

Tesla's new bulletproof 'Cybertruck' is another Musk lie

People are... not that impressed, to be honest

Tesla's new bulletproof 'Cybertruck' is Mad Max in real life

By Emily Reynolds

22 November 2019

Controversial tech company Tesla has unveiled its new 'Cybertruck' – but the launch didn't quite go to plan.

Founder Elon Musk was left somewhat embarrassed after the "unbreakable" windows were smashed during a presentation. "Room for improvement," he laughed. Awkward.

YOO Elon Musk was talking about how durable the new Tesla truck is and they decided to do a test 📺:joy: 📺:joy: 📺:joy:

pic.twitter.com/TjYJXsJfqE

— Corey Hommel (@Corey_Hommel1) November 22, 2019

The design of the truck was also a talking point – it's big, it's bold and it's really, really pointy.

TESLA claimed pickup truck 'bulletproof' -- then smashed windows with metal ball...

'Oh my f*cking god'...

Chaotic launch...