

Miami Herald admits the Democrats transsexual community is mentally ill (news)

submitted 23 hours ago by LadyGlitterSparkles

I'm seriously shocked to see a major newspaper acknowledge the obvious. This article states that upwards of 40% or more of the community has attempted suicide. The article also acknowledges most of them suffer from body dysmorphia which should always be part of the conversation on how to deal with this group but rarely is. The only mental health issue rampant in the trans community which they didn't touch upon is DID (formally multiple personalities) Popular opinion in the psychiatric community is that about a third of trans people, those who don't fall into the category of body dysmorphia, suffer from disassociated identity disorder. DID btw is a trauma based mental illness caused by severe repetitive child abuse which is often of a sexual nature.

http://www.miamiherald.com/news/local/community/gay-south-florida/article187957844.html?anf=TOP_STORIES

39 comments

want to join the discussion? login or register in seconds.

sort by: New Bottom Intensity Old

Sort: Top

[–] theoldones 33 points (+34|-1) 23 hours ago

i think the normies misunderstand us with talking about trannies being mentally ill someone can be a perfectly reasonable human being you can hold a conversation with AND have a mental illness they should probably handle, that needs to be talked about and addressed yet, they act like it cant be both because that would mean talking about it

permalink

[–] LadyGlitterSparkles [S] 22 points (+23|-1) 22 hours ago

Agreed. When I lived downtown in a city with a trans population I found some to be perfectly intelligent. Shit, I have no problem calling people what that want to be called. I do have a problem not being allowed to have an honest conversation about any given subject. I am against using the 'wrong' pronouns being illegal (CA) instead of just a bit rude. I am very much against the narrative that somehow if we stop believing that gender is a construct of biology that this community will magically be less likely to kill themselves. There is just no science to support all this PC BS. It's like if I looked into the mirror and saw myself as obese. Even if I demand everyone refer to me as obese your eyes are going to tell you that I am petite, body dysmorphia. Sometimes people can look in the mirror, hate what they see, and still be perfectly charming. But I will never believe there are more than two genders. I will never teach my kids about more than two genders.

I bring up DID because 1/3 of the their community suffers from a trauma based mental illness meaning they are most definitely not born that way.

The LGB community would be smart to drop the T instead of trying to think of even more letters they can add to their cause.

permalink parent

[–] WitnessTheSalt 21 points (+21|-0) 22 hours ago

Sixty-odd years ago lobotomies were considered the cutting edge in mental health. In the fullness of time, turns out? Not so great. There were some advances in the understanding of the mind (ie: what happens when you rip this bit out?), but here and now we look back on the practice as barbaric.

I think that the future will look back on the lack of support for good mental health, combined with the bizarre lengths we're going to to mollify people with serious mental problems via physical modification, in the same way we view lobotomies now.