

Leaked Google employee email reveals Google effort to boost Latino vote for DNC, surprise that some voted for Trump

By Christopher Carbone |

Email shows Google tried to help elect Clinton

An email obtained exclusively by 'Tucker Carlson Tonight' reveals that a senior Google employee deployed the company's resources to increase voter turnout in ways she believed would help Clinton win the election. #Tucker

A Google executive's leaked email reveals efforts to increase Latino turnout prior to the 2016 U.S. presidential election and the executive's "surprise" at Donald Trump's performance among Latino voters.

The 675-word email, first obtained exclusively by Fox News Channel's "Tucker Carlson Tonight," was written by the tech giant's former head of