'Pretentious as F*ck': Mark Cuban Bashes Silicon Valley Tech Bros Who Think They're the 'Smartest Motherf*cker in the World'

Entrepreneur Mark Cuban believes Silicon Valley is "pretentious as fuck" and revealed that he tries to steer his investments clear of the area.

On Sunday's edition of Club Random with Bill Maher, Cuban sat down with Maher to discuss his career and current affairs.

During their discussion, the topic of California came up. "I could not live here as a permanent resident just 'cause the taxes and the regulation. Yeah. I love coming out here, but I'm a visitor," Cuban said.

"And those are the reasons – taxes and regulations?" Maher asked.

"That's a big part of it. Yeah. Just because, I mean, look what's happened in San Francisco, I mean, an entire industry is getting pushed out. You know, the whole technology industry went from, 'Well, it's ok. This is growth, this is, you know, the new thing.' And now, you know, it's just about people shitting on the street," Cuban said.

"I was gonna say, the cleaning-up-the-shit-off-the-street-industry is doing very well," Maher laughed.

As the conversation continued, Cuban elaborated about his dislike of the city.

"I'm not, I've never been a big San Francisco fan, at all," Cuban said.

"You know, I know what you mean. It's a little cliquey," Maher replied.

"Pretentious as fuck," Cuban said boldly. "Right? Being in the tech industry everybody is the smartest motherfucker in the world if you live in Silicon Valley."

Even Maher joined in, bashing those in the region who believe they're smarter than everyone else.

"It's the kind of place that's like, 'Oh, I know you think you're smarter, but you're not.' First of all, you're not smarter than the people in Tulsa who come to my show anyway and they're a whole lot more fun," Maher said.

"I mean, the attitudes, I mean, it's just like, 'We're tech bros. We're tech bros. Of course we're smarter. You know, we went to Harvard, we went to MIT, we're in tech. You just can't hang. You don't know what the fuck is going on.' I do all I can not to let any of my investments work outta Silicon Valley," Cuban said.

"Well, tech is, I mean, just because you're good at tech doesn't mean you're the smartest person in the world," Maher clarified. "Fuck no," Cuban replied.

"Oh, okay. Right, you're good at that one thing, which is very important," Maher said.

"But they're not even that good at it. They're just there to pretend that they're good at it. Right?" Cuban said.

"There's a lot of capital there so that people follow the money. I get that. Right. But the pretentiousness and the attitude and the expectations and the arrogance, like it's just a business. And you can be good anywhere in the world. Hopefully you'll come here to this country and, you know, make the choice like immigrants used to and come here and start companies. But I'd rather start a business in Dallas all day, every day," Cuban added.

Reported symptoms of vaginoplasty patients

HOW MANY TRANSGENDER PEOPLE LIVE IN THE US?

SEX CHANGE DANGERS

More than half of trans women who have 'bottom' surgery are in so much pain a year later they need medical attention, a study suggests. Up to a third of patients also struggled to use the toilet or suffered sexual issues 12 months after the operation, which sees patients transitioning from male to female given a surgically constructed vagina. Researchers from the Women's College Hospital (WCH) in Ontario, Canada, analyzed the medical records of 80 patients who sought care from the clinic between three months and five years after having the operation. Campaigners say the findings demonstrate that complex surgeries like vaginoplasty often carry risks that patients are unaware of - despite a dramatic uptick in the number of gender reconstruction surgeries performed annually in the US.
