so that means they are going to get rid of all the ISIS and left wing extremist videos? right? oh wait, that would be silly. I'll bet they mean all of the extreme Trump videos.

They already do this for TV/Movies. It is called content-ID. why not do it for everything? Censorship Creep.

Time for a new Internet. Is that possible? Someone with tech experience could you chime in. I don't know how the internet works. Is it just google removing shit from search results. Would just using different search engines work?

They are talking about policing content on their sites. So whenever they block youtube videos for copywrite, now it will also be for whatever content they decide is now verboten. Given what we saw during the last year you can imagine what that will be.

What it looks like the sjws are gonna have their sites then then the opposition. Reddit vs voat Twitter vs gab and so on. Man what a fucking time to be alive. The world became so tiny in such a small time. Even if ya just want to mind your own fucking business. Someone will always be right behind you poking you with a stick.
