting the company to either make another change or the company's concern that advertisers may want the company to make a change, do you recall any internal discussions at Twitter with senior leadership?

A Yes, frequently. This was -- this was a very regular subject of discussion.

Q And when you had these types of discussions with senior leadership, who would they be with?

A Typically involved in those conversations would be myself, Del Harvey, other individuals from Trust and Safety, Vijaya Gadde.

And then representatives of the Twitter ad sales team, it could have been somebody like [redacted] who was the head of the ad sales team for a period of time at the company. There were a number of others who were involved.

And for some of the more prominent ad agencies or, you know, I think Fortune 10 or Fortune 50 companies that advertised on Twitter, their sales representatives might have been involved in those discussions, as well.

And my understanding is that at least some of those conversations, I can't recall specifics, but broadly I recall that some of those happened at staff meetings which others would be invited to so with some or all of the C-Suite present.

Q Uh-huh. Did you ever attend staff meetings? Were you ever invited to present at them or --

A At a number of occasions, yes.

Q Just at a ballpark level, do you know how frequently?

A A handful of times a year.

[redacted] Okay. Can we go off the record, please?

1 [redacted] Can we go on the record, please?

2 [redacted] The clock reads 10:01.

3 This is a transcribed interview of [redacted]. Chairman Jordan has requested

4 this interview as part of the committee's investigation of how and the extent to which the

5 executive branch has coerced and colluded with companies and other intermediaries to

6 censor speech.

7 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

8 [redacted] [redacted].

9 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here

10 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

11 appear voluntarily.

12 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff. I'll now have

13 everyone else from the committee who is here in the room introduce themselves as well.

14 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

15 [redacted] [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

16 [redacted] [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

17 [redacted] [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

18 [redacted] [redacted] with Chairman Jordan's staff.

19 [redacted] I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we'll

20 follow during today's interview. Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority

21 will ask questions first for 1 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask

22 questions for an equal period of time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth

23 until there are no more questions, and the interview is over. Typically we take a short

24 break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to take a break apart from that,

25 please just let us know.

1 As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down everything we say to
2 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions.
3 Do you understand that?
4 [redacted] I do.
5 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our
6 best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to
7 just those people on the staff whose turn it is.
8 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks
9 down at the end of the table can hear you. It is important that we don't talk over one
10 another or interrupt each other if we can help it, and that goes for everybody present at 11 today's interview.
12 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with 13 counsel if they so choose. And it is my understanding that you are appearing today with 14 personal counsel. Is that correct?
15 [redacted] That's correct.
16 [redacted] Could counsel please state your name for the record.
17 Mr. Flood. James D. Flood, F-l-o-o-d, and I go by Jim.
18 [redacted] Thank you.
19 Ms. Clinton. Kelsey Clinton.
20 [redacted] We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and 21 truthful manner as possible so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you
22 don't understand one of our questions, please just let us know. Our questions will cover
23 a wide range of topics, so, if you need clarification at any point, just say so. If you
24 honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best not to guess.
25 Please just give us your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned that information from someone else. Just indicate how you came to know that information. And, if there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so. And please inform who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete answer to our question.

You should also understand that, although this interview is not under oath that by law you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully.

Do you understand that?

[redacted] I understand.

[redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an interview.

Do you understand this?

[redacted] I understand.

[redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18, U.S.C., section 1001.

Do you understand this?

[redacted] I do.

[redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to today's questions?

[redacted] There is not.

[redacted] Finally, I would like to make note that the content of what we discuss here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation. For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with the court reporter so that they can go in the official transcript, and any copies of those exhibits will be returned to us when we wrap up.

All right. That's the end of my preamble.

Is there anything that my colleagues from the minority would like to add?

Ms. [redacted] We just thank the witness for being here today.

[redacted] Counsel, I understand you have --

Mr. Flood. I do.

For the record, Jim Flood for Aaron Wilson. I would like to make an objection for the record.

We made the request to Chairman Jordan's office before this interview that it be transcribed but not videotaped. We object to the videotaping of the interview, and I want to state and put the objection on the record.

Thank you.

[redacted] The clock now reads 10:05. We will start the first hour of questioning.

EXAMINATION

BY [redacted]

Q Could you state your full name again, please?

A [redacted].

Q And what is your current place of employment?

A A company called Enhanced Voting.

Q What is your current title?

A President.

Q How long have you worked in that role?

A I started Enhanced Voting in 2013.

Q And have you been president since 2013?

1 A Yes, president and founder.

2 Q And what is Enhanced Voting?

3 A Enhanced Voting is an election technology company.

4 Q Beginning with college, what is your educational background?

5 A My undergrad -- I have an undergrad in computer engineering from Florida

6 State University, and I have a master's in software engineering from the University of 7 North Florida.

8 Q Starting with after undergrad, what is your professional background?

9 A After undergrad -- well, during undergrad, I worked for the Florida Division

10 of Elections. Once I graduated, shortly after graduating, I went to work for a company

11 called Lockheed Martin. I was with Lockheed Martin for a year or so.

12 And then I went to work for Scytl, S-c-y-t-l. It's also an election technology

13 company. I worked for them for a little under 2 years.

14 And I went to work for a company called Greenshades Software. They're an HR

15 and payroll software company. I worked at Greenshades until 2017 when I went to 16 work for Clear Ballot Group. Clear Ballot is an election technology company.

17 From Clear Ballot I went to the Center for Internet Security in 2019. And then, in 18 2021, I left Center for Internet Security and worked full time for Enhanced Voting.

19 Q From 2013 to 2021, what was the nature of your role with Enhanced Voting?

20 A It was a part-time company that I maintained.

21 Q It's your company?

22 A It's my company, yes.

23 Q Understood.

24 Do you recall when in 2019 you joined CIS?

25 A I believe it was spring, early in the year.

1 Q And what was the title of your first position at CIS?

2 A Senior director of election security.

3 Q And what were your responsibilities as part of that role?

4 A My main job was to create election security best practices for use by election

5 officials and technology providers in the election administration space.

6 Q Who did you report to in this role?

7 A [redacted].

8 Q Did you manage a team?

9 A I did not have any direct reports.

10 Q Were you part of a team that reported to [redacted]

11 A Yes.

12 Q And how big was that team?

13 A I believe we started with two other members, and I think we grew to three,

14 maybe four by the time I left. The exact number I'm not sure.

15 Q Around the time you left, who were those four people?

16 A [redacted] -- there was some turnover while I was there, so give me a 17 moment.

18 I do not recall the names of the others, yeah.

19 Q From spring 2019 to 2021, did your title or role change at CIS?

20 A My title did not change. It was a very project-based role, so projects did

21 change over time.

22 Q Okay. At a high level, what types of projects did you work on during your

23 time at CIS?

24 A Right. So predominantly best practice generation. CIS had industry

25 cybersecurity best practices that we -- our primary role was to adapt those for use in the

1 election space and given sort of nuances of the election space. And so we put out -- I
2 think probably the biggest product is what we called it -- was the election security best
3 practices for nonvoting election technology. That was a few hundred page, you know,
4 document on security best practices for nonvoting election technology.
5 We also put out a guide for procurement guidance for State and local 6 governments, what kind of security questions should you ask technology providers to 7 evaluate their security. I can't remember the exact title of that document, but it was 8 procurement best practices, something along those lines.
9 We also developed while I was there more of a process, so it wasn't best
10 practices -- it was best practices in terms of testing. So how do you test election
11 technology? What's the best way to test the security of election technology? We 12 ended up coming up with a proposal called Rapid Architecture- Based Election
13 Technology Verification, or RABET-V, R-A-B-E-T-V.
14 And then, in addition to those sort of best practice related items, I also worked on 15 misinformation reporting.
16 Q Can you provide an example of a nonvoting election technology?
17 A An electronic poll book.
18 Q Okay. For -- not including CIS, but any of the places you were employed
19 previously, did you have any interactions with the National Protection and Programs
20 Directorate or with the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency?
21 A Yes. When I was with Clear Ballot Group, I was a member of the Sector
22 Coordinating Council, which has a relationship to those entities you mentioned. The 23 Sector Coordinating Council is a council made up of technology providers. I was the 24 representative on that council from the Clear Ballot Group.
25 Q Do you recall any other interactions with NPPD or CISA prior to your

1 employment at CIS?

2 A All of my interactions would have been as a part of that role. There may

3 have been discrete interactions. I don't recall, but it would have been a part of that

4 role.

5 Q You mentioned misinformation in a couple of responses earlier. Are you

6 familiar with the terms "misinformation," "disinformation," and "malinformation"?

7 A "Malinformation" was not one that was used very commonly in my time at 8 CIS. The other two were used more commonly.

9 Q And, during your time at CIS, what was the most common understanding of 10 "misinformation" and "disinformation" and the difference between those two terms?

11 A The difference was, as I recall, a matter of intent. Whether the information

12 was simply incorrect would be misinformation. Whether it was intentionally incorrect

13 with the intent to mislead people would be disinformation.

14 Q Okay. Do you recall hearing the term "malinformation" used when in 15 discussions with other people in this space?

16 A Only after my time at CIS did I come across that term. I remember

17 specifically I believe there was some guidance issued around how election officials can

18 combat that, use that phrase. And I remember it being a new phrase.

19 Q Uh-huh. Do you recall who that guidance was from?

20 A There was a document produced by the Government Coordinating Council,

21 which is the companion to the Sector Coordinating Council. They had a special working

22 group on misinformation. I believe it was a joint working group -- I'm not sure -- that

23 produced that guidance. And I was not a part of that.

24 Q In the context of that guidance or just more generally, what's your

25 understanding of the most common definition of "malinformation"?

1 A I really -- I don't know.

2 Q And then, just a point of clarity, so when you left CIS in 2021 and you started

3 to work full time for Enhanced Voting, there was no other employment in between there?

4 A There was a contract we were on that was in election -- it was in education

5 technology or education space, and I was not an employee. I was not a W-2 employee.

6 But my LinkedIn file does mention it, so I'll mention it here.

7 Q And, just for the record, what company was that?

8 A It changed names, but Vias was the name, I believe, that we used most. I

9 was the chief technology officer for it.

10 Q Had you had interactions with CIS prior to either applying for your job or 11 being recruited for the job?

12 A CIS has a best practice called the CIS controls. It's an internationally

13 recognized set of best practices. It was one that I happened to use when I was 14 employed at Greenshades. I did not while using it have any interaction with CIS.

15 That's just where I became familiar with the organization.

16 Q Do you recall when in 2021 you left CIS?

17 A April.

18 Q In an earlier response when you were going through some of the projects

19 that you worked on during your time at CIS, you mentioned that at least some them were 20 related to misinformation. Do you recall which projects related to misinformation?

21 A There was only one project. It was related to misinformation reporting:

22 How do election officials report misinformation to the social media companies?

23 Specifically that was the main thrust of the project.

24 Q Do you recall when you worked on that project?

25 A Most of 2020. And I was not full time on the project. We balanced all of

1 these projects. A lot of them overlapped, but I believe we started in that one in 2020,
2 perhaps the beginning of 2019.
3 Q Do you recall who else at CIS worked on this project?
4 A [redacted] had a significant role. We briefed and kept in communication
5 the CEO, John Gilligan. And, as it got closer to the election, we involved other members.
6 Ben Spear, the director of the EI-ISAC, was one of those.
7 Q And, just for the record, what is the EI-ISAC?
8 A The EI-ISAC is the Election Infrastructure, which is the E and the I,
9 Information Sharing and Analysis Center, which is the ISAC.
10 Q Do you know when the EI-ISAC was established?
11 A I do not.
12 Q You mentioned Mr. Spear was responsible at CIS for working with the 13 EI-ISAC?
14 A Yes. He was the director of the EI-ISAC, or a similar title.
15 Q Did you work with the EI-ISAC at all during your time at CIS?
16 A We were in two different parts of the organization. The EI-ISAC was a 17 separate part of the organization, and we interacted because we both dealt with election
18 technology, election-related matters.
19 Q Did you have any interactions with the EI-ISAC prior to your time at CIS?
20 A Not that I can recall.
21 Q What was [redacted] title in 2020?
22 A I don't recall the specific title.
23 Q In the hierarchy of CIS, was he roughly at your level? Was he senior to you,
24 junior to you?
25 A [redacted] had a -- [redacted] was actually a contractor. His placement in the org

1 chart was not -- there was no specific location. In a lot of ways he helped me, so a lot of 2 times he reported to me in a sense, but he also helped others within the organization.
3 He was a man of many talents and could contribute in many areas, and so he did.
4 Q To the extent you have an understanding of this, are employees of the 5 EI-ISAC considered distinct from employees of CIS?
6 A I can't speak to that, no.
7 Q To your understanding, the folks who work on the EI-ISAC, are they all in one
8 way or another affiliated with CIS?
9 A Yes, I believe so.
10 Q For Ben Spear, did he manage a team at CIS? Do you know how many folks
11 were working on the EI-ISAC?
12 A He had direct reports. I do not know how many.
13 Q Do you know where CIS gets its funding?
14 A No.
15 Q Do you know where the EI-ISAC receives its funding?
16 A No.
17 Q Have you had -- first off, are you familiar with the MS-ISAC?
18 A Yes.
19 Q What is that?
20 A That is the Multi-State Information Sharing and Analysis Center.
21 Q Prior to your time at CIS, did you have any interactions or involvement with 22 the MS-ISAC?
23 A No.
24 Q Do individuals from CIS work on the MS-ISAC similar to how they work on
25 the EI-ISAC?

1 A Yes. There's a sharing of resources there.

2 Q And is it the same team at CIS responsible for both ISACs or is there another

3 team?

4 A There's an overlap of the Venn diagram probably that I can't really speak to 5 the specific nature of. But there are roles that, you know, support both organizations,

6 and there are roles that are unique.

7 Q As part of your role at CIS, did you have any involvement or interactions with

8 the MS-ISAC?

9 A I would be on calls where they were on. I did not have any formal role

10 within the MS-ISAC.

11 Q What about the EI-ISAC, would you be on calls for that as well?

12 A We would -- I remember we had a regular call -- I can't remember the

13 frequency -- that -- where both the EI-ISAC and the best practices -- CIS is basically

14 structured you have a best practice side and you have kind of an ISAC side. And, for the 15 most part, those two organizations don't interact, but in the elections space, because we

16 had someone, myself, responsible for security best practices for elections and you had

17 the EI-ISAC, we would have a -- I believe it was monthly, but it may not have been

18 monthly -- call where we all got together and reported out status on what we were doing.

19 And, before I left, there was a restructuring where they put a vice president over

20 elections in general, and I did shift from reporting to [redacted] to reporting to that vice

21 president under the same organization, but -- not underneath the EI-ISAC, but in the 22 same organization as the EI-ISAC.

23 Q And who was that vice president?

24 A His first name was [redacted] and I'm not going to accurately remember his last 25 name. It was a brief time.

1 Q Do you know who [redacted] --

2 A I do.

3 Q Am I saying his last name correctly?

4 A [redacted] is how I would have pronounced it.

5 Q [redacted]. And what was the -- or how do you know [redacted]?

6 A He did work for CIS. He was based in the D.C. area, and I would come to

7 D.C. from time to time to meet with other CIS staff here in the D.C. area, and he would be

8 there.

9 Q Where were you based at this time?

10 A I worked remotely from Jacksonville, Florida.

11 Q And what was his roles or responsibilities at CIS?

12 A I can't speak to that exactly. He was a connector. He would connect us

13 with different members of the government. So my, probably inaccurate, understanding

14 is some government relations role.

15 Q And, to your understanding, did he used to work in the government?

16 A I don't know.

17 Q Do you know who Matt Masterson is?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And how do you know Mr. Masterson?

20 A First met Matt Masterson as a part of my role with the Florida Division of 21 Elections or as I was coming out of that role in the late 2000 -- to 2010. At the time he

22 worked for the Election Assistance Commission. And I met him and have interacted

23 with him from time to time ever since.

24 Q Did you work with him during -- while he was employed by CISA?

25 A Yes.

1 Q And what was the nature of your interactions?
2 A We probably had interactions on a variety of fronts, but I do remember
3 interacting with him on the misinformation reporting project.
4 Q Are you familiar with Brian Scully?
5 A Yes.
6 Q How do you know Mr. Scully?
7 A Mr. Scully worked for the Cyber and Infrastructure Security Agency, and he 8 was our main point of contact there when it came to misinformation reporting.
9 Q Prior to joining CIS, did you know Mr. Scully?
10 A I did not.
11 Q To your understanding, what was Mr. Scully's role at CISA during the time
12 you were interacting with him?
13 A There was a group, I believe they went by the name Countering Foreign 14 Intelligence Task Force, and he headed up that group.
15 Q To your understanding, what were the responsibilities of that group?
16 A I knew they had connections with the social media companies. I do not 17 know their other responsibilities other than what I could infer by the name.
18 Q Do you know Geoff Hale?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And how do you know Mr. Hale?
21 A Mr. Hale works at the Cyber and Infrastructure Security Agency. He 22 presented as just a connection point with the agency and election officials and election
23 vendors.
24 Q Among Mr. Hale, Mr. Scully, Mr. Masterson, who did you interact with most 25 frequently as it relates to the misinformation reporting?

1 A Mr. Scully.

2 Q Do you know Chris Krebs?

3 A I do not know him. I know of him.

4 Q What was the misinformation reporting project that you and CIS were

5 working on?

6 A We had come across a need that was presented to us by election officials

7 who we worked closely with throughout -- all the projects I mentioned were all

8 collaborative with election officials and vendors and others in the election administration

9 space. We had come across a need that they had had a hard time reporting

10 misinformation to the social media companies. Some of those needs had -- you know,

11 were a scaling need; you know, how do we handle it if this grows? Some of them were

12 just practical needs. So we felt like we could assist in that area given the role that CIS

13 played with cybersecurity matters, so we took that on.

14 Q And do you recall when you first started hearing the concerns from -- it

15 sounded like State and local election officials?

16 A Uh-huh. It would have been in 2019. I would not have heard about it

17 prior to my time at CIS, so sometime during the 2019 year.

18 Q Was the project as it relates to misinformation reporting, had that project

19 started before you joined CIS?

20 A No.

21 Q Did you or anyone at CIS consult with members of CISA when first

22 considering this misinformation reporting project?

23 A I don't know if I would use the word "consult." There were two -- the role

24 that we were asked to play by election officials was as a communication hub and basically

25 transferring information they shared with us with social media companies. We had the

1 communications with election officials. We knew how that would work. We did not
2 know how to communicate with social media companies.
3 At some point we became aware that CISA had some relationships there that they
4 could make introductions and assist with that piece of the communication flow, and so
5 we did involve them. And, as I mentioned, we had interactions with Mr. Scully and Mr.
6 Masterson.
7 Q Are you familiar with the term "switchboarding"?
8 A Not as it relates to misinformation, only as it relates to networks.
9 Q To your understanding, did CISA have any involvement prior to -- let's say
10 prior to 2020, with facilitating misinformation reports from State and local officials to 11 social media companies?
12 A Not that I'm aware of.
13 Q For the concerns that were being raised by State and local officials, were 14 they being raised directly to you? Are you meeting directly with them, or are these 15 concerns you're hearing through an intermediary?
16 A Both. We had constant communication with election officials, either
17 relationships that I had going back, other positions or in some of the reports and best
18 practices that we were developing, but we also heard from -- I believe who you would be 19 considering an intermediary would be, like, the National Association of State Election
20 Directors, National Association of Secretaries of State, we heard from that -- from those 21 folks as well that their members had this need.
22 Q Do you recall when you first raised the idea of having some sort of 23 misinformation reporting project to either your superiors or whoever you were reporting
24 to at CIS?
25 A I don't remember the exact date. I remember the reasoning for it.

1 We -- on the best practices side, which I led, we received funding from the Democracy
2 Fund, which is a philanthropic organization that had funded previous projects in best
3 practices at CIS. We were working with them to discuss projects that we could do
4 around the 2020 election, and this was a project that we presented to them. We also 5 presented the other -- all of the other projects I mentioned to you had funding also from 6 the Democracy Fund. I believe we were trying to figure out three projects, and this was 7 one of the three.
8 Q Three projects related to misinformation reporting or just three projects?
9 A Just three projects. The other two were not related to misinformation.
10 Q And, as it relates to the misinformation reporting project, what was 11 the -- how did the misinformation reporting look?
12 A The initial concept was a technology platform to allow the election official to 13 report the -- or -- yeah, to report the sample of misinformation from the social media
14 wherever they discovered it, report that into this portal. The concept was they would 15 report it one time there, and then the portal could communicate out to any of the social 16 media platforms that were appropriate from just that one point of contact.
17 That was one of the big needs that election officials wanted was they had many,
18 many things to manage. They wanted a quick way to report it, and then that would get 19 to who it needs to get to at the social media companies for response.
20 Q And CIS' responsibility would be the entity managing the portal?
21 A Right. The initial -- and it did change over time, but the initial plan was that 22 we would use the funding from the Democracy Fund to build the portal. We would act
23 as system administrators, if you will, just to maintain the portal, let all of the information
24 flow through the portal and, you know, help with things like, you know, just general
25 technical support, password resets, those types of things.

1 Q How did the concept change over time?

2 A Well, so the whole concept was a matter of connecting two different sides to
3 each other, and we ultimately did not have the participation from the social media
4 companies with the portal concept that was necessary to make it viable. I think what
5 ultimately changed it was it got so late that, even if they did buy in, we couldn't roll it out
6 to the thousands of election officials in time for use in 2020.

7 Q Do you recall when in the calendar, approximately, there was, I guess, a
8 recognition that it was maybe too late in the process?

9 A I maintained optimistic for many, many months. I don't know exactly when 10 I changed -- ultimately I think we ended up going with an email alias approach where the 11 election official would email the misinformation report. That came in the September
12 timeframe. So somewhere in there it changed.

13 Q And were you receiving pushback or questions from the social media
14 companies?

15 A It was a conversation -- I can't remember exactly when it started, but it was a 16 conversation that went on for months that -- where they would not -- they would not tell
17 us no, but they would not make movements towards a yes. And I think that 18 ultimately -- again, because that -- it was the rollout, the training of election officials that 19 ultimately was the reason we just couldn't.

20 So I apologize; I can't remember the question that I'm answering.

21 Q Sure. Just at a high level, do you recall if the social media companies raised 22 any concerns; and, if so, what kind of the more common ones were?

23 A The most common concern I remember is that the initial concept was that 24 we would take as many, you know, hands out of the process as possible that were not 25 substantive to the process. Right? We wanted to be able to connect the election

1 official with whatever capabilities the social media companies had to handle
2 misinformation.
3 So we began with an understanding -- and I don't know to what extent this is true,
4 but our understanding was that they had the capability to deal with misinformation, and 5 that capability was buried somewhere inside that social media company's organization.
6 And I do remember thinking that it was -- you know, they must have sophisticated
7 capabilities with all sorts of data analytics and all these sorts of things. And what we
8 wanted to do was basically get the election officials report into a priority queue for them
9 to look at and use whatever capabilities they have to, you know, determine if it violated
10 their policies and do whatever they normally do. Right? We did understand that they 11 had capabilities for this. We were not asking them to create a misinformation process.
12 We were just trying to get the information into that process as quickly as possible and 13 as -- the other concern that we were solving, thought we were solving was that we 14 knew -- we had vetted relationships with these election officials. We could authenticate
15 that they were an election official much quicker than a social media company could. So 16 we were offering to have, you know, vetted, you know, authenticated reports from 17 election officials, and we wanted to get that into their system.
18 So all of that was background to answer they pushed back on any technical 19 changes to allow for that report to get into their internal queues. And so we quickly 20 pivoted from that, and we tried to just match what they had currently.
21 So Facebook had an email-based approach where you would email someone at 22 Facebook. Twitter had a partner support portal, what they called it. So we offered to 23 just match those interfaces so they were not having to change anything about what they 24 were doing. And then that's just when we ran into other pushback, but I don't think any 25 of that was not memorable to me at the time.

1 Q During your discussions with the social media companies, were personnel
2 from CISA included in these discussions?
3 A Often, yes.
4 Q And, whether in those meetings with the social media companies or just 5 meetings between CIS and CISA, did members of CISA generally support the idea of this
6 misinformation reporting portal?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Do you recall which individuals at CISA particularly?
9 A Mr. Scully and Mr. Masterson.
10 Q And do you recall if they shared this support with the social media
11 companies?
12 A I don't remember a specific incident -- instance when they shared it.
13 Q Okay. What about generally? What was the purpose of including 14 personnel from CISA in your meetings with the social media companies?
15 A The purpose was the connection to the social media companies. We didn't 16 know who to contact, and we didn't know how to approach them.
17 Q So CISA facilitated the introductions?
18 A They facilitated the introductions.
19 Q And then, after the introductions have been made and you have had the 20 point of contacts, did you continue to include CISA in discussions with the social media
21 companies?
22 A We continued to include them. However, the burden of getting the social 23 media companies to participate was squarely on us. I remember doing many demos and 24 trying to craft my best proposals to accommodate their concerns.
25 Q At a high level -- I understand there are many State and local officials -- did

1 they support broadly CIS' idea of a misinformation reporting portal?
2 A They did. You know, we had the initial need that was expressed to us.
3 But then, even as we communicated the potential of it out with others, there was positive
4 responses.
5 Q Do you recall, other than CISA, other Federal agencies being involved with 6 the misinformation reporting portal?
7 A We had a very brief interaction with the FBI. There was no one else at the 8 level with CISA, and there were probably emails that involved lots of people from lots of 9 places. I don't know where all they belong.
10 Q The primary agency was CISA?
11 A Federal agency, yes.
12 Q In discussions -- just trying to recreate the timeline as you remember it.
13 The idea with the misinformation reporting portal as based off of discussions with 14 State and local officials, did you first propose the idea or involve in the discussions
15 members of CISA before going to the social media companies?
16 A CISA was prior to -- conversations with CISA were prior to the social media
17 companies, and that was just a -- we didn't know how else to communicate with them.
18 Q What interactions were you having with CISA at CIS prior to working on the 19 misinformation reporting portal?
20 A Personally I did not have many interactions. It's possible that we might 21 have sent Mr. Masterson one of the documents for review, one of the other documents I
22 mentioned, some of the cybersecurity best practices from his election administration
23 experience, would have appreciated his feedback, but they were not involved in the other
24 projects.
25 Q For the social media platforms, you mentioned kind of the primary -- or the

1 concern you recall had to do with, you know, concerns from the companies about not 2 wanting to create a new reporting mechanism, wanted to use what they already had in 3 place. The portals you were describing, at least the original concept of where it was 4 going to multiple social media companies, do you recall any discussions about concerns
5 that the companies would be receiving the same reports and could see reports going to 6 other companies?
7 A There were lots of questions about who would have access to the portal,
8 who would see which reports, and in that specific case, there was not going to be -- the 9 capability -- each platform would basically have its own reports and not see other 10 people's reports.
11 Now, what we were concerned with at the time was something that had crossed
12 platforms that the election official reported existed on both Twitter and Facebook, for 13 example, so they would both see copies of that because the election officials who 14 controlled which platform it went to. The way the platform was being built was the 15 election official would pick the platform, the social media platform that they were 16 reporting on, and they could pick more than one, and those were the entities that would 17 receive the report.
18 Q Do you recall any legal concerns being raised by the social media companies
19 and discussions about the creation of the portal?
20 A There was questions on what our terms of service were, and I remember 21 specifically, coming from a technology background, not completely understanding all of 22 those questions.
23 Q In discussions with the social media companies -- first, it sounds like you
24 were one of the members of CIS that would directly participate in them?
25 A Yes.

1 Q How many people from CIS were participating?

2 A In the conversations with social media companies?

3 Q Yes.

4 A It was myself, [redacted], and [redacted].

5 Q For [redacted] and [redacted], what was the nature of their responsibilities

6 related to the misinformation reporting project?

7 A We were a team. We all took roles. We all took responsibility for various

8 parts of it. [redacted] and myself handled the majority of the -- you know, any day-to-day

9 stuff. But [redacted] was involved in strategy, consulting, and, you know, there were

10 decisions to be made about when we were going to -- how we were going to push, how

11 hard we were going to push, those sorts of things, he would have been involved in those

12 conversations. But the day-to-day was [redacted] and myself.

13 Q In this period, we'll say the first half of 2020, just a ballpark estimate, how

14 much of your day-to-day responsibilities were devoted to working on this project?

15 A In the beginning, 10 percent, yeah, maybe up to 25.

16 Q And did that change as it got closer to the election?

17 A It did. Most of the best practice work is preparatory. Right? And it's

18 not operational. There wasn't a lot for us to do regarding best practices once machines

19 were in the field, you know. So we had more time to work and focus on this. This was

20 a bit more operational for us, manning the inbox and sending emails back and forth, and

21 those types of things, so it did shift to this.

22 Q Do you recall when the email address you referenced earlier came to

23 being -- or came into operation, I should say?

24 A I believe it was September. It could have been August. It could have 25 been October.

1 Q And was that around the same time where CIS decided to not pursue further
2 the creation of the portal?
3 A Correct. We decided to keep the portal for internal use only, meaning -- I
4 mean, the purpose of the portal was a work management, a work flow management,
5 right, among multiple parties. The multiple parties thing didn't work out, but we could 6 still use it to track the emails that came in. So, when an email came in, we could put 7 that information into the portal. It felt like, number one, it would be easier for us to 8 manage it there than managing -- it's a team inbox, so, you know, that can get very 9 hairy -- so creating a case number in our portal, having it sort of centralized there, which 10 is how we decided to manage it internally.
11 Q Okay. So the portal was created, so to speak, but there either wasn't 12 enough time or too many concerns to resolve that --
13 A Yeah.
14 Q -- you weren't able to get buy in from the social media companies. When 15 was the internal release? When was the portal created?
16 A I don't know exactly when it was -- there wasn't a moment in time where it
17 was created. We did a beta with election officials in the summer, so we'd had minimal
18 functionality at that time to get feedback from election officials on the usability of it.
19 And I don't recall -- you know, we got some feedback. We made some changes. When 20 we decided to use it internally, you know, it had enough functionality for us to use it as an 21 internal tool.
22 Q Starting with September 2020 or, you know, the period shortly before the 23 2020 election, what was the functionality of the portal by that point, and how was it
24 being used internally?
25 A To the best of my recollection, you could manage users. Those users were

1 assigned to a jurisdiction. The structure was such that you could -- there was -- I mean,
2 it followed our geography in the United States. States have subjurisdictions, and so
3 users -- you know, you create users and assign them to an appropriate jurisdiction.
4 Those users could create cases, and they could see the cases they created. And we
5 could add -- if you're familiar -- well, I'll go ahead and just articulate it. Each case had a
6 primary name and description, social media platforms that it was seen on, and then you
7 could have sort of a running list of notes and attachments, and so you could keep track of 8 a single case within the system.
9 It did not have any reporting capability to the social media companies or at lease
10 none that had been vetted with the social media companies. We had desire to have it
11 at least emailed from the portal. That, if it exists, was never used or tested. It was 12 mostly a case creation, case updating, and each of the cases had a status or a State so you
13 could close the case if -- you know, once we had finished.
14 Q Just so I can better understand that last part of your response, the -- you've 15 got the case. It's opened. There's comments you can track. Was there a way to 16 share that information with someone outside of the portal?
17 A That was the original intent, but that functionality never went live.
18 Q What about the reports that are being sent to the -- actually, let me take one
19 step back.
20 When you were referring to users as it relates to the portal, are the only users
21 members of CIS?
22 A In the end, the only users were members of CIS.
23 Q And was the process, as it stood in September and October of 2020, a State 24 and local official would email the email address that you had created and then would 25 somehow enter the information into the ticket or someone managing the inbox and

1 would open up a ticket? How did you get from whatever on the outside into, like, the 2 portal itself?
3 A Right. Someone would take the information from the email that the 4 election official sent in and put it into the system. So there were multiple people who 5 had access to that inbox and would have done that.
6 Q And is it a matter of, like, copying and pasting or how do you --
7 A Copy and pasting.
8 Q Yeah.
9 A And part of our procedure was to get the case number from the system and 10 then include that in future emails so that we could track threads better. Right?
11 Because we are taking emails in from election officials, sending that off to the social 12 media company and others, and you might have different replies. It was not as easy as 13 tracking one email thread. So, by having a case number in those emails, we could better
14 understand that this was all related to the same case.
15 Q And so, in the same way the information would come in, so if you wanted to 16 share information that's internally known on the portal, you would have to copy and 17 paste whatever the summary is and whatever else and then put that into an email and 18 send that out?
19 A Right. And, in the end, the portal was predominantly used to get that case
20 number. I do not think we kept up with every email that came through updating the 21 case in the portal. The minimum that we did, create the case initially so we could have 22 that case number, and after that, it was probably mediocre effort at best to keep the case
23 updated within the portal.
24 Q Do you have a -- do you recall approximately, we'll say, September to 25 election day, how many emails CIS was receiving, how many reports from State and local

1 officials?

2 A Not with any accuracy, no. Three years later I'm a little vague on it.

3 Q All right. Do you recall if the frequency would change where --

4 A We had -- it got busier toward the election day, and then, you know, we

5 manned it I think until sometime in December.

6 Q You mentioned that the -- you know, when you received the report and if

7 you submit the report, you could add the CIS case number --

8 A Uh-huh.

9 Q -- and then that could be passed on to the social media companies and you

10 said and others. Who else would you pass along that information on to?

11 A There was a time where we would send the report to CISA, and CISA would

12 send it to the social media companies. That changed at the request of social media

13 companies wanting to receive it directly from us, which we believe was probably our

14 intent to begin with. And so we stopped including CISA in those emails and went

15 directly to -- in Facebook's case it was regional contacts, and in Twitter's case it was -- I

16 think there was two people that we would send it to from Twitter.

17 Q Do you recall when approximately this switch took place?

18 A Mid to late October. That's approximate. I could be off.

19 Q Did the social media companies provide you a reason why they would prefer

20 CIS reporting directly?

21 A I would only be speculating. I don't remember.

22 Q Before the switch was made, was there a, to your understanding, like, a

23 generic email at CISA, or were there particular individuals at CISA you would pass along

24 the reports that they could go to?

25 A Yeah, they had -- it was a generic email that we would send it to.

1 Q Okay. And then, when CISA is still involved in this passing along the
2 information process, if it was necessary, if the social media companies needed to contact
3 you or the State and local official, would they go through CISA, or were they able to 4 contact you directly?
5 A They would have been able to contact us directly. How it happened exactly
6 in every case I don't remember.
7 Q With the understanding you left CIS in April of 2021, were there
8 discussions -- based off of what you were saying earlier, it sounds like you kind of ran out
9 of time in 2020 to set up the portals as first envisioned. Were there any discussions
10 about recreating the portal or some version of it in advance of the 2022 elections?
11 A There were conversations about its use after 2020 to the point that I was 12 brought in on contract to help them -- it had been decommissioned and help them
13 restand it back up. I don't remember the purpose for that. I don't know if it was for 14 internal use or for maybe it's original, although I don't remember the purpose of it.
15 Q And when were you brought back in on the contract?
16 A I don't recall the dates.
17 Q Just as a point of clarity for the record, would this have been before April 18 of 2021 or was that -- or is it until April 2021 when you were a full-time employee and 19 then --
20 A It would have been after April 2021.
21 Q Okay. Do you have a ballpark sense of how close it was to the 2022
22 election?
23 A I really don't. I want to say -- I want to say it was the end of '21, but I really 24 don't remember.
25 Q Do you recall who at CIS reached out to you about coming back for a

1 contract?

2 A Yes; [redacted].

3 Q You mentioned Twitter and Facebook. Do you recall which other social

4 media companies you were -- that CIS was passing reports on to in the lead-up to the

5 2020 election?

6 A I don't recall any others that we would have sent reports to. There were

7 reports about text messages and voicemails. There were conversations about whether

8 we could get a contact with Twilio, which is a mass text -- like a text messaging service

9 that a lot of software uses to send text messages. We didn't end up sending anything,

10 to the best of my knowledge, to Twilio.

11 And there were some other random cases that didn't involve social media at all,

12 but no other social media companies that I recall.

13 Q Those conversations about how and whether to potentially handle text

14 messages, did you have any -- did CIS have any conversations with CISA?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And do you recall what information or what perspective CISA shared in its

17 discussions?

18 A I remember CISA or someone -- it may not have been CISA -- mentioning that

19 the IT-ISAC, the Information Technology ISAC or the Communications ISAC may be good

20 points of contact to send that kind of stuff to. I remember the FBI being listed as a place

21 to send particularly voicemail and use of the phone. And so they just advised on that,

22 and I think they tried to connect us with the other ISACs. I don't think, at least to my

23 recollection, that we ever really got any good contacts or really had a good answer for 24 how to handle those types of reports.

25 Q And the "they" at the end of your sentence there, are you referring to CISA

1 tried to introduce CIS to --

2 A Correct, that was referring to CISA.

3 Mr. Flood. I'd like to take a break to talk to [redacted] but if you're close to the 4 end, I don't want to stop.

5 [redacted] Yeah, we've got just a few minutes, but --

6 Mr. Flood. That's fine.

7 [redacted] If you need to --

8 Mr. Flood. No, no. Unless it becomes urgent, I'll wait.

9 [redacted] Thanks.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q If you could just at a high level explain a little -- I understand the process as it

12 relates to tweets and Facebook posts. How are -- if it's coming from State and local 13 officials, how are State and local officials becoming aware of content in text messages?

1 [11:01 a.m.]

2 [redacted] In the one case that I recall, they would've heard about it from their

3 constituents.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Okay. Do you recall any discussions with the social media platforms, with

6 CISA, with State and local officials, about whether there were any new legal challenges or

7 concerns as it related to text messages as opposed to social media posts?

8 A I remember being asked to collect more information. And there were

9 concerns about the privacy of the additional information we were being asked to collect,

10 such as which technology, like, which telephonic provider they had, that kind of stuff,

11 which we hadn't considered before.

12 Q And who asked you to do this?

13 A I don't -- I don't recall who specifically ask -- I don't -- I don't recall the 14 specific back-and-forths of those conversations and who was on each side.

15 Q With the understanding you don't recall specifically who it was, do you recall

16 if it was someone from within CIS or someone outside?

17 A No.

18 Q The portal as first envisioned, would CIS play any sort of role in filtering the

19 types of submissions in terms of gauging to any degree whether it should be passed on to 20 social media platforms?

21 A There were -- there were specific conversations about this, and we were not

22 going to put ourselves -- we had specifically decided not to make any assessment on the

23 content of it. Our only goal, we had a basic validation role in that, one, we would -- we

24 would validate that the -- that there was an explanation as to why the election official

25 believes it's misinformation. So if they send us a picture, a picture alone does

1 not -- would not have passed that basic validation.

2 So we did some basic validation. The original intent of the portal was to have

3 those as actually a separate field, and so they wouldn't even be able to submit. So no

4 one from CIS would be involved. It would be basic form validation on the site.

5 We carried that through in doing the email, just making sure that it was a -- there

6 was a description belonging to the report.

7 Q So other than making sure there was a description, was there any sort of

8 other criteria that were considered or certain thresholds that had to be met before, as it

9 actually worked in practice in September of 2020, whether CIS would pass along a report

10 to that CIS email address that was created, and pass that on to the social media

11 companies?

12 A Once it moved to email, there were a couple of other considerations. One

13 is, who's it coming from, because they're not a user of the platform at that point.

14 They're an email address. So was it a -- was it an election official, could we validate that.

15 So we added that step.

16 And then the only other consideration that we added was, is this a report on a

17 platform with which we know who to report it to. So there were reports from -- there

18 were random websites reported to us, which we had no control over that website

19 or -- not that we had control over any of it, but we had no contact with who that -- who

20 runs that website.

21 [redacted] Could we go off the record, please?

22 [Recess.]

23 Ms. [redacted] We're ready to go back on the record.

24 You wanted to make a clarification.

25 Mr. Flood. Thank you. So we're back on the record. Jim Flood, counsel for

1 [redacted]

2 [redacted] you were asked by [redacted] before the break about social media

3 companies that CIS sent reports to. Do you recall that?

4 [redacted] Yes.

5 Mr. Flood. Okay. And then you were asked a follow-up question about are 6 there any other social media companies, correct?

7 [redacted] Yes.

8 Mr. Flood. So the record is clear, I want to ask you the question, can you list all

9 of the social media companies that you are aware of that CIS engaged with in any way

10 about the misinformation portal or the misinformation email?

11 [redacted] Facebook, Twitter, Nextdoor, who we had a -- several emails and I

12 believe at least one conversation with. And then there was LinkedIn, which we had just

13 a conversation at a conference with the -- someone from Microsoft, and that didn't go

14 any further.

15 Mr. Flood. And is that to the best of your recollection at this time?

16 [redacted] Yes, best of my recollection.

17 Mr. Flood. Okay. Thank you, Counsel. I appreciate it.

18 Ms. [redacted] Of course.

19 EXAMINATION

20 BY MS. [redacted]

21 Q I want to pick up where we left off talking about the misinformation

22 reporting portal and the project more generally.

23 Talking about the project more generally, you said that that idea came maybe the 24 end of 2019, beginning of 2020. Is that right?

25 A Correct.

1 Q And did that come from the best practices side of CIS or the EI-ISAC side?
2 A It came from the best practices side.
3 Q Did CISA ask you to start that project?
4 A They did not.
5 Q So the misinformation reporting portal wasn't solicited by CISA?
6 A It was not.
7 Q Was it solicited by any Federal Government agency?
8 A No.
9 Q And you said that that project was funded by the Democracy Fund. Is that
10 right?
11 A That's correct.
12 Q To the best of your knowledge, is the Democracy Fund part of the Federal
13 Government?
14 A To the best of my knowledge, no, it is not.
15 Q Why did you see the need to start this project?
16 A We heard from election officials that it was a difficult process for them and 17 one they were concerned about in 2020.
18 Q When you say "we heard," that's you at CIS on the best practices side?
19 A Correct.
20 Q We talked about how you said it was the -- CIS' burden to convince the social 21 media companies to get involved in the portal. Is that a fair summary of what you said?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Why do you say that? Or in other words, like, how -- why did you feel that
24 way?
25 A I felt that way because that is how it was positioned from the very beginning.

1 We -- we were doing -- CIS was doing a project to help election officials. It's CIS' project.
2 It's their idea. They're going to present it to the social media companies for social media
3 companies' involvement.
4 Q So CISA wasn't involved in that process of trying to pitch the idea to the
5 social media companies?
6 A They were included -- they made the introduction. They were included in 7 conversations. They were not in all the conversations, and to the best of my 8 recollection, they were not heavily participatory in those conversations.
9 Q And you said CISA's role was primarily just facilitating introductions. That's 10 right?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Talking about the portal itself, that portal didn't actually get used with social 13 media companies, right?
14 A That's correct.
15 Q It was only used internally within CIS?
16 A That's correct.
17 Q Were any election officials on the final form of the portal when it was 18 actually used during the 2020 election and the lead-up to it?
19 A No, they were not.
20 Q They were only on the beta testing version?
21 A That is correct.
22 Q And no social media companies were on the portal during that time?
23 A That's correct.
24 Q So the actual system that came into place was the email inbox that we 25 discussed. That email address was for State and local election officials to sent their

1 reports to. That's right?
2 A Yes.
3 Q And that email address was a separate thing from the portal?
4 A Yes.
5 Q It wasn't the original concept that y'all had?
6 A Correct.
7 Q So CIS received these email reports and then forwarded them along to the 8 social media companies. Is that right?
9 A We would receive the reports. There was a period of time where we would 10 send those to CISA for CISA to send to the social media companies, and then towards the 11 end we would send directly to the social media companies.
12 Q So CIS' role the whole time was forwarding the reports along to a different
13 entity?
14 A That's correct.
15 Q And you mentioned CIS didn't do any independent validation other than 16 making sure that the person who sent it was an election official and that there was 17 enough information in the report?
18 A Correct. We did not do -- what I think you mean by validation, we did not 19 validate whether it was or was not misinformation.
20 Q And you didn't analyze who the poster of the content was, for example?
21 A No.
22 Q You didn't verify anything other than there was enough information to 23 forward along?
24 A That's correct.
25 Q What was EI-ISAC's role in the process of these forwarding emails?

1 A The EI-ISAC was -- is a membership organization of election officials. We 2 used them to publicize the availability of the email address through regular 3 newsletter-type distributions that they have. And at times we would use the list of 4 membership to vet the email addresses we were getting it from, and then if ever we 5 needed to reach out to a election official, we would also use that same membership list to 6 figure out who to contact at the local or State office.
7 Q So is it fair to say EI-ISAC's role was primarily the contact list that they had of 8 the offices and then the publication of the email address?
9 A Those were definitely the two roles I remember.
10 Q Okay. Why was it necessary for -- you discussed this a little bit. Just can 11 you go in a little bit more detail about why it was necessary for CIS to play the role of 12 receiving the reports and then forwarding them along to someone else.
13 A As opposed to?
14 Q The election officials doing it directly.
15 A Okay. One of the primary concerns from the beginning that we had heard
16 was that election officials wanted a single point of contact to report misinformation
17 versus at least two, right -- Facebook and Twitter being examples of a multireporting
18 structure. So it was primarily to give election officials kind of what they had asked for.
19 Q Was it also useful for CIS to be able to then, like, see patterns in a way that 20 individual election officials might not be able to?
21 A In the original portal concept, having the information in a single place would 22 allow us to spot trends, and there was a feature of the portal that would've allowed us to 23 share the trends more broadly.
24 Q Do you think that the system that you had of the email addresses still 25 allowed CIS or other entities that you were working with, like NASS or NASED, to see

1 those trends or do any kind of analysis?

2 A Not in an efficient way.

3 Q CIS didn't actively monitor social media for misinformation about elections,

4 did you?

5 A Correct, we did not.

6 Q To your knowledge, did anyone else at CIS, other than you and your team,

7 do that kind of monitoring?

8 A I do recall our communications team had a -- or were using a stan- -- what I

9 believe is a standard sort of term-search software that you might use to see if the Center

10 for Internet Security is being talked about in some other publication. I do believe they

11 had certain terms configured around the election, and I think that is in scope of your

12 question.

13 Q Were they reporting that information to you in any way?

14 A I don't recall if we received any reports from them.

15 Q So the election misinformation reports that you were handling were from 16 State and local election officials?

17 A Correct.

18 Q They weren't coming from independent monitoring?

19 A Correct.

20 Q You talked about how at first you were forwarding reports to CISA and CISA

21 was forwarding them on, and then it changed. And I know you mentioned in the earlier

22 hour that you don't recall exactly what the reasons were that the social media companies

23 provided.

24 There's been an allegation that the reason CISA was not the person in the middle

25 anymore was to hide their involvement in the process. Do you think that allegation is

1 true?

2 A I really can't speak to that allegation.

3 Q I want to take a step back and look more broadly at misinformation generally

4 but first talking a little bit more about your background. You mentioned that you've

5 been working with Enhanced Voting for about a decade. Is that fair?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And you've been working on election security issues, would you say, for over

8 a decade?

9 A Yes.

10 Q You worked in the Florida Division of Elections, right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And you were doing security evaluations of voting systems, right?

13 A Security was a component of our evaluations.

14 Q Would you -- would it be fair to describe you as an election technology,

15 election security expert?

16 A Yes.

17 Q So with that background, do you think that misinformation is an election

18 security threat?

19 A My answer is probably nuanced. Cybersecurity is a different -- is a different

20 domain than mis- and disinformation, and I'm way more qualified to speak on 21 cybersecurity threats than I am on sort of whether misinformation is a threat.

22 Q Okay. Do you think that mis- and disinformation can undermine faith in 23 the election infrastructure?

24 A I believe that factual inaccuracies about how elections are administered is 25 something that I don't want.

1 Q You mentioned earlier that State and local election officials wanted
2 somebody to report misinformation to. Why did they think that that was important?
3 Why did they want to report this misinformation?
4 A There were, as best my recall, at least two issues. One was that the current
5 mechanisms that Facebook and Twitter had made available to them were -- were not 6 efficient. That's number one. Number two, not available. For example, not all local 7 election officials could use those mechanisms for reporting misinformation. So there
8 was a gap there.
9 Q More broadly, why did they see that this mis- and disinformation, to the best
10 of your knowledge, why did they see that as a problem?
11 A I really can't speak to why they saw it as a problem.
12 Q I want to look at specifically how mis- and disinformation campaigns were 13 used to attempt to interfere in previous Presidential elections. So I'm going to introduce 14 for the record as exhibit 1 a statement that I will hand out.
15 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 1.
16 Was marked for identification.]
17 Ms. [redacted] This is an October 7th, 2016, statement from the 18 Department of Homeland Security and the Office of the Director of the National 19 Intelligence Directorate -- or the Office of the Director of National Intelligence.
20 I'll give you a moment to review it. There's a couple of copies if you want to pass
21 them --
22 [redacted] Oh, I'm sorry. I thought I was looking at --
23 Mr. Flood. Thank you.
24 [redacted] I'm ready.
25 BY MS. [redacted]

1 Q Were you familiar with this statement before today?

2 A In specific, no.

3 Q This is a three-paragraph statement that confirms that Russia directed the

4 2016 hack-and-dump operation against Democratic offices -- the DCCC and the DNC -- in

5 order to interfere with the 2016 Presidential election.

6 Were you familiar with that conclusion more broadly?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Was that something that you were thinking about when you were doing

9 election security work for 2020?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Were you also familiar with the conclusion that Russia continued to use both 12 hack and leak and other information campaigns during -- or -- during the 2020 election?

13 A Can you restate that?

14 Q Yeah. Were you familiar with the concern that Russia might continue to 15 use these hack and leak -- hack and leak or other information campaigns during the 2020

16 election?

17 A Yes, I'm familiar with that concern.

18 Q And are you familiar with the conclusion that Russia did, in fact, use

19 information influence campaigns during the 2020 election?

20 A I don't recall specifically that conclusion, but -- yeah.

21 [[redacted] Exhibit No. 2.

22 Was marked for identification.]

23 BY MS. [redacted]

24 Q I'll introduce for the record as exhibit 2, this is the Intelligence Community

25 Assessment from January of 2021. It was declassified in March of that year.

1 I'm not going to ask you to read the whole thing. There's a highlighted section
2 on page small Roman numeral 1.
3 So the highlighted section reads, Key Judgment 2: We assess that Russian
4 President Putin authorized, and a range of Russian Government organizations conducted,
5 influence operations aimed at denigrating President Biden's candidacy and the 6 Democratic Party, supporting former President Trump, undermining public confidence in 7 the electoral process, and exacerbating sociopolitical divisions in the U.S. Unlike in 8 2016, we do not see persistent Russian cyber efforts to gain access to election
9 infrastructure. We have high confidence in our assessment; Russian state and proxy
10 actors who all serve the Kremlin's interests worked to affect U.S. public perceptions in a 11 consistent manner. A key element of Moscow's strategy in this election cycle was its 12 use of proxies linked to Russian intelligence to push influence narratives, including 13 misleading or unsubstantiated allegations against President Biden, to U.S. media
14 organizations, U.S. officials, and prominent U.S. individuals, including some close to 15 former President Trump and his administration.
16 Do you have any information that would disagree with that conclusion?
17 A I do not.
18 Q Do you think the threat from foreign intelligence operations, foreign 19 influence operations poses a threat to election security?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Why do you think that information sharing is important in the election
22 security space?
23 A In the election security space, elections are run by State and local 24 governments. They don't often communicate due to the decentralized nature of our 25 election infrastructure. There are some topics that it will help their election security

1 posture to have information sharing and communication, and cybersecurity is definitely
2 one of those. That's one of the roles of the ISAC.
3 Q Did CIS also play a role in providing information to State and local election
4 officials?
5 A In general or by --
6 Q Yeah, in general about cybersecurity, about anything providing some 7 standard of information.
8 A Yes. As one of my primary responsibilities, it was to promote cybersecurity
9 best practices and distribute that information to State and local election officials.
10 Q Talking specifically about State and local election officials, is it fair to say that 11 a lot of State and local election officials don't necessarily have expertise in cybersecurity?
12 A Yes, that's a correct assessment.
13 Q A lot of them might even be part-time workers?
14 A There are cases where election officials are not full time, yes.
15 Q And they might not -- beyond cybersecurity, they may not have expertise in 16 misinformation or generally the things that CIS is working on?
17 A Yes, that is correct.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q [redacted] I just want to ask you, when you were implementing the email
20 system when it actually was operational before the 2020 election, did you, yourself, ever
21 see some of the emails that the State and local officials were bringing to the 22 attention -- or trying to bring to the attention of the social media companies?
23 A Yes. I had access to the inbox.
24 Q Okay. And did you have a sense from your review -- did you review all of 25 them, some portion of them, or how would you characterize that?

1 A I would characterize it as majority.

2 Q Okay. Can you share some of the concerns that the State and local officials

3 were sharing from those emails, just generally?

4 A I don't recall specific emails, and I don't recall that many trends that I

5 can -- there were a couple of cases that do stick out, but other than that, I don't recall

6 trends and certainly don't recall the majority of what was reported.

7 Q Okay. Other than trends, like what sticks out in your mind?

8 A I remember early on there being a case about trashing of ballots, and that

9 one was a very interesting one. It was not one that we had reported directly to us. I

10 think we found out about it through the Election Integrity Partnership. And it was a

11 good example of a situation where the social media activity was claiming something that

12 had a very reasonable election administration truth. I mean, the ballots were actually

13 multiple years old and had run out of their date of retention, and so they were being

14 thrown away as a part of that data retention. But the social media activity was claiming 15 that these were 2020 ballots being thrown away.

16 Q This is the Sonoma County incident.

17 A That's correct.

18 Q Is that right?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And correct me if I'm wrong, but it's fair to say that there were reports on 21 social media that the Sonoma County election officials were disposing of ballots illegally?

22 Is that the gist of the claim that was circulating on social media?

23 A That is consistent with how I remember it, yes.

24 Q And the election officials were informed -- were concerned because that

25 wasn't the truth. Fair to say?

1 A My recollection is that the Sonoma County officials actually had come out
2 and put out that information publicly, that this was, in fact, something that we do as a
3 matter of course, not a matter of -- and it doesn't affect the 2020 election.
4 Q Right. Because I believe in that case they were actually disposing of ballots
5 from a previous election, like in 2018. Is that your recollection?
6 A That's my recollection, yes.
7 Q And there were some rules, maybe even laws, that governed the disposal of 8 those ballots, fair to say, if you know?
9 A I don't know specifically what those laws would allow and not allow.
10 Q Okay. But what the election officials were struggling with, if you agree with 11 me, is that the initial sort of disinformation about these ballots being illegally disposed 12 was getting a lot more traction on social media than the true correction that the election
13 officials were trying to put out there, which is, hey, these were from 2018, and we're just 14 legally disposing of these. I think they were actually not even ballots themselves; they 15 were just ballot envelopes.
16 But the difference between the misinformation that was kind of going viral and 17 the correction, which was not as interesting to people, created a problem for the election
18 officials to reach voters with true information. Fair to say?
19 A I've heard that observation, that the misinformation gained more traction
20 than the truth.
21 Q Okay. So that might be one of the reasons that election officials are not in 22 a position to handle this kind of problem in the moment during an election by themselves
23 without reaching out to social media companies. Is that fair?
24 A I don't want to make that assessment myself, but I've heard others make the 25 assessment that that is a challenge for election officials. And I've heard that from

1 election officials, that that's a challenge for them.

2 Q Okay. I don't know -- I understand that this is a long time ago and you

3 didn't have a vision of everything that came before you, but did you ever see any emails

4 from election officials that were complaining about people promoting information on

5 social media that was incorrect, say, about the time, place, or manner of elections, or poll

6 hours, for example?

7 A I do recall cases where people would promote a registration deadline or

8 something akin to that and have that information be wrong, especially when they were

9 publicizing here's a lot of States and their deadlines, and they would get a State here or 10 there, you know, incorrect.

11 Q And election officials might be concerned because they want their voters to 12 be able to access the polls with accurate information, and if there was a wrong

13 registration deadline, that might actually prevent people from participating when they

14 otherwise could. Fair to say?

15 A In that particular case, if the deadline -- if a publicized deadline on social

16 media is after the true deadline, then waiting until the promoted deadline might leave

17 you with the inability to register in that particular State.

18 Q Okay. And with all of these examples, CIS is not interested in taking a

19 position with respect to the information that's being shared on social media. You're just

20 trying to help the election officials with the problem that they've told you that they have;

21 that is, providing true information, accurate information to their constituency, to the 22 voters in their community, correct?

23 A I think that's a fair assessment, yes.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q Could CIS independently take content off of social media platforms?

1 A We had no ability to take information off social media platforms.
2 Q Could the EI-ISAC independently take content off of social media platforms?
3 A Not to my knowledge.
4 Q To your knowledge, could CISA take content off of social media platforms?
5 A Not to my knowledge.
6 Q So any content moderation decisions were ultimately made by the social
7 media companies?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Did CIS try to coerce platforms into making specific decisions?
10 A We did not.
11 Q To your knowledge, did EI-ISAC try to coerce platforms into making specific 12 decisions?
13 A Not to my knowledge.
14 Q To your knowledge, the platforms didn't take action on every single thing
15 that was reported to them, right?
16 A That's how I recall it, yes.
17 Q To the best of your knowledge, the platforms made their own decisions
18 about what content to remove or label?
19 A Correct. That was my observation.
20 Q And CIS didn't always agree with those conclusions?
21 A CIS didn't have -- CIS took the opinion of whatever the election officials 22 opinion was.
23 Q Okay. Did the election officials always agree with the decisions of the 24 social media companies?
25 A I don't know in every case, but in some cases I'm aware they were not.

1 Q But that didn't change the actual outcome that the social media companies
2 took?
3 A In those cases, it did not.
4 Ms. [redacted] We can go off the record.
5 [Recess.]
6 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q [redacted] for the CIS portal that was used internally, do you know if that 9 data was archived?
10 A I don't. I don't know.
11 Q Were you able to access it prior to your departure from CIS in April 2021?
12 A I would've been able to access it.
13 Q When -- you mentioned that CISA helped facilitate the introductions to social 14 media companies. Prior to that, when you were having discussions with the officials at 15 CISA, did you, you know, present the idea or, you know, provide to them the proposal
16 that you intended to provide ultimately to the social media companies?
17 A We discussed the concept.
18 Q And did they provide any feedback?
19 A Not that I can recall.
20 Q How frequently were you interacting with officials at CISA in, we'll say, the 21 first half of 2020?
22 A I remember long gaps, so I might say a monthly -- once a month.
23 Q And did it tend to be phone calls, emails, when you were having 24 communications with them? In person?
25 A There was one in-person conversation and then a mixture of phone and

email.

Q Do you remember whose idea it was to reach out to or have some sort of contact with the FBI with respect to the misinformation reporting portal?

A I believe it was mine.

Q And what did you think the purpose of -- or why did you think that would be an appropriate thing?

A I met -- I'd met a special agent in Jacksonville, Florida at a classified briefing that I attended and felt like -- honestly, I don't remember what role I felt the FBI would have. It was mostly a keeping them in the loop with what we were doing around misinformation.

Q Had you had interactions with the FBI prior to that classified briefing?

A Not that I can recall. And my only reason for having interactions with the FBI at that briefing was because the SCIF, the secure room in Jacksonville is the FBI headquarters.

Mr. Flood. Can I interject for the record, please? [redacted] has been advised not to discuss any classified information, and we're assuming this a nonclassified interview.

[redacted] Yes.

Mr. Flood. You'll let us know otherwise. Thank you.

BY [redacted]

Q At a high level, without disclosing any classified information, why were you as a member of CIS receiving a classified briefing?

A There is a -- there's a program for members of election infrastructure which is deemed part of the critical infrastructure, that allows for what I believe is known as private sector security clearances so that certain members of the election infrastructure

1 community could receive classified intelligence about threats to election security. And I
2 obtained that security clearance when I was with Clear Ballot, and I maintained it while I
3 was with CIS.
4 Q You mentioned in our first hour that the social media companies asked, your
5 recollection is maybe around mid-October, to have CIS pass the information along directly
6 as opposed to routing it through CISA. Is that right?
7 A I specifically remember Facebook asking for that, yes.
8 Q Do you recall if any other social media platforms asked?
9 A No, I don't recall.
10 Q After Facebook asked, did you change the process for every social media
11 company or just for Facebook and whoever else may have asked?
12 A I don't recall what the process with Twitter was before, but after I know we 13 communicated with both directly. I just don't recall if we communicated with Twitter
14 directly before that or if we were going through CISA.
15 Q And do you recall for either company if they provided a reason why?
16 A I remember the conversation happening. I remember part of the 17 conversation and just being surprised that that's what they wanted, so --
18 Q Why were you surprised?
19 A They were very reluctant throughout the whole process, so the idea that 20 they would want to be closer was inconsistent.
21 Q And just to make sure I understand your answer correctly, the social media
22 companies had been reluctant throughout the process?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And it was your -- you were surprised that the social media companies
25 wanted to be closer to CIS?

1 A Wanted to get the information directly from us, is how I'd like to reword
2 that.
3 Q Okay. Do you recall how this was communicated to you? Was it a video
4 conference? Was it an in-person meeting?
5 A Video conference.
6 Q Was anybody from CISA on this call?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Do you recall who?
9 A Mr. Scully.
10 Q Do you recall Mr. Scully's reaction?
11 A No.
12 Q Did you talk with Mr. Scully without the social media companies present at a 13 later point about this switch?
14 A Not that I can recall.
15 Q After you left CIS in about April 2021, how many contracts have you taken on 16 with CIS since then?
17 A One.
18 Q Is it just the one you mentioned?
19 A Yeah, it's just the one.
20 Q At any point in your career, have you been brought on as a contractor by 21 CISA?
22 A I've never, no.
23 Q What about DHS more broadly?
24 A No.
25 Q What about with respect to any Federal agency?

1 A I think all my engagements have not involved the Federal Government.
2 And I do want to clarify, I can't remember if the CIS contract was broken down into two
3 contracts. Same effort, but part of my recollection is we might've structured it as 4 two -- two payments -- I can't remember -- two payments, one contract; two contracts,
5 two pay- -- I don't remember, but something along those lines. Same effort, though.
6 Q And you don't recall any examples other than that, this one effort, as related 7 to the portal?
8 A Correct.
9 Q Okay. Do you recall how long you worked on the portal or this project as 10 part of the -- whether it was one or multiple contracts?
11 A I don't recall the specific length.
12 Q Was it longer than a month?
13 A Correct. Less than 6 months. Longer than a month, less than 6 months.
14 Q And in an earlier response to the minority's questioning, I recall you saying 15 something to the effect of -- that cybersecurity is a different domain than mis- and 16 disinformation. Is that --
17 A That's my assessment. That's my opinion.
18 Q Do you think that assessment is shared broadly among cybersecurity
19 experts?
20 A Obviously, it can vary. I believe it's a separate domain.
21 Q Why do you believe that?
22 A Cybersecurity has a -- there are very different facets to network intrusions,
23 account takeovers, the types of things that fall in the cybersecurity domain.
24 Misinformation is a -- or influence operations and those type, you know, to reuse
25 that phrase from earlier, it's the mechanisms it takes, the strategy behind it, the end goal.

1 All of those, you know, can be very different than cybersecurity. I do not consider
2 myself a misinformation or influence operation expert. I do consider myself a
3 cybersecurity expert.
4 Q As part of your work with Enhanced Voting, do you work with CISA still?
5 A Through the Sector Coordinating Council, yes.
6 Q Other than that?
7 A No.
8 Q Are you familiar with the Election Integrity Partnership?
9 A I am.
10 Q And to your understanding, what is the EIP?
11 A EIP, to my understanding, is a collection of -- is a group of entities that came 12 together in 2020 to assist with misinformation reporting to the social media companies.
13 Q To your understanding, which entities were involved with EIP?
14 A The Stanford Internet Observatory or the Internet Observatory of 15 Stanford -- I'm not sure exactly the name -- the -- Graphika and a university in Washington
16 State. I do not know the exact name.
17 Q And did CIS have involvement with EIP?
18 A Yes.
19 Q What was CIS' involvement?
20 A We would -- there were two -- two answers to this. One is we would report
21 the misinformation that election officials would report to us. We would also report that 22 to EIP.
23 And then secondarily, we would ask election officials clarifying questions or to 24 comment on misinformation reports that were sourced by EIP.
25 Q Who at CIS was involved with these efforts as they related to EIP?

1 A Myself, [redacted], and Ben Spear.

2 Q Of the three of you, was one of you the primary point of contact for matters

3 involving EIP?

4 A I was the primary. [redacted] was a very close second.

5 Q When did you first become involved with EIP?

6 A I remember it was late in the process. I don't remember the exact date.

7 Q What do you mean by "late in the process"?

8 A I remember many conversations throughout the summer, so I would say it

9 was after the summer that they were not a part of those conversations. So I don't know

10 exactly when we were introduced to them and sort of when they became a part of the 11 process.

12 Q When you say you remember many conversations throughout the summer,

13 which conversations are you referring to?

14 A Specifically trying to -- again, trying to bring both sides to the table. But 15 social media companies was really what I was referring to.

16 Q And are you referring to the discussions you had with social media

17 companies with respect to the misinformation reporting portal?

18 A Correct, yeah.

19 Q So if I understand your answers correctly, you were having -- you and CIS

20 were having these conversations with the social media companies with respect to the 21 portal, and at some point later in the summer is your first recollection of starting to have

22 interactions with EIP. Is that right?

23 A Correct. I'll say that I don't ever recall a moment where EIP would -- was a 24 stakeholder in the portal -- construction or conversation.

25 Q Okay. Did you know whether -- actually, let me take one step back.

1 Do you recall the context of your first interaction with EIP?
2 A My first one, no. I really don't remember how that relationship got off the 3 ground.
4 Q Okay. Did you know Alex Stamos or Renee DiResta or anyone involved at
5 EIP?
6 A Prior?
7 Q Yes.
8 A No.
9 Q So you don't recall who facilitated the introduction?
10 A No.
11 Q Do you recall if it was someone from EIP reaching out to -- either through an 12 intermediary or directly, reaching out to CIS?
13 A No, I don't recall.
14 Q Do you recall with your early interactions with EIP whether they had any 15 awareness of CIS' work with respect to developing the misinformation reporting portal
16 and efforts to try to work with social media companies?
17 A Yeah, they were -- they were aware that we were attempting to make this 18 reporting process better.
19 Q What was your understanding of why EIP was interested in engaging with 20 CIS?
21 A My understanding of why they were interested in engaging with us was 22 because of our relationship with election officials.
23 Q Did you get a sense of whether the members at EIP had working
24 relationships with members of the social media companies?
25 A At some point I became aware that Alex Stamos was a former employee of

1 Facebook, I believe, and had connections, connections that we had been trying to make,
2 you know, for many months.
3 Q To your understanding, in these early discussions, was there any talk of EIP
4 taking on some sort of a responsibility with respect to the misinformation reporting
5 portal?
6 A Not that I recall, no.
7 Q Do you recall what CISA's involvement was with respect to the EIP?
8 A I don't.
9 Q Do you recall meetings where there'd be members of the EIP, CIS, and CISA
10 attending?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And do you recall the context of those meetings?
13 A I don't recall any specific meeting. I knew there was the relationship there.
14 To us, it was -- EIP was -- honestly, it was all really -- to us, we were interacting with the 15 Stanford Internet Observatory. That's how we viewed it. EIP was its own entity, and 16 many of them were related to Stanford. So it was mostly -- that's how we were 17 perceiving what was happening.
18 Q Perceiving EIP primarily as a Stanford entity?
19 A That's how I perceived it, yes.
20 Q Understood. For these meetings with CIS, CISA, and EIP, do you recall who 21 from CISA attended?
22 A No.
23 Q Did you have a primary point of contact at EIP in the fall of 2020?
24 A We worked primarily with two individuals there, seemingly co-equal.
25 Q And who were those two individuals?

A [redacted] and [redacted] -- and I don't recall how to pronounce her last name.

Q And to your understanding, who were [redacted] and [redacted] what were their roles?

A Their roles -- my understanding was they were kind of the lead for the EIP, or at least as it pertained to CIS' involvement.

Q And do you know if they had any connections to CISA?

A I believe they had a connection to CISA.

Q Do you recall having any direct interactions with Alex Stamos?

A He was on, I would say, one, maybe up to a few, phone conversations. But it was not -- I don't remember interacting with him individually or in any particular case.

Q Are you familiar with the Jira ticketing system that EIP used?

A Yes.

Q And at high level, can you just describe how it worked?

A Well, so Jira is a ticketing system a lot of times used for software development, so I'm familiar with it and others like it. And they had configured it to track these tickets -- these misinformation tickets. We would -- it's what we use to create tickets with EIP if -- if a misinformation report came into us, we would create a ticket within this Jira system.

It's also where we would be tagged. If there was an existing ticket that they wanted the election official to weigh in, we would be tagged and then we would go reach out to the election official.

And then just like any sort of ticketing system, you could track notes from various users and comments and -- so all of that was in that ticketing system.

Q What software system did CIS use for its internal tracking?

1 A The misinformation reporting portal.
2 Q Yeah. And was that just built by CIS itself or was it Jira or, you know --
3 A It was a custom build.
4 Q Okay. Do you recall how many entities were able to access Stanford's, the 5 EIP's Jira ticketing system?
6 A I don't. We had limited -- our visibility was limited to what our accounts
7 created or were tagged in.
8 Q For the tickets where CIS is tagged, for those tickets, were there any 9 limitations on what you could see?
10 A I can't comment. There may have been.
11 Q Did you have an understanding that some of the tickets would be 12 communicated to social media platforms?
13 A Yes, we were aware.
14 Q Could social media platforms, to your understanding, comment on the 15 tickets?
16 A I don't recall. Yeah. They might have -- yeah.
17 Q So during this time, the fall of 2020, there's the EIP, which has tickets that 18 may at some points be shared with social media companies.
19 A Uh-huh.
20 Q There's -- CIS has the email address created and you have an internal system
21 that you're tracking, but you're just using email, it sounds like, to forward to social media
22 companies.
23 Were these two tracks coordinating with one another?
24 A I'll describe it. I don't know if "coordinating" is the right word. When we 25 received a misinformation report, we would send it on both tracks, the EIP track and then

1 also through the original plan which was to go to CISA. So we would send it to both.
2 Q Do you know if that resulted, then, in companies receiving the same report
3 twice? So if -- I'll stop there.
4 A I seem to recall, yes. Yeah.
5 Q And was there a change in the process to account for that at any point?
6 A Not that I can recall.
7 Q To your understanding, did EIP have a numbering system somewhat similar
8 to how CIS would create a number to track cases?
9 A Yes. Each ticket had a ticket number.
10 Q In the early discussions or at any point throughout fall of 2020, what was CIS'
11 envision of how CIS could play a role or contribute to the EIP?
12 A Like I said, there were two -- there were two ways that we interacted with 13 EIP. One was on a election official-sourced misinformation report. We would send it 14 to the EIP, and they would send it to the social media companies. And at times that 15 would receive quicker responses from the social media companies. That was one 16 interaction.
17 The other interaction was if the EIP had a report of misinformation that needed an 18 election officials -- or if they wanted an election official to weigh in on that report -- they 19 didn't have those connections -- they would ask us to reach out to the election official.
20 Election official, you know, would respond, and then we would report that back into the 21 EIP ticket.
22 Q As part of CIS' interactions, involvement with the EIP, was the EI-ISAC
23 involved with EIP?
24 A We utilized the EI-ISAC's contact list. That's how we knew who to contact.

[12:20 p.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q What about the submission of reports?

A Can you be more specific?

Q Sure. If something was submitted via the EI-ISAC, was there any sort of effort by CIS to have that report sent to someone in the EIP?

A If -- are you asking about a situation where they email -- instead of emailing misinformation, they emailed the ISAC?

Q Yes.

A I don't recall if that happened. If it happened and it was misinformation, it would have been routed over to us by the ISAC.

Q You mentioned that you and [redacted] were the primary points of contact at the CIS for interaction with the EIP, but [redacted] was involved also?

A Yes.

Q And what was your understanding of his responsibilities as it related to interacting with the EIP?

A His responsibility was -- he didn't have a responsibility interacting with EIP, except that he was made aware when we were reaching out to election officials using the ISAC's contact list. He was in the loop on that.

Q Do you remember what the email address was that was created specifically for submitting the reports to CIS?

A It was [redacted]@cisecurity.org.

Q Do you recall who at CIS was able to access or see EIP's Jira ticketing system for the tickets that CIS was tagged on?

A I don't know the exhaustive list.

1 Q With the understanding it may not be exhaustive, who were some
2 individuals that you recall were able to access it?
3 A Myself, [redacted], and we had a temporary contractor.
4 Q Do you remember the contractor's name?
5 A [redacted].
6 Q Was he brought in specifically for this project?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And where was he coming from?
9 A He was in Jacksonville, Florida.
10 Q Did he work on, in addition to the involvement with EIP, CIS' handling of the 11 misinformation portal?
12 A His responsibility was to man the inbox, and that predominantly involved the 13 incoming emails from election officials, but it would have also involved the handling of 14 the EIP exchanges. Most of that was done through email.
15 Q To your understanding, when CIS would submit something via ticket to the 16 EIP, what would happen next?
17 A It was our understanding that they would communicate it to the social 18 media companies. It was also our understanding that they could do analysis to 19 determine how big of a footprint the misinformation had.
20 Q When CIS is sending reports to CISA to be sent to the social media platforms,
21 you mentioned you recall it being a generic CISA email address that could be used. Do
22 you know who from CISA was involved in managing either that address or at least as it
23 relates to the email CIS was sending?
24 A I remember Brian Scully being involved in that. And, also, the reason that it
25 was a generic email was because other people had access, but I don't know who they

1 were.

2 Q Do you recall any discussions from, we'll say, late summer until election day

3 2020 about either reconfiguring or reconsidering what CIS' role should be with respect to

4 the EIP?

5 A Not in general terms. Other than the two things I mentioned earlier sort of 6 inbound and outbound, I don't.

7 Q When you switched from -- or when CIS switched from sending reports to

8 CISA and sending at least directly to Facebook and maybe other social media companies,

9 was there any corresponding switch that occurred with respect to how CIS was 10 interacting with EIP?

11 A Not that I can recall.

12 Q Did CIS as part of its internal system or just through some other system

13 tracking emails keep track of whether any action was taken against the content that CIS

14 was passing along?

15 A It was all in email, so yes, through email, yeah.

16 Q And by that you mean would the social media platforms tell you what their

17 response was or --

18 A There were times they told us. There were times we went back to that 19 social media post and realized what they did.

20 Q For that latter example was there any effort to internally track?

21 A I remember at the end going back through a bunch of the emails to sort of 22 reconstruct that, but during the process, no.

23 Q In, say, maybe the 2 weeks leading up to election day, do you recall how

24 many reports might be submitted to CIS?

25 A I don't.

1 Q Was it several per day or --

2 A Several per day is probably accurate. We were not getting -- I mean, we 3 were able to man it with the staff that I mentioned, so it was not an excessive amount in 4 my -- how I would define excessive.

5 Q Did you hear from State and local officials about whether their reports were 6 either more quickly or more effectively being responded to after CIS' involvement?

7 A I remember some anecdotal -- I remember election officials being happy
8 with our response time and keeping them in the loop, but I don't recall anyone making a 9 comparative statement of this is better or this is worse than what it was before.

10 Q There were frustrations from the State and local officials that were being 11 expressed to you and others at CIS either as far back as 2019 at least, it sounds like, which 12 you cited as one of the reasons for the initial switchboarding project?

13 A Yeah.

14 Q Did those concerns and all of that, did they continue to get elevated to you
15 by fall of 2020?

16 A I don't recall any new frustrations. I think in general there was a concern
17 that the social media companies were not being as responsive to their concerns as they 18 would have liked, regardless of our involvement.

19 Q Do you recall whether certain social media platforms were more responsive
20 than others?

21 A I don't. I don't because we had tickets -- I think we had the majority of 22 them were Twitter. I don't remember exactly the number, but -- so it's hard to make an 23 assessment of who's more responsive when the numbers aren't equal.

24 Q With the understanding that you were no longer a full-time employee, do
25 you know what work CIS did as it relates to passing along misinformation reports around

1 the 2022 midterm election?

2 A It was not shared with me to a full extent, if any.

3 Q Going back to an earlier response where, again, you were speaking for your

4 understanding, that cybersecurity is a different domain than misinformation, for the team

5 that you understood Brian Scully to be the head of in 2020, which domain was his team

6 focused on?

7 A I don't know that I have enough of an understanding of what all his team did

8 to really comment on that.

9 Q Did CIS work with vendors in the fall of 2020 on the misinformation

10 reporting project?

11 A They were not initially in scope. I remember being asked if they could start

12 to report misinformation, and it's kind of where my recollection ends. I don't know if 13 we actually received anything from them. I do remember it coming up.

14 Q In this space, what does it mean to have a vendor sending in misinformation

15 reports?

16 A I mean, it would mean an election technology provider. There are -- yeah.

17 Q Are there any big names or notable ones you could provide as an example?

18 A Well, I mean, I tend to look at the industry. You have voting systems which

19 are registered manufacturers with the Election Assistance Commission, so they go

20 through Federal certification programs. They get federally certified, and in certain

21 States, they don't accept that certification. And then you've got other providers that do

22 more auxiliary type services that don't go through the same Federal certification program.

23 I would consider all of them to be vendors, and I would say the closest thing to defining

24 who those are would be sort of members of the Sector Coordinating Council are all

25 vendors.

1 Q During your interactions with social media companies, did you have a sense
2 of the title or responsibilities of the representatives from the social media companies, the 3 companies that were putting on these calls?
4 A My understanding is they were government affairs heads, directors, liaisons.
5 I'm not sure exactly sort of where they fit within any broader organization structure
6 there, but they were government affairs people.
7 Q Do you recall if you had any conversations with anyone that you knew of 8 that worked on the content moderation teams within the social media companies?
9 A To my knowledge, we did not interact with anyone that was directly
10 responsible for that.
11 Q Do you recall in the fall of 2020 how frequently you might provide -- or if you 12 were providing updates to [redacted] about the volume you were seeing or the status of 13 how the project was going?
14 A We were providing him status. I do not think we were providing him
15 real-time or even -- I might say periodic is probably how I would define it.
16 Q Do you recall any reactions, responses from him?
17 A No.
18 Q During your time at CIS, did you have any work or interactions with the 19 German Marshall Fund?
20 A Yes.
21 Q What was the nature of those interactions?
22 A They were a fellow recipient of Democracy Fund grants money, and we 23 attended a meeting of all of the sort of grant recipients, and I remember them being
24 there.
25 Q Do you remember when, approximately, that was?

1 A I don't think I have any date landmark to kind of place it honestly.

2 Q During your time at CIS, did you work with the Aspen Institute?

3 A We did not -- I did not.

4 Q During your time at the CIS, did you have any interactions with Global

5 Disinformation Index?

6 A No.

7 Q During your time at CIS, did you have any interactions with NewsGuard?

8 A I'm not sure who that organization is. That's such a generic name that I'm

9 afraid I don't -- yeah.

10 Q In your meetings with the social media companies, do you recall who your

11 main point of contact was at Twitter?

12 A I believe it was [redacted], or something along those lines.

13 Q What about at Facebook?

14 A I could be getting them confused, but I think it was [redacted] [redacted] might

15 be with Twitter. I'm not sure. But there was a [redacted] and there was an [redacted] I

16 remember that.

17 Q Did you have any -- do you recall having any meetings with representatives

18 from Google or YouTube?

19 A No, I don't recall.

20 Q What about with Reddit?

21 A I do not recall any meetings with Reddit.

22 Q To your understanding, did the EIP system, in addition to having direct

23 access to the Jira ticket that was for the ones that CIS was tagged on, would EIP's Jira

24 ticketing system generate notifications by email?

25 A It would, yes.

1 Q And do you know what could be seen in those email notifications?
2 A I don't recall. Different systems can, you know, send you a link or send you
3 the whole thing. I don't recall what was visible.
4 Q Do you recall if there was any effort within CIS to take any information from 5 the EIP Jira ticket and add it to the internal CIS tickets?
6 A As I mentioned earlier, we mostly used the internal misinformation reporting
7 to create the initial ticket number and then use that to track emails, and our compliance
8 with keeping that updated was very loose. So there may have been times that we 9 updated it with information from the EIP ticket, but it was very inconsistent.
10 Q Did you participate in any, like, post-election, post-EIP debriefing to discuss 11 the work that had been done?
12 A With EIP?
13 Q With EIP.
14 A I don't recall any with EIP.
15 Q Okay. What about with anyone else or internally?
16 A Internally we set up a post-election review. We engaged a couple of the 17 stakeholders that had been with us the whole time, the National Association of State
18 Election Directors and the National Association of Secretaries of State.
19 Q And do you remember what was discussed?
20 A Only in general, pros and cons, what worked well, what didn't work well.
21 Q At a high level, do you remember what did work well or what didn't work
22 well?
23 A I remember certain cases that worked well. I remember observing that the 24 inconsistencies from the social media companies was -- that didn't work well. I
25 remember observing that several of the EIP source tickets -- you know, getting the

1 answers from the election officials and getting that back, that worked well. That's a
2 couple of examples that I remember.
3 Q What did you mean by "the inconsistencies from social media companies"?
4 A We observed that there was no -- there was an unknown response for the 5 reports that election officials would report in. For example, you just -- you didn't know
6 if they would take action or not, even if it matched a very similar report that you had sent 7 in, you know, a day ago.
8 So we had gone into the process understanding that they had policies and that 9 they would apply their policies to the report. And so it was inconsistent, in our view,
10 that certain misinformation or claims of misinformation would be treated differently.
11 Q Do you know if that view was shared with any of the entities involved with 12 the EIP, other than the social media companies themselves?
13 A Can you rephrase that? Ask that again.
14 Q Sure. Yeah.
15 What you just described that, from at least the perspective of CIS, there would be 16 similarly-situated misinformation reports that appeared to be treated differently, did you
17 have any discussions with any other entities that were involved with EIP about that?
18 A About that observation?
19 Q About that observation.
20 A Not that I can recall.
21 Q Did CIS independently conduct any assessments of social media companies'
22 policies during 2020?
23 A What do you mean by "assessment"?
24 Q I guess just kind of building off the previous response, as far as it sounds like 25 there was some awareness of what the social media company responses were and trying

1 to determine why similarly situated reports were treated differently. But, even just
2 taking one step back from that, was there at any point in time where someone from CIS
3 was doing a survey of the differences among different policies or conducting some sort of 4 analysis?
5 A Not that I can recall.
6 Q Okay. Do you know if the EIP was conducting that type of analysis?
7 A I don't know.
8 Q Can CIS have a -- when tagged on a ticket comment on the ticket?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Now, you mentioned one of the things that CIS would check before passing 11 along a report that was submitted to the misinformation email address was who sent the 12 initial report. Do you recall any instances where the person submitting the report was 13 not who they claimed to be?
14 A I don't recall any of those.
15 Q Do you recall any instances where you were unable to pass on a report
16 because of a concern about who submitted the report?
17 A I think there were times we had to do more than others, reach out to a
18 known contact at -- you know, from whatever office to ask if this person, this email
19 address is legit. I don't recall any rejecting any.
20 Q For State and local officials, would they send reports from both their 21 government email address as well as their personal one?
22 A I don't recall. I don't recall any personal. They may have been there, but I
23 don't recall any.
24 Q When you would hear back from a social media platform about what action
25 was taken, was it part of CIS' responsibility to communicate that to the State and local

1 election officials?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And then, when you said you made an effort later on to somewhat

4 reconstruct -- to try to see for some of the posts you didn't hear back on if any action was

5 taken, did you communicate those findings to the State and local election officials?

6 A Like the totality of the different responses? No, we didn't distribute that 7 broadly.

8 Q Did you communicate any sort of high-level information about it, of your

9 findings?

10 A I did speak at a conference in early 2021, and I don't recall -- I may have -- I

11 probably spoke in generalities about it, yes.

12 Q Okay. Do you recall that conference?

13 A It was the National Association of State Election Directors conference.

14 Q Do you recall any discussions with personnel at CISA about whether they

15 faced any restrictions on what they could or couldn't do because of legal or constitutional

16 concerns?

17 A Nothing indepth. I do recall Mr. Scully checking with counsel on various 18 things, but nothing specific. And we were not a party to those.

19 Q How did you have awareness that Mr. Scully was checking with counsel on 20 certain things?

21 A He would tell us.

22 Q And do you recall the context of any of those instances?

23 A I remember the question about vendors, if vendors could submit through.

24 And I remember him checking with his counsel on that, and I don't recall the response.

25 Q Any other instances that you recall?

1 A Nothing specific.

2 Q At a more general level, do you recall any discussions or awareness of any

3 discussions of whether there were limitations on what sorts of communications CISA

4 could have with the social media platforms?

5 A I have a vague memory of an early conversation, but nothing I can speak to

6 specifically.

7 Q With the understanding it's a vague recollection, do you recall in this

8 conversation it was you were having with someone at CISA?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Do you recall anyone else that was involved in this conversation?

11 Mr. Flood. All right. I'm going to object about his recollection of any

12 conversations that CISA is having with its own general counsel. I just don't want to get

13 into their attorney-client privileged communications.

14 [redacted] If he has awareness of it, then that's CISA's problem.

15 Mr. Flood. I understand if he does, they may or may not have waived the 16 privilege. But I think, you know, we've given you a lot of rope on it here. I think it's

17 probably as far as we can go without risking stepping into communications with their own

18 counsel, and I don't want him to speculate on that.

19 [redacted] I don't think that's a privilege you can assert as counsel for [redacted]

20 and as counsel for CIS.

21 Mr. Flood. We can debate that issue for sure.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Without wading into communications that you were privy to between CISA's

24 counsel and CISA, do you recall anything else about this conversation?

25 A No.

1 Q Do you recall if anyone else from CIS was part of this conversation?
2 A No, I don't recall who was on the conversation.
3 Q Do you recall what triggered the conversation?
4 A The introduction to the social media companies. This would have been an
5 early conversation about the introduction to the social media companies.
6 Q Is it your recollection that this is around the time of early 2020 where CIS
7 first had discussions with CISA about the misinformation reporting project and then,
8 ultimately, CISA facilitated the introductions to the social media companies?
9 A Correct.
10 Q Did you ever have any interactions during your time at CIS with Director
11 Krebs?
12 A I did not.
13 Q You, again, mentioned cybersecurity and misinformation being separate 14 domains. Were there any individuals at CIS who were involved in that latter 15 misinformation domain?
16 A We were the closest to it. No one else that I haven't mentioned earlier.
17 Q Do you recall, whether from CISA or anybody, anyone raising any legal 18 concerns with respect to text messages when that was -- whether there was some 19 consideration of whether to handle those reports?
20 A I remember conversations about text message handling and, like I
21 mentioned earlier, with the different ISACs being a potential place for those reports to go.
22 Other than that, I really don't recall certainly any specifics about legal concerns or other
23 concerns.
24 Q Does your company, Enhanced Voting -- going back to the domains of a
25 cybersecurity focus versus a misinformation focus, is there any element of your company

1 that has a focus on misinformation-related activities?

2 A No, no.

3 Q Do you have interactions with social media companies as part of your -- as

4 head of Enhanced Voting?

5 A I do not.

6 Q Have you maintained contacts at the social media companies?

7 Mr. Flood. I'm going to object. We agreed to come here and talk about his

8 time at CIS, not his time at his current company.

9 [redacted] Are you instructing him not to answer?

10 Mr. Flood. I'm instructing him not to answer. He's here voluntarily. We

11 talked about this. He's agreed to come and talk about his time at CIS. I've tried to give

12 you latitude on it. I want to be reasonable about it, but I think that, if the line of

13 questioning is going to continue into what he does in his current company, I'm going to 14 object and instruct him not to answer.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q When you came back to CIS as a contractor, did you have any interaction

17 with social media companies?

18 A I did not.

19 Q When you came back to CIS as a contractor, did you have any interactions

20 with any Federal agencies?

21 A No. In that role, no. I listed earlier through the Sector Coordinating

22 Council --

23 Q Yes.

24 A -- yes, but not as a contractor to CIS.

25 Q Thank you for clarifying.

1 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

2 [Recess.]

3 Ms. [redacted] All right. It is 1:47. We can go back on the record.

4 BY MS. [redacted]

5 Q To start off, I wanted to follow up on a couple of things we discussed earlier.

6 You mentioned that your main points of contact at the EIP were [redacted] and 7 [redacted]. Is that right?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q And you said you thought they had some tie to CISA?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Are you aware that they were interns?

12 A Not specifically.

13 Q Are you aware that they were students at Stanford?

14 A That would have been my guess. It was during the pandemic, so things

15 were confusing.

16 Q Okay. That's fair.

17 You also mentioned that you felt like there -- you and other election officials after

18 the 2020 election, you felt like there was inconsistency in how the social media platforms

19 were applying their summaries.

20 Did I summarize that well enough?

21 A That's accurate.

22 Q Could you talk a little bit more about what you meant by that, the 23 inconsistencies you were seeing?

24 A I don't have a lot more to add. It felt like -- it felt more subjective. And,

25 you know, we didn't really do analysis on everything. They didn't really give us detailed

1 answers. They just would say we determined this is not against our policy or it is against
2 our policy. So we didn't really have a lot of information to go on. And, like I said
3 earlier, we just -- you know, we took the opinion of our election officials and, you know,
4 whatever that opinion was.
5 Q Did you feel like there was a bias or that it was just inconsistent?
6 A I do not recall there being a political -- or feeling like there was a political 7 bias.
8 Q Turning more to the Center for Internet Security more generally, is it a part
9 of the Federal Government?
10 A Not that I'm aware of.
11 Q Is it a part of a State government or local government?
12 A This is about which --
13 Q The Center for Internet Security.
14 A Not that I'm aware of.
15 Q It's nongovernmental. Correct?
16 A That is my understanding.
17 Q It's a nonprofit organization?
18 A That is my understanding.
19 Q To your knowledge, does the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security
20 Agency operate or manage the Center for Internet Security?
21 A There's a relationship that involves something known as a cooperative
22 agreement. That is as far as my -- that is the extent of my understanding.
23 Q When you worked at CIS, did you take instructions from anyone at CISA?
24 A I did not.
25 Q Did you report to anybody at CISA in your day-to-day work?

1 A I did not.
2 Q Is it your understanding that CIS operates independently of CISA?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Is it your understanding that CIS doesn't take instructions, operational
5 instructions from CISA?
6 A I can't really speak to that.
7 Q Okay. To the best of your knowledge, was CIS acting as a proxy for CISA
8 and its activities?
9 A Can you be more specific?
10 Q Was CIS doing work on behalf of CISA for -- by the bidding of CISA?
11 A Related to misinformation, they were not doing the bidding of CISA.
12 Q We've also discussed the EI-ISAC and the MS-ISAC a little bit today. To your 13 knowledge, is the EI-ISAC part of the Federal Government?
14 A To my knowledge, it is a part of the Center for Internet Security, not a part of 15 government.
16 Q To your knowledge, does the EI-ISAC take direction or instruction from CISA?
17 A I believe there is a customer or similar customer vendor type relationship
18 there when it comes to the EI-ISAC, or at least that's what I observed at times.
19 Q If you describe it as a customer vendor, which party would you describe as 20 the customer, the EI-ISAC or CISA?
21 A CISA.
22 Q And the EI-ISAC is providing a service?
23 A Correct.
24 Q So CISA was not managing EI-ISAC?
25 A No. There was no management, correct.

1 Q Was EI-ISAC being operated by CISA?

2 A To the best of my knowledge. And, remember, I was not a part of the 3 EI-ISAC, so to the best of my knowledge.

4 Q But, to the best of your knowledge, that wasn't happening?

5 A Correct.

6 Q I know you were not -- you were also not part of the MS-ISAC. But, to the 7 best of your knowledge, was the MS-ISAC operated by CISA?

8 A To the best of my knowledge, it was a customer vendor relationship.

9 Q And, similarly, MS-ISAC was providing services to CISA?

10 A Correct, or on behalf, yes.

11 Q Was MS-ISAC taking actions on behalf of CISA, would you say?

12 A I don't know. I don't know.

13 Q During the first hour we were talking about some of the goals for the 14 misinformation reporting project, and you mentioned, in the early stage of the project,

15 one of the things that you wanted was hopefully for reports to get to a priority queue for 16 a social media company review.

17 Do you remember that?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Can you explain what you mean by "a priority queue"?

20 A First off, I do not know the inner workings of the social media companies, if

21 they even have queues. But we were operating under some assumptions. One of 22 those assumptions was that they had a team, teams even that were responsible for

23 addressing misinformation. We wanted to get it in front of those teams and get their

24 attention. That's what I meant by a priority. It was: Hey, this is not just a random

25 report. This is a report from an election official which we believed carried weight.

1 So that's what I meant by that.

2 Q So you weren't speaking from some explicit knowledge of how social media

3 companies do content moderation?

4 A Correct. I still do not have any knowledge of that.

5 Q To the best of your knowledge, the process that was ultimately

6 implemented, the email forwarding process, to the best of your knowledge, did social

7 media companies review those reports in a different way than they reviewed reports

8 from other entities?

9 A After we sent it, I have no idea how they handled it.

10 Q So you don't know anything about the treatment of those reports by social

11 media companies?

12 A That's correct. It was a complete black box to us.

13 Ms. [redacted] We can go off the record.

14 [Discussion off the record.]

15 [redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?

16 EXAMINATION

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q [redacted] I just want to pick back up with the last couple of questions

19 there.

20 With respect to sending out communications with social media companies in

21 order to understand internally how the social media companies were handling it, was it

22 your understanding when sending reports to CISA to then send to the social media

23 companies that those reports would be taken more seriously or more likely to be

24 responded to as a result of CISA's preexisting relationship with the social media

25 companies?

1 A I didn't have any reason to believe that.

2 Q When using the word "priority" earlier, what was your understanding of the 3 role and the value that CISA would be providing -- that CIS would be providing?

4 A Sorry. Can you restate that?

5 Q Sure. In reference to your earlier response about trying to increase the

6 priority of requests that come from State and local officials, to your understanding, what

7 value add was CIS providing toward that end?

8 A There are two things that we articulated to the social media companies.

9 One was that this was a vetted election official, meaning we could assert this report is

10 coming from an election official which had value over sort of a random report as opposed

11 to. The second thing was that we would do some basic validation to make sure that the 12 report had, you know, a sample of what they were referring to and then the description.

13 Q And then why initially -- so you talked about the switch, and, again, your

14 recollection is around mid-October of where CIS began directly submitting the 15 misinformation reports. Why go through CISA initially?

16 A I've tried to remember that, and I don't.

17 Q Okay.

18 A Because that was not our original concept with the misinformation reporting

19 portal. That was how it was originally rolled out. I don't remember why.

20 Q Are you familiar with the Virality Project?

21 A Vaguely.

22 Q If you have an understanding, what is your understanding of what that is?

23 A It came up at the end of our efforts as a follow-on effort that the EIP was 24 doing, and we were not involved.

25 Q Okay. Do you know who made the decision at CIS to not be involved?

1 A My recollection is that we weren't asked, so we didn't make a decision one
2 way or the other.
3 Q Okay. Are you familiar with Graphika?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And what is Graphika?
6 A My understanding is Graphika is sort of a data analytics company that 7 studies the social media data.
8 Q Other than EIP, did you have any interaction -- or did CIS have any 9 interactions with Graphika during your time at CIS?
10 A We had several interactions with Graphika throughout 2020. The CEO,
11 John Gilligan, had met the CEO of Graphika at some point, and they had -- we had a 12 couple of conversations with Graphika prior to the EIP -- prior to the EIP coming into 13 existence.
14 Q And what was the purpose or context of those discussions?
15 A Understanding Graphika's capabilities and if there was a way of utilizing
16 those for election misinformation.
17 Q Was it in the context of -- these discussions between Graphika and CIS, was 18 it in the context of the EIP specifically or just predated?
19 A Predated.
20 Q All right. Did the discussions relate at all to the ongoing misinformation
21 reporting project that CIS was working on?
22 A It was related, yes.
23 Q And were the discussions about how Graphika could play a role in that 24 project?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And what were some of the ideas that were considered?

2 A The only idea I remember goes back to how we presumed or assumed things

3 worked within this misinformation or, really, information system, and that was that, if

4 there was going to be an influence operation that an election official reports, here's

5 misinformation, they report that to us; all we would expect at that time is maybe the one

6 sample of maybe perhaps something larger. And we didn't have the capabilities. That

7 wasn't our forte.

8 The conversations with Graphika centered around whether they had the capability

9 to better inform or fill in the rest of the picture. Right. So that was trying to 10 understand their capabilities for that.

11 Q And do you recall at a high level whether they represented they may or may 12 not have the capability to do something like that?

13 A Those conversations never got real enough. They were all -- my

14 recollection of those conversations were that they were still sort of posturing

15 conversations and not: Hey, let's do -- like, hey, let's have a -- let's work together.

16 It was more feeling each other out and posturing, and it never really became an

17 actual -- there was never any real conversation about what a relationship or what them

18 helping the misinformation reporting project would actually really look like.

19 Q Are you familiar with the DFRLab that is housed within the Atlantic Council?

20 A Okay. What does DFR stand for?

21 Q Digital Forensic Research.

22 A Not enough to be confident.

23 Q Okay.

24 A Yeah.

25 Q So I take it no recollection -- let me -- not necessarily DFRLab. Do you recall

1 any -- during your time at CIS, whether CIS had any interactions with the Atlantic Council?
2 A The Atlantic Council, yes, or someone who's formerly with the Atlantic
3 Council. There was one gentleman who we interacted with who I think was on the 4 Atlantic Council, so I --
5 Q And what's his name?
6 A [redacted].
7 Q And how did you know [redacted]?
8 A [redacted] was a -- just a well-known cybersecurity expert, met him
9 through, you know, sort of just networking, and he participated in our Rapid 10 Architecture-Based Election Technology Verification project, gave us feedback on that.
11 So I interacted with him purely from a cybersecurity perspective, and I believe he had an 12 affiliation with the Atlantic Council.
13 Q Do you recall any interactions with [redacted] as it related to CIS'
14 misinformation reporting project?
15 A I do not recall any conversations with him about misinformation.
16 Q We've spoken a couple of the hours about the perspectives shared by you
17 and it sounds like maybe some others that the social media platforms appeared to be a
18 bit inconsistent with similarly situated reports.
19 Did you or are you aware of anyone at CIS sharing that perspective with the social
20 media companies?
21 A I don't think we directly shared that opinion with them.
22 Q Do you know if it was communicated to them through anyone else?
23 A I believe we were -- I believe it was, yes.
24 Q And how so?
25 A I believe that the other organizations we worked with as stakeholders shared

1 that opinion with them.

2 Q Any stakeholders in particular?

3 A The National Association of State Election Directors in particular.

4 Q Any other entities?

5 A Not that I can recall.

6 Q Do you recall whether it was you or someone at CIS who was sharing this

7 perspective with -- and I'm sorry. Was it the NASS or NAS --

8 A -- ED. NASED.

9 Q NASED.

10 A I'm sorry ask that question again.

11 Q Yes. Do you recall any conversations that you participated in where you

12 shared this perspective with someone from the NASED?

13 A Not in specific, but most likely, yes.

14 Mr. Flood. Could I just clarify? What perspective? I'm sorry.

15 [redacted] The perspective that the social media companies were inconsistent

16 with similarly situated reports.

17 Mr. Flood. Thank you.

18 [redacted] It was a topic of conversation that we probably discussed.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Do you know who the main point of contact for NASED was for interactions

21 between the NASED and the social media platforms?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And who was that?

24 A [redacted].

25 Q Other than the NASED, do you recall any other entities that similarly may

1 have passed on or communicated this perspective to social media platforms?
2 A I do not recall any others.
3 Q Are you familiar with an entity called FireEye?
4 A Yes.
5 Q To your understanding, what is it?
6 A A cybersecurity firm, consulting firm.
7 Q During your time at CIS, did CIS have any interactions with FireEye?
8 A There's many aspects to CIS. I can't speak to all of those aspects.
9 Q What about with respect to the misinformation reporting portal?
10 A I do not recall any conversations that I had with FireEye related to 11 misinformation reporting.
12 Q Are you familiar with the entity -- are you familiar with an entity called 13 Moonshot?
14 A I'm not.
15 Q Are you familiar with the Center for Countering Digital Hate?
16 A I am not.
17 Q Are you familiar with Cloudfare?
18 A Yes.
19 Q To your understanding, what is Cloudfare?
20 A Cloudflare is a web application firewall which basically is a -- protects -- help
21 protects networks from cybersecurity threats.
22 Q As part of the misinformation reporting portal, did you have or anyone at CIS
23 have any interactions with Cloudflare?
24 A Not that I'm aware of.
25 Q Are you familiar with an entity called Park Advisors?

A I am not.

Q Are you familiar with a project called Disinformation Cloud?

A I am not.

Q Are you familiar with the Global Engagement Center?

A I am not.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

3 [redacted] Good morning. This is the deposition of Andy Slavitt, former White
4 House official, by the House Committee on the Judiciary. Chairman Jordan has 5 subpoenaed Mr. Slavitt. He is not here today, and he will not be appearing. The time
6 is 10:02.

7 We began our efforts to bring Mr. Slavitt in for questions about the White House's
8 role in censoring speech online in June of 2023. We wrote Mr. Slavitt requesting a 9 voluntary transcribed interview from June 29th through the end of November.

10 We tried in good faith to seek his voluntary appearance. We tried to work 11 something out where we would be able to get the information we needed to do our 12 work.

13 There were a series of letters going back and forth from June to November. We 14 can put them all in the record. There was a June 29th letter from the committee.
15 There was a July 11th response from Mr. Slavitt's counsel. There was a September 29th
16 letter from Chairman Jordan back to Mr. Slavitt's counsel. There was an October 13th
17 letter from Mr. Slavitt's counsel to Chairman Jordan. There was also an October 13th 18 letter from the White House to Chairman Jordan. And, finally, on November 30th, we 19 issued a deposition subpoena, and that was accompanied by a cover letter explaining our 20 rationale.

21 On December -- we had additional letter exchanges on December 15th. We got 22 one from the White House on November 30th. We also wrote the White House. On 23 December 19th, we agreed to a new deposition subpoena, changing the date to today.
24 It was originally going to be in December. We moved it to January 31st, today.

25 And, between the December 19th deposition subpoena we sent with a cover letter and up to last night, we were trying to work through these issues to get Mr. Slavitt here to appear. And we made extraordinary accommodations, we believe.

On January 8th, we wrote a relatively long email to White House staff regarding the types of topics we're interested in. We sent a letter on January 22nd. I'm sorry; that was January 29th. And we had calls this weekend with the White House, and we had calls yesterday with Mr. Slavitt's counsel.

And the bottom line: We offered them what we felt to be a fair accommodation. The accommodation was we would be willing to let Mr. Slavitt appear and any question we asked, any question, we told him -- we told the White House and we told his counsel that he would have an opportunity to push pause on the deposition and to leave the room with his personal counsel and go confer with White House counsel. And, whatever White House counsel told him, he would be able to return to the room. We would restart the deposition, and he would be able to proceed that way. And they did not feel that was an accommodation that they could work with. So we've reached the point where Mr. Slavitt is not here.

The White House claims that our subpoena is defective. And we would just note for the record that the House deposition rule and the committee's deposition rule prevents us from allowing agency counsel and personal counsel in the room for the deposition.

So, like I mentioned, we've got a series of exhibits, 17, that we will mark for the record. And I don't think I need to go through all of them. And I'd let an opportunity -- I'll let the Democratic staff an opportunity to make any remarks they want to.

[redacted] Thank you, [redacted]

We don't take a position on the validity of the subpoena either way. I do want to

1 note that the dispute here really turns on whether Mr. Slavitt was entitled to appear with 2 the counsel of his choice in the room with him.
3 I want to note that Mr. Slavitt, according to the letter -- and I think we would like 4 to introduce the letter that his counsel sent over last night if you didn't mention that.
5 [redacted] I believe that's exhibit 16.
6 [redacted] So the letter that his counsel sent over last night that's marked as 7 exhibit 16, it notes in the second paragraph that Mr. Slavitt has flown at his own expense
8 to Washington, D.C., in anticipation of meeting with the committee. And it also notes
9 that, as you said, that they were trying to negotiate an accommodation through last 10 night. He also says -- his counsel also notes that, "We would be pleased to reschedule
11 for a later date once the Committee and White House are able to reach an agreement."
12 I also want to note that, in the January 22nd letter from the White House -- I'm 13 sorry; I don't know what number that is.
14 [redacted] That is No. 14.
15 [redacted] That the White House acknowledges that the majority sent them a 16 list of topics. They expressed that, "Upon review, we have significant concerns 17 regarding several of the proposed topics."
18 And so I think, based on all of that, it's the White House's position that there's 19 more discussion to be had on the accommodations process. And that's all we have.
20 [redacted] Okay.
21 [redacted]. I would just note for the record --
22 [redacted] Of course.
23 [redacted]. -- I believe the original deposition date was supposed to be
24 January 9th.
25 [redacted] January 9th. My bad.

1 [redacted]. That's okay.

2 [redacted] I think I will just go through --

3 [redacted] That would be great.

4 [redacted] -- and list each exhibit.

5 [redacted] That would be great, because I think I can write it down quick.

6 [redacted] And we have a list that we can give to you so you don't have to --

7 [redacted] That would be great. That would be great. Thank you.

8 [redacted] -- copy down what I say.

9 Exhibit 1 is a letter, dated June 29, 2023, to Andy Slavitt requesting the voluntary

10 transcribed interview from the committee.

11 Exhibit 2 is a letter, dated July 11, 2023, from Andy Slavitt's counsel to Chairman

12 Jordan and the Judiciary Committee.

13 Exhibit 3 is a letter, dated September 29, 2023, from Chairman Jordan to Andy

14 Slavitt's counsel.

15 Exhibit 4 is a letter from Andy Slavitt's counsel to Chairman Jordan, dated October 16 13, 2023.

17 Exhibit 5 is a letter, dated October 13, 2023, from the White House to Chairman

18 Jordan.

19 Exhibit 6 is a deposition subpoena and cover letter to Mr. Slavitt, through counsel,

20 dated November 30, 2023.

21 Exhibit 7 is a letter, dated November 30, 2023, from Chairman Jordan to the White

22 House.

23 Exhibit 8 is a letter, dated December 15, 2023, from the White House to Chairman

24 Jordan.

25 Exhibit 9 is the new deposition subpoena and cover letter, dated December 19,

1 2023, changing the date of the deposition to January 31, 2024. Also included with
2 exhibit 9 is the committee's official notice of today's deposition.
3 Exhibit 10 is a letter, dated December 22, 2023, from the White House to the 4 committee, to Chairman Jordan.
5 Exhibit 11 is a letter, dated January 2, 2024, from Chairman Jordan and the 6 committee to the White House.
7 Exhibit 12 is a letter, dated January 5, 2024, from the White House to Chairman
8 Jordan.
9 Exhibit 13 is an email from committee staff, dated January 8, 2024, to White
10 House staff regarding topics.
11 Exhibit 14 is a letter, dated January 22, 2024, from the White House to Chairman
12 Jordan.
13 Exhibit 15 is a letter, dated January 29, 2024. The letter is from Chairman Jordan
14 to the White House.
15 Exhibit 16 is a letter, dated January 31, 2024 -- that is today -- from Michael Bopp,
16 Mr. Slavitt's counsel, to Chairman Jordan, attaching the White House's letter, which we've 17 attached -- we will make exhibit 17, its own separate exhibit, again, a letter, dated 18 January 31, 2024, from the White House.
19 I misspoke, so I will go back.
20 Exhibit 16 is a letter, dated January 31, 2024, from Michael Bopp, Mr. Slavitt's
21 counsel, to Chairman Jordan. Included in exhibit 16 is an attachment, and that is a letter
22 from the White House Counsel's Office to Mr. Bopp.
23 Exhibit 17 is a letter, dated January 31, 2024, today, from the White House
24 Counsel's Office to Chairman Jordan.
25 And we will give you a list of the exhibits, again, so you don't have to rely on your

1 notes.

2 [Slavitt Exhibit Nos. 1 through 17

3 were marked for identification.]

4 [redacted] And, with that, anybody have any other remarks they want to make?

5 [redacted]. No.

6 [redacted] Okay. With that, we'll go off the record. Thanks, everyone.

7 [Whereupon, at 10:13 a.m., the deposition was concluded.]

1 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of Geoffrey Hale. Chairman Jordan has 2 requested this interview as part of the committee's investigation of how and to what
3 extent the executive branch has coerced and colluded with companies and other
4 intermediaries to censor speech.
5 Would the witness please state your name for the record?
6 Mr. Hale. Geoffrey Hale.
7 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here
8 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to
9 appear voluntarily.
10 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff.
11 I'll now have everyone else from the committee who's here in the room introduce
12 themselves as well.
13 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

17 [redacted] [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
18 [redacted] [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
19 [redacted] I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will
20 follow during today's interview.
21 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 1
22 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period
23 of time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more
24 questions and the interview is over.
25 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to take a break apart from that, please just let us know.

As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down everything we say to make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do you understand?

Mr. Hale. I understand.

[redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just those people on the staff whose turn it is.

Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you.

It is important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we can help it, and that goes for everybody present at today's interview.

We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with counsel if they so choose, and it's my understanding that you're appearing today with agency counsel. Is that correct?

Mr. Hale. That's correct.

[redacted] Could counsel please state your name for the record?

[redacted] [redacted]

[redacted] [redacted]

[redacted] And it's our understanding that you're both counsel for CISA?

[redacted] Yes.

[redacted] Okay. Thank you.

We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner as possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you do not understand one of our questions, please let us know.

1 Our questions will cover a wide range of topics. So if you need clarification at 2 any point, just say so. If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not
3 remember -- excuse me -- or do not remember, it is best not to guess. Please give us
4 your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned information from someone
5 else. Just indicate how you came to know the information.
6 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please
7 inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete
8 answer to the question.
9 You should also understand that although this interview is not under oath, that by 10 law you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand
11 that?
12 Mr. Hale. I understand.
13 [redacted] And this also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an 14 interview. Do you understand this?
15 Mr. Hale. Yes.
16 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to
17 criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. section
18 1001. Do you understand this?
19 Mr. Hale. Yes.
20 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to 21 today's questions?
22 Mr. Hale. No.
23 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make a note that the content of what we discuss
24 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this
25 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.

1 For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with
2 the court reporter so that they can go in the official transcript. And any copies of those
3 exhibits will be returned to us when we wrap up.
4 That is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the
5 minority would like to add?
6 [redacted] We just thank the witness for being here today.
7 [redacted] Thank you.
8 The clock now reads 10:09. We will start the first hour of questioning.
9 EXAMINATION
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Would you state your full name again for the record, please?
12 A My name is Geoffrey Lawrence Hale, Geoffrey with a G.
13 Q And what is your current place of employment?
14 A I work for CISA, the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency.
15 Q And what is your current titles?
16 A I am the associate director for Election Security and Resilience within the 17 National Risk Management Center at the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security
18 Agency.
19 Q And how long have you been in this position for?
20 A Technically, as associate director, that is a new title as of the spring. The 21 role with Election Security has been longer.
22 Q And by the spring, do you mean from 2023?
23 A Yes.
24 Q Okay. Beginning with college, what is your educational background?
25 A I have a master's degree in systems engineering and an undergraduate in

1 political science.

2 Q And starting with your first job after college, what is your professional

3 background?

4 A My first job after college was working for the National Mining Association,

5 followed by a 4-thereabout-year service to a consulting and organization called Nahigian

6 Strategies, before moving into consulting with Booz Allen Hamilton, focusing on

7 technology and interoperability, before in 2015 joining the predecessor to the 8 Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency.

9 Q Just for the record, can you say what the predecessor to CISA was?

10 A NPPD, which is the National Protection and Programs Directorate.

11 Q When you joined NPPD in 2015, what was your first position?

12 A I was an IT specialist within the Office of Cybersecurity and Communications.

13 The suboffice was the Enterprise Performance Management Office.

14 Q And how long were you in this position for?

15 A Until fall of 2017, I believe.

16 Q And what was your next position?

17 A Cyber operations planner within the NCCIC, National Cyber, I think,

18 commun -- I don't remember the full acronym for NCCIC. Sorry.

19 Q And as a -- I'm sorry -- cyber operations planner?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And what were your responsibilities as a cyber operations planner?

22 A I covered the Iran region and helped to convey the Agency's equities in

23 interagency cyber operations plans really promoting resilience and defense of our critical

24 infrastructure.

25 Q And how long were you in this position for?

1 A Until 2018. This was also the position I was in when I was detailed to the 2 election security mission.
3 Q When were you detailed to election security commission?
4 A November of -- the election security mission.
5 Q Yes. Excuse me.
6 A The -- November of 2017.
7 Q And how long was your detail for?
8 A It was supposed to be for 30 days, but it was extended for -- until I was given
9 an official billeted role in Election Security at some point in 2018.
10 Q And what was the role you had starting in 2018?
11 A Lead of the Election Security Initiative. It was still a -- an IT
12 special -- supervisory IT specialist job.
13 Q What were your responsibilities as lead of the Election Security Initiative?
14 A Coordinating the Agency's effort to provide security support to State and 15 local election officials and their private sector partners.
16 Q Before we get further into the interview, are you familiar with the terms
17 "misinformation," "disinformation," and "malinformation"?
18 A I am.
19 Q Do you understand what's the difference among them?
20 A I do.
21 Q Do you understand what would be -- actually, let me just take a step back.
22 How would you define each of those terms?
23 A Misinformation as defined on our website is false information unknowingly
24 spread or spread without mal-intent. Disinformation would be false information spread 25 with the -- with malicious intent. And malinformation would be, for example, doxing,

1 putting true information online, like the executive director's home address, in order to 2 incite some harm.
3 Q Turning back to your position as lead of the Election Security Initiative, how 4 long were you in that role for?
5 A In some ways I'm still in that role. The title of Election Security Initiative
6 became a subdivision within the NRMC, the National Risk Management Center, as the 7 Election Security and Resilience subdivision.
8 Q And what is the National Risk Management Center?
9 A That is a division within the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency
10 focused on risk analysis.
11 Q In addition to the Election Security Initiative, how many other divisions are 12 there within NRMC?
13 A NRMC has gone through a reorganization while I'm there. So, currently, I
14 believe it is the Risk Services division -- subdivision, the Analytic Capabilities subdivision,
15 and a Strategic Foresight subdivision.
16 Q And so when you became lead of the Election Security Initiative, was that 17 when the ESI was created?
18 A So in 2017, the then-director created an election task force made up of 19 detailees. When billets started to be applied to this effort, it became the Election
20 Security Initiative.
21 Q Once it was a formal role, you were no longer a detailee, who did you report
22 to as lead of the Election Security Initiative?
23 A My supervisor at various times included the head of the Initiative
24 Management branch, the head of Planning and Coordination Division, or the associate 25 director of the National Risk Management Center at different times throughout this

1 process.

2 Q And who do you report to today?

3 A My supervisor is the associate director of the National Risk Management

4 Center, Mona Harrington.

5 Q When you first started with ESI, did you have any direct reports?

6 A Not -- I was not a supervisor at that time. Programmatically, there were

7 other detailees.

8 Q How many other detailees were there?

9 A I don't remember exactly.

10 Q Do you have a ballpark estimate?

11 A Six or seven, less than ten.

12 Q When did you first have a supervisory role?

13 A In 2018, when billets were given to this mission.

14 Q And when you first take on a supervisory role, how many people did you

15 have reporting to you?

16 A I believe I had three or four first-line and a handful of second-line

17 employees.

18 Q Did you have a primary deputy?

19 A Not at this time.

20 Q Did the -- from 2018, when you first started in your supervisory role, to 21 today, has the size of the team changed?

22 A Yes.

23 Q How so?

24 A The size of the Election Security and Resilience team has grown to about 24

25 billets, 19 to 21 of them filled at any given time.

1 Q And are you the supervisor over this entire team?

2 A First line or second line supervisor over all of them, yes.

3 Q And from 2018 to today, did you -- was either a position created or do you

4 have someone that serves as a primary deputy to you?

5 A I have a -- one of the direct report branch chiefs that serves in -- it is not a

6 billeted position as deputy but acts as my deputy, yes.

7 Q And who is that?

8 A [redacted].

9 Q As the ESI team has grown over the years, has the mission of ESI changed at 10 all?

11 A Not to my knowledge.

12 Q Within ESI's mission, does that include countering election-related mis- and 13 dis- and malinformation on social media?

14 A No.

15 Q Is there a task force part of CISA that has as part of its mission focus on 16 countering election-related MDM?

17 A So in the caveat of on social media is -- within ESR there is a branch called

18 the MDM team, yes.

19 Q Can you walk me through the organizational structure of ESR? So MDM is 20 one of the divisions or teams within that?

21 A We have three branches. The first branch within ESR is our Program

22 Management and Integration branch. That has two sections, one called Integration and 23 one called Election Assistance and Training.

24 The next branch within ESR -- and tell me if I'm speaking too quickly -- the next

25 branch within -- or quietly. I'm also realizing.

1 The next branch within ESR is our Subsector Risk Management Agency, and that
2 manages our SRMA responsibilities.
3 The third branch is the MDM branch, which helps to build resilience to mis-, dis-,
4 and malinformation and foreign influence operations for critical infrastructure.
5 Q Okay. When was the MDM team first created?
6 A The MDM team began outside of the election security mission as a
7 Secretary-level task force called the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force. Over time,
8 those responsibilities were brought into CISA. And then at some point, I don't recall
9 exactly when, that's -- that became a nested branch within my team.
10 Q What is the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force?
11 A Secretary Nielsen established a Countering Foreign Influence Task Force in 12 May of 2018. That was independent of our election security work at the time, and it
13 was an equivalent -- well, it was actually larger because it was the Secretary's task force
14 but kind of independent work streams at the time.
15 Q How frequently did you interact with the Countering Foreign Influence Task
16 Force?
17 A I don't know exactly.
18 Q Would you say it was on a daily basis?
19 A Depends on the calendar, but daily to weekly, yeah.
20 Q Who was your primary point of contact on the Countering Foreign Influence
21 Task Force team?
22 A When it was established? Initially, Dan Sutherland, followed by Nate
23 Blumenthal, and then ultimately Brian Scully.
24 Q What familiarity did you have -- actually, let me take one step back.
25 Did you have any involvement in the creation of the Countering Foreign Influence

1 Task Force?

2 A No.

3 Q In a previous answer you said you didn't recall exactly when. Do you have

4 a ballpark sense of when approximately the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force fell

5 within the scope of your team?

6 A Yeah, it would be at some point following 2018 or early 2019.

7 Q And who made the decision to move this task force into the ESI?

8 A I don't know exactly.

9 Q Who was the head of the task force when this transition occurred?

10 A It was either Nate Blumenthal or Brian Scully. I don't know exactly. I

11 believe it was Nate.

12 Q Prior to the task force becoming part of ESI, what was the nature of your

13 interactions with the task force?

14 A General threat awareness, where there would be over time an increase in 15 meetings or the opportunity to brief the director or CISA leadership jointly.

16 Q So the task force name, Countering Foreign Influence Task Force, do you

17 recall if there was any discussion about if the task force could play any role in countering

18 domestic mis- or disinformation?

19 A I wasn't part of the task force, so I don't recall that discussion.

20 Q In your, you know, communications, interactions with Mr. Blumenthal,

21 Mr. Scully, did they ever mention whether there was consideration of expanding the task

22 force's mission?

23 A No.

24 Q When the task force is transferred to your team, is that when the name

25 change occurred as well?

1 A No.

2 Q Do you know when the name change occurred?

3 A The name change occurred through a memo in early January of 2021.

4 Q Do you know who prepared that memo?

5 A The memo was signed by the AD -- stands for assistant director -- of the 6 National Risk Management Center.

7 [redacted] I'm sorry. Could you repeat that?

8 Mr. Hale. The memo was signed by the assistant director of the National Risk

9 Management Center.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q And do you know who was in that position at the time?

12 A Bob -- Robert Kolasky.

13 Q And with the name change, did the mission of the task force, now MDM

14 team, change?

15 A No.

16 Q The MDM team, as it is currently structured, is part of its mission to combat

17 domestic mis-, dis-, and malinformation?

18 A No.

19 Q Does it have a foreign focus?

20 A The MDM team's mission is to build resilience to the tactics of foreign 21 influence operations and disinformation.

22 Q Just so I understand your answer correctly, the current MDM team's mission

23 is focused on building resilience to only foreign influence operations?

24 A To the tactics of foreign influence operations.

25 Q So is it your understanding that from the initial creation of the Countering

1 Foreign Influence Task Force to the MDM team's mission today, the mission has remained
2 consistent throughout?
3 A My understanding is that as a Secretary-level task force, they had 4 intelligence community portions as well as NPPD equities. The NPPD/CISA equities have 5 remained constant. I can't speak for the intelligence community.
6 Q Are you familiar with the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?
7 A I am.
8 Q And to your understanding, what is the purpose of that task force?
9 A I believe it is to coordinate FBI equities related to foreign influence
10 operations and whether there's criminality.
11 Q Have you had any interactions with the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?
12 A I have.
13 Q And what's the nature of those interactions?
14 A We have common interagency meetings. We attend similar interagency 15 policy meetings.
16 Q How frequently do you attend interagency meetings with the FBI's Foreign 17 Influence Task Force?
18 A There's a variety of meetings. Depending on the calendar, I can be in 19 meetings with them on a weekly basis or a monthly basis.
20 Q Does the cadence change depending on how close we are to the next U.S.
21 election?
22 A I don't know exactly what drives the cadence changes.
23 Q Okay. Are you familiar with ODNI's Foreign Malign Influence Center?
24 A I am.
25 Q Do you have interactions with the Foreign Malign Influence Center?

1 A Yes.

2 Q What's the nature of your interactions?

3 A They are on some of those same meetings.

4 Q To your understanding, is there overlap in the mission between CISA's MDM

5 team and the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force?

6 A I would not describe it as a overlap, no.

7 Q Okay. What about with respect to if there's overlap between the MDM

8 team's mission and ODNI's Foreign Malign Influence Center's mission?

9 A I would not describe that as being overlap.

10 Q The early July 2021 memo, do you recall what reasons were provided for 11 making this structural change?

12 A January.

13 Q I'm sorry. January 2021.

14 A I don't recall exactly, other than the item stated in the memo, to afford

15 leadership the opportunity to review and lead this mission as they see fit.

16 Q Were you involved in the preparation of this memo?

17 A I don't know. I don't recall exactly. I may have been.

18 Q Do you recall if you were supportive of having the task force ultimately 19 assumed by your team?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And why was that?

22 A This risk is an area that election officials speak about and demonstrated high

23 concern. So understanding and supporting the risk management of election

24 stakeholders has been my team's primary mission.

25 Q How big was the task force, soon-to-be-created MDM team, when it was

1 transferred over?

2 [redacted] Can we clarify? My understanding is the task force was

3 created at one point in time. The name changed happened at a time, but it fell under

4 ESI at a different time. So just to be clear about your question so we have a clear record

5 of what point in time we're talking about.

6 [redacted] Thank you for clarifying.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q When the name change occurred, how big was the team?

9 A So the name change occurred in January of 20 -- early January of 2021. I

10 believe there were six, seven, or eight individuals.

11 Q And did that include Mr. Scully?

12 A Yes.

13 Q So whoever is the head of the MDM team directly reports to you?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Once the MDM team is -- or the task force previously -- but when the initial

16 transition occurs and it becomes part of ESI, from that point to today, do you recall

17 attending or receiving any briefings about whether that team's work implicated the First

18 Amendment?

19 A That team's work was always designed to promote resilience and

20 educational awareness of the risks of foreign influence operations and disinformation. I

21 don't recall any specific discussion to what you said.

22 Q With the understanding you don't recall any specific discussions, just

23 generally do you recall if you've ever received any guidance or briefings on if the First

24 Amendment is implicated?

25 A So everything that that team, and my team as a whole, does is closely

1 coordinated with our Office of Chief Counsel and our Office of Privacy and Civil Liberties.
2 So those equities would be expected in the close coordination with those offices.
3 Q Once the task force, then the MDM team, is transferred into your broader 4 team, how frequently are you interacting with whoever the leader is of the team?
5 A Daily.
6 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
7 A Yes.
8 Q In the context of your work at CISA, who is he?
9 A [redacted] was a junior member of the Countering Foreign Influence Task
10 Force and remained an employee through the transition to the MDM team.
11 Q Did he report to Brian Scully then?
12 A Yes.
13 Q During your time at CISA, how frequently do you interact with the director of 14 CISA?
15 A It varies.
16 Q Can you provide a, you know, ballpark estimate?
17 A At times, monthly briefings. If there's more interest in the election security
18 topic, and given the calendar, those briefings may be more frequent.
19 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
20 A I do.
21 Q And who is she?
22 A [redacted] is a junior staffer on the mis-, dis-, and malinformation branch that's 23 currently detailed.
24 Q And where is she currently detailed?
25 A National Security Council.

1 Q Is Mr. Scully still the head of the MDM team?

2 A Brian Scully is the branch chief over the MDM team.

3 Q Okay. And does he have a primary deputy or someone to assist him with

4 that?

5 A Not at the moment, no.

6 Q Do you know who Elvis Chan is?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Have you had interactions with Elvis Chan?

9 A I have.

10 Q And what's the nature or context of those interactions?

11 A Elvis Chan is FBI. He worked out of San Francisco. He was an individual

12 who had closest coordination with FBI's mission on -- in engaging social media.

13 Q When referencing earlier the ongoing interagency meetings which would be

14 attended by the FBI's Foreign Influence Task Force, would Mr. Chan ever attend those

15 meetings?

16 A No. The meeting I was referring -- the meetings I was referring to were 17 D.C.-based meetings.

18 Q Okay. Do you know who Laura Dehmlow is?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Have you had interactions with her?

21 A In a -- in her previous role, yes.

22 Q And which previous role are you referencing?

23 A When she was part of the Foreign Influence Task Force.

24 Q Okay. Do you know what her current role is?

25 A I do not.

1 Q Do you know who [redacted] is at the FBI?

2 A I do not.

3 Q Do you know who Shelby Pierson is?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Do you have interactions with Ms. Pierson as part of your role?

6 A Years ago when she was election threat executive.

7 Q How frequently did you interact with Ms. Pierson when she was in that role?

8 A It varied.

9 Q If you had to guess, are we talking a monthly basis? More frequently?

10 Less frequently?

11 A Monthly would be safe. There was times there would be more frequent if 12 we were preparing for a Hill briefing or something like that.

13 Q During your role at CISA, do you have interactions with the Global 14 Engagement Center?

15 A At times.

16 Q What's the nature or the context of when you have interactions with GEC?

17 A State's Global Engagement Center has a body of knowledge and expertise

18 that we would attempt to learn from. Them having understood risks of foreign

19 influence operations affecting other countries were able to help us identify tactics to 20 educate the public on.

21 Q During your time at CISA, which other subagencies or divisions within DHS do

22 you most frequently interact with?

23 A There's -- subagencies. I would think you're talking about I engage with the 24 Office of Intelligence and Analysis, the DHS Office of Policy. But in the -- there are also

25 engagements with FEMA, on Homeland Security Grant Programs, or all of the other

1 subdivisions within CISA.

2 Q Are you familiar with -- or actually, I don't know if they're ongoing

3 currently -- but in the previous several years ongoing meetings that CISA had with social

4 media companies?

5 A Yes.

6 Q For these -- we'll call them USG-Industry Sync meetings, based off the 7 meeting invites -- for those set of meetings, would you ever attend?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And how frequently would you attend?

10 A The -- I have not attended all of them. The cadence of those meetings

11 varied. But I would say that for a period of 2019 to 2022, I attended a majority of them.

12 Q Who else from CISA would attend the majority of them?

13 A Potential -- I don't know that there's any one other person that attended the 14 majority of them, but representatives of the MDM team or other aspects of my Election

15 Security and Resilience team.

16 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?

17 A I do.

18 Q When he was at CISA, where did his role fit within the organizational 19 structure?

20 A [redacted] was a senior cybersecurity advisor to the director of CISA.

21 Q So did he fall within, you know, your chain of command or your line of the 22 hierarchy? Was he somewhere else?

23 A We would work closely together, but he was not a supervisor. He was a 24 advisor to the director.

25 Q How frequently did you work with [redacted] when he was at CISA?

1 A Daily.

2 Q Prior to the pandemic, the, you know, CISA-USG Industry meetings that were

3 going on on a regular basis, would those be in person?

4 A There were in-person meetings, yeah.

5 Q Did they take place in D.C.?

6 A No.

7 Q Where did they take place?

8 A In California, the Silicon Valley-San Francisco area.

9 Q Would you or others from CISA fly out for the meetings?

10 A I attended at least one of those.

11 Q Once they -- once the meetings began taking place over video conference

12 after the pandemic hit, did they ever return to in-person meetings, to your knowledge?

13 A No.

14 Q Did the meetings take place in 2023?

15 A No.

16 Q Do you know why they were paused or --

17 A I don't know.

18 Q In advance of a USG-Industry meeting, would you consult with others at CISA

19 about what CISA would like to be discussed during these meetings?

20 A My team would.

21 Q Would you consult with other Federal agencies in advance of the meeting of 22 what the government would be -- what other agencies would be presenting at the

23 meeting?

24 A My team would.

25 Q Okay. Which agencies would you consult with?

1 A DHS Office of Intelligence and Analysis, FBI, and DNI.

2 Q For the purpose of these USG-Industry meetings, who was your primary

3 point of contact at DHS I&A?

4 A I don't remember exactly because it could shift over time. It was typically

5 whomever they had working their foreign malign influence work.

6 Q Any names you remember?

7 A Not exactly. I can -- I can tell you that currently it would be -- the 8 individuals left, we had a [redacted], and the role is a guy named [redacted] [redacted].

9 Q As it related to the USG-Industry meetings, who was your primary point of 10 contact at the FBI?

11 [redacted] And so I don't know that we know if any of these agencies

12 would assert law enforcement privilege over their names. So I think if their names have

13 already come out, it's fine to give them, but I don't know the equities of what the other

14 agencies feel about the names of these individuals.

15 [redacted] I mean, happy to provide you an opportunity to consult and provide

16 the name but, otherwise, I'll ask if you're instructing the witness not to answer.

17 [redacted] I don't know if you recall names and if they're names that 18 have already come up.

19 Mr. Hale. Whomever was leading the FITF at the time would be the appropriate 20 point of contact for coordination.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q Okay. And for ODNI, do you know who the title was or the person was?

23 A The Election Threat Executive were individuals from that office.

24 Q Do you recall if, during the USG-Industry meetings, if the risk of a potential

25 hack-and-leak operation was discussed during these meetings?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Do you recall who participated in the discussion, who provided information

3 related to the risk of a potential hack-and-leak operation?

4 A To that specific discussion?

5 Q Yes.

6 A I don't recall.

7 Q Do you recall if it was a government partner or someone from the private

8 sector?

9 A I don't recall.

10 Q Did CISA ever provide information related to the risk of a potential foreign 11 hack-and-leak operation?

12 A I don't recall. It is possible.

13 We -- hack-and-leak operations were relevant to election security based on the 14 activities of 2016, and that would have been a potential topic area to discuss, learning

15 from past targets of election -- of election infrastructure security.

16 Q Did you ever participate in any tabletop exercises regarding how to respond 17 to a potential hack-and-leak operation?

18 A I don't recall doing that.

19 Q As it related to the potential risk of a foreign hack-and-leak operation, which 20 team or division within your team would have primary responsibility?

21 A That would be a blended effort in understanding the engagement,

22 assistance, and training where we develop our content and guidance relating to cyber

23 operations, physical security efforts, or operational risks to elections and the MDM

24 branch.

25 Q In these USG-Industry meetings, was there ever a discussion regarding the

1 social media companies' content moderation policies?

2 A Not to my knowledge.

3 Q What about the enforcement of those policies?

4 A Not to my knowledge.

5 Q Are you familiar with the term "switchboarding"?

6 A Yes.

7 Q To your understanding, what is switchboarding?

8 A Switchboarding describes an activity taken in the 2018 and 2020 election

9 cycles where a small number of emails were forwarded, provided by election officials to 10 CISA, to be provided to the appropriate social media points of contact.

11 Q And which team or task force within CISA had primary responsibility for 12 switchboarding during this time?

13 A The -- what is now the MDM branch.

14 Q And so did the -- the switchboarding practice predated the task force

15 becoming part of your team. Is that correct?

16 A In 2018, yes.

17 Q And then once it became part of your team, it continued?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Did you ever directly engage in switchboarding?

20 A I may have been on emails. I was not on the "to" line, to my knowledge.

21 Q To your understanding, who at CISA was primarily engaged in 22 switchboarding?

23 A Individuals on the MDM branch.

24 Q Would that include Mr. Scully?

25 A Yes.

1 Q To your understanding, why did CISA stop engaging in switchboarding?
2 A I don't know.
3 Q Do you recall who made that decision?
4 A CISA leadership.
5 Q To your understanding, does that include the director of CISA?
6 A I don't know. Potentially.
7 Q Do you recall how that decision was communicated to the MDM team?
8 A It would be communicated to the MDM team through me.
9 Q Okay. Do you remember how it was communicated to you?
10 A From my leadership.
11 Q Do you recall if there's any corresponding work product, like a memo --
12 A I don't know.
13 Q -- that came with the decision?
14 A No, I'm not aware.
15 Q Do you recall approximately when the decision was made?
16 A In advance of the '22 election cycle.
17 Q And would that be in 2022 itself or likely earlier?
18 A I don't recall exactly. Likely in '22 itself.
19 Q Are you familiar with the disclaimer that would accompany the 20 switchboarding emails?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Do you recall if you were part of any discussions regarding the inclusion of 23 the disclaimer or what the disclaimer should state?
24 A I was not.
25 Q Do you know who was a part of those discussions?

1 A It was a common practice for everything that we do to be coordinated with
2 chief counsel and the Office of Privacy and Civil Liberties. So I would assume by practice
3 that would be where some of those discussions are held.
4 Q Once the task force, the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force, becomes 5 part of your team, they were already, you know, kind of in the practice of engaging in 6 switchboarding. Do you recall any discussions with that team about whether, you know,
7 you thought the practice was beneficial or worth the CISA's personnels' time and 8 resources?
9 A There were certainly discussions about how resource intensive it might be.
10 Q And in your opinion, did whatever value switchboarding provided 11 adequately compensate for the resources it took?
12 A I don't know.
13 Q What made switchboarding resource-intensive?
14 A The amount of individuals to monitor an inbox, essentially. Ensuring a 15 timely response to emails, burdensome on a small team.
16 Q And that small team was the task force that became the --
17 A Uh-huh.
18 Q -- MDM team?
19 To your understanding, can you just describe at a high level exactly how 20 switchboarding would work? You mentioned a common email inbox.
21 A Uh-huh. CISA would receive reporting from State and local election officials 22 and append the disclaimer that you described and forward it to the appropriate social
23 media company.
24 Q To your understanding, would CISA personnel ever follow up with the social
25 media company?

1 A If they would follow up, the disclaimer indicated that there was no -- that all
2 responses were voluntary and there was no obligation to respond and that it -- whether
3 they do or do not would not change CISA's attitude or engagement with them.
4 Q Do you recall if the -- actually, let me strike that.
5 How did you become aware that switchboarding was resource-intensive?
6 A How did I become aware that switchboarding was resource-intensive?
7 Q Yes.
8 A I was a second line supervisor over that team. So the way they spend their 9 time is my business.
10 Q Did they -- did that team ever state that it was too resource-intensive and 11 recommend to you that they either reduce or stop their engagement in switchboarding?
12 A I don't recall that. The practice was essentially dividing up a day during 13 shifts. So it changed individuals' availability.
14 Q To your understanding, have there been any discussions about CISA
15 engaging in switchboarding again?
16 A We don't have a plan to engage in switchboarding again.
17 Q As part of the -- as part of CISA's practice of switchboarding, would CISA
18 forward reports to law enforcement or intelligence agencies?
19 A If there was indications of criminal activity, CISA would forward to FBI.
20 Q Other than instances suggesting criminal activity that are forwarded to FBI, 21 to your understanding, would CISA forward these emails to other law enforcement or 22 intelligence agencies?
23 A I'm not aware of that happening. I know that our disclaimer language
24 indicated that it was a possibility.
25 Q Do you recall receiving any questions from someone at a social media

1 company about whether CISA was, in fact, forwarding some reports to law enforcement
2 or intelligence agencies?
3 A I don't.
4 Q Other than the USG-Industry Sync meetings that we were discussing earlier
5 in the hour, are you aware of any standing meetings between CISA and social media
6 companies during your time at CISA?
7 A A meeting to prepare for those, those USG-Industry Syncs, but none others.
8 Q And for those we'll call them prep meetings --
9 A Uh-huh.
10 Q -- who would attend those meetings?
11 A Myself or individuals from the MDM team.
12 Q And were there any private sector partners who would attend these prep
13 meetings?
14 A Yes, it was to identify an agenda to make best use of time for the broader 15 group.
16 Q And which private sector partners would attend the prep meetings?
17 A Essentially, Meta.
18 Q Do you recall who your primary point of contact or contacts was or were at 19 Meta?
20 A [redacted].
21 Q Did you have interactions with [redacted] as part of your role at CISA,
22 other than the USG-Industry meetings or the associated prep meetings?
23 A Potentially but not significantly.
24 Q Do you have a general familiarity with the October 2020 New York Post
25 article on Hunter Biden's laptop?

1 A No.

2 Q When there were discussions about a potential foreign hack-and-leak

3 operation, do you recall if there were discussions at which foreign states may be likely to

4 attempt that type of operation?

