When it was announced Friday evening that former FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe had been fired on the recommendation of both the Department of Justice Office of the Inspector General and the FBI's Office of Professional Responsibility, there were plenty of "hot takes" from politicians and media figures on both the right and left.

However, according to BizPac Review, the hottest take of all in regard to McCabe's termination may have come from one of the heroes who emerged from the deadly 2012 Benghazi terrorist attack, Kris "Tanto" Paronto.

WARNING: The following tweet contains profane language that some readers may find offensive.

Paronto, a former U.S. Army Ranger who was a security contractor in Benghazi at the time of the attack and helped fend off repeated waves of assaults by terrorists at the U.S. consulate and nearby CIA annex, took to Twitter to make his feelings known in regard to McCabe, as well as former FBI Director James Comey and former CIA Director John Brennan.

He began with a tweet which eviscerated McCabe's rebuttal claiming he had been "singled out" in an effort to "slander" him and the FBI in general by President Donald Trump and his administration.

Paronto tweeted, "Slander the FBI and Law Enforcement?! You've got to be s---ing me Andy. You, James and your @BarackObama appointed syndicate brought nothing but lies, politics, corruption & disgrace to a once great FBI. @Comey #AndrewMcCabe #LockThemUp."

But it was the tweet he sent immediately following that which really garnered attention, as he appeared to indicate that partisan members of the FBI attempted to slap him and the other team members from Benghazi with excessive use of force charges, presumably in relation to their use of deadly force to defend the consulate and CIA annex from repeated attacks.

By the way, as you're on your way out I want to thank you, James and your @HillaryClinton supporting hacks at the @FBI for trying to pin excessive force use on myself and my team after coming home from Benghazi. You all are the worst scum of human. @Comey 🖐️ #SorryNotSorry

[REDACTED] "By the way, as you're on your way out I want to thank you, James and your @HillaryClinton supporting hacks at the @FBI for trying to pin excessive force use on myself and my team after coming home from Benghazi. You all are the worst scum of human. @Comey #SorryNotSorry," the Benghazi hero tweeted.

That astonishing assertion — that he and other Benghazi heroes were targeted for legal reprisal by partisan hacks at the FBI — cannot be independently verified at this time. But it will be interesting to see if any further information in regard to this claim is shared by Paronto or one of his teammates, or perhaps even the upcoming DOJ-OIG report which has been looking into allegations of FBI misconduct.

But Paronto wasn't quite done yet, as he then set his sights on Comey. He posted a tweet in response to the veiled threat issued to Trump by the former director that Comey's own version of events would be heard by the American people "very soon" — as in, as soon as his lucrative and profitable book tour kicks off.

Still beating your "honorable" drum James?? 😄👉. Yea, because your words hold so much truth after lying continually & protecting the criminal @HillaryClinton 😏. Say what you want, I won't believe a word of it. You have zero integrity which you earned. @Comey #believeyourownBS <https://t.co/s3A8ww6RuL>

Nor did he let the more open and unhinged threat against Trump from Brennan slide either, as he tweeted a short time later, "Showing your true partisan colors that you took into the @CIA, a govt organization that should be politically neutral. Being nominated by @BarackObama though it should come as no surprise. You put #politicsbeforepatriots."

This man knows a thing or two more than the average government bureaucrat about such things as honor, patriotism and service to country, and he isn't the least bit afraid to let the partisan hacks who have infested the bureaucratic deep state know exactly how he feels about their duplicitous actions.

Hopefully more information will emerge in the near future to validate and support his claim of being targeted by those same slimy hacks in the aftermath of the Benghazi terror attack, now that a nonpartisan and less vindictive rule of law is being restored.
