

SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA COVERING-UP MASSIVE LAYOFFS AND START-UP FAILURES

Genentech in the Bay Area has had a glut of top people being forced out, job-eliminated and de-hired. Genentech is hoping to eliminate human staff and run all of it's research with AI computers from (shamed) Eric Lander's (He was fired from the White House for being an abusive douchebag) Broad Institute. The CIA already discovered that AI can't do the work of real humans, though. Good luck with that Genetech.

Meta and Google have asked hundreds of employees to re-apply for jobs in their companies, using restructuring efforts as a way to quietly release employees without announcing mass layoffs, The Wall Street Journal reported.

Affected employees are typically informed that, due to reorganization efforts meant to cut costs, they will be granted a limited period to re-apply for a job in the company, with managers telling the WSJ that the method allows the company to make cuts quietly. At Facebook in particular, sources within the company are expecting much of a planned 10% cost cut to come from reduced staffing. \(RELATED: Goldman Sachs To Fire Hundreds Of Employees After Performance Reviews Return\)

A Meta spokesperson referred the Daily Caller News Foundation to comments made by CEO Mark Zuckerberg nearly two months ago, where Zuckerberg said the company needed to be “more disciplined,” and announced the company would “steadily reduce headcount over the next year.” The spokesperson did not answer a question asking to confirm the WSJ’s reporting that restructuring was being used to cut employees without announcing layoffs.

“If Facebook does mass layoffs it’ll be cheaper to get a mortgage” — I mean, that’s just a win for America.

— Conor Sen (@conorsen) September 22, 2022

“As [Google CEO Sundar Pichai] announced in July, we’re slowing our hiring and sharpening our focus as a company, but we remain focused on hiring engineering, technical and other critical roles,” said a Google spokesperson. “We continue to look for ways we can increase our productivity and ensure we’re focused on our long-term priorities.”

Both Meta and Google grew significantly in the past twelve months, with Meta having 32% more employees at the end of June 2022 than in June 2021, while in the same period Google parent Alphabet had 20.8% more employees, the WSJ reported. Meta has made the elimination of poorly performing engineers core to the company’s strategy going forward, encouraging managers to work with underperforming employees before firing them.

Meta’s shares have fallen 56.6% in 2022, while Google shares have fallen 27.3%, the WSJ reported.

In contrast to Meta and Google, some other tech firms have announced significant cuts in recent months. In August, both social media giant Snap and retail investing app Robinhood announced they would cut 20% and 23% of their staff, respectively.

Reallocating employees can have benefits by retaining employees who know a company's system and already have significant working relationships, Allison Rutledge-Parisi, senior vice president of people at professional employee services company Justworks, told the WSJ. However, competition for limited slots can also lead to lowered productivity and morale, according to Dave Fisch, CEO of recruitment site Ladders, speaking to the WSJ.

"There's going to be a lot of chatter, there could be a lot of animosity and finger pointing that naturally starts to arise," Fisch said to the WSJ.

Imagine a young girl who makes Nike shoes in India who gets raped every single day. She bleeds from every hole in her body. Every American is like that thanks to Silicon Valley's Kleiner Perkins, A16Z, Greylock, Khosla Ventures, Draper Fisher and the other "venture capital" companies who push the sick idea that "AI", "Big Data" and other privacy rape mass social abuse technologies are "GOOD FOR US".

These sick, lying, scumbag, khaki pants delusional sociopaths are building a global system that has already sucked every photo and personal information item into their giant spy databases. All of your medical data, abortion data, bank records, voting files, personal thoughts, dating texts and EVERYTHING you hold dear is out on the web for any hacker, collection agency or enemy to view and analyze with a single click. Any kid can hack into these databases and NOBODY can secure these databases. When you put any information into an online field, did you see the warning message that 'entering that data could destroy your life'? You didn't see that message? There is a warning message like that on cigarettes and cigarettes don't harm as many people as database abuse. Call your elected officials and ask them why you were never warned about the dangers?

These scumbag Silicon Valley VC's have RAPED SOCIETY. Demand the mass erasure of their databases, Tell Silicon Valley to STOP RAPING US!

The douchebag is someone — overwhelmingly white, rich, heterosexual males — who insists upon, nay, demand their white male privilege in every possible set and setting. The douchebag is equally douchey (that's the adjectival version of the term) in public as in private. He is a douchebag waiting in line for coffee as well as in the bedroom.

Companies like twitter, Facebook, yelp, google etc pay these Silicon Valley douchebags entirely too much so that they can afford to pay enough to cover their exponentially high rent. With more and more people moving out of these cities, and being able to work from home permanently, commercial real estate is toast.