5 A Discussions of hack-and-leak pertained to activities in 2016 related to the

6 DNC Act and then the French election where Macron's information was hacked and 7 leaked.

8 Q Did the Global Engagement Center attend these USG-Industry meetings?

9 A I don't believe so.

10 Q Do you recall having any discussions with industry about what role, if any,

11 the Global Engagement Center should play?

12 A I don't. It's possible, though.

13 Q Are you familiar with the former Disinformation Governance Board within

14 DHS?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Were you involved in any discussions related to the creation of the board?

17 A I was not involved in the creation of the board. I have had discussions as 18 they were standing up to understand who was doing what within the Department.

19 Q And when did those discussions begin?

20 A I don't recall.

21 Q Okay. In those discussions, what was considered as related to your team's 22 interactions with the newly created board?

23 A My understanding was the individuals who would staff the board wanted to

24 understand each DHS components' equities in this and ensure that there was a standard

25 of care across -- across any mission space that touches this area, foreign influence

1 operations and disinformation.

2 Q Okay. And were you the primary point of contact for your team as it

3 related to these discussions with the new individuals who'd be helping to create the

4 board?

5 A I was one of them, yeah.

6 Q What did you present as your team's equities?

7 A Much the same discussion we've described today.

8 Q Are you generally familiar with the board's dissolution?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Were you involved in any discussions regarding whether to suspend or --

11 A No.

12 Q Other than being a part of the broader engagement the board was having

13 with different teams and offices within the Department, did you have any other

14 interactions with the board that you recall?

15 A There would have been roles for whom individuals were on the board,

16 individuals who were staffed to support the board. I would have been supporting

17 CISA's -- I would have been staff support to whomever was representing to the larger

18 board.

19 Q Do you recall any other additional types of interactions that you or your

20 team had with the board?

21 A A couple of meetings that were in that -- what's going on -- what -- across

22 different components.

23 Q Okay. To your understanding, what was the purpose of the Disinformation

24 Governance Board?

25 A My understanding of the purpose of the Disinformation Governance Board

1 was to acknowledge several different touch points across the Department who interact
2 with this mission space and ensure that they're all upholding a similar standard of care.
3 Q In addition to your team, do you recall which other subagencies or offices
4 were considered some of the touch points?
5 A I don't recall all of them, but --
6 Q So the ones you recall?
7 A Aspects of DHS policy, I&A, Customs and Border Patrol, our Office of Science
8 and Technology that focused in on research, our directorate or office, whichever it is 9 called.
10 Q So to your understanding, there was a team or an office within Customs and 11 Border Patrol, to take one example, that touched upon or handled issues related to 12 disinformation?
13 A To my knowledge, there was a team that engaged with the Disinformation
14 Governance Board. I don't know the full scope of their mission.
15 Q At a high level, do you understand or do you have familiarity with I&A's 16 structure as far as if there was a team that, you know, primarily engaged with like the 17 USG-Industry meetings or -- let me stop the question there.
18 Which team within I&A would engage for the USG-Industry meetings?
19 A I&A's structure is foreign to me. At times we engage with the Cyber 20 Mission Center, and -- but I don't know for where their individuals who work on foreign 21 malign influence always fall.
22 Q Do you recall if there was overlap between the personnel who would attend
23 or participate in the USG-Industry Sync meetings, whether those were the same I&A
24 personnel who were advising the folks who were involved with the Disinformation
25 Governance Board?

1 A I don't recall who they had representing in those Disinformation Governance
2 Board prep meetings.
3 Q During your time at CISA, have you had interactions with the Treasury
4 Department?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And what's been the nature of those interactions?
7 A EO 13848 is -- pertains to mandating certain sanctions in the events of 8 foreign -- in the event of foreign interference in U.S. elections. They have a codified role 9 in that process where if foreign adversaries do make attempts to interfere, they are part 10 of the sanctioning.
11 Q Outside of the sanctions context, have you had interactions as part of your 12 role as CISA with the Treasury Department?
13 A In their role as part of the support to critical infrastructure, particularly the 14 financial sector, yes.
15 Q Besides the two examples you gave, sanctions and the Treasury
16 Department's support of your team's mission with respect to critical infrastructure, do
17 you recall any other interactions that you had as part of your role at CISA with the 18 Treasury Department?
19 A I think everything that I do to interact with them, other than NSC meetings,
20 falls within those two categories.
21 Q So you were at NPPD when elections were added as a component of critical
22 infrastructure.
23 A Yes.
24 Q Is that right?
25 At that point in your career, were you involved in that decisionmaking?

A I was junior staff, but I was supporting the Agency's emerging election security mission.

Q Who was your supervisor at the time that elections, you know, were adopted as a new sector of critical infrastructure?

A At the time, I worked in the Office of Cybersecurity and Communication's Enterprise Performance Management Office. The -- I was -- my direct supervisor was an individual, [redacted], but [redacted] did not work the election security mission. Her supervisor, [redacted], did, and I worked with him on this.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[Recess.]

[11:20 a.m.]

[redacted] Now we can go back on the record. Thank you.

EXAMINATION

BY [redacted]

Q I want to start off by talking about some of the changes over time for the organizational structure of the different teams.

You said that you started by getting detailed to the Election Task Force in November 2017. Is that right?

A So that was the first formal organization focused on election security.

The election security mission began before then, in advance of the 2016 election, in response to the activities of Russia scanning statewide voter registration databases, conducting a DDoS attack, distributed denial-of-service attack, on the Illinois statewide voter registration database.

We began an election security mission. That led to the critical infrastructure designation. And much of that work was done in my role with the Enterprise

1 Performance Management Office.

2 The first time there was a formal structure working on election security was the

3 Election Task Force in 2017.

4 Q Okay. That's helpful.

5 So you said the election security mission started in response to the Russian attacks

6 on election infrastructure?

7 A Uh-huh.

8 Q Is that a yes?

9 A Yes. Sorry.

10 Q And do you have an understanding of why the Election Task Force was 11 founded in 2017?

12 A I don't know exactly why it was founded. The timing in the calendar was a

13 recognition that in 2017 we needed to improve our support to this new critical

14 infrastructure community, because the most valuable thing for election officials is time

15 and we couldn't afford to waste it.

16 Q Do you have an understanding of why election security was designated as a

17 critical infrastructure sector?

18 A That decision is made at the Secretary's office and with the White House. I

19 understand that the decision to do so is a recognition that impacts to election

20 infrastructure and destruction of these systems would have a devastating impact on the 21 country.

22 [redacted] Can I jump in?

23 [redacted] Uh-huh.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q You said just now that the most valuable thing for election officials is time.

1 I might be misparaphrasing that. I think I got it mostly right. But can you explain what 2 you meant by that?
3 A The date of the election doesn't move. They have tremendous jobs with 4 few resources. And so we have to provide elements that are tremendously valuable to 5 them and not waste their time.
6 Q So, in other words, if you learn about something on October 1st and the 7 election is November 6th, you need to get -- you need to address that as soon as possible,
8 because the date of the election isn't going to change from November 6th?
9 A Yes, absolutely.
10 Q Okay.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q So after the Election Task Force was started in 2017, it then became the 13 Election Security Initiative. Is that right?
14 A Yes.
15 Q When the Election Task Force was founded, taking a step back, did you say
16 that it was founded by the Director at the time?
17 A My understanding is he established the Election Task Force.
18 Q And who was that Director?
19 A Director Chris Krebs.
20 Q And Mr. Krebs was appointed by then-President Donald Trump. Is that 21 right?
22 A Yes.
23 Q So when the Election Security Initiative was founded in 2018, did you
24 become the Director at that time?
25 A Yes, I believe so.

1 Q Or the lead of --

2 A Yes.

3 Q And you mentioned that that mission hasn't changed since 2018?

4 A Correct.

5 Q And at that time -- was that at the time that CISA was formed or after CISA

6 was forming?

7 A That was prior to CISA being -- to the act establishing CISA, yeah.

8 Q So that was still with the NPPD?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And you mentioned that the Counter -- Countering Foreign Intelligence -- or

11 Foreign Influence Task Force was started in May 2018, and that was independent of the 12 Election Security Initiative at the time?

13 A Correct.

14 Q And that was created by Secretary Nielsen, you said?

15 A Correct.

16 Q Do you know who appointed Secretary Nielsen?

17 A My understanding is the President at the time.

18 Q And who was the President at the time?

19 A President Trump.

20 Q When did the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force join the Election

21 Security Initiative?

22 A I don't recall an exact date. It would've been between 2018 and 2020.

23 Q And did the task force's mission change between when they joined the ESI?

24 A The task force was initially at least a combination of intelligence community

25 and NPPD equities, among others, done at the Secretary's level. NPPD's portion of this

1 mission did not change.

2 Q Did the NPPD CISA portion of the operations of the task force change

3 significantly?

4 A No.

5 Q And then, at some point, the ESI became the ESR. Is that right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Do you know about when that was?

8 A 2021 or 2022.

9 Q Did the ESR have more teams or branches than the ESI? Did that 10 organizational structure change?

11 A Not substantially.

12 Q Okay. And then, in January 2021, the Countering Foreign Influence Task

13 Force became the MDM branch. Is that right?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Did the operations or the mission change with the name change?

16 A No.

17 Q You mentioned that the size of the team increased. At first it was just a

18 few and then it grew up to 24 billets. Is that right?

19 A The size of the election security team has grown over time. The size of the 20 MDM team has not really.

21 Q Okay. So where has the growth been in the election security team?

22 A In our subsector risk management agency, in a branch in our program

23 management and integration, and our -- specifically in our election -- our engagement,

24 assistance, and training subsection.

25 Q That's helpful. Thank you for all the clarification of the timelines. That's

1 helpful.

2 I want to talk a little bit more about the MDM's -- the MDM team's mission.

3 You mentioned that it was to build resilience to the tactics of foreign mis- and

4 disinformation. Is that right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q What does it mean to build resilience?

7 A So we put out public guidance and guidance documents that really educate

8 on the approach that a foreign adversary might take.

9 One of my favorites is called "The War on Pineapple," because it takes the divisive

10 issue of pineapple on pizza -- and I just want to get this in the record -- no -- it takes a

11 divisive issue of pineapple on pizza and walks through the steps that an adversary might 12 take to take both sides of the issue and animate action off of it.

13 And we got some good response from election officials who really made it their

14 own. For example, Rhode Island went -- they don't really care about whether pineapple

15 belongs on pizza, but they do care about frozen lemonade and whether you eat it with a

16 spoon or not, and that's the divisive issue that they made the same product and pushed it

17 out to the public with that issue.

18 Q That's helpful. And we'll, as you'll see, we'll definitely come back to that.

19 But before we go more into detail about that product, how do products like that build

20 resilience?

21 A So when you have a well-funded adversarial nation trying to do this, raising

22 education about the risk may make you more prepared to acknowledge it in day-to-day

23 interactions and less susceptible to potentially being subject to the foreign influence

24 operation.

25 Q So when we talk about building resilience, what is CISA trying to build?

1 What does the resilience mean in that?

2 A Really a community that is aware of a broader risk activity that nation-states

3 take targeting them and have opportunities to think critically about what might be

4 pushed in their direction or how they might be emotionally incited so that they can use

5 their best judgment to not fall prey to foreign influence operations.

6 Q Is it fair to say that building resilience generally involves pushing out more

7 information rather than taking information off the internet?

8 A We do try to educate as much as possible, yeah.

9 Q And you also said that the MDM branch strives to build resilience to the 10 tactics of foreign mis- and disinformation. Is that right?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Why did you specifically specify the tactics rather than information

13 generally?

14 A The techniques used by Russia in 2016 became an available playbook for 15 other nation-state adversaries. We've seen China have foreign influence activities.

16 We've seen very prominent Iranian foreign influence activities.

17 For us to just educate on what Russia does would not -- if we're focused on that

18 actor, we would not necessarily be building resilience to the tactics and techniques that

19 may be employed by other actors.

20 So attributing to Russia all of our products wasn't seen as the most effective

21 manner to build resilience.

22 Q And does CISA focus also on tactics because the same tactics might be used

23 about different content or topic areas?

24 A Yes. Those tactics of establishing bot networks or proxy sites can be used

25 for a multitude of foreign influence operations targeting different critical infrastructure or other topics.

[redacted] So just to break this down a little bit into kind of layman's terms.

We're talking about building resilience to tactics. What we're really saying is we want to educate the public so that no matter who, what foreign actor is trying to do this thing, if they're trying to influence America in some way through the internet using a similar system or method that somebody else has used, the public will be aware of that. Is that fair to say?

Mr. Hale. Would be more resilient to that, yes.

[redacted] Okay.

[redacted] You also mentioned that the MDM branch is focused on foreign influence campaigns. Why is that focus on foreign info specific, and why is that important?

Mr. Hale. So foreign influence operations typically describe a well-funded adversary operating in a manner that is obscured to the general public. So this is the area that seemed to be most ripe for educating and building resilience to.

We've also taken some steps to address education in areas that an individual might be -- or that the topic might be susceptible to foreign influence operations.

So like election security, we educate on what the -- on how elections are secured, the risk management of elections, so that individuals can also find credible sources in that space.

[Hale Exhibit No. 1
was marked for identification.]

BY [redacted]

Q Talking more about CISA-specific work, I want to turn to the "War on Pineapple" example. We'll introduce that as exhibit 1. This is a printout of that

1 product.

2 Did you have a role in creating -- or, starting off, do you recognize this document?

3 A I do.

4 Q Did you have a role in creating it?

5 A I did.

6 Q What was your role?

7 A The concept for this infographic began as an argument within my team. It

8 actually began as individuals discussing whether salt and vinegar chips were delicious or 9 not, and we were divided about 70/30.

10 And then we, realizing that divisive issue was exactly the type of thing that was

11 weaponized in 2016 by Kremlin actors, we looked for a topic that we were more evenly

12 split on, and that was whether pineapple belongs on pizza.

13 So that ceded -- that argument ceded the idea that we could use a playful, non -- a 14 nonpartisan issue to help educate on these topics, and thus, we developed these steps.

15 Q And could you give us an overview of what the document says and why

16 that -- what it's trying to convey?

17 A Absolutely. The main issue to take away from this is that there is a kind of 18 well-funded and multifaceted process for many foreign adversaries to build a foreign

19 influence operation.

20 This includes identifying a subject issue that is already existing and divisive, really 21 sharpening the activity and the dialogue about that.

22 So in order to do so they move accounts into place in a manner that builds trust

23 among communities already in that space. They amplify and distort what that

24 conversation is to help increase the divide.

25 Ultimately, a goal is often to take that conversation off of social media platforms

1 or off of the internet, to bring it into some type of action or incitement into the real
2 world.
3 And so that's where we tried to educate in this example.
4 Q You mentioned that this partially reflects how Russians actually interfered in 5 the 2016 election. Is that right?
6 A Uh-huh.
7 Q Is that a yes?
8 A Oh, yes. It was informed by an understanding of Russian activity in 2016.
9 Q Can you explain how this corresponds to what the Russians were actually 10 doing in 2016?
11 [redacted] And just to be clear, we're not in a classified setting --
12 [redacted] Yes.
13 [redacted] So just to --
14 [redacted] High level is fine.
15 Mr. Hale. I think some of the best examples come from -- actually came from 16 the Hill, where SSCI, Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, put out a report
17 documenting a lot of the activities that Russia undertook in that election in advance of 18 the 2016 election.
19 One of the main takeaways was also that this playbook was now out for multiple 20 countries to use. It's somewhat similar to Iranian activity in 2020. So we were happy
21 to get this out in advance of that work.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q And when you say get it out, what did CISA actually do with this? I know
24 it's on your website, and you mentioned that you shared it, I guess, with the Rhode Island
25 elections officials. What did you actually do with the product?

1 A So it was published to our website. It was -- sorry. This document was
2 published to our website. It was shared with our critical infrastructure partners in this
3 space, which would be election officials that are secretaries of state, State election
4 directors, local election officials.
5 There was also a small public awareness campaign built around this where the 6 Director conveyed his personal disdain for pineapple on pizza.
7 Q And that was public awareness just for the general public?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q You've talked about this a little bit, but just to put a fine point on it.
12 Why does making the public aware of foreign influence campaigns help?
13 A The goal is to help ensure that the public is less susceptible to being 14 pressured by foreign nation-states.
15 Q And without this, they might think that other Americans are saying these 16 things and be more susceptible rather than knowing that foreign governments or large 17 foreign adversaries are doing them? Is that fair?
18 A Hopefully, yes.
19 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the term "pre-bunking"?
20 A I am.
21 Q What does that refer to?
22 A In understanding the foreign influence activities and the attack surface which 23 may be targeted by foreign influence operations, pre-bunking describes educating in an 24 area that may be subject to those foreign influence operations so that you could get 25 ahead of the foreign -- of the influence operations and help to establish the foundation of

1 credible and authoritative knowledge.

2 This is an opportunity that many election officials have taken to educate on how

3 they administer and secure their elections.

4 Q And by educating, that means pre-bunking involves putting out more

5 information, not taking down any information?

6 A Absolutely, yes.

7 Q Are you familiar with CISA's rumor control website?

8 A I am.

9 Q What was -- what is it? What was it?

10 A So CISA's rumor control website began copying a model that FEMA applied

11 to address misconceptions in hurricane or disaster response. And this was an approach

12 where CISA looked to educate on areas that were generally often misunderstood or 13 opportunities to provide additional clarity on how elections were secured across the 14 country.

15 [Hale Exhibit No. 2

16 was marked for identification.]

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q I want to introduce as exhibit 2 a printout of CISA's rumor control website as

19 it appeared on November 1st, 2020. So this is not current. This is from the Internet

20 Archive.

21 Obviously, this is a printout of the website and not the actual website, but does it

22 look generally familiar to you?

23 A It does.

24 Q So this shows 12 different reality versus rumor sections. Is that right?

25 A Yes.

1 Q That includes rumors that might appear pre-election, rumors that might
2 relate to election day, and rumors about the post-election process. Is that right?
3 A Correct.
4 Q And you said -- is this an example of pre-bunking?
5 A Yes.
6 Q You mentioned the purpose of this is to get out authoritative information.
7 Is that right?
8 A The purpose of this is to get out educational materials that cites to 9 authoritative information about a topic area that may be subject to foreign influence
10 operations and disinformation.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q So just as an example, the very first one that's printed out as page 2, the top
13 reads -- there's a -- so it reads, "Reality: Malicious actors can use fake personas and 14 impersonate real accounts." Underneath that there's a red X mark. It says, "Rumor:
15 If a social media account claims an identity, the account must be run by that person or 16 organization," right?
17 A Correct.
18 Q And so this first example here -- and then there's "Get the Facts"
19 underneath, and it explains why there's a -- why the rumor is a rumor and not reality.
20 And then there's "Useful Sources" down underneath that. So, for example, I
21 don't -- I think these are hyperlinks. It says, "CISA Disinformation Toolkit;
22 #TrustedInfo2020, NASS; Voter Resources." There's about -- there's six different 23 resources that links to. Is that correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Okay. And so just using this first one, this first, rumor versus reality, as an

1 example, the goal of this section is to explain why a social media account that claims an
2 identity might not actually be run by that person or organization, correct?
3 A That's correct.
4 Q And then explains why that's the case, correct?
5 A That is correct.
6 Q And that's how this works to educate the public, correct?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Okay.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q I want to look at a couple more examples of actual instances where 11 disinformation was spreading about the election and what, if anything, CISA did.
12 In October 2020, there was an incident in which emails purportedly from the 13 Proud Boys were sent to voters threatening them. Are you familiar with that incident?
14 A I am.
15 Q Could you describe generally what happened?
16 A We are not in a classified environment.
17 Q Yes, at an unclassified level.

1 [Hale Exhibit No. 3

2 was marked for identification.]

3 [redacted] If it makes it easier, we can introduce as exhibit 3 a Washington Post

4 article from October 22nd, 2020, entitled, "U.S. government concludes Iran was behind

5 threatening emails sent to Democrats." We'll introduce this as exhibit 3. This, I think is 6 fair to say, it's all public information.

7 Mr. Hale. Okay.

8 [redacted] And if you want to take a minute to review, please do.

9 [Pause.]

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q You're good?

12 A Yeah.

13 Q So, generally, at an unclassified level, Iranian actors posed as Proud Boys and 14 sent threatening emails to voters. Is that right?

15 A Correct.

16 Q Did CISA have a response in this -- to this instance when it happened?

17 A We did. Part of the strength of CISA's work in establishing a robust election

18 security community meant that election officials who were receiving inquiries from their

19 voters, their voting constituency, were -- so some voters went to their election official and

20 said, "What is this? Why am I -- can they really see how I vote?"

21 And then those emails were passed forward to CISA and to the FBI, at which point

22 we, as a government, were able to work with the intelligence community to recognize

23 that this relates to corroborate some information that was on the high side of potential

24 Iranian activity, which then, within 27 hours or so, the Director of National Intelligence,

25 the Director of FBI, the Director of CISA were on a -- at the dais explaining to the public

1 this activity.

2 Before that briefing to the public, we were also able to get information back out to

3 the election security community and brief that this was forthcoming and a

4 recognized foreign influence operation leveraging data from election infrastructure.

5 Q Local election officials who received those emails from voters saying, "I don't

6 know what this email is, can they really see this vote?" do they necessarily have the 7 information to be able to identify that that is from a foreign actor?

8 A No.

9 Q So was CISA's involvement and their relationship with local election officials

10 critical in that instance?

11 A In being part of a larger apparatus that was able to inform of a foreign

12 influence operation and help to address the secure practices of elections in that

13 timeframe, I do think we played a critical role.

14 Q Is it fair to say that the U.S. Government response to this incident included

15 ensuring that the public received accurate information?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And how did the U.S. Government response contribute to the protection of 18 the 2020 election more broadly?

19 A In publicly attributing a foreign influence operation and setting the 20 precedent that activity against election infrastructure and targeting the public would be

21 outed and conveyed broadly, it conveyed the robustness of an election security

22 community, the ties across the intelligence community, law enforcement, and the cyber

23 community, in order to ensure that there were safeguards and detective mechanisms

24 throughout the whole process in administering elections, and that things would be

25 detected, caught, and addressed as quickly as possible.

1 Q So I'm understanding that you're saying that it's not only about telling the 2 voters who got those emails, "Don't worry," but also about deterring future foreign
3 influence? Is that fair?
4 A I believe that's fair, yes.
5 Q Are you familiar with an incident that -- an election incident that's referred
6 to as Sharpiegate?
7 A I am familiar with the concept of Sharpiegate, yes.
8 Q Okay. Generally, can you explain what that was?
9 A My understanding of Sharpiegate is a -- first, the context.
10 Elections are run by States according to State law. They differ wildly across the 11 country. The systems, the components, the processes all differ substantially according 12 to their State law and policy.
13 In some States the voting systems and the ballots that they mark using a Sharpie is 14 a perfectly acceptable and valid way of voting. There are systems for which that would 15 not work.
16 A combined -- a misunderstanding, whether being in receipt of a Sharpie and 17 marking ballots with a Sharpie, was a topic area that was a subject of great confusion and 18 used to potentially make individuals believe that their ballots might have been invalidated
19 because they were using a Sharpie to mark ballots.
20 Q Did CISA have any response related to Sharpiegate?
21 A I don't recall, other than potentially educating on it as a topic for how ballots
22 could be marked.
23 Q So CISA's response would be public education?
24 A Putting out more education materials.
25 [redacted] And to put a finer point on that, CISA never asked any social media

1 platforms to take down any posts concerning Sharpiegate, correct?

2 Mr. Hale. Not to my knowledge.

3 [redacted] Thank you.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q You mentioned the various parts of election systems that differ across

6 States. Does the election security subsector include all of those parts of election

7 infrastructure?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Can you describe what the different components of that election

10 infrastructure might be?

11 A So there's a multitude. But some of the systems and components, your

12 voter registration databases, whether they're held at the State level or at local levels, but

13 depending on their State policy to determine if they're top down or bottom up.

14 You have some States that use electronic poll books and coordinate data that way.

15 You have election management systems. You have voting systems. You have

16 tabulators. You have election reporting systems. You have the interface with the 17 website. You have the general business IT. You have the vendors that support this.

18 You have voter lookup tools.

19 So it's an expansive environment of systems of systems.

20 Q And CISA's election security mission, is it related only to cybersecurity or to 21 all of those infrastructure components?

22 A Our work is cyber, physical, and operational risk to all of those infrastructure

23 components.

24 [redacted] What does operational risk mean?

25 Mr. Hale. Elements like chain of custody or ways to create a denial of service of

1 the operation, not just the technical -- not simply the technical systems, the ability to 2 function as the infrastructure is intended to function.
3 [redacted] Thank you.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q So, overall, was CISA's focus with respect to addressing election-related 6 mis- and disinformation to push out true information so that the public would not be 7 persuaded by the false information?
8 A We were -- our goal was to push out well-informed and well-cited
9 information to enable the public to have a resource to identify positive information in this
10 sector.
11 Q Overall, CISA's focus was on pushing out more information, not restricting or 12 having content taken down? Is that right?
13 A Absolutely, yes.
14 Q To your knowledge, does CISA actively surveil internet or social media 15 platforms to determine whether election-related mis- or disinformation is present on 16 those sites?
17 A We do not.
18 Q Does CISA coerce platforms into removing particular content?
19 A We do not.
20 Q Has CISA ever coerced platforms into removing particular content?
21 A Not to my knowledge.
22 Q Are you familiar with allegations that CISA did intimidate or coerce platforms
23 into removing content?
24 A I'm familiar with the accusation.
25 Q What's your response to that accusation?

1 A CISA has not censored or coerced. In sharing information, a broader
2 sharing of information, it is to inform decision-making of all of our partners.
3 Q Have your decisions at CISA been influenced at any time by partisanship or
4 political considerations?
5 A Mine have not.
6 Q Have the actions of your team at CISA been influenced by partisanship or
7 political considerations?
8 A Not to my knowledge.
9 Q If you had found out that your team had acted that way, what would your 10 response be?
11 A It would be wholly inappropriate.
12 Q Would there be repercussions for your team?
13 A Absolutely.
14 [redacted] You're a career employee, correct?
15 Mr. Hale. I am.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q I want to talk a little bit more about the USG-Industry meetings we discussed
18 in the last hour.
19 Broadly, why did CISA participate in these USG-Industry meetings?
20 A So initially engagement with social media platforms in this manner was a 21 recognition that election security is a foreign community and a foreign topic to a lot of 22 people that haven't addressed it.
23 You can see general knowledge and awareness of how elections are secured or 24 what the canvassing and cure process for elections are or who is responsible for what 25 aspect.

1 It's a complicated matter. We have invested in getting expertise in this exact
2 subject area. And so where we have expertise and we have partners we're there to 3 educate.
4 Q So these were information-sharing educational meetings?
5 A Yeah.
6 Q Does the information -- did the information sharing in these meetings go
7 both ways, or was one side briefing the other side?
8 A It went both ways. The topics for which we would educate differed
9 depending on the agencies' or the entities' equities.
10 Q So the companies might give the government some information and then 11 the government might give some information back to the companies?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Did CISA or any other government agency require that any industry partners
14 participate in these meetings?
15 A Not at all.
16 Q These meetings were entirely voluntarily?
17 A Yes.
18 Q You mentioned the prep meetings that were coordinated by Meta. Is that
19 right?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Did CISA ask for those prep meetings? Did Meta ask for those prep
22 meetings?
23 A My understanding is that they were proposed by Meta to better structure an 24 agenda for the following meeting.
25 Q So the industry asked for government engagement?

1 A In all of this, it was -- in all of those meetings industry coordinated -- Meta
2 coordinated on behalf of industry and invited CISA to coordinate FBI -- invited CISA to 3 coordinate Federal partners, including FBI's engagement there.
4 Q Did CISA flag or report potential disinformation for social media or 5 technology companies during or in connection with these industry meetings?
6 A Not at all.
7 Q We also talked a little bit about switchboarding in the last hour. Do you
8 remember that?
9 A I do.
10 Q To the best of your knowledge, switchboarding is just a word for forwarding
11 emails. Is that right?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And to the extent that the forwarding emails process happened, it was 14 before -- in 2018, when it happened, you were not involved?
15 A Correct.
16 Q In 2020, when it happened, the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force was 17 part of the ESI?
18 A Correct.
19 Q But were you personally very involved in the forwarding email process?
20 A I would not characterize my involvement as very involved. I would've been 21 on some of the emails.
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q I have just a couple questions about the Disinformation Governance Board.
24 A Okay.
25 Q Are you aware of allegations that the Disinformation Governance Board was

1 set up to be what's called a Ministry of Truth to censor -- to monitor and censor
2 Americans online?
3 A I have heard an accusation, yeah.
4 Q What's your reaction to that allegation?
5 A That is not consistent with my understanding of the work of the individuals
6 on the Disinformation Governance Board.
7 Q During your time working with the Disinformation Governance Board, did
8 you ever see anyone working on the board take any actions to monitor Americans online?
9 A So as a premise, I'm not aware of the board itself ever actually having met or 10 been stood up.
11 The staff supporting it, I'm not aware of them ever taking action on monitoring
12 social media or engaging with social media to my knowledge.
13 Q In fact, it was, as set up, and the staff who worked on it realized that this 14 little -- this the board itself never really got off the ground. But the sole focus of the 15 Disinformation Governance Board was internal, looking at DHS, correct?
16 A That's my understanding, yes.
17 Q It was to coordinate amongst different entities within the agency?
18 A Within DHS, yes.
19 Q There's been an allegation made that the MDM task force is the successor to 20 the Disinformation Governance Board. Are you familiar with that allegation?
21 A Not intimately, but it's consistent with some things that I've -- some 22 accusations that I've heard.
23 Q Is the MDM task force's role, in fact, consistent with being a successor to the 24 Disinformation Governance Board?
25 A Not at all.

1 Q And can you describe broadly the differences between what the MDM task
2 force does and what your understanding of what the Disinformation Governance Board
3 was to do?
4 [redacted] And just to clarify if we're talking about the MDM team or the 5 Countering Foreign Influence Task Force. There's a lot of acronyms and names, but just 6 for clarity.
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q I'm talking about the MDM team.
9 A So the MDM team, its mission is still to build resilience to foreign influence
10 operations and disinformation. That mission stems from their work as the Countering 11 Foreign Influence Task Force going back all the way to establishment in 2018.
12 The Disinformation Governance Board was an internal governance body at the 13 DHS level facilitated by the Office of DHS Policy for the purpose of ensuring some 14 common standard of care for any of the activities that DHS components might undertake
15 in this space.
16 Q So it's fair to say that they have pretty starkly different roles.
17 A I would say, yes.
18 Q Okay. And in any event, neither the MDM task force nor the 19 Disinformation Governance Board, to the extent that it existed, ever engaged in the 20 censorship of American citizens online. Is that fair?
21 A That's correct. There wasn't an MDM task force, though, just to --
22 Q Oh.
23 A -- for clarity of language.
24 Q Right.
25 A The MDM branch nor the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force ever

1 engaged in censorship, nor to my knowledge did the Disinformation Governance Board.

2 Q Thank you. And I apologize, I realize that I was saying MDM task force. I

3 meant MDM branch throughout.

4 A Yeah.

5 Q That was an error on my part. Thank you.

6 We can go off the record. Thank you.

7 [Recess.]

8 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q We were starting to touch upon some of this in the previous hour. But in

11 response to one of your answers from the first hour, you mentioned the tactics that the 12 MDM team was trying to build resilience to.

13 Can you walk us through what you meant by tactics and what would be included?

14 A Sure. In foreign influence operations there's often a structured approach

15 that many adversaries may undertake. They may do some form of social engineering.

16 They may create proxy sites that hides the hand of government influence. They may 17 establish bot networks or inauthentic accounts. Increasingly, they may use new 18 capabilities, like generative artificial intelligence.

19 All of these things are enabling tactics of foreign influence operations that we'd 20 like to put forth educational material on.

21 Q And when assessing these tactics, are these tactics exclusively used by 22 foreign actors or can they be used by domestic actors as well?

23 A In theory, tactics can be used by anyone.

24 Q So going through some of the examples that you mentioned, so something

25 like bot networks, that gets to actors and behavior. Of these tactics, which are content

1 focused?

2 A Tactics -- information on tactics is not content focused. Descriptions of

3 content generation can be relevant to the creation of synthetic media, like artificial

4 intelligence. But tactical education is not normally content focused.

5 Q As part of the MDM team's interactions with social media companies, when

6 you're putting materials out there are these the same types of information that you're

7 sharing with social media companies during like the USG-Industry meetings?

8 A So things that were relevant, we did not discuss tactics -- CISA did not discuss

9 tactics of foreign influence operations with social media entities. There we would do

10 election security education. So what is the timeframe for UOCAVA ballots to go out?

11 What is the timeframe for processing of ballots?

12 Election night reporting is unofficial. What is a canvass process? What is a cure

13 process? What is a post-election certification process? What does risk-limiting audits

14 look like?

15 These are all things that were subject matter to election security that I didn't 16 expect social media to have intimate knowledge or education on.

17 Q In addition to providing information on these subjects to the social media

18 companies, were you flagging content or narratives on these topics where folks were 19 getting the issues wrong?

20 A Not at all for these meetings.

21 [Hale Exhibit No. 4

22 was marked for identification.]

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q This will be exhibit 4. This is an email from Brian Scully to Renee DiResta at

25 Stanford. Mr. Hale is not on this email exchange, but I want to ask you some questions

1 about it.

2 A Okay.

3 Q First, do you know who Renee DiResta is?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And to your understanding, what's her role as it relates to the issues we've

6 been talking about?

7 A I don't know her current role. At the time, I believe she was part of the 8 Stanford Internet Observatory.

9 Q And did you have interactions with Ms. DiResta as part of your role at CISA?

10 A At times.

11 Q Do you recall the context of those interactions?

12 A Awareness of the expertise and activities of the Stanford Internet

13 Observatory.

14 Q Acknowledging that you're not on this email chain, do you recall the 15 discussion, the meetings of experts that Director Krebs was trying to set up in March

16 of 2020?

17 A I do not.

18 Q I want to call your attention to the third bullet point from Mr. Scully's email.

19 One of the proposed discussion topics is, "How should we be thinking about domestic 20 versus foreign interference?"

21 Is that a discussion topic that you ever discussed with Mr. Scully?

22 A That is not.

23 Q Do you know what Mr. Scully meant by this email?

24 A I do not.

25 Q We can take this exhibit back.

1 [Hale Exhibit No. 5
2 was marked for identification.]
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q This will be exhibit 5. This is an email from Robert Schaul to someone
5 affiliated with the Alliance for Securing Democracy. Mr. Hale is not on this email
6 exchange.
7 [Pause.]
8 Have you had a chance to review?
9 A Uh-huh. Yes.
10 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
11 A I don't.
12 Q Are you familiar with the Alliance for Securing Democracy?
13 A Not particularly.
14 Q I want to call your attention to Mr. Schaul's email at 1:12 p.m. He writes,
15 "Mail-fraud disinfo is in-bounds for us this time, domestic or foreign; so if you see 16 something you're worried about let us know -- especially if our messaging can help 17 counter."
18 Based off what your understanding of what the MDM team -- or at this point the 19 Countering Foreign Influence Task Force -- was responsible for, what was Mr. Schaul 20 referring to?
21 A I don't know Rob Schaul's intent behind this email.
22 Q Okay. To your understanding, what would fall within the mission of the 23 Countering Foreign Influence Task Force that would allow domestic mail fraud
24 disinformation to fall within that team's scope?
25 A Discussions of mail fraud, if they indicate criminal activity, would be of

1 interest to our Federal partners, particularly in law enforcement. However, I'm not
2 aware of us working in mail fraud disinfo particularly.
3 Q Do you know who was supervising Mr. Schaul at this time?
4 A Rob Schaul worked as a junior employee under Brian Scully at this time.
5 Q Do you recall having any discussions with a member from the Countering
6 Foreign Influence Task Force, or later the MDM team, about whether domestic 7 disinformation, regardless of the topic, could fall within that team's scope?
8 A In building resilience to information we're not looking at surfacing
9 information from domestic or foreign. Those two lines of effort were distinct.
10 So if we can educate and talk about our risk management and the activities that 11 work to secure vote by mail, and if it is -- or absentee voting -- if there's an opportunity to 12 put forward that information to -- for an educational purpose, that information push was 13 within scope.
14 However, that's the limits that I understand.
15 Q As part of supporting that informational push, were there individuals at CISA 16 who were tracking or trying to gain awareness of whether there was mis- or 17 disinformation on topics related to mail-in balloting?
18 A I am not aware of anyone tracking this. We have partners who can share
19 information. Election officials can certainly say they're looking to educate in particular 20 topic areas that they're getting questions about.
21 Q Were you aware of partners other than State and local election officials that 22 were sharing information with CISA?
23 A Associations, local associations, associations of election officials would also 24 fall within that realm; vendors in the election community as well.
25 Q Other than State and local election officials, associations comprised of those

1 officials, or vendors, are you aware of any partners that CISA was receiving information
2 from regarding mis- or disinformation?
3 A I'm not sure what Securing Democracy is and -- in this -- but to the extent
4 that that is an external group in this email, that's new to me.
5 Q You've had a chance to review this email exchange. This is November 4th,
6 2020, which is right after the U.S. election. Votes were still being counted.
7 Based off the exchange, do you find anything that Mr. Schaul is saying to be 8 problematic based off your understanding of the mission of the Countering Foreign
9 Influence Task Force?
10 A I wouldn't characterize it as problematic knowing that the work that 11 followed was all public, transparent, and putting forth well-cited information into the 12 public sphere with close coordination with our lawyers and Office of Privacy and Civil 13 Liberties.
14 Q If Mr. Schaul had contacted you and asked if he could send an email to 15 [redacted] saying mail fraud disinfo is inbounds for us this time, domestic or foreign,
16 what would you advise him?
17 [redacted] To be clear, did you actually advise on this issue?
18 Mr. Hale. I did not advise on this issue.
19 The hypothetical, I would describe this as an inarticulate way of supporting our 20 mission.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Okay. Why do you think it's inarticulate?
23 A Because it is subject to misunderstanding that -- of how we -- of information
24 we'd want to glean and information we could put forward in CISA's role.
25 Q Are you aware of Mr. Schaul or anyone else on the Countering Foreign

1 Influence Task Force who had a misunderstanding of what the task force's proper mission
2 was supposed to be?
3 A I am not suggesting that he has a misunderstanding. I am saying that this
4 may not be the most articulate way of conveying it. I am not aware of anyone who had 5 a misunderstanding internally to the team about CISA's mission.
6 Q Did Mr. Scully ever discuss with you concerns regarding whether anyone on 7 the team was suggesting to outside partners that domestic disinformation fell within the 8 scope of the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force's mission?
9 A Can you rephrase that question?
10 Q Sure. Do you recall any discussions with Mr. Scully regarding whether 11 anyone on the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force misunderstood the task force's
12 mission to include domestic disinformation?
13 A I do not recall any discussion with Mr. Scully about implying that there was a 14 misunderstanding among the team.
15 Q If someone from the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force wanted to 16 receive information from a partner that did not involve State and local officials and was 17 monitoring content online, who would need to sign off on that, if anyone?
18 A Our practice was that the activities should be and partnerships should be 19 transparent and clear among supervisory chains.
20 However, individual relationships or professional relationships established
21 through conferences or understanding this mission space enabled regular email
22 interaction among partners or leaders in the space.
23 Q In the fall of 2020, you mentioned that Mr. Schaul was a more junior
24 employee. Given your position in the hierarchy, how frequently were you interacting
25 with someone in his position?

A In the fall of 2020?

Q Yes.

A Not often. Every 2 weeks.

Q So as far as having -- I guess, let me strike that, start of that question.

What was your visibility or understanding of the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force's day-to-day operations and handling of issues?

A I understand their mission, their charge, and some of their tasks, and certainly engage at a leadership level.

Q Is, at this time, Mr. Scully the individual affiliated with the task force that you're most frequently communicating with?

A Yes.

Q And his responsibilities are providing updates to you on --

A Yes.

Q We can take these back. Thank you.

[redacted] Off the record really quickly.

[redacted] Can we go off the record?

[Discussion off the record.]

BY [redacted]

Q Without getting into the details of any discussions, when there were discussions with the Office of the Chief Counsel, who from the -- either the Countering Foreign Influence Task Force, or later the MDM team -- who was most likely to attend those meetings?

A Myself and the branch chief, Brian Scully.

Q Do you recall at a high level how frequently you had issues or it became necessary to have meetings with the Office of the Chief Counsel?

1 A It would not require issues to engage the Office of the Chief Counsel. It's 2 our practice to do it for any new product, any new initiative, regular work streams to
3 ensure that our counsel and Office of Privacy and Civil Liberties is well informed.
4 Q So you had regular interactions with those offices?
5 A Yeah.
6 Q Are you familiar with the Center for Internet Security?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And what's your understanding of what CIS is?
9 A The Center for Internet Security is a 501(c)(3), to my knowledge. It is an
10 independent organization for which CISA funds through a series of cooperative 11 agreements to host the Multi-State Information Sharing and Analysis Center and the 12 Elections Infrastructure Information Sharing and Analysis Center.
13 The scope and nature of those cooperative agreements is to provide cybersecurity
14 and network defense information to key State and local partners.
15 At no point has disinformation ever been -- work been funded through those 16 cooperative agreements.

[11:25 a.m.]

BY [redacted]

Q At just a high level, what's the difference between the MS-ISAC and the EI-ISAC?

A Okay. The MS-ISAC, if you think about the stakeholders that they serve, that would be your State CIO or your county CIO or CISO. The EI-ISAC, their core -- and if you know things about the way States are structured, sometimes there's a constitutional and programmatic divide. So the elections organizations do not always fall underneath the governor. Some States they do. It varies wildly.

So recognizing that having the States' CIO and CISO as the primary coordinator for the Multi-State Information Sharing and Analysis Center didn't necessarily serve the election community.

So you can think of the difference between the two as elections infrastructure uses election officials and their network defenders as their primary stakeholders. Multi-State is inclusive of that sometimes.

Q For the -- for CIS, who is the -- who at CISA most frequently would interact with CIS?

A Oh, it's impossible to say because there are different aspects of the mission. So our cybersecurity office would engage with them. The organization overseeing the cooperative agreement would engage with them. I would engage with them, et cetera.

Q As it related to the EI-ISAC, do you know who the -- who at CISA would be the most frequent point of contact?

A During what time period?

Q We'll say fall of 2020.

A Myself, [redacted] likely be key points of contact with the EI-ISAC.

1 Q In 2020, do you recall having any discussions with CIS about creating a
2 misinformation reporting portal?
3 A I don't recall specifically.
4 Q What about generally?
5 A I am aware that they had created an email address and acquired it, but I
6 don't recall the origination of the idea.
7 Q As it related to that idea, who from CISA was most heavily involved in those
8 discussions?
9 A I don't know.
10 Q To your recollection, did it include you?
11 A I don't know. It may have. I don't know.
12 Q As it related to the idea of a potential misinformation reporting portal, what 13 need was the idea trying to address?
14 A So "portal" is one of the terms that's throwing me off. I'm aware of an 15 email address. And what need did it address? State and local election officials didn't 16 have time or awareness of how to report or to whom to report at social media platforms.
17 So this was, to my understanding, an attempt to make that process easier and less
18 burdensome on election officials.
19 Q At the beginning of this interview, we'd mentioned the term
20 "malinformation."
21 A Uh-huh.
22 Q You provided a couple of examples.
23 Do you recall having any discussions with any industry partners or others outside
24 of CISA about if there's any ambiguity with the term "malinformation"?
25 A I don't recall specific discussions.

1 Q What about generally? Do you recall anyone from industry at -- any
2 university experts raising criticisms about the term "malinformation"?
3 A It is a term that often requires explanation. So that'd be consistent, yeah.
4 Q To your recognition, when did CISA start using the term "malinformation"?
5 A I don't recall.
6 Q Do you recall any discussion at CISA about no longer using the term
7 "malinformation" and sticking with the terms "mis- and disinformation"?
8 A I don't recall specific conversations about that, but could be -- but it's very 9 plausible.
10 Q Do you know who Kate Starbird is?
11 A I do.
12 Q And who is she?
13 A She is from the University of Washington and a former WNBA player.
14 Q That's right. When did you, as part of your role at CISA, when did you first 15 meet or start having interactions with Dr. Starbird?
16 A So I had heard of Dr. Starbird before meeting her. My interactions with her
17 began, I don't fully recall the date, but around the Cybersecurity Advisory Committee
18 work.
19 Q Okay. And what is the Cybersecurity Advisory Committee?
20 A The Cybersecurity Advisory Committee is a body that is meant to advise the 21 director of CISA on CISA's missions, made up of external partners and experts in their 22 field.
23 Q Is that referred to as CSAC?
24 A That's correct.
25 Q Did CSAC have an MDM subcommittee?

1 A CSAC had a subcommittee on managing mis- and disinformation for risk to
2 critical infrastructure, yes.
3 Q And do you recall approximately when that subcommittee was in existence?
4 A I would need a refresher.
5 Q Okay. As that subcommittee -- let me rephrase that question.
6 For that subcommittee's focus on mis- and disinformation, was it only in the 7 election space or was it broader than that?
8 A So the subcommittee was made up of primarily external figures to CISA, and 9 so the scope was to discuss mis- and disinformation risk to critical infrastructure. That 10 would be broader than election infrastructure alone.
11 Q What was your involvement with the subcommittee?
12 A I supported and attended -- I supported our senior and attended most of 13 those subcommittee meetings.
14 Q Who is the senior?
15 A At the time, Kim Wyman.
16 Q Okay. And what was her title at the time?
17 A It's either senior advisor or senior advisor for Election Security, something to 18 that effect.
19 Q Do you recall how many people would attend -- excuse me. Do you recall
20 how many people from CISA would attend a typical meeting with this subcommittee?
21 A No. There were different CISA roles. Some would take notes. Some 22 would facilitate the meeting. Some would contribute to conversations.
23 Q How many individuals from CISA would contribute to the conversation?
24 A Two to three.
25 Q And who were those people?

1 A You could typically expect Kim Wyman and myself to do it. I don't -- I don't 2 know a third necessarily.
3 Q During these meetings, was it typically members of the advisory
4 subcommittee proposing ideas to personnel at CISA or both CISA personnel and members
5 of the advisory committee offering ideas and --
6 A It's tough to characterize. The discussions were led by external partners,
7 and we would attempt to provide context to CISA's mission so that -- so discussions could 8 remain productive.
9 Q Do you recall finding the discussions productive?
10 A Not always.
11 [redacted] Okay. This will be exhibit 6.
12 [Hale Exhibit No. 6
13 was marked for identification.]
14 [redacted] There's an associated email chain with it, but the last three pages of 15 the document are the meeting minutes from March 15th, 2022, for this advisory 16 subcommittee.
17 Mr. Hale. Thank you.
18 [redacted] [redacted] there's highlighting on this. Can you clarify for the record if 19 that's on the original document or if that's highlighting that was made on it?
20 [redacted] My understanding is that's on the original document. We'll 21 double-check at the break and let you know if that's not the case, but --
22 [redacted] Thank you.
23 [redacted] -- that's our understanding.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q Have you had a chance to review?

1 A Yeah.

2 Q So on Bates No. 5373, there are some subheadings. There's the purpose of 3 the meeting, and then there's a discussion. And there's four bullet points laid out.

4 Some of these, you know, appear consistent with some of the answers you've

5 given previously about building resilience, identifying foreign threats, pre-bunking.

6 I want to focus on the third bullet point, "Response: Monitoring, identifying, and

7 addressing specific MDM threats."

8 First, the highlighted bullet, whether it's specific to this meeting or just any of the 9 other meetings, do you recall there being discussions about monitoring MDM threats?

10 A This body of external individuals making recommendations to the director

11 and/or to the full CSAC committee would have had discussions on those four topics.

12 Q And do you recall if, as it relates to this third topic, "monitoring, identifying,

13 addressing specific MDM threats," did CISA ever take those discussions and discuss

14 internally about what role CISA could play regarding monitoring?

15 A Deliberating on whether that was a part of a future mission could have

16 occurred. I don't fully know.

17 Q To your understanding of CISA's legal authorities and mission scope, would it

18 be appropriate for CISA to monitor MDM on social media?

19 A I'm not a lawyer. If in the support of critical infrastructure our lawyers

20 indicated that it was an allowable and permissible activity, I can understand it, but --

21 Q Who was the head of the Office of Chief Counsel in 2020?

22 A I don't recall. I don't recall.

23 Q What about in 2022?

24 A I don't remember who exactly had -- not to over-volunteer, but Dan

25 Sutherland was at some point the head of our Office of General Counsel. I don't know

1 when Dan left.

2 Q Setting aside any discussions specific to, you know, legal authorities and

3 limitations coming out of that, do you recall any discussions about sensitivities related to

4 the public's reaction regarding what actions -- let me rephrase that question.

5 When considering options CISA could take to support its mission, do you recall

6 there being discussions about how the public would react to finding out about CISA's

7 actions?

8 A I don't recall conversations about the public's reactions. This document

9 describes potentially an external participant discussing some mini sensitivities.

10 Q But to your recollection, you don't recall anyone at CISA discussing those 11 factors?

12 A I don't recall.

13 Q As it's discussed in these meetings and elsewhere, the external advisors had

14 the opportunity to draft recommendations to CISA. Did you play any role in the drafting 15 or review process before those recommendations were finalized?

16 A I don't recall a role in that. I was a participant in the meetings where they

17 would be discussed, but those were put forward by the external individuals to the full

18 committee.

19 Q Did you brief Director Easterly ever on what was being discussed in this -- in 20 these subcommittee meetings or the recommendations themselves?

21 A I don't recall any briefings. It would not be unheard of to brief the director

22 on the activities of my team and myself.

23 [redacted] And we can take these back.

24 This will be exhibit 7. This is one of the pages of the meeting minutes. We will

25 get you the full meeting minutes at the next break.

[Hale Exhibit No. 7

was marked for identification.]

[redacted] Will your questions be limited to the first page?

[redacted] Yeah.

[redacted] Okay. Just to clarify, this is the second page of the meeting minutes. So page 1 is missing, and I don't know what subsequent pages there may be.

I think if you need the full document, just let him know.

Mr. Hale. Okay.

[redacted] So I want to call your attention to the first two kind of sub-bullet points that both address comments that you reported as making.

Independent of whether it's specific to the meeting on April 29th, 2022, or just more generally, do you recall any discussion with personnel at CISA regarding if there were limitations that the Agency faced with respect to countering politically charged narratives?

Mr. Hale. CISA operates in a nonpartisan manner. And so I'm not aware of any policy or guidance, but it would not be our practice to get involved in any political matters.

[redacted] The next sentence in that same bullet point says, "Dr. Starbird recommended that CISA develop a publicized list of what types of claims they will issue a response to."

Regardless of whether you remember or if this was even said in the April 29th, 2022, meeting, are you aware of any efforts within CISA to develop a list of what types of claims CISA would issue a response to?

Mr. Hale. I am not aware of any efforts within CISA to develop a list of what type of claims we will issue a response to.

1 [redacted] We can take these back.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Are you familiar with the Election Integrity Partnership?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And just at a high level, what is your understanding of what EIP is?

6 A My understanding, EIP is a private entity made up of the Stanford Internet

7 Observatory, the University of Washington, and two private sector entities who analyzed

8 the information environment in 2020.

9 Q Do you know who -- excuse me. Do you know who Alex Stamos is?

10 A Yes.

11 Q When did you, as part of your role at CISA, first meet or have interactions

12 with Alex Stamos?

13 A Likely in the spring of 2020, spring or summer.

14 Q And was it in connection with EIP?

15 A My understanding is EIP did not exist until the fall of 2020.

16 Q Do you recall what spurred your initial interactions with Alex Stamos?

17 A I don't exactly recall.

18 Q What about generally?

19 A Understanding that the Stanford Internet Observatory is a body of expertise

20 in foreign influence operations and what occurs on the internet, engaging them seemed

21 appropriate.

22 Q Are you familiar with EIP's work in the lead-up to the 2020 election?

23 A Generally.

24 Q Is it your understanding that what the EIP was doing, could that type of work

25 have been done by CISA?

1 A Can you clarify your question?
2 Q Sure. Let me take a step back.
3 What is your understanding of what the EIP was doing in the lead-up to the 2020
4 election?
5 A EIP was a coalition of unique expertise across academia and the private 6 sector, and they would research and analyze the information environment and share their 7 analysis with social media platforms.
8 Q In addition to sharing their analysis with social media platforms, is it your 9 understanding whether the EIP was flagging specific pieces of content to social media
10 platforms?
11 A So that'd be consistent with sharing their analysis, yes.
12 Q As part of sharing their analysis, would they share recommendations on 13 what action social media platforms should take?
14 A I don't know.
15 Q Is that type of -- let me strike that question.
16 Could CISA have done the same type of work as far as sharing analysis with social
17 media companies?
18 A CISA does not conduct analysis on social media platforms or content on 19 social media platforms. CISA has broad information sharing.
20 Q Does CISA not do that because it's resource-intensive or because it's legally
21 not authorized? What's the reason?
22 A I don't know. I wouldn't speculate.
23 Q Could CISA provide recommendations to social media companies on what 24 content moderation enforcement actions the platform should take?
25 A That is not something that CISA would do.

1 Q Are you familiar with the software program Jira?

2 A Generally as a, like, program management program.

3 Q What about with respect to the EIP's use of it?

4 A I'm not specifically aware of EIP's implementation or use. But

5 understanding it as a ticketing and general program management tool, I understand that

6 much.

7 Q Okay. For interactions between CISA and the EIP, whether it's briefings or

8 meetings or whatever else, do you recall who the primary point of contact at CISA was for 9 these types of engagements?

10 A Can you clarify what type of engagements?

11 Q Sure. So from -- let me rephrase the question differently.

12 From the summer of 2020 until election of 2020, who at CISA was most frequently

13 interacting with the EIP?

14 A I don't know most frequently. I would think it's a responsibility of at a 15 leadership level of [redacted] and myself and others, yeah.

16 Q In addition to [redacted] and yourself, was there anyone else?

17 A Engagement with Stanford Internet Observatory or University of Washington

18 or the coalition of the made-up EIP could have included Bryan Scully or members of the 19 MDM team.

20 Q What was the purpose of meetings between the EIP and CISA in the fall of 21 2020?

22 A Pardon?

23 [redacted] And just to clarify, there were actually any meetings in the 24 first instance.

25 [redacted] Well, sure, we'll take a step back.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q To your understanding, were there meetings between CISA and the EIP in

3 the summer and fall of 2020?

4 A There were meetings with EIP or the private preceding organizations in the 5 summer of 2020.

6 Q And to your understanding, what was the purpose of those meetings?

7 A I'm aware of at least one meeting where the Stanford Internet Observatory

8 briefed their intent to establish EIP.

9 Q Do you recall if CISA was generally supportive or not of what Stanford was 10 proposing?

11 A I don't know that CISA took a overall perspective. You'd have to ask CISA

12 leadership.

13 Q Who at -- would be the best one to contact -- when you mean CISA

14 leadership, who are you referring to?

15 A At the time that would have been Director Krebs.

16 Q During the fall of 2020, CISA was engaged in switchboarding still. Is that

17 right?

18 A Correct.

19 Q Do you recall if there was any discussion of overlap between CISA's efforts in 20 switchboarding and the EIP's efforts in providing analysis to social media companies?

21 A I recall one instance where Twitter indicated that they were receiving

22 duplicative reporting from multiple organizations.

23 Q Do you remember who from Twitter --

24 A I do not.

25 Q -- flagged that concern?

1 Do you recall if it was flagged to you directly or to someone else at CISA?

2 A I don't recall that either.

3 Q Do you recall if the concern was addressed in any way?

4 A I think we had a discussion of whether -- of who should receive that. I think

5 the request included that can CISA be the primary reporter. I don't know that we took

6 any action to resolve duplication.

7 Q When you say we discussed, who are you referring to by "we"?

8 A That the -- Twitter indicated they were receiving duplicative reporting from

9 EIP, CISA, and occasionally CIS. There was a discussion of whether that could be

10 reduced or made or optimized, and I don't think we took any action to do so.

11 Q Do you recall who from CISA participated in that discussion?

12 A I do not.

13 Mr. Hale. Can I do a time check?

14 [redacted] Yeah, we've got about 5 minutes left.

15 Mr. Hale. Okay. Yeah, I can make that. I do have to use the restroom at 16 some point, but the 5 minutes is fine.

17 [redacted] Great.

18 This will be exhibit 8.

19 [Hale Exhibit No. 8

20 was marked for identification.]

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q On Bates No. 474, which is the second page of this document, there's an

23 email from CIS addressed to Brian and EIP. And then there's also a number of email

24 addresses it's sent to, including one with the Facebook email domain, CISA, and then an

25 email domain reading 2020partnership.atlassian.net.

1 For that email address, the Atlassian one, are you familiar with who's associated
2 with that email address?
3 A I understand that to be EIP.
4 Q At the time in the fall of 2020, were you generally aware whether CIS was
5 sending information simultaneously to CISA and to EIP?
6 A I see this as CIS is sending information to the platform with CISA and EIP
7 made aware.
8 Q At the time in the fall of 2020, were you aware of this?
9 A I don't know exactly, but it's consistent with my understanding.
10 Q And at the time, were you aware that CIS was one of the external
11 stakeholders -- I think they referred to it -- involved with the EIP?
12 A I was aware of a connection between CIS and EIP.
13 Q The email is sent to Brian Scully. There are then two CISA -- or one CISA
14 and then one DHS email addresses, the first part of which is redacted.
15 Are you familiar with a CISA Central email address?
16 A Yes. Yes.
17 Q Who has access to that email?
18 A I don't know individual names that have access to it. That is a portion of 19 CISA that's overseen by our Integrated Operations Division.
20 Q Do you have access to that email address?
21 A No.
22 Q If you'd turn to the first page, Bates No. 473, there's a slightly different set of 23 redactions. But there's CISA Central with the domain name cisa.dhs.gov that we were 24 just discussing. Then there's a CFITF. There's a redaction, but it's at hq.dhs.gov.
25 For that CFITF email address, are you familiar with who has or had access to that

email?

A Generally, yes.

Q And to your understanding, who is that?

A Members of the CFITF within CISA.

Q Did you have access to this email at any point?

A No.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[Recess.]

[1:47 p.m.]

[redacted] We can go back on the record.

[redacted] Before we get into our questioning, I just want to note for the record that what was entered as Hale Exhibit No. 6, which is the 3/17/2022 CISA Cybersecurity Advisory Committee meeting minutes, we went back and checked during the break. The highlighting is not in the original document. It looks like there's also a page at the end of the document that was left off of this.

And then, of course, the Hale Exhibit 7, which is the April 29th, 2022, meeting notes is missing, I think, three pages total. Thanks.

BY [redacted]

Q During the last hour, we talked a lot about CISA's interactions with various nongovernmental organizations, before we get more into detail, could you just briefly -- you mentioned that many election officials, which non-Federal Government organizations but also other groups, might give CISA information.

Can you talk generally about what the relationship was between CISA and various election stakeholders?

A So in establishing election infrastructure as critical infrastructure, we've had to build a community of partnerships on the election security mission. So this could include anyone involved in the infrastructure side or -- so your election officials, your vendors, your voting system vendors, your -- all of those components.

This could involve associations, the Association of Election Officials (Election Center), the National Association of State Election Directors, the National Association of Secretaries of State, the International Organization of Government Officials, iGO.

We've had engagements with partisan organizations in a nonpartisan manner where we're engaging with the DNC and the RNC with Presidential campaigns as part of 1 threat briefings.

2 There's a huge environment of people that touch this space in some capacity.

3 Q And you mentioned some of that includes CISA briefing those organizations.

4 How else does CISA engage with these stakeholders?

5 A We are in an information-sharing environment. So we could be receiving

6 information from some of the stakeholders, helping to -- one of the benefits of CISA is

7 that we kind of sit at the nexus of a lot of communities: all the critical infrastructure

8 sectors, cybersecurity community, physical security community. We have partners in 9 law enforcement, partners in the intelligence community.

10 It really helps to hone a picture that we can inform risk guidance to all of our

11 partners.

12 Q Talking more specifically about CIS, the Center for Internet Security, do you

13 remember those conversations from the last hour?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Can you describe what the relationship is between CISA and CIS?

16 A So CIS is an independent organization that CISA funds through a series of 17 cooperative agreements to do particular tasks in maintaining and sustaining the

18 Multi-State Information Sharing and Analysis Center and the Election Infrastructure

19 Information Sharing and Analysis Center.

20 That work focuses on computer network defense, on sharing of cyber indicators

21 and cyber threat information for those communities.

22 Q What are cyber indicators?

23 A Those are a variety of either signature-based or information tells that might

24 tell a -- that may indicate and alert a community of security practitioners to look for

25 particular vulnerabilities, targeted information, a tactic, a technique, a procedure, that

1 may help them to better advance their security posture on the front end or detect
2 compromise on the back end.
3 Q Are CIS employees CISA employees?
4 A No.
5 Q Do CISA employees do the operational work of CIS?
6 A No.
7 Q And has CISA ever had a cooperative agreement with the Center for Internet
8 Security related to disinformation?
9 A No.
10 [redacted] On the question of CISA, whether -- sorry. Strike that. Withdraw.
11 You said that CIS employees are not CISA employees, correct?
12 Mr. Hale. Correct.
13 [redacted] Does CISA have any management or supervisory role over CIS
14 employees?
15 Mr. Hale. No.
16 [redacted] Thank you.
17 BY [redacted]
18 Q There have been allegations that, during the 2020 election, CISA funded and 19 utilized CIS for the purpose of having social media companies moderate content. Is that 20 allegation accurate?
21 A That is not accurate.
22 Q Why not?
23 A CISA does not -- CISA's interaction with CIS focuses on the cooperative
24 agreement. The scope of the cooperative agreement is about the cybersecurity
25 indicators and support that they provide to communities. The engagements with the

1 other portions of CIS is as CISA would engage any other external nongovernmental
2 organization.
3 Q There have been allegations that, during the 2020 election, EI-ISAC
4 facilitated attempts to censor core political speech. Do you think those allegations are 5 accurate?
6 A I do not.
7 Q Why not?
8 A EI-ISAC passing along information reporting to and really, rather, CIS passing 9 along information reporting from their stakeholder set to social media platforms or 10 whomever, to better inform the decisionmaking process of those social media platforms
11 or whoever, would undertake on their own according to their own terms of service.
12 Q And does CISA run the EI-ISAC?
13 A No.
14 Q Does CISA manage or oversee the operations of the EI-ISAC?
15 A No.
16 Q To your knowledge, during the 2020 election, did CIS or the EI-ISAC have 17 employees engaged in monitoring social media for election-related disinformation?
18 A I don't know.
19 Q And you don't know that because CISA wasn't involved in those operations?
20 A Correct.
21 Q We also discussed the Misinformation Reporting Portal. Do you remember
22 those questions?
23 A Yes.
24 Q You said you weren't familiar with the portal. You were just familiar with 25 an email address. Is that right?

1 A Correct.

2 Q Are you aware that a portal was proposed at any point?

3 A I'm aware of an email address.

4 Q Okay.

5 A I'm unclear what a portal would mean in this context.

6 Q Okay. Did CISA help set up that email address?

7 A Not to my knowledge.

8 Q Did CISA think that that email address -- propose that email address to CIS?

9 A Not to my knowledge.

10 Q This email address was set up independently by the Center for Internet

11 Security?

12 A Correct.

13 Q You were also asked some questions about CISA's involvement with the 14 Election Integrity Partnership. Do you remember those?

15 A Uh-huh.

16 Q CISA did not found, fund, or have any role in the management or operations

17 of the EIP. Is that right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q There's been an allegation that the EIP was thoroughly intertwined with 20 CISA. Is that accurate?

21 A Not to my understanding.

22 Q Why not?

23 A We were not involved with the management, the organization, the founding,

24 the funding, the establishment, or the operations of EIP.

25 Q There's been an allegation that CISA aided EIP in the process of reporting

1 undesirable election-related speech to social media platforms. Is that an accurate
2 characterization of CISA's interactions with the EIP?
3 A I don't understand what that accusation refers to, but it's not accurate to my
4 understanding.
5 Q To your knowledge, did CISA flag content for the EIP for the purpose of 6 having social media companies delete that content?
7 A No.
8 Q To your knowledge, did the EIP report back to CISA about social media
9 companies' actions on specific pieces of content?
10 A Not particularly, not to my knowledge.
11 Q There have been allegations that EIP was established to fill the gap in the 12 government's ability to police disinformation. Have you heard that allegation?
13 A I have.
14 Q To your knowledge, is that accurate?
15 A That is not accurate.
16 Q Why not?
17 A EIP was independently established and was serving their own mission
18 independently of CISA according to their interests and partnerships that they had.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q If you had to quantify it, just ballpark number, how many interactions do you
21 think you had with EIP personally?
22 A Me, personally?
23 Q Uh-huh. Less than a dozen?
24 A Less than a dozen.
25 Q Less than ten? Less than five?

1 A Personally interacting with EIP? Yes, less than five.
2 Q More than one.
3 A Yes.
4 Q And you said that you had talked with the -- I want to make it clear, because
5 I think you had said that you had had conversations with Stanford Internet Observatory,
6 but that was earlier on in 2020 before the EIP was established, correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Did you play any role in establishing the EIP?
9 A No.
10 Q Do you recall if you had any conversations about establishing the EIP?
11 A Stanford Internet Observatory explained to us their intent to establish the 12 EIP.
13 Q Uh-huh.
14 A We were not in the decision gate. We're not -- we're not crafting or 15 approving any of that. It was -- but we were made aware of what they were building,
16 yeah.
17 Q And would you describe that conversation as having been purely 18 informational in nature?
19 A Yes.
20 Q Okay. Once EIP was established, to the best of your knowledge, did
21 anybody at CISA play any kind of management or supervisory role over the EIP's
22 operations?
23 A No.
24 Q Okay. And you said that your contacts with EIP were somewhere between 25 one and five. Was it your impression that even though you weren't interacting with EIP,

1 those on your team were with frequency?

2 A There were individuals who had greater communications with EIP. But at 3 my level in the 2020 cycle, it was around a handful.

4 Q Okay. And the individuals that had greater communications, do you think it

5 was, like, a daily communication, or do you think it was more informational in nature?

6 A I don't know.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q You were also asked a few questions about Jira tickets. Do you recall those

9 questions?

10 A Yes.

11 Q You explained a little bit earlier. Generally, Jira is a commercially available

12 project management software. Is that right?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Were you involved with the Jira database that was used by the EIP?

15 A No.

16 Q Could you see Jira tickets that the EIP created?

17 A No, I could not.

18 Q You mentioned that your engagement with the EIP and the Stanford Internet

19 Observatory was similar to the engagement that CISA does with other stakeholders. Is 20 that right?

21 A Uh-huh.

22 Q Is that a yes?

23 A Yes.

24 Q Okay. Could you explain generally what that engagement with 25 stakeholders looks like?

1 A So CISA has a robust array of partnerships that all premise on voluntary
2 partnerships and information-sharing arrangements in order to better understand threat
3 pictures and develop risk guidance for broader risk issues, be it protection of schools,
4 election infrastructure, dams and water, all aspects of day-to-day life.
5 Q Is it valuable for CISA to have those engagements with external stakeholders
6 and do that information sharing?
7 A Absolutely.
8 Q What kinds of useful information does CISA get from these partnerships?
9 A CISA is never going to be the resident expert on absolutely every topic. So 10 being able to engage academia, private sector, security companies to understand and 11 contextualize their learned experience helps develop better guidance out to the public or 12 better guidance out to our critical infrastructure partners.
13 Q Does CISA -- you said CISA doesn't -- will never be the resident expert. Is it
14 fair to say that CISA doesn't have the capacity to do independent research on all of these 15 security areas?
16 A For the breadth of CISA's mission, we will always benefit from having 17 external partners.
18 Q And CISA doesn't conduct disinformation research independently.
19 A Correct.
20 Q Earlier you were asked if CISA analyzes content, and you said CISA does not 21 analyze content. Is that right?
22 A CISA does not analyze social media content.
23 Q And that's because that's not part of CISA's mission.
24 A Correct.
25 [redacted] And just to be clear, when you say analyze social media content, what

1 does that mean to you?

2 Mr. Hale. We are not operationally taking social media content and determining

3 what is mis-, dis-, or malinformation for a period, yeah.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q When you worked at NPPD, CISA's predecessor organization, did NPPD also

6 interact with election stakeholders in this way?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And when you worked in the election security mission, before there was a

9 formal task force, were interactions with stakeholders also important in that -- at that

10 time?

11 A Yes.

12 Q We talked about the CISA Cybersecurity Advisory Committee. Do you

13 remember that?

14 A Uh-huh. Yes.

15 Q Could you explain again what your understanding of the purpose of that 16 advisory committee is?

17 A So the -- I know there's formal documentation on the web. So it's probably

18 the more authoritative source. My understanding is that the Cybersecurity Advisory

19 Committee is a formalized body of external advisors charged with developing

20 recommendations, in particular, CISA mission areas, for how CISA can perform this

21 activity in future years. Those recommendations would be made public and provided to 22 the director, as are the director's responses to those.

23 Q And you mentioned the advisory committee considers multiple of CISA's

24 mission areas. Is that right?

25 A Yes.

1 Q So today we talked about the MDM subcommittee, but there are also other
2 subcommittees that address other CISA mission areas. Is that right?
3 A Correct.
4 Q The MDM subcommittee is just the one that was most relevant to your work.
5 A Correct.
6 Q Are you aware that the MDM subcommittee submitted a report to the 7 director on June 22nd of 2022?
8 A I'm generally aware. I wouldn't have known the date, yeah.
9 [redacted] It's to the CISA director.
10 Mr. Hale. Yeah.
11 [redacted] We'll introduce that report -- not going to make you try to 12 remember it -- as exhibit --
13 [redacted] I think we're on 9.
14 [redacted] Nine.
15 [Hale Exhibit No. 9
16 was marked for identification.]
17 [redacted] I'll give you a moment to review.
18 Mr. Hale. Is that an alarm?
19 [redacted] That is like a cart going up and down the hallway.
20 Mr. Hale. Okay.
21 [redacted] And the beeps that you hear going off are calls to the floor for 22 Members.
23 Mr. Hale. Okay. You're less unnerved by it than I am.
24 [redacted] We had a witness once that said, Should we be leaving the room?
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Had you seen this report before?

2 A I believe this is the report provided publicly, but I don't remember seeing the

3 document in its totality.

4 Q Are you familiar with the contents of the document?

5 A Largely.

6 Q Okay. I want to start by looking at the fourth paragraph of the introduction

7 on the very first page.

8 It reads, "The First Amendment of the Constitution limits the government's ability

9 to abridge or interfere with the free speech rights of American citizens. The First

10 Amendment and freedom of speech are critical underpinnings to our society and

11 democracy. These recommendations are specifically designed to protect critical

12 functions from the risks of MD, while being sensitive to and appreciating the 13 government's limited role with respect to the regulation or restriction of speech."

14 Did I read that right?

15 A Yes.

16 Q MD, in your understanding, that refers to mis- and disinformation. Is that

17 right?

18 A That's correct.

19 Q You were not a member of the subcommittee, correct?

20 A I was not -- certainly not an external member of this. I was on these 21 meetings as supporting staff.

22 Q Based on your understanding of the meetings, did the subcommittee make

23 its recommendations with the protection of First Amendment in mind?

24 A Absolutely.

25 Q Do you believe that the subcommittee's recommendations respect

1 individuals' First Amendment rights?

2 A I believe so.

3 Q Based on your understanding, do any of the subcommittee's

4 recommendations involve having CISA censor information such as working to remove

5 content or accounts?

6 A I am not aware of any recommendations that would fit that description.

1 [2:10 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay. On the second page of the report, the subcommittee describes

4 certain mis- and disinformation risks on which CISA should focus in that first bullet.

5 And then in the second bullet, it starts, "In this work, CISA's activities should be

6 similar to the Agency's actions to detect, warn about, and mitigate other threats to critical

7 functions (e.g., cybersecurity threats)."

8 Do you have an understanding of what that means?

9 A I do.

10 Q Could you explain?

11 A A lot of CISA's work is about issuing public guidance on or tailored guidance

12 to particular communities about known cyber threats, activity alerts of foreign

13 adversaries attempting to target particular vulnerabilities or particular sectors, and

14 helping to ensure that those communities are better postured to defend against, respond,

15 and recover from any malicious activity.

16 Q And you said that applies to a lot of CISA's work across sectors. Is that

17 right?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And so is it fair that this recommendation says that that work should be 20 similar to the work in the election space -- or in the, sorry, disinformation space?

21 A I read this as suggesting that CISA's work in addressing the risk of mis- and

22 disinformation, this external body is suggesting that this could fit in a similar manner as

23 the agency's activities to address cyber threats where we're providing information that

24 detects, warns about, and mitigates adversarial activity.

25 Q The next, the little sub bullet under that, says, "The initial recommendations

1 focus primarily on mis- and disinformation, MD, about election procedures and election
2 results. In the elections context, false information about when, where, and how to vote
3 can disenfranchise voters and the proliferation of false and misleading claims about 4 election processes can reduce confidence in results."
5 This kind of mis- and disinformation about when, where, and how to vote is 6 sometimes referred to as time, place, and manner disinformation. Is that right?
7 A That's correct.
8 Q And that refers to factually inaccurate information, like telling voters to go to 9 the wrong precinct or vote on the wrong day. Is that right?
10 A That's correct.
11 Q Why is that such a big threat to elections?
12 A The ability to impact the and limit a legitimate voter's desire to cast a ballot
13 as intended has detrimental impact on the belief of the integrity in the election.
14 Q And when time, place, or manner disinformation arises, that can actually be 15 a law enforcement issue. Is that right?
16 A Absolutely.
17 Q So if CISA learns about that, they might forward it to the FBI, like the case of 18 the voter intimidation emails that we discussed?
19 A That's correct.
20 Q I'm not going to ask any more specifics about the specific recommendations, 21 but overall were there recommendations in this document that CISA should remove 22 content from the internet?
23 A I'm not aware of any.
24 Q And these recommendations were provided by an external body of experts.
25 Is that right?

1 A That's correct.

2 Q CISA did not decide or formulate any of these recommendations?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q CISA staff was at these meetings simply to support?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And facilitate?

7 A Correct.

8 Q There has been an allegation that the CISA Cybersecurity Advisory

9 Committee's Subcommittee on Misinformation and Disinformation recommended that

10 CISA be placed in a situation to be an arbiter of truth and detect mis- and disinformation.

11 Is that accurate?

12 A I'm not aware of the allegation that you're referring to.

13 Q Do you think it's accurate that the subcommittee recommended that CISA

14 should be the arbiter of truth?

15 A No.

16 Q Why not?

17 A The recommendations that I see are about pushing out information and 18 educating more broadly in a manner that's consistent with CISA's overarching authorities.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q A couple questions, turning back to what were marked as exhibit 6 and

21 exhibit 7. And I want to start with exhibit 6. That's the, again, the March 17th,

22 2022 -- or, I'm sorry, it's the March 15th, 2022, meeting notes. It was attached to an

23 email dated March 17th, 2022.

24 I want to return to -- one, two, three -- under "Discussion," where it says, "Dr. Kate

25 Starbird." It's the second large bullet point under "Discussion" on that second page, and

1 then the -- one, two, three -- third sub bullet. It's, "Response: Monitoring, identifying,
2 and addressing specific MDM threats." Do you see where it says that?
3 A Yes.
4 Q I just want to be clear, in the sub bullet -- or the bullet that heads this section
5 off, that begins, "Dr. Kate Starbird," it says, "Dr. Kate Starbird, Associate Professor, Human 6 Centered Design & Engineering, University of Washington, MDM Subcommittee Chair,
7 provided an overview of the agenda, then began a discussion of four potential dimensions
8 of CISA's MDM mission. The dimensions included," and then there's a list of four, right?
9 A Correct.
10 Q So it specifically says in that larger bullet that this was just a discussion of 11 potential dimensions, correct?
12 A Correct.
13 Q This is not -- these weren't actually any steps that CISA was taking. It was a 14 discussion about steps that CISA might or might not take.
15 A This is a -- you're correct -- this is a discussion of what the working group, the 16 subcommittee group might recommend --
17 Q Might recommend.
18 A -- to CISA as potential dimensions of the mission.
19 Q Thank you.
20 And on the note of recommendations, these are recommendations -- what 21 ultimately turned into the report to the Director that we just walked through -- those 22 were recommendations made to the Director of CISA, correct?
23 A That's correct.
24 Q And the CISA Director was free to accept them or to reject them, correct?
25 A That's correct.

1 Q Turning to exhibit 7, which is the April 29th, 2022, meeting notes.

2 In the prior hour the majority asked you about what's sub bullet one underneath

3 the second larger bullet. So it's, "Mr. Hale commented that it would be appropriate to

4 ask CISA to sponsor, fund, or be the requirements-holder for a potential longitudinal

5 study on," I think that's supposed to be, "on the measure of the effectiveness of certain

6 mitigations."

7 Did I read that right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Okay. In that bullet, that was just a comment that it would be appropriate,

10 not that CISA was or was not going to take that step, correct?

11 A Correct. The subcommittee is able to recommend whatever the 12 subcommittee came to agreement on.

13 Q And with respect to what the actual suggestion was here, this was just 14 recommending a possible study, not actual action, but a study, a research study, correct?

15 A Absolutely.

16 Q Okay. Thank you. We can move on.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q In your opinion, do foreign actors have a motivation to attempt to interfere

19 in the 2024 election?

20 A Yes.

21 Q At a general and unclassified level, could you describe what their

22 motivations might be and, if you can, who those actors might be?

23 A The recent intelligence community assessment described at minimum the 24 top three adversaries of Russia, China, Iran. It also described different -- a collaboration

25 of different and emerging nations that may take an interest in wanting to shape U.S.

policy, increase division, weaken democracy, et cetera.

Q You said a recent IC assessment. Do you know which one?

A So there are -- there's the Homeland Threat Assessment, and then there's the unclassified assessment, intelligence community assessment released in December from --

[redacted] December of 2022?

Mr. Hale. Released in December 2023.

[redacted] Or 2023, sorry.

Mr. Hale. Yes, correct.

BY [redacted]

Q In your opinion, would it be problematic if the Federal Government is unable to do work to counteract those foreign influence efforts?

A I think that the Federal Government should be postured to support Americans addressing risks from nation-state adversaries.

Q Why do you think that the Federal Government should be postured in that way?

A I have not seen local governments or the public resourced in a way to combat a motivated adversary like Russia, China, or Iran.

Q And speaking of local governments, local and State governments, we talked a lot about CISA's engagement with stakeholders like State and local election officials.

Do you broadly interact with State and local election officials often?

A I do.

Q Have you broadly heard that there have been increasing threats to State and local election officials?

A I have.

1 Q What have you heard about generally?

2 A Many election officials describe an increased environment where they are

3 facing online threats, threats of violence delivered through the mail, threats against their

4 staff, their polling locations, accusations of malfeasance, the -- I covered threats.

5 Yeah, general harassment that's making their job difficult to retain people to

6 conduct the election, making it feel unsafe to perform their job, and pushing people out

7 of the community.

8 Q Generally, are State and local election officials -- who are they? Are they 9 full time? Are they experts? Like who makes up that population?

10 A It varies wildly. But often people get into elections from another career,

11 and they will be -- the demographic of election workers is typically over 60,

12 predominantly female. The election officials -- the chief election officials themselves are 13 often elected officials.

14 So it varies. But none of them really get there from a defense against physical

15 threats perspective.

16 Q Is it fair to say that election officials, poll workers, and others involved in

17 administering elections have faced more threats in recent years than they have, say,

18 earlier in your career?

19 A That's my understanding.

20 Q Do you know what contributes to that?

21 A I understand that a belief that a secure election was insecure is a motivating

22 factor for people to question the role of election officials.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q And to put a finer point on that, are you saying that the rumors or

25 discussions about the 2020 election having been not secure have instigated additional threats against election workers today?

A I wouldn't limit it to simply the 2020 election. But, yes, activity undermining the integrity of the roles and the function that they serve seems to be a catalytic aspect to physical threats.

Q And in your position as an expert on election security, is it your opinion that the 2020 election was secure?

A Yes.

Q Thank you.

BY [redacted]

Q Are you familiar with reports that this increased threat environment has deterred people and made them less willing to serve as election workers?

A Absolutely.

Q Can that have an effect on the security of our election infrastructure?

A Absolutely.

Q Could you explain why?

A The lack of resources, including the personnel resources to conduct and administer the election, would have fewer people able to detect, fewer people overseeing the control -- the security controls in place to implement safeguards. And so resourcing in general and the willingness to operate in a hostile environment can be a very detrimental impact to the ability to conduct elections securely.

Q Are you familiar that members of academia who study disinformation are facing increased threats?

A To a certain extent, yeah.

Q Do you have an understanding of what kinds of threats those individuals are facing?

1 A Not personally, no.

2 Q Your name has been in the public eye because of this investigation and other

3 investigations. Is that right?

4 A To an extent.

5 Q For example, you've been named in reports published by this committee and

6 you've been named in litigation?

7 A Correct.

8 Q Has that had an effect on your life?

9 A It has. It heightens the personal awareness of security practices for myself

10 and my family.

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q In the very beginning, I think as part of your -- the example you gave of, I

13 think perhaps malinformation, you mentioned that that would be something like putting

14 the -- posting the Director's address online.

15 Was that an actual reference to an event that had happened?

16 A There have been multiple doxxing attempts where actually Iran, through the 17 Enemies of the People website, posted several CISA employees, to include the Executive

18 Director, posted their home address, their cell phone, their personal email to incite them

19 as targets.

20 We saw this, something similar, not attributed to Iran, I don't know whomever,

21 but the activity of swatting and targeting individuals in public service. The Director had

22 a personal experience last month -- or now it's February, so it was December.

23 Q And these are examples of -- the information was true, the Director's -- it

24 was the Director's actual home address, I think?

25 A Uh-huh. Yes. Sorry.

1 Q But it was being posted publicly online by Iran?

2 A So in the specific Enemies of the People example, yes, the Director, [redacted]

3 [redacted], the Executive Director there, as well as several others, including election

4 officials or other Federal employees involved in the election security space, had their

5 accurate home address, their accurate email, and their accurate cell phone or home

6 phone published online.

7 Q And it was for a malintent, for a bad intent?

8 A The intent of being on a page called Enemies of the People seems consistent

9 with that.

10 Q Do you know -- and realizing we're in an unclassified setting -- do you know

11 the motivation for that posting?

12 A It has not been made explicit, but it's consistent to seeming that Iran wanted

13 to put that information out there for the purpose of enabling a heightened threat

14 environment for those individuals.

15 Q So to increase risks against or threats against those individuals. Is that fair

16 to say?

17 A It's consistent, yes.

18 Q Okay. Thank you.

19 [redacted] We can go off the record.

20 [Recess.]

21 [redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?

22 [Hale Exhibit No. 10

23 was marked for identification.]

24 [redacted] Just at the outset, wanted to introduce, we'll just make this a new

25 exhibit to make it easier. This will be exhibit 10. This is the full meeting notes and

1 associated email chain with it.

2 We don't have any additional follow-up questions, but wanted to give the witness

3 and counsel an opportunity to review if there's --

4 [redacted] To be clear, this is the full of the exhibit 7, this one?

5 [redacted] Yes. Yeah.

6 [redacted] Thank you.

7 [redacted] There's highlighting on the last page. Do you know if it's 8 the original?

9 [redacted] I think the highlighting was made by one of the committee staff.

10 [redacted] Okay.

11 [redacted] That's our understanding.

12 [redacted] Thanks.

13 [redacted] So we will reach out if that's not the case. But like I said, we don't 14 have any further questions, but wanted to give counsel an opportunity.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Do you know who [redacted] is, if I'm pronouncing his last name

17 correctly?

18 A I do.

19 Q What is [redacted]'s role or what's his connection to CISA?

20 A [redacted] is a CISA employee who was for a time detailed to the MDM

21 branch or Countering Foreign Influence Task Force. I forget -- I haven't figured out

22 where it is in that timeframe.

23 Q And where was he coming from when he was detailed to the MDM team?

24 A I believe he was an ISD employee, Infrastructure Security. He's currently a 25 Cybersecurity Division employee.

1 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?

2 A No.

3 Q Do you know who Suzanne Spaulding is?

4 A Suzanne Spaulding?

5 Q Yeah.

6 A Yes.

7 Q Who is she?

8 A Suzanne Spaulding was the Under Secretary for NPPD.

9 Q And did you overlap with her tenure there?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Did you work with her directly?

12 A No. I was a very junior employee at the time.

13 Q Understood.

14 Do you know who Brian de Vallance was, if I'm pronouncing his last name right?

15 A Brian de Vallance?

16 Q De Vallance.

17 A If that's -- if it's the person I think, we're talking about an individual at CIS.

18 Q Okay. Are you familiar at all with his role as DHS Assistant Secretary?

19 A Not particularly, no.

20 Q In the context of the USG-Industry meetings or any of the prep meetings

21 associated with it, do you recall any discussion regarding Hunter Biden's laptop or

22 potential foreign hack-and-leak operations related to it?

23 A That was two questions. I never remember Hunter Biden's laptop being a

24 topic of discussion either in the prep meetings or the USG-Industry Syncs.

25 Q So the second half of the question, I guess, do you recall any meetings,

1 either the USG-Industry meetings or the prep meetings, where there was a discussion of a
2 foreign hack-and-leak operation potentially targeting Hunter Biden?
3 A No.
4 Q Are you familiar with -- or, to your knowledge, has the Countering Foreign
5 Influence Task Force, or then what became the MDM team, worked at all to understand
6 whether some of the tactics we were discussing earlier could be carried out via text
7 message as opposed to social media?
8 A So robocalls is a manner in which some forms of influence campaigns can 9 take place, yes.
10 Q Okay. In addition to robocalls, anything about text messages more
11 generally?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Yeah. And to your understanding, what was the scope of the Countering 14 Foreign Influence Task Force or the MDM team's work as you came to understand tactics
15 used via text message?
16 A So understanding that organizations can deliver inaccurate time, place, and 17 manner information directly to voters is a different dynamic than the one-to-many, that 18 broad social media foreign influence operations can take place, so acknowledging that 19 one-to-one is still a tactic that's actually harder to surface.
20 Q To your knowledge, did individuals on the Countering Foreign Influence Task
21 Force, or the MDM team, do they ever receive examples of these tactics or 22 misinformation being spread via text message?
23 A There may have been examples of election officials raising inaccurate text 24 messages about polling locations or polling times, et cetera, in theirs, and so it would 25 have been -- I know we've received some of those from election officials. It would have

1 been possible that that engages with the MDM team as well as the rest of my ESR team.

2 Q Are you familiar with the Virality Project?

3 A Generally.

4 Q What's your general familiarity of what it is?

5 A I believe that some of the organizations involved with EIP, like Stanford

6 Internet Observatory, upon the conclusion of the 2020 election shifted focus. I don't

7 know who else was involved in the Virality Project.

8 Q To your understanding, did individuals at CISA receive briefings or related

9 communications from Stanford or folks associated with the Virality Project?

10 A It's possible that public reports and briefings were consumed.

11 Q To your understanding, what would be the purpose behind CISA meeting

12 with individuals at the Virality Project?

13 A General awareness of tactics of foreign influence, if they're being surfaced

14 and emerged. But I wouldn't expect anything beyond that.

15 [redacted] And to be clear, are you aware that CISA employees actually

16 met with --

17 Mr. Hale. I am not aware of specifics of CISA employees specifically

18 engaging -- goodness, we couldn't make that harder -- with the Virality Project.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Besides COVID-related misinformation and election-related misinformation,

21 are you aware of any subject areas or topics that tended to be used by some of the same

22 actors, using the tactics we've talked about, to facilitate foreign malign influence

23 operations?

24 A Can I ask a refining question?

25 Q Sure.

1 A Are you asking what other topics does Russia use for foreign influence?

2 Q Yeah, it can be Russia specifically or more broadly just --

3 A So actors like Russia have used several topics, to include targeting the 4 financial sector. They've used chemical security. You may be familiar with the fake

5 instance of a Louisiana chemical plant explosion demonstrating the way you can incite

6 and create an incident that didn't occur and cause people to flee town based off that

7 information.

8 Q At a high level, not getting into any specifics you're not authorized to do so,

9 what's your understanding of foreign states using disinformation as it relates to financial 10 services?

11 A There have been some examples of leverage -- this is difficult to remember,

12 what is classified and what isn't. Generally, this is a topic area where confidence in

13 financial institutions can be undermined for the purposes of foreign adversaries' broader

14 strategic objectives, things like is there money in the ATM, should there be a run on the 15 banks type mindset.

16 Q Do you know who [redacted] at Stanford is?

17 A Not specific.

18 Q Other than the Election Integrity Partnership, as part of your role at CISA

19 have you had any interactions with the Atlantic Council? And that premise -- let me

20 rephrase that as not to overly suggest your personal interactions with EIP.

21 As part of your role at CISA, have you had interactions with the Atlantic Council?

22 Let me start there.

23 A It is possible. I don't recall any specifically.

24 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the Global Disinformation Index?

25 A Only peripherally.

1 Q Have you had interactions with them as part of your role at CISA?

2 A Not to my knowledge.

3 Q Are you familiar with the Center for Countering Digital Hate?

4 A Not specifically.

5 Q Do you recall having any interactions with them as part of your role at CISA?

6 A I do not.

7 Q Are you familiar with the Aspen Institute?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Have you had interactions with them as part of your role at CISA?

10 A I believe I've taken a meeting with them, yes.

11 Q Do you recall what the purpose of that meeting was?

12 A They were briefing on forming of a committee on similar subject matter to 13 election security and disinformation.

14 Q And did that committee actually form?

15 A I don't know.

16 Q Other than that meeting, do you recall any interactions with the Aspen

17 Institute as part of your role at CISA?

18 A I don't.

19 Q Are you familiar with NewsGuard?

20 A It sounds familiar, but not particularly.

21 Q This will be exhibit 11.

22 [Hale Exhibit No. 11

23 was marked for identification.]

24 Mr. Hale. Thank you.

25 [redacted] As far as you believe, is this the full email?

1 [redacted] I believe so.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Have you had a moment to review?

4 A Yes.

5 Q To clarify, you're copied on the initial email. You're not on the email on the 6 top half of the page.

7 Does this refresh your memory at all as far as whether NewsGuard had any further

8 interactions with CISA or another sub agency within DHS?

9 A It does not. I'm familiar with the -- with [redacted] and [redacted]

10 on this email, but no one further.

11 Q What about the NewsGuard personnel?

12 A No, I don't recall.

13 Q Okay. We could take these back.

14 We're going to print copies. It's just the email signature is supposed to be on the 15 back page, but otherwise that's the full email chain.

16 Are you familiar with the court case Missouri v. Biden and that action?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Murthy v. Missouri?

19 To your understanding, has CISA been complying with the court orders that have 20 come out of that case?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Did you or members of your team receive briefings on how your teams

23 would need to comply with the court orders on that case?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Has CISA continued to have similar discussions with social media companies

1 like the USG-Industry meetings in 2023, to your knowledge?

2 A The USG-Industry meetings ended in October of 2022. We have not had

3 similar ones since that point.

4 Q Are you familiar with what content or information shared on CISA's, the 5 MDM team's -- excuse me, the MDM team's website?

6 A Generally, yeah.

7 Q If there are changes to the MDM page, which -- who at CISA would be

8 responsible for handling that?

9 A Our website is maintained by our External Affairs.

10 Q Okay.

11 A Office of External Affairs.

12 Q Would changes to the website be something you would generally be 13 consulted on?

14 A Yes.

15 Q To your understanding, were any changes made last year to CISA's MDM

16 website page to remove references to domestic threat actors?

17 A As part of a broader update to CISA's web page, we did revise CISA's MDM

18 page to focus less on the MDM team and more on the information and the functions that

19 that team performs, so really doing a functional description. None of the changes were 20 contemplated domestic versus foreign, as you asked.

21 Q Who was involved in the decision to change the web page to focus more on 22 the functional aspect of the team?

23 A Office of External Affairs, myself and my team. And then the deliberative

24 process for reviewing and approving includes Counsel, CISA leadership, and other

25 mission-enabling offices.

1 Q Do you recall when discussions first started about what changes, if any, to
2 make to the MDM web page?
3 A I don't recall.
4 Q How long were there discussions for before the change was actually
5 implemented?
6 A I don't recall.
7 Q Do you have a ballpark sense?
8 A So your question suggested when did they originate, when did the tasking -- I
9 don't recall that. I can say that the weeks prior to launch we revised and edited the 10 content to be more consistent with the functional approach that we take on other pages.
11 Q As part of these discussions, do you recall any discussions regarding the 12 desire to avoid -- let me strike that.
13 As part of these discussions, do you recall any mention of whether to remove 14 reference to the word "domestic" in any context?
15 A I don't recall anything like that.
16 Q We've talked about the -- you and your team's ongoing interactions with the 17 Office of the Chief Counsel when necessary.
18 A Yes.
19 Q Do you recall having any disagreements with CISA leadership about the 20 appropriate scope of CISA's mission?
21 A I don't recall. I don't recall specific disagreements with CISA leadership
22 about the scope of the mission.
23 Q Do you recall any discussions generally with personnel at CISA regarding 24 whether there were actions CISA could take with respect to countering speech from 25 foreign actors but not speech from domestic actors?

1 A Can you ask that again?

2 Q Sure. Do you recall any discussions with personnel at CISA regarding

3 actions CISA would be permitted to take in countering speech from foreign actors but not

4 speech from domestic actors?

5 A The framing's a little odd for me on this question. We have worked -- there

6 have been discussions on how to promote resilience to tactics employed by foreign actors

7 or educate in areas that may be susceptible to. I don't consider any of that as

8 countering speech, as the question kind of framed.

9 Q Okay. What about with respect to actions by, you know, in reference to

10 the tactics that CISA is combating, if there were any actions that CISA could take in

11 combating the tactics of foreign actors but could not take in combating the tactics of 12 domestic actors?

13 A I don't recall a discussion like that.

14 Q You mentioned that, to your recollection, it's your understanding that CISA

15 was not taking actions that were speech related.

16 Do you recall receiving any briefings or guidance regarding red lines that 17 personnel at CISA should not cross with respect to mis-, dis-, or malinformation?

18 A Red lines as in constraints and boundaries?

19 Q Yes.

20 A I don't recall specifics, but it would be consistent with any engagement that

21 we have with leadership, with Counsel, with Privacy to reinforce appropriate behaviors

22 and constraints.

23 Q Do you recall any discussions where the discussion of the constraints

24 imposed were originating from First Amendment concerns?

25 A I don't recall specifically, and Counsel would not necessarily have to -- or

1 Privacy or whomever -- would not necessarily have to tell us the originating, their 2 guidance, where it stems from. We work collaboratively with them and receive their 3 feedback in kind.
4 Q We have the back half of the last exhibit, and we'll give this to the court
5 reporter so she has it. This is the full document that was produced to the committee.
6 Do you ever communicate with any one of your contacts with the social media
7 companies via Signal?
8 A No.
9 Q During your time at CISA, have you had interactions with the Executive Office
10 of the President?
11 A Does the NSC fit within it? Yes.
12 Q Have you had any interactions with the Executive Office of the President
13 outside of the NSC?
14 A Individuals from my team at CISA have. I have not personally.
15 Q Who on your team has?
16 A Well, within the election security mission, most notably [redacted],
17 who wasn't on my team but worked closely with it, briefed President Trump on 18 February 14th, 2020, which was a memorable event.
19 [redacted] And I'm just going to remind you, I don't know that you know
20 the context of those discussions, but I don't know that you're in a position to waive --
21 Mr. Hale. Right.
22 [redacted] -- anything that might be protected by executive privilege. I
23 don't know that it is, but I just want to be cautious.
24 [redacted] Other than [redacted], who else from your team are you -- or not
25 that he was on your team, but who else, either on or involved with your team?

1 Mr. Hale. I'm not directly aware of anyone else.

2 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

3 [Discussion off the record.]

4 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q You said that [redacted] briefed President Trump in February 2020.

7 You weren't in that meeting, correct?

8 A I was not.

9 Q So you would have learned about it outside of the meeting?

10 A Correct.

11 Q And you described it as memorable. Why did you say it was memorable?

12 A We don't brief the President often. And shortly following that, the Director

13 of National Intelligence was dismissed.

14 Q And was it your understanding that the Director of National Intelligence was 15 dismissed because of something that had been discussed at the meeting?

16 A I was not in that meeting. As I've been told, that is a possibility, yeah.

17 Q Okay. And who was the Director of National Intelligence at the time?

18 A I want to see -- say -- Director Maguire.

19 [redacted] Thank you.

20 We can go off the record. Thank you.

21 [Whereupon, at 3:00 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

25

1 [redacted] Good morning. This is supposed to be a deposition of former
2 White House official Rob Flaherty to discuss his role in the censorship investigation.
3 Mr. Flaherty is not appearing today based on an instruction from the White House not to 4 appear. The White House's position is that, because White House counsel cannot be in 5 the room along with Mr. Flaherty's personal counsel, they believe our deposition
6 subpoena is invalid and defective. We obviously disagree. We are recording
7 Mr. Flaherty's nonappearance.
8 Before I get into a list of exhibits -- we have 22 exhibits here to add into the 9 record -- I would just like to note that we offered an accommodation to the White House
10 to Mr. Flaherty to get around the concerns that we might ask a question that implicates 11 executive branch interests or prerogatives, and that accommodation was we were willing 12 to have the White House lawyers sit immediately outside the room. And, if any 13 question that Mr. Flaherty was posed caused him concern that he was unable to sort out 14 with his personal counsel, we offered him the ability to pause the deposition, to leave the 15 room, and to go confer with the White House counsel. And we even said they could do
16 that as often as they wanted to. So we are unsure why that type of accommodation
17 doesn't work, as we've made clear that the House deposition regulation does not allow 18 for government counsel to be included in the process.
19 The exhibits we're marking here today, as I mentioned, there are 22: Exhibit 1 is 20 a June 23, 2023, letter, a request from the committee to Mr. Flaherty requesting a 21 voluntary transcribed interview.
22 Exhibit 2 is the response from the White House, dated June 29, 2023.
23 Exhibit 3 is a letter, dated July 7, 2023, from Mr. Flaherty's counsel to Chairman
24 Jordan.
25 Exhibit 4 is a letter from Chairman Jordan back to Mr. Flaherty's counsel, dated

1 September 29, 2023.

2 Exhibit 5 is a letter from Mr. Flaherty's counsel to Chairman Jordan, dated

3 October 13, 2023.

4 And exhibit 6 is a letter, also dated October 13, 2023, from the White House to 5 Chairman Jordan.

6 Exhibit 7 is the signed deposition subpoena and cover letter, dated November 30,

7 2023, as well as the confirmation that the service of the subpoena was accepted by email.

8 Exhibit 8 is the committee's notice of the deposition, dated January 11, 2024.

9 Exhibit 9 is a letter from Chairman Jordan to the White House, dated

10 November 30, 2023.

11 Exhibit 10 is the response from the White House to Chairman Jordan, dated

12 December 15, 2023.

13 Exhibit 11 is another letter from the White House to Chairman Jordan, dated

14 December 22, 2023.

15 Exhibit 12 is a letter from Chairman Jordan to the White House, dated January 2, 16 2024.

17 Exhibit 13 is a letter from the White House to Chairman Jordan, dated January 5, 18 2024.

19 Exhibit 14 is an email from committee staff to the White House staff regarding

20 topics. There's an accommodation. We agreed to provide the list of topics that we

21 wanted to ask Mr. Flaherty about. And, as will be evidenced in exhibit 14 email, dated

22 January 8, 2024, it was a very good-faith effort to identify the topics. It was not -- it was 23 not a small or undetailed list.

24 Exhibit 15 is email from committee staff to Mr. Flaherty's counsel, dated

25 January 11, 2024.

1 Exhibit 16 is a notice of deposition from the committee rescheduled, dated
2 February 12, 2024.
3 [Discussion off the record.]
4 [redacted] Sorry, the -- exhibit 16 is the notice of deposition indicating that the 5 deposition will be rescheduled for today, February 12, 2024.
6 Do we have a date for that?
7 [Discussion off the record.]
8 [redacted] No, the notice of deposition?
9 [redacted]. Yeah. It was on --
10 [redacted] On January 11th?
11 [redacted]. Yes.
12 [redacted] Okay. So the notice of rescheduling it for today, February 12th,
13 was January 11, 2024.
14 Exhibit 17 is the letter from the White House to Chairman Jordan, dated
15 January 22, 2024.
16 Exhibit 18 is a letter back to the White House from Chairman Jordan, dated
17 January 29, 2024.
18 Exhibit 19 is a letter addressing some of the same issues from Andy Slavitt's
19 counsel to Chairman Jordan. Attached to Mr. Slavitt's counsel's letter is a letter from 20 the White House directing Slavitt not to appear. That is dated January 31, 2024.
21 Exhibit 20 is a letter from the White House to Chairman Jordan, dated January 31,
22 2024.
23 Exhibit 21 is a letter from the White House to Chairman Jordan, dated February 9, 24 2024.
25 And the last exhibit is, dated February 9, 2024. It's a letter from Mr. Flaherty's

1 counsel to Chairman Jordan indicating that he would not be appearing here today, on
2 February 12th.
3 [Flaherty Exhibit Nos. 1 through 22
4 were marked for identification.]
5 [redacted] Does the minority have anything they want to add for the record?
6 [redacted]. Sure. We would just like to put on the record that Mr. Flaherty
7 has expressed through his counsel his willingness repeatedly to come here and talk to the 8 committee. He's not here only on the instruction of White House counsel. The 9 primary issue is that he'd like to have the counsel of his choosing here with him, and that 10 includes White House counsel. But he remains willing, should the majority and the 11 White House resolve their disputes, to come whenever the committee would like him.
12 [redacted] And I just want to add that the minority doesn't take a position on 13 the validity of the subpoena, but we do want to note that, in the January 31st letter from 14 the White House, it discusses the topic list provided by the majority, and it notes that 15 several topics directly implicating longstanding executive branch confidentiality interests
16 and constitutional privileges were included in that list, and that the White House 17 explained their concerns about the subpoena and the topic list during a phone call with 18 majority staff on January 9th.
19 Again, we don't take a position, but I do want to make the record clear that the 20 White House does have significant concerns about that topic list, and it sounds like those 21 were expressed at some point.
22 [redacted] Right. And that's why we offered the White House to sit outside
23 the room, and we offered Mr. Flaherty the opportunity to stop the deposition whenever 24 he wanted to to confer with the White House. We even offered to give him a separate 25 office so they're not doing it out in the hallway, but that was not accepted.

1 [redacted] We do know that there is a table in the hallway.

2 [redacted] What's that?

3 [redacted] We do know that there is a table in the hallway.

4 [redacted] Right. They could sit at the table if they wanted to. We could put

5 them in a different office suite as well. So we -- we certainly don't want to make them

6 confer in a public hallway if they don't want to do that.

7 Anything else?

8 [redacted] That's it.

9 [redacted] All right. We'll go off the record. Thank you.

1 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of Nick Clegg. Chairman Jordan has 2 requested this interview as part of the committee's investigation of how and extent to 3 which the executive branch has coerced and colluded with companies and other
4 intermediaries to censor speech.
5 Would the witness please state your name for the record.
6 Mr. Clegg. Nick Clegg.
7 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here
8 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to
9 appear voluntarily.
10 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff. I'll now have
11 everyone else from the committee who's here in the room introduce themselves as well.
12 Chairman Jordan. Chairman Jordan. Ohio-4.
13 [redacted] [redacted] from the House Judiciary, with Ranking Member
14 Nadler's staff.
15 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
16 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
17 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
18 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
19 [redacted] I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we'll
20 follow during today's interview.
21 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 1
22 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period
23 of time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more
24 questions and the interview is over. Typically, we take a short break at the end of each
25 hour, but if you would like to take a break apart from that, please just let us know.

1 As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything we say to
2 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do you
3 understand?
4 Mr. Clegg. Yes, I do.
5 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our best
6 to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just
7 those people on the staff whose turn it is. Please try and speak clearly so the court
8 reporter can understand and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you.
9 It is important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we 10 can help it, and that goes for everybody present at today's interview.
11 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with 12 counsel if they so choose. It's my understanding that you are appearing with counsel.
13 Is that correct?
14 Mr. Clegg. Yes.
15 [redacted] Counsel, please state your names for the record.
16 [redacted]. [redacted], Kirkland and Ellis.
17 [redacted]. [redacted], Kirkland and Ellis.
18 [redacted] Thank you.
19 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner
20 as possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you do not
21 understand one of our questions, please let us know. Our questions will cover a wide
22 range of topics, so if you need clarification at any point, just say so. If you honestly don't 23 know the answer to a question or do not remember, it's best not to guess. Please give 24 us your best recollection, and it's okay to tell us if you learned information from someone
25 else. Just indicate how you came to know the information. If there are things you

1 don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please inform us who, to the best of your
2 knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete answer to the question.
3 You should also understand that although this interview is not under oath, that by
4 law you're required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand
5 that?
6 Mr. Clegg. Yes.
7 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an
8 interview. Do you understand this?
9 Mr. Clegg. Yes.
10 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to 11 criminal prosecution for perjury or making false statements under 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.
12 Do you understand this?
13 Mr. Clegg. Yes.
14 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to
15 today's questions?
16 Mr. Clegg. No.
17 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make a note that the content of what we discuss
18 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this 19 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation. For 20 the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with the court
21 reporter so that they can go in the official transcript. Any copies of those exhibits will be 22 returned to us when we wrap up.
23 That is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the 24 minority would like to add?
25 [redacted] No, thank you. Thank you for being here today. Oh, and we

1 would note for the record that Mr. Gaetz has arrived.

2 [redacted] The clock now reads 10:01. We'll start the first hour of questioning.

3 EXAMINATION

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Sir, can I have you state your full name again for the record, please?

6 A My whole name?

7 Q Yes, sir.

8 A Sir Nicholas William Peter Clegg.

9 Q And what is your current place of employment?

10 A I am president of global affairs at Meta.

11 Q How long have you worked in that role?

12 A In that specific role, since February 2022, but I first joined the company in

13 October 2018.

14 Q And what was your title when you first joined Meta?

15 A Vice president of policy and communications, I think.

16 Q And as a vice president, what were your responsibilities at the high level?

17 A To oversee the company's policies. And that ranges from the policies that

18 we promulgate as a company governing what is and is not allowed on our services, our

19 certain community standards, through to our relationship with legislative bodies,

20 regulatory bodies; our engagement around the world on policy matters, generally; and

21 then, obviously, also how the company organizes itself globally as far as communications

22 is concerned, both outgoing communications and response to the media around the 23 world. And I oversee the various teams that operate in all the jurisdictions around the 24 world that we operate in.

25 Q In your first role as vice president, who did you report to?

1 A To Sheryl Sandberg.

2 Q And how many people reported to you at the time?

3 A Just two -- just the two heads of the policy and the communications teams

4 across the company, yeah.

5 Q And when you started, who was the head of those two teams?

6 A Joel Kaplan was and continues to be the global head of policy for Meta based

7 here in D.C. And the head of communications when I first arrived was someone called

8 [redacted]. That position has changed hands on a couple of occasions since.

9 Q How frequently did you interact with Ms. Sandberg?

10 A Very regularly. On a daily basis, yeah.

11 Q And what about with Mark Zuckerberg?

12 A Pretty frequently too, yeah.

13 Q You said you became president of global affairs in March -- or February

14 of 2022?

15 A Yeah, I think that's right, yeah.

16 Q How did your responsibilities change in that position?

17 A It was just an evolution rather than as a dramatic change. I reported to 18 both Mark Zuckerberg and Sheryl Sandberg, which in a sense was just a reflection of the 19 way we were working anyway. But that was a sort of formal change. And, of course,

20 subsequently, Sheryl Sandberg left, so I sort of took over and continued to oversee, you

21 know, pretty broad range of policy, communications, regulatory, reputational issues for 22 the company.

23 Q In your current role, who directly reports to you?

24 A Joel Kaplan, as mentioned before, global head of policy. The current global

25 head of communications is someone called [redacted] also based here in D.C. And

1 then a lady called [redacted], who runs a team, broadly speaking I think we call it
2 oversees governance issues. And that's most especially related to the creation of the 3 independent oversight board, which is something that I oversaw in recent years. And 4 then I think I have one other direct report who does just lots of sort of -- provides me with 5 sort of personal strategic and policy advice, someone called [redacted].
6 Q When you say you oversee the oversight board, do you mean as it operates
7 today, if I understood you correctly, or the development of it actually?
8 A Yeah, it's an independent body. It's set up independently. It has its own
9 sort of legal footing. We have allocated, irreversibly, if I can put it like that, I don't know
10 how much now, but several hundred million dollars to guarantee its financial 11 independence to. But the oversight board was established. It was initially an idea.
12 But Mark Zuckerberg developed, I think around the time that I arrived, but he then asked
13 me to help get it going. And it consists of a wide range of sort of independent-minded
14 figures drawn from scholars, from law, from publishing.
15 We have a former European prime minister. We have a Nobel Prize winner.
16 And there are three co-chairs. One is [redacted], who's an accomplished U.S.
17 judicial legal scholar. The second one is a Colombian lady, [redacted] -- I've forgotten her
18 second name. And the third is [redacted], former Prime Minister of 19 Denmark. And their job is, as constituted, is to oversee or relatively respond to appeals
20 made to them either directly by users or refer to them by the company where we make 21 policy judgments on whether a piece of content should or should not be allowed on our 22 platform. And if -- they can then look at those appeals, and we are then duty-bound,
23 obliged to abide by their decision, by their adjudication. So if they say you've taken 24 something down which you shouldn't have done, we have to restore it and vice versa.
25 Yeah.

1 Q When you say you're duty-bound, is that based off the commitment the
2 company's made or their legal obligations?
3 A Well, it's the commitment we made when we set up the oversight board,
4 and it's what we've abided by ever since. And I don't think -- I mean, there's some
5 pretty accomplished people on the board. I don't think they'd serve on it if they didn't 6 feel comfortable we would continue to stick to our word of implementing what they 7 decide.
8 Q Are you familiar with the terms "misinformation," "disinformation," and
9 "malinformation"?
10 A Not malinformation, but I am familiar with misinformation, disinformation,
11 yeah.
12 Q Okay. And to your understanding, what's the difference between those 13 two terms, "misinformation" and "disinformation"?
14 A So the way at least we at Meta have traditionally distinguished between the 15 two words is that disinformation refers to the deliberate attempt, usually by setting up
16 networks and fake accounts to try -- usually, not always -- but usually by foreign nefarious 17 actors to try and disrupt or interfere with particular elections, and to generally and very 18 deliberately through the use of a network of fake accounts to spread disinformation
19 almost always for a kind of wider geostrategic or political purpose.
20 Misinformation is, in a sense, a much more elastic concept, because 21 misinformation is a somewhat more subjective category of content. Because it's about 22 whether something is true or not. Is it partly true? Is it missing context? And that is 23 something that we have spent quite some time over the years applying ourselves to.
24 And our principal response to misinformation is that we work through a network
25 of independent fact checkers. I need to check; I think there's about -- they're certainly

1 the largest network of independent fact checkers around the world. I think it's about 70
2 around the world in around 60, 70 languages. I believe in the United States we now
3 have 11 independent fact checkers. And they are entitled to look at basically almost any
4 content on Facebook or on our surfaces, and then apply they're own independent
5 judgment on whether the piece of content in question misses some comment partly false
6 or is completely false. They do that according to a set of principles and practices
7 established by a sort of almost certifying body called the independent fact-checking
8 network.
9 So we only contract with independent fact checkers if they are vetted and certified
10 by the IFCN, so that they have to abide by certain standards of objectivity and rigor, and 11 so on. And then we respond to their determinations depending on what they have said.
12 So if they declare something is outright false, our current practice is that we put a
13 fil -- don't remove it, but we put a filter over the content. And we demote it so the user 14 wouldn't see it as visibly as otherwise would be the case and would have to sort of 15 double-click through the filter.
16 So we view disinformation and misinformation in a sort of qualitatively different
17 sort of context. The former is organized, orchestrated use of fake accounts. The latter 18 is a much, much more often debatable and legitimately debatable question about the 19 veracity, complete or otherwise, of content. We're very anxious to not seek to arrogate
20 to ourselves, out of this, a role of some arbiter of truth. We're a tech company. We're 21 an engineering company. We're not the truth police. And that is why we have relied 22 on these independent fact checkers to make determinations of truth or falsity.
23 Mr. Gaetz. Mr. Clegg, excuse me, that was a really thorough answer. And I
24 highlighted a line. I greatly appreciate it. Can you perhaps educate the committee a 25 little more on how someone becomes one of these 11 independent certified fact checkers

1 in the United States? I know you made reference to it, this certification process, but 2 would you mind educating the committee a little more on that?
3 Mr. Clegg. Yeah, I'm not too close to the sort of granularity of it, but we have
4 relied on this IFCN to be the, I'll put it, the sort of vetting body, the portal, if I can put it
5 like that, through which we will work with fact checkers.
6 Mr. Gaetz. How did you choose them?
7 Mr. Clegg. My understanding is -- but I have some teams who obviously work on 8 this on a day-to-day basis -- is that the independent fact-checking network is widely 9 recognized as the most authoritative venue by which fact-checking practices are -- 10 Mr. Gaetz. By whom?
11 Mr. Clegg. I don't know who oversees the IFCN.
12 Mr. Gaetz. No, I mean who widely recognizes them?
13 Mr. Clegg. I think people in the industry.
14 Mr. Gaetz. In which industry?
15 Mr. Clegg. In the fact-checking and tech industry.
16 Mr. Gaetz. Those are two different industries, right?
17 Mr. Clegg. Yeah.
18 Mr. Gaetz. So what other major tech platforms or tech players, you know, place
19 reliance on this IFCN that gave you confidence that they were correct?
20 Mr. Clegg. You'd have to ask the other companies. But I think it's pretty 21 standard practice for those companies or indeed maybe even publishers who use fact 22 checkers that they tend to look to the IFCN to provide.
23 Mr. Gaetz. I believed you when you said at the end of your very thorough
24 answer that you want to be a tech company, not an arbiter of truth. I guess the 25 committee is somewhat concerned that you're able to delegate that authority --

1 Mr. Clegg. Right.

2 Mr. Gaetz. -- to an entity that is more opaque to us than perhaps you're willing
3 to be, that then the information space in our country is kind of shaped by that. So what
4 could you say to disabuse us of the belief that Meta is like purposely delegating that
5 authority so as to not be responsible for any type of censorship or heavy-handed content
6 moderation?

7 Mr. Clegg. Sure, sure. Yeah. No, I think it's all totally legitimate questions
8 about fact-checking generally. I think the first thing I'd point to is that I believe that if 9 you look at the 11 fact checkers in the United States, they hail from different wings of 10 political opinion. In other words, the fact checkers themselves aren't just only drawn 11 from the left or the right, but you have fact checkers who have close associations with or 12 affiliations with or totally open or kind of are open about their links to either conservative
13 or long conservative publications or viewpoints.

14 What I cannot answer, because I'm just simply not close enough to it, is I can't 15 answer the mechanism and the methodology of the IFCN itself.

16 Chairman Jordan. You don't know if there's any type of like accreditation, formal 17 accreditation, or anything like that, just these 11 entities, fact checkers or -- and then, do
18 you guys do some kind of accrediting or evaluating, or how -- I think that's sort of the 19 question.

20 Mr. Clegg. So my understanding, the IFCN is sort of -- works within the Poynter
21 Institute. That is the institution that set up the IFCN. They accredit --

22 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

23 Mr. Clegg. -- fact checkers as being independent and pursuing a certain sort of 24 minimum standard of rigorous methodology. So that is -- yeah, that is the kind of 25 architecture we have relied upon for some time.

1 Mr. Gaetz. I'm perhaps even more confused. So if they're independent, you
2 don't mean independent from ideology, right? Because it sounds like what you try to do
3 with these 11 fact checkers in the United States is curate them based on ideology that is 4 explicitly diverse politically, right?
5 Mr. Clegg. No, I was just answering the previous question, which is what could I
6 provide -- I think is the way you put it -- what assurance could I provide -- 7 Mr. Gaetz. Right. Well, I guess I'm trying to envision the fact checker. Is the 8 fact checker someone who has an ideology, freely discloses it, and then earns their way 9 onto the team as virtually being from accredited and then fulfilling an ideological need to 10 equally achieve some sort of balance, or is the fact checker someone who is divorced
11 from ideology and purely making, you know, what they hope is an objective
12 determination as to a piece of content?
13 Mr. Clegg. I think it's somewhat different. I think the fact checkers are all
14 expected to -- and that's why they are certified by the IFCN -- to apply objective judgment
15 when they look at content that they are fact-checking. That is separate from, but clearly
16 one needs to be open about this, the fact that they might work in institutions themselves
17 which might have some ideological or political affiliation. But the practice of 18 fact-checking, regardless of the ideological bent or identity of the institutions themselves,
19 should -- and that is the point of the IFCN -- be one which is objective and rigorous.
20 What we cannot control, that no one can control, is what do the fact checkers
21 choose to apply fact-checking to? That is why what in general happens is that the 22 company, Meta, our -- we will enqueue content that we think is eligible for fact-checking
23 and then leave it for the fact checkers to decide whether then apply a fact-check. We 24 don't control whether the fact checker chooses to do so or not or even what content they 25 choose to pick from that line, from that queue to apply fact-check.

1 Mr. Gaetz. So it sounds like one step is the population of the queue.

2 Mr. Clegg. Yeah.

3 Mr. Gaetz. And then a subsequent step is some sort of adjudication of what's in

4 the queue as to why --

5 Mr. Clegg. By the fact checkers.

6 Mr. Gaetz. Yeah. -- what would need to be diminished in its amplification.

7 Mr. Clegg. Right.

8 Mr. Gaetz. Okay. So these 11 fact checkers that are in the United States that 9 you describe as from different wings ideologically, who curates that balance?

10 Mr. Clegg. I think our teams work with the IFCN to make sure that we have

11 sufficient fact checkers in each jurisdiction to try and do a kind of, you know, meaningful

12 job in dealing with the misinformation that is available too. And that, of course,

13 depends --

14 Mr. Gaetz. Which people at Meta, I guess? Are they people who work for you?

15 Is it you?

16 Mr. Clegg. Yeah. Yeah, I have a team within the content policy team led by a

17 lady called [redacted]. And they, under Joel Kaplan, who I mentioned earlier in the 18 introductory remarks, they will on a constant basis -- or rolling basis around the world

19 sort of review whether we have sufficient coverage for fact checkers in one jurisdiction

20 compared to the next. And, you know, it's worth remembering that --

21 Mr. Gaetz. Do you monitor that or does that occur at levels below you?

22 Mr. Clegg. It occurs levels below me. I wouldn't interfere with or get 23 particularly involved with the micromanagement of the appointment of fact checkers.

24 Mr. Gaetz. So are you aware of what the turnover rate is among these 11 fact

25 checkers?

1 Mr. Clegg. No, I wouldn't -- if I'd asked, I could find out. But, I mean, I
2 would -- you know, I will sometimes ask questions about whether our fact checkers are,
3 you know, operating as they should, in X or Y or said jurisdiction, often by the way in 4 response to questions from policymakers, from the press, and from others around the 5 world.
6 Mr. Gaetz. My follow-up question before I turn it over to counsel. Do you ever
7 worry about delegating fact-checking too much to these fact checkers that have gone
8 through this process?
9 Mr. Clegg. I think the reverse is so much worse. If we were to start arrogating
10 to ourselves a sort of subjective judgment, a Meta judgment about what is true or not
11 true, what is partly false or missing context, I think that is so much worse than the system
12 we've got. Is it perfect? No. No system is perfect. Can you achieve consensus on 13 what is or what is not true and what is or is not, you know, deliberately false or 14 accidentally so? No. It is something which is continually and unendingly debated and,
15 by the way, in very different ways in different jurisdictions. Remember, we, Meta, I
16 think -- I need to check this -- I think about 95 percent of our users are outside the United 17 States. So this is also a very, very false and much debated issue in India, in Brazil, in 18 Europe, and so on.
19 But in answer to your question, do I think the solution to the imperfections is to 20 have a tech company take upon itself more powers to make what are very, very difficult
21 judgments about the veracity or otherwise the content, I think that's almost certainly in 22 almost any configuration worse than the system we have at the moment.
23 Chairman Jordan. Is it fair to say the fact checkers, though, would have an 24 impact on what you decided initially to put in?
25 Mr. Clegg. So we have automated classifiers that look for signs of possible

falsity, and they will then enqueue that content on a sort of automated basis. Can also be done manually, but it more often than not I think happens automatically. And then we leave it entirely up to the fact checkers to decide.

I mean, there are permutations of it, of course. If we feel we must, we can decide to say to fact checkers, you should be aware that X or Y has been enqueued. We leave it to you to decide not on that, so -- but on the whole, the system is such that you have this queue, this constant queue.

I think another relevant fact is that what is enqueued is in part enqueued by our assumptions or our calculations about the likely virality of the content. Because what we don't want to do -- and forgive me, this is quite an important point the way we design it -- is what we don't want to do is spend a lot of time and resources having fact checkers look at content that's only to be seen by three people. So we try and design it. We constantly are finding this such that what is enqueued is content that is likely to be seen by many people on our platform.

Chairman Jordan. Well, I think -- and then I'll turn it back to [redacted] -- but I think we're also concerned about what -- primary concerned about what impact the government had on that company's deciding their decision to put things in the queue.

Mr. Clegg. Right.

[redacted] For the record, [redacted] is present.

[redacted] Hi. [redacted] I'm the chief oversight counsel for the Judiciary Committee Democrats. I'm sorry, another deposition going on.

[redacted] [redacted] oversight counsel for the Judiciary Committee --

[redacted] Sorry. Can you slow down? What's your name again.

[redacted] [redacted] oversight counsel for the Judiciary Committee.

[redacted] [redacted] staff assistant with House Judiciary Committee.

2 Q Do you know who Andy Slavitt is?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And do you know who Rob Flaherty is?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Who are they?

7 A Well, I know who they were when I interacted particularly with Andy Slavitt.

8 He was, as I understood it, brought in to work on a temporary basis -- I think he has a

9 medical background -- to assist the then White House team on the administration's

10 response to the ongoing COVID pandemic. And Rob Flaherty, from my understanding,

11 was, I think, played a role in the White House on some digital matters more generally.

12 Q Do you recall when you first connected with Mr. Slavitt?

13 A Which date?

14 Q Not exactly, but approximately?

15 A I remember he reached out to me just to introduce himself to me and said,

16 can we connect? I said, of course, sure. It must have been earliest in 2021, perhaps.

17 I guess.

18 Q Are you familiar with the Center for Countering Digital Hate?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And to your understanding, what is that?

21 A My understanding is it's an Anglo-American nongovernment organization

22 which campaigns -- at least this is, if I understand, it's own professed mission to highlight

23 hate and polarizing content online, and produces what it calls research to highlight that

24 issue.

25 Q Have you read any of their reports?

1 A I can't claim to have read them cover to cover, but I certainly remember
2 because I have to spend an enormous amount of time discussing it, a report they issued
3 sometime in 2021 with the snappy title. It was "Disinformation Dozen."
4 Q What did you think of their methodology in that report?
5 A I thought it was deeply flawed.
6 Q Why?
7 A It was not remotely an approximation of what actual human beings saw on 8 our surfaces. And the assertion that it made that nearly 12 people produced I think they 9 would claim something like 70 percent of all bad content about COVID struck me then
10 and my teams as wholly implausible. And I think, but I need to check, I think we later
11 did an analysis to show that in truth those 12 individuals, when you counted it against all 12 COVID-related content, I think composed at like 0.05 percent.
13 Q How did you first become aware of this Disinformation Dozen report?
14 A It would either have been through press reports, but I certainly remember 15 that it was consistently cited both in private discussions and in public announcements by 16 the government, by the White House at the time, as evidence of the kind of problem that 17 we were facing and the kind of additional steps that we should take.
18 Q In these private discussions, did you share the company's concerns with 19 methodology in that report?
20 A Yes. Yes, we did, over several months. I think there was -- and, look, I'm 21 not pretending this is straightforward. These social media systems are complex.
22 They're complex engineering entities. So I don't think it would have been fair to assume 23 that outsiders should know exactly how our systems work. And I even remember being 24 somewhat frustrated that my teams were not generating the data and analysis as quickly
25 as I'd hoped to sort of try and disaggregate and sort of analyze these assertions.

1 So I don't -- but I think underlying it, there was definitely misalignment about what
2 data was and wasn't relevant. So, for instance, we ran -- I think it was Carnegie Mellon
3 and another university -- I think maybe Maryland University -- I think we ran the world's 4 largest at the time ongoing survey of how people felt about COVID and the pandemic and 5 so on. Which was, in our view, by far the most scientifically rigorous measurement of 6 public opinion and the shift towards, whether it's vaccination or the pandemic and so on,
7 rather than what we felt were highly partial sort of snapshots based on the output of just
8 12 individuals.
9 So there was a lot of back and forth about what methodology, what data should 10 be, in a sense, the ground truth. It's very difficult to have a discussion if you couldn't 11 first agree what you were trying to measure and was there any consensus.
12 And I think there was also -- we talked earlier about misinformation.
13 Misinformation is -- it's semantically quite an elastic thing. You know, there isn't a
14 perfect, fixed, rigid dictionary definition of it. And I think also there was misalignment
15 about what was misinformation. And then there's a third level of disagreement, if you
16 like, which was and which kind of misinformation should meet a certain test that requires
17 removal. Because, of course, from a social media tech platform's point of view, removal
18 is the ultimate and the harshest sanction you can apply. You're removing content
19 altogether from view.
20 And so we have very particular policies, which we try and publish openly and 21 objectively, about where that threshold of removal is set. And I think it's fair to say 22 there was fairly vigorous disagreement about whether that threshold was set too high or 23 whether it should be set somewhere else.
24 Q Disagreement at the White House?
25 A Yes. There was certainly discussions about whether we were right to

1 either, for instance, label or down rank content -- well, remove it. So I certainly 2 remember conversation saying why you're not removing something, and we would
3 explain why not. So there was quite a bit of discussion about that.
4 But these are -- I have to stress, I think these are certainly in the heat of the 5 moment, you know, global pandemic that no one had anticipated and many just really 6 didn't understand at the time. These are legitimate debates to have.
7 Q Do you know how the White House became aware of the Disinformation
8 Dozen report?
9 A No, I wouldn't know.
10 Q Prior to that report's publication, did you have any familiarity, awareness of 11 the CCDH?
12 A Yeah, I think so. They published a number -- or have published a number of 13 reports. I can't -- because it's, what, 3, 4 years ago. I can't remember the precise 14 chronology of whether I was aware of previous reports or subsequent reports. But I've 15 definitely been aware that that organization, the CCDH, is that the acronym, publishes 16 some numerous reports purporting to contain research, analyzing what goes on not just 17 our platforms, but social media platforms generally.
18 Q To your knowledge, did anyone at Facebook reach out to CCDH following the 19 publication of the disinformation?
20 A Not to my knowledge, no. And I wouldn't have assumed that they -- no,
21 not to my knowledge.
22 Q Do you know Imran Ahmed, founder and CEO?
23 A Do I? No.
24 Q During your meetings with the White House after you'd made connection
25 with Mr. Slavitt, when you're having these discussions about the threshold, were the

1 discussions just about the threshold itself or would they provide specific examples during 2 the meetings?
3 A They would provide specific examples. And as part of a back-and-forth, we
4 would definitely receive questions about, why did you not remove this content, why did
5 you not remove that content? So it wasn't just a generic or general theoretical
6 discussion. It was sometimes quite a granular discussion about specific posts.
7 Q Do you have any examples come to mind?
8 A I definitely remember -- I definitely remember having a discussion about 9 what was, I think by any sort of reasonable viewpoint, basically, a satirical sort of post.
10 It had a picture of Leonardo DiCaprio like sitting on a couch. And it was some kind of 11 slightly, you know, satirical facetious caption about -- this is quite an American piece.
12 You know, it is one of those things when you can claim compensation later for -- I don't 13 know for what. But it was the idea that maybe later in many years' time you'll be able 14 to claim compensation for having taken -- and it sort of showed Leo DiCaprio looking kind 15 of alarmed at an ad being done on television.
16 I do remember -- I do remember that discussion, and I do remember explaining 17 that, in my view, removing something like that, I mean, would be a very significant 18 encroachment on some pretty fundamental principles of free expression. I mean, satire,
19 humor, you know, facetiousness. But I think at that time -- and, again, I didn't -- I
20 understood why things like that would look differently. If you are, as I think in Andy 21 Slavitt's case, if you've got a medical background, then your sole purpose is to try and get
22 into the hands of as many Americans, you know, what he would regard as sort of, you
23 know, more authoritative information about COVID than a facetious post with Leonardo
24 DiCaprio in it.
25 And his job is a different one to mine. His job was to do that. And I just had to

1 explain, yeah. But like my job is also to make sure there was as much free expression
2 within certain limits on our platform. And I think the sort of part of the disagreement is
3 that we try -- and I express "try," because it's never a perfect science, and it's -- you
4 always have some people saying they remove too much content and others saying we're 5 not removing enough -- but we try to basically apply a harm test if we think a piece of 6 content poses clear and real and most especially imminent harm, then we will remove it.
7 As I say, removal is the ultimate sanction that we can apply.
8 And it was just not clear to me that a satirical post could be described as one
9 posing that level of harm. And I explained that to Andy Slavitt, and he, you know, didn't 10 agree.
11 But we have these discussions with so many stakeholders around the world on an 12 almost ongoing basis as to why you're not doing this and why are you doing that. And 13 we just have to consistently try and explain why we set the removal threshold where we 14 do, how we understand harm, how we interpret it, and how we apply it.
15 Mr. Gaetz. Are there elements for how you engage in this harm analysis?
16 Mr. Clegg. So I almost always -- well, do always refer to the team that is expert
17 in this to provide their analysis of whether the harm test has been met.
18 Mr. Gaetz. What is that test?
19 Mr. Clegg. It's whether there is -- whether a post is likely to pose real physical 20 and imminent harm if it would continue to circulate on our platform.
21 Mr. Gaetz. So physical harm is how you define harm? Harm can't be hurt
22 feelings?
23 Mr. Clegg. No, but, of course, physical itself is quite an elastic concept, because 24 if you feel a content is going to lead someone else to then inflict physical harm on 25 someone else, it's an indirect form of harm.

1 Mr. Gaetz. I'm not trying to be pedantic. It's just that people can look at the
2 word "harm" and apply it quite broadly, and we're trying to see if there's a standard
3 application.
4 Mr. Clegg. We try and apply it in a fairly constrained way. Fairly constrained
5 way.
6 Mr. Gaetz. And what are those constraints?
7 Mr. Clegg. As I say, imminence.
8 Mr. Gaetz. Okay.
9 Mr. Clegg. Likelihood, probability. You know, whether it's reasonably probable
10 to do so. And physical harm, but physical harm I think in a slightly broader sense than 11 maybe you might be assuming I mean. I mean, physical harm can be one that is 12 text-based at the time. It can be harm that can be inflicted by one person on another.
13 It can be harm that derives from people's feelings and state of mind.
14 Mr. Gaetz. Thank you.
15 Mr. Clegg. I'm sorry, just in this context which I'm assuming maybe would be 16 helpful, the harm test, of course, is whether -- in the context of a pandemic is whether it
17 can be demonstrated that a post might make it more likely that someone is going to be 18 harmed, die, or be seriously ill than otherwise would be the case. Because, of course,
19 during this period of time, several hundred thousand Americans have lost their lives to 20 the pandemic, and that would be the harm test, the physical aspect of the harm test
21 applied to these things.
22 And to bring it back, I'm assuming that Andy Slavitt thought that a satirical post 23 like that would make it more likely that people would not take a vaccination, therefore 24 that was harm. And I would say, yes, but that doesn't meet our more constrained harm 25 test.

1 Mr. Gaetz. Okay.

5 Q I'd like to introduce exhibit 1. It's an internal Facebook email chain that

6 touched upon the example we're discussing. Would you take time to review it?

7 A Do you still have to go back?

8 Q Yes.

9 A Can I underline?

10 Q Yes. We'll take these copies back at the end and you can mark them up.

11 [redacted] I bet you would like that.

12 There's a link there. Do we need to see what that is, or can you -- is that the 13 Leonardo DiCaprio? I just want to make sure you can see it if you've got it.

14 [Clegg exhibit No. 2.

16 [redacted] Exhibit 2 will be the link that's cited on 53333.

17 [redacted] I'm sorry, what page?

18 [redacted] It's the second page, 53333.

19 Are you ready?

20 [redacted]. You ready?

21 Mr. Clegg. Yeah. Go ahead.

23 Q If I can call your attention to the bottom of the first page, in 32. You sent 24 an email Sunday, April 18th, at 9:07 p.m. You write, "Just got off an hour-long call with 25 Andy Slavitt."

1 First, do you recall this conversation with Mr. Slavitt?

2 A I think I had a few calls with him. So, no. I mean, it's a long time ago.

3 But I -- that I had call on a Sunday evening with him would not surprise me.

4 Q For a call like this, would it typically just be you and Mr. Slavitt on the call?

5 A I think on that occasion it was, which is not necessarily typical, but since he

6 had earlier reached out to me and then sort of urged me to use him as sort of a point of 7 contact on these matters, yeah.

8 Q And was it difficult to have long conversations like this on the weekend?

9 A No. But these were pretty untypical times.

10 Q And do you understand what was the urgency or the reason to substantiate

11 that for the weekend?

12 A Well, as this document shows, we had been urged on multiple occasions by

13 the White House to provide more data. And I think this was the first time that we were

14 sharing, via email from me to Andy Slavitt, new data, which hadn't yet been, as I

15 explained to him, properly vetted and polished, but just to get in front of them our early

16 attempts at providing more data to show what pieces of code or related content were

17 most seen by people on Facebook in the United States. And so, clearly, the 18 conversation was on the back of providing that information to them for the first time.

19 Q As you were discussing before we introduced the exhibits, during this phone

20 call, were there discussions about the threshold of what the company thought was 21 appropriate for removal?

22 A Yes. So as we touched on earlier, it was clearly in that call Andy Slavitt

23 raised this post. And, again, as the middle of this correspondence shows, our test of 24 harm is direct harm. And we didn't feel that this post met that harm threshold, but

25 clearly Andy Slavitt felt that it should have been. And that was just a topic of debate and

1 disagreement.

2 Chairman Jordan. Mr. Clegg, how often did Andy Slavitt call you?

3 Mr. Clegg. Quite frequently.

4 Chairman Jordan. Quite frequently.

5 Mr. Clegg. For a short period of time, is my memory. Although we were in

6 contact quite a lot for a short period of time. He left the White House, I think, within a

7 matter of months. It was not -- it was not over a prolonged period of time, but during

8 that time there was definitely --

9 Chairman Jordan. During the spring of '21, he was calling you a lot?

10 Mr. Clegg. I just -- I'm hesitating about him calling. I think it was often by email

11 or by text. It was as much through those routes.

12 Chairman Jordan. In this hour-long call, did he call you or did you call him?

13 Mr. Clegg. I --

14 Chairman Jordan. Do you remember?

15 Mr. Clegg. -- don't remember. I don't remember who would have made the 16 call. I think clearly we had arranged either by email or by text to speak at that time.

17 But I can't remember who actually made the call.

18 Chairman Jordan. And was it you who made contact with the White House?

19 Mr. Clegg. For that period of time, for that brief period of -- relatively brief

20 period of time, yes.

