RE: Samsung Lithium ion litigation

We have shared the following information with the FBI, SEC, FTC, Senate Ethics Committee and other investigation groups relative to the Lithium ion battery cover-up.

You will find documents from Sen. Schumer regarding the dangers of these batteries from a number of years ago. He was told “to shut up about that”. We encourage you to re-open the discussion.

You will soon find that your lawsuit is disclosing a trillion dollar commodity corruption scam regarding the production of lithium batteries and the known dangers which you are now seeking justice over. This lithium chemistry is being “dumped” and the dangers are well known inside and outside of Samsung.

We have extensive information from federal, academic, engineering center and employee insiders which proves that the dangers of these batteries was well known for over ten years but was covered up by political officials who own the stock in lithium mines and exploitation. These dangers to the public are criminal and the people who engaged in these cover-ups are criminals.

Powerful forces will try to shut down your lawsuit. If you do settle we hope you realize that you can ask for epic amounts of money for your clients. If you move to trial, and we hope you do, you will find massive amounts of evidence supporting your clients available from many parties after a jury trial date is locked in.
