

How Does “Singular Mass Amplification” Work?

You have heard the phrase: “together we can move mountains”. This means that a mountain can be moved one stone at a time. What many may not consider is that, either: 1.) Many people can move the mountain a stone-at-a-time, or 2.) One person can move the mountain a stone-at-a-time.

There is a third way!

One person can start moving the mountain by moving a single stone and, add others, over time so that both #1.) and #2.) methods are occurring simultaneously and independently of each other.

If the first stone mover or any other stone movers or group of stone movers falls out of the effort, the effort still gets completed without the need for a boss to be in charge of the effort.

This is how we take down corrupt organizations, cartels and dirty corporations.