21 Chairman Jordan. And would you be in contact with him, how often a week in a 22 week's time would be typical?

23 Mr. Clegg. I couldn't -- I think it almost certainly must have varied week by week,

24 but I think on occasions like this, clearly there was a lot of back and forth by email, by

25 phone. And then it would ebb and flow. And then on other occasions I had contact

1 with the Surgeon General. And, of course, my team had ongoing contact with Rob
2 Flaherty, most especially [redacted]. [redacted] works in the Meta U.S. public policy
3 team under Joel Kaplan and was the principal contact with the White House at the time.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q If I can call your attention to the second page of exhibit 1. It's in the middle 6 of your email. You say, "But, in all caps, and then there's a series of bullet points. The 7 third bullet point down, you say, "he," referring to Mr. Slavitt, "was outraged."
8 A Forgive me. May I just make a clarification of what I said earlier. I said 9 earlier -- because, you know, it's really playing my mind is how do you define harm and 10 why did we define that differently. And when I said it was about direct harm, it's about 11 also our view is that the content needs to be explicit. It needs to be explicitly directing 12 people to do things that would be harmful. And I think it was this distinction between 13 explicit direction, if you like, and this which we felt was more indirect that was the subject
14 of the debate or disagreement on this particular post.
15 Q Three bullet points down, you start by saying that Slavitt was outraged. Do
16 you recall him being outraged on multiple phone calls with you?
17 A I mean, they were pretty frank and robust conversations. And I have a lot
18 of frank and robust conversations with a lot of people who don't agree with what Meta
19 does. It's part of my job. I have quite a thick skin. I don't ever take it personally. I
20 understand people have their jobs and have different viewpoints. And I always take 21 their viewpoints in good faith. And I hope they take my counter arguments in good faith 22 too.
23 And I'm just really register, I think for the team, that he felt very strongly about 24 this particular post. I just happen to feel quite strongly equally that it would not have 25 been right for us to remove it. But I -- you know, I occupy a role and I inhabit an

1 environment in which there are strongly held but honestly held disagreements about
2 human speech. It's one of the most complicated things known to human kind, human 3 speech.
4 So it didn't -- you know, yes, he was very animated about this. And, obviously, I
5 think via [redacted], Rob Flaherty, were forceful and vocal in pushing us to do what they 6 deemed to be necessary, as they saw it, to deal with the pandemic at the time. And,
7 yeah, I mean, I don't think -- I don't think anyone was disclosing their strength of feeling.
8 Q Did they use profanity, they being Mr. Slavitt or Mr. Flaherty?
9 A I don't remember Mr. Slavitt using profanity. I think that -- I think Mr.
10 Flaherty might have been a bit more partial to that form of speech. But I honestly, even 11 that doesn't -- I mean, that's just a reflection of how strongly people feel about things.
12 Q There are a couple of instances in these bullet points that refer to YT. Just 13 to clarify, is that in reference to YouTube?
14 A Yes.
15 Q After this conversation with Mr. Slavitt where he seems to suggest that 16 YouTube would have taken it down or taken similar content down, did you or anyone
17 from Facebook reach out to YouTube to see if that was the case?
18 A I am pretty sure I recollect asking the team. They wouldn't have needed to 19 reached out to YouTube. They would have just gone onto YouTube to look for it. And 20 I'm really very sure that it was still on YouTube. That was my recollection.
21 Oh, yeah. Yeah, yeah. Sorry. Thank you. It's right here. I asked the team
22 to check. And I probably need to triple check, but my recollection is the team came 23 back and said it was also running on YouTube.
24 Q So your recollection is that they just independently went and checked
25 YouTube on their own? It wasn't --

1 A Yeah, I wouldn't recognize how they would check, but I seemingly just -- you
2 just can check, you just look for it.
3 Q This is again that same third bullet point. There's the link to exhibit 2 that
4 we passed around. And you said that removing content like that would represent a
5 significant incursion to traditional standards of free expression in the U.S. Is that a
6 reference to the First Amendment?
7 A I'm not a First Amendment scholar. I'm not an American myself or a proud
8 permanent resident here. So I'm not -- I was not going to make claims that I have some 9 great scholarly insight into First Amendment traditions, but it's a tradition I so happen to 10 admire enormously. And I think it's -- I think it's really stood the test of time. And it
11 seemed to me obvious that if Big Tech platforms were to start acting against what was 12 clearly satire, humor, facetiousness online, I mean, it would set a pretty significant 13 precedent. And I think what I probably had uppermost in my mind was, A, the American 14 tradition of free expression and First Amendment-related concepts of free expression.
15 But, also, I think probably what was higher up in my mind is it's just -- it's just not 16 consistent with our community standards. And our community standards in turn may 17 apply globally, but, of course, they're drawn from the culture in which we operate.
18 We're an American company drawing on American traditions of free expression, and 19 that's reflected in our community standards.
20 Q And you're talking to the American White House, so I understand the point
21 about community standards. When you raise this point about the tradition of free
22 expression in the U.S., what was Mr. Slavitt's response specifically to that point?
23 A I don't remember him making -- I don't remember us having a debate about 24 the First Amendment. I think I probably would remember that. I was just always very 25 cognizant of the fact that he had a role. He had a job. His job was to try and play a

1 role as a medical expert to advise the White House about how to navigate the pandemic,
2 and -- oh, sorry. Yes, thank you. Sorry. That he replied the post was directly
3 comparing COVID vaccines to asbestos poisoning in a way which he felt would 4 demonstrably inhibit confidence in COVID vaccines. And that that is what -- and his job
5 was to try and bolster confidence in vaccines, not see confidence in vaccines being 6 undermined.
7 So, yeah, thank you. So that's clearly what his reply was.
8 Mr. Gaetz. If something constitutes debate, does that inform your harm
9 analysis?
10 Mr. Clegg. If we feel something meets our harm test, that kind of -- that's the 11 determining factor for us, not whether it -- not what comes before, after, or whether it's 12 done in a spirit of debate or otherwise.
13 Mr. Gaetz. But what if people wanted to debate the efficacy or harm from 14 vaccines on your platform at this time, would that debate have been permissible?
15 Mr. Clegg. Well, that was very much the subject of a lot of this back-and-forth.
16 Our view was that it was entirely legitimate for people to express misgivings, to have
17 debates, and so on. But the deliberate use of content to try and deliberately misinform 18 people about a vaccine should be subject to fact-checking and the fact checkers that we 19 talked about earlier. And if the posting question could lead to or directly lead to harm,
20 then we would in some very narrow cases remove it. But --

1 [10:58 a.m.]

2 Mr. Gaetz. What if today somebody went on and wanted to debate vaccine

3 injuries or vaccine efficacy, could that debate occur in the absence of --

4 Mr. Clegg. Yeah --

5 Mr. Gaetz. Suppression?

6 Mr. Clegg. -- it could, but of course we don't live in a vacuum, and the context of 7 course changed, which was very difficult for us. You had things like the claims of the 8 origins of the vaccine, for instance.

9 That -- you know, we deferred, wherever we could, to expert opinion. We're a

10 tech company. We're not epidemiologists; we're not patho-pandemic (ph) experts. So

11 we would consult very widely -- and this was something I would repeat to Mr. Slavitt -- we

12 would consult very widely with experts in the medical field, in epidemiology, experts in 13 how misinformation does or doesn't influence human behavior.

14 And a number of things were obvious. Firstly, experts told us repeatedly that

15 removal was not always the smartest thing to do, because if you sweep content under the

16 carpet too much, actually it fosters a sense among some people that they're not being

17 leveled with and that somehow people are trying to hoist their views onto them.

18 And there was a particular --

19 Mr. Gaetz. Do you think that happened here?

20 Mr. Clegg. Well, no, because we didn't remove this kind of content.

21 But the other thing which of course happened was, expert opinion itself changed.

22 Mr. Gaetz. Isn't that a defense of allowing debate to occur?

23 Mr. Clegg. Well, it certainly -- it certainly makes -- so, for instance, there was a

24 short period of time where, I remember, we -- we -- I think we first labeled and then for a

25 short period of time removed claims about the origins of COVID, the so-called, you know,

1 laboratory origins of COVID --

2 Mr. Gaetz. I'm sure you guys regret that now, right?

3 Mr. Clegg. What?

4 Mr. Gaetz. I'm sure you regret that now.

5 Mr. Clegg. Well, the moment expert opinion changed, we then, of course,

6 changed our policy.

7 But, similarly, you will remember, there was a vaccine -- I think it was the Johnson

8 & Johnson vaccine -- where I think in very rare cases there were -- maybe there was a

9 feeling that maybe it might be associated with the development of certain blood clots.

10 So, again, the experts, at one point, I think they withdrew the Johnson & Johnson vaccine.

11 So what I'm trying to --

12 Mr. Gaetz. Let me just [inaudible], because I know our time's coming to an end.

13 These profane-laced discussions you're having about the harm caused, content

14 removal, did you view those as coercive on the part of the White House directed at that?

15 Mr. Clegg. Maybe my skin has just gotten too thick over the years, but it's like,

16 we are constantly, as a -- and my role is global. I was dealing at the time with a whole

17 array of other regulatory policy, content, and controversial issues around the world.

18 People from all walks of life and from all ideological persuasions regularly tell us that

19 they're dissatisfied with what we're doing --

20 Mr. Gaetz. Yeah, but not all of them work at the White House.

21 Mr. Clegg. Not all of them work at the White House. But I try and treat those

22 kind of entreaties, however forcefully and vocally and repeatedly they are expressed, as

23 objectively as I can. And I'm not shy, I'm not a shrinking violet in saying when we think 24 it's wrong and saying that we don't agree with what they're pushing us to do.

25 Mr. Gaetz. What --

1 Mr. Clegg. But I -- but my teams -- I mean, if I may, because this is quite
2 important -- I accept that for my teams it might have felt different.
3 But, at the end of day, the buck stops with me, and I felt that we strove, never
4 perfectly and never -- you know, I'm sure with hindsight one could say we should've done
5 this, we should've done that. But we always strove to try and stick to what we thought
6 was expert advice, even as it shifted, and to certain sort of principles about when we do
7 not remove content.
8 Mr. Jordan. You had numerous contacts with the White House during this 9 timeframe. What percentage of those contacts from the House asked you to take down 10 content?
11 Mr. Clegg. What percentage?
12 Mr. Jordan. What percentage. Was it every single call? Was it most of the 13 calls? What was it?
14 Mr. Clegg. I think it's fair to say that if it was -- it you count also generic, so 15 generic calls to remove more, it was a pretty persistent thing.
16 Mr. Jordan. Okay. So, most of the time, they were calling asking you to take 17 down content.
18 Mr. Clegg. Well, they --
19 Mr. Jordan. Or in an email or contact -- however it worked, they were asking you
20 to take down --
21 Mr. Clegg. I want to be explicit. They were very taken by the data in this CCDH
22 report. That CCDH report was a sort of theme for them of saying --
23 Mr. Jordan. Yeah.
24 Mr. Clegg. -- there are 12 people producing --
25 Mr. Jordan. One more -- because our hour's up, but we have one more question.

1 Was there ever a time when the White House asked you to remove something
2 based on who posted it versus the content itself?
3 Mr. Clegg. No, I don't remember -- I don't remember -- it would -- no. To be 4 fair, it was about the content or, rather, the purported effect of the content that I think
5 motivated this. But --
6 Mr. Jordan. Well, that's a difference. The effect of if it's something that's 7 getting widely shared, widely viewed, and it's by someone well-known, that's different
8 than just basing the decision solely on the content itself.
9 Mr. Clegg. Oh, I see. Well, of course, I am assuming that -- and, in fact, that 10 was enshrined in the Disinformation Dozen report, that they were making claims not just 11 about the content but how widely it was seen.
12 So, yes, I mean, it would be logical, if you have that viewpoint, that you'd be quite 13 focused on how many people are likely to see a piece of content, not just the content 14 itself.
15 Mr. Jordan. But I guess what I'm asking is, was it based on the person who put 16 the content out?
17 I know we're out of time, so --
18 [redacted] If we could just finish the line of questioning, we'll extend the --
19 Mr. Clegg. Yeah.
20 [redacted] We're 2 minutes over.
21 Mr. Clegg. I think the "who" is only relevant because the "who" might shape
22 how many people might see the content. And that, I think, was a focus for them, which 23 was that of course certain people have much wider reach on social media.
24 [redacted] Right.
25 Mr. Clegg. Some people are much more widely known and followed by many

1 people.

2 So -- and, by the way, that's also reflected in the way we treat content. As I said

3 earlier, we will enqueue content for fact checkers in large part based on our assessment

4 of how widely that content is going to be distributed.

5 And so I think marrying together content and how widely that content is likely to

6 be seen, even if you disagree about whether it should be or should not be removed, is a

7 widely shared -- is a widely shared --

8 [redacted] Right.

9 Mr. Clegg. -- which is, by the way, why I was so keen to put proper data in front

10 of my interlocutors in the White House, thus conveying this report to Andy Slavitt.

11 Because that report was the first time that we actually showed them what human beings

12 actually saw --

13 [redacted] Uh-huh.

14 Mr. Clegg. -- actually saw -- rather than handpicking a few pieces of content and 15 making actually rather loose claims about how many people then might see that content

16 subsequently.

17 [redacted] Our time is up. We can go off the record, please.

18 [Recess.]

19 [redacted] Okay. We are back on the record.

20 Mr. Clegg, thank you. It's nice to meet you.

21 EXAMINATION

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q I want to ask you some questions about your background not just because

24 it's, I think, objectively impressive but I think it's relevant to the perspective that you

25 bring to your current position and to your testimony here today.

1 Before you worked at Meta, you had been a public official for nearly 20 years. Is
2 that correct?
3 A Yes.
4 Q And from 1999 to 2004, you were a member of the European Parliament?
5 A Correct.
6 Q And forgive my ignorance, but is that an elected position?
7 A Yes.
8 Q In 2005, you were elected to the United Kingdom Parliament?
9 A Correct.
10 Q And specifically the House of Commons?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And you served in the House of Commons until 2018?
13 A Until 2017.
14 Q Seventeen. Thank you. And at some point, you became the leader of 15 your party?
16 A Correct.
17 Q And in 2010, you became the Deputy Prime Minister of United Kingdom?
18 A Yes.
19 Q And is that the equivalent of the Vice President in the United States here, as 20 much as we can have an equivalency?
21 A As much as we can, yes.
22 Q Thank you.
23 And in 2018, you were knighted for your public service. Is that correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And that's where the "Sir" in your full name comes from?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And so, in your long career as a government official and a world leader, you

3 have some perspective about what demands are made on public officials and what their

4 responsibilities are in times of crisis, correct?

5 A Yeah, I would like to think I have some insight into that. Yeah.

6 Q And when you spoke in the earlier hour about how you could understand

7 where White House officials were coming from, that their job was different than yours,

8 part of that understanding stems from having been a public official for so long. Is that --

9 A Yes.

10 Q -- fair to say?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay.

13 And, as far as you're aware, the individuals you were dealing with at the White

14 House did not have experience with working at a tech company, which you had gained by 15 the time were you dealing with these COVID issues?

16 A I don't know what Rob Flaherty's background was, but I know that Andy

17 Slavitt's was a medical background.

18 Q And because of your experience in global politics, your work at Meta is 19 global, correct? I mean, it's right there in your title.

20 A Oh, yes. Very much so.

21 Q And so you interfaced with governments around the world, fair --

22 A Yes.

23 Q -- to say?

24 A Yes. On an ongoing basis, yeah.

25 Q And your work with policies in the United States is just a fraction of what you

1 deal with --

2 A Correct.

3 Q -- given Meta's scale?

4 A Correct.

5 Q Thank you.

6 A An important, very important fraction, obviously. We're an American

7 company, and it's a hugely important market for us. But it's one of many, many. Yeah.

8 Q And you're aware that, since its earliest days, Meta, which was called

9 Facebook, has always had some form of content moderation policies?

10 A Yes. They have evolved very significantly over time.

11 Q And I imagine they have, as the company and the platform have evolved.

12 A Correct.

13 Q And for the record, I will often be referring to it as "Meta" --

14 A Sure.

15 Q -- when it might technically --

16 A Sure.

17 Q -- have been Facebook, because it's just too complicated to get the 18 transition --

19 A Yeah.

20 Q -- correct.

21 For example, I imagine it has always, or at least for quite some time, been the case

22 that certain conduct has been prohibited -- certain content has been prohibited -- for 23 example, child sexual abuse materials?

24 A Of course. Well, that's illegal, so --

25 Q Right. Exactly. And any other type of illegal content.

1 A Absolutely.

2 Q And Meta has developed policies against other types of content, like

3 harassment?

4 A Correct.

5 Q And hate speech?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Graphic violence?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And misinformation as well?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And can you tell us your understanding of why Meta has those policies?

12 A We try and strike, at a very fundamental level, the following balance:

13 We believe that one of the great benefits of social media is that it hugely

14 facilitates self-expression and the ability to express yourself, to communicate, particularly

15 with family and friends, and to do so, because of the ads-based business model of the 16 platform, to do so for free. So you can be a poor farmer in Bangladesh, you can be a

17 fancy lawyer on Wall Street, you are using Instagram, Facebook, Messenger, WhatsApp

18 on exactly the same basis. And so our whole mission is to facilitate voice.

19 But it's not an untrammeled, it's not an unlimited, it's not an unqualified right to

20 use our platforms to express yourself. And we have, over the years, developed a set of 21 policies, most especially enshrined in something which we call the "community

22 standards," which lay out -- I think it's 21 categories of content. You mentioned some of 23 them, just yourself. So it will be IP fraud, hate speech, bullying and harassment,

24 terrorism content, and so on. And we consult very extensively with external experts on 25 an ongoing basis around the world on those 21 different categories of content.

1 And then we apply different kinds of content moderation depending on the 2 severity of the violation of our community standards. And that ranges from the most 3 severe sanction, which is removal of individual pieces of content -- in other 4 circumstances, by the way, we could also disable whole accounts -- but then there are 5 other measures. We can demote content or label content. And it all depends on the 6 gravity of the content and how many violations are committed and so on.
7 And then, latterly, certainly since I came to the company, we have tried to be, if 8 you like, even more rigorous. Now, alongside our financial results, every 12 weeks, we 9 publish what are independently audited statistics now, audited by EY, of exactly how 10 much content under each of those categories our systems see and act against before
11 anyone reports it to us. So, for instance, in terrorism content, our automated systems
12 have become exceptionally good at identifying ISIS- and Daesh-related content and 13 removing it before anyone sees it.
14 So that's a thumbnail sketch of the, kind of, architecture of our content 15 moderation policies as they have changed and the, kind of, underlying -- the underlying 16 principles that we're trying to abide by.
17 Q And I imagine that part of the reason for prohibiting some of this type of 18 content, like content related to terrorism, comes from a sense of, you know, civic 19 responsibility or moral imperative. You don't want people using your platforms to harm
20 other people, as you described.
21 A Yes. It's important to remember, and it's one of the things that I often have 22 to remind policymakers: Of course we act against content that is illegal, but most of 23 what I have just described is content that is perfectly legal.
24 Q Right.
25 A And that's where it becomes difficult. Because people will often forcefully

1 say -- that criticize us for either not taking action or taking action, they often forget that 2 it's about content that lawmakers have chosen to keep legal.
3 Q To allow.
4 A So we're being asked to make an adjudication, in a sense, which is beyond
5 what the law stipulates.
6 But that's -- that's our right. We don't want people to come on our platform and 7 abuse the freedom of using our platform in a way that is contrary to those rules or 8 contrary to our principles and, also, to be honest, just contrary to the kind of experience
9 we want people to have on the platform, which is a free one but also one which is useful,
10 enjoyable, inspiring, informing.
11 Q And I imagine that if enough of the content that you've chosen to prohibit,
12 the legal content that you've chosen to prohibit, were to proliferate on your platforms,
13 you might lose users or advertisers, because they would find it less useful, informative,
14 that sort of thing.
15 A Um --
16 Q Is that a concern of the company?
17 A Yeah. We try not to -- on content moderation, we try not to -- we try not 18 to make it a sort of commercial calculation, in terms of what advertisers -- I mean, we 19 obviously explain to advertisers what our rules are and explain ourselves if our rules are 20 not being properly enforced, which does happen of course.
21 And we have had occasions where advertisers themselves have chosen to 22 withhold advertising spend on Facebook because they don't feel that we've drawn the 23 line in the right place, particularly on issues like hate speech. And we tend to try and 24 remain pretty methodical and as objective as we can, even when we get those 25 representations from, obviously, very important stakeholders for us, because we're a

1 business, and they -- you know, they sustain our business.

2 So we try not to.

3 We try and -- we have the content policy team that reports to Joel Kaplan and

4 reports to me, run by [redacted]. They run, I think I'm right in saying, every couple

5 of weeks a series of panels or forums where they consult with a wide array of experts

6 from around the world, representing different viewpoints, cultural viewpoints,

7 jurisdictions, and so on, on different aspects of those community standards.

8 And then we publish the minutes of those meetings and explain if those meetings

9 lead to changes, which happens all the time, because language changes.

10 Q And I think you made this -- you said this very articulately earlier. It's not

11 always easy to draw the lines, I imagine, both in drafting the policies and then applying

12 the policies to a particular content that, you know --

13 A I've learned it's nigh impossible to do so in a way which enjoys universal 14 consensus.

15 Q And that was the next point that I was going to make. You can't please

16 everyone with these decisions.

17 A No. No. And I think especially, obviously, in the United States at the 18 moment, there is a very vigorous debate about, you know, the extent or limitations of 19 free expression. And it's one played out in politics, and it's one played out in everyday

20 culture. And we, just given our size and the number of people who use our services, are 21 somewhat in the middle of that.

22 Q And would you say that the company really does its best to attempt to strike

23 the right balance between promoting free expression and combating harmful behavior?

24 A Yeah, of course I think we do our best.

25 Q Yeah.

1 A Do we reach perfection? No. Do we make mistakes? Do we sometimes
2 not enforce our policies as we should? Do we evolve our policies sometimes? We do
3 all of those things.
4 But I have enormous admiration and faith in the teams who work to me that they
5 work very, very diligently, often, you know, under considerable and understandable
6 scrutiny, to try and strike the right balance. And part of my role is to make sure that 7 they continue to have the space to do that. Yeah.
8 Q And you mentioned that it was also part of your role to help oversee the 9 creation of the independent oversight board --
10 A Yes.
11 Q -- correct? And that board exists to help ensure that Meta is striking the 12 right balance, or to attempt?
13 A Yes. And, crucially, to give ordinary people a place where they can go with 14 their complaints about our content moderation.
15 So you can go and appeal to the oversight board, over the heads of Meta, and 16 say -- I'm being silly here, but -- "Meta has removed that post about my cat. I don't 17 agree with their reasoning." We don't, by the way, remove people's content for their 18 cat. But, for want of a better example, they can then go to the oversight board, and the 19 oversight board might then say, "Meta, you are wrong, you shouldn't have removed that 20 post of the cat," and we would then restore that post.
21 So, until we developed the oversight board -- and I'm actually immensely proud
22 that we're the only social media platform to have done this; no one else in the industry
23 has done this -- there just wasn't an independent channel of appeal for the people who 24 use our services.
25 Q And, just to be clear, even though some of the members of the oversight

1 board have a history of government service, nobody is currently a government --
2 A Oh, no, no, no.
3 Q -- official on the oversight board?
4 A No.
5 Q Okay.
6 A No. They're an array of -- I mean, it's all publicly available. They're 7 scholars, former public officials, former editors, former -- you know, they're experts in 8 speech and content moderation. And they're highly independent-minded folk.
9 Q And that leads to my next question. Would you agree that both the folks 10 on your team who are making content moderation decisions and the oversight board are 11 making those decisions without -- you know, regardless of viewpoint of external
12 stakeholders?
13 A Well, they -- in a very narrow sense, of course, they consult with external
14 experts all the time and consult with external stakeholders all the time. But they seek to 15 make decisions, develop policies, and enforce them in as rigorous and, crucially, as 16 transparent a manner as possible.
17 I mean, you know, I've been very keen, at the time I've been at the company, for 18 us -- people can agree or disagree with us -- and, boy, do they, all the time --
19 Q Yes.
20 A -- but I don't want anyone to sort of feel that we're not being really very 21 transparent about where we're trying to draw the line and, indeed, where we get it right
22 and where we get it wrong and how we're held to account by independent bodies like the 23 oversight board.
24 And everybody working in my teams is very much of that same viewpoint.
25 Q I appreciate that. And I just to want to clarify. My question, I think, was

1 not very well worded.

2 What I was trying to get at is, if an external stakeholder, whether it's somebody

3 from a government agency or somebody from a private institution or just an individual

4 user, requests for a piece of content to be removed, the fact that that person has made

5 the request, that's not factored in to Meta's analysis? Meta doesn't say, "Well, this

6 person wants it down, so we have to take it down." Meta makes the decision.

7 A Oh, no, no, we don't take things down just because of the person who's 8 requested it.

9 But, of course, particularly if we get requests or demands or suggestions from 10 public officials, well, we have to respond. We're being asked.

11 But our response is almost always grounded in the following things: Firstly, what

12 does the law say? And, particularly in non-U.S. jurisdictions, the law, of course, is quite,

13 quite different on content moderation. So there are instances where we will respond

14 because basically the law of the land says we should, even though we're not feeling

15 wholly comfortable about it if it was left to our own adjudication. And then, crucially,

16 whether or not the content violates our community standards; and, as I explained earlier,

17 whether -- particularly whether it meets a, sort of, "harm" test, when it comes to 18 removal.

19 And all of those standards are ones that we -- we draw on extensive expertise to 20 try and develop those standards, those definitions. Yeah.

21 And then we'll respond. And we'll respond, you know, without fear or favor.

22 We'll respond, you know, following an analysis of whether we think that particular

23 demand or suggestion merits the action that's being urged upon us.

24 Q Thank you.

25 And that -- well, I'll move on. I forgot what I was just going to follow up on,

1 because that was -- that was very clear.

2 You were asked a bunch of questions in the previous hour about Meta's

3 third-party fact-checking program.

4 A Yes.

5 Q And I wanted to just clarify a few things that we learned from the interviews

6 of some members of your team.

7 Your understanding is that all of Meta's third-party fact checkers must be

8 signatories to the International Fact-Checking Network's Code of Principles --

9 A Yes.

10 Q -- correct? And so they have to agree -- in order to work as a fact checker

11 for Meta, you have to agree to abide by those principles?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And --

14 A That's my understanding.

15 Q That's your understanding. And are you familiar with those principles?

16 A I'm -- not in great detail, but in outline, yes.

17 Q Okay.

18 I'm going to mark this as exhibit 3.

19 [Clegg exhibit No. 3.

20 was marked for identification.]

21 [redacted]. Can you tell me where this is from?

22 [redacted] It's on the International Fact-Checking Network's website.

23 [redacted] There's a hyperlink down at the bottom there.

24 [redacted] It's very small.

25 [redacted] Very small. We can get you a larger printout.

1 [redacted] Yeah. I can email you the link later, if you'd like.

2 [redacted]. I'm trying to -- is this the Code of Principles document, the beginning

3 of that? Or is it --

4 [redacted] I'm sorry?

5 [redacted]. This is the Code of Principles?

6 [redacted] Yes, this is the Code of Principles.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q And Principle #1 is on the third page of the document.

9 And I'll go through this relatively quickly, because I know that you are not --

10 A Should I read it?

11 Q Hmm?

12 A Should I read it?

13 [redacted]. Yes, you shall.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q So the first principle of the IFCN is a "commitment to Non-partisanship and 16 Fairness," correct?

17 A [Nonverbal response.]

18 Q Is that correct?

19 A Yep. That's what it says here, yeah.

20 Q That's what it says here.

21 And it says underneath that that "signatory organizations fact-check claims using

22 the same standard for every fact check. They do not concentrate their fact-checking on

23 any one side. They follow the same process for every fact check and let the evidence

24 dictate the conclusions. Signatories do not advocate or take policy positions on the 25 issues they fact-check."

1 That's what that says, correct?

2 A That's what it says, yep.

3 Q And that's one of the principles that all of Meta's fact checkers must abide 4 by.

5 And I'll go through the others a little more quickly.

6 The second is a "commitment to Standards and Transparency of Sources,"

7 correct?

8 A Uh-huh.

9 Q And what that means in the real world is that, when Meta places a

10 fact-checking label on a piece of content, it will have links to the sources that led to that

11 label so --

12 A Yes.

13 Q -- users can see --

14 A Yes.

15 Q -- why it was fact-checked.

16 And Principle #3, on page 5, is a "commitment to Transparency of Funding &

17 Organization," correct?

18 A Uh-huh.

19 Q And Principle 4 is a "commitment to Standards and Transparency of 20 Methodology."

21 A Uh-huh. Yes.

22 Q So these are commitments that every Meta fact checker has to agree to,

23 correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And would you agree that they're values that the company shares as well?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And you mentioned, by the way, the earlier, a few minutes ago, audits done

3 by EY. Is that a reference to Ernst & Young?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Now, I want to talk specifically about what was the focus of the previous

6 hour, which is Meta's COVID content moderation policies and decisions.

7 From the earliest days of the pandemic, would you say that Meta wanted to 8 ensure that its users had accurate and updated information about COVID-19?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And that was to help its users protect themselves from this new and very,

11 very dangerous disease?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And in order to provide its users with authoritative information about

14 COVID, Meta consulted with public health authorities?

15 A Yes. We did that on an ongoing basis.

16 Q And I believe you referenced in the previous hour -- you talked about the 17 experts you consulted with, and you mentioned the CDC, correct?

18 A Yes, the CDC, yep.

19 Q The World Health Organization?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Sometimes the Department of Health and Human Services --

22 A Yes.

23 Q -- here in the United States?

24 A Yeah.

25 Q And, also, there were private entities as well, like Johns Hopkins?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay.

3 A And multiple health ministries and health officials around the world.

4 Q Around -- and that was going to be my next question. Thank you.

5 A Yeah.

6 Q Now, Meta started doing these consultations specifically about COVID in the 7 early days of 2020.

8 A Uh-huh.

9 Q And throughout 2020, members of Meta's public policy team, in fact, met

10 weekly with the CDC in order to make sure they had up-to-date information.

11 A Yes.

12 Q And that was during the Trump administration.

13 A Yes.

14 Q And Meta had been consulting with public health agencies about different

15 public health issues even before the pandemic. This wasn't --

16 A Yes.

17 Q -- something that just started with COVID.

18 A That's right. It was far more -- I think the level of concentration, of course,

19 took on a particular urgency as the world was engulfed by the pandemic.

20 Q Right. There was no need to meet weekly before --

21 A No, no, no.

22 Q -- the pandemic.

23 A No.

24 Q And once the pandemic started spreading and became worse and worse,

25 Meta, in fact, offered the CDC, I think, millions of dollars in ad credits to help spread its

1 message. Is that correct?

2 A I think that is correct. And other health ministries around the world as

3 well. Yeah.

4 Q Okay. Yes. So that wasn't just --

5 A Yeah.

6 Q -- an effort in the United States.

7 A And, if I may, that's, from my point of view, quite important, because whilst

8 certainly at the time the United States was not a market where WhatsApp was used very

9 widely -- though I think it is now used more widely -- at that time, we found that

10 WhatsApp was an extremely important vehicle by which authoritative information from 11 health ministries and others was made available to millions, billions of people around the 12 world.

13 I only mention that because there was a great deal of work on a global level using

14 different properties that we own -- different services, different apps that we own.

15 Q Right. And you would make different efforts in different countries

16 depending on what platform, what message would be most likely --

17 A Yes.

18 Q -- to reach the most people. Is that --

19 A Yes. And during that phase, in 2020, my recollection is that our

20 measurement of the efficacy of those efforts suggested, certainly in the markets like

21 Brazil or, you know, parts of Europe and elsewhere, that WhatsApp was a particularly

22 important tool to get people, first, information about the coronavirus itself and then, of 23 course, later, to get people timely information about where they could get vaccinated.

24 But that was, of course, much later, when vaccines came on stream.

25 Q Okay.

1 And, actually, that brings me to my next point, which is: Throughout 2020, the
2 focus was on information about the disease itself --
3 A Yeah. Because the vaccines were not --
4 Q -- exactly -- and, then, once the vaccines became available, it shifted more to 5 encouraging people to get information about the vaccine.
6 A Yes. And, of course, as it happens, the vaccines became available almost 7 exactly the time when there was a change of administration here in the United States.
8 So there was just a change of gear, not just here but around the world --
9 Q Uh-huh.
10 A -- where the world was moving from paralysis -- I'll put it like that -- to 11 deployment, to deployment of vaccines. Those are very different -- I mean, they're 12 linked, but they're very different things.
13 Q And is it fair to say that Meta wanted to encourage its users throughout the 14 world to get vaccinated to help end the paralysis?
15 A Well, I want to be careful here. We were not, sort of, taking a medical or 16 epidemiological position ourselves. We were just following the advice of experts.
17 And, in 2020, under the then Trump administration, a huge -- I think it was called 18 the Warp Speed program or something -- a very considerable effort had been launched to 19 accelerate the development of vaccines. And, of course, other emergency measures 20 had been taken during that time.
21 And all of those efforts and others internationally started manifesting themselves
22 in, you know, early viable vaccines, I think -- yeah, I think it was around the turn of the 23 year, actually. Yeah.
24 Q I think you're correct about that.
25 A Yeah.

1 Q And it wasn't until early to mid-2021 that vaccines even became available to
2 the general public --
3 A Yeah, I think that's right.
4 Q -- correct? I mean, in the end of 2020, early 2021, you had to be a public
5 official or somebody --
6 A Yeah, though -- yeah, though I do -- I do remember towards the end of 2020
7 it was obvious that the challenge was going to be how to make reliable -- from our point
8 of view -- make reliable information available to people who want to receive that 9 information about the vaccines.
10 Q And that reliable information included information not just about the effects
11 of the vaccine or the effectiveness about the vaccine but also how and where to get it?
12 A Yes. So I think many millions of people were assisted in getting vaccinated, 13 knowing where to go, where and how, through information that they saw on social 14 media, including our platforms.
15 Q And your platforms got that information primarily in consultation with the 16 experts that you --
17 A Oh, yeah. Totally.
18 Q Yeah.
19 A We didn't -- we wouldn't come up with that information ourselves. It
20 would be all entirely, basically, recycling and linking information to authoritative sources, 21 whether it's the CDC or it's other health ministries around the world, whether it's local 22 health authorities as well.
23 Q And going back to the beginning of the pandemic, Meta adopted a
24 misinformation policy specific to COVID-19 misinformation in the early days --
25 A Yes.

1 Q -- if I --

2 A Yes.

3 Q And, again, that was during the Trump administration.

4 A Yes.

5 Q And, as you explained, the focus of that policy was on removing

6 COVID-related misinformation that could cause imminent physical harm.

7 A Correct.

8 Q So, for example, a post that, you know, drinking bleach could cure the 9 disease, you would not want that to proliferate, because that could cause somebody

10 imminent physical harm.

11 A I don't know whether that claim was removed or whether it was

12 fact-checked. But, you know, hundreds of thousands of Americans were losing their

13 lives through that period of time. And so, as I explained earlier, where there was 14 content that expressly could lead to direct harm, we would remove that.

15 I -- honestly, I don't want to, sort of, be a one-man content moderator here,

16 because these are decisions --

17 Q Fair enough.

18 A -- that are taken by teams --

19 Q Yes.

20 A -- and they're expert teams, and I rely on them, so --

21 Q And I appreciate that. Thank you.

22 And are you aware that, in March 2020 alone, Meta removed -- so, you know, the

23 first month where we were all locked down -- Meta removed hundreds of thousands of 24 pieces of misinformation that it determined could lead to imminent physical harm?

25 A That sounds plausible to me. I don't know the statistics myself, but that

1 sounds plausible, yeah.

2 Q Do you recall [redacted] publishing "An Update on Our Work to Keep People

3 Informed and Limit Misinformation About COVID-19"?

4 [redacted]. Could I ask, if you have that, could you share it with me?

5 [redacted] I do have it, yes.

6 And I believe we're on exhibit 4.

7 [Clegg exhibit No. 4.

8 was marked for identification.]

9 [redacted] And if you'll take a look at this document --

10 [redacted]. Yep, he'll give it a read.

11 [redacted] Yeah. It's been updated several times --

12 [redacted]. Yeah.

13 [redacted] -- over the years. But it basically --

14 Mr. Clegg. Do you want me to stop and go back and read this? Can we just 15 have a minute?

16 [redacted]. Could we just have a minute?

17 [redacted] Sure.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q The statistic I was referring to is on page 5 in the third paragraph. I realize

20 they're not numbered, but --

21 A Okay.

22 Q And so this document reflects that, as early as by April 2020 -- April 16,

23 2020 -- Facebook had removed hundreds of thousands of --

24 A Yes.

25 Q -- pieces of misinformation, and that included harmful claims like drinking

1 bleach.

2 A Yes. As it says here, yeah.

3 Q And Facebook/Meta continued to update this document to inform its users

4 of the steps that it was taking?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And because Meta's COVID misinformation policy is focused on preventing

7 imminent physical harm, the policy is nonpartisan, correct?

8 A It's a harm test. It's not a political test.

9 Q And, therefore, Meta was removing COVID misinformation during the Trump

10 administration and during the Biden administration.

11 A Correct. Yes.

12 Q Now, you were asked about some of your communications with the Biden

13 White House. And do you recall that, before President Biden was inaugurated, you

14 personally reached out to incoming White House staff to express Meta's desire to partner

15 with the incoming White House team --

16 A Yes.

17 Q -- to make a proposal about how Meta could help them fight COVID and help

18 in trying to end the pandemic?

19 A Yes, I do remember that. But, again, it was particularly because, I

20 remember -- because it was obvious that the new administration would have a new

21 challenge ahead of it, which is that the vaccines were coming on stream then. So I was

22 just keen to make the connection and say that, on top of all the work that we'd already

23 done during 2020, we were keen to understand how we could assist, based on expert

24 advice, on the next phase, which was obviously the rollout of the vaccines.

25 Q And I'm going to introduce that email into the record.

1 [Clegg exhibit No. 5.

2 was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q So this is an email from you to four individuals who went on to work at the 5 White House: [redacted], correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q [redacted]?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Oh, maybe three. Sorry. And [redacted]?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And you also CC'ed [redacted] and [redacted] on your team, who you

12 mentioned earlier.

13 A Yes.

14 Q And in this email, from November 22, 2020 -- I'm sorry -- it says, "[redacted],

15 [redacted] and [redacted] Facebook is keenly aware of the tremendous challenge posed by the 16 ongoing pandemic as President-Elect Biden prepares to take office in January."

17 When you said that, do you recall that you were referring to not just the pandemic

18 but, as you discuss, the new challenge of deploying the vaccines and ensuring --

19 A Oh, very much. Yeah.

20 Q -- overcoming vaccine hesitancy?

21 A Well, I'm not sure if that -- it was more just the vaccines were, at that stage,

22 becoming a thing.

23 Q Right.

24 A I mean, it was literally around then that -- I can't remember when the first

25 vaccines were formally authorized, but it was around that time, I think.

1 Q It was. I think it was actually a few weeks later, but it was clear --
2 A Yeah.
3 Q -- that it was going to be happening.
4 And then in your next sentence, you said, "Mark has asked me to communicate
5 our desire to help and partner with the incoming team."
6 A Uh-huh.
7 Q I assume "Mark" is Mark Zuckerberg?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay.
10 So then you said, "Below and attached please consider a proposal for how we 11 believe we can provide meaningful assistance to your efforts." Correct?
12 A [Nonverbal response.]
13 Q And then you said, "And also please consider this an opening to a 14 conversation -- we would appreciate hearing from the team how they believe we could 15 be helpful in addition to what we propose here."
16 A Yes.
17 Q So your relationship with the White House was not one-sided. It was not 18 the White House just calling you, emailing you, reaching out, when they had concerns.
19 Is that --
20 A No.
21 Q -- fair to say?
22 A It takes two to tango. So it was a discussion. You know, obviously, as this 23 demonstrates, in November 2020, but before the administration -- before the 24 President-elect had been inaugurated, we were just keen to make contact and explain
25 some of the things that we would do. Yeah.

1 Q And you wanted to get the new administration's perspective on what more
2 you could do to help.
3 A Yeah. I mean, they are the experts. We were just wanting to inform 4 them of what we'd done hereto; aware of the fact that there was going to be a, really,
5 new challenge, which was related to the vaccine rollout; and just to make a connection
6 and see whether they wanted to take it up or not.
7 Q And they did.
8 A They did. Yes.
9 Q And as you described earlier, in the previous hour, sometimes there were 10 disagreements --
11 A Oh, yeah.
12 Q -- about Meta's policies.
13 A Sure.
14 Q And as you said earlier, even when you disagreed, you understood that the 15 White House had a different role and was coming from a different perspective than Meta.
16 A Of course. We were different entities doing different things. Yeah.
17 Q And it's fair to say that the -- well, did you get the impression that the White
18 House was so passionate about these issues because they saw the issue of the COVID 19 vaccine and ensuring that Americans take the COVID vaccine was a matter of life and 20 death?
21 A Yes, I think over time. Not in November 2020, but in the --
22 Q Yes.
23 A -- following months and in 2021, the scope of the focus of the discussions
24 that we had with the White House became increasingly focused on what they termed 25 "vaccine hesitancy" and the assertions made about the link between content on social

1 media and levels of vaccine hesitancy.

2 And that's -- so, in a sense, the discussion mutated from this to something which

3 became quite a, sort of, consistent drumbeat of a focus on vaccine hesitancy, what was

4 deemed to be COVID-related misinformation, yeah, and disagreements about what was

5 and what wasn't misinformation and what was and what wasn't a purported effect of that

6 misinformation on levels of vaccine hesitancy.

7 And that really became the heart of the disagreement, as you put it, with the

8 White House over time. But, you know, this stretched well into 2021, many months

9 after this initial contact.

10 Q So, just as the information that we had about the disease and the vaccine

11 evolved, the parameters of the White House's concerns and the concerns that Meta had 12 about getting information to its users evolved as well?

13 A Yes. Yes. And to be very precise, I think, in effect, what happened was, as

14 more and more people got vaccinated, more and more of the attention on the part of the 15 administration focused on those who were not vaccinated and questions about why not

16 and then a number of assertions, which is where the disagreement lay, about the role of

17 social media and our platforms in that subcategory of the population -- in other words,

18 the population which had not, at that point, or going forward, availed themselves of being

19 vaccinated.

20 Q And one of the -- you just mentioned that there was an issue about the 21 effect of misinformation.

22 And as 2021 wore on and we started to get into the spring of 2021, one of the

23 issues between the White House and Meta was -- it wasn't just about what content

24 should be removed, but about what data --

25 A Yes.

1 Q -- Meta was willing to provide the White House about the effect of --
2 A Yes.
3 Q -- misinformation.
4 A Yes.
5 Q And the White House expressed to you that it wanted to understand what
6 types of content were feeding or not feeding what they called "vaccine hesitancy."
7 A Yes. This was very much an ongoing debate. We were sort of -- we were 8 trading apples and pears. It was, I remember, at that time, it was -- I think it was 9 frustrating for all sides, because, I mean, Meta could be criticized for many things; we're 10 pretty good at measuring things. It's kind of what an engineering (ph) company does.
11 And we had some pretty sophisticated tools to measure, particularly through this 12 unprecedented cooperation with a number of academic institutions -- Carnegie Mellon,
13 Maryland, and others -- we were able to measure so-called vaccine hesitancy and how it
14 decreased or increased amongst Facebook users and then compare that to authoritative
15 figures on vaccine hesitancy in the general population.
16 And what we found over and over again was that vaccine hesitancy was being
17 reduced much more rapidly amongst Facebook users than it was amongst the general
18 population. And so we kept seeking to try and explain this, and for some reason it
19 wasn't considered -- for one reason or another, it wasn't really considered to be as useful
20 as we felt it clearly was, because it suggested that something was happening on Facebook
21 which was actually reducing vaccine hesitancy more than elsewhere.
22 So I remember that. And then -- I've spoken earlier, but it was important, 23 this -- there was this consistent reliance on so-called third-party research, the 24 Disinformation Dozen, which, especially at the time, really did pretty well collapse under 25 scrutiny. But for quite some time we kept being encouraged, because of the research

1 published by the CCDH, to focus on these 12 entities, which of course we then did.
2 We then looked very carefully at all of their accounts that were up, and we took
3 action on all of them -- on a lot of them. But we didn't -- we clearly -- that was the 4 sentiment over time in those months. And there was a feeling that we could and
5 should -- on the part of the White House, that is -- take further and more extensive action
6 against those 12 individuals.
7 Q The actions that you did take you took because Meta performed its own
8 independent analysis of the content produced by those 12 individuals --
9 A Yes.
10 Q -- and did its own --
11 A Absolutely.
12 Q And then it made its own independent determination of whether to take 13 action against those individuals?
14 A Correct. And then we would explain what action we took, either on a post
15 basis or an account basis or an app-by-app basis. And then, yes, that would constitute 16 quite a lot of back-and-forth of, "Well, we" -- we would say, "We've done X, Y, and Z
17 because you urged us to look at these entities. We've done it for reasons A, B, C
18 because of the violations of our community standards here. But we're not taking action 19 on" --
20 And just to give you an example -- it might be helpful -- we were being urged, for 21 instance, to use what we call in the jargon "off-platform signals" -- in other words, to look
22 at what these 12 individuals were doing, but completely unrelated to Facebook --
23 Q Right.
24 A -- to therefore take action on Facebook. And that's just something, as a
25 matter of very strong principle, we don't do. You know, I hope for obvious reasons, we

1 can't start taking actions against people because they do totally random things in
2 completely other parts of the internet.
3 So we kept going back and explaining, no, we're not going to go as far or as fast as 4 you wish. And that was one reason.
5 But, in answer to your question, we would take those decisions once we'd done an 6 analysis, in this instance, of the presence of those 12 entities on our services.
7 Q And you felt free -- you, individually, and the company in general -- felt free
8 to push back when you felt pushback was appropriate?
9 A Of course. Of course. And we -- we have to do that -- we have to do that 10 all the time. And when we disagree, we're not frightened of saying so.
11 But, of course, we try and also be responsive. We're not an elected entity. If 12 an elected government of any -- any elected government around the world expresses 13 strong sentiment about things, of course we're duty-bound to look into it and be 14 responsive.
15 So we try and be responsive, but, equally, we try and be -- we try to be steadfast
16 and consistent, as well, in what we then say in return.
17 Q And by "responsive," I just want to clarify, what you mean is, you want to get 18 back, you want to --
19 A Correct.
20 Q -- provide a response even if that response is not what --
21 A Oh, yeah.
22 Q -- the requester wants to hear?

1 [12:09 p.m.]

2 Mr. Clegg. Yes. If a government of the day says to us as a private company,
3 here, we've got -- you're making a number of assertions, it would be quite peculiar for us
4 to sit on our hands and say we're not even going to reply. Of course we respond, and 5 we try and respond as fully as we can.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q Did any U.S. Government official ever order Meta to remove the content?

8 A No. But not -- they're not in a position to do so either. They certainly 9 urged us to take down content and pointed out content which they felt should have been 10 removed.

11 Q But that urging did not affect the ultimate determination of whether or not 12 to remove?

13 A All of our determinations were always, in the end, taken by what we felt was 14 consistent with our community standards, the law of the land, and the principles that 15 we -- upon which we operate our -- our content policies.

16 Q You were asked during the earlier hour if you felt that your conversations
17 with Mr. Slavitt in particular were coercive, and I believe your answer was that you had a 18 pretty thick skin.

19 Was that your way of saying, no, you didn't feel that they were coercive?

20 A They were tough conversations. They were intense conversations. It was 21 obvious that we had a very different viewpoint on some key issues, and I was certainly left
22 in absolute no doubt about the strength of feeling from Mr. Slavitt on multiple occasions.
23 I suspect, if you asked him, he'd say that he was left in no doubt that I didn't agree with 24 some of those assertions on multiple occasions.

25 So, yeah, it was an on- -- it was an ongoing disagreement expressed in various

1 different ways in very different formats about roughly the same thing: What is the 2 data? What is misinformation? When should you remove? And just on those three
3 issues, we -- yeah, we were misaligned.
4 Q And to be clear, it was three issues; it wasn't just what you should remove?
5 A Well, that's kind of at the heart of it. Because if you have data which leads 6 you to believe that, by acting just against 12 people, suddenly the -- you know, problem is 7 solved, then, of course, you take a different viewpoint than we did. It's way more
8 complex than just 12 individuals. And if you believe that misinformation is a much wider 9 category of harm than our definition, then, of course, you believe that removal should 10 take place on a wider, wider scale.
11 Q And your relationship with Mr. Slavitt was such that you felt comfortable
12 enough that shortly after he left government service in, I believe it was the spring, that 13 shoulder season of spring/summer of 2021 --
14 A Yeah.
15 Q -- you appeared on his podcast?
16 A Yes, I did.
17 Q And, in fact, you -- you and he discussed your disagreement about the --
18 A Yes.
19 Q -- Leonardo DiCaprio meme that we saw earlier?
20 A Yes. Yes, we did.
21 Q And you joked about it; you laughed about it with him?
22 A I don't know whether I laughed, but we were certainly open about it, yeah.
23 Q Okay. I can represent to you --
24 A Okay. All right.
25 Q -- that you laughed about the disagreement. I believe because you said, I still think we were right?

A Right.

Q And -- and he disagreed?

A Right.

Q Did the White House ever threaten Meta with adverse action -- any kind of adverse consequences if Meta declined to adopt any of its recommendations or do anything that it --

A Sorry. Can you repeat the question?

Q Did anyone at the White House ever issue a threat to Meta? Like, if you don't take this piece of content down or if you don't change your policies, we're going to issue some sort of adverse consequence to you, we're going to sue you, we're going to --

A No. I don't remem- -- don't recall saying you'll be sued, but I do recall quite sort of vague -- it was sort of vague talk, which I think you can find the correspondence about. You know, we're going to look at all -- you know, we're looking at all the options available to us. It was a sort of generic -- it was such a -- I think it was such a strongly held concern that there was sort of generic expressions of, you know, we really are kind of looking at all the options available to us.

And so, no, it wasn't a sort of specific, here's a threat, we're going to do this to you, we're trying to sue you and so on. But there was a sort of general assertion of -- of kind of, you know, they really want to kind of look at all the options available. I think -- I need to recall, but I'm pretty sure there was language from Mr. Flaherty to my team, which was -- which was both very forceful, not elegantly expressed, and -- and kind of -- almost, you know, implying that they were kind of -- look at whatever levers they have available to them to really push us to do what they wanted us to do on this COVID stuff.

1 Q But none of that changed Meta's behavior, correct?

2 A No. No, of course not.

3 Q And I just want to note for the record that that comment about internally

4 considering our options was something that Mr. Slavitt said to [redacted].

5 A Oh, was it? Okay.

6 Q And [redacted] testified here that he did not find that to be coercive or

7 threatening.

8 [redacted] And with that, we close our hour.

9 [redacted]. Can we go off the record?

10 [redacted] Yes.

11 [Recess.]

12 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q So I wanted to pick back up where we were in the first hour on this 15 document. We were looking at the email you sent Sunday, April 18th.

16 The fourth bullet point underneath the -- in the middle of the page, where you

17 start to talk about what Mr. Slavitt brought up towards the end of the conversation.

18 First, do you recall Mr. Slavitt telling you that Facebook employees were leaking to 19 his team disparaging remarks that were allegedly made about him and Mr. Flaherty?

20 A Well, I remember it from this record.

21 [redacted] Can I go back? I'm sorry. I can't find my copy. I'm trying to 22 get my hands on a new one. I'm sorry.

23 [redacted] Okay.

24 Mr. Clegg. Yeah.

25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Did he tell you on the phone call who from Facebook was leaking the
2 information?
3 A No.
4 Q Were you ever -- were you ever able to find out who it was?
5 A No.
6 Q Did he tell you what the disparaging remarks were exactly?
7 A Well, that -- that someone from within Facebook, as he alleged and reflected
8 here in my written comments, that somehow there was a deliberate attempt in Facebook
9 to so-called snow the White House with information and data, and that we were -- in 10 doing so, we were somehow hiding the ball. And that was a repeated theme, certainly I
11 remember, from the interactions between Rob Flaherty and [redacted]. There was a 12 pretty consistent theme of you're not -- you're not coming clean, you're not coming clean,
13 you're not coming clean. So this was very much part of an ongoing pattern that we 14 were being accused of somehow kind of hiding the ball. Yeah.
15 Q Based off the written summary you provided in this email, it sounds like 16 those remarks, about snowing the White House with info data, was coupled with other
17 remarks, including, to use your words, disobliging remarks made about both Mr. Slavitt
18 and Mr. Flaherty, to that other category.
19 Do you recall what those remarks were? Did Mr. Slavitt share that with you?
20 A If he did, I can't remember it now, I'm afraid, no.
21 Q Continuing in the same paragraph, you say, "We then discussed the wider 22 issue of trust, or the lack of it, between Facebook and the Biden team related to the 23 events during the election and beyond."
24 What was Mr. Slavitt referencing?
25 A Oh, I assume -- I mean, there was -- there was quite a prominent narrative at

1 the time that the events of January the 6th were somehow fostered on social media
2 platforms like Facebook. So I think there was -- I mean, this is a matter of public record.
3 There was an assertion made by many observers, many people -- you know, many elected
4 Democrats and others that somehow we had not played a responsible role in the -- in the 5 events leading up to January the 6th.
6 So I think -- I think that's the background. That's what I'm assuming he and I am
7 referring to here. There was just the -- being a -- well, manifestly being a pretty heated
8 set of assertions made at Facebook and -- and still is to this day.
9 Chairman Jordan. That would seem to me to be the beyond, you know, the 10 referencing in that sentence. What's during the election relate to?
11 Mr. Clegg. I -- this is me really now trying to interpret my own -- my own words 3
12 or 4 years after the event. But I strongly suspect that, in keeping with the debate
13 around the events leading up to January the 6th, though, was being a pretty consistent
14 view amongst people on the kind of left or centre-left of American politics that we don't 15 take enough action, we don't censor enough, much. As everybody knows, there's also a 16 counter-view that we censor too much, remove too much content.
17 But that's a -- I think -- I'm sure that's what I'm referring to is that there's a -- that 18 there's been a pretty consistent theme in -- in what people say about the role of social 19 media, democracy, elections, and so on.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q And do you participate in any conversations with the Biden-Harris transition
22 team about whether President Trump's account on Facebook should be suspended?
23 A Prior to the decision?
24 Q Yes.
25 A No. Oh, no, no, no. No, no. We would take -- we took that decision

1 ourselves.

2 Q Were you involved in that decision?

3 A Very much so. It was -- it was a decision I took in the company.

4 Q And were you --

5 A I mean -- sorry. Let me be very clear. Not just capriciously. I mean, it

6 was a decision that I as decision-maker on those things took on behalf of the company

7 following extensive analysis by the teams escalated to me in the appropriate manner.

8 Q Was the decision escalated to Ms. Sandberg or Mr. Zuckerberg?

9 A They were aware of it, but it was a decision that -- it was a decision that lay

10 with me as, principally, the buck sort of stopped with me as the person overseeing and

11 leading the content policy determinations in the company. But they were certainly

12 aware and -- and certainly -- certainly -- of course, a decision like that is hardly taken

13 without discussion, but --

14 Q Who else was involved in the deliberations?

15 A On what?

16 Q Whether to suspend President Trump's account in January of 2021.

17 A In the immediate aftermath of January the 6th?

18 Q Yes.

19 A Oh, I mean, the content policy team led by [redacted], answerable to 20 Joel Kaplan, who, in turn, reports to me very much drove the analysis of whether the

21 pronouncements on our surfaces, on our social media platforms constituted sufficient

22 violations to take -- to take the steps we did. And as you will recall, we then

23 subsequently referred the matter, given the enormity of it and given the significance of it

24 and given the controversy around it, to our independent oversight board who heavily

25 criticized us for not taking it in a proportionate manner. So then we subsequently specified a time period of 2 years, I think it was, during which Donald Trump's account on Facebook was suspended.

So there were several iterations to it, and the final decision was a direct response to the critique from the oversight board that our policies were too opaque and that our actions were not sort of proportionate enough to those policies.

Q And were you the final decision-maker each of these stages?

A Yes. Yes. But as I say, I don't act alone or randomly. I do so supported by multiple teams, obviously, but also legal teams, communications teams, and others involved in this; most especially, of course, for a decision like that, which has the self-evident controversy and rightly scrutiny attached to it.

Q Before January 6th, but from the election until, we'll say January 5th, had the Biden-Harris transition team reached out to Facebook about how Facebook was handling President Trump's Facebook posts regarding the integrity of the election?

A Not that I can recall. Not that I can recall.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[redacted] Yeah. We can go off the record.

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Can we go back on the record, please.

So similar question. Preelection day, Presidential election day in the U.S., are you aware if anyone from the Biden campaign team had reached out to Facebook regarding how Facebook was handling posts from President Trump regarding the integrity of the election?

Mr. Clegg. No, I'm not -- I'm not aware of that. I can't recall that, no.

Chairman Jordan. Just one final -- so, again, Mr. Clegg, we then discussed the wider issue of trust --

1 Mr. Clegg. Uh-huh.

2 Chairman Jordan. -- or lack of it between Facebook and the Biden team related

3 to the events during the election.

4 Your recollection of that is primarily post-election, post-January 5th, as -- as [redacted]

5 was talking about, not actually during the election itself or the days and weeks and

6 whatever leading up to the election?

7 Mr. Clegg. I think what I meant -- but forgive me. I don't want to project a sort

8 of false position about words that I wrote 3 or 4 years ago, but what I think I meant was

9 that I was acutely aware that during the 2020 election there was a very strongly held

10 view, which was almost symmetrically polarized, where one of the campaigns felt that we

11 were being too censorious and too active on content moderation, and the other one -- in

12 this case, the Democrats -- had consistently made it clear that they felt that, in general,

13 we as a company don't either remove or act against content aggressively enough.

14 And that has a long antecedent. It goes right back to the 2016 election, and so I

15 think that's what I was referring to.

16 Chairman Jordan. I get that. I'm just -- I'm just -- that's why I think [redacted] asked

17 the question the way he did. That the Biden team during the election, which would be

18 the Biden campaign, did they -- were they engaged with Facebook about certain things

19 that were being said and done or allowed content permitted, what have you --

20 Mr. Clegg. Right.

21 Chairman Jordan. -- was that dynamic happening?

22 Mr. Clegg. So I want to be as precise as I can here. In keeping with every

23 election cycle, we would have made ourselves available to both campaigns. We do that

24 as a routine practice. We say to both campaigns, these are our rules, this is how they

25 work, and this is what we will do if there are violations in our rules. Of course we do

1 that. And we would have done that to both. So there would have been contact, for
2 sure.
3 Your question was a slightly different one. Do I recall specific overtures or 4 requests about content related to Donald Trump's social media output? And I can't 5 recall me receiving that information. But I haven't dug through the records, and I can't 6 speak for people elsewhere in the organization right here and now.
7 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
8 [redacted] Do you -- with the understanding you don't have a specific 9 recollection, do you generally recall, whether it's [redacted] or someone else, raising
10 concerns, passing along concerns that were communicated to him from the Biden 11 campaign?
12 Mr. Clegg. Generically or about --
13 [redacted] So not that you need to say a specific recollection of a specific post,
14 but generally the issue of, was Facebook censoring or taking a strong enough
15 enforcement action against President Trump's posts?
16 Mr. Clegg. I honestly would need to -- if you're asking me now to ventriloquize
17 for other people on my team for communications I was not party to, I'd honestly have 18 to -- I just can't -- I can't -- I can't provide you with accurate answers without checking.
19 [redacted] This wasn't a topic that we -- you had never requested to produce 20 information on in response to the subpoena, and we haven't done the diligence and it's 21 about 3 or 4 years ago at this point.
22 So, you know, he's told you what he recalls. That doesn't mean that there isn't 23 more out there. We said we were in touch with both campaigns, and they could raise 24 issues about content if they wanted to, but we haven't done a search and review like we 25 have on all these other topics. And so I think we're going to need to leave it here for now.

[redacted] Okay. And just so we're clear on the record, you know, the committee's position might be different than yours on what the subpoena does or doesn't cover, but we'll discuss that in a different forum.

[redacted]. Sure.

[redacted] So this will be, I believe, exhibit 6. This will be exhibit 6.

[Clegg exhibit No. 6.

was marked for identification.]

BY [redacted]

Q It's an email chain -- internal email chain from July of 2021.

A Do I go from the back forward or -- yes.

Okay.

Q For a bit of context, we'd referenced this I think in both previous hours. I'm going to start the questioning on Bates No. 61716. There's an email from you July 22nd at 12:20 a.m.

A Yeah.

Q Also around this time that you had -- I think you had referenced this. The Surgeon General put out on advisory statement on July 15th, 2021. President Biden made a public statement about Facebook killing people, was the day after.

So with that context in mind, first question I want to ask -- it's at the very bottom of Bates No. 61716 -- you say, "By way of context, this is Andy Slavitt's overnight advice."

In July of 2021, was it your understanding that Mr. Slavitt was no longer working at the White House?

Q How long after he left the White House did you start communications with him again?

A I don't know. But as I mentioned in a previous session, I -- I recall I did this publicly, this podcast with him after he left, which I think was, what, the week before maybe?

Q I think our understanding today was -- was July 21st.

A That I did the podcast?

Q Yes.

A Oh, okay.

Q After the --

[redacted] If I could be clear for the record, that's the date it aired. But in the podcast, it --

Mr. Clegg. I think I recall it a few days earlier. But -- but it just -- by way of illustration, clearly, I had contact with him.

And I did so because he was sort of volunteering to provide, as he put it, helpful information to me, given that I'd been in an ongoing discussion with him during his time at the White House, to understand what the White House was after. Because obviously, from my point of view, having the President of the United States say, you know, that we were killing people was a very significant escalation in rhetorical terms of the disagreement that had been obviously rumbling along for quite some months at a sort of private and substantive level.

And so I -- I think what I must have done here -- I assume -- I can't see in these printouts. I assume I must have just literally copy and pasted a text message from those -- those bullet points where he is saying this is -- because ahead of the meeting that [redacted] and I were going to have with the Surgeon General and in view of those events and what the President had said, we -- we -- I think he must have just sort of said, well,

1 this is -- this is how you -- this is what you should expect, which -- which I then relayed to 2 the team.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q So if you could just walk me through. So this email is from July 22nd.
5 Based on public reporting, looks like Mr. Slavitt stepped down from his White House
6 position in early June.
7 Did communications continue at a constant pace as they were while he was still in 8 the White House or was there a pause at some time where you stopped communicating
9 with Mr. Slavitt?
10 A I honestly can't recall. My pretty strong assumption is that after this point
11 it declined quite sharply, but I'm sure we can try and confirm that. But I -- no, I certainly 12 didn't -- you know, in August -- I don't remember in August, September, October of 13 that -- of 2021 having the same level of communication with Andy Slavitt, no, no.
14 My recollection is it was a sort of -- something we sort of extended after his 15 departure for a while, but not -- but not on a permanent or ongoing basis.
16 Q And your discussions -- and we'll just keep it to June and July of 2021 --
17 A Yeah. Okay.
18 Q -- were they only about the same set of issues you were talking about when 19 he was in the White House?
20 A Yeah. It's the same thing over and over again. Didn't agree with the data 21 we were sharing, didn't agree with our definition of misinformation, and didn't feel we 22 were removing enough content.
23 Q And do you know or did he share with you whether the White House
24 approved for him to serve this intermediary role once he had formally left the White
25 House?

1 A I mean, to be fair, I just took it on face value. It was this is someone who
2 had worked within the White House. I had a lot of interactions with him. We clearly
3 were at a pretty -- you know, at an inflection point because of the public rhetoric around
4 us. And he was volunteering to sort of offer help in trying to understand, you know,
5 what my interlocutors ahead of a meeting with the Surgeon General were thinking.
6 Q And when we were looking at the April 2021 email chain, in one of your 7 responses you referred to Mr. Slavitt as your primary point of contact. Those are my 8 words, but is that accurate?
9 A In April?
10 Q In April. Primary point of contact in the White House.
11 A My primary one, yeah. Yeah.
12 Q Once he's formally left the White House, who became your primary point of 13 contact?
14 A Well, I think what I was seeking to do at the time was try and develop 15 a -- you know, a grownup and responsive relationship with the Surgeon General, who,
16 after all, occupies a formal position in -- in the U.S. administration.
17 Q And were you still having communications with personnel in the White
18 House, so not -- not including Mr. Slavitt?
19 A My recollection is, from then forward, the interactions were sparser, more
20 by email, and generally for me with the Surgeon General and his team. Maybe other 21 couple of advisors who -- who would respond. Whereas, of course, [redacted] and my 22 team would continue to have multiple discussions at other levels.
23 Q Do you recall, in July or late June, any conversations that you were having 24 with Mr. Slavitt that were also with personnel in the White House? Or was it always you
25 would communicate with Mr. Slavitt and Mr. Slavitt would communicate to the White House?

A Oh, you mean did I have meetings with -- with them together at the same time?

Q That's right.

A No.

Q There's a reference at a couple points throughout the email chain and then including on -- on the top of the page, if you need to -- you need to just reference it. Just based off your understanding, what is black holing?

A Black holing is a very aggressive move where you sort of -- you literally uproot a whole account and any associated content with it. I mean, it's a -- it's a -- it's a sort of very aggressive way of removing the digital footprint of an account.

Q And was that -- in the summer of 2021, was Facebook considering whether to black hole accounts associated with The Disinformation Dozen?

A That's certainly my understanding from this correspondence. I'm 99 percent sure we didn't do it. I remember [redacted] the head of the team, telling me that she felt it would be unwise. And, you know, most of the time -- most of the time I deferred to the recommendations of the team because they're done in good faith. But I think that's what was being considered, yeah.

Q Do you recall why [redacted] thought it might be unwise?

A It's a somewhat disproportionate measure to take. It's a pretty -- it's a very, very -- I mean, it's here. It's a black hole, 28 of those websites. You're black holing whole websites. This is not -- this is not individual posts. This is whole websites that you're -- that's, you know, 500 million pieces of content. That is a lot.

So it's a -- it's a -- I think -- I'm not -- this is not -- I don't want to put words into the mouth of [redacted]. She would have put it more precisely and technically, but I

1 remember thinking it's kind of like a bit like a sort of a sledgehammer to crack a nut.
2 Q Were you surprised in the summer of 2021 of the staying power of
3 this -- issues, the concerns related to The Disinformation Dozen, which still --
4 A I was, and I -- if I'm honest, I was also slightly frustrated with my own side,
5 because I felt we could have moved -- I wish we could have moved earlier to get data with 6 greater precision about the actual reach of these accounts, and I think we eventually got
7 there. What's the phrase? You know, an untruth goes halfway around the world
8 before -- before the truth -- takes boots -- whatever the phrase is. And I think that 9 certainly applies -- applied here.
10 And I -- I remember having discussions with our chief data scientist, [redacted]
11 and others were pressing people to -- and I think -- also, I remember feeling a little 12 exasperated, even when we had produced this new -- actually, meticulously assembled
13 description of the top hundred COVID-related posts that are actually seen by people, but 14 that just didn't seem to -- you know, we were still being asked about 12 individuals.
15 But I should be really open here. You know, the company has also had to learn
16 how to explain itself better, and we had a tool called CrowdTangle we make available to 17 researchers and others, which is a tool that we bought many years ago, but it's a highly 18 partial description of what actually happens on Facebook. It's only -- I think it only 19 includes engagements, and I think it's a subset of engagements and so on. But I 20 remember saying to my team at the time, like, well, it's no wonder we're being accused of 21 X, because they're deriving that from a tool we ourselves put out there.
22 So I -- I do remem- -- you know, to be fair, I do remember also pushing my team
23 to -- to move faster. But I think the final data, when we had it, demonstrated exactly
24 what I'd always suspected all along, which is these -- the idea of these 12 individuals were 25 producing, you know, the vast majority, it just -- just simply not sustained by the facts at

1 all.

2 Q I'd like to call your attention to Bates No. 61717. It's the last page with text

3 on it. And then the last paragraph. So we've got them numbered, so this is the second

4 paragraph of the 3.

5 First, there's a reference in the middle of the paragraph to "VPVs of content."

6 Do you know what VPV stands for?

7 A It's views per -- what does it mean? It's basically how much something is

8 actually seen. What is the -- it's views per version? Sorry. The acronym -- Meta is

9 stuffed full of acronyms, and I sometimes use them. But it's basically -- it's this key

10 issue -- it's this key issue of what actual -- of eyeballs, what human beings see as opposed

11 to just engage with on a subset of content.

12 Q If I can call your attention to the last sentence in that paragraph, you say,

13 "Given the bigger fish we have to fry with the administration -- data flows, et 14 cetera -- that doesn't seem a great place for us to be."

15 What are you referring to by the bigger fish the company has to fry?

16 A Well, I'm clearly referring to the data -- data flows is -- at the time I was

17 spending a huge amount of my time working on a very technical and legal issue but one

18 that was of great significance to us as a company and actually to the whole of the online

19 economy in the U.S., which is there was legal uncertainty because of a complex set of

20 court rulings in the European Union about the legal basis upon which American

21 companies can transfer data across the Atlantic. This wasn't a Meta-specific thing. It

22 wasn't even about us.

23 It affects every bank, every human resources database, every consulting company,

24 every accountancy. It just called into question because, of course, trillions of bits of 25 data were being transferred across the Atlantic every -- every minute. And actually,

1 it's -- I think, I don't know, I need to check. But I had spent a lot of time on that, mostly
2 in -- in Europe.
3 So I think that was clearly something which was uppermost in my mind at the 4 time. And I guess what I'm just saying almost colloquially there is like, look, there are a
5 whole bunch of things going on in the world. My role is global. And so I just -- you
6 know, I want to try and within, of course -- without -- without conceding on the -- on the 7 issues which we've been going back and forth with the White House, try to work out
8 particularly whether we could provide more data that could -- could -- could just get us on 9 sort of more sort of even keel.
10 So I think my recollection was I was just conscious and almost reminding the team,
11 you know, a bunch of other things going on in the world. And I was -- as I have 12 described earlier, I was quite frustrated, I think, by -- by July of that year that we hadn't 13 made enough progress and just trying to agree on a similar set of facts. You know, we 14 just -- we weren't -- so I think I was particularly keen at that point to see if we could do
15 more to provide data that -- that might actually move the debate along.
16 Q So on the data flows issue --
17 A Yeah.
18 Q -- that you've raised in this email, is that an issue that the administration is 19 negotiating on behalf of American companies?
20 A Well, I mean, it was -- it's actually a European issue. It could -- but there 21 was a -- there was a -- a government-to-government negotiation going on between the 22 U.S. administration and the European Union about creating a successor legal framework
23 for the ongoing transfer of data across the Atlantic. I can't even remember which 24 department would have met. I doubt, by the way, anyone I was speaking to in the 25 White House would be even aware of it.

1 It's really me just saying to an internal team, look, a whole bunch of other things I
2 also need to spend some time on. I -- I want to -- I want to just see if we can be more,
3 what I put here, be responsive on -- particularly at that time, on data that might -- that 4 might move us on.
5 Q Do you recall -- well, first, actually, was this issue related to data flows
6 resolved at some point?
7 A Yes, it was. It was, eventually.
8 Q And when was that?
9 A I can't remember. I can't -- I honestly can't remember. It was -- it was an 10 agreement -- sort of a new legal agreement between the European Union and the United 11 States, by the way, in everybody's interest. I mean, it's like -- you know, you suddenly
12 stop data flows across the Atlantic, it's kind of -- it's kind of a massive macro-economic 13 effect in both Europe and America.
14 Clearly, it wasn't a Meta-specific thing. We were not -- we were not -- I mean, 15 we're just part of the online economy, as are millions of other companies on both sides of 16 the Atlantic. Everybody would have been affected.
17 Q And, admittedly, you're one of the bigger fish in this pool?
18 A Yeah. But, I mean, you know, banks transfer huge amounts of data every 19 day, and accountancy firms transfer huge amounts of data. You know, I mean, we're a 20 big social media platform, but there are other very data-intensive -- I mean, medical 21 research communicates huge amount of data every day. It's -- it really affects almost 22 every walk of life these days.
23 Q Is this issue related to the Data Protection Review Court?
24 A Data Protection Review Court?
25 Q Are you familiar?

1 A Not -- I'm familiar with data protection authorities in the EU. I'm not -- not
2 data protection.
3 Is this a European or an American institution you're asking about?
4 Q It's an agreement between the U.S. and the EU.
5 A Oh, whether that -- whether that's the formal title of the agreement?
6 Q Yes.
7 A It might be. I -- I don't remember the formal title.
8 Q Turn back to the data flows. Would that affect the company's -- if an 9 agreement wasn't able to be reached between the U.S. and the -- was it the EU? Was 10 the U.K. involved as well?
11 A Yeah, EU, EU.
12 Q EU. What impact would that have on Meta's profitability?
13 A Oh, I think it would have a huge effect on everybody's -- everybody's bottom 14 line. Anyone who transfers almost any meaningful data these days, which is a lot of 15 companies, would be affected.
16 Q And if an agreement weren't able to be reached, what would the company
17 have to do to comply?
18 A To be honest, I think just like any -- as I say, any bank, any accountancy, any 19 consultancy firm, you know, you're suddenly in a world where data doesn't flow. It's 20 kind of like -- it's a huge issue for anyone in the data economy.
21 Q Would you have to almost balkanize the company in order to --
22 A I actually think it's really quite difficult to imagine how anyone is supposed to 23 operate a global platform of any description, in other words, financial services, whether 24 it's in law, without the freedom of transferring data from one jurisdiction to another,
25 never mind two of the wealthiest economies in the world.

1 Q Your email refers to data flows, et cetera, so --

2 A Yeah.

3 Q -- sounds like you potentially have other examples in mind?

4 A Yeah. I mean, I don't want to -- I don't want to suggest you're

5 overinterpreting a sort of almost throwaway remark. I'm just making what is a pretty, I

6 think, plain vanilla observation, which is there are other things around the world, other

7 issues that I'm dealing with. I was getting frustrated, as we discussed earlier, that even

8 though we provided more data to the administration, we kept getting slightly stuck in

9 this --

10 Chairman Jordan. Was talk and concerns about changing Section 230 part of 11 that bigger fish we have to fry with the Biden administration? Was that something that 12 was in your portfolio or things you were thinking about?

13 Mr. Clegg. No. I don't think it was uppermost in my mind. I mean, I'm

14 conscious of the fact that, of course, public pronouncements had been made by people

15 from all means of political opinion in the U.S. about whether Section 230 should

16 be -- well, in fact, it has been amended over the years. And, in fact, I've advocated,

17 Meta's advocated for further changes to Section 230. But I -- certainly wasn't something

18 I was focused on at the time.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q And you mentioned that there were probably pronouncements around this

21 time, summer of 2021?

22 A Yeah. Yeah.

23 Q How seriously was Meta taking the possibility that the Federal Government

24 may look at reforming Section 230?

25 A At that time, I -- I -- honestly, I -- this sort of debate about Section 230 had

1 been rumbling on in lots of different forms for so long. I mean, even this week I saw the 2 Supreme Court was mulling on it a bit in the context of a -- looking at the Florida and 3 Texas laws.
4 I -- honestly, I can't remember whether there was anything specific that week.
5 It's been a running theme for really quite some time, as I say, from lots of different angles,
6 lots of different viewpoints, and from both right and left in politics as well.
7 So I don't recall having sort of Section 230 ringing in my ears then, but I would
8 need to go back and understand what I was doing at the time. Whereas, clearly data
9 flows, otherwise, I wouldn't have mentioned it. It wasn't something uppermost in my 10 mind.
11 Q Do you know who [redacted] is?
12 A Yes.
13 Q She was confirmed in June of 2021. Do you recall any conversations that 14 the frustrations between the White House and Meta on content moderation related to 15 disputes, whether there was any risk of how the FTC may treat Meta?
16 A I mean, it was just a matter of public record what [redacted] own views
17 were and remain about large American tech companies. So it's hardly a state secret.
18 Sorry. What was the specific question?
19 Q So in terms of -- I guess, bringing it back to the email here -- you're referring 20 about other issues -- and, again --
21 A Yeah.
22 Q -- fish to fry is a --
23 A Yeah.
24 Q -- you know, just kind of --
25 A Yeah.

Q -- a metaphor there. But it's specific here. With the administration, would that include issues related to antitrust reform?

A Well, I need to look at the chronology. I mean, the FTC has taken an antitrust case against Meta. And I think they'd done so by then, hadn't they? Hadn't they? I can't -- I need to recall. I mean, that kind of -- that's the FTC. That's the FTC taking its -- something we contest vigorously.

I remain of the view now as I did then that kind of undoing deals that we'd done many years ago, blessed at the time by the FTC of acquiring Instagram and WhatsApp, slightly odd for us to now be told we have to do it all over when the same institution actually blessed that. But that's parenthetical to your line of questioning.

[redacted]. [redacted] if you're asking if there were threats, like, if you don't do what we want on content moderation, we're going to sick [redacted] on you or we're going to go after 230 or -- we haven't seen any documents that reflect that.

And, Nick, maybe you could answer just the subsequent question.

Mr. Clegg. That is the question. It's not quite -- no, we were not -- we were not -- we were never sort of threatened with any -- if you don't do this on the Leonardo DiCaprio content, we're going to set X person on you or Y regulator on you.

I mean, with respect, I -- I wouldn't overburden this sentence with too much sort of forensic examination. It's kind of me saying, look, there's other things going on, data flows, for very good reasons, was uppermost in my mind, as it was with lots of people in the business community at the time. I was exasperated that we were, in July, after months and months and months and months of having the same discussions around data and around this information, around removal, that we hadn't made more progress.

I do remember at the time -- well, there's probably a third to this -- wanting to provide more data where we could do that.

1 Chairman Jordan. But you can understand the premise of the question.

2 Mr. Clegg. Yeah. Yeah, of course.

3 Chairman Jordan. In your language, Mr. Clegg, there are other things going on

4 that are important to Meta, and you're dealing with an administration who, I think you

5 testified the first hour, has been contacting you all the time about taking down certain

6 content, sometimes using profanity in those requests. And you know that the same

7 administration can have an impact on Section 230, notwithstanding the fact that it's been

8 talked about for years, and antitrust legislation, as -- and antitrust actions as well.

9 And so we're just asking --

10 Mr. Clegg. Yeah.

11 Chairman Jordan. -- was that something that is in the back of your mind when 12 you're saying, well, you know, we got to deal with that too with this administration?

13 Here they are every other day --

14 Mr. Clegg. Sure.

15 Chairman Jordan. -- wanting us to take down content.

16 Mr. Clegg. I think I understand the intent of the question. The answer is, on

17 the specifics, no. I did not think that there was a -- there was a connection between this

18 ongoing disagreement we had with the White House on COVID content and the FTC

19 antitrust action.

20 More generically, however, it's my job to try and navigate the relationship

21 between Meta and governments around the world. And as I try and do that, I try

22 whenever I can, consistent with our policies and principles, to be responsive. And that's 23 kind of what I was saying here, I think.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q There was mention the previous hour of an email from the White House to

1 [redacted] about where the White House says, internally, we're considering all our 2 options.
3 Independent of whether it's tied specific to that email chain, in the spring or 4 summer -- spring and summer of 2021, were you part of any discussions internally at the 5 company about what options the White House could take?
6 A Related to this?
7 Q Yes.
8 A No. I think we took each issue on their merits. So I had a separate team 9 dealing, for instance, with the ongoing issue of data flows, which are -- you know, all of 10 them report up to me, but it was a separate team dealing with that issue with completely 11 different people in the administration, in a different department, different -- sort of 12 administrative jungle, if I can put it like that.
13 So I -- I don't -- I don't recall us sort of trying to impose connections between 14 those things. They were -- they were just there as part of the complexity of being a 15 global platform with 4 billion people on it and a bunch of different issues having to deal
16 with at the same time.
17 This, however, was just -- it was just a stubborn level of disagreement. So I just 18 think that sentence just reflects, yeah, a level of exasperation on my part.
19 Q So it's a stubborn level of disagreement. But it had escalated to the point
20 where the President himself was making remarks related to this issue.
21 A Yes, he did. And then he clarified those remarks later and sort of -- which 22 was helpful to us, because in their original form, they were -- it was a pretty striking thing
23 to say about a company. And -- I mean, thankfully, he clarified that.
24 And then, of course, I think the point of this correspondence here, I was then
25 seeking to have a discussion with the Surgeon General to try and -- to try and do what I

1 was doing all along, which was -- this is difficult stuff. Reasonable people can reasonably
2 disagree, and I was just trying to kind of navigate that interaction, trying to resolve, where 3 we could, those disagreements, while remaining consistent with our own policies.
4 Q So I appreciate there are different teams working on --
5 A Yeah.
6 Q -- different issues. There's a team to work on data flows --
7 A Yeah.
8 Q -- different teams working on content moderation. But in each case, these 9 different issues we're discussing all interact with the same administration. Is that right?
10 A Well, yes. In the end, of course, yeah. All part of the same
11 administration.
12 Q And then as far as your statement that, you know, we have bigger fish to fry,
13 is that -- is it accurate to say that the issue of data flows affected the company's 14 profitability, potentially, to a greater extent than issues related to content moderation?
15 A I think it's just a sort of statement of engineering fact that in a data
16 economy, if you stop the flow of data, can't have -- eventually, if a car -- you know, petrol
17 car or gas car doesn't work without gas in the engine. It's just kind of that's how 18 data -- and it's -- it's -- and it really -- I cannot stress enough that this is not a 19 Meta-specific thing.
20 I mean, I can barely now think of any part of the economy which wouldn't have 21 been affected by a collapse in the existing legal arrangements between the two -- the two
22 world's largest economies, Europe and -- and America. So it was just a sort of generic
23 thing, which I think slightly confirms what I've been seeking to try and explain all along,
24 that this is a sort of generic -- it's sort of generic exasperation, a bunch of other big things
25 going on. I want us to try and, where we can, be responsive to their concerns,

1 particularly on data stuff.

2 [redacted]. It stands for viewpoint views; not that that's helpful.

3 [redacted] Viewpoint?

4 [redacted]. Viewpoint views. No idea why that's --

5 [redacted]. That's actually how much it's seen.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q One more question on this, and we'll have another exhibit for you.

8 A Yeah.

9 Q In your conversations with Mr. Slavitt in the spring and summer before

10 President Biden makes that statement --

11 A Uh-huh.

12 Q -- had he communicated to you in any way that what -- his conversations

13 with you were getting reported up directly to the President himself?

14 A I'm pretty sure he said to me or emailed to me words the effect of kind of

15 everybody to the top of the bottom or the White House team is -- I don't -- I don't ever

16 remember him saying, "I've had a conversation with the President." But I certainly

17 remember sort of him saying, at least the way I recall it, words the effect of, you know,

18 we're all -- everybody here is now just this -- it was definitely sometimes communicated

19 to me that there were far wider discussions going on, including people below and above

20 him in the White House hierarchy.

21 So that I remember. Sort of generic -- a generic sort of statement of kind of 22 everybody up and down the chain. But, no, I don't remember him saying, "I've had a 23 conversation with the President." No, no.

24 Q I'm going to introduce exhibit 7 here. This is an internal Facebook email

25 from September 2020.

1 [Clegg exhibit No. 7.

2 was marked for identification.]

3 Mr. Clegg. Do I start from the back again? Probably, right?

4 [redacted] Yes.

5 [redacted]. [redacted] we've got 10 more minutes in this round. My question in my

6 mind is -- I want to be respectful of your time. Can we get through what you need?

7 Chairman Jordan. I think so. Yeah.

8 [redacted]. Okay. Thank you.

9 Mr. Clegg. Just give me -- sorry. I'm just on page 2.

10 [redacted]. We're happy to go a few minutes longer. As long as you catch your

11 plane and --

12 [redacted] That'd be great. Thank you.

13 Mr. Clegg. Okay.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q I want to call your attention to the bottom of 61910, the paragraph starting

16 "Threat Assessment." And an individual from Facebook writes in an email addressed to 17 you and many others from Facebook, "We have received" -- "We have recently received

18 indications from USG, the U.S. Government partners, that they believe there is a risk of a

19 hack/leak operation conducted by Russian actors, likely involving real or manufactured

20 evidence concerning links between the Biden family and Ukraine, including the oil

21 company Burisma."

22 Do you know which U.S. Government partners this Facebook employee is referring

23 to?

24 A I wouldn't be involved in the specific discussions. But, of course, since

25 2016, we have been warned by multiple sources, including elected officials from both

1 Republicans and Democrats, about the ongoing threat, given the view of what happened
2 in 2016 of Russian interference in U.S. elections.
3 And post-2016, there have been, that is my understanding through members of 4 my team who worked on this full time, an actual sort of structured dialogue across the 5 industry with the FBI and others to receive relevant -- of course, the -- certain [inaudible]
6 being reporting earlier in the year, do you remember, of a Russian hack of Burisma. And 7 there'd been a Russian -- and there'd be Russian hacks of -- of President Macron, I think it
8 was, in 2017.
9 So it was a -- there was a sort of cross-party and consistent concern expressed for,
10 not just months, but years, leading up to this point about the risk of foreign organized
11 hack-and-leak operations, and with a particular focus on Burisma, which had been 12 reported to have been subject to a Russian attack.
13 So if you ask me exactly who said what to whom in the -- it would be -- would be
14 part of that process. It would be part -- and I see later on in the email chain there's a
15 reference to a -- a standing -- some kind of forum which brought together the FBI
16 with -- with people from the different tech platforms, which I'm assuming was the kind of 17 forum which had been established post-2016.

1 [1:14 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you recall -- so this is in September of 2020.

4 A Yeah.

5 Q Was this the first type of briefing you had received on the risk of a potential

6 Russian hack-and-leak related to the U.S. 2020 election?

7 A Well, I think this is not a briefing; this is -- I think this is a -- I think this is

8 actually a sort of comms doc- -- I don't know. I'm afraid I don't know who [redacted] is.

9 But I think it's -- this is as much as -- it's an FYI to lots of people in the company.

10 I mean, as I say, there had been consistent and repeated and public and private

11 warnings from all wings of political opinion, from intelligence committees in buildings like

12 this, that we needed to be on the alert for Russian hack-and-leak attempts, particularly in 13 view of 2016.

14 I mean, I cannot stress this enough. We sometimes forget context. The whole

15 of the country was rocked by Russian interference and the threat of it, and we were put

16 under immense, quite rightly, expectation, from all wings of political opinion, as a

17 company, to make sure that we were more alert to these than we were in 2016. So

18 that's the really important context to remember here.

19 And we set up a whole bunch of teams, experts on disinformation, experts on 20 foreign interference. And this, I think, was the product of that work.

21 I remember -- I do remember, around this time, and in view of the public reporting

22 about the Russian hacking of Burisma, that we made an amendment to -- or my teams

23 made an amendment to these specific terms of what we call our "hack-and-leak" policies.

24 Yeah.

25 Q You've mentioned that --

1 A So it wouldn't have been the first time that we, sort of -- no.

2 Q You were referring to, like, the immense expectations following --

3 A Yeah.

4 Q -- what happened in the 2016 election.

5 In the U.S. context -- and I understand you've worked throughout countries

6 around the world -- in the U.S. context, which side of the political aisle --

7 A Both.

8 Q -- were those expectations coming from --

9 A Both.

10 Q -- more strongly?

11 A Both. Both. If you look at all the public statements after 2016, we were 12 being prevailed upon to do more from all wings of political opinion.

13 Q So were one of the things that -- the expectations and order to do more,

14 would that include, to use the language here from the email, create an "inoculating

15 announcement about hack-and-leak"?

16 A Sorry. Where are you referring to?

17 Q Sorry. I'm reading from the top of page 61911.

18 Chairman Jordan. Let me just ask a different question, and then I want to come

19 to that point.

20 So has it ever been this specific? The government tells Facebook, there's a

21 specific type of operation gonna happen, with potentially manufactured evidence, and it's

22 going to involve a specific family, an important family in our country, the Biden family,

23 and the timing is uncertain but could happen as early as the next week? Have you ever

24 gotten something that specific?

25 Mr. Clegg. I mean, I just read this in good faith. This is clearly what the team had received --

Chairman Jordan. Yeah.

Mr. Clegg. -- as a warning. It didn't surprise me at all, given the background that I described. It's gone back for years. It didn't surprise me at all that Burisma was involved because there'd been reports earlier of Russia hacking of Burisma.

Chairman Jordan. Uh-huh.

Mr. Clegg. And the dilemma we faced, as this says, you know, is how to respond to content which could be real or could be fake, could be manufactured.

So I don't think anyone would've been particularly surprised to have read this.

Chairman Jordan. Okay.

And then to [redacted] question, this, "While this assessment is still uncertain, an inoculating announcement about" some potential --

Mr. Clegg. Hmm.

Chairman Jordan. -- some hypothetical, it looks like to me, had been recommended by the government. Had that ever happened before?

Mr. Clegg. We had started to disable a number of Russian, Chinese, and Iranian networks, disinformation networks, between 2016 and this date. So that certainly had happened before.

Chairman Jordan. I'm not asking that. I'm asking --

Mr. Clegg. Uh-huh?

Chairman Jordan. -- had you ever -- had the government, in these meetings with Facebook that we know happened periodically in the run-up to the election, had the government ever suggested that there be an inoculating announcement about something that might happen?

Mr. Clegg. So I read this differently. I read this as, I think, a comms person

1 saying that acting on these three networks -- one, two, three -- the second of which I
2 think is particularly relevant, because it seems to be one which had the greatest presence
3 in the United States amongst those five Facebook accounts and so on and seems to be 4 linked, if loosely, to the Russian Internet Research Agency, which would be the entity to 5 interfere in 2016 -- I think the inoculating effect that is referred to here is inoculating in 6 the following sense: that, by showing that we were taking this action now, we were 7 alerting any adversaries who might try and interfere with the subsequent election that we 8 were prepared for that outcome and that we were ready to act.
9 Chairman Jordan. Well, with all due respect, I don't think that's what it says. It
10 says, an inoculating announcement about the hack-and-leak now will mitigate the impact
11 of such a leak.
12 Mr. Clegg. Yes, I think -- so I think one of the things the experts told me at the 13 time, but you might want to check, is that one of the effects of disinformation is how 14 quickly it gets amplified by the mainstream press. And I think it's one of the orthodoxies
15 in how people deal with misinformation, to make sure that false and manufactured
16 information is not mistakenly spread and amplified by the existing media. I think that's 17 what it meant by the inoculating effect.
18 I do -- I certainly remember at the time that there was a lot of internal emphasis
19 placed by the experts who work on this in my team that we needed to -- or, they needed
20 to educate U.S. journalists to be skeptical about what they see and not just repeat it
21 uncritically. I think that's what the inoculating effect is that is being referred to here.
22 Chairman Jordan. No, I think it says -- yeah -- inoculates before the leak
23 happens. It says in the very next paragraph, under "Comms Plan," a hack-and-leak is to 24 inoculate the audience before the leak actually happens.
25 And, of course, the context here is, we know that this took place with the New

1 York Post story. We know how then that was -- that content was censored on
2 platforms. And the New York Post story was actually, you know, true.
3 Mr. Clegg. Yeah, that came later, of course. And I'm very happy to answer
4 questions about that. But you're right to -- you're right to emphasize the context. And
5 the context was Russian interference in the U.S. election; widespread, bipartisan concern
6 about the integrity of U.S. elections and the attempts by nefarious players to interfere;
7 and a concerted attempt to learn the lessons of 2016.
8 And I think this is the point of the -- I mean, if you look at that paragraph, it's 9 about ensuring that this announcement of these networks could assist in informing 10 particularly the press and journalists about the likelihood of these hack-and-leak
11 operations and how they shouldn't, you know, need to be assumed they're true.
12 That is, by the way -- I'm not now seeking to make claims about what 13 subsequently happened and the actions we took, all of which I'm of course available to 14 discuss. But right now, in -- "now," sorry -- in September 2021, that's exactly the 15 context, the background, and the intention of that so-called "inoculating announcement."
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q So the "audience," as it's referred to in this email, is referring specifically to 18 the press and media?
19 A That was my recollection, that the experts in my team who worked on this,
20 that one of their concerns was -- and I assume this was a concern shared across the 21 industry and by people who follow these things -- is that you get -- particularly if you get
22 foreign interference releasing hacked and leaked information, that that then instantly
23 assumes a sort of credibility in its own, because it gets uncritically reported.
24 And I think that's what the teams were seeking -- amongst other things. I don't 25 know if there was actually action taken on these three networks, but I think that was the

1 point of this email, that's what they were trying to communicate to reporters and the 2 press.
3 But the subsequent events, of course, hadn't taken place in September --
4 [Crosstalk.]
5 Chairman Jordan. -- in the government, Facebook engaged in an inoculating
6 announcement to other folks in the press about the idea that there was going to be a
7 hack-and-leak operation that involved the Biden family in the run-up to the Presidential 8 race. That's the action Facebook took at the urging of the government.
9 Mr. Clegg. Well, the action the company actually took was the networks -- was 10 identifying and disabling these networks. And, by the way, not just doing it -- I mean,
11 almost always, these networks -- I would need to check -- are then down across different 12 platforms, as well, because we work with other platforms. And --
13 Chairman Jordan. Facebook took it -- Facebook did an inoculating 14 announcement about a hack-and-leak operation to the press that would potentially 15 involve violence (ph).
16 Mr. Clegg. So I think, if I may, we should link but not conflate two things.
17 This announcement was about disabling three Russian-based networks, as 18 described here, and doing so in the context of consistent concerns emanating from the 19 events of 2016 to ensure that we were playing our role in defending U.S. democracy from 20 further Russian interference; and in the light of information that clearly my teams had 21 received that the Russian hack of Burisma, which had been publicly reported in 22 January 2020, might be the subject of a hack-and-leak operation going forward.
23 I mean, they are linked but separable factors here.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q But is it notable that the person from Facebook who's drafting this email

1 mentions the risk of Burisma when that is not directly related to the networks that are
2 being taken down in this specific instance?
3 A Yeah, I mean, I'm only going to slightly repeat what they write here
4 themselves.
5 Given the fact that one of the networks that were being disrupted here was 6 precisely the network that had sought to interfere with the U.S. election in 2016, and 7 given that it was already public knowledge that the Russians [inaudible] I think it was 8 Macron's in 2017, that they hacked the Burisma data in, I think it was, early 2020, I have 9 to say, it doesn't surprise me at all that the teams say, "These are the networks we're
10 disrupting. We're also being told to look out for, you know, in those sort of general
11 terms, foreign-orchestrated hack-and-leak operations relating to Burisma. This 12 announcement, if that materializes, will help people to look at any material skeptically 13 before jumping to conclusions."
14 I think what you're asking is, then, what decisions we took subsequently, all of 15 which we should debate. But in September 2021, that was the mind- --
16 [redacted]. 2020.
17 Mr. Clegg. Sorry. 2020. Forgive me. 2020. Absolutely.
18 That was the not-unreasonable work of a number of teams who, as I say, had 19 been put under an immense, sort of, set of expectations from all quarters to make sure
20 that 2020 was not a repeat of 2016.
21 Chairman Jordan. We'll get into that, I'm sure, in the subsequent hour.
22 [redacted] We can go off the record, please.
23 Chairman Jordan. Thank you.
24 [Recess.]
25 [redacted] All right. We are back on the record.

1 And, Mr. Clegg, I have a quick question to ask you about the exhibit you were just
2 looking at, exhibit No. 7, before the break.
3 [redacted]. Can you give us that exhibit again?
4 Mr. Clegg. Thank you very much.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q So the question I have to ask is: During the previous hour, in his questions,
7 Chairman Jordan I believe twice stated that the inoculating announcement that Facebook
8 planned to make was made at the request of the U.S. Government, that the government
9 requested that Facebook make that announcement. But that's not what these emails
10 reflect, correct?
11 A No. This is an announcement about three Russian networks, and then the 12 correspondence talks about the inoculating effect that announcements like this might 13 have on how people then respond to any subsequent news of hack-and-leak operations.
14 Q And as reflected in this email, the information that was received from the 15 U.S. Government partners was the information that allowed Facebook to identify these 16 three Russian networks, correct? And about the list of the hack-and-leak operations?
17 A Yes. I can't tell you which of the three networks, or whether it was all
18 three, flowed from tips from the U.S. Government, but, as this correspondence suggests,
19 Meta received tips from the government on some of this activity.
20 Q And that is the only reference to the government here. The inoculating
21 message is completely of Facebook's own doing.
22 A Yes. The description of the effect of this kind of news on the news and 23 media perception of the risk of hack-and-leak operations is something that was 24 clearly -- it was clearly described here by the Meta team.
25 Q Okay. Thank you very much.

1 I want to go back to some of the COVID topics that we talked about earlier. And
2 I want to start with the announcement -- well, first, I want to ask you: In the very first
3 exhibit -- I'm not going to ask you specifically about it, but do you recall that there were 4 some emails also about a Tucker Carlson post?
5 A Yes.
6 Q That you had to explain why Meta found it was not violative?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And your recollection is, despite the White House taking issue with that post,
9 Meta did not remove that post from its platform?
10 A No. It was labeled and demoted, but not removed.
11 Q And when content is demoted, people still have access to it?
12 A Yes, but it partly depends on the level of demotion. There are 13 different -- there are various levels of demotion. But, given, you know, that we're a 14 platform that operates at very significant scale, even if something is demoted, it can still 15 be seen by many people.
16 Q And it can still be shared?
17 A Of course.
18 Q And that was the case with this Tucker Carlson post?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And in the previous hour, you discussed a little bit about the impact of 21 President Biden's statement that Facebook was fooling people.
22 When the President -- or, after the President made that statement, Meta chose to 23 issue a response, correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And, for example, one element of that response was publishing an article

1 called "Moving Past the Finger Pointing." Does that sound familiar?

2 A I can't remember that, but if --

3 Q Okay. Fair enough.

4 A -- that's what the record shows. I can't remember that, but yeah.

5 Q And I believe we're on exhibit 8.

6 [Clegg exhibit No. 8.

7 was marked for identification.]

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Okay. So this is an article entitled "Moving Past the Finger Pointing," dated 10 July 17, 2021. Is that correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And the very first line of the article says, "At a time when COVID-19 cases are

13 rising in America, the Biden administration has chosen to blame a handful of American

14 social media companies." Correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And the last line of that paragraph says, "These and other facts tell a very 17 different story to the one promoted by the administration in recent days."

18 A Yes.

19 Q And this was just one aspect of Facebook's attempt to challenge the 20 President's comments?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And in addition to this article, you also personally reached out to 23 Surgeon General [redacted]. Do you recall doing that?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. And one of the exhibits we saw earlier -- I don't recall which one,

1 but -- you mentioned using -- you planned to use a sharper tone with him.

2 A With?

3 Q With the Surgeon General.

4 A It --

5 Q Someone suggested in it.

6 A Right.

7 Q And you wanted to use that sharp tone to convey Facebook/Meta's

8 frustration with the administration's comments.

9 A Yes.

10 Q And do you recall telling [redacted] that you thought -- and this is a

11 quote -- "I thought the way we were singled out was" --

12 [redacted]. I'm sorry. What are you quoting from?

13 [redacted] His email to [redacted].

14 [redacted]. Can you give us the document?

15 [redacted] Sure.

16 [redacted]. What exhibit number is this?

17 [redacted] We're are at 8 -- 9.

18 [redacted]. Oh, this will be --

19 [redacted] We're at 9.

20 [redacted]. Okay.

21 [Clegg exhibit No. 9.

22 was marked for identification.]

23 Mr. Clegg. So this is the day before -- I see. Yeah.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q So, then, on the second page, or the back page, at the end of that large

1 paragraph, you told [redacted], "I thought the way we were singled out over the past few
2 days has been both surprising and misleading, and I believe unproductive to our joint
3 efforts too." Correct?
4 A Correct.
5 Q And you felt comfortable making those statements without fear of any
6 action being taken against Meta?
7 A I didn't even think about it in those terms. I was just exasperated by what 8 had been said about our company, and I wanted to defend ourselves, really.
9 Q And you did defend yourself.
10 A Huh.
11 Q And the government did not take any adverse action against Meta in 12 response to that defense?
13 A No. We just continued to have the back-and-forth about COVID
14 misinformation.
15 Q And President Biden walked back his remarks a little bit at some point in the 16 days after he made them.
17 A Yes, he did, which was welcome to us. Of course it was.
18 Q Yeah.
19 And you are aware that, recently, at some point in the past 2 months, when Mr.
20 Zuckerberg was testifying before the Senate, Senator Graham made similar comments,
21 that Facebook was killing people, in a different context --
22 A Yes. "Blood on your hands."
23 [redacted]. I think he said "blood on your hands."
24 Mr. Clegg. Yes. "On your hands," yeah.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q I believe he said "blood on your hands" and then "you're killing people."
2 A Okay.
3 Q And in that same hearing, he also discussed repealing sections of 230?
4 A If you tell me, yes, I'm sure that might have happened.
5 Q Going back to your relationship with [redacted], which you described as 6 something that you were trying to cultivate --
7 A Yeah.
8 Q -- in the wake of this summer-of-2021 --
9 A Yeah.
10 Q -- tension, you ultimately did have a conversation with him -- I imagine you
11 had many conversations with him -- about --
12 A Well, not many. But, yes, I think I clearly did subsequent to this. Yeah.
13 Q And your team continued to reach out to the Surgeon General's Office as 14 well?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And there were instances when your team would reach out and try to set up
17 meetings between you and the Surgeon General.
18 A Yes.
19 Q And as well as others at Meta, like [redacted]?
20 A Okay. I don't --
21 Q Are you not aware of that?
22 A I'm not aware of that, but wouldn't be surprised. Yeah, yeah.
23 Q And you are aware that your team reached out multiple times to try to set 24 up a meeting between you and [redacted] on an occasion when you were going to 25 happen to be in Washington?

1 A Okay. If you tell me, I -- yeah.

2 Q So this wasn't the kind of acrimonious situation where you just stopped

3 talking?

4 A Oh, sorry, if that's what you mean with the questions.

5 Q Yeah.

6 A No. I mean, I was trying to strike the following balance, which was being

7 pretty candid, if not blunt, about where we disagreed, but not petulant and not, sort

8 of -- you know, I wanted us to have an adult, if candid, you know, ability to communicate

9 with each other. I mean, he was the Surgeon General of the government of the day, and 10 there was a pandemic going on.

11 So I was keen, once we heard the Senate set out our stall in response to the 12 President's remarks, and most especially after his clarifications, I was just keen to get back

13 to work and get back to doing the work, notwithstanding obviously the differences of 14 opinion which might underpin that. But, you know, my motive was just to do the work,

15 do the substance.

16 But at the same time I felt, as I think many of us did at the time, that, you know,

17 by this time, you know, July, it had been a year and a half that we'd been working on this,

18 and we felt we'd done so pretty diligently, so, yeah, we were -- I'm not going to hide the 19 fact, we were keen to also stand up for ourselves and explain ourselves.

20 Q And were you able to ultimately develop that type of relationship that you

21 wanted with [redacted]?

22 A Yeah. I mean, I don't -- I didn't have that many interactions with him.

23 And I think by the latter half of 2021, the pandemic evolved into a slightly different -- you

24 know, into a slightly different phase, really. So I don't recall interacting with him with

25 the regularity that I, for instance, interacted with Andy Slavitt for a short period of time

1 earlier in the year. But, equally, I didn't feel that I couldn't get through to him and vice
2 versa if needed, and certainly not with his team.
3 Q Thank you.
4 And with respect to Mr. Slavitt, your discussions with him after he left the White
5 House, you chose to have those interactions, correct?
6 A Well, I chose to enter into -- you know, to participate in them, yes.
7 Q And it was to get some insight into what might be helpful for you in terms of 8 sending over your communications --
9 A So my recollection was -- forgive me. Did I interrupt?
10 Q No, you did not.
11 A My recollection was that Andy Slavitt was sort of volunteering to act as 12 a -- not exactly as a go-between, but, sort of, to provide his views and guidance, having 13 just worked there, on what the expectations and assumptions were from the White
14 House at the time.
15 My job is often to try and understand what the other people on the other side of 16 the table are thinking. So I was obviously receptive to his input, even though he wasn't 17 working at the White House at that time.
18 Q And you had that kind of relationship where --
19 A For a --
20 Q -- you felt a reason to offer that?
21 A For a period, yeah. I mean, you know, I went on his podcast, after all, so --
22 Q And one of the -- a question I have for you is, the disagreements that you
23 mentioned about the data --
24 A Yeah.
25 Q -- was that a disagreement or a miscommunication or a misunderstanding

1 about the difference between engagement on a certain post versus views of a certain
2 post?
3 A I think, in part, yes.
4 Q Okay.
5 A I think that's part of it.
6 Q Can you explain what that difference means?
7 A Yes.
8 So "views" means, slightly, you know, as the word suggests, what content most 9 human beings are seeing, are viewing.
10 "Engagement" measures a very significant subset of that, which is a 11 subset -- actually, it's a subset of a subset, because I think in CrowdTangle -- I need to 12 check this, but I think it actually only measures links in pages rather than other links.
13 But it's basically engage- -- it's where you share or comment on a piece of content. So 14 you're just taking a, sort of, cake slice within a cake slice, rather than looking at the 15 overall cake of what people are actually seeing, what eyeballs are seeing as they are 16 scrolling on their news feed.
17 So, yes, it is -- it's part of it. It's part of it.
18 But the other part of it, which was bound up in this reliance, and this repeated
19 reliance, on this outside circle of research about the so-called Disinformation Dozen, was 20 making all sorts of assumptions about content which is completely off Facebook. So we 21 ended up, I remember, doing analysis of not only what we saw on our services but also,
22 kind of, on the internet generally of these 12 entities.
23 And as we sought to explain over and over again, we can only see what we see on 24 our platforms, and we certainly can only be held answerable for what goes on on our 25 platforms, not what goes on on the internet more generally.

1 So I think there was several levels of -- but, you know, I have to
2 acknowledge -- and I did it before, and I'll do it again -- I think the fact that the company
3 made this particular tool, CrowdTangle, available to non-experts -- I'm not a data analyst;
4 most people aren't, and certainly most people who use CrowdTangle aren't -- I think it's 5 fair to say that, you know, it didn't help necessarily clarify things, because that itself is a
6 tool that only actually shows a subset of a subset of the content.
7 But that's why we worked so hard to produce this top 100 thing; that's why we
8 relied so much on VPVs, an acronym which was explained earlier.
9 And I -- yes, and I do remember being quite -- sort of pressing my teams to try and 10 clarify all those things perhaps more rapidly than we did.
11 Q And, to be fair, you couldn't have predicted, when you first started using 12 CrowdTangle, the ways in which those distinctions might --
13 A No --
14 Q -- might become a problem in the future --
15 A Yeah. And --
16 Q -- in terms of content views.
17 A -- for what it's worth, which historically is naught, but we've actually 18 significantly remedied that now by introducing much, much more comprehensive tools
19 for researchers and other vetted entities to have a much, much more statistically
20 complete picture of what's going on on Facebook.
21 So we've developed bunches of research APIs now, which partly flowed from this 22 and partly, I think, flowed from my, sort of, view that we needed to have a much more 23 consistent baseline of data to share with people external to the company so that we 24 could have a more reasoned debate about what's actually going on on the platform.
25 Q Okay. And that is helpful. Thank you.

1 You were asked during the previous hour about whether the Biden administration
2 threatened or made mention to reform of Section 230 in connection with your
3 discussions about content moderation.
4 I just want to clarify, you yourself have publicly called for regulation of Section
5 230, correct?
6 A Yes.
7 Q You have written an op-ed --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- on CNBC and said --
10 A Yes. Oh, it was? Okay.
11 Q I believe that's right.
12 A You can tell me, yeah.
13 Q But you recall that you --
14 A Yes.
15 Q -- wrote a very public article?
16 A Yeah.
17 Q This is not a partisan issue.
18 A No, no. As I said earlier, there's been ongoing debate about Section 230 for 19 a very long time.
20 Q And you were also asked about the FTC --
21 A Uh-huh.
22 Q -- and you had mentioned that you didn't know, you weren't exactly sure,
23 when the FTC took action against Facebook.
24 I did want to clarify for the record that the FTC suit against Facebook in the District
25 of Columbia was filed on December 9th of 2020. And that would have been during the

1 administration of Donald Trump, correct?

2 A Yeah.

3 Q In the waning days.

4 Oh, and I do want to clarify one thing about the Tucker Carlson demotion that we

5 asked you about earlier.

6 A Uh-huh.

7 Q That demotion was not taken in response to the White House's request,

8 correct?

9 A No. It was taken in accordance with our -- with the way we treated that

10 kind of content. Yeah.

11 Q It was demoted because the analyst on your team determined that the post

12 merited -- or fact checkers determined that it --

13 A I think --

14 Q -- deserved some sort of --

15 A My recollection, not least because we spent quite a while looking at this,

16 was, actually, there was two policies that were almost chronologically brought to bear.

17 First, we had these automated systems which look for possible, sort of, telltale

18 signs that a piece of content may require fact-checking, and then for a temporary period

19 of time, 7 days, that content is enqueued.

20 And then subsequent to that, there was a policy which was developed during the 21 pandemic about -- I think it was called something like "barriers-to-vaccination

22 content" -- content which wasn't, sort of, egregiously violating, certainly didn't merit

23 being removed, but was of sufficient, kind of, impact that it could be reasonably

24 described as constituting a real barrier to enhancing confidence in vaccines. And that 25 also then led to an ongoing demotion of that particular piece of content.

1 Q So I'm going to move on to the issue of foreign influence and Meta's
2 hack-and-leak policy that came up during the previous hour.
3 You mentioned that these types of concerns had been prevalent at Meta since at 4 least the 2016 election, correct?
5 A Yeah.
6 Q And can you explain -- and I know that this is only a portion of what you deal
7 with at Meta; your portfolio is very large, but -- just in broad terms, how foreign 8 governments, such as Russia and China, use your platforms to interfere in elections and 9 other civic discourse in the United States and around the world?
10 A So, I mean, there are lots of different tactics, but the one that -- and I really 11 would defer to the, sort of, disinformation experts on my team on this, and I certainly 12 don't want to supplant their expertise on this.
13 But it tends -- the pattern over the years has been the construction of a network
14 of fake accounts and then using those fake accounts to promote a, sort of, menu of often 15 mixed, half-true/half-untrue, content in order to -- almost always in order to foment
16 doubt about the integrity of an election, about the fairness of an election, or just to 17 generally sow societal division and doubt. That seems to be the sort of familiar pattern.
18 I mean, I think it's evolved over time, so if my understanding is correct, some of 19 these disinformation networks have tried to use, sort of, domestic proxies to do the same 20 thing, rather than constructing just a network of fake accounts, because this is a highly 21 adversarial space. So every time we find one to fit, you know, disinformation network,
22 they change their tactics. So it does mutate a lot.
23 Q And, just to be clear, when you say "fake accounts," what you mean is an 24 account purported to be owned or controlled by someone other than --
25 A Yeah.

1 Q -- who it's actually controlled by, or located in a different country --
2 A Right.
3 Q -- or place than --
4 A Or an entity that doesn't exist. Yeah.
5 Q So it's somebody making a fundamental misrepresentation --
6 A Yeah.
7 Q -- about who they are.
8 A Yeah.
9 Q And that is prohibited --
10 A Yeah.
11 Q -- by Meta's terms of service.
12 A Yeah.
13 Q Okay. And that's sometimes referred to, the behavior you just described,
14 as coordinated inauthentic behavior --
15 A Correct.
16 Q -- or CIB --
17 A That's right.
18 Q -- correct? That's Meta's term for it.
19 A Yeah.
20 Q And Meta instituted -- or, updated its inauthentic behavior policy specifically
21 to address CIB around the time -- well, after the 2016 election, correct? Do you recall --
22 A Yeah, so I wasn't at the company then, but, clearly, a huge cross-company
23 effort was made to revamp and improve the company's policies, processes, teams.
24 I mean, 2016, I think I'm right in saying that Facebook, as it was then, you know,
25 hadn't removed a single coordinated inauthentic behavior network, and fast-forward now

1 several years later, there are several hundred that have been disabled over time.

2 Q And could you just remind us what it was that happened in 2016 that led to

3 the revamping of --

4 A Again, I was not at the company, so I didn't, sort of, live through that time.

5 I was living an entirely different life at that time.

6 [redacted]. So, you know, if you know, great. If you don't know, I think they

7 gave you an admonition not to guess. So, if you don't know, then you don't --

8 Mr. Clegg. Well, it was Russian interference and using fake accounts in the U.S.

9 election in 2016.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q And, obviously, Meta wanted to prevent that from happening again.

12 A Of course.

13 Q And I imagine Meta still wants that --

14 A Of course.

15 Q -- to prevent that from happening again --

16 A Of course, of course, of course.

17 Q -- in elections going forward.

18 So Meta's policy against using fake accounts is based on the behavior of setting up

19 an account and being inauthentic about who you are, correct?

20 A Yes. Behavioral signals, as they call it, I think. Yeah.

21 Q Right. I believe the term that is used is, it's content-agnostic.

22 A That's right. I believe -- but, again, I am really led heavily here by the

23 experts -- but it is the behavior, rather than the content, that leads our work when it

24 comes to CIB disruption.

25 Q And it doesn't matter which party the behavior is targeted at, if it's targeted

1 at one or another party? It just matters --

2 A Of course. Yeah.

3 Q -- that there's inauthentic behavior happening?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And you're aware that Meta has taken down CIB networks that have

6 targeted both sides of the political spectrum --

7 A Yes.

8 Q -- in the United States?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And --

11 A And multiple jurisdictions around the world.

12 Q That was going to be my next question.

13 A Yeah.

14 Q Thank you very much.

15 [redacted] And that is it for us right now, so we can just roll into the 16 next -- unless you would like a break?

17 Mr. Clegg. No.

18 [redacted] Okay. We can go off the record just to trade places.

19 [Recess.]

20 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q So I want to pick back up where we were before the majority's previous

23 hour. We were looking at an email chain, September 2020 --

24 A Sorry?

25 Q We were looking at an email chain --

1 A Right, right.

2 Q -- from September 2020. And we've referenced it a few times, but you are

3 familiar with the New York Post story that came in on October 14, 2020?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Walk me through that day. Do you recall how you first became aware of 6 that story?

7 A Yes. There was an internal message group, or message thread, which had a

8 number of people on it who were in one shape or form coordinating in the company on

9 election-related issues. And one of the comms team -- or maybe it wasn't; I don't know.

10 Anyway, someone flagged on there, you know, very early morning, certainly West Coast

11 time, that the New York Post story had emerged.

12 Q To your knowledge, what steps did the company take in response to that

13 story?

14 A So the steps that were taken in the ensuing hour or two was to do two

15 things: It was to enqueue the content for fact checkers and, at least for the initial two 16 stories, I think, to also manually demote.

17 Q Okay. I want to break down that answer a little bit.

18 So, first, for enqueuing for the fact checkers, correct me if I'm wrong, but in earlier

19 testimony you said, in most cases what goes to the fact checkers is automatically

20 enqueued based off things the company's already --

21 A Right.

22 Q -- told the system to --

23 A Right.

24 Q -- be on the lookout for?

25 A In most cases, correct.

1 Q And then, in other cases, it'll be --

2 A Manually --

3 Q -- manually enqueued?

4 A Yes.

5 Q So, in this case, it was manually enqueued?

6 A Right. Correct.

7 Q Who made that decision?

8 A The content policy team. The content policy team, answerable to me,

9 ultimately. Yeah.

10 Q So would that have been [redacted] ultimately?

11 A It would've been [redacted] team. And I believe the person who sort

12 of ran the operation team for [redacted] was run by [redacted], and that she 13 informed us that that was the action that had been taken.

14 Q And, I'm sorry, what was [redacted]'s title?

15 A What was her title?

16 Q Yeah.

17 A I don't know what her title is, but she runs the content policy team on an 18 operational level under [redacted], who in turn reports to Joel Kaplan, who in turn

19 reports to me.

20 Q Understood.

21 Taking one step back --

22 A Yeah.

23 Q -- from that specific example, what's the normal set of circumstances when a

24 piece of content is manually enqueued as opposed to automatically?

25 A What is the -- sorry, forgive me.

1 Q Yeah. So you said in most cases it's automatically enqueued, so
2 Facebook-wide --
3 A Right.
4 Q -- you know, be on the lookout for --
5 A Yeah.
6 Q -- particular pieces. Right? There's not a manual or a human touch
7 immediately --
8 A Right.
9 Q -- to send it in.
10 For the instances where it's manually enqueued, is it just examples where your 11 team comes across? Or what's, like, a normal set of circumstances when that other 12 option is used? Not "other option." When it's enqueued manually, as opposed to 13 automatically.
14 A I would separate two things, which is enqueuing and demotion.
15 Q Uh-huh.
16 A And you're right to say both were taken manually.
17 There were two policy considerations for the team at the time. One was 18 whether this was a hack-and-leak operation, as we've been discussing earlier. Did it 19 display the -- did it display the, kind of, pattern of a hack-and-leak operation, which had 20 been discussed in considerable detail. And that's one of the reasons why, in parallel, the 21 team also sought to reach out to the FBI, to see whether the FBI could provide any 22 illumination on that point.
23 And then flanking that there's a second consideration, which is what we call in the,
24 sort of, technocratic jargon "signals of falsity." Were there signals of falsity which 25 merited the demotion while the content is being enqueued.

1 And there was considerable discussion at the time on both fronts but most
2 especially on whether the signals of falsity were, sort of, manifest enough.
3 Q Uh-huh.
4 So let me take one step back from there. When something's enqueued, whether 5 it's automatic or manual, is it automatically demoted?
6 A No, it's not automatically de- -- oh, let me just double-check this. No, I
7 don't think it's automatically demoted. Don't think so.
8 Q Okay.
9 A It is demoted -- it's definitely demoted automatically once subject to a
10 fact-check.
11 I might need to double-check this with the team, but I'm pretty sure that 12 the demo- -- well, certainly, demotion in this case took place manually. That's for sure.
13 You're asking me if, in other instances, when something's enqueued. I don't think so. I
14 may be wrong. I may be wrong.
15 Q Okay.
16 So is it your understanding of the steps the company took, first, there's, like, kind
17 of, step one: Is it automatically demoted? It wasn't. Someone in Facebook
18 manually -- or, excuse me, not "demoted."
19 A Yeah.
20 Q It wasn't automatically enqueued. Someone on Facebook --
21 A Yeah.
22 Q -- manually enqueued it so that a third-party fact checker could potentially --
23 A Yeah.
24 Q -- review it.
25 A Yeah.

1 Q That's right?

2 And, then, in the meantime, it's your understanding that someone manually

3 demoted the articles?

4 A Yeah. But in answer to your question, I don't know whether the manual

5 demotion was necessary because the enqueuing itself was manual.

6 Q Uh-huh.

7 A And, in the same way, whether, if it had been automatically enqueued,

8 would it have been automatically demoted? It might have been. I just honestly need

9 to -- I would need to check --

10 [redacted]. We're happy to get back to you with the specifics on that.

11 [redacted] Okay.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q To your understanding -- and setting aside the demotion question, but

14 just -- what's your understanding of when [redacted] team will manually enqueue an

15 article?

16 A So that's where this issue of signals of falsity becomes important. Because

17 the automated systems would seek to detect signs that suggest a piece of content might

18 be misinformation and might be subject -- so the team had to sort of scramble within the

19 immediate minutes and hours following the publication of the story to see whether there

20 were reliable and credible sources indicating that the story might be of dubious veracity.

21 And there was a lot of back-and-forth about whether those signals, you know, were 22 present or not.

23 Q And I'm sorry if we're --

24 A Yeah.

25 Q -- speaking past each other or -- so I hear what you're saying as far as the

1 signals of falsity. Taking the New York Post story out of it, just --

2 A Right.

3 Q -- a random month, day to day, are those signals used as the basis for the 4 automatic enqueuing?

5 A So the automatic enqueuing is when the AI systems pick up, I think, two

6 principal signals: one, that the content itself may fall under the category of

7 misinformation; and, secondly, importantly, that it's likely to go quite viral and be widely

8 distributed. And the team immediately, I think, assessed that this content might be very

9 widely distributed.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 Let me ask this question a different way, and tell me if this is not the case from 12 your understanding.

13 Are the manually enqueued cases -- do they tend to be the higher-profile cases or 14 closer calls?

15 A Yeah.

16 Q Is that --

17 A Closer calls, unexpected content, content which our systems don't

18 necessarily, kind of -- right? I mean, our cata files (ph) are cata files (ph), so they are

19 only as good as the repeat data you feed into it. So you have to maintain a certain

20 amount of manual discretion, because, of course, content changes all the time, you get a

21 bunch of cases, and so on.

22 Q Uh-huh.

23 To your recollection, from when you find out about the story, were you made

24 aware that [redacted] team was considering what next steps to do before the decision was

25 made? Or did they just report up to you, "This story came out; here's what our team is

1 doing in the meantime"?

2 A So my recollection was, unsurprisingly in the circumstances of the time, the

3 team was very anxious to take a rapid decision. But I think it was very obvious to the

4 team that content like this would be distributed very widely, very quickly. And, as per

5 our earlier discussion, the company had been preparing not only for months but for years

6 for the risk of foreign interference, of hack-and-leak operations, and so on.

7 So I think the team was very anxious to move fast. And that, I think, is the

8 principal reason to understand their motivation to take the decision themselves as quickly

9 as they did.

10 [redacted]. Okay. I think we've given you some documents that reflect the 11 timeline of when various people were informed and when the decision was made, and

12 we're happy to walk through that if that makes sense. I don't want Nick to have to 13 guess.

14 [redacted] Okay. I appreciate that. I don't think I need to. I was going to 15 move on to the next set.

16 [redacted]. Okay.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Do you know for how long the story was demoted for?

19 A I think, in the end, 7 days.

20 Q And during that 7-day time period, was the decision revisited, to un-demote

21 or whatever the proper term would be?

22 A Yes. Yes. There was extensive discussion about whether -- I mean, look,

23 there was a range of views. There were people who were not involved in that

24 immediate decision itself who felt that the demotion -- not so much the enqueuing, but

25 the demotion itself -- was not as, sort of, merited as it should've been.

1 And there was discussion, which I know involved me, about whether, in the 2 absence of any fact checker finding fault with the content, whether we should lift the
3 demotion after 5 days or -- I don't know what it was -- 6 days, 4 days, rather than 7 days.
4 Q Uh-huh.
5 A But I know, in the end, we basically allowed the demotion to -- the 6 enqueuing to persist for the normal period of time, yeah.
7 Q And what was your recommendation at the time?
8 A On this issue of the length of time?
9 Q Yes.
10 A I remember thinking at the time there might have been a case to curtail the 11 period of time, but I didn't feel that strongly about it. And I think others sort of felt that 12 it was only logical to just let the normal 7-day period of time elapse.
13 Q Did you have discussions with Ms. Sandberg about how to handle the story?
14 A I had discussions with Sheryl Sandberg, some with Mark Zuckerberg too.
15 You know, we immediately understood that this was a highly consequential 16 decision, taken under great time pressure, and that it would be scrutinized -- well, as this
17 very conversation suggests -- long after the decision itself was taken. I think everybody 18 was aware that this was a significant decision on a significant matter of great public and 19 political interest, of course.
20 Q Who was the final decision-maker on how to handle the story, we'll start
21 with just the day of?
22 A So the decisions were taken, or the measures were taken by the content
23 policy team, but the buck stops with me. They roll up to me and the company. So, you
24 know, I am accountable, without micromanaging the actions and the decision itself.
25 Q You said you had discussions, though, with Ms. Sandberg and Mr.

1 Zuckerberg, who, obviously, you report to --

2 A Yeah, but that was as much about because other platforms were, sort of,

3 doing different things. Twitter removed the content altogether, and then they suddenly

4 switched. So it was quite understandable. We were asking why everyone was, kind of,

5 like, jumping around, removing it altogether, which we thought was way over the top.

6 So I think it was only natural, and given, you know, the political and societal

7 interest in this story, that we should talk about it, which is exactly what we did.

8 Q Do you recall what Ms. Sandberg's position was?

9 A I think Sheryl Sandberg's view was that we shouldn't alter or seek to change

10 the demotion that had been put in place, which is what happened.

11 Q And do you recall what reason she gave?

12 A I mean, I should think the obvious ones, which is, we had taken that action,

13 we hadn't removed it. Even with the enqueuing and demotion, many, many, many

14 Americans could find that content on Facebook. And, indeed, it was on every national

15 and local radio and television show and on the front page of every newspaper. This was

16 hardly content that was being hidden from public view.

17 So I just sort of felt -- I think Sheryl felt that chopping and changing our stance, in

18 the way that other platforms had done, given that this was all out there in the public

19 domain anyway, probably didn't make much sense.

20 I think, however, notwithstanding all of that, we did decide also not to do certain

21 things -- not to enqueue and demote additional content, not to reach out to third-party

22 fact checkers ourselves.

23 But, you know, these were all difficult judgment calls, taken in the context of 24 imprecise information, without, at least at that point, the benefit of hindsight, and under

25 great time pressure and great scrutiny, so --

1 Q Do you recall what Mr. Zuckerberg's position was?

2 A I think Mark Zuckerberg's view was, he was keen that we sort of cleaved (ph)
3 as closely as possible to, you know, what would be the, kind of, standard thing or, you
4 know, the appropriate thing to do here. And he deferred very much to me and the team
5 to try and get it right.

6 Q When you say "the appropriate thing to do," by what standard?

7 A Well, I think, given that in the immediate minutes or whatever it was, hour
8 or two, after the story was published, this enqueuing and demotion had taken place,
9 there was obviously a -- there was a diversity of opinion in the teams about whether that 10 should've occurred in the first place and whether it should be reversed or not.

11 And I think -- I certainly remember discussing with Mark Zuckerberg the point you
12 asked earlier, which was, the duration of the demotion, should that be altered? And I
13 think his view was, no, just do what the standard demotion is, which in both the manual
14 and the automatic forms are the 7 days.

15 Q Okay. Do you remember discussing with him whether it should've been 16 enqueued and demoted in the first place?

17 A I remember flagging to Mark Zuckerberg that the enqueuing and demotion
18 happened, and I remember him asking questions about our policies and about the 19 circumstances in which manual demotions take place. In my memory of this, he was 20 asking, as he rightly does, smart questions, but he kind of said, you know, you guys should 21 deal with it as you see fit.

1 [2:50 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you recall if he was supportive or not, one way or the other?

4 A About?

5 Q Whether to enqueue and demote it initially?

6 A I don't remember anyone questioning whether it should be enqueued. No,

7 I think that was -- I don't think anyone thought that was -- on the demotion there was a

8 range of opinions. I mean, there was a range of opinions.

9 [redacted]. Just to be clear, we're talking about after the fact, like, Mark's not 10 involved in the immediate real-time decision.

11 [redacted] Yeah. I mean, correct us if that's wrong, but it sounds like a decision

12 was made pretty quickly. And then -- but the day of --

13 [redacted]. Yeah, I just wanted to be clear when you're talking about did Mark

14 agree with the deci- -- I just want to make sure you're -- that you understand that this is

15 after -- it's an after action. It's not kind of contemporaneous. What had been done

16 had been done at that point.

17 [redacted] Sure.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q But if Mr. Zuckerberg had said the content should not be demoted, that was 20 an action that Facebook could have taken, was it not?

21 A You could always try and undo things you decided, but to Mark that wasn't

22 the spirit of the discussion. I mean, his general demeanor was to be informed by me of

23 what had happened, ask a couple of factual questions. And basically said to me and I

24 think to Joel Kaplan, you know, you guys are going to handle this, which is exactly why I

25 said earlier the buck stops with me for better or for worse.

1 Q When the decision is yet to be made about whether to enqueue and demote
2 the story, was there a diversity of opinions on that front about whether to do so in the
3 first instance?
4 A So the decision was taken very rapidly on both enqueuing and demotion. I
5 think two -- I think it was two new pieces of content, so not subsequent ones by the team
6 that I referred to earlier. And I think quite a lot of the discussion was subsequent to that 7 action having been taken, yeah.
8 Q Who do you recall in the, you know, the opinion that was being expressed
9 before the decision is made to enqueue and demote, who do you recall at the company
10 speaking out against taking that action?
11 A I don't think I was party to any debate prior to the decision being taken. I 12 was informed of the decision that an action had been taken.
13 Q Okay.
14 A So I wasn't -- because again, you know, the team was seeking to move
15 quickly. That was -- it's important to remember how much emphasis had been placed 16 after 2016 on social media companies moving quickly to react to content that might be 17 deemed to be subject to a hack-and-leak operation.
18 Q When you say -- you know, referring back to 2016.
19 A Yeah.
20 Q Because of what happened in 2016, was there an added weight given to the 21 view that the company should be more aggressive in taking down potentially leaked
22 information, more cautious --
23 A Oh, yes.
24 Q -- in permitting?
25 A Yes, there was a general assumption, which was held across the political

1 spectrum, that the -- that it was important the private sector players like us should play
2 our part in seeking to protect American democracy from foreign interference or 3 disruption. And as we discussed earlier, there being a number of instances where
4 Russian actions, whether it was hacking of this Ukrainian company Burisma. I think a 5 number of bipartisan committees here had issued calls for greater cooperation between 6 the tech sector and the FBI and other intelligence agencies, there being this instance of 7 hacking of Macron's accounts in 2017.
8 So, you know, there was extensive public, political, and societal concern about 9 what might happen in 2020. Yeah, and that's the -- that's -- we're all trapped by our 10 own history. So that's the -- that's the circumstances in which everybody was acting in 11 good faith at that time.
12 Q Once the decision's been made --
13 A Yeah.
14 Q -- morning of the 14th, to enqueue, demote the two pieces of content, do
15 you recall anyone within Facebook's leadership that criticized the decision?
16 A As a said earlier, absolutely. There were people in the team, up and down
17 the sort of hierarchy below me, if I could put it without sounding too portentous about it, 18 who -- who had a different viewpoint about whether the content should have been 19 demoted. As I said, I don't recall anyone questioning whether it should have been 20 enqueued. It was about the demotion, it was about the demotion. Absolutely there 21 was a diversity of opinion there, yeah.
22 Q Who criticized the demotion?
23 A Well, I remember that Joel Kaplan had real reservations about it. I can't -- I
24 mean, I think others too. There's definitely, you know, a number of people, but I think 25 everybody accepted that decisions had to be taken, had to be taken rapidly, you know,

1 couldn't be taken with hindsight. But I think -- yes, I think there was -- there was 2 pretty -- there was pretty live debate quite quickly internally amongst a number of 3 people, yeah.
4 Q Do you recall anyone besides Mr. Kaplan?
5 A I think [redacted] was my other direct report. I think he might have 6 also expressed misgivings about it.
7 [redacted]. You know, [redacted] again, we have documents that reflect what people
8 thought at the time. You've got them. I'm happy to have Nick look at them so he 9 doesn't have to guess.
10 [redacted] I'm happy to get to that in a moment.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q Next question was going to be, how did these communications take place --
13 A At that time, I think almost all the communications would have been either
14 by Work Chat, this -- this message board, this message group thread, on which many 15 people were, and/or by direct WhatsApp messages. So I communicate a lot by 16 WhatsApp with the people who work directly for me like [redacted] and Joel Kaplan.
17 Q Do you recall any video conference calls, like a Zoom call, phone calls during 18 this time?
19 A No. I -- I remember -- I remember a telephone call, I think it was with 20 Sheryl Sandberg, Mark Zuckerberg, and myself. But I'm just a lot -- it's just a lot
21 of -- because remember, I was doing a lot of the things at the same time. That's just the 22 nature of my role. So I was -- I know I was jumping in and out of other calls and on 23 meetings on totally different issues, unrelated issues. So I think the bulk of it would 24 have been through messages and through WhatsApp.
25 Q Do you remember if you were discussing this issue on that call you

1 referenced with Ms. Sandberg and Mr. Zuckerberg?

2 A I think there was definitely a discussion about the point you asked about

3 earlier, which is should the demotion stand and for how long should it stand.

4 Q And is it your recollection that Ms. Sandberg and Mr. Zuckerberg thought it

5 should stand for the standard 7 days?

6 A Yeah. Yeah.

7 Q To your knowledge, did anyone at Facebook reach out to Hunter Biden or 8 someone affiliated with Hunter Biden to see if the contents were affected?

9 A No. No. We did reach out to the -- we did reach out -- or the team

10 reached out to the FBI. And I remember being informed later in the day with the FBI,

11 which was news to us, because we didn't know that, when the decision was taken, that

12 the FBI had the laptop for some time. And I think it was some -- you know, this is all

13 second, thirdhand; I remember hearing that the FBI said that it was subject to a kind of 14 criminal matter, but with no explanation. So -- oh, sorry, and also that it was reported

15 to us that, in addition, the FBI said they didn't have any, at that time, indications of 16 foreign interference.

17 Q And do you recall who told you this information?

18 A I think it most likely would have come to me from the head of security, [redacted]

19 [redacted]. I think he's one of the most senior people on the thread I was on who would

20 share that kind of -- but I don't -- doesn't mean that [redacted] would have spoken to them. It

21 would have been someone else on another team, I suspect. I mean, there's a team

22 which is dedicated to that kind of thing.

23 Q And once that information has been received by Facebook -- you mentioned

24 earlier that there were two policies that were being considered. One was the hack and

25 leak and one was the signals of falsity. From Facebook's perspective, is that information

1 relevant to both policies or just --

2 A I am pretty sure that the manual demotion was amongst other criteria linked

3 to signals of falsity.

4 Q Are you generally familiar with the statement that 51 former intel officials

5 released -- it was on October 19th morning that the emails had all the classic earmarks of 6 a Russian information operation?

7 A Yes. I vaguely remember it, yeah.

8 Q Had any of those former intel officials, to your knowledge, reached out to 9 anyone at Facebook?

10 A Oh, I wouldn't know. I mean, I -- they wouldn't reach out to me directly, so

11 whether they -- I don't even remember the list of the individuals, so I cannot -- I mean, I

12 can't answer that.

13 Q Do you recall if that statement played a factor at all in the company's

14 internal discussions of how long the two pieces of content should be --

15 A I don't --

16 Q -- enqueued for?

17 A I don't recollect it playing any role. At least because I think it was a

18 statement made well after we agreed on the length of the demotion.

19 Q So once the length of the demotion was agreed upon, it wasn't revisited

20 before the end of those 7 days?

21 A As I said earlier, I do remember at one point having a brief discussion or

22 really sort of thinking whether it was any merit in -- I think there was a weekend in

23 between or something. I remember sort of thinking, well, you know, is there

24 any -- should we just sort of say, look, no fact checkers looked at this, no fact checkers

25 cast any doubt on the veracity of this, so you might as well call it a day after 5 days, but it

1 was very light and speculative. You know, it wasn't huge -- I don't remember it, I don't
2 remember that external letter playing any role in that -- that discussion at all.
3 Q When you were -- whether it was over the weekend or whenever it was in 4 this interim period, did you share those thoughts with Ms. Sandberg or Mr. Zuckerberg?
5 A Which thoughts?
6 Q That maybe it's worth reconsidering shortening the 7-day period to 5 days
7 for these pieces --
8 A I remember having a very brief exchange with Joel Kaplan and Mark
9 Zuckerberg about that. And we very quickly decided no, let's just let it run its course.
10 Q Do you recall how that exchange took place? Was it a phone call?
11 A WhatsApp.
12 Q With the third-party fact checkers --
13 A Yeah.
14 Q -- taking a step back from this story, do you understand normally when 15 something's enqueued --
16 A Yeah.
17 Q -- is any fact checker able on their -- by their own volition to review the 18 story?
19 A Are they able to?
20 Q Yeah.
21 A Yes.
22 Q So it's not a matter of -- certainly it's not Facebook assigning it to a fact
23 checker?
24 A No. But in this instance, this was the talk of the town in every kitchen table
25 around the whole country. So I mean, you'd have to be living in a cave somewhere not

1 to have been alert to this story. So every fact checker, I suspect, under their own accord
2 would've had a look at this.
3 Q But none of them reviewed the story and reported back to Facebook during 4 the 7 days?
5 A No.
6 Q So they didn't come back either way and say it was not false, it was false.
7 To your understanding, no one said anything?
8 A Right, because otherwise we would've -- yeah, that -- that -- that's why the 9 demotion was lifted.
10 Q To your understanding, is that a common development for a piece of 11 content that's been manually enqueued?
12 A I wouldn't know, because we don't manually enqueue much. So I
13 wouldn't -- I'd have to -- I wouldn't know statistically what the proportion of manually
14 enqueued content is or isn't subject to a subsequent finding from a fact checker.
15 Wouldn't know.
16 Q You had mentioned in a previous answer there was some brief discussion
17 about sending more directly to the third-party fact checkers or -- 18 A No, there was a brief discussion about whether -- whether we 19 should -- whether teams who liaised with the fact checker should reach out to them, a 20 sort of flag to them that this is being enqueued. And we decided not to do that -- or the 21 team decided not to do that.
22 Q And what was the reason?
23 A I think because there was internal debate about the original actions, there
24 was a sort of feeling of, look, and for given candidates I said earlier, the huge prominence
25 of this story, it was either practically necessary. As I say, pretty remarkable if anyone

1 was not aware of the story within minutes or hours of being published.

2 And secondly, because of this internal sort of diversity of opinion about the action

3 taken, whatever it was within an hour or 2 of the story being posted or published, there's

4 just a kind of feeling like, you know, that's been done, let's not -- let's not be any more

5 active on this issue.

6 Q Did the company ever conduct an internal investigation to assess how the 7 company handled the situation?

8 [redacted]. I instruct the client not to answer the question. Privilege.

9 BY [redacted]

10 Q Turning to -- we discussed this in one of our previous hours -- the removal

11 and then ultimate reinstatement of President Trump's account.

12 A Yep.

13 Q You mentioned that the buck stopped with you for the January 7th, 2021,

14 decision. Is that right? You were the ultimate decision-maker?

15 A Yes.

16 Q But you had shared your decision with Ms. Sandberg and Mr. Zuckerberg?

17 A Oh, yes, yes, yes. Of course.

18 Q Were they generally supportive?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Per your messages with them, either on January 6th or into January 7th,

21 were you communicating with them primarily via WhatsApp or a text function or via a

22 phone call?

23 A I think we had several telephone calls.

24 Q And was there any discussion of the length of the suspension or was it

25 primarily focused on whether or not to suspend?

1 A I would really need to refresh my memory on this. I have a feeling we took
2 an initial decision and then moved to open-ended suspension, which was then in turn
3 changed once the oversight board issued its critique of our decision. But I -- forgive me,
4 I would need to -- I need to go back to my own records to remember exactly the 5 chronology of these events. But it wasn't a one-and-done decision. It did come in 6 phases.
7 Q And so at least when it was publicly announced --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- in early June of 2021, that Facebook would be extending the suspensions
10 so that it was at least 2 years?
11 A Well, I actually think it was the reverse. I think it was reducing it from an 12 open-ended one to a 2-year.
13 Q I understand. But you were the final decision-maker for that decision as 14 well?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And like with the January 7th one, did you first consult with Ms. Sandberg,
17 Mr. Zuckerberg?
18 A I think I really just kept them informed at that point because that was in 19 response to a -- an independent critique from a report, set of recommendations from the 20 oversight board. So I kept -- I kept them informed, but I was answerable for and sort 21 of -- sort of overall responsibility for driving the internal process to arrive at that decision.
22 Q Do you recall in early January 7th if the decision to suspend the President's 23 account was popular within the company?
24 A I don't think I even asked myself that question. It was, instead, a question
25 of whether content was being shared, posted, and circulated on our platform in a way

1 that was, you know, contrary to our -- contrary to our community standards and contrary
2 to our rules.
3 Q For the decision to reinstate President Trump's account, was it the same
4 dynamic with the previous decisions where you would inform Ms. Sandberg or
5 Mr. Zuckerberg?
6 A Yes.
7 Q But, ultimately, you were the --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- decision-maker?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Who else did you deliberate with in the company leadership about this
12 decision?
13 [redacted]. We're going to allow him to answer this question, but there's no
14 government nexus. He's not President Trump at that point. He's not in the 15 government. And the investigation is about government interference content
16 moderation. And so it seems like it's out of scope. We can have that discussion
17 offline, if you want.
18 But you can answer this, but I don't think we should dwell on the details. We 19 also have not had a chance to review materials that would be able to allow us to answer 20 the question fully.
21 Mr. Clegg. Thanks.
22 Sorry, what was the last question?
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q Just who you deliberated with within the company leadership.
25 A Oh, I -- very sort of similar configuration of the key people who are on

1 content policy under [redacted], and most particularly with Joe Kaplan who oversees
2 our global policy, a number people in their teams. But also, of course, with lawyers and
3 the legal department and so on. But the principal thing is driven by our content policy
4 team under [redacted]
5 Q Okay. We've had a number of discussions, obviously, with the -- about 6 your interactions with the White House, the Office of the Surgeon General. As part of 7 your job, have you had interactions directly with the FBI?
8 A Me?
9 Q Yes.
10 A No. No, not at all.
11 Q What about with the Department of Homeland Security?
12 A No. Under the previous administra- -- what was [redacted] role?
13 [redacted]. National Security Council.
14 Mr. Clegg. I remember having a meeting with him.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q So like the one exhibit that we had looked at --
17 A Yeah.
18 Q -- the September 2020 email about the takedown of the Russian networks --
19 A Yeah.
20 Q -- with reference to meeting with U.S. Government partners.
21 A Yes.
22 Q That typically happened to teams that --
23 A Absolutely, absolutely.
24 Q -- you were not --
25 A Absolutely. Yeah. No, I wasn't involved in that myself, and I wouldn't be.

1 [redacted]. You're on exhibit 10, I believe.

2 [redacted] Thank you.

3 [Clegg exhibit No. 10.

4 was marked for identification.]

5 [redacted] This is a June 2001 internal email chain.

6 Mr. Clegg. Do I start with the back?

7 [redacted] Exhibit 10. Yes.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q First, now that you've had a moment to --

10 A Yeah.

11 Q -- review, looking at the first page, Bates No. 62660, there's a message from 12 someone at Facebook to Mr. Zuckerberg --

13 A Uh-huh.

14 Q -- describing the state of play. Is there anything in this email something 15 that stands out to you as incorrect?

16 A No.

17 Q As it's described in this email, the 2:24 p.m. email, there is a change by the 18 two of the third-party fact checkers --

19 A Uh-huh.

20 Q -- about the man-made claim of the virus?

21 A Yeah, in May '21.

22 Q Based off public reporting and other information that was in the public

23 domain by May of 2021, do you think it was late in the process for the first of the 24 third-party fact checkers to change their ratings?

25 A Oh, I'm not going to start second-guessing professional fact checkers. I

1 mean, they changed their rating then and we immediately changed our stance in 2 response.
3 Q I guess to push a little bit more, though --
4 A Yeah.
5 Q -- I appreciate the value of relying on folks who, you know, that some 6 identify as authorities in the fact-checking space. Does Facebook internally ever assess 7 whether the fact checkers are, you know, doing a good and adequate job?
8 A We certainly will sometimes look at ratings if we -- if we get, you know,
9 credible suggestions that the rating is totally at variance with other ratings. I need to 10 get back to you. I think in some instances, certain treatments of fact-checking can only 11 happen when two fact checkers find a particular finding, but I can't remember what 12 category of content that is. So I think we sometimes also -- it is a belt and braces way,
13 ensure that you can't have just one fact checker, if you like, taking matters into their own
14 hands, but I need to -- I need to ultimately refresh memory of the details of the policy 15 about which circumstances we do that.
16 So I think -- yeah, I think we do endeavor to try and make sure that it's not 17 capricious, the system, and that it's more than just one fact checker operating on their 18 own.
19 Q Was this a situation, in your view, that would warrant a review of the 20 diversity of fact checkers that Meta has available to it?
21 A My own sentiment is somewhat different. It's not so much whether the 22 fact checkers themselves should or shouldn't have said different things at different points.
23 I really do think it's very important that we as a company don't try and second-guess the 24 fact checkers, although we can't -- it's a slippery slope and you still end up being properly
25 a tech company and not arbiters of truth.

1 But I certainly think, and everybody felt this at the time, that this particular
2 decision we took in February 2021 to remove what -- you know, repeatedly fact-checked
3 so-called hoaxes, including claims about the man-made origins of or human origins of 4 COVID, only to then find ourselves reversing that, I think going back to labeling and 5 demotion or removal just by -- was it till a few -- in May, I think it was in February, May.
6 I think that certainly made me think, hmm, we really should -- you know, we should think
7 very carefully about -- as I've said throughout, you know, the proceedings, removal is our
8 ultimate sanction that we can apply to content. And I try and lead the teams in a way
9 that deploys that sanction sparingly. I don't -- I don't, as a general rule, think -- it's 10 why -- you know, it's why we really do struggle and have real internal debates about both 11 removing content or indeed removal of accounts. You're wielding very significant -- very 12 significant, you know, power over content on Facebook surfaces.
13 So I think the reflection I had from then -- from that was probably more about 14 whether it was, with hindsight -- again, everything changes slightly with 15 hindsight -- whether it was sensible for us to have removed that content for that period
16 of time from February to May. So I think that was more of a reflection I had on that 17 policy change rather than whether the fact checkers themselves should or shouldn't have 18 changed tack earlier or a different time.
19 Q Was there any consideration within the company, not about changing the 20 policy itself, which, as you said, did change from February to May or June it looks like, but 21 any change to how Facebook develops its community standards?
22 A Not so much the community standards. I mean, that evolves all the time,
23 and I think it's now a much more transparent process than it was even a few years ago.
24 As I think I mentioned in an earlier session, the meetings that the content policy team has 25 with external experts around the world is now subject to -- you know, we publish the

1 minutes, we're much more transparent about how the sort of sausage is made, if you like,
2 at the community standards.
3 I think -- you know, I think there are always process issues you can learn from in 4 these decisions. So the decision that we talked about earlier in terms of the enqueuing
5 and demotion of the New York Post stories, you know -- I mean, you can't redo things, but 6 if you were to redo things, they would be much more fully escalated than they were at 7 that time.
8 Q And what do you mean by that in the context of the New York Post story?
9 A Well, I mean that if that were to happen today, I don't think any decision to 10 manually demote something could now be taken without it being escalated to me.
11 Q And was that change because of what happened with the New York Post 12 story or just --
13 A Just passage of time, peop- -- you know, people are doing different jobs,
14 people are -- some of the decision-makers at the time are now in different roles. But 15 also, you know, given the sensitivities of these matters, I think we redoubled our efforts
16 internally to make sure that decisions are taken at the appropriate level. And clearly,
17 this was a highly consequential decision which -- or manually demoting something is a 18 highly consequential decision which, henceforth, can only be taken once it's escalated to 19 me.
20 Q We looked at an email chain from April 2021, the first exhibit.
21 A 2021?
22 Q Yes.
23 A Right.
24 Q And this is taking place, this email chain, in June of 2021. Do you recall, if 25 this refreshes your memory at all --

1 A Uh-huh.

2 Q -- whether pressure from the White House was ramping up at all related

3 to -- it's two different issues. This is related to the origin of the virus; April 2021 was 4 vaccine-related content.

5 A This topic, this particular topic --

6 Q Yeah.

7 A -- was not really something which was subject to much back-and-forth,

8 certainly not that I experienced with the White House. As I've said repeatedly, that was

9 much more about the data we were showing with the White House, our definitions of 10 misinformation, kind of what we were or were indeed we are not removing, and that

11 remained the consistent -- the consistent fault line of disagreement throughout this time,

12 throughout this time.

13 So this issue was more -- was a somewhat separate one in the sense that this was

14 wider expertise, if I could put it like that, basically taking a different view -- a different

15 view of whether this could be possible or not; in other words, whether COVID could or

16 couldn't be -- you know, could or couldn't have a laboratory or human origin rather than a

17 bat -- a bat-like origin.

18 Q So I call your attention to the last sentence of the first paragraph of the --

19 A Uh-huh.

20 Q -- email.

21 A Yeah.

22 Q And then the first sentence of the second paragraph. And there's two time

23 periods --

24 A Yeah.

25 Q -- that are being described, May 2020 and February 2021, and then from

1 February 2021 until this email.

2 A Yeah.

3 Q And based off what's being explained, it sounds like there's actually a

4 stronger step being taken in February 2021.

5 A Yes.

6 Q And then it says, "in response to continued pressure and tense conversations

7 with the new administration" --

8 [redacted]. No, it says, public pressure.

9 [redacted] Excuse me.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q "With continued public pressure and tense conversations with the new 12 administration." So is it -- I guess I'm just trying to reconcile your --

13 A Yeah, yeah.

14 Q -- previous answers where --

15 A It's a fair question.

16 Q -- the White House is having tense conversations with you.

17 A Uh-huh.

18 Q And this is part of a broader effort --

19 A Right.

20 Q -- or help me understand.

21 A No, I think it's a fair question, so let me clarify it. I think it is right to say as,

22 you know, as I've said it both -- I said it at the time and I said now, I was -- I was and I was

23 asking the team to try and be responsive, try and share more data, try and explain better,

24 try and -- and clearly that part or iteration resulted in some adjustments and tightening of 25 policies in February 2021. That is true.

1 At the same time, it's true to say that the specific issue of claims about where
2 the -- of the origins of COVID were not a major issue of discussion between me and the 3 White House or my team and the White House, you know, people we talked about 4 earlier. So I think that helps.
5 So to be clear, we made the decision. It was our decision to include this removal
6 of certain claims where previously we were demoting and labeling. And it is true were 7 doing so in the context of this email says of continued public commentary and, you know,
8 ongoing interaction of the White House for to us do more, to do more, to do more.
9 Q In the first hour, you expressed an admiration for the United States'
10 commitment to free expression and the tradition we have in this country. You know,
11 one of the concerns of, if the government gets involved in an area of speech, that there
12 are killing effects. It's not just whatever the government's request is but that there are 13 secondary effects.
14 A Uh-huh.
15 Q Do you think this is a situation here where the company felt compelled to 16 consider stronger content enforcement for issues that hadn't been raised?
17 A Well, it's -- it's complicated in the following respect. The areas where we 18 were being prevailed upon most and most repeatedly to curtail content was exactly areas
19 where we most were resistant to do so. We talked about some of it, you know,
20 Leonardo DiCaprio was misinformation. So I don't think we did exceed to the request,
21 demands, suggestions, I don't know whatever other euphemism you want to use, to ask
22 to curtail that infor- -- that content. Whereas interestingly, as I said earlier, I would 23 concede that removing content about claims which actually become subject to shifting
24 views from the experts, yeah, with hindsight I definitely would say that that was not a
25 great -- you know, it was not a great place for us to be. And certainly redoubling in my

1 own mind the care with which we have to make these -- you know, make these 2 adjustments.
3 Q If I'm understanding the first sentence of that second paragraph --
4 A Yeah.
5 Q -- correctly -- and push back if I'm not -- was the company's understanding
6 internally in February of 2021 --
7 A Sorry.
8 Q -- was the company's understanding internally in February 2021 that taking a 9 stronger enforcement against posts related to the origin of the virus --
10 A Yes.
11 Q -- would be a move that would be a sort of positive perception from current
12 administration?
13 A Well, firstly, I didn't write this. These are not my words, and so -- they're 14 the words of [redacted] who works for -- in [redacted] team that I described 15 earlier. I think it's just sort of a contextual sentence, which is kind of sort of a pretty 16 plain vanilla statement of facts that were ongoing and sometimes quite tense interaction
17 between ourselves and the administration. I don't think there's any claim in here that 18 we were going to make this change in February of 2021 and then sort of brandish it as a
19 sort of, you know, as something that we wanted to receive praise from the White House
20 for. That was not the way we worked, that's not the way we think.
21 I think we were seeking to be responsive on a number of fronts to the state of 22 heightened public concern about the societal -- I mean, it -- hundreds of thousands of 23 Americans had died by this stage, by the summer of 2021. The pandemic was still raging
24 in certain parts of the country. But on the core issues of content removal or at least of 25 content that was of greatest concern to our contacts with the White House, that wasn't

1 really affected by this change because that was not actually the -- that wasn't actually the
2 content they were most focused on. They were most focused on what they deemed to 3 be misinformation which they felt could perpetuate higher levels of vaccine hesitancy
4 than they thought was desirable.
5 Q I hear what you're saying.
6 A Yeah.
7 Q I guess, if you can help --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- me understand the timeline a little bit better.
10 A Yeah, sure.
11 Q You're connected with Mr. Slavitt's documents that have been produced to 12 us in March of 2021.
13 A Yep.
14 Q We went through the email chain in April 2021, where you're having lengthy 15 phone calls on a Sunday evening.
16 A Yep.
17 Q So certainly by March and April, you have an understanding of what the 18 White House's concerns are.
19 A Yep.
20 Q But this decision was made in February of 2021.
21 A Yeah.
22 Q So was the decision made in 2021 trying to anticipate those needs before
23 you had a better understanding of what the White House's concerns were as it related to 24 misinformation?
25 A Right, that's just sort of a question of chronology that I need to cross my

1 mind. But I think we understood two things: one, that there was a, and totally 2 understandably, a generic and generalized level of concern about the passage of the 3 pandemic, the consequence of this coronavirus, the fatalities across the country, and the 4 need to try and encourage people to vaccinate themselves and try to normalize society
5 again. And then there was a separate and rather specific thing which was persistent,
6 which was were we sharing the right data, what was our definition of misinformation,
7 were we removing enough or not.
8 I think this particular issue of where we expanded the number of repeatedly 9 fact-checked so-called hoaxes, where we expanded the list from what it was three to five
10 or five -- I can't remember what it is -- of instances that we would remove or label
11 demote was clearly taken as a response to that first generic concern that we should be 12 seeking to do all we can to try and assist as society was grappling with this coronavirus.
13 So I don't know how better to explain the links between general anxiety, 14 specific -- content-specific sort of disagreement, and our shifting stance on claims that 15 had been repeatedly shown by repeated fact checkers to be wrong, and then what we 16 then do to it.
17 That's not quite your question, but do I think that latter thing, you know, stands
18 the test of time? Perhaps not, with the benefit of hindsight, which is why I think we sort
19 of reversed course pretty quickly in May of the same year.
20 [redacted]. Can we go off the record, please?
21 [Recess.]
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q Mr. Clegg, I'm going to step away generally from that previous email chain
24 and just go back to an issue that was raised earlier that you weren't sure of the answer,
25 and that was whether or not articles are automatically or content is automatically

1 demoted after it's been enqueued.

2 A If it's been automatically enqueued, yeah.

3 Q And just to let you know, [redacted], who gave a transcribed interview

4 to this committee, testified that there was automatic demotion -- or "temporary

5 reduction" was the phrase she used -- of content when Meta sent content to fact

6 checkers, that was her testimony, but that the policy that changed in the past year.

7 A Right.

8 Q But previously at the time of --

9 A Yes, but, you know, there's a subtle but important difference. You said

10 sent to fact checkers. Whereas I think the question was whether you have automatic

11 demotion when things are automatically enqueued regardless of whether they are

12 flagged to fact checkers. I know these are distinctions in distinctions, but I just --

13 Q No, no.

14 A -- I can't remember.

15 Q And I appreciate that. And I'm not going to waste your time by looking 16 further to see --

17 A Right.

18 Q -- if you can explain that distinction. But would it be fair to say that, given

19 her responsibility, that if she had addressed it, she --

20 A She would know.

21 Q -- would know?

22 A Oh, she would know. Oh, yes, absolutely. I mean, she's closer to this on a

23 day-to-day basis than I am.

24 Q Thank you.

25 And returning to the topic of the New York Post decision.

1 A Uh-huh.

2 Q As you explained, there was significant discussion --

3 A Yeah.

4 Q -- and differences of opinion.

5 A Yeah.

6 Q And the -- you know, your team made the best decision that it could with the 7 permission that it had. Is that fair to say?

8 A That's, I think, a fair summary.

9 Q And to be clear, it was purely an internal decision, correct? It was not

10 made at the behest of any external --

11 A Absolutely.

12 Q -- stakeholder?

13 A Absolutely.

14 Q And it was an apolitical decision, correct?

15 A Absolutely.

16 Q Okay. It was not done to help the Biden campaign?

17 A Of course not.

18 Q And the decision would've been the same if the article had related to a 19 laptop belonging to a member of the Trump family?

20 A It's a decision taken just on the merits of what the team understood at that

21 time.

22 Q And I believe you stated, although I couldn't quite hear the entire answer,

23 that there was no communication with the Biden campaign regarding this decision --

24 A Well, between --

25 Q -- between Meta and the Biden --

1 A Between the appearance of the New York Post article and the action?
2 Q Correct.
3 A No.
4 Q And there -- but there was communication between individuals at Meta and
5 the FBI?
6 A Correct.
7 Q And on the --
8 A There was outreach. I don't believe that the response from the FBI was 9 received through that outreach prior to the actual action of enqueuing a demotion taking 10 place. I think the feedback was arrived at, I think, within a few hours afterwards.
11 Q But that day on the 14th --
12 A Yes, yes, yes. On that same day.
13 Q -- there was --
14 A Yeah.
15 Q -- communication with the FBI --
16 A Yes.
17 Q -- about whether or not there was evidence of foreign involvement?
18 A Yeah.
19 Q And are you aware that, several days later, there was again further
20 confirmation from the FBI that there was still no evidence of foreign involvement?
21 A I can't remember the chronology of what was said. But I do remember on 22 the day, A, learning something which I had not understood before, which is that the FBI
23 had the laptop for some time. Secondly, that it was subject to some kind of 24 criminal -- unspecified criminal matter. And thirdly, they didn't have any evidence of 25 foreign interference at that stage.

1 Q I'd like to introduce an exhibit for the record. And this is -- just so you
2 know where we're going with this, there have been claims that the FBI should have been
3 more aggressive or taken more steps to notify Facebook about the lack of dimension,
4 direction -- I'm sorry.
5 [Clegg exhibit No. 11.
6 was marked for identification.]
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q I'm going to call your attention to the second page.
9 A Can I just read it?
10 Q Of course.
11 A Okay.
12 Q Okay. I want to direct your attention on page 62322, the third paragraph 13 down, a message from [redacted] on October 18, 2020, at 11:05:49. And he says
14 that he just connected with [redacted] at FITF, which is the Foreign Influence Task Force, 15 correct, as you understand it?
16 A Yeah.
17 Q It says their assessment is consistent. "They're still not aware of any 18 evidence linking the first laptop (Delaware IT shop) to government interference. At this 19 point this assessment has not changed, they have nothing to point to re foreign 20 government connection."
21 That's what this reflects, correct?
22 A Uh-huh.
23 Q And that reflects that there was a second conversation 4 days after that --
24 A Uh-huh.
25 Q -- initial conversation. Okay.

1 [redacted]. I want to be clear, Nick is not on this exchange and the comment is
2 from [redacted] who has come and appeared before the committee himself.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q And just to be clear, the story itself, the New York Post story, it was not
5 removed from that as well from Meta.
6 A Removed? No, no.
7 Q And Meta did not freeze or suspend any accounts that shared the story?
8 A No.
9 Q And you're aware that despite Meta's decision to demote the story for that 10 7-day period, it was still shared on Facebook more than 300,000 times in the days after 11 the New York Post published it?
12 A I don't know about the statistic. I remember there's some public reporting
13 from third-party groups. So I don't -- I can't comment on the statistic. But does it
14 surprise me that, even with a demotion, something which is of such huge public interest,
15 this would still be seen by a lot of people on Facebook? No, it doesn't surprise me at all.
16 Q Thank you.
17 [redacted] That is it for us. We can go off the record. Thank you.
18 Mr. Clegg. Thank you.
19 [Recess.]

[3:52 p.m.]

[redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?

BY [redacted]

Q So we had talked about this in an earlier hour, but it was around July 15th, the Surgeon General's Office released their advisory statement and --

A Sorry. When? In July of --

Q July 15th of 2021.

A 2021. Yeah.

Q And then, a day later, President Biden makes the comments that we were discussing earlier --

A Yeah.

Q -- and singling out Facebook.

A Yeah.

Q Do you recall, did you have any advance notice that Facebook in particular would be singled out?

A In that way?

Q In that way.

A No. No.

Did we know that in general terms -- because I think both the Surgeon General and the White House spokesperson at the time had publicly repeated the now-familiar refrain about the Disinformation Dozen and why Facebook does not do more. So that was not surprising to me.

But no advance warning at all that that, sort of, form of words from the President would occur. No.

Q So the more general sense that there was frustration from the White House

1 regarding Facebook and the Disinformation Dozen, do you think it was the report that led
2 to Facebook facing more scrutiny than some of the other social media platforms?
3 A The Disinformation Dozen?
4 Q Yes.
5 A Oh, yes, I think that report -- I think that report definitely played -- appears
6 to have played a persistent and consistent role in the way in which the White House
7 perceived our efforts.
8 Q Okay.
9 A And as I described earlier, it became a source of, sort of, some exasperation
10 on my part. We couldn't properly contextualize what was very threadbare research.
11 Q Uh-huh.
12 And were you aware -- this is certainly all out in the public now, that Mr. Slavitt
13 and others were talking to multiple social media companies. Were you aware in the 14 spring and summer that similar meetings were taking place between, say, some of the 15 Alphabet products and the White House?
16 A I remember being told that somehow we were performing less well or being 17 less forthcoming than the other platforms. Never with any granularity.
18 And, again, I viewed that with some skepticism. I wasn't aware of any of the 19 other platforms running the world's largest COVID survey in the way that we were. I
20 wasn't aware of any other platform helping, certainly, millions of Americans to get 21 vaccinated. I wasn't aware of any other platform having as much traffic to our 22 authoritative COVID information center as we did.
23 So I responded to those, sort of, throwaway remarks, I think, in the same spirit. I
24 sort of thought they were probably delivered to be just a little bit -- to needle us a bit.
25 And I, to this day, have not seen any evidence that other platforms made more

1 considerable efforts than we did.

2 Q Uh-huh.

3 And we discussed part of this earlier. Your communications with Mr. Slavitt,

4 once he leaves --

5 A Yes.

6 Q -- the White House, did it continue at a similar pace, whether he was in the 7 White House role or outside the White House role?

8 A No. My recollection is that for a short period after he left the White House

9 there was some interaction, not the least my appearance on his podcast.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A And, obviously, the interaction we've seen before. But, no, it didn't 12 continue at that pace. I think it actually fell off really quite quickly.

13 Q Uh-huh. Were you in interactions with him -- actually, let me strike that

14 and re-ask.

15 When he was playing this intermediary --

16 A Yeah.

17 Q -- role in the summer of 2021, did he communicate in any way that

18 Facebook -- that the frustration levels unique to Facebook were persisting?

19 A I certainly remember -- but, again, forgive me, I can't remember the 20 chronology -- I certainly remember being told by Andy Slavitt, I think actually on a number

21 of occasions, that there was particular frustration about Facebook and that it was widely

22 held across the White House. Yes, I think he made that clear to me on a number of 23 occasions.

24 And I think on those occasions he would say to me, we've just had a meeting, and

25 it's been really disappointing, and you're not providing enough information. So that was

1 a fairly consistent --

2 Q Uh-huh.

3 A -- fairly consistent refrain, yeah.

4 Q Once this, you know, sequence of events, where there's the advisory

5 statement, [redacted] makes a statement, President Biden makes a statement, obviously --

6 A Yeah.

7 Q -- the company doesn't agree with what's being said --

8 A Yeah.

9 Q -- is that what led you to stop communicating as frequently with Mr. Slavitt?

10 Did that add tension to your --

11 A Actually, as it happens, I was fairly frustrated, interestingly enough, by the 12 way he summarized our conversation on his podcast. And I remember at that point

13 thinking, okay, I'm done with this.

14 Because I had gone on to that podcast in good faith, I tried to explain everything,

15 and he -- I think he said something like, well, they're being paid by the people who

16 kill -- and I just thought, this is just silly. And I was pretty -- I just thought, I'm done with

17 that.

18 So I think pretty soon after then there was not much more communication. I

19 thought it was a wholly inaccurate and, you know, somewhat disproportionate

20 characterization of what we were trying to do over several months.

21 Q After the summer of 2021, roughly, have you had any communications with 22 Mr. Slavitt?

23 A No.

24 Q In the earlier round, we were talking about, just in general terms Mr. Slavitt's

25 referring to lots of folks in the administration care about the issues --

1 A Yeah.

2 Q -- indicating many above him, below him.

3 Do you recall any meetings or phone calls where he brought in someone senior to

4 him as, sort of, evidence or a sign of the interest the White House had in this issue?

5 A No. No. I think he may have introduced me to the Surgeon General,

6 actually, by email. So I think that may have happened, just a little hand-off. No.

7 And, sorry, just to amplify the -- well, "amplify" -- just to explain the earlier point,

8 notwithstanding our disagreements, I'd always try to be polite and friendly and kind of

9 professional, which is why it kind of slightly surprised me, the way that I'd been trying to 10 engage was characterized in public by him in his podcast.

11 So I remember at that point very much focusing my attention to try to develop a

12 working relationship with the Surgeon General and his team.

13 Q Once you recorded the podcast, were you given a chance to review it at all

14 before it was released?

15 A I don't know. I don't think so. "I don't know" is the answer. I don't 16 know.

17 Q To your understanding --

18 A But, even as an ex-politician, I don't like listening to my own voice that much,

19 so I don't think -- I don't remember going over it in any detail.

20 Q Well, Americans appreciate the British accent.

21 A Okay, well. At least someone does.

22 Q We've obviously talked quite a bit about the interactions with Mr. Slavitt in 23 the spring and summer of 2021 and the focus on vaccine-related content.

24 At your time at Meta, do you recall any conversations with any White House

25 officials regarding issues related to inflation and how inflation is discussed on social media?

A Infla- -- prices?

Q Yes.

A No. No. No.

Q What about issues related to immigration or the U.S. southern border?

A No.

Q It sounds like conversations with Mr. Slavitt just tapered off after --

A Yes.

Q -- that time period?

Did he ever express any regret to you regarding the White House's interactions with Meta?

A No.

[redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

[Recess.]

[redacted] Can we go back on the record, please?

Mr. Clegg. Sorry. I think it was in a discussion we had earlier about the relationship between automatic enqueuing and automatic demotion.

[redacted] That's right.

Mr. Clegg. And, previously -- I now forgive myself for not remembering this, because the answer is, it depends.

If the classifier of enqueuing had a high-certainty score that it was misinformation, it was previously also then automatically demoted. But it relied upon not just being enqueued but being enqueued for possible misinformation with a certain level of certainty.

More recently, we no longer do any demotions based on content being

1 automatically enqueued in the U.S. And we've also, relatively recently, introduced
2 control so that users, on an individual basis, if they don't want to see content even after it
3 has been fact-checked, demoted, then they can switch that off.
4 So I hope that helps.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q One question. And if you don't know the answer, we'll talk to your counsel
7 and get it.
8 Because the two pieces of content were coming from the New York Post --
9 A Yes.
10 Q -- is it your understanding that they were above or below that threshold?
11 A Oh, I wouldn't know, because it was a manual enqueuing. So I can't answer
12 that question, because it wasn't subject to the -- sorry. So the level of certainty is a level 13 of certainty under the automated system, which was your --
14 Q Oh, okay. That doesn't apply to the -- 15 A -- which was your question to me, which I didn't know the answer to. Does
16 that --
17 Q Yeah, that makes sense.
18 A Does that help?
19 Q Yes.
20 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?
21 Thank you.
22 [Whereupon, at 4:02 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

1 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of Michael Pozmantier. Chairman
2 Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's investigation of how and 3 the extent to which the executive branch has coerced and colluded with companies and 4 other intermediaries to censor speech.
5 Would the witness please state your name for the record?
6 Mr. Pozmantier. Michael Pozmantier.
7 [redacted] On behalf of the committee I want to thank you for appearing here
8 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to
9 appear voluntarily.
10 My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff. And I'll have 11 everyone else from the committee who's here in the room introduce themselves as well.
12 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
13 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's office.
14 [redacted] [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.
15 [redacted] [redacted] deputy chief counsel, Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
16 [redacted] [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
17 [redacted] I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will
18 follow during today's interview.
19 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 20 1 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal
21 period of time, if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more
22 questions and the interview is over. Typically, we take a short break at the end of each
23 hour, but if you'd like to take a break apart from that, please just let us know.
24 As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything we say to 25 make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions. Do

1 you understand?

2 Mr. Pozmantier. Yes.

3 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our best

4 to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just

5 those people on the staff whose turn it is. Please try and speak clearly so the court

6 reporter can understand and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you. It

7 is important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we can help it.

8 And that goes for everybody present at today's interview.

9 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with 10 counsel if they so choose. It is my understanding that you are appearing today with 11 counsel. Is that correct?

12 Mr. Pozmantier. Correct.

13 [redacted] Could counsel please state your name for the record?

14 Ms. Dayananda. Sure. Good morning, everyone. My name is Soumya

15 Dayananda. I'm here from Willkie Farr & Gallagher. Joining me is Lindsay Hemminger

16 from Willkie Farr as well.

17 [redacted] Thank you.

18 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner

19 as possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you do not

20 understand one of our questions, please let us know. Our questions will cover a wide

21 range of topics, so if you need clarification at any point, just say so. If you honestly don't

22 know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best not to guess. Please give

23 us your best recollection, and it is okay to tell us if you learned information from someone

24 else. Just indicate how you came to know the information. If there are things you

25 don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please inform us who, to the best of your

1 knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete answer to the question.

2 You should also understand that although this interview is not under oath, that by

3 law you're required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand

4 that?

5 Mr. Pozmantier. Yes, I do.

6 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an

7 interview. Do you understand this?

8 Mr. Pozmantier. Yes.

9 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to

10 criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. Section

11 1001. Do you understand this?

12 Mr. Pozmantier. Yes.

13 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to

14 today's questions?

15 Mr. Pozmantier. No.

16 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss here

17 today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this interview

18 to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation. For the same

19 reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with the court reporter so

20 that they go in the official transcript. And any copies of those exhibits will be returned

21 to us when we wrap up.

22 That is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the

23 minority would like to add?

24 [redacted] No. I just want to practice saying your name. Mr. Pozmantier?

25 Mr. Pozmantier. Pozmantier.

1 [redacted] Pozmantier, okay. We'd just like to thank you on behalf of Mr.
2 Nadler for appearing here today.
3 Thank you.
4 [redacted] Counsel, I understand you'd like to introduce an exhibit before we get
5 started.
6 Ms. Dayananda. Yes, thanks. I have two exhibits that I'd like to introduce on 7 behalf of Mr. Pozmantier. One is the authorization letter, which I believe counsel on 8 both sides have seen; it's from the NSF. This is an authorization letter from the agency, 9 which is a good segue into stating that I'm appearing here as personal counsel for 10 Mr. Pozmantier. And in that being said, he's able to testify as far as his role at NSF.
11 He's not here to testify on behalf of the entire agency, which I think is understood, but I
12 wanted the record to be clear.
13 I also wanted to mark as the second exhibit a letter we provided to both majority
14 and minority staff yesterday, which is essentially an outline of today's of Mr. Pozmantier's
15 testimony which I think and I hope will aid the questioners in making this an efficient
16 process.
17 So if that could be -- I don't know, are you doing numbers or letters?
18 [redacted] We'll do numbers.
19 Ms. Dayananda. Okay.
20 [redacted] So we'll do exhibit 1 --
21 Ms. Dayananda. And 2.
22 [redacted] -- as the letter from the agency and exhibit 2 the letter from you.
23 [Pozmantier Exhibit Nos. 1 and 2
24 marked for identification.]
25 Ms. Dayananda. Right.

1 And just a couple more housekeeping. So on the confidentiality statement that
2 you just made, as I mentioned, Mr. Pozmantier is here on behalf of -- regarding his role at 3 NSF. I do anticipate and don't see an issue with him relaying the substance of this 4 interview back to NSF. I'm not saying he's going to speak in his personal capacity to 5 friends and family or the press, but indeed as far as relaying what the questions were to 6 NSF staff considering he's here as an employee of the NSF. So just wanted to make sure
7 that that's clear to you.
8 [redacted] We would ask the witness to maintain confidentiality. I'm happy to 9 have a discussion as far as who he feels he needs to inform at the agency. We 10 obviously -- this is part of an ongoing investigation --
11 Ms. Dayananda. Sure.
12 [redacted] -- so we want to make sure we are not authorizing people to speak
13 widely and undermining --
14 Ms. Dayananda. Understood. I just don't know the basis for the confidentiality
15 in this particular instance. I wouldn't understand it elsewhere also, but for here, in 16 terms of him being -- again, he started at NSF in 2020. He's here about his role as a
17 program director. The NSF production process is ongoing. I think, again, in the matter 18 of efficiency, it'd be helpful if he informs them what the substance of this is.
19 We can talk about the parameters, but I just wanted to make sure that he's 20 not -- you know, it doesn't run afoul of any of your direction.
21 [redacted] Okay.
22 Ms. Dayananda. The other two just housekeeping is I know there'll be a
23 transcript here. We'd want to have the opportunity to review it, provide errata before 24 it's published or used -- or any, you know, like excerpts are used. So we want to have an 25 errata sheet as well.

1 [redacted] On the confidentiality front, again, we'd ask the witness maintain the
2 confidentiality. If at the end of the interview you'd like to discuss, you know, what's 3 appropriate to discuss with like a supervisor, something like that, we can do that at the 4 end. But the ground rule remains as it is; we ask for confidentiality to be maintained.
5 As far as the opportunity to review, you absolutely can -- we will notify you as 6 soon as we receive a copy of the transcript and you'll have an opportunity to come to the 7 committee's room and review and, you know, submit errata.
8 Ms. Dayananda. Okay, great. We'll take up the confidential issue at the end,
9 but we can -- that's it for my side.
10 [redacted] Great.
11 You have anything to add on this one?
12 [redacted] No, thank you.
13 [redacted] It is 10:06. We will start the first hour of questioning.
14 EXAMINATION
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q Could you please restate your full name for the record ?
17 A Michael Pozmantier.
18 Q And what is your current place of employment?
19 A National Science Foundation.
20 Q What is your current title?
21 A Program director.
22 Q And how long have you worked in that role?
23 A Since January 2020.
24 Q Beginning with college, what is your educational background?
25 A A bachelor's degree, University of Texas.

1 Q And what is your professional background in government?
2 A My professional background in government?
3 Q What experience do you have in government?
4 A I've worked as a contractor in the Federal Government. I've worked as a
5 Federal employee at Department of Homeland Security, and a contractor at the 6 Department of Veterans Affairs, and government employee at the National Science
7 Foundation.
8 Q Are you familiar with the terms "misinformation," "disinformation," and 9 "malinformation"?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And to your understanding, what are the differences in knowing those 12 terms?
13 A Disinformation is intentional. It is, say, what the Russian state is doing
14 against us. Misinformation is generally unknowingly conveying that disinformation.
15 And malinformation is taking something that has a kernel of truth and spinning a different
16 narrative around it.
17 Q And to your understanding, is disinformation only foreign based?
18 A No.
19 Q It can be domestic as well?
20 A It's usually the intent that's behind it that determines it.
21 Q Okay. And how does NSF define those terms? Would you say that your 22 definition aligns with NSF's definition as well?
23 A I don't know that NSF has an official definition. Those are the definitions of 24 them, as far as I know, in the field.
25 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the terms -- or the term "inauthentic

1 behavior"?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And to your understanding, how does NSF define inauthentic behavior?

4 A I don't know that NSF actually defines them, but I know, generally,

5 inauthentic behavior is defined as, say, fake accounts, fake personas, things like that.

6 Q Okay. Which NSF directorate is NSF's Convergence Accelerator program

7 housed within?

8 A TIP, Technology, Innovation and Partnerships.

9 Q Okay. When was the TIP directorate established and what is its goal?

10 A It was established through the CHIPS Act. And I believe it's been around for 11 2 to 3 years now. The dates escape me.

12 Q Does its goal include developing trustworthy AI systems?

13 A I don't -- that's not a specific goal of TIP.

14 Q In addition to Track F, which other tracks do you lead?

15 A Track D, which is AI innovation.

16 Q And which NSF teams do you interact with most frequently?

17 A The Convergence Accelerator team, the team with ITE, which is the division

18 of TIP that we're in, and the TIP team.

19 Q And as a program director for NSF's Convergence Accelerator program, what 20 are your responsibilities?

21 A To oversee the teams that are awarded under my tracks, to assist with the

22 ideation process in the Convergence Accelerator where we determine topics, to oversee

23 the review process for proposals, participate in the solicitation writing process.

24 Generally, managing the, I don't know, bureaucratic aspects of, you know, awarding,

25 overseeing, et cetera.

1 Q And who do you report to?
2 A The section head for Convergence Accelerator, Doug Maughan.
3 Q Okay. How many people report directly to you?
4 A None.
5 Q How -- do you have a team that goes along with you or are you kind of on 6 your own?
7 A We have a team in the Convergence Accelerator that does various support
8 functions, but they don't report to me. And I generally manage my teams on my own.
9 Q You mentioned Douglas Maughan. Is that correct?
10 A Yes.
11 Q What does he do?
12 A He oversees the Convergence Accelerator.
13 Q How frequently do you work with him in relation to Track F?
14 A I mean, specifically with Track F, I mean, I guess during staff meetings he 15 might ask for updates. But outside of that, it's -- right now, given where we are with the 16 track, it's fairly far along, there's just normal oversight activities and there's not much
17 going on other than the teams doing their work.
18 Q Was Mr. Maughan involved in the decision-making process regarding what 19 Track F would be, the topic for it?
20 A Among many others, yes.
21 Q Does he work in any way with the Track F teams on their projects?
22 A No.
23 Q Do you know a Chaitanya Baru?
24 A Chaitanya.
25 Q Chaitanya?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Who is he?

3 A Chaitanya is I think right now -- I'm not sure what his official title is, but he's

4 a -- maybe a technical adviser, senior adviser in TIP.

5 Q How frequently do you interact with him?

6 A I don't know, maybe once a month, every couple of months. It depends.

7 Q Is he involved with Track F at all?

8 A No.

9 Q Okay. How frequently do you interact with the Office of the NSF Director in 10 relation to Track F?

11 A I don't know that I ever have directly.

12 Q Do you have a primary point of contact?

13 A Everything goes through the chain of command.

14 Q Okay. Do you know Amanda Greenwell?

15 A No.

16 Q Do you know Mike England?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Who is he?

19 A He's in the Office of Leg and Public Affairs, and he's one of the people that 20 handles media.

21 Q How often have you interacted with Mr. England in relation to Track F?

22 A The only times I've interacted with Mike is when somebody from the press

23 sends a inquiry directly to me and I pass it to him, which is proper procedure.

24 Q How often would that be?

25 A They come in waves. We might get, you know, a handful, three or four.

1 Or, actually, not even that many. I'm trying to think. I think throughout the entire
2 process, that I can remember, it's less than five, maybe five or so at times that I've gotten 3 stuff. So occasionally I'll let him know if I see an article so that they're aware.
4 Q Did you consult with Mr. England in relation to a Track F media strategy?
5 A No.
6 Q Why not?
7 A We developed -- well, we didn't develop anything. We had a meeting to 8 discuss ideas for what should be -- you know, thinking about how things could be 9 handled, how we could educate people. The Track F principal investigators and teams
10 have an enormous amount of expertise in that space. They're former journalists, 11 communications, et cetera. And so we brought them -- and many of them have been 12 dealing with issues of harassment and other things for a number of years. And so we 13 brought them together to brainstorm and put ideas together. And we captured that,
14 the notes from that, in what was titled the media strategy. But that never actually went 15 beyond that meeting.
16 Q So no one from the Office of Legislative or Public Affairs was contacted?
17 A No.
18 Q Is that typical if you're going to create a strategy for a particular track?
19 A It depends.
20 Q How does it depend?
21 A It depends what you're doing. I mean, in this case, the initial plan was if we 22 had -- if we had actually developed anything further that would have warranted us going
23 to them, we would have spoken to them about it. But we had the one meeting.
24 We passed around notes from the meeting. People commented, and then nothing 25 happened after that.

1 Q So there was no training that followed?

2 A Nothing followed it.

3 Q Okay. Who else in NSF's Office of Legislative and Public Affairs did you

4 engage with in relation to Track F?

5 A I guess the only other person is -- since all this stuff's happening -- Rob

6 Moller.

7 Q And how about in relationship to the Track F media strategy? No one else?

8 A No.

9 Q Okay. Do you know Anita Nikolich?

10 A Yes.

11 Q What is the nature of your interactions with Ms. Nikolich?

12 A She's a co-PI on one of the projects.

13 Q Was she involved in the development of the Track F, you know, ideation

14 process?

15 A No.

16 Q She was not.

17 A Oh, I take that back. She was involved with the workshop on inauthentic

18 behavior at the University of Chicago.

19 Ms. Dayananda. Mike, I'm going to ask you to keep your voice up, because I feel 20 like you're speaking low.

21 Mr. Pozmantier. Okay. Yep.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Do you know Phil Stupak?

24 A Yes, I do.

25 Q Has Mr. Stupak played any role in the creation or operation of Track F?

1 A He was involved with the workshop at the University of Chicago.
2 Q Have you remained in contact with him?
3 A I haven't talked to Phil since.
4 Q Okay. What about Mary Hanley? Are you familiar with her?
5 A The name is familiar, but I can't remember.
6 Q You managed and led and assessed Track F program. Is that correct?
7 A I lead it, yes.
8 Q Okay. Did you also play a role in its creation?
9 A In as far as any program director does when we're assigned a topic, I was 10 the -- we -- the ideation process, we each have topics that we're in charge of. And as far
11 as workshops goes, we're backup to a workshop. I happened to be the backup on that 12 inauthentic behavior workshop, and then helped shepherd it through the process
13 of -- decision-making process, as I did for other tracks like the food and nutrition security
14 track; that's I think Track J.
15 Q Okay. You said you were the backup?
16 A There -- each workshop is assigned two program directors. One's the lead,
17 one's the backup, and I happened to be the backup on that one.
18 Q Okay. Did you play any role in advising what the workshop would be 19 about?
20 A We don't do that.
21 Q What was the purpose of the Track F program?
22 A What is the purpose of it?
23 Q Yes.
24 A That's a pretty broad question. Can you be more specific?
25 Q Sure. What -- well, based off of the program solicitation, it outlines

1 different, you know, objectives. In your words, what would you find those -- what is the 2 ultimate objective?
3 A The ultimate objective is to inform people so they can discern information
4 better. In my view -- well, I think if you look at what we're trying to do there, if you look 5 at the projects that we funded, it's to get information out and allow people to make their 6 own decision -- informed decisions about information that they're confronted with.
7 Q Would the tools funded by this program reduce the spread of 8 misinformation, in your view?
9 A It wouldn't reduce the spread of it, no.
10 Q Do -- the tools funded by this program, do any involve the use of AI?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Which ones?
13 A Course Correct, Co-Insights, and ARTT.
14 Q Were any developed with social media companies in mind as the end user?
15 A No.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q I just want to take a step back. Going back to the ideation process Track F, 18 you said there were a number of people involved.
19 A Right.
20 Q To your understanding, who else was involved?
21 A I mean, the entire office is involved in some way. As we outlined in the 22 letter that we sent you and I believe you guys have been briefed on by Irwin, the ideation
23 process consists of us putting out an RFI for anybody in the general public anywhere to 24 submit ideas to us. And I believe -- again, we have the numbers in the letter -- I believe 25 it's 170 ideas that we got.

1 We then cull those down into groupings and come up with kind of headline
2 topic -- umbrella topics that have different ones underneath them. And then we work
3 those down and determine -- ask the people that submitted those ideas whether they 4 would like to run a workshop or not.
5 And then do that -- but through that entire process, we're -- you know, the entire
6 office and other folks are involved with that process of filtering it down. And then once 7 we've done the workshops, we have the workshop reports, and those go through our 8 office and other groups at NSF to make final decisions, including NSF leadership.
9 Q We were referring to -- is it Mr. Maughan? Am I saying his last name
10 correct?
11 A Maughan.
12 Q Maughan?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Who's Mr. Maughan's direct report?
15 A Who does he report up to?
16 Q Yes.
17 A I would think it's Thyaga, and I -- don't ask me to pronounce his last name.
18 Sorry, I should be able to, but --
19 Q What's Thyaga's title?
20 A He's the ITE director or head.
21 Q And then, I'm sorry if I misunderstood a previous answer. You said you 22 don't have folks, like a direct, any reports or a team, but then another answer you're 23 referring to teams. Are you referring to the outside teams you work with?
24 A It depends on the context. I'm not sure which one you're referring to.
25 But we have -- we fund the research teams. And so they don't direct -- I don't -- we

1 don't call them direct reports because they don't work for National Science Foundation.
2 As any program director at NSF is, you oversee the awards that you've -- you're in charge
3 of. In our office, we have various staff assistants, contractors that perform different
4 functions, but they don't report to me.
5 Q And who do they generally report to? What's the office hierarchy?
6 A Depends on the function, I guess, but I guess ultimately everybody reports to 7 Doug.
8 [redacted] Okay.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q I want to go back to a question I just asked a moment ago about which 11 projects involve AI. You said Course Correct, Co-Insights, and ARTT. What about 12 WiseDex?
13 A WiseDex is not funded anymore.
14 Q So maybe I should rephrase the question. In the relationship of all Track F
15 funded programs.
16 A I mean, I want to be clear about this because I think there's a
17 misunderstanding of the process of our program. When we fund things in Phase I,
18 they're mostly doing a curriculum. And they might be building a little bit. But once we 19 stop funding them at Phase II, what they do is not -- I mean, they're -- they can do what 20 they want to. It's not our oversight any longer.
21 WiseDex was not awarded Phase II funding to actually, you know, focus on 22 building anything.
23 Q It was awarded Phase I funding?
24 A Yes. And Phase I consists of mostly doing curriculum and maybe
25 doing -- and doing a lot of interviews and things like that. There was never a WiseDex

1 system that was built during Phase I.

2 Q And how much money did WiseDex receive from NSF in Phase I?

3 A Some -- the cap is $750,000, so somewhere in there.

4 Q And you're saying that that money was not used to build any systems?

5 A They might have been starting to build, but you have to understand that

6 these systems don't -- systems like these don't just get built in a few months. And we're

7 not -- we don't budget time for them to build during Phase I. They're doing curriculum,

8 they're doing training, they're doing interviews to validate the problem that they're trying

9 to solve and validate the solution that they're trying to -- they're planning on building.

10 Phase II, when they have more time and more money, they supposed to focus more on 11 building. So they might build some kind of a proof of concept.

12 But in WiseDex's case, their project was wholly dependent on getting data from a 13 social media platform, which I believe they've never had access to.

14 Q How long is Phase I?

15 A Most of it is -- part of it is 9 months, but it's a 1-year award.

16 Q How frequently did you interact with WiseDex during that Phase I timeline?

17 A We had almost weekly curriculum with them, where they were learning

18 things like team science and human-centered design, and communication skills and things

19 like that. So beyond that, we might have had a, I don't know, a monthly meeting or so

20 where I would talk to the PI, as I did with all the teams. And I might attend, when

21 possible.

22 No, I didn't -- in Phase I don't attend all these meetings.

23 Q When did NSF first consider funding projects to combat misinformation?

24 A I guess when we decided on it being a track, after the ideation process.

25 Q So to your understanding, is Track F focused on mis- and disinformation?

1 A It's focused on mitigating the impacts of it.

2 Q So is that a yes?

3 Ms. Dayananda. I think he answered it the way -- in a full answer.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Are you aware of the Secure and Trustworthy Cyberspace program?

6 A SaTC, yes.

7 Q To your understanding, is it focused on mis- and disinformation?

8 A It's focused on many things. They have a range of awards, but I don't work

9 in SaTC. I don't know what all their awards are.

10 Q Right. My question was not whether or not you work in SaTC but whether,

11 to your understanding, it involves or relates to some of the projects related to mis- and

12 disinformation?

13 A I believe they have funded some things, but I can't answer anything beyond

14 that because I don't know. I don't -- I have my own projects to oversee.

15 Q When did NSF first consider a Convergence Accelerator track to address

16 misinformation?

17 A I've already answered that.

18 [redacted] I didn't hear. What was the end of your question?

19 [redacted] To address misinformation or --

20 Mr. Pozmantier. I mean, I just answered that. After the ideation process.

21 Ms. Dayananda. So perhaps it's helpful if he goes through the solicitation, the

22 ideas that he said, you know, came in 107 ideas, the groupings of that, and then it

23 becomes Track F. So that's the linear process. So to answer your question -- he 24 answered it earlier, but a fuller picture might be helpful.

25 [redacted] Right. So I'm not sure if he answered it in relation to misinformation

1 when -- the idea of it being a focus on misinformation.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Because correct me if I'm wrong, but to my understanding the workshop was

4 focused largely on inauthentic behavior. Is that correct?

5 A Which is part and parcel with mis- and disinformation.

6 Q So you don't see a difference between the two?

7 A They are different aspects of the same larger issue.

8 Q Okay. And so misinformation was a primary focus of the workshop?

9 A They talked largely about -- and I -- you're asking about a workshop that was

10 conducted in 2020. I don't remember all the specifics of it. But, I mean, the 11 inauthentic behavior aspect of it is when you look at how things are propagated, a lot of 12 it's through fake accounts, through false personas. So, you know, we see a lot of this

13 with, you know, Russian intelligence-related things, Chinese related. They create whole

14 systems of fake accounts, fake personas online, and then propagate information through

15 there.

16 Q Did the NSF director sign off on the topic for Track F?

17 A I'm not sure if he did or not. It goes up to some level of leadership, but

18 when it gets to that point, I'm not involved with it.

19 Q Okay. Do you know who had to sign off, to your knowledge, on the Track F

20 solicitation or topic?

21 A TIP director and maybe some others.

22 Q How often did you meet with the Track F teams?

23 A At what stage?

24 Q Let's start in -- before you issued the award or when you were -- or maybe

25 we could start with after Phase I funding.

1 A So Phase II?

2 Q Or --

3 A So after we awarded -- made Phase I awards?

4 Q That's correct.

5 A Yeah. So I would meet -- so Phase I is 12 teams. And we're going to cut
6 that down in Phase II, which means that I have to limit my interactions with the teams to 7 some degree because there's still a selection process, a competitive process for a bigger
8 award for Phase II. So we would have them in the curriculum on almost a weekly basis, 9 some weeks here and there off, or them doing different activities, but generally we're
10 seeing them then. I'm not necessarily interacting with them during curriculum, but I 11 might meet with them about once a month just to make sure what's going on and if they 12 have any issues or anything else, any concerns, get kind of a heat check on how the 13 team's doing, things like that.

14 Q And what do you mean by heat check?

15 A Just to see how they're doing with the curriculums, because this is a 16 different type of program for most academics. Most of the teams are academic-led and 17 we're pushing them out of their comfort zone, so just making sure. And the teams are 18 bigger than they might be used to. The program is much more active than a typical NSF
19 program. Most NSF basic research grants give you the money and you go do the 20 research. Ours, you get the money and you do curriculum. And so it's a very, very 21 time-consuming program compared to others. So just making sure how all that's going 22 for them.

23 [redacted] Why was that needed for this program?

24 Mr. Pozmantier. It's an accelerated program, so we're trying to team them how 25 to build products. Basic research results typically in papers and things like that,

1 knowledge, but it's not -- doesn't always -- it's not applied research or product build.
2 And so what we're expecting them to do is to go through that entire process of applying
3 their knowledge and building something tangible that's going to come out of it. And so
4 there's a lot that goes into doing those types of things. And when you've pretty much
5 done only basic research your entire career, there's -- it's -- you know, it's new deep
6 waters.
7 BY [redacted]
8 Q So it sounds like a very kind of hands-on process. Is that correct?
9 A As far as the training goes, yes.
10 Q And so what did you discuss in these weekly curriculum meetings or monthly
11 meetings?
12 A As I mentioned, we train them on team science, human-centered design,
13 and communications.
14 Q And did you advise them on their individual projects?
15 A I can't advise them that much on them because there's a competitive
16 process for Phase II.
17 Q So is that -- you didn't advise them or you did advise them that much?
18 A I mean, there's -- I can't get into great detail on what they're doing because 19 it would potentially be giving one project an advantage over another when we have to 20 make selections. So there's some broad advice, but it's not -- I'm not getting into the 21 nuts and bolts of what they're doing.
22 Q And can you give me an example or explain a little more what you mean by 23 broad advice?
24 A Just things about thinking about, you know, partnerships or thinking about 25 assimilating, you know, the feedback that they've gotten from end users that they've

1 interviewed, things like that. But I'm not telling them you need to build this, you need
2 to build that, you need to focus here, you need to focus there.
3 Q When it comes to partnerships, what typically would you recommend or 4 advise on or --
5 A Just making sure that if they're planning on working with a specific group of 6 people that they have some representative partnerships. And an example of that would
7 be a project that we have at the University of Washington that's focused in rural libraries
8 in Black communities. And you would expect them to see librarians and representatives
9 of the Black community in Seattle where they're working to be involved with the team.
10 Q Did you advise WiseDex on any partnerships?
11 A No.
12 Q Did you participate in any all-hands meetings with the Track F teams?
13 A I don't believe I did in Phase I. I know I do in Phase II.
14 Q Okay. Were there any other meetings in Phase I that you can think of?
15 A Maybe some ad hoc meetings here and there where we brought the entire 16 track together to discuss different things.
17 [redacted] When you're having communications with these teams in Phase I, are 18 you joined by anyone else at NSF?
19 Mr. Pozmantier. It depends on the topic, but, generally, no.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Let's talk about Phase II. Walk me through what kinds of meetings and 22 how you would advise the teams in these meetings?
23 A In Phase II, so I -- starting at the beginning of Phase II I usually meet with the 24 lead principal investigator or the leadership team every couple of -- every about 2 weeks,
25 particularly as they ramp up. So I might be advising them on things like, you know,

1 when to bring on software developers or engineers to help start building their system.
2 If they're looking at -- in some cases, you know, they have personnel problems, and I'm 3 helping them navigate management of the team and things like that in that sense, just 4 advice. They have to deal with those relationships. I don't have any say in who is on
5 the team or who isn't, but just kind of a sounding board for the PIs because these teams
6 get really big.
7 Some of the teams in Phase II can be 20, 30, 40, 50 people, and that's quite a lot
8 to manage. So sometimes the PIs just need a place to vent or, you know, bounce some 9 ideas off and things like that. They're thinking about business models, how they're 10 going to sustain the project after their award is done, things like that.
11 Q So you would meet with the PIs themselves as well as the teams collectively?
12 A I would go to their all-hands meetings, which are generally about a monthly
13 basis. And then we occasionally have -- and then I usually go and meet with them in 14 person one time early in the process. So travel out to one of the institutions and meet
15 the team in person. And because we're coming out of the pandemic, most of the teams 16 hadn't met in person in that particular cohort yet so it was a way to get them together as
17 well.
18 Q And what did you discuss in these all-hands meetings?
19 A Usually it's just them working on their team stuff. So what their planning
20 is, their progress, and things like that. Usually I'm just observing.
21 Q Would you ever provide updates or briefings in these meetings?
22 A I think the only time I would update them on it is if there was anything in 23 NSF that was going on or, you know, things like that.
24 Q Can you recall any instances of updating them on something that was going
25 on at NSF?

1 A I mean, this stuff obviously enga- -- involves all of them, so --

2 Q What do you mean by this stuff?

3 A The interest from the committee, this committee, and others.

4 Q And what specifically did you tell them at these meetings with regard to

5 that?

6 A Just that we were getting inquiries.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q For these meetings, just the general meetings and Phase II, are you typically

9 joined by anyone else from NSF?

10 A No.

11 Q And then, once Phase II is going on, what percent of your portfolio, like of 12 your day, is taken up as it relates to managing Phase II Track F?

13 A I have two portfolios, so --

14 Q Track D and Track F?

15 A Yeah. I don't -- I mean, there's no -- I don't think there's an average on a 16 given day. Just depends on what's going on.

17 [redacted] Would you say that you provided regular feedback to the Phase I

18 recipients of Track F grants?

19 Ms. Dayananda. I don't think he said feedback.

20 [redacted] Right.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q But my question is, would you say that you provided regular feedback?

23 We'll just talk about Phase I right now.

24 A Phase I? I mean, I don't give them a lot of feedback. I mean, the only

25 things we might give them feedback on are some of the curriculum items and things like

1 that, if they've given a practice pitch or something like that. But there's not a lot of 2 feedback on like what we're observing and you need to do this, you need to do that.
3 Q So you wouldn't regularly advise them on their projects?
4 A Again, it was mostly -- if we advised them on anything, it was just navigating
5 the program.
6 Q Okay. And shifting to Phase II, would you provide regular feedback or 7 would you say you provided regular feedback to the teams regarding their Phase II
8 projects?
9 A Yes.
10 Q So what feedback did you provide to Course Correct, for example?
11 A I mean, it's the same feedback that I already described to you, where we're 12 talking to them about, you know, when they need to be thinking about starting to bring 13 on different skill sets, what potential sustainment models they might be pursuing, and so 14 forth. But I'm not -- and they're running their projects on a day-to-day basis.
15 Q Did you provide any updates to NSF leadership or to Mr. Maughan regarding 16 the Track F projects?
17 A I mean, we get feedback on their progress, how they're progressing, are they 18 hitting milestones and so on.
19 Q Did you pass any feedback that you were providing to these teams to NSF
20 leadership or to Mr. Maughan? And maybe I could ask you to clarify who you provided 21 those to.
22 A I mean, we have staff meetings in the Convergence Accelerator.
23 Occasionally, we'll brief at a TIP all-hands meeting or an ITE all-hands meeting. That's 24 pretty much it.
25 Q You mentioned briefing at a TIP meeting. Do you recall a particular

1 instance when you briefed the TIP directorate on Track F?

2 A I -- somewhere along I know I did at one point where we just gave an

3 overview of the projects that we had funded.

4 Q Do you know why you were asked to give this presentation? Was it routine

5 or --

6 A It's routine, and it rotates between different program directors presenting

7 what they're doing.

8 Q Did you only give one of these or how many of these?

9 A I believe there was just one.

10 Q Okay. Did you review each Track F proposal both for Phase I and Phase II?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Did you review Michigan -- the University of Michigan's WiseDex --

13 A I mean, let's clarify review. I read them so I understand what's going on,

14 but we have review panels that actually do reviews.

15 Q And after those review panels do the review, are you given those reviews?

16 Are they written down?

17 A Again, you know, we've provided you guys with the process, but the 18 reviewers submit the reviews ahead of a review panel. And they have each of their

19 reviewers that reviewed a given proposal discuss their reviews, why they gave it the

20 scoring that they did, and then they come to a consensus ranking on it -- or a

21 categorization on it. And that's largely what we take into consideration when we're 22 making selections.

23 Q If you wanted to review those reviews today, would you be able to reference

24 those?

25 A I can't discuss specific reviews with you.

1 Q But if you personally wanted to go and look back --

2 A If I went into -- inside an NSF system, yes, they're housed there. There are 3 records.

4 Q And in relationship to those reviews, are they -- they're passed on to you for

5 your review, is that correct, from the panelists?

6 A They -- so let me go through the mechanics of a review. We identify

7 reviewers that are subject matter experts and we try to match them to projects. In any

8 case you have to have a minimum of three reviews on a given proposal. So in this case

9 we assigned three reviewers to the proposal. And they go in to -- they have a login to an

10 NSF review system. After they read the proposal, they write a review, they submit the 11 review into our system.

12 We meet in a review panel over a day or two where every proposal is discussed.

13 And in case of Phase I, we had four separate panels because there were, I think, 75 odd

14 proposals that came in. And so we divide them up so that they're manageable, typically

15 by topic and availability of reviewers. And then we -- you know, there's also a panel

16 summary written by the group of reviewers on a given proposal, and then all of that is

17 taken into consideration. And so we do reference those things when we're making

18 decisions. The reviewers have the views of the reviewer -- or the scoring and ranking of 19 the reviewers have carried considerable weight in the process.

20 Q And just to clarify, you're part of each review panel. Is that correct?

21 A For Phase I, I ran three of the four. For Phase II, I ran both of them.

22 Ms. Dayananda. I just want to clarify. But are you part of the panel, is his 23 question, or are you overseeing?

24 Mr. Pozmantier. I'm overseeing the panel, I run the panel. I make sure.

25 [redacted] You ran the four -- you said three or four?

1 Mr. Pozmantier. Three or four. There were four panels that we ran. Two of
2 them overlapped, so another person ran the fourth panel, or I think as far as chronology
3 goes, the second panel.
4 [redacted] Do you recall who that was?
5 Mr. Pozmantier. It was Chaitanya Baru.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q And then you said that you got three subject matter experts per panel. Is
8 that correct?
9 A No. There's a panel of 15 or 20 of them. No -- no reviewer -- the way I
10 run my panels, and this is how -- this differs from program director to program director.
11 I don't assign more than three review -- three proposals to a single reviewer. So, for 12 instance, if we have, you know, 10 proposals, then we'll need enough reviewers so that 13 they're only doing three each.
14 Q Gotcha. And you mentioned that there are subject matter experts.
15 A Yes.
16 Q When it comes to Track F, what kind of subject matter expert were you 17 looking for?
18 A Well, you guys have that actually in the email. You released it in the report.
19 It's stated in the email the different areas that we were looking for covering in that, from 20 computer science, psychology, education, a number of others. Right now some of them
21 escape me. But we were looking for a broad swath of disciplines and expertise to cover 22 the various proposals that we thought we were going to get.
23 Q Were you looking for subject matter experts in mis- and disinformation?
24 A They would have some knowledge of that, but there's also other aspects of 25 the project. So if you're trying to, for instance, create a training system, you might have

1 somebody that's an expert in education or those types of systems. They wouldn't 2 necessarily be somebody that's mis- and disinformation. It's focused. But they
3 understand how to build education programs.
4 Q Do you recall reviewing WiseDex's abstract -- let me step back for a second.
5 When the Track F grantees receive funding, they are required to put together an
6 abstract. Is that correct?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And did you review each abstract?
9 A Yeah, I guess so. I -- I'm sure I did. I don't remember specifically 10 reviewing that one.
11 Q You don't -- do you recall what the WiseDex program did?
12 A Yes, I know what the WiseDex program did.
13 Q Did you have any concerns or can you recall having any concerns about it?
14 A It's a Phase I project at that point so, you know, whether we -- it's not
15 building anything at that point. And most of the projects pivot as they talk to people
16 and move forward. So, you know, it's -- no, no concerns.
17 Q No concerns because it's only Phase I or no concerns at all?
18 A I mean, if you look at what any given project's doing, I didn't -- I wasn't 19 concerned about what they were doing, no.
20 Q So I'm happy to enter this or I can represent to you that the abstract says
21 that the WiseDex team will develop a golden set service that will help a social media
22 platform determine what content is misinformation that deserves enforcement each
23 month. Does that sound familiar?
24 A Uh-huh, yes.
25 Q To your understanding, how would WiseDex determine what content was

1 misinformation?

2 A They actually -- WiseDex was not determining what was misinformation.

3 Q Okay.

4 A WiseDex was flagging things that violated the terms of service for the

5 content moderations teams to make decisions on. And then the plan was to bring

6 transparency to that process by scoring how well the content moderations teams were

7 abiding by their own terms of service.

8 Q Okay.

9 A So just be really, really clear here, WiseDex itself was not doing content

10 moderation. It was simply mapping a post to the terms of service of the platform.

11 Q So you'd say it was helping the platform to do content moderation, not --

12 A And subsequently scoring how well they did it. So the entire part of it was 13 to bring transparency to the process, so content moderation wasn't a black box.

14 Q And then the abstract also says that the WiseDex team will develop a

15 forecasting application programming interface, or API, that can tell a social media

16 platform for any content item how true that content is to aid in the platform's decision

17 procedures.

18 A So that's where they started in Phase I.

19 Q Okay. And how would WiseDex assess the veracity of content?

20 A My understanding was, if I remember this correctly, they were going to have

21 a jury of citizens representing different viewpoints making that determination.

22 Q And who would be made up, like, composed of this jury?

23 A As I just stated, it would be people from different viewpoints.

24 Q You don't know anything apart from that?

25 A That's -- I mean, the project never got to that point, to that stage. So that

1 was what they were saying they were going to do.

2 Q Okay. Did you provide any feedback to the WiseDex team based on this

3 abstract?

4 A No.

5 Q Okay. Did you review MIT -- the Search Lit team's proposal?

6 A I read every one of the 74 proposals that came in.

7 Q Did you have any concerns about that specific proposal?

8 A No. I don't know why I would.

9 Q Do you recall the MIT researchers in that proposal alleging that, you know,

10 certain segments of the population might be more vulnerable to misinformation

11 campaigns?

12 A They did not allege that.

13 Q The Search Lit team's proposal, correct me if I'm wrong, seems to explain the 14 need for a proactive suite of human technologies to assist specific groups with 15 digi- -- dangerous digital content.

16 Ms. Dayananda. Is that from the abstract?

17 [redacted] Yeah.

18 Mr. Pozmantier. I mean, I don't know why you're pulling from the abstract when 19 you guys have the entire proposal there.

20 [redacted] That specifically is from the MIT Search Lit proposal.

21 Mr. Pozmantier. Okay.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q But my question to you -- it goes on to say, "because reactive content

24 moderation is too slow and ineffective." Do you agree with that assessment?

25 A The idea behind Search Lit was to train people to be able to do their own

1 searches so that they're doing it in real time and not post facto after they've already been
2 exposed to something and made a determination. The -- I don't know. I mean, I don't 3 know how to respond to some of this because it's such a gross mischaracterization of 4 what the project is doing.
5 Q Let's talk a little bit more about what that project was focused on. It was 6 focused on misinformation related to COVID-19 and the 2020 election. Is that right?
7 A I don't remember them specific -- on the specific topics. I remember that 8 the project was trying to teach people how to search for information better.
9 Q So you don't recall whether or not they focused on any individual
10 misinformation topics?
11 A I don't know that they did. Their -- they focused on -- part of their -- the 12 way they looked at misinformation was that it includes scams as well. And so, for 13 instance, if you look at some of the work that they've done, it's training people how to do
14 reverse image searches. It's based on research that shows that the top Google searches
15 are not necessarily the best thing through search engine optimization and you need to go
16 further down the list.
17 So all this really was was a training system to show people how to find
18 information. And they've released videos of their work, one based off a servicemember
19 who has been used as a prop for scams, where his identity has been more or less stolen 20 and used repeatedly to scam people that think they're sending money to our military.
21 Q Did you review Meedan's Co-Insights proposal?
22 A As I mentioned, I read every proposal that came in.
23 Q Did you have any concerns about that one?
24 A No.
25 Q What about Wisconsin's Course Correct proposal?

1 A Same answer.

2 Q Course Correct was focused on combating delegitimizing information about

3 election integrity and vaccine efficacy on social media. Is that correct?

4 A That was some of their initial focus, but the system that they're building

5 looks well beyond that. They doing things around HPV, animal vaccines, plant-based 6 meats.

7 Q So how did Course Correct plan to address those two issues?

8 Ms. Dayananda. So I just want to make sure that we're clear that he's not

9 running the projects. He's testified to this that he doesn't do the day-to-day operations.

10 So his perspective is from NSF overview management of the programs. I'm sure if you

11 want to speak to the Meedan project, MIT-wise if you will, that's your choice. But I

12 don't want him to be in position to testify about those programs because he's not the one

13 who's actually running those programs.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q To your understanding then, based off of your interactions with the head

16 researchers and reading the proposal in abstract, what did you understand?

17 A The project is identifying narratives that are based off low-quality

18 information and then surfacing those narratives to journalists, fact checkers, and other

19 professional communicators, for them to make a decision on whether or not they would

20 like to write an article, do a fact check, or respond to that narrative in some way that they

21 felt that it was -- potentially could negatively impact. But the project itself was never

22 doing the response. It was never doing anything of that sort. It was surfacing that for 23 the end users of the program -- or the project tool to make their own determinations.

24 Q And the end users would be fact checkers or social media companies?

25 A No, it -- I don't think it would be social media companies. It would be

1 journalists, fact checkers, and public communicators, say like a public health
2 communicator or someone like that.
3 Q And you mentioned these are narratives based on low-quality information.
4 A Yes.
5 Q How would Course Correct define low-quality information?
6 A So if there was no research backing, no -- I'm trying to remember. It's their 7 definition. My understanding of the definition is that it was not -- there was no
8 verifiable way of confirming the information.
9 Q And Course --
10 Ms. Dayananda. And that's low information. Sorry.
11 Mr. Pozmantier. Low quality information, yes.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q And Course Correct received an additional $5 million in Phase II. Is that
14 correct?
15 A They received a $5 million award, yes.
16 Q Okay. And you recommended to the -- to Director Maughan, is that 17 correct, who should receive these Phase II awards?
18 A Yeah. We go through the proposal -- the review process, and the Phase II
19 review process is more involved than the Phase I process. Again, outlined in the letter
20 that we sent you guys. They do a proposal like they did in Phase I that has a review
21 panel, and I described the process already. Then they have an additional pitch to a
22 separate panel, where they give a 10-minute pitch, with 10-minute Q&A with a panel.
23 And then each panel scores or rates the -- either the proposal in that aspect or the pitch
24 and they give us the rankings. And we take all of that into consideration and create a 25 kind of combined rating based off of those two panels.

1 Q Did you attend each of these pitch presentations?

2 A Yes, I ran the process. I was in charge of overseeing the process.

3 Q And were you present when the WiseDex team first delivered a pitch

4 presentation in October of 2021? Its first pitch?

5 A Oh, at the kickoff meeting?

6 Q Uh-huh.

7 A Yes.

8 Q And just generally to your recollection, you didn't have any concerns about

9 what was in that pitch presentation?

10 A I wasn't really concerned. I was mostly concerned with the quality of the 11 pitch, not the content of the pitch. That's what we're looking for. We want them to 12 pass along what they're doing so the other teams have some understanding, but mainly 13 we're trying to get a baseline on how well they communicate.

14 Q Do you think that the -- do you recall them discussing how their project

15 develops tools that will help policymakers have platforms externalize the difficult

16 responsibility of censorship?

17 A I have -- I don't remember the specific pitches from, you know, 3, almost 18 3 years ago, 2 -- however long ago it was.

19 Q Do you think social media companies have a responsibility?

20 Ms. Dayananda. I feel like that's not a necessary question. Again, he's 21 testifying based on his role. Any personal views about the social media company I just 22 don't think is relevant here.

23 [redacted] Are you instructing him not to answer?

24 Ms. Dayananda. He can answer, but he's going to answer in terms of in his role

25 as a program manager, which, again, because he's not part of the review process, I just

1 don't understand the basis of the question. But you can reask it.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q You are ultimately reviewing these panelists' reviews in making a

4 recommendation to your supervisor. Is that correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q So you're a part of the review process?

7 A As far as I could, yeah.

8 Q So based off of that, do you think social media companies have a

9 responsibility to censor speech on their platforms?

10 A I mean, that -- I -- the entire -- I have a problem with the entire premise of 11 the question.

12 Q So are --

13 A Because you're framing it as censorship, and I have -- nobody at the NSF is

14 saying anything about censorship or anything else. Those are your words. That's a 15 mischaracterization.

16 Q Well, WiseDex included that in their presentation to you. Is that correct?

17 A I don't recall ever hearing that. And since you guys have publicized the 18 deck, I actually saw the speaker notes. But that was not part of the slide deck that I saw.

19 Those are speaker notes.

20 Q And to your knowledge, were those speaker notes spoken?

21 A It was -- I have no recollection. I don't remember the specific pitches from 22 that far ago.

23 Q Okay. At this point, it had only been 1 month since NSF awarded the 24 University of Michigan this grant, correct?

25 A It would have been somewhere in that range, yeah.

1 Q And would it have been possible for NSF to revoke this funding that it had
2 allocated to this team, or once you issue a grant is that irrevocable?
3 A I -- on grants, I'm not sure.
4 Q Did NSF ever consider revoking WiseDex's grant?
5 A No.
6 Q Why not?
7 A It was 1 month into the program and they weren't -- there was nothing they 8 were doing that was -- would run afoul of any rules.
9 Q Were you present when the Co-Insights team delivered its pitch
10 presentation?
11 A Yes.
12 Q One slide reveals -- and I'm happy to show this slide if it would help refresh
13 your memory -- that the team labeled undermining trust in mainstream media as a 14 common misinformation narrative. Did you agree with that assessment at the time?
15 A I don't remember formulating any opinion on that at the time.
16 Q How did Meedan determine what constituted misinformation?
17 A You'd have to ask them.
18 Q They didn't explain to you --
19 A Again, I -- you're talking -- you're asking me about like 2- or 3-minute pitches 20 from the very beginning of the program for them when we're not really concerned with 21 the content as much at that point. The content's already been reviewed of what the 22 project is through review panels and selections have been made. It's the very first part
23 of the process for them of a very long process through the program. And all we're really 24 trying to do is assess their communication skills.
25 Q Do these pitches summarize the work of these teams?

1 A They're supposed to.

2 Q They're supposed to. And you said these are 2- to 3-minute pitches?

3 A Something in that, yeah.

1 [10:57 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q I thought -- they're not 10 minutes long.

4 A Again, you're conflating two different -- completely different things. These

5 opening pitches --

6 Q Okay.

7 A -- are at the beginning of Phase I. They're the first thing they do. The 8 10-minute pitches are their Phase II --

9 Q Understood.

10 A -- selection process.

11 Q Understood. Thank you for that clarification.

12 Another slide in that initial -- and it might've been the Phase II -- pitch

13 presentation reveals that the Co-Insights team viewed its project as addressing the 14 content moderation solutions market. Would you agree with that assessment? Is that 15 common -- well, we'll start with that.

16 A They're partnered with a diaspora of AAPI fact-checking organizations, so

17 Hindi, Tagalog language, Chinese, Vietnamese, and several others, and they're working

18 with them. If, I believe, if someone wanted -- if a content moderator wanted to use the 19 fact checks, I guess that's what that's referring to.

20 Q And so what about Track F as a whole, would their market be the content

21 moderation market?

22 A No.

23 Q So just --

24 A Have you guys -- you've read the abstracts. I mean, I think the only project

25 that ever -- the other projects are focused in completely different areas.

1 Q Did you attend the July 2022 expo?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Did social media companies attend?

4 A Not to my knowledge.

5 Q What about government agencies?

6 A Possibly.

7 Q Which ones?

8 A I don't know.

9 Q Who would know?

10 A We would have to go back and look at the attendees list who signed up.

11 We wouldn't know if they actually attended. We would know if they registered.

12 Q And could you reference that attendance list if you wanted to today?

13 A I would have to ask. I don't know where it's stored.

14 Q Okay. Are you generally familiar with how each Track F team planned to 15 market their project at the expo?

16 A I mean, to the extent that they had their videos.

17 Q Did they provide any information to you prior to the expo, saying, Here's 18 what we're going to --

19 A They provided the videos that were posted.

20 Q Were they -- were the team members participating in any booths?

21 A So this is a virtual expo --

22 Q Right.

23 A -- and, so to speak, you have a virtual expo hall and each person has a -- each

24 team has a booth, and somebody would click in there, and they could watch a video, or 25 download a summary of the project or something like that.

1 Q Were you informed of what kind of the agenda for these booths was going 2 to be?
3 A I think there were agendas in some cases, but we largely left it up to them.
4 I mean, we may have recommended agendas where they would present something, but 5 we didn't review the content.
6 Q So you never reviewed what, for example, WiseDex' agenda of what it was 7 going to present at the expo?
8 A I don't think so.
9 Q Okay. Did you review --
10 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please.
11 [Discussion off the record.]
12 [redacted] So we are going back on the record. Ready?
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Mr. Pozmantier, I believe we started with your education, and you said you 15 had a bachelor's, right?
16 A Uh-huh.
17 Q That's a bachelor of ARTT in government?
18 A Yes.
19 Q Okay. And that was University of Texas Austin?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Okay. So let's talk about the Convergence Accelerator, not specifically
22 Track F, but, like, what is the purpose of a Convergence Accelerator?
23 A So overall, the idea behind the Convergence Accelerator is that we have 24 large societal challenges that require combination -- interdisciplinary work, combinations
25 of different organizations. So academia can't solve it all by themselves, government

1 can't solve it by itself, industry can't solve it by itself, et cetera, computer scientists can't
2 do it all by themselves, social scientists, whatever.
3 So the idea is to take knowledge that is coming from the basic research that NSF is 4 investing in, and actually turn that into tangible outcomes that solve large societal 5 challenges.
6 Q Right. And you want to do it quickly?
7 A As quickly as possible.
8 Q Right.
9 A I mean, it depends on --
10 Q Well, I mean, I'm just --
11 A Yeah.
12 Q -- you kind of compress a situation like --
13 A Yeah, we're forcing them to move --
14 Q You said it was like a pressure cooker, kind of, right?
15 A Yes. It's -- they're -- most NSF programs give them an award and say, We're 16 going to talk to you every now and again, send us an annual report, send us the paper.
17 In this case, we're saying you have a curriculum that you're going to do on almost 18 a weekly basis, you're going to have to go do 12 interviews with different potential 19 customers, or end users, of your system to validate your problem, you're going to do at 20 least 12 more interviews with people that might validate your -- the solution that you're 21 thinking of.
22 Q Right.
23 A So there's a lot -- it's a much higher touch program.
24 Q Right. And you're not the one that's giving them this curriculum? You're 25 just --

1 A No.
2 Q -- taking them through the process?
3 A Yeah. I mean -- well, I -- the curriculum is delivered through -- by what's 4 referred to as a flipped classroom. So they do videos -- they review videos --
5 Q Okay.
6 A -- and then they come in for a facilitated session where they might do
7 activities or different things. But I haven't -- on Phase I, I haven't led that. Phase II, I've 8 facilitated some of the curriculum there that's on entrepreneurship, but it's not led by 9 me.
10 Q Okay.
11 A It's led by -- again, there's videos, and then there are coaches that come in 12 and present specific topics and take them through activities.
13 Q Right. And so the Convergence Accelerator has various topics, right, and 14 they are by track -- are the topics by track?
15 A Yes, 13 different topics, yes.
16 Q Okay.
17 A They're considered tracks.
18 Q Okay.
19 A So we'll do a cohort that has several different topics in it. So for instance, 20 in 2019, tracks A and B, that's a single cohort; 2020 cohort, C and D; 2021, E and F, and 21 then so on.
22 Q Right. And 2021, E and F, that was your responsibility --
23 A F.
24 Q -- as program director, E and F?
25 A Just F.

1 Q Oh. Just F. Okay.
2 And how did NSF determine what the subject of Track F would be?
3 A Through ideation process.
4 Q Okay.
5 A So we solicited, through an RFI, ideas and then we culled those down into 6 umbrella topics and then awarded workshops that brought together people to discuss the 7 topics. Those resulted in reports. Then those were reviewed further by --
8 Q Okay. Hold on. Let's slow down.
9 A Yeah.
10 Q So the Request for Information was a solicitation first, right -- or let me not
11 call it solicitation -- Request for Information?
12 A Yes. Where they would go to a SurveyMonkey and submit their ideas.
13 Q Okay. And that was you asking, like, America, what do you think about 14 what's going on in the world, and what do you think is important?
15 A What do you think the Convergence Accelerator -- what do you think would 16 be an important topic for the Convergence Accelerator to take up?
17 Q Okay. And do you send this to certain people, certain communities, certain 18 types of people?
19 A Every possible mailing list that we can come across and, you know, 20 everybody promoting it individually, organizationally, et cetera, a lot of academic 21 institutions.
22 Q Okay.
23 A We're trying to make sure the private sector and nonprofits also see it, so.
24 Q Okay. And then from that Request for Information, I believe it was March 25 23rd of 2020 in this particular case, right?

1 A Uh-huh.
2 Q And I'm not sure if you said, but maybe in a letter, somewhere there was a
3 quotation that there were, like, 170 responses that you all got from this particular 4 request?
5 A That's correct.
6 Q Okay. And from those 170 responses, you had to whittle that down to 7 what your community workshops would be about. Is that right?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. And how do you -- or who decides what the community workshops
10 will be about, or who will put on -- is it two different things? I'm sorry. Maybe that's 11 a --
12 A The -- once we've worked through the topics and decided what the focus 13 should be, then we'll go back to the submitter and ask them if they would like to run the 14 workshop.
15 Q Okay. And so you did two separate workshops related to Track F?
16 A No.
17 Q Just one?
18 A I think I was a backup on the workshop that resulted in Track F.
19 Q Oh, okay.
20 A I ran one other. I think that may have been -- the years run together now.
21 I can't remember --
22 Q I got you.
23 A -- the other one that I ran. It may have -- yeah, it was a completely 24 different topic that was not selected --
25 Q Okay.

1 A -- that didn't go that far.

2 Q And so Track F was, in some way, related to the workshop that was run by

3 the University of Chicago?

4 A Correct.

5 Q Okay. Who decided that University of Chicago would run that workshop?

6 A It was based on their submission.

7 Q Okay. But, like, at NSF, someone said that University of Chicago will be the 8 one to put on this workshop. Is that right?

9 A Well, they submitted the idea through the RFI, and so we went back to the 10 originator of the idea to ask them --

11 Q Okay.

12 A -- so -- and that happened to be the University of Chicago that submitted.

13 Q Okay. And so who said, "University of Chicago, will you do this workshop"?

14 A I don't know who actually reached out, but I know --

15 Q It wasn't you?

16 A I don't think so, no.

17 Q Okay.

18 A I don't remember.

19 Q It's okay.

20 A But I don't think --

21 Q That was 2020, right?

22 A Yeah.

23 Q Okay. And then so after you do the community workshop, is that how you

24 then develop what the actual topic will be for Track F?

25 A We take the -- we take the report that they produce as a basis, and then

1 inside NSF, we shape that into the topic of the -- that goes into the solicitation and write
2 the solicitation.
3 Q Right. Okay. And right around the time that you -- well, maybe not right
4 around the time that you were about to put the funding opportunity out, but after you
5 had done the community workshop, then the IOGAN Act was passed, right? Sometime
6 December 2020, does that jog your memory?
7 A Is IOGAN 2020 or 2019?
8 Q I think it was actually signed in 2020. We can --
9 A That was a consideration of NSF leadership.
10 Q Okay.
11 A That wasn't something we considered in the Convergence Accelerator office,
12 but NSF leadership --
13 Q Okay.
14 A -- took that into consideration when selecting the -- endorsing the topic.
15 Q Okay. That's fine. We're good.
16 Okay. So then you put out the funding opportunity, because NSF has now
17 decided what Track F will be about?
18 A Yes.
19 Q And Track F, the subject was --
20 A Trust and authenticity in communication systems.
21 Q Okay. And you put out then a solicitation?
22 A Yes. I think that went out in March 2021.
23 Q 2021.
24 And that was, Hey, you guys, this is Track F, and who wants to work on this?
25 How does that go?

1 A Essentially. I mean, we make an announcement that we're putting it out.
2 It was announced through mailing lists, it was on the NSF website, and then because 3 we're also doing a separate track, or a separate path in, to diversify who could apply, we
4 did what's called a broad agency announcement as well that has the exact same
5 information in it, that results in a contract as opposed to a grant. And that was released
6 on SAM.gov --
7 Q Okay.
8 A -- as well.
9 Q And who helps put together what is contained in the actual program
10 solicitation?
11 A It's a group effort.
12 Q Okay.
13 A So I think inside our office, Chaitan and I were -- led that part, but there
14 was -- you know, our office head was involved, other NSF program directors, NSF
15 leadership. So it was definitely not some kind of unilateral thing we did.
16 Q And it was not just you?
17 A No, absolutely not. There were no less than probably -- well, I don't know 18 the exact number, but I would -- it's at least 5 to 10 people.
19 Q Okay. And so that is the solicitation that you're putting out to begin
20 Phase I?
21 A So the solicitation covers Phase I and Phase II.
22 Q Okay.
23 A But we put that out to -- yes, to --
24 Q Okay. So you're actually saying, this is what the first part of this program is 25 going to be, and this is what the second part of this program is going to be?

A Correct.

Q You may or may not make it to --

A Phase II.

Q Right.

A Right.

Q Okay. And --

[redacted] What's the purpose of bifurcating Phase I and Phase II in Convergence Accelerator programs?

Mr. Pozmantier. We're trying to, number 1, give them the tools that are going to be necessary to make sure that they're doing the right thing.

What we don't want to see happen is, we just say, okay, we're going to give you all the money at one time, and we're then going to figure out whether or not you're capable of executing or not, so -- and one of the other aspects of it is, is making sure that the team itself wants to do it.

Sometimes the team finds out that it's more work than they want to do. I mean, it hasn't happened often, but we've had a couple teams that didn't respond to -- didn't submit Phase II proposals throughout the years. We've had some that have mailed in their proposal and submitted really short, poorly written proposals that was just for the sake of submitting.

The -- but it's to make sure that they have the tools to succeed, they validated their ideas, and they've actually -- the ideas that they submit in Phase I are initial ideas. Through the validation process, through the processes that they're going to go through in Phase I, they're going to sharpen that idea, figure out that maybe the idea was wrong and they go to something different, and their Phase II proposal looks different than their Phase I proposal.

1 And then in Phase II, when they actually start getting into building, they may
2 continue to pivot because they're continuing to work closely with end users and other
3 stakeholders.
4 And once you start building things and people actually have something to give you
5 feedback on, you then might make more changes and pivot some more. You might 6 figure out that your sustainability model doesn't work with what you're building.
7 And so, there's a whole aspect of product market fit and other things that they're 8 going through throughout these processes.
9 But Phase I is a process to train them, get them ready to make sure that they're
10 going to propose the best thing possible for Phase II, and it gives us a chance to observe 11 them as well to see how they're dealing with the time-consuming process that they've 12 undertaken.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q Okay. So let's just go back just to make sure I'm on the same page, okay?
15 So you get a -- you receive from the solicitation, do you recall for Track F, like, how 16 much -- or how many proposals you received?
17 A For Phase I?
18 Q Yes.
19 A We received, I think, 74, and I think it's in the letter.
20 Q Okay. Yeah, I didn't want to say it wrong. I was thinking 75.
21 So then from those 74, someone had to review those proposals?
22 A Correct.
23 Q Who -- you said you have review panels?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Okay. So for the 74, do you recall how many -- you said four review panels,

1 I think.

2 A There are four review panels.

3 Q Okay. Do you sit on any of those review panels?

4 A I oversee the operation of -- in this case, I oversaw the operation of three of 5 them. I identified all the reviewers, and I grouped the proposals into different panels.

6 Q Right.

7 A And then another program director or Chaitan, whatever his title was at the 8 time, ran the other panel, because it was -- there was overlap, and I couldn't run all four.

9 Q Right.

10 And when you were choosing your reviewers, you are making sure that they have

11 the expertise, knowledge, and experience to evaluate the what of these proposals?

12 A Correct. And it may not be that they have -- they may -- I may have them

13 to review -- to really focus on a particular aspect of a proposal.

14 Q Okay. And so, do you recall what type of reviewers you looked for, for 15 Track F?

16 A A mixture of academics, government, nonprofit, private sector, a mixture of 17 different disciplines that would cover the areas in the proposals. I don't know

18 exactly -- you can't identify the reviewers before you have the -- after you have the 19 proposals.

20 So through the letter-of-intent process, we try to get some idea of what the 21 proposals are going to be about, and who's on the teams so we can immediately try to,

22 number 1, avoid conflicts of interest, and also try to figure out what disciplines --

23 Q Right.

24 A -- and areas we need to cover in the reviews.

25 Q Okay. And so you already had the review panels in place before you even

1 took in the proposals. Is that right?

2 A For the most part. I mean, there's always reviewers that drop. We find

3 conflicts of interest and we have to make late substitutions. I don't know, somebody,

4 one of the -- you know, a reviewer gets sick or whatever. You know, they never go

5 exactly how you hope.

6 Q Right.

7 A It's a lot of people to get things from.

8 Q Okay. And so, from the review panels, you whittled that down to 12

9 recipients -- or 12 participants, I'm sorry --

10 A Twelve awardees.

11 Q -- 12 awardees --

12 A Yes.

13 Q -- for Track F?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Okay. And those would be the teams that would now progress to Phase I?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Okay. And at Phase I, they received, you said, $750,000?

18 A That was the cap, so --

19 Q -- for --

20 A -- the most -- most all of them, if you tell people what a cap is, they're going

21 to apply for the amount they can get.

22 Q Right, of course.

23 So then Phase I goes on, you said, for 9 months?

24 A The most active part of it, yes, the curriculum and -- and then they have time

25 to prepare for their proposal, the expo, which the expo has been discontinued, but, yeah.

1 Q I was going to say, let me -- I don't think we've ever been clear. Is Track F
2 still ongoing?
3 A Yes. It's currently in year 2 of Phase II.
4 Q Year 2 of Phase II. Okay.
5 And so I think we've covered Phase I. It's kind of jumping in my mind because we 6 jumped ahead, but Phase I is getting these people, teams, ready for the ability to build
7 something in Phase II?
8 A For the most part, yes.
9 Q Okay. And this is helping them along the way figure out what their plan is 10 going to be or --
11 A It's a couple of different things. So, number 1, we want them creating 12 things that actually people are going to -- that solve a real problem --
13 Q Right.
14 A -- that people are going to use.
15 Q Track F's problem?
16 A Yes. And that's for any track.
17 Q Right.
18 A It's the same for all 13 tracks. We want them validating their problems,
19 validating their initial solutions, talking to stakeholders, ensuring that they're doing
20 something that's going to be useful.
21 They are learning team science, for instance, because they have these 22 interdisciplinary teams with different orgs, different backgrounds, different ways of 23 thinking, that they have to assimilate into a single team. So they're learning how 24 to -- getting some idea of how to manage these types of teams.
25 And then we're trying to help them with their communications, their ability to

1 present or talk about what they're doing, giving them skill sets that it's not -- it's just
2 general communication skills.
3 And then they, you know, depending on their timing and their team, they might 4 start on a proof of concept of some sort.
5 Q Okay. Let's see. Would it be safe to say that you're, in Phase I, trying to 6 make sure that these teams are sound enough to even get to a point where they can put 7 together some sort of -- or build a project? Is this like a conditioning period?
8 A To some -- I mean, it's -- I don't know "conditioning," but it's making sure
9 that they have the skill sets as much as possible to execute in Phase II when they have a 10 larger award, and they've got the validation of what they're doing, that they're doing
11 something that's going to be useful.
12 What we don't want to do is give somebody $5 million and then have them --
13 Q They stumble along the way?
14 A -- they're either incapable of managing the process or they've built
15 something that nobody wants or needs, so --
16 Q Okay. I think --
17 A -- we're trying to make sure that the investment is well made.
18 Q Sorry.
19 And I think you said that, what your phrasing was in Phase I was that they were 20 learning?
21 A Mostly.
22 Q Okay. And then so you say "mostly." What is the other part of what 23 they're doing? Are they starting to execute their ideas at all?
24 A They might be starting on a proof of concept of some sort, but a lot of -- they 25 might be prototyping in different levels. We have a concept called low-fidelity

1 prototypes which are, you know, really minimum kind of mock-ups and things like that.
2 It could be a bunch of different things that they can validate with people.
3 Q Okay. And now that we have moved pretty much into Phase I, how 4 much -- what is your involvement up to this point, like, how much --
5 A In Phase I?
6 Q Yes. All the way like from --
7 A Yeah.
8 Q -- I think we've talked about, like, what you did in the funding opportunity --
9 A Right.
10 Q -- the solicitation. Now in Phase I, what are you -- how are you involved?
11 A Again, we have to be careful how we're involved in Phase I, because they're 12 going to apply for Phase II, and so we cannot -- we have to be unbiased --
13 Q Right.
14 A -- and we can't be seen as favoring anybody or offering something to one
15 team that we're not offering to another. I have an open-door policy for the teams if 16 they want to talk, generally have monthly meetings with the PI or the leadership team of 17 a given team, and then we're observing them through the curriculum process.
18 Q Right.
19 A But a lot of that is just talking to them about navigating the stuff they're 20 expected to do in the program.
21 Q But you're definitely trying to make sure that you're not playing favorites?
22 A Correct.
23 Q Okay. So then -- because the next part is, some of these people are not 24 going to make it to --
25 A Right.

1 Q -- Phase II, right?

2 Okay. So how do you -- or does NSF decide through this process, how do you get

3 to, I think, six in Phase II of Track F.

4 A Yes.

5 Q How did you go from 12 to 6?

6 A Through the proposal and pitch review process.

7 Q Okay. And the proposal and pitch process was what?

8 A They submit a proposal --

9 Q Okay.

10 A -- somewhere around probably the 9-month mark or so that is going to be

11 reviewed by a review panel -- a single review panel -- because there's only 12 as opposed

12 to 74. So the same process, in that sense, as Phase I, and then we add the pitch panel,

13 which is a separate panel of experts that hear a 10-minute pitch, 10-minute Q&A, and 14 then make a determination on each project.

15 Q Okay.

16 A And we take all of that into consideration, plus observations from Phase I, in 17 making the -- making the -- deciding which teams get Phase II awards.

18 Q Okay. So I'm sorry, it might've been that I trailed off, but what are the

19 things that you -- that NSF looks at, if we have a I, II, and III, when you're deciding who

20 comes -- who makes it to Phase II? I think you said it, but I might've missed it. You

21 said pitch, proposal, and did you say something else?

22 A Observation.

23 Q Observation, right.

24 And there is a panel that reviews the pitch and the proposal?

25 A Two separate panels, one for each with different reviewers.

1 Q Okay. Did you serve on either of those?
2 A I oversaw the panels.
3 Q Oversaw them. Okay.
4 A Which means, I'm making sure that the discussions are moving along, that 5 they're writing their panel summaries, that they're getting submitted correctly, that 6 they're, you know, so it's basically making sure that everything's working.
7 Q Right.
8 Because you keep calling yourself an overseer, like, you're just trying to make sure
9 this process is moving along?
10 A Yeah, I mean, I'm essentially, for lack of a better term, it's almost like being 11 an emcee, you know, or a facilitator.
12 Q Right. Right. Okay.
13 And ultimately who, whether it be 1-person, 2-people, 3-people panel, who 14 decided the six teams that would move into Phase II?
15 A We take the scoring -- or we take the categorizations from the panels,
16 combine that, observe -- we add our observations in, for instance, were they showing up
17 to the curriculum, were they participating in the curriculum, et cetera, were they doing
18 the customer discovery interviews that we expected, those types of things.
19 And we -- then I set up a ranking and then discuss that with others, so section
20 head and so forth. But mostly, the reviews typically are what suss out, you know --
21 Q The reviews -- and that's the review panel?
22 A Both -- yeah, the review panels.
23 Q The two?
24 A Yeah.
25 Q And those have been categorized by the reviewers?

1 A So in a proposal, when a proposal is reviewed, they do a written review, and
2 they give it an excellent, a very good, a good, a fair, or a poor.
3 Q Okay.
4 A And each reviewer does that. Then they discuss it, and they categorize it as 5 highly competitive, competitive, or not competitive. And so typically the things that are 6 going to end up in "highly competitive" are almost surely going to be selected, because 7 the review panels have rated them very, very highly.
8 Q Okay.
9 A And then we, you know, in some cases, we have, you know, a bunch of them 10 that are in "competitive," and we have to, you know, solicit opinions and things on those.
11 Q Right. And so, you -- do you discuss at all the content of what they say
12 they're doing, that they're going to do in Phase II? When you say that you had -- you 13 said "we" discuss, along with the section head. Do you discuss, like, the content of what 14 these people are doing?
15 A Yes, to some degree.
16 Q And are you -- how are you evaluating the content? Like, does it -- does it
17 make sense? Is it wrong? Will it meet the objective? Like, how are you looking at 18 the content?
19 A All of those things. I mean, we're -- so the initial -- I think one thing we 20 haven't talked about here and we have it in the letter, is NSF's merit review process.
21 Q Right.
22 A Every panel that NSF runs on every proposal, no matter what directorate,
23 program, intellectual merit and broader impact are evaluated. And our --
24 Q But those are the two criteria of the merit review process?
25 A The -- the basis of it.

1 Q Okay.

2 A And then each program can have their own solicitation-specific criteria, and

3 we have four of those that we evaluate -- and that's convergence, partnerships,

4 deliverables, and track alignment.

5 Q And that is what -- that is the criteria or the standard that is provided to the 6 reviewers who are making the reviews at every stage?

7 A Yeah. And they're -- they're rating them on those six criteria.

8 Q Okay. And at the same time, are you also applying NSF's scientific integrity

9 policy?

10 A That's not part of the review process.

11 Q Okay.

12 A That's a general --

13 Q That's a general?

14 A Yeah. I mean, everything that we're looking at applies to that, but it's not

15 part of the review process.

16 Q Okay. So you were asked specifically about some of the various programs.

17 First of all, I think it -- the questions were about WiseDex, and you said -- WiseDex did not

18 move on to Phase II.

19 A No.

20 Q Do you recall or is there any reason why NSF decided that WiseDex was not

21 viable for Phase II?

22 [Witness confers with counsel.]

23 Mr. Pozmantier. It was -- yeah, the scoring on WiseDex was low. The 24 reviewers -- the reviewers gave it bad -- low scores, and I think it ultimately was in the 25 "not competitive" category.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Okay. Say again what it was that the reviewers were looking at?

3 A They were looking at intellectual merit, broader impact, convergence,

4 partnerships, research -- or excuse me -- deliverables, and then track alignment.

5 Q And then the scale you said was not competitive, competitive, highly 6 competitive?

7 A So they're ranked -- in individual proposal reviews go excellent, very good,

8 good, fair, poor.

9 Q Okay.

10 A So each of the reviewers give it a score there, and then they discuss it, and

11 then they categorize -- put it into a bucket, and I think it was in the "not competitive." I

12 think it had -- I don't remember the exact proposal review grades, or scores, but I think

13 they were probably pretty low if it was in the "not competitive."

14 Q Right. And so the "competitive" comes like at the end, the --

15 A That's the overall judgment of the three reviewers. They -- they discuss

16 what they view -- they discuss their reviews, what they think of the project, and then they

17 put it in -- and that happened both for the proposal, and then it happened for the pitch,

18 which the pitch doesn't get individual reviews, because it's done at one time. And so

19 there's a collective categorization that happens at that time by the panel.

20 Q Okay. And there was some discussion about the MIT program. What was 21 the title of the MIT program?

22 A SearchLit, I believe.

23 Q SearchLit?

24 A Yeah.

25 Q Okay. And that didn't make it into Phase II either?

1 A No.

2 Q Okay. But you said you were clear about the fact that it was not a

3 censorship tool?

4 A No, not in any way.

5 Q Okay. Were any of these projects that you evaluated from either Phase I or 6 Phase II going to be, or looking to be, censorship tools?

7 A No.

8 Q And I might've misunderstood, but what was the example you gave of 9 someone you said that was used as a prop? Something related to the military.

10 A There was a -- there was a military veteran --

11 Q Okay.

12 A -- who, his picture, his bio, his name had been used by scammers repeatedly,

13 over and over and over again, to scam people out of money. They think they're sending

14 donations --

15 Q Donating to him --

16 A -- to some veterans organization or to Active-Duty Military, and that team

17 produced a video that is -- I think it's -- it's online on a PBS website, that has the veteran

18 talking about his experience of all these people reaching out, finding him, thinking that

19 he's -- you know, asking where the money is, and the upshot is, of the video, is teaching

20 people how to do reverse image searches so they can actually -- so when they see a

21 picture in one of these scams or something, they can go and do -- understand how to do a

22 reverse image search to see -- they would find all these different profile -- fake profiles

23 and other things that are being used by scammers.

24 Q And which team was this?

25 A That's SearchLit.

1 Q Okay. And that was a team that did not make it to Phase II?

2 A That's correct. They released those videos after -- after the Phase I -- or

3 after Phase II selections were made. So they continued doing some work.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q MIT didn't make it to Phase II, but Course Correct did, right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And I believe the majority's report includes an abstract from

8 Course Correct's tool that says it would allow fact-checkers to monitor the performance

9 of fact-checking messages among online communities at risk of information exposure.

10 Are you familiar with that?

11 A What they're actually doing is, they're putting out ads with the fact-checks in 12 them, so that's -- that's how they're --

13 Q Right.

14 A So they're seeing what kind of uptake they get on these advertisements.

15 Q So much like MIT's SearchLit, they're looking at, you know, what's being 16 called here as at-risk communities. They don't mean to disparage these communities,

17 right?

18 A No, not at all. The SearchLit project, the communities that they picked out

19 are underserved, and in fact, the SearchLit project, the co-PI's husband is a

20 service-connected disabled veteran. So she sees these scams, and it's been shown

21 repeatedly that Active-Duty Military, veterans, and their families are targeted at a much

22 higher rate for scams than civilians are.

23 So this co-PI lives this. It's near and dear to her. That was one of the reasons

24 why they picked military as a focus, but it's also been shown through numerous studies

25 that elderly and rural communities are also underserved when it comes to helping them

1 deal with these things.

2 Q So to clarify for the record, these projects want to serve these underserved

3 communities because they're targets --

4 A Yes.

5 Q -- of misinformation?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Why do you think they're targets of misinformation?

8 A Well, everybody is a target. I mean, that's -- they're just a specific

9 demographic, and I think what's important to understand, and I think what's getting lost

10 here is that -- that targeting is specific to the demographic.

11 So when somebody's targeting specific scams or misinformation at a given group,

12 there are certain levers that they're pulling that differ from demographic to demographic.

13 But there is no -- when you look at the studies that have been done across all age

14 groups and everything else, almost everybody is targeted at varying levels. It's -- but the 15 targeting is specific to a different -- to a specific demographic.

16 And that's what many of these projects are talking about, is understanding the 17 levers that people are taking to facilitate scams to, to propagate mis--, dis-,

18 malinformation, et cetera.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Because you said the definition of "disinformation" involves, like, the 21 intentional misuse of information. Is that right?

22 A Yes. They're trying to deceive.

23 Q Okay. And they are looking for useful vulnerabilities in various groups, like 24 what is vulnerable to me might not be vulnerable to you?

25 A Correct.

1 Q Okay. And these groups were trying to find ways to help people inform
2 themselves?
3 A Yes. I mean, in order to mitigate, you have to understand what -- you have 4 to understand the target and what levers they're using in order to help create mitigations.
5 Q Right. But their intent was not to make these people think one way or the 6 other?
7 A Absolutely not. It was to arm them with the tools to make their own
8 decisions. I mean, they're confronted --
9 Q Think for themselves?
10 A Yes -- confronted with information, be able to -- in SearchLit's case -- go out
11 and search and confirm or deny, find alternate information that might rebut, or say, Hey,
12 this actually was -- this actually is good information.
13 Q Right. And through the Convergence Accelerator, there was an 14 identification of a societal problem that needed to be addressed?
15 A I mean, we're seeing massive foreign-influence operations that are targeting 16 the American public. Our adversaries are out there taking advantage of whatever 17 divisions there are, you know -- and they're not picking sides necessarily. They're just 18 trying to cause chaos.
19 Q Right.
20 A And so the purpose is to arm American citizens with the ability to make their 21 own determinations.
22 Q And I'm not sure, are you familiar with the IOGAN Act at all?
23 A A little bit.
24 Q Okay. And so, again, this was a statute that became law when 25 President Trump was still President. Is that right?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay. And that -- rather than using the acronym, it stood for Identifying

3 Outputs of Generative Adversarial Networks Act. Is that right?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And it was sparked by the presence of deepfakes online. Is that right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay. And this particular statute was actually telling the NSF -- or directing

8 the NSF to do research about how to respond to deepfakes and other disinformation,

9 misinformation, malinformation?

10 A That's my understanding.

11 Q Okay. I think one of the premises was, the statute wanted the NSF to do

12 research on digital forensic tools or other technologies for verifying the authenticity of

13 information and detection of manipulated or synthesized content, including content

14 generated by generative adversarial networks. Is that right?

15 A I believe so.

16 Q Okay. Something else that they were -- the statute was directing NSF to do

17 research on was social and behavioral research related to manipulated or synthesized

18 content, including human engagement with that content. Is that right?

19 Ms. Dayananda. Sorry, Counsel, you're reading from the Act itself?

20 [redacted] I am, to make sure that he -- that was his understanding.

21 Mr. Pozmantier. It is.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q Okay. And going back to what you were talking about with the levers that

24 were being pulled, the statute also directed NSF to do research on the public

25 understanding and awareness of manipulated and synthesized content. Is that right?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And that IOGAN Act was kind of filtered through Track F as well from what

3 your understanding was?

4 A It was part of the -- of NSF's leadership decisionmaking and --

5 Q How you got to the purpose of Track F?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Okay. So let's finish up with the media strategy meeting, I think. There

8 was a discussion about why did you -- did you convene that meeting?

9 A I did.

10 Q And why did you convene that meeting?

11 A Because we were starting to see articles or posts online that were 12 mischaracterizing the projects --

13 Q Okay.

14 A -- and we wanted to make sure that the teams understood what was going

15 on and understood better how to handle what was happening.

16 Q Okay. What was happening to the teams was the very thing that they were 17 trying to work on in Track F, right?

18 A Yeah. It's a bit Orwellian, but it's, yeah, it's misinformation about people

19 working on mitigating misinformation.

20 Q Okay. And did those reports go out, like, right after Phase I started, or was 21 it -- where did -- do you recall?

22 A Yeah. I believe the first ones came out towards -- in the fall of 2021, so not

23 long after we made the awards.

24 Q Right. Because you made the first award in October of 2021?

25 A It was October or September, yeah.

1 Q Okay. And you pulled together the teams to have this brainstorming
2 session?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Okay. And you came up with the memo after you kind of discussed and 5 thought about what it was that you could do --
6 A Yeah.
7 Q -- in response to --
8 A And if you actually read what's in the memo, it's mostly really basic stuff, you
9 know, understanding what media terminology is -- on the record, off the record,
10 background, et cetera. It's, you know, how to scrub their information offline -- take 11 their information offline and stuff like that because people were -- researchers were 12 getting attacked, like personally.
13 Q Personal?
14 A They were getting doxxed. The women were getting death threats, rape
15 threats. People were showing up on campuses, showing up where they lived. And this 16 has happened not just in this space, but in any topic that has become a hot-button issue.
17 The researchers are being attacked, and so this was discussing with them the fact that,
18 you know, they were potentially being targeted.
19 Q Were you being targeted yourself?
20 A I haven't had any targeting until the committee report came out last month.
21 Q Okay. And now you are being personally targeted?
22 A I've only had one email at this point, but it's still -- you know, being accused
23 of violating the Constitution and so forth isn't fun.
24 Q Okay. Right. So from that media strategy meeting and the memo,
25 nothing else happened?

1 A Yeah. We had a -- we had a -- discussed it. We shared ideas. I captured
2 it. The initial thought was that the teams could work on this stuff, and we would then
3 present it to NSF about doing media training and other things.
4 What ended up happening was -- and I mentioned this a few times, but the 5 program is very, very time-intensive. The teams have -- the team members have their 6 own -- have many other, you know, responsibilities. There wasn't time to put together
7 any of this stuff, and so we let it go. We just never --
8 Q Right.
9 A -- pursued it after that.
10 Q But you were just worried because there were, like, personal attacks and -- 11 A Sure. I mean, we have -- we have stories of -- from some of the 12 researchers themselves about being attacked and --
13 Q So not only were they attacking the credibility of the program, you were 14 fearing about people's personal safety?
15 A Yes. And I mean, we've seen -- we've seen, you know, researchers who 16 have been hounded and hounded and hounded to the point of committing suicide and 17 things like that in other areas. So it's not -- this is like -- these are people's lives. It's 18 serious stuff. They're trying to do good work. They think they're doing something 19 that's beneficial to the country, to society as a whole, and they're being attacked for it,
20 and, you know, it's a high personal cost.
21 Q And your understanding of the substance of the attacks is that they weren't 22 even characterizing their work correctly?
23 A Correct. That's absolutely right. The reports were mischaracterizing the 24 report -- the work that's being done, the same as the committee report that came out last 25 month. They're mischaracterizing what the projects are doing, and it's causing all -- you

1 know, it creates waves. And so more people -- it spreads, more people see it, and they
2 just keep re-reporting it and re-reporting it, putting their own spin on it.
3 And then it -- what's something that's supposed to be, you know, helpful and
4 useful becomes, in some people's eyes, something nefarious and bad. I mean, it's -- it
5 couldn't be further from the truth.
6 Q And I think at the beginning, you called that malinformation where they take
7 a kernel of truth and -- I forgot the second part?
8 A Well, they spin a new narrative around it. And I don't know that it's 9 necessarily -- that's what's necessarily happened here. I mean, I think it's just straight
10 disinformation.
11 Q Okay. And there were questions about pitches and proposals where you
12 said -- they asked you whether or not somebody mentioned censorship. Do you recall,
13 in any of those pitches or proposals or discussions, a discussion with anybody about 14 censorship online?
15 A I think the PI, he has it in his speaker notes, so clearly he was thinking about 16 that and in a framing. But the projects themselves weren't -- there was nobody actually 17 doing anything -- any kind of censorship. I mean, even that project where they used the 18 term apparently, all it was, was surfacing. And the interesting part about that project as 19 well is, it's trying to bring visibility to the process. So if somebody -- if content 20 moderators were, in some way, censoring, that project would have surfaced the fact that 21 there was something happening there.
22 Q Right. Their objective was actually transparency.
23 A Transparency, yes.
24 [redacted] Okay. I think we can go off the record now.
25 [Discussion off the record.]

1 [redacted] We can go back on the record, please.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q All right. I want to begin by going back to a question the minority asked

4 you in the previous hour about WiseDex' scoring being low, and "not competitive" was

5 the wording you used. Is that correct?

6 A I believe so, yes.

7 Q Do both Phase I and Phase II merit reviews use the same criteria?

8 A Yes.

9 Q So did WiseDex receive high scores in its review for Phase I?

10 A I believe it did, yes.

11 Q Because it had to beat 60 other projects, right?

12 A Seventy -- yeah, I guess --

13 Q Sixty-two.

14 A -- 62, yeah. I was told there would be no math.

15 Q So what changed from Phase I to Phase II?

16 A I mean, the projects sharpen up over the period of Phase I. They get

17 clearer on what they're doing. It's a different set of reviewers as well. So, you know,

18 the reviewers are better matched to -- I know what the projects are, I know what the

19 projects are covering, and it's easier for me to find reviewers that actually have more

20 specific subject matter expertise. In Phase I, there's so many of them that it's more

21 generalized.

22 Q Now, we discussed earlier a Track F media strategy.

23 A Uh-huh.

24 Q Do you recall how you first became aware of reporting on NSF in the fall of 25 2021?

1 A It was either us seeing it, or somebody seeing it and sending it to us. I can't
2 remember specifically. Usually when somebody sees it, they send stuff around.
3 Q Do they -- do you remember which article or what was the first thing that
4 was brought to your attention?
5 A There were -- I think the thing immediately before the media strategy
6 meeting was an article in Campus Reform, which was fine. They interviewed some PIs,
7 they got a statement from NSF, if I'm remembering the order of all the articles correctly,
8 and then it was InfoWars that picked it up and reframed it and -- and changed the 9 characterization of the project.
10 Q So to be clear, you didn't have a problem with the Campus Reform article?
11 A No.
12 Q Okay. Now, did you consult with -- or who was made aware of this media
13 attention that NSF was receiving -- on specifically, Track F?
14 A Probably -- probably section head, probably TIP leadership, probably OLPA.
15 Q And by "OLPA," can you --
16 A Office of Legislative & Public Affairs.
17 Q Who specifically at OLPA?
18 A I don't remember. It might've been Mike England, but usually they're 19 monitoring stuff for NSF. If anything mentions NSF, they're usually aware of it, too, and 20 we, of course, monitor for specific stuff about us.
21 Q What feedback did you receive from those individual parties that you
22 mentioned?
23 A I don't remember having any specific discussions with them about it.
24 Q How did you personally respond to this media attention?
25 A I believe by calling the meeting to talk about it with the PIs and the teams.

1 Q Did you consult with anyone prior to that or --

2 A I don't think so.

3 Q What did you say in those meetings that you called?

4 A Well, the one meeting was captured in the media-strategy document, and it

5 was, you know, how can everybody be prepared for these reports that are coming out

6 that are mischaracterizing projects, how can you be prepared that handle the blowback

7 that might come, because I mentioned previously, you know, we've seen a lot of

8 researchers get doxxed, have death threats, rape threats, people showing up physically to 9 confront them.

10 So it was things like that, dealing with those kinds of things, understanding how to

11 talk to the media, understanding services that can help take your information off

12 information brokers so people can't get your home address, things like that.

13 Q Who physically drafted the strategy?

14 A I drafted -- I did the first draft, and I believe maybe Shelby might have also 15 done a pass on it.

16 Q Did anyone besides you and Shelby attend these meetings?

17 A From the NSF side?

18 Q Uh-huh.

19 A No.

20 Ms. Dayananda. It's one meeting.

21 Mr. Pozmantier. One meeting, yes. There was one meeting.

22 [redacted] One meeting you had two different times so -- to accommodate the 23 schedule of the different Track F --

24 Mr. Pozmantier. Yes, that's correct.

25 [redacted] How many people attended the meetings?

1 Mr. Pozmantier. Off the top of my head, I can't remember, but it was probably 2 less than 10 each time.
3 [redacted] Was it representation from each Track F team?
4 Mr. Pozmantier. If -- I think that's what we wanted. I'm not sure if that's what
5 we got. But we then passed around the document afterwards to make everybody
6 aware and get their input as well if they weren't there.
7 [redacted] Did you brief anyone in NSF leadership or --
8 Mr. Pozmantier. No.
9 [redacted] Did you have any discussions with Shelby before these meetings?
10 Mr. Pozmantier. I may have told her we were going to do it, but that's about it.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q In the email attaching the first draft of that strategy, you emphasize that a 13 joint effort will be required for NSF to do a better job in how we deal with the media on 14 this topic, including training for the researchers beginning in January. What did you 15 mean by "a better job"?
16 A I mean, I can't remember the specific wording that I used, but I think
17 generally, being prepared for the types of reporting that we were seeing. I mean, there 18 really haven't been any reports on the program other than people that are 19 mischaracterizing the projects and framing them in a way that couldn't be further from 20 what they're doing.
21 Q So did you think that NSF's current approach to sharing information with the 22 media was flawed or the Track F teams' approach?
23 A I think at the beginning, we might have all been a little naive.
24 Q Did you believe that the Track F teams were divulging too much information
25 about their projects to the media?

A No. I think we just wanted to make sure that people were making informed decisions when they were doing it and thinking about how they were communicating.

BY [redacted]

Q During this meeting, who was -- were you the one leading the meeting, so to speak?

A I would've been, yes.

Q And what did you share in the meeting?

A I can't remember the specifics of it, but most everything that was discussed in the document was what was discussed in the -- in the meeting.

Q Were the researchers generally familiar with the reporting that had been going on, or was this --

A Yes.

Q -- you breaking the news to them?

A No, they knew. By the time we did the meeting, they knew.

BY [redacted]

Q Why did you feel that there was a need for an additional strategy upon NSF's current media strategy, because they had a media strategy already, did they not?

A I don't know what NSF's media strategy is.

Q So you were never made aware of that strategy?

A No. I mean, there's a process that I'm aware of where somebody would send a media request to, I think it's [redacted]@NSF.com or something like that, a catch-all, and somebody there would respond, or if I got an email directly from a reporter, instead of responding to the reporter, I would send it to OLPA to determine what to do.

Q And was Mike England your main point of contact there?

A Yes.

Q So who authored the media strategy?

A Mainly me, and, I guess, Shelby.

BY [redacted]

Q Were you keeping contemporaneous notes, or did you, at the end of the meeting, draft what was said?

A We were taking notes during the time, I think, or somebody was, but, yeah, we just -- we captured -- one way or another, we captured what was said there, but I don't remember specifically.

Q Do you recall which research teams offered ideas on how best to respond?

A I don't remember who said what.

Q Would that have been captured in any other notes?

A I doubt. I don't think we attributed anything to anybody.

1 [12:18 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Did you notify anyone that you were creating this strategy?

4 A Just the people that were at the meeting.

5 Q Did you notify anyone after the strategy had been created?

6 A No. And, really, I think strategy is almost a mis- -- it's a misnomer because

7 it was really just a capture of the notes on there and what we thought should be, you

8 know, actions from there. But things like media training and stuff like that. So --

9 Q The title you included in the email was --

10 A Yeah, and I'm saying I probably mistitled it, but --

11 [redacted] I'd like to enter the media strategy as an exhibit. What number?

12 Exhibit 3.

13 [Pozmantier Exhibit No. 3.

14 was marked for identification.]

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Do you need any time to review?

17 A I think we've seen this a lot lately.

18 Q Let's walk through the media strategy document. You stated that the 19 Foundation and the funded researchers need to be in sync. I believe that's in the 20 second paragraph. Yeah, the second paragraph.

21 A Yeah, the first sentence.

22 Q How were they not previously?

23 A It was just about thinking about how we were communicating about the 24 projects, so that we were -- if we said something about the projects, it was what they

25 were saying about the projects. And that mostly relying on the PIs to describe their

1 projects to us to make sure that we were -- if we were asked or we decided to say
2 anything about it, that we characterized it in the right way.
3 Q So you're speaking on behalf of the Foundation here. Were you in sync
4 with the foundation in creating this strategy?
5 A I mean, I want to be clear because you guys have asked me this multiple
6 times now. No one else at the National Science Foundation was involved with this,
7 that -- from OLPA or TIP or my section head. This was something that I did, and I invited
8 Shelby to the meeting, and that's where it stopped.
9 [redacted] Did you draft this background section before the meeting?
10 Mr. Pozmantier. No, after.
11 [redacted] And so Ms. Smith didn't add anything to this document?
12 Mr. Pozmantier. She might have added some notes in, but I'd have to look back
13 to see exactly what they were. I know that this was a draft document because there are 14 certain things that are in here in this document that are not in -- after feedback in what 15 would be -- if there was a final document that we were going to do something with, what 16 would have been that document. But since we never did anything, there wasn't.
17 But, for instance, examples of media outlets not to engage, that was not 18 something that was agreed upon or should have been in there. In fact, we agreed that 19 that was a bad thing to do. And the National Science Foundation or any government 20 agency cannot do that.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Who suggested that idea during the meeting?
23 A I have no idea. I don't know.
24 Q Do you recall there being any reaction to it during the meeting that was 25 raised?

1 A No, because it was just a brainstorming session. But when it was put into
2 the document, there were -- and I think you guys have these emails -- multiple emails
3 from multiple teams saying that it was a bad idea, as well as emails back from me saying
4 that I agreed with that.
5 Q Do you recall if any example outlets were mentioned during the meeting?
6 A No, I don't.
7 Q When drafting a document like this, do you typically use like Google Docs
8 that multiple people can head at once or is it --
9 A It was just a Word document that I did.
10 Q And would you have likely emailed it to Ms. Smith for her edits?
11 A Probably, yes. Yeah.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q What did you mean by "always highlight the pro-democracy nature of the 14 track and each project"? It's under the Recommendations, under Messaging.
15 A Yeah, that this promotes democracy, this promotes free speech, this 16 promotes the First Amendment. We're working with helping journalists. We're 17 protecting journalists in different projects. This is, you know, helping people cull
18 through, kind of go through this free exchange of ideas and figure out what's good
19 information, what's bad information.
20 Q And what did you mean by, "If possible, focus on the nonideological nature 21 of work"?
22 A So, I mean, many of these things can be used for a number of different 23 topics. They're focusing on some of the hot buttons. But if you look at what some of 24 the projects are working on. So you guys have talked about Course Correct and 25 Co-Insights. Co-Insights right now is seeing a lot of Chinese-based disinformation about

1 the United States, saying that we're violent, that there's -- you know, you come to the 2 United States, you're going to get shot. They're promoting themselves as prosperous
3 and safe. And so those type scenarios are out there. That to me is not anything that's 4 controversial as far as things on the United States side go.
5 The Course Correct project is looking at all kinds of different topics, from 6 plant-based meats, to animal vaccines, HPV. So there's a whole bunch of topics that 7 these projects can surface low-quality narratives on, low-quality information-based 8 narratives on, or other things that are even detrimental to our country that they're 9 surfacing.
10 Q What part of the team's work was ideological?
11 A Can you rephrase that? I don't understand.
12 Q You're saying, "focus on the nonideological nature of" --
13 A Yeah, they're not -- oh, I'm sorry. They're not -- they're not picking sides on 14 these things. They're simply surfacing things. They're making -- so, for instance, 15 Course Correct is saying that this particular narrative, there's no information or data to 16 back up these claims. We've looked for research. Or if they're citations, we've 17 evaluated citations, and we believe that this is not a narrative that's based off good
18 information.
19 So journalists, fact checker, public communicator, decide what you want to do
20 with this, but we're saying that this is what we've discovered in the topic areas that you
21 want to focus on. If you want to write a story, you want to do a fact-check, or you think 22 that, say, you know, public health communicator, and there's bad information about 23 heart attacks or heart health, and want to put out some kind of advisory to your citizens
24 so that they understand that this information out there on heart health might be 25 detrimental to them, you can decide to do that.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Independent of this media strategy, when you were providing

3 feedback -- we'll stay with the -- at Phase II, when feedback's a bit more substantive -- did

4 you ever have any conversations with the recipients about whether certain subjects are

5 more challenging to handle it because they're politically charged?

6 A I don't remember specific conversations about that.

7 Q What about generally?

8 A I mean, I've asked them for -- to give me the list of all the topics that they

9 might be covering so we can understand and help you guys understand the nature of the 10 projects better.

11 Q Were there any topics that concerned you?

12 A No.

13 Q Going through the example in your answer to [redacted] question, you

14 mentioned a number of subjects that are not politically charged, but there have been,

15 especially in the last couple of years, questions about narratives that are, you know, far

16 more politically fraught.

17 A Uh-huh.

18 Q Did you at any point have any discussions around subjects such as like where 19 the COVID-19 virus originated from?

20 A I don't remember specifically talking about that with them. They might be

21 covering some of that stuff, but it's not something that I've had conversations with them

22 about.

23 Q Yeah.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q Just looking a little bit more on the bottom of page 1 here. What did you

1 mean by "showing both sides can distort"?

2 A So sometimes something is said that is so far -- so far wrong and so far

3 beyond the pale, it's factually incorrect, and you can show it's factually incorrect. By 4 giving it equal billing as the correct information, you in some ways lend credibility to it.

5 Q Moving down to the Protective Measures, did NSF recommend any other

6 tracks subscribed to these web monitoring or scrubbing services?

7 A None of our other tracks have faced this kind of disinformation about them.

8 Q To the back of the strategy it discusses media training. And earlier you

9 mentioned that this training was never actually required of NSF teams. Is that correct?

10 A Correct. There is no actual media training curriculum that was developed.

11 Q So were NSF teams or these Track F teams, based on this, supposed to 12 develop their own training?

13 A We would look at collectively putting it together based off the expertise

14 from the teams in the tracks. We had people that were former journalists on the tracks,

15 people that are communications experts, et cetera. Crisis communications. All these

16 fun things. And we were saying, hey, let's -- if we pull together the collective knowledge

17 and skills and expertise of the track and we develop this, but there just wasn't time to do

18 it. We were expecting massive amounts of time of them already, plus there are other

19 responsibilities. There was not time to put something like this together. And so once

20 it became clear that there is nothing for us to do here, we just didn't have time to do it, or

21 nobody had the ability to put something like that together, we just let the whole thing go.

22 Q So is it your testimony that no Track F team developed training or a strategy

23 based off of this?

24 A That's correct. No Track F team.

25 [redacted] For the research teams, was it the researchers themselves? Did

1 anyone, to your knowledge, bring on someone from like the universities comms teams to
2 attend this call?
3 Mr. Pozmantier. It is possible. I mean, there are -- the teams -- some of the 4 teams had comms people on them, and it's possible that there were people from some of 5 the institutions there, but I don't remember.
6 [redacted] Okay. Did you invite anyone from OLPA to attend this meeting?
7 Mr. Pozmantier. Nope.
8 [redacted] To your knowledge, is it standard practice at NSF to create a
9 track-specific media strategy?
10 Ms. Dayananda. Sorry, can you repeat the question? I just -- I just didn't hear
11 you.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Is it standard practice at NSF to create a Track F -- or a track-specific media
14 strategy?
15 A No. But, I mean, it's also not standard practice for us to have -- you know,
16 us to be attacked either.
17 Q Are you familiar with NSF's latest letter to this committee?
18 A The subpoena?
19 Q Accompanying their latest production.
20 A I wasn't involved with that.
21 Q Okay. Well, I can represent, in the letter, NSF disavows --
22 [redacted] Can you say, like, what you're talking about?
23 [redacted] Yeah.
24 [redacted] I'm kind of new to this, so I don't know what letter. Like a date or 25 something.

1 [redacted] Sure. In the letter --

2 [redacted] The letter dated?

3 [redacted] End of February?

4 [redacted] February 28th, I believe.

5 [redacted] Okay. Thank you.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q NSF disavows the Track F media strategy you created, stating that it did not

8 follow the longstanding NSF principles for media engagement, nor the NSF media policy,

9 and was not an official NSF media strategy because it was not developed in consultation

10 with NSF's Office of Legislative and Public Affairs. Is that accurate?

11 A If you're saying it is. I haven't seen the document. But, I mean, what's

12 accurate I would say is that this is not an official NSF media strategy. And I would also

13 say that nothing happened with it. So I don't really understand their disavowing

14 something that was never anything that was put into action. It was a brainstorming

15 exercise that never went anywhere.

16 Q To your knowledge, has NSF instituted any new policies or reviewed its

17 Convergence Accelerator or general grant review or approval processes since the 18 committee's report?

19 A For approval for what?

20 Q Approval processes for whether or not a grant should receive funding or for

21 whether or not a strategy should be developed at any --

22 A I don't think there's been any change in any procedures. They certainly 23 wouldn't change the grant awarding process based off of something like this.

24 Q So NSF provided the committee with an official copy of the NSF's media

25 policy, which states in part: NSF is committed to a culture of openness with the media

1 and public that values transparency and scientific integrity.

2 Is this policy consistent with the original Track F media strategy?

3 A Yes. I mean, we're not -- so, number one, you're characterizing this as

4 something that actually happened. This is a piece of paper. There was no

5 actual -- there was no action that came from this. So any -- and there was never going

6 to be any action on it without going to OLPA.

7 Q So what did you mean when you said the training would begin in January?

8 A That if we could get it together, we would try to do that. But, again, there

9 was no training developed.

10 [redacted] Who made the decision to not develop any training?

11 Mr. Pozmantier. We just dropped it. I guess I didn't -- I made the decision not 12 to pursue it.

13 [redacted] During the meeting, did the researchers push back and say, we're

14 already overwhelmed, we're unlikely to have time to --

15 Mr. Pozmantier. No, they didn't say that. But when we started -- once we sent

16 stuff around, nobody really piped up to want to work on it. So it was clear I wasn't going

17 to the -- I wasn't going to push it. I understand the time commitments that they have,

18 and I'm very -- I did not want to put more on them that could then come back and impact

19 their Phase II proposal where they could come back and say you threw extra work on us

20 and we didn't get a Phase II proposal -- or because of that.

21 [redacted] Looking back, do you believe it was appropriate for you to create this

22 strategy?

23 Ms. Dayananda. So just want to be careful here and precise with words. He

24 said -- he testified numerous times it's not strategy. He's characterizing it as a

25 document from a brainstorm session. So while -- and said he mislabeled it as a media

1 strategy. So I just want to be clear on that. He can answer the question.

2 [redacted] Sure. I could even rephrase it.

3 Looking back, was it appropriate for you to create this document?

4 Mr. Pozmantier. It was appropriate to have the meeting to discuss these topics

5 with the researchers. The document was simply a capture of that. So creating a

6 document to capture what we discussed, I don't think it was problematic. I think, you

7 know, I would have done a little bit more editing on the document before sending it out,

8 taking out certain things that were not supposed to be there to begin with. I would

9 have retitled it, if I could do it over again.

10 But I don't think there's anything wrong with what we've got here. We are -- you

11 know, we have a bunch of researchers that are being targeted with disinformation that

12 could then create possibility of death threats, rape threats, people showing up at their

13 homes. And so we're trying to arm everybody with as much information as possible in 14 the face of this.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Do you recall what -- you mentioned editing the document slightly, you

17 know, putting it all together at the end of the meeting. Do you recall what ideas you cut

18 out that didn't make this draft?

19 A Yeah. Well, we cut out -- I mean, we certainly cut out this examples of 20 media outlets not to engage. And --

21 Q Yeah, please finish.

22 A I mean, that -- and I stated here, and I believe we turned over an email, that

23 where I clearly state that the government should not and cannot exclude media

24 organizations.

25 Q Let me rephrase the question. I was trying to get one moment before that.

1 So before this document is created, there's brainstorming, there's all these ideas
2 that have been floated. Did all of those ideas make this document or were you pulling
3 some of them out before this draft was created?
4 A I really don't remember. I think we put in -- yeah, I can't remember. I
5 mean, we captured parts of the discussion and we structured it into a document, but I
6 don't remember, you know, if there was things that we dismissed out of hand during the 7 meeting or not, or we looked at notes and said, no, we're not putting that in. I mean,
8 one thing that it may have been discussed during the meeting because somewhere it got 9 captured, examples of media outlets not to engage, that was something that I dismissed.
10 And we had already dismissed and didn't include it in my initial draft.
11 Q Is it your recollection that it was not proposed by you or Ms. Smith?
12 A I didn't propose it, I don't think. But I don't remember who would have.
13 Q Generally in this brainstorming discussion, were most of the ideas coming
14 from the researchers or from you and Ms. Smith or was it an equal balance?
15 A I think, for the most part, we were trying to give the researchers a forum to 16 pass along what they -- you know, their experience and so forth. So we were probably 17 listening, you know, just bringing, adding things where possible. But in most cases, if 18 there's people that I think know more than me, I listen to them more than talk to 19 them -- talk at them.
20 [redacted] Have you faced any disciplinary action or reprimand for the 21 development of this document?
22 Mr. Pozmantier. No.
23 [redacted] Have you --
24 [redacted] Sorry. How long did these meetings last? Do you recall?
25 Mr. Pozmantier. I think they would have been an hour maybe. I don't know.

1 I'd have to look back, but I think they were probably an hour.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q In August 2022, when the time came for NSF to announce which Track F

4 projects would receive an additional $5 million in Phase II funding, did NSF issue a press

5 release?

6 A No.

7 Q Was this consistent with NSF's typical practice?

8 A There is no typical practice. It's on a program-by-program basis.

9 Q Maybe I'll rephrase the question. Had, to your knowledge, any other tracks

10 not issued a Phase II press release?

11 A No, not to my knowledge.

12 Q How did NSF handle the Track E Phase II awards in term of an

13 announcement?

14 A I believe there was an announcement.

15 Q And how much money total would the Track E teams receive?

16 A The exact same amount as Track F, except for they were more Phase I teams

17 for Track E.

18 Q Who at NSF was responsible for that decision not to announce?

19 A It was a collective decision. So -- and we asked the teams whether or not

20 they wanted to publicize it or not, and most of them did not want a press release. The 21 information about the projects is not hidden from anybody. It's publicly available both

22 through NSF's award search and on our Convergence Accelerator website where you can

23 look clearly at our portfolio, and the abstracts are listed there with program

24 description -- project descriptions. So if anybody wanted to know anything about what

25 we were doing in Phase II, all they had to do was go to our website.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Who wanted to have the press release issue?

3 A I don't remember. I mean, we discussed it. And I don't think anybody

4 was a proponent one way or the other as far as like -- we asked the team if they wanted

5 to do it. I believe -- I don't know how many of them, but I -- if I'm remembering

6 correctly, most of them, if not all of them, said they didn't want to.

7 Q What was the forum that you asked them?

8 A It may have been in a meeting. I don't know.

9 Q Which NSF personnel were involved in the decision?

10 A It probably would have been section head, TIP, et cetera. There is no

11 policy, by the way, that we -- NSF has no policy on press releases for awards.

12 Q Had you engaged in any similar discussions about whether to do a press

13 release before Phase II of Track D?

14 A No. But, again, Track D was not facing disinformation attacks on their 15 teams.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q Did you or anyone else at NSF ask the Track F teams to get approval from 18 NSF before issuing, you know, press releases or publishing articles?

19 A The only thing that we ask is that we -- if they're going to write about NSF or 20 the Convergence Accelerator in whatever their release is, that they run that part by us.

21 Q And there was no special accommodation for Track F that was consistent

22 across --

23 A That's consistent across all of NSF. If you're going to talk about NSF or an

24 NSF program, that NSF can have some signoff on how you talk about NSF. But we

25 don't -- outside of that, it's up to them whether they release a report -- a press release

1 and what they put in it.

2 Q Do you recall Hacks/Hackers, the organization that's leading the ARTT

3 project, do you recall them sharing screenshots regarding media strategy documents that

4 they had created with you or created for you?

5 A Not specifically.

6 Q Assuming these exist, would NSF typically retain copies of those draft

7 documents?

8 A If they're sent via email, they're in my email.

9 Q Okay.

10 A And those would have been turned over to you guys.

11 [Pozmantier Exhibit No. 4.

12 was marked for identification.]

13 [redacted] Exhibit 4 will be an email in which a communications employee for

14 Hacks/Hackers is sharing screenshots, proving that she shared a media -- media strategy

15 documents with Mr. Pozmantier. These include an ARTT Partners-Media Playbook, a

16 DRAFT Phase II Media Processes and Strategy document, and a Phase II 1-pager, standard

17 project description.

18 Ms. Dayananda. So, [redacted] I'm sorry, this is not an NSF document, this is a 19 researcher document?

20 [redacted] These were documents created -- what appeared to be created by the 21 ARTT team and shared with Mr. Pozmantier.

22 Ms. Dayananda. I see.

23 Mr. Pozmantier. Their media strategy.

24 [redacted] And it is produced to us by the National Science Foundation.

25 Ms. Dayananda. Okay.

1 Mr. Pozmantier. Because it was in my inbox.

2 Ms. Dayananda. Okay.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Do you recall these documents?

5 A No.

6 Q So you have no recollection of what was in the ARTT Partners-Media

7 Playbook?

8 A Nope.

9 Q Or the Media Processes and Strategy document?

10 A I don't remember any of these documents.

11 Q In late November and early December of 2022, two outlets published stories

12 on Track F projects. Do you recall those stories?

13 A Not -- if you tell me what the stories are, I'd probably remember them, but I

14 don't remember the dates of -- I can't match dates, just different stories.

15 Q Well, it was from Just the News. The other was a Daily Wire article.

16 A Vaguely. I mean, Just the News wrote I think several articles.

17 Q How did NSF respond? Or how did you respond to these articles?

18 A Probably just made people aware of them.

19 Q Did you ever speak with any NSF leadership or Convergence Accelerator

20 leadership?

21 A I probably would have just sent an email saying, hey, these articles came out,

22 just alerting people.

23 Q Did you get any response?

24 A "Thanks for letting us know."

25 Q Do you recall one of the documents -- or being contacted by the Sinclair

1 Broadcast Group? It's The National Desk.

2 A I don't think they contacted -- if they -- they didn't contact me.

3 Q But do you recall NSF or the media team for NSF?

4 A I don't know if they did or not. Not all of the media requests that they get

5 filter down. They make their own -- sometimes they'll -- if there's something specific

6 they want to know about that they need, then they'll come and ask me. But oftentimes

7 they make their own determinations and issue whatever statement they're going to issue

8 without talking to me.

9 Q And then -- so in one of these email exchanges -- happy to show it if it's

10 helpful -- Ms. Smith flags that Sinclair had approached the NSF media team. And you

11 responded to Ms. Smith's email stating, "Sinclair certainly ups the ante." What did you

12 mean by that?

13 A Sinclair is a large national -- they own local media stations all over the 14 country. So it means that there's going to be a lot of reach with whatever they put out.

15 Q So you were concerned that this media attention would spread across the 16 country to more of the American public?

17 A I was concerned that the disinformation about the projects through their

18 articles would spread.

19 Q And then the communications person for ARTT replies stating that Sinclair

20 had published a story, and asks Ms. Smith, do we need to consider a response? At this

21 point -- you were copied on these emails as well -- did you consult with anyone in NSF

22 leadership, to your recollection?

23 A We would have alerted them to the Sinclair articles. I think that would 24 have been about it.

25 Q Do you recall any letter sent by any Members of Congress or any Senators

1 regarding any Track F project?

2 A Senator Ernst sent a letter about ARTT.

3 Q And what issue?

4 A She conflated work that they had done funded by someone else with the

5 ARTT project where they were leveraging a minor -- a bit of work from another project

6 funded by other foundations.

7 Q And do you recall what that particular element of that project was?

8 A NewsQ.

9 Q And what is NewsQ?

10 A My understanding of NewsQ is that it was a survey of Wikipedians,

11 Wikimedians to get their opinions and collect their opinions on news sources.

12 Q And to your understanding, the News Quality Initiative, or NewsQ, was that

13 funded by NSF or not?

14 A They leveraged a little bit of work from -- it was primarily funded by other

15 foundations. And I think when I asked the ARTT project if they had sent any money to 16 them, it was something on the order of $3,000 out of a $750,000 award. They didn't do

17 any work in Phase II.

18 Q Did NSF, to your recollection, issue a response letter to Senator Ernst?

19 A I believe so.

20 Q Did you play a role in drafting or advising on that letter?

21 A If -- yes, I gave them information on the ARTT project and the relationship to 22 NewsQ.

23 Q Are you aware of ARTT's online misinformation harm framework?

24 A I haven't looked at it.

25 Q To your knowledge, is it supported by NSF funding?

1 A I don't think they -- I don't think the ARTT project has a misinformation harm
2 thing. I think that may be something else from Hacks/Hackers.
3 Q Okay. Did you ever advise the Track F teams on whether to respond to 4 media attention?
5 A If they asked me.
6 Q And how often would you say, yes, go ahead, or no?
7 A I would always say it was up to them.
8 Q So you never said --
9 A I never gave them a directive one way or the other. I said, you know, I
10 would consider these things. And if it was me, I might or might not do it, but it's 11 ultimately your decision.
12 Q Did you ever speak for NSF stating what NSF would recommend or not 13 recommend they do?
14 A NSF itself was not recommending anything to them. And NSF, I mean -- I
15 think -- let's see. I think what I guided them on was taking into consideration what 16 was -- who it was coming from and how it was being sent to them and what the framing
17 of things were. So, for instance, we would receive requests with like a 30-minute or 18 1-hour turnaround with some question that clearly had no basis in fact. You don't have 19 time to put a response together when somebody says -- sends you something after 4 p.m.
20 and says we're going online with this at 5:00.
21 Q Did you ever make these recommendations in coordination with OLPA?
22 A No.
23 Q In reference to a Daily Caller article, you, I believe, emailed some of the 24 Track F teams -- or let me know if you recall something differently -- regarding certain 25 expo videos that were on YouTube. Do you recall that?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Do you recall what you told them?

3 A I said we would look at taking them down.

4 Q And why did you tell the Track F teams that you would try to take down their 5 video?

6 A The content of the video was being mischaracterized, and the content of the 7 video was at a point in time where they were still on Phase I. And many of the projects,

8 particularly the ones that were no longer in the program, there's no reason for them to

9 be targeted for something that they're not funded to move further with. And the 10 projects that are moving on to Phase II may have changed what they were doing to some 11 degree.

12 But I'll also -- well, I'll leave it there.

13 Q Weren't these videos already presented publicly at the expo?

14 A Yes. And they're still presented publicly. They're still online. You can go

15 to YouTube right now and see them.

16 Q Did you take down any of the videos?

17 A No. We removed them from a playlist.

18 Q And so you never removed any --

19 A No. You can go to the Daily Caller article right now and click on any of the 20 links and get a YouTube video of those videos.

21 Q Do you recall communicating with Temple University or Professor Dragut

22 regarding his video?

23 A I believe I asked him if he wanted to take it down or not.

24 Q And do you recall his reply?

25 A Not specifically.

1 Q And do you recall ever taking any action?

2 A We removed them from the playlist. But, again, the videos are still online,

3 so --

4 Q Were these videos only that were quoted or mentioned in an article or were

5 they all the Dragut videos that were removed from the playlist?

6 A All of them. But if you go on YouTube and search for individual project

7 names, you'll still find them?

8 Q You'll find all of them?

9 A Uh-huh. Yes.

10 Q In response to your email about the Daily Caller article, [redacted], the 11 head researcher for Wisconsin's Course Correct team, quickly replied stating that his

12 team had recently issued a statement emphasizing that Course Correct is focused on 13 nonpartisan issues like food safety.

14 Do you believe that Course Correct was primarily focused on food safety?

15 A If that's what [redacted] said, then yes.

16 Q Are you taking his word for it, or do you know from personal experience that 17 they were primarily focused?

18 A They were focused on a number of things. Like I mentioned before, HPV, 19 animal vaccines, plant-based meats, raw milk.

20 Q Were they focused on the 2020 election or misinformation surrounding it?

21 A It may have been a topic they covered.

22 Q In March 2023, Wagner flagged for you a recent article from legal scholar

23 Jonathan Turley about the projects that NSF had been funding. Do you recall that

24 exchange?

25 A I do.

1 Q You care to share more information about your recollection?

2 A I mean, you guys have the email. So if there's a question, I'm happy to 3 answer it.

4 Q So you replied: As usual, he only has a passing relationship with the facts

5 without identifying any shortcomings in his article.

6 A I mean, the entire article was a mischaracterization. He came in with a

7 premise that was completely off, and then sought to support an incorrect premise. So

8 there wasn't an individual thing to call out that was wrong. The entire article, the entire

9 premise of the article was a mischaracterization.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q So are you saying there were no, like, factual mistakes within the article?

12 You disagree with like his conclusion?

13 A His -- he states at the beginning that it's -- there is a Biden

14 censorship -- coordinated Biden censorship effort. No effort exists that I have any

15 knowledge of. If there is one, we're certainly not part of it. That's what he tries to 16 characterize our projects at. And then he seeks to go out and present supporting items

17 for why that is.

18 So I don't know what, you know -- I am going to knock down each individual thing

19 when the entire article is fallacy.

20 Q Are you familiar with the Murthy v. Missouri case? Its former caption is 21 Missouri v. Biden?

22 A I'm not sure what that has to do with Track F.

23 Q Oh, well, you referenced the part of Professor Turley's article about the 24 Biden administration's role, writ large. There's a lawsuit on this issue. I'm just asking if 25 you're familiar with it.

1 A I believe that's the Missouri case?

2 Q Yes.

3 A Yeah.

4 Q Okay.

5 [redacted] In the article, Turley wonders how Course Correct defines verified

6 accurate information, which is mentioned in the abstract for Course Correct's Phase I

7 funding, I believe.

8 In your experience vetting and working with the team, how did Course Correct

9 define "verified accurate information"?

10 Mr. Pozmantier. That's where I made the reference earlier to low-quality

11 information. And they're looking for citations, looking for verifiable research, et cetera.

12 Turley did no checking himself to talk to the team to ask them, to my knowledge, how 13 they defined it. He just made his own conclusions.

14 [redacted] In your email you say "as usual," which seems to reference familiarity

15 with other of Professor Turley's works. Were you familiar with his writings before this 16 article had been published?

17 Mr. Pozmantier. I'm familiar with some of his public statements.

18 [redacted] And which public statements are you referring to?

19 Ms. Dayananda. I don't -- do we have to really go there about all the 20 Jonathan -- I think you've asked the question about the email. I think the back and forth

21 about Professor Turley is just unnecessary at this point.

22 [redacted] Are you instructing him not to answer?

23 Ms. Dayananda. He can answer, but I don't -- I don't see the relevance of what 24 the actual supposed congressional investigation, legitimate legislative purpose is here.

25 [redacted] Well, I mean, broadly this interview is about the use of taxpayer

1 dollars. I think there's a pretty strong nexus to --

2 Ms. Dayananda. To respond to an article --

3 Mr. Pozmantier. To a GW Professor?

4 [redacted] This is coming from someone's whose salary is coming from U.S. tax

5 dollars, yes.

6 Ms. Dayananda. Who, Mr. Pozmantier? Who are we talking about right now.

7 [redacted] Yes.

8 Ms. Dayananda. So we're talking about his view on Professor Turley? How did

9 that impact American taxpayer dollars? I mean, I just -- we've -- we're now like in hour

10 three. I think we've hit Track F. We've hit the media strategy. I'm just -- I don't want

11 to deviate from the core purpose here. Stay on track, so --

12 [redacted] Yeah. I think this exchange is pretty solid within the committee

13 scope of the investigation. If you're instructing the witness not to answer, please let us

14 know.

15 Ms. Dayananda. The question is, are you familiar with Professor Turley's

16 statements?

17 Mr. Pozmantier. I am familiar with some of his statements, yes.

18 [redacted] Now I'm lost. Statements about?

19 Mr. Pozmantier. Anything that he wants to opine about.

20 [redacted] Maybe the question needs to be a little more poignant, because I'm

21 lost as well now. I'm sorry.

22 [redacted] Sure. So I was -- the initial question was if he was familiar with

23 Professor Turley's other work or basically --

24 [redacted] Oh, other than this?

25 [redacted] Other than the article. Because in the email responding to this article, the phrase "as usual," which is -- appears to be referencing --

[redacted] Okay. All right.

Ms. Dayananda. So I think he's answered it. Yes, he's familiar with it. That's the basis for the two --

[redacted] Are those statements or writings related to NSF?

Mr. Pozmantier. No.

[redacted] What were they related to?

Ms. Dayananda. Then how is that question related to the core purpose here?

[redacted] Because this is in reaction to a article about --

Mr. Pozmantier. Sure. Do we have a reaction to an article, but he never reached out to us for an interview, he never reached out to us for a statement or a comment or anything else. So this idea that we're somehow blacklisting or censoring or doing anything else is untrue because he didn't take the time to even ask anybody about any of the topics that he wrote about in that article, at NSF or the projects, to my knowledge.

[redacted] The statement, though, is about his -- to use your words, passing relationship with the facts, not about how he handled giving you an opportunity to comment or sufficient time to comment.

Are there issues with the facts in the article itself?

Mr. Pozmantier. Yes.

Mr. Pozmantier. And what are those?

Ms. Dayananda. I think he testified that the entire premise --

Mr. Pozmantier. I've already told you that the entire premise of the article is wrong.

BY [redacted]

1 Q What is that premise?

2 A That there's some censorship regime that's going on and that we're part of

3 that. There is no censorship from any of the projects that we're doing. There's no

4 content moderation for any of the Phase II projects. The idea of surfacing narratives

5 and presenting them to reporters so that more information can be put out about them,

6 that's the furthest thing from censorship.

7 Q Are you familiar with how Facebook conducts its content moderation?

8 A No, I'm not familiar with the specifics of how Facebook does its content

9 moderation.

10 Q Would it surprise you to learn that they rely on fact-checking partners to 11 moderate content?

12 A No.

13 Q And to your understanding, what is Co-Insights as a project primarily focused

14 at doing?

15 A Working with AAPI communities to detect narratives that are -- and, again,

16 this is in Tagalog or Hindi or Vietnamese.

17 Q Maybe let me rephrase the question. Do they see themselves as working

18 with fact-checking partners or with fact-checking entities, or are they themselves -- would

19 they consider themselves a fact checker?

20 A They're working with fact-checking partners. And, again, that are focused

21 on AAPI communities.

22 Q And we discussed earlier that they see themselves as in the content

23 moderation solutions market. Is that correct?

24 Ms. Dayananda. Who's the they?

25 [redacted] Meedan and Co-Insights the project.

1 Mr. Pozmantier. They -- I think what they see is the fact checkers themselves
2 making determinations on how they want to let other people use their fact-checking
3 work.
4 [redacted] Okay.
5 Mr. Pozmantier. That would be up to the fact checkers themselves.
6 [redacted] One point of clarifying in an earlier response. For Professor Turley's
7 criticism -- your criticism of Professor Turley kind of had a two-part answer. You said
8 that there was not censorship efforts by the Biden administration and that NSF was not 9 part of that.
10 Are you saying both are independently wrong or are you criticizing his conclusion
11 about the second part?
12 Mr. Pozmantier. Let me say this. I know nothing about a censorship effort by 13 anyone in the government.
14 [redacted] Are you familiar with whether the government has won or lost before
15 the district court and the circuit court?
16 Ms. Dayananda. [redacted] come on.
17 Mr. Pozmantier. I'm not going to get into the Fifth Circuit.
18 Ms. Dayananda. This is beyond. There's literally no legitimate purpose here for 19 you to question him about current cases pending that tangentially relate to what the 20 topic is you're investigating. Like, I just -- this is just going beyond.
21 He's commented on the email. It's pretty clear what his thoughts are about 22 Professor Turley. I think we should just try to move. I think you guys are at time for 23 your hour, but I really can't imagine what more we have. And I say that to both sides as 24 well. We've gone through 2 hours about the Track F program and the identification of 25 the award recipients. We spent an hour on the media strategy. You've gone through,

1 by my count, pretty much every email that was cited in the preliminary report. So some
2 preview of what's next would be helpful, but I just don't see what's left here.
3 [redacted] We have a couple minutes left in this hour. And I think the lawsuit
4 is -- we can talk more in between the hour regarding the responsiveness. But continue.
5 BY [redacted]
6 Q In April 2023, it appears that you started organizing communications
7 planning meetings for the Track F teams with [redacted] of the University of 8 Washington Center for an Informed Public, I believe, and that these meetings continued
9 into May. Is that correct?
10 A I think there was one meeting.
11 Q You only recall one meeting with him?
12 A Yeah. And it was to -- for [redacted] to let everybody know how the 13 University of Washington was dealing with this stuff.
14 Q What was said in that meeting, or how were they --
15 A He just conveyed how the University of Washington approached this media,
16 whatever, putting out information.
17 Q Do you have any more specifics beyond that?
18 A That's what was discussed.
19 Q For how long did these communications planning meetings continue, or are 20 you --
21 A I think it was one meeting, and I think it was an hour.
22 Q So they're not ongoing?
23 A No.
24 [redacted] Do you typically take notes for a meeting like that?
25 Mr. Pozmantier. I don't know that I did.

1 [redacted] Okay. What's your typical practice?

2 Mr. Pozmantier. It depends on the meeting.

3 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

4 [Discussion off the record.]

5 [redacted] Back on the record, please.

6 Go ahead.

7 Ms. Dayananda. Thank you, [redacted]

8 I just wanted to wrap up the point about the media strategy document. I want

9 to point out an email Monday -- from October 28, '21. This is referenced in the report

10 as footnote 117. And in that email from Mr. Pozmantier, it states -- this is the initial

11 email convening the meeting with the project managers. This discuss -- quote: This

12 discussion will lead to others. I plan to engage NSF leadership and public affairs soon

13 after our conversation.

14 This is just to give context to the questions concerning he alone convening this

15 meeting and whether the other NSF leadership was involved.

16 I also want to point out report page 30, footnote 120, a November 22nd, '21,

17 email. This is after the meetings were held where Mr. Pozmantier again says: I

18 will -- thanking the team for getting together. It's taking a bit longer than I hope to get

19 the notes and sources together to begin to turn the discussion into actions.

20 To, again, make the point that no actions were taken from the media strategy

21 document that was discussed ad nauseam.

22 And, finally, I want to mark this as exhibit 5 -- I think we're up to 5 or 6. And this

23 is what I provided to the majority and minority counsel as part of the letter, which is an

24 email from November 29, '21, which essentially character -- sums up testimony provided

25 today, which states -- to Shelby -- Sending the latest version with track changes on one of

1 them. Please note the bullet that set examples of organizations not to engage, which is
2 something we should or even can do as a government agency. I intentionally left it out
3 of the first draft and missed it in the -- "version" is dropped -- before I sent it out.
4 And in the attachment you can see the strikeout of "examples of media outlets to 5 not engage." So I want that to be clearly in the record. And I'll mark it as exhibit 5.
6 [redacted] Five, yeah.
7 [Pozmantier Exhibit No. 5.
8 was marked for identification.]
9 Ms. Dayananda. Okay. Thank you for the time. Thanks, [redacted]
10 [redacted] No problem.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q Okay. So I think it's clear that what you -- what was just represented by 13 your attorney, I think the dates were 2021, right, when you convened these meetings and 14 you talked about the possibility of taking action later on a media strategy, right? That 15 was 2021?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Okay. And then you were asked about exhibit 4, whether or not you had 18 seen some screenshots that were sent to you about one of the projects -- some 19 documents, correct? That is from 2022.
20 A This one?
21 Q Yes.
22 A Yes.
23 Q Exhibit 4.
24 A Uh-huh.
25 Q That is a year after you had already decided that there was nothing else you

1 were going to do as far as the media strategy with Track F?

2 A That's correct. And this would have been during Phase II.

3 Q Correct. Okay. And your response at the time, I believe you said, we

4 were naive. You did not expect the response or public response to your activities in

5 Track F. Is that why you convene these meetings?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And you said that was atypical; no other track was getting threatened?

8 A This is true.

9 Q And there was a question about -- like, I think you said in one of 10 the -- something about highlight pro-democracy. You were not saying that there's also

11 anti-democracy elements to these projects, correct?

12 A No.

13 Q Right. And you were asked about like different articles that came out.

14 And I think you, in fact, said that you had no problem with the article that was written by

15 Campus --

16 A Campus Reform, yeah.

17 Q Right. And that was because their facts were accurate?

18 A They made an effort to talk to the teams and asked them about their

19 projects. They got a quote from NSF. There was minimum editorializing. It was 20 actually a report. They asked questions, got answers, and put it in the story.

21 Q And Mr. Turley did none of that?

22 A Correct.

23 Q And was the understanding that he started with, like, what his conclusion

24 was, and then he worked his way backwards?

25 A Exactly.

1 Q Okay. And there is no requirement that anybody make any type of press
2 release related to awards or phases or anything under NSF policy, right?
3 A That's correct.
4 Q Okay. But everything that we talked about, everything that has happened
5 in Track F is publicly available on NSF's website?
6 A That's correct.
7 Q Okay. They can find out how much money went to which teams and who is 8 doing what at this particular time, right?
9 A Yes. And it's made much easier because it's on the Convergence
10 Accelerator site.
11 Q Right. And it actually says, like, it's the pull-down where it says Portfolio,
12 right?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And under Track F, it tells you these are the Phase II projects?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And it tells you the name of each project. There are six. Is that right?
17 A Yes.
18 Q And it tells you how much money went out in that track?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And the videos that were in question are still on YouTube?
21 A The last I checked, yes.
22 Q And the meetings that you've been having with all of these people, these are 23 not face-to-face meetings with the teams, these are virtual?
24 A Almost all of them, yes.
25 [redacted] That's all I have. That's it.

1 Thank you. We're off the record.

2 [Discussion off the record.]

3 [redacted] Can we go back on the record? Thank you.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q I want to go back to real quickly the Track F media strategy document. In

6 November 30th, 2021, do you recall emailing Connie Sehat, the head of the ARTT team,

7 stating that that bullet point or that section was added by one of your colleagues?

8 A Uh-huh, yes.

9 Q And which colleague was that?

10 A I think it was Shelby.

11 Q Moving to --

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q Well, so walk us through at least your recollection of what happened then.

14 You put together the initial draft?

15 A Yeah, and --

16 Q Emailed it to Ms. Smith?

17 A I believe so.

18 Q You believe Ms. Smith entered in the additional point about --

19 A Additional notes.

20 Q Additional notes. Those additional notes included the bullet point about 21 not engaging with certain outlets?

22 A I believe so, yes.

23 Q She then sent that version back to you?

24 A Uh-huh.

25 Q And you sent that version to --

1 A Oh, yes.
2 Q And then you sent that version to the researchers?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Have you spoken to Ms. Smith about this?
5 A I don't think so. I mean, I think this can't -- well, we spoke about the fact
6 that this was in the report that was released, but I don't think we spoke about this
7 process.
8 Q So you didn't speak about who put in --
9 A No, I'm just --
10 Q -- that part of it -- that bullet point?
11 A I mean, I think it's pretty clear that I didn't do it, because I've stated multiple 12 times, and I said that I disagreed with it. And, in fact, we submitted an exhibit that 13 states that as well.
14 Q But, I mean, the language does make it into the document. So we're just 15 trying to figure out how that happened.
16 A I don't know how many times I can say it to you guys. It's very clear
17 through everything else that it was put into the document. It was missed. We had 18 feedback that it shouldn't be there. I agreed with that, and I stated that it shouldn't be 19 there, and it was removed in the next version.
20 Q And did you have any discussions with Ms. Smith after -- let me reframe the 21 question so we're in the right time period.
22 After you received some feedback from some of the researchers, you omit it from 23 the document, did you go back and talk to Ms. Smith about it?
24 A That email.
25 Q Any other conversations?

1 A Not that I recall.

2 Q Okay.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q And what is Ms. Smith's title or role when it comes to the Convergence

5 Accelerator?

6 A She handles our comms stuff inside the office, but that filters up through

7 OLPA.

8 Q Is she the media outreach lead for the Convergence Accelerator program?

9 A She doesn't do anything unilaterally.

10 Q Is that a yes to my question?

11 A She doesn't do media outreach as far as like reaching out to media outlets to 12 do interviews and things like that. That would go through OLPA.

1 [1:20 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay. So you're saying she doesn't do things unilaterally. And you've

4 spoken with her about this being in the report. Did she indicate whether or not she

5 went up to OLPA --

6 A To do what?

7 Q -- to discuss whether or not this should be put into -- this section that she

8 included should be put into the strategy?

9 A I don't know how many -- I mean, we keep saying over and over again OLPA

10 was never engaged in this.

11 Q Right. But you also just testified that she doesn't do anything unilaterally.

12 A If she does outreach. You said does she do media outreach. That's a 13 whole different thing.

14 Q Gotcha. So maybe more generally, how often does Ms. Smith engage with 15 OLPA?

16 A I don't know.

17 Q As part of your role at NSF, have you interacted with CISA, the Cybersecurity

18 and Infrastructure Security Agency at DHS?

19 A What type of interactions?

20 Q Any interactions.

21 A I mean, I've talked to people there that were on the working group.

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q What was the working group?

24 A The information integrity working group.

25 Q Who from NSF was part of this working group?

1 A I think there were four or five, maybe three or four of us that were on there.
2 That working group released an R&D strategy publicly December 30, 2022.
3 Q And when did the working group start meeting?
4 A I think sometime in early 2022.
5 Q Which other agencies were part of the working group?
6 A I'm not sure of all of them, but it's in the report that came out. And I can 7 give you a list of the ones I recall, but you guys can pull the report down and take a look.
8 They are all listed there. I believe it was State, DHS, of course NSF, and there may have 9 been some others, but I can't remember, but again it's publicly available information.
10 Q Which personnel from NSF were involved?
11 A I think the four of us that were primarily involved were Nina -- I can't 12 remember her last name right now, Dan Cosley and Sara Kiesler.
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q And Sara Kiesler, she leads the Secure and Trustworthy Cyberspace program
15 at NSA. Is that correct?
16 A I think SaTC, there's more things under SaTC than -- I think she may have 17 something under SaTC, but I don't think she does all of SaTC. But it's possible. I don't 18 know what her -- but she is in SaTC.
19 Q To your understanding, what is information integrity?
20 A That's the general term for this field, where disinformation, et cetera is.
21 Q Did you interact with anyone else at DHS apart from CISA?
22 A I think S&T was on the working group.
23 Q And you mentioned State, was that the Global Engagement Center, or was it
24 more general?
25 A It may have -- I think GEC was there among other areas of State.

1 [redacted] How frequently did that working group meet?

2 Mr. Pozmantier. I think, like, on a monthly basis. This is standard stuff.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Have you ever interacted with the Office of the Surgeon General or other

5 agencies?

6 A Yes.

7 Q What have been the nature of those interactions?

8 A I believe when they were putting out a request for information we

9 helped -- we publicized -- or I sent it through to contacts in our -- to RPIs to let them know

10 that they had open request for information.

11 Q Was this request for information relating to misinformation in regards to 12 COVID-19?

13 A Probably that would be in their purview.

14 Q Who was your primary point of contact?

15 A Kyla Fullenwider.

16 Q Are there any other executive branch agencies that you regularly interacted

17 with?

18 A I didn't really -- I mean, the working group was the only regular thing, and

19 most of that was a lot of listening. The other agencies was any other agency was just

20 kind of topical, so --

21 Q During your time at NSF did you organize or coordinate any meetings

22 between Track F teams and trust and safety or content moderation companies?

23 A Not that I recall.

24 Q Did any Track F teams introduce you to any trust and safety companies?

25 A I don't think so. I mean, we -- we had some panels where we had outside

1 groups talk to the teams and I can't remember any more specifically than trust and safety
2 or not.
3 Q Are you familiar with CheckStep?
4 A I think they may have been one of the people that was on -- one of the 5 panels from outside group.
6 Q Are they a trust and safety company?
7 A I don't know.
8 Q With regard to these panels, in March 2022 you emailed the CheckStep CEO
9 stating that NSF will be holding a panel comprised of four companies for startups working 10 in the mis-- and disinfo space. Did that panel ever happen?
11 A Yeah, we do -- we bring outside people in to talk to the teams and answer
12 questions or what have you, to talk about what they are doing. It is just more of a 13 forum to let them understand different aspects of what they are doing, so --
14 Q Is the goal of that panel for these teams to ultimately explore partnerships
15 together with these companies?
16 A They could or they could learn more about what's happening in the field.
17 They could learn something about building products or running a company.
18 Q Did they -- to your knowledge, did any of these Track F teams build 19 partnerships with any of the companies in the panels that you put on?
20 A Not that I can think of.
21 Q What companies participated in this specific panel with --
22 A Off the top of my head, I can't remember.
23 Q But did CheckStep participate?
24 A If you're saying there's an email between me and the CEO about the panel,
25 then I think they did.

1 Q And do you recall how often a trust and safety company was introduced to
2 you, either by a Track F team, or in relationship to the panel?
3 A No, I can't.
4 Q Did you set up any other panels?
5 A I think we had two others. And those would have been different focuses, I
6 think. It might have even been -- I think one of those might have even included Office of 7 the Surgeon General.
8 Q During your time at NSF, have you had any industry interactions with Tress
9 Lab (ph)?
10 A I don't know.
11 Q What about any interactions with First Draft news?
12 A Maybe.
13 Q Claire Wardle?
14 A Oh, Claire, yeah. She's at Brown University now.
15 Q What interactions have you had with Claire?
16 Ms. Dayananda. Is there a timeframe or a subject matter?
17 [redacted] Within relation to Track F.
18 Mr. Pozmantier. I think just on talking to the team.
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q Was she a panelist for --
21 A Oh, she was a site visit panelist.
22 Q During your time at NSF, have you had any interactions with the Aspen
23 Institute?
24 A Yes.
25 Q What have been the nature of those interactions?

1 A We were discussing bringing together different philanthropic organizations
2 that are funding work.
3 Q What kind of work?
4 A In the information integrity space.
5 Q Did any Track F teams participate?
6 A No. Oh, no, that's not true. One of the PIs was there.
7 Q Do you recall which PI?
8 A From Expert Voices Together.
9 Q Was that the head researcher for Expert Voices Together?
10 A Yes.
11 Q During your time at NSF, have you had any interactions with News Guard?
12 A Not that I know of.
13 Q Have you spoken with individuals at social media or tech companies
14 regarding content moderation?
15 A No.
16 Q No tech companies at all? I just want to double-check.
17 A No.
18 Q What about Storytell.ai?
19 A Yes, we did have interaction with them.
20 Q Are they a tech company?
21 A Yeah, I guess so. I mean, when you're -- I'm trying to understand the 22 nature of your question because you're talking about social media platforms in tech
23 companies and there's two very different things.
24 Q I'll be more clear. So in your interactions with Storytell.ai, could you
25 describe a little bit about --

1 A They were brought to my attention through a personal contact that had 2 nothing to do with NSF from past life in startups. And they asked me to look at their
3 technology and see what they were doing. And as it turns out, it's a Chrome plug-in for 4 pulling out meaning from videos.
5 Q Did you discuss content moderation as a use case for their plug-in?
6 A I believe so at scale, yes, because there's no, you know, thousands of videos
7 go up on all these services every day, and there's no way to see what's in them, whether 8 its harmful content to children or anyone else what they might -- what kind of 9 information is going through, there is no way it is scaled to do that.
10 Q And then you flagged this exchange, or this company, to Scott Meedan or 11 Scott hailed the head of the meeting at Co-Insights project. Do you recall that?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And why would you do that?
14 A If I come across something that's interesting to them and that might be of 15 use to them, I make -- I show it to them. And in some cases if I'm just seeking feedback
16 because these people are experts, I also ask them for their input and feedback.
17 Q So you mentioned to him that they were listening to content moderation as 18 a use case. Was content moderation a focus of Co-Insights project?
19 A I mean, they are -- they are looking at presenting facts to people, and those 20 could be content moderators.
21 Q In the context of Track F, have you interacted with or introduced Track F
22 teams to any other companies besides Storytell.ai, tech-related or social-media related?
23 A Maybe through the panels that we did that you mentioned CheckStep
24 before. Outside of that, I don't know, but it's possible.
25 Q Do you recall any names of the companies?

1 A I would have given them to you, if I did.

2 Q Which social media companies did the Track F teams engage with, to your

3 knowledge?

4 A I don't know. I think they may have -- I think some of them had

5 engagements with Twitter through the Twitter Firehose, but that's since been cut off

6 since the change in ownership.

7 Q How about Hale emailing you back in 2022 about letters of collaboration

8 with TikTok, Twitter, and WhatsApp. Did those letters of collaboration --

9 A Oh, yeah. Yes, I think they did include those in their proposal. And I don't

10 know -- I know that after the change in ownership, nobody was able to work with Twitter

11 on anything. So I guess whatever -- and the person they were probably working with 12 probably got fired or something, or left.

13 Ms. Dayananda. I just want to clarify the letters of collaboration are with who?

14 Mr. Pozmantier. They are with -- I'll explain the letter of confirmation. The 15 teams get a confirmation from people they are partnering with that they are engaged

16 with the project. What that is doing is preventing them from simply throwing out

17 names in a proposal. It's a way for us to verify that they've actually had the 18 conversations and actually have a true partnerships.

19 Ms. Dayananda. It's not NSF partner --

20 Mr. Pozmantier. No, no, no. It's the project.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q But your understanding is they still have partnership with TikTok?

23 A I don't know if they do or not. Yeah, I don't know -- how closely they are

24 working with them or not, because what happens at the beginning of Phase II is not

25 always where things end up in Phase II.

1 [redacted] To your understanding what is Twitter Firehose?

2 Mr. Pozmantier. The Twitter Firehose was a source of information that gave

3 researchers access to raw data from Twitter which allowed them, people to make

4 transparent -- do research and transparently show what's happening. It's since been cut

5 off.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q You mentioned earlier that these Track F projects are still ongoing. Is that

8 correct?

9 A The Phase II projects, yes.

10 Q Do any of these projects plan on combating information in the 2024

11 election?

12 A I don't know. I mean, they are going to be doing -- they are still building.

13 They are to the point that their end user is using them, something comes up, then sure, if

14 the end users want it, then that's what they'll do. But I don't know specifically what 15 their plans are.

16 Q So you haven't had any interactions discussing whether or not they are

17 planning on --

18 A I mean, they are -- they are -- it stands to reason that they would have some 19 view into that, but I haven't talked to them specifically about individual plans necessarily.

20 Q Which projects?

21 A Any project that's looking at narratives so probably Co-Insights, Course

22 Correct, but I don't know that they are specifically. But if they have end users that are

23 interested in those things then they would. Yeah, I think -- I'm trying to think which

24 projects might be doing something that lends itself to that. I guess possibly ARTT, but I

25 think they are primarily focused on public health.

1 Q What about Searchlight?

2 A Searchlight is not funded. They're not a Phase II project.

3 Q By what methods did you communicate with the Track F teams?

4 A Typically through email, Slack, phone calls.

5 Q Could you still reference those Slack communications, if needed?

6 A As a turns out, most of them didn't use Slack, so we discontinued use of it

7 because it was a waste of money.

8 Q Did you ever communicate with these teams via Slack regarding the media

9 attention?

10 A No.

11 Q By what methods did the Track F teams submit materials to NSF, including 12 that presentation slides?

13 A Their proposals went through official NSF systems that all people put

14 proposals in. They had a proposal -- excuse me, a pitch presentation or something, they

15 probably would have emailed it to us if we took it or if they just gave the presentation,

16 they might have shared it on Zoom screen.

17 Q Did you use Box or separate folders?

18 A We do use Box for our curriculum, but I don't know that we've stored any

19 specific -- it's possible that there's some stuff there, but that all would have been sent to 20 us via email.

21 [redacted] When did NSF discontinue using Slack?

22 Mr. Pozmantier. This year, or sometime in 2023.

23 [redacted] Do you recall when approximately?

24 Mr. Pozmantier. We still have it, we just don't use it for the teams. We

25 thought that -- we felt we needed an easy way to communicate with people outside of

1 NSF's firewalls and we wanted to make sure that we had multiple ways of doing it. And 2 when we really looked at the usage of it, it turned out the teams really didn't want or
3 need it. And so they were paying for licenses that we weren't using so we cut it off.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q To your knowledge, when it comes to track communications was there is a
6 Track F specific channel?
7 A I think so, yeah, there was a channel for every track.
8 Q And there's a channel between you and the Track F teams as well? Is that
9 right?
10 A It would've just been that channel for general communications, like things
11 that were coming up and stuff like that, announcements.
12 Q I want to talk for a second about the merit review process. According to 13 NSF, the broader impact criterion of the review process considers a project's potential to 14 benefit society and contribute to the achievement of specific desired society outcomes.
15 What were the specific desired societal outcomes for the Track F program?
16 A In this case, it was a more informed public.
17 Q Did it include addressing content that leads to vaccine hesitancy?
18 A Not specifically.
19 Q Do you recall emailing Track F grantees about a Harvard vaccine hesitancy
20 event?
21 A If I come across things that might be of interest to them, I pass it along.
22 Q Did you think that information related to vaccine hesitancy was related to 23 any of the specific projects that the Track F teams had?
24 A I mean when you're dealing with trying to inform people to find good 25 information, of course vaccine hesitancy is going to be relevant to that.

1 Q Does NSF fund projects that seek to promote media literacy?

2 A No.

3 Q In your mind, is misinformation objective or subjective?

4 A One more time.

5 Q Is it objective or subjective? That is, is it set in stone or could it be subject

6 to change what misinformation is?

7 A The definition of the word or specific --

8 Q The category of misinformation, does it fluctuate or is it one specific thing?

9 Ms. Dayananda. Are you asking him as an NSF employee?

10 [redacted] Sure or in the context of.

11 Mr. Pozmantier. I guess I'm struggling -- are you talking about, like, specific 12 examples of it or the word "misinformation"?

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Examples.

15 A I mean, I think there are things that are just factually wrong that have been

16 proven to be factually wrong that people propagate information about. And in some 17 cases, that's intentional, and in some cases, it is unintentional.

18 Q In the context of Course Correct focus on COVID-19 in the 2020 election for

19 misinformation, what kinds of misinformation would be factually wrong for those two 20 categories?

21 A That vaccines were putting tracking beacons in people.

22 Q Anything else with regard to the 2020 election?

23 Ms. Dayananda. I don't see how --

24 Mr. Pozmantier. I mean --

25 Ms. Dayananda. Are you asking him about what Course Correct is --

1 [redacted] They presented misinformation that they believed involved the 2020
2 election or that was part of their project. And I'm asking him what --
3 Ms. Dayananda. You should ask Course Correct, though. I mean, he has 4 testified about what his role was vis-à-vis recipient Course Correct and that -- I just 5 don't --
6 [redacted] He's happy to say that it was never conveyed to him, but if he 7 knows --
8 Ms. Dayananda. If he knows.
9 [redacted] -- what they mean.
10 Mr. Pozmantier. I don't know specifically what they were looking at in that 11 space.
12 BY [redacted]
13 Q Is NSF involved in any 2024 election-related working groups meetings or 14 projects regarding this dis- or malinformation?
15 A Not that I'm aware of.
16 Q Will NSF be involved in it, to your knowledge?
17 A NSF is not an operational agency.
18 Q But they were involved some of these other -- in other working group,
19 integrity working group. Is that right?
20 A Which was setting out an R&D strategy.
21 Q Regarding R&D, how has President Biden's executive order impacted NSF's
22 work to promote Trustworthy AI that promotes diversity equity inclusion?
23 Ms. Dayananda. I don't think he's in a position to answer.
24 Mr. Pozmantier. That's not my -- my project doesn't -- my program doesn't 25 cover that.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q What steps did NSF have in place to prevent conflicts of interest?

3 A We do an initial check, and there's different levels of conflict of interest that

4 we're interested in at different stages. But we do an initial check with -- to just see what

5 organizations people work for, if those are what we see coming from the teams, but the 6 teams are so big that we, many times, can't actually figure that out until people have

7 proposals in hand. So we also ask them and they have to attest to the fact that they

8 don't have conflicts of interest. But it's a constant process of looking at it before we go

9 to reviews, or go to the panels.

10 Q So in a May 22 email, you emailed the Track F teams expressing worry about 11 conflicts of interest when putting together review panels given, quote "how tight this

12 overall community is. The panels will be comprised of people from academia,

13 nonprofits, government and the private sector." Would you say that this -- that 14 mis-- and disinformation researchers are tight or why did you say that?

15 A It's not a big community of researchers. Many people are familiar with 16 other people's work. They've done joint research together. That's what it means.

17 Q Would you say these researchers are tight with the government? You

18 mentioned that as being -- the panels will be comprised of people from academia,

19 nonprofits, government and the private sector?

20 A The -- we almost never have -- the government people are not engaged in 21 that. The academic community is where the real conflicts come from.

22 Q Did you have any government panelists?

23 A Yes.

24 Q From which agencies?

25 A Can't say, that's -- that information is not stuff that we give out.

1 Ms. Dayananda. That's in the authorization letter.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And so, ultimately, each reviewer provides a written review. Is that

4 correct?

5 A On a proposal, yes.

6 Q And then that gets -- that goes to the program officer. Is that correct,

7 which is you?

8 A The --

9 Ms. Dayananda. Honestly, we went through this entire process. I mean, I know

10 we're wrapping up here, but this is, like, the first hour he meticulously walked you guys

11 through you this, and in the second hour frankly so --

12 [redacted] Has he answered the question?

13 Mr. Pozmantier. They submit it into an NSF review management system.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q And then my final question is who makes the final decision on whether to 16 issue an award to proposal? Is that the division director?

17 A It's collective.

18 Q It is collective?

19 A Yeah.

20 [redacted] Can we go off the record?

21 [Discussion off the record.]

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q So quickly, I believe in your program solicitation, there is a full description of 24 what Track F's purpose and goals were, right, what these teams would be doing. Is that

25 right?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And their purpose was to integrate tools, techniques and educational

3 materials and programs to support increased citizen trust in public information of all

4 sorts. Is that right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And that was related to health, climate, news, everything under the sun?

7 A Anything that people would be confronted with.

8 Q Right. And the purpose of Track F is to make sure that people are getting 9 accurate information?

10 A It's actually making sure that they understand -- yes, that they are getting

11 accurate -- not necessarily that they are getting accurate information, but they

12 themselves can tell when they are seeing accurate information, or find out whether the 13 information they are confronted with is accurate or not.

14 Q Okay. And finally, you were asked about something you had said about the 15 academia, this being a tight --

16 A Yeah.

17 Q -- a small community, basically?

18 A Relatively, yes.

19 Q That doesn't mean that you overlook conflicts of interest, does it?

20 A No, not at all. The concern there was to say, send me lists of everybody

21 that's on your team so that when I'm looking for reviewers I can --

22 Q You are making sure --

23 A -- rule it out immediately.

24 Q Exactly.

25 A Yeah.

1 [redacted] Off the record.

COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,

U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

WASHINGTON, D.C.

INTERVIEW OF: SHELBY PIERSON

Wednesday, March 27, 2024

Washington, D.C.

The interview in the above matter was held in room 2237, Rayburn House Office Building, commencing at 12:06 p.m.

Appearances:

For the COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY:

[redacted] PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

[redacted] SENIOR SPECIAL COUNSEL

[redacted] PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

[redacted] DEPUTY CHIEF COUNSEL FOR OVERSIGHT

[redacted] MINORITY CHIEF OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

[redacted] MINORITY STAFF ASSISTANT

[redacted] MINORITY OVERSIGHT COUNSEL

[redacted] MINORITY PROFESSIONAL STAFF MEMBER

For the OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE:

[redacted]

1 [redacted] We can go on the record, please.

2 [redacted] This is a transcribed interview of Shelby Pierson.

3 Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part of the committee's

4 investigations of how and the extent to which the executive branch has coerced and

5 colluded with companies and other intermediaries to censor speech and allegations that

6 the U.S. intelligence community obstructed a congressional inquiry in 2020.

7 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

8 Ms. Pierson. Shelby Pierson.

9 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here

10 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

11 appear voluntarily.

12 Ms. Pierson. Thank you for having me.

13 [redacted] My name is [redacted] and I'm with Chairman Jordan's staff.

14 I'll now have everyone else from the committee who is here at the table introduce

15 themselves as well.

16 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

17 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

18 [redacted] Chairman Jordan's staff.

19 [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

20 [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

21 [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

22 [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler's staff.

23 [redacted] I'll now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will follow

24 during today's interview.

25 Our questions will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for 1

1 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period
2 of time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more
3 questions and the interview is over.
4 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to
5 take a break apart from that, just let us know. You're not captive.
6 Ms. Pierson. Yes.
7 [redacted] As you can see, there's an official court reporter taking down
8 everything we say to make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to 9 all questions. Do you understand?
10 Ms. Pierson. I do.
11 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our 12 best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to 13 just those people on the staff whose turn it is to question.
14 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks
15 down at the end of the table can hear you.
16 It is important that we do not talk over one another or interrupt each other if we 17 can help it. In my view, we could always help that. And that goes for everybody
18 present at today's interview.
19 We encourage witnesses who appear before the committee to freely consult with 20 counsel if they so choose. It is my understanding that you are appearing here today
21 with agency counsel. Is that correct?
22 Ms. Pierson. Yes, it is.
23 [redacted] Okay.
24 Would agency counsel please state your name for the record?
25 [redacted] [redacted]

1 [redacted] what agency are you with?

2 [redacted] Office of the Director of National Intelligence.

3 [redacted] Okay.

4 Ms. Pierson, the committee thinks it's important to advise you that agency

5 counsel's first obligation is to the agency, in this case the ODNI. Are you aware of this?

6 Ms. Pierson. Yes, I am.

7 [redacted] Okay. Knowing this, are you comfortable proceeding with agency

8 counsel?

9 Ms. Pierson. Yes, I am.

10 [redacted] We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and

11 truthful manner possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you

12 do not understand one of our questions, just let us know.

13 We'll cover a wide range of topics, so if you need any clarification at any point, just 14 say so.

15 Ms. Pierson. Thank you.

16 [redacted] If you do not know the answer to a question or do not remember

17 the answer, it's best not to guess. Give us your best recollection. And it's okay if you

18 tell us where you learned the information from if you learned it from someone else.

19 We'd ask that you indicate how you came to know the information.

20 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and we ask that

21 you would inform us, to the best of your knowledge, who might have answers to those

22 questions. Could you commit to doing that, Ms. Pierson?

23 Ms. Pierson. Yes.

24 [redacted] You should also understand that, although this interview is not

25 under oath, by law you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do

1 you understand that?

2 Ms. Pierson. Yes.

3 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in this

4 interview. Do you understand that as well?

5 Ms. Pierson. Yes.

6 [redacted] Okay. That is an admonition we give to everyone who appears

7 before us.

8 Ms. Pierson. Of course.

9 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject

10 to criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18 United States

11 Code, Section 1001. Do you understand this?

12 Ms. Pierson. Yes.

13 [redacted] Is there any reason today you are unable to provide truthful

14 answers to our question?

15 Ms. Pierson. No.

16 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make a note that the content of what we discuss

17 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this

18 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of the congressional

19 investigation.

20 Will you commit to doing so?

21 Ms. Pierson. Absolutely.

22 [redacted] For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will show you

23 today, if any, will remain with the court reporter and with committee staff. So we will

24 collect them, and they will be part of the official transcript.

25 Okay. That is the end of this preamble.

1 Is there anything that my colleagues from the minority would like to add?

2 [redacted] A couple things.

3 First of all, we thank the witness for joining us today and taking time out of your

4 busy schedule.

5 I wanted to note for the record that the majority informed us that the topic of this

6 interview was the defensive briefing provided to Senators Grassley and Johnson in August

7 2020. They did not indicate that the social media investigation was within the scope.

8 I'm not sure if they informed the witness of that. We'll be prepared to address that as 9 well, but wanted to make that note for the record.

10 And then -- yeah, that's it. We look forward to hearing from you today.

11 Ms. Pierson. Sure.

12 [redacted] The clock now reads 12:12 p.m., and we will start the first hour of 13 questioning.

14 EXAMINATION

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Could I ask you to state your full name again for the record?

17 A Shelby Pierson.

18 Q Thank you. And what is your current place of employment?

19 A The National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency.

20 Q And what is your current title?

21 A The Deputy Director of Operations.

22 Q How long have you worked in that role?

23 A Since June of 2023.

24 Q Beginning with college, what is your educational background?

25 A I have a B.A. in international affairs from Lewis & Clark College.

1 Q Starting with your first job after college, what is your professional
2 background?
3 A I have worked at the University of Southern California in the School of 4 International Relations as an administrative lead for the faculty.
5 I then secured a position with the Central Intelligence Agency as an imagery
6 analyst in 1999 and moved out here to Washington.
7 The rest of my employment has been with the Federal Government in the 8 intelligence community through a variety of positions, largely as a permanent detailee
9 from CIA at the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency or its predecessor organizations.
10 If you want me to go through each individual role, I'm happy to do that.
11 Q If you could, please.
12 A Sure.
13 From 1999 to roughly 2003, I was an imagery analyst in the Middle East Division at 14 the National Imagery and Mapping Agency.
15 From 2003 to roughly, I believe, 2005, I managed a foreign intelligence
16 relationship on behalf of the National Imagery and Mapping Agency.
17 From that time, I moved to work from, I believe, 2005 to, let's say, 2010,
18 '12 -- you'll have to forgive me if I don't have the years right -- working as a denial and 19 deception analyst for the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency.
20 From there, I moved on to be a deputy division chief for the Underground, Cyber,
21 and Command and Control Division at the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency.
22 I then moved on to be an office chief, probably roughly around 2012 or so, as the 23 office chief for the Office of Asia and the Americas.
24 I was then promoted to senior executive in 2013 and moved to be the office
25 director for Eurasia-Africa.

1 I then worked a special assignment, I believe roughly in 2014, 2015, to work for
2 the Director of the Agency on a personnel topic for about a year.
3 And then I moved to the ODNI in 2016 as the National Intelligence Manager for 4 Russia, Europe, Eurasia.
5 I transitioned in 2019 to serve as the Election Threats Executive.
6 In 2021, I returned back to the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency as the 7 deputy director for an organization called Source.
8 And, then, in June of 2023, assumed my current responsibility as the Deputy 9 Director for Operations at NGA.
10 Q Thank you.
11 Now, before we get further, are you familiar with the terms "misinformation," 12 "disinformation," and "malinformation"?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Could you please define each term as you understand them?
15 A Generally speaking, misinformation is content that is erroneous, is designed 16 or has the effect of misleading or may be mistaken.
17 Disinformation has intent behind it to mislead or undermine certain outcomes.
18 "Malinformation" is not a term of art that we use routinely in my line of work. I 19 think you're familiar that we discuss "malign influence," so that which is intended to have 20 a malicious or bad outcome.
21 Q Could you state your title again in 2016 when you first -- did you join ODNI,
22 or were you detailed to ODNI?
23 A I went on a joint duty assignment.
24 Q And what was your title again in --
25 A The National Intelligence Manager for Russia, Europe, and Eurasia.

1 Q And, at a high level, what were your responsibilities in that position?

2 A There are National Intelligence Managers, or NIMs, for a variety of regional

3 and functional topics. We are responsible for integrating the U.S. intelligence

4 community against, largely, five lines of effort: analysis, collection, foreign partnership,

5 budget, and workforce matters. And so we're routinely working across the interagency

6 to make sure that the intelligence community is operating optimally.

7 Q And then you were in that role until 2019?

8 A 2019, yes, sir.

9 Q When you became the Election Threats Executive?

10 A Yes, sir.

11 Q Who appointed you as the first Election Threats Executive?

12 A The Director of National Intelligence, Dan Coats.

13 Q And as part of your responsibilities in your prior role, did you have any direct

14 interactions with Director Coats?

15 A Absolutely. I would characterize, National Intelligence Managers

16 have -- provide direct support to the Director and the leadership team at ODNI. So I had

17 quite frequent contact with him, traveled with him overseas. We do all support for our 18 particular regional response for any intelligence or policy matters in our portfolio.

19 Q And was this a position you were filling, or was it a newly created position?

20 A As the National Intelligence Manager?

21 Q Sorry. I was referring to the Election Threats Executive.

22 A That was a newly created position by DNI Coats.

23 Q And are you familiar with the background of how that position came into 24 being?

25 A Yes.

1 Q And, to your understanding, you know, what was the lead-up to it? Who
2 was -- what was the purpose?
3 [redacted] You can answer to the extent you don't get into anything deliberative.
4 Ms. Pierson. Sure.
5 DNI Coats, as the leader of the intelligence community in his capacity as the DNI,
6 wanted to ensure that the intelligence community, as I said vis-a-vis my responsibility as 7 the NIM, that the intelligence community was operating optimally and that we had
8 specific focus and resources on the election-security issue; so, under his responsibilities,
9 created the Election Threats Executive position.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q And prior to this position being created, who had the responsibilities for 12 election security?
13 A So, certainly, election security really became a topic of focus for the 14 intelligence community coming out of the 2016 Presidential election. And so I don't 15 know that there was any specific or designated officer focusing on that issue.
16 But, as the NIM for Russia, Europe, Eurasia, of course, it was a thread in a line of 17 analysis and collection, given our concerns about Russia. But I would anticipate that my 18 colleagues who specialize in China, Iran, North Korea, and others all had varying levels of 19 effort on -- whether it was information operations or cyber activities or things that could 20 run parallel to election-security considerations.
21 I served as the Crisis Lead -- that's an administrative term at ODNI -- for the 22 midterm election in 2018, again, at the request of DNI Coats. And, then, based upon 23 that, he wanted to have a more formalized, focused level of effort on the topic going into 24 2020.
25 Q What were your responsibilities as Crisis Lead for the 2018 midterm

1 election?

2 A Once again, I think, as an extension of the work that National Intelligence

3 Managers already do, would be pulling together the community in an effective, positive

4 way to ensure that our analysis and collection postures were not only effective but

5 efficient and integrated across the interagency.

6 Q Once you become Crisis Lead for the -- in the lead-up to the 2018 midterm

7 election, just at a very high level, is that your full portfolio now, or is it part of it and you

8 still have your responsibility for --

9 A Part of it. It's part of it. And, to note, that a crisis manager designation is

10 something that is not unique to election security. It could be for, for example, this

11 situation in Gaza now or a nuclear crisis on the peninsula in Korea.

12 So it is an administrative opportunity for the DNI to make these designations to

13 both, I think, message, focus an expectation of resources, as well as ensuring that it has a

14 level of effort and elevation, so to speak, within our portfolio.

15 So, yes, you do it, traditionally, in addition to your day-to-day responsibilities.

16 Q As Crisis Lead, were you given the opportunity to hire staff or reassign staff

17 to support you?

18 A No. That wasn't necessary at the time.

19 Q As a NIM, how big was your team in 2016 to 2019?

20 A Again, to the best of my recollection, probably around 25 or so. And that

21 was across Russia, Europe, and Eurasia.

22 Q As the Crisis Lead, were you focused on pulling together folks within ODNI or 23 was this an interagency process?

24 A Certainly interagency. ODNI, I think, spends the lion's share of its time

25 focused on the integration and accounting for the activities across the U.S. intelligence

1 community.

2 Q As part of the interagency process, were you working with any

3 non-intelligence agencies as Crisis Lead?

4 A Certainly. Given the scale and scope of election-security issues, that would

5 have included, for example, State and local election officials and other nongovernment

6 organizations.

7 Q Which agencies did you work with most frequently as Crisis Lead in the 8 lead-up to the 2020 election?

9 A Generally speaking, DHS, FBI, CIA, NSA. That's probably the core cadre of 10 organizations that spent the lion's share of their time on this topic.

11 But I would think, for example, also the Department of Defense, whether that's

12 DIA or the Joint Staff, would've of course participated vis-a-vis Cyber Command. But,

13 generally speaking, that's the core components of those working the issue.

14 Q And do you recall which agency or task force within DHS you most frequently

15 interacted with as Crisis Lead?

16 A I think there's two elements within DHS that are relevant here. One is their

17 intelligence organization; I think it's called I&A. And second is the CISA organization that 18 largely focuses on infrastructure.

19 Q And for FBI, do you recall which divisions or task forces within the FBI?

20 A The FBI's Foreign In- -- I think it's called the Foreign Intelligence -- FITF, 21 Foreign --

22 Q -- Influence Task Force?

23 A -- Influence Task Force. Thank you. Yeah, so the FITF.

24 But, for example, if we were partnering with a specific State or local election

25 outfit, that local FBI organization would of course support and participate in those activities.

But the FITF certainly was the center of gravity on election-security matters.

Q Do you recall who your primary point of contact was with DHS I&A?

[redacted] I would not necessarily provide a name, but if you can provide a general title, I think that's fine.

[redacted] May I ask why?

[redacted] I don't know that we're cleared to provide DHS personnel names here, because I'm not sure necessarily what level the person is at within DHS's organization.

[redacted] I'll just note for the record, Ms. Pierson, that the committee, appreciating that record that was made, is not recognizing that as a justification to not answer the question if you have an answer.

So, to be clear, if the committee -- and you're here voluntarily, so you could certainly take your attorney's advice. But if there are questions that the committee feels it needs in pursuit of its constitutional obligation to do oversight, it can resort to the compulsory process to obtain those answers.

So I just want to make sure you're aware of that.

Ms. Pierson. Yeah.

[redacted] Could I make a note on that?

[redacted] Excuse me?

[redacted] Just to make a note, I do think that might be an opportunity, before resulting to compulsory process, that it might be something that [redacted] could take back, potentially --

[redacted] Yes. Absolutely.

[redacted] Of course.

1 [redacted] -- and that that could be a get-back rather than --

2 [redacted] Yeah. I think that's absolutely right. And that was -- I was going to 3 follow up with that.

4 [redacted] Yeah.

5 [redacted] We can take that question back if you need further information.

6 [redacted] Thank you. Of course. Thank you for clarifying.

7 Ms. Pierson. So, as my colleague mentioned, I'm not sure of this officer's specific

8 title. They served, I believe, as the cyber lead within I&A.

9 And, then, within CISA, my colleagues -- I don't know if it was an election security

10 title specifically, but they had leadership roles within the CISA organization I think focused

11 on election infrastructure.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q And, then, for the FITF, do you recall who your primary point of contact was?

14 A And, again, we'll have to take that back for specific names. I believe two of 15 my primary colleagues: one was the lead of the FITF, and the deputy.

16 Q And prior to becoming the Crisis Lead, had you had experience working with 17 DHS I&A and CISA?

18 A To a lesser extent CISA, as I have not in the course of my career, which of 19 course I shared with you, done much work on domestic infrastructure challenges. But

20 as we work across the agencies, DHS and FBI are part of the interagency, so we would've

21 naturally had intersections, certainly as the National Intelligence Manager.

22 Q Okay.

23 And as Crisis Lead, who is your direct report or supervisor?

24 A At the time, I believe it was --

25 [redacted] If it's above -- if it's someone who's already publicly known as

1 affiliated with ODNI, then you can share the name.

2 Ms. Pierson. I don't know that he still works there anymore.

3 [redacted] Okay. Do you know their title?

4 Ms. Pierson. Yeah. So it would've been the Deputy for Mission Integration, so

5 DMI.

6 [redacted] Okay. I think you can share that one.

7 Ms. Pierson. Right. So Mr. Tony Vassalo.

8 And as the -- I think it's what's called the Deputy Director for National Intelligence

9 for Mission Integration, the DDMI I think is the proper title for that individual. And that

10 person supervises all the NIMs and everyone in the mission -- all the senior executives in 11 the Mission Integration organization.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q And, then, once you become the Election Threats Executive, who did you

14 report to? Or who was the --

15 A The same.

16 Q The same person?

17 A Yes.

18 Q During this time period, we'll say 2016 to 2021, did you work with Joseph

19 Maguire?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And what was his title?

22 A He was the Acting Director of National Intelligence for a period of time.

23 Q And how frequently did you interact with him?

24 A Certainly at least weekly, just from an administrative perspective. The 25 NIMs have standing engagements as a group, as a cadre. Think of it as what you would

1 know as a staff meeting or something like that. So at least weekly, if not more
2 frequently.
3 Q We've talked a couple times about the FITF. Are you familiar with the 4 process and the lead-up to the FITF's creation?
5 A No.
6 Q Okay. Do you know if ODNI had any part to play in the creation of the FITF?
7 A I don't know.
8 Q Just one clarifying question. Prior to becoming Crisis Lead -- you
9 mentioned that the FBI is part of the interagency process -- do you recall having 10 interactions with the FITF specifically, prior to becoming the Crisis Lead?
11 A And, again, as my memory serves me, given that I was working as the lead
12 for Russia, coming in in 2016, of course, foreign influence was certainly a thread within 13 my portfolio, and so naturally would have crossed paths with the FITF as part of that 14 intersection of foreign influence and Russia, naturally. But it really crescendoed around 15 election security as that topic became more focused going into 2018 and 2020.
16 Q And, again, just a clarifying question. Would concerns regarding foreign 17 malign influence operations fall within the scope of election security?
18 A They are not one and the same. And I think that's a very important
19 question, because malign influence can be much broader, of course, than election
20 security. There's economic malign influence, political issues, things of that nature.
21 So I do think, however, my colleagues who focused on election security probably 22 had the most developing expertise on the behaviors and activities that we would consider 23 malign influence.
24 I do think that the ODNI's effort on the Foreign Malign Influence Center was an 25 expected, if not natural, outgrowth of election security. But when you think about

1 political and military activities, influence operations, those are worked across the 2 intelligence community. I think of the all-source community and other areas that
3 would've naturally touched on things that are relevant to the topic of malign influence.
4 Q You mentioned the ODNI's Foreign Malign Influence Center.
5 A Yep.
6 Q Did you play a role in the Center's creation?
7 A Not directly. As coming out of the 2020 elections, when, I believe,
8 oversight had varying considerations of whether a Foreign Malign Influence Center was 9 the right -- or appropriate, I should say -- appropriate administrative structure by which to 10 address malign influence, I was asked to share my reflections on what would be the 11 appropriate level of effort or what would be the appropriate focus areas, and had worked 12 on what I would characterize as nascent documents that served as, certainly, I would
13 think, informative to those who created the Foreign Malign Influence Center after I
14 departed ODNI.
15 Q And you said you were asked. Do you recall who asked you to provide this
16 information?
17 A So the ODNI leadership out of Mission Integration. So, by that time, my 18 colleague, Mr. Morgan Muir, had taken over at Mission Integration. And I provided, 19 again, what I would characterize as sort of rough outlines of what could be within the 20 purview or portfolio of the Foreign Malign Influence Center.
21 And, again, I think there were a variety of exchanges with the intelligence 22 oversight committees as to what was the best and most effective way by which to 23 instantiate a focused level of effort on malign influence.
24 Q At a high level, can you say what was being conveyed in these, I think you
25 referred to them as, like, nascent documents, what you thought would be appropriate?

1 [redacted] I would say that that actually probably gets into deliberative
2 information, particularly with respect to nascent documents.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q Based off of your experience at ODNI, what do you think is 5 appropriate -- what appropriate role would fall within the ODNI's scope as it relates to 6 countering foreign malign influence?
7 A Certainly, having a similar level of effort and portfolio as a NIM would have,
8 that focuses on foreign malign influence.
9 One of the important threads to your question is, when you think about actors like 10 Russia, China, Iran, North Korea, Cuba, you really have this spectrum of capabilities, 11 intentions. And so it's important to ensure that there is consistency in a level of 12 tradecraft and collection against foreign influence.
13 And so I think that organization or officer, however ODNI -- which, of course,
14 chose to create a Foreign Malign Influence Center -- would seek to harmonize those 15 efforts against a very diverse landscape of actors and capabilities. And so it would be a 16 natural departure from what a NIM would traditionally do, but trying to create focus and 17 integration on a very diverse and complicated topic across the community.
18 Q All right.
19 We've talked about CISA a couple times. Were you familiar with CISA's
20 Countering Foreign Influence Task Force?
21 A Would that be called, like, the CITF?
22 Q We've heard it different ways.
23 A You know --
24 Q The CTI Task Force?
25 A -- I have to say, like, kind of, no, but I do think that, as the government's

1 focus on election security matured, there were varying discussions about to what extent
2 does CISA take on foreign malign influence, or is that the exclusive providence of the FBI.
3 I think that is certainly something that the Director of CISA at the time, Chris
4 Krebs, felt strongly about, in terms of having several countering malign influence activities
5 and not just sort of a separate break, infrastructure/influence.
6 So whether they called it a CITF or something like that, I am not familiar with that 7 term, to my recollection, but I'm familiar with CISA's appetite to have a level of effort on 8 that topic, yes.
9 Q And so it's your recollection that Director Krebs thought it would be 10 appropriate to have more than one agency focused on --
11 A Yes.
12 Q -- foreign malign -- okay.
13 Going back to your previous answer as far as what potential role ODNI could play
14 in this space, can you say a little bit more as far as how you understand ODNI's potential
15 role as either supplementing or if there's any overlap with what you understood the FBI's
16 FITF to be handling?
17 [redacted] Are you asking -- which time period are you asking about?
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q We'll stick in the 2016-to-2021 time period as well.
20 A I don't think that I would characterize the functions of the FBI and the ODNI
21 as overlapping. I would characterize them as complementary.
22 The ODNI, as you know, given its focus, its integration focus, as outlined in its 23 statute, really serves as a -- not only an integrative and coordinating function, but is 24 wanting to press for collaboration between other organizations.
25 Obviously, the FBI has an operational function, and the FITF had a spectrum of activities. Those are not the same functions and authorities that the ODNI would naturally tackle. So I would characterize them as complementary, frankly.

Q Turning back to ODNI's Foreign Malign Influence Center, do you recall who played a role in the Center's creation at ODNI before you left?

A I really can't speak to that in an educated way. Much of that work occurred after I had departed in the fall of 2021.

Q In the interagency process, as you're Crisis Lead in the lead-up to the 2018 election, some of the agencies have a very explicit foreign-facing mission --

A Uh-huh.

Q -- and some, obviously, are domestic-facing. Do you recall receiving briefings or attorneys coming in and advising on concerns related to the interagency process as far as what discussions could be allowed with respect to foreign actors versus domestic actors?

[redacted] I would caution you not to get into deliberative or any other legal privileges, like attorney-client, that may apply.

Ms. Pierson. I can't recall specific circumstances as you've characterized them.

I will say, as having spent my career in the intelligence community, we're quite clear on our forward-facing responsibilities. So I'm certainly familiar with the thrust of what you're addressing. But I don't recall any specific events where attorneys came in and directed the interagency one way or another, no.

BY [redacted]

Q Do you have any familiarity with CISA's mis-, dis-, and malinformation team?

A Not directly, no. However, again, per my earlier answer, I'm generally familiar their interest in those topics as part of their election-security effort.

Q Are you familiar with the Global Engagement Center housed within the State

1 Department?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Did you have interactions with them during your time at ODNI?

4 A Yes.

5 Q At a high level, what was the nature of your interactions?

6 A The Global Engagement Center, or GEC -- I don't think they like to be called

7 that, but -- like any good acronym.

8 As a matter of policy, the State Department sought to have -- as with any State

9 Department equity -- have positive relationships with our foreign partners and help our

10 allies defend their countries against election security and mis- and disinformation. So

11 the Global Engagement Center served as a center of gravity within the State Department

12 to partner and identify allies upon which we could work with.

13 Naturally, the intelligence community also has a very broad swath of foreign

14 partnerships. So it was appropriate to either deconflict, collaborate, and have

15 connection not only within the interagency -- as the State Department, of course, is

16 represented at the NSC -- but the Global Engagement Center was focusing a lot of its 17 effort on which countries to work with, where they should put the resources.

18 And so I would see that as part of a collaborative U.S. Government level of effort

19 on countering global mis- and disinformation.

20 Q Earlier, when you were talking about the interagency process and addressing

21 and combating foreign malign influence operations, would the GEC fall into that

22 interagency process? Or was this kind of a related but separate --

23 A So I think I would characterize it in a couple of ways. Of course, you have

24 the INR organization in the State Department, which largely is kind of our intelligence

25 touchpoint. And so you would always have this, kind of, I think, administrative

1 connection to INR. And yet there is certainly expertise and collaboration, as I
2 mentioned a minute ago, with the GEC.
3 So I'm thinking, when we used to pull the interagency together, it would be not
4 uncommon to have both INR and the GEC in the room as we discussed work that we were
5 doing.
6 Q Do you recall how far in advance before the 2018 election you became
7 Mission Lead?
8 A Can you say that one more time --
9 Q Or Crisis Lead. Excuse me.
10 A -- for me?
11 Q Yeah. Do you recall how far in advance before the 2018 election you 12 became --
13 A And, again, I'm just pulling from my personal memory. It probably would 14 have been in June -- May or June, something prior to the November midterm election,
15 something around that time. But, again, that's from my personal memory.
16 Q And, then, did that title -- and I understand you still had your other
17 responsibilities --
18 A Yep.
19 Q -- cease with the election, or does it continue?
20 A So I can't recall from my personal memory as to whether or not -- there is an 21 executive order that I believe came about in 2019 -- don't quote me on this -- that 22 required analysis and production about the intelligence community characterization. I
23 don't know that that EO had kicked in by that time, but naturally we would have -- I'll use 24 a casual phrase -- wanted to put a bow on the 2018 elections and would have certainly 25 not stopped, so to speak, and would have concluded with analysis and formal production

1 likely in early 2019.

2 Q With the understanding, obviously, just going off of memory, do you

3 remember, roughly, how long the gap was or if there was a gap between when your time

4 ended as Crisis Lead and you became the Election Threats Executive?

5 A So it probably would have been -- I think I was designated the Election

6 Threat Executive in July of 2019, so not too far. So you can imagine sort of like you get a

7 bit of a gap -- like a trough, so to speak. And then I think DNI Coats reflected upon the

8 positive momentum and wanted to make sure that we were best posited

9 for -- positions -- excuse me -- for 2020.

10 Q Once you become the Election Threats Executive, were you responsible for 11 hiring your team?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And how many folks did you have working for you?

14 A A very small team. Maybe seven to ten.

15 Q And do you know who became the Election Threats Executive after you left?

16 A So, as I mentioned, there was perhaps an administrative evolution into the

17 Foreign Malign Influence Center, which now you have -- I think ODNI has a head of the 18 Foreign Malign Influence Center and an Election Threat Executive.

19 Q We talked about the interagency process a number of times. Once you

20 became the Election Threats Executive, did the agencies you worked most closely with

21 change as compared to --

22 A No.

23 Q -- when you were Crisis Lead?

24 A No.

25 Q During your time at ODNI, whether it was as a NIM, a Crisis Lead, or later as

1 an Election Threat Executive, did you have any direct interactions with personnel at social
2 media companies?
3 A Yes.
4 Q And at a high level, what was the nature of those interactions?
5 A So, certainly, when we look at the topic of election security, you have both
6 infrastructure and influence operations. And social media companies -- as we knew 7 from our intelligence collection, the social media platforms were a vector by which 8 foreign intelligence services would try to spread information that was consistent with 9 their interests. So, naturally, in an effort to best understand how the companies viewed 10 the information on their platform, we had a series of engagements with them.
11 I would characterize those meetings as an opportunity for the social media
12 companies, who have, frankly, the best expertise as to foreign use and behavior on their 13 platforms, sharing with us their expertise and characterization of activity within their 14 specific platform. So I would characterize them more in receive mode as to, you know, 15 "How would you guys characterize China's use" -- I'm only using that as an 16 example -- "China's use of your platform on a particular topic," and they would 17 characterize that.
18 Many of the firms have very large staffs and a considerable amount of expertise as 19 to who's doing what. And so I think this helped us understand and, frankly, complement
20 what we have in foreign intelligence collection, which of course is the focus of the work
21 that I do. So these were sort of naturally -- I wouldn't characterize them as collaborative
22 discussions, but kind of, frankly, the IC in receive mode.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q So, with the understanding that much of the information-sharing was going 25 from social media companies to government, would the information-sharing go in both

1 directions during these meetings?

2 A You know, at a broad level. These exchanges were not the venues in

3 which, let's say, specific accounts were shared with the companies. That was handled

4 under different circumstances. These were more, I think, what I would call broader

5 topical exchanges, not the intelligence community's more formal -- or the FBI's more

6 formal sharing of detailed information to the companies.

7 Q For the meetings where the discussion is more detailed and there's sharing

8 of specific accounts --

9 A I didn't have any direct experience with those sessions.

10 Q To your understanding, were those type of discussions taking place between 11 the FBI's FITF and the social media companies?

12 A Yes.

13 Q Did you ever have an opportunity to attend one of those --

14 A No.

15 Q -- bilateral FITF and company meetings?

16 A No.

17 Q Do you know if anyone from ODNI had the opportunity to attend those FITF

18 meetings?

19 A Not to my knowledge.

20 Q For the broader meetings, where you said it was largely information-sharing

21 from the social media companies to the U.S. Government, which agencies would 22 participate in those meetings?

23 A DHS, FBI, of course ODNI, CIA -- we would make them, of course, open to

24 anyone within the community, but, as I mentioned, that kind of center of gravity: NSA,

25 Cyber Command, FBI, DHS, CIA, and ODNI.

1 Q And do you recall when these meetings first began?

2 A I don't recall a date specifically, but they, I believe, were primarily in the 3 run-up to the 2020 election.

4 Q Do you recall if there were any meetings prior to the 2018 midterm election?

5 A I don't have those specifics, like, in my frontal lobe.

6 Q In the lead-up to the 2020 election, do you recall how frequently the 7 meetings would occur?

8 A So there were two, kind of, in-person meetings where we had this exchange

9 of information. And, then, because practically and logistically it made the most sense

10 to -- because, you know, they're out on the West Coast and we're on the East Coast -- we

11 then moved to just a phone call. And I believe that that was maybe on a monthly basis.

12 And it did center on, "Hey, you know, what are you guys working on? What are

13 you seeing?" And, again, very much, some of the companies would share, "Oh, we think

14 we have X number of accounts that are problematic. We'll be taking action in line with 15 our own company policies," things of that nature.

16 So it would've been a phone call -- imagine, like, a MeetMe-number-type thing

17 with the interagency dialing in and chatting with the companies -- probably monthly.

18 Q When there were instances of the U.S. Government sharing information to 19 the social media companies, do you recall which agencies spoke most frequently?

20 A And, again, you're asking about when the agencies shared information

21 back --

22 Q Yes.

23 A -- on the more specific stuff? Again, those are activities that I didn't have

24 direct involvement with. Again, I think most of that occurred through either FBI or DHS,

25 so I really can't speak to how those meetings were conducted.

1 Q For the broader meetings --

2 A Yes.

3 Q -- the ones that ODNI and a number of agencies are participating in, do you

4 recall which government agencies would present most frequently at these meetings?

5 A I'll say CIA participated the least, right, which is sort of their MO. So, no, I

6 don't know that I could effectively characterize more or less. I certainly felt like this was

7 a very collaborative venue.

8 Q Who from ODNI would most frequently attend these meetings in the lead-up

9 to the 2020 election?

10 A Certainly me and our analytic leads that served in the National Intelligence

11 Council, or the NIC.

12 Q And how many of them would attend?

13 A I think we had maybe two or three colleagues from the NIC.

14 Q Would anyone from your team join you?

15 A Certainly. That wouldn't be out of the norm at all.

16 Q Did you have a primary deputy at this time or someone helping you?

17 A I did.

18 Q Who was that?

19 [redacted] We'll take that question back.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Did they have a formal title?

22 A The Deputy Election Threats Executive.

23 Q Okay.

24 Do you recall if ODNI ever presented during these meetings in the lead-up to the

25 2020 election?

1 A No, I don't. Nothing that would've been, kind of, unique or specific.

2 Q What was ODNI's protocol or practice for these meetings as far as taking

3 notes or providing a summary after?

4 A Again, to the best of my recollection, most of these meetings I would

5 characterize as, sort of, interagency discussions. I didn't consider them formal in the 6 way that you would have minutes and things of that nature. And especially when you're

7 just having a phone call every month, you're sort of checking in, if that's a term of art

8 here. So, no, I don't remember that we would characterize it that way.

9 For example, to contrast, our regular interagency meetings on the government

10 side, it would be well understood to have an agenda and to, you know, capture actions

11 and things like that. So, if that's an effective juxtaposition, you know, one is sort of a

12 standing meeting; the other is, like, just sort of a tag-up. Again, I know that these are 13 not terms of art in this case.

14 Q Prior to one of the ongoing meetings in the lead-up to the 2020 election,

15 would the U.S. agencies have, like, a pre-meeting to discuss internally what the 16 government may or may not be discussing on an upcoming call?

17 A So, certainly those two in-person meetings, it would be expected that we

18 would -- certainly, because you're meeting with U.S. firms, you want to make sure that

19 everybody understands our ground rules and things -- you know, these are administrative

20 functions. So that would not surprise me, that we would've caucused together as to 21 how we would engage in the meeting.

22 [redacted] Shelby, is that something you recollect --

23 Ms. Pierson. Yeah.

24 [redacted] -- for certain, or just that you expect happened?

25 Ms. Pierson. Yeah, I believe that we did that.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q Do you recall where those first two meetings took place?

3 A One of them was in San Francisco, and I believe the second one was here in 4 Washington.

5 Q Do you recall where in San Francisco? Was it at a company's headquarters

6 or in a government office?

7 A I believe it was at Twitter's headquarters.

8 Q Then what about in D.C., do you recall?

9 A I believe DHS offered the space.

10 Q With the understanding that these meetings between the social media

11 companies and the agencies are maybe less formal than other --

12 A Yep.

13 Q -- standing meetings, did you or did anyone at ODNI, to your knowledge,

14 informally take notes during the meeting?

15 A I can't recall. I am certain I would have a piece of paper and pencil, right,

16 you know, with me. That would be natural. But I can't -- in the way you're asking it, I

17 can't recall it that way.

18 Q Who was your primary point of contact at what was then called Twitter?

19 A Again, I don't know that I have those names in my frontal lobe, but we can

20 take those back if they're of interest.

21 Q Did you ever work with Yoel Roth? Does that name ring a bell?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. What about at Alphabet -- so Google, YouTube -- do you recall

24 having a primary point of contact with them?

25 A So there certainly would be leads in those organizations, as all of those

1 companies had a level of effort on election security, but I don't have those names at the 2 ready.
3 Q So it sounds like there was a number of government agencies, a number of 4 social media companies. Do you recall just a ballpark figure of how many people
5 attended the in-person meetings?
6 A Probably 15 or so. It wasn't like a "ta-da!" Like, I would say maybe five of 7 us and five of them, something like that. It wasn't -- it was not a big discussion.
8 Q Do you recall who first initiated these meetings in the lead-up to the 2020
9 election, if it was someone from the government or someone from the social media
10 companies?
11 A I don't recall specifically.
12 Q Would your team ever confer internally before attending one of the 13 meetings between the industry partners and the U.S. Government?
14 A You mean just ODNI?
15 Q Yes.
16 A Certainly, as sort of the natural course of office business as we prepare for 17 meetings, that's a good practice. So I would suppose the answer is yes.
18 [redacted] Again, do you recall that for certain, or are you speculating?
19 Ms. Pierson. I have every reason to believe that I would naturally prepare with 20 my staff before a meeting with a company.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Okay.
23 Do you recall any meetings between the U.S. Government agencies and the social 24 media companies where there was a discussion about the need for legal process to refer 25 information about specific accounts?

1 A No. But I'm familiar with, as I said, the sharing of information bilaterally
2 from, let's say, the FBI, that that might have had legal process associated with it. But I
3 was not involved in those discussions at all.
4 Q Do you recall any of the meetings where you attended where there was a
5 less collaborative tone to the meeting and there was a difference of opinion between 6 government agencies and the industry partners?
7 A Not to my recollection. I would characterize the meetings as collaborative.
8 Q Do you know who [redacted] is, [redacted]? She's an attorney at 9 Twitter.
10 A No.
11 Q Would the U.S. Government ever make requests during these -- with the 12 understanding there were other standing meetings, do you recall in these meetings in the 13 lead-up to the 2020 election between the several agencies and the industry partners if 14 anyone from the U.S. Government would make any sort of requests to the social media
15 companies?
16 A I can't recall specifics on that.
17 Q Okay.
18 Mr. Roth testified before this committee. He testified that during one of the 19 in-person meetings that there was an exchange that he perceived as more heated --
20 A Uh-huh.
21 Q -- between an attorney at Twitter and someone from ODNI about the need
22 for legal process when referring information about specific accounts to the government.
23 Do you have any recollection in either of the first two meetings of that discussion
24 taking place?
25 [redacted] Without necessarily seeing Mr. Roth's testimony, do you have a copy

1 available that she could look at to refer to?

2 [redacted] Well, I think --

3 [redacted] We can get there, but we'll go off first the question.

4 Ms. Pierson. Can you state the question part of --

5 [redacted] Sure.

6 Ms. Pierson. -- what you just mentioned?

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q So, consistent with what you testified, there were these standing meetings.

9 A Yeah. Yeah.

10 Q There were two initially that were in-person.

11 A Yeah.

12 Q According to Mr. Roth's testimony, he said that there was discussion

13 between an attorney at Twitter -- he was employed at Twitter at the time --

14 A Yep.

15 Q -- and someone from ODNI about whether there was a need for legal 16 process to refer information about specific accounts to the government.

17 A Generally I recall this exchange. I don't know that I would call it heated.

18 And, again, to the best of my recollection, it centered on, to what extent did the 19 companies want to rely on legal process as the prompt for additional sharing?

20 As I recall the conversation -- again, this is more than 4 years ago, and I certainly

21 recall -- I think I even said it -- this is really not about legal process; this is about

22 collaborative sharing. Anything that has a legal-process flavor to it is a different animal.

23 And yet what we wanted to do was promote good dialogue, as I commented

24 several minutes ago, on their expertise in these areas -- that that wasn't really about

25 specific accounts or specific content. It was about, what is your general characterization

1 of foreign activity on your platform? That shouldn't have to be driven by legal process.
2 I think it's also important to recognize, as I did recognize at the time, that when
3 you have, let's say, Google, Twitter, Facebook -- all of those are different companies with,
4 sort of, different perspectives on sharing with the government. So, in that 5 circumstance, if that attorney was, like, "Hey, we don't want to do this without legal 6 process," that's their prerogative, right, versus perhaps a different company would have 7 another perspective.
8 I remember the exchange. Again, I wouldn't characterize it as heated as much as 9 kind of a point of discussion and one that needn't come up again, right? We sort of 10 moved on, so to speak, saying, "Hey, look, we're just trying to have collaborative
11 discussions. We're not here to get into a legal process issue," and we moved on. So I 12 don't remember it coming up again after that.
13 Q Do you remember who participated in this discussion?
14 A I know Yoel was there. Other companies were there. It was one of these 15 10- to 15-person meetings. I don't know that I have all the names at the ready -- but I 16 am familiar with this event, of course --
17 Q Uh-huh.
18 A -- as to who else participated in the meeting.
19 Q Okay. Do you recall how long this part of the discussion lasted?
20 A On this legal-process issue?
21 Q Yes.
22 A Ten minutes, something like that. It certainly was not the primary driver at 23 all of what was probably a 2-hour meeting.
24 Q Do you recall any discussions with anyone in the government at the end of 25 this meeting about the discussion on legal process that took place?

1 [redacted] I would just caution you not to answer on anything deliberative.

2 Ms. Pierson. I certainly think we would've reflected back that the true intent, in

3 this rubric, of connecting with social media companies was to hear from them their

4 perspective on behavior on their platforms, as a matter that is separate and distinct from

5 legal process or the specific sharing of details on accounts or things like that.

6 So I think it was more of a reflection that these are different activities and

7 different with distinction. And that probably was the tenor of any reflection back after 8 the meeting.

1 [1:07 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Do you recall any agencies in particular that you had discussions with?

4 A It certainly would've been the FBI, right? And I think NSA and DHS were

5 there.

6 Q For the FBI, was it personnel from the FITF who were there?

7 A I believe so.

8 Q Taking one step back, so this discussion about legal process occurred in one

9 of the first two meetings in what ultimately becomes --

10 A Yeah.

11 Q -- a series of monthly meetings into the next election.

12 Was there any sort of precedent? Had there been any prior examples, whether

13 in the lead-up to the 2018 election, of where there were multiple social media companies

14 and multiple government agencies getting together on, you know, the same call or in the 15 same meeting?

16 A To the best of my recollection, no.

17 And I think your question is important, because, certainly, as we discussed several

18 minutes ago, ODNI's interest is integration and collaboration. That the FBI had its own

19 relationship and connection to these firms, and these venues were designed to, I don't

20 want to say "break out of that," but have, as I said, a more collaborative and open

21 discussion. So multiple firms and multiple agencies, not just one to the other.

22 So I do think that it's important to understand that part of the intent here was to

23 open this up a bit. That, you know, whatever the FBI is doing in its law enforcement

24 mission is really a different matter than having the best intellectual command of an

25 intelligence topic. And that certainly would've been my intent in participating in a

1 meeting like that.

2 Q Okay.

3 During the discussion on legal process, do you recall if anyone else from the 4 government weighed in?

5 A I can't recall. But it certainly was a group discussion, where we were sitting

6 together around in a circle. So I wouldn't characterize it as, like, a bilateral exchange;

7 you know, it's not, like, a sidebar or something. It was among the group, with all the 8 other companies there as well.

9 Q Do you recall if any of the other companies weighed in on --

10 A No, not to --

11 Q -- this discussion?

12 A -- my recollection.

13 Q Do you recall what reasons the attorney from Twitter was providing as far as

14 their view that the company would prefer legal process be used, if that's an accurate way

15 of summarizing?

16 A I don't know that I can speak for that individual or Twitter's organizational

17 interest in that. I can't speak in an educated way to that. But I certainly understood

18 their perspective.

19 Nevertheless, I think it's important to see, positively, that Twitter continued to

20 participate in these venues in a very positive way. So I feel that it was a good thing that

21 somehow we were able to get through that, that we didn't need legal process, because

22 we weren't having a relationship that was underpinned by a legal issue, and, rather,

23 centering our work around, as I said, that sort of intelligence-focused topic.

24 So I guess the phrase that comes to my mind is that we worked through it, I guess, 25 because they remained a positive and productive participant in these engagements.

1 Q With the understanding that obviously you wouldn't have been privy to any
2 internal Twitter communications --
3 A Yep.
4 Q -- do you recall if Twitter represented to you any reasons of what their
5 organizational interest was and why they had a preference for the legal process?
6 A To the best of my recollection, I think there were interests in terms of how
7 Twitter determined what foreign actors were doing on their platform. I can imagine
8 that they would believe that could be propriety or they didn't want to get into specifics
9 about that. That's my best recollection of that exchange.
10 If they said -- I'm going to totally make up an example -- "We think Iran is doing
11 terrible things," naturally we'd say, "Well, how do you know that?" "Well, we don't 12 want to tell you how we know that." So, okay. And then that person made an 13 observation.
14 But, again, I think we had a very productive relationship with that company
15 moving forward -- across all the companies, frankly. And if they kept their observations
16 at a general level, I think that was quite comfortable for the intelligence community.
17 Q Thank you.
18 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please? Our first hour is up.
19 [Recess.]
20 [redacted] It is 1:20. We can go back on the record.
21 Ms. Pierson, thank you again for joining us today.
22 Ms. Pierson. Yes.
23 EXAMINATION
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q I want to take a few steps back and actually talk about ODNI writ large and

1 just establish the record on what ODNI is and what it does.

2 So ODNI is the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q Broadly speaking, ODNI is responsible for overseeing and coordinating all the 5 activity of the intelligence community, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Who -- what is the intelligence community?

8 A The intelligence community is a scope of -- I think we're 17 -- 18 now? 18

9 with Space Force? I don't know -- 17 or 18 -- I'm going to get a demerit for not having

10 the right number -- intelligence elements that fall under the ODNI's purview to ensure

11 those coordinating functions, as you mentioned.

12 Q Okay. And I want to get back to the coordinating functions in a second, but

13 on the 17, 18 individuals, I don't want to go -- or agencies, rather -- I don't want to go

14 through all of them, but just to get an idea, it includes, for example, the FBI, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And the Central Intelligence Agency?

17 A Yep.

18 Q And the National Security Agency?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And others. And the military.

21 A Uh-huh.

22 Q The Department of the Navy and the Department of the Army, correct?

23 A Uh-huh. Yes.

24 Q And each one of those agencies has its own particular intelligence-gathering

25 function, correct?

1 A They have their own intelligence function.

2 Q Okay.

3 A I do think "gathering" is a word that I am not familiar with, but yes.

4 Q Fair. But my point is that each one of those agencies has a different

5 function --

6 A Of course.

7 Q -- within the intelligence community?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And so ODNI's role is to coordinate amongst all these diverse agencies and 10 their diverse functions, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And we specifically used the term "coordinating function." What is a 13 coordinating function? What does that mean to you?

14 A Coordinating is, frankly, the imperative of the ODNI, to ensure alignment, to

15 ensure efficiency, and harmonizing -- a word I used earlier -- the efforts, as you

16 mentioned, the diverse efforts across those organizations against priority topics and gaps.

17 Q And in the earlier hour, you referred to, for example, the FBI as having an 18 operational function.

19 A Yes.

20 Q What's an operational function?

21 A So, in this context, you have organizations that have a myriad of different

22 authorities and activities. Some of those are collection; some of those are analysis.

23 And so, in the context of my earlier comment, the FBI has a law enforcement

24 operational function that's unique to the FBI.

25 Q Okay. And ODNI does not have a --

1 A It does not.

2 Q -- does not have an operational function, correct?

3 A It does not.

4 Q Okay.

5 I want to move on to your background in a little more detail. You said that you

6 have worked in the intelligence community since 1999, so 25 years, thereabouts.

7 A Yes.

8 Q Why did you choose to pursue a career in the intelligence community?

9 A I think I have always had an interest in national security. And I don't know

10 that I was inherently familiar with imagery analysis as a topic, because that's not

11 something most people know a lot about, but having the opportunity not only to serve

12 the government but also work on international topics from the perspective of intelligence

13 seemed like the right fit.

14 Q Over your 25 years in the intelligence community, have you received any

15 awards for your work?

16 A I've been privileged to receive several awards. Some of those are internal

17 to NGA. Some of them are across the intelligence community. And I'm particularly

18 proud of having received two Presidential Rank Awards, which recognize senior executive

19 performance.

20 Q And what is a Presidential Rank Award?

21 A It is an annual award given by the President. I believe it recognizes the top

22 1 percent of senior executives in the government.

23 Q And do you recall what years you were awarded those awards?

24 A 2022 and 2015, I believe.

25 Q You said earlier and we've talked through this in some extensive detail that

1 you served as the crisis manager for election security during the 2018 midterm elections.

2 A Yes, ma'am.

3 Q Who was the Director of National Intelligence at that time?

4 A Director Dan Coats.

5 Q And Director Coats was an appointee of President Trump, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And then you were appointed the first intelligence community Election

8 Threats Executive in 2019, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And that was still under Director Coats?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Again, an appointee of President Trump.

13 A Yes.

14 Q And then you remained the Election Threats Executive throughout 2020,

15 correct?

16 A Yes.

17 Q So that would've included under Joseph Maguire -- you said that earlier --

18 A Yes.

19 Q -- but also, I believe it was an Acting Director, Ric Grenell?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And Mr. Grenell was put in this position by President Trump, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And under DNI Ratcliffe as well, correct?

24 A Yes.

25 Q And DNI Ratcliffe was also an appointee of President Trump, correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q In the prior hour, the term "foreign malign influence" was used. I don't

3 know that we ever actually got a definition of that. So, in your own words, what is

4 foreign malign influence?

5 A Yes. And, again, in my own words. I'm sure the intelligence community

6 has a written-down definition.

7 Q Uh-huh.

8 A These are particularly -- it could be covert, subversive, or coercive tactics

9 undertaken by a foreign entity to undermine specific activities or policies or programs of 10 another country.

11 Q And in the context of U.S. election security, what does foreign malign

12 influence mean?

13 A So, under that broader umbrella of foreign malign influence, this would be,

14 again, subversive, coercive, sometimes covert measures to either influence voter

15 participation, voter perspectives, or any and all activities related to an election.

16 Q And in the context of ODNI's work to combat foreign malign influence, the 17 focus is on foreign intelligence actors, correct?

18 A Absolutely.

19 Q So, in other words, outside-of-the-United-States actors.

20 A Absolutely.

21 Q Okay.

22 You were asked a number of questions in the earlier hour about the Foreign

23 Malign Intelligence Council.

24 A The Foreign Malign Influence Center?

25 Q Sorry.

1 A Yep.

2 Q Foreign Malign Influence Center. These acronyms.

3 A I know.

4 Q You recall that line of questioning?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And you were not there when the FMIC, as it's abbreviated, was 7 actually chartered, correct?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q Or you were not part of that.

10 Understanding that, but given your background in this field generally, I want to 11 introduce the "What We Do" page from the FMIC's website and just talk through briefly.

12 A Sure.

13 Q And this will be exhibit 1, I believe.

14 A Thank you.

15 [Pierson Exhibit No. 1

16 was marked for identification.]

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q And I'll give you a minute to look this over.

19 A So this is a copy of the current website?

20 Q Oh, I think you might have two copies there.

21 A Oh, I have many. Many, many, many. Okay.

22 Q Thanks.

23 A Okay. So this is from the DNI's homepage. Yes. I understand.

24 Q Uh-huh. And I can represent to you we just printed this this morning --

25 A Okay.

1 Q -- so it's current as of today.

2 A Yes.

3 Q Okay.

4 And I want to talk through -- you see, under this page, it has -- under "What We

5 Do," it has three main areas of focus. Do you see those? It's "Analytic Integration,"

6 "Mission Management," and "Partner Engagement."

7 A Uh-huh.

8 Q I want to talk through each one of these --

9 A Okay.

10 Q -- one by one, to the extent that you're familiar.

11 And, again, I will note, down here it says, "The Foreign Malign Influence Center

12 was activated on September 23, 2022." That was after your time as Election Threats

13 Executive?

14 A Yes.

15 Q So the first one is "Analytic Integration." And the explanation here is,

16 "FMIC's analytic integration focuses on advancing strategic analysis on the FMI problem

17 set, producing assessments of the global threat and U.S. response and warnings,

18 identifying gaps in production, establishing common standards, and providing indications

19 and warning."

20 What's your understanding of what that means kind of in layman's terms?

21 A Sure.

22 As I mentioned earlier, the components of foreign malign influence span a very 23 broad spectrum of topics: economic, political, technical.

24 So, when I read, for example, "Analytic integration focuses on advancing strategic 25 analysis," it would be ensuring that the components of foreign malign influence are

1 appropriately connected, that result in specific production, intelligence production,
2 against this problem set.
3 So producing these assessments, as I mentioned, on the global threats, so a
4 variety of countries, and then also, of course, as I mentioned earlier, consistency across 5 specific actors, and, of course, most appropriately, producing reflections that provide 6 warning and insight to policy- and decision-makers.
7 Q Okay.
8 And before we move on to "Mission Management," you've used the phrase
9 "consistency across entities" a number of times. What does that mean?
10 A The analytic community is very big, and as this topic has evolved -- I'll give 11 you a good example.
12 Originally, the community used to use words like "interference" and "influence"
13 interchangeably. And ODNI, through the National Intelligence Council, clarified the 14 definitions of those terms as distinct so that the rest of the community is consistently
15 using them appropriately.
16 This would be a natural function of ODNI, not unique to election security. Across 17 the board, that lexicon can become more expected and common across the analytic
18 community.
19 Q Okay.
20 Moving on, the second function here is "Mission Management." It says, "FMIC's 21 mission management unit focuses on defining the FMI mission space, integrating with 22 existing ODNI intelligence management functions, supporting robust collection,
23 monitoring programmatic investments, and developing capabilities."
24 Can you explain, again, what that means in layman's terms?
25 A Sure. And as I mentioned earlier in the interview, these are common

1 activities for ODNI across the board, not unique to election security.

2 Q Uh-huh.

3 A So what's discussed here under the broader auspices of mission

4 management includes, again, whether collection is best aligned for election security.

5 That would include prioritization, how we're using the tools in our toolkit.

6 You see "programmatic investments." That would include resources. How

7 many people do we have working in the topic? Are we investing in other collection

8 capabilities?

9 And, of course, that leads me to the last annotation on "developing capabilities."

10 So are we not simply -- are we looking towards the future as to additional insights and

11 opportunities and therefore developing capabilities that could help narrow the gaps

12 mentioned earlier in this webpage?

13 Q Okay.

14 And then the final function here is "Partner Engagement." And just the first

15 sentence of that reads, "FMIC's partner engagement unit works by, with, and through

16 partners, such as the Department of Homeland Security and the Federal Bureau of 17 Investigation, to promote awareness of the FMI threat. Efforts include downgrading or

18 declassifying intelligence as appropriate, furthering efforts to develop solutions to 19 difficult and systemic problems, and helping strengthen resiliency efforts."

20 Can you explain what that means?

21 A Sure.

22 In this context, ODNI works through a spectrum of other organizations, which

23 would include, of course, U.S. Government organizations and, as it relates to election

24 security, I would assume, election officials. So I see these references to "downgrading"

25 information to share intelligence information with an appropriate swath of partners

1 through Homeland Security and FBI and other organizations.

2 Q Okay.

3 And then after "Partner Engagement," the following paragraph reads that "foreign

4 malign influence poses a significant threat to democracy and U.S. interests."

5 Do you agree with that statement?

6 A Based upon my firsthand knowledge of this topic, yes.

7 Q Okay. And can you explain why you believe that foreign malign influence

8 poses a significant threat to democracy and U.S. interests?

9 A The spectrum of reporting that we have through intelligence channels shows

10 a diverse and broad level of effort by our Nation's adversaries to create tumult in the 11 Nation as it relates to our elections. And those efforts span everything from interest in 12 our infrastructure all the way to influencing voter choices.

13 By their definition, I characterize those as threats to democracy, to the extent that 14 we have foreign interference in our natural democratic process.

15 Q And when you say you consider them threats to democracy, what do you

16 mean by that?

17 A It's a very subjective term.

18 Q Uh-huh.

19 A From my personal perspective, to the extent that foreign -- and, again, my

20 area of expertise is foreign intelligence services seeking to covertly manipulate the 21 U.S. population. That is counter to the very broad concepts of democracy.

22 Q Okay.

23 In your opinion and based on your years of experience, if the intelligence

24 community or the U.S. Government writ large -- the ability of the U.S. Government to

25 combat foreign malign influence on our elections was somehow curtailed or limited,

1 would that pose a threat to our democracy?

2 A Based upon my experience, threats to democracy have been a priority

3 throughout my experience. So I don't know that I can speak in an educated way about

4 specific resources. I'm only familiar with my own personal tenure. But I know that this

5 remains a top priority going back decades.

6 Q And, in your opinion, because it is a top priority -- or keeping it as a top

7 priority has helped the United States Government to combat --

8 A Absolutely.

9 Q -- these foreign malign influence efforts?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay.

12 I want to turn to some specific examples of foreign malign influence efforts. And 13 I specifically want to begin by looking at 2016.

14 A Okay.

15 Q Do you agree that Russia interfered in the 2016 election?

16 A I agree that Russia attempted to influence the election, yes.

17 Q Okay. And can you describe the methods by which Russia, just broadly

18 speaking -- I'm not asking for classified information, but based on what's been, you know,

19 publicly reported --

20 A Yes.

21 Q -- and what's publicly known -- how Russia attempted to interfere in the

22 2016 election?

23 A In 2016, Russia sought to proliferate messages that were consistent with

24 their policy objectives and also sought to obtain access to critical infrastructure

25 associated with elections in 2016.

1 Q Focusing first on the "proliferating messages consistent with their policy
2 objectives," what were Russia's policy objectives in 2016?
3 A Again, I don't have these reports in front of me, so I can't speak to those
4 specific judgments. But, generally speaking, sowing discord, promoting one candidate
5 over another, and undermining just general confidence in the election certainly would 6 have been part of their larger platform of Russia's national interest.
7 Q And the candidate they were promoting over another was President Trump,
8 correct?
9 A Yes.
10 Q They were promoting President Trump and working to denigrate Hillary
11 Clinton. Is that fair to say?
12 [redacted] Are you asking about her personal opinion or in her official capacity?
13 BY [redacted]
14 Q In your official capacity, you know, based on your work as the Election
15 Threats Executive --
16 A Yeah. Generally speaking -- and, again, I don't have our original 17 assessments in front of me, so I'm very mindful of my language as to be specific. But,
18 yes, generally speaking, that is the thrust of the activity in 2016.
19 Q Okay.
20 I want to turn to Russia's efforts to interfere in the 2020 election. And I do want
21 to look at the assessment in that case.
22 So I'm going to introduce as exhibit 2 the January 7, 2021, intelligence community
23 assessment from the National Intelligence Council entitled "Foreign Threats to the 2020
24 U.S. Federal Elections."
25 [Pierson Exhibit No. 2

1 was marked for identification.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q I should note, this was a classified report when it was initially produced in

4 January 2021, but we're introducing the unclassified version that was released in March

5 of 2021.

6 A Yes.

7 Q Are you familiar with this assessment?

8 A I am.

9 Q Okay. Do you want a minute to look it over?

10 A I'm familiar with it. I might take a moment, depending on the questions, to 11 look at areas.

12 Q Did you participate in drafting this report?

13 A No. This is a product of the NIC, so I was not a member of the NIC at this

14 time. But I certainly would've been involved in the ODNI's administration of producing 15 the document.

16 Q Okay. And have you read this report in the past?

17 A Yes.

18 Q Okay. Broadly speaking, can you describe what this report is or what an 19 assessment like this is?

20 A Yep.

21 Certainly, an intelligence community assessment is part of the current product line

22 of the National Intelligence Council. It is not unique to election security.

23 This document is produced, as articulated in the initial opening statements, and as

24 I mentioned earlier, the executive order that requires the intelligence community to

25 produce an interagency-coordinated document that provides an assessment and

1 characterization of election security matters from the previous Presidential election.

2 Q And, I'm sorry, you mentioned that executive order earlier. That executive

3 order was signed by President Trump, correct?

4 A I believe so, yes.

5 Q Okay.

6 I want to look at the first page, just the cover page of this.

7 A Uh-huh.

8 Q It references the National Intelligence Council. Can you briefly explain

9 what the National Intelligence Council is?

10 A The National Intelligence Council is a longstanding organization -- many

11 decades -- that is responsible for producing interagency-coordinated national intelligence

12 positions on a variety of topics, again, not limited to election security.

13 It relies on the expertise of not only the analysts that are members of the Council

14 but they have a convening authority by which they pull together members of the 15 intelligence community that we discussed several minutes ago to produce these 16 coordinated assessments on a variety of topics.

17 Q Okay.

18 And at the bottom of this page, above where it says "UNCLASSIFIED," in small font,

19 italicized --

20 A Yep.

21 Q -- it reads, "This Intelligence Community Assessment was prepared by the

22 National Intelligence Council under the auspices of the National Intelligence Officer (NIO)

23 for Cyber."

24 A Uh-huh.

25 Q "It was drafted by the National Intelligence Council and the CIA" -- that's the

1 Central Intelligence Agency, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q "DHS," the Department of Homeland Security, correct?

4 A Uh-huh.

5 Q "FBI," which is the Federal Bureau of Investigation, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q "INR," that's the Bureau of Intelligence and Research at the State

8 Department, correct?

9 A Uh-huh.

10 Q And "NSA," which is the National Security Agency, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q "And coordinated with CIA, DHS, FBI, INR, Treasury" -- which is a reference

13 to the Department of the Treasury, correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q "And NSA."

16 A Yes.

17 Q So, in other words, seven different agencies participated in preparing this 18 report, correct?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Okay.

21 I want to turn to the fourth page of the document. As printed it's actually

22 Roman numeral -- small Roman numeral i.

23 A Okay.

24 Q And I want to look at "Key Judgment 2."

25 "Key Judgment 2" -- I'm just going to read it into the record, so give me a moment

1 here.

2 It reads, "We assess that Russian President Putin authorized, and a range of

3 Russian government organizations conducted, influence operations aimed at denigrating

4 President Biden's candidacy and the Democratic Party, supporting former President

5 Trump, undermining public confidence in the electoral process, and exacerbating

6 sociopolitical divisions in the US. Unlike in 2016, we did not see persistent Russian cyber

7 efforts to gain access to election infrastructure. We have high confidence in our

8 assessment; Russian state and proxy actors who all serve the Kremlin's interests worked

9 to affect US public perceptions in a consistent manner. A key element of Moscow's

10 strategy this election cycle was its use of proxies linked to Russian intelligence to push

11 influence narratives -- including misleading or unsubstantiated allegations against

12 President Biden -- to US media organizations, US officials, and prominent US individuals,

13 including some close to former President Trump and his administration."

14 Did I read that correctly?

15 A Yes, ma'am.

16 Q Okay.

17 In the middle of that, it reads, "We have high confidence in our assessment." Do

18 you see where it says that?

19 A I do.

20 Q What does the phrase "high confidence" mean as used here?

21 A Yeah. I would refer you to the back of the document; I think it's on page 10

22 or so.

23 The use of the word "confidence" is standard practice in the intelligence

24 community, and confidence levels are a very important component of coordinated

25 assessments. And as the definition generally indicates here, as referenced, on page 10

1 of the document, it not only talks about our analytic argumentation but it also talks about
2 the availability and diversity of our sources and our confidence in the sources that we've 3 analyzed.
4 So, generally, "high confidence" is on the confident end or the highest confident
5 end of the spectrum. And you'll see a graphic here that shares a spectrum of words that 6 the community will use in reporting. It's important that the community follows this so 7 that our consumers have a consistent understanding of these confidence levels as they're 8 reading this information. And so this reference to "high confidence" is underpinned by 9 the definition later in the document.
10 Q So "high confidence" means that it is, you know, probable, highly probable,
11 nearly certain, right, looking at the graphic on page 10?
12 A It crosses that threshold, yes.
13 Q Okay.
14 So, turning back to "Key Judgment 2," is it fair to say that all the agencies, the 15 seven agencies, who were involved in preparing this report all had high confidence that in 16 2020 Russia engaged in influence operations aimed at denigrating President Biden and 17 supporting President Trump?
18 A Yes, that is a correct characterization of the assessment.
19 Q Okay.
20 And it's also true that these seven agencies who participated in drafting this
21 report or preparing this report had high confidence that one key part of Russia's efforts
22 included using proxies to push influence narratives, including misleading or 23 unsubstantiated allegations against President Biden, to U.S. officials?
24 A Yes, that's correct.
25 Q Okay.

1 In your experience as an intelligence community professional, as the Election
2 Threats Executive, is this consistent with the type of concerns about Russian interference
3 that the intelligence community held before the 2020 election?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Okay.
6 You were asked in the last hour about meetings that U.S. Government agencies
7 had with social media companies in the run-up to the 2020 election --
8 [redacted] [redacted] I apologize.
9 [redacted] Yep?
10 [redacted] Going back to that document, I just note for the record that there is a 11 highlight on page 1.
12 [redacted] Oh.
13 [redacted] I don't believe that that is a highlight from the original version.
14 [redacted] It is not. And thank you for flagging that. We had highlighted this 15 for a separate --
16 [redacted] Okay.
17 [redacted] Thank you for noting that, and we will correct that for the record.
18 [redacted] Thank you. Appreciate it.
19 [redacted] Thanks. Yeah.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Turning back to the social media company meetings -- actually, before I get 22 there, do foreign intelligence agencies have incentive or have you, in your experience, 23 witnessed evidence of foreign intelligence agencies using social media to attempt to 24 interfere in U.S. elections?
25 A Yes, we have information to that effect within our intelligence collection.

1 Yes.

2 Q Okay. And to the extent you're able to speak in an open setting, how do

3 foreign intelligence operations attempt to use social media to interfere in elections?

4 A Generally speaking, foreign intelligence services will use either manipulated

5 accounts or accounts that are deceptive in their characterization as to their sponsorship

6 or identity to promote messages that are in line with their interests or policies.

7 Q Okay.

8 And when we're talking about foreign intelligence entities, I think, we talked about

9 Russia and Russia's activities, but the concern is broader than just Russia, correct?

10 A Of course. Yes.

11 Q And, again, to the extent you're able to speak in an open setting, can you

12 describe some of the other foreign intelligence entities who have worked to interfere in 13 the U.S. elections?

14 A I think, stepping back from "have interfered" as -- when we use the word

15 "interfered," it has a specific meaning.

16 Q Uh-huh.

17 A Let's characterize foreign intelligence services' influence operations. I think

18 we discussed a spectrum of countries -- Russia, China, Iran, Cuba, and others as reflected 19 in the document you shared earlier.

20 Q And you've used the term "influence operations" a number of times, and I

21 should've asked you this sooner, but can you explain what an influence operation is?

22 What's the definition of that?

23 A Sure. And, again, I do think we even discussed this within this document, 24 so thank you for providing it.

25 This talks about both overt and covert -- I have mentioned those phrases

1 earlier -- and that we have actors -- and, again, I'm looking at the document provided, the 2 NIC assessment -- again, which are sponsored in this case by foreign governments that
3 are intended to affect, both directly or indirectly, U.S. election outcomes.
4 Q Looking at the meetings that were discussed earlier with the social media
5 companies, the focus of those meetings was on these foreign intelligence agency
6 activities, correct?
7 A Foreign influence operations on those platforms, which may or may not be 8 affiliated with a specific intelligence agency. It could be more broad than that.
9 Q Understood.
10 A Yeah.
11 Q And so, when you say it could be more broad than that, can you explain
12 what that means?
13 A So I think, when I think of a foreign intelligence service, that's, like, a Federal 14 organization more --
15 Q Like the KGB.
16 A Yes, like the KGB or the GRU. Those are Russian organizations.
17 Foreign intelligence agencies also use other organizations that are perhaps not 18 directly affiliated with them to undertake some of these activities. So 19 foreign-intelligence-sponsored activities.
20 So, when we discuss with the social media companies, it's not just limited to that 21 which is uniquely associated with a foreign intelligence organization. It could be a much
22 broader level of effort.
23 Q Okay. But the focus is on foreign --
24 A Of course.
25 Q -- activity, correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And not domestic activity.

3 A Yes. That underpins the function and scope of the intelligence community.

4 Q Can you explain what you mean by that?

5 A The intelligence community's mission is very specifically defined to focus on

6 foreign intelligence activity. Domestic intelligence activity is a very specific and

7 well-defined, frankly, legal paradigm that is quite limited and very specific in its scope.

8 So the largesse of our work exclusively focuses on foreign intelligence activity.

9 Q And I think in the earlier hour you were asked if there was ever a situation

10 where lawyers came in to brief you or discuss with you, you know, focusing on domestic

11 versus foreign operations. And I think -- is it fair to say that that kind of a briefing

12 wouldn't have been necessary because the entire focus of the intelligence community

13 was on foreign operations?

14 A Yeah. And, again, I don't remember a briefing like that, but I -- it

15 is -- intelligence oversight and this foreign focus is a well-, I think, practiced and 16 understood dimension of our work.

17 Q Okay.

18 In the meetings with the social media companies, you said earlier that the U.S.

19 Government agencies were primarily in receive mode.

20 A Yeah.

21 Q And, again, for the record, can you explain what you meant by that?

22 A The U.S. intelligence community, on any topic, not just election security,

23 wants to ensure that it has a solid understanding of the best information possible on a

24 specific topic. And that's not exclusively limited to that which is collected by the 25 community itself. There's tremendous expertise outside of the intelligence community.

1 And, in this context, that could be in a variety of organizations, including social
2 media companies. They, as I mentioned earlier, know a lot about foreign behavior on 3 their platforms. So, naturally, it would be of interest to listen and hear about 4 characterizations of how intelligence services were using their platforms.
5 Q And stepping aside from the social-media-meeting context, does the 6 intelligence community have meetings of this nature with outside entities in other areas
7 as well?
8 A Of course. And, frankly, the National Intelligence Council, the NIC, as the 9 primary organization that led the document you reviewed earlier, specifically solicits the 10 expertise of think tanks, academic thought leaders, partners, industry in an effort to best 11 create that most comprehensive and insightful intelligence assessment. So this would 12 be well within normal practice or, frankly, expected practice across the intelligence
13 community.
14 Q And can you provide examples, just at a high level, of other situations where 15 this type of intelligence-sharing might occur?
16 A I think about nuclear proliferation activities. That's a very expert topic, has 17 a lot of technical details associated with it. There's a long history in the intelligence
18 community of working with scientists and other collaborators -- international partners,
19 academics -- that know a lot about the topic of nuclear nonproliferation, or proliferation,
20 unfortunately, as the case may be.
21 That would be a good example of the intelligence community inviting additional 22 insight on topics that are relevant to a very important intelligence priority.
23 Q And in all of these information-sharing situations, participation by the 24 outside entity, whether it's academia, whether it's a social media company, is voluntary,
25 correct?

1 A Of course.

2 Q Okay. And, in your experience, have you ever witnessed anyone in any of 3 these meetings that you participate in pressure a social media company to participate?

4 A No.

5 Q Okay. Or threaten them with adverse consequences if they do not

6 participate?

7 A No. And I think it's a well-understood reality that some entities don't want

8 to work with the U.S. Government.

9 Q Do you have an opinion on why social media companies chose to participate

10 in these meetings?

11 A I don't know that I can speak to that in an effective way.

12 Q Okay.

13 There was a statement made in the earlier hour that -- sorry. I'll withdraw that.

14 There was a question in the earlier hour about which agencies made presentations at 15 these meetings or which members of the intelligence community made presentations.

16 Were presentations made? Is that a fair characterization of how these meetings

17 went?

18 A Again, I don't have a specific recollection of documents or briefings that

19 were presented. As I said, this was very much centered on an exchange of -- a 20 discussion of foreign intelligence activities.

21 Q And so, just to put a finer point on that, it's not as though there were

22 representatives from ODNI or from other members of the intelligence community who

23 were showing PowerPoints during these on a regular basis that you --

24 A I don't know that I can speak to that one way or the other.

25 Q To the best of your recollection, do you ever recall something like that?

1 A I don't think so.

2 I think it's also important to point out, these are unclassified sessions. The

3 majority of information -- the vast majority of information that we consume is classified,

4 some of it at very sensitive levels. So it would not have been common practice to create

5 documents for these types of exchanges.

6 Q Okay. And I think you said in the earlier hour that these were less formal

7 conversations.

8 A Yes.

9 Q Is that a fair characterization?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Okay.

12 To the best of your knowledge -- or to the best of your recollection, I should

13 say -- was there ever a request made by any U.S. Government entity -- so any member of 14 the intelligence community participating in these broader meetings -- that any social

15 media company take any particular action with respect to content or any particular

16 account?

17 Again, just asking for your best recollection sitting here today.

18 A Not to my recollection.

19 Q Okay.

20 You were asked earlier about an interaction with Yoel Roth. Do you recall that 21 conversation?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay.

24 I want to introduce as exhibit 3 the transcript section from Mr. Roth's testimony

25 before this committee.

1 [Pierson Exhibit No. 3

2 was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q And you have two copies there, I think.

5 A Oh. Thank you.

6 Q And I'll just, as you're looking this over, I'll state for the record, we're

7 introducing the cover page from this interview that took place on November 1, 2023,

8 before the Judiciary Committee and just page 141 of that transcript. The majority has

9 not yet made the full transcript public.

10 And let me know when you've had a minute to read it through.

11 A Okay.

12 Q Okay.

13 Having had a minute to look over this, I want to look at line 6 on this page. It

14 describes "early friction in the industry-USG relationship."

15 Do you think that's a fair characterization of the relationship between the U.S.

16 Government and the social media companies in these early meetings?

17 A I didn't perceive it that way. But I understand the characterization in this 18 exhibit as to Mr. Roth's characterization believing that there was early friction.

19 Q Okay. And you said you did not perceive it that way?

20 A No.

21 Q Okay.

22 And Mr. Roth described the request from ODNI that platforms should voluntarily,

23 without the need for legal process, refer information about specific accounts to the 24 government, and a Twitter account pushed back on that. And it went on.

25 And I want to look at lines 22 to 25.

1 A Yes.

2 Q Mr. Roth says, "There was not a rehash of an incident like that."

3 A Yeah.

4 Q Do you think that's a fair characterization, that whatever happened -- I

5 understand there may have been a difference of opinion on what actually happened --

6 A Yeah.

7 Q -- but that was a one-and-done thing, there was not a -- it didn't recur?

8 A I think this is a powerful line of questions. And I agree with the statement,

9 "There was not a rehash of an incident like that."

10 I think it's important -- again, this was, I think, our first meeting -- to have had an 11 exchange of ideas as to how specific companies were wanting to be about information.

12 And I think Twitter, as evidenced by Yoel's characterization, preferred legal process for 13 specific accounts.

14 Q Okay.

15 And Yoel says that "ODNI were present in subsequent meetings, to the best of my 16 recollection," and "they never made a similar request to that."

17 Do you see where it says that?

18 A Yes, I do.

19 Q So, in his characterization, just to kind of rephrase this, there was some 20 disagreement at the very first meeting.

21 A Yes.

22 Q Twitter made its position known. And after that, ODNI respected that

23 position and didn't go back and make a similar request. Is that --

24 A Of course.

25 Q That's the way he characterizes it, correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay.

3 Oh, okay. And we do have a copy -- and I'm done with my line of questions, but I

4 do want to note, we have a corrected copy of exhibit 2 without the highlights. So we're

5 going to replace that exhibit 2, for the record.

6 A Thank you.

7 [redacted] And, with that, we can go off the record. Thank you.

8 [Recess.]

9 [redacted] Back on the record.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Ms. Pierson, are you familiar with the ODNI's process for the executive

12 branch to notify the public and others regarding foreign malign influence interference

13 operations targeting U.S. elections?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. What is the purpose of that process?

16 A That process is outlined in a document called the "notification framework,"

17 or that's the parlance that we use in the government. It is the result of an interagency

18 policy document that outlines the responsibilities of respective organizations relating to 19 sharing information on election security threats or foreign malign influence.

20 Within that document, ODNI has specific responsibilities outlined in the policy.

21 Q What are the ODNI's specific responsibilities?

22 A I don't have the document in front of me, so I can't be citing line and verse.

23 There are some specific convening authorities where the ODNI sponsors a group of 24 analytic experts to evaluate intelligence information.

25 Also, I believe the ODNI pulls together other Cabinet officials or leaders to make

1 final decisions as it relates to notifications.

2 And I believe, if my memory serves me correctly, ODNI is also responsible for

3 leading public notifications, as opposed to other responsibilities within the interagency

4 for other types of information-sharing.

5 Q And what is a public notification?

6 A That would be whereby intelligence information is shared with the public.

7 A public statement of some sort.

8 Q Is the term "notification" interchangeable with the "defensive briefing"?

9 A Defensive briefing is a type of notification.

10 Q What is a defensive briefing?

11 A A defensive briefing is -- and not unique to election security -- is a

12 presentation or engagement, in my experience, sponsored by the FBI to share

13 information with an individual or organization to provide warning of a specific event.

14 Q What do you mean by "sponsored by the FBI"?

15 A I think the FBI is responsible for providing defensive briefings and, again, not

16 just that which is outlined in the notification framework. There's a concept called "duty

17 to warn," when we have information of a threat, to provide information to targets, again,

18 in this context of foreign malign influence or interference. The FBI would just be the 19 lead organization.

20 Q I'm showing you what I'm going to mark as exhibit 4 for the record.

21 [Pierson Exhibit No. 4

22 was marked for identification.]

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q It is the ODNI "Overview of the Process for the Executive Branch to Notify

25 the Public and Others Regarding Foreign Malign Influence and Interference Operations

1 Targeting U.S. Elections."

2 If you would just take a look at that, just generally -- you don't have to read every

3 line -- and then we can talk about specifics.

4 A I just want to note --

5 Q Please.

6 A -- that I believe the notification framework was updated subsequent to my

7 tenure. So I don't -- I know there was a document like this approved earlier, but I don't

8 know if this is a subsequent version or some sort. But I am generally familiar with this

9 topic.

10 Q Okay. Fair enough.

11 A Yeah.

12 Q So we'll use this --

13 A There's two versions of the framework.

14 Q Okay.

15 A Yeah.

16 Q We'll use this for purposes of questions. That caveat's been made, and if

17 there's any --

18 A Got it.

19 Q -- particulars we need to discuss, we will.

20 A Got it. Thank you.

21 Q So you're familiar with this document, then?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Did you help create this document or its content?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Okay. Now, to be clear, this --

1 A As it relates to probably 20- -- whatever was generated during my tenure.
2 If they updated it, then I didn't. But I am familiar with this doc- -- with this -- I don't
3 know how to say it. I think we produced one during my tenure, but if they updated it to 4 reflect the new framework, I didn't have a role in that.
5 Q So, as I go through questions about it, if anything stands out that you feel,
6 "Well, I don't know anything about that" --
7 A "I don't know anything about that."
8 Q -- then you just let us know.
9 A Thank you. I appreciate that.
10 Q Yeah. We're just trying to get as much information as we can --
11 A Yeah.
12 Q -- and these are the documents we have.
13 Now, you had testified that you helped create the document or its contents or 14 something very similar to this. What was the basis for formulating this policy?
15 [redacted] To the extent you can get into information that's not privileged or 16 deliberative.
17 Ms. Pierson. As I've shared earlier, I think there has been a commitment on the 18 part of the Federal Government to make sure that our elections are secure and free from 19 foreign interference.
20 Coming out of 2016, the intelligence community had information that, again, we 21 needed to ensure that it was shared at appropriate level -- multiple levels, which could 22 include unclassified information.
23 The National Security Council and the interagency created the notification
24 framework. And the document that you've provided here is an unclassified description
25 of that process that I think was designed to ensure public understanding of what this new

1 policy meant for how we were trying to protect elections.

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q So it's primarily concerned with elections?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And you had testified previously that a type of notification is a defensive

6 briefing, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q So a defensive briefing presumably would be -- or, this document or these

9 principles would speak to when a defensive briefing would be warranted?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And is it fair to say this document lays out the procedures -- certainly the 12 overview of the procedures -- for when the executive branch would provide to an

13 American citizen a defensive briefing?

14 A I'm just looking at the document to see if it mentions a defensive briefing in

15 specifics. I think they call it "notifications" conducted under these -- or provided by the 16 FBI and the DHS. I'm looking at paragraph -- one, two, three, four, five -- six.

17 Q Uh-huh.

18 A And so -- I'm sorry. Can you remind me of the question again?

19 Q Uh, yeah. And if I can't, I'll just ask something else.

20 A Yeah, I'm tracking with you. Yes.

21 Q In my old life, we would have it read back to us, but here we're sort of stuck

22 with our memory.

23 A Yeah.

24 Q A defensive briefing is a type of notification. I guess the question is, does 25 this speak to a notification which we could call a defensive briefing?

1 A Yes, it does.

2 Q And, just to be clear, the notification, defensive briefing, in many instances,

3 those can be interchangeable? Is that fair to say?

4 A I think from a practical perspective I see the point. I don't know that I've

5 used them interchangeably. But I understand that a defensive briefing, that which is 6 prompted by this particular framework, is a type of notification, yes.

7 Q Okay. Are defensive briefings limited to U.S. persons?

8 A I don't believe so. I don't think that there's a -- again, I don't have the

9 actual policy in front of me, but I don't know that there's a prohibition, that it has to be a

10 U.S. person.

11 But, again, I don't have the document in front of me, so I can't firmly say one way

12 or the other. But it doesn't strike me that there's a prohibition.

13 Q Sure.

14 A And particularly given our intelligence partnerships with foreign intelligence

15 services, again, I don't think there's an obstacle to doing that under certain

16 circumstances.

17 Q And, as far as you know, using this criteria, would the government provide a

18 defensive briefing to a U.S. person if it were justified under this criteria?

19 A Yes.

20 Q Is the decision to provide a defensive briefing a discretionary activity?

21 A Can you say more about the word "discretionary"?

22 Q Sure. You go do a criterion, and you could decide to provide it -- go

23 through the criterion with the same intelligence and ultimately decide --

24 A Not to.

25 Q -- not to provide it.

1 A Yeah. Yeah.

2 Q So it's an act of discretion.

3 A Yes. I understand.

4 Q It's a choice.

5 A Uh-huh.

6 Q Yeah.

7 Are there instances, to your knowledge, where the law requires the government

8 provide a notification or defensive briefing either to U.S. persons or institution?

9 A I believe there are some accommodations where there are threats to life or

10 property that are held outside of the notification framework in which, under that 11 auspices of duty to warn, it is outlined.

1 [2:20 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay.

4 In your experience, are these briefings or notifications primarily concerned with

5 U.S. elections? I know this speaks to that, but in your sort of broad experience in this

6 world.

7 A I think there are defensive briefings that fall outside of this that happen and

8 have nothing to do with election interference.

9 Q Okay.

10 Prior to the formulation or announcement of this process, how would ODNI deal

11 with a situation in which a notification was warranted?

12 [redacted] If you know from your experience.

13 Ms. Pierson. The intelligence community has well-understood rules and

14 procedures by which it can downgrade and declassify intelligence information for 15 purposes. Prior to this framework, requests for sharing information would be handled

16 through those normal, understood channels for public release, for example, or sanitized

17 information.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q So, say, if a private citizen was going to receive a confidential notification or 20 defensive briefing, absent these policies, what was your understanding of the normal

21 channels? Was it similar to this? Were there other levels of supervision and 22 discussion?

23 A I can't speak to that in an educated way. What I can speak to is that the 24 notification framework sought to instantiate expectations for this type of evaluation and

25 subsequent activity as it relates to election security.

Q Was the concern that not enough was being done for the implementation of this policy?

A I would characterize, perhaps uneven expectations across -- as we mentioned earlier, there are so many different agencies and, you know, thousands of people that participate in the intelligence community.

Q Uh-huh.

A This framework codifies the scale, scope, and expectation for sharing of information as it relates to election security.

Q If you recall, what individual or agency actually said, we really need to formalize this stuff and make a process?

A I don't know --

[redacted] I would just caution you to be careful about deliberative --

Ms. Pierson. I don't know that I have a recollection of any specific organization. And, certainly, it was sponsored by the National Security Council and the White House.

BY [redacted]

Q Okay.

What is the difference between a public notification and a non-public notification?

A So a public notification would be something like a press release or a podium statement. It's designed for broad public awareness and information. A non-public notification would be something specific that's narrow in scope and focused on an individual or organization.

Q And that would generally be just provided to that individual?

A Yes.

Q And not made public?

A And not made public.

1 Q How does ODNI determine if it's going to make a non-public or a public
2 announcement?
3 [redacted] I think that may assume a premise that Shelby will have to determine
4 if she's [inaudible] or not.
5 Ms. Pierson. Yeah.
6 One, ODNI is not the organization that determines a public or a non-public. It is 7 an interagency determination. And there are criteria outlined in the specific notification
8 framework that talks about the scale and scope of harm, the focus of the information that 9 we have.
10 So, through the deliberative process outlined in the notification framework, there 11 are a spectrum of evaluations that inform whether or not a public notification is 12 appropriate or a non-public notification is appropriate. And the interagency makes that 13 determination.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q Speaking specifically to American elections, can a notification or a defensive 16 briefing present a risk that the executive branch is interfering in an election by providing 17 these sort of notifications?
18 A I think there is -- again, I don't have the policy in front of me. I think it
19 speaks to a balancing act of the credibility of the information, the intention of the foreign 20 intelligence service as to what are the expected risks or benefits, like any government 21 decision, to proceed with a defensive briefing.
22 Q So let me direct your attention to column 2 of this overview, exhibit 4.
23 A Yes, sir.
24 Q The first bullet point reads, "Partisan politics shall not play a role in the 25 decision to provide notifications."

1 A Yes. I see it.

2 Q Why did ODNI, to your knowledge, feel compelled to articulate that principle

3 in this process?

4 A I don't believe that that's an ODNI statement. I believe that that is pulled

5 from the notification framework itself.

6 Q In your experience, why would the framework contain this principle?

7 A Certainly, election security, as a topic, is an inherently politically interesting

8 line of work. And so, given that politics by their very nature has this tenderness, that I

9 believe the interagency affirmed that, in this case, using the word "politics" is not an

10 underpinning role in the decision-making process.

11 Q So would you agree that, by articulating that principle, there is an underlying

12 concern that the notification process could, in fact, create partisan, political issues?

13 A I think it speaks to the fact that you have politically appointed officials

14 involved in this -- you know, Cabinet officials, for example. It affirms the expectation

15 that this is not a partisan activity.

16 Q Because if you're -- say, if you are, in fact, providing a notification germane

17 to an election -- I mean, generally there's two parties, right? Republican candidates,

18 Democratic candidates, typically.

19 A Uh-huh.

20 Q Presumptively, there is a concern that, say, a -- choose your party -- is in

21 power, in control of the executive branch; it provides a notification, and that could

22 conceivably have a political benefit to the opposition.

23 This would be an idea as to why you would want to have a principle of 24 nonpartisanship in the framework.

25 A Yes, I understand.

1 Q Is that fair to say?

2 A I think that's fair to say.

3 Q So there's a recognition there that this is a conceivable risk.

4 A I think it's understood that this is an underpinning of the election-security

5 topic.

6 Q Okay.

7 Directing your attention to the second bullet point in this document, column 2, it

8 reads, "Notification decisions shall not be intended to censor or chill political and social

9 discourse or other First Amendment-protected activities."

10 Again, in your experience, why would the framework include this principle?

11 A Again, as you stated a minute ago, there is -- in election security, as a line of 12 concern and work of the Federal Government, there are some, of course, very

13 longstanding principles to your first point that the intelligence community is a

14 nonpartisan organization and, of course, that nothing that the intelligence community

15 does should in any way affect constitutionally protected activity.

16 So, for me, these annotations are a reflection of long-held principles of not only

17 the intelligence community but the government.

18 Q Have there been instances where the intelligence community has failed to 19 abide these principles?

20 A Not any activities that I was associated with. Not to my knowledge.

21 Q Beyond your personal knowledge, in your expertise as an intelligence official,

22 are you aware of instances in which the intelligence community has failed to abide these

23 principles?

24 A Again, nothing comes to mind in this line of questioning.

25 Q As it relates to my line of questioning? Or -- because I'm asking broadly.

1 A Again, as I understand the question, has the intelligence community
2 undertaken activity to suppress social discourse or First Amendment-protected activities,
3 not to my knowledge.
4 Q To your knowledge, that's never happened?
5 A Not to my knowledge. I don't -- I mean, that's a very broad question, so
6 I'm -- I don't believe so, no.
7 Q Okay.
8 I am showing you what I will mark as exhibit 5.
9 [Pierson Exhibit No. 5
10 was marked for identification.]
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q And this is the "Framework for Notifications Regarding Foreign Interference 13 in United States Elections."
14 A Yep.
15 Q It's an 11-page document. I don't expect you to read through it all, but if 16 you can scan it and tell me if it looks familiar.
17 A Yep, it does look familiar. Yes, sir.
18 Q What is this document?
19 A This is, as I've referenced earlier in my remarks, is the actual policy 20 document that reflects the notification framework and the conditions and criteria and 21 responsibilities associated with it.
22 Q Now, the overview we just reviewed, was that a -- as you know, was that a
23 distillation of this document?
24 A Yes, sir.
25 Q Did you --

1 [redacted] Well, I think -- sorry. Just to jump in there, I think she indicated she 2 wasn't sure if this was an overview of this one or the subsequent version.
3 BY [redacted]
4 Q Is that currently your answer?
5 A Yes. To the extent -- I think the intention of the creation of the original
6 version of this document -- whichever version I'm looking at right here -- was a distillation
7 of the framework. I believe that what you've presented to me is the 2019 version of the 8 notification framework, and I believe it's been subsequently updated, if I'm not mistaken.
9 Q When was that subsequent update, if you know?
10 A I don't know the specific date. Perhaps in 2022 or so.
11 Q Do you know broadly what those updates may have been?
12 A I don't. I had left the election-security community at that time.
13 Q Let me just direct your attention to -- oh, incidentally, having reviewed this 14 document, did you in any way assist in its preparation?
15 A I was involved in the interagency process. So I would've been involved in 16 the coordination of the document through the normal interagency activities.
17 Q When you say "interagency activities," presumably the intelligence 18 community agencies, they all took a look at this document, gave opinions, edits, and 19 then --
20 A Yes.
21 Q -- all agreed?
22 A Yes.
23 Q How did they ultimately agree on this document?
24 A That would've --
25 [redacted] I would say we need to be careful about getting into

1 executive-branch-privileged material here.

2 Ms. Pierson. This is a result of the processes and procedures of the National

3 Security Council.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Okay.

6 Just directing your attention to the bottom of page 2, which leads into page 3, it

7 says, "Applicability," and then at subsection 2, "This Framework does not apply to, limit,

8 or otherwise affect:...." You see that?

9 A Yes, sir.

10 Q And then the next page, it says, "Notifications required by law or 11 implementing policy, including required notifications to the Congress."

12 What do you understand "notifications to the Congress" -- withdrawn. What do

13 you understand to be required by law?

14 A Again, I'm not an attorney, so please take my response as just my general

15 reflections and observations.

16 Q Of course.

17 A Of course, the executive branch, and particularly the intelligence

18 community, has intelligence oversight responsibilities where we are required to notify

19 Congress of a very broad spectrum of activities.

20 So I would believe that this -- the way I read this, excuse me, the framework does

21 not apply nor in any way affect those other practices by which we are expected to 22 routinely engage with Congress.

23 Q Fair enough.

24 I'll direct your attention to page 6. And we've sort of highlighted this issue a

25 moment ago, but I just want to talk about it again briefly.

1 "Guiding Principles." Subsection 2 reads, "Partisan political considerations shall 2 play no role in decisions to provide notifications. Notifications shall never be for the 3 purpose of conferring any advantage or disadvantage on any political or social group or 4 any individual or organization."
5 Do you see that?
6 A Yes, sir.
7 Q In your experience, how might a notification confer an advantage or 8 disadvantage?
9 A Hypothetically speaking, again, I think there is a very important point, that 10 when you're dealing with the sharing of information, that it is -- and, of course,
11 notification is that, of sharing information -- is not in any way to give one organization or 12 one person specific insights that would present a political advantage.
13 And so I think it's articulating an expectation that we're accountable to our 14 nonpartisan activities and intentions in all of these matters.
15 Q And one concern may be that, actually, the act of providing a notification
16 could in some ways be used to advantage or disadvantage, politically, one group or 17 another. Is that fair to say?
18 A I think what is on my mind when I think about notification is holding 19 ourselves accountable to: Did the intelligence community and the interagency share
20 information that -- through this process, through the factors, through this provision 21 outlined in this document, did we commit ourselves to sharing information to the 22 maximum extent and appropriate extent possible?
23 Q I appreciate that. And my question is, could it be the case that the act of 24 providing a notification could, in and of itself, provide a political advantage or 25 disadvantage to a political group or person?

1 A I don't think that was part of our deliberations. Or it is sort of a non- -- and,
2 I also believe, kind of a subjective perspective on these activities.
3 Q But you're not saying it could not potentially provide -- I mean, again,
4 because we're looking at -- there's a principle there, right, for a reason.
5 And so I'm simply asking, with your deep experience in this community, the act of 6 providing a notification could theoretically create an advantage or a disadvantage,
7 politically, to the person on the receiving end. Is that outside the realm of possibility?
8 A It's not outside of the realm of possibility, but I think it is important to note
9 that we are held accountable that the notifications do not do that. And that's, I think,
10 the premise and underpinning of all of our actions.
11 Q How are you held accountable?
12 A So I'm held accountable by my overseers and leadership, just like I would be 13 for all of my actions. So, if I'm operating in violation of a national policy, there's a 14 spectrum of administrative actions.
15 Q How might something like this, though, be brought to their attention?
16 Who would say, "Hey, you know, I've got a notification, and clearly this is a political hit 17 job"? How does that -- what would that look like?
18 A Hmm. I would anticipate that the recipient in the example that you just 19 shared would try to seek some recourse back to the interagency. I believe that that 20 would go through ODNI, as ODNI serves as the convening authority in this document, to 21 say, I think the activity that has been undertaken violates this policy.
22 Q So, if a U.S. Senator was to be on the receiving end of a defensive briefing,
23 he would be within his right to go to ODNI with a notifying agency and say, "Hey, this 24 notification was a pretext to disadvantage me politically"? That would be the 25 appropriate forum?

1 A I believe -- if you'll pause for just a second.

2 Q Sure.

3 A That's the -- I'm looking for the -- there's language in this document that

4 talks about both the principals group and the DNI. So I'm wanting to make sure that my

5 response is rooted in some of the expectations of this document, that it would be, I think,

6 a practical assumption that a U.S. Senator could raise this information to the DNI.

7 Q Fair enough.

8 I want to direct your attention to the next bullet point on page 6. And we briefly

9 touched on this.

10 "Notification decisions shall be intended to protect political or social discourse and

11 other activities protected by the First Amendment and shall not be intended to censor or

12 to chill such disclosure or activities."

13 How might a notification, in your experience, chill protected First Amendment

14 activity?

15 A There is a spectrum of intelligence reporting and collection about foreign

16 interest in a variety of U.S. political topics and issues. So I'll give a hypothetical example.

17 So, to the extent that we have reporting that the Chinese are wanting to sway

18 crop prices, something like that, or their exports or something -- and, again, all of my

19 remarks are notional -- and having a political effect on a certain State, part of the 20 deliberative process outlined in here is, the point is not in any way to stop

21 First-Amendment-protected activities and discussing stock prices or crop prices or things

22 like that.

23 So there's a cognizance that providing defensive briefings, if they're not specific

24 enough, if there's not a remedy that a specific organization can take, or there's an

25 openness about Chinese influence in this particular case, the merits or the benefits of

1 actually providing a defensive briefing are overshadowed by these risks, that we must
2 ensure that public and protected speech continues on this topic.
3 Q So a defensive briefing could chill First Amendment speech.
4 A I think, again, it is part of the deliberative process to be cognizant of that and
5 to avoid having a chilling effect on First-Amendment-protected speech.
6 Q But it remains that it could, in fact, have a chilling effect on First Amendment
7 speech. That's why you're having this discussion, right?
8 A Well, I think, again, if we're -- it is part of the principles and the factors that 9 we must take under consideration as required by the policy.
10 Q What is the Credibility Assessment Group?
11 A So the Credibility Assessment Group, as outlined in the policy -- and I think 12 there is very specific text about this that folks can look to.
13 As I mentioned, there's a tremendous amount of information. We talked earlier
14 about our confidence levels associated with the sources available to us. A critical part of 15 this framework rests on expert assessment by analysts across the intelligence community
16 as to the credibility of the information available to us.
17 And so the Credibility Assessment Group, as outlined on page 5 of the document
18 provided, is an organization that is pulled together by ODNI. And, as we mentioned
19 earlier, the National Intelligence Council, which performs these functions across a broad 20 swath of topics, reviews and assesses this information that has been determined to be 21 relevant to the notification framework.
22 Q And who is the representative from DNI who sits on that group?
23 A I believe it would be the National Intelligence Officer for Election Security, or 24 it would've been the National Intelligence Officer for Cyber at the time.
25 Q And when this group -- what are the mechanics -- I see the listing of the

1 intelligence community agencies who sit on the group, so we don't need to rehash that,
2 and I'm not asking you to read it to me. Must these agencies be in the CAG each time
3 they're vetting intelligence?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Okay. Good. So, when you say "yes," is it like a quorum? Every single 6 one of these agencies must be represented for the CAG to go forward?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Okay. And it's the same agencies each time?
9 A As required by the policy, yes.
10 Q In your experience, how often does the CAG meet?
11 A The CAG would meet aperiodically. Only when they had a notification 12 request through this framework would necessitate them coming together for this 13 purpose.
14 Q And given your position, your experience, just generally speaking, how often 15 might that have happened? Is it more often during an election year than not?
16 A I don't know that I could say that with any confidence.
17 Q Do the same personnel, by title, if you will, from each agency attend the CAG
18 meetings?
19 A Generally speaking, yes, but, of course, there is change of personnel over 20 periods of time. So I can imagine that those that serve on the CAG today are perhaps 21 not likely to be the people that served years ago.
22 Q Where does the CAG meet?
23 A Based upon my personal experience, they would either meet -- usually, ODNI
24 is a reasonable place to come together. Or, given the nature of our technology, we 25 would have video teleconferences where all of the different agencies connect from their

1 own locations. But if we did it in person, we would call people to ODNI. VTCs are easy
2 to do.
3 Q Okay.
4 How does foreign intelligence get in front of the CAG?
5 A So, as, again, outlined in the policy that we've been discussing, the 6 interagency can nominate intelligence to be reviewed by the CAG.
7 Q What does "the interagency" mean?
8 A So, in this specific circumstance, it would be any -- the parlance that I'm 9 using, so it's a term -- informal term --
10 Q Sure.
11 A -- as the way I'm using it -- would be members of the intelligence
12 community. So any member of the intelligence community can nominate -- and I
13 believe this is articulated in the policy that we've been talking about, but they might not 14 use the phrase "interagency."
15 Q Now, when you say "nominate," what -- let's call it the nominating agency.
16 Is that an accurate description?
17 A Yes.
18 Q So, say, CIA comes into intelligence. They could nominate that intelligence
19 for a CAG vetting. Is that safe to say?
20 A Yes. Uh-huh.
21 Q Is that, in fact, how it works?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Okay.
24 Now, is a nominating agency also referred to as the originating entity?
25 A No. The originating entity is the organization that produced the

1 intelligence.

2 Q So the agency that nominates the information does not necessarily have to

3 be the originating entity?

4 A No.

5 Q What does that look like?

6 A I think this is an important point --

7 Q Yes.

8 A -- that part of the benefit of this particular document was that, prior to this

9 document's creation, you would not have to rely on -- let's say, we'll use the National

10 Security Agency as an organization -- that they would not have to, in their own right, be

11 the one responsible for creating downgraded information and, under its own volition,

12 share this information. This allows any member of the intelligence community to 13 suggest intelligence be evaluated through this process, whether they produced it or not.

14 Q But this is where I'm getting confused. How would the CIA -- and, again,

15 I'm a lawyer, not an intelligence person, clearly. How would the CIA come into NSA

16 intelligence and then nominate it? So that's first. And then couldn't the NSA nominate

17 it themselves?

18 A Of course.

19 Q Okay.

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay.

22 A But it's not one and the same.

23 So, obviously, the intelligence community shares, in and among the agencies,

24 intelligence information. So, even as a member of NGA today, I routinely consume

25 HUMINT and SIGINT and all other kinds of intelligence information by which we create

1 the products that we're expected to for policymakers and, in my case, defense leadership.

2 CIA could consume information produced by another agency and nominate it --

3 Q And nominate it. So they can get your information and CIA can be the 4 nominating entity.

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And there's a record of this? Where do -- how is this documented?

7 A We certainly would keep documents of these discussions at ODNI.

8 Q So, if CIA nominates intelligence for the CAG that is in part or fully from NGA,

9 there's a record of where it -- start to finish, with ODNI. Is that fair to say?

10 [redacted] We're speaking as a hypothetical, right?

11 [redacted] Of course.

12 [redacted] Okay.

13 Ms. Pierson. Yeah, I think that's a practical characterization.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q So it would be incumbent upon CIA, as the nominating agency, to say, "Some 16 of this intelligence I'm nominating comes from another intelligence agency"?

17 A Yeah. And, of course, as a practical perspective, the nominating

18 organization would say, "Hey, look at this report," whether they attach it or there's a web

19 link or whatever, and we would know where it came from, of course.

20 Q Okay.

21 Now, will the nominating agency, in your experience, do anything to vet that

22 intelligence before it nominates it to the CAG?

23 A I think the word "vet" is not accurate. I think they're consuming it, but it's

24 not necessarily a formal process of scrutiny. I think they're consuming it and saying,

25 this, on its face value, seems to be within the realm of this particular process, and

1 therefore nominates it.

2 But I don't -- it is certainly not a requirement that they have done any deeper

3 evaluation of that reporting themselves, other than what we would normally do in the 4 course of any tradecraft-type assessments. That's part and parcel of what the analytic

5 community does.

6 Q So, meaning, if CIA received this intelligence from a sister intelligence

7 agency, they would use their own judgment, clearly, to say, okay, this is something we're

8 going to nominate, right?

9 A Yes. And, again, that's, I think, in and of itself, part of this deliberative

10 process.

11 Q Okay.

12 I'm going to direct your attention again to the framework, page 8, subsection 2.

13 Subsection 2 reads, "The CAG assessment shall include discussion of: The 14 credibility of the foreign [intelligence]-related information," correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q In your experience, what kind of consequences could materialize from 17 providing a notification based upon non-credible information?

18 A Can you elaborate on the question? I think I know what you're driving at

19 but welcome further -- is there, like, a specific --

20 Q I guess the question is, obviously, you -- I mean, it's sort of self-evident --

21 A Yeah.

22 Q -- the intelligence should be credible --

23 A Of course.

24 Q -- because you're making decisions based upon that intelligence. There's 25 other reasons it should be credible.

1 And I guess my question is, is one of those reasons that we could be providing a
2 notification based on information that's not credible that could have downstream effects
3 that we've seen in our experience and we need to be very zealous of ensuring that 4 doesn't happen?
5 A I think what's more germane to -- and I think this goes to 1 through 5, that 6 this articulates the elements of the assessment that the CAG must account for.
7 Q Uh-huh.
8 A So, "The CAG assessment shall include." So I think it's designed to ensure 9 that there is some consistency in CAG assessments, that they have covered the scale and 10 scope of information that's required by the policy.
11 So it speaks to a level of accountability that's expected of that analytic
12 organization, that they must run this information through these -- 13 Q Procedures?
14 A -- these procedures.
15 Q Let me ask you, is a decision to nominate solely left to the discretion of the 16 nominating agency?
17 A It's left to any agency, but yes.
18 Q Okay.
19 At the bottom of subsection 2, page 8, referring you back to this exhibit, it says,
20 "The CAG shall not recommend whether a notification should be provided or the form of 21 any notification."
22 A Yeah.
23 Q Do you see that, Ms. Pierson?
24 A Yes, I do.
25 Q Why?

1 A I think the expectation of the CAG is to assess the integrity and details of the 2 information and characterize that. And that's an analytic function.
3 The policy function on whether to take activity is made by the leadership of those
4 agencies. So it's a little bit different of an activity, and I would not expect the analytic
5 community to be making judgments about the subsequent policy action to be taken.
6 Q Because that's when you get into the concerns about political partisanship,
7 advantaging or disadvantaging someone?
8 A And they're just simply not analytic functions, right? So I think it's more a 9 function of leadership and accountability of leadership of those organizations than 10 anything that's sort of political.
11 I do think that the intelligence community holds the analytic cadre as, sort of,
12 having this unique, specific responsibility, and these other policy deliberations are left, as 13 I said, to this broader leadership.
14 Q To the politicians. The people appointed by Presidents of a certain party.
15 A And, again, I don't think that characterizing them as "politicians" is accurate.
16 I think it's a leadership function, not an analytic one.
17 Q Let me ask you: We have this these factors, but, practically, how does the 18 CAG determine whether the intelligence it's reviewing is credible?
19 What I mean by that: They go through the factors. Is there a vote taken?
20 A There -- we must acquire the inputs from all of the agencies. On 21 questions -- you know, credibility -- the word "credibility" is, in and of itself, not a 22 binary -- like, is it credible or is it not.
23 Q Uh-huh.
24 A However, I think we would be looking for consensus across the interagency
25 as to the assessment of that particular piece of intelligence.

1 You know, credibility, as I said, is, one, not a binary thing. It's also not -- it's 2 based upon a body of experience with our sources and is very much one of the 3 underpinnings of our analytic expertise in the U.S. intelligence community, in terms of 4 previous source performance, what's the credibility of the information. Like, in terms of 5 our accesses, was it acquired in a way that wasn't subject to foreign manipulation?
6 Things of that nature.
7 So it's certainly an analytic judgment, that, as we discussed the NIC paper
8 previously, the credibility of those sources then, in turn, speaks to our confidence in --
9 Q The information is credible?
10 A -- that the information's credible.
11 Q Because you're not going to send off incredible information for a 12 notification.
13 A No.
14 Q So everyone's heard, but -- so, again, procedure. Is there a quorum? I 15 mean, everyone from those agencies has to be there.
16 A Yeah.
17 Q I don't know; say, there are seven agencies. Five think the information is 18 worthwhile, credible; two think, no, I think that this is foreign --
19 A Yes.
20 Q -- misinformation. How does that get resolved?
21 A I would expect the CAG would document not only the consensus but the 22 dissent as well. This is a very important aspect of the intelligence community, that 23 dissent is brought forward --
24 Q Right.
25 A -- for all decisions. So I think it would be characterized that "the CAG

1 believed said information was credible but noted dissent based upon the following
2 factors from agency X or Y," or both of them, or what have you.
3 Q Okay.
4 With respect to the CAG, is there supervision at these meetings? I don't mean
5 that pejoratively. I mean, are these just the analytical experts, or is there, like, a senior
6 person?
7 A I would believe that the NIC officer would administratively run the meeting.
8 I don't think that there's any hierarchy to this discussion --
9 Q Okay.
10 A -- but to the extent that the NIO convenes the meeting, I would expect them
11 to ensure that all of this is met -- all these criteria are met and that we're operating in 12 alignment with what's expected of their assessment.
13 Q So we could have a documented dissent and then ultimately the CAG sends 14 this to the next level of --
15 A Yes.
16 Q -- the leadership, if you will.
17 Now, let me ask you, what is the experts group? I didn't see that here.
18 A I believe that the --
19 Q When I say "here," I meant exhibit 5. I just wanted to be clear for the 20 record.
21 A And, again, my understanding -- and, again, take this as my informal
22 recollection -- is, in the subsequent iteration, there is an articulation of an experts group,
23 to the notification framework.
24 Q Is that the principals group?
25 A I don't have the document in front of me. I believe -- if you'll give me just one second.

Q Of course.

Page 5.

A Yes. So I'm wanting to make sure that I get my language right.

I believe in the subsequent --

[redacted] Do you want to go off the record for a moment?

[redacted] Sure. We can go off the record. Sure.

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Back on the record.

BY [redacted]

Q Is there a difference between the experts group and the principals group, Ms. Pierson?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And, just briefly, what is the experts group?

A The members of the intelligence community have -- and I'm sure there is a definition captured in a policy document somewhere else, so please take this as my informal characterization.

The agencies have identified election security leads. In fact, that has been a longstanding expectation of the agencies, going back to DNI Coats' leadership on this topic, that the experts are the leads of those organizations.

And the principals group -- and I'm trying to make sure that my memory serves me correctly. It's the CAG, the expert group, and then the leaders group is how I think the current --

Q Okay.

A But, again, I don't have that in front of me.

1 Q And the expert group ultimately decides whether or not to provide a
2 defensive briefing or notification, correct?
3 A They make -- I think the phrase "ultimately decides" is not the most precise 4 language, because the principals can -- if there's dissent or disagreement, can step in in 5 their capacities as the final arbiters of whether to proceed with a notification.
6 Q So, presumptively, if the experts have a consensus on providing a
7 notification, that's the end of it.
8 A Yes. I still think we would speak with the principals of the respective 9 agencies in their responsibilities as Cabinet officials. And I believe if there was concern
10 about our recommendation, they would deliberate at that level.
11 Q And if there were not a concern, "We're going to provide this" --
12 A I think they would proceed.
13 Q -- then they would proceed?
14 A But the principals are witting of these activities as we proceed through these 15 processes.
16 Q Were notifications common? It seems like --
17 A I don't know that I can use that word in this case.
18 Q Okay. Okay.
19 I don't want to keep you here all night, so I'm going to run through some things
20 and I'm going to ask for some --
21 A Okay.
22 Q To the extent we can be brief in our answers.
23 Do you know Nikki Floris?
24 A I do.
25 Q Okay. Was she on the experts group with respect to the notification

1 process?

2 A Again, the expert group, as a characterization, didn't exist at that time when

3 we met together, but she was the election security lead for the FBI.

4 Q Okay. So, if the CAG in, say, August 2020 had credible information and it

5 went to the experts group, to your understanding, she was on the --

6 A To the group of people --

7 Q Right.

8 A -- who served in that function.

9 Q Okay.

10 A I don't know when she left --

11 Q Okay.

12 A -- her assignment.

13 Q Is it the same agencies that sit in the CAG that also are on the experts group,

14 or in the experts group?

15 A Yes.

16 [redacted] Are you asking about currently, or are you asking about --

17 [redacted] I'm going to ask specifically about 2020. We can make that real 18 easy.

19 Ms. Pierson. Yeah. And, again, the experts group didn't exist as a reality at that 20 time. And, as you see, it wasn't reflected in policy. But you did have election leads.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q Well, I'll represent to you that Ms. Floris, in talking about the defensive 23 briefing of August 2020 that concerns us, had indicated she sat on the experts group.

24 You can't speak to her testimony, but --

25 [redacted] Is there a question? Yeah.

1 [redacted] Well, I'm just flagging it for awareness.

2 Ms. Pierson. Sure. Okay.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q It's your understanding, though, she was involved in this process --

5 A Yes.

6 Q -- in 2020?

7 A Of course.

8 Q Okay.

9 When the CAG comes to a determination, I'm asking quite literally, how does that

10 information get to the experts? What is the vehicle? Secure transmission? Secure

11 email? Phone call? What is your understanding of how that information gets 12 conveyed?

13 A Based upon my personal experience, it would begin with a secure email and

14 then likely be followed up with an either in-person or VTC meeting.

15 Q Now, the FBI is the designated notification agency for domestic defensive

16 briefings. Is that a fair characterization?

17 A Yes, I believe that's outlined in the policy.

18 Q So the experts group says, we all agree, or not, or it goes to the principals

19 group, but in the end there's a decision to provide a U.S. person a defensive briefing.

20 A Uh-huh.

21 Q How, to your understanding, does that get to the FBI? In what capacity?

22 Is that a secure email as well?

23 A Yes.

24 Q From ODNI to the FBI, a secure transmission?

25 A To my recollection, yes.

1 Q Okay. And you're saying there may be some actual followup verbally?

2 A Yes. Absolutely.

3 Q Oh, so there will be some verbal followup after that?

4 A We simply just don't take CAG and just send it over to the FBI. It is

5 important to further deliberate.

6 I also think it's important to note that we must then go through a formal process

7 by which to have materials at the right classification level. Because they are, of course,

8 at compartmented -- different classification levels. That has processes associated with it

9 as well.

10 Q Okay. And would the ODNI prepare a script as it relates to that defensive

11 briefing?

12 A The intelligence community will coordinate on a script.

13 Q When you say the "intelligence community," would it be the CAG? The 14 experts group?

15 A So I think we would pull together the NIC and that core cadre of agencies to

16 create a document to be used in the defensive briefing. And that is an

17 interagency-coordinated document.

18 Q Back to this issue of transmitting information -- this may be a little granular,

19 but you may have the answer, so I'm going to ask. When ODNI sends that secure email

20 to the FBI -- I'm asking specifically about the FBI -- would it go to Ms. Floris, if she was on 21 the experts group and the designated officer with the FBI?

22 A And probably additional FBI officers.

23 Q Okay. So Ms. Floris and other FBI personnel who would be read in to this.

24 A Would be -- right. Yes.

25 Q Okay. And ODNI preserves those communications, correct?

1 A I can't speak to that.

2 Q Well, is it your understanding?

3 A I'm not familiar with what ODNI's record management responsibilities are.

4 Q Okay.

5 You said that there is communication between the notifying agency -- here, we

6 use the FBI. Is there a back-and-forth with respect to the substance of the intelligence

7 or the substance of the defensive briefing?

8 A Like any coordinated product -- and, again, an analytic product, this would

9 be no different than that -- I would expect a back-and-forth between the organizations.

10 Q Okay.

11 And, just lastly, the CAG's deliberations, the experts group -- there is a 12 documented record of all of this in each instance where there is a notification, correct?

13 A I believe this is largely held correspondence in emails and things of that 14 nature, yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

17 [redacted] Thank you.

18 Ms. Pierson. Thank you.

19 [Recess.]

20 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q Okay. Ms. Pierson, I want to return to the framework, but before we

23 actually look at the document itself: You were asked in an earlier round about the 24 process by which the framework was developed. And I understand that there's

25 deliberative concerns about that, but I'm hoping you can explain more broadly. You

1 referred to the interagency process. What is the interagency process, you know, just in
2 general?
3 A Yes. And, again, this is just my personal definition. I'm sure there's 4 something written down somewhere.
5 Traditionally, in the IC, when we refer to the "interagency," we refer to the 6 deliberative activities of the National Security Council, whereby issues of national-security
7 importance are discussed and policies and practices are developed.
8 This would be an example of a policy document that was generated through that 9 process, approved through that process, and is now followed as a policy within the 10 executive branch.
11 Q And it's called the "interagency" process, which suggests that there's more
12 than one agency involved, correct?
13 A Yes, of course.
14 Q And, in the case of this document, was that the case, that there were 15 multiple agencies involved in --
16 A Of course.
17 Q -- drafting it?
18 A Yes, of course.
19 Q And in approving it?
20 A Of course.
21 Q Are you able to provide any information about what agencies were involved?
22 A I think you'll get that back.
23 [redacted] We'll take that one back.
24 [redacted] Okay. That would be -- I'd appreciate that.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q And, ultimately, whatever agencies were involved, each agency has its own
2 internal process for clearing a document like this, correct?
3 A Absolutely.
4 Q And different agencies might have different procedures for that, correct?
5 A Sure.
6 Q And, in some instances, and perhaps in most instances, it would potentially 7 go up through several layers of chains of command, correct?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. So, for example, at the Department of Justice, it might go up to the 10 Deputy Attorney General level?
11 A Yeah -- yes.
12 Q And I'm just saying hypothetically. I'm not saying that DOJ was involved 13 in --
14 A Yes.
15 Q -- this. I'm just saying for example.
16 A Yes.
17 Q And that might include signoff from political officials, correct? In other 18 words --
19 A From people appointed.
20 Q -- from people who were politically appointed individuals?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Okay. And, in 2019, when this framework was approved, political 23 appointees at whatever agencies were involved would have been appointees of President
24 Trump, correct?
25 A Yes, ma'am.

1 Q Okay.

2 We talked through the framework overview at -- we talked through part of the

3 framework overview before. This is exhibit 4. I want to look at some other areas that

4 were not addressed in the first round.

5 Looking at the third paragraph on the first page, the overview explains that "public

6 exposure and attribution of foreign...influence and interference can render these

7 operations less effective."

8 Do you see where it says that?

9 A Yes, ma'am.

10 Q Can you explain how public exposure and attribution of foreign

11 election -- I'm sorry -- of, yeah, foreign election influence and interference can render the

12 operations less effective?

13 A As I said earlier, malign influence is often covert, clandestine, coercive,

14 subversive. So it has -- I think one of the phrases we've used previously -- has a bit of a 15 hidden hand associated with it.

16 And so acknowledging or sensitizing consumers -- in this example, the public -- to

17 raise awareness and cognizance as to the original nature of the information that they're

18 consuming can help affect its acceptance and/or use going forward, that it's designed to,

19 in some ways -- I think you're familiar with the phrase "sunlight is the best

20 disinfectant" -- that sort of opening up the aperture here can render these attempts

21 perhaps less effective, as people would say, "No, I now understand that that's being

22 sponsored by a foreign intelligence service. That was not clear to me previously."

23 Q Okay.

24 And, then, at the end of that third paragraph, the framework recognizes that

25 non-public notifications to targets of election interference, quote, "may also mitigate the

1 impacts of these operations by providing accurate and reliable information and by
2 enhancing resilience against future attempts."
3 Correct?
4 A Yes.
5 Q What is meant by the phrase "enhancing resilience"? Or what's your 6 understanding of the phrase "enhancing resilience," I should say?
7 A A phrase that comes to my mind is just, sort of -- we've used talking about 8 inoculation, that people will be more skeptical -- that now that a recipient understands 9 that they may be receiving information sponsored by a foreign intelligence service, that 10 they are more resilient against those attempts by having perhaps a jaundiced eye or 11 being more skeptical of that information.
12 Q And can you explain how non-public notifications can help to enhance 13 resilience in that way?
14 A Well, certainly, to the extent that it's -- a non-public notification is not just a 15 general announcement. It's a bilateral to the target and shares specific information to 16 them -- that that provides some focus. It provides a narrower direct communication.
17 So not just announcing it to the public and hoping that the target consumes it and 18 perceives themselves as potentially the subject of a foreign intelligence campaign; it
19 specifically is directed at that organization or entity or individual.
20 Q So, just to put this into, kind of, real-word terms, you say it's a bilateral 21 conversation. So it's a direct message, is that fair to say --
22 A Yes.
23 Q -- to the individual, the organization, the entity, whatever it is?
24 A Absolutely.
25 Q And the idea is that, once that entity becomes aware that they are the target

1 of a specific influence operation, that they will then be less susceptible to that operation.
2 Is that fair to say?
3 A I don't know that I would use the phrase "less susceptible." I would use the 4 phrase, perhaps, like, "buyer beware," that they should have some sort of awareness --
5 Q Got it.
6 A -- going forward.
7 Q Okay. Thank you.
8 A Yeah.
9 Q I now want to turn to the notification framework itself.
10 A Yes.
11 Q There was some discussion in the earlier hour about the -- actually, I want to 12 talk through the notification decision-making process, and I want to walk through the 13 framework to do that.
14 So, if you can turn to page 7, we're going to look at section F-1.
15 And so there was some discussion earlier about the phrase "nominating agency."
16 This framework doesn't use the term "nominating agency," correct?
17 A Yeah.
18 Q Okay. And it's not -- and if you want to quickly look through, the 19 "Definitions" section does not include a definition for a nominating agency, correct?
20 A Not in the document that I'm looking at. No, it does not.
21 Q Okay.
22 Under the framework itself -- sorry. Let me know when you're good to continue.
23 A Yes, I'm fine.
24 Q Under the framework itself, there's a couple different ways that the 25 framework allows for information to be brought to the CAG.

1 A Yes, ma'am.

2 Q F.1.a. provides that "when an originating [agency] identifies foreign

3 interference-related information that may support a notification, it shall refer that

4 information to the CAG." And it says "shall," correct?

5 A Uh-huh.

6 Q So, in other words, it's not discretionary; it's mandatory.

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay.

9 And, briefly, what is an originating agency? And I think it's defined in here.

10 A And, again, for the purposes of this particular document, the originating

11 agency is the organization that produced the intelligence information, or the information

12 originated from that particular element of the IC.

1 [3:30 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay. And when the originating entity becomes aware of something it's

4 required to produce -- becomes aware of information that may support a notification, it

5 has to provide that information to the CAG. It's not discretionary. So it should, if it's

6 aware of it, provide that information to the CAG?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. And then section 1.b. says that when any other department or

9 agency identifies foreign interference-related information from an originating entity that

10 may support a notification, it may refer that information to the CAG after consulting with 11 the originating entity.

12 Do you see where it says that?

13 A Yes, I do.

14 Q Okay. So the discussion earlier about a nominating agency, this is, I think,

15 where that kind of idea of other entities who become aware of information relaying that 16 to the CAG, correct?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And the language here is pretty specific. It doesn't just say that the other

19 department or agency may refer -- well, first it says may refer. It's not -- it's 20 discretionary, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q But it also says it can only do so after consulting with the originating entity,

23 correct?

24 A I'm looking for the word "consulting."

25 Q It's right above small letter c.

1 A Oh, I'm sorry. Yes.

2 Q So there was discussion earlier about whether the -- what we referred to as

3 the nominating agency -- again, that term isn't used here -- is required to vet the

4 information. And you said there's no specific requirement here that it vet the 5 information. But the agency is required to consult with the originating entity, correct?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And the originating entity having been the entity that developed the 8 information would have gone through its own processes to vet that information, correct?

9 A I don't know that I would use the word "process."

10 Q Okay.

11 A I think these are dynamic discussions. I think the intention here, based

12 upon my experience, is that an agency with interest in evaluating intelligence information

13 through the notificational framework wouldn't do so without telling the organization that

14 produced it, right? So I don't know that there should be even a nuance there that

15 somehow they have gone through some deliberative relationship together. It's more

16 agency A telling agency B, like, Hey, I saw your report on X, Y, and Z. I think it should go

17 through the notification framework.

18 Q Understood. My point is not -- and I understand what you're saying. My

19 point is that I'm just -- and it's hard to talk about this in the abstract, so I'm going to use

20 some hypothetical organizations.

21 A Of course.

22 Q If, for example, CIA is the originating entity.

23 A Yep.

24 Q And it's a product that's produced to NSA, and NSA sees it and raises it -- or

25 makes the CIA aware that they think it should be nominated to the CAG, presumably say

1 it's a report, that report has already gone through internally at CIA whatever process the
2 CIA has to ensure that the report is worthy to be released to the broader intelligence
3 community, correct?
4 A Of course, and then it goes through its expected internal processes, yes.
5 Q And if when NSA made the CIA aware that it was going to nominate the 6 information to the CAG, if CIA had some reason to think that, no, that's not appropriate
7 or we've now received new intelligence that calls this into question, or something like
8 that, the CIA could raise that to the attention of the NSA before it was nominated,
9 correct?
10 A They could.
11 Q Okay. So it's not just the nominating agency -- and, again, I don't love using 12 that term because it's not here.
13 A Yeah, yeah, yeah.
14 Q But just for ease of reference --
15 A Sure.
16 Q -- it's not just the nominating entity acting alone. There is a consultation
17 process built into the notification framework.
18 A And, again, I think consulting is sort of a broad term here. Whether that 19 means they said, I'm just giving you an FYI --
20 Q Yeah.
21 A -- all the way to, Do you think this is legit?
22 Q Right.
23 A I mean, so I don't know that that's in any way prescribed here, but that could 24 be a spectrum of engagement kind of implied in that word.
25 Q Understood.

1 A Yeah.

2 Q In any event, the underlying intelligence would have gone through whatever

3 internal processes the originating agency would go through with any intelligence product

4 that it produces?

5 A And, yet, as we talked about earlier in this interview, we have intelligence of

6 varying different qualities, varying different confidence levels. So there's a whole suite

7 of deliberations that occur between the organizations and internal to the organizations,

8 yeah.

9 Q Okay. And then F.1.c. provides that following the referral of foreign

10 interference-related information, ODNI shall promptly convene at the CAG and determine

11 the manner of the meeting. The CAG shall review the information and provide an 12 assessment within 8 hours.

13 A Yep.

14 Q You were asked in the earlier round of questioning how often the CAG met,

15 and you said it was kind of --

16 A Aperiodic.

17 Q -- aperiodic.

18 A Uh-huh.

19 Q In your experience, did the CAG convene within 8 hours as required by the 20 notification framework?

21 A That was my experience.

22 Q Okay. And I'm not asking you to put a precise number on it, although if you

23 can, that would be great. But do you have any idea in 2020 about how many times the 24 CAG would have convened? Is it more than 10, more than 20, more than 50?

25 [redacted] Can we take that one back? I'm just not 100 percent sure of the 1 classification level of that.

2 Ms. Pierson. Sure.

3 [redacted] So why don't we take that one back.

4 [redacted] Sure. That's fine.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Okay. In -- sorry. One more question on the within 8 hours reference

7 here.

8 Do you have an understanding of why the framework imposes this kind of very

9 tight deadline?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And what is your understanding?

12 A Of course, there -- and perhaps with all types of reporting -- there's a

13 temporal nature to the work that we do. And there's, of course, a temporal nature to

14 elections and the activities that foreign intelligence services sponsor. And given that the 15 notifications are designed to have a -- provide remedy to the affected influence

16 operations, acting with urgency is important.

17 As a good example, the public of disclosure that was outlined in the NIC document

18 you provided, whereby the Iranians sought to disseminate content to influence U.S.

19 voters, we knew that those emails were going to go out, so we needed to act urgently so

20 that the recipients of those emails would know that these were sponsored by the Iranian

21 intelligence services.

22 So there's a -- I think this is designed to put some healthy pressure on the 23 intelligence community to not simply intellectualize what's occurring, but to be able to 24 operationalize how we're going to handle it and best defend against election

25 interference.

1 Q We talked through section F.2., just the CAG assessment process, in some 2 detail earlier. But I want to return to a couple of the points that we talked through.
3 A Yes, ma'am.
4 Q Section 2.a.i. refers to the credibility -- so it says, "The CAG assessment shall 5 include a discussion of the credibility of the foreign information-related information."
6 A What page are you on?
7 Q It's page 8.
8 A Oh, I'm sorry.
9 Yes, ma'am.
10 Q 2.a.i. says that the CAG assessment shall include discussion of the credibility
11 of the foreign interference-related information.
12 Do you see where it says that?
13 A I do.
14 Q And in the earlier hour you talked through broadly trying to reach consensus
15 about the credibility. And I'm wondering, when you're looking at credibility in this 16 context, can you describe what you're looking for in this factor specifically?
17 A Yeah. I think it centers on a variety of factors as it relates to how the 18 information was collected. We have so many different paths by which information is 19 acquired by the intelligence community. Some of those are firsthand. Some of those 20 are secondhand. Some of those are technical collection capabilities. Others are 21 collected through other means.
22 So the credibility would be considered as it relates to the reliability of the source,
23 how reliable that source has been previously, is the information in alignment with other 24 types of reporting, is it corroborated by anything else.
25 So it's certainly an analytic assessment. And as we mentioned earlier, credibility,

1 of course, speaks to, frankly, the cornerstone of analytic craft within the intelligence
2 community, well beyond that of election security.
3 Q We talked through in two rounds ago low confidence, medium confidence,
4 high confidence.
5 A Uh-huh.
6 Q How does that play into these credibility questions?
7 A I think credibility and confidence are two separate things. So you can have
8 credible sources that you might not be totally confident in maybe their information -- I
9 think about human sources, for example, and I'm only speaking hypothetically. The 10 source is credible, but perhaps the way in which that agent obtained its information is 11 somehow concerning, so we have less confidence in the implications of that information,
12 did that person have firsthand knowledge.
13 So in the aggregate, when we look at individual sources, we're evaluating their 14 credibility, the confidence really speaks to the assessment. We assess with high 15 confidence that fill-in-the-blank. So you transition from looking at individual sources for 16 their credibility, and then the analytic judgment is underpinned by our confidence that's 17 based upon those individual assessments.
18 Q Understood.
19 Looking at the second factor listed here, "It's the IC consensus, if any, regarding 20 attribution of the foreign interference operation to a foreign government, a person acting 21 on its behalf, or an independent foreign non-state actor."
22 So in that factor, you're looking at the ability to attribute whatever the operation
23 is to some foreign entity, correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Why is that important here -- or why is that important to the CAG

1 assessment, I should say?

2 A Of course. As we have discussed, the most concerning information is that

3 which is as coercive, subversive, and that which is being sponsored by a foreign

4 government. That has one of -- of course, that's of particular interest to the U.S.

5 intelligence community and then, by extension, the government, that a foreign entity is

6 sponsoring this behavior. That's a much more troubling element as it relates to the 7 foreign intelligence service attempting to interfere in U.S. democratic activities. And

8 having that specific attribution is a key element as to whether we should act on it.

9 Q So, in other words, the CAG assessment specifically takes into account a

10 determination or, like I said, a best possible determination of whether the attribution is a

11 foreign entity as opposed to a domestic entity, correct?

12 A Oh, of course, yeah. That's part and parcel of the work that we do. I

13 think what this more specifically speaks to is providing clarity, if possible, on whether this

14 is a person who -- or an organization that's operating on behalf of a foreign government,

15 yeah, yeah.

16 Q Understood.

17 The third factor is the specificity of the operation and the degree to which the 18 operation has been or is being implemented, as opposed to being in the planning stages.

19 Can you explain what this means?

20 A Yeah. There's a broad base of information about foreign intelligence

21 interests in the United States writ large. That is routine. That is part and parcel of 22 what we're collecting against. It is important, particularly as it relates to notification or

23 proactively sharing information, as to whether we would characterize this as speculative,

24 internal discussions, looking at a range of options, or has it moved into a scale of

25 movement or planning or execution that, again, gives us insight into the prospect for

1 impact. And, again, some -- a country planning is a big difference than sort of eminence
2 of a campaign being launched.
3 Q And if a campaign is going to be launched very soon, presumably that would 4 up the urgency of the notification of the information?
5 A Of course, yeah.
6 Q Or if a campaign is already underway, that would up the urgency of a
7 notification. Fair to say?
8 A Yes.
9 Q The fourth factor here is the relationship between the operation and the 10 foreign entity's strategic objectives.
11 Can you explain what that means?
12 A Again, as I mentioned earlier, these are all criteria of elements that we want
13 to ensure the CAG covers in their feedback, which would include how a specific operation 14 is actually -- and ensuring the analysts walk through this key element is in line with their 15 strategic objectives, that -- how plausible is it that a said influence operation aligns with 16 their objectives. If it seems completely out of alignment, I think that would cause us to 17 be more skeptical, like, what does this actually do for that country? Why would they 18 undertake this? This does not seem in alignment with their national objectives.
19 So I think that's a key condition that's important to understand based against our 20 strategic understanding of a particular country's interests.
21 Q And then the final factor -- there's a catch-all factor, but the final 22 enumerated factor here is how the foreign entity may respond if a public notification is 23 provided.
24 Why is this something that the CAG would consider?
25 A I think it speaks to wanting to have the best judgment and information as to

1 the current analytic thinking about is this escalatory? That's a key term of art in the 2 analytic community. Would it potentially prompt a retaliatory action against the United
3 States? Would it have -- or be met with skepticism? And how does that factor into 4 further complicating our relationships with other countries.
5 Q So the factors that we just talked through are factors that the CAG
6 should -- is required to discuss in every situation where intelligence is brought to its 7 attention, correct?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the August 2020 defensive briefing provided to 10 Senators Grassley and Johnson?
11 A I am.
12 Q Without getting into the deliberative process, to the best of your 13 recollection, were all of these factors taken into account when the CAG rendered its 14 assessment of the intelligence that ultimately led to that defensive briefing?
15 A To the best of my recollection, we followed the policy.
16 Q Okay. And there was no deviation from what's written here? In other
17 words, if section 2.A. says, "The CAG assessment shall include discussion of," you followed
18 that mandate?
19 A To the best of my recollection.
20 Q And by "you," I mean the CAG.
21 A Yes.
22 Q I should clarify. Apologies for that.
23 Okay. There was some discussion earlier of the Experts Group. Were you a 24 part of that Experts Group?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And the Experts Group is responsible for determining whether notification is
2 appropriate, correct?
3 [redacted] Can I just jump in? I think she testified that the Experts Group --
4 Ms. Pierson. Did not exist.
5 [redacted] -- did not exist.
6 [redacted] Sorry. Correct.
7 Ms. Pierson. Was not that core function, but I understood your question, yes.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q But you were part of the decision-making body that ultimately determined
10 that a notification should be provided. Is that correct?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Okay. I want to turn to the notification factors that begin on page 6, and I
13 apologize for going through these in such kind of excruciating detail, but I think it's 14 important to make a pretty clean record here.
15 Section E is notification factors. And there's a list of factors here, seven factors
16 that should be considered when the decision-making body is determining whether a 17 notification is appropriate, right?
18 A Yes.
19 Q The first factor is the IC consensus -- meaning the Intelligence Community
20 consensus -- if any, regarding attribution of the operation to a foreign government, a 21 person acting on its behalf, or an independent nonstate actor.
22 A Yes.
23 Q And this is similar to the same factors that the CAD must discuss whenever it 24 is considering any referral, correct?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Okay. To the best of your knowledge, the best of your recollection, was
2 this factor taken into account when the decision-making body recommended that a
3 defensive briefing be given to Senators Grassley and Johnson?
4 [redacted] I think you can speak to process generally, but I wouldn't get into 5 anything deliberative.
6 Ms. Pierson. Yes. And, again, given that this was almost 4 years ago, generally
7 speaking, my response is we followed the processes indicated.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q Okay. And I'm actually not going to go through each one of these because I 10 think some of them are very similar.
11 A Okay.
12 Q But there are seven factors listed here?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And E -- section E says that the following factors shall be considered.
15 A Yes.
16 Q Meaning that it's a mandatory requirement, correct?
17 A Yes.
18 Q Sitting here today, to the best of your recollection, is that each one of these 19 notification factors was considered prior to issuing that decision, correct?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Okay. One moment.
22 I want to turn to the guiding principles that are section D. It's page 6, section D,
23 immediately above notification factors.
24 There are four guiding principles here, and we've talked through some of them in 25 detail. Can you explain the purpose of the guiding principles writ large? Why are they

1 included here?

2 A I think they certainly provide the contours of what should be sort of the

3 north star for all of the officers that are involved in the process and speak to -- and,

4 frankly, not only speak to, but affirm what I think underpins much of the intelligence

5 community's work; we do our work in service to the Nation. We are not serving based

6 on a political basis and that we are operating, of course, within the Constitution, and

7 we're making decisions in the interests of defending against foreign intelligence

8 interference.

9 So to me I think it sort of provides the tone and tenor of what's expected in the 10 subsequent policy and states quite plainly the expectations of what should shape our

11 decisionmaking going forward.

12 Q To the best of your recollection, again, thinking back to the 13 2020 -- August 2020 defensive notification provided to Senators Grassley and Johnson,

14 were these guiding principles taken into account as part of the decision-making process

15 about whether to provide that briefing?

16 [redacted] Again, you can speak generally to the process without getting into

17 deliberative.

18 Ms. Pierson. Generally speaking, I think these conditions underpinned all of our 19 activities related to that defensive briefing?

20 [Pierson Exhibit No. 6

21 was marked for identification.]

22 BY [redacted]

23 Q I want to introduce as -- I believe we're on exhibit 6, a letter from Senators

24 Grassley and Johnson to the FBI officials who delivered the briefing. The letter itself is

25 dated August 25, 2022. And I realize you might not have seen this before, so I'll give you

1 a minute to review it.

2 A Okay.

3 Q And I can tell you -- you can take a moment to read the whole thing -- we're

4 only going to look at the first paragraph on the first page, but take as long as you need.

5 A Okay. I'm generally familiar with this document based upon reading it right

6 now, yes.

7 Q Okay. On that first page, the second sentence of that first paragraph reads,

8 "As we have publicly and privately stated to you and Director Wray since that briefing, the

9 briefing was unnecessary and was only done because of pressure from our Democratic

10 colleagues, including Democratic leadership, to falsely attack our Biden investigation as

11 advancing Russian disinformation."

12 Do you see where it says that?

13 A I do.

14 Q Do you have a response to the allegation that the defensive briefing was

15 unnecessary and was only done because of pressure from Democratic leadership and

16 Democratic Senators to attack the Biden investigation that Senators Grassley and Johnson

17 were conducting?

18 A Based on my personal experience, I'm unaware of any pressure -- using the 19 words in this document -- pressure from Democratic colleagues to give this briefing.

20 And certainly as we went through the process as prescribed by policy, it was determined

21 by the interagency that the briefing was necessary. So I don't know that I can agree

22 with the characterization within that sentence as it's stated here.

23 Q And we talked earlier, the guiding principles -- the second guiding principle

24 listed in the framework is that partisan political considerations shall play no role in 25 decisions to provide notifications.

1 Did partisan political considerations play any role in the decision to provide this
2 particular defensive briefing notification?
3 A I can't, again, speak to the motivations of everyone involved in this, but I did
4 not witness any activity that I would consider as partisan in nature.
5 Q And was the purpose of the briefing to attack Senators Johnson and 6 Grassley's investigation in any way?
7 A Absolutely not.
8 Q And, again, without getting into classified information or into deliberative
9 information, what was the purpose of providing that defensive briefing?
10 [redacted] You can speak in general terms about what the purpose is without 11 getting into the specifics of what this particular briefing was about.
12 Ms. Pierson. As we talked earlier, the purpose of defensive briefings is to 13 improve resilience and to share information that might best inform potential targets of 14 foreign influence and share that information to best potentially defend against election
15 interference.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q And that's the purpose of every defensive briefing, correct?
18 A Those that are -- relate to this policy, yes.
19 Q Right. Okay. You can put that aside and move on.
20 In the earlier hour we -- in my earlier round of questioning, we talked through Key
21 Judgment 2 in the NIC assessment. And I want to return to that briefly and then 22 continue on with some -- continue along those lines.
23 We talked through the high confidence assessment made in Key Judgment 2 that
24 Russian President Putin authorized, and a range of Russian government organizations
25 conducted, influence operations aimed at denigrating President Biden's candidacy and

1 the Democratic Party, and supporting President Trump.

2 You recall us talking through that?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And at the bottom of that assessment -- I'm sorry -- the bottom of that

5 judgment, the last sentence there, it says, "A key element of Moscow's strategy this

6 election cycle was its use of proxies linked to Russian to push influence narratives,

7 including misleading or unsubstantiated allegations against President Biden, to U.S. media

8 organizations, U.S. officials, and prominent individuals, including some close to former

9 President Trump and his administration."

10 Do you see where it says that?

11 A Yes, I do.

12 [Pierson Exhibit No. 7

13 was marked for identification.]

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q Okay. I want to talk through some individuals who were sanctioned for 16 attempting to push influence narratives.

17 So I want to introduce as exhibit 7 a September 10, 2020, press release from the 18 Treasury Department entitled "Treasury Sanctions Russia-Linked Election Interference

19 Actors."

20 A Yes.

21 Q Are you familiar with this press release or with the sanctions writ large?

22 A Yes.

23 Q I'll give you a minute to review the press release if you would like.

24 A Yes, I'm familiar with this.

25 Q Okay. This press release is dated September 10, 2020. Steve Mnuchin

1 was Secretary of the Treasury in September of 2020, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And Secretary Mnuchin was appointed by President Trump, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q The press release notes that Treasury's Office of Foreign Assets Control, or

6 OFAC, imposed sanctions on an individual named Andrii Derkach for his efforts to 7 influence the 2020 U.S. presidential election, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Are you familiar with who Mr. Derkach is?

10 A Yes.

11 Q Who is he?

12 A Speaking at an unclassified level, he is -- and I know we have an unclassified

13 reference. He is a Ukrainian official with ties to the Russian government.

14 Q And according to the press release -- this is the second sentence of 15 this -- actually, I'm sorry -- the third sentence of the second -- I'll give you a minute to --

16 A Yeah, I'm okay.

17 Q The third sentence of the second paragraph of the press release says,

18 "Derkach has directly or indirectly engaged in, sponsored, concealed, or otherwise been 19 complicit in foreign interference in an attempt to undermine the upcoming 2020 U.S.

20 presidential election."

21 A Yes.

22 Q And at the bottom of the first page under the heading "Derkach's Election

23 Influence Efforts," the press release reads, "From at least late 2019 through mid-2020,

24 Derkach waged a covert influence campaign centered on cultivating false and

25 unsubstantiated narratives concerning U.S. officials in the upcoming 2020 presidential

1 election, spurring corruption investigations in both Ukraine and the United States
2 designed to culminate prior to election day."
3 Do you see where it says that?
4 A I do.
5 Q And then on the following page, the first full paragraph, it reads, "Between 6 May and July 2020, Derkach released edited audio tapes and other unsupported
7 information with the intent to discredit U.S. officials, and he levied unsubstantiated
8 allegation against U.S. and international political figures. Derkach almost certainly 9 targeted the U.S. voting populace, prominent U.S. persons, and members of the U.S.
10 Government."
11 Correct?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Okay. Is this consistent with your understanding of, again, broadly
14 speaking, intelligence community concerns with Mr. Derkach?
15 A Yes.
16 Q Can you explain why the conduct that Mr. Derkach is alleged to have 17 engaged in would have posed a threat to U.S. elections?
18 [redacted] If you're able to do so at the unclassified level, you can answer.
19 Ms. Pierson. As referenced both in our unclassified NIC assessment and earlier
20 in this press release, Derkach's release of materials and information that were particularly 21 aligned to Russian agendas and interest areas certainly would have been in line with our 22 characterization of foreign malign influence?
23 [redacted] Designed to impact the 2020 -- and his actions in particular were 24 designed to impact the 2020 presidential election.
25 Ms. Pierson. Yes.

1 [Pierson Exhibit No. 8

2 was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q I want introduce as exhibit 8 a January 11, 2021, Treasury Department press

5 released entitled "Treasury Takes Further Action Against Russian-Linked Actors."

6 Are you familiar with this?

7 A Generally speaking, I'm familiar with Treasury's activity during this time.

8 Q And do you want a minute to review the press release?

9 A Yes.

10 Q The press release is dated January 11, 2021. Steve Mnuchin was still 11 Secretary of the Treasury at that time, correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And, again, Secretary Mnuchin was appointed by President Trump, correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay. The press release notes that Andrii Derkach was previously

16 sanctioned and then indicates that OFAC is now imposing sanctions on four members of,

17 quote, Derkach's inner circle, correct?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And those individuals include Konstantin Kulyk, Oleksandr Onyshchenko,

20 Andrii Telizhenko, and Oleksandr Dubinsky, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And we'll get you the spelling on all of this.

23 I want to focus on Andriy Telizhenko in that list. Are you familiar with who Mr.

24 Telizhenko is?

25 A Again, this was a while ago, so I don't have a lot of specific recollections

1 about this individual actor.

2 Q Okay. I'm going to read from the press release again.

3 A Yes, ma'am.

4 Q With respect to Mr. Telizhenko, the press release notes on the second page

5 that Telizhenko, a former low-level Ukrainian diplomat, orchestrated meetings between

6 Derkach and U.S. persons to help propagate false claims concerning corruption in

7 Ukraine.

8 Do you see where it says that?

9 A I do.

10 Q And I note this is highlighted. This is not highlighted in the web page. I

11 don't think we're going to correct the record here, but just wanted to note that we did

12 that ourselves.

13 A Yes.

14 Q To the extent you have a recollection of the allegations against Mr.

15 Telizhenko, is that consistent with your recollection?

16 [redacted] To the extent you can answer at an unclassified level, go ahead.

17 Ms. Pierson. Again, I don't have, in my memory here, much specifics about our 18 work on Telizhenko specifically?

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Okay. But according to the press release -- and, again, this is an OFAC -- an 21 announcement of an OFAC sanctions designation, correct?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And actually -- I'm sorry. Let's take a step back.

24 Are you familiar with the process that OFAC goes through prior to imposing

25 sanctions?

1 A Very much so, yes.

2 Q Can you describe that process?

3 A The Department of Treasury, as underpinned by U.S. policy, has tools,

4 primarily through sanctions, available to it as punitive measures by which to underpin

5 U.S. policy. I believe as it relates to the Executive Order 13848, which covers foreign

6 malign influence, as these activities are illuminated by intelligence reporting and analysis,

7 then the Treasury Department can undertake an evaluation upon which Treasury can

8 identify assets and resources to execute sanctions in compliance with the executive

9 order.

10 Q And are you familiar with the standard that -- or I guess the confidence level,

11 if that's the right term, that intelligence must meet before sanctions can be imposed? In 12 other words, Treasury doesn't just impose sanctions on everybody, correct?

13 A They don't. But I'm not familiar with the internal thresholds by which 14 Treasury uses to proceed with sanctions or not.

15 Q Is it your understanding, though, that it is a very -- it's a serious process that 16 Treasury undertakes?

17 A I would assume so, yes.

18 Q In other words, it's not -- like I said, Treasury doesn't impose sanction on 19 everybody. It's a big deal when sanctions are imposed, for lack of a better word?

20 A Certainly. And that's a policy deliberation as well.

21 Q So, according to this press release, Treasury having followed that process

22 imposed sanctions on Mr. Telizhenko for orchestrating meetings between Andrii Derkach

23 and U.S. persons to help propagate false claims concerning corruption in Ukraine,

24 correct?

25 A Yes. And as reflected in the document, yes.

1 Q And we just talked through Mr. Derkach was waging a covert influence
2 campaign centered on cultivating false and unsubstantiated narratives concerning U.S.
3 officials in the upcoming 2020 presidential election, correct?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Okay. So, according to this press release, Telizhenko was serving as 6 something of a go-between between Mr. Derkach and U.S. persons, correct?
7 A Yes.
8 [Pierson Exhibit No. 9
9 was marked for identification.]
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q I want to introduce as exhibit 9 a Washington Post article dated October 28, 12 2019, entitled "Senator Johnson, ally of Trump and Ukraine, surfaces in crucial episodes in 13 the saga."
14 Are you familiar with this article? Have you seen it before?
15 A I don't know that I've seen it before, but I'm familiar with the Washington
16 Post and their line of reporting on some of these activities.
17 Q According to this article, quote, "Senator Ron Johnson met in 18 July" -- meaning July 2019 -- "with a former Ukrainian diplomat who has circulated
19 unproven claims that Ukrainian officials assisted Hillary Clinton's 2016 presidential 20 campaign, a previously unreported contact that underscores the GOP Senator's 21 involvement in the unfolding narrative that triggered the impeachment inquiry of 22 President Trump.
23 "In an interview last week, Andrii Telizhenko said that he met with Johnson 24 (Wisconsin) for at least 30 minutes on Capitol Hill and with Senate staff for 5 additional 25 hours."

1 Do you see where it says that?

2 A I do see where it says that.

3 Q So, according to this article, which is apparently based on an interview with

4 Mr. Telizhenko, in July 2019, Mr. Telizhenko met with Senator Johnson for some period of

5 time.

6 I'm just asking you for what it says on the face of the article.

7 A It says that, yes.

8 Q And, again, we talked through Mr. Telizhenko was later sanctioned by the 9 Treasury Department, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 [Pierson Exhibit No. 10

12 was marked for identification.]

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q And I want to introduce as exhibit 10 a February 24, 2020, letter from

15 Senator Johnson, who was at that time the chairman of the Senate Homeland Security

16 and Governmental Affairs Committee, or HSGAC, to HSGAC Ranking Member Gary Peters.

17 And I'll give you a minute to review this if you like.

18 And I'm only going to talk about the first paragraph here.

19 A Okay.

20 Q So, according to the very first sentence of this letter, Senator Johnson was

21 writing to Senator Peters to notify him of, quote, my intent to issue a subpoena for

22 attendance and the production of records to Andrii Telizhenko.

23 Do you see where it says that?

24 A I do.

25 Q So as of February 24, 2020, Senator Johnson was intending to obtain information from Mr. Telizhenko, correct?

[redacted] Are you asking her to speculate on what Mr. Johnson or --

BY [redacted]

Q Well, I'm just saying, on the face of the letter, Senator Johnson was expressing in this letter his intent to obtain information from Andrii Telizhenko, correct?

A Again, these activities are so beyond the scope of anything that I had anything to do with. Other than you asking you me to affirm what I'm reading on a page, I really don't have a basis by which to comment on any of this.

Q Okay. I understand.

I'm just saying, we just talked through Andrii Telizhenko and what he was ultimately sanctioned for. I've introduced an exhibit, and it just says on the plain language of the language -- of the plain language of that first paragraph, Senator Johnson is expressing his intent to issue a subpoena to Andrii Telizhenko.

You see that he says that --

A Yes.

Q -- in so many words? Okay.

[redacted] All right. Thank you. We can go off the record.

[Discussion off the record.]

[redacted] Can we go on the record, please.

BY [redacted]

Q Ms. Pierson, do you recall the briefing you provided to the House Intelligence Committee on February 13, 2020?

A Yes.

Q I would like to take a step back first before we get to the briefing.

Do you recall who first requested that briefing?

1 A I would have to refer to ODNI Leg Affairs as to how that request came about.
2 Q Can you walk me through the steps for a briefing like this, like what goes into
3 the process before someone in your position gets ready to brief someone in a 4 congressional committee?
5 A Sure. Again, as we've discussed earlier, providing information to the 6 Intelligence Oversight Committees is a very important element of our responsibilities in 7 the Intelligence Community. During that time we had a pace of engagement with the 8 Hill to make sure that Members of Congress were familiar with our Intelligence Analysis
9 Division as it related to elections and foreign malign influence.
10 Again, I defer to ODNI Leg Affairs on the specifics of the requests. We had 11 provided -- had been in the practice of providing scripted briefings to both the House and 12 the Senate at periodic intervals to ensure that Congress was informed of our reporting
13 during that time.
14 Q Do you recall who decided that you'd be the one to deliver this specific
15 briefing?
16 A I don't know that I can speak to that in any specificity. I think as I -- we 17 were on the Hill as several agencies together. The election security leads from each 18 agency were participating.
19 Q From the end of the 2018 election cycle up until February 13, 2020, do you
20 recall approximately how many briefings you provided to the Hill?
21 A I would have to defer to Leg Affairs on that.
22 Q In the preparation for the February 13, 2020, briefing in particular, which 23 agencies were involved in the preparation for that briefing?
24 A All of our briefing materials would have been representative of a
25 coordinated document. To the best of my recollection, that would have included CIA,

1 NSA, ODNI, DHS, and FBI. It could have been coordinated more broadly. As I
2 mentioned earlier, the Department of Defense, Treasury periodically would coordinate on 3 interagency documents, but I can't speak to the specifics of this particular briefing.
4 Q A couple of responses earlier you referenced scripted briefings. Was this
5 particular briefing scripted?
6 A Yes, of course.
7 Q Not necessarily in relation to the February 13th briefing, but while you were
8 at ODNI, would you have the ability to go back and reference previous scripts?
9 A You mean during the briefing or in preparation?
10 Q No. I just mean -- yeah, in preparation.
11 A Of course.
12 Q Do you recall at a high level what the topic of this briefing was?
13 [redacted] Do you know what the classification level of that briefing was?
14 Ms. Pierson. I don't.
15 [redacted] I apologize. We weren't informed that this was going to be within 16 the scope of what we were going to be talking about, so we did no preparation on this
17 topic.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Okay. At a high level, are you familiar with some of the news reporting that 20 followed your briefing?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Independent of this particular briefing, but when a script is prepared in 23 advance of briefing a congressional committee, is it the same interagency process as far 24 as providing an opportunity for each agency to weigh in and see the script before?
25 A Absolutely.

1 Q Was there anything in the preparation for the February 13, 2020, briefing
2 that did not follow the typical protocol used?
3 [redacted] I would say that probably calls for deliberative information, so we can
4 take that one back if you need an answer. But I would ask her not to get into it here.
5 [redacted] Are you instructing the answer regarding specifics or even just 6 generally if protocols are followed?
7 [redacted] To the extent you're able to answer just a general process level.
8 Ms. Pierson. We used our general expected processes to develop the content of 9 that briefing.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Who from the government attended that briefing?
12 A Again, I would defer to Leg Affairs for the roster of who was there, but I was 13 joined by, I think, all of my other interagency colleagues.
14 Q And would that in most cases, independent of this briefing, typically be the 15 election leads?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Do you recall how many members attended?
18 A I don't.
19 Q Do you recall how long the briefing lasted?
20 A Maybe a couple of hours.
21 Q Again, independent of this particular briefing, most commonly when a
22 scripted briefing is provided, how many speakers are there typically? Is there one 23 individual who is selected to deliver the briefing?
24 A I think we sought to provide a strategic characterization of, I'll say, the state
25 of election security reporting. Individual agencies may provide more specific remarks on

1 their specific reporting where they had perhaps deeper expertise and then go to question
2 and answers from the members.
3 Q Independent of the February 13, 2020, briefing, what is the standard
4 protocol as far as addressing questions from members in one of these briefings?
5 Obviously, the script is prepared in advance?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And now you're facing questions, and maybe you anticipate you are. What 8 is the protocol?
9 A Of course, to answer those questions to the best of our ability and perhaps
10 take an RFI or if there was a need for further follow-up if we didn't have the information
11 available. And, again, I think Legislative Affairs can speak to standard protocol, but 12 certainly welcoming questions from Members of Congress.
13 Q For the February 13, 2020, briefing, who provided the scripted briefing?
14 [redacted] I wouldn't get into names.
15 Ms. Pierson. I believe I provided the sort of opening strategic community 16 assessment, and I can't recall if there were some other specific remarks made by my 17 other agency colleagues?
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Do you recall if there were questions from Members of Congress during this 20 briefing?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Do you recall the types of questions or the topics of the questions asked by 23 the Republican members?
24 A Generally speaking, Republican members wanted additional details on our 25 characterizations or analytic assessments of Russia's interests, our characterizations of

1 Russia's interests related to either candidate Biden or President Trump, and generally
2 wanted, I think, more information about our characterization of the country's interest in 3 election security activities.
4 Q And do you recall what topics the Democratic members asked about?
5 A Similarly, I think the Democrats were equally interested in the analytic
6 assessments of Russian activity and Russian interests as it related to candidate Biden and 7 then President Trump. So I recall it being sort of equally dynamic at that time, in terms
8 of questioning.
9 Q Do you recall who from the government was answering the questions?
10 A I think it was a spectrum of colleagues, including myself, of course.
11 Q Do you recall what percentage of the -- roughly what percentage of the 12 questions you answered?
13 A I don't know that I can say that with confidence at the time, but I know I was,
14 of course, participating in the Q&A with the Members, of course.
15 Q Were there questions regarding whether Russia's attempts to interfere in 16 the 2020 election favored one candidate over another?
17 [redacted] I don't think we've acknowledged openly the topic of this particular
18 briefing, so I'm going to ask her not to answer that, and we can take that back if you want
19 to, but I don't think I'm going to have her confirm or deny specifics about this briefing in 20 this setting.
21 [redacted] Okay. We'll ask you to take that back, and we'll be going through 22 these questions. We, of course, appreciate that you're here voluntarily and ask that you
23 answer questions unless your counsel instructs you not to answer.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q Independent of this briefing, at the end of a briefing to a congressional

1 committee, what's the protocol as far as who you would brief or share back at ODNI
2 regarding questions from Members of Congress?
3 A I believe that the head of Legislative Affairs would take the responsibility to 4 sort of summarize and characterize just with any briefing, not just election security. And
5 whether they provided that summary verbally or in text to ODNI leadership, again, I
6 would defer to Leg Affairs as to what's their expected protocol. But I would believe that 7 Legislative Affairs would take that leadership role. And if there were follow-on 8 questions, of course, any of us that participated in a briefing were available to discuss or 9 field any questions.
10 Q Do you recall if there were any follow-on questions following the 11 February 13, 2020, briefing?
12 A I think we had several discussions within ODNI about that briefing.
13 Q Do you recall who those discussions were with at ODNI?
14 A Certainly across the ODNI leadership team.
15 Q And what were those discussions about?
16 [redacted] We're -- that's going to get into deliberative, so I'm going to ask her 17 not to answer that one in this setting.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Were you working with -- or let me rephrase that.
20 Did you have any discussions with Mr. Maguire following the February 13, 2020,
21 briefing?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And what was the topic of those discussions?
24 [redacted] I think that also is probably going to get into deliberative.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q Did you have any discussions with his deputy, Andrew Hallman, following the
2 February 13, 2020, briefing?
3 A Yes.
4 Q How soon after the February 13, 2020, briefing did you have these
5 discussions with Mr. Maguire and Mr. Hallman?
6 A As my memory serves me, after the briefing I was on personal leave to visit
7 my father in California. So I was not in Washington for a few days after the briefing, so I
8 don't believe I had any meaningful discussions with colleagues at ODNI until I returned to 9 town several days later.
10 Q Once you returned to town, did these discussions take place in person?
11 A Yes.
12 Q How else did these discussions take place? Were there telephone calls,
13 video conferences?
14 A Again, I can't speak with any specificity. I would assume we would use all 15 communication available to us, but I would think we would have discussed these in 16 person.
17 [redacted] Is that your recollection --
18 Ms. Pierson. Yes.
19 [redacted] -- or are you speculating?
20 Ms. Pierson. That's my recollection.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Do you recall how many people from ODNI were participating in these 23 in-person discussions after the briefing?
24 A I think it varied.
25 Q Okay. Do you have a rough estimate of --

1 A It could be anywhere from with Mr. Maguire or Mr. Hallman one-on-one, or 2 it could have included Leg Affairs personnel or other members of the ODNI leadership
3 team.
4 Q Do you recall having any one-on-one discussions with Mr. Maguire?
5 A I did meet with him after the briefing, yes.
6 Q And do you recall how soon after the briefing that meeting occurred?
7 A Again, probably several days after I had returned back to town.
8 Q And do you remember what was discussed?
9 [redacted] I think that's going to call for deliberative as well.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Did you have a one-on-one meeting with Mr. Hallman?
12 A I believe so, yes.
13 Q And similar timeline as with respect to Mr. Maguire?
14 A Yes.
15 Q Just very briefly, can you walk me through, in the hierarchy of ODNI, you're 16 the Election Threats Executive at this point?
17 A Yes.
18 Q How many people are between you and Mr. Maguire and Mr. Hallman, his 19 deputy?
20 A Relative to, like, chain in command?
21 Q Yes.
22 A One, two.
23 Q And who would those two be?
24 A It would be the Director of Mission Integration and then Mr. Hallman.
25 Q Do you recall how many meetings you had to participate in after the

1 February 13, 2020, briefing related to it?

2 A I can't say with any specificity.

3 Q Did you have to attend more meetings, fewer meetings than compared to 4 your other experiences briefing congressional committees?

5 A Again, I don't know that I can characterize it that way.

6 Q Do you recall when you first learned about news media coverage regarding

7 the February 13, 2020, briefing?

8 A I can't say with any specificity, but I'm aware that it was picked up in the 9 press, yes.

10 Q Do you recall if your one-on-one meetings with Mr. Maguire and Mr.

11 Hallman occurred before or after some of the news media coverage?

12 A I can't say with any specificity.

13 Q Are you aware whether President Trump spoke with Mr. Maguire following

14 the February 13, 2020, briefing?

15 A I don't know.

16 Q Did he ever communicate that to you?

17 A I don't believe so.

18 Q When did you first learn that the President was considering naming Richard 19 Grenell as Acting Director of National Intelligence?

20 A I think when the public found out. It would have been a few -- I don't know

21 how long it was after Mr. Maguire departed, days, weeks, that Mr. Grenell came to ODNI.

22 I don't think I had any unique insight into that.

1 [4:31 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Okay.

4 A -- as others would have found out.

5 Q With the other election leads who were in the briefing, did you have any of 6 these follow-on discussions with them after the February 13, 2020 briefing?

7 A We certainly would have continued our work together and probably

8 informally discussed the briefing, but I can't think of anything specific or a pointed

9 meeting or a very specific session.

10 Q Are you aware of news media coverage that reported that, in the briefing,

11 those from the government had overstated the intelligence community's formal

12 assessment of Russian interference in the 2020 Election?

13 A Could you state the question one more time?

14 Q Sure. Are you familiar with the news coverage reporting that, in the 15 briefing, members from the intelligence agencies had overstated the intelligence

16 community's formal assessment of Russian interference in the 2020 Election?

17 [redacted] So, just to clarify, you're just asking if she's familiar with reporting

18 about that?

19 [redacted] Yes.

20 [redacted] Okay.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q I'm not saying -- asking you what was in the briefing, but just the reporting

23 that claims that this is what occurred.

24 A Yes. I'm generally familiar with some of the media reporting after that

25 briefing.

1 Q Okay. Do you think that media reporting is accurate?

2 A Generally, no, I do not.

3 Q Why not?

4 A I think the briefing that we delivered was an interagency-coordinated

5 document and represented the current intelligence assessment at the time.

6 So when I think about the overstate -- the word "overstating," I think that doesn't

7 seem to accurately characterize what I thought was our best characterization of the 8 information we had available at the time.

9 Q Were you aware at the time -- in the days following the briefing -- of news

10 reports citing national security officials who were informing the news organizations that,

11 in their view, the briefing did overstate the intelligence community's formal assessment

12 of Russian interference in the 2020 Election?

13 A I'm not familiar with those reports.

14 Q Okay. In the days following the briefing, did any national security officials

15 reach out to you to share their assessment that the briefing overstated the intelligence

16 community's formal assessment of Russian interference in the 2020 Election?

17 A Again, I do think it's important to note that we gave the exact same briefing

18 almost a month prior to the Senate without the same concern. So I'm not -- I cannot 19 recollect a specific engagement characterized in the way that you just shared it with me.

20 Q What about more generally?

21 A I think, generally speaking, when we reflected back on the subsequent

22 period of time, I think we were reflecting back how this particular briefing was received in

23 such a dramatic way, and I believe that we had informal discussions about that.

24 Q Who participated in those informal discussions?

25 A Again, I think just generally speaking, those of us who worked election

1 security.

2 Q And just so -- as a clarifying question, you mentioned that the February 13th

3 briefing was received in such a dramatic way. What did you mean by that?

4 A I think there were certainly lots of clarifying questions, lots of specific

5 focused areas of interest, and subsequent concerns about the characterization of our

6 work or assessment on Russia.

7 Q Were there any formal discussions among the interagency about how the 8 February 13th briefing was received?

9 A Can you --

10 [redacted] To the extent you can answer but without getting into deliberative.

11 Ms. Pierson. And I don't know the word "formal" in this context. But, again, I

12 think generally speaking, we had discussions across election leads after the briefing.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q By "formal," I was just trying to contrast with your answer earlier about 15 informal discussions --

16 A Right.

17 Q -- that generally were taking place.

18 A I can't recall.

19 Q When preparing a briefing about intelligence, regarding whether a foreign

20 adversary is trying to favor one candidate in the election, in the evaluation process, is

21 there consideration given to whether sharing that type of intelligence could be politically

22 advantageous or disadvantageous to one of the political parties?

23 A In this circumstance, providing a classified briefing to oversight, which would

24 include both parties, I don't think that would have been something that's part of that

25 development of that document, no.

1 Q When preparing a script for a briefing of a congressional committee like the
2 one on February 13th, does there have to be consensus among the interagency, or what's
3 the threshold before something is included in the script?
4 A So, again, traditionally, the National Intelligence Council would take the lead
5 on drafting kind of the rough outline or contours of what we know to be our current
6 assessment.
7 Very similarly to what we discussed about our analytic processes, of course, we 8 generally strive to not only have high confidence but also consensus on how we 9 characterize our assessments. And I would believe it would be very important to also 10 note a dissenting perspective, particularly when communicating with oversight.
11 Q Okay. Do you recall at the February 13th briefing if there were any 12 dissenting views that were included?
13 [redacted] I'm going to ask you not to answer that in this setting.
14 Ms. Pierson. Yeah.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q Were you involved in the 2016 intelligence community assessment regarding 17 whether Russia was attempting to interfere to benefit then-candidate Trump?
18 A I had very little involvement with that document. I had started as the 19 National Intelligence Manager for Russia in October of 2016, and there -- much of that 20 work had already been started by others in the intelligence community. So as that was 21 delivered, I believe, in the winter timeframe, I had very little to do with that document.
22 Q In the first hour, we had talked about the interagency meetings and process
23 and having the election leads from the various agencies get together.
24 For those standing meetings, is there just an informal name, or is there a standard
25 practice of when they would meet?

1 A Can you state that -- the first part again, please?

2 Q Sure. So just when we were at a high-level discussion in the first hour, you

3 mentioned that from DHS, it would be I&A and CISA --

4 A Yeah.

5 Q FBI would be FITF.

6 Just at a very high level, what -- was there a working group? Was there -- what

7 sort of standing meetings were there?

8 A I think there's a distinction between what I -- again, from my parlance, the 9 interagency would traditionally refer to meetings at the NSC and under that kind of 10 rubric.

11 As we discussed much earlier in our time together, the intelligence community

12 would get together. I don't know if we called it the election security group, or there was

13 some name for it where we would get together. That's very common across all of the 14 intel topics and regions that we work at ODNI. Whether they call it an interagency

15 working group or whatever, the name escapes me right now. But we certainly would 16 maintain a regular cadence of meetings.

17 Q Okay. So there's one set of standing meetings led by the NSC, and then

18 there's one -- is there one agency that leads that second group?

19 A Yeah. ODNI, I think --

20 Q ODNI?

21 A -- because of its integration function and mission usually has a -- performs a

22 gathering function in these regards.

23 Q Was the NSC aware of the ODNI-led standing meetings?

24 A I don't know that I can speak to what members of the NSC -- but I think they

25 were very familiar with the scale and scope of the intelligence community posture.

1 Q You mentioned election security became a more significant issue
2 post-2016 --
3 A Yes.
4 Q -- Election.
5 Do you recall when the ODNI-led election security working group meetings
6 started?
7 A Generally speaking, it certainly would have been in the run-up to 2018, but I
8 don't know how early -- how many months prior to that we all -- we started in that 9 cadence.
10 Q Was there any sort of framework or policy documents drafted as it related to 11 the ODNI-led meetings, or was it a more organic gathering of the election leads together?
12 A I think we would have meeting announcements and agendas and, if 13 appropriate, would perhaps summarize any actions or discussion points. And, to my 14 recollection, that would be consistent with how any of my integration colleagues handle
15 their portfolios.
16 Q In the election security context, are there any other interagency standing 17 meetings that come to mind besides the NSC-led one and the ODNI-led one?
18 A Not to my recollection. Those were really sort of the centers of gravity,
19 again, if I can use that phrase. And, again, as you know, the interagency is a very 20 dynamic place.
21 So, speaking for ODNI, it was -- certainly the meetings that we pulled together
22 would be the lion's share of the venue in which we would discuss those issues. The NSC
23 has a whole spectrum of other meetings that they host in addition to the election
24 meetings.
25 Q Did you ever hear or come across anyone within the interagency referring to one of the standing meetings as the shadow meetings as related to election security?

A That's not a phrase I'm familiar with.

Q As part of either the NSC standing meetings or the ODNI-led ones, was there ever an internal document prepared that outlined the roles and responsibilities for each agency with respect to election security?

[redacted] What do you mean by "internal document"?

[redacted] Just, like, a policy document or a guidance document.

Ms. Pierson. DNI Coats had corresponded with his agency peers an expectation that election security would be a priority for the community and that the agencies needed to identify leads for the topic. That's probably as close to what comes to mind as a document that messaged to the community sort of expectations. But, to my recollection, I don't know that it has anything more specific than that.

BY [redacted]

Q In the, let's just say, 2016 to 2021 timeframe -- understanding that the election security issue evolved quite a bit during that time -- as the agencies are sorting out and understanding their roles and responsibilities in this space, do you recall there being any friction of certain agencies pushing back because they viewed some of the other agencies' efforts as either duplicative or overlapping with what their primary mission was?

A The -- I think you characterized the climate accurately and that it's sort of developing and the -- particularly since this was sort of a new -- I don't want to say new line of effort, but new focus area -- having healthy discussions about kind of how we're going to handle things would be par for the course.

Whether I would characterize that as tension, I don't think that's the word that I would use. I would characterize that FBI and DHS -- they do have intersecting missions,

1 and so I do think there were engagements between those two agencies about how 2 best -- particularly as it related to infrastructure, what's the best way for each of those 3 agencies to bring their best expertise to bear and how do they make sure that they're 4 responding to any issues efficiently?
5 But, again, I don't know that I would characterize that as tension, but more kind of 6 navigating this intersection between their respective organizations' missions.
7 Q For these discussions between FBI and DHS as they were trying to sort things
8 out, with respect to infrastructure, do you recall the perspective of FBI and the 9 perspective of DHS?
10 A Generally speaking, CISA had very strong relationships with State and local 11 election officials and, because of DHS' mission, I think they had a very comprehensive 12 network of partner organizations. CISA's leadership role in sort of maintaining those 13 positive relationships was important.
14 FBI has considerable technical forensic expertise as it related to cyber intrusions.
15 And so I think there was discussion about how best to address -- and I'm going to use my 16 parlance -- the front-end relationship of maintaining a defensive posture, maintaining 17 good cyber hygiene, and -- which is a different capability than a technical faculty by which 18 to understand threats to infrastructure. And so I believe DHS and FBI needed to further 19 flesh out, you know, when does one turn into the other or vice-versa?
20 My perspective is that this was a quite expected development and, I think,
21 practically shook out -- again, I know I'm using informal parlance -- over time.
22 Particularly as things unfolded, you would just have to work it out, so to speak. But I do
23 believe that, again, that's a good example of two organizations kind of fleshing out the 24 most effective way to operate.
25 Q Turning back to the two election security-related standing meetings, were

1 there any advantages to having the ODNI-led one that did not include NSC?

2 A I think it's important because the intelligence community does its work

3 independent of the policy community. And so I think it's -- they are very differently

4 focused engagements.

5 The ODNI is responsible for ensuring intelligence integration. The NSC is working

6 on developing policy. Of course, policy should be informed by intelligence where

7 appropriate, and, of course, the intelligence community doesn't make policy. So I think I

8 see those as sort of parallel venues, but they are certainly not one and the same.

9 Q Do you recall any meetings in 2020 -- any of the ODNI-led meetings -- if there

10 was any discussion regarding frustrations of the policy that was being delivered from in 11 the NSC-led meetings?

12 [redacted] That sounds like it calls for deliberative.

13 Ms. Pierson. Can you restate the question? Are there concerns about --

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q Sure. Yeah. Just building off of your prior response --

16 A Yeah.

17 Q -- as far as the kind of primary purpose of NSC --

18 A Yeah.

19 Q -- and therefore, I imagine the NSC-led meetings are discussing policy --

20 A Yeah.

21 Q -- as it relates to election security, and then you have the ODNI-led election

22 security meetings --

23 A Yeah. Yeah.

24 Q -- and not engaged in policy.

25 For the ODNI-led meetings, do you recall any discussions regarding frustrations

1 with the policies that were being discussed and delivered from the NSC?

2 A I have a smile on my face because I think it's natural for -- like, the

3 intelligence community is always kind of looking over the wall at what the policy folks are

4 doing. So, to me, it doesn't -- it's not a specific enough question.

5 But I don't recall a specific engagement where we had a problem with whatever

6 was going on downtown. I think as evidenced by so many of the things that we

7 discussed this afternoon together, this is a quite active policy timeframe, so -- but I don't

8 remember anything specific.

9 Q What about generally?

10 A Again, you know, to me, I don't know that we make it common practice to

11 have an opinion one way or the other about policy, but at the same time, I think we want

12 to make sure that information is doing everything -- the intelligence community and the 13 information we provide is doing everything it can to best support policymakers.

14 Q For the folks at ODNI and the other intel agencies, what was the nature of 15 the relationship in 2020 with the NSC folks?

16 A I think there was a pretty healthy esprit de corps. I think I welcomed

17 working with those colleagues and felt that it was a very energized time but a pretty

18 collaborative relationship. So I certainly reflect upon it now, years later, as a positive

19 experience.

20 Q Do you recall anyone from NSC accusing or raising concerns regarding if

21 ODNI or other intelligence agencies were withholding information from NSC?

22 [redacted] I think we're probably starting to get into areas of privilege here that

23 we ourselves can't adjudicate at this time. So I think I'm going to have to take that one 24 off the table.

25 [redacted] Are you instructing Ms. Pierson not to answer?

1 [redacted] Yes.

2 [redacted] Even if the question is maintained at a high level without getting into

3 specifics of --

4 [redacted] What someone at NSC said or didn't say?

5 [redacted] And to who.

6 [redacted] Yeah, no. I think we're going to have to take it off the table.

7 [redacted] To your recollection, what was the biggest source of friction between

8 the NSC and the intelligence agencies in 2020?

9 [redacted] I think that might assume a premise that I'm not sure Ms. Pierson

10 agrees to.

11 Ms. Pierson. Again, my general perception of that time was one of very positive

12 engagement with the NSC. It certainly would be regrettable to me to learn if anyone at 13 the NSC felt differently, but that's not my personal perspective. That doesn't mean we

14 don't have disagreements. That's part of what the interagency is about. But everyone

15 worked very hard during this time on securing the elections, and so I feel quite positively

16 about that experience.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q Turning back to the idea of election security becoming a growing issue, the

19 agencies trying to sort out -- to use a more colloquial term -- you know, what their

20 responsibilities should be and how they should carry out their missions, from 2016 to

21 2021, when you were in this space, were there any -- were there ever any accusations

22 from one agency against another that an agency overstepped its bounds in the election

23 security space?

24 A Can you say more about the -- what you mean by the word "overstep"?

25 Q Sure. So, I mean, fundamentally, every agency gets its authority --

1 A Yeah.

2 Q -- from Congress. Then it's carried out through statutes and regulations.

3 A Yes, yes, yes.

4 Q And, you know, at a very high level -- right -- the FBI is going to conduct

5 criminal investigations. Other agencies can't.

6 A Right.

7 Q In that sort of context, in this election security space, there's a number of 8 agencies who have --

9 A Yes.

10 Q -- certain touch points to the issue.

11 Did one agency, to your recollection, ever accuse another agency of overstepping

12 their mandate in the election security space?

13 A Not to my recollection.

14 Q Turning to the standing meetings with the industry partners in the lead-up to

15 the 2020 Election, do you recall if there were discussions regarding the risk of a potential

16 hack-and-leak before the 2020 Election?

17 A Hack-and-leak is a term -- particularly as it relates to 18 infrastructure -- whereby cyber compromises would yield sensitive information that then

19 would be ostensibly leaked.

20 Industry partners that are largely responsible for cybersecurity are providing

21 technical infrastructure to any number of organizations. I think we're worried about a

22 cyber attempt on their infrastructure by which to procure sensitive information. So,

23 yes, I am familiar with this as an activity.

24 Q Yeah. Do you recall this topic being raised to the social media companies

25 or in the meetings with the social media companies in the lead-up to 2020?

1 A Again, I think it's important to make a distinction between social media and
2 cybersecurity firms and technical infrastructure firms.
3 So, again, hack-and-leak is a term that would be primarily used to go acquire
4 information. Then, potentially, you would use a social media platform to disseminate it.
5 So I think -- yes, I am familiar with the phenomena, and I think, yes, the social media firms 6 understood that they could be the destination point, so to speak, for hacked -- or 7 information that resulted from a cybersecurity compromise.
8 Q Do you recall in the meetings with the social media companies when talking
9 about how they can be at risk of information coming from a hack -- not that they're going 10 to be hacked themselves -- if those conversations addressed the potential subjects of the 11 hacked information? Whether it was affiliated with certain political candidates or 12 parties?
13 A I think what's important to also point out is that, in the tenor of your 14 question, the government doesn't even need to be involved in that, right? You know,
15 you said a compromised company could communicate directly to the social media
16 company and say, I think, you know, there's some information in the wild that could end
17 up on your platform.
18 So I don't know that I can speak in a fulsome manner about how all of that 19 unfolded during that period of time.
20 Q Yeah. So -- and I appreciate that response. I'm not asking for a, you
21 know, fulsome of every type of risk that could be out there.
22 There are these standing meetings that include social media companies and 23 various government agencies. Correct me if I'm wrong. These meetings did not 24 include, you know, critical infrastructure-type companies?
25 A They did not. I think the most kind of cross-functional organization would

1 be Google.

2 Q Okay. Keeping the focus just on what's being communicated to the social

3 media companies and the unique risks that they face as social media companies, do you

4 recall whether there was any discussion about the topics that were raised regarding

5 hacked information that could be shared on their platforms?

6 A Again, most of the meetings that I participated in really centered on the 7 social media companies characterizing the activity on their platform. I think anything

8 the intelligence community shared would be at kind of a macrolevel given the 9 classification of our information.

10 I can't speak to additional sharing that might have occurred with other agencies

11 either bilaterally or somehow between the triad of the infrastructure firms back to social

12 media on what they should be looking out for, so to speak.

13 Q For FITF's bilateral meetings, you mentioned -- your recollection is you didn't

14 recall -- or you never attended one of those meetings?

15 A I don't participate in those.

16 Q Do you know if FITF ever invited you or someone else from ODNI to attend?

17 A I don't believe so.

18 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the October 14, 2020, New York Post story on 19 Hunter Biden's laptop?

20 A I'm not familiar with that article specifically, no.

21 Q At a high level, are you familiar with the controversy that started in the 22 lead-up to the 2020 Election?

23 A Yes.

24 Q When did you become aware that the FBI was in possession of either the 25 laptop or the hard drive or something associated with Hunter Biden?

1 [redacted] I think that assumes some information that I'm not sure she'll be able 2 to confirm.
3 Ms. Pierson. I don't even -- I really don't recall the timeframe in which -- or the 4 timing or date in which I became aware of what was revealed in media, but I am generally
5 aware of, as you put it, the controversy surrounding the Hunter Biden laptop, yes.
6 BY [redacted]
7 Q With the understanding you don't recall specifics, do you recall generally if 8 you were aware of that prior to the New York Post publication and the --
9 A No.
10 Q -- corresponding media coverage?
11 A No.
12 Q This is a -- not to be semantic. No, you don't recall either way? Or, no,
13 it's your recollection that you learned of it after the New York --
14 A It's my recollection that I learned of it after.
15 Q Thank you.
16 In the standing meetings between the social media companies and the various 17 government agencies in the lead-up to 2020 Election, do you recall whether any of the 18 meetings discussed Burisma or Hunter Biden?
19 A I can't speak to that. I don't recall specifically talking about Burisma in any 20 of those meetings.
21 Q And what about generally?
22 A No.
23 Q Once the New York Post published its article and the subsequent reports and 24 surrounding articles, do you recall any subsequent meetings in the aftermath that -- in 25 your meetings with the social media companies where the issue of the laptop or the

1 related news reporting came up in those meetings?

2 A That sort of thread -- that topic thread of the laptop and Burisma and all that

3 really was more on the law enforcement sort of FBI part of the work. It was not

4 something that the intelligence community was involved in, to my knowledge,

5 whatsoever. And so I do not believe that was part of our discussions with them.

6 Q Okay. And to the extent that -- your understanding of, again, the FBI and

7 the law enforcement side and not the intel side -- how did you come to learn that or gain

8 that understanding?

9 A I think reading it in the press.

10 Q Okay. Did you ever have any discussions with colleagues at the FBI about 11 the laptop or any related investigations to Hunter Biden?

12 A No.

13 BY [redacted]

14 Q Ms. Pierson, what was your involvement in the defensive briefing that was 15 given to Senators Grassley and Johnson on August 6, 2020?

16 A As we discussed earlier, the briefing to the two senators was the result of a

17 deliberative process out of the Notification Framework.

18 I was involved in administering the ODNI responsibilities as articulated in that

19 process, which would include what we conventionally now know is the Experts Group and

20 also would have served to ensure that the script was coordinated among all the agencies

21 and of any and all perspectives from participating organizations and we had full

22 coordination on the document that was used to inform that briefing.

23 Q So were you sitting in for ODNI as the expert in the Experts Group?

24 A Yes. And, again, you're using this more modern parlance than what

25 existed. That would also have included, of course, my NIC colleagues who are the

1 analytic experts in this topic.

2 Q Now, were you included because you always sat on the Experts Group, or

3 were you included because of the particular sensitivities it involved with these two U.S.

4 persons?

5 A No. I would have handled all of these matters regardless of the recipients

6 or content.

7 Q Given that this involved the alleged foreign intelligence operation against

8 two United States senators, is there heightened scrutiny? Is there a heightened process

9 that's involved given who they are?

10 A No. I think the intelligence community -- and some of this is hinted at in 11 our earlier conversations -- that we're here to evaluate the intelligence we have. We, of 12 course, followed the framework and the requirements of the framework and proceeded

13 as we would with any recipient.

14 Q So I think, as was alluded in my colleagues from the other side's questions

15 earlier, Senators Johnson and Grassley are essentially saying a defensive briefing was a

16 pretext to obstruct a United States Senate investigation into the Biden family

17 influence-peddling operation, specifically involving Hunter Biden and Burisma. I think 18 you know the background.

19 The committee needs to know who nominated that intelligence. So would you

20 provide that answer now?

21 [redacted] We'll take that one back. I think that implicates both classification

22 issues and potential deliberative issues. So we'll take that question back.

23 [redacted] I will say that question is not going away. So I would ask that it be

24 taken back and that it be given all due dispatch and we get something in writing as well in 25 the event we don't get the information we seek.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q With respect to the Experts Group, you actually sat -- so you actually -- and,

3 again, I'm referring only to the intelligence involving Senators Johnson and Grassley.

4 A Okay.

5 Q You participated as -- again, using the parlance -- as an expert assessing the 6 information that the CAG sent to your group?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. Did anyone dissent in that discussion?

9 [redacted] I would ask you not to answer. That would be deliberative.

10 [redacted] I would say that the committee does not recognize the deliberative

11 process privilege. So, of course, you're free not to answer it based on your counsel's

12 advice, but that, too, is going to be a question we require an answer to. Indeed, I'm

13 going to ask now for all documents related to that discussion, and I believe we've asked

14 for it in writing already, and we'll follow up if necessary.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Ms. Pierson, I think you testified to this earlier, but let's talk specifics.

17 Are there documents that have been created, to your knowledge, with respect to 18 the information involving Senators Grassley and Johnson?

19 A Certainly, there are documents related to this entire -- that reflect the 20 deliberative process outlined by the Notification Framework, yes.

21 Q To your knowledge, do records exist that will tell this committee in the event

22 we can receive them who nominated that intelligence and the other issues of 23 documentation that we discussed earlier?

24 A Again, I would leave those documents -- I don't work at ODNI any longer, so I

25 would defer to ODNI on their existence. But I'm -- generally speaking, I would not be

1 aware of any reality in which something has happened to them.

2 Q Again, using this parlance, in the Experts Group involving the intelligence

3 that led to the defensive briefing of the senators on August 6, 2020, was Nikki Floris

4 working with you in that Experts Group?

5 A Yes, sir.

6 Q Was Bradley Benavides?

7 A I would believe so. Brad has since left the government. So during this

8 time, yes, I think he was still with the government.

9 Q And do you recall him specifically involved in this case?

10 A Honestly, I don't want to answer erroneously. So I don't have the 11 documents in front of me as to who was what, where, and why. But, of course, Mr.

12 Benavides was part of this larger cadre of election security officers.

13 Q Okay. And this is -- to your knowledge, there would be a record indicating 14 who sat on the Experts Group at this particular issue?

15 A And, again, I want to be clear here that the Experts Group didn't exist as an

16 entity there. So in terms of --

17 Q This cadre of individuals --

18 A Yeah.

19 Q -- at this level who ultimately determined -- well, who ultimately determined

20 a defensive briefing was in order for the senators. Is that fair to say?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And, Ms. Pierson, you were, in fact, in this cadre of individuals who

23 determined that they were -- the senators should have been provided a defensive

24 briefing?

25 A Yes, sir.

1 Q Okay. Were their concerns about the political sensitivities that they may
2 collide with the principles articulated about political interference or chilling First
3 Amendment activity?
4 [redacted] Let me advise you to be careful about deliberative. So the content
5 of what was discussed --
6 Ms. Pierson. Yeah.
7 [redacted] -- I would avoid.
8 Ms. Pierson. Again, I don't recall that as being an overarching point of dissent.
9 But, of course, not only as required by the policy but of the underpinnings of our work as 10 intelligence community professionals, we do not engage in any type of partisan behavior.
11 BY [redacted]
12 Q I'll represent to you that we interviewed Ms. Floris and she said -- and Mr.
13 Benavides -- and both, in essence, said ODNI owns this process. Everything you need is 14 with ODNI. Their testimony in substance was, we were the notifying agency. We gave 15 the briefings, but we don't have equities in essence beyond that.
16 Is that an accurate characterization? You're taking my characterization --
17 [redacted] Without seeing the testimony, I don't know if she can say that's an 18 accurate characterization of their testimony.
19 [redacted] No. But what she can say is what I am saying is their testimony.
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Assuming it's true, is that an accurate characterization?
22 A The FBI is a member of the intelligence community. So I don't know, as you
23 shared it with me, characterizing the FBI as, frankly, just a broker or delivery
24 mechanism -- they obviously had a Foreign Intelligence Task Force. They are acting 25 members of the intelligence community and interagency. So, for me, I think they

1 produce intelligence information on election interference.

2 I can appreciate kind of the thrust of my colleagues' comments, but generally

3 speaking, I think the FBI participated in all interagency activities.

4 Q And what was the subject and purpose of the defensive briefing involving

5 the senators?

6 [redacted] I'm sorry. Can you repeat that question?

7 [redacted] What was the purpose and the subject of the defensive briefing

8 involving the two senators?

9 [redacted] Okay. So the subject, I think, high level, has been outlined in the 10 letters to us. But beyond that, in an unclassified setting, I'm going to ask her not to 11 answer that question.

12 Ms. Pierson. The purpose of the briefing was to share intelligence information

13 with both senators that had been collected in intelligence channels about foreign

14 intelligence service activities.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q Okay. Do you recall speaking with Ms. Floris after she delivered the 17 defensive briefing to these senators?

18 A Certainly.

19 Q Well, let me be more specific.

20 Do you recall speaking with her about this defensive briefing on August 6, 2020,

21 after she delivered it?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. And what was the substance of that conversation?

24 A She confirmed that she had delivered the briefing as required and 25 characterized her delivery of the script, and that's about it.

1 Q Did anything stand out about how the senators reacted to this defensive
2 briefing, to your recollection?
3 A I think she shared that her perception was that the senators were quite 4 concerned about the information shared with them.
5 Q And when you say "quite concerned," in what respect?
6 A I wasn't there. And, again, this was, like, 4 years ago.
7 I think it was more about not only -- I can only imagine a senator's reaction to 8 receiving information that a foreign intelligence service is doing things of this nature. So
9 that, of course, has to be part of this. And then, also, I think a real skepticism as to why
10 was FBI doing this, which I can also appreciate.
11 Q Why can you appreciate that?
12 A I think that many people have sort of a bit of a healthy skepticism as to why
13 is the government sharing this with me? Why -- and I don't think that's unique to U.S.
14 senators or Members of Congress. Sometimes, I think there's always a bit of curiosity
15 about, like, what is this really about? And, to me, I don't think that's unreasonable.
16 Q Was it your sense from Ms. Floris' conversation that the senators perhaps 17 thought that this defensive briefing was meant to advantage the Biden family, the 18 Democrat Party?
19 A She didn't share that with me.
20 Q Was that your sense of the conversation?
21 A No. My sense of the conversation is that this was more frustration with the 22 FBI.
23 Q Okay. But I guess I'd ask, if they were informed that there was credible 24 intelligence that they were the target of a foreign intelligence operation, why would they 25 be frustrated with the FBI? Not that you can speak to them, but just generally, what

1 would be -- because you said that would not be an uncommon perception. Help me
2 understand that.
3 A Again, my perspective is that there is a certain line of interest perhaps across
4 Washington as to whether or not the FBI has handled itself appropriately as it relates to 5 its mission. There's a thousand and one perspectives and opinions about that across the 6 political spectrum. So, for me, it doesn't surprise me.
7 Not only being a member of the intelligence community, a member of the U.S.
8 Government, a person living here in Washington is well familiar with perspectives that are 9 pretty skeptical of the FBI. I don't think that's uniformly shared, but it's certainly 10 something that I think has, as I said, been a line of consideration for the past several 11 years.
12 Q So then given all you know about this particular briefing and the senators'
13 response, none of that surprises you? Which is essentially what I think you're saying.
14 A I think it's certainly reasonable to understand, yes.
15 Q And you saw that they were -- the briefing was leaked. There was other 16 critical coverage in the papers. That essentially one political party, the Democratic 17 Party, used the briefing in part -- I'll finish the question before you answer -- in part to say
18 that this investigation by Senators Grassley and Johnson was advancing Russian 19 disinformation.
20 [redacted] I don't know -- one, I don't understand the question. I'm not sure 21 what the question is for Shelby. And two, I'm not sure that -- it sounds like it's based on 22 a premise that the Democrats had something to do or took some position with respect to 23 something that I don't know that Shelby has any awareness of.
24 [redacted] That's fair enough. So let me ask this.
25 Can we go off the record for a moment?

1 [Discussion off the record.]

2 [redacted] Back on the record.

3 If time permits, we can come back to sort of partisan optics.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Ms. Pierson, were you involved with the drafting of the script that was used

6 to convey the defensive briefing to these senators?

7 A Yes.

8 Q Okay. So I will just ask ODNI, again, that specifically -- we've asked for this,

9 but since we have you here going back and taking these questions, the committee

10 requires the script. We require --

11 [redacted] We produced the script to you.

12 [redacted] Yes. Excuse me. Which you have. Well, the unclassified -- fair

13 enough. You have.

14 Primarily, the committee requires for its oversight who nominated the 15 intelligence, all the documents associated with that, any dissent in the CAG and the 16 Experts Group, and any and all records that pertain to that briefing. Again, the focus of

17 this particular line of inquiry is that the intelligence community obstructed the United

18 States Senate investigation as alleged by Senators Grassley and Johnson. So, as you can 19 understand, the committee requires this information.

20 I would ask that that be taken back and thoroughly explored and get back any and 21 all documents to us.

22 [redacted] Understood.

23 [redacted] Thank you.

24 Thank you, Ms. Pierson.

25 Ms. Pierson. Thank you.

1 [redacted] We'll go off the record, please.

2 [Recess.]

3 [redacted] Back on the record.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q Ms. Pierson, in the prior hour, there were some characterizations made to

6 you about something that Nikki Floris said in her testimony before the committee. You

7 weren't presented with that transcript, correct?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q Okay. So what was presented to you were just characterizations of what

10 she said, and I'm thinking specifically with regard to FBI's role in this process?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. If you can go to the Notification Framework. And I don't recall

13 which exhibit number that was at this point. I think it was 5.

14 If you can turn to the bottom of page 4, the top of page 5. Do you see where it

15 says "notifying entity"?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And then -- so that's on the bottom of page 4, the top of page 5. It says,

18 "The Department of Homeland Security" -- sorry. This is the definition of notifying

19 entity.

20 A Yes.

21 Q The definition of notifying entity is, "The Department of Homeland Security

22 with respect to foreign interference operations relating to critical infrastructure, including

23 election infrastructure, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation with respect to other 24 foreign interference operations," correct?

25 A Yes. Uh-huh.

1 Q Okay. What's your understanding of what the notifying entity's role is?

2 A In this case, these two agencies have specific responsibilities to deliver

3 notification as it relates to actions taken as a result of this process and, frankly, a division

4 of labor between DHS and FBI.

5 Q Okay. And when you say they have the responsibility for providing -- sorry.

6 Withdraw that.

7 Essentially, FBI and DHS are responsible for actually providing the briefing to 8 whoever the target is, correct?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay. So, to the extent that Ms. Floris said that FBI was the -- responsible 11 for providing the briefing, that was accurate, correct?

12 A Yes, certainly as reflected in item B here.

13 Q Okay. And, in fact, the FBI did deliver the briefing?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And the -- we talked through extensively there's a substantial process that's

16 outlined in this framework for how to make the determination that a briefing is

17 appropriate, correct? And there's a lot of participants in that briefing -- in that process,

18 correct?

19 A Yes. Uh-huh.

20 Q Okay. But as far as the actual delivery that is provided in this case

21 either -- well, it's provided either by DHS or FBI, and in this case, it was FBI?

22 A Yes.

23 Q Okay. So I just wanted to clarify that part of Ms. Floris' testimony.

24 There was a question in the prior hour about -- the question was, what was the 25 substance and the purpose of the defensive briefing?

1 In general, the substance of a briefing would be included in the script for a
2 briefing, correct?
3 A Certainly.
4 Q So if that script is available, that's already been made available to the 5 committee, correct?
6 A I believe that --
7 [redacted] Yes.
8 Ms. Pierson. -- that would be an accurate statement, yes.
9 BY [redacted]
10 Q Okay. You were asked some questions about why the senators might have 11 been concerned about receiving the briefing.
12 Are you familiar with the dynamics in the Senate at that time in the summer of 13 2020?
14 A I'm generally not equipped.
15 Q Okay. So you're not familiar sitting here today?
16 A No.
17 Q So you, for example, don't know if there had been, you know,
18 back-and-forths between Democratic and Republican senators about certain information?
19 A No.
20 Q Okay. So your comments here today, it's just based on your understanding 21 of the world at large, but you don't have any specific understanding --
22 A No.
23 Q -- of the circumstances in the summer of 2020, correct?
24 A No.
25 Q And, in particular, of the dynamics that took place in the Senate?

1 A Not at all.

2 Q Okay. The notification provided to Senators Grassley and Johnson was 3 nonpublic, correct?

4 A Yes, that's correct.

5 Q What does that mean?

6 A That means it was delivered as a defensive briefing to specific targets of 7 foreign intelligence activity. So not shared publicly.

8 Q Okay. And, to the best of your knowledge, was it ever the intent of ODNI

9 or any of its partners in this process to make it public that Senators Grassley and Johnson

10 had been given such a briefing?

11 A No.

12 Q Okay. And I think this is something of the elephant in the room, so I'm 13 going to go ahead and introduce it as Exhibit 11.

14 [Pierson Exhibit No. 11

15 was marked for identification.]

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q This is a Washington Post article. The FBI -- entitled, "The FBI was aware 18 prominent Americans, including Giuliani, were targeted by Russian influence operation?"

19 Have you seen this article before?

20 A I probably read it, as I read the paper most days, yeah.

21 Q Okay. So this article -- I want to point out it's dated May 1st, 2021, correct?

22 It's just on the face here.

23 A Yeah.

24 Q Okay. So that would have been many months after the defensive briefing

25 was provided to --

1 A Yes.

2 Q -- Senators Grassley and Johnson?

3 Okay. And on page -- well, we printed it off, but as printed, it's the second page

4 of this. It's about halfway down.

5 It says, "The FBI last summer also gave what is known as a defensive briefing to

6 Senator Ron Johnson, Republican of Wisconsin, who ahead of the election used his perch

7 as chairman of the Senate Homeland Security and Governmental Affairs Committee to 8 investigate Biden's dealings with Ukraine," and it goes on.

9 Do you see where it says that?

10 A Yes, I do.

11 Q So I'll represent to you that this article is, to the best of our knowledge, the 12 first time that the defensive briefing, having been delivered to the senators, was made

13 public.

14 A Yes. I don't have information to confirm that, but I'm understanding what 15 you're saying.

16 Q Right. And it was -- again, this was an article dated May of 2021. That 17 was many months after the defensive briefing was provided by the FBI.

18 A Yes.

19 Q Correct? Okay.

20 And at the time the briefing was delivered, again, it was never the intent to make

21 it public that the briefing had been provided, correct?

22 A No.

23 Q And, in general, ODNI and its partners in this process do not make it public

24 that defensive briefings are provided to targets, correct?

25 A No, we do not.

1 Q Because I think the statement was made that, you know, the senators were 2 angry that it was known that they were given a defensive briefing. And, in fact, when 3 they were given the briefing, it was not publicly known, correct?
4 A That is correct.
5 Q Okay. And it was not publicly known until many months later?
6 A No, it was not.
7 Q Okay. Thank you. You can put that aside.
8 And then I just have one document that I want to enter into the record as a
9 clarifying matter.
10 So we had introduced as exhibit -- or I'm sorry. The Republicans introduced as 11 Exhibit 4 the overview of the process for the U.S. Government to notify the public and 12 others regarding foreign interference in U.S. elections.
13 A Yeah.
14 Q And I believe that what they introduced was the more recent version of that.
15 A Okay.
16 Q So I want to introduce as Exhibit 12 the 2019 version --
17 A Okay.
18 Q -- of that document.
19 [Pierson Exhibit No. 12
20 was marked for identification.]
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q And then I just want to make one quick point after you've had a second to 23 look it over.
24 A So this is the 2019 version?
25 Q This is the 2019 version.

1 And I'm just going to ask you, after you've had a second to read it over, to note
2 that there is no reference to an Experts Group in this document, but it does reference a
3 group of experts from the intelligence community agencies.
4 A Right. Yes. Yes, I understand.
5 Q So I just want to make sure the testimony is clear because we've been 6 talking around that a little bit.
7 A Yeah.
8 Q So this is actually -- you know, this was the overview --
9 A At the time.
10 Q -- at the time?
11 A Yes, of course.
12 Q Okay. Okay.
13 A Yes, ma'am.
14 [redacted] Okay. Thank you. We can go off the record.
15 [Recess.]

1 [5:33 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q Ms. Pierson, when you communicated with the social media companies in

4 the leadup to the 2020 election, we've gone over in-person meetings, video conference

5 meetings --

6 A Yes, sir.

7 Q -- I would imagine email was involved?

8 A No. It was pretty much telephone calls. We weren't really in the habit of 9 communicating regularly in emails.

10 Q Okay. Did you have any communications via Signal with anyone -- social

11 media companies?

12 A Not to my recollection. I'm not a big Signal -- I'm like a partial Signal

13 person. I'm the more old school message person.

14 Q Are you familiar with teleporter links?

15 A I don't know what that is.

16 Q We -- in the previous hour we talked about the NSE-led meetings and the 17 ODNI-led meetings?

18 A Yes, sir.

19 Q And in the leadup to the 2020 election, do you recall how frequently those 20 meetings would occur, each of those standing meetings?

21 A The NSEs were probably maybe every other week, and I tried to convene the 22 community at least once a month.

23 Q Was it generally the same individuals? So whoever was representing the

24 agencies at the NSE-led meet, did it tend to be the same individuals at the ODNI-led 25 meetings, obviously, without the NSE folks?

1 A I think generally and as you and I have discussed earlier today, this -- that
2 locus of representation from that core constituency of agencies, yes. For example, on 3 your question on the GEC as I mentioned earlier, the GEC doesn't go to the NSE meetings
4 but is -- would potentially attend the ODNI Intel meetings.
5 So, generally speaking, yes, that core cadre, but I can imagine it's not one for one.
6 Q Okay. Again, do you have any sense of what familiarity the folks at the NSE
7 had about the ODNI-led meetings?
8 A Certainly, at the NSE we would provide an update as to, you know, what is 9 the IC working on. It's in some ways a standard practice at most NSE meetings to have 10 an Intel update. So that would be, as I've used the phrase, par for the course.
11 Q Since having left ODNI, have you attended any of the U.S. Government 12 industry meetings, like the ones you attended in the leadup to the 2020 election?
13 A No.
14 Q Any FITF meetings?
15 A No.
16 Q Any social media companies?
17 A No.
18 Q At the ODNI-led meetings, was there any discussion about whether to keep 19 or withhold certain information that should or should not be presented at the NSE-led
20 meetings?
21 [redacted] I think that sounds like it calls for a deliberative. I'd ask you not to 22 answer that one.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q Are you familiar with the Election Integrity Partnership?
25 A I believe it was referred to in a "60 Minutes" episode last weekend.

1 Q It was.

2 A But it was not something that I was traditionally familiar with prior to that.

3 Q During your role or during your time at ODNI and as part of your role, the 4 various roles you had at ODNI, did you have any interactions with Stanford?

5 A Stanford University?

6 Q Yes.

7 A Yes. As we had engagements with a few academic institutions, Stanford

8 was one of those organizations. But it was maybe once or twice.

9 Q Do you recall what, like, the topic was or at a high level what the purpose of 10 the interaction was?

11 A I believe -- and this is to the best of my recollection -- Stanford and other

12 academic institutions were developing their own methods for detecting mis- and

13 disinformation. And, like, we have connections with academic institutions on a myriad

14 of topics, I think there were some panels, some think tank sponsored events and things of 15 that nature that would have brought us in contact with Stanford and other institutions.

16 Q Do you recall who your point of contact was at Stanford?

17 A A colleague who used to work at CISA named Matt Masterson has joined

18 Stanford, so he would have been -- just because I knew him better. But I was not really 19 familiar with their program or program leadership or things of that nature.

20 Q Are you familiar with NewsGuard?

21 A No.

22 Q During your time at ODNI, as part of any of the positions you had there, did

23 you have any interactions with the Aspen Institute?

24 A Not directly. I think the Aspen Institute sponsors the Aspen Forum. So I

25 know a lot of intelligence officials attend that annual event.

1 Q Are you familiar with the tabletop exercise that the Aspen Institute hosted in
2 the summer of 2020?
3 A Not specifically, no.
4 Q Okay. And so do you --
5 A There's a lot going on, no. There was -- no, not specifically. But it
6 wouldn't surprise me if Aspen sponsored something like that, given their interest in 7 national security issues.
8 Q Do you recall attending any tabletop exercises in 2020?
9 A DHS sponsored a few for state and local election officials, which was for their
10 benefit, and we would participate as observers or the Intel community might share best
11 practices for securing their infrastructure, things of that nature.
12 But DHS was the primary -- I think they were the ones who did the TTX-type
13 activities.
14 Q Do you recall how many people from ODNI attended either the one or 15 multiple tabletop exercises?
16 A Probably just a few, if -- I mean, again, I would usually try to take someone
17 from the NIC with me or another colleague, something like that, but it wasn't a large 18 contingency at all.
19 Q Do you recall any colleagues specifically that you had join you?
20 A No. I don't have that at the ready.
21 Q Are you familiar with the Center for Countering Digital Hate?
22 A No.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q Back to the defensive briefing of August 6, 2020, Ms. Pierson?
25 A Sure.

1 Q Nikki Floris was in the what we'll call the Experts Group at the time
2 examining the information that was transmitted from the CAG to the group with respect
3 to Senators Grassley and Johnson, and the subject matter of the other 6/20/20 defensive
4 briefing. Is that correct?
5 A To the best of my recollection, yes.
6 Q Okay. And -- and I think I've asked you this. And was Mr. Benavides in 7 that group as well, to the best of your recollection?
8 A To the best of my recollection, I would believe so.
9 Q Okay. The FBI in this instance was tasked with providing that defensive
10 briefing, correct?
11 A Uh-huh.
12 Q And Ms. Floris, given her position as whatever -- she was a high-level 13 intelligence analyst, was tasked with providing that briefing. Is that your 14 understanding?
15 A Yes, sir.
16 Q Okay. So she not only had a script from ODNI but she was intimately
17 familiar with the details of the underlying intelligence, correct?
18 A Yes. And I don't know that I would characterize it as a script from ODNI. I
19 think it is a coordinated script from the intelligence community.
20 Q Well, let's talk about it.
21 A Yes.
22 Q Give me, like, how did that -- you say coordinated. Who takes the first pen, 23 how is it coordinated? Just walk me through that if you would.
24 [redacted] You can speak generally the process, but nothing deliberative.
25 Ms. Pierson. Again, I think I mentioned earlier, the ODNI serves as sort of a

1 gathering function to make sure all of the organizations are working towards their
2 expected work and deliverables.
3 Generally speaking, I think any number of analytic leads could take the lead in 4 developing the outline for a script. And, remember, these are based on information
5 coming from lots of different places. So it's important that those contributing 6 organizations are all tracking kind of where their information is or isn't cited.
7 Again, the National Intelligence Council is sort of a lead analytic organization.
8 Again, traditionally, I think could take the pen, but any agency could do that, and 9 probably write a rough draft or an outline. And then we would work that through the 10 interagency process of coordination, and do we leave out information, what was the 11 classification.
12 So there's a myriad of considerations to getting to the document that you have 13 seen just as an example.
14 BY [redacted]
15 Q Let me ask you specifically about the August 6, 2020, what we'll call a script.
16 I understand that counsel's recommendation or advice may be deliberative issues or 17 classification issues. You will not -- if you know the answer, you will not tell the 18 committee right now who nominated that intelligence. Is that correct?
19 A Correct.
20 Q Okay. Without knowing who that is, let me ask you this, because it doesn't 21 reveal any other concerns that counsel was concerned about in my judgment.
22 Was it the nominating agency that began to write the rough draft of the script?
23 A I -- I don't even have that in my mind.
24 Q Well, if you recall, did Ms. Floris assist in drafting that script, that document?
25 A She certainly would have coordinated on it. I can't speak to whether she

1 tickled the keys on the script. But, absolutely, this is an interagency coordination
2 process.
3 Q Now, this is what I want to drill down on. This interagency business and 4 with particular Ms. Floris, because it's -- I'm sort of speaking roughly. She sort of had 5 two hats, right?
6 She's the expert -- she's in the expert group, what we'll call the expert group in 7 this instance, but she also has the responsibility to actually provide the defensive briefing
8 to the senators?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Is that unusual?
11 A I don't know that I could use the word unusual because this was all sort of 12 first -- original work, so to speak. So it's not like I have another process to compare it to.
13 I certainly don't think there's anything in policy or practice that proscribes that to 14 be the same person at all.
15 Q Sure. Yeah. Fair enough.
16 I guess the point is that, Ms. Floris and Mr. Benavides, assuming he was also in the 17 Experts Group, again, would have not simply gone to the senators and said, read the 18 script, they would be in a position to provide more information to the senators if they 19 asked beyond what's in the script having actually vetted the intelligence. Is that fair to 20 say?
21 A One, I don't have any specific knowledge of that. But, two, the FBI was 22 only cleared to deliver that information. I think anything else would have had to come 23 back to the agencies for additional clearance. I don't think that that would have -- 24 Q What do you mean any of this?
25 A So I think -- as your question suggests that they would have been flourishing

1 a whole suite of information, I don't know that that would be within our expectation.
2 They were there to deliver a defensive briefing.
3 Q Okay.
4 A And I'm totally unaware of any additional information that was shared at
5 that time.
6 Q Yeah. I guess what I'm grappling with, Ms. Pierson, is that going back to 7 the interview of Ms. Floris, and I'm just making these representations to you so you
8 understand the, sort of, background of the question. The idea we received was she was 9 just a messenger. We're now learning that that is not, in fact, the case.
10 So as someone on the Experts Group -- what we're calling the Experts Group, she 11 would have had equities in crafting the document that ultimately was what we'll call the 12 script that was delivered beyond simply receiving it as the notifying agent.
13 Does that question make sense? I know it's a little disjointed.
14 A I understand your point. Yes.
15 Q And is that an accurate assessment in this particular instance?
16 A I think she was involved in activities related to many aspects of this briefing,
17 yes. But her task that day was to deliver the briefing.
18 Q After the briefing was delivered, I think you had testified you actually had a 19 conversation with Ms. Floris.
20 Is there anything else you can think of that you have not conveyed since we last 21 spoke about it?
22 A No.
23 Q Would there have been anything that she wrote or communicated in writing
24 to you or ODNI post-briefing?
25 A Again, that was years ago. I don't know.

1 Q Okay. If you don't recall, you don't recall. Under the
2 process -- withdrawn.
3 Once the Experts Group makes a determination we're going to provide a defensive
4 briefing, the FBI, it's within their remit to be the notifying agency. Could the FBI refuse
5 to provide that briefing?
6 [redacted] Are you speaking generally?
7 [redacted] For purposes of this question, I'll speak generally.
8 Ms. Pierson. I'm certainly not an attorney, but I think this policy obligates the FBI
9 to execute the policy as it's articulated in this document, yeah.
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q Could the FBI, after the Experts Group has made a determination, say, you
12 know, look, we're the notifying agent. We've had -- we're an IC community member, we 13 weren't involved in the Experts Group. We're just not -- we're just not comfortable
14 delivering this -- this defensive briefing?
15 A I think, hypothetically, under those circumstances, I would expect at that 16 time Director Wray to approach the DNI and say, we have a problem here, as some sort
17 of recourse. But, again, hypothetically, I'm not aware that that occurred in any way.
18 But if the FBI felt that they couldn't execute the responsibilities, either -- I would 19 assume they would go to the NSE or they would go to the ODNI and express some 20 concern.
21 Q And I guess, perhaps, a more practical hypothetical would be the FBI dissents
22 from the Experts Group, say they even dissent from the CAG group, if they had an analyst
23 in there. Guess what, you're giving -- you're giving that defensive briefing and --
24 A Right.
25 Q -- hey, we've stated our opposition. But they would still be obligated, as

1 you understand the policy to provide?

2 A And, again, I am not an expert in consequences for countering policy or

3 anything to that nature, but my expectation would be that, based upon the language of 4 the policy, the FBI executes the responsibility in accordance with the text.

5 Q Beyond what we're calling the script that's conveyed to the FBI, to your

6 knowledge is there any other documentation that's given to the FBI when they provide

7 the defensive briefing?

8 A Not to my knowledge.

9 Q So your understanding of the process is they get the script, they deliver it?

10 A Yes.

11 Q The follow-up that you had with Ms. Floris after she gave the defensive

12 briefing, you would have had this follow-up with her regardless of who she provided the 13 defensive briefing to?

14 A Of course. Colleagues, working election security, absolutely. So any

15 other activity, I would have expected us to have a follow-up discussion.

16 Q Is that part of the framework?

17 A No.

18 Q FBI provides a defensive briefing, they go back, and say, hey, Ms. Pierson, 19 guess what happened?

20 A No. Not at all.

21 Q So this isn't mandated; this is more colleagues?

22 A Yes.

23 Q But you do recall that conversation with Ms. Floris?

24 A Yes.

25 Q Did you have a conversation with Mr. Benavides after the defensive briefing?

1 A I don't recall that specifically, no. But, of course, I worked with him quite
2 closely in my election security capacity.
3 Q Given that the briefing was given to two prominent U.S. Senators, you must 4 have had an interest in -- I shouldn't say must.
5 Did you have an interest in learning how the defensive briefing went?
6 A My interest in how a briefing goes is not based upon the prominence of the 7 recipient. It's more, did we successfully meet the requirements of our responsibilities.
8 Q I know it's four years ago, but I have to ask the question.
9 A Yes.
10 Q Do you recall if the FBI had any edits or concerns about the script?
11 [redacted] I'd ask that you not answer that. Sounds deliberative.
12 [redacted] Is it a genuine possibility that the underlying intelligence that 13 informs the defensive briefing could itself be disinformation from a foreign government
14 or actor?
15 [redacted] Are you speaking hypothetically?
16 [redacted] Hypothetically and practically.
17 [redacted] But you're not -- the question doesn't pertain to this specific 18 defensive briefing?
19 [redacted] Oh, I'm not speaking about this specific defensive briefing.
20 Ms. Pierson. Certainly.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Have you learned of that actually happening in your experience?
23 A I certainly think that in the broader field of mis- and disinformation, 24 deception, all of these types of facets are part of our adversary's toolkit to manipulate the 25 U.S. So this is, again, not exclusive to election security. There's a whole slew of 1 practices.

2 And whether it's offensive counterintelligence operations or other activities by

3 foreign intelligence services, mis- and disinformation is par for the course.

4 Q So it's conceivable bad actors could actually use the defensive briefing

5 framework to advance their own interests in selling whatever sort of confusion or chaos?

6 A I think that the parameters and our trade craft to try to root out not credible

7 information, faulty sources, mis- and disinformation campaigns, is part of the evaluation

8 process as to avoid what you're talking about.

9 Q Ms. Floris testified that the intelligence used -- the intelligence underlying

10 the defensive briefing of the senators was not the FBI's. Is that your understanding?

11 [redacted] Is that her understanding of Ms. Floris's testimony or of the -- 12 [redacted] No. The substance of her testimony.

13 In other words, is it your understanding that the FBI did not nominate the 14 intelligence used to brief the senators?

15 [redacted] Do you have a copy of Ms. Floris's testimony on that?

16 [redacted] I have Ms. Floris's testimony, but I'm representing to you that's 17 what she testified.

18 [redacted] Well, you're asking her to provide a yes or no, confirm or deny on Ms.

19 Floris's testimony. But without seeing that testimony, I'm afraid she's not able to do

20 that.

21 [redacted] Well, respectfully, if I'm saying that this is -- these are the -- I'm 22 representing that this is what was said, is that your understanding as to the truth of it?

23 So you're asking me to prove-up what -- my representation, but this is not a courtroom.

24 This is an interview. It's voluntary. That is the question.

25 [redacted] Okay. Well, I would ask you not to answer that because it sounds

1 like it's deliberative. But if there's a copy of Ms. Floris's testimony and she's testified to 2 that fact already, we can certainly take that back and consider it.
3 [redacted] Okay. We'll take that request under advisement as well.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q In preparation for this interview, Ms. Pierson, did you take a look at some of 6 the -- I know -- I think the letter of Mr. Grassley and Mr. Johnson sent to Ms. Floris was 7 reviewed earlier.
8 Did you take a look at any of the reporting or any of the -- Senator Grassley and 9 Johnson's view of the defensive briefing prior to coming in here?
10 A No.
11 Q You saw the oversight letters that we sent to ODNI, presumably, right?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Okay. And we had referenced the testimony -- some testimony of Ms.
14 Floris and Mr. Benavides. You saw that as well?
15 A Yes.
16 Q Okay. And you get the general thrust of what Senators Grassley and 17 Johnson are alleging in this instance, right?
18 A Yes.
19 Q Beyond that, have you done any other of your own research or looked at 20 anything else?
21 A No.
22 Q Okay.
23 [redacted] I think that's it for me.
24 [redacted] We have a couple of follow-ups. Hold on. I apologize.
25 [redacted] Off the record.

1 [redacted] There were some characterizations made about Ms. Floris's
2 testimony just now, and I want to just make sure the record is clear on that. The 3 statement was made that Ms. Floris represented herself as just the deliverer of the 4 information, and I want to note that on page 25 of her testimony she describes what we
5 refer to as the Experts Group process.
6 And she says that the Experts Group -- so my colleagues, we met on July 17th and 7 confirmed that, yes, the defensive briefing is warranted. So she did confirm that she 8 was in the Experts Group and that she was part of that decision-making process.
9 On page 28 of her testimony -- actually, this was a question by [redacted] He 10 was asking her about the script and who wrote the script. [redacted] question was,
11 "But then, ultimately, would you" -- meaning Ms. Floris -- "take the final pen to the script, 12 if you will?"
13 And Ms. Floris said, "More like the final approval. Not my level and my 14 colleagues' level. Seldom would we make change unless there was a glaring error or 15 something, you know, we weren't comfortable with. But I don't recall putting a pen to 16 the script when it came up to my level."
17 So she did confirm that she played a role in drafting the script. She said she 18 didn't put pen to paper, but she did review it and did play a role in it.
19 So I just want to make the record clear because I think there was an allegation
20 that Ms. Floris's testimony may -- that she might have inaccurately represented her role.
21 I think she actually was pretty clear in her testimony about the extent of her role. And I
22 would note, again, that the majority has, as of yet, not made her transcript public, so
23 wanted to clarify the record here today.
24 Thank you. We can go off the record.
25 [Whereupon, at 6:00 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

1 [redacted] We will go on the record. Good morning. This is a transcribed
2 interview of Peter Sullivan. Chairman Jordan has requested this interview as part of the 3 committee's oversight of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Would the witness please
4 state your name for the record.
5 Mr. Sullivan. Peter John Sullivan.
6 [redacted] And could agency counsel please state your name for the record.
7 [redacted] counsel with the FBI.
8 [redacted] FBI, Office of General Counsel.
9 [redacted] And, Mr. Sullivan, you understand that agency counsel has a primary 10 fiduciary duty to the Bureau and not to you individually?
11 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.
12 [redacted] And so you'd like to continue with agency counsel today?
13 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.
14 [redacted] On behalf of the committee, I want to thank you for appearing here
15 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to 16 appear voluntarily. My name is [redacted] I am with Chairman Jordan's staff. I 17 will now have everyone else from the committee who is here in the room introduce
18 themselves as well.
19 [redacted] counsel with Chairman Jordan.

24 [redacted] Ranking Member Nadler.
25 [redacted] with Chairman Jordan.

1 [redacted] Thank you. I would like to now go over the grounds rules and
2 guidelines that we'll follow during today's interview. Our questioning will proceed in 3 rounds. The majority will ask questions first for one hour. Then the minority will have 4 an opportunity to ask questions for an equal period of time if they so choose. We will 5 alternate back and forth until there are no more questions and the interview is over.
6 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to take a
7 break apart from that, please just let us know. As you can see, there's an official court
8 reporter taking down everything we say to make a written record. So we ask that you
9 give verbal responses to all questions. Do you understand this?
10 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.
11 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we'll do our best
12 to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just
13 those people on the staff whose turn it is. Please try and speak clearly so the court
14 reporter can understand and so the folks down at the end of the table can hear you. It
15 is important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other if we can help it,
16 and that goes for everybody presence at today's interview. We want you to answer our 17 questions in the most complete and truthful manner as possible, so we will take our time.
18 If you have any questions or if you do not understand one of our questions, please let us
19 know. Our questions will cover a wide range of topics. So, if you need clarification at 20 any point, just say so. If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not
21 remember, it is best not to guess. Please give us your best recollection. And it is okay
22 to tell us if you learn information from someone else; just indicate how you came to know
23 that information. If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and 24 please inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more
25 complete answer to the question. You should also understand that by law you are

1 required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand that?

2 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.

3 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff when

4 interviewed. Do you understand this?

5 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.

6 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false statements or false

7 testimony can be subject to criminal prosecution for making false statements under 18,

8 U.S.C., section 1001. Do you understand this?

9 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.

10 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to

11 today's questions?

12 Mr. Sullivan. No.

13 [redacted] Finally, I would like to make note that the content of what we

14 discuss here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in

15 this interview to outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation. For

16 the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with the court

17 reporters and go in the official transcript, and any copies of those exhibits will be

18 returned to us as we wrap up.

19 All right. That's the end of my preamble. Is there anything my colleagues from 20 the minority would like to add?

21 [redacted] No, we would just like to thank Mr. Sullivan for appearing here

22 today. We appreciate it. And we would also just like to note that we at this point have

23 done well over a hundred transcribed interviews, and only a fraction of the transcripts

24 have been released, and we would encourage our majority counterparts to release all of 25 them.

1 [redacted] I will just note for the record that our minority counterparts have
2 equal access to the transcripts, and I'll turn it over to agency counsel who would like to 3 make some remarks.
4 [redacted] Thank you. As you know, the FBI has determined to make Mr.
5 Sullivan, a non-SES employee, available table to speak to the committee today, pursuant 6 to the accommodations process, related to the facts and circumstances of this matter,
7 including his personal knowledge and communications he has had with financial 8 institutions as part of his work at the FBI. As part of that, it's our understanding that we 9 are likely to talk about a specific suspicious activity report, or SAR, today. The existence
10 of any details within any SAR are confidential according to the Bank Secrecy Act. The 11 Department of Treasury, specifically FinCEN, maintains the SAR program. It's our 12 understanding that Treasury has confirmed the existence of the SAR at issue today and 13 has further provided access to the SAR to the committee and the scope of this inquiry.
14 Accordingly, Mr. Sullivan can talk about this specific SAR today. If falls within his 15 official duties as a current FBI employee to respond to questions within this transcribed
16 interview to the extent that it remains within the scope of the committee's stated inquiry
17 and as he is here today in his official capacity. He will not be able to detail specific 18 identifying information of individuals correlated with the SAR or any other SARs. Any 19 other dissemination of this information outside of the committee is subject to the Bank
20 Secrecy Act's obligations concerning confidentiality.
21 Finally, we would like to request that Mr. Sullivan's name is redacted from any 22 public releases about this interview, including those that have already been released and 23 are currently posted online. He is a non-SES employee, and we ask the committee
24 respect longstanding practice to not publicly post non-SES names to protect line-level
25 employees from threats and other security concerns, which are acutely present here.

1 Thank you.

2 [redacted] The clock now reads 10:06 a.m. We'll start our first round of

3 questioning. I'll turn it over to my colleague, [redacted]

4 EXAMINATION

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Mr. Sullivan, when did you first join the Federal Bureau of Investigation?

7 A In 1999.

8 Q And what was your key motivation for joining the FBI?

9 A Mostly because I wasn't good enough at baseball, but I wanted to -- I had a

10 family that had a law enforcement and a government service background, and it was one

11 that I wanted to participate in and contribute in any way I could.

12 Q And what is your current position at FBI?

13 A Currently, I'm an intelligence analyst in a Financial Targeting Analysis Unit.

14 Q And can you describe your roles and responsibilities in this position?

15 A In my current position, I'm on a leadership team to advance some of the 16 mission items with respect to financial targeting, terrorist financing, and leveraging

17 financial sector data internally for FBI investigations.

18 Q And can you elaborate a little more on what financial targeting and 19 leveraging financial data means?

20 A It's a very basic concept of financial targeting being -- narrowing the focus of 21 data to understand whether or not a threat exist, and then reactively using existing

22 intelligence or investigative activities that reveal something to a terrorist nexus to which,

23 you know, we examine further and support operations.

24 Q And, in your current role, is it limited to terrorist financing?

25 A It's limited to terrorism.

1 Q To terrorism. And do you work with private sector companies in the 2 current role?
3 A I do not. I work with my former unit. I work directly with them. It's the 4 Strategic Engagement Unit where I was the finance sector liaison for the division.
5 Q And can you describe the organizational structure of your office?
6 A Of my office? We fall under the Targeting Development Section. There 7 are many units that are basically set up for terrorism targeting as well as on the 8 counterterrorism analysis side all-source analysts. Within my unit, we're on the 9 Targeting Development Section side. So we support current investigations and look at 10 proactive information, various sources, tips, and leads to try to enhance whether or not 11 we should further pursue those targeting leads.
12 Q And you stated as a part of the Strategic Engagement Unit?
13 A Strategic Engagement Unit is in a separate section. They are in the 14 Engagement Section.
15 Q And so what section are you in?
16 A I'm in the Targeting Development Section.
17 Q Okay. And is that a part of a larger division?
18 A They're all part of the Counterterrorism Division.
19 Q Okay. And how is the information you receive ordinarily provided?
20 A In my current role or in the role that I had for today's proceedings?
21 Q In your current role.
22 A Information either is received through upper management. It could be 23 intel. It could be existing investigations, leads from existing investigations to which, you 24 know -- within our mission of targeting, we'll provide that support to the investigation or 25 development of the lead.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q If I could, when did you leave the Strategic Partner Engagement Section?

3 A In December on paper. In January.

4 Q December of 2023?

5 A Yeah.

6 Q And then you moved over to become an intelligence analyst in January 2024.

7 Is that correct?

8 A Yeah. I was an intelligence analyst when I was a finance sector liaison in a

9 supervisory capacity at the time of the Capitol riots.

10 Q And how long did you hold the position that you left in December 2023?

11 A I held it for 3 years.

12 Q Three years. And how many people did you supervise in that role?

13 A As part of the Strategic Engagement Unit?

14 Q Correct.

15 A Yeah, two, over that time period.

16 Q And what were their titles?

17 A Supervisory special agent.

18 Q And can you tell us how the Strategic Engagement Section is organized?

19 A The Strategic Engagement Section -- it's the Strategic Partner Engagement

20 Section. They are organized as a ops support branch. They fall under the National

21 Joint Terrorism Task Force. It falls under the Strategic Partner Engagement Section as

22 well as Strategic Engagement Unit. They have a couple of new units that they've

23 developed, the Guardian Enhancement Unit. I believe they have two; one that's

24 CT-focused, and one that has, I think, terrorist links that also connect to other operational 25 divisions.

1 Q And you focus on the financial sector. Is that correct?

2 A In my previous position in the Engagement Unit?

3 Q Correct.

4 A Yeah, so my job was to engage at the executive level with financial

5 institution.

6 Q And, when you say "executive level," what do you mean?

7 A It would be -- it would vary from in any supervisory capacity from senior vice

8 president to managing level director to BSA AML director.

9 Q And the two individuals that you supervised, did they work specifically with 10 the financial sector as well?

11 A They did.

12 Q And, within the Strategic Partner Engagement Section, were there

13 individuals who worked with other sectors?

14 A Yes, within our unit. So our unit, I was a finance sector liaison. I worked

15 with a number of financial institutions, banks and nonbank financial institutions. We

16 also within the unit covered the trucking and shipping sector, the tech sector, the 17 hospitality sector. We did also engaged with the retail sector.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q And where is your duty station now?

20 A Headquarters.

21 Q And how often do you interact with the FBI Director?

22 A Very little. As my GS-15 position would -- is likely consistent with most 23 GS-15 positions. Very little.

24 Q How often do you interact with the FBI Deputy Director?

25 A I know the Deputy Director personally, but professionally, I interact with him

1 very little.

2 Q And do you interact with Main Justice often?

3 A Very little in my capacity of what we're talking about today within my

4 capacity as Strategic Engagement Unit. In prior capacity, I worked a little bit more with 5 Department of Justice reporting to White House National Security Council.

6 Q And, before we move on, can you walk us through the positions you've held

7 at the FBI?

8 A Sure. So, starting in 1999, 25 years, my first position was with the Special

9 Surveillance Group out of Washington Field Office. I worked counterterrorism and

10 foreign counter intelligence surveillance, all types of surveillance. I served on a special

11 recognizance team. We had -- WFO had number of high-profile investigations. I was

12 on the arrest team for the Russian spy Stanislav Gusev, who was listening in on State

13 Department meetings. I also served on the special recognizance team for evidence

14 recovery for the Robert Hanssen case as well as worked with a number of my colleagues

15 in WFO, because of my duties on the special recognizance team, recovering evidence at 16 the Pentagon after the 9/11.

17 Q And those were all in the surveillance roles that you mentioned?

18 A Yes. Correct.

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Okay.

21 A Correct. You want me to keep going in my career, or you asked me about 22 my career?

23 Q Yeah, the positions you've held?

24 A Yeah, so, following that surveillance, I became an intel analyst for the 25 Terrorist Financing Operation Section in roughly 2003, where I served in about four

1 different units covering operations, targeting, all-source analysts. I was -- I served on a
2 number of capacities dealing with other government agencies and access to different
3 financial platforms. And then I served on the Syria-Iraq Task Force as a supervisory
4 intelligence analyst. I believe I became a supervisor in 2009. The Bureau, I applied for 5 and was granted a sabbatical opportunity to get my master's degree in 2010. I did that,
6 and a year later came back into my role as a supervisory intel analyst at the Syria-Iraq
7 Task force. From there, I applied for and was promoted to my GS-15 position as the 8 Bureau's first deputy intel officer for threat finance for the Bureau of Intelligence Council,
9 where I worked various matters representing FBI executives at the White House National 10 Security Council, Office of Director of National Intelligence, as well as working with 11 section chief DAD and AD level for the operational divisions on policy, intelligence, and 12 operations matters that were related to finance. From there is when I returned back to 13 the Counterterrorism Division as I the Finance Sector Liaison in the summer of 2020.
14 Q And what is your formal education, training, or prior work experience just 15 formal education really?
16 A Yeah, so I mentioned my master's degree in strategic intelligence. I have 17 an undergrad. As far as -- do you want to know about training about other job training 18 or just academic?
19 Q Any other certifications?
20 A Yeah, so I'm an AKM certified. So that's an anti-money laundering
21 specialist. There are -- it's a pretty wide-scoped certification. And then over more 22 than half of my career spending it on finance-related side, just a number of financial 23 intelligence operations and compliance training, and just basically more -- some formal 24 and a lot of on-the-job training and a number of those positions that I discussed.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q And, during your time at the Strategic Partner Engagement Section from the 2 summer of 2020 to December 2023, can you describe for us the reporting structure that
3 you followed? Did it change at all? Was it the same?
4 A What was the dates, again, I'm sorry?
5 Q You said you went back to the Strategic Engagement Section the summer of 6 2020 and then you left --
7 A Back to the division, yeah. Right. I never been in the Strategic 8 Engagement Unit until I returned in 2020.
9 Q In 2020. Okay. So, between 2020 and 2023, did you have the same
10 reporting structure?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And can you describe that reporting structure?
13 A I did have the same reporting structure to the unit chief position.
14 Q To the unit chief?
15 A Which was also a GS-15.
16 Q And the unit chief, they were they -- were they overall the whole Strategic 17 Partner Engagement Section or just specific to a unit?
18 A The unit fell under the section.
19 Q Okay?
20 A So that would be a subset. Every unit is a subset of a section at 21 headquarters.
22 Q So you reported to the unit chief, and then there was someone above the 23 unit chief?
24 A Section chief.
25 Q Who was that -- the section chief. And then who did the section chief

1 report to?

2 A Up to the Deputy Assistant Director.

3 Q The Deputy Assistant Director of the Counterterrorism Division?

4 A Correct. Yes.

5 Q Okay. And who --

6 A One of three Deputy Assistant Directors.

7 Q And who was the Deputy Assistant Director at the time?

8 A I believe it was Kevin Vorndran.

9 Q Kevin Vorndran. And then --

10 A And you say at the time of when I was hired?

11 Q At the time, did it change at all between 2020 and 2023?

12 A Yeah, I mean headquarters management changed. It was all the time.

13 Q But would you say you mainly the Deputy Assistant Director at the time was 14 Kevin Vorndran?

15 A At this the of the Capitol riots, yeah, absolutely.

16 Q And the Assistant Director at the time was who?

17 A Was at the Tim Langan. Tim Langan.

18 If my memory serves, I believe it was Tim Langan. I served three ADs, so -- in the 19 Counterterrorism Division, and many others in other divisions.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q In that role, what was the mission of that, if you remember that?

22 A To engage with the private sector on all things law enforcement-related.

23 The banks and nonbank financial institutions all had BSA obligations to report suspicious

24 activity as well as understand how to do better due diligence when it comes to various

25 threats, but certainly within our role in Counterterrorism Division concentrate focusing on

1 terrorism.

2 Q And, as the financial sector liaison, can you talk through some of your

3 general duties and responsibilities?

4 A Yeah, on a daily and weekly basis, to engage with executives at various

5 institutions. Most of the engagement went primarily by volume of the financial

6 institution and what they took on in terms of the volume of threats that they were trying

7 to cover down on. But it could go all the way down to, you know, a nonbank financial

8 institution as a fintech company that had proprietary data, and they also had BSA

9 reporting obligations. And they would be looking to participate in information exchange

10 on threats, on typologies, on indicators, on that type of thing. And that's what our team

11 would take in -- was responsible for taking in tips and leads. Oftentimes, because of SAR

12 reporting thresholds, oftentimes they came in the form of a SAR. Other times, that

13 engagement was reactive, meaning the Bureau, my unit, myself or someone on my team

14 had, you know, a legal process, such as a grand jury subpoena, that they wanted

15 expedited on a priority investigation.

16 Q And why does your division reach out to the private sector?

17 A Actually, out of all the operational divisions, they all have an element that 18 has an engagement responsibility with the private sector and partnerships in general.

19 It's one of Director Wray's pillars, his partnerships. In the Counterterrorism Division,

20 under the national security lens, we've actually done a very good job at formalizing that

21 engagement based off of the threat-based threats that we cover on the national security

22 side. So that engagement -- you know, our authorities to engage spreads across all the 23 operational divisions. But, in the Counterterrorism Division, it's definitely more

24 formalized. And we've codified that, I believe, in 2019 before I came to the section.

25 Q And are there other industries besides financial institutions that --

1 A Yeah, the different sectors that I mentioned previously.
2 Q Okay. And how do you manage your outreach and your relationships with 3 the private sector?
4 A It's really about, you know, engagement at the supervisory and executive
5 level. You're dealing with information and brainstorming that obviously your 6 counterpart has many other people under them that have BSA reporting thresholds.
7 They have due diligence reporting requirements. They have their own internal audits,
8 right, that they deal with. That engagement is daily on interacting of what the threat is 9 as well as brainstorming with the institutions. I also set up briefings for the institutions
10 to bring in subject-matter experts when I as a generalist wouldn't be able to brief them
11 on a specific type of terrorist threat. I wasn't an all-source analyst. So my job was to 12 bring in the right folks and facilitate that engagement.
13 Q And how do you decide who to reach out to or who to partner with?
14 A So, when I came into the division, you know, my previous experience as a
15 line analyst in the Terrorist Financing Operation Section, there were a number of legacy
16 partnerships. Most of those were very -- are anchored in those legacy partnerships with 17 the large financial institutions. So that engagement had been codified before I came 18 back into the unit. And I was actually recruited to come into that position because the 19 GS-15 that had that position that was appointed by Director Mueller specifically had 20 passed away of a heart attack. And I was recruited to come back from my position as an 21 intel officer to take on that role.
22 Q When you say that these relationships were codified or formalized, what do 23 you mean by that?
24 A Just internally as far as, you know, even though all of the operational 25 divisions don't -- aren't required to have a codified relationship, I think because of the

1 legacy partnerships that were anchored in that engagement since 9/11. There were 2 various programs and initiatives that supported operations and that also supported
3 compliance reporting obligations by the institution that the Bureau supported. And so 4 there was so much engagement that we felt like, at the division level, that we wanted to 5 formalize that.
6 Q And do you have to receive approval before reaching out to an entity in the 7 private sector or an individual in the private sector?
8 A No.
9 Q Are there any formal procedures or guidelines that you all followed in 10 dealing with the private sector?
11 A Like what?
12 Q Manuals, guidance, training?
13 A No, I mean, I think that, in terms of engagement and what my role was 14 engaging with executives, there was certainly compliance assumptions in terms of legal 15 process and lawful regulatory allowances, whether it was SARs or grand jury subpoenas,
16 on either side of the fence. There was a management level that had that understanding.
17 So, in terms of a manual, there was no manual -- we didn't need a manual because of the 18 experience on both sides of that engagement.
19 [redacted] But general policies --
20 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah, FBI policies applied broadly, right, with that engagement.
21 But, in terms of, you know, FBI and DOJ authorities, that's what permitted me to engage 22 on a regular basis.
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q And how is your relationship with financial institutions important?
25 A Partnerships in general. But certainly my role as the finance sector liaison,

1 finance and financial information plays a huge role in understanding whether or not we
2 need to assess a specific threat or finding out more information to support an
3 investigation. It's one of many different information areas of need, right, when you're 4 supporting operations or any investigation. But finance is a very deliberate piece of 5 information. Communications intelligence and other things that are gathered within the 6 investigation are all critical. Finance is just one piece of that critical evidence or
7 information.
8 Q And how would you describe your relationship with the private sector in 9 general, the FBI?
10 A I mean, in short term, great. The relationship was very professional.
11 There was never any misunderstandings about -- day-to-day or weekly things were 12 quickly taken care of, I think due to the experience on both sides of the coin, that 13 engagement either from me to an executive or to a supervisor that was supervising, you
14 know, supervising specific analysts within the bank that we're looking at, say, ISIS or 15 al-Qaida or another threat.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q And, in your role as financial sector liaison, did you share information with 18 members of the private sector?
19 A Oh, absolutely, yeah. Anything at the unclassified level, we shared on a 20 regular basis. If -- we also shared information in briefings to include case successes, 21 cases that were adjudicated, fully adjudicated in unclassified briefings to investigators as 22 almost a training and also a morale booster for investigators that do a lot of hard work
23 pushing out SARs or setting up alerts and doing a lot of analysis. There is plenty of other 24 information that, you know, we share on a regular basis that is unclassified. However,
25 we also invite financial institution senior executives to an annual counterterrorism

1 conference where they're read in to a briefing to receive classified information so that
2 they can get a context of how to better tackle a threat. So that relationship is very, very
3 unique and critical to the various assistant directors I've fallen under. And, of course,
4 Director Wray holds the Counterterrorism Division as one of the positive partnership
5 engagement.
6 Q And so what sorts of materials are you sharing with the private sector?
7 A It could be information that's approved by the case agent and the program
8 manager at headquarters at the unclassified level. It could be PII. It could be grand
9 jury subpoena, soft copies in order to expedite subpoena on a priority investigation. It
10 could be information about a threat, right. Again, going back to giving briefings or just 11 brainstorming on information that I've seen either through our all-source analyst section 12 that's been downgraded to unclassified or discussions with our targeters that are seeing 13 trends in specific data that we might be able to share. So it's a lot of different 14 information. But mostly at the unclassified level.
15 Q Yeah, and are they liaison information reports? What is the name of the 16 documents, and what medium are they sharing?
17 A If it's downgraded to unclass and shareable, if it's an actual production,
18 that's something that our unit will receive from the analytic section or the Office of 19 Private Sector. Usually, it's only finished production that we would share in that case.
20 But I am addressing your LIR issue. But there are plenty of other unclassified, you know,
21 pieces of information that we would also share.
22 Q Is that ordinarily shared via email or another medium?
23 A Typically email. Typically email.
24 Q Directly to an executive at a financial institution?
25 A Or it could be briefed orally over, you know, like a Teams briefing or

1 something like that.

2 Q Do you have to get approval prior to sharing those materials?

3 A Only approval in a sense of typically our upper management would say,

4 this is -- if it's a finished production, finished intelligence production, we typically would

5 get it from either our unit chief or our section chief and say, "Feel free to share it with

6 your partners."

7 Q Okay. And does the private sector regularly share information with you?

8 A Yes.

9 Q Outside of the Bank Secrecy Act space, do they share other kinds of

10 materials?

11 A I don't really understand the question.

12 Q Do they share PowerPoints? Do they share documents?

13 A Yeah, I don't know that that would be outside their BSA requirements.

14 Q So they only would share things that are pursuant to the Bank Secrecy Act?

15 A Well, BSA data, in general, is, you know, it requires the financial institutions

16 to obligate to share suspicious activity and other information. So, within those kind of 17 broad -- that broad scope, I would say it's all generally within BSA.

18 Q Okay. And what medium is that information normally shared?

19 A BSA data, it would be due the FinCEN portal -- or once SAR is published, it

20 may be through an email -- a secure email portal.

21 Q And, once it's received, how is it stored within the Bureau?

22 A Once it's received, typically the unit, depending on what we review -- first of

23 all, we review the information that we receive from them every time as we're receiving it

24 from an executive level. You have to understand that there are like 5 million SARs that

25 are published a year. So, if I am receiving, say, give or take, a hundred SARs in a given

1 year, I'm receiving a handpicked SAR from an executive at a financial institution that 2 thinks that it might be worthy of taking a look at. There is no understanding by the 3 institution that that would require us to open an investigation. But the fact that the 4 executive is highlighting that is enough for me to say, "Yeah, I'm going to review what you
5 send me," and then further assess does this need to be looked at further.
6 Q So, within that universe of 5 million SARs, you said you get a hundred or so,
7 we'll say. So there are SARs that are filed in the FinCEN portal, and then there are SARs
8 that are sent directly to you from an executive?
9 A All of the SARs that are sent to me are already published in the FinCEN
10 portal.
11 Q So, in addition to sending them in the portal, it may be sent to you?
12 A Might be. A number of times within my role at the time, there would be 13 occasions where they would just give me the BSA ID, and then one of our analysts on our 14 time would retrieve that with from the FinCEN portal. Or we have a SIPRNet access to 15 SARs that the Bureau intakes that will take a look at it that way.
16 Q And why would they ordinarily send it in addition to filing it in the portal to 17 you or someone on your team?
18 A If they thought that it was worthy of taking -- for me or someone on my 19 team to take a review, they may send it once it's published by the institution into the 20 FinCEN portal.
21 Chairman Jordan. And who makes the determination whether it gets to you?
22 Is it the executive at the bank or is it someone in the FBI who is screening them all and 23 then -- or could it be both?
24 Mr. Sullivan. No, it's generally the executive at the bank or the supervisor.
25 Chairman Jordan. So they have to -- according to the Bank Secrecy Act, they

1 have to time some -- they file these SARs, and it goes into this portal. And then they
2 said, "These 5 million we filed, I think this is important enough" -- that they are going to 3 alert you to it.
4 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah, I mean, when I say 5 million, that's across all financial
5 institutions.
6 Chairman Jordan. I understand.
7 Mr. Sullivan. So that would be kind of the strategic picture of the volume of it.
8 But, within the line-item SARs that are sent to my attention, it's because they think that it
9 either could have a potential terrorist nexus or, a number of the executives that I've dealt 10 with, because we had a very robust program and engaging with the private sector.
11 Oftentimes, they may -- the information that they would share may be involved in 12 nonterrorist issues, and they knew that we had good cross-divisional communication with 13 our other operational divisions, whether it be the Criminal Investigative Division, Cyber 14 Division, or WMDD, or, in rare cases, counterintelligence. So, if we felt after reviewing 15 the information that would be relevant to one of the other operational divisions, that 16 trust with the executives and the executives that I was engaging with at the time knew
17 that I would find the right home for it to put it in front of whatever investigator or 18 supervisor should take a look and determine at that point if it warranted further 19 investigative review.
20 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q And so, once you receive one and you start that review process, what does 23 that review look like?
24 A Just reviewing -- I mean, primarily reviewing the SAR narrative, which is at 25 the conclusion of the end of the SAR; making sure that I understand the suspicious

1 activity; the information that's being communicated, if I have any questions in my mind
2 about that, I may request the supporting documentation. If, in fact, it came with the 3 SAR, or it was listed in the narrative that there's supporting documentation for it, I would
4 request that. If I still had questions, then I may ask the question again. That was kind
5 of a critical first review piece before I determined whether or not we were going to take a
6 further look at it and either assign it to the SSA that was working for me at the time or an 7 analyst on our team.
8 Q What is supporting documentation?
9 A Supporting documentation may or may not be included referenced in a SAR.
10 Typically it's referenced within the narrative that supporting documentation exists. It 11 could be, you know, every -- you know, the scope of supporting documentation could be 12 very informal research or screen shots of data that they were looking at that helped them
13 formulate the SAR narrative and actually published the SAR. So it could be a Word doc.
14 It could be an Excel spreadsheet. It could be just various, you know, very open-sourced
15 intelligence type of things that the bank would have access to. Oftentimes, you know,
16 screen shots of, you know, commercial software that they used in order to do better due
17 diligence on the thing that they were investigating.
18 Q Does it often include customer names or just the customer transactions?
19 A Sometimes. Not all the time.
20 Q Okay. Do you interact often with the Office of Private Sector?
21 A Often, I interact with them. What would you consider often?
22 Q Well, why don't you tell me? How often do you interact with them?
23 A In my role at the time?
24 Q Yeah.
25 A Probably once a quarter, roughly. So four times a year -- I'm

1 generalizing -- maybe more. Maybe eight. It might be four.

2 Q As the financial sector liaison, how are the responsibilities that you had

3 similar or different to the role of the Office of Private Sector?

4 A Yeah, so the Office of Private Sector, they have more of an overarching

5 engagement role to the private sector. There -- think of them -- I generalize here, but

6 Office of Private Sector would be more of the C-suite engagement at kind of the 7 wide-scoped C-suite engagement kind of level. We do a lot of information sharing that

8 reaches unclass levels. You mentioned LIR, and you mentioned LIR. There are a

9 number of things that they would share from OPS whereas, at the Counterterrorism

10 Division level and other operational divisions, that engagement is to support operations.

11 So that engagement is direct to support operations and to share information on the 12 threat.

13 Q So you would say your work is more granular?

14 A Yeah, I mean, in a general sense, you could say that, but the Office of Private 15 Sector's work is no less important than ours. It just serves a different function.

16 Q Okay.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q And when did your engagement with the FBI's investigation into the events

19 that occurred at the Capitol on January 6th, 2021, begin?

20 A I couldn't tell you the exact time, but it was immediately after the Capitol

21 riots.

22 Q And how did that engagement start?

23 A It just -- after the Capitol riots happened, there were -- obviously, there was

24 a large number of individuals that took part in violent, criminal behavior, and that, within

25 the first 24 hours -- and I'm generalizing here -- I believe that the Counterterrorism

1 Division had taken the lead knowing that there was some suspicion of domestic violent
2 extremist activity -- obviously not limited to that because there was other criminal
3 behavior. In that whole Capitol riots investigation, there were a lot of people there that
4 day. So the Counterterrorism Division started to get leads in on, you know, perpetrators
5 of the criminal behavior of the violent criminal behavior.
6 Q And which division did you have an understanding was leading the FBI's
7 investigation into the January 6th matter?
8 A I mean, there was a general sense -- at my level, there was a general sense
9 that the Counterterrorism Division would play at least a lead role at the time of the outset
10 of it. But, again, you know, oftentimes, you can see that there are, you know, violent
11 attacks that weren't maybe as large as the Capitol riots that turn into, say, like a Criminal 12 Division investigation. And it would remain with a Criminal Division, you know, squad in 13 the field depending on where the threat emanated from. So, in this particular case, we 14 knew Counterterrorism Division was at least one of, if not the lead, in the Capitol riots
15 investigation.
16 Q During your engagement on the January 6th investigation, did you interact
17 with the Washington Field Office at all?
18 A I did, not at the onset. I believe probably within the first 2 weeks. I don't 19 think we -- I don't think I interacted with the Washington Field Office in the first 2 or 20 3 days. But, again, it's possible I did, but you have to remember that, hours after and 21 then a day after and 2 days after, Counterterrorism Division is being flooded with leads,
22 tips and leads, calls with financial institutions. They want to know what's going on. So 23 there was a lot of triaging, as you might imagine, that happens on large events like that.
24 So it's possible I could have spoken to them within the first few days, but I believe that I 25 spoke to them probably like more like 2 weeks after.

1 Q And what was your specific role in the investigation? Were you tasked with
2 doing anything?
3 A No, just to receive information, triage information, review information that
4 internally that we were receiving on investigations, determining what deserved priority,
5 what we should be sharing with the institutions versus, you know, some of the internal 6 communication that our unit would be doing with the other operational units.
7 Q And when did you start sharing information with financial institutions?
8 A Well, I believe the -- I believe the first -- I believe this is the case that the 9 Financial Crimes Enforcement Network the Friday after the Capitol riots asked
10 Counterterrorism Division to jump on a call with them on Friday afternoon. It was an ad
11 hoc meeting. And I was told by my upper management to represent Counterterrorism
12 Division on the call.
13 Q And your upper management being which title or which role was that
14 individual?
15 A Unit chief and section chief.
16 Q And you were to represent the whole Counterterrorism Division on that call.
17 Is that correct?
18 A Yeah. That was my understanding, yes.
19 Q Okay.
20 [redacted] Following the events at the Capitol on January 6th, are you aware 21 of communications between FBI and Bank of America?
22 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.
23 [redacted] I would now like to enter in two emails from Peter Sullivan to 24 Bank of America, both dated January 15th, 2021, with the subject line, "Upcoming SAR 25 product idea/brainstorming and check-in with you both" into the record as exhibit 1.

1 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 1.

2 Was marked for identification.]

3 [redacted] Can you confirm that you sent these emails?

4 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.

5 [redacted] I will just note for the record that these documents were produced

6 to the committee from Bank of America. And you will see at the bottom the Bates

7 stamp indicate that it came from Bank of America. I just wanted to make sure you knew

8 where there was coming from, but please take a moment to review.

9 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah. I'm familiar.

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q Is this the first email correspondence you had with Bank of America directly 12 following January 6th?

13 A I don't know if it was the first, but it's certainly -- on the 15th. I don't know

14 if it was the first. I would be surprised if it was the first, but I also wouldn't be surprised

15 if it was the first. Because I spoke with a lot of financial institutions this week, the week

16 following, and the weeks following that. But this is my email to them for sure. Both.

17 Q The second email states that you and Bank of America had a phone call

18 before you sent the email. Do you remember that phone call?

19 A Yes.

20 Q And?

21 A I had two phone calls actually. So there was a phone call that occurred

22 before, before the email on the 15th and then a phone call that occurred before the email

23 on the 15th that went out at 12:40, the second one that you showed me.

24 Q And what did you discuss on those calls?

25 A The Bank of America representative who I knew who I knew was on the

1 FinCEN call that was invited by FinCEN to participate in a Friday call were not the two
2 people that that individual wanted me to speak with. It was my understanding, through
3 the phone call, before this email that that individual from Bank of America who has also 4 held a supervisory role wanted me to get with the two individuals on the email that I sent 5 at 9:56 on the 15th.
6 Q And so, on the second phone call, what was discussed?
7 A A lot of what you see in the email was discussed. A lot of what you see in 8 the email, I can't say exclusively, is what I discussed on the FinCEN call, the Friday before.
9 But a lot of the fact-based pattern indicators where FinCEN asked us to discuss different 10 fact-based patterns that would help institutions look at their data, review their data for 11 anything worth things that would help the institutions understand if they had any threats
12 that may help cover down on the threat to Inauguration Day.
13 Q So you reached out to these two individuals from Bank of America as a result
14 of a Bank of America individual on the FinCEN call reaching out to you?
15 A Say that again, I'm sorry?
16 Q Well, I'm trying to follow, when you reached out to Bank of America on the 17 first email, why did you reach out to them?
18 A Because of the phone call that I had with one of the two individuals on the 19 attention line, the one I sent on 9:56 a.m., she was privy to getting a heads up from the 20 individual that was on the FinCEN call the Friday before that FinCEN asked me to jump on.
21 And that discussion was, "Yeah, let's touch base." So this was me following up that 22 phone call and touching base.
23 Q And that --
24 A And, adding other executive onto the email, which was also discussed on the 25 phone call.

1 Q And she was privy to what?

2 A The fact that one of her colleagues at --

3 Q Bank of America?

4 A Yes. One of her colleagues at Bank of America had sat in on the financial 5 crimes enforcement call to discuss the threat to Inauguration Day.

6 BY [redacted]

7 Q When you say do you have time this morning to discuss SARs and a couple of 8 ideas, what did you mean by a couple ideas?

9 A That would just be me informally just saying, you know, brainstorming,

10 which I often did with all financial institutions.

11 Q You said brainstorming. Is that correct?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And, when you were brainstorming, was that information you could share

14 with Bank of America, or was that information that Bank of America can share with the

15 FBI?

16 A Yeah, and any time that we would be brainstorming over the phone or on a

17 Teams call or any other medium, it would be unclassified information that I could share

18 with them.

19 Q Okay. So, when you said you have couple of ideas, that was information

20 going to Bank of America, in your mind?

21 A Yeah, just to talk about the threat.

22 Chairman Jordan. Do you know what the subject line means? You say,

23 "Upcoming SAR product idea/brainstorming and check-in with you both." Were you

24 suggesting to them information that you wanted from them?

25 Mr. Sullivan. No, I mean, if anything, oftentimes, you know, unlike the other

1 set -- there were a lot of other sectors that don't have SAR provisions as part of their
2 regulatory regime. So, oftentimes, I may say SAR product idea because I know that's
3 primarily what medium they would have if they found something that met a SAR
4 threshold, it would be a SAR. It wouldn't be something else. In other words, for this
5 particular email, the discussion wasn't going to discuss -- which I sent various other emails
6 that actually discussed this, would be expediting subpoenas or something that was on the 7 proactive side from the Bureau trying to get information that was also through a lawful
8 purpose. In this particular case, because I work with all banks and all nonbank financial 9 institutions that have SAR reporting obligations, this is just me generalizing in terms of 10 what may come if, in fact, they met SAR thresholds for those brainstorming. If they 11 didn't, then I wouldn't get a SAR.
12 Chairman Jordan. Maybe I don't fully appreciate -- understand how SAR works
13 then. The banks are required to give certain information, SARs, is the, you know, how 14 it's done is my understanding. So you said earlier there are millions sent to whatever 15 number you use, some number, sent to the government.
16 Mr. Sullivan. FinCEN.
17 Chairman Jordan. FinCEN. But I guess when I read this subject line, it's almost 18 like you're saying, "Hey, this is information, or this is the kind of SAR." -- I am just not 19 fully understanding this subject line. Because it looks like you are the one trying to 20 initiate what should go in this and when this report should come.
21 Mr. Sullivan. No.
22 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
23 Mr. Sullivan. No. I mean, if a SAR came from it, again, I would go back to -- you
24 know, my engagement was not just with Bank of America. My engagement was with all
25 finance sector. And so that covered banks, fintech, it covered neo banks,

1 cryptocurrency, I mean, you name it.

2 Chairman Jordan. So what does that mean, "Upcoming SAR product idea"?

3 What was the idea that you shared with.

4 Mr. Sullivan. No, I think, in general, institutions on the call, FinCEN relayed, you

5 know, the Bureau could potentially assist in helping the financial institutions understand

6 how to look at that threat. Obviously, with the Capitol riots, when you look at it from an

7 event and from a crime scene, obviously, there are a lot of lawful citizens there to

8 participate, and there are a lot of people that participated in criminal violent activity.

9 So, from a kind of a larger investigation standpoint, knowing on the FinCEN call what was

10 specifically discussed was FinCEN wanted the institutions to hear how might they go

11 about understanding what the potential threat to Inauguration Day was.

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q And, if you flip to next page of exhibit 1, there is that followup email that

14 we've discussed that looks like you sent this first email, you had a call, and then you sent 15 this followup email that identified threshold. Were these thresholds discussed on the 16 call?

17 A On the call, and many of these were discussed on the FinCEN call.

18 Q And who came up with these thresholds?

19 A I mean, I certainly came up with some of the thresholds in terms of 20 fact-based patterns that would help them narrow their focus. Meaning, in and of 21 themselves, none of these indicators were discussed either on the FinCEN call or my

22 followup calls with Bank of America or any other institution, that, in and of themselves,

23 they could put, you know, they could narrow their focus by just one of those indicators.

24 It was specifically discussed that these fact-based patterns would be looked at collectively

25 in order for the institutions to actually find out whether or not they can narrow their

1 focus enough.

2 Q And so did all of the thresholds that were mentioned here in the bullet

3 points, did those all have to be met, or was it just one?

4 A That was the assumption. How the bank, however, whether or not they

5 felt they met threshold for SARs, that would be exclusively up to them.

6 Q So do you know how Bank of America interpreted these thresholds? Was it

7 all of these thresholds had to be met or just one?

8 A That was my understanding.

9 Q It was your understanding that Bank of America thought all of these

10 thresholds had to be met in order for someone to be included in the SAR?

11 A In order for them to narrow their focus or to understand whether or not that

12 focus with all factors present, along with any other activities they saw, right, because we

13 don't have access to their duty, if collectively those met SAR thresholds, then I knew that

14 potentially I would get that in the form of a SAR because financial institutions have BSA

15 SAR reporting thresholds that they can use.

16 Q So it's your understanding that Bank of America, in looking through their

17 customer data, would have to with look to see whether purchases were made in the 18 Washington, D.C., area between the 5th and the 6th and then, subsequent to that,

19 reservations were made at a hotel or Airbnb for the day before or during the 20 inauguration, just to name the first few.

21 [redacted] I'm sorry; are you asking his understanding or Bank of America's 22 understanding of it?

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q His understanding, and then we can take it both.

25 A Yes.

1 Q So that was your understanding. And do you know if Bank of America
2 understood it that way?
3 A I assume they did because I discussed -- I had frequent interaction with both 4 individuals that I was on the call with.
5 Q And then, looking at the SAR that Bank of America filed with FinCEN and 6 others -- there's other emails I am sure we'll get into in a later hour where they send the 7 filing to you, did you look at that filing?
8 A Once it was published to FinCEN, I believe I did receive it in the secure email
9 portal, yes.
10 Q And did Bank of America's production of the SAR and information that was in 11 the SAR, did it correlate with these thresholds?
12 A It did.
13 Q And it correlated with the understanding that all of the thresholds needed to 14 be met?
15 A That's the way that I read the SAR narrative.
16 Q Okay.
17 Chairman Jordan. Do you recall how many individuals then were identified in 18 that SAR?
19 Mr. Sullivan. My recollection is that there were 211 individuals that met the 20 three thresholds that you can see within the email.
21 Chairman Jordan. So, backing up, when you said, the subject line both in this 22 email and the prior email, "Upcoming SAR production idea," then the production idea was 23 you produce a SAR if these three elements are met. Is that fair?
24 Mr. Sullivan. When you say "production idea," I mean, again, this is me -- that 25 subject line is a generalization of what I brainstorm and share information and concepts

1 with financial institutions all the time.

2 Chairman Jordan. So it's a subject line you use all the time?

3 Mr. Sullivan. I mean, it would be similar to a subject line that I might use for --

4 Chairman Jordan. Fair enough, but I guess I'm asking --

5 Mr. Sullivan. -- it, but the Capitol riots is a very unique situation, so, but I can't --

6 Chairman Jordan. Fair enough. But I'm asking -- you said, you recommended

7 like produce a SAR that has these -- if anyone -- the individual with these three elements

8 would be in a suspicious activity report that you would send to the government?

1 [11:00 a.m.]

2 Mr. Sullivan. I didn't say it produced a SAR, if that's what you're inferring. I
3 didn't tell the bank to produce a SAR. And they know that I would never tell them to 4 produce a SAR either.

5 Chairman Jordan. Okay, fine. I just want to make sure I understand.
6 Upcoming SAR product --

7 Mr. Sullivan. Uh-huh.

8 Chairman Jordan. -- and then you outlined three criteria that should be met, and 9 if so, you received a SAR that identified 211 people. That's what happened, right?

10 Mr. Sullivan. I received a SAR that had 211 individuals that met the three 11 fact-based patterns that --

12 Chairman Jordan. That you outlined to the bank?

13 Mr. Sullivan. That I discussed with the bank.

14 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

15 [redacted] And with the 211 --

16 Mr. Sullivan. This wasn't a one-way conversation. Sorry. I want to make that 17 clear. It was never a one-way conversation in any capacity when I discussed these types
18 of brainstorming ideas after a threat occurred with not just Bank of America, but any 19 institution.

20 Chairman Jordan. Understand. But you sent this email to Bank of America with 21 the subject line we've now discussed at length, with these three criteria having to be met,
22 and then subsequent to that, you received a SAR with 211 Americans' names on it that 23 met those three criteria?

24 Mr. Sullivan. That met those three criteria, correct.

25 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q And once the FBI received the SAR after it was posted on the FinCEN portal
3 and it identified the 211 individuals that met the thresholds, what did the FBI do with that
4 information?

5 A So I reviewed the SAR first. I reviewed the narrative. I verified that the 6 fact-based patterns were present, and I did -- either I requested or I was able to get the 7 supporting documentation once the SAR was published, so that I could see how they 8 pieced out. I don't know if you guys have read the -- if you've read the SAR. My 9 understanding is that you have.

10 Q Uh-huh.

11 A To understand, within -- they had tabs within the supporting documentation.
12 So I wanted to make sure that I understood the SAR narrative and the supporting 13 documentation, because once I review the SAR narrative in its entirety, I knew at a 14 minimum -- again, at a minimum -- there was a question that I needed to ask regarding 15 one of the fact-based patterns that I wanted headquarters to be able to -- my office to 16 then further review and determine if there was an assessment that we needed to push 17 out to respective field offices.

18 Q And what was that question that you needed answered?

19 A I called Bank of America and I wanted to understand, within the fact-based 20 patterns that they had down as weapons purchases since July, I wanted to know, of the 21 fact-based patterns that were met, which of those weapons purchases were -- and, again,
22 I can't stress this enough, weapons-related transactions -- which of those transactions,
23 from a data standpoint, was made after the Capitol riots, after Jan. 6th and before what 24 would be inauguration day and beyond.

25 So once I received the clarification on the supporting documentation within those

1 211 customers, I was -- I received the information that four individuals of the 211 met
2 that threshold that made weapons-related transactions after the 6th.
3 And so I remember going to my supervisor and saying, we should push out these 4 four, do baseline queries of these four, which are basic criminal background queries, and
5 push out via assessment -- it's called a Guardian. A Guardian is a no-stone-unturned
6 assessment. It's not an investigation. But we pushed those four guardians out to 7 three field offices, respectively.
8 Q And do you remember what field offices those were?
9 A Memphis, San Francisco, and Tampa.
10 Q And with the other, you know, 211 individuals as a whole, what action did
11 the FBI take on that information beyond just requesting information on firearm purchases
12 after the 6th?
13 A I can only speak generally --
14 Q Okay.
15 A -- to your question. I know that the information -- the four Guardians that 16 we did to three field offices, once the Guardians went out, we uploaded the four 17 Guardian references to what's called electronic communication, and that electronic 18 communication also included the case file for our internal unit, as well as the WFO case
19 file on the Capitol riots because Washington Field Office had the lead on the Capitol riots
20 investigation. And it's practice that if your Guardians that you're pushing out, either at 21 the headquarters level or at the field office level, that you would include a case file that's 22 related or linked to an open investigation. In this case, WFO had the case file, so we 23 uploaded the four Guardians in reference to the SAR for Washington Field Office.
24 From there, I know Washington Field Office had a number of leads that were sent.
25 I can't speak to the decisionmaking in those leads, and so you would have to ask

1 Washington Field Office about those.

2 There were a number of -- so ours, to be clear, ours was the four Guardians, and

3 there were a number of leads and a handful of Guardians that also went out that my unit

4 did not handle.

5 [redacted] Did you know that at the time?

6 Mr. Sullivan. No, I did not.

7 [redacted] We're at our hour, so we'll go off the record.

8 [Recess.]

9 [redacted] Okay. We can go back on the record.

10 EXAMINATION

11 BY [redacted]

12 Q Mr. Sullivan, thanks again for appearing here today. I'm going to step back

13 and ask some pretty general background questions.

14 You have been with the FBI for 25 years now?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And have you received any awards or recognition during your service?

17 A Yeah, many awards, time-off awards, of course, for priority foreign

18 counterintelligence investigations, including Robert Hanssen, the Stanislav Gusev case,

19 the Russian spy case, Anwar Awlaki. And I was nominated for the Director's Award. I

20 didn't receive it, but I was nominated in 2008 for a Southeast Asia case linked to a San

21 Jose material support sibling that was sending money over to his then famous

22 bomb-making brother over in the Philippines.

23 Q And when you say "material support," you mean material support for 24 terrorism?

25 A Correct.

1 Q That's the shorthand?

2 A Correct. And just, you know, other -- I did receive a Mission Integration

3 Award from the Office of Director of National Intelligence prior to returning back to 4 Counterterrorism Division and my role for the Strategic Engagement Unit.

5 Q And what was that award for?

6 A That was for mission integration. I took the lead, with other three-letter

7 agencies, to help enhance the policy and the intelligence footprint on a specific type of 8 national security threat.

9 Q I believe you stated in the earlier hour that you've worked about half of your 10 25-year career in the field of financial intelligence, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Can you describe what that means exactly, what intelligence means,

13 generally and specifically, what financial intelligence means?

14 A Sure. I mean, intelligence drives operations. You know, the FBI receives

15 over half of its tips and leads from private sector and foreign partners. And intelligence

16 comes in various forms. It's not just one type. There are several intelligence

17 disciplines where we receive intelligence. There's also tactical and operational

18 intelligence that a tactical analyst or an investigator, FBI agent, would get through, you

19 know, various means, whether commercial databases.

20 In the intelligence realm that I worked in, you know, of course there's the 21 classified intelligence you're getting from other collection platforms within the intel

22 community and the law enforcement community, law enforcement sensitive level. And

23 integrating that intelligence is what continues to drive and support operations, certainly

24 within the threats.

25 Primarily, my career has been in the Counterterrorism Division, so it's been for

1 supporting terrorist threats and terrorist operations and covering down on those, but not
2 limited to that.
3 Q Can you explain how specifically financial intelligence helps in 4 counterterrorism efforts? How does it help keep Americans safe?
5 A Yeah. I mean, it's one of many different aspects of how a terrorist might 6 acquire, move, store money in order to carry out an attack. And in another tactical very 7 basic sense, financial intelligence can illuminate a lot of deliberate information where that 8 person pattern -- it could tell pattern of life. It could understand, you know,
9 transactions that could indicate potential violent activity. It could highlight how a 10 terrorist might, you know, move their money in order to, you know, to support their daily 11 expense.
12 If you're looking at a network, finances can tell a lot about who's connected to 13 that network. But it's one of many. It's just -- but I believe it remains a critical piece of 14 looking at terrorism.
15 Q And is it fair to say that one of the critical pieces of that is that financial 16 intelligence can help you identify who might be a terrorist, whether it's an international 17 or domestic terrorist --
18 A Yes.
19 Q -- based on the nature of their purchases --
20 A Absolutely.
21 Q -- or their activities?
22 So I want to step back a minute and just talk about the FBI's mission generally.
23 The primary mission of the FBI is to protect the American people and uphold the 24 Constitution of the United States. Is that correct?
25 A Correct.

1 Q And protecting the United States from terrorist attacks is the top priority of
2 the FBI?
3 A Yes.
4 Q And does that include attacks by domestic terrorists?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And so the counterterrorism work of the FBI is really fundamental to what 7 the FBI is here to do in the United States, to protect Americans and keep us safe?
8 A Absolutely.
9 Q Are you familiar with the term "domestic violent extremism"?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay. And that's often abbreviated as DVE?
12 A Uh-huh. Yes.
13 Q And I believe you mentioned that earlier. So any time I use that phrase, 14 that's what I'm referring to.
15 A Okay.
16 Q Are you familiar with how the FBI defines domestic violent extremism?
17 How do you define it?
18 A Yeah. Generally, it's a terrorist that, basically, that has to satisfy three 19 different caveats. It would be that there is the -- some sort of ideology -- terrorist
20 ideology involved, that there's a violent aspect that's involved or an intent to use 21 violence, and that there's some sort of criminal activity present, obviously terrorist or 22 otherwise.
23 Q And so when you say there's an ideological component, the ideology itself is 24 not what would have somebody labeled as a domestic violent extremist --
25 A Correct.

1 Q -- correct?

2 A Yeah. All three would be required in order for even an investigation to be

3 opened up.

4 Q So it's essentially someone -- it would be fair to say that it refers to

5 somebody who wants to use -- threatens violence or actually uses violence to further

6 their ideological goals?

7 A Yeah. Violence is the -- really the linchpin of that, of the three.

8 Q And so the mere advocacy of a particular political or social position using

9 strong rhetoric, even just sort of a philosophic embrace of violent tactics is not enough,

10 correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q There has to be more, there has to be the actual official threat of violence or 13 actual violence?

14 A Uh-huh.

15 Q May I have a moment?

16 And in the domestic context we're talking about folks who are operating primarily

17 in the United States, if you're talking about a domestic violence extremist, correct?

18 A In most cases, yes.

19 Q Can you describe the current landscape in the United States with respect to 20 DVEs and what you're seeing, the nature of the threats they pose? Is it on the rise?

21 What are you seeing?

22 A Sure. Yeah, I can speak generally to it just because I'm not an all-source

23 analyst in the domestic terrorist -- you know, I'm not a domestic terrorist --

24 Q Fair enough.

25 A -- analyst. But in terms of my previous engagement looking at data related

1 to domestic violent extremists, I know that within the Counterterrorism Division, I know
2 during the social unrest leading up to the Capitol riots and since then, you're talking
3 about more than doubling of the cases within Counterterrorism Division that have been 4 opened at the time.
5 Q And I imagine you've seen a real spectrum of activity. For example, lone 6 actors committing acts of domestic extremism, correct?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And then also folks who mobilize in groups, correct?
9 A Yes. However, I would caveat that to say that State Department designates 10 foreign terrorist organizations so that opening investigations on international terrorism is 11 much easier.
12 The challenge is -- on the domestic terrorist side is, because there is no such thing
13 as a domestic terrorist group -- and you have to have those three factors that I mentioned 14 present -- the challenges to identifying networks are much greater than if you were 15 investigating it on the IT side.
16 Q So separate and apart from formal networks -- and by the way, "IT" you
17 mean international terrorism?
18 A International terrorism. Sorry about that.
19 Q That's okay.
20 Separate from the concept of a formal domestic terrorist organization, the FBI has 21 seen groups of people mobilize online through social media, for example, to act together
22 or at least talk about acting together to commit acts of violence to promote certain 23 ideologies.
24 A Yes.
25 Q Is that fair to say?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And would you agree that domestic violence extremists have a large

3 presence on the internet?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And that social media platforms and messaging platforms facilitate the

6 ability of these folks to radicalize and recruit individuals who might be receptive to their

7 message?

8 A Yes. Generally, yes.

9 Q And do you -- this might seem like a silly question, but it's something that I

10 have to ask because it seems there's some dispute about this. Do you believe that the 11 FBI should be devoting resources to identifying domestic terrorists and preventing

12 Americans from dying at their hands?

13 A Oh, I think that the FBI is dedicating resources to that.

14 Q And you believe that's an appropriate deployment of the FBI's resources?

15 A Well, you have to understand the Bureau. FBI's budget covers a myriad of 16 threats, all of which are priorities. National security threats aren't just within the 17 Counterterrorism Division, but they are in cyber, counterintelligence, and there are some

18 threats in the Criminal Investigative Division that are also national security threats.

19 So when you're talking about national security, I think that, in general, we don't

20 have enough resources to cover down on all threats, but I think that the response that

21 Counterterrorism Division has had on the domestic terrorist threat has been generally

22 appropriate.

23 Q You believe it's been proportional to the nature of the threat to the extent

24 possible with the resources you have?

25 A It has grown enough in the emphasis at the headquarters level that I've seen

1 has been dedicated to that growth.

2 Q Okay. Thank you.

3 Are you familiar with the Domestic Investigations and Operations Guide?

4 A Yes. Generally, yeah.

5 Q It's also referred to as the DIOG?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And the DIOG applies to all FBI employees and all other individuals operating

8 under the FBI's authority --

9 A Correct.

10 Q -- correct?

11 And it applies to all domestic intelligence activities conducted by the FBI?

12 A Correct.

13 Q And all of your work is covered by the DIOG?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And the DIOG is meant to ensure that the criminal and national security and 16 foreign intelligence investigative activities are consistent throughout the FBI?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Okay. I'd like to introduce an excerpt from section 3.1 of the public version

19 of the DIOG.

20 [redacted] And just to note for the record, the version we're introducing I think

21 is a year or two old. It's the non- -- I know part of the DIOG is currently

22 law-enforcement sensitive. We don't have access to that. This is the version that's 23 made to be publicly available that we're introducing.

24 [redacted] Okay.

25 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 2.

1 was marked for identification.]

2 [redacted] And you can see it says "unclassified" on the bottom.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q Okay. So section 3.1 starts by listing the core values of the FBI. And I'm

5 just going to read them into the record, and you can tell me if I read this correctly.

6 The first is rigorous obedience to the Constitution of the United States. The 7 second is respect for the dignity of all those we protect. The third is compassion. The

8 fourth is fairness. The fifth is uncompromising personal integrity and institutional

9 integrity. The sixth is accountability by accepting responsibility for our actions and

10 decisions and their consequences. The sixth (sic) is leadership, by example, both

11 personal and professional. And the seventh (sic) is diversity.

12 Did I read that correctly?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And are you familiar with these core values?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And through your 25 years at the FBI, have you worked to ensure that all of 17 your actions have adhered to those core values?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And have you witnessed a similar commitment from your colleagues at the 20 FBI?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And from FBI management as well?

23 A Yes.

24 [redacted] Mr. Sullivan, can I just ask you to speak up so the people at the end

25 of --

1 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah.

2 [redacted] -- the table can hear you.

3 Mr. Sullivan. Sure.

4 [redacted] Okay.

5 BY [redacted]

6 Q Now, the second sentence of the first paragraph underneath the core values

7 says, "Our individual and institutional rigorous obedience to constitutional principles and

8 guarantees is more important than the outcome of any single interview, search for 9 evidence, or investigation."

10 Do you agree with that sentence?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Okay. And is it fair to say that that means your goal in any one case or

13 situation cannot override your obedience to the Constitution and the other laws that

14 guide the FBI?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And that applies even if you're involving terrorism or domestic violence

17 extremism?

18 A Yes.

19 Q Now, you mentioned in the earlier hour, I believe you stated the mission of

20 the Strategic Engagement Unit, but I'd ask you to repeat it because I'm not quite sure I

21 caught it.

22 A Yeah. The mission of the engagement unit was to basically cultivate and

23 share information on core terrorist threats with the ability to help the private sector

24 understand the threats and help push out information that may be relevant to law

25 enforcement and support operations.

1 Q And operations with respect to terrorism -- counterterrorism?

2 A Correct.

3 Q Okay. So SEU is specifically about counterterrorism?

4 A It is. And we handled some leads that we would facilitate or push

5 information within other divisions.

6 Q And I believe you said that sometimes the people you knew at the banks

7 would send you leads on other issues because they knew that you would send them --

8 A Get it to the right person.

9 Q -- to the right people?

10 A Correct.

11 Q Are you familiar with the term "National Security Special Event"?

12 A Yes. Generally, yes.

13 Q Okay. What is your understanding of what a National Security

14 Special Event is?

15 A Yeah, a large event that is either -- oftentimes sees potential criminal activity

16 around it, so Super Bowl, other types of events. It could be something like the Capitol

17 riots or 9/11, that type of thing.

18 Q And would the Presidential inauguration fall under the category --

19 A Yes.

20 Q -- of a National Security Special Event?

21 A Yes.

22 Q I'd like to introduce a letter, January 31st of this year, and this is a letter

23 from Assistant Director Patrick Findlay to Chairman Jordan. And I'm not sure if you've 24 seen this, but you can take a few minutes to read it.

25 [redacted] Oh, of the FBI, correct?

1 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 3.

2 was marked for identification.]

3 [redacted] And Mr. Findlay is the assistant director -- FBI's assistant director for 4 congressional affairs.

5 [redacted] Oh, sorry. Thank you.

6 Mr. Sullivan. Yes, I've seen this.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Okay. So if you look at the second paragraph about midway through, it

9 says, "For NSSEs" -- which is the abbreviation for National Security Special Event -- "such

10 as an inauguration, the Super Bowl, or the Olympics, the FBI has designated responsibility

11 for domestic intelligence, counterterrorism, and the investigation of Federal crimes

12 leading into an event."

13 That's correct, I take it?

14 A Yes.

15 Q And that's your understanding?

16 A Yes, that's my understanding.

17 Q And, "Such events represent significant targets for a variety of criminal or

18 national security threats, and the FBI relies heavily on cooperation and coordination with

19 a variety of stakeholders to protect lives and security."

20 Do you agree with that statement as well?

21 A Yes.

22 Q The letter goes on to say, in the third paragraph, that, "The Strategic Partner

23 Engagement Section" -- which Chairman Jordan referenced in his letter to the FBI -- "can

24 play an important role in advance of NSSEs by developing proactive initiatives with key

25 interagency, public and private sector partners in furtherance of developing actionable

1 intelligence which can be leveraged to enhance threat mitigation and preventive
2 strategies."
3 Do you agree with that statement?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And does that statement characterize what your efforts were in the wake of
6 January 6th?
7 A Yeah. Generally, yes.
8 Q And then the letter goes on to say, "As part of this work, the Strategic 9 Partner Engagement Section partners with financial institutions in their effort to 10 safeguard the United States from the abuses of financial crime, including money
11 laundering, terrorist financing, and other illicit transactions."
12 Would you agree with that?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Okay. Now, banks are not required to work with SEU, correct?
15 A They're obligated to report suspicious activity. So knowing that suspicious
16 activity is almost exclusively in the hands of law enforcement agencies, to include the FBI,
17 not limited to the FBI but to include them, oftentimes paralleling that, they themselves 18 have programs where they feel that engagement is required or necessary -- they,
19 themselves.
20 Q So they're required to report the activity, but they could choose to not 21 engage with you in terms of brainstorming ideas for how to identify that activity.
22 A Absolutely.
23 Q Is that fair to say?
24 A Sure.
25 Q They could just take their own understanding of what they're required to

1 report, their own interpretation, and send it through the portal and not have the --
2 A Correct.
3 Q -- the type of partnership that you describe?
4 A Correct.
5 Q And it's their choice to have those partnerships with you?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Okay. So I want to talk a little bit about the Bank Secrecy Act, and I assume 8 that any time you said "BSA," you're referring to the Bank Secrecy Act?
9 A Correct.
10 Q So if you take a look back at Assistant Director Findlay's letter on the second 11 page --
12 A Yeah.
13 Q -- in the first paragraph, it says, "The Bank Secrecy Act and its implementing 14 regulations provide for financial institutions to report information for use, quote, in 15 criminal, tax, or regulatory investigations, risk assessments and proceedings, end quote,
16 including reports on, again quotation marks, suspicious transactions relevant to a possible
17 violation of law or regulation."
18 Is that your understanding of the Bank Secrecy Act.
19 A Yes.
20 Q And if you look at the footnote in that letter, it actually cites the U.S. Code
21 provisions that constitute the Bank Secrecy Act, correct -- or that are referenced there?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And I believe that you touched on this in the earlier hour, but the letter goes
24 on to state that, "Suspicious Activity Reports, or SARs, are filed with FinCEN and made
25 available, under strict statutory and regulatory protections, to the FBI and other

1 authorized law enforcement, national security, and regulatory agencies."

2 And that's consistent with your understanding of SARs --

3 A Correct.

4 Q -- and their availability -- excuse me -- availability to the FBI?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And the letter then goes on to say, "The FBI understands that the BSA and its

7 implementing regulations require financial institutions to determine what activities and

8 transactions are deemed persistent to -- deemed suspicious pursuant to the BSA."

9 And, again, that's consistent with your understanding of what the Bank

10 Secrecy Act requires?

11 A Correct.

12 Q So the banks are obligated to file a Suspicious Activity Report for anything

13 that meets the thresholds set by regulation, correct?

14 A Correct.

15 Q And it's up to them, the banks, not you, to determine whether they see

16 information that meets those thresholds --

17 A Correct.

18 Q -- and to compile the report?

19 [redacted] All right. And if I could just ask you to let her finish the question

20 before you answer so we --

21 Mr. Sullivan. Sure.

22 [redacted] -- have a clean record.

23 Mr. Sullivan. Sorry.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q And you indicated this earlier, but just to be clear, BSA data, including SARs,

1 is used across many types of criminal investigations in the FBI: money laundering,
2 organized crime, fraud, terrorism, drug trafficking. I mean, pretty much anything that
3 the FBI is investigating --
4 A Yes.
5 Q -- a SAR could be relevant to, correct?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Okay. And the FBI considers, as reflected in this letter, the preliminary and 8 unverified leads that you receive in SARs to be raw intelligence, correct?
9 A Yes.
10 Q And can you explain what that means? What does that phrase "raw 11 intelligence" mean?
12 A It's, you know, in any investigation, or if you're an analyst or an investigator,
13 raw intelligence would be all of the information that in and of itself may not be anything
14 but that helps you understand what is and isn't connected to the thing that you're looking 15 at.
16 So it could be -- raw information could be an informal tip from a private sector,
17 not even under the guidelines of the regulatory environment with BSA. SARs just 18 happened to be more formally regulated raw information. So there's -- raw information 19 could come in various forms.
20 Q Okay. Thank you.
21 And are there -- well, can you give us an example -- I know you've already 22 described several of the higher profile cases that you've worked on, but a case where a
23 SAR helped identify or prevent -- identify a perpetrator of a violent crime or helped 24 prevent one, can you think of a case?
25 A Yeah. In my mind of what's adjudicated, yes.

1 Q Yes. Thank you.

2 A So the FBI provided information regarding chemical precursors that could be
3 used for bomb-making materials and provided that information to -- the engagement unit
4 provided that information to a finance sector partner, who used that to set alerts within 5 their system, to understand, when they saw those transactions, what combination of 6 those chemical precursors were being purchased.

7 They -- obviously from a proactive standpoint, because they're setting the alerts
8 themselves on general chemical precursors in combination, they produced several SARs.
9 One SAR in particular looked like other SARs that had chemical precursor purchases in it.
10 The engagement unit reviewed it and decided that they were going to do a Guardian
11 assessment.

12 There's a terrorist explosive device -- they call it TEDAC -- down at Quantico that 13 verified our assessment that this should go to the field office. In this case, it was the 14 Chicago Field Office. The transactions for the chemical precursors, when Chicago
15 Field Office received the Guardian, they decided to go visit the consumer whose bank
16 account had made these transactions.

17 There was a husband and wife that lived there. When they asked them about 18 the transactions, they said, oh, that's our son, he's into science. And they asked if they 19 could see some of the things that, you know, he was into, and they agreed to a consented
20 search where FBI agents discovered elaborate plans for their son to carry out an attack at 21 his high school, using several pipe bombs, grenades, a backpack bomb that he, himself,
22 wrote down that it would kill between 12 and 20 people.

23 And they wound up arresting the person and -- the minor, and the case, you know,
24 obviously went from there, but that terrorist attack was prevented because of the SAR
25 that was published by the financial institution.

1 Q And if I understood what you just explained, the genesis for that SAR was the 2 Strategic Engagement Unit explaining to the banks what chemicals to look for because 3 the banks might not know that --
4 A Correct.
5 Q -- this combination of materials could be used to create a bomb?
6 A Correct.
7 Q And is that typical of the nature of the sort of advice and guidance that you
8 provide to your partners?
9 A Absolutely.
10 Q Okay. So even though the banks have their own -- they have their 11 reporting requirements, they might not know what transactions could be indicative of a
12 violent offense without the information provided to the FBI. I mean, sometimes I 13 imagine it's very obvious and other times --
14 A Yeah, correct.
15 Q -- it's --
16 A Yeah. I mean, I think the way that you characterize it is spot on. In some 17 cases they would know and they've already set up their alerts; in other cases, they would 18 use that law enforcement information to set their alerts.
19 Q And when the FBI receives any tip from a third party, including a SAR from a
20 financial institution, it has to take its own step to review that? It would conduct its own 21 review of that information, correct?
22 A Yes.
23 Q You don't open an investigation or send out a Guardian on every SAR that 24 comes in?
25 A Correct.

1 Q You have to go through a review process to determine if there is enough to
2 move forward with the initial steps of an investigation?
3 A Correct.
4 Q I want to step back a minute. We've talked a lot in the previous hour about
5 the events of January 6th. Can you describe, in your own words, what happened that
6 day?
7 A Yeah. You know, I would say, on that day there was a large gathering
8 outside the Capitol, and there were a number -- a large number of individuals that 9 decided to partake in violent, criminal activity, violence that was intended for not only 10 law enforcement but also threat of violence to a lot of the legislative branch members
11 that, you know, that I'm talking to today.
12 Q And you're aware that Director Wray has referred to the events of that day
13 as domestic terrorism -- acts of domestic terrorism?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And do you agree with that assessment?
16 A Yes.
17 Q And some of the participants in the riots that day displayed insignias that 18 have been used or adopted by DVEs, correct?
19 A Yes.
20 Q There were nooses and plastic restraints that were found at the Capitol or 21 stationed at or near the Capitol?
22 A Yes.
23 Q You're aware that people -- police officers were violently attacked, one was 24 killed that day?
25 A Yes.

1 Q People were chanting "Hang Mike Pence," correct, who was, of course, the 2 Vice President at the time?
3 A Yes. It's my understanding, yes.
4 Q So in the immediate aftermath of January 6th, you described the flood of 5 tips and the flood of activity. The FBI was concerned, I imagine, about preventing 6 further violence, whether on a smaller scale or a larger scale, that was fueled by the same
7 ideologies and motivations --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- that appealed to the folks who overtook the Capitol on January 6th?
10 A Correct.
11 Q Okay. Now, the inauguration of then President-elect Biden was scheduled 12 for 2 weeks -- about 2 weeks after that day, correct?
13 A Correct.
14 Q And as you've stated earlier, inauguration is a National Security
15 Special Event. And so the FBI was tasked with preventing acts of terrorism and violence 16 at that event, correct?
17 A Correct.
18 Q And after January 6th, online rhetoric regarding violence during the 19 inauguration increased. Is that correct?
20 A Absolutely, yes, correct. That was my understanding.
21 Q And your understanding was the FBI was seeing people online talking about 22 mobilizing to participate in acts of violence at the inauguration?
23 A Correct.
24 Q Similar to what we saw on January 6th?
25 A Correct.

1 Q And would you agree that January 6th showed that there were many,
2 perhaps thousands, of people who were willing to break the law and use violence to
3 prevent the peaceful transfer of power --
4 A Yes.
5 Q -- at that time from one President to another?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And the inauguration is the moment where that actually happens, where 8 power is transferred from one President to another?
9 A Correct.
10 Q And the FBI had specific intelligence indicating that it was likely that people
11 intended -- who were present at January 6th -- intended to return to D.C. to commit acts
12 of violence at the inauguration, correct?
13 A At the time that was my understanding, yes.
14 Q Okay. If I could have the January 14th email. And this is exhibit 4, I 15 believe, we're at.
16 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 4.
17 was marked for identification.]
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q So this is an email sent on January 14th, 2021, from the DSAC portal. Can 20 you explain what that is?
21 A Yeah. The DSAC portal is open to all DSAC members. The Office of 22 Private Sector is the one that coordinates that portal, and DSAC members, a lot of it's 23 Fortune 500 and large companies are members of the portal. They have access, and 24 they would receive -- they would ostensibly receive production within that portal, this 25 being one of the products.

1 Q And "DSAC" stands for the Domestic Security Alliance Council?
2 A Correct.
3 Q And can you just describe briefly what that is and what the portal is?
4 A Again, it's Office of Private Sector's portal for communicating production
5 related to a gamut of threats. It wouldn't be limited to terrorism, but any threats that 6 are relevant to FBI and the FBI operational divisions.
7 Q Okay. And it's open to any private sector company that meets certain 8 thresholds, correct?
9 A Correct.
10 Q Based on their revenue and --
11 A Right.
12 Q -- that sort of thing?
13 And it has a public website, correct?
14 A Uh-huh, yes.
15 Q So I could go on, I can look and see who the members are and who the 16 leaders are, that sort of thing?
17 A Yeah. I haven't been on the site in a while, but I think generally, yes.
18 Q Now, according to this email, the subject line is, "Some Domestic Violent 19 Extremists Likely Will React With Violence to the Presidential Transition Process." That's 20 the subject line, correct?
21 A Yes. That's what I'm reading here, yes.
22 Q And the email indicates in the first paragraph that, "The FBI assesses some 23 domestic violence extremists, DVEs, including anti-government or anti-authority violent
24 extremists, specifically militia violent extremists, abbreviated as MVEs, are very likely to 25 attend alleged armed protests where they are likely to use violence in response to what

1 they perceive as the illegitimate transfer of power from the current President to a new
2 administration."
3 Did I read that correctly?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And the FBI made this assessment of the likelihood of violence at the 6 inauguration with high confidence based on FBI CHS reporting -- and that stands for 7 confidential human source, correct?
8 A Correct.
9 Q -- open source information and law enforcement information reporting calls
10 for violence, correct?
11 A Correct.
12 Q And then this email has some examples of some of those threats and some 13 of those sources. So if you look at the second example, there was a human source with 14 direct assets, and the last sentence says that that human source reported that DVEs
15 reportedly plan to storm government offices on 20th of January 2021, according to that 16 human source, correct?
17 A Correct.
18 Q And January 20th of 2021 was the day of the inauguration?
19 A Correct.
20 Q And if you look at a few lines down, it says, "As of 8th of January, multiple 21 social media postings promoted the 'Million Militia March' on 20th of January 2021, to 22 prevent the new President from entering the White House, according to law enforcement
23 information."
24 Is that correct?
25 A Correct.

1 Q So these are just some examples of the specific threats that the FBI had
2 identified to the inauguration?
3 A Correct.
4 Q And if someone were to bring, for example, a fully automatic firearm to the 5 inauguration, they could potentially kill thousands of people, correct?
6 A Ostensibly, correct.
7 Q Including the soon-to-be inaugurated or the immediately inaugurated
8 President and his family?
9 A Sure.
10 Q The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court who's administering the oath?
11 A Correct.
12 Q And as this document reflects, the FBI was concerned the violence could spill
13 over outside of Washington, D.C., to the rest of the country, correct?
14 A Correct.
15 Q And as the first paragraph of this email indicates, the FBI was concerned that 16 potential violence could result in a range of consequences, including the loss of life,
17 property damage, disruption of government operations, and the overwhelming of U.S.
18 local, State, and Federal law enforcement, correct?
19 A Correct.
20 Q And the FBI, including you and your colleagues at SEU, wanted to use all of 21 the tools at the FBI's disposal to prevent that from happening, correct?
22 A Correct.
23 Q And in fact, you had a duty, as part of a sworn officer of the FBI, to do
24 everything possible within the letter of the law to prevent that from happening, correct?
25 A Correct.

1 Q And would you agree that the events of January 6th demonstrated that the
2 threat posed by DVEs in this country was greater and more imminent than previously
3 understood?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And that the successful breach of the Capitol and the loss of life that ensued
6 brought home the urgency of the threat to our national security that DVEs posed?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Now, you mentioned FinCEN during the earlier hour. That's the Financial 9 Crimes Enforcement Network of the Treasury Department, correct?
10 A Correct.
11 Q And they were also tasked with trying to prevent an attack on the 12 inauguration?
13 A Correct. That was my understanding.
14 Q Okay. And you mentioned a call that you participated in on the Friday after 15 January 6th. Was that call about -- was it focused on threats to the inauguration?
16 A Yeah. I mean, summarize on the call. So when I was told by my upper 17 management to represent Counterterrorism Division on the call, as a FinCEN-sanctioned
18 call, the gist of the -- of what I discussed on it was, you had the Capitol riots, violent 19 criminal activity as an event, and you had the investigation of that, and then you had the 20 inauguration that was happening soon and the unknown threat to that. So there's 21 managing the threat, right, and also supporting investigation.
22 Q And the conversations that you had with the bank representatives that led 23 to the email that we talked about -- and we'll get to that in a minute -- those were 24 focused on the future threat to the inauguration?
25 A Correct.

1 Q And it was about the inauguration specifically?

2 A Correct.

3 Q Okay. And all of the methods that were discussed in those calls and in

4 those emails, in these post-January 6th communications that you had with the bank, all of 5 these were in compliance with the requirement for the Bank Secrecy Act, correct?

6 A Absolutely.

7 Q Now, going back to your email, which was exhibit 1, there was a lot of talk

8 during the previous hour about the subject line. But just to be clear, the -- well, let me

9 ask you, the nature of the conversations that you were having with these Bank of America

10 employees, were they in the same vein as the conversations that you described in that

11 chemical precursor investigation where you were helping to identify what they should be

12 look -- you know, what to keep an eye out for, what might indicate --

13 A Yes.

14 Q -- suspicious activity?

15 A Similar in the sense of discussing the threat, talking about the threat, yes.

16 Q It was --

17 [redacted] Sorry. Could we go off the record for 1 minute?

18 [redacted] Absolutely.

19 [Discussion off the record.]

20 [redacted] And so I just wanted to be clear --

21 [redacted] Back on the record.

22 [redacted] Oh, sorry. Back on the record. Thank you.

23 BY [redacted]

24 Q The full subject line of this email says, "Re, colon, upcoming SAR product 25 idea, slash, brainstorming and check-in with you both," correct?

1 A Correct.

2 Q It doesn't just say "upcoming SAR product." It's an idea?

3 A Correct.

4 Q You were talking about -- I mean, "brainstorming" is self-explanatory, but

5 essentially you were discussing with the bank employees things they might look for. But

6 you at no point directed them to file a SAR for anything that met these thresholds,

7 correct?

8 A Correct.

9 Q It was up to the banks to consider the information you gave them, review

10 their own data, and make their own determination about whether a SAR was appropriate

11 or required under the Bank Secrecy Act?

12 A Correct.

13 Q Now, just to be clear -- you stated this during the prior hour, but I want to

14 make sure that it is very clear -- in your mind -- and your understanding was that Bank of

15 America understood this -- all of the thresholds had to be met that were specified in this

16 email, correct?

17 A In order to help the bank narrow their focus, correct.

18 Q So you didn't tell the bank, anyone who made a purchase in Washington,

19 D.C. on January 5th or January 6th, that alone is enough, we're interested in that?

20 A Right, correct.

21 Q And a purchase of an Airbnb or a hotel reservation in the D.C. area for the

22 time of the inauguration, that wouldn't be enough --

23 A Correct.

24 Q -- correct?

25 And historical weapons or weapons-related purchase going back 6 months, that

1 would not be enough, correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q It had to be all three?

4 A It had to be, correct.

5 Q And that was what you indicated to the banks?

6 A That's what we discussed.

7 Q That's what you discussed, correct?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And your understanding was that's what the banks understood?

10 A That's what the banks understood of capabilities, how to narrow their focus,

11 correct.

12 Q And to be clear, your email doesn't mention firearms specifically at all,

13 correct?

14 A Right.

15 Q Okay. It just talks about weapons generally?

16 A Correct. Because the financial institution would not necessarily, in most 17 cases, not only have information tied to the type of transaction.

18 Q And just at a higher level, you were hoping to identify people who were

19 present at the Capitol, participated in those violent acts, and intended to return and 20 commit more violent acts at the inauguration? That was the goal of these 21 conversations, correct?

22 A The end goal, correct.

23 [redacted] Can you explain -- the criteria that we just walked through, can you

24 explain your understanding of why these criteria would identify individuals who had

25 committed acts of violence -- or had been present at the Capitol intended to return to the

1 inauguration to commit acts of violence?

2 Mr. Sullivan. Well, first, just to clarify, not to commit acts of violence, but

3 potentially committed acts of violence. I mean, which do you want me to address? Do

4 you want me to just read it or --

5 [redacted] I'm thinking, you know, we've walked through what each one of the 6 criteria says on its face, but you've said over and over it was the combination of these

7 three together that were designed to help identify relevant individuals. Can you explain

8 your understanding of why that was?

9 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah. I would simply say that these are all just fact-based

10 patterns that would narrow the focus of anybody that was doing data exploitation,

11 whether you were in a bank or another institution that would have data relevant to being 12 able to look at those factors together at the same time.

13 [redacted] Thank you.

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q And according to your understanding of the Bank Secrecy Act, the 16 information that you provided to the banks and any information they would've presented

17 to you in response to that conversation, you do not need legal process for that, correct?

18 A If I was receiving something in a SAR, I knew that the institution made -- met

19 SAR thresholds. So once it's published into FinCEN, I am a law enforcement recipient

20 just like any other law enforcement agency that has access to the same data.

21 Q And so once they filed that SAR, you knew they had made their own

22 determination that it met that threshold?

23 A Correct.

24 Q Okay. So I want to talk a little bit about the SAR. We discussed it briefly,

25 and I know we don't have it here, but I think you'll be able to answer these questions.

1 First, I just want to make clear, the SAR indicated that there were 211 total
2 customer relationships that were identified that met the three thresholds that we
3 discussed, correct?
4 A Correct.
5 Q Now, I believe Chairman Jordan said that there was a list of 211 Americans,
6 but we don't know that they were all Americans, correct?
7 A No.
8 Q It could've been any --
9 A Correct.
10 Q -- foreign nationals who were doing business with the bank?
11 Yeah, it could've been business entities as well, correct.
12 A Correct.
13 Q Okay. And the SAR itself did not have a list of those names, correct?
14 A The SAR itself did not have a list of those names, correct.
15 Q Right. That was part of the supporting documentation that was referenced
16 in the SAR?
17 A That's correct.
18 Q And the SAR -- the supporting documentation was divided into three tabs,
19 correct?
20 A I think it was more than that. I think there were more tabs.
21 Q Okay. But the initial tab was everybody who met those first three criteria,
22 correct?
23 A Yes, I believe so. I think the last tab -- the last tab, from what I recall, had 24 all 211 on it.
25 Q Okay. Thank you.

1 And the way the bank -- and tell me if this comports with your
2 memory -- described those three criteria were, customers confirmed with transacting,
3 either through bank account debit card or credit card purchases in Washington, D.C.,
4 between January 5th and January 6th, 2021.
5 That's the first part of the threshold, correct?
6 A Correct.
7 Q And then purchases made for hotel, Airbnb, RSVPs in D.C., Virginia, and 8 Maryland since January 6th, 2021, correct?
9 A Correct.
10 Q And any historical purchase of weapons or at a weapons-related merchant
11 since July 15th, 2020, correct?
12 A Correct.
13 Q It wasn't ever in the history of time --
14 A Correct.
15 Q -- if you made a weapons purchase. It was limited by time?
16 A That was never discussed --
17 Q Okay.
18 A -- past that date.
19 Q And as you testified in the previous hour, you had follow-up conversations 20 where you wanted to identify individuals whose weapons-related purchases postdated
21 January 6th?
22 A Correct.
23 Q Okay. Can you explain why that was important to you?
24 A After reviewing the SAR and seeing that -- you know, knowing that 211
25 customers met the criteria, I knew that was still a very small amount when you look at

1 the -- when you compare it to the Bank of America's customer base. But my intent,
2 again, going back to the call from FinCEN, including my call with Bank of America and the 3 email that we discussed, was covering down on potential threats to inauguration day.
4 So I felt, just as the transactions that you detailed that were post-January 6th, I
5 wanted to know, because the weapons-related transactions were since July, I wanted to 6 know, of the 211, how many we were talking about that also made transactions just after 7 January 6th, not since July of 2020.
8 Q And why would it be significant to you that somebody made a weapons
9 transaction post-January 6th? What was the nature of your interest in that?
10 A Because while it wouldn't necessarily mean that there was criminal activity
11 involved, it certainly, from a very -- narrowing the focus even further on the law
12 enforcement side, knew that we knew at the engagement unit, at the headquarters unit,
13 those four that wound up being those four identified, we didn't want to sit on potential
14 risk. And in order to offload that risk, in essence, we want to ensure that those 15 Guardian assessments were pushed out, those four, to the three field offices.
16 Q And when you say "sit on potential risk," you mean -- well, what do you
17 mean? I'm not going to put words in your mouth.
18 A If in the assessment, when the field office reads the assessment, it's up to 19 them to take further investigative activity. Those investigative activities would vary, but 20 it's at a very low level because there's no open investigation. It's a -- it's a 21 no-stone-unturned, low-level look at whether or not the field office thinks that there's a
22 threat there.
23 Q And just going back, so anyone on that list had made a purchase for a hotel
24 or some sort of accommodation in the D.C. area after January 6th, correct?
25 A I'm sorry. Repeat that.

1 Q Anybody who was on the list that was in the supporting documentation for
2 the SAR had made a purchase for a hotel or Airbnb or some sort of accommodation in the 3 D.C. area post-January 6th?
4 A Correct. That was my understanding of the SAR.
5 Q And the reason for that is that indicates an intent to return to this area or to 6 travel to this area?
7 A In terms of the reservations, correct, yes.
8 Q Correct. And the four individuals who made -- well, you asked for 9 weapons-related purchases post-January 6th because the combination of a
10 weapons-related purchase and a hotel reservation to come to D.C. might raise alarm that 11 the person is coming to D.C. to use that weapon, correct?
12 A Ostensibly, but at the headquarters level, we wouldn't know that. That 13 would be up to the field office to further investigate.

1 [12:12 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q And that's what you mean by sitting on risk -- is you just pushed

4 out -- "maybe take a look at this person," and it's up to the field office to determine

5 whether or not to take look at the person?

6 A Correct.

7 Q The guardians that you sent out, they were, well actually -- the guardians

8 you sent out were information-only leads. Is that correct?

9 A Correct.

10 Q So what does that mean in the FBI parlance?

11 A It means, while there wasn't any definite -- there wasn't any criminal activity

12 identified, that the assessment itself that headquarters wanted to ensure that the field

13 office knew that those fact-based patterns were met in this case, and that any further

14 activity that they chose to do may help them identify potential criminal activity.

15 Q And they don't have to take any further action at all?

16 A Correct.

17 Q Correct? They could --

18 A Correct.

19 Q They could do absolutely nothing with that information?

20 A Correct.

21 Q And the SAR itself made clear, it actually stated that the individuals who

22 were part of the supporting documentation were not considered suspect at that time and

23 that it was filed for informational purposes only, correct?

24 A That's my recollection of the SAR narrative, yes.

25 Q Okay. Now, we've heard -- you stated earlier that the guardians that you

1 pushed out were sent to San Francisco, Memphis, and Tampa, correct?
2 A Correct.
3 Q You did not send any --
4 A No.
5 Q We have heard testimony from agents who said that the Boston Field Office
6 did receive some guardians related to these Bank of America inquiries. You don't know
7 how they got them or when. Is that fair to say?
8 A I only know generally that Boston received a lead, but that's only based on 9 my cursory review in trying to prepare for today, looking back 3 years to understand.
10 Q Fair enough.
11 A But, at the time, that would have been after the guardian assessments that 12 we did went out.
13 Q Okay. And so you don't know what assessment was made or why those 14 leads went out?
15 A No.
16 Q And, of the four leads that you sent out, they were all closed in 17 January 2020, shortly after you sent them out. Is that correct?
18 A Yes, between January 20th and January 28th, I think, is the scope of all four 19 guardians closed.
20 Q And I imagine that's typical with information-only leads?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Is it fair to say that those are the types of leads that you sent out in an 23 abundance of caution because you just said you don't want to sit on risk?
24 A Yeah, I would say the majority -- at least only speaking for myself, being in 25 the Engagement Unit for 3 years, we had several information-only guardians that went

1 out to the field.

2 Q And the agents in the field who are reviewing those guardians and making a

3 determination about whether or not to take any action, they will have a different set of 4 skills and training and experience than you do because they're field agents, correct?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And the purpose of sending them this information is to allow them to apply

7 their particular set of skills to the intelligence that you've developed --

8 A Correct.

9 Q -- and make their own independent assessment, correct?

10 A Correct.

11 Q Sorry. And, again, all of the actions that you took with respect to this

12 information was compliant with the Bank Secrecy Act --

13 A All of the actions I took were compliant with my authorities as an FBI and 14 DOJ authority, correct.

15 Q Thank you. And at any point did you or, to your knowledge, anyone else at

16 the FBI make representations to Bank of America or any other financial institution that

17 information contained in SARs alone could or would be used to predicate an investigation

18 against a suspect?

19 A No.

20 BY [redacted]

21 Q Yeah, I just want to be abundantly clear, the Bank of America's supporting

22 documentation included a list of 211 names. You said earlier that the supporting

23 documentation wasn't part of the SAR, it was a separate set of documents, correct?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And you knew there were -- presumably knew there were 211 names, but

1 you didn't investigate 211 customers, correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q In fact, you went back to Bank of America and said, "I will need to narrow

4 this down, I'm looking for these more specific parameters"?

5 A Correct.

6 Q So, you know, I just want to be clear that the earlier -- there's a reference

7 earlier to 211 Americans on the list. First of all, we've established that there weren't

8 necessarily 211 Americans; it was 211 customers, correct?

9 A Correct.

10 Q And there might have been -- a customer might be an entity, it might be a 11 business entity?

12 A Correct.

13 Q It might be a foreign person?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Okay. Ultimately, if somebody were to leave here and say that the FBI

16 investigated 211 Americans based on those lists, that's not accurate, correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Thank you.

19 [redacted] Thank you. We can go off the record.

20 [Recess.]

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q We can go back on the record. It's 1:25. We'll start with the second 23 round of questioning for the majority.

24 Mr. Sullivan, at the end of the last round, my colleagues were talking about the

25 leads that were sent out. And you had said that other sections or divisions had sent

1 leads out that you were unaware of. When did you become aware that other leads
2 were sent out based upon Bank of America information?
3 A I did not become aware that leads were being sent out specifically, only that
4 the Washington Field Office was looking at the data.
5 Q And what did you understand that the Washington Field Office's look at the 6 data included? Do you know what steps they were taking? Were you involved in that 7 process at all?
8 A No, I had very preliminary discussions on different SARs that we had already 9 reviewed. This was one of them.
10 Q And, when you were liaising with the Washington Field Office, who were you
11 liaising with? And, if they're not an SES position, you can just give their title?
12 A An ASAC.
13 Q An ASAC. I think you can probably give their name.
14 A I don't want to give their name --
15 Q You don't want to give their name?
16 A -- in this proceeding, yeah.
17 Q Okay. Can we have the ASAC's name?
18 [redacted] We will email --
19 [redacted] Okay. So are you instructing the witness not to answer, or he is 20 just choosing on his own volition not to answer?
21 [redacted] Can we go off the record for a second.
22 [redacted] Yeah, we can go off the record.
23 [Discussion off the record.]
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q We can go back on the record.

1 A Yeah, so, apparently, the ADIC at the time, Steve D'Antuono, who has been
2 interviewed.
3 Q Okay. That was who you were liaising with, was Mr. D'Antuono?
4 A I wouldn't call it liaising, but communicating as another FBI employee who
5 came across private sector production and interaction with the private sector.
6 Q And how often during your engagement on the January 6th matter did you
7 speak with Mr. D'Antuono?
8 A Probably twice.
9 Q Okay.
10 A Give or take.
11 Q And did Mr. D'Antuono kind of fill you in on what steps they were taking on 12 the Bank of America information?
13 A No, only that they were in -- they had -- were also engaging with the private 14 sector but also reviewing financial information that we had discussed, not necessarily the 15 BOA SAR but just SARs in general.
16 Q And did you receive SARs from any other financial institution other than 17 Bank of America in the scope of the January 6th investigation?
18 A Yes.
19 Q What other financial institutions did you receive SARs from?
20 A Can I have a second?
21 [redacted] We can go off the record.
22 [Discussion off the record.]
23 BY [redacted]
24 Q We'll go back on the record.
25 A Yeah, so, during the FinCEN call, the first FinCEN call we already discussed

1 that Friday, they created a tag for all SARs related to the Capitol riots. So, if you are to
2 follow that tag from FinCEN, they -- you would be able to know the scope of the financial 3 institutions for that.
4 Q And did you receive any other SARs; how Bank of America, that executive
5 after they filed it with FinCEN, the executive then sent the SAR to you, did you receive any 6 other similar SARs in that manner?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And from what financial institutions?
9 A I would refer you to FinCEN for that. They would be able to provide you all 10 the scope of that tag.
11 Q I'm asking specifically did you receive any SARs in a similar manner as Bank
12 of America sent you their SAR after they filed it with FinCEN; did you -- you said you
13 received other SARs from other executives that forwarded you the SAR. Is that correct?
14 A From a handful. Correct.
15 Q From a handful.
16 Chairman Jordan. And was this the same three criteria?
17 Mr. Sullivan. I don't recall.
18 Chairman Jordan. Did you have similar conversations with those other
19 institutions saying, "Here is what I would -- here's how we would" -- what was term you
20 used? "Here's the product idea or how we would like it done, these three criteria, then 21 we get that information"?
22 Mr. Sullivan. No, there was never a discussion of how we the FBI would like it
23 done. It was always interaction with the institution.
24 Chairman Jordan. Okay. But, back to [redacted] question, then you did receive 25 that similar type of information from other financial institutions?

1 Mr. Sullivan. Correct.

2 Chairman Jordan. All right. Which one of those institutions?

3 [redacted] He is not able today to talk about any other specific SARs. He can

4 generally answer what was discussed and that he got other SARs during that time.

5 [redacted] And what's the privilege that the FBI is a asserting?

6 [redacted] The Bank Secrecy Act.

7 [redacted] Which privilege is that?

8 [redacted] He is only allowed to speak about a SAR if it falls within his official

9 duties within the scope of answering the questions of the SAR already produced by the 10 Treasury in the scope of this inquiry.

11 [redacted] I think the committee would like to know the financial institutions

12 that interacted with Mr. Sullivan and sent their SARs to Mr. Sullivan like Bank of America

13 did. So I think the committee would like to know that information.

14 Mr. Sullivan. So my understanding for today's questions, which we were

15 supposed to have a week ago, was that the ODAG expressed concerns that the 16 committee would have access to the SAR, the Bank of America SAR. Because the 17 committee didn't have access to any other SARs, I don't want to speak to any other SARs.

18 [redacted] Okay. But, if you can take that back, we'd like --

19 Chairman Jordan. We're not asking you to speak not specificity of the SAR; we're 20 just asking you to tell us which bank sent it to you.

21 [redacted] We'll take that. I certainly appreciate the committee's question.

22 Given the Bank Secrecy Act's implication, we want to make sure not to put the witness in

23 any jeopardy of disclosing information before he has the clearance to disclose that. We

24 certainly understood the Bank of America SAR to be the committee's priority interest to

25 talk about it today, but we will certainly take it back and see if there is additional

1 information we can share.

2 [redacted] Is there a specific provision under the Bank Secrecy Act that you

3 can note for the record.

4 [redacted] I don't have it in front of me.

5 [redacted] I do. 31 U.S.C., 5318(g)(2), and the official duties exception is 6 (g)(2)(a)(2).

7 [redacted] Thank you.

8 Chairman Jordan. Do you know, approximately, how many other banks -- the 9 Bank of America --

10 Mr. Sullivan. I don't recall. There's a handful. I couldn't tell you exactly.

11 Chairman Jordan. But you know that other banks did, in fact, send you

12 information complying with those three criteria like Bank of America did.

13 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah, there were between 40 and 60 representatives on the first

14 FinCEN, which probably spanned 30 to 50 financial institutions. So I received a lot of 15 SARs related to the Capitol riots and the unknown threat to Inauguration Day.

16 Chairman Jordan. And did those SARs, like the documents that accompanied the 17 Bank of America SAR, did they name specific individuals?

18 Mr. Sullivan. Within the SAR? Yeah, potentially.

19 Chairman Jordan. Just to be clear, you told us, I think, in the first hour that there

20 were 211 names associated with the SAR coming to the government from Bank of 21 America on those three criteria. I'm just asking; that was similar with the other

22 institutions that sent information as well?

23 Mr. Sullivan. That the same fact-based patterns were in several of the SARs with 24 respect to the unknown threat to Inauguration Day, correct.

25 Chairman Jordan. Names were in the other SARs as well?

1 [redacted] He is not authorized to speak to the content of those -- only if
2 SARs -- if they existed.
3 [redacted] Were leads sent out to field offices based upon the other SARs?
4 You had identified four leads that were sent out based upon individuals who purchased
5 firearms after January 6th that your unit sent out. Were similar leads sent out based on 6 upon the other financial institution SARs?
7 [redacted] Can we go off the record.
8 [redacted] We can government off the record.
9 [Discussion off the record.]
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q We can go back on the record.
12 A So, generally speaking, I can't speak to that each SAR that I received -- and 13 remember, I have -- at this same time, I am receiving SARs from multiple financial 14 institutions. I have never read a SAR that was exactly the same. And so, with respect
15 to this, I can't recall exactly how the SAR narrative was in these other SARs. But I
16 handled various SARs that we either determined did not or did meet the threshold of 17 guardian, for example, where we did assessments.
18 Q Okay. And, after you received the Bank of America SAR, you said you went 19 back to the executives and requested additional information based upon firearms
20 purchased. Do I have that right?
21 A I requested information based off of the supporting documentation that was 22 specifically talked about as attached to that SAR.
23 Q And, in order to -- how did you obtain the supporting documentation? Did
24 that come with the SAR, or did you have to request that from Bank of America?
25 A Typically, that's always a request. In that particular instance, once it was

1 published, there are some instances where we may receive the supporting
2 documentation. If, say, we would request it over the phone, as long as the SAR was 3 published, we could then get access to the supporting documentation.
4 Q And, for the other financial institutions that you received January 6th related
5 SARs from, did you request the supporting documentation for those SARs?
6 [redacted] All right. He is not authorized to talk about what came with the 7 other SARs.
8 BY [redacted]
9 Q So you can't even say if you received supporting documentation?
10 A My understanding is, yes, that I can't speak to that.
11 Q And, with regards to the other financial institutions, did you go back with 12 requests for additional information like you did with Bank of America to the other
13 financial institutions?
14 [redacted] Again, he is not authorized to talk about these other SARs.
15 [redacted] So he can't even answer if he went back and made another request?
16 Just generally overview.
17 Mr. Sullivan. So my understanding --
18 [redacted] Do you recall specifically any other --
19 Mr. Sullivan. My understanding is that the only reason we're speaking about this 20 today is that the SAR was leaked. And the SAR itself is a product that only law
21 enforcement under BSA and under FinCEN regulations is supposed to have access to. So
22 you're putting me in a compromising situation to speak to other SARs that I'm not 23 authorized to speak to. But, in my capacity, yes, I reviewed hundreds of SARs.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q And so --

1 A Over my 3-year period in the unit.

2 Q Okay. So you do not -- was the answer that you don't recall if you reached

3 out to the other financial institutions, or is it that you're relying upon the instruction of 4 agency counsel not to answer the question?

5 [redacted] He's not authorized to talk about specific SARs and if he had a

6 communications afterwards about specific data within the SARs.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Okay. And --

9 A And I'm not trying to be difficult. I want to address all of your questions.

10 So, if it's about the BOA SAR, I am pleased by all means.

11 Q And do you remember -- going back to a previous question, do you

12 remember if any other leads were sent out based upon other SARs?

13 A Generally, but I can't speak to what specific SAR it was or what it was in

14 relation to. I can just say generally that we've reviewed SARs, and assessments have 15 gone out.

16 Chairman Jordan. Okay. So, in a general sense, were the SARs you got back

17 from other financial institutions similar to what you received from Bank of America in all

18 aspects? The number of people who were talked about, I mean, was that a general,

19 were they generally the same?

20 Mr. Sullivan. Again, a SAR, I have never read a SAR that was the same.

21 Chairman Jordan. I'm saying that -- okay.

22 Mr. Sullivan. Sorry.

23 [redacted] I'll enter as exhibit No. 5.

24 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 5.

25 Was marked for identification.]

1 BY [redacted]

2 Q This is an excerpt of testimony from Special Agent in Charge Bonavolonta
3 from the Boston Field Office. He came and testified before the committee. And, you
4 know, there's several pages of excerpts. I'll point you in the general direction of where 5 I'm going to read from. But please feel free to take as much time as you would like to 6 review.

7 A Thanks. This is portions of it. I'm sorry.

8 Q This is just portions of it. The front of it you'll see is the cover page of the 9 transcribed -- and then just relevant portions that I may refer to.

10 A Okay.

11 Q Okay. And I want to kind of refocus on the leads that were sent out by 12 other units or divisions that you were unaware of. Is that an accurate statement?

13 A Yes.

14 Q Okay. So, on page -- I'm referring to page 12. There is an answer section 15 from Mr. Bonavolonta. And I will just read that into the record. It says, "So they 16 brought the information to my attention, first and foremost, to make me aware that a
17 lead had been sent to our office from a unit within FBI headquarters that fell under the 18 Office of Private Sector. And the lead, the lead itself was for informational purposes
19 only. There was no directive in the lead to do anything, you know, from an investigation
20 standpoint. However, in the body of the lead, there was an information that was 21 provided by Bank of America following a certain number of criteria that in essence
22 aggregated a list of individuals that were supposedly living up in the New England area,
23 you know, either had potentially made certain credit card purchases for hotel
24 reservations or plane tickets or potential purchases at certain gun stores in and around
25 January 6th or plan for inauguration date like around January 20th, in that timeframe."

1 So is it your understanding that the lead was -- any other leads would have been
2 sent out by the Washington Field Office because SEC Bonavolonta seemed to think that it
3 came out of the Office of Private Sector? Are you aware of any other leads that were 4 sent from the Office of the Private Sector?
5 A So, no, and my general -- again, this is only part of, you know, his testimony,
6 so I can't speak to collectively how I might interpret this. But only from what you're 7 presenting to me, the Office of Private Sector wouldn't be the one to send out any kind of 8 operational or investigative lead. It would be the Strategic Engagement Unit or some 9 unit at headquarters. It could also be from a field office, such as, including but not 10 limited to WFO, the Washington Field Office. So it wouldn't have come from the Office
11 of Private Sector, number one. And, in terms of the leads, I'm sorry, your specific 12 question? I just want to make sure I'm answering it fully.
13 Q Yeah, so my question was, were you aware of any other leads that were sent 14 from the Office of Private Sector?
15 A My understanding there were no leads sent from the Office of Private 16 Sector, which is a headquarters, overarching the Office of Private Sector.
17 Q Okay. And then, further down on page 12 that I already read into the 18 record about, in essence, aggregated list of individuals that were supposedly living up in 19 the New England area. When you received the information, was it aggregated in that 20 type of way where the individuals or entities were sorted into geographic areas?
21 [redacted] What information are you asking about?
22 BY [redacted]
23 Q The supporting documentation for the 211 individuals or entities.
24 A It was not aggregated by region.
25 Q And how would -- do you know if other field offices or other units at

1 headquarters aggregated that information based upon region?

2 A I mean, I don't know how either Washington Field Office -- again, going back

3 to Office of Private Sector, they would not put -- they would not send leads out period. I

4 think -- I think -- what then SEC Bonavolonta meant was a headquarters entity that

5 handles private sector leads. Office of Private Sector is an actual thing at headquarters

6 that's not in the Counterterrorism Division. So there is that. I'm sorry. Specifically?

7 Q I was just asking, were you aware of any steps that were taken to aggregate

8 the list based upon region?

9 [redacted] Do you know from reading this where this information specifically

10 came from?

11 Mr. Sullivan. No.

12 [redacted] Just --

13 Mr. Sullivan. I mean, in terms of what?

14 BY [redacted]

15 Q Okay. Back to the question that I asked.

16 A Yeah. I want to answer your specific question. That's why I asked.

17 Q So are you aware of any steps that were taken to aggregate the list based 18 upon region?

19 A By Bank of America?

20 Q By the FBI?

21 A No, I'm not aware.

22 Q Okay. So you're not aware SEC Bonavolonta received some sort of list that

23 was aggregated specifically to his region and area of responsibility. You wouldn't know

24 how that information got put together by the FBI?

25 A No, no.

1 Q And then, if you turn to page 17, at the very bottom, the last question that
2 was posed on that page is, "How many individuals were included on that list that were in
3 the jurisdiction of the Boston Division?" Answer, "Approximately six or seven, or around
4 that number."
5 And I know you testified previously that you were not aware of these leads being
6 sent out. But, just to make it clear for the record, you were not aware that another 7 headquarters unit or field office was sending, you know, lists of individuals specific to 8 field office area of responsibility to that field office for information purposes?
9 A At that time?
10 Q Correct.
11 A Correct.
12 Q And when did you come to know that that had happened?
13 A Not until much later that Washington Field Office was using the information.
14 Q Okay.
15 [redacted] I'll just mark as exhibit No. 6 testimony from Mr. Steve Jensen, who 16 was the section chief of the Domestic Terrorism Operations Section at this time.
17 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 6.
18 Was marked for identification.]
19 Mr. Sullivan. This is also not the whole thing, correct?
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q Correct. It's just relevant excerpts that we may refer to. Have you had 22 sufficient time to review it?
23 A I mean, it's partial, so we might as well just jump to it.
24 Q Okay. So, on page 147, Representative Gaetz asked Mr. Jensen, "What was 25 the Bank of America information that was provided?" Mr. Jensen said, "My

1 understanding -- and, again, I didn't see the information directly. I was made aware of 2 certain leads that were sent out of field offices. I don't recall how many. My
3 understanding of that information was it was certain purchaser transaction
4 individuals -- of individuals that Bank of America provided over to the FBI that wasn't
5 requested by the FBI. It was of their own volition."
6 I just wanted to provide some context. If we go to page 149, I'll ask -- read some 7 more, and then ask a specific question, but I wanted to make sure you had all the context.
8 A Well, I don't have all the context, but, with what you're giving me, yes.
9 Q Correct. So, as he had said previously, he was made aware that leads were 10 being sent out to other field offices. And, down towards the bottom of page 149 in a 11 response, he says, "But, as I noted, one of my employees made me aware that and we 12 took -- I didn't get to this part, but we took immediate action to pull those leads out of 13 our system." Mr. Gaetz said, "When was that?" Mr. Jensen said, "It was immediate 14 upon finding out that those leads existed. I don't know the date. It was a verbal
15 briefing that I received."
16 Were you ever made aware that Mr. Jensen or anyone at the Washington Field
17 Office or headquarters was pulling leads back based upon the Bank of America
18 information?
19 A Pulling leads, no.
20 Q Okay. Were you -- did you ever find out that it was like taken out of the FBI
21 system -- any leads were taken out of the FBI system based upon the Bank of America
22 information?
23 A Not at the time.
24 Q Not at the time.
25 BY [redacted]

1 Q I would like to go back to your thresholds that were sent to Bank of America.
2 Who put together these thresholds?
3 A Who put together the thresholds? The brainstorming discussion that I had 4 with Bank of America.
5 Q So that would be you and representatives from Bank of America?
6 A Executives at Bank of America, correct.
7 Q Was FinCEN involved?
8 A FinCEN was the one that sanctioned the first call that discussed fact-based 9 patterns that may help banks identify potential threats to Inauguration Day.
10 Q Did they include these fact-based patterns or thresholds?
11 A Yeah, I think -- I mean, I think I have spoken to that today already that the 12 fact-based patterns were discussed on the first FinCEN call and thereafter.
13 Q Okay. So which one of these thresholds were prepared by you and Bank of 14 America, and which ones were prepared by FinCEN?
15 A I couldn't tell you specifically. I can just tell you that that was a collective 16 brainstorming that we came up with fact-based patterns that could help them identify 17 potential threats to inauguration.
18 Q And so, when you're putting together fact-based patterns, what are you 19 relying on to do that?
20 A Just my own understanding of the threat itself. And then, if you're a data
21 analyst, understanding data and data capabilities both of the financial institution as well
22 as what might be useful to law enforcement and further looking at that data.
23 Q So what are you looking for when you're looking at that financial data? I
24 mean, you're on a call with Bank of America, and you guys are trying to determine 25 thresholds, what's that discussion like?

1 A Most of it is about, you know, when you're talking about narrowing focus,
2 you're talking about narrowing focus by relying on data that collectively may help narrow
3 that focus significantly.
4 Q And were these thresholds sent to other financial institutions?
5 A Those exact I couldn't tell you. I don't think those exact, but similar in 6 terms of the inauguration threat.
7 Q And, when you sent these thresholds, what was the expectation?
8 A You mean, when I emailed those thresholds that you're talking about?
9 Q Correct.
10 A The expectation was, if those helped them narrow their focus, that we 11 would -- we would be happy to review any information that met their thresholds for 12 sharing the information back to law enforcement.
13 Q So you stated before that this was sent by Bank of America of their own
14 volition. But you sent these thresholds and discussed a SAR product idea. Is that
15 right?
16 A I'm sorry; what's the question?
17 Q Well, the question is, is it voluntary for Bank of America to file a SAR after 18 discussing the very thresholds that were subsequently filed by Bank of America with you?
19 A Under BSA, it would be up to the bank exclusively whether or not they met
20 SAR thresholds?
21 Chairman Jordan. Anyone not respond?
22 Mr. Sullivan. You're going to have to clarify.
23 Chairman Jordan. Any financial institutions you sent similar requests to, like you
24 did the Bank of America, and Bank of America sent you back information, including 25 documentation that included 211 American customer names, any other financial

1 institutions you sent similar stuff to, did they not respond?

2 Mr. Sullivan. Of the folks that were on the FinCEN call? Of the banks or

3 financial institutions on the FinCEN call?

4 Chairman Jordan. You can limit it how you want. The question I'm specifically

5 asking is, financial institutions who received a similar request to what was in this email

6 that went to Bank of America, did any of them not respond?

7 Mr. Sullivan. I mean, my issue with your question is did they all not -- did any not

8 respond to the same request? I can't say that every institution had the same request.

9 There were a number of institutions on the FinCEN call that I did not have a followup

10 one-on-one phone conversation with or otherwise that produced SARs that related to the 11 unknown threat to Inauguration Day.

12 Chairman Jordan. Okay. Fair enough. Any of them that you did send 13 something out to today and not respond?

14 [redacted] Do you want to take a minute?

15 Mr. Sullivan. Sure.

16 [redacted] Off the record.

17 [Discussion off the record.]

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Back on the record.

20 A So it's a hard question to ask because it was 3 years ago. But I want to

21 answer your question. So it's hard for me to answer whether there was any financial

22 institution that I had either a phone discussion with or who was on the FinCEN -- original

23 FinCEN call that didn't produce SARs. I can't recall any financial institution that didn't 24 produce SARs during that time.

25 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

1 Mr. Sullivan. I can't speak to 3 years ago if you're asking me that very specific
2 question.
3 Chairman Jordan. So I just want to make sure we understand, there's a phone
4 call before the 1/15/2021, 9:56 a.m. email that you sent to -- to folks at Bank of America.
5 There's a phone call prior to that. In that phone call, there is a call between you guys, or 6 is that the FinCEN call?
7 Mr. Sullivan. No, the -- before the 1/15 and 9:56 a.m. email, there was a phone
8 call to -- between myself and one of the people in the attention line on this email.
9 Chairman Jordan. Tell me when the FinCEN call happened because I don't have 10 that document.
11 Mr. Sullivan. Two days after the Capitol riots.
12 Chairman Jordan. So prior to all of this?
13 Mr. Sullivan. Correct.
14 Chairman Jordan. Okay. And you're saying, based on the FinCEN call, there
15 were a number of SARs that were sent to you guys?
16 Mr. Sullivan. That were highlighted to us. They were published to the FinCEN
17 portal.
18 Chairman Jordan. Highlighted to you guys?
19 Mr. Sullivan. There were a number of financial institutions that may have 20 published that didn't alert me, and FinCEN wound up also passing out to other law
21 enforcement agencies, us being included in that, that FinCEN tag that they decided all
22 Capitol riot SARs would be tagged with that FinCEN tag.
23 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
24 Mr. Sullivan. So I just want to make it clear, I'm receiving SARs from FinCEN at 25 the time, but I'm also receiving, "Hey, you might want to take a look at this. We've

1 already published it to the FinCEN portal."

2 Chairman Jordan. From the institutions themselves. From the financial

3 institutions. Okay. Got it. Then you have this email, and then there's another phone

4 call before the email where you lay out the thresholds?

5 Mr. Sullivan. Correct.

6 Chairman Jordan. Okay. And we've established, I think, throughout the day

7 that you had similar types of correspondence with other financial institutions you are not

8 allowed to get into. But my question is, of those other financial institutions that you've

9 talked to, did any of them not send you -- did any of them not send you a SAR?

10 Mr. Sullivan. Again, my answer is nuanced because, number one, it was 3 years

11 ago. Number two, the FinCEN call would have allowed institutions to be able to 12 determine whether or not they met SAR thresholds just from the FinCEN call. That

13 didn't require any followup conversation with me. Some did; some didn't. So me

14 speaking directly about that, to what you're saying specifically, I couldn't say.

15 Chairman Jordan. Okay.

16 BY [redacted]

17 Q And, on the FinCEN call, the thresholds that you're speaking about that some

18 financial institutions may have just taken and run with it, those thresholds were identified

19 by FinCEN and FBI. Is that accurate?

20 A I believe that they were brainstorming thresholds that we discussed on the 21 call. The call wasn't exclusively the FBI participation. I couldn't speak to other law

22 enforcement agencies that would log in. I can tell you that we were receiving tips and

23 leads and covering down on open investigations at the same time that this call is going

24 on. I do remember also being at home and handling other unclassified leads that were

25 tied to the Capitol riots investigations. So, once I was done talking about my

1 brainstorming of fact-based patterns that had -- might collectively help narrow their
2 focus, I was on to what I was working on. And I couldn't tell you who at FinCEN was 3 saying, "Yes, we don't like these fact-based patterns, or we like these fact-based
4 patterns." What I do remember FinCEN saying is, "Hey, any SARs that results, anything
5 that you the banks collectively are able to publish on SAR thresholds, we would request
6 that you use this specific FinCEN tag to group these in." So that's -- I mean, that's the --
7 Chairman Jordan. Did the FinCEN make -- maybe a couple -- did FinCEN make 8 similar suggestions on what the threshold should be, like what you did in the Bank of 9 America communication?
10 Mr. Sullivan. Like what? Like, sorry, I know -- I think I know what you're asking,
11 but if you could fine tune it.
12 Chairman Jordan. In your notification, you have timeframe purchased, location
13 purchased overlayed with any firearm purchase at any particular time. So you had these 14 sort of three things there. Did FinCEN do the similar stuff in that notification?
15 Mr. Sullivan. I think it was weapons-related and not firearms purchases.
16 Chairman Jordan. Fair enough. Did FinCEN do something similar?
17 Mr. Sullivan. I don't recall if FinCEN did something similar. I do recall the 18 FinCEN tag being on just about every SAR linked to the Capitol riots after that. So, based 19 on their directive, I do remember -- even if I were to get a SAR that was published in the 20 FinCEN portal, in this case, Bank of America, they sent it to me in a secure portal, as well
21 saying "this has been published. FinCEN, that tag was on that SAR and other SARs that 22 followed that.
23 Chairman Jordan. Okay.
24 BY [redacted]
25 Q We talked a little earlier about these thresholds. I think you said that you

1 assumed that these three thresholds needed to be met. Is that right?

2 A I didn't say that they needed to be met. This, again, going back to -- this is

3 a -- you have to understand my job role as the finance sector liaison is to engage with

4 these executives and brainstorm and talk about the threat. So this wasn't what we

5 needed but, rather, what we discussed.

6 Q So, when you said, "We are prepared to action immediately the following

7 thresholds," what did you mean by action?

8 A First of all, with every institution that I work with directly, especially at the 9 executive level, because I had weekly, daily, weekly, monthly engagement with these

10 executives, they would know what that meant. That would mean we would review it.

11 And, if anything met additional assessment level, low-level investigative activities, that it

12 wouldn't necessarily be based on the SAR, but that they knew we would review what they

13 had immediately.

14 Q And so, when these thresholds that follow, it could have been one that Bank

15 of America could have understood this to mean one individual threshold being sufficient?

16 A No. What was discussed on the call was that the thresholds in and of

17 themselves -- and I want to make this clear: There was an assumption on the phone call

18 as well as the email that these thresholds had to collectively be met. There was never

19 an indication of Bank of America -- especially at the executive level -- that would be highly

20 unusual. And I've never experienced this in the 3 years that I was finance sector liaison

21 where they take one of those fact-based patterns and say, "We've got a great SAR from 22 just this one fact-based pattern," because that would be -- from a data standpoint, would

23 be an unruly number of volume and irrelevant for us to even take a look at it. So it was 24 understood that these were collective thresholds.

25 Q Okay. The last asterisk -- I'll read it into the record. It states, "SEU intends

1 to capture with its FI partner concurrence all customers who might be more strategic in
2 carrying out the tags related to CTD interest, travel with weapons by vehicle, and not by 3 air given the current threat and aftermath of the 6 Jan Capitol Building incidents. The 4 intention by SEU is to identify all potential networks or threats, those individual threats to 5 Inauguration Day and beyond." What did you mean by FI partner concurrence?
6 A Financial institution.
7 Q Specifically, FI partner concurrence?
8 A Financial institution partner concurrence.
9 Q Meaning with their agreement, with their?
10 A No, the assumption there was, again, if they met information-sharing 11 thresholds under BSA, that, you know, again we would review it.
12 Q And the language to identify --
13 A If I can add, if anything, that's -- I wouldn't even necessarily, you know,
14 discuss this in an email. But the assumption there is that the institution is always under 15 BSA reporting thresholds. So I wouldn't see the data unless it was in an open
16 investigation where I was sharing like specific information of an investigation or a soft 17 copy of the grand jury subpoena to be expedited so that we can get records faster.
18 Does that make sense?
19 Q Yeah.
20 A Does that answer your question fully?
21 Q Yeah, I think so. When you say "to identify all potential networks or threats 22 versus individual threats to Inauguration Day and beyond," what did you mean by and 23 beyond?
24 A So the beyond was discussed -- I remember having a conversation with an 25 analyst in the domestic terrorist section that discussed, along with the earlier memo of

1 "unclassified for official use only" memo that went out by Office of Private Sector that
2 detailed potential unknown threat to Inauguration Day. That beyond -- the original
3 Inauguration Day was March the 4th, the 3rd or 4th. And, after whatever amendment
4 that was made, to change the date from March 4th to January 20th, that was discussed
5 on the phone call with Bank of America. And I can say that, you know, that was a
6 general date range. It wasn't -- we were requesting specific date range from Bank of 7 America that again was up to the bank's threshold.
8 Q So were all individuals that met the criteria of these thresholds viewed as 9 potential network threats?
10 A I'm sorry; were all?
11 Q All 211 individuals, were they considered, in your words, a part of networks
12 of threats?
13 A No.
14 Q Did anyone from Bank of America question the legality of the thresholds?
15 A No.
16 Q Did anyone from Bank of America express concern about the scope of the 17 thresholds?
18 A No.
19 Q Did you have to receive approval from supervisor or anyone at the FBI
20 before sharing these thresholds?
21 A No, but I did discuss them as I would normally discuss them with upper 22 management. My -- typically my direct writing official, which is also a GS-15 and a chief.
23 Q And how did those discussions go?
24 A Great. Like specifically what?
25 Q Did he or she express any concern?

1 A No.

2 Q So, going into these thresholds, how did you expect Bank of America to sort

3 its customers' financial data according to these thresholds?

4 A I couldn't tell you. You'd have to ask Bank of America.

5 Q You don't have any idea of what methods Bank of America might use?

6 A I don't have access. Law enforcement doesn't have access to bank records

7 and proprietary data.

8 Q Sure, but you're a financial sector liaison expert, and your testimony is that

9 you don't have any idea how Bank of America might return customers based on the 10 thresholds you provided?

11 A Yeah, again, I don't want to speak for the bank. I can tell you what I did.

12 Once I reviewed the SAR, I understood that -- and the bank knew this too -- that I would

13 need to review the SAR fully and its content to determine next steps for law enforcement.

14 Q Did the SAR reveal the methods that Bank of America used?

15 A No.

16 Q Did the supporting documentation?

17 A Outside of the fact-based patterns that were notated in the SAR narrative,

18 no.

19 Q The supporting documentation didn't either?

20 A The supporting documentation highlighted additional information on the 21 211.

22 Q And what was that additional information?

23 A It was just names. It was basic information. Name, address.

24 Q Do you think Bank of America could have used merchant category codes?

25 A You'd have to ask them. It would be under their capabilities.

1 Q So that wouldn't be unusual?

2 A For them to use merchant codes in reviewing criminal activity or suspicious

3 activity, no. Anything the bank had access to would be my understanding from my

4 interactions with the banks. It would be -- the capabilities are vast. The critical point

5 is, do they meet SAR thresholds under BSA? Yes or no? So my receiving end of that

6 would be law enforcement access to that.

7 Q Did you have any concern with the thresholds that were shared?

8 A No.

9 Q And, when these thresholds were shared, were there specific identifiable

10 individuals you were interested in, or was this created -- did those fact-based patterns

11 include specific identifiable individuals, or was it just based off looking at raw data?

12 A I mean, my review of the SAR was more about the data and understanding

13 the data to determine whether, you know, what next steps to take, whether, in this case,

14 the guardians that we pushed out, the four that we pushed out.

15 Q One of the thresholds states -- the fourth threshold, it states, quote, "any

16 historical purchase" -- and then, in brackets, you write, "going back 6 months generally

17 for weapons or weapons-related vendor purchases."

18 What did you mean what you said any historical purchase.

19 A Well, the financial institutions generally, generally do not know specific

20 purchases, so, to your point of merchant category codes, they may be looking for those

21 merchant category codes that typically have weapons-related transactions. But there

22 would be no way to determine without a doubt that there were a weapon per se. So,

23 when this was -- this again was a discussion that met a fact-based pattern that was 24 discussed on the call.

25 Q And, when you said any historical purchase, you meant any historical

1 purchase?

2 A Well, it says going back to 6 months generally. That's what Bank of 3 America felt would narrow their focus enough, at least initially in reviewing the data.

4 Q So Bank of America pushed back against any historical purchases?

5 A No, that's not what I said. My understanding is that there -- of the phone

6 call and this email, that this was the brainstorming discussion result.

7 Q Another one of the thresholds mentions purchases made for hotel, Airbnbs,

8 RSVPs in the DMV area, in brackets, the day before and during Inauguration Day since

9 1/6/21. Is purchasing lodging ordinarily evidence of criminal activity?

10 A No, none of -- any one fact-based pattern by itself is not an indicator -- all

11 three together are not an indicator. But, again, this was about the collective fact-based

12 patterns. I can also tell you I have never reviewed a SAR that would ever have one of 13 those fact-based patterns as the SAR. If it had, it wouldn't have been pushed to me by 14 an executive at a financial institution, and my initial review of it would be dismissive.

15 Q Is it normal for SARs to contain the names of 211 individuals or entities?

16 A Define normal.

17 Q Have you received a SAR with that number of persons before?

18 A It's up to the financial institution and the suspicious activity that they're

19 meeting thresholds for of whether or not they're including other individuals in that. So,

20 to answer your question, yes, I have seen many SARs that have more than one individual

21 on the SAR.

22 Q Is it how you have seen --

23 A I have seen thousands.

24 Q Thousands?

25 A Yeah.

1 Q Okay.

2 A And, again, I want to clarify, too, my original comment earlier this morning

3 was there are 5 million SARs that are produced that FinCEN can discuss with you at length

4 the various -- the scope of what's included in the SAR narrative. But, at the end of the

5 day, the FinCEN regulator is still the regulator for all those SARs, and the institutions are

6 responsible for what goes into the SAR and what's published.

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Of the 211 names in there, how many of those persons did you investigate

9 or did you send to have investigated?

10 A Again, it wasn't an investigation. At the headquarters level, in order to 11 mitigate potential risk, we agreed that we satisfied the threshold of a guardian, which is

12 like a no-stone-unturned assessment. We determined, based off of my interaction with

13 Bank of America, my followup conversation on specifically the weapons-related

14 transactions that I wanted to understand which ones were made after January 6th that 15 we were able to drill down to only the four of the 211.

16 Q And the names that didn't reach the level of guardian, were those names

17 stripped from the FBI databases or anything?

18 A No.

19 Q They remain --

20 A No. The SAR, as published in FinCEN, all of law enforcement had access to

21 that SAR, not just the FBI. So any law enforcement agency, once this was released to 22 FinCEN, had access to that Suspicious Activity Report.

23 Q Do they continue to have access to that Suspicious Activity Report?

24 A Any SAR. And I can't speak to FinCEN. I have no idea if they have 25 redaction procedures or not. But I am sure FinCEN could answer that.

1 Q Do you know if there are retention limits on how long the SAR can remain in 2 the system?
3 A No, I think, for bank information generally on the bank side, it's 5 to
4 10 years.
5 [redacted] Do you know from personal knowledge?
6 Mr. Sullivan. No. FinCEN would have that information because they're the 7 steward of the data. They also house the data.
8 [redacted] Can we go off the record.
9 [Discussion off the record.]
10 BY [redacted]
11 Q We can go back on. So is it a normal process for SARs to be sent directly to 12 your email as it was in this case?
13 A What do you mean by normal?
14 Q How do you typically access a SAR?
15 A Either someone on my team accesses it through the FinCEN portal, or based 16 off of a bilat agreement that the Bureau has with FinCEN because of FBI is -- are power
17 users of SAR data, they can also access the data on our SIPRNet, FBI net system.
18 Q Do you know how many people access this filing?
19 A For which? For FBI net or for FinCEN portal?
20 Q Let's start within the FBI, the FBI net?
21 A I don't have those numbers. I can tell you that because of that bilat
22 agreement, because SARs are so critical to law enforcement, the fact that we have that 23 on FBI net accessible to our agents and analysts is huge. So FinCEN does an annual 24 report on users of their data. They wouldn't know what that number was unless they 25 spoke with the FBI, but they would have a number of FBI analysts and agents that log in

1 through the FinCEN portal.

2 Q Okay.

3 A I don't have the numbers. That's an information technology question for 4 us, and that's above my pay grade.

5 Q I apologize since I've been out of the room, but does FinCEN notify you when

6 they have a SAR?

7 A No, it would be impossible to notify when they have a SAR. However, in

8 some cases, like with the Capitol riots, because on that FinCEN call, they came up with

9 that FinCEN code to use in SARs related to Capitol riots, anything related to Capitol riots,

10 they were pushing SARs to me and other law enforcement entities. I think WFO, but I

11 can only tell you they pushed SARs to me during that timeframe. In a normal non-NSSE

12 event, right, I would never -- I may receive one of their products, which is kind of a

13 preliminary analysis of SARs collectively, you know, a potential threat. But, quite

14 frankly, I mean, it's not -- it wouldn't be typical, but during the Capitol riots, I did receive

15 SARs from FinCEN.

16 Q So all the SARs were tagged with a certain code that meant to get sent --

17 A Yes, that FinCEN wanted its financial institutions on that first Friday call after 18 the Capitol riots, they wanted the institutions to use.

19 Q Okay. And then, non-January 6th-type situations, what triggers FinCEN

20 reaching out to you with a SAR?

1 [1:21 p.m.]

2 Mr. Sullivan. Again, they have -- FinCEN, they -- over the years, they've taken on 3 different products where they're -- they review SARs and other BSA activity, like CTRs,
4 cash transactions above 10,000, and they'll put that in, almost like a summary product.

5 I can only speak to a few of them. They used to publish, I don't even know if 6 they still publish, flash reports, which is almost like a summary of multiple SARs on related
7 activities. So most law enforcement would have access to that just like they have access
8 to FinCEN portal for line item SARs that are going in there, thousands, you know, on a 9 daily basis.

10 [redacted] So were there, to the extent you know, individuals at FinCEN
11 who were reviewing every SAR that comes in?

12 Mr. Sullivan. On the Capitol -- for what?

13 [redacted] Beyond Capitol riots actually.

14 Mr. Sullivan. I can't speak to what FinCEN, you know, did or didn't do on that. I
15 just know that that tag prompted them to be able to, I guess in their own way, review
16 Capitol riots-related SARs.

17 BY [redacted]

18 Q So just to clarify, with respect to the Bank of America SAR, there was no legal 19 process provided to Bank of America?

20 A So, I mean, the question is odd because we only -- the partner engagement,
21 the Strategic Engagement Unit, in dealing with any private sector entity, will only deal in a
22 lawful avenue for sharing information.

23 Q Sure. Was process, in terms of a subpoena or national security
24 lever -- letter, sent to Bank of America in this specific instance?

25 A No.

1 Q And in the Bank of America filing --

2 A And if I could clarify, we wouldn't send process for information that was

3 provided to us based off of the financial institutions' meeting of SAR thresholds and they

4 produced in a SAR.

5 Q Thresholds in response to your email and the FinCEN call?

6 A No, not in response to anything. If we received a SAR or had access to a

7 SAR, there would be no subpoena provided for that, unless down the road after an

8 assessment or an investigation may be opened up on on an individual or business entity,

9 only then would we even want to provide grand jury subpoena for fuller records on that

10 individual.

11 [redacted] Can we go off the record for a minute?

12 [redacted] Sure.

13 [Discussion off the record.]

14 [redacted] We can go back on the record.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q So just to continue to clarify, so when you asked for the supporting

17 documentation -- so the SAR is filed, it just has the general information -- when you

18 request the supporting documentation, you don't have to subpoena that?

19 A No.

20 Q You can just request that from the banks?

21 A No. No law enforcement needs to -- that has access to SARs needs to

22 subpoena for records that come -- supporting documents that come with the SAR,

23 provided it's attached to that SAR.

24 Q Okay. And are there any efforts to protect the privacy of the individuals

25 that are on there? How much -- well, are there -- step back.

1 Are there efforts to protect the privacy of individuals that are listed in that
2 supporting documentation?
3 A Well, in terms of there's no public access to that, correct.
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q On the filing provided by Bank of America, did it include historical purchases
6 of weapons?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Did it include historical purchases of lodging?
9 A You're talking about the supporting documents or the SAR?
10 Q Either.
11 A The SAR narrative discussed that as a threshold that was met.
12 Q Yeah.
13 A Correct.
14 Q So in the supporting documentation, did it include historical purchases of 15 lodging?
16 A The information captured in the supporting documents was related to that,
17 correct.
18 Q And did it include historical purchases of travel?
19 A Yeah. Any of the -- any of the thresh -- all thresholds that were discussed in 20 the SAR were directly related to the supporting documentation.
21 Q And once you received the filing, what was your expectation for how you
22 would use it at the FBI?
23 A Again, I mean, we receive thousands of tips and leads. SARs is one form of 24 raw intelligence we would receive. The financial institution filing the SAR knows that 25 law enforcement may or may not be, you know, the reviewer of their SAR.

1 Once we review it, we understand, does this warrant further assessment, and 2 then deal accordingly. In this particular case, we determined that there were four
3 Guardian assessments that were met.
4 Q And we may have touched on this already, but did you share the SAR
5 information with other FBI offices, apart from the four Guardian assessments?
6 A So when the four Guardian assessments were finished, and I spoke to this
7 earlier, we highlighted the four Guardian assessments -- there's a tag to each assessment
8 in what's called -- summarized them in what's called an electronic communication, or EC.
9 That EC that was done by our unit included the four Guardian assessments and the SAR
10 itself, and we uploaded it to our case file within the unit, and also the case file, which was 11 normal practice to -- if there is a case, if there is an investigation case file related to the 12 data you're looking at, you should upload it to that case file as well.
13 In this case, we uploaded it to the WFO case file on the Capitol riots, so that they 14 had access to the data and so that there wouldn't be any redundancy on any action or 15 nonaction that they felt was necessary reviewing the data.
16 Q And so when you uploaded the SAR, did that also include the supporting 17 documentation?
18 A I believe it did.
19 Q Would the Office of the Private Sector have access to that portal that you
20 uploaded it to?
21 A Yeah. Anybody with Sentinel case data access, FBI employee, would have 22 access to that.
23 [redacted] We can go off the record.
24 [Recess.]

1 [2:10 p.m.]

2 [redacted] Okay. We are back on the record.

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q And I want to start by talking a little bit about the Bank Secrecy Act, because

5 based on some of the questions earlier, it appears that there might be some

6 misunderstanding about it and about when legal process is and is not required. And I

7 would hate for any confusion about that to lead to legislation regarding the Bank

8 Secrecy Act based on a fundamental misunderstanding, so I just want to talk about it a

9 little bit.

10 The Bank Secrecy Act, among other things, one of its primary provisions is that it

11 requires financial institutions to report suspicious transactions relevant to possible

12 violations of law and regulation, correct?

13 A Correct.

14 Q So long as those transactions meet certain thresholds?

15 A Correct.

16 Q And it's up to the bank to determine whether or not they meet those

17 thresholds?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And that reporting requirement is something that the bank does pursuant to

20 the Bank Secrecy Act. It does not require a subpoena or a search warrant or anything

21 from law enforcement other than the Bank Secrecy Act itself --

22 A Correct.

23 Q -- correct?

24 A Correct.

25 Q So the Bank Secrecy Act itself is the legal process, correct?

1 A For financial institutions, correct.

2 Q Correct.

3 And I know, based on your educational background, that you're not an attorney,

4 but are you aware that, nearly 50 years ago, the Supreme Court ruled that the Fourth

5 Amendment does not apply to bank records because bank records are considered to be

6 the property of the banks and not the property of the customers whose records they

7 relate to.

8 A Yes.

9 Q You're aware of that, correct?

10 So to the extent that there's any restriction on the ability of banks to provide

11 financial records, those restrictions come from the Bank Secrecy Act --

12 A Correct.

13 Q -- correct?

14 And as you just said, that act requires the provision of certain records relevant to 15 suspicious transactions, correct.

16 A Correct. It obligates the financial institutions to report that activity.

17 Q And no legal process is required for that?

18 A For SARs --

19 Q For SARs.

20 A -- correct.

21 [redacted] And to be clear, when we're saying "legal process" meaning a

22 subpoena --

23 [redacted] Correct, exactly. A subpoena or --

24 [redacted] -- but basically the Act itself is legal process, but an additional

25 subpoena on top of the --

1 Mr. Sullivan. Yes, thank you for clarifying.

2 The Reporter. Hold on, please. Just one at a time, please.

3 [redacted] The Bank Secrecy Act itself is the legal process. A subpoena would

4 be a separate form of legal process. The Bank Secrecy Act itself provides legal authority

5 for banks to produce that information, correct?

6 Mr. Sullivan. Correct. Correct.

7 Sorry.

8 [redacted] And you were also asked a question about what steps you took to

9 ensure the privacy of the individuals whose names were referenced or incorporated by

10 reference into the Bank of America SAR. And I wanted to talk about the secrecy

11 provisions that are inherent and built into the Bank Secrecy Act. I'm actually going to 12 introduce those into the record. And apologies for making you look at a long section of 13 the U.S. Code.

14 Mr. Sullivan. It's okay.

15 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 7.

16 was marked for identification.]

17 [redacted] But I'm going to direct you to subsection -- so this is 31 United

18 States Code, Section 5318, the statute that was mentioned earlier. And if you look on 19 the second page of this, subsection (g), section (2).

20 [redacted] And the section we're looking at begins on the bottom of the second

21 column on the second page, and it goes on to the third page.

22 [redacted] Okay.

23 Mr. Sullivan. All right. Got it.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q So technically this is 5318 (g)(2)(A) little 2, and it says, "no current or former

1 officer or employee of or contractor for the Federal Government or of or for any State,
2 local, Tribal, or territorial government within the United States, who has any knowledge
3 that such report was made may disclose to any person involved in the transaction that
4 the transaction has been reported, or otherwise reveal any information that would reveal
5 that the transaction has been reported, other than as necessary to fulfill the official duties
6 of such officer or employee."
7 Is that what the statute says?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And is that what you were referring to when you said earlier that the SARs
10 are nonpublic and, therefore, the information contained in them is enough to maintain 11 the privacy of those individuals?
12 A Correct.
13 Q Thank you.
14 Now, I want to go back to -- sure. I'm also going to read into the record one of 15 the implementing regulations. This is from, I believe it's 31 CFR, Section 1020.410.
16 We're going to introduce this. And we are on, this is exhibit 8, correct?
17 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 8.
18 was marked for identification.]
19 BY [redacted]
20 Q Actually, it's 1020.320. And if you look at the page that's numbered 1123
21 at the bottom. And in the middle of that page, section (2), it says, "Prohibition on 22 disclosures by government authorities. A Federal, State, local, territorial, or Tribal 23 government authority, or any director, officer, employee, or agent of any of the 24 foregoing, shall not disclose a SAR, or any information that would reveal the existence of 25 a SAR, except as necessary to fulfill official duties consistent with Title II of the Bank

1 Secrecy Act. For purposes of this section, "official duties" shall not include the
2 disclosure of a SAR, or any information that would reveal the existence of a SAR, in
3 response to a request for disclosure of nonpublic information or a request for use in a
4 private legal proceeding, including a request pursuant to 31 CFR 1.11."
5 Did I read that correctly?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And that is, again, your understanding of the secrecy provisions, or the 8 privacy provisions, I should say, of the Bank Secrecy Act?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Thank you.
11 [redacted] So just to put a finer point on this, in the prior hour the question was 12 asked to you, were there any efforts made to protect the privacy of the individuals
13 mentioned in the Bank of America SAR?
14 The answer is that the regulation, the Bank Secrecy Act itself, both inherently 15 provide for those privacy protections, correct?
16 Mr. Sullivan. Correct.
17 [redacted] Thank you.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Now, I want to talk -- go back, and even though this ground has been 20 trudged quite a bit today, I think it's necessary to go back and just make some 21 clarifications, because I believe we've been loosely using the word "request" to describe
22 your email to Bank of America.
23 And I just want to be clear, this email was a memorialization of criteria that you
24 and the banks had discussed and agreed upon that might be helpful for them in 25 identifying suspicious transactions that could be related to potential violence surrounding

1 the inauguration, correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q And there was no request in that email for the banks to take any particular

4 action, correct?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And there was no order for the banks to take any particular action?

7 A Correct.

8 Q No compulsion, no pressure?

9 A Correct.

10 Q I believe you -- it was characterized as you saying, here's how we would like

11 it done, but the email didn't even suggest that, correct?

12 A Correct.

13 Q And the banks were free to disregard that criteria and use their own criteria

14 to determine what transactions needed to be reported under the Bank Secrecy Act as

15 relevant to possible violations of crimes that prevent terrorism or other forms of violent

16 activity, to include in their SARs, correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Now, you were asked several questions about SARs received from other

19 financial institutions regarding these same criteria or similar criteria. And putting aside

20 the fact, we understand it was 3 years ago, and it's very difficult to remember what you

21 did and didn't receive, but given that the banks have their own independent obligation to

22 review their records and report suspicious activity, and given that everybody was focused,

23 in the days and the weeks after January 6th, on preventing future violence in that vein, I

24 imagine it would be very difficult to distinguish between a SAR that was made in

25 response, say, to that FinCEN call, as opposed to one that the banks just came across on

1 their own accord, correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q You were also -- you made a reference earlier, and I believe it was in

4 response to a question about your use of the phrase "January 20th and beyond." And

5 you mentioned March 4th and the original inauguration date or something to that effect.

6 Can you explain what you meant by that and what you were referring to?

7 A Yeah. We discussed on the call, there was a -- the domestic terrorist

8 analyst, I remember there were discussions that came within the division that the

9 inauguration day, in terms of a threat, could also possibly mean the original inauguration

10 day, which was back -- I think changed in 1933 -- don't quote me on that -- as part of an 11 amendment, and that was permanently changed to what we know today as January 20th.

12 Q And do you recall there was a theory by QAnon and other domestic

13 extremist groups that former President Trump would actually be inaugurated on March 14 4th, that, quote/unquote, original inauguration date?

15 A I can't remember that specific, but variations of things like that.

16 Q Are you aware that Capitol Police had intelligence that showed a possible

17 plot to breach the Capitol by an identified militia on March 4th of 2020?

18 A Am I aware of who?

19 Q Capitol Police.

20 A That specifically, no.

21 Q Okay. But to be clear, there was concern, not just for violence at the actual

22 planned inauguration date, but that that same type of violence might happen again on 23 March 4th?

24 A That was the fear, correct.

25 Q That was the fear.

1 And you wanted to do what you could, using the lawful tools at your disposal, to
2 prevent that?
3 A Absolutely, yes.
4 Q Now, I want to ask you about some claims that have been made by some of 5 the witnesses in this investigation and by the majority. Are you familiar with 6 George Hill?
7 A I am.
8 Q Okay. And so you're aware that he's a retired FBI supervisory intelligence
9 analyst in Boston, correct?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And you're aware that he previously testified before this committee?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And in his testimony, he stated that Bank of America data-mined its 14 customer base and created, what he described, a huge list of any customer who used a 15 Bank of America debit card or credit card between the dates of January 5th to 16 January 7th.
17 To your knowledge, was that testimony accurate?
18 A No.
19 Q And why not?
20 A Only from the limited amount of what I've read that's been quoted, that's in 21 open source on what Mr. Hill testified to, he obviously wasn't a part of that actual 22 determining whether those assessments were, you know, reviewable and what that field
23 office was going to do with them, with the information.
24 So that particular quote that you're giving is just obviously just one piece that he 25 decided, for whatever reason, because he didn't have access to the information, that he

1 was going to focus on.

2 Q And to the extent that his understanding was that the only criteria to make it

3 onto the list was a financial transaction between those dates, that would be incorrect?

4 A Correct.

5 Q Okay. And he also testified that on top of that list, they put anyone who

6 had purchased a firearm during any date. That's incorrect as well?

7 A False, that's correct.

8 Q Because as we saw, Bank of America reported only firearms purchases from

9 July 2020 through --

10 A That also met --

11 Q That also met -- correct.

12 A -- the additional thresholds --

13 Q Exactly.

14 A -- which was key.

15 [redacted] Can I have a quick minute?

16 [redacted] Of course.

17 [redacted] Thank you.

18 [Discussion off the record.]

19 [redacted] Thank you.

20 [redacted] Thank you.

21 BY [redacted]

22 Q Mr. Hill also testified that there was a list of customers who used a B of A

23 product and who also purchased a firearm at any time that was then, quote, racked and

24 stacked and sent out as leads to the field office in Sentinel, from the case that the 25 Washington Field Office opened, quote/unquote.

1 Was that testimony accurate?

2 A No.

3 Q The entire list was not sent out as leads, correct?

4 A I can't speak to what any other FBI office did. I know that Washington

5 Field Office obviously from previous -- from discussions previously, that we uploaded the

6 information to Washington Field Office. I do know that later -- I found out later that

7 they used the information for further assessment. But I -- from everything that you've

8 read, my understanding is that did not happen the way that he described it. But I also

9 don't know what was in George Hill's head when he was speaking to this. A lot of it

10 didn't make sense to me.

11 Q Fair enough. And your understanding is that he did not actually see the 12 SAR itself --

13 A That's my understanding.

14 Q Thank you.

15 And during his transcribed interview, minority counsel posed a hypothetical to 16 Mr. Hill, and that hypothetical was that if counsel's sister visited him -- I'm sorry.

17 [redacted] Majority counsel.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Majority counsel. I'm sorry. Strange mistake to make.

20 -- but if his sister visited the D.C. area on January 5th, 2021, and made a purchase

21 at a Safeway, would her name have been on the list, and Mr. Hill testified, yes.

22 That was incorrect, wasn't it?

23 A That alone, but I wouldn't want to speak to hypotheticals either. I mean,

24 he would. I know he spoke about a lot of things that he wasn't aware of, but I don't

25 want to speak to any hypotheticals either, on my side of it anyways.

1 Q So last month after Bank of America produced documents to the majority,
2 including your January 15th email that's exhibit 1 to this transcribed interview, the 3 majority released a report entitled, "Financial Surveillance in the United States: How 4 Federal Law Enforcement Commandeered Financial Institutions to Spy on Americans."
5 Do you believe that the FBI commandeered Bank of America to do anything?
6 A No.
7 Q Do you believe that the FBI commandeered Bank of America's databases?
8 A No.
9 Q And I believe I covered this earlier, but I want to ask it again. Did the FBI
10 order Bank of America to conduct any search of its database in connection with your 11 email?
12 A No.
13 Q The minority's report alleged that Federal --
14 [redacted] The majority.
15 [redacted] The majority. It's been a day.
16 BY [redacted]
17 Q The majority's report alleged that Federal law enforcement officials were 18 brainstorming informal methods outside of normal legal processes for obtaining private 19 customer information from financial institutions.
20 What is your response to that allegation?
21 A It's false.
22 Q Okay. And why is it false?
23 A Because we've never exchanged information that we took any kind of 24 investigative activity on and whether that -- that wasn't lawful.
25 Q And also as we discussed earlier, legal process is not required for the

1 information that's produced in a SAR, correct?

2 A Specifically for a SAR, correct.

3 Q The report also criticizes the email you sent by saying that it constitutes a

4 request made without any legal process to individualize criminal nexus. And, again, it's

5 your understanding that legal process, such as a subpoena or a search warrant, was not

6 required for Bank of America to submit the information in that SAR, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q The report also referred to -- we discussed earlier, and this was a couple

9 hours ago now, but the DSAC portal that private corporations use to communicate

10 information and to submit information to the FBI, and the majority's report referred to 11 that portal as an obscure government-run portal or a back-door channel.

12 Would you agree with that assessment?

13 A From what I've seen, no.

14 Q And in fact, as we discussed earlier, there's a DSAC website explaining to 15 anybody who has access to the internet exactly what that portal is, who may join, and 16 what it does, correct?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Now, you know, we've talked a lot over this afternoon about legal process

19 and why it is not necessary for SARs. But I want to spend some time talking about the 20 times -- the situations in which you do use legal process.

21 The committee has received document productions from other financial

22 institutions, including Citibank, and I want to show some of those to you just to highlight

23 the difference between communications sent pursuant to legal process and the 24 communications related to SARs.

25 [redacted] So if I could have the -- I believe this is 9? Thank you.

1 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 9.

2 was marked for identification.]

3 [redacted] Thank you.

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q So if you look at the bottom, there's an email that you sent to another

6 individual at the FBI on January 7th, 2021. I don't know if that individual is an SES-level

7 personnel or not, and if not, then we'll make sure to have his name redacted, but can you

8 tell me what that person's role is at the FBI?

9 A That was my rating official of my -- my supervisor.

10 Q Okay. And the subject of the email is "Yellow - Florea." That's F-l-o-r-e-a.

11 And the email States, "Folks, good morning. As you might expect, the current situation 12 has turned this week into a busy week."

13 And I assume by "current situation," you meant January 6th?

14 A Correct.

15 Q Okay. "I have another one for you.

16 "Please check your holdings on Eduard Florea and all associated selectors below in 17 response to a Code Yellow, Pete."

18 And then you provided some more information, and we'll get to that in a minute.

19 But the first question I have for you is, can you explain what a Code Yellow is?

20 A Code Yellow is one of several -- part of a nomenclature we would use to

21 only -- in this instance and others -- discuss priority investigations where there's a

22 subpoena already involved.

23 Q Okay. So Code Yellow itself indicates that a subpoena has been issued for 24 the records?

25 A No. All I can say is that, in terms of protecting sources and methods,

1 existing investigations, this would apply to an existing investigation and a means to
2 prioritize an investigation for a financial institution that we're proactively sharing
3 information on that's covered by a grand jury subpoena.
4 Q Okay. Thank you very much.
5 A Yeah.
6 Q And underneath where you signed it Pete, it says, "FYA, Edward Florea, a
7 New York City resident who has claimed to be armed and intending to travel to D.C. to,
8 quote, unleash some violence, unquote. He previously urged violence against those he 9 disagreed with politically and posted a guide for how to create cyanide as well as photos
10 of knives. Florea was arrested in 2014 on firearms charges in New York City after the 11 NYPD seized 30 guns from his residence."
12 Did I read that correctly?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And then you have some biographical and personal identifying data for 15 Mr. Florea.
16 A Uh-huh.
17 Q Was it your understanding that the recipient of this email would forward it
18 to folks at the bank, at Citibank or whatever bank this was sent to, to identify 19 transactions?
20 A My under- -- so, again, without limiting what I say here, this has to do with a 21 priority investigation that's covered by a grand jury subpoena. The recipients in our 22 financial institutions would naturally involve those lower level that can do the queries in 23 order to understand more about their exposure.
24 Q And you would not make those queries, generally speaking, those types of 25 queries, that level of specificity, without a subpoena, correct?

1 A Yeah. This would have to be an open investigation.

2 Q Okay. And are you aware of whether Mr. Florea was ever arrested and

3 convicted in relation to the activities you describe below?

4 A I am not. There are some that I am, but I can't speak to it, and I wouldn't

5 know -- I probably wouldn't speak to it either because I wouldn't know if it was fully

6 adjudicated.

7 Q Okay. Well, I'm going to introduce a press release from the adjudication of 8 that, just for the record.

9 [redacted] And are we on 10? Thank you.

10 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 10.

11 was marked for identification.]

12 BY [redacted]

13 Q So this is a press release from the United States Attorney's Office for the 14 Eastern District of New York, dated December 16th, 2021. Is that correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And the press release reflects that Mr. Florea pled guilty and was sentenced

17 to 33 months in prison for threatening to kill Senator Raphael Warnock, correct?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And he also pled guilty and was convicted of being a felon in possession of 20 ammunition, correct?

21 A You are reading it correctly.

22 Q And he was found in possession of more than 1,000 rounds of ammunition

23 when authorities searched his residence pursuant to a warrant, correct?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And the press release reflects that Mr. Florea had made several posts about

1 traveling to D.C. and engaging in additional violence during the very hours when the
2 Capitol was under siege, correct?
3 A Correct.
4 Q For example, he posted, quote, Mine are ready, I am ready, we need to 5 regroup outside D.C. and attack from all sides. Talking to some other guys. I will keep 6 watching for the signal, end quote.
7 Did I read that correctly?
8 A Yes.
9 Q He also wrote, quote, Guns cleaned and loaded, got a bunch of guys all 10 armed and ready to deploy, we are just waiting for the word, end quote.
11 Did I read that correctly?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And then he said -- and this is the phrase that I believe was quoted in your 14 email -- quote, It's time to unleash some violence, end quote.
15 Correct?
16 A Correct.
17 Q Okay. I'd like to discuss another individual whose Citibank records you
18 requested in January of 2021.
19 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 11.
20 was marked for identification.]
21 BY [redacted]
22 Q Okay. So this is an email from you to that same -- I believe you said it was 23 the supervisor --
24 A Correct.
25 Q Correct. -- at the FBI, dated January 14th, 2021. And the subject line is

1 "Yellow - Hunt." And the email says, "Folks, Please run the following name and
2 associated selectors below in response to a Code Yellow.
3 "Brendan Hunt posted a video on social media calling for people to take back their 4 government and shoot up the inauguration day ceremony.
5 "We are interested in all suspicious activity, associations, and recent purchases.
6 "Thanks, Pete."
7 Did I read that correctly?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And then below that, there's a similar listing, as with the previous email, of 10 personal identifying information, correct?
11 A Correct.
12 Q Okay. And as you testified earlier, Code Yellow means that it's a prioritized
13 investigation?
14 A Yes.
15 Q Okay. And that there's a grand jury subpoena?
16 A It would be an open investigation.
17 Q An open investigation?
18 A Correct.
19 Q Okay. And are you aware of whether Mr. Hunt was arrested and 20 convicted?
21 A You're really quizzing me today.
22 Q That's okay.
23 A You know, there were a number of individuals that were part of the 24 prioritization system that involved people that were arrested.
25 Q And there were enough that you don't remember the details of all of them?

1 A Correct, yeah.

2 Q And these were the types of individuals who, because they had made threats

3 to commit additional violence after January 6th, the email that we sent earlier, the more

4 generalized email to Bank of America, was an attempt to uncover more potential suspects

5 who might be in a similar position, correct?

6 A Yeah. To be clear, the latter was within BSA.

7 Q Exactly.

8 A This was proactive from FBI open investigation.

9 Q Okay.

10 [redacted] And the open investigation, the proactive outreach from the FBI only 11 occurred with a subpoena in place?

12 Mr. Sullivan. Correct.

13 [redacted] Thank you.

14 [redacted] Okay. I would like to introduce the press release from Mr.

15 Hunt's sentencing.

16 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 12.

17 was marked for identification.]

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q All right. So this is a press release, again, from the United States

20 Attorney's Office in the Eastern District of New York, and it was issued on November

21 22nd, 2021. And this press release reflects that Brendan Hunt was sentenced to 19

22 months in prison for threatening to assault and murder Members of U.S. Congress, to

23 impede, interfere with, and intimidate those Members, and to retaliate against them on 24 account of their performance of their official duties, correct?

25 A Correct.

1 Q And the press release reflects that on January 8th, 2021, just 2 days after the
2 Capitol riots, Hunt posted a video, titled, Kill Your Senators, that included the summary
3 "Slaughter Them All." Is that correct?
4 A Correct.
5 Q And he made additional threats in the video, exhorting his viewers to 6 violence and telling them, quote, We need to go back to the U.S. Capitol when all the 7 Senators and a lot of the Representatives are there. And this time, we have to show up
8 with our guns, and we need to slaughter these MFs, end of quote.
9 Is that what's reflected there?
10 A You read that correctly.
11 Q Thank you.
12 And he also claimed that, quote, Our government at this point is basically a 13 handful of traitors, so what you need to do is take up arms, get to D.C., probably the 14 inauguration, so-called inauguration of this MF'ing communist Joe Biden. That'll
15 probably be the best time to do this, get your guns, show up to D.C., and literally just 16 spray these MFs, put some bullets in their f'ing heads. Is that correct?
17 A You read it correctly.
18 Q Okay. Probably a safe assumption that he actually spelled out the curse
19 words in the video.
20 A I don't know.
21 Q Sorry, you're not going to assume. Okay.
22 And then he said, If anybody has a gun, give it to me, I'll go there myself and shoot
23 them and kill them. We have to take out these Senators and replace them with actual 24 patriots.
25 That's what's reflected in the press release, correct?

1 A Correct.

2 Q All right. We're going to look at one more individual. This will be our last

3 one.

4 [redacted] This is 14, correct? Thirteen.

5 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 13.

6 was marked for identification.]

7 BY [redacted]

8 Q Okay. So this exhibit is an email that you sent to your supervisor also on

9 January 14th, 2021, with the subject line "Yellow - Lemke," L-e-m-k-e. And it says,

10 "Folks, Good morning. Please run the following name and associated selectors below in 11 response to a Code Yellow.

12 "On January 6th, 2021, Robert Corey Lemke made interstate threats of violence

13 targeting the family of a U.S. Congressman, as well as others, in furtherance of 14 anti-government, slash, anti-authority extremism. We are interested in all suspicious

15 activity and all recent purchases.

16 "Thanks, Pete."

17 Did I read that correctly?

18 A Yes.

19 Q And then below that, again we have the individual's personal identifiers?

20 A Correct.

21 Q And, again, because this is a Code Yellow, that means it was an open

22 investigation for which there was a grand jury subpoena for the information that you

23 requested?

24 A Correct.

25 Q And are you aware of whether Mr. Lemke was convicted of any offenses?

1 A I'm going to take a guess, probably. This particular instance, I don't have 2 the extent of the details.
3 Q Okay. Well, we will provide them.
4 [redacted] Before we go to that, just to be clear on these emails, the "from" and
5 "to," was there anybody blind-copied --
6 Mr. Sullivan. Yes.
7 [redacted] -- on these probably --
8 Mr. Sullivan. Yeah.
9 [redacted] -- from your general practice?
10 Mr. Sullivan. There are a number of executives that are blind-copy counted, 11 which would -- which is why you would see the email that you saw from Citibank.
12 [redacted] Sorry. Executives at the financial institutions or executives at the 13 FBI?
14 Mr. Sullivan. At the financial institutions. Blind-copy counted.
15 [redacted] Thank you.
16 Mr. Sullivan. The FBI person is in the regular attention line.
17 [redacted] Thank you.
18 BY [redacted]
19 Q Okay. So they're blind-copied, and that's why they were produced to us
20 from the bank, that the bank had -- that's how the bank became in possession of them
21 because --
22 A Aware.
23 Q -- they were blind-copied?
24 A Correct.
25 Q Thank you. And I appreciate that clarification.

1 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 14.

2 was marked for identification.]

3 BY [redacted]

4 Q So this is a press release from the United States Attorney's Office for the

5 Southern District of New York, so moving a little bit west here, and it's dated December

6 20th, 2021. And this press release reflects that Mr. Lemke was convicted and sentenced

7 to 3 years in prison for making interstate threats, correct?

8 A Correct.

9 Q And obviously it's a crime to make an interstate threat to kill Members of 10 Congress or their families?

11 A Yes.

12 Q Or really anyone?

13 A Correct.

14 Q And you were investigating that for him?

15 A The Counterterrorism Division was, correct.

16 Q Yeah, fair enough. Thank you.

17 The press release reflects that Mr. Lemke refused to accept the result of the 2020

18 Presidential election and sent electronic audio and video messages threatening

19 approximately 50 victims, including journalists, politicians, Members of Congress, and

20 individuals who had made statements expressing that then-President Trump had lost the 21 election, correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q He even sent the Congressman from the New York City area a picture of a

24 home in the same neighborhood as the home of the Congressman's brother and stated,

25 Your brother is putting your entire family at risk with his lies -- and other words. We are

1 armed and nearby your house. You had better have a word with him. We are not far
2 from his either.
3 Correct?
4 A I'm sorry. Where -- what part of the article are you reading that from?
5 Sorry. I just --
6 Q It's on the second page, and one, two, three, four -- fourth and fifth 7 paragraph down.
8 A Oh, okay.
9 Correct.
10 Q These types of threats were not uncommon, correct, in the weeks
11 after -- and I don't mean specifically threats against Congressmen's brothers, but just 12 threats of violence?
13 A It wasn't -- I mean, it wasn't the only threat to Congressmen or other 14 officials. There were -- but, yes, there were several other threats.
15 Q And that's what your work was focused on in those weeks after January 6th
16 and before the inauguration?
17 A Correct.
18 Q And I want to completely switch gears and talk about a different type of 19 threat, because at the beginning of this interview, I believe that -- and I don't recall, I
20 apologize if it was you or your counsel that mentioned that threats and other concerns
21 about privacy are acutely present here in this case.
22 Has your name been publicized in relation to the majority's investigation about 23 Bank of America's searches?
24 A Yes.
25 Q And have you received any threats or harassment as a result of that

1 publication?

2 A I have not received any direct threats. However, the time around January

3 17th, when my name was released to -- in a letter to Director Wray, my personal cell

4 phone has been ringing off the hook.

5 Q With what kinds of calls?

6 A I don't pick up.

7 Q And do you know how your personal cell phone number was obtained?

8 A I don't know.

9 Q Do you have concerns for your safety or that of your family if, for example,

10 your name were not redacted from the testimony today?

11 A Yes. And I did then when I found out.

12 Q Okay. And have you been concerned basically consistently since January

13 17th?

14 A I wouldn't say consistently. More frustrated, but still concerned, yes.

15 BY [redacted]

16 Q I just want to make one point for the record. Going back to what I believe

17 is exhibit -- what was introduced as exhibit 5, which is the testimony of Mr. Bonavolonta, I

18 want to make it clear, on page 13 of that testimony, you were asked a number of 19 questions about the leads that may have been involved in --

20 A Yeah.

21 Q -- and indicated you didn't have personal knowledge of that. But I do want

22 to note, Mr. Bonavolonta said in his testimony, quote, So I reviewed the lead, and it was

23 very clear in the lead that there was not a request to engage with anybody. Or we

24 weren't being directed to do anything.

25 Do you see where it says that?

1 A Yes.

2 Q So Mr. Bonavolonta said during his testimony there was no directive for his

3 field office to take any particular action with respect to that lead, correct?

4 A That's what he's saying.

5 Q Right.

6 A Correct.

7 Q He said that on the record, that there was no directive associated with that

8 lead?

9 A Correct. Without knowing what lead he's talking about, correct.

10 [redacted] Okay. Thank you.

11 [redacted] And the leads you sent out were the same, they did not contain 12 any directives?

13 Mr. Sullivan. Well, I can't speak exactly to any leads that Washington Field Office

14 or any other field office pushed out. I'm aware that they occurred after our four

15 assessments. So in this case, I'm just simply saying I don't know which lead he's 16 speaking of.

17 [redacted] Right. But he said he -- in his own words he said that there was no

18 directive, no order, no instruction, that they were to take any action with respect to that?

19 Mr. Sullivan. You're reading it correctly, yes.

20 [redacted] Thank you.

21 We can go off the record.

22 [Recess.]

23 [redacted] All right. We'll go back on the record.

24 BY [redacted]

25 Q Picking back up, at some point, the Bank of America information was

1 recalled from FBI systems. Is that correct?

2 A I'm sorry. Repeat the question.

3 Q At some point, the Bank of America information was recalled from FBI

4 systems. Is that correct?

5 A Not to my knowledge, not the information that we sent out.

6 Q Okay. I'd like to now enter an excerpt of the transcript from the Judiciary

7 Committee's July 12th, 2023 hearing with FBI Director Wray into the record as exhibit 15.

8 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 15.

9 was marked for identification.]

10 BY [redacted]

11 Q And, again, that's just relevant excerpts.

12 A What page?

13 Q Page 33 and 34, if you want to take a second.

14 A All right.

15 Q I'll just go ahead and read into the record the relevant portions.

16 "Mr. Massie. In my remaining 1 minute, I want to turn to another issue.

17 George Hill, former FBI supervisory intelligence analyst in the Boston Field Office, told us

18 that the Bank of America, with no legal process, was -- gave to the FBI gun purchase

19 records with no geographical boundaries for anybody that was a Bank of America

20 customer. Is that true?

21 "Mr. Wray. Well, what I do know is that the -- a number of business community

22 partners all the time, including financial institutions, share information with us about 23 possible criminal activity, and my understanding is that's fully lawful.

24 "Mr. Massie. Did you --

25 "Mr. Wray. In the specific -- in this specific instance --

1 "Mr. Massie. Did you ask for that information?

2 "Mr. Wray. In the specific instance that you're asking about, my understanding is

3 that that information was shared with field offices for information only but then recalled

4 to even -- to avoid even the appearance of any kind of overreach. But my

5 understanding is that that's a fully lawful process."

6 What does it mean when information is recalled?

7 A It can mean a number of things, discontinued or otherwise. I don't want to

8 speak to what the interpretation here is of "recalled." I know that information cannot

9 be further pursued. It could be discontinued, but, again, I'm generalizing.

10 Q Is information removed from FBI systems when it's recalled?

11 A It depends on the instance. I can't speak to all instances where things are

12 recalled. I can only speak to my involvement in the Bank of America SAR and the 13 information that we dealt with.

14 Q Were you aware of this statement before just now?

15 A Yes.

16 Q And what's your reaction to it?

17 A That Director Wray is correct. I mean, he's informed on what

18 Counterterrorism did and didn't do with that information, so --

19 Q How soon after the Bank of America SAR was filed was the information

20 recalled?

21 A For which? So just to clarify, there was the assessments that we wrote

22 from my office and the information that was available to other folks that had access to

23 that in our Sentinel case file. That would include the field office who was running the 24 Capitol riots investigation and their case file, Washington Field Office.

25 Q I'm talking about whichever information was recalled.

1 A I'm only generally aware that information that was used for leads to other
2 field offices after we did our assessments, the four assessments that I detailed, that there
3 was some information that was discontinued and some information that was not
4 discontinued.
5 Q Information that included the Bank of America filing and supporting 6 documentations?
7 A I can't speak to specific information that was recalled. I can only speak to 8 the assessments we pushed out, and my general understanding that there was 9 information that another -- at least one other field office used to determine there may be 10 other leads that were relevant to this.
11 Q Were you part of the decisionmaking process to recall the information?
12 A For specifically what he's -- I can't speak to that.
13 Q So you weren't involved?
14 A I'm not -- I don't have the knowledge of that because I wasn't -- I have been 15 involved in other conversations related to this and other SARs with Office of 16 General Counsel in and around that timeframe. I can speak to that, but I can't speak to,
17 as an enterprise, what was decided on. I wouldn't be in a position to make those 18 decisions or know all of the information related to that.
19 Q Well, and that was the question. So were you a part of the decisionmaking
20 process to recall the information?
21 A No, not to my knowledge.
22 Q Do you know who made the decision to recall the information?
23 A Again, I don't know specifically what information was, quote/unquote,
24 recalled and what that constituted.
25 Q Are you aware of whether it included information that stemmed from the

1 Bank of America filing?

2 A Yeah. I only know that it was generally related to that filing. I know that

3 there was other information that was recalled not related to this filing.

4 Q Are you able to speak to what other information that is?

5 A No. Because I don't know.

6 Q You just know generally that there was other information?

7 A Uh-huh. Yes.

8 [redacted] So when you say that information was discontinued -- do I have

9 that correct? You used the word "discontinued"?

10 Mr. Sullivan. I used the word "discontinued," yes.

1 [3:07 P.M.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q When that happens, is there any directive to the field offices that goes along

4 with that saying, "This information has been discontinued, you can't continue to 5 investigate these leads"?

6 A If there is, that's up to the operations section or entity or the program

7 management for their operations at headquarters. That's generally the decision that's

8 made is involving them as kind of a forefront of that decision.

9 Q They would make that decision and then direct the field offices?

10 A I mean, I can't speak just for again the operations section. I'm telling you

11 generally how it works. There may be other Office of General Counsel and other

12 discussions at an executive level to determine if there would be a message or not that

13 would discontinue something. From where I stand. From what I know.

14 Q When the director says that the information was recalled to avoid giving the 15 appearance of any kind of overreach, was there any discussion around that that, that it

16 was improper to request and receive this information from Bank of America?

17 A No.

18 [redacted] Are you saying was he in that discussion?

19 BY [redacted]

20 Q Were you in a discussion, or are you aware of any discussions about that?

21 When it was recalled to avoid this appearance of any kind of overreach, was there any

22 discussion of maybe we shouldn't have done this in the first place?

23 A There was no discussion of maybe we shouldn't do this in the first place.

24 Q Were you surprised that the information was recalled?

25 A Again, I don't know what specific information was recalled. Because,

1 remember, we had already pushed out our assessments on the four of the 211. I am
2 only generally aware that Washington Field Office used the information, and I don't know
3 what other field offices or any other entity that used the information, but the information
4 was accessible.
5 Q Have you ever had any other information that you worked to procure be 6 subject to this kind of recall before?
7 A Not to my knowledge. Not to my recollection. And, again, I don't want
8 to -- I don't want to beat a dead horse, but recall and what that means, I don't know
9 because I can only tell you what I did with the assessments that were involved and then 10 how we uploaded the information and how it was accessible.
11 Q After you upload the information and notice it was accessible, is your role
12 done at that point?
13 A Not necessarily. We can always revisit information that we think may 14 warrant for whatever reason, additional information where we feel like it may meet
15 threshold for further assessment, but that's rare.
16 Q Okay. Would you ever advise field offices on how to use the information
17 and how to conduct their investigations?
18 A Field offices would, you know, routinely contact us if we did write a 19 guardian. Typically, on an information-only guardian, we don't get a lot of questions, 20 but it varies. It varies by field office. There's 56 field offices and legats that would 21 receive the information that responses vary.
22 Q What do you think Director Wray meant by the appearance of overreach?
23 A I'm not going to speak for Director Wray, especially in my position. But,
24 you know, I can only tell you, you know, that, as far as the information that was closed on 25 the four assessments, to your previous question too, that we could have revisited the information, but we did not. And, when the leak of the SAR occurred to FOX News on the fourth, I believe, I have a general awareness that a lot of leads outside of the four that we detailed were discontinued once the SAR was leaked.

Q So those leads were discontinued. Is the information still accessible on the FBI databases?

A Which specific information?

Q The leads that were discontinued, can those still be accessed by FBI agents?

A Yeah, and you can see that it was discontinued as well.

Q Okay.

A Or you may see something along the lines of closed for various reasons, because each field office may get the lead and respond in a slightly different way.

Q Okay.

A From my exposure to our case system and reviewing guardians.

[redacted] The last time you saw it and checked, right?

Mr. Sullivan. Yeah, from the last time I reviewed and checked.

BY [redacted]

Q I want to move back to the legal standard under the Bank Secrecy Act, as you were brainstorming the thresholds with Bank of America, are there other limits on what thresholds you can share?

A I mean, those limits would be intuitive, right? Can you be more specific? Like what?

Q Are there limits in terms of the kind of transactions that you can express an interest in as being possibly suspicious?

A From my law enforcement standpoint, there is various things that we can discuss and brainstorm. So, in that sense, you know, it varies. It's a pretty wide scope.

1 Q Okay. So that standard, in other words, allows the Bureau to decide what
2 thresholds are suspicious and share that information with financial institutions.
3 [redacted] I'm sorry; can you repeat that question?
4 BY [redacted]
5 Q Yeah. The legal standard under the Bank Secrecy Act permits the Bureau to 6 determine what threshold its interested in actioning for the financial institution to 7 subsequently act on?
8 A No, I think the BSA -- so the BSA is the bank's regulation side. On the 9 Bureau side of it, under my authorities and FBI and DOJ authorities, my discussion can be 10 on various topics and brainstorm on various, you know, fact-based patterns or typologies, 11 indicators. So that's what I'm saying; it varies widely on the FBI, the Department of 12 Justice side. Under the BSA, that's the financial institution and what they're allowed to 13 do or capable of doing or responsible for reporting.
14 Q Sure, but you liaise with the financial sector. You worked with them in 15 putting together the thresholds. Are there limits on what thresholds you could decide 16 to share with financial institutions?
17 A As a financial institution?
18 Q No, as the Bureau.
19 A Yeah, I mean, I would say the same answer. You know, under the FBI DOJ
20 authorities, I'm able to speak about the threat, and I am able to brainstorm about 21 narrowing the focus of data. I mean, it's a wide scope. I think BSA puts more of 22 the onus on the institution to determine how they're going to report it but that it's their 23 obligation to report suspicious activity.
24 Q Okay. I would like to turn back to the transcript of Joseph Bonavolonta.
25 Page 14. At the bottom of the page, we discussed how -- we discussed who the lead

1 came in from. So the question is posed, "Who did the lead come in from?" "The lead
2 came in from our -- I believe the Strategic Engagement Unit, but I can't say for sure if
3 that's the actual name of the unit, but it fell under or falls under the Office of the Private 4 Sector, which --" "Is that in Boston or out of headquarters?" Answer: "No, out of 5 headquarters." Question: "Do you know if they solicited the information from Bank of 6 America or whether Bank of America just offered it up?" Answer: "The way it reads in 7 the lead, it was -- it did not solicit the information, that the information was just 8 proactively provided to them."
9 Do you agree with that statement that the information was just proactively
10 provided?
11 A Yeah, in my limited access to then SAC Bonavolonta's transcribed interview,
12 yes.
13 Q Do you have an idea why Mr. Bonavolonta believed the information was 14 proactively provided and not requested by the FBI from the way the lead reads?
15 A I'm not going to assume what he thinks by making that statement. I can
16 only tell you my perspective is, if I were him, if I'm reading it this way is because the fact
17 that it's in a SAR.
18 Q Okay.
19 A Yeah.
20 Q And, turning to page 17, there's a question at the middle of the page that 21 states, "And it was also represented to us that individuals were prioritized on that list if 22 they had a firearms purchase. Did that match your recollection?" Answer: "So I 23 don't have any knowledge of anybody being prioritized over a firearm purchase, but in 24 one of the criteria that was in there in terms of Bank of America's data was related to 25 purchases that had been made at either gun shops or, you know, stores that would sell

1 firearms." Is that accurate?

2 A Is what accurate? What you read?

3 Q Yes.

4 A Yes, what you read was accurate.

5 Q And is Mr. Bonavolonta's testimony accurate in terms of how it described

6 the Bank of America information?

7 A Can I review it again?

8 Q Of course.

9 A Again, my answer is going to be based off of limited access to this

10 transcribed interview. I don't have everything in front of me, but if I can just take a

11 second and review this. Yes, I would say that it's correct in that it's weapons-related

12 transactions.

13 Q Okay.

14 A Is there anything specific, though, that -- the reason you're asking, like a 15 more specific question?

16 Q Yeah, were firearm purchases prioritized?

17 A Weapons-related transactions were one of many fact-based patterns that

18 were prioritized by Bank of America in this SAR.

19 Q Okay. And I would like to move to the testimony of Steven Jensen.

20 A What page?

21 Q I'm sorry; I'm going to redirect you.

22 A Okay.

23 [redacted] You can set aside that right quick. I now enter an email dated

24 January 18th, 2021, and then attach the liaison information report prepared by the FBI's

25 Office of the Private Sector, titled "Domestic Violent Extremists Likely Emboldened in the 1 Aftermath of the Capitol Breach," into the record as exhibit 16.

2 [Sullivan Exhibit No. 16.

3 was marked for identification.]

4 BY [redacted]

5 Q What are liaison information reports?

6 A They are reports that are put together by our analysis section, and they can

7 oftentimes be in concert with unclassified intelligence information that we're able to

8 push out. I say "we" as a division, Office of Private Sector often may have access -- may

9 have their member access to it. But the LIR, from my understanding, is -- it's an analytic

10 product.

11 Q And are you familiar with this liaison information report?

12 A Yeah. Around the 17th of January, yes, I remember reading this.

13 Q And when did you become first aware of the report?

14 A You know, I can only generalize. We're going back 3 years. I can't tell you

15 exactly when. I apologize.

16 Q I want to direct you to the date at the top left. Is that the correct date,

17 January 17th, 2020?

18 A I didn't produce this report, so I am not going to make any assumptions that 19 that date is correct. But it looks like a final product that's been disseminated, so likely.

20 Q And do you know who wrote this report?

21 A I do not. I can only tell you that an analytic element would be responsible

22 for putting this information together and producing it. This would not be within my

23 partner Engagement Section.

24 Q So, at the top, it says Office of the Private Sector.

25 A Yes.

1 Q Did the Office of the Private Sector author this?

2 A They were the ones to disseminate it. They likely coordinated on it. I

3 don't know that they did -- they wouldn't have done the analysis of it, but they would

4 have been one of the tools of kind of the chain of how it was produced.

5 Q And did you work with any of the individuals that prepared it?

6 A No, my unit was engaged with the private sector. This would not be

7 something that our unit authored or published.

8 BY [redacted]

9 Q Have you seen this document before?

10 A I have. Like to his question, I couldn't tell you exactly when I read it.

11 Q Do you know if you were still within the Strategic Engagement Section when 12 you saw the document?

13 A I believe so. Probably.

14 Q Do you know if it was during the course of your duties working on 15 January 6th-related investigations that you saw this document?

16 A I can't be sure of it. Likely, yes, probably.

17 Q Were you ever responsible for transmitting this document to any financial

18 institutions?

19 A I don't know that I sent this or if our front office had sent it to all sector

20 partners. Again, you have to remember this is during an NSSE. This is 17th January.

21 This is only 11 days after the Capitol riots, and we're supporting operations on an hourly

22 basis, and leads that are coming in. So that's the only reason I can't tell you for sure if I

23 sent it. I'm not saying that I didn't, but I don't know that I did. But LIRs, I have, we

24 have processed other -- in terms of disseminated LIRs that were published and granted

25 access. I think, earlier this morning, I was given a similar email where my supervisor had said "Feel free to push this out to your partners" -- I'm paraphrasing -- I can't remember the exact email. And, you know, our job is to engage and provide information. So anything that was published officially we would be the steward of that.

Q And I know you said you were doing a lot during this time period. Were there other LIRs that were sent out pursuant to the January 6th investigation?

A Probably. I couldn't tell you exactly how many or what topics they were outside of, you know, general threat information at the unclassified level.

Q Do you remember pushing any LIRs out to your strategic partners in the financial institutions?

A I could have. I don't remember specifically. I do remember sharing information with them on a regular basis.

BY [redacted]

Q How is this report distributed?

A I'm not in charge of how it's distributed. I can just tell you that, when it's published, oftentimes we're made aware of it and that it's okay to share, because at that point, if it's at the unclassified level, we can share data like that.

Q And so what purpose did sharing this liaison information report with financial institutions serve?

[redacted] Are you asking on a general level because he's already testified that he doesn't recall specifically how this was disseminated?

BY [redacted]

Q What would a liaison information report like this being shared with financial institutions, what purpose would that serve?

A Just covering a gambit of what it could serve just in my regular engagement, it would be information only if there is information in the report that helps them set

1 better alerts. That may be the case. If that was the case or the private sector member
2 had specific questions about something that the division provided to them to read, I may 3 be the first person to take the question or maybe not.
4 Q Yeah, footnote 1 states, quote, "The information in this LIR is provided to 5 inform law enforcement of the referenced narratives and theories which may play in 6 mobilizing criminal actors and DVEs to violence." Why was this shared with financial 7 institutions if it was meant to inform law enforcement?
8 A I can't speak to the authors of this of why they decided to footnote. I
9 mean, you can see the footnotes are specific to the quotes and the different assessment.
10 I wouldn't have taken part in that assessment either in analyzing it or producing it.
11 Q And I would like to move back to the DSAC portal. Can you explain briefly
12 the DSAC portal? I know you've touched on that previously.
13 A Yeah, just generally, the DSAC portal -- DSAC members in the private sector
14 may have access to information sharing that occurs in the portal. I don't -- Office of 15 Private Sector runs the portal. Again, Office of Private Sector is enterprise C-suite level
16 engagement. On the engagement that I do, we don't use the DSAC portal to -- and nor 17 do the other operational divisions -- I don't want to speak for them, but I mean for the 18 CTD in terms of sharing information, operational information, and other information on 19 the threat. We don't use the DSAC portal.
20 Q Are the materials shared via the DSAC portal public?
21 A My understanding is that it can be, but I have a very -- I would direct you to 22 the Office of Private Sector to give you a very fine scope of what is and what isn't 23 accessed.
24 Q Because companies have to apply to be a member of the DSAC?
25 A That's my understanding.

1 Q And so, if you're not accepted, you might not have access to that
2 information?
3 A You may not. Again, but that's generally speaking. My understanding.
4 Q Is the liaison information report something that might be shared via the 5 DSAC portal?
6 A I can't be sure. I think that it could have been. The fact that it's coming
7 from the Office of Private Sector, my understanding from the specific types of LIRs that it
8 could be.
9 Q Are there any other organizations like DSAC that provide for public-private 10 portals?
11 A There are -- in terms of specifics, I couldn't speak to specifics. I know that 12 there are other public-private sector partnerships kind of across government, whether it
13 be FBI, other law enforcement agencies, you know, specific sectors that share
14 information with, you know, various field offices in the different law enforcement
15 agencies. I mean, there are different types of public-private partnerships that share
16 information.
17 Q Okay.
18 [redacted] We can go off the record for a second.
19 [Discussion off the record.]
20 BY [redacted]
21 Q We can going back on the record. Mr. Sullivan, just a couple more
22 questions, and I think, you know, we're done, while our minority counterparts have 23 another round. So I want to turn back to the testimony of Mr. Jensen. I believe that is 24 exhibit 6, looking at page 152. And I'll read the Q&A towards the end of the page here
25 and then ask you a couple of questions on it. The question was, "If an individual was

1 identified because they used their Bank of America debit card in Washington, D.C., on
2 January 6th, but that's all you have, you would agree that that's not enough information
3 to go speak with that person about their role in illegal activities on January 6th?"
4 Answer: "My concern is those instances where Bank of America data was used to 5 initiate leads is that the leads lacked allegations of Federal criminal conduct. Contact by 6 an FBI agent can be consensual at any time, right? But sending leads out based solely on 7 information of purchase history that have no attachment of potential crimes or criminal
8 conduct is what was concerning to me." Do you agree with Mr. Jensen's concerns here?
9 A In terms of how the question was posed, they're only talking about one
10 specific fact-based pattern, yes. But the answer would be no if you're talking about if 11 this question was posed, has Bank of America pushed out the SAR, which was -- had other 12 fact-based patterns present also.
13 Q And when he said -- says "that sending leads out based solely on information 14 of purchase history that has no attachment of potential crimes or criminal conduct is 15 what was concerning to me," were you concerned that the information that was 16 contained in the SAR lacked allegations of Federal criminal conduct?
17 A As far as the assessments that we took part in and pushed out to the four 18 offices that I mentioned, those assessments were specifically done as information-only 19 leads based off of those fact-based patterns that could allow the field offices to use the 20 information to determine if there was a potential threat, i.e., Federal criminal conduct.
21 Q So you don't agree with Mr. Jensen's concerns here that leads that he was 22 sent or he knew were sent lacked Federal criminal conduct?
23 A I'm not saying I disagree with him. I'm saying I agree with his statement in 24 and of itself. But the question that's posed before it only discusses one type of purchase
25 that my office and nobody I know in the Counterterrorism Division would think would be

1 useful in pushing out any type of assessment.

2 Q So was it concerning to you that the information that was obtained from

3 Bank of America through the SAR through the thresholds that were identified by the FBI

4 and FinCEN on a call were then used to push leads out to the field that lacked Federal

5 criminal conduct? Was that concerning to you?

6 A I don't understand the question. What specifically are you asking?

7 Q So was it concerning to you that the information that Bank of America sent

8 to the FBI was then used to push out leads to the field that lacked Federal criminal

9 conduct according to Mr. Jensen who pulled the leads out of the system, was that 10 concerning to you at all?

11 A It wasn't concerning to me in the role that I played in the assessments that 12 went out for my unit.

1 [3:37 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]

3 Q So after it left your unit, you weren't concerned about how the data would

4 be used?

5 A No. In fact, you know, like I mentioned before, the data that we put in the 6 electronic communication involved the four assessments to prevent any potential

7 redundancy if, in fact, there was another entity -- it could be Washington Field Office, in

8 this case, who had the lead on the Capitol riots investigation -- determined that they

9 wanted to use the data for something else.

10 Q So the data -- besides just the four, you know, individuals that you identified,

11 that other data was still available in the FBI system. Is that correct?

12 A So I don't -- please clarify because there -- the data was the data. So there

13 aren't two different types of data. So what are you speaking about?

14 Q So the 200- -- the supporting documentation with the 211 individuals or

15 entities that were identified, you took out four of those to, you know, do Guardians that

16 you thought had more of a likelihood to have criminal conduct because they had bought a

17 firearm after January 6.

18 Was the other information still available in the FBI system just beyond those four

19 individuals?

20 A Well, first, you're -- and just to clarify, you're mischaracterizing. It wasn't a

21 likelihood that there was criminal conduct. It was the assessment to determine. The 22 field office would make that determination if there was reason to further investigate it.

23 Q Uh-huh.

24 A And I'm sorry, the second part of your question?

25 Q Was the information on the 211 individuals or entities, was that still in the 1 FBI system? The supporting documentation, was there still access to that?

2 A In the electronic communication that our unit authored, yes.

3 Q Okay. That was my question.

4 A Yeah.

5 Q Thanks.

6 A That was uploaded to the Washington Field Office's case file.

7 [redacted] Uh-huh. We can go off the record.

8 [Recess.]

9 [redacted] All right. We are back on the record.

10 At the top of the hour, I just want to note, during the minority's prior hour of

11 questioning, we introduced as exhibits 9, 11, and 13 a number of emails -- email chains

12 between the FBI and Citibank. The exhibits, as introduced, had PII included in them.

13 We're going to swap those exhibits for identical exhibits that have PII, email addresses,

14 phone numbers redacted.

15 Mr. Sullivan. Thank you.

16 [redacted] I just want to make that note on the record.

17 Mr. Sullivan. Thank you.

18 BY [redacted]

19 Q Mr. Sullivan, I want to turn back to the Jensen and Bonavolonta testimony.

20 And we actually don't need to go back into it, but I want to clarify the record on a couple

21 points.

22 A Sure.

23 Q To be clear, when you brainstormed information with Bank of America, your

24 goal was to develop information that could be used to prevent violence at the 25 inauguration and potentially on March 4th as well, correct?

1 A Right.
2 Q Okay. And so you weren't --
3 A Not on March 4th, but leading up to that and --
4 Q Correct.
5 A -- in that area. That timeframe.
6 Q Understood. But my point is that the reason that you were having that 7 brainstorming session, the goal was to prevent violent -- prevent violence that might 8 happen in the future?
9 A Potential. Correct.
10 Q Okay. There were references that we discussed kind of extensively in the 11 prior hour with the majority counsel to various leads and what might have been done
12 with various leads by different field offices. Do you recall that conversation?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And what Washington Field Office might have done with various leads,
15 correct?
16 A Correct.
17 Q You didn't send out leads -- whatever the Washington Field Office did, you 18 did not send those leads out, correct?
19 A Correct.
20 Q So there was a reference -- I think the assumption is that the Washington
21 Field Office took the 211 names and sent them out to field offices. You don't know what 22 happened?
23 A Correct.
24 Q You have -- you know, there has been representations made to you, but you 25 don't have any personal knowledge of that?

1 A No.

2 Q Okay. And you don't know when Jensen -- when Mr. Jensen -- you read Mr.

3 Jensen's testimony. He said that certain leads had been recalled. You don't know

4 what leads had been recalled?

5 A I only know generally that some were discontinued.

6 Q But you don't have personal knowledge of what or who or how?

7 A No.

8 Q Okay. And there was reference to the data that WFO had. You don't

9 know what data WFO had, correct?

10 A Correct. Generally speaking, yes.

11 Q So they -- so you said that the Bank of America saw or the information was in 12 the system, but you don't know if other information was in the system as well, for 13 example?

14 A Yeah. There was plenty of other information out of the Capitol riots case

15 file.

16 Q Okay.

17 A A ton of information.

18 Q And so -- and you didn't work in Washington Field Office?

19 A Correct.

20 Q So you don't know what WFO did?

21 A Correct.

22 Q Okay. In the prior hour, the majority introduced as exhibit 15 testimony

23 from Director Wray's testimony before this committee. And I'm going to ask you to 24 return to that --

25 A Okay.

1 Q -- and also to pull out exhibit 1, page 2. I guess it's Bates stamped 225, but
2 it's the second page of the exhibit. It's the actual email from you to the Bank of 3 America.
4 A Okay.
5 Q I want to turn to page 90 and look at the -- some comments that were made
6 on page 90 against your email side by side.
7 A Yeah.
8 [redacted] I'm sorry. Which email was that?
9 Mr. Sullivan. Oh, I'm on -- you said what page?
10 [redacted] Okay. Sorry. So we're going to pull out exhibit 1, which is your 11 email to Bank of America.
12 Mr. Sullivan. Oh, okay. Sorry. I've got a lot of papers. Sorry. Is it in there?
13 Oh, thank you.
14 Okay. I got it.
15 BY [redacted]
16 Q And then look at that side by side with page 90 from the hearing transcript.
17 And I want to look at some statements that Chairman Jordan made during the 18 hearing, and I'm going to ask you if they're actually an accurate representation of what 19 your email says.
20 A Okay.
21 Q So on line 2196 on page 90, Mr. Jordan asks, "Did the FBI ask financial 22 institutions to turn over their customers' debit and credit card purchase history in the 23 Washington, D.C. area for January 5th and 6th, 2021?"
24 Do you see where it says that?
25 A Uh-huh.

1 Q The answer to Mr. Jordan's question is no, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q The FBI did not ask financial institutions to turn over their customers' debit

4 and credit card purchase history in the Washington, D.C. area for January 5th and 6th,

5 2021, correct?

6 A Correct.

7 Q Okay. Mr. Jordan continues on. He says -- he reads from your email, and

8 he says, "I have the email in hand."

9 He says, "Let's read it. To recap" -- and he reads out loud, "To recap our morning

10 call, we are prepared to action the following threshold, customers transacting debit card,

11 credit card, Washington, D.C. purchases between 1/5/21 and 1/6/21."

12 Do you see where it says that?

13 A Yes.

14 Q In fact, your email -- that bullet point says, "with the additional identifying 15 targeting thresholds," doesn't it?

16 A Correct.

17 Q So Mr. Jordan's representation of what you said was not accurate, correct?

18 A Correct. It was not accurate.

19 Q Because it left out the part where you said "with additional thresholds"?

20 A Correct.

21 Q Okay. And he says, "That is scary enough."

22 Do you think it's scary for the FBI to have these conversations with the Bank of 23 America?

24 A No, not at all.

25 Q Okay. Then he says, "But the next bullet point is even more scary."

1 He says, "Any, any historical capital letters, all caps, any historical purchase of a 2 firearm."
3 Do you see where Mr. Jordan said that?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And, in fact, your email says "any historical purchase going back 6 months
6 generally for weapons or weapons-related vendor purchases."
7 Do you see where your email says that?
8 A Correct.
9 Q So, in fact, Mr. Jordan's statement did not fully represent what your email 10 said, correct?
11 A I agree. That's correct.
12 Q Okay. And then he says again on line 2205, "Did you guys" -- meaning the 13 FBI -- "ask them?"
14 And, again, the FBI did not ask the Bank of America for anything, correct?
15 A Correct.
16 Q On the following page. At lines 2208 to 2213, I'm just going to read this 17 out.
18 Mr. Jordan said, "Well, does this email trouble you as much as it does members of 19 the Judiciary Committee, that the FBI is asking for every single -- I mean, we had 20 Members of Congress here that week, first time they are getting sworn in as a new 21 Member of Congress, their family in town. And you are sweeping. And they may 22 happen to be a customer of Bank of America. And you are sweeping up every debit and 23 credit card purchase of their family who are in town that week because their husband or 24 their dad or their mom is getting sworn in as a new Member of Congress? And then you
25 are also overlaying that information with, did you, did this person buy a firearm?"

1 Do you see where Mr. Jordan said that?

2 A Yes.

3 Q Mr. Sullivan, were you sweeping up the credit card purchase history of new

4 Members of Congress and their families?

5 A No.

6 Q Okay. And, in fact, Mr. Jordan's representations here do not accurately

7 reflect the many -- the one, two, three, four, five -- the six bullet points included in your

8 email, correct?

9 A They do not. Correct.

10 Q And, in fact, your email was much more targeted than that, correct?

11 A More specific.

12 Q And so to the extent that somebody purchased a firearm, that alone

13 wouldn't be sufficient?

14 A Correct.

15 Q And even if the person purchased a firearm and was a customer of Bank of 16 America and purchased something in Washington, D.C., January 5th or 6th, that would

17 not be sufficient, correct?

18 A Correct, with the linked weapons-related transaction.

19 Q Right.

20 A Not firearm, per se.

21 Q Right. Weapons-related transactions --

22 A Uh-huh. Correct.

23 Q -- dating back 6 months generally.

24 And in addition, there was a requirement that there was a purchase made -- or

25 the threshold included bullet point two, which was purchases made for hotel, Airbnb, or

1 RSVPs in the DMV area, correct?

2 A Correct.

3 Q So, in other words, the actual conversation between FBI and Bank of 4 America, the brainstorming session, the thresholds were much more specific?

5 A Correct. Collectively.

6 Q Correct. And it wasn't -- none of these thresholds were to be taken on 7 their own?

8 A Correct.

9 Q Okay. Line 2227, that, "This is lawful, that you can ask this is scary."

10 Again, you didn't ask for anything, correct?

11 A Correct.

12 Q And he said, "This is something else we are going to have to change."

13 I think I can represent that Chairman -- that Ranking Member Nadler is very

14 concerned that this is a suggestion that the Bank Secrecy Act should be taken down. I

15 think that act has been in place since 1970, so it's 54 years.

16 I just want to reiterate. You, in your prior capacities, regularly relied on 17 information provided through Bank Secrecy Act provisions, correct?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And we talked through earlier that the Bank Secrecy Act, for example,

20 helped to stop -- the information provided through the Bank Secrecy Act helped to stop

21 the bombing of a school, correct?

22 A Correct.

23 Q It's frequently used to help target fentanyl trafficking operations, correct?

24 A To my knowledge and speaking to Criminal Investigative Division people that

25 use SARs, generally, I can say correct.

1 Q So you would agree that the Bank Secrecy Act is a pretty valuable tool for

2 the FBI?

3 A Absolutely.

4 Q Okay. Thank you.

5 [redacted] Thank you. We can go off the record.

1 [redacted] Can we go on the record, please?

2 This is a transcribed interview of Ms. Shannon Parry. Chairman Jordan and

3 Chairman Comer have requested this interview as part of the committees' oversight of

4 the FBI and the GSA.

5 Would the witness please state your name for the record?

6 Ms. Parry. Shannon Parry.

7 [redacted] Could agency counsel please state your names for the record?

8 [redacted]

9 [redacted]

10 [redacted] On behalf of the committees, I want to thank you for appearing here

11 today to answer our questions. The chairman also appreciates your willingness to

12 appear voluntarily.

13 My name is [redacted] I am with Chairman Jordan's staff. I'll now have 14 everyone else from the committees who's here in the room introduce themselves as well.

15 [redacted], with Chairman Jordan's staff.

16 [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

22 [redacted], Oversight Committee, with Ranking Member Raskin.

23 [redacted], Oversight Committee, Democratic staff.

24 [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

25 [redacted] Thank you.

1 I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will follow during
2 today's interview.
3 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for
4 1 hour, and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal
5 period of time if they choose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more
6 questions and the interview is over.
7 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if you would like to
8 take a break apart from that, please just let us know.
9 Ms. Parry. Okay.
10 [redacted] As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down
11 everything we say to make a written record, so we ask that you give verbal responses to 12 all questions. Do you understand?
13 Ms. Parry. I do.
14 [redacted] So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our best
15 to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to just 16 those people on the staff whose turn it is.
17 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks
18 down at the end of the table can hear you. It is important that we don't talk over one
19 another or interrupt each other if we can help it, and that goes for everybody present at
20 today's interview.
21 We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner
22 possible, so we will take our time. If you have any questions or if you do not understand
23 one of our questions, please let us know. Our questions will cover a wide range of 24 topics, so if you need clarification at any point, just say so.
25 If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it is best

1 not to guess. Please give us your best recollection. And it is okay to tell us if you
2 learned the information from someone else. Just indicate how you came to know the
3 information.
4 If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please
5 inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete
6 answer to the question.
7 You should also understand that, although this interview is not under oath, that by
8 law you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully. Do you understand
9 that?
10 Ms. Parry. I do.
11 [redacted] This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an
12 interview. Do you understand this?
13 Ms. Parry. I do.
14 [redacted] Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to
15 criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18 USC Section
16 1001. Do you understand this?
17 Ms. Parry. I do.
18 [redacted] Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to
19 today's questions?
20 Ms. Parry. No.
21 [redacted] Finally, I'd like to make a note that the content of what we discuss
22 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this
23 interview to any outside individuals to preserve the integrity of our investigation.
24 For the same reason, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with
25 the court reporter so that they can go in the official transcript, and any copies of those

1 exhibits will be returned to us when we wrap up.

2 That is the end of my preamble. Is there anything that my colleagues from the

3 minority would like to add?

4 [redacted] We just want to say thank you to Ms. Parry for being here

5 voluntarily.

6 Ms. Parry. Thank you.

7 [redacted] The clock now reads 10:03. We'll start the first hour of questioning.

8 EXAMINATION

9 BY [redacted]:

10 Q Can you describe your educational background for us?

11 A I received my bachelor's in politics and German from Saint Joseph's

12 University in Philadelphia; a master's degree in German from the University of Salzburg,

13 dual-conferred by Bowling Green State University. And my Ph.D. studies at Georgetown

14 University were in linguistics.

15 Q Are you fluent in German?

16 A I am.

17 Q And other than English and German, are you fluent in any other languages?

18 A Fluent, no.

19 Q Have you formally taught any of these languages in an educational setting --

20 A I have.

21 Q -- such as German?

22 A I have.

23 Q If so, where?

24 A I've taught English in Germany at a boys' boarding school. And I taught

25 German at both Bowling Green State University and Georgetown University.

1 Q Have you been able to apply your proficiency in German to positions that
2 you have held in the FBI?
3 A I have.
4 Q In what positions?
5 A I joined the Bureau as a German language analyst.
6 Q And when did you join the FBI?
7 A In 2003.
8 Q And what was your key motivation for joining the FBI?
9 A I was at Georgetown teaching German when 9/11 happened, and I knew
10 that I wanted to do something for my country. I answered an ad in The Washington
11 Post looking for speakers of German and Arabic.
12 Q And what is -- sorry. Where is your office based?
13 A My current office is in Winchester, Virginia.
14 Q And what are your roles and responsibilities in this position?
15 A As the Assistant Director of the Information Management Division, my 16 division is responsible for upholding the integrity of the FBI's records and promoting 17 public trust and access to those records.
18 Q Okay. And what subject matter areas do you work on?
19 A So, within the Information Management Division, our major programs are 20 Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act programs for the Bureau; the Enterprise
21 Vetting Center, which conducts vetting for employment suitability as well as immigration
22 benefits. We're responsible for setting standards through the Agency Records Office, as 23 well as working the technology to support FBI information and records.
24 Q Can you describe the organizational chart of your office for us?
25 A So, within my division, as Assistant Director, I lead the division. I have one

1 Deputy Assistant Director. I have five section chiefs, who are responsible -- they're
2 Senior Executive Service -- five section chiefs, who are responsible for their sub-programs;
3 and then, I believe, 9 assistant section chiefs who fall under them; and approximately 4 40 units that fall within the organization of the division.
5 Q Okay. And who is your direct supervisor?
6 A My direct supervisor is Associate Deputy Director Brian Turner.
7 Q And how many people are employed within the Winchester office?
8 A Within Winchester alone?
9 Q Yes.
10 A Approximately 900.
11 Q Okay.
12 And can you walk us through the various positions you've held at the FBI?
13 A I joined as a German linguist. I then moved into supervising as a
14 supervisory management and program analyst. I've been a unit chief. I've been a 15 section chief in two sections, a deputy assistant director, and now an assistant director.
16 Q Thank you.
17 And as Assistant Director of the Information Management Division, how often do
18 you interact with FBI Director Christopher Wray?
19 A Can you say that again?
20 Q Yes. As Assistant Director of the Information Management Division, how 21 often do you interact with the FBI Director, Christopher Wray?
22 A Not often.
23 Q Okay. And how often do you interact with FBI Deputy Director Paul
24 Abbate?
25 A Apart from sitting in a morning brief, not often.

1 Q Okay. And how often do you interact with FBI headquarters?
2 A Can you clarify that?
3 Q Yeah. Do you visit FBI headquarters often?
4 A Approximately once a month.
5 Q Okay.
6 A I'll come in once a month.
7 Q And when you do go to FBI headquarters, with whom do you interact with?
8 A Associate Deputy Director Brian Turner.
9 Q Okay.
10 And do you interact with Main Justice?
11 A Occasionally.
12 Q And when you do interact with Main Justice, with whom do you interact 13 with?
14 A With the National Security Division.
15 Q And how often?
16 A Monthly.
17 Q Okay.
18 And do you interact with the Attorney General's Office?
19 A No.
20 Q What kind of formal training, experience, or certifications do you have that 21 qualify you for your current role?
22 A Sorry. You're not making me cry. Remember that.
23 Can you repeat that?
24 Q Yes. What kind of formal training, experience, or certifications do you have 25 that qualify you for your current role?

1 A I have certifications in records management. I have training throughout my
2 Bureau career in leadership, in insider threats, in information management.
3 Q Thank you.
4 And during your tenure at the FBI, have you ever participated in a review of your
5 performance?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And do you generally receive good markings --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- on your performance reviews?
10 Okay. I'm going to go into the FBI headquarters project now.
11 A Uh-huh.
12 Q When did you learn that you would serve as a representative on the site
13 selection panel of the FBI headquarters project?
14 A September 2022.
15 Q And who selected you to be a panelist?
16 A I received a phone call and then an email from Nick Dimos, who is the 17 Assistant Director of our Finance and Facilities Division. He had shared with me that he 18 had just left our seventh floor, where he had conversations with the Associate Deputy 19 Director, Brian Turner, as well as Deputy Director Abbate, where they selected me to 20 serve on the panel.
21 Q Okay. And why were you selected?
22 A I think there are three reasons that I was selected for this.
23 The first is that I had no previous engagement with any part of the headquarters
24 site selection process to date.
25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A That I oversee a very large division over six geographic locations, and so I
2 also have real estate background in my portfolio.
3 And the third is that I have developed processes for the Bureau, and so they know
4 that if there is a process and it has gaps, that I will mitigate those; that if there isn't a
5 process, I will create one; and if there is a process that's sound, I will follow it. And so I
6 have a history of developing strategies also for the Bureau.
7 And so I would think that for those reasons -- and that I'm also not in the 8 Washington, D.C., area.
9 Q Uh-huh.
10 A I live and operate out of Winchester.
11 Q Okay.
12 And was there a memo or any other formal written notification of your 13 assignment as a panelist?
14 A Assistant Director Dimos had sent an email to GSA doing a virtual 15 introduction between myself and the GSA representative.
16 Q Okay.
17 And who selected the rest of the site selection panel representatives?
18 A I don't know.
19 Q Okay.
20 And what duties and responsibilities did you have as a representative on the 21 panel?
22 A I'm going to refer to a timeline here, because there are a lot of dates.
23 We received in -- after that virtual introduction, we received -- in October of 2022,
24 we received a site selection plan and a schedule. And so within that site selection plan
25 roles and responsibilities are delineated.

1 I can't speak to every single thing that was in that plan, but basically that I was
2 responsible for reviewing all of the materials that were being provided, evaluate each of 3 the sites against the criteria, the five criteria that were delineated --
4 Q Uh-huh.
5 A -- and to submit a report -- that I would be joining two other panel members
6 to submit a report to the Site Selection Authority at the conclusion of our panel.
7 Q And can you briefly explain how you evaluated each site?
8 A Sure.
9 We were given a list of five criteria and, in those instructions, were also advised to 10 read through -- there were in excess of 600 pages of materials to support each of those 11 criteria in total. And so I went through, I read 600-plus pages a number of times, looked 12 at the criteria.
13 They also had prepared sheets for us listing each of the criteria, where they had 14 already pre-populated some of the responses. Distance, for example, is a good one to 15 illustrate, where if the criteria is the distance between each of the three locations to an 16 airport, that they had already calculated what the miles were.
17 And so we were looking at what the mileage was for each of the sites. We then 18 had to assign a rating to each of the three sites, whether that was blue, green, or yellow, 19 blue being most advantageous to the government, green being second most 20 advantageous, and a yellow rating that would be designated as the third advantageous to 21 the government.
22 Q And there were only three voting panel members that filled out these 23 evaluations; is that --
24 A Correct.
25 Q -- correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q And when you were brought on as a representative, did you have any

3 concerns about participating in the project?

4 A No.

5 Q And why was it decided to have two GSA officials and only one FBI official

6 serve on the panel?

7 A I don't know.

8 Q Do you know when all the panel members were selected and finalized?

9 A I don't. I just know that the first email that we received that I referenced,

10 where we received that site selection plan --

11 Q Uh-huh.

12 A -- and the schedule, that there were the names of my two other panelists on 13 that email. So it must've been by October 4th, 2022.

14 Q And who are the other GSA officials who served on the panel?

15 A Tim Sheckler; he served as our chair for the panel. And Brett Banks; he was 16 the second GSA panelist.

17 Q And how did the reporting structure of the site selection panel work?

18 A Tim was designated as chair. That was in the materials that we had

19 received, is that there would be three panel voting participants, two from GSA and one

20 from FBI, with one from GSA serving as the panel's chair.

21 Q And how often did the site selection panel meet?

22 A There was a prescribed period of time -- so, from that initial email where the

23 schedule was sent back in October of 2022, there were several emails that were sent at 24 different times asking for our availability. And then when we thought we were going to 25 meet, then we didn't meet.

1 And so by the time we actually came together as a panel, that was in July of 2023.
2 And we first started meeting on July 27th, 2023. And that was our kickoff meeting.
3 Q Okay. So you never met with the representatives prior, whether that was 4 virtually or in person --
5 A No.
6 Q -- until July 27th?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Okay.
9 And who called the meeting to order?
10 A That was Aaron Hassinger. That was the same gentleman from GSA who I 11 was virtually introduced back in 2022.
12 Q Okay.
13 And for the FBI headquarters project, who did you report to within the FBI?
14 A I didn't report anything about the headquarters project to anyone --
15 Q Okay.
16 A -- while I was on the panel.
17 BY [redacted]:
18 Q Just one clarifying question. You said Tim was the chair?
19 A Aaron Hassinger --
20 Q Oh, okay.
21 A -- led the kickoff meeting.
22 Q Oh, okay.
23 A And Tim Sheckler was the chair of the panel, yes.
24 Q For the panelists, the materials of the GSA -- that someone from GSA be the 25 chair, did it specify which of the two GSA representatives?

1 A Say that again?

2 Q So on the panel you have the two GSA representatives and then yourself.

3 And you said that the materials referenced that someone from GSA would be the chair; is 4 that right?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Was it specific in that it identified who from GSA, which of the two?

7 A Yes. Yes.

8 Q Okay. Thank you.

9 A It was Tim.

10 BY [redacted]:

11 Q When did you find out that Ms. Nina Albert was assigned as the Site

12 Selection Authority?

13 A That would have been October 2022, when we received the initial email with 14 the site selection plan and the schedule.

15 Q And did you ever personally meet with Ms. Albert during her capacity as Site

16 Selection Authority?

17 A She attended our meetings when we started in July of 2023, but outside of 18 those days of the meetings during the panel, no.

19 Q And as a representative, did you report to Ms. Albert for the FBI

20 headquarters project?

21 A No.

22 Q Do you know if Ms. Albert met with any of the other representatives?

23 A I don't know.

24 Q Did you have any concerns about Ms. Albert's appointment as Site Selection

25 Authority at any point in the site selection process?

1 A Concerns about her appointment as Site Selection Authority?

2 Q Yes.

3 A No.

4 Q Did you have any other concerns about her status or background before she

5 became Site Selection Authority?

6 A I didn't know about her background while I was going through the panel.

7 Q Did you end up learning about her background at some point?

8 A I did.

9 Q And when did you learn about her background?

10 A That was in October or November of 2023.

11 Q And, to clarify, this was her background as a previous employee of WMATA?

12 A Correct.

13 Q And did you have any concerns about that?

14 A No. Concerns? No.

15 Q Do you know if anyone in the FBI had any concerns about her prior

16 employment with WMATA?

17 A I believe, looking at the process and -- the process that was outlined for the 18 panel and then as compared to the process outlined for the Site Selection Authority, I

19 believe that there -- the questions about the Site Selection Authority's previous employer

20 was called into question with regard to how that may have or may not have influenced

21 that process. But whether it influenced the panel's process, through my perspective?

22 No.

23 Q Okay.

24 BY [redacted]:

25 Q To your understanding, who had those questions or concerns?

1 A Our Director referenced a letter that he had authored to GSA asking about
2 the process itself.
3 Q And did you have any conversations directly with the Director?
4 A No.
5 Q Did you have any conversations with anyone at FBI about the Director's
6 letter?
7 A No.
8 BY [redacted]:
9 Q I'd like to enter an October 12th, 2023, letter from FBI Director Wray to 10 Administrator Carnahan into the record as exhibit 1.
11 [Parry Exhibit No. 1
12 was marked for identification.]
13 Ms. Parry. This is all the same, right?
14 [redacted] Yes.
15 Ms. Parry. Okay.
16 BY [redacted]:
17 Q All right. I'll give you some time to review --
18 A To read it?
19 Q Yeah. I have some specific passages that I'll read out and then ask
20 questions about them.
21 Let me know when you're ready.
22 A Okay.
23 Q Okay.
24 On the first page, in the second paragraph of the letter, it states, "The FBI's
25 September 22, 2023, memorandum and follow-up questions submitted to your team

1 described in detail our concerns and need for additional clarification regarding the site
2 selection process. GSA provided two draft versions of the site selection decision
3 document, along with a briefing of the decision. These three iterations of 4 communication to the FBI conveyed, at times, different explanations and rationales for 5 how key components of the site selection decision were considered."
6 Why do you think that the FBI felt that it received different explanations?
7 A Say that again?
8 Q Why do you think that the FBI felt that it received different explanations
9 from the Site Selection Authority on her decision to choose the Greenbelt site over the 10 Springfield site?
11 A I don't know why the FBI may have felt they received different -- what was 12 your -- how you phrased that?
13 Q Received different explanations.
14 A Different explanations.
15 It's possible that -- the Site Selection Authority submitted a report, just as the 16 panel did. And so there is written documentation.
17 But my understanding through the site selection plan that I was provided back in 18 2022 was that the process would also be orally briefed to the FBI, that following the 19 report submitted by the Site Selection Authority, that that Authority would also brief
20 members of the FBI on the decision.
21 And so it's possible -- I was not at that briefing, but it's possible that you have a
22 written report as well as a verbal briefing. Perhaps those are the references made there
23 to multiple explanations.
24 Q Do you know when Ms. Albert submitted her site selection decision report?
25 A I don't. I don't know the exact date.

1 Q Does September 30th --

2 A Makes sense.

3 Q -- sound accurate?

4 A Yes.

5 Q And did Ms. Albert release a pre-deliberative decision report to the site

6 selection panel as she completed it?

7 A No.

8 Q When did you find out that Ms. Albert chose the Greenbelt site over the

9 Springfield site?

10 A It was sometime in -- it was sometime in October, through the media.

11 Q October of what year?

12 A October 2023. And then I received -- in November of 2023, the panel

13 received from GSA the SSA's final report. But I had learned prior to receiving that, just 14 through the media.

15 Q Do you know if anyone in the FBI received the report or heard that 16 Ms. Albert's decision was going to be the Greenbelt site before you did?

17 A I believe that the Director had learned of the Site Selection Authority's

18 decision and report prior to me hearing about it, as I heard about it through the media.

19 Q And are you aware of a briefing that took place in August between the FBI

20 and GSA?

21 A No.

22 Q So you wouldn't be in attendance?

23 A No.

24 BY [redacted]:

25 Q Okay.

1 And what was your reaction to Ms. Albert's differing decision?

2 A I thought back to the very first day of the panel's meeting, in July of 2023.

3 GSA had kept very good records of -- anytime we met, they had a meeting log. Anytime

4 we had a question, we were asked to enter it into a question log.

5 I took full advantage of the question log, as one of my very first questions was

6 about the Site Selection Authority and the language that was in the plan that included her

7 ability to use the 600-and-plus pages that we were given, as well as -- and I can't recall

8 the exact wording -- but as well as any additional information not provided to the panel.

9 I had asked about that, whether or not the panel would receive that same

10 information or any type of clarification as to what that information could be --

11 Q Uh-huh.

12 A -- as 600-plus pages of a panel packet is quite robust. And so I was just

13 curious, back in July, of what that might be, just trying to better understand the process

14 from beginning to end.

15 And so, when I learned of the decision, I immediately thought that the Site

16 Selection Authority must have used that other information that was referenced that I had

17 no idea what that was, but that that must've been the reason why she had decided on a

18 different site than the panel.

19 Q Were you surprised that she chose a different site?

20 A No.

21 Q Why were you not surprised?

22 A There was a meeting during -- after the panel convened in July. July 27th

23 was our first meeting. We were given a lot of instruction on what we were to do as

24 individuals, and so our first, sort of, responsibility was to read through that 600-plus-page

25 packet and not talk to our other panel members about that and to independently

1 evaluate each of the sites against the criteria using the information that we were
2 provided.
3 We then, a few days later, came back as a group when we had each evaluated
4 singularly to then move into what they were calling "consensus meetings." I think that 5 they had planned for 2 days of consensus meetings. We only needed a morning to 6 achieve consensus, because each of the panelists evaluated each of the criteria and each
7 of the locations exactly the same way, and so we didn't need as much time in consensus.
8 That was the morning of -- July 31st was the morning that we achieved consensus.
9 According to our schedule, we would have gone into the report-writing phase.
10 We were going to take a break that morning after we achieved consensus. At 11 that meeting, everyone said their thank-yous. The Site Selection Authority was in that 12 meeting, as well, thanking everyone for their time and for their participation, and that we 13 would be moving into the report-writing phase.
14 We took a break, and as we came back that same afternoon into what I thought 15 would be instructions as to how we would move forward with a format and the 16 timeframe that we would be given to write the report, we were brought back into what 17 GSA in their meeting log called a "back-check," where, in my opinion, we relitigated and 18 had to go through each of the decisions that we had made in the morning.
19 And the Site Selection Authority was quite active in that meeting, so much so that 20 at the conclusion of that meeting, before we went into the report writing, I called the 21 attorney who was assigned to this panel from the FBI side as an advisor. I called all of 22 the FBI folks who were serving as technical advisors and just thanked them on my behalf
23 as we were moving into the process that was just writing a report, but that the panel had 24 concluded.
25 And I posed to him a rhetorical question, and I asked him what he felt like,

1 whether the Site Selection Authority would reverse the decision. I asked that rhetorical
2 question because I, through the questions that she posed in the back-check, felt as 3 though there was some direction that we were taking that the panel didn't take. We
4 kept pure to the process that we followed and consistent to the consensus we achieved
5 and submitted a report that was consistent to that process, but that the types of 6 questions that were being posed led me to that question.
7 Q Uh-huh.
8 A And rhetorically when I posed it and then later learned that the Site
9 Selection Authority had gone in a different direction, I immediately thought back to that 10 day.
11 BY [redacted]:
12 Q What were those questions that she posed to the committee during the 13 back-check?
14 A So it was a combination of questions and statements. None of the 15 panelists responded to them. I certainly didn't respond.
16 I looked at it more -- at the time that it was happening, I looked at it more as an 17 opportunity for the panel to really articulate in the report these areas that she's calling
18 out. So I took it as a good opportunity to ensure that as we, the three of us, moved into 19 the panel reporting process that we would pay particular attention to some of the areas 20 that she was drawing attention to.
21 And so we spent a lot of time talking about Criteria 2, I believe, and 22 distances -- distances between the proposed site and the Metro, and comments about 23 walking distance and, you know, knowing how people can walk at different paces, and 24 what really is a marginal difference that we were describing in terms of point-something 25 in walking distance.

1 She made comments that walking distance is very different depending on weather
2 conditions and depending on someone's physical ability to walk, and that she was 3 surprised that we had evaluated particularly that criteria in the way that we did, and
4 using the words "marginal" that we had used to describe what was a 0.3 or 0.4 difference
5 in distance.
6 So that was an example. I think most of the -- 7 Q So she took issue with the wording used about the distance between the 8 Metro and the site for each of those sites?
9 A Yes.
10 BY [redacted]:
11 Q What was her tone when she was making these comments and asking these 12 questions?
13 A I don't remember the tone. I certainly would have remembered it if it were 14 argumentative or -- I really, at that time, was trying to process why we were going 15 through this, again, being a process person and thinking that I was going into a meeting to 16 move into the report writing, considering in the morning when we achieved consensus
17 they had even time-stamped when we had achieved consensus.
18 And so I was really just processing why we were having this conversation and 19 going back to each of the evaluations that we had already done in the morning. So tone 20 didn't strike me in any way, other than, why are we doing this and why are we 21 reevaluating something that we had already closed the door and said thank-yous, and 22 why are we not moving into writing the report.
23 BY [redacted]:
24 Q Did you or your other panel members pose that question during this 25 back-check?

1 A No.

2 Q Is there a reason you, particularly, didn't pose it?

3 A There's no reason. I thought that if this is -- if we hadn't moved into the

4 report-writing phase, I may have, but I figured this was going to move us into the 5 report-writing phase, and I didn't ask why we were doing it.

6 Q So, at this point, you believed that you guys were still on the same path.

7 You were just going to -- you took this as more information you needed provided in your

8 report as to why you came to your decision on some of those selection criteria?

9 A Correct.

10 BY [redacted]:

11 Q How long did the back-check last for?

12 A I don't remember the exact timing. It was no more than 30 minutes.

13 Q And who was in the room in the morning when you were trying to reach

14 consensus initially?

15 A Everyone. So all of our meetings, nothing was in person. It was all via

16 Skype. And so all of the panelists were there. The GSA POCs were there. The 17 contracting officer, the Site Selection Authority -- everyone who had been in the previous

18 meetings were there on this last day.

19 Q Okay. And so, to your understanding, it was the same people in the 20 morning and in the afternoon?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay.

23 A And, again, the meeting log that they kept had all of the attendees. They

24 dated when we had a meeting, what the theme of that meeting was, who was in 25 attendance, and then they provided a brief description of what the meeting was about.

1 BY [redacted]:

2 Q And real quick, speaking of the meeting log, you also mentioned the

3 question log.

4 A Uh-huh.

5 Q You particularly posed the one question that you mentioned -- you,

6 obviously, put in several, but the one question regarding the site selection that you

7 mentioned a moment ago.

8 Did you ever get an answer to that question?

9 A Yes and no. The "yes" is, the question was answered. And the content of 10 that question -- or the content of that response, rather, was that the panel was to 11 concentrate on the 600-page-plus packet and that that was our responsibility.

12 Q And who answered, to your knowledge, those questions? Where did those 13 answers come from?

14 A Those came -- the log itself provided a name of who provided the answers to 15 that. So I believe that that would have been Aaron Hassinger who responded to that 16 one.

17 Q And is that, to your knowledge -- obviously, Aaron responded to that

18 particular one, but the authority to answer said questions, was that just vested in with 19 the panel technical advisors? Or did that come from the Site Selection Authority?

20 A I don't know.

21 BY [redacted]:

22 Q So, after the panel achieved consensus and decided to choose the Springfield

23 site, would you say that Ms. Albert seemed confused about the decision and was trying to 24 understand?

25 A I don't know that I would say "confused about the decision," but I would say

1 that during the back-check and the questions or statements that she posed I thought that
2 it was geared towards better understanding how we came to the decision and statements
3 that I took as rhetorical statements of disagreement to our evaluation.
4 BY [redacted]:
5 Q Did the Site Selection Authority, during that back-check or at any point,
6 express directly to you guys the disappointment in that decision?
7 A She said she was surprised.
8 Q Did she give a reason of her surprise?
9 A She said she was surprised at the evaluations particularly of transportation
10 and our use of the word "marginal" -- "marginal differences."
11 BY [redacted]:
12 Q You've noted marginal differences, especially walking, a couple times.
13 Were there any other factors, examples that you recall her raising?
14 A Still within that transportation Criteria 2, I would say, was where she was 15 most vocal in stating various things, not necessarily questions.
16 She drew attention to the bus lines, I remember. It was one of the sub-criteria
17 for No. 2, was the access to bus lines. I can't recall the exact numbers of bus lines, but 18 she had made a statement that nobody really takes the bus and many more people would 19 take the Metro, and so she felt that that was a more important criteria of the sub-criteria.
20 Q In the initial packet of materials that you were tasked with reviewing, was 21 there any language, to your recollection, of whether the type of transportation, bus
22 versus Metro, should be weighed more heavily?
23 A No. Each of the sub-criteria were to be evaluated the same way. And so,
24 within the criteria, if there were two sub-criteria or -- Criteria 4 had several 25 sub-criteria -- each of the sub-criteria were to be evaluated equally.

1 Q As it relates to Ms. Albert's comments about Metro versus the bus, do you
2 recall her making any statements or asking questions disagreeing with how the panel
3 assessed those two options? Or was it more that weight -- greater weight should've
4 been given to one form of transportation over the other?
5 A Can you say that again?
6 Q Sure. So, two answers earlier, you said that she had said something to the 7 effect of that no one takes the bus and that the sub-criteria as it relates to the Metro
8 should've been weighed more heavily.
9 Just as a clarifying question, was she disagreeing with anything that the panel had 10 found as it related to the Metro or the bus? Or was it a step above that, that the Metro
11 as a whole should've been weighed more heavily than the bus?
12 A I thought both. I thought that the original statements about the 13 "marginal" -- our "marginal" definition and decision between the walking distance to 14 Metro sites was a point that she was making; as well as the point about the buses, that 15 despite Springfield having more bus lines than Greenbelt or Landover, that that didn't 16 matter as much because people didn't really take the bus.
17 Q And what did you make of her comment, that latter comment, that some of 18 the sub-criteria should've been weighed differently than they were outlined in the 19 materials provided to you?
20 A I took it as, we needed to ensure that, in our writing of the report, in our 21 submission of the report, that we outlined the process and the consistent process and the 22 application of our definition of "marginal" that needed to apply throughout all of the 23 criteria.
24 Q You'd mentioned that you -- if I recall an answer earlier correctly -- that you
25 didn't respond to any of Ms. Albert's either rhetorical questions or --

1 A I didn't.

2 Q Did anyone else during the back-check?

3 A I don't recall. I don't think so.

4 BY [redacted]:

5 Q After the back-check was happening, did you speak with any of the panel

6 members about what Ms. Albert was bringing up?

7 A When we went into the report-writing phase, we talked about those

8 sections, particularly the Criteria 2, where we needed to ensure that we explain how we

9 define "marginal," that we needed to do a very good job of making it clear why we

10 assigned a blue rating versus a green rating. That's what we talked about.

11 BY [redacted]:

12 Q And so we've talked in depth about marginality between the two, Metro and 13 bus lines. What other areas did she bring up of concern with the panel's site selection?

14 A Criteria 4 was another of the criteria that in the back-check there was

15 attention paid to Criteria 4, again, not so much posed as questions but just more of a 16 statement.

17 Criteria 4 was also a criteria that we had spent a lot of time -- we had received a

18 separate briefing from a member of GSA on Criteria 4 with a slide show and lots of 19 different data that was included in our 600-plus pages.

20 But during the back-check, Criteria 4, the comments were that it was very clear

21 that the Greenbelt location would serve a greater socio- -- would have a greater

22 socioeconomic impact than the Springfield location.

23 Q And what was your response to those statements?

24 A I didn't respond to any of the statements. But I --

25 Q What did you interpolate, feel, from the discussion, like, yourself?

1 A The panel had assigned a blue rating to both locations in Prince George's
2 County. So I felt like that's -- we had assigned a blue rating and assigned that Prince
3 George's County -- either of the locations in Prince George's County, according to the 4 criteria, were most advantageous to the government.
5 We assigned a green rating to Fairfax County and the Springfield location as 6 second most advantageous.
7 I just felt like it was a statement of the obvious from what the panel had already
8 provided.
9 Q And how long did that particular Criteria 4 conversation go on?
10 A I don't know.
11 Q Okay.
12 BY [redacted]:
13 Q Did Ms. Albert or anyone provide reasons for why they believed there was a 14 greater socioeconomic benefit for one site versus another?
15 A During that back-check?
16 Q Yes.
17 A No.
18 BY [redacted]:
19 Q But just for the record and for clarification, the panel had already given 20 those two sites in Maryland the highest rating that they could give?
21 A Yes.
22 Q But they still went on to discuss and tell you why that needed to occur?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And then real quickly, regarding the back-check and the meeting that you
25 guys had that day leading into the report-writing phase, I know we've talked briefly about

1 the people in attendance and that that log is very clear of who's there. To your
2 recollection, was anyone in attendance in any of those two sessions that day that
3 were other than GSA and FBI?
4 A No.
5 Q No other government agencies, officials from any other government agency
6 were in attendance?
7 A No other people who hadn't already been in one of the previous meetings
8 were in that back-check meeting.
9 Q Were any of those folks in the previous meetings not associated with GSA or 10 FBI?
11 A I don't believe so.
12 Q Okay.
13 BY [redacted]:
14 Q So, when you were in the report-writing phase, who spearheaded writing the 15 report?
16 A The chair, Tim.
17 Q Okay. Did you have any penmanship in the report-writing process?
18 A Yes. So the way that we divided labor was that Tim said that he would 19 provide a rough outline of the report, that he had been given a template for the very 20 beginning portions of the report anyway and that he would just start documenting a lot of 21 what we had talked about in achieving consensus.
22 And, then, we were doing that report on a Google site that was a live -- sort of,
23 live writing and live editing. And so he said in the very beginning, just give me 2 hours
24 and let me come up with a framework, and then, you and Brett, let's just go in and just 25 start having, you know, just conversations and live editing. And so that's what we did.

1 Q And how long did it take to write the report?

2 A We started writing the afternoon of the 31st, and I know that I -- of July.

3 Sorry. And I know that I digitally signed the report on August the 8th. Tim had signed

4 it a day earlier, and Brett and I signed it the day after.

5 Q And when you signed off on the report on August the 8th, did you send it to

6 the FBI or --

7 A No.

8 Q -- to Ms. Albert?

9 A Did I? No.

10 Q Okay. Did anyone on the panel send that to the Site Selection Authority?

11 A I don't know for certain, but we submitted it onto the GSA site that everyone

12 had been working.

13 Q Uh-huh.

14 A And Tim had advised Aaron Hassinger that we had completed it.

15 Q So when did the FBI learn about the panel's decision to choose the 16 Springfield site in this report?

17 A I don't know.

18 [redacted] Can you be more specific? You're speaking --

19 [redacted] Yeah.

20 [redacted] -- to the FBI writ large as a large enterprise. It would be helpful

21 for --

22 BY [redacted]:

23 Q Say, Nick Dimos, when did he learn about the site selection panel's decision?

24 A I don't know exactly when Nick Dimos would have learned about the panel's

25 report, or the recommendation of the panel's report. I would imagine that that came at

1 the same time of the Site Selection Authority's report, where it highlights areas where the
2 Authority differed from the panel.
3 BY [redacted]:
4 Q The 600 pages of materials that you referenced that was provided to you,
5 who provided those materials to you and the other panelists?
6 A They were loaded onto that site that I referenced, and so that was GSA.
7 Aaron Hassinger really served as -- I don't know his exact title in the process, but
8 he served as the central point of contact. And so he was the one who emailed me back
9 in 2022 with the plan itself.
10 And then the materials, that 600-page packet, that was provided on the 11 Google -- GSA Google site.
12 Q Do you know if he prepared those materials himself or compiled them
13 himself?
14 A I don't know.
15 Q The instructions that were given at the first meeting with the site selection
16 panel, who gave those instructions? Was that Aaron Hassinger?
17 A Yes.
18 Q And then you mentioned that the chair of the panel obtained a template for 19 the panel's recommendation report. Do you know where he obtained that template?
20 Was that also from Aaron Hassinger?
21 A I believe so, yes.
22 BY [redacted]:
23 Q When you described the back-check meeting, you said it was not something
24 that you had expected was going to occur; it wasn't on the schedule or agenda. And 25 when you were describing it, at one point you used the word "relitigate."

1 Was there anything that the Site Selection Authority said during that time that 2 indicated she wanted the panel to think about maybe going back and rethinking that 3 consensus that the panel had just arrived at?
4 A I thought that the statement and questions and the concentration on the 5 term "marginal" and "do you really think that's marginal," "I don't think that that's 6 marginal when we're talking about walking" --
7 Q Uh-huh.
8 A -- I don't know whether that was stated to elicit a response. I just chose
9 not to respond to it. I don't know if it was stated to elicit a conversation about going 10 back and reevaluating. None of us took the opportunity to respond to it.
11 Q Okay.
12 One other thing. When you talked about -- when, again, did you find out that 13 Nina Albert was the Site Selection Authority?
14 A That was in the document, in the site selection plan. I believe she was 15 named.
16 Q And that was back when you first --
17 A That was back --
18 Q -- were named to the panel?
19 A Yes.
20 Q So there were two prior, apparently, Site Selection Authorities for this. So
21 were those -- was that -- that was prior to the time that you were named to the panel?
22 A It must -- perhaps. I only know Nina Albert as being the Site Selection
23 Authority --
24 Q Okay.
25 A -- and the one who participated when we actually convened.

1 Q Okay.

2 BY [redacted]:

3 Q So, if I understand you correctly, you got 600 pages of material that was

4 given to you; you had the site selection plan. And what I'm interpreting there is that you

5 had to consider that almost as though you had blinders on. Like, this is the universe of

6 information that I am allowed to consider to make a recommendation and ultimately

7 write the report. Is that right?

8 A Correct.

9 Q So, I mean, with that much focus on the term "marginal" and walking

10 distance, one, I'm just curious, did you ever go walk those two distances yourself?

11 A No.

12 Q Have you ever been to either of the sites?

13 A No. I've driven by them.

14 Q You've driven by them.

15 A In previous years.

16 Q Okay.

17 So, in that 600 pages, in the materials that you were given, was there any

18 discussion, though, of how many people would actually use the Metro to get to the FBI

19 headquarters?

20 A No. We didn't discuss it.

21 Q I'm sorry? You didn't discuss -- okay. You didn't --

22 A The panel didn't discuss it.

23 Q So somebody else had done that work, and it was yours to go based on that

24 alone?

25 A The criteria for that No. 2 and the sub-criteria didn't address the number of

1 users of any of the modes of transportation but, rather, the individual modes of 2 transportation, whether it was walking distance or the number of bus lines. It was never 3 about ridership.
4 Q So, when you said it was "marginal," that meant to you that it's six of one,
5 half a dozen of the other, in terms of walking from, I guess, the Metro station to the 6 facility, not "marginal" because no one's gonna use it so no one cares?
7 A Correct.
8 Q All right.
9 You also mentioned the briefing that you got stressing the socioeconomic benefit
10 to --
11 A Uh-huh.
12 Q Now, time-wise, did you get that after you had made your 13 recommendations?
14 A No.

1 [10:59 a.m.]

2 BY [redacted]:

3 Q No. But you seemed to characterize it as, kind of -- you called it a

4 statement of the obvious, because you had already given blue ratings to both of the 5 Maryland sites.

6 Did you feel like somebody was trying to stress the importance of this at those

7 particular sites, or did you think it was just part of the process that you get briefed on all

8 the elements or all the criteria as part of this?

9 A At the time we were given the specific briefing from someone else in GSA

10 about Criteria 4 --

11 Q Right.

12 A -- that was before we had been set to do our individual ratings. That was in 13 that kickoff meeting --

14 Q Uh-huh.

15 A -- where we went through the packet of information, were reminded to only 16 use that information that was in the packet.

17 When we hit Criteria 4, there was a separate person who came -- or, who was in

18 the meeting already but who was sort of given the floor to provide a briefing using a slide

19 deck that was already in the 600 pages. We hadn't gone through the 600 pages at all

20 page by page, but this slide deck we did. And a woman named Karen had briefed that 21 slide deck.

22 Q Okay. So that was the only criteria -- that was the only -- do I get that right, 23 that that was the only thing that they took extra time to go through with you?

24 A Yes.

25 Q How did that strike you? And why that?

1 A That was the same question that I had. I --

2 Q You thought it was quizzical?

3 A I didn't -- by the time we hit Criteria 4, it was clear to me that the

4 information that we needed to use was in the packet itself. And I knew that this slide

5 deck that she was briefing was in the packet and that I would, whether it was briefed or

6 not, be reading that packet, multiple times.

7 Q No, I get that, but -- but that was the only criteria that they took the time to 8 focus on, over and above the others?

9 A Yes.

10 Q Okay.

11 Did you ever look at the other information that the Site Selection Authority

12 apparently used to make a different decision?

13 A I didn't. I don't know what that information is or was.

14 Q I mean, how did you deal with seeing that come out? I mean, you had

15 done all this work, you've read all those pages, you got the briefings, you've done all this

16 hard work, and then the final decision was so different than what you all had been -- the 17 conclusions that you all had drawn based on the information that you had been given.

18 How does that make you feel about the process?

19 A I know the process by which the panel approached our responsibility and the 20 consistent application of the criteria in how we evaluated. I go back to my original

21 question in the log of, what is the different information that the Site Selection Authority

22 had at her disposal that we didn't that must have led her to a different opinion?

23 Q And you've never had a chance to see that?

24 A No.

25 Q Okay.

1 That's all I've got. Thanks.

2 A Uh-huh.

3 [redacted]. We can go off the record.

4 [Recess.]

5 [redacted]. All right. We'll go back on the record. The time is 11:18.

6 Ms. Parry, my name is [redacted]. I'll be asking you a few questions this hour.

7 And I think, first and foremost, I just want to thank you for coming here today. I know

8 you made a long trek from Winchester. We really appreciate you taking the time to 9 speak with us.

10 Ms. Parry. It's not that far, to be fair.

11 [redacted] Fair enough.

12 Ms. Parry. The weather's nice.

13 EXAMINATION

14 BY [redacted]:

15 Q So I'd like to take a step back and review the entire site selection process,

16 beyond just your evaluation.

17 GSA began searching for a new site for a new FBI headquarters in 2013. Is that

18 right?

19 A I don't have those dates. I don't know exactly the full process outside of 20 my panel process.

21 Q Sure. And I guess I will cite the first page of the "Site Selection Panel

22 Recommendation Report." And I'll represent to you that in the first paragraph the panel

23 wrote, "Beginning in or around 2013, the U.S. General Services Administration ('GSA')

24 embarked on the process of finding a new headquarters location for the FBI."

25 Does that sound accurate?

1 A Yes.

2 Q So, given the fact that this process began in 2013, it's fair to say that the site

3 selection process had been proceeding for over a decade?

4 A Uh-huh. Yes.

5 Q To your knowledge, has the FBI been coordinating with GSA, the General

6 Services Administration, since the beginning of this process?

7 A I don't know.

8 Q And discussing the J. Edgar Hoover Building in particular, the FBI has 9 occupied that building since 1974. Does that sound right?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And the J. Edgar Hoover Building here in D.C., that's where the FBI

12 headquarters is located. Is --

13 A Yes.

14 Q -- that right? Great. Can you describe the current condition of the J.

15 Edgar Hoover Building?

16 A I can, because as I drove to D.C. yesterday and drove into the building today,

17 it's a very different building than I've experienced even in the years that I reported there.

18 As I drove my vehicle into the parking garage -- I park in the third level of the 19 basement -- there are steel beams, now, constructed in different parts of that floor.

20 Q Uh-huh.

21 A I'm not certain whether they're also on the other parking levels as well, but

22 there are steel-beam structures that are taking up what used to be parking places that

23 you now sort of park around or have to drive around.

24 3B has -- I typically, when I was assigned to headquarters, would park in 3B --

25 Q Uh-huh.

1 A -- in the executive parking there. The concrete of the parking itself was 2 never a smooth surface, but, my goodness, it's certainly become much more -- so many
3 more holes --
4 Q Uh-huh.
5 A -- so many more steel structures that seem to be supporting the ceiling
6 above it.
7 I reported to headquarters at the time where the netting went up because, we
8 were told, of falling fragments. I was on the 11th floor at the time the netting actually 9 did go up.
10 And so it certainly --- the headquarters that I drove into this morning is 11 deteriorating.
12 Q Sure.
13 BY [redacted]:
14 Q And, sorry, the netting you were talking about, can you explain what that 15 netting is for?
16 A I don't know for certain, but I will say that we were told, when it was going
17 up, that it was just to ensure that any fragments -- falling fragments from the building
18 would be caught in that netting, that the building was crumbling, pieces of the building.
19 Q So that netting is there to make sure that pieces of concrete don't fall onto 20 FBI staff in the building?
21 A That's what I recall hearing.
22 BY [redacted]:
23 Q And, similarly, why do you believe the steel beams are now there?
24 A I believe that, structurally, those beams are being placed to provide a more
25 structurally sound building.

1 Q Is it fair to say the J. Edgar Hoover Building needs more structural support
2 because of its deteriorating nature?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Okay. Would you agree with me that one of the reasons why GSA and FBI
5 were collectively exploring sites for a new FBI headquarters building is because the J.
6 Edgar Hoover Building is in such bad shape?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Now, I'd like to turn back to your role as a site selection panelist. And I
9 know you discussed this a bit in our prior hour, but can you remind me, when were you
10 appointed a site selection panelist?
11 A August -- September -- excuse me -- September 2022.
12 Q Okay. And your duties as a site selection panelist were governed by the 13 site selection plan published by GSA. Is that right?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And there were multiple iterations of the site selection plan. Is that right?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Okay. And, in particular, the site selection plan that you relied on to 18 conduct your evaluation was the second amended site selection plan. Does that sound
19 right?
20 A That sounds right.
21 Q And I'm going to mark as exhibit 2 the "Site Selection Plan (Amendment 2)," 22 which was published in July of 2023.
23 [Parry Exhibit No. 2
24 Was marked for identification.]
25 BY [redacted]:

1 Q And, now, Ms. Parry -- and I'm sorry, I should've asked this earlier -- again,
2 your role as a site selection panelist was governed strictly by the site selection plan. Is
3 that right?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Okay. Are you familiar with the site selection plan in front of you?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And, again, this is the site selection plan that you relied on when conducting
8 your evaluation. Is that fair to say?
9 A This is the plan outlining the process, in addition to the 600-page packet that 10 I relied on.
11 Q Fair enough. So this outlined the duties of the site selection panel and the 12 process they would follow, correct?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Great.
15 And I'd like to, I guess, dive into the responsibilities of the panel compared to the 16 Site Selection Authority.
17 A Uh-huh.
18 Q If could you turn to page 13 for me, under XI, titled "Selecting the Most 19 Advantageous Site." Do you see that?
20 A I do.
21 Q So the first sentence reads here, "The site selection authority will use the 22 evaluation report developed by the site selection panel to help guide and inform a final 23 decision as to which property is in the best interest of the United States."
24 Did that match your understanding of the process between the site selection
25 panel and the Site Selection Authority?

1 A Yes.

2 Q That the site selection panel was designed to help and inform a final decision

3 by the Site Selection Authority.

4 A Yes.

5 [redacted] And I'll turn it over to my colleague.

6 [redacted] Thanks, [redacted].

7 BY [redacted]:

8 Q So, generally speaking, the role of the site selection panel was to review the

9 information that was provided, evaluate each site under each criteria, and provide a

10 report that would document your consensus rating for each criteria to the Site Selection

11 Authority. Is that accurate?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And, in particular, the panel would review each of the three sites and 14 provide a recommendation to the Site Selection Authority, correct?

15 A Yes.

16 Q Is it your understanding that each of the three sites had already been 17 determined to meet the mission needs of the FBI?

18 A Can you say that again?

19 Q Is it your understanding that each of the three sites that you were choosing

20 from had already been determined to meet the FBI's mission needs?

21 A Yes.

22 Q And that the panel was charged with evaluating the three sites, applying a

23 color rating --

24 A Uh-huh.

25 Q -- and providing a recommendation to the Site Selection Authority?

1 A Yes.

2 Q Okay. And so your role, as a panelist, was to provide only, like, a

3 recommendation to the Site Selection Authority. Is that right?

4 A Yes.

5 Q Okay. And it was your understanding that the Site Selection Authority was 6 the person who was authorized to make the final decision, correct?

7 A Correct.

8 Q Okay.

9 So the panel submitted its consensus report, I believe you said, August 2023? Is 10 that correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And in your report that the panel submitted, did that correctly reflect your

13 recommendations?

14 A Does the panel report -- can you say that again?

15 Q Reflect your recommendations and ratings?

16 A The panel report reflects the panel's consensus of a recommendation, yes.

17 Q Okay. So no one instructed you to change your recommendation?

18 A No.

19 Q Okay.

20 [redacted] And when you say that it reflected the panel's recommendation,

21 that includes your input as part of that panel. Is that right?

22 Ms. Parry. Yes.

23 BY [redacted]:

24 Q Okay.

25 So I'd like to turn to some of the specifics of the evaluation process to make sure

1 I'm understanding correctly.

2 So each panelist conducted an individual review of the information --

3 A Correct.

4 Q -- on their own first. Okay.

5 And you assigned -- or the panel, when they met together, that was when they

6 assigned overall consensus ratings of the sites indicated by the three different colors. Is

7 that correct?

8 A Correct.

9 Q And as a panelist, you exercised your judgment in conducting these 10 evaluations. Is that correct?

11 A Judgment in what way?

12 Q You're not a robot, right? So you spoke --

13 A Right.

14 Q -- earlier about some examples where you used your judgment or the panel

15 used your combined judgment to determine when the contrasting factors were marginal

16 or not, whether the differences were marginal?

17 A Correct.

18 Q Okay. And is the word "marginal" defined in the site selection plan?

19 A In the plan, no.

20 Q Okay.

21 So, if we turn to the panel's evaluation -- so, in the panel's recommendation

22 report, it states things like "in the panel's view," or you've made references to "marginal

23 differences." So you exercised some judgment in order to arrive at your

24 recommendations.

25 And so is it fair to say that there were, kind of, like, three ingredients in your

1 recommendation, right? There's the packet of information that you received from GSA.
2 There's the rules and the criteria which are laid out in the site selection plan. And then
3 there's, sort of, the judgment that you and your fellow panelists exercised in coming to 4 your recommendation. Is that correct?
5 A I would frame it as, the panel was -- our roles and responsibilities were 6 delineated in the plan. They were directed to review and evaluate the materials in the 7 package, and, in assigning ratings, that we used that information to then assign ratings for 8 each site.
9 BY [redacted]:
10 Q And I guess my colleague's question is just, you know, you have these rules
11 and you have these facts, and you need to put those two together to arrive at a rating.
12 A Uh-huh.
13 Q And I think -- and, you know, this is kind of a simple question, but -- to go
14 from the bare facts to a recommendation to the Site Selection Authority, you kind of 15 applied your best judgment and your reasoning to the facts to arrive at a
16 recommendation.
17 A I would say that the materials in the packet and the criteria in the directive
18 sheets that we were given already laid out much of the information in terms of distance,
19 for example. And so I don't believe that I would use the word "judgment" when you
20 have very discrete criteria. I would use it more in the panel's report of differentiating 21 parts of the criteria.
22 BY [redacted]:
23 Q So, if I may, in your recommendation report, on page 30 in particular, I'll 24 represent to you that the panel wrote, quote, "That is to say, the panel consciously 25 avoided applying a rote, mathematical computation in making its recommendation."

1 So there was no -- the criteria did not define a decision for you, right? You had
2 to reach a decision, as my colleague outlined, by applying the facts to the criteria. Is --
3 A Yes.
4 Q -- that right? And is it fair to say reasonable minds can differ on reaching
5 the conclusions that the panel did?
6 BY [redacted]:
7 Q Let me ask the question slightly differently.
8 On page 26, for example, when you're describing Criteria --
9 A I don't have that report. If I --
10 Q Sure.
11 A -- need to see it, I don't have it.
12 Q We were discussing Criteria 4 earlier, and the last sentence in there -- well,
13 the last sentence on page 26 says, "In the panel's judgment, Fairfax County did not 14 warrant a least favorable rating."
15 Ms. Parry. Thank you.
16 [redacted] Uh-huh.
17 Ms. Parry. Can you give me that again?
18 [redacted] Sure. Page 26, at the very bottom.
19 [redacted] And we'll introduce this as exhibit 3.
20 [Parry Exhibit No. 3
21 Was marked for identification.]
22 Ms. Parry. I'm with you.
23 BY [redacted]:
24 Q So you see, in that last sentence, it talks about the panel's judgment?
25 A Yes.

1 Q So that's all we're asking about. You know, this is not a rote process.
2 A Sure.
3 Q You know, there are three site selection panelists, assisted by technical
4 advisors. And, you know, you described at the beginning why you were chosen.
5 And so the point is just, you were given some rules --
6 A Uh-huh.
7 Q -- you were given a packet of information, and then you and your fellow
8 panelists applied your judgment to get from the rules and the packet to a consensus
9 recommendation for the Site Selection Authority. Is --
10 A Yes.
11 Q -- that fair?
12 A Uh-huh.
13 BY [redacted]:
14 Q And, I guess, to build on that, when you and your co-panelists met to discuss
15 your evaluations, arrive at consensus ratings for each site and each criterion, am I correct
16 in understanding that, across the 5 criteria and the 12 sub-criteria, you and your panelists
17 found that each site had its pluses and minuses?
18 A That wasn't part of the evaluation criteria, in terms of "pros and cons" or 19 "pluses and minuses."
20 Q Okay. Would it by fair to describe them as things that counted against one
21 site or boosted one site as compared to another site?
22 A I think that the way that I would put it is the way that the plan did, and that 23 was: Through the evaluation of the criteria and assigning a color rating to each of the 24 criteria, it was looking at what was most advantageous to the U.S. Government.
25 Q Right.

1 BY [redacted]:

2 Q To build off my colleague's questions, I think what we're getting at, very

3 simply, is there were five criteria, and each criteria had a number of sub-criteria.

4 A Uh-huh.

5 Q And I think each of the sites had at least one blue rating where it was the

6 top, at least one green rating where it was in the middle, and one yellow rating where it

7 was the last, right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q So I think when my colleague talked about pluses and minuses, the idea is,

10 it's not like one of the sites was number one, number one, number on, number one,

11 down the line, across each criteria and each sub-criteria.

12 A Correct.

13 Q So each of the sites had certain criteria or sub-criteria where it was better

14 than the other sites, and each of the sites had some criteria or sub-criteria where it was 15 less good than the other sites. Is that fair?

16 A I would say that, of the criteria and the evaluation, that some of the sites for

17 some of the criteria were more advantageous to the government, and in another criteria

18 perhaps a different site was most advantageous to the government.

19 Q But what all three of these sites had in common, I think as you explained

20 earlier, was that they had all been pre-selected to satisfy the FBI's basic operational

21 needs.

22 A Correct.

23 [redacted] And on that point, Ms. Parry, just to go back a little bit, did you have 24 any role in determining the site selection plan?

25 Ms. Parry. No.

1 [redacted] So, when we were just talking about, sort of, one site being better at 2 one criteria, another site being most advantageous for another criteria, to take just one
3 example, Criteria 1, which was, I think, FBI proximity to mission-related locations, you and
4 your fellow panelists found that Springfield was the best site and applied a blue rating,
5 correct?
6 [redacted] And I believe that's reflected on page 13 --
7 Ms. Parry. Thank you.
8 [redacted] -- of the recommendation report.
9 Ms. Parry. Thank you.
10 Yes.
11 BY [redacted]:
12 Q But on Criteria 5, on the other hand, which is cost, you found that the 13 Greenbelt site was the best place and applied a blue rating. Is that correct?
14 A The panel's recommendation was the Greenbelt received a blue rating as 15 being most advantageous, yes.
16 Q And I'm quoting from page 27 of your panel recommendation report here,
17 which says about halfway down, "On slide 109...the Greenbelt site is shown to have the 18 lowest total cost of the site acquisition with a projected amount of [$26.1 million]. This 19 is significantly less than the other two sites," end quote.
20 Is that correct?
21 A That is what page 27 says, yes.
22 Q Okay.
23 So, again, each of the three sites that you evaluated had been determined to meet
24 the FBI missions, correct?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Okay. And you're choosing among three sites, all of which have their
2 positives, their negatives. And you're applying your judgment in your assessment of all
3 the information that you received, correct?
4 A I think we've talked about the -- yes -- the combination of the roles and 5 responsibilities mixed with the information in the packet and then each individual and 6 then joining consensus of interpreting what we have and applying judgment to reach the 7 evaluation we did.
8 Q Thank you.
9 BY [redacted]:
10 Q I just have a couple housekeeping questions, just to make sure I've got my 11 facts right.
12 The kickoff meeting I think you explained was on July 27th?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And then July 31st is when you reached your consensus recommendation?
15 A Correct.
16 Q So that's 4 or 5 days. Is that right?
17 A From the 27th --
18 Q -7th to the 31st --
19 A -- kickoff meeting to the -- yes.
20 Q Okay. And so is it fair to say that the bulk of your evaluation work was 21 done in those 4 to 5 days?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And then it was about another week or so of just writing the report to 24 correctly reflect your input and that of your fellow panelists and explaining your 25 consensus recommendation?

1 A Yes. It was less than a week.

2 We had started report-writing and had completed it -- we were initially given a

3 deadline of August the 4th to submit that report. We were told we really needed to get

4 that in by the 4th of August because the Site Selection Authority was going on vacation

5 and wanted to have the panel's recommendation prior to leaving.

6 We didn't meet that 4th deadline. I think it was a weekend. I believe we

7 finished on the 6th, and then Tim signed on the 7th, and Brett and I signed on the 8th.

8 Q And, then, you discussed with my colleagues this meeting on July 31st.

9 A Uh-huh.

10 Q I can't remember how you --

11 A GSA called it a "back-check." In their meeting log, it's referenced as a

12 "back-check."

13 Q Back-check, got it. Thank you.

14 And I think as you described it earlier, you said that Ms. Albert, the Site Selection

15 Authority, was interested in having a better understanding of how the panelists came to 16 their consensus recommendation. Is that fair? I think those were the words you used

17 to describe it earlier.

18 A We certainly started that back-check talking about the consensus and the 19 criteria that we had already discussed in the morning, yes.

20 Q And explaining to her -- she was asking questions to get an understanding of 21 how you arrived at that decision. Is that right?

22 A I don't know why she was posing the questions. I don't know what her

23 motivation was in posing them. I just know that those were the questions or statements

24 that she either made or posed during that time. But why she did it, I don't know.

25 Q And you took that to heart, because I think you described how you and your

1 fellow panelists decided, hey, well, let's make sure that our recommendation report kind
2 of addresses these questions and explains why we thought this distance was marginal or 3 not marginal and, you know, how we arrived at our decisions. Is that fair?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Because your role and those of the other panelists in formulating this 6 recommendation was to help guide and inform the Site Selection Authority's final
7 decision. Is that fair?
8 A Yes.
9 Q So you wanted the report to be as helpful to her in that process as possible.
10 A Yes.
11 BY [redacted]:
12 Q Ms. Parry, you mentioned that before this back-check the panel had reached
13 a consensus, and you mentioned that it was stamped. Could you describe that a little bit 14 more?
15 A I just recall, I believe it was Aaron who stated during the meeting, "I would 16 like to state that consensus was achieved on July 31st at" -- whatever the time was. It
17 was a statement that was made during the meeting.
18 Q Fair enough. So the panel reaches consensus, and then, following that, you 19 hold this back-check meeting. Is that right?
20 A Correct.
21 Q So the panel had already reached consensus on what they felt was the best
22 site to recommend to the Site Selection Authority, correct?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And during this back-check meeting, you mentioned that, you know, various 25 questions were posed. Were you ever instructed to change your consensus rating?

1 A No.

2 Q Was it ever implied to you, change your consensus rating?

3 A No.

4 BY [redacted]:

5 Q And, then, just a last couple questions.

6 You and your fellow panelists wrote this 32-page report that you all signed off on,

7 right?

8 A Yes.

9 Q And, then, after that, the Site Selection Authority, who was charged with

10 making the final decision, she wrote her own site selection decision, which is a 38-page

11 document. And, in that decision, she lays out places where she arrived at a different

12 conclusion than the panel and explains why, in her judgment, she was going with one

13 decision as opposed to the panel's different recommendation.

14 A Yes.

15 Q Do you have any reason to believe that she omitted from this report any

16 reasons for her arriving at a different conclusion than the panel's recommendation?

17 A I can't speak to her own report and the writing of that report.

18 Q But the discussions from the back-check that you discussed, these are 19 reflected in her final site selection decision, aren't they?

20 A I don't know. I can't respond to that. I don't know the details of that

21 report as much as I do the report that the panel wrote.

22 Q But you have no reason to disagree with the fact that the site selection

23 decision kind of explains why she arrived at those different conclusions than the 24 recommendations of the panel?

25 A When I see the report, I see a similar structure to the panel's report,

1 assigning a color rating to each of the locations and a justification for doing so.

2 Q And a discussion for where her decision is different from the panel's

3 decision.

4 A Correct.

5 Q And an explanation for why she arrived at a different conclusion.

6 A Correct.

7 [Discussion off the record.]

8 [redacted] We'll go off the record.

9 Ms. Parry. Okay. Thanks.

10 [Recess.]

11 [redacted] Back on the record.

12 BY [redacted]:

13 Q I'm just going to go back to a couple questions we discussed in the previous

14 2 hours.

15 So, in the last hour, my colleagues were speaking to you about the report and

16 turning it in and all of that. And, now, did I understand correctly that you guys turned 17 the report in early because someone was leaving?

18 A No. The timeline that we were given had us submitting that report by

19 August the 4th --

20 Q Okay.

21 A -- but when we knew that we were not going to meet August the 4th, we

22 advised that we were going to need more time. Then we took the time we needed to 23 submit the report that we needed to submit.

24 Q Okay. And at any point during that time, was there a mention about 25 someone going on vacation?

1 A Yes. The reason why the deadline was given to us was that the Site
2 Selection Authority was headed on a vacation and that she wanted to have the report in 3 hand prior to going on vacation.
4 Q Okay. But you guys weren't able to do that because --
5 A We did not, no.
6 Q Okay.
7 BY [redacted]:
8 Q Was there any date that had been given previously?
9 A That was the date given previously. It wasn't that it was changed in any 10 way. It was the date that was given in the timeline that they provided. But they did 11 make mention that if we could, you know, definitely get it in by then, that, you know, it 12 would be great.
13 Q Did you communicate with them whether you thought that was enough time
14 when you first received the date?
15 A We didn't comment on whether or not it was enough time. We knew that 16 when we started writing the report and continued in the report-writing phase that we 17 were not going to meet the deadline that they had given us, and so Tim went with back,
18 as the chair, and said that we would need another day or two.
19 Q Do you know how that was communicated?
20 A I don't.
21 Q Do you recall when he communicated -- or do you know when he -- like, how 22 far before the 14th he said you would not be able to --
23 A I don't, no.
24 BY [redacted]:
25 Q So, going back to the information that you guys were provided -- the big

1 packet, the 600 pages, plus the site selection plan -- all of those were what you used to
2 determine your individual recommendation and then the other collective three's
3 recommendation. Is that --
4 A Correct.
5 Q -- right? And, to your knowledge, do you know where that information
6 came from? Like, who compiled that information that was put into that packet that you
7 received?
8 A I don't know.
9 Q And do you know for, during that process -- during that time -- I mean, you
10 got it from GSA. Is that correct?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Okay. So, in theory -- or, to your knowledge, the information that you guys
13 used was the best information that they had to provide to you guys?
14 A Whether it was the best or not, it was the information that we were given.
15 I do recall hearing that it was GSA and FBI working groups that had worked on building
16 that information, but I can't comment on whether it was the best or not.
17 Q Fair. Very fair.
18 With that being said, we've talked a lot about how the SSA, Ms. Albert, used
19 different information to come to a different conclusion from you guys. Is it fair to say, or 20 to your knowledge, that that information could have been included in the information 21 you guys received in order for you to make --
22 [redacted] You're calling for speculation here. If you could reframe?
23 [redacted] Absolutely.
24 BY [redacted]:
25 Q So the information that you were not provided is what you believe was used

1 for her to make the different decision from your decision?

2 A I thought that there must have been other information that was cited in the

3 original plan that the Site Selection Authority could use that must have been relied on to 4 reach a different decision.

5 Q Okay. And -- hang on just a little bit.

6 BY [redacted]:

7 Q Can you recall, like, specifically what kind of information that you thought

8 was different? Like, what information was the Site Selection Authority citing that you

9 felt the panel didn't have access to this information?

10 A I don't know the different information. It was the original question that I

11 had posed when we met as a group, was to provide clarity on what type of information

12 might be used and whether or not that information would be given to the panel. And

13 the response to that was, the panel should only use the 600-plus-page packet. But I

14 received no clarity on what the other information could be or was.

15 BY [redacted]:

16 Q So you guys were actually limited to the information provided; you were not

17 able to use any other information?

18 A The packet of the material was the only information that we were to 19 evaluate.

20 Q So the only person in this process that was able to use outside information

21 was the Site Selection Authority?

22 A In the plan, that is the language that the plan states.

23 Q I'm going to draw you back to exhibit 3 --

24 A Okay.

25 Q -- and, specifically, we're going to go to page 16.

1 A Uh-huh.

2 Q So here on page 16 -- in the last hour, my colleagues brought up Criteria No.

3 5, in that I think we all, from reading this document, can understand that the location for

4 Greenbelt was the least expensive location to acquire --

5 A I don't think the page number is correct. Page 16 is in the middle of

6 Criteria No. 3. And cost would've been --

7 Q Yes, excuse me, it is Site Criteria No. 3.

8 A Okay.

9 Q We are on the right --

10 A Yep.

11 Q I just used the wrong site number -- excuse me, criteria number.

12 But the cost of acquiring the property was the least expensive of the three. Is 13 that correct?

14 A The cost was Criteria No. 5. The page that we're on is talking about Criteria

15 3, which was site development flexibility and schedule risk.

16 Q Yes. So we're going to go into a particular bullet here.

17 A Okay.

18 Q I think more I was just trying for the record --

19 A Okay.

20 Q -- that the cost -- when you guys did the criteria selection --

21 A Yes.

22 Q -- that the cost of Greenbelt -- was that the least expensive --

23 A Correct.

24 Q -- of the three to acquire?

25 A Correct.

1 Q All right. Sorry about that.

2 A Yep.

3 Q So, moving on -- and, then, if I could have you -- for the record, if you could

4 read, on the bottom of page 16 into page 17, the third sub-bullet, starting with, "The 5 Greenbelt site has"?

6 A Just read it?

7 Q Yes, to put it into the record, please.

8 A "The Greenbelt site has the smallest buildable area (11.26 acres) of all the 9 sites. The site has an irregular triangular configuration, and appears to have less

10 flexibility for development due to the irregular configuration, wetlands bordering the site

11 to the south, and the limited number of roads for access points to the site. While the

12 overall site has a similar total buildable acreage when compared to Springfield; the detail

13 provided in slide 66 data from the FBI HQ Draft EIS that shows the impact from those

14 development constraints with a potential site layout of a much smaller 4.59 acres as

15 compared to a similar site layout/development area on the Springfield site of 9.28 acres.

16 Based on similar data from the FBI HQ Draft EIS, which uses the FBI's requirements as

17 detailed on slide 70, the Springfield site offers 100% larger buildable area when compared

18 to Greenbelt."

19 Q Thank you.

20 And just for all of our understanding, was cost of construction a criteria that you

21 guys were tasked with considering?

22 A I'd have to look at the cost --

23 Q I would represent to everyone here, we're all in agreement that the cost was 24 not -- the cost of construction is not considered.

25 [redacted] I think if we could stick to the nomenclature used in the actual

1 report, it would be helpful for directing the witness to the specific criteria you're asking
2 her about.
3 BY [redacted]:
4 Q It's that it doesn't exist.
5 The criteria of cost of construction is not one of the criterias that you guys were 6 asked to look at when making your recommendation. Does that sound right?
7 A Cost of the construction --
8 Q Construction cost was not --
9 A Correct.
10 Q Yes.
11 A Yes.
12 Q So, with that being said, while Greenbelt was the cheapest to acquire, to 13 purchase, I think I would state that reasonable minds can conclude that building upwards
14 versus building out costs more money. Structural, all of the -- in your experience with 15 real estate and the buildings that you currently have with your particular area of 16 expertise, it's reasonable to say that building up would be more expensive than building
17 out?
18 A I can't state that for sure.
19 Q Uh-huh. That's fine.
20 Is it irregular to you that you would not have to consider the cost of something for 21 recommending the best site? In your opinion.
22 A Yeah.
23 Q You were not asked to consider the cost to build the new headquarters. All
24 of this is about a new headquarters that in the last hour I think we established the FBI
25 needs. But you guys were not asked to consider the actual cost of building the

1 headquarters. Is that correct?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q Is that odd to you?

4 A I think that the criteria that was established was established by groups that

5 agreed that these would be the criteria for a panel to convene and evaluate those criteria.

6 I don't think that -- I think that's a question better posed to them, quite frankly, of 7 whether they considered that or, if they didn't, why they didn't.

8 Q Okay.

9 BY [redacted]:

10 Q And, I guess, going back to the passage you just read, did the panel discuss 11 wetlands as an issue to build on?

12 A We didn't.

13 Q Okay.

14 And when the panel finished the report, did you let your supervisors know, like

15 Brian Turner, Nick Dimos, or [redacted]?

16 A On the 8th, I sent an email to the Associate Deputy Director, Brian Turner,

17 and Assistant Director Nick Dimos that I was finished with the panel process.

18 Q Okay. And is that when you concluded your, I guess, tenure with the 19 panel?

20 A Yes.

21 Q Okay. So, since that moment, you haven't had any, I guess, relationship to 22 the headquarters project?

23 A No.

24 Q Okay.

25 And what evidence was there for you to select the Springfield site as the best site?

1 A The criteria that we evaluated and the ratings that we provided to each of 2 the criteria. When we achieved consensus, it was the Springfield site, for the 3 information that we were provided in the packet --
4 Q Uh-huh.
5 A -- evaluating it against the five criteria that we were given.
6 Q But what information specifically led you to that option?
7 A The information that was in the panel packet.
8 Q Okay.
9 So, I guess, going to cost, which was Criteria 5, why was that the best site to 10 choose?
11 A Which site are you talking about?
12 Q The Springfield site.
13 A In the evaluation of cost --
14 Q Yes.
15 A -- the panel provided a blue consensus rating for the Greenbelt site.
16 Q And why is that?
17 A The Greenbelt site showed the lowest total cost, and it's outlined in the 18 criteria of what was -- of what that cost included.
19 Q Okay.
20 And then going to Criteria 4, which was promoting sustainability and equity, I
21 think --
22 A Uh-huh.
23 Q -- why did the panel choose the Springfield site as --
24 [Discussion off the record.]
25 BY [redacted]:

1 Q So, considering this criteria in totality, why did the panel still choose the
2 Springfield site?
3 A Again, I would refer to the report itself where each of the criteria was
4 evaluated against the information in the packet. Each of those criteria had a
5 predetermined weight of that criteria. And the conclusion of the panel is in the report
6 and for all of the reasons that we documented.
7 Q Okay.
8 And has the site selection panel seen an instance like this before, where the panel
9 chooses the Springfield site and then the Site Selection Authority chooses a different site,
10 like Greenbelt?
11 A This is my first experience in site selection like this, and so I can't speak to 12 whether this was an exception or not.
13 Q So you don't know whether this has happened before at all?
14 A I don't know if it's happened before.
15 Q Okay. Did any of the panel members mention that this has happened
16 before or has happened before?
17 A I have not spoken to the panel members since the conclusion of our 18 report-writing. So I've not spoken to them since the Site Selection Authority issued her 19 report.
20 Q Okay.
21 BY [redacted]:
22 Q Given your experience with the site selection process -- you mentioned your 23 previous experience and methodical and planning and what you put into your career
24 doing those things and why, probably, you were selected to be the FBI representative.
25 And given how much time and information you guys had to pore through, or time given

1 and then information poured through, would you want to do this again, given that you
2 guys were overrode without given, really, the information as to why?
3 A I think if the question is would I, upon request of the FBI, serve in a capacity
4 where they felt I was best suited, the answer is yes.
5 BY [redacted]:
6 Q In your opinion, why do you think Ms. Albert disagreed with the panel's
7 decision?
8 A I think you would have to ask her, and I think that her report would outline
9 those reasons that she documented.
10 Q So, during the committee's briefing that we had with the FBI in January, Nick
11 Dimos discussed that the FBI and GSA had a briefing on August 31st, and he stated that 12 Ms. Albert said to him, "I started with the premise that Greenbelt was the best site."
13 Are you aware of this statement?
14 A I'm not.
15 Q What is your reaction to the statement?
16 A I don't know that I have a reaction as much as -- can you say the statement
17 again?
18 Q "I started with the premise that Greenbelt was the best site."
19 A I don't have a reaction on that statement. I think that, as she submitted in 20 her report, Greenbelt is the ultimate selection from the Site Selection Authority, and she 21 outlined the reasons why she made that decision in her report.
22 BY [redacted]:
23 Q During your evaluation of all the information that you received, you and the 24 other two panelists, did you communicate with anyone outside of those other two 25 panelists and the people on the -- the technical advisors, all of that?

1 A Outside of the panel and the technical advisors, no one.

2 Q Did anyone attempt to communicate with you regarding any of that?

3 A No.

4 BY MS. THIES:

5 Q So, when you learned that Ms. Albert was -- her prior employment was with

6 WMATA, did you believe that caused a conflict of interest or a perception of a conflict of 7 interest?

8 A When I learned -- can you say that again? When I learned of it?

9 Q Yeah. So, after you found out that Ms. Albert was previously employed

10 with WMATA, and WMATA owns the Greenbelt site, do you think that is a conflict of 11 interest or is a perception of a conflict of interest?

12 A I can't comment whether I believe it's a conflict of interest. I think that the

13 naming of a Site Selection Authority is a process in and of itself, and that would have been

14 covered during that process.

15 I think that in looking at processes in general and building of processes, perception

16 of conflicts of interest or deliberate conflicts of interest are woven into processes,

17 whether that's hiring and nepotism processes. It's something that certainly is a factor.

18 Q Are you aware that the FBI Director and Nick Dimos believe that it's a 19 perception of a conflict of interest?

20 A I believe the letter that the Director sent includes language of the Site

21 Selection Authority's previous employment, yes.

22 Q And how does that make you feel, knowing that, I guess, this decision is 23 under scrutiny?

24 A I don't know that it makes me feel any certain way as much as a view into

25 process is always, in my opinion, a good view. As you look to build a process or evaluate

1 a process or watch a process at the tail end of something, those are all good things, in my 2 opinion.
3 BY [redacted]:
4 Q Turning back to the back-check that you guys had after your consensus
5 meeting, can you just quickly explain to us, when you guys had the consensus meeting
6 before the back-check, how did you guys go about telling each other, or how did that 7 work, about how each of you came to your decision?
8 A So we went criteria by criteria, and then in each sub-criteria, each of us, sort
9 off in a round-robin fashion, would state, for Criteria 1, Sub-Criteria A, what was your 10 individual rating for this? And then I would state, Brett would state, Tim would state.
11 And we went all the way down through each of the sub-criteria and then criteria
12 and then went back around to look at it as a whole.
13 Q And was anyone at that time able to ask questions to you guys, or were you 14 just purely stating --
15 A We were purely stating where we were.
16 Q And everyone that was in the back-check meeting was also in that meeting;
17 is that correct?
18 A Yes.
19 BY [redacted]:
20 Q For the Criterion 4 briefing that we discussed earlier, you said it was [redacted]
21 who had provided the briefing?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Do you recall [redacted] last name?
24 A I don't recall it, but it would be certainly in the GSA's documentation that 25 they provided. She was listed on the site selection plan. It might've been redacted

1 here, but she would have been in the technical advisors. Her name would've been listed
2 there.
3 Q And at what point during the morning did she begin that briefing? Do you
4 recall?
5 A I don't remember, no.
6 Q Do you recall if she gave, at the outset, a set of reasons why she felt it was 7 necessary to provide that briefing?
8 A We were told that [redacted] was going to give us the briefing with the slides
9 because she had been primarily responsible for that criteria itself and that, because there
10 were so many sub-criteria to Criteria 4, that they wanted to give her the opportunity to 11 explain what all of the slides meant, and that's why they were doing it.
12 Q And who told you that?
13 A Aaron.
14 Q And do you recall when Aaron told you that?
15 A This all happened during our first kickoff meeting, so that would've been July 16 31st. But I don't know what time it was.
17 BY [redacted]:
18 Q Did you receive the 600-page packet of information prior to the kickoff
19 meeting so you had time to review it? Or did you get the packet, like, day of, on 20 July 27th?
21 A I recall getting it the day of.
22 Q Okay.
23 A Yeah.

1 [12:24 p.m.]

2 BY [redacted]:

3 Q Turning back to the back-check meeting, we've gone over a couple of the 4 transportation-related topics, the socioeconomic criterion. Do you recall any other

5 topics that Ms. Albert raised during the back-check meeting?

6 A I'm just refreshing on the criteria, each one.

7 No. The only other conversation that we had would've fallen under Criteria 2,

8 and that was a small discussion on airports. But that's Criteria 2.

9 Q And what's your recollection of what was discussed regarding airports?

10 A That the distances that we were provided in that overview sheet were

11 distances to Reagan National from each of the three sites. And in the back-check,

12 Ms. Albert brought up that of course there are other airports that were in the 600-page

13 packet that could be considered, not only Reagan National.

14 Q I'm sorry, did you say -- I want to know about that. So it was in -- the 15 600-page only provided the distances to Reagan National, but other airports were listed?

16 A I recall the distances for all three -- BWI, National, and Dulles. All of the 17 airports were discussed in that 600-page packet. Distances were provided.

18 But I believe the reason that we were only looking at National is that National was

19 the closest airport to any of the three. And so the focus became National and not, for 20 example, an aggregate distance between each site and each of the three.

21 Q And was that -- the decision to focus on the closest airport as opposed to

22 aggregating the three closest or some other factor, was that just based off instructions in 23 the packet?

24 A Correct. Yes.

25 Q During this back-check meeting, can you walk us through again just -- you

1 reach consensus in the morning.

2 A Uh-huh.

3 Q It's earlier than maybe initially it was scheduled or expected. Is there a

4 break for lunch or just a natural breaking point?

5 A There was a break, yes.

6 Q So folks log back on, or everyone's gathered again.

7 A Uh-huh.

8 Q At the start of the meeting, did you know it was going to be a back-check

9 meeting? Or how did you -- you said, initially you thought it was to get support --

10 A Correct.

11 Q How did you become aware that this was going to be a back-check meeting?

12 A When I believe it was Aaron said, "We just want to spend a few minutes

13 talking about some of the criteria," and he turned it to the Site Selection Authority.

14 Q Do you know who Aaron had spoken to in that interim period?

15 A No.

16 [redacted] The Site Selection Authority led the back-check portion of your

17 afternoon meeting?

18 Ms. Parry. Yes.

19 BY [redacted]:

20 Q When going through the topics -- we went through several of the 21 transportation-related topics -- airports, bus versus Metro -- and socioeconomic factors.

22 Did anyone besides Ms. Albert make statements about these factors?

23 A Say that again?

24 Q Sure. Just at a higher level, you mentioned that you didn't respond or

25 anything like that, but do you remember who was participating in that discussion, not

1 just, like, attending, but actively participating and making comments during this segment
2 of the back-check?
3 A No. I just recall Ms. Albert stating what we've already talked about, but no
4 one else sort of adding additional comments or posing any questions.
5 Q So, for this period when she's going through the transportation-related --
6 A Uh-huh.
7 Q -- concerns, the socioeconomic, she's the only one speaking in the meeting?
8 A Yes.
9 Q During the morning meeting when you reached consensus, were you able to 10 see or tell in any way the reaction of folks as you were delivering your findings and the 11 other panelists were delivering their findings?
12 A No.
13 BY [redacted]:
14 Q How long was Ms. Albert speaking for during the back-check discussion?
15 A I don't know. It --
16 Q Thirty minutes? An hour?
17 A Not an hour. It was less than 30 minutes, but I couldn't tell you exactly 18 how long it was.
19 Q Okay.
20 And, then, after Ms. Albert was speaking about some of the issues that she had,
21 what happened after that?
22 A I can't recall whether we took another break and got off of the call and came 23 back or whether it was just a shift from the back-check into the report-writing, but we 24 shifted into the report-writing process.
25 [redacted] And was Ms. Albert there for that, for the report-writing process?

1 Ms. Parry. No.

2 BY [redacted]:

3 Q Once you get into the report-writing process, did the other two

4 members -- did anyone make a comment about Ms. Albert's concerns or what had just

5 been discussed over that afternoon?

6 A Comments about what she brought up, no, but discussion about the parts of

7 the report where we focused on language about "marginal." We spent some time

8 making sure that we felt comfortable and confident in the writing of that portion.

9 Q If I remember your testimony from the first hour correctly, you said you

10 spoke to one of the FBI technical leads that was in the meeting about --

11 A Legal advisor. Yes.

12 Q Yeah. Do you recall who it was?

13 A His name is [redacted] (ph).

14 Q And other than your discussions with Mr. [redacted], did you have any other

15 discussions with anyone else in that meeting --

16 A No.

17 Q -- following Ms. Albert's presentation?

18 A No.

19 Q Who was in the meeting for the report development part of the afternoon?

20 A I believe it -- I would confirm this with the meeting log with GSA, but I

21 believe that everyone who had been part of all of the meetings, with the exception of 22 Ms. Albert, was in that meeting -- in that portion of that meeting.

23 [redacted] So, from your perspective, given this entire process, everything that

24 you did, all the information you reviewed, do you still believe, from the information you

25 had to review, that your recommendation of Springfield was still the best

1 recommendation?

2 Ms. Parry. I believe that the information that we had and the evaluation that I

3 did individually and then as part of a panel that reached consensus without any type of 4 discussion of differing opinion is the recommendation that I put forward.

5 BY [redacted]:

6 Q For the afternoon meeting, once you began working on the report, do you

7 recall if there was any carryover effect with the tone or, kind of, tenor of the meeting as it

8 related to the report draft meeting following Ms. Albert's comments?

9 A I don't.

10 Q Do you recall feeling any degree of frustration of Ms. Albert's statements as

11 it related to whether the sub-criteria should have been weighted differently, given that 12 that was something that was out of your control?

13 A Frustration? No.

14 BY [redacted]:

15 Q I do have some questions.

16 So, in March 2023, GSA and FBI met with Virginia and Maryland delegations, and 17 after that they released an amended site selection plan.

18 Were you a part of these meetings with those --

19 A No.

20 Q -- delegations?

21 A No.

22 Q Do you know who was?

23 A I don't.

24 Q Okay.

25 [redacted] And just for clarification, did you or your other two panel members

1 have any involvement in the creation of the plans -- the original or any of the 2 amendments to the plans itself?
3 Ms. Parry. I know that I didn't. I can't speak to the other two panelists.
4 [redacted] Okay.
5 BY [redacted]:
6 Q And now that a decision has been made, do you have any responsibilities for 7 the FBI headquarters project?
8 A The only responsibility that I have is just like any other assistant director in 9 the FBI, and that is, as we move into the construction process, we're starting to be asked 10 to start thinking about what space needs each of our divisions may need in a new 11 headquarters. But we haven't received any official taskings or requests for information.
12 But that is just sort of what we've been told as a group, is to start thinking about what 13 space requirements we would have.
14 Q So do you know currently what stage in the process the FBI headquarters 15 project is in?
16 A I don't.
17 Q And have you spoken with anyone at GSA regarding the selection?
18 A No.
19 Q And when is the last time you spoke with Ms. Albert?
20 A The last time -- I never really directly spoke with Ms. Albert, but the last time 21 that we would have been together would have been in that back-check meeting in July of 22 2023.
23 Q Okay. And are you aware that Ms. Albert left GSA a couple days or -- I
24 don't know, however many days -- after she made her decision?
25 A I don't know the timeframe, but I learned, just through media, that she had

1 left GSA.

2 Q What is your reaction to her leaving so soon after making a decision of that

3 magnitude?

4 A I don't really have a reaction. I don't have a reaction to that.

5 [redacted] We'll go ahead and go off the record.

6 Ms. Parry. Thank you.

7 [Recess.]

8 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

9 Hi, Ms. Parry. My name is [redacted]. I'm with the House Judiciary

10 Committee. Thank you again for being here today.

11 Ms. Parry. Sure.

12 BY [redacted]:

13 Q I have a few clarifying questions. I'm just going to ask you to maybe repeat

14 some of what you've said, but I just want to get a clear record, so that's why I'm asking

15 duplicative questions.

16 So you said that the first official meeting of the panel was on July 27th, 2023,

17 correct?

18 A Correct.

19 Q And was that the date that you received the approximately 600-page body of 20 documents that you were going to be using for your recommendations?

21 A I believe so, yes.

22 Q It was approximately on that date?

23 A Yes.

24 Q And you said that the panel reached consensus on a recommendation on 25 July 31st, correct?

1 A Yes.

2 Q So you had approximately 4 days to review that body of documents and

3 come together to reach consensus, correct?

4 A Yes.

5 Q To the best of your recollection, how many times did the panel meet in this

6 approximately 4-day period?

7 A The meeting log would give you that definite answer from GSA, but from our

8 kickoff meeting to -- you're asking the consensus meeting?

9 Q Yes.

10 A Perhaps three or four. But, again, I would direct you to the GSA meeting

11 log to give you that definite answer.

12 Q Sure.

13 To the best of your recollection, approximately how long were those meetings?

14 Like, would they be a full day? Half a day? A few hours? If you can recall.

15 A I can't.

16 I know that the kickoff meeting was a robust meeting where we went through all

17 of the different materials. And they walked us through the different meeting logs and

18 question logs and how to pose questions and the records that they would be keeping -- as

19 a records person -- the records that they would be keeping. And so that was the 20 longest.

21 And then the check-in sort of meetings of how are things going would have been

22 less time than that kickoff meeting, but I can't recall the exact duration.

23 Q Okay. And, again, to repeat, those meetings would've happened in about 24 that 4-day period?

25 A Correct.

1 Q Okay.

2 And you had a back-check meeting on July 31st, correct?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And that, as you said in the prior hour, lasted less than 30 minutes, correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q And you said you signed the report on August 8th, 2023, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q So, from that back-check meeting to your signing of the report, the 9 report-writing process took about a week, correct?

10 A A little less. We had finished the draft, and I think Tim forwarded it for 11 formatting, and then it was sent for signature -- electronic signature.

12 Q Okay. So this entire process from that kickoff meeting on July 27th to your 13 signature on August 8th was approximately 12 days, correct?

14 A Yes.

15 Q Okay.

16 And in your experience in the site selection process, you didn't witness any

17 misconduct, correct? In your experience on the panel.

18 A I would ask for -- I was not -- "misconduct" I would want to see defined, as

19 misconduct --

20 Q You felt the panel conducted itself professionally and you made your

21 recommendations according to the guidelines that were prescribed to you?

22 A Yes. I felt that, within the instructions that we were provided and the 23 responsibility that we had, I had no question that I and the panel members followed

24 those instructions and provided the recommendation in the way that we were asked to.

25 Q Okay. Thank you.

1 [redacted]?

2 [redacted] Off the record.

3 [Recess.]

4 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

5 BY [redacted]:

6 Q During the back-check portion of this, did you take any notes?

7 A No.

8 Q To your knowledge, did anyone else take any notes?

9 A I don't know.

10 Q And for each concern raised, was the concern -- excuse me.

11 BY [redacted]:

12 Q In the back-check meeting, there were a number of concerns and topics that

13 Ms. Albert raised during the meeting related to transportation, socioeconomic benefits.

14 For each concern that she raised, if the criteria was assessed the way that 15 Ms. Albert was suggesting, would that be to the Greenbelt site's favorability?

16 A I don't know. I can't answer that, as to whether or not she was asking

17 about things that would have favored one site over the other.

18 Q So, with the walkability --

19 A Uh-huh.

20 Q -- whether it was marginal or not, did she say anything to the effect of 21 whether one of the sites was more advantageous because it was a shorter walk?

22 A Yes.

23 Q And which site was that?

24 A Greenbelt.

25 Q And for the airports, based off the packet and the instructions provided

1 there, you were looking at just everything as it related to Reagan National.
2 A Yes.
3 Q When Ms. Albert noted that there were other airports in the area, did she 4 mention which of the three sites was closest in the aggregate to all three airports in the 5 area?
6 A She didn't.
7 Q Okay. Did she mention how far the Greenbelt location was from BWI?
8 A I don't recall her talking about exact distances for the airports.
9 Q In relation to Ms. Albert's comments about the bus lines versus the Metro
10 and more people take the Metro, to your understanding of the three sites, which 11 benefited the most by access to bus lines?
12 A The data showed more bus lines for the Springfield site than for the 13 Landover or Greenbelt site.
14 Q And so, if the criteria were changed so that greater weight was given toward 15 Metro access as opposed to access to bus lines, that would favor the other two sites
16 besides the Springfield site. Is that right?
17 A Say that again?
18 Q Sure. So the Springfield site had greater access to the bus lines?
19 A Correct.
20 Q And Ms. Albert had suggested that the access to Metro lines should've been 21 weighted more heavily than access to bus lines because more people use the Metro. Is 22 that right?
23 A Yes.
24 Q If the packet had said that access to the Metro should be weighted more
25 heavily than access to the bus lines, which sites would that benefit?

1 A The way the criteria were presented to the panel, there was -- no matter the 2 number of sub-criteria, each of those sub-criteria were to be weighted equally.
3 If the sub-criteria were weighted differently, if that's what you're suggesting, I
4 would have to see what that would look like. But in pure data alone, the distance
5 between the proposed site to a Metro in Greenbelt was a shorter distance than the 6 distance between the Springfield site and a Metro, versus the number of bus lines that
7 served the Springfield site versus the number of bus lines that served the Greenbelt site.
8 The panel evaluated the sub-criteria as we were told, equally. Whether that 9 shifted is a hypothetical that, if different criteria are weighted differently, I would imagine
10 that an outcome would happen. Whether that's different than the one that we reached,
11 I can't say.
12 Q When Ms. Albert was talking about that the Metro should've been weighted 13 more heavily because more people take the Metro --
14 A Right.
15 Q -- than bus lines, just based on how the statement was delivered, was it a
16 remark geared toward you and the other two panelists in particular, or was she just more
17 broadly speaking and expressing a disagreement with what was ultimately in the packet?
18 A I don't know the motivation of why she said what she said. I only know
19 that that's what she said during the back-check.
20 Q Did you get a sense that she was speaking off of notes or delivering remarks
21 that she had written down in any way?
22 A I didn't get a sense, no.
23 Q In the previous round, there were a couple questions at the end about if you
24 saw any misconduct or anything like that, and you asked for a clarifying definition.
25 Throughout this process, was there anything that you saw that gave you concern

1 about how the process was being conducted?

2 A Say that again?

3 Q Sure. Throughout this process, was there anything you saw that gave you

4 concern?

5 A The back-check. We've talked about that. I was not -- the back-check was

6 not in the original schedule, that we would have that. And so, again, from a process

7 perspective and looking at an agenda of dates and what we would be doing during those

8 dates, the back-check was a concern because it wasn't documented as part of the

9 process.

10 Q For a concern like the back-check, once that occurred, that it's outside of the 11 pre-planned process, normally what is the protocol? Is there any sort of obligation to 12 report those concerns or share those with anybody in particular?

13 A Say that again?

14 Q Once there's a deviation from the processes as you understood them, to 15 your understanding, was there any sort of duty or obligation to share that concern with 16 anyone in the FBI?

17 A No.

18 Q Okay.

19 I think it was [redacted] you said was the FBI technical lead you spoke to?

20 A Legal advisor, yes.

21 Q Legal advisor. Why did you speak to him in particular?

22 A I called each of the FBI's technical advisors when we completed the 23 consensus and before we moved into report-writing. I just gave a call to each of the 24 technical advisors on the FBI side to just thank them for their support in whatever role

25 that they had. And so I talked to not only [redacted] but there were two other FBI technical advisors, and I just called and thanked them as well.

Q And as it relates to the back-check meeting, what is your recollection of what Mr. English said?

[redacted] Can I confer with the client for a second?

[redacted] Yeah.

[Discussion off the record.]

Ms. Parry. I forgot the question.

BY [redacted]:

Q Your conversation with [redacted] --

A Yes.

Q -- was there any part of the discussion that referenced the back-check meeting, to your recollection?

A No. The only thing outside of thanking him as I did the others was my rhetorical comment about, what's the probability that the Site Selection Authority changes the decision from the panel's recommendation?

Q And other than what you've testified, do you remember anything else? Was there anything else that was discussed between you and [redacted] --

A No.

Q -- as it related to the site selection?

A No.

Q If you'd like to take a look at the topics one more time -- but now that we've had a chance to refresh your memory and talk about the back-check meeting, are there any other topics that come to mind that Ms. Albert had raised during the meeting besides the transportation topics and the socioeconomic benefit topic that we've discussed?

A No.

1 [redacted] We'll go off the record.

2 [Recess.]

3 [redacted] On the record.

4 BY [redacted]:

5 Q Just very quickly, the back-check meeting, that occurred on July 31st; is that

6 right?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And before the back-check meeting, you and your fellow panelists had

9 already arrived at your consensus recommendation on all the sub-criteria and the criteria

10 i and the final recommendation, correct?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And this back-check meeting lasted, I think you said, less than 30 minutes?

13 A Yes.

14 Q I think you described it as Nina Albert trying to get a better understanding of 15 how the panelists arrived at your decision. Is that right?

16 A Yes.

17 Q And then you and your fellow panelists wrote this panel recommendation

18 report --

19 A Yes.

20 Q -- that reflected your recommendations.

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. And your recommendations did not change from before the 23 back-check meeting to after the back-check meeting?

24 A Correct.

25 Q No one pressured you to change your recommendations between July 31st

1 and the date you signed this report?

2 A Say that again?

3 Q Sure. This report reflects your recommendations based on your evaluation

4 and your discussions with your fellow panelists. Is that --

5 A Yes.

6 Q -- fair?

7 [redacted] Off the record.

8 [Recess.]

9 [redacted] We'll go back on the record.

10 BY [redacted]:

11 Q Was there any pressure to change the consensus reached from the time of 12 the back-check meeting until you signed the report?

13 A I can't answer whether there was pressure. Whether anything that

14 occurred during the back-check meeting influenced the panel in what we had already

15 received or achieved as consensus and whether anything influenced the writing of the 16 report and the submission of the report that I signed, no.

17 Q To your understanding, was there an attempt to pressure when the 18 consensus had been reached?

19 A I can't speak to what someone's motivation may or may not have been. I

20 can't speak to that.

21 [redacted] Can we go off the record, please?

22 All right. Thank you so much.

23 Ms. Parry. No, thank you, guys. Thank you.

24 [Whereupon, at 1:05 p.m., the interview was concluded.]

1 Ms. [redacted]. This is a transcribed interview of Andrew Makridis. Chairman
2 Jordan and Chairman Turner have requested this interview as part of the committee's
3 oversight of the CIA.
4 Would the witness please state your name for the record.
5 Mr. Makridis. Andrew Makridis.
6 Ms. [redacted] Now counsel will state their names for the record.
7 [redacted] --
8 Ms. [redacted]. Hold up.
9 Ms. [redacted]. Sorry. Sorry. First, time going through this particular preamble.
10 Sorry, Joel. If you would like to state your name for the record.
11 Mr. Green. Sure. Joel Green and Courtney Murray, WilmerHale, for 12 Mr. Makridis.
13 Ms. [redacted] Thank you.
14 On behalf of the committees, I would like to thank you for appearing here today to 15 answer our questions. The chairmen also appreciate your willingness to appear
16 voluntarily.
17 My name is [redacted], and I am here with Chairman Jordan's staff.
18 I'll now have everyone else from the committees who are here at the table
19 introduce themselves as well.
20 Ms. [redacted]. [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.
21 Mr. [redacted]. [redacted], counsel for HPSCI, minority.
22 Ms. [redacted]. [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
23 Ms. [redacted]. [redacted] with Ranking Member Nadler's staff.
24 Ms. [redacted]. [redacted], HPSCI majority.
25 Mr. [redacted]. [redacted], Mr. Jordan's staff.

1 Mr. [redacted]. [redacted] with the HPSCI majority.

2 Ms. [redacted]. [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

3 Ms. [redacted]. [redacted], Chairman Jordan's staff.

4 Ms. [redacted]. I believe, Mr. Makridis, you're accompanied by another attorney as

5 well. If you'd like to state your name for the record.

6 Ms. Murray. Courtney Murray, WilmerHale.

7 Ms. [redacted]. Thank you.

8 Ms. [redacted]. I'd like to now go over the ground rules and guidelines that we will

9 follow during today's interview.

10 Our questioning will proceed in rounds. The majority will ask questions first for

11 one hour and then the minority will have an opportunity to ask questions for an equal

12 period of time if they chose. We will alternate back and forth until there are no more

13 questions, and the interview is over.

14 Typically, we take a short break at the end of each hour, but if would you like to

15 take a break apart from that, please just let us know.

16 As you can see, there is an official court reporter taking down everything we say to

17 make a written record. So we ask that you give verbal responses to all questions.

18 Do you understand?

19 Mr. Makridis. I do.

20 Ms. [redacted]. So the court reporter can take down a clear record, we will do our

21 best to limit the number of people directing questions at you during any given hour to

22 just those people on the staff whose turn it is.

23 Please try and speak clearly so the court reporter can understand and so the folks

24 down at the end of the table can hear you.

25 It's important that we don't talk over one another or interrupt each other, if we can help it, and that goes for everyone present at today's interview.

We want you to answer our questions in the most complete and truthful manner possible, so we will take our time.

If you have any questions or if you do not understand one of our questions, please let us know.

Our questions will cover a wide range of topics, so if you need clarification at any point, just say so.

If you honestly don't know the answer to a question or do not remember, it's best not to guess. Please give us your best recollection, and it's okay to tell us if you learned information from someone else. Just indicate how you came to know the information.

If there are things you don't know or can't remember, just say so, and please inform us who, to the best of your knowledge, might be able to provide a more complete answer to the question.

You should also understand that although this interview is not under oath, that, by law, you are required to answer questions from Congress truthfully.

Do you understand?

Mr. Makridis. I do.

Ms. [redacted]. This also applies to questions posed by congressional staff in an interview.

Do you understand.

Mr. Makridis. I do.

Ms. [redacted]. Witnesses that knowingly provide false testimony could be subject to criminal prosecution for perjury or for making false statements under 18 U.S.C. Section 1001.

Do you understand this?

1 Mr. Makridis. I do.

2 Ms. [redacted]. Is there any reason you are unable to provide truthful answers to

3 today's questions?

4 Mr. Makridis. No.

5 Ms. [redacted]. Finally, I'd like to make note that the content of what we discuss

6 here today is confidential. We ask that you not speak about what we discuss in this

7 interview to anyone outside to preserve the integrity of our investigation.

8 For the same reasons, the marked exhibits that we will use today will remain with

9 the court reporter so they can go in the full transcript. And any copies of those exhibits

10 will be returned to us when we wrap up.

11 That's the end of my preamble.

12 Is there anything that my colleagues from the minority would like to add?

13 Ms. [redacted]. We just thank the witness for taking the time to join us today.

14 Thank you.

15 Mr. Makridis. Thank you.

16 Ms. [redacted]. Excellent.

17 So the clock now reads 10:05 A.M. We'll start with the first hour of questioning.

18 Mr. Makridis. Okay.

19 EXAMINATION

20 BY MS. [redacted]:

21 Q So Mr. Makridis, where did you go to college?

22 A As an undergraduate, I went to the University of Buffalo, and graduate

23 school at Rochester Institute of Technology.

24 Q Great.

25 And what was your degree in?

1 A Undergraduate was engineering and graduate school was computer science.
2 Q And when did you graduate?
3 A From graduate school?
4 Q Either.
5 A Undergraduate was '82 and then '85 or 6, somewhere in there for graduate
6 school.
7 Q Okay, great.
8 And can you tell us about your professional background?
9 A Sure. I came to the Agency as a student while I was in graduate school and 10 spent a summer at the Agency, went back to graduate school, and then was hired on. I
11 came on board to CIA in 1986 and then retired at the end of '22. So 38 years.
12 Q Okay, so you've spent your whole initial leg of your career at the CIA?
13 A Sort of a lifetime, yes.
14 Q Awesome.
15 Have you held any other positions within the Federal Government or just within 16 the CIA during that time period?
17 A No. All my positions were internal to CIA.
18 Q Excellent.
19 And what was the last title you held at the CIA?
20 A My last job at CIA was chief operating officer, which used to be called the 21 executive director.
22 Q Okay.
23 A The name changed, but it was chief operating officer. I did that for the last 24 4 years of my career.
25 Q Okay, great.

1 And what was that time frame, relatively?

2 A 2018 to '22.

3 Q Okay. Excellent.

4 And could you tell us a little more about your responsibilities and role as the chief

5 operating officer, acknowledging that we're in an unclassified setting?

6 A Yeah. The chief operating officer, as it's structured today, is responsible for

7 the day-to-day running of the organization, which is a very, you know, wide breadth of

8 issues, everything from the mundane issues like the cafeteria to significant issues like

9 moving things around the world.

10 Also responsible for the budget process, strategic planning for the organization,

11 and any other things that sort of come up during my period.

12 You know, one of the big issues was COVID and helping manage the Agency

13 through that time period. And COVID, as you know, we can't work from home. So that 14 was probably one of the biggest challenges during my time as chief operating officer.

15 Q Okay, great.

16 And so would you say that -- you know, you mentioned strategy as a key part of 17 the COO's role within the CIA. Would you say that that's a multi-year strategy, 18 forward-looking approach that you would be responsible for?

19 A It is. I'm responsible for the process, not necessarily just coming up with

20 the strategy but putting together the process by which we sort of come with a 3-, 5-year

21 strategy for the organization. That's correct.

22 Q Thank you.

23 And what do you do now?

24 A I retired at the end of '22. I do some consulting work. I teach. I taught

25 at Yale in the fall, and now I'm teaching at the Bush School here in Washington, Texas

1 A&M Bush School.

2 Q Okay.

3 Is the consulting firm that you work for called Beacon Global Strategies?

4 A That's one of the companies I work for, that is correct.

5 Q Is that a full-time position?

6 A No. No, it's part-time, as needed, consulting with clients, as required.

7 Q Okay.

8 How did you come to select that role as your option post retirement, as one of the 9 firms you would consult for?

10 A Actually, I was approached by Jeremy Bash and Michael Allen when I retired.

11 They had some interest in my background and thought I, you know, could be useful to 12 some of their clients. And so that's how that started.

13 Q Okay.

14 So would you say that one of the key functions of Beacon Global Strategies is to 15 consult on national security, concerns that fold in with your previous role at CIA?

16 A Some are national security concerns but others, honestly, are just sort of 17 geopolitical, you know, what's the environment look like, and, you know, you name the 18 country or the issue. So it's a mix.

19 Q Okay. Thank you.

20 And so you mentioned that you teach, and you consult with other private firms as

21 well?

22 A Right.

23 Q Okay. Great. Thank you.

24 So now I'd like to just ask, are you familiar with the October 14, 2020, New York

25 Post story regarding Hunter Biden's laptop?

1 A I didn't -- I have not read the story.

2 Q Okay.

3 Could we actually enter exhibit 1.

4 [Makridis Exhibit No. 1

5 was marked for identification.]

6 Ms. [redacted]. Which is the sorry, just for your reference, so that you can be

7 familiar with it. I don't think there is going to be any in-depth if?

8 Ms. [redacted]. I don't think there is going to be any in-depth examination on it.

9 We just want to make sure you have it for your reference.

10 Ms. [redacted] Yes. Thank you.

11 Mr. Green. We'll take a minute to take a look at it here.

12 BY MS. [redacted]:

13 Q But just generally, you're aware that this story was published?

14 A I'm aware there were news stories. Like I said, I certainly haven't read this 15 one.

16 Q Okay.

17 Are you aware if anyone else at the CIA might have been familiar with this or read

18 the story?

19 A I would have no way of knowing that.

20 Q Okay. Thank you.

21 I guess -- so you didn't have any kind of reaction to this article or the articles that

22 you were aware of that were written on a similar topic?

23 A I don't think I read any of the articles. I just knew there were stories about 24 it. But, no, so I don't have any reaction.

25 BY MS. [redacted]:

1 Q And when did you come to know that there were stories circulating about a
2 laptop that was owned by Hunter Biden?
3 A I think it was in the news at the time. So when you start to see the 4 headlines, you see those stories, but I didn't delve into any of them.
5 Q In or around October 2020, things contemporaneous with the publishing?
6 A Or shortly thereafter is my guess, but I don't recall when I first sort of 7 became aware of the actual stories.
8 BY MS. [redacted]:
9 Q Okay. Thank you.
10 And are you aware that there was a reactionary statement published by 51 former 11 intelligence officials in regards to this story on October 19th? It's the statement on 12 Hunter Biden's emails, I believe, is the main title.
13 A That letter came through the Agency for classification review.
14 Q Okay. Great.
15 I'd actually like to enter that statement into the record.
16 [Makridis Exhibit No. 2
17 was marked for identification.]
18 BY MS. [redacted]:
19 Q So as you answered a moment ago, this was submitted to the Agency for 20 prepublication review?
21 A Classification -- prepublication classification review.
22 Q So the PCRB --
23 A PCRB.
24 Q -- received this initially?
25 A Correct.

1 Q How would you characterize the public statement?

2 Mr. Green. I'm sorry. What do you mean by that?

3 BY MS. [redacted]:

4 Q I guess, you know, would you say that it was just, you know, a statement

5 written in reaction? Was it something that you were aware of prior to its submission to 6 the PCRB? I guess just how would you describe it as an article?

7 A I was not aware of it before I saw it when it came to my office. You know,

8 it was a process issue for me, I -- a very defined process about when these kind of 9 things would come through my office.

10 Q So you have no involvement in the drafting of this statement?

11 A No.

12 Q Did you provide any advice or guidance to the individuals who crafted or 13 signed the statement?

14 A I did not.

15 Q Okay.

16 And when, about, where you first made aware of the statement? You do you

17 remember general dates?

18 A You know, I first saw it, you know, the 19th or 20th, whenever this sort of 19 came up.

20 Q Okay. And the PCRB sent this directly to your office?

21 A Do you want me to go through the process here?

22 Q That would be great, yeah.

23 A So the process that the Agency operated under, the director of CIA at the 24 time, Gina Haspel, was concerned sometimes that things would appear in the press that

25 she was not aware of. And so she asked for articles that went through the

1 Prepublication Classification Review Board. I realize that's a mouthful.

2 It would come up to my office, at least initially, for a heads-up, a situational

3 awareness kind of thing.

4 So once the Prepublication Classification Review Board went through the

5 document, whatever it was, worked whatever clearance issues, if there were any, in the 6 document, it would then surface to my office.

7 The general rule of thumb or the general procedure was anything written by a

8 former senior, I would alert the director or the deputy director, depending on the day and

9 who was available, and then the process would move forward.

10 Q Is it a standard procedure under -- you know, in your 37-about years of 11 working for the CIA for the COO's office to be involved in the PCRB's approval process?

12 A So we're not involved in the approval process at all. You know, when the 13 documents would come up to my office, they were already done. The Prepublication

14 Classification Review Board had already completed their work.

15 And so it was purely a this is going to appear, potentially, in the press, or whatever

16 it is, and then I would notify the director or the deputy, and the process would be

17 completed.

18 So there was no approval or disapproval.

19 BY MS. [redacted]:

20 Q So would you say that the review work, that the PCRB would take a look,

21 check to see if there was any classified information, then it would come to you for all

22 documents or just documents that were written by former senior officials?

23 A So, you know, book manuscripts, things like that typically didn't come up.

24 Usually, it would be, you know, op-eds or things of that nature. But, you know, my

25 focus was anything written by a senior is what the director wanted to be given a heads-up

1 on. So that's what I would do depending on the article.

2 Q So then after you determined that the article that you received was written

3 by a former senior official, then you would alert either the director and deputy director.

4 Is that correct?

5 A Correct.

6 Q And what did that process look like? Was that just, hey, heads-up, this is

7 coming? Was there a conversation? How did that typically look?

8 A So the typical process was, you know, once I saw it and sort of saw that it

9 was from a former senior, I would bring it to the attention of either the director or deputy

10 director. It would depend on the day, who was available.

11 You know, the director wanted us to move expeditiously on all pieces. Didn't 12 want to create a bottleneck in the process.

13 So I would inform them, and we really didn't have discussions about the pieces

14 other than this is going to appear in some periodical.

15 Q And how did it work in this case with the statement?

16 A You know, I don't recall exactly, but the process that I just described is
